'SUNSHINE' BROWNING LOSES ESTATE APPEAL

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy "Sunshine" Browning Hood, adopted daughter of the late Edward W. "Daddy" Browning, today lost an appeal in her court fight for Browning's $3,000,000 estate.

In her appeal to the intermediate court, Mrs. Hood based her main attack on a so-called charitable trust fund in which the late real estate operator placed under the larger part of his residuary estate. The fund was set up to award annual prizes to persons who achieved distinction in specified fields.

Mrs. Hood contended the fund was not legal because she said the prizes would not be of a charitable nature.

The surrogate's court decision, returned last December, narrowed the long-fought battle over Browning's millions to the two girls—now grown to womanhood and married—whom the eccentric millionaire adopted. They are Mrs. Hood, who lives in Duane, N. C., and Mrs. Frances "Peaches" F. Egan Browning Hynes, who married a Denver, Colo., theater manager.

The mother of the prospective bridegroom, who will marry Ann Lindsay O. Clayton, next tomorrow, meanwhile reached Boston by train.

Modern Menus
By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Are you going to one of the 2000 bowl of Rice Parties to be given tomorrow night, June 17, throughout the United States? The cause is Civilian Relief in China. The purpose is to eat genuine Chinese boiled rice and other dishes of rice.

Out of the timeless wisdom of the mysterious East comes this recipe for boiling rice.

Boiled Rice
The first and absolute essential is thoroughly washing the rice. This must be done in fresh, sparkling, cold water by hand. Wash until there is no cloudiness left in the water using as many as six washings if necessary. The Chinese use an earthenware pot for these important ablutions. The slightly rough interior of such a pot helps the washing and imparts a glossy polish to the rice.

Preparations for 6 persons: 4 cups rice, 10 cups water.

Set covered pot on a quick fire. Let the water come to a rapid, racing boil and keep boiling about 10 minutes or until, on peering under the lid, no water remains above the pure, snowy mound of rice.

Then turn the fire low for 15 minutes. Warning: If you use a thin pot, the rice may burn before boiling.

With a few cups of boiled rice left in the ice box next day, a

BRIDGE GROUP ENTERTAINED BY MRS. WEHRUNG

Centering the individual tables at which an ice course was served were bowls of pansies. Several arrangements of roses and larkspur were used in decorating the entertainment rooms.

Prizes for the afternoon were presented to Mrs. Wiley Pierce for high score for members, to Mrs. C. W. Briscoe for guest high, to Mrs. Otis Pumphrey for second high, and to Mrs. Jim White for traveling.

Members attending were Mmes. Lloyd Bennett, R. E. Dowell, Wiley Pierce, Jim White, Bob Thompson, Howard Logan, Otis Pumphrey, Lark McClinton, and the hostess.

Club guests were Mmes. C. W. Ericson, Frank McAfee, and Paul Kaskishe.

MIND your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. If you are making an automobile trip with friends in their car should you ask them to make frequent stops along the way to call on friends of yours?
2. Is it bad manners to leave papers and refuse at a picnic place?
3. Is it important not to be careless in discarded cigarettes and cigar stubs around a picnic spot?
4. Does a person of good breeding write or carve his name or initials in a public place?
5. Is it good taste for grown-ups to wear shorts on city streets?

What would you do if:

- (a) You have made definite plans for leaving on a summer vacation when you receive word that friends expect to arrive for several days' visit on the day before you expect to depart?
- (b) Give up your vacation plans and stay at home to entertain your guests?
- (c) Tell them to come along and you will turn the house over to them when you leave?
- (d) Tell them you are sorry that you won't be at home then?

Answers
1. No—at least if you want to be asked to go along again.
2. Decidedly.
3. Yes—and anywhere.
4. No.
5. No.

Best "What Would You Do?" solution—(c), although (b) might solve the problem of good friends traveling in a car who need a respite rather than to be entertained.

Pie Supper Will Be Sponsored by Clubs This Evening

A county-wide home demonstration club pie supper will be held this evening at 8:30 o'clock in the county court room.

Various kinds of pies will be auctioned off by E. W. Hogan.

Each club will present a program at the event.

urat for the family would be Ha Chow Fan (fried rice with shrimp).

Ha Chow Fan (Serves 6)

Four cups boiled rice, 5 teaspoons salad or peanut oil, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, 4 scallions chopped fine, 1 cup sliced shrimps, 2 or 3 teaspoons soybean sauce.

Drop oil into frying pan over fire, add shrimps, stirring. Quickly break in eggs and stir, add salt, rice, and continue stirring about 3 minutes. Just before turning off flame, stir in chopped scallions. Turn off flame and add soybean sauce, stirring.

Instead of shrimps, chopped ham, diced roast pork, or sliced fresh crabmeat may be used. With crabmeat, follow same procedure as with shrimps. If ham or diced roast pork is the ingredient, break eggs into pan before adding it.

ROOSEVELT AND FIANCEE PROVIDE RECIPE FOR BEING 'REGULAR'

By RUTH MILLET.
News photographers—not easily impressed—are singing the praises of a young couple, who good-naturedly did as they were told for four hours and a thousand pictures.

The couple is the about-to-be-married John Roosevelt and Anne Lindsay Clark. It is interesting to consider what it was that made the photographers leave the Clark home saying that taking these pre-wedding pictures was fun. That Anne Clark was the most "charming, gracious, considerate and agreeable" (a large order) subject they ever told to smile. And that both young people were "swell" and "regular."

It is interesting because all this praise was for nothing more than good manners—though not the kind of good manners that most young people are concerned about acquiring. As a general thing boys and girls of high school age are desperately afraid of making themselves conspicuous by little mistakes—and not at all concerned with the real courtesy of considering other people's comfort.

So they may be surprised to find out that what really impresses even the hard-to-impress is real, honest to goodness consideration.

Anne Clark told the photographers she was glad to see them. And then she and John Roosevelt said they would do anything the photographers asked—if it was within reason. And they let the photographers give the orders for four hours in the glaring sun.

When it was all over they said they had gotten a kick out of it all, wished the men luck, and shook hands all the way around.

Nothing about all that to make the photographers praise the young couple so highly. Nothing except the fact that they were graciously received and that the young couple appreciated their job and point of view enough to cooperate graciously. And that is about the briefest recipe we know for being "regular."

DINNER-DANCE GIVEN AT CLUB LAST EVENING

An entertaining summer event was the regular monthly dinner and dance which was given at the County Club last evening.

Following the chicken dinner which was served to approximately 80 persons, dancing to the music of Jessie's orchestra provided the entertainment for the remainder of the evening. The capable master of ceremonies was Floyd Hoffman.

Hostesses for the event were Mmes. F. E. Hoffman, Jim Collins, J. M. Hatfield, and R. S. McConnell.

This Man, Joe Murray

BY WILLIAM CORCORAN Copyright, 1938, by William Corcoran; NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOE MURRAY—like a new place, new job, new girl.
HELEN—fell in love hard—
TERRY MALLOW—found love and kept it!
Yesterday: Facing the crisis of unemployment, Joe decides to leave for work in the shipyards, but only over Terry's tearful protests.

CHAPTER XVI
JOE had made for the door but Terry flew there before him. "I'll be good," she said in a small choked voice, fighting for control. "I'll stop. Don't leave me alone the last chance I've got with you." He looked at her. His face was grim, and he was suffering. He looked at her, and then he threw down his hat. He did not say anything; he just stayed there. She did not say anything; she set about preparing her dinner. She regained control, and she ate with him in no appetite but with a quiet, bleakly bland despair.

Late that night she said beside him, into his ear, "Don't be mad at me if I say something. I want to say... will you take me with you?" It was out of the question, he told her. She knew all the reasons.

"Then I won't have you any more!" she said. "No more here close to me? All alone... here? Nobody to amuse Terry, tell Terry what to do, make love to Terry." He did not speak. She crept on his shoulder and cried, very quietly, trying not to arouse him. The sobs died slowly and she was still. Her hands on his shoulder began to clutch him hard; the nails were sharp and cruel. She made a sound, a chaotic, primordial sound of passionate despair, and she kissed him. Taut with the pain of those sharp nails in his flesh he returned the kiss. They were together, in the terrible imminence of parting...

And so Joe Murray took to the road again. Out of one town into another; out of one day into the next. Life had rolled backward, wiping out a wife and home, wiping out even what he had possessed before either: the certainty of work and the freedom of the nation. When he rode to Port Lanning—riding, by the way, on a diversity of conveyances that chance sent along the national highway between—he no longer blew, adrift and lightly; he traveled on a set, grim pilgrimage. He tore up roots and traveled, carrying with him the pain of that.

It was a good job, as jobs go. The shipyard was an immense place. Hundreds worked there, a small regiment; but yet it looked lean and hungry, for not long since they had streamed in of mornings in an army, 10,000 of them. There was a dry dock, and then a wet dock, and acres of great gaunt shops. The dry dock was working, there were two ships in the wet dock, but the ship ways, 10 of them, loomed empty and silent.

There was no building, and Joe was lucky and knew it. How long lucky, he couldn't tell. Men of a hundred trades stood about the gates mornings when he came to work, haunting the closed employment office. He worked and drew good money and sent a large portion of it back to Terry every week. They must save what they could; the future was unknowable. Joe was alone; he lived in a boarding house on a mean street, the cheapest could be found, where his fellows were a raffish, uncouth lot who would have made him one of them if they could, but they could not, for Joe in his turn could not meet them in their chosen ground, which was drinking and women and then more drinking, so long as there was money for it. He walked, and he went to motion pictures, and he read, and he sat thinking. And he was alone.

Terry wrote to him often, sometimes day after day. She had one refrain: she missed him, missed him. She worked steadily, and that was nice, but when she came home alone at night, that was terrible. Yet she was careful not to complain. She kept as busy as she could. She called on his family; she went home with the girls from the mill, she even called a few times at her own old home. She had found a city school where adults could attend at night and she was enrolled. She was learning English literature and French. Not, she said, that she had any use for French or expected to become a bookworm or could hope to be wiser than her Joe, but you never could tell, some day maybe when their babies were growing up she could help them... had she ever told him, they were going to go to college? Joe read these things, and his heart was empty, and he wrote matter-of-fact replies about the shipyard and the town and commended her for her industry and suggested things for her to do and told her to stick it out, she'd come right side up. And he wrote down at the end always that he loved her and missed her and they'd make out somehow. Whereupon he put down his pen in a kind of empty bitterness.

THEN came a letter from her, full of courage and appalled, in which she told him of the lay-off at the mill. She had lost her job! Some of the oldest girls remained, but most of the mill was out. She did not throw herself on him in panic, but discussed immediately her adjustments and plans. She could find something if she looked hard; she didn't need much money, and girls were still hired around because they were cheap. In fact a girl could get a job most anywhere. She had listened to them, and she knew.

She could even, couldn't she, get a job in Port Lanning... and they could be together?

That was not like her; she would, ordinarily, have incontinently come. But she was afraid of him, of that grimness, of that change.

Joe wrote an immediate reply in which he said no, impossible! Then he tore up that letter and did not write another for two days. But when he wrote he still said no, it couldn't be done. It was too risky, too far from home where there was no least hope to fall back on in extremity. His job was still far too chancy. He missed her, but he couldn't allow it.

She thought he was overzealous, lacking in confidence in her. She thought he was really wrong. She argued, daintily and beguilingly, replying.

19 KILLED IN FEUD BETWEEN TWO TOWNS

MEXICO CITY, June 17. (AP)—Flare-up of an old feud between citizens of two towns was reported today to have caused a battle at Yodohino in which 19 persons were killed, 56 injured, 35 abducted and the town looted. Bare dispatches to the war department said the fighting last night in southeastern mountain village in Oaxaca state was the result of a long feud between some residents of Yodohino and a group from Chilapa. Women and children were among the victims of the street battle, fought mostly with "machetas," long, broad-bladed knives. It was feared the kidnaped villagers had been killed. When Yodohino authorities realized they could not quell the fighting they called for troops who pursued the invaders. The mayor of Yodohino said the Chilapa townspeople, joined by Indians, burned many homes, pillaged others and carried off food, personal belongings and even livestock. Some also were looted.

COURTHOUSE ELMS GET FERTILIZER, EARTH

Lee Harris, courthouse custodian, is determined that 11 of his Chinese elm trees on the courthouse square are going to get the best of attention this summer, of all the trees around the square. Workmen today completed construction of a 4-inch curb around the paving surrounding the trees. The space between the curb and the trees is filled with fertilizer and earth. Purpose of the curb is to keep the asphalt paving from encroaching on the dirt area around the trees.

There are five of the trees so treated on the west side of the courthouse and six on the east. When these trees began showing signs of suffering from lack of water two weeks ago, paving was dug up from around the trees and preparations made so that they would receive plenty of air and moisture during the hot summer months.

The first completely air-conditioned train in South America is being put into operation between Buenos Aires and Cordoba by the Central Argentine railway.

Eaves Fans 13 While Pitching One-Hit Game

(By The Associated Press) A one-hit pitching performance by Texarkana's Vallie Eaves and another victory by the fast-traveling Henderson Oilers featured last night's play in the East Texas league.

The leading Marshall Tigers defeated Tyler, 13-7, to retain a two and one-half game margin over second-place Texarkana while Henderson moved within a half-game of third place with an 18-4 win from Jacksonville.

Eaves fanned thirteen batters as Texarkana turned back Longview 2-0. The Oilers scored their runs in the fifth on a walk, triple and double. Tom Fleming held Texarkana to four blows.

Henderson, slammed out sixteen hits in their rout of the Jax while Gib Williams turned in a six-hit pitching exhibition.

Marshall clubbed seventeen hits, shelling Jack Lavis for thirteen hits and nine runs in four innings. Palestine defeated Kilgore, 3-2. Jack Bratcher seeking a homer with one on in the second to pace the Pal's attack.

Louis In Good Shape, Opines Jack Dempsey

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 17 (AP)—Jack Dempsey, No. 1 man of the road company of ex-champions now touring the training camps, says he has the approval of Joe Louis' physical shape.

Jack watched the Negro champion work four fast rounds yesterday and then announced to all and sundry that Joe was in "mighty good shape."

"If he expects to beat Schmeling, though, he'll have to go in and fight harder than he did today," concluded Jack.

WOLCOTT FAVORED TO TAKE 2 FIRSTS IN MINNEAPOLIS MEET

HOUSTON, June 17 (AP)—Not since the days of Claude Bracey, the old Rice Institute pitcher, has a Southwest Conference athlete carted away two first places in the National Collegiate Athletic association meet, but track fans believe it will be gone again tomorrow.

In Freddie Wolcott, low-headed hurdle sensation of Rice Institute, the Southwest has the outstanding timber skimmer in current collegiate competition.

Today, and tomorrow, at Minneapolis, the little West Texan who has smashed six records this season, will be running in the 120-yard high and 220-yard low hurdles. None believe he will be pressed in the high sticks event, but he has Earl Vickery, defending champion of Southern California, to beat off in the longer low hurdles.

However, Wolcott's best record of 23 seconds flat has been equalled only by Vickery and it appeared to be a two-man race for first place in the lows.

From the University of Texas may come Wolcott's most rugged competition in Boyce Gatewood, sparkling sophomore hurdler who has pushed the Rice racer in every meet this season.

Two other Texas men are threats in the field events. Bulk Hugh Wolfe, discuss chunker who smashed the Central Collegiate mark recently is a threat in that event, while bushy-haired Gilliam Graham, ineligible for Southwest competition because of transfer regulations but a certified competitor in the national, could take away javelin honors. He has hurled the spear better than 220 feet.

Rice, too, is counting on E. Y. Steakley, lean footballer, to pick up points in the dashes while Calvin Bell, rugged middle distance runner, is listed among favorites in the 800-yard run.

SCHOOL CHILDREN FINGERPRINTED

Max Rests—Walks 10 Miles, Gives Three Broadcasts

SPECULATOR, N. Y., June 16 (AP)—Max Schmeling finds resting as hard as working at his training camp.

The German challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight crown didn't do any real work yesterday, except a ten-mile jaunt over the roads but three broadcasts, one national, one to England and one to Germany, kept him busy all day.

He takes it easy again today and will box Saturday, Sunday and Monday, his final ring preparation for the fight Wednesday night.

Tulsa Still At Top Of League

(By The Associated Press) Rain and the left-handed slants of Crafty Max Thomas gave the Tulsa Oilers a half-game lead over the Texas League field today.

A downpour kept Beaumont's second place Exporters idle while Thomas was winning his twelfth game of the season in turning back San Antonio, 5-1, last night. It gave Thomas a two-game margin in pitching victories over any other Texas League twirler.

He held the Missions to seven hits while his mates pounded the agate for a even dozen.

GULDAHL WINS 3RD STRAIGHT WESTERN OPEN

ST. LOUIS, June 17. (AP)—Ralph Guldahl did it again. And he bears the title of the greatest man in golf today after another of his blistering stretch finishes in the Western Open championship yesterday.

The burly Texan drew to two pairs—successive U. S. Open and Western victories—and came up with his third straight western conquest for a full house. Birdie and eagle feathers fairly flew along Ralph's final 18-hole trial as he boomed in with a six-under-par 65 for a 4-round total of 279.

The champion never was behind but at every turn he found the field of sharpshooters placing their shots dangerously close.

Siammin' Sammy Speed was the last to wilt under the pressure. He rounded the three-quarter flag with a putt that Guldahl had lost his putting touch and came in with 288, two over par, for second money.

Ray Mangrum of Dayton, O., who eased unnoticed to a 144 level with the round-shouldered king at the 36-hole mark, faded with a pair of 76s into a three-way tie for tenth with Horton Smith and Harry Cooper.

Guldahl was out in 34, one under regulation figures on his last round.

JUNIOR LEAGUE MANAGERS TO MEET TONIGHT

Final plans for beginning play in the two junior softball leagues will be made tonight when sponsors and managers meet in the city hall at 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. Joseph Wondert will preside.

One group will be for boys 17 years and under with the second league for boys 18 to 21 inclusive.

Six teams have already filed for entry in the junior league and four in the intermediate league. Efforts are being made to secure eight junior and six intermediate teams.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion and Phillips will enter teams in each league. Furr food is the fourth team in the intermediate league.

Any sponsor or manager desiring to enter a team in either group must be at tonight's meeting because plans are to close the league to entries tonight when schedules will probably be drawn up.

Nancy Wynne, Australia's Best, May be In News

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—The first thing you notice about Nancy Wynne is the Australia's hope for the Wimbledon title, is her tennis hat, which looks like one fished out of the bottom of an abandoned golf locker.

After that, you probably notice that:

1. She weighs about 140 pounds and puts every ounce of it into every stroke she hits.

2. She's just good enough, when she's in the mood, to beat anybody in the world.

3. She's not often in the mood. She arrived here this spring, heralded as the finest 21-year-old player ever developed in Australia. The first thing she did was to produce this big floppy white hat. Next she did something even more startling—she eliminated Ann Linns, unofficially the world's No. 1 in 1937, from the British hard court championship.

She Didn't Care After that, she became downright indifferent, and lost in the finals of the British championship to Peggy Scriven, and this same indifference has characterized her play ever since.

On the court, she is positively disdainful. She looks as if the chief object were to get it over with, so she lashes away, and if she happens to be hitting them, she wins in a hurry. If she's not hitting them, it is soon over and she is out.

It is just this quality that makes her so dangerous at Wimbledon. For a girl so young, she is superbly confident. She is not impressed by the idea of playing in the center court, or by the name of her opponent. If it happens to be Helen Wills Moody, that's all right with her.

Third Round Pairings For Tournament Posted

ROUGH BOUTS ON CARD FOR MONDAY NIGHT

Promoter Cliff B. Chambers will change things up at his wrestling arena Monday night by staging two rough and one scientific battles. Last week it was the reverse.

The rough battles will open in the preliminary when Sterling "Dizzy Ropes" Davis meet Don Hill. Hill is clean and scientific until forced to protect himself and then he can go after his opponent which probably means that Davis will be in for a busy night if his sneaky rope tricks anger Hill.

Science will be paramount in the battle between Gust Johnson and Blacksmith Pedigo in the semi-final. Johnson will pit his knowledge and cunning against Pedigo's almost superhuman strength.

The headline attraction was scheduled a few weeks ago but failed to materialize. It will be Soldier Gomer Thomas, late of Uncle Sam's army, meeting Count Seigfried von Bromberg, recently of Hitler's army of goosesteppers.

Although the meeting will have no official bearing on the army titles, it will be for the unofficial championship of the two war bodies.

Von Bromberg is a roughster and he admits it. Thomas is a clean, scientific battler who has been improving with every appearance. So well has he performed during his last three bouts that he is being classed as the favorite in his battle with the big blond German.

Hostilities will begin at 8:30 o'clock at the Pampa Athletic arena.

Louis Promises To Wade Right Into "Smellin"

NE WYORK, June 17. (AP)—Bald Jack Blackburn, having tried for a solid month to make a lip-tearing fighter out of Champion Joe Louis, and with some success, has taken off the pressure now and has told Joe to go ahead and make his kind of kind of fight against Max Schmeling, next Wednesday.

At yesterday's workout at Pompton Lakes, the negro trainer told Joe: "All right, Chappie, I've taught you 'all I know how. From now on you just fight the best you know how, and that'll be good enough."

And that, frankly, is as much as anybody knows about the sort of battle the big amber-colored boy will wage.

Joe, himself, still says stoutly that he is going to wade into "Smellin" from the first bell and knock him kicking, no matter how many times he gets cracked by the German's right hand.

One of his managers, suave John Roxborough, assures you, too, that Louis will wrap his man up within two or three rounds but Julian Black, who is just as much manager as Roxborough, talks much more temperately. "Joe, if he wants to, can cut Schmeling to pieces with his left," he said.

FORMATION OF COTTON COUNCIL BEGINS TODAY

Ragged Is Right

CLEVELAND, Miss., June 17 (AP)—Oscar Johnston, Scott Miles, cotton planter and former head of the government cotton pool, began organizing the cotton interests today into a national cotton council to restore the world markets for cotton.

A meeting of some 300 producers and processors from the southern states voted Johnston temporary head of the council and gave him full authority to go ahead with permanent organization.

Governor Hugh White of Mississippi assured the cotton men that he would ask the Mississippi legislature, called into session June 27, to lend financial support to the council and other speakers pledged support of their states in the movement.

Johnston outlined the objectives of the council primarily to develop and enlarge world markets for the south's principal crop and to encourage scientific research to develop new uses for cotton and increase its consumption.

He also said the council would sponsor legislation to promote consumption of cotton and cottonseed products throughout the world and seek to coordinate producers, ginners, oil mill operators, warehousemen and cotton merchants into a cooperative effort to improve the cotton industry which has been losing export trade.

Above is Exhibit A in one of the season's hottest baseball controversies. It is the slit and torn shirt sleeve formerly worn by Johnny Allen, and the protest against which led to his walking off the field in Boston. Rule 25 in American League restrictions says: "Pitchers will not be permitted to work with ragged shirt sleeves which have the effect of confusing batsmen." Allen was fined $250 for his walkout, but a Cleveland department store gave the Indians' righthander $500 for his old shirt for display purposes.

GOVERNOR APPROVES SETTLEMENT OF LAND

AUSTIN, June 17 (AP)—Governor James V. Allred expressed complete approval today of the settlement entered in the controversy between the state and the Venmex Oil Company of Wichita Falls over title to approximately 345 acres of riverbed land near Wichita Falls.

"We recovered about 60 per cent of the land conveyed to the Venmex in the lease renewal by Land Commissioner William H. McDonald," Allred said. "I figure the state is at least $1,000,000 better off than it would have been if Mr. McDonald's renewal had been allowed to stand."

The governor said the mineral board probably would meet in the near future to take steps toward leasing that portion of the big Wichita riverbed recovered by virtue of the settlement.

Everett L. Looney of Austin, special representative of Governor Allred, worked with the attorney general's department in obtaining the agreed judgment.

The governor pointed out that consumption of a settlement was necessary to obviate high receivership costs.

HAWKEY FUNERAL HELD WEDNESDAY AT HIGGINS

HIGGINS, June 17—Many friends paid their last tribute of respect to Fredrick Henry Hawkey, Wednesday afternoon when funeral services were held at the Methodist church here, with Rev. H. L. Barnett, regular pastor, officiating. Pallbearers included Messrs. Frank Breitkreutz, Ed Hunt, Chas. Heckler, Grover Lewis, Chas. Brown, and L. Earl Dixon, all of Higgins. All the children were present with the exception of Mrs. Gladys Boren of Oceanide, California, who was detained because of illness.

Death came to Mr. Hawkey Monday as a result of internal injuries sustained while at work on his farm here about a week ago when a heavy gate fell upon him.

Born in 1869 in Hanover, Germany, Mr. Hawkey moved the same year with his parents to Ashtabula, Ohio where he spent his boyhood. At seventeen years of age he moved to Newton, Kas., where he was married in 1903 to Lettie Hepler.

Four years later he came with his family to Higgins and established his farm home northwest of town, where he has since resided. Mr. Hawkey was survived by four sons, Charles of Waynoka, Harry and Jack of Los Angeles, and Kenneth, at home.

RURAL LOVER ADMITS DROWNING HUSBAND

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., June 17 (AP)—A rural lover's blurted assertion that "I done it" led to a statement from the widow that she ordered the drowning of her middle-aged husband, county attorney, R. K. Harris said today.

Led before Justice of the Peace E. E. Heyl late yesterday, the widow, Mrs. Essie Matthews, 37, and her admitted lover Leonard Overcast, 37, were charged formally with the murder of Benjamin Franklin Matthews, 52, who died in the muddy waters of a slough on his farm near here Sunday.

The pair waived preliminary hearing and was ordered held without bond for district court.

Harris said the widow told a story of living for a time with her nephew, Jimmy Matthews, then deserting him for Overcast at Oklahoma City, later returning to her husband.

DOMESTIC OIL STOCKS SHOW BIG DECREASE

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—The Bureau of Mines reported today stocks of domestic and foreign crude petroleum at the close of the week ended June 4 totaled 298,266,000 barrels, a net decrease of 2,730,000 barrels compared with the previous week. Stocks of domestic oil decreased 2,522,000 barrels for the week and foreign crude 198,000 barrels.

Daily average production for the week was 3,125,000 barrels or an increase of 10,000 barrels compared with the previous week's level. Runs to stills averaged 3,120,000 barrels daily, compared with 3,165,000 barrels for the preceding week. Daily average imports were 35,000 barrels, compared with 104,000 barrels last week.

DEER FENCED OUT OF SWANKY GOLF COURSE

COLORADO SPRINGS, June 17 (AP)—Golfers at the Broadmoor course don't have to worry about the deer any more.

It used to be the deer came down out of the mountain canyons a good midiron shot across the road from the course where the women's Western Open is being played this week, and make a feeding ground of the swanky links.

They would dig up the fairways and tear up the sand traps with their hoofs.

But now the deer can't get in a high wire fence encircles course and clubhouse.

SENATE APPROVES FARM BENEFIT LEGISLATION

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—The Senate accepted today a House-approved formula for distributing $212,000,000 of farm benefit payments provided in the spending-lending bill.

Only one or two minor points in the big bill remained to be smoothed out when the farm payments were finally agreed upon.

The objective of writing the farm fund in the measure was to assure farmers 75 per cent of a "fair return" on their major crops. The $212,000,000 in an addition to the $500,000,000 previously voted for soil conservation payments.

A MOVE TO LOCK THE DOOR BEFORE THE NAG IS GONE

The Illinois House of Representatives the other day passed a new statute designed to fill in some of the gaps in our legal defense against the so-called sex offender.

This statute, if it finally becomes law, will make it possible for the authorities to lock up a person of criminal sex propensities before any criminal charge has been filed against him. And while this looks like the most obvious kind of common sense, it nevertheless is a power which the authorities do not have now and which they need very much.

For, as things stand, the man who suffers from one of those dark and tragic urges which lead to the most frightful of sex crimes cannot be put away until he has actually committed a crime.

Time and again this sort of story has been told. A man will be arrested for a sex crime of the foulest sort, and the officers will examine his past. They will find that the authorities had their hands on him before the crime, that his tendency toward that kind of offense was perfectly clear, that psychiatrists and plain policemen knew perfectly well that some day he would succumb to his urge and take the life of some helpless woman or child; yet, because he had not then actually done anything there was no law by which he could be put permanently under lock and key.

The law, in other words, was bound to a policy of locking the stable door after the horse was stolen; to carry the metaphor a bit farther, it was not allowed to lock the door beforehand even when it knew that a thief was about to take place. It could act only after the offense.

In ordinary criminal law, of course, it would be monstrously unjust to imprison a man because he might some time in the future commit a crime. But the sex criminal is a creature of a different stripe. He is driven by a tragic tangle in his brain or in his emotional set-up. How infinitely much better for everyone—including himself—to get him out of harm's way before he gives way to this urge and makes a monster of himself!

The Illinois law looks like an intelligent step toward the solution of an extremely pressing and complicated problem.

WHAT'S THIS ONE FOR?

There are probably more organizations for the preservation of this and that, which are actually out for the accomplishment of ends that have nothing to do with the ones that are stated, than there ever were before in the history of the country.

Scratch what appears to be a warrior for human rights and you find instead a warrior against Candidate Joe Doaks, Officeholder Fred Jones, or one of the two leading political parties. And sometimes you find a warrior against the whole country.

Thus, when a group appears which bears unusual ear-marks of a natural inability to agree on a common ulterior motive, that's news. The chances are that such a body means what it says.

A national organization has appeared which calls itself simply "National Re-dedication." Sponsors describe its purpose as the stimulation of the nation's faith in the principles of democracy, and the re-dedication of Americans to the cause of preserving their democratic rights.

Consider the personnel: The director is a poet, Hermann Hagedorn. Discovered among others on the committee are Owen D. Young, Dan Beard, William Allen White, Mary E. Woolley, Herbert Hoover, Alf M. Landon, and Norman Thomas.

Yesteryear In Pampa

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Miss Leta Gillham and Tracy Cary were married in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives at the First Christian Church.

Enthusiasm and interest among the farmers and nearby towns for the Pampa fair which was to be instituted here in the fall, was encouraging, according to George Briggs, manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Twenty-five Pampa motorists were arrested by state highway officers for driving with defective lights.

The May Foreman Carr school of music announced that Miss Amanda Stover, graduate in violin from the state University of Kansas, had been secured as head of the violin department.

Tex's Topics

I've been waiting a long time for this step of progress to be taken. . . And, no doubt you have, too. . . It happens all the time of course. Just as you get settled in the bathtub or just as you begin operations on a couple of pork chops or just as you get settled in an easy chair to read—just at that instant the program you were listening to ceases and something discordant almost bursts your eardrums. . . Heretofore you could either sit there and take it or you could drag yourself over to the radio and change the program.

Now, however, a little gadget hailed as the most radical radio invention since radio itself is about to change all that. One of the leading radio companies is to market an instrument which will make it possible to operate a radio set from any room in the house—and by wireless control. . . The "mystery control" it is called and it is a small unit weighing only 2 1/2 pounds. You can carry it around the house or out into the yard and change stations as you please. The face of the instrument looks like a telephone dial. There are 10 buttons, eight for different stations and two to control volume. There is also a start-stop button.

The unit operates as far as 150 feet from the set and is synchronized with its own radio. . . Of course, if you live within listening distance of Pampa, from where KPDN's transmitter always sends you a pleasing program—you'll have no use for this gadget, because you just naturally leave your dial set at 1310 kilocycles, anyway. . . But, right now it'll be a big help to you nights after KPDN leaves the air.

Had you been envying the members of a few generations from now who would be able to watch moving pictures that had been produced a hundred years before their time? So had a lot of other people. . . But now it turns out that the celluloid hasn't got that kind of staying-power. James R. West, a chemical engineer who has been studying the problem in Hollywood, announces that the master negative of a moving picture lasts about 25 years, and that recopying can be done only three times before the pictures become invisible. . . "I fear that our grandchildren will never see them," he said of contemporary films.

The first emotion the announcement arouses is one of disappointment, but after, a little meditation the agony begins to abate. The mind remembers reactions to revived motion pictures in its own time. It recalls the embarrassment at discovering what kind of eye-wash it used to go into dithers about a decade ago. It meditates on the likely reactions of posterity to its own discovery of what grandpa went for. . . It feels a little better about perishable film. . . The rapidity with which moving picture products become dated is a reminder that the moving picture as an art form is still in its changeable youth. By the time it has achieved adulthood a satisfactory method of preserving film will probably have been discovered, and that—from the standpoint of the man who wants his grandchildren to look up to him—will probably be soon enough.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

Pampa Daily NEWS Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 17—Bulk of the work in the $500,000 monopoly investigation will be done under direction of Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, head of the Department of Justice's anti-trust section.

A galaxy of liberal economists and brain-trusters who worked in the old NRA, vainly protesting what they conceived to be the monopolistic tendency of policies adopted by Gen. Hugh Johnson and Donald Richberg, will function on the economic side of the investigation.

Leon Henderson of WPA, once NRA's chief economist, will play an important role. Dr. Walton Hamilton, member of the NRA board in the post-Johnson period and now professor of law at Yale, has been signed up by Arnold for the summer. Likewise President Dexter Keizer, of Reed College in Oregon, former chief of the NRA Consumer Advisory Board. Dr. Thomas C. Blaisdell, another NRA official who has been studying prices with the National Resources Committee, will collaborate. Other New Deal brain-trusters such as Ben Cohen, Tom Corcoran, Solicitor General Robert Jackson, and Isador Lubin of the Bureau of Labor Statistics will be busy in the background.

Any doubt as to whether the investigation would be a New Deal show was ended when Congress gave the President four-fifths of the money appropriated for allocation as he saw fit. Conclusions and recommendations from the investigation can be at least partially forecast from Roosevelt's monopoly message to Congress, which was written so as to set out the anticipated conclusions in advance.

The primary aim, as a prelude to legislation of various types suggested in that message, will be to show the public, through hearings and other publicity, the defects which New Dealers claim to see in the economic system—beginning with the assumption that free competition now exists only in about half of American industry and that liberty and prosperity are threatened by increasingly concentrated economic power.

Grand Finale

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Owen Davis is the most prolific playwright of the century. He's credited with about 300 plays. That's some seven-and-a-half million words.

But alongside Frank and Anne Hummert, Davis is a slogger who just fritters away his time. The Hummerts head an advertising agency and in that capacity, conceive, write, direct and produce 50-odd radio programs. That means something like 75,000 words a week or the equal, in two years, of Davis' lifetime output.

Of course, if you are going to pin us down, the Hummerts don't write every word. They have a staff. But by the time they get through outlining original ideas, editing, revising original ideas, there isn't a word in the scripts that doesn't belong to them.

The Greenwich, Conn., estate of this couple is a pleasant enough place if it weren't that the Hummerts keep it humming so. It's a bumble.

The Hummerts use the Alexandre Dumas method. They hurry around pushing papers at their hired help, saying: "Develop this." Frank grabs a script from another, scans it, says: "How about doing it this way?" And jots down a whole new scene. Anne grabs a completed first draft and starts rewriting. That sort of thing goes on and on until you get exhausted just watching. But what "that sort of thing" puts in the savings account isn't chicken feed.

Frank is from New Orleans; Anne from Baltimore. Both have done their newspaper stint. . . Anne on the Paris (France) Herald, where she interviewed and became friendly with such international dignitaries as Queen Mary, the former Prince of Wales, Lloyd George and Premier Daladier.

Did Frank meet some interesting people, too? He grins. "I did meet a few, but not exactly the drawing room type like Anne's friends. I rode with the Texas Rangers along the Mexican border for two years. There was, for instance, Bill McDonald, whom President Roosevelt called 'the bravest man in the world.'"

"I started reporting at 20. A friend who had a small advertising agency called me in to do some copy-writing and before you could say 'Bleekett-Sample-Hummert,' I was in the business." (That's Frank's firm; he got in the plug before I could stop him.)

"How did I meet Anne? Well, I needed a secretary. Mr. Sample recommended a young newspaper-woman. I employed her. Her name was Anne Ashenurst. I never could remember it, so I changed it to Hummert."

The five Harvester football boys who are keeping in condition up there this summer are Welby Parish, Glen Nichols, Junior Green, Truman Bumble, Leonard Dull. "Loco chopping is kinda hard, but is compensated by the swell food and cold, restful nights," the letter said. "We are sleeping under four quilts and still feel a little chilly. Several times it has snowed on the highest mountains. It has been raining at intervals all week. . ."

The weather is plenty disagreeable today. It is foggy, and cold as the devil. We are pretty comfortable in the tents. We got up early today and got a couple of bags to ride. We went up on the highest peak around here. The rain clouds were below us." The letter further stated that they had cleared the loco weed off about 50 acres of pasture in two weeks. "Tomorrow, the letter went on, 'we will start clearing the south pasture. Most of it is on the side of a mountain.' Other Harvesters are occupied as follows: Pete Dunaway, working for a local grain elevator; J. W. Graham, working at a filling station; Jack Hesse, working from prison in infection on an arm; Doyle Audis, working in a store near Sunray and practicing throwing passes every day; Bob Audis, working on his father's farm south of town; R. G. Candier, playing softball; Albert Kemp, working for his father on the Tex-Mex ranch; Kenneth Kyle—can't find anything out about him; Melvin Watkins, rough-necking; Bill Stiles, working for his brother, a plaster-stucco contractor, in Roswell; Bobby Karr, working for a gasoline plant here when he works; Carroll Montgomery, L. How's Your Health?

Dosing With Sunshine

Sunlight is strong medicine. Taken in excessive doses, it can cause severe damage, not only making the individual acutely sick, but even permanently affecting his nervous system and other organs.

The effects of sunshine on the human being are many. Psychologically, it is in the main stimulating. Sunshine falling upon the skin produces the equivalent of vitamin D and is effective both in preventing and treating rickets in children.

We know that sunshine has certain subtle and as yet ill-defined effects upon the body and its internal activities. Experiments have shown that when young animals, kept on a diet seriously deficient in vitamins, are exposed to open air and sunshine, they are likely to thrive. But their litter-mates, fed on the same diet and kept in dim light, are sure to grow up stunted and weak.

Moderate exposure to sunshine must be considered essential to good health. But excessive exposure is likely to prove harmful. Sunlight contains a variety of wave lengths, differing in their effects upon the body. Two of the ray groups contained in light are

The Capital Jigsaw

AUSTIN, June 14 (AP)—Strengthening of laws forbidding pollution of public waters probably will be recommended to the general session of the legislature convening in January.

The most important recommendations will come from a committee of the House of Representatives which has made an extensive study of the pollution situation, but other bills will be made by individual legislators.

Rep. Conde R. Hoskins of Gonzalez, chairman of the committee, recently expressed the opinion especially unsavory conditions prevailed in the East Texas oil field, the lower Rio Grande valley and in some large cities. He has not decided, however, what alterations in statutes are needed.

"As far as oil fields are concerned," Hoskins said, "one of the big problems is to place responsibility for pollution. It is not as easy as it seems. A representative of one company told me a few days ago his company was blamed especially for pollution which emanated from other leases."

He has considered the advisability of requiring recipients of drilling permits to give bond that they will abide by anti-pollution regulations.

Objectable conditions have developed in the lower Rio Grande valley as a result of canning plant development, Hoskins explained. A satisfactory method of disposing of plant refuse, he said, had not been discovered, although progress had been made.

Secretary of State Edward Clark says the controversy over the remains of Moses Austin, buried at Potosi, Mo., has certainly done one thing. It has stirred Missourians to greater appreciation of the pioneer colonizer.

At the behest of Gov. Alfred Clark recently went to Potosi, 70 miles southeast of St. Louis, to see whether he could iron out difficulties surrounding Texas' efforts to remove Austin's body to the state cemetery here, but he had little luck.

Potosi officials, who some weeks previously had blocked attempts of a Texas undertaker to exhume the remains, asserted they would continue to resist removal and pointed to strong backing from other residents of Missouri.

Clark was informed more people had visited Austin's grave since the argument started than had done so in the previous 50 years, many of the visitors coming from St. Louis. Many Missouri attorneys were reported to have offered to serve as counsel without charge if Texas should bring a law suit to obtain the body. Persons claiming to be heirs of Austin and opposing the removal have bobbed up in various parts of Missouri and, to cap it all, Potosi citizens are organizing a fund with which to memorialize Austin and to which Texans may be asked to contribute.

"They really appreciate Moses Austin now," Clark said.

After hearing Clark's report, Gov. Alfred said he could well understand the feelings of Missouri people and there would be no law suit.

"I fully understand the feeling of Potosi and Missouri and there should be no ill will between them and citizens of Texas," the governor said.

He exhibited interest in subscription blanks in connection with the drive to build a memorial to Austin and placed in the lapel of his coat one of the buttons being given to subscribers.

In addition, he said, he probably would accept an invitation to attend the dedication of the monument, possibly in September. An invitation which Clark reported Potosi officials would extend.

"If Texas ever gets Austin's remains it will be through the graciousness of Missouri people," the governor said. "There will be no suit."

There is a feeling here that the failure to consummate the removal was due largely to the manner in

BLOCKING OF EXCHANGES

In the book, "The Promises Men Live By," which is one of the books furnished by the Book of the Month Club, Harry Scherman has a closing chapter on "Consider What Can Be Done by The Ordinary Citizen to Help Bring About an Ideal Society."

He comes to the conclusion after a very careful study of business cycles that what we need is to concentrate our attention upon what blocks exchanges of things and services. He says: "The first thing to be done in any thorough-going and rational reform of our present society, is to identify—beyond dispute—those factors and those conditions which encourage on one side, and which block on the other, exchanges of property and labor among men."

It seems hard to conceive how any counsel or advice can be sounder than this. It certainly is a question that needs the study of every person responsible in any way in attempting to enlighten others.

The author also makes this very true statement, "The thoughtless blocking of exchanges, in the supposed interest of a predominating group or groups within the population, is still, as it has always been, the immemorial device of a moral and unintelligent rulers to bulwark themselves in their transitory power."

The author then proceeds to point out that the unblocking of exchange would require some very radical changes in our social customs. He only mentions two things that need to be unblocked, although he says there are many customs that block exchanges that need to be changed. He refers to the tariff between nations as being one of the absurdities that needs correcting. He says it is amazing how customers and laborers can be convinced and persuaded it is to their interest to add a cent to the price of bread by a tariff tax.

Another custom which he believes should be corrected is the habit of large producers who approach a monopoly by keeping the unit price up. We believe the author fails to realize the reason why large producers, like steel, automobiles, and railroads, keep the price up, is undoubtedly because the public so generally believes that unit wages in these industries should be cut. And so long as the public believes this, the producer, no matter how big he may be or how nearly the production is a monopoly, is helpless to reduce the unit price and still retain the capital necessary to later serve society.

If there is anything that the public does need, it is just what Mr. Scherman says, it is a thorough enlightenment on customs that entangle with the free and natural flow of the exchange of goods and services. If there is anything in the world that has caused the depression and prevented the standard of living from improving, it is this interference with the free exchange of goods and services. It has resulted in certain groups receiving several times more per unit for the service they rendered than other groups can receive for the same energy. This tends to permit too many people to get into the work that pays a very high unit wage. So many people get into this particular line that they cannot be kept constantly employed. This idleness reduces production and the whole structure suffers because of this belief that wages do not need to be established on a free competitive basis.

which the attempt was made originally. In recent years the bodies of many pioneer men and women have been re-buried in the Texas cemetery and the work stepped up during the Centennial observance of 1936. Consent of relatives always is obtained and was obtained in the case of Moses Austin. Some descendants of Austin, all of whom it had been thought resided in Texas, agreed to the removal of the state Centennial commission believed it had done everything necessary.
