DID YOU FORGET

If you didn't turn your clock back before going to bed last night you were probably one hour late to church. Daylight Savings time began at 2 a.m. this morning, Sunday.

"Muleshoe High School has started an academic awards program to honor those students that have achieved a high degree of success in their courses," Principal Al Bishop said, in speaking to the MISD board Monday night at their regular meeting.

"The award system is based on the students grades for the entire year for the first three years and through the fifth six weeks of their senior year. Each year stands alone and a student must maintain a 90 or above average for all of their courses to qualify for the awards. There are four levels of awards that a student may earn. The four levels are as follows:

"First year with a 90 or above average students will receive a medal; second year with a 90 or above average, acrylic desk medal; third year with a 90 or above average, plaque with medal; and fourth year with a 90 or above average, a blanket with medal design.

"Students will be presented with awards at a special awards assembly during the month of May each year. This assembly will be held at night so parents and other friends of those being honored may come and witness as Muleshoe High School honors those students that have worked to achieve such a high honor.

"We have been fortunate to have the support of Bill Moore, Superintendent of Muleshoe ISD, and Bob Finney, President of Muleshoe State Bank, who has underwritten the cost of the awards program. It is with deep appreciation to these two men that Muleshoe High School will present the awards for the first time in May of 1993."

Cindy Purdy, president of the board called the meeting to order at 7 p.m. and following the invocation, she turned the meeting

"The Fine Arts Boosters would like to thank all of the parents that have worked so very hard at the concession stand and with the baked goods we have asked for," said Charlotte Holt. "Without the help of all these parents, we wouldn't have been able to have given the Band, Art, and Speech Departments a total overall of $5,000.00 this year. It is a lot of hard work every year but all the money goes right back to help the kids."

Lubbock Chosen As Convention Site For Grand Lodge

Lubbock was recently chosen as the 1995 convention site for the Grand Lodge I.O.O.F. (Independent Order Of Odd Fellows) of Texas and the Rebekah Assembly. The bid for this convention was led by Charles Lawrence, Secretary for Lubbock Circle Lodge #176, Celeta Lawrence, Noble Grand for Lubbock Rebekah Lodge #321 and the Lubbock Convention and Visitors Bureau. Additional support for the convention bid came from Lodges throughout the Plains area. According to Mr. Lawrence, "Key factors in choosing Lubbock as the 1995 convention site included Lubbock's affordability, fine facilities, attractions, and the strong support from the West Texas area." Lubbock's competition for the Annual Session was Corpus Christi, Texas.

The 1995 event will bring an estimated 1000 people, 900 total hotel rooms, and approximately $565,000 new dollars to Lubbock's community. Of course, contribution to our community is nothing new for the Oddfellows and the Rebekahs. On a local level, they have actively participated in programs such as Meals on Wheels, Crime Line, Women's Protective Services, Ronald McDonald House, and Lubbock's Food Bank. Mrs. Lawrence noted that "Ongoing state and national projects have included participation with the Eyebank, Arthritis Foundation, World Hunger, and a unique United Nations travel program for the youth."

Their order is the oldest fraternal organization in the U.S. and the only military organization in the world that can relieve the Honor Guard at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Headquartered in Corsicana, the Grand Lodge I.O.O.F. has several real estate holdings, including a nursing/retirement home in Ennis, Texas which they fully support. Mr. Howard Homes, 1995 Grand Warden, will travel to Lubbock soon to begin planning the 1995 Annual Session.

Power is never stable when it is boundless.

-Tacitus.

Easter. Not All Bunny Business!

By midwinter the commercial Easter symbols are all around us: candy eggs, sugar chicks, chocolate rabbits, plastic baskets filled with plastic grass. Images of the Great Rabbit who gets credit for this important annual delivery to our kids.

These are good, gooey traditions, but there's more to Easter than sugar and plastic. This year, give your children something real and sustaining. In the United Methodist Church, they will learn that it is Christ - not an imaginary rabbit - who gives us the Easter gift which really matters: abundant life in Him. Life which one day sees us through death and into eternity.

Come on home to a family who cares about you. Celebrate the Easter gift of life with us at the United Methodist Church.

AAUW in the Muleshoe area began a tradition several years ago of honoring deserving young senior girls for their achievements in academia and service. Each month, an outstanding young lady is chosen from the Muleshoe High School Senior Class as "Girl of the Month", and twice a year, a Senior girl from the Lazbuddie Senior Class is chosen as either the "Fall" or "Spring" outstanding young girl. These young ladies are chosen for their contributions to school, church, and community as well as for academic excellence. The members of AAUW are very proud to be able to recognize these wonderful girls and further honor them with a dinner party in the month of May.

Training Offered By SPC To Handle Family Violence Situations

A law enforcement course on family violence and domestic disturbances is scheduled April 13-15 at South Plains College.

Classes meet 4-8 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday in the SPC Petroleum/Law Enforcement Technology Building, room 115. Cost is $24 a person.

A second session will meet April 19-21, with classes scheduled 408 p.m. Monday through Wednesday.

Registration deadline is noon April 13.

Officers successfully completing the course will receive Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education credit for 24 hours of training. The course is required for intermediate certification.

"Society looks to the peace officer to maintain order and to resolve problems when the individual family loses control and can no longer handle its own problems," said George Lawless, coordinator and an associate professor of SPC's law enforcement program. "Such incidents can become violent confrontations between family members and may lead to abuse by one of the family members. This course will help the officer learn how to more effectively respond to family violence and handle child abuse," he explained.

For more information, contact the SPC law enforcement office at 894-9611, ext. 291.

High energy is a good way to describe the style of pioneering pianist Laura Spitzer. The expression applies equally well to her dynamic music making, demanding schedule and vibrant, enthusiastic personality. She has become an inspired missionary for classical music, bringing the strains of Bach, Chopin, and Ravel to places where the last recital may have been in Mark Twain's youth.

Laura Spitzer will perform Tuesday, April 6 at 8:00 p.m. in the Hereford High School Auditorium.

Eight years and 60,000 miles...and everywhere she has been, she has left a trail of enthusiastic converts. The New York Times observed that she performed with "verve, clarity...a lively interest in the ways and means of each work and left one interested in hearing her ideas about others." The New York City Tribune proclaims she has "the dexterity of the touring virtuosos." The San Jose Mercury News called her "one of the most vibrant one-woman operations in classical performance circles...She chews into very tough repertory with a virtuoso's passion, and lights up a Bartok sonata with enough fire to melt the strings..."

She graduated with distinction from Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria, where she won the Boesendorfer Award in 1975 and the Kurt Leimer Competition in 1977. While she was still a student there, her performances encompassed everything from fortepiano recitals in Mozart's residence to tours with the avant garde Austrian Ensemble for New Music and recordings with the Austrian National Radio in Salzburg, Graz, and Innsbruck.

SPS Submits Response To Recent PUCT Order

As part of a rate review ordered by the Public Utility Commission of Texas in October 1992, Southwestern Public Service Company has completed a current cost-of-service study and filed a response to the PUCT order.

Although SPS's overall rates are among the lowest in the state, the PUCT ordered SPS to demonstrate that its earnings level is appropriate and its rates are "just and reasonable."

SPS President Coyt Webb said the SPS filing demonstrates that SPS efficiencies have saved customers $84 million a year, compared with the average operating expenses of all other electric utilities in Texas. That has helped keep SPS rates among the lowest in the state.

SPS's operating costs and production expenses per kilowatt-hour generated are among the lowest in the nation, Webb said. "That's one reason--along with lower fuel costs--why our customers' overall price for electricity has declined almost every year for the past ten years," he said.

"Just and reasonable rates are designed to allow a utility to recover its investment and operating costs, and to provide to investors a return that is related to its efficiency," Webb said. "And we believe SPS has demonstrated in this filing that overall, it is the one of the most efficient electric utilities in Texas."

However, even with these efficiencies, some costs have increased, said Gerald Diller, SPS group manager of rates and regulation.

"Higher property taxes, expected higher federal corporate income taxes, new accounting rules, and gradually increased employee expenses have been identified as primary factors contributing to increased company costs," Diller said. "These known and expected factors have been included in our cost-of-service study, and the result is a small revenue deficiency."

Such a deficiency indicates that overall revenues resulting from current rates are actually lower than warranted by the study, Diller said. In addition, the study shows that costs need to be reallocated among classes of customers, he said.

"As required, the SPS response includes new tariff sheets for all classes of customers. These new tariff sheets correct the revenue deficiency and reallocate, on a fair-share basis, costs among all classes of customers, he said.

The overall increase in rates indicated by the cost-of-service study is 1.25 percent, or $5.6 million. However, because of the reallocation, adjustments would vary among classes, Diller said. Under the new tariff sheets, some customers--including many small businesses, cotton, gins, and grain elevators--would receive a small decrease, Diller said. However, for residential customers, the average bill would increase 5.1 percent.

The overall rate includes the base rate and the fuel cost. In the new tariff sheets, the base rate portion of a residential customer's bill would increase eight percent while fuel costs would decrease slightly, creating the 5.1 percent overall increase for residential customers.

An SPS residential customer on the "lighting rate" who uses 700 kilowatt hours each month, would see a monthly bill increase of $2.05--from $46.71 to $48.76.

Even with the indicated increase, the overall residential rate will remain 13 percent lower than it was ten years ago and will still be among the lowest in the state, Diller said.

A hearing is scheduled to begin in Austin on Aug. 31, wherein SPS, the PUCT, the affected Texas cities who have original jurisdiction over rates within their boundaries, and others will participate in this process. A final decision by the PUCT isn't expected until late 1993, and new rates, if ordered, would not go into effect until that time.

Southwestern Public Service Company serves 75 cities in the Texas Panhandle and South Plains. It also serves customers in New Mexico, Oklahoma and Kansas. Corporate headquarters is in Amarillo, Texas.

ROTARY HEARS PROGRAM ON FIRE DEPARTMENT--J.O. Parker, left, presented the Rotary Program at noon Tuesday. He talked to the Rotarians about the Muleshoe Volunteer Fire Department. He was introduced by Thurman Myers. (Journal Photo)

Rotary Hears Program On Fire Department

"We have got the best department (Muleshoe Volunteer Fire Department in the state of Texas," J.O. Parker, a member of the fire department, when speaking at the Rotary Club meeting at noon Tuesday. "We have answered 48 calls so far this year, 11 big grass fires (like the one we had yesterday on East Highway 84), four car fires, one house fire, a few trailer house fires, and one elevator fire (Johns Custom Mill).

"Grass fires do a lot of damage and are the most dangerous in our part of the county. We don't fight CRP fires anymore, you can't get inside them to fight.

"I joined the department in 1967. I now instruct one week each year at Texas A&M Fire School and a week at Lubbock. The Lubbock school is at night. I also instruct some at Canyon, Floydada and Higgins on weekends.

"The firemen's wives are the backbone of the department, they keep us going."

Parker showed some of the report sheets that have to be filled out after each fire. "We have a lot of paper work to do and I hate it" Parker continued.

The firemen are presently selling tickets to the Firemen's Annual Ball. They are also selling candy to raise money to attend the Amarillo Convention.

David Tipps, president, called the meeting to order and recognized the visitors, Randy Adair, Don Carter and the press.

Terry Hutto led the group in singing "Smile, Sing A Song," and "Vive le Rotary," and Thurman Myers introduced Parker.

Noe Anzaldua was the winner of the Polio Plus drawing.

Teel Bivins Reports

A week ago Saturday, I got up and pulled back the curtains in our hotel room south of Austin. My wife Nancy said, "Tell me about the weather."

I reported to her that it looked like "high Nancy." That's our vernacular to describe high overcast skies. You see, Nancy claims that neither she nor the kids have ever visited Austin when the sun was shining. She has the uncanny ability to always pick the rotten weather. It's gotten so bad that my staff refers to Austin's dreary, rainy, cloudy weather as "Nancy weather."

Her luck held when she and the kids decided to come down for Spring Break. We decided to spend a few days at a resort south of Austin that had a pool so the kids could swim. We should have known better. The sun arrived brightly the day before their arrival. But for their entire visit, we had "Nancy weather." After putting them on the plane Sunday afternoon, I walked outside and saw my shadow for the first time in five days.

Another development occurred during the course of their stay that may be a silver lining for all Texans. As the sponsor of legislation to reform our state's trucking laws, I've had little luck getting the opponents of reform to sit down and negotiate. But on Thursday I received a call to come to Lt. Gov. Bullock's office. Upon entering, I found Bullock and Robert Floyd, executive director of the Texas Motor Transportation Association, a group that opposes trucking reform. Bullock told me the association wanted to talk.

While on one hand I was elated, on the other hand my heart sank at the prospect of marathon negotiations over the course of the time Nancy and the kids would be in Austin. But it all worked out for the best. Bullock, representatives of trucking companies, shippers and I spent all afternoon in negotiations. Sen. John Montford (D-Lubbock) worked alongside us helping strive for a compromise.

At the end of that session, because of all the ideas that had been generated and the paperwork that would be required, we decided to not meet again until Sunday afternoon. While that decision was not critical to the negotiations, it was critical to my marriage.

We started up again after I had put Nancy and the kids on the plane back to Amarillo. That session broke up about 9 p.m. Sunday. After one last lengthy negotiating session Monday night, the two sides ultimately arrived at a compromise.

It must be said that we could never have reached an agreement, especially in such a short time, without Bullock pushing and chastising both sides to move toward a consensus.

A negotiated bill is like any other settlement agreement. If it's fair, neither side is entirely happy with it. That's certainly true in this case. As I've stated in this column before, I'm a strong advocate of reforming our trucking laws. While our agreed-to bill achieves a great deal, it clearly did not accomplish all that I set out to. Likewise, while the other side gave a great deal, it still wound up preserving some of the status quo.

Trucking reform is an issue that was tailor-made for negotiations during this session of the Legislature. The simple reason is that neither side had the votes to get 100% of what they wanted. As one political sage eloquently observed: "If you ain't got the votes, you ain't got nothing."

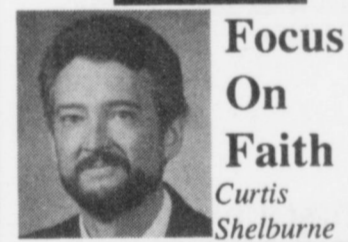

So while we had to suffer through five days of "Nancy weather" during Spring Break, the Bivins family made out OK, and I believe the people of Texas made out even better.

LUCKY WINNER-Lee McMurry of Muleshoe was the proud winner of the freezer given away in a recent drawing held at Lowe's Thriftway Store.

Jesus is the Lord of Joy

The poet Swinburne once wrote concerning Jesus Christ, "Thou hast conquered, O pale Galilean! The world has grown gray from thy breath."

Focus On Faith
Curtis Shelburne

What a sadly mistaken view of our Lord! Jesus, pale and colorless, chasing away joy and despising mirth? The apostles would be amazed to hear him described in such terms. Their Lord was the one who made wine at a wedding feast and poked fun at the unlaughing Pharisees who took themselves far too seriously and God not seriously enough. He laughed at them cleansing the outside of their cups but forgetting to wash the inside!

Even Christ's enemies would be surprised to hear him called the "pale Galilean." They charged him with lots of things, but failing to enjoy life was not one of them. On the contrary, they tried to brand him a wine-bibber and a glutton!

He was not, but that he enjoyed the company of outcasts who were sane enough to live life with some joy and humble enough to laugh more than he enjoyed the company of the deadly serious, deadly dull religious folks of his day shouldn't surprise us! No wonder the outcasts were the ones who thronged to him. No pretentious piety kept them from laughing with him and loving him.

Along this line, I was interested in the comments Philip Yancey made recently in an article about the great Christian writer G. K. Chesterton. Chesterton was a weighty thinker! He topped the scales at around 300 pounds, but what he lacked in physical beauty he made up for in depth of insight and keen wit. No one could turn a phrase like Chesterton as he sculptured words to give form to ideas.

Writing about the most serious aspects of life, Chesterton never forgot the deep need we all have to laugh. We are unfortunate, one man writes, to live in an age where "people link laughter with shallowness." Chesterton was far from shallow, but how he could laugh! In fact, Yancey says, he distrusted "hard, cold, thin people" who couldn't.

May God deliver us from religion, from worship, and from life the whole spirit of which is hard and cold and thin! May God help us to prove that we take Jesus Christ seriously by refusing to take ourselves too seriously. May we be more like our Lord and less like his cold, hard, pale detractors.

Curtis Shelburne is minister of the 16th & D Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

Taking The Children Out For A "Quick Bite"?

Taking the children out for a "quick bite" does not mean forsaking good nutrition, says a nutritionist at the USDA's Children's Nutrition Research Center.

"Parents can help their children make wise choices be it fast foods or more traditional fare," said Dr. Corinne Montandon, an assistant professor of nutrition at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Although many fast food restaurants are notorious for foods high in fat, salt, and empty calories, Montandon believes parents can steer their youngsters to more nutritious offerings.

Instead of a cheeseburger and fries, she suggests a grilled chicken sandwich or broiled lean meat hamburger. Add lettuce and tomato but hold the high-fat toppings such as bacon, mayonnaise and special sauce, she said.

To round out the meal, choose low-fat milk or juice, and as a grand finale, treat the crew to low-fat frozen yogurt or animal cookies rather than a fried pastry, she added.

Pizza and Mexican food are also popular with the young set.

If the clan opts for pizza, Montandon recommends a thin-crust version topped with ground beef or mushrooms, green peppers and other vegetables instead of high-fat toppings like sausage and pepperoni. Some places even offer part-skim milk cheese.

The best bet for Mexican includes dishes made from soft corn tortillas instead of fried or flour tortillas. Chicken fajitas, rice and green salads- not to be confused with high-fat taco salads-are also healthy choices. For dessert, Montandon recommends flan instead of sopapillas. If possible, forego the pre-meal chips, she added.

At cafeterias, Montandon urges parents to pass on the fried dishes and help their children select broiled meats, grilled fish, baked chicken and steamed vegetables. Young children tend to enjoy moist foods so parents might consider casseroles, meat loaf, baked salmon croquettes or macaroni and cheese.

Even though gelatin and whipped cream parfaits, pies and cakes look inviting, remember, they are loaded with sugar and fat. Fruit salads are a healthier choice.

Montandon encourages parents to look past the "child's menu."

"Restaurants tend to load their

'kid's corner' with high-fat foods such as corn dogs, fish sticks, French fries, and chicken nuggets," she said. The list of appetizers may offer better selections as well as small portions. Parents can even ask for an "extra" plate and share their meal with young children.

Montandon urges parents to keep their family's overall eating habits in mind when dining out.

"Fast foods in moderation will not sabotage an otherwise healthy diet," she said. "If parents teach their children to enjoy a variety of foods, they will be able to make wise food selections and enjoy a lifetime of healthy eating."

Let not thy will roar when thy power can but whisper.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF CHANGES IN ELECTION PRECINCTS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, pursuant to Article 42.035, Texas Election Code, of changes in election precincts of Bailey County, Texas.

County election precincts were modified by action of the Commissioners Court of Bailey County in compliance with duties imposed by the United States Constitution, Texas Constitution, Texas Election Code and Chapter 42 United States Code 1973c, otherwise known as the Voting Rights Act.

The changes made accomplish numerical balance between the four Commissioners Court precincts, and insure opportunities for minority impact upon electoral offices within the county.

Maps of the modified election precincts are available for inspection in the Bailey County Clerk's Office, 300 S.1st Street, Muleshoe, Texas 79347, during business hours of 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., Monday thru Friday, county holidays excluded.

The public is encouraged to review the adopted election line changes prior to any election utilizing said boundaries.

New Surgical Procedure Provides For Bladder Substitution

An improved surgical procedure that "substitutes" the bladder with part of the intestine may help bladder cancer patients return to a more active lifestyle.

Continent urinary diversion, a procedure that channels urine naturally via a "reservoir" made from the small intestine, prevents the need for the standard external bag, according to Dr. Seth Lerner, an assistant professor of urology at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

For years, urologists have traditionally used the ileal conduit, a technique that drains urine via a loop of small intestine to a bag, or pouch, attached outside the skin. Lerner says many patients complain of the pouch's odor, leakage and inconvenience.

"Continent urinary diversion represents a major improvement over incontinent types of urinary diversion, including the ileal conduit," he said.

Unlike the ileal conduit, continent urinary diversion reduces the risk of kidney stone formation and infection by preventing flow of urine back to the kidneys. The patient empties the reservoir via a small opening, or stoma, in the abdominal wall with a catheter four to six times daily.

Studies have shown that such patients return to work earlier, have a higher self-esteem, and are more physically and sexually active than patients with the ileal conduit.

Consider Eugene Hoge, age 69. After he retired, he was diagnosed with bladder cancer and was given an external pouch four years ago. He recently was converted from his ileal conduit to a continent form of urinary diversion and has returned to part-time work as a salesman.

"The external pouch would leak sometimes, which really frustrated me," Hoge said. "But the catheter is very workable and it hasn't failed me yet."

Although it is beneficial, Lerner cautions that continent urinary diversion is not for everyone.

"Debilitated individuals and the very elderly may not be physically capable of catheterizing several times a day," he said. "Patients with continent urinary diversion must be willing and able to adhere to a catheterization schedule."

Approximately 7,000 Americans have their bladders removed for cancer and non-malignant diseases.

Bladder cancer accounts for four percent of all cancers and appears mostly in people in their 50s and 60s. Almost three times as many men as women are affected.

Lerner says 90 percent of men whose bladders are removed are candidates for the procedure.

The True Light

The true light that is intended for every man has come into the world. This light shines perpetually into the darkness in which man lives and the darkness cannot overcome it. It radiates from the manger stall at Bethlehem; it gleams from Calvary's hill; on Easter morn it broke the bonds of time and is eternally present in our world. Joy to the world indeed! Praise God from whom all blessings flow!

The light is here; we need not even ask it, but only open our eyes. Then why do so many walk yet in darkness? There is only one answer, they love darkness better than light. For those who stumble blindly about life and yearn for respite, there stands an eternal invitation—"Come unto me all ye who labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." For those whose hearts ache with emptiness—"Behold I stand at the door and knock. If any man will hear my voice and open the door I will come in to him."

Is something wrong with your life— an inner restless dissatisfaction? The answer to every human problem comes only from God our Maker. He alone can forgive and reassure. Through the church God has committed the provision and proclamation of His forgiveness and redeeming love. Without a church relation no one is securely related to God. Everyone should be in the Church and the Church in everyone!

(A message from the Muleshoe Journal)

THE SALVATION ARMY NEWS & NOTES
Family Ties Can Grow--Even After Divorce

(NAPS)—In about 30 percent of family divorces, a hostile or dangerous relationship between the parents continues after divorce, with damaging, long-term consequences for the children involved. Transforming family interaction from abusive confrontation into positive, high-quality time with both parents is the goal of The Salvation Army's innovative Family Court Visitation Program, developed over the past twelve years in Buffalo, New York. Tina Joffe, program director says: "We get the hard cases that wouldn't otherwise be resolved." When court-ordered into the program, family members are interviewed separately so all sides can express opinions without fear or interruption. Parents are informed of the harm they can cause, if an alternative to destructive behavior is not found. Then, the focus moves on to strategies addressing the needs of the children, as healthy and reliable visitation is mediated. Counseling, parent education programs, and other sources of assistance are offered to the parents; success is determined by how well parents comply with the program and the court order. According to Joffe, "If a healthy relationship is established...we recommend to the court that the non-custodial parent is ready for unsupervised access." In Buffalo, a Salvation Army facility is the usual meeting place for families. Without the threat of conflict, children can begin to enjoy sharing toys, games, crafts or homework with the non-custodial parent. Seen as prevention against juvenile delinquency, the program this year received the N.Y. State Division for Youth Service Program Award. Around the country, the program is a model for similar Salvation Army projects. Local college students study and assist in the program, as interns. Approximately 350-400 children and adults participate in the Buffalo program annually and to date 9,600 children and adults from 2,600 families have been helped. An impressive 92 percent success rate is reported.
