It's No Surprise That You're Constipated!

If constipation has you bogged down so you feel tired, sink, all played out—it's time you asked yourself some questions!

What have you had to eat lately? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? It's no surprise you're constipated! The chances are you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft, "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, Vitamin B.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and take a new lease on life! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

ELEVEN CLUBS HEAR ADDRESS BY SPECIALIST

Preserve foods to get the highest food value possible and preserve them by whatever method you can get your family to eat them best, Miss Grace I. Neely, Extension Specialist in Food Preservation, urged in an open meeting of those interested in food preservation Tuesday afternoon in the county home demonstration agent's office.

"We do not can foods just to be canning," Miss Neely continued. "Carrots, for instance, canned and stored for six months lose part of their nutritive value; they would be better stored in a moist sand pit. It is up to the mother to see that her family is properly fed. We must realize our responsibility."

The following was given as a guide for each day. These are absolute essentials: One pint to one quart of milk; one-half cup potatoes, Irish or sweet; one-half cup green and yellow vegetables; one-half cup other vegetables; one-half cup fruits; one-half cup tomatoes or citrus fruits; one tablespoon of butter every meal; one-half cup cereal, whole grain best; bread every meal; one-half cup meats, dried peas, beans, or two tablespoons of American cheese; sweets, once a day; and eggs, three to five a week and also used in cooking.

Dr. Rose, noted nutrition specialist, says the first year of feeding is worth more than 10 years after 40. One childhood disease or one childhood deficiency leaves a scar that can never be erased. The younger the child, the deeper the scar.

A brief business session was presided over by the council chairman, Mrs. H. H. Keahy, at which time the date, June 17, was set for a county-wide pie supper to be held at the court house.

A county-wide recreation meeting will be held at the red school building on June 1 at 8 o'clock. All club members are invited and urged to bring their husbands.

Eleven clubs were represented with 35 women present to hear Miss Neely's discussion of food preservation. Those in the county who were not present, missed one of the greatest demonstrations given in Gray County during the history of club work.

PRIEST OKAYS AIR BOMBINGS OF BARCELONA

NEW ORLEANS, May 19 (AP)—The president of the International Catholic Truth Society, the Rev. Edward L. Curran of Brooklyn, here for the opening today of the Catholic Press Association convention, said in an interview that Secretaries Ickes and Woodring were "definitely playing into the hands of the Communists."

"The Catholic church sees no trend to the left in Congress," he said, "but a definite leftward trend on the part of certain agencies making up the executive branch of the government. We believe Secretary Ickes is playing into the hands of the Communists when he goes around the country silent about Communism but eloquent about a supposed Fascist danger in this country."

"Ickes forgets there is no Fascist political party in the U. S. but that there is a Communist party. The same things goes for Woodring? In a recent speech before the U. S. Chamber of Commerce he blamed the world's present ills on the Japanese conquest of Manchuria and proceeded to rebuke the Fascist countries of Europe without mentioning Soviet Russia."

"The tactics of Woodring and Ickes in emphasizing the non-existent menace of Fascism in this country and slurring over the actual menace of Communism is a swing to the left."

Opposed Court Bill.
Explaining the attitude of the Catholic press toward some of President Roosevelt's past and present proposed legislation, the Rev. Curran said:

"The Catholic press is against any form of dictatorship in this country and therefore was delighted with the defeat of President Roosevelt's Supreme Court packing and reorganization bills. We believe the President should get rid of some of his leftist advisers."

"The best means of combating Communism is to 'tell the American people the truth about it by counter propaganda.'"

Charging that "old time American newspapers... have too often become a part of a propaganda machine in this country devoted to the Red cause of the loyalist government in Spain," the Rev. Curran said the embassy in Washington had spent 10 million dollars in the past two years for propaganda purposes.

"Bombings Defended."
Asked the attitude of the Catholic press on the Nationalists' bombing of Barcelona, Loyalist government's stronghold, the Rev. Curran replied:

"Barcelona was a military objective. There were over 100 military objectives in that city. It was unfortunate of course that innocent bystanders should have been killed in the bombing but because of its nature as a military objective no blame for these deaths could be attached to Generalissimo Francisco Franco."

"The Catholic press regretted that the American press in general should have made so much of the bombing of open towns—which were not military objectives—by Red Loyalist bombing planes in 1936-37."

"Using the newspaper accounts of the Spanish struggle, I would say too many newspapers in this country have a leaning toward the left. Their attitude has been one of propaganda and not objective impartiality."

OREGON VOTE SEEN AS TEST OF PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—Intervention by a Roosevelt cabinet officer in Oregon's Democratic gubernatorial contest paved the way today for what many observers believe will be a test of administration strength in tomorrow's state primary.

The Oregon election, coming only three days after Pennsylvania's hotly contested primary, also was complicated by labor issues which, although not so clearly drawn as in Pennsylvania, made the name of John L. Lewis once more a political weapon.

Principals in the Oregon campaign are Gov. Charles H. Martin and Henry L. Hess, who is opposing Martin for Democratic renomination. The administration was brought into the struggle by Secretary Ickes, who gave Hess his blessing in a letter saying Martin was "at heart no New Dealer."

Hess also drew the inferred support of Senator Norris, Independent, Neb., who has backed the administration program. Norris telegraphed that he was "disappointed" in Martin.

The governor countered Ickes' statement by insisting on his loyalty to President Roosevelt but asserting he was "no rubber stamp."

Martin, a critic of various New Deal agencies, once referred to Secretary of Labor Perkins as "that miserable secretary" and has campaigned against what he called labor "racketeers" in his state.

and a prayer by Mrs. E. N. Franklin. Mrs. D. S. Buckner was leader of the lesson from the World Outlook which preceded the scripture reading by Mrs. L. F. McDaniel. A meditation talk, "Indebtedness of Women to Jesus," was given by Mrs. H. L. Wallace.

Following the missionary topic, "Building the Kingdom of God in Japan," which was discussed by Mrs. E. C. Casey, Mrs. Henry English told of the social evangelistic centers in Japan. A prayer by Mrs. Buckner for the relief of womanhood in all countries completed the program.

After the business session was conducted, refreshments were served to two visitors, Mrs. V. N. Osborn and Mrs. Della Jenkins; Mmes. J. E. Eard, Kit Autry, Henry English, O. G. Smith, D. S. Buckner, E. C. Casey, E. N. Franklin, Minor Langford, H. L. Wallace, C. V. Harris, and the hostess, Mrs. A. N. Rogers.

UNCLE SAM IS JOHN SMITH

It is the business of Henry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, to pass money out rather than take it in. He does receive some money once in a while, however, and it is doubtful that he ever got a more significant check than the one he received recently from Fred Hohner.

Fred Hohner is an unemployed mechanic living in Newark, N. J. In 1935 he got some help from the WPA. Since then he has not needed any help; but he never could forget that he had help when he needed it, and so the other day he set out to square the account.

He had $112 at the time—and no job. But he went down to a postoffice and bought a money order for $100, and then mailed it to Hopkins.

"My money was getting so low that if I hadn't paid it when I did I might have had no money to pay," he explained. "The government did its best to me, and I wanted to do my best to the government."

The obvious comment on all of this, of course, is that it is a pity that more people don't have the same kind of conscience that Fred Hohner has. Millions upon millions of people have been helped by the government in the last five or six years; only a few have remembered to pay the government after they got on their own feet again.

That doesn't mean that most people are ungrateful. It simply means that very few of us ever realize just what this government of ours really is.

It isn't a thing which exists of itself, an independent entity which floats cloudily in the sky over Washington and showers down blessings every so often. It is ourselves—John Smith and his fellow citizens.

So when "the government" does something for a man—provides a job for him, pays his rent, balls out his business, or whatever—it is actually happening in that that man's fellow citizens are coming to his rescue.

Perhaps people like Fred Hohner recognize that fact. If so, it is a little easier to see why they insist on repaying what they have received.

We would have a much clearer perspective on all of the activities of our government, and of our own obligations toward it, if we shared in that recognition of its true essence.

THE IDEAL PERSON

At a teachers' round-table in New York the other day the "ideal teacher" was constructed out of a list of qualifications submitted by school children.

What emerged was a being who would: not be a tyrant, but a friend; be a just person, and well adjusted; place the children on their own and give them self-confidence; think in the child's terms; explain things fully; know what she was talking about; not be bound by the book; rule not by fear but by respect; create a sense of unity; and see that differences of opinion were brought out. These were not all the required characteristics, but they were some of them.

A woman possessed of all these attributes ought not be confined to a schoolroom, but made the ruler of an entire people. She might not do badly as a dictator.

But this is the catch: the teachers at the round-table agreed that the "ideal teacher" was a pure figment of the imagination. And that's the catch to all dictatorships.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By ROONEY DUTCHER

Pampa Daily News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 18—There is nothing that gives more delight to Washington gossip than the stirring up of a factional fight in some government department.

Not even the White House has been immune from these rows, when there have been differences of opinion among presidential advisers, and now the gossips are trying to make the most out of the case of the rest of the Supreme Court vs. Justice Black.

New Deal friends of the ex-senator from Alabama have been rushing to his defense with favorable analyses of his lone-wolf dissenting opinions, first reported in this column last February.

Black's supporters now claim that recently the Court reversed a vital 96-year-old opinion in the Tompkins case, two weeks after Black had taken the same position in a one-man dissent.

Ambassador Joe Kennedy was a potent conservative influence in Washington. But he can't spread his influence across the Atlantic Ocean. As Maritime Commission chairman, Kennedy emphatically demanded compulsory arbitration in the shipping industry, clashing with Secretary of Labor Perkins. After Ken-

I suspect if I had stayed away three days longer everybody here at the office would have been pretty well convinced that they could do very handsly without my services. . . This, of course, is taking for granted that you are familiar with the fact that I have been on shore leave since late April. . . Fact of the business is, there are several right now who have wondered—since I was gone—just what I do when I am here. . . It all goes to prove how easy it is to get along without you. . . Most of us go right on believing every day that the world would have a tough job getting the job done without us. . . Some of us get an idea that we ought to show 'em just how tough we can make it by laying down our tools for awhile so everybody will come running and, on bended knee, implore us to come back and save the day.

Well, get that out of your noodle. . . It's surprising how they can get along without you and just how smoothly things work when you're away. . . It almost frightens you into the idea that you had better stay home and on the job or the gobblins'll get you. . . No sir, it's a good idea never to get the notion that you are indispensable to the general run of things. . . If the time ever comes, they can prove you dead wrong so fast that it will make you dizzy. . . Suffice it to say, that I'm glad to get back to the Panhandle after this sojourn in the East. . . I had a lot of fun while I was gone and I really got to unlash. . . For instance, I went lake fishing on the one good fishing day out of 17, and I caught 13 fish in two hours, the heaviest one weighing three pounds, ten ounces lakeside. . . The thing that burned me down was that I had to kick in three dollars and fifty cents for a non-resident fishing license which is good for all of 1938 and five months of 1939 and which I probably will never get to use again.

They're managing to dig up plenty for me to do, go up to I am back in the harness here at the office. . . They've even got me to return to the regular 6:45 p. m. newscast over KPDN on which I am scheduled to make my post-vacation debut at that hour today. . . I've got a couple of new ideas for that which I'm going to work out, one of which will be a daily radio editorial, and if you don't like it you can complain to the radio station management. . . Since coming back, I am having typewriter difficulties. . . This was caused by Cliff Chambers, the rattle promoter, who came into the office almost daily, they tell me, and put a hammer-lock on the keyboard.

The Boy Wonder had great fun, too, while he was in the East. . . Finally, he became bored with the rounds of pleasure and developed what the doctor back there termed altitudeitis which really got him down for a couple of days. . . The doctor said the change in altitude from high to low caused him to contract a form of the heebie-jeebies, known in the jargon of the medicos as the ultra-jitters. . . I get the same thing once in awhile without changing altitude.

Yesteryear In Pampa

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Pampa's Princess at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention in Fort Worth was to be Miss Bonnie Jo Pool, and her escort was to be Dr. J. C. McKean, local physician.

Another 11 of an inch of rain fell to make the week's total more than six inches. No damage was reported in this vicinity.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

S. E. Love, proprietor of Zeb's feed store, donated a quantity of Whip-poor-will field peas and corn to the federal relief committee for planting in the community garden.

Fourteen Gray county boys left for Amarillo to take medical examinations preparatory to leaving for the forest training camp.

neddy went to London Miss Perkins kept lobbying quietly and the result was a committee bill providing a special maritime labor board and dropping the Kennedy plan.

Kennedy was more influential than any other administration adviser in dissuading the President from turning earlier to an enlarged spending program.

Washington has professors of everything except philosophy and it's likely to have one of those after the November election in the person of Prof. T. V. Smith, running for congressman-at-large in Illinois. Smith is a Chicago University professor of philosophy and an author who made regular radio talks for the Democrats in the 1936 campaign. He is chummy with Roosevelt and numerous brain-trusters.

On May 21 he broadcasts on a national hookup in an argument between a philosopher and a politician. Smith takes both parts. It ought to be pretty good or pretty awful.

River Pepped by Pepper

The victory of Senator Claude Pepper, 100 per cent New Dealer, in the recent Florida primaries has distributed the mental peace of Senator Walter P. George, anti-administration Democrat. It is said to have encouraged Georgia's governor, E. D. Rivers, who had been thinking of running against George on a New Deal platform.

Although Mr. Roosevelt pointedly complimented him at Gainesville while omitting reference to George, Rivers is receiving little encouragement from Washington.

Democratic National Committee Treasurer Lawrence "Chip" Robert, another Georgian, has been reported as promoting George. If that's true it's a private, personal effort on Robert's part—to date, at least.

'Tsk, Tsk--It's A Darn Shame!

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Star glamour versus box office draw is no new headache in movie producer offices. It has been with them years.

When a New York group of "independent" movie exhibitors recently charged in a paid trade paper advertisement that several topflight salary stars had lost draw, Hollywood retorts, official and otherwise, could be summed up as follows:

Advertising group did not represent mass exhibitor opinion—but localized "beef."

Blatant may have been attempt to forestall any increase in exhibitor costs for films as the new selling season opened.

High salaries result from competitive demand for star names, but all studios are trying to develop new names constantly.

A star who has proved box office worth can do it again.

From the Record

In the records Hollywood has ample instances to justify the latter claim. It could cite:

Barbara Stanwyck, whose choice for "Stella Dallas" was deemed foolhardy even in Hollywood where she was regarded poor draw. "Stella Dallas" and Stanwyck clicked.

Jeanette MacDonald, currently thirteenth on Motion Picture Herald's "independent exhibitor poll" of 1937 stars, whose popular appeal had dropped until "Naughty Marietta" and subsequent hits zoomed it again.

William Powell, now sixth on same poll, who was considered all washed up when he left Warners after series of poor pictures but clicked big in "The Thin Man" and other hits at Metro.

Clark Gable, whose popularity seemed temporarily checkmated until he made "It Happened One Night" has risen steadily until now second only to Shirley Temple in draw.

Wallace Beery, another "all washed-up" star who came back to make the Big Ten, still holds place among top 15.

Marie Dressler, flop in first pictures, kept on to become a leading box office star at death.

A Few Prospects

Here is the speculative outlook for some others named by the advertisement:

Katharine Hepburn, solid hit in "Little Women," fell off through later films, some unfortunate, some fine, but not big grossers, has broken with RKO over story disagreement. Has excellent chance in forthcoming Columbia film "Holiday," recalled as the same picture that made Ann Harding a top name in 1930.

Marlene Dietrich, hit in the foreign-made "The Blue Angel" and in Hollywood's "Morocco," "Blondie" and others, has had a series of flops but has signed with Columbia to be directed by star-making, star-saving Frank Capra.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

You'd be surprised to know how many children in Pampa have never ridden on a train. Each year the Santa Fe gives the children a chance to see what riding on a train is like by providing trips to White Deer.

Recently the Santa Fe took 20 children on the train to White Deer, but Eloise Wyatt, Dorothy Moon and Virginia Symonds of the third grade tell about it in their own words:

"All aboard!" shouted the conductor, and the children in the third grade were standing in line ready to get on the train. We were going on an educational trip. The Santa Fe office at Amarillo sent a gentleman, Mr. Dick Roberts, to go along and instruct the children. Mrs. Daniels and Mr. Meek were also there. Mr. Roberts took us from one end of the train to the other and when we reached the pullman he had the porter make up a berth to show us where the passengers slept at night. He showed us all about the inside of a train we should know. In 15 minutes we reached White Deer.

While waiting for the train to take us back we ate sandwiches, cake and ice cream and played a while. The 5:50 train came thundering down the track. Mr. Roberts took us through the train also. As we passed through the coaches the passengers would smile and say, "Hello." We sat down in one of the coaches just before we reached Pampa, and passengers invited us to share their sections. Mrs. Daniels and Mr. Meek were proud of our manners. This trip will always be a most pleasant remembrance."

How's Your Health?

By IAGO GALDSTON, M. D.

We count bunions as one of the more important of the minor but crippling disorders of the feet.

A bunion is a chronic swelling, thickening and enlargement of the membrane surrounding the joint of the big toe at its connection to the foot. In addition to the membrane, the cartilaginous and bony structures of the joint may be involved.

While bunions commonly affect the big toe, bunion formations may occur over the other toe joints.

Bunions are usually caused by ill-fitting shoes which push the great toe in the direction of the other toes. In certain cases the sufferer may complain of pain so severe as to make walking difficult or impossible.

Bunions are likely to become infected, and the infections may involve the structures of the joint, including the bone.

It helps prevent bunions to wear suitable shoes—shoes that allow enough room for the proper spread of the toes when the weight of the body rests on the foot.

Special care should be taken to see that children's shoes are roomy and well-fitting. Many a bunion can be traced to ill-fitting footwear (including socks and stockings) worn during childhood.

Once developed, bunions seldom disappear spontaneously. But the wearing of "hygienic shoes" frequently helps arrest the process.

When the bunion is painful, a hot foot bath often gives temporary relief.

At the point where the bunion is most prominent, there is often found a thickening of the skin, or "callosity." The removal of this callosity also will yield temporary relief from pain. The amateur surgeon who undertakes to remove his own callosities should do so with great care and conservatism.

Soak the foot in warm water to soften the skin, and sterilize the area with tincture of iodine both before and after the "operation."

Persons who have diabetes or arteriosclerosis should not tamper with their feet in any way whatsoever. They should leave all treatment to experts.

Temporary relief from pain also may be obtained by covering the bunion with adhesive plaster in which a hole the size of the painful area has been cut.

Side Glances

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—The navy is rushing work on the world's most modern model testing plant in preparation for building a billion dollars' worth of newly authorized warships.

Officials said today they expected the new plant at nearby Carderock, Md., to be ready next May 1, two months ahead of original plans. Revising cost estimates upward to $3,500,000, President Roosevelt has asked Congress for an additional $500,000 appropriation for the project.

Meanwhile, demands for tests of ship models are taxing facilities at the Washington Navy yard to such a degree that double-shift operations may become necessary, officials disclosed.

Scientifically scaled models of every warship and most of the passenger and cargo vessels built in this country are tested at the navy yard prior to construction.

The Capital Jigsaw

AUSTIN, May 19 (AP)—Five ways to make the state government more efficient are suggested by Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston.

They probably will be recommended to a Senate committee of which Holbrook is chairman for incorporation in a report to the legislature convening in January.

In brief, Holbrook would: Make the state auditor responsible to the legislature, instead of the governor.

Create a budget office separate from the state institutions, now having a division charged with preparing a budget of governmental, financial requirements.

Provide for a central employment service to which state departments and even the legislature could turn for clerical help.

Improve purchasing for departments and state institutions, now done by the Board of Control, by giving the purchasing authority power to reject requisitions.

Transfer to the general treasury many special funds now ear-marked for specific purposes.

Holbrook made the suggestions recently on one of his few visits to the capital since the committee abruptly terminated its hearing months ago after inquiring into the general land office and the attorney general's department.

The committee will hold its next meeting after the summer elections. It recessed amid charges its inquiry had assumed a political slant and should be stopped until the campaigns were over.

"There are many ways in which expenses of the state government can be reduced," Holbrook said. "The ones I enumerate are only a few, but you can't do everything at once. We will have to make progress a little at a time."

"It is ridiculous to say the government can't be run on less money. It can, and with greater efficiency."

"The Senate itself could be operated on half what it spends. Not a great while ago a Senator didn't have a secretary; now he has two. There are twice as many pages as needed."

Then he took up the matter of a state auditor, who under the existing system is appointed by the governor. The present auditor is Tom King.

"I note the politicians are advocating an auditor responsible to the legislature," Holbrook said. "Well, it isn't their idea. The Senate passed a bill at the last session providing for this."

"It ought to be done. The auditor should be an employe of the legislature to report to the legislature on how appropriations are made and the will of the legislature was carried out."

He said the present plan of a budget, prepared by the Board of Control had not worked out well.

"One of the big needs is for someone to keep a list of competent clerical help who are available to refer to when a department needed someone it could simply contact the bureau."

"This matter of packing political appointees into government jobs is bad. I do not mean the department heads and perhaps some assistants. I am talking of the stenographers and clerks. It results in too many employes."

As to purchasing, Holbrook said the Board of Control now had no authority to reject anything a department wanted to buy, but merely had the duty of buying it at the best possible terms.

"We need an authority in purchasing who can say 'no,'" he said. "There is no such authority in our government today, and it leads to waste."

"For example, an employe of the highway department may be driving a state-owned automobile and see a later model. Well, he wants to look as snappy as anyone so he

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Sally Rand, who is fairly burning to be a real legitimate stage actress, always has been an ambitious miss. When she was 15, an apprentice to a milliner out Missouri way, Sally craved the better things of life and turned to invention as the quickest means of lifting one by one's bootstraps. Only what Sally invented was not a bootstrap; it was a brassiere.

"I had observed," says Miss Rand, "that the fashion in brassieres emphasized the boyish figure. The brassiere was no more than a straight band. So I started experimenting with squares and triangles of cloth and piecing these together made a brassiere that was form-fitting and closely resembled those of today."

"My name was Billy Beck then, so we called it 'Billy Beck's Beautiful Brassiere.' It made me a few dollars, but not many. I didn't have any capital."

And it has been acquiring the needed capital that has occupied the lady of the fans and lubbies ever since.

Only now the capital is needed to promote Sally herself as an actress. Her schedule of summer stock appearances reads like a list of the New England resorts. She'll start with a role in "They Knew What They Wanted" at Baltimore, which isn't summer stock or New England either, but a spring play festival in Maryland's dramatic oasis. After that will be appearances at Dennis, on Cape Cod; Mt. Kisco, N. Y.; Westport, Conn.; Ogunquit, Maine, and several others I can't recall.

Playing summer stock costs Sally plenty. Not only does she have to maintain her retinue, consisting of a secretary, a chauffeur, a dresser, but she has to turn down all offers that conflict with playing dates and an advance week of rehearsals.

Sally's goal is a Broadway play next winter and what she says about it is: "Not only do I want to appear on Broadway, but I'm going to. . . and that's that."

Midtown now has two popcorn stands, Grand Central and West 42nd street. For years the only one I knew of was in the underground passageway of Lexington avenue.

The nicest pet shop window in town is less Columbus circle. . . . At least for the moment it is certainly the most appealing. . . . For in it are seven little black spaniel puppies, with ears like long satin purses and eyes like sloes.

There's enough dynamite within a pebble block of Grand Central and West half Manhattan to smother it. It's stored in armored (and padded) cells thrown up along Sixth avenue where the new subway is a-building.

arranges to have his car traded in for a small sun and requisitors a new one. The state suffers a big loss."

Holbrook expressed the opinion the next legislature would scrutinize appropriations carefully, but he would not venture to predict what it would finally do.

Another Senate committee, of which John Redditt of Lufkin is chairman, is gathering information on which to prepare the major money bills and its aim is to reduce departmental appropriations 20 per cent from the current biennium.

This committee's bills will have to be passed on by the finance committee of the Senate. Then the Senate will say what it thinks of the latter committee's judgment.

Meanwhile, the House appropriations committee and the House itself will be acting on appropriation measures of their own. And lastly, the two houses must get together on common bills.

DiMaggio, Medwick Win Games With Flashy Hits

By SID FEDER, Associated Press Sports Writer.

Now's as good a time as any for one league pitcher to test out his ears and heading for the storm cellars. Joe DiMaggio and Ducky Medwick are on the warpath again.

It gets somewhat tiresome to point out every so often that here you have the two greatest outfielders, if not the two greatest players in this business of balls and strikes today. But it's one of those things that has to be done, like going to the dentist or putting gas in your car. You just can't overlook it.

Both of them got away to slow starts this season. Ducky Wucky had a pain in the back. That was lumbago. Joe had a pain in his pocketbook. That was a holdout. But now that they're back again, the fireworks are popping.

Each is a complete dose of pitcher's poison all wrapped up and ready to go. From the looks of things, they've picked up right where they left off last year.

Somewhat, it seems natural to see each leading his league in batting. DiMag with a neat .431 mark, and Ducky with a just-as-classy .426. And just like last year, you never can tell when either one of them is going to pick the next pitch to break up a ball game.

Take yesterday, for instance. The Yankees were having a tough time of it with the St. Louis Browns. Then along came DiMaggio in the fifth frame, knocked out of Buck Newsom's pet pitches out of the lot, and the Yankees were away in front.

But Lefty Gomez and Johnny Murphy couldn't hold the Browns. So DiMag came up there again in the eighth, helped himself to another one of the Buck's high hard ones, with two mates on base, and parked it among the paying customers in the bleachers—and there was your ball game. Result: Yankees 11, Browns 7. Newsom, however, had a lot of fun while it lasted, fanning six members of the Murderer's Row in order, to equal an American league record.

Meantime, Medwick was going to work in Brooklyn. He wasn't the big show in that game with the Dodgers, but he certainly wasn't anybody's sledge as he contributed a homer and scored four of the runs that gave the gas housers a 12-4 decision for their fourth straight win. Don Gutteridge played the part of the No. 1 cannon, however, being a homer and a single to drive in five runs.

HENRY ARMSTRONG CHANGES STYLE FOR FIGHT WITH ROSS

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, May 19 (AP)—So many daffy things are going on out at Henry Armstrong's compound that this savant, for one, begs to change his mind and not care a nickel's worth for Henry's chances against smart Barney Ross a week from tonight.

The furious little featherweight champion is bewildered by the sylvan surroundings at Pompton Lakes, N. J., and is over-trained.

Furthermore, his advisors are trying to teach Henry how to outsmart Barney Ross, instead of simply whipping him, and that is the funniest thing to happen in a long time. The current odds, 8 to 5 in Ross's favor, are about right.

They made a big mistake in taking Armstrong out to a genuine training camp, where there were trees and flowers and chickens. Previously, in some eight years of campaigning, the hustling Henry had done all the training he felt was necessary in mid-town gymnasiums where there was cigar smoke in the air and blobs of chewing gum on the floor.

All the greenery and fresh air at Pompton Lakes got him going, and the little man worked entirely too hard. There wasn't anything else to do. So now, with a week still in the air and blobs of chewing gum on the floor.

In the last two days he has boxed only two easy rounds, and his handlers don't want him to draw on the gloves again before Saturday. His two rounds of semi-boxing with Frankie Genovesi of Toronto yesterday, followed by several portions of shadow-boxing and skipping, didn't make his skin glisten, much less work up a real sweat. That's supposed to be a mighty bad sign.

Armstrong Touchy. The camp is gloomy and the usually amiable Armstrong acts like a man who had been done a mean trick. His feelings possibly are not helped any by news from the city that the advance sale is suffering from the Louis-Schmeling fight. Promoter Mike Jacobs says the advance is around $40,000, but nobody believes him.

The decision to smarten the dynamite up and teach him how to make Ross feel foolish is perhaps the outstanding bit of master-minding of 1938. As all true students of the many art realize, Armstrong has knocked out his last 27 opponents by the simple device of bobbing ever forward and hammering away with both fists until he no longer had anything to hit at.

4 Foreign Nations Will Be Represented on Card

America, Turkey, Germany and Hungary will be represented at the Pampa Athletic arena tomorrow night when Promoter Cliff B. Chambers presents his postponed wrestling card, scheduled for Monday night but called off because of rain. First match will be at 8:30 o'clock sharp.

Opening the night of battles will be Pasha Bariem Bey of Turkey and Buzz Reynolds of Salt Lake City, cousin of welterweight champion Jack Reynolds.

Next on the card, Sterling "Ropes" Davis of Houston will tangle with George Hartay, the Hungarian speed artist.

Closing event will see Bob Cummings of San Francisco and Count Seifred Von Bromberg, German army officer, in action.

Action galore will be the order as home country boy meets foreigner in each event on the card.

Tickets are available at Cretney Drug store at 65 cents, ringside reserve, tax paid. General admission will be 40 cents.

Amateur boxing of the United States have repulsed another invasion by their simon-pure rivals from across the seas. POOL SLAMS 2 HITS TO TAKE LEAGUE LEAD

(By The Associated Press)

They said it of Harlan Pool, the pudgy Dallas outfielder, that he could wield a wicked willow but not in the clinches—when the chips were down and runners were on base.

Pool was just as potent with the mace last night as ever and he showed his critics by delivering when needed. He slammed out two hits to take over again the Texas League batting leadership and one of the blows drove in Grey Clarke with the winning run as the herd scurried toward fifth place in the standing by downing Houston 4-1.

Pool now has mark of 359, some eight points ahead of Frank Secory, the Beaumont beller.

Both San Antonio, the current leader, and Tulsa, runner-up, tasted defeat, the Missions falling before Oklahoma City, 7-6, and Tulsa dropping before Beaumont, 2-1.

Ernie Holman, who has been helped any by news from the city that the advance sale is suffering from the Louis-Schmeling fight. Promoter Mike Jacobs says the advance is around $40,000, but nobody believes him.

The decision to smarten the dynamite up and teach him how to make Ross feel foolish is perhaps the outstanding bit of master-minding of 1938. As all true students of the many art realize, Armstrong has knocked out his last 27 opponents by the simple device of bobbing ever forward and hammering away with both fists until he no longer had anything to hit at.

There was about as much science to it as Tony Galento has footwork, but it served the purpose of getting Armstrong's crack at the welterweight crown, and admirers of the little negro have banked on it to wear Ross down to a nubbin inside 10 of the 15 scheduled rounds.

In fact, it was regarded as his one hope of beating the cagey, sharp-hitting Barney.

But now (honest) they're hurriedly teaching him to bob down under Ross's rapier left and watch for an opening. The idea is that if Ross keeps on missing he'll get discouraged and no telling what he will do. This corner told them what of a despairing Oklahoma City team in the ninth to halt a San Antonio rally. He fanned Sig Gryksa and Ralph Rhein with the tying and winning runs on base. The Indians had gained their lead with a six-run spurge in the eighth.

Fort Worth made mince meat out of the hapless Shreveport Sports with a 20-hit attack that left the Cats exhausted from running around the bases. Fort Worth won the game 14-5 to drop the Sports into the cellar. Shreveport got eleven hits off Jackie Reid.

LEFTY GROVE HAS WON 6 OUT OF 7 GAMES is writing another brilliant chapter in a story which already ranks as one of the greatest in baseball's 100 year old collection of diamond romances.

'Ol' Mose is almost 40 years old. His wavy hair is streaked with gray. Long since, it would seem, has the elasticity of youth departed from his spindly legs, and no longer does that lean left arm fire the fast ball which once made batters flinch. Grove won his 263rd triumph in 14 years in the majors the other day and should he never win another game he'll go down as one of the greatest left handed pitchers in the sport's history.

Organization of Junior Softball League Planned

Any more softball teams want to enter the City Softball league? If so, sponsors or managers should be at the Pampa Chamber of Commerce rooms at 7:30 o'clock tonight when representatives of both the City and Industrial leagues will meet to discuss schedules and playoffs.

The City league now has seven teams listed. One or three more will be welcomed President Joe Parkinson says. The Industrial league is playing with six teams. W. B. Weathered is league president.

The team managers will decide on the night schedule for the rest of the season and the method of playoff at the close of the league schedule at tonight's meeting.

BALANCED FLAVOR—

The costly, painstaking methods... the choice ingredients... the pure, delicious spring water... used in brewing COORS EXPORT LAGER would be meaningless — unless the product possesses an exclusive superiority you can easily recognize. That superiority is definable as balanced flavor — immediately apparent to your palate. It's a clean, rich, mellow taste — marked by the complete absence of either sweet or bitter tones. Balanced flavor gives COORS EXPORT LAGER a distinct character — an ever-pleasing quality solely its own.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

beautiful girls stripped down to pretty nearly the irreducible minimum, is closed now. But the lives of the beautiful girls go on—glamorously, tediously, pathetically.

Pathetically is my own idea. The girls probably don't think so. They are too young. They won't know how pathetic the life of a night club chorus girl can be for a few years yet. Then it will leap on and smack them solidly. There won't be much they can do about it—then.

There was a girl in the Hollywood's floor show who tripped one night as the girls were mannikining their way down the stairway. It wasn't serious. She caught herself and did not fall. It was the awkwardness of it that was bad, for it made the whole effect amateurish.

The next night the girl tripped again—and the next night, too, and the next. Something was wrong.

The producer of the revue spoke sharply to her. He told her to watch her step. He demanded to know what was the matter.

"It's my eyes," she said. "I've noticed it coming on for a long while. I can hardly see."

the producer told her. "But this isn't the place for girls who can't see. Get your money, Sugar. You're through."

"But I've got to work—I need the money. I've got to live," she pleaded.

"I'm sorry," was all he could say. "Get your money—and good luck." So the girl who couldn't even see to walk down a staircase lost her job.

In the same revue, doing a small specialty was a young Indian girl, Rose Marie Youngblood. To her, in a few days came the girl who was fired. She had no money, no place to go. The little Indian girl took her in to share her small hotel room.

The older girls at the Hollywood said to Rose Marie: "Don't be a fool. Leave her alone. Maybe she's all right—maybe she isn't. You're not on the reservation now, baby. This is Broadway. When you show your heart on Broadway, you just show the chisellers something to rip and tear. A heart in this business, baby, is like raw meat for the dogs."

Rose Marie thought they were very cruel to talk that way about an unfortunate girl who was going blind.

They roomed together for several weeks, the Indian maiden paying the rent and buying the food.

One morning about 3 o'clock, the last show being over, Rose Marie returned to her hotel and asked the clerk at the desk for her key. The clerk looked at her in surprise.

"Why, Miss Youngblood," he said, "I thought you had checked out. Your girl friends came down several hours ago with all your luggage and said you were leaving."

The girl went up to the room. Everything was gone—all her clothes, her modest jewels and her furs. Her roommate whom she had befriended hadn't left a thing.

Yes, she left one thing. Rose Marie, convent-bred, ran over to the bed and lifted one end of the mattress. It was still there—her rosary and prayer beads.

She turned to the clerk. "I'm lucky she didn't take these," she said. "She left one thing. I do without them. Every night, you know, I say my prayers—every night, as long as I can remember."

The clerk, veteran of small theatrical hotels where almost anything can happen and generally does, went out.

"There sure are a lot of screwballs in show business," he said to the elevator boy as they descended. "Take that little Indian girl in 907, for instance—"

The little Indian girl was telling me about it. She, too, has lost her job with the closing of the revue. I thought maybe she would be worrying about herself. Instead—

"I never heard any more about her," she said. "Maybe she got a job somewhere. I hope so. And I hope her eyes get better. It must be awful to be blind."

CEDILLO MUST GIVE UP ARMY CHIEF ORDERS

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mexico, May 18. (AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas is determined that the strong man of San Luis, General Saturnino Cedillo, shall surrender his arms and peasant army to the government so that the nation's Socialistic program may go on without danger of internal revolt.

The general's resignation from the army, Cardenas asserted, was accepted upon his promise to remain at his vast estate of Las Palomas, near San Luis, upon which he has established his agrarian constituency.

But, President Cardenas insisted, Cedillo must surrender arms and ammunition, and his "private army" of possibly 50,000 men must be absorbed into the regular army as an auxiliary group.

Apparently linking Cedillo with asserted efforts to stir the people against expropriation of foreign oil companies, effected March 18, Cardenas charged that his former secretary of agriculture planned a revolution, that he conferred with representatives of foreign oil companies whose property the government expropriated, and that with "the aid of agents, who toured the country and abroad," he engaged in "subversive activities."

He said Cedillo feigned illness to avoid a term of military service in Michoacan, President Cardenas' state, and to mask his plans for revolution.

The general's resignation from the army, Cardenas asserted, was accepted upon his promise to remain at his vast estate of Las Palomas, near San Luis, upon which he has established his agrarian constituency.

But, President Cardenas insisted, Cedillo must surrender arms and ammunition, and his "private army" of possibly 50,000 men must be absorbed into the regular army as an auxiliary group.

Apparently linking Cedillo with asserted efforts to stir the people against expropriation of foreign oil companies, effected March 18, Cardenas charged that the general's "agents" both at home and abroad sought "proselytes for an incoercible rebellion."

"Before and after the expropriation of the foreign oil companies," the president continued, "agents at the service of the same companies, they too tried to find traitors."

But their efforts were fruitless, Cardenas told a crowd of San Luis townfolk, because "the Mexican people have united to defend the fatherland interests."

Despite those "who would like the government to neglect the organization for the working class, leaving them at the whims and judgment of those who own the wealth and culture," Cardenas avowed that the program of Mexico for Mexicans would go on.

"The revolution plans, organizes, toward the people's welfare," he said.

Cardenas is to stay here ten days, then go on to Tampico for inspection of the expropriated oil properties.

It was announced that General Felix Arta had been assigned to the Michoacan military post intended for Cedillo, and there was some unofficial talk of an effort to oust officials of San Luis who have been friendly to the general.

One source said a congressional resolution was under consideration, and that it would urge removal of the San Luis government.

DEFENSE

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Three business men were arraigned here in a drive against punchboards.

"Your Honor," said a defense attorney, "some distributors might be led to believe gambling devices legal because the federal government collects 10 cents each on them as amusement tax."

"Is that so?" replied Judge Clifford McLaughlin. "Case dismissed."

APRIL BUSY MONTH FOR PAMPA PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Pampa Public Library had one of its busiest months during April, according to a report prepared by Mrs. James Todd Jr., librarian.

During the month, patrons checked out 2,805 books or an average of 105 daily. There were 134 new books catalogued and placed on the shelves.

Donated to the library during the month were books and magazines by Twentieth Century club, Tom Eckerd, Tom Jamison, Mrs. James Thompson, Mrs. R. G. Allen and four months of bound files of the Pampa Daily News. The Twentieth Century club also gave chairs for the children's table and $3 in cash. A gift of $15 in cash was received from El Progreso club.

Several replacements of books were bought at the Russell Stationery book sale in Amarillo.

Mrs. Todd plans to attend the National Library convention in Kansas City in June.

Wives' Flight

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES COPYRIGHT, 1938, BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday Roger is found, critically injured, but the joy that every girl gives Jack such gratitude as she has never known.

CHAPTER XVI

ROGER'S condition, result not only of the crack-up but of those two nights and days without medical attention, remained critical for some time. Newspapers held out very little hope for his recovery, especially a complete one.

Jackie spent all her time waiting for news. Nothing else mattered. She read every article in every single paper she could get. She kept phoning the field, or driving back and forth, in hopes that she might learn something more. She did not know how big and solemn her eyes were, how pinched her pretty young face. She ate mechanically, forcing herself to swallow a few bites, or to drink some mild stimulant such as coffee or tea. At night she did not sleep, except for an hour or so toward daylight when she became so completely exhausted.

"Dear me!" Evelyn said, holding up her lovely hands in despair. "You look like a former ghost of your self, darling. You simply cannot go on like this. It is dreadful about poor Roger, of course, but I won't do for my little girl to go into a decline over him."

Jackie said she was not going into a decline. It was just like her mother to make something horrible and yet romantic out of it. How could Evelyn guess what Jackie was going through? She had never loved anyone as Jackie loved Roger.

"Something must be done about it," Evelyn decided. She drew her lovely brow into a thoughtful frown. "Let me think."

"There's nothing to do," Jackie said, harshly. "Except what I am doing. Wait." She did wish Evelyn would leave her alone, cease trying to think up schemes and suggestions although no doubt she meant to help. But nothing could help, except the word that Roger was out of danger.

BUT the latest report remained much the same. Jackie had just returned from the office, and she was still unconscious, slightly delirious. She threw herself face down on the bed. She no longer shed tears. She had spent them all in this first dreadful fit of weeping, in the lonely stretches of the long nights. Oh! if only there was something she could do, some way to help. She felt so useless, so helpless. That was what made this waiting so terrible.

"I suppose I might as well send these things back to the shop," Evelyn said. She referred to the huge stack of boxes, containing the wedding dresses and veils, that she had had sent out and had insisted Jackie try. "I'm afraid we won't use them now..." she sighed. It seemed such a pity, when she so hoped to have a June wedding, with all its glamorous trimmings, for Jackie. "At least," she added, "I suppose we can't use them for some time."

"Please, Mother!" Jackie protested. She buried her face deeper in the pillows. Why must her Mother remind her of that wedding that had only been pretense, anyway, a wedding that was not supposed to have taken place, that would, indeed, never take place now? Unless Roger got well, unless Jackie could convince him that she really loved him. Even then she did not know if Roger only had been pretending all the time or not; she did not know if Roger loved her.

"I'm sorry, darling—I didn't stop to think how badly that would make you feel," Evelyn came over to sit down on the bed by Jackie's side. She leaned over, stroking the fair hair from the young sweet brow. She could understand her daughter now, at last. Jackie was behaving the way a girl should, a girl in love. Evelyn had known that given time enough Jackie would prove as romantically inclined as any girl. Every girl, at heart, was just the same, the wide-world-over-always-had been and always would be.

"I know what I would do if Roger were my young man!" Evelyn said suddenly, for Evelyn, too, was likely to have ideas of her own. "Why, once" her beautiful eyes grew misty as the memory, "when your poor dear dead father was all, darling, though it turned out to be nothing serious then, but I thought he was dying and I was terribly upset—I went all the way up to Cehemastay in the most dreadful, the dirtiest old train and then had to drive miles and miles in a horse and buggy of all things! But nothing, no nothing, darling, could have kept me from going to him when I thought he needed me."

JACKIE raised herself on one elbow. Why, her mother had loved someone, then, just as she loved Roger now. Her mother had suffered and waited and worried... Jackie knew, not only from the tone of her voice, but from the look in her mother's eyes, a look she had never seen in them. Maybe Evelyn was not always the romantic actress, playing at her romantic part. She had been just like any other woman, like her own daughter now.

"Did you love him, my father—so much?" Jackie asked.

PROCESS KILLS GARLIC SMELL IN GASOLINE

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Editor

TULSA, May 19.—A bad smell, one quart of which could choke everyone in a city the size of Chicago, is extracted from gasoline by a new process described today at the International Petroleum Exposition.

The smell is a highly concentrated garlic. It is caused by the same forms of sulphur that grow in garlic. In all wells there is a little of this sulphur, and it is sufficient to half stifle the users of gasoline if not guarded against.

Fortunes have been made in the oil industry out of chemicals which "mask" gasoline garlic. These do not remove the sulphur, but convert them into something which has no smell.

The new process for the first time takes the "garlic" completely out of gasoline. It was described by Dr. C. W. Ripple of the Allied Chemical and Dye Company.

The extraction, he said, shows there is about one quart of this smell in 1,000 barrels of gasoline. This is about the amount of gasoline that 3,000 cars would burn in less than a day's run.

The sulphur is removed from the gasoline by "washing" with lye. A small amount of lye, dissolved in gasoline, Dr. Ripple said, picks up all the sulphur-garlic smell. After the gasoline stands a short time the lye settles to the bottom.

The gasoline then is drawn off completely freed of its sulphur. Next the lye is heated. Thereupon all the sulphur comes out of the lye in the form of the world's worst smelling gas. In this way the same lye is used over and over. The new process, Dr. Ripple said, is probably the cheapest yet devised for sweetening gasoline.

Even the smell is not wasted. The sulphurous gas makes a good fuel and one of the companies using the process is burning it in the power plant.

If anybody could use a terrific smell for war or defense, the gas could be trapped and liquefied.

In addition to the smell, untreated sulphur in gasoline has been the cause of engine troubles. Too much sulphur changes into a substance that resembles varnish and covers the insides of an engine.

PUBLIC HEALTH NEEDS CITED BY PHYSICIAN

SALT LAKE CITY, May 19. (AP)—The National Congress of Parents and Teachers, nearing adjournment after a week's intensive consideration of home and school problems, studied today a broad survey of public health as presented by an executive of the American Medical Association.

"The greatest problem in public health today is the lack of adequately-trained personnel," Dr. W. W. Bauer of Chicago, director of the A. M. A.'s bureau of health and public instruction and associate editor of Hygeia Magazine, told the convention in a prepared address.

"In an era of paradox," he said, "there is none-greater than widespread unemployment and at the same time a lack of qualified personnel for jobs waiting to be filled."

"If every county in the United States were to establish a full-time health unit tomorrow, there would not be enough qualified public officers to direct them."

Dr. Bauer, presenting a detailed study of public health activities, said in summary:

"While the public authorities can throw many safeguards around the individual citizen, it is necessary for him to be on the alert and to cooperate in his daily practice of marketing and consuming food."

"Consistent refusal to use water assistance upon pasteurized milk unless certified milk is purchased; demand for inspected meat and meat food products; marketing for fruits and vegetables with an eye to possible dangers; purchase only of certified seafood products—these are the means by which the citizen may avail himself of health safeguards in his community."

"If these safeguards do not exist, then the citizen can make his demand for them felt by organizing for action at the polls or by refusal to buy unsatisfactory good products."

MENHUNS WILL MARRY WEALTHY AUSTRALIANS

LONDON, May 19. (AP)—A music-minded cupid has scored the best bull's-eye of many seasons in the midst of two sets of brothers and sisters—the artistic Menhuns and the wealthy Australian Nicholases.

It was announced today that Hephzibah Menhuhin, 17-year-old sister and constant accompanist of the stolid and gifted violinist Yehudi Menhuhin, would wed the brother of Yehudi's betrothed, Yehudi is 21.

In the second brother-sister set are Lindsay and Nola, children of the aspirin millionaire, G. R. Nicholais of Melbourne, Australia.

Making a clean sweep of the Menhuns, it was announced that Yaltah, 16 and Yehudi's second sister, was engaged to William Stix of St. Louis and Washington.

Both Yaltah and Hephzibah are expected to be married in the United States, but Yehudi and Nola will wed in London this month.

FRENCHMEN MAY FIGHT DUEL OVER NEW PLAY

PARIS, May 19. (AP)—Seconds for the prospective duel between playwright Henry Bernstein and Etouard Bourdet, director of the Comedie Francaise, decided to meet again today for further discussion of the argument between the principals.

Discussions yesterday failed to settle the dispute which grew out of differences over production of Bernstein's new play "Judith."

Friends of Bourdet and Bernstein said that if the duel is fought it probably would be tomorrow morning.

Pierre Benoit of the French Academy and Paul Morand, novelist, are seconds for Bourdet, while Charles Mere, president of the Society of French Authors, and Rene Prejean, swordsman, represent Bernstein.

REVIVAL SERIES WILL CONTINUE NEXT WEEK

A revival series is now in progress at the Church of the Christman, 600 North Frost Street, with the Rev. J. E. Jarol and Mrs. Jarol in charge of the services.

The messages, which the evangelist delivers each evening, are presented with zeal and enthusiasm. Services, which began at 7:45 o'clock, will be conducted the remainder of the week and next week also.

The public is cordially invited to attend all of these services.

CRIPPLED YOUTH RIDES MANY HOBBIES

KENDALLVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Although Jack Preston, 20, was given up as "dead" seven times and has been crippled 13 years as a result of arthritis and complications, he has become a manufacturer of model airplanes, stamp collector and inventor of living room games.

Construction of model airplanes, Preston says, "has become mere play." Some time ago he built 37 planes and sold each at $1.50. His collection of 10,000 stamps has been valued at more than $300. He has invented such games as table basketball, table hockey, table track and table softball.

SMART ALEC CAMDEN, N. J.—Three times an intruder forced his way into Isaac Paul's home while Paul and his wife were away, and helped himself to contents of the icebox.

The third time Paul carefully searched the house. On a couch in the living room he saw a figure apparently asleep. Stealthily he approached, then leaped upon the inert "sleeper."

It was a dummy—made of pillows and old clothes.
