A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

Suspect leaves wallet

A suspect in the burglary of a car stereo and amplifier from a Van Buren, Ark., tire shop made the job easy for police investigators — he left his wallet behind.

Mark Wayne Toon, 24, of Fort Smith was held on suspicion of breaking or entering, theft of property and criminal mischief after he was picked up Sept. 3.

The day before, police found his wallet at the Van Alma Tire Center after someone vandalized the shop and broke into a car.

Toon was arrested Wednesday after a traffic stop. When questioned about the theft and vandalism, Toon admitted he did it, a Crawford County sheriff's report states.

Offering a varied menu

A 65-year-old man was arrested after being caught brewing a batch of homemade whiskey near three marijuana patches behind his LaFollette, Tenn., home, sheriff's deputies said.

"He had the still behind his residence, close to one of the mountain streams," Campbell County Sheriff Ron McClellan said. "He had a pretty elaborate system, and he was using the stream water to run it. Making moonshine is a dying art."

Authorities got a tip from an informant and began watching Darrell Glandon's home, McClellan said.

When deputies showed up Sunday with a search warrant, Glandon allegedly grabbed two bottles of brew and ran for the woods before officers caught him. The officers found marijuana in the house, the sheriff said.

Glandon was freed on $5,000 bond after being charged with possessing a moonshine still, making an alcoholic beverage, growing marijuana and possessing marijuana for resale.

Muleshoe escapes — barely — by 21-14

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

It took all the Mules to hang on and spoil homecoming for a scrappy Seminole Indian team 21-14 Friday night.

Mule coach David Wood said, "I was worried all week as our kids were trying to heal injuries, and we got more kids banged up tonight.

"This game ranks in the top three games we've played since I've been in Muleshoe. It will go down as one of the pivotal games, and we will look back on this game just as we do the win over River Road in overtime in 1997," Wood said. "Statistically we lost the game, but I never felt like we were losing because of the character of these guys."

The real fireworks came in the fourth quarter with Muleshoe owning a 14-7 lead. Mule quarterback Lincoln Riley opened the period with a 14-yard pass to D.J. Domínguez; back-to-back quick pitches wide to A.J. Flores moved the Mules from their 18 to the Indian 38.

Facing a third and 10 on Seminole's 38, Riley found Stephan Shelburne open in the middle on the 15. Shelburne made the grab and scooted to the end zone to put the Mules up 21-7.

Then the Mule defense stopped the Indians on a fourth and two when Michael Durben and Joel Cowart nabbed Johnny Hawkins one yard short of a first.

A clipping penalty brought back an apparent Seminole touchdown and gave the Indians possession on the Mule 42, but Hawkins quickly put the Indians back within seven.

Seminole had one last shot after forcing the National Fire Prevention Week is Oct. 7-13.

us again of the selfless heroism of firefighters nationwide," Gramm said in announcing the presentation. "But America's firefighters aren't just a hero on one day — they're a hero every day."

The special week is designated for increasing public awareness of firefighters' activities.

Special Thank You

We want to take this opportunity to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all who have been so kind during my retirement. We are especially thankful for the many cards, letters, and gifts, and for the generous contributions so many have made to the "New York" trip on my behalf. What a wonderful and special gift—from students (current and past), parents, and friends—has been provided for this occasion: Your generosity is simply overwhelming. I have enjoyed these many years of teaching in Muleshoe High School, and will always cherish memories of so many activities...but, mostly, of all of the students. So, keep in touch!

Mules to punt from their 36, but the Mule defense held and Muleshoe got the final possession with 1:46 showing.

A holding penalty set the Mules back, but they got the first down and Riley was able to kneel and kill the final seconds.

Earlier in the game, Seminole missed a 47-yard field goal before Riley found Flores coming out of the backfield, and Flores flew downfield for a 78-yard pass and run to put Muleshoe up 7-0.

Hawkins tied the game at seven-all minutes later.

After another failed Mule series, McBee rolled left and Shelburne caught him from behind, punching the ball into the air.

Luis Sánchez snatched the ball and rambled 30 yards to give the Mules their 14-7 half-time lead. "It was a lineman's dream to get the ball and run ... it was great!" he said.

The Mules had 12 first downs and gained only 69 yards on 28 rushes. Riley passed for 206 yards for a total of 275 Mule yards.

Seminole had 198 rushing and 32 passing — a total of 295.

Indians count coup at freshman Mules' expense, 21-6

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

Seminole led the freshman Mules 7-6 at the intermission and added points in the third and fourth periods to halt the Mules' win streak at four and hand Muleshoe a 21-6 defeat.

Claye Tunnell scored the Mules' only touchdown, which came on a 16-yard ramble with 18 seconds left in the first half.

The stress level got high four plays into the final frame, when the Mules forced the Indians to punt. Seminole was called for interference with the Mule punt return man, setting up the Mules on the Seminole 35.

But the Mules could not get their offense untracked, and Barry Morris was stopped short on a fourth and nine. The Indians started on their own 40 and in six plays covered the 60 yards to paydirt for the final points of the night.

The Mules still drove to the Indians 11-yard line with Paul Carrión and Tyler Wood moving the ball on the ground.

Morris, filling in at quarterback, called his own number and scampered nine yards behind his center, Jorge Mendoza. This was the Mules' second visit to the Seminole "red zone" but failed to push into the end zone. The Indians took possession and wiped the final two minutes off the clock.

As the game began, Seminole received the initial kick off and took a 7-0 lead in only five plays that covered 39 yards. The Mules first visit to the Seminole "red zone" came after Claye Tunnell returned the ensuing kick-off to the Mule 39. Denny Bonilla was called on to move the ball to the Indian five, but facing a fourth and five failed to cross the goal line and the Indians took over on their one yard-line.

The Mule defense held the Indians, but Seminole punted out of trouble with a 66-yard punt that rolled dead on the Mules 32, Muleshoe could not move past the Indians' 40, but Carrión stole a pass on the Indians' first play of the series.

Morris and Bonilla advanced the Mules to the Indian 30, where Wood hit Joel Salcido on a play action pass for a 14-yard gain. That set up Tunnell's scoring run.

The Mules' first district game will be at 5:30 p.m. Oct. 11 at Lubbock Cooper against the Pirates.

Curriculum ready for annual World Food Day, Oct. 16

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL
COLLEGE STATION
—October ... falling leaves, cooler temperatures, football games ... as the seasons change and summer's bounty is harvested, the abundance of the winter holiday season beckons.

Unfortunately millions of people worldwide still face hunger — not abundance — every day, no matter what the season. And this year, after the terrorist attacks on Sept. 11, the need is even greater.

World Food Day, celebrated each Oct. 16, honors the founding of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

The event, marked by more than 150 countries, was organized to increase public awareness of hunger in the world and to encourage all people to work against hunger, no matter where it is found.

The observance at Texas A&M University will include a report on the Aggies Can! Drive from noon to 1 p.m. This "new tradition" was organized last year by Aggie Athletes Involved, the Student-Athlete Advisory Committee and Steve McDonnell, associate athletic director.

A World Food Day curriculum, with the theme of "Feeding Minds, Fighting Hunger," has been developed for grades K-12.

Study packets on "Globalization: The Answer or the Problem" and "World Food System: Serving All or Serving None" are available from the International Agricultural Programs office of Texas A&M University.

Working with

McDonnell are Nancy Granovsky, Texas Cooperative Extension family economics specialist; Bill Thomas, director of the Brazos Food Bank; and Rhonda Collins, director of the International Center.

Gaining the extra inch

Muleshoe's A.J. Flores (No. 33) strains for the gain against Tulia on Sept. 28, helping the Mules push their record to 4-0. Flores, who has been one of the team's workhorses so far this season, gained 114 yards on seven carries in the game. The Mules open defense of their district title Friday at home against Lubbock Cooper, widely considered to be one of their main obstacles to another district championship. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Home inspection good when read carefully

Wondering why a pre-purchase home inspection would be needed? It's a no-brainer.

"It's far better to pay a few hundred dollars on a professional home inspection than to risk paying thousands to repair defects later," said Richard Roll, president of American Homeowners Association.

"Homebuyers just need to be careful about choosing an inspector and reading the inspection report," he added.

More than 3/4 of home buyers rely on a pre-purchase inspection to reveal potential problems with their new homes, according to surveys by the National Association of Realtors and American Society of Home Inspectors.

Every inspection should cover all the major systems at a minimum, including plumbing, heating and cooling; the structural conditions, including the roof; and the electrical system.

But is a home inspection infallible? Does it guarantee that a home is a model of perfection? Obviously not.

A home inspection is based on a visual assessment. Even assuming that the inspector is qualified, the most thorough inspection won't reveal hidden conditions or defects that are not apparent to the naked eye.

What might escape the notice of a home inspector?

Perhaps you make your final walkthrough during a heavy rainfall, for example, and a leak that wasn't apparent during the inspection suddenly appears.

Despite the vagaries and pitfalls of standard home inspections, home buyers can reduce their risk by seeking out qualified inspectors who are trained and experienced in spotting problems.

First of all, find out how long the inspector has been in business (several years, hopefully) and then ask the local Better Business Bureau if there is a complaint record on the individual or company.

If the record is clean, get at least three customer references and call them.

Finally, ask if they carry errors and omissions insurance.

When the inspection report is received, make sure it is actually read. Is the information explained clearly and completely?

If any point is not understood, get the inspector to explain it.

More information on any aspect of buying or owning a home is available on the Internet at www.realhome.com.

Tech names mascot for homecoming tilt

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech University has selected a horse to serve as mascot for this year's homecoming activities.

The horse was picked after Sam Jackson, supervisor of the mascot, reviewed several for their ability to work with some of the groups and sounds involved in a football weekend.

The horse, named Ace, is a 16-year-old black gelding quarterhorse owned by Melissa Brillhart of Slaton.

Cheryl Shubert, coordinator of the university's masked rider program, said she hopes the horse can make its first appearance at the Rowdy Raider Rally at noon Friday.

"We want to make sure all the paperwork is completed," Shubert said. "It is our goal to have the masked rider and Ace at the rally. Homecoming weekend is an excellent opportunity to observe Ace in a variety of situations. He did well in our initial stages."

No decision has been made on a permanent mascot.

TOPS NEWS

TOPS No. 34 leader Laverne James led the prayer and pledge at the Oct. 4 meeting, held at the Muleshoe Church of Christ.

Alma Robertson led both the opening and closing TOPS songs.

The previous week's minutes were read by Joline Miller in the absence of Tommie Fulcher, secretary. They were approved as read.

Weight recorders Linda White and Alene Bryant called the roll and conducted the weigh-in. Nine members were present.

Weekly and monthly reports were given. In the weekly one, Miller was the best loser, with a tie between James and White for first runner-up. Moily Davis and Jewel Peeler tied for second runner-up.

In the monthly report, Davis was the best loser and Polly Otwell first runner-up. The second runner-up was Peeler. Robertson was the best K.O.P.S. loser in the monthly report.

James' program was about what works and what doesn't when it comes to losing weight. And why is another question to be considered.

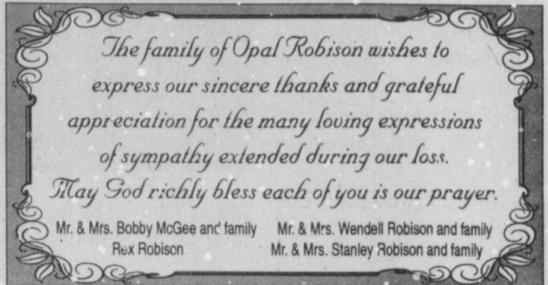

There are reported to be at least 50 million Americans who wage a battle of the bulge.

Exercise in moderation, such as walking at a leisurely pace, is a great way to not only trim up but to eventually lose unwanted pounds. Walking at a pace that allows one to talk while walking is considered optimum.

Other weight-loss ideas include keeping a food journal to write down what is eaten each day. It can be a big help in showing where problems might lie, and an effective calorie counter, too.

The next meeting is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. Oct. 11 at the same site. Visitors are welcome.

Junior varsity vs. Tulia

Seminole edges JV Mules 9-7

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

It took Seminole 39 minutes and 56 seconds to do something no other team had done during the 2001 football season: beat the junior varsity Mules.

As the final horn was sounding, the football was sailing between the up-rights to give the Indians three points and a 9-7 victory over the JV Mules.

Leading up to the finale, Tatom Heathington ran down a Seminole back and dragged him out of bounds on the Mule five. A clipping penalty moved the Indians back to the Mule 15, and a stingy Muleshoe defense held. The Mules got the ball on their 37 with nine minutes left in the game.

Joseph Gonzales and Josué Sigala marched the Mules to the Seminole 10. Landon Sheets rolled left on an option play and an Indian tipped the pitch back to Sheets. He scrambled eight yards to put the Mules on the Seminole two — with three downs to push the ball over.

The Indians held the Mules, and with 3:42 remaining in the game Seminole opened shop on the Mule five.

With only a minute on the clock and the Indians at mid-field, Seminole began to through on every down. Kyle Yell caught an Indian receiver from behind on the Mule 10 to save a touchdown with only 19 seconds left.

Andy Scott made a stop on the seven-yard line, and an incomplete pass stopped the clock with four seconds remaining. The ball was resting on the Mule seven.

A bad snap had stopped the Indians' first-half extra-point kick trying to tie the game in the first half, but the snap for the 24-yard field goal attempt was perfect. So was the kick that ended the game with the Mules coming up short.

At the start of the game, the Mules had kicked off, and right away forced the Indians to punt. Gonzales returned the ball to the Mule 40. Mixing in a Ryan Marricle dive with Sheets and Gonzales on the option, the Mules advanced to the Indians' five. Sheets finished the 11-play, 60-yard drive with a five-yard sprint around left end for the first score of the night.

Miguel Nuñez kicked the extra point, which turned out to be the Mules' final tally of the night.

The, with six minutes left in the first half, the Indians intercepted a Sheets pass and returned the ball to their 34. In six plays, Seminole traveled 66 yards and scored its only touchdown on a one-yard dive, cutting the Mule lead to 7-6.

The Mules open district play Thursday when they take on Lubbock Cooper's Pirates at Cooper.

Baylor constructing mouse model for AIDS

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

HOUSTON — A mouse model for developing a safe and effective vaccine for HIV/AIDS is being pursued by researchers at Baylor College of Medicine.

"The approach is unique because it uses the virus to help identify genes that play a role in HIV replication," said Dr. Richard E. Sutton, an assistant professor in the department of molecular virology and microbiology and a member of the Center for Cell and Gene Therapy at Baylor.

Although scientists have determined that mice lack the receptor and the co-receptor for HIV, the so-called "keys" that unlock the cell to the virus, they have been unable to grow HIV in mouse cells even with the addition of three human proteins that mouse cells lack.

It appears that now the major problem is getting infectious virus out of those cells. The project uses two genetic approaches to isolate factors that would allow HIV to replicate in mouse cells.

The first procedure is aimed at identifying material present in human cells that does not exist in mouse cells. A modified version of HIV was placed in mouse cells, each containing a single human chromosome, and that virus was then recovered from those cells. Certain cell lines produced up to 75-fold more virus than expected.

"This approach will allow us to determine how many genes are missing and perhaps pinpoint them, especially given the powerful tools developed for the human genome project," Sutton said.

The second method involves using a "ping pong" method where defective HIV, each containing a distinct human gene, is transferred first into mouse cells. The virus is recovered and placed into human cells in order to grow larger amounts. This pattern is repeated as long as the amount of HIV increases.

"After completing several cycles, we've discovered that the amount of virus being released from the mouse cells is increasing, approximately 20-fold," Sutton said.

"This increase is promising. We hope now to recover the human genes and see if and how they function in assisting HIV growth, especially at the biochemical level. If we can better understand how the virus functions and what it needs inside of the human cell, we may be able to use that information against the virus," he said.

"We hope to one day have a better understanding of how HIV replicates, new therapeutic targets for HIV, and a useful small animal model for HIV study and AIDS vaccine testing," Sutton said.

Emergency Preparedness Checklist

The next time disaster strikes, you may not have much time to act. Prepare now for a sudden emergency.

Learn how to protect yourself and cope with disaster by planning ahead. This checklist will help you get started. Discuss these ideas with your family, then prepare an emergency plan. Post the plan where everyone will see it—on the refrigerator or bulletin board.

For additional information about how to prepare for hazards in your community, contact your local emergency management or civil defense office and American Red Cross chapter.

Emergency Checklist

Call Your Emergency Management Office or American Red Cross Chapter

- Find out which disasters could occur in your area.
- Ask how to prepare for each disaster.
- Ask how you would be warned of an emergency.
- Learn your community's evacuation routes.
- Ask about special assistance for elderly or disabled persons.

Also....

- Ask your workplace about emergency plans.
- Learn about emergency plans for your children's school or day care center.

Create an Emergency Plan

- Meet with household members. Discuss with children the dangers of fire, severe weather, earthquakes and other emergencies.
- Discuss how to respond to each disaster that could occur.
- Discuss what to do about power outages and personal injuries.
- Draw a floor plan of your home. Mark two escape routes from each room.
- Learn how to turn off the water, gas and electricity at main switches.
- Post emergency telephone numbers near telephones.
- Teach children how and when to call 911, police and fire.
- Instruct household members to turn on the radio for emergency information.
- Pick one out-of-state and one local friend or relative for family members to call if separated by disaster (it is often easier to call out-of-state than within the affected area).
- Teach children how to make long distance telephone calls.
- Pick two meeting places.

1) A place near your home in case of a fire.
2) A place outside your neighborhood in case you cannot return home after a disaster.

- Take a basic first aid and CPR class.
- Keep family records in a water and fire-proof container.

Prepare a Disaster Supplies Kit

Assemble a supply you might need in an evacuation. Store them in an easy-to-carry container such as a backpack or duffel bag.

Include:

- A supply of water (one gallon per person per day). Store water in sealed, unbreakable containers. Identify the storage date and replace every six months.
- A supply of non-perishable packaged or canned food and a non-electric can opener.
- A change of clothing, rain gear and sturdy shoes.
- Blankets or sleeping bags.
- A first aid kit and prescription medications.
- An extra pair of glasses.
- A battery-powered radio, flashlight and plenty of extra batteries.
- Credit cards and cash.
- An extra set of car keys.
- A list of family physicians.
- A list of important family information; the style and serial number of medical devices such as pacemakers.
- Special items for infants, elderly or disabled family members.

HERITAGE FOUNDATION

Area citizens celebrated their heritage Sept. 29 during the annual membership meeting of the Muleshoe Heritage Foundation.

Guests enjoyed western-style entertainment, ice cream (made by Mike and Teresa Slayden and served using a tractor), cake, and coffee made over the Heritage Center's open grate and served by members of the foundation board and the Student-Community Action Club.

Eagle Scout Casey Hall led the Pledge of Allegiance, which was followed by the singing of the national anthem. Mayor Victor Leal gave the invocation and commented on the beauty of the Heritage Center.

Wells Hall, board president, introduced the board members, recognized residents of southern Bailey County for their recent participation in the center, and thanked the county judge and commissioners for their cooperation, which includes a recent donation of property adjacent to the center. He also thanked Jack Rennels for videotaping the program for Channel 6.

Dan Throckmorton,

board vice president, recognized workers at the center's Thrift Shop (under the direction of Vivian White), the student club (which has supported the center since its inception), Channel 6 and the local newspaper for their advertising of the event, and the community for its support.

He also thanked financial supporters of the Tour de Muleshoe bike ride, Five Area Telephone Cooperative, First Bank, Muleshoe State Bank, Leal's Restaurant, United Supermarkets and Bamert Seed Co.

Hall then introduced

Carmen Flores, president of the student group, who recognized the other student officers and the club sponsors, Gina and Chris Mardis and Jean Allison. She also presented Hall with a check for $1,200 to be used at the discretion of the board.

White then recognized Thrift Shop workers Ladene Spears, LaNell Stancell, Harold and Mary Jo Burge, Peggy Bates, Shirley White, Ollie Cox, Janet Fene, Laverne Smyer and other part-time workers. The shop pays the center's day-to-day expenses.

Hall reported on the center's past year, including the purchase of the Jack Dunham property to give the center highway frontage; the county's donation of property; the clearing of an old building on the Dunham property by county commissioners; the bike ride; and the Old-Fashioned Christmas Open House at the center.

He noted that the center hosted many school and individual tours, weddings, reunions, business meetings, senior citizen activities, Red Raider Day and other events.

He also discussed the potential acquisition of buildings from the southern part of the county, including the Virginia City Hotel, the one-room Stegall school building and the Figure 4 ranch house.

After the meeting, there was square dancing organized by the Muleshoe Square Dance Club and its president, Frank McCamish, along with carriage rides offered by the Whiteheads of Morton.

The evening concluded with an old-fashioned ball in the Janes ranch house. Sandy Vandevender served as DJ with western swing music. James and Betty Glaze dazzled the crowd with jitterbugging.

Self-Righteousness Is Never Very Pretty

Few of us will ever forget September 11, 2001, and the images burned into our minds of the World Trade Center towers falling in flames. I know I won't. But on a far lesser scale, and in many ways insignificant compared to the myriad images of the pain and suffering caused by terrorists' hatred of America, another image has been bothering me. In its own way, I think it is very significant, and I'm not sure what to do with it.

Jerry Falwell, you may recall, had made some comments indicating his opinion that the terror-and it was the only way he could keep from looking worse.

Falwell aside, lots of TV preacher types bother me. I can't imagine why anyone would willingly spend time watching them and their makeup-caked wives in front of unbelievably gawdy sets offering what seems to be a cheap and tawdry caricature of Christianity.

But self-righteousness on the set of Good Morning America isn't very pretty, either. I like her, but before she was finished verbally lashing him, I think Sawyer came off looking at least as self-righteous as Falwell ever has. Odd, isn't it?

And I'm left wondering—how, especially right now, can Christians speak in ways that lift up what is good and right and deeply true, without seeming self-righteous? How can we say, and not be misunderstood, that whatever the unseen roots of the terrible events of Sept. 11, this is not only a time for genuine patriotism but that those who love this land most deeply (and there is so much in it still worthy of our love!) should also recognize a time for some genuine national repentance and humility of the best and strongest sort? At the very least, as we stand on the brink of war and much in need of God's blessing, it seems to me this would be a great time not to flaunt on the airwaves, at the movies, and in our society in general that of which we should be most deeply ashamed.

Rudolph Giuliani made a good speech on Saturday Night Live. He's led New York tirelessly in these weeks. But I must say, I much preferred President Bush's speech in the National Cathedral. We've spent enough time bowing in the wrong temple before the wrong gods.

ist attack was probably God's judgment on America for its wickedness, and he went on to list specifically some behaviors and some groups as examples. Those comments earned him a "guest" slot on Good Morning America where Diane Sawyer hardly paused to mutter a "good morning" to her guest before she force-fed Falwell crow for breakfast and pretty much verbally cleaned and gutted him on morning TV.

I have never known what to make of Falwell. I do know that I'm not much interested in being compared to him. I do know that any grains of truth perhaps contained in what he said were completely obliterated by the way he said it or, at least, the way his words were reported. To his credit, I think he ate crow fairly well. Quietly. Humbly. Offering nothing but apology. Which was wise. He already looked bad,
