Union Members Still On Strike

All but about 100 Pampa area members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union (OCAW) have responded to a strike call issued by the union one minute after midnight Friday.

The strike is part of the first nationwide petrochemical walkout in 16 years.

Häger Patton, international representative of the Pampa, Borger and Dumas locals of the OCAW, told the Pampa News today that all but "three small groups in the Pampa area have responded to the strike call."

He refused to identify the groups but said they numbered about 100 men.

"We had some groups join the strike later Saturday and we expect to have some more join at the end of the daylight shift today," Patton said.

The strike affects only petrochemical workers who are members of the OCAW and does not include union members who work for Cabot Corporation here.

An estimated 350-400 Pampa area OCAW members received the strike call and an estimated 315 in Borger and Dumas were affected.

Pampa area units affected by the strike include Cities Service gasoline and production departments, Skelly natural gas processing plants and manufacturing departments, and Sinclair production.

Communists Warn Nixon Not To Expect Changes

Johnson Makes Plans for Final Weeks in Office

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson called in Democratic congressional leaders today to complete plans for his final two weeks in the White House.

High on the agenda at the breakfast meeting: the President's plans for delivering his final state of the union and budget messages to Congress before leaving office Jan. 20.

On the guest list were Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield; Mansfield's new assistant, Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, who wrestled the job from Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana; Sen. Robert Byrd, secretary to senate Democrats; Speaker John McCormack; Rep. Carl Albert, the House Democratic leader, and Rep. Hale Boggs, Albert's assistant.

Active Role

The breakfast table talk also was likely to drift to the Democratic Party's role during the new administration—a role that one Democrat already has said should be an active one.

Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., suggested Sunday the Democrats should float their own legislative program in Congress, regardless of what the new team in the White House comes up with.

"I think we need to reach out and bring in Hubert Humphrey and Gene McCarthy (and) get together a Democratic program that's presented by our leaders in Congress," Udall told UPI in an interview.

Johnson worked quietly in his White House office Sunday on the final few decisions he has to make. Nearby, carpenters hammered around the clock on stands for the Nixon inauguration parade.

Reject Latest Offers At Breaking Impasse

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam today warned President-elect Richard M. Nixon the nomination of a new U.S. delegation chief will not change the issue in the Vietnam negotiations.

Nguyen Thanh Le, the North Vietnam delegation spokesman, flatly dismissed the appointment of Henry Cabot Lodge to succeed W. Averell Harriman as "an internal U.S. problem."

"We have said repeatedly that if the United States sincerely wants to solve the Vietnam problem it must stop its aggression," Le told a news conference. "Thirty-four million Vietnamese will fight until total victory."

Asked to outline the position of Hanoi and its Viet Cong ally, Le rejected the latest allied procedural offers aimed at breaking the two-month impasse over the opening of the broadened Vietnamese peace talks. He served notice that the National Liberation Front (NLF), the political branch of the Viet Cong, must be admitted as an equal partner over Saigon's firm objections.

Accused Saigon

Aiming his fire at Saigon in the hope of widening differences between Washington and South Vietnam, Le repeatedly blamed South Vietnamese "puppet" leaders for trying to torpedo the talks.

"They hope to prolong their lives," he said.

Le said Hanoi and the Viet Cong maintained their latest (See COMMUNISTS, Page 3)

Nixon Selects Lodge To Head Negotiations

NEW YORK (UPI)—President-elect Richard M. Nixon's selection of Henry Cabot Lodge to head the American negotiating team in Paris should send a clear signal to Hanoi that the bargaining will be tough.

Nixon has taken several steps both before and since his election to let North Vietnam know there will be no softening of the American position on Vietnam when he takes over.

But none of the signals could have been plainer than his appointment of Lodge as his special representative and chief negotiator.

The 66-year-old diplomat, as ambassador to Saigon, presided over the buildup of American strength in Vietnam and guided the U.S. effort there during three and a half of the most critical years in the conflict.

They were years of unstinting support of the Saigon government.

Propaganda organs of both the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese repeatedly attacked

Lodge while he was in Saigon, characterizing him as one of the chief architects of "American aggression."

His hard line position on Vietnam should please South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, although during his days in Saigon, Lodge was closer to Thieu's rival, Nguyen Cao Ky, than to Thieu.

Ky now heads the South Vietnamese delegation to Paris. The president-elect announced Lodge's appointment along with three other top members of the negotiating team Sunday. He cited Lodge's experience in Vietnam and the seven years he served as American ambassador in the United Nations as having produced "the finest and most pertinent qualities of experience" for the difficult negotiating task.

Named as Lodge's deputy and given the personal rank of ambassador was Lawrence E. Walsh, 57, a lawyer and former federal judge with little diplo-

Lebanon Begins Study Of Compulsory Service

By United Press International

The Lebanese high command today ordered the strengthening of Lebanon's military defenses along the border with Israel while the Lebanese government began study of a compulsory military service bill that could bring 100,000 new men into the army this year.

The two moves followed increasing tension and a series of clashes along the border between Lebanon and Israel following the Israeli attack on the Beirut International Airport. Lebanon has accused Israel of frequent violations of the border area, by sending in fighter-bombers.

Lebanon reported its representatives held a recent border meeting with Israeli representatives but called it a "technical meeting" which had nothing to do with efforts to lower tensions along the frontier. Israeli government sources in Jerusalem also reported such a meeting.

Israel and Lebanon did not fight during the 1967 June war but there have been a series of border skirmishes and artillery duels. The border has been quiet for three days but Israeli sources expressed fear Arab guerrillas might be preparing a new onslaught from the heavily wooded border area that is honeycombed with caves.

The army said it had ordered new shelters along the border to defend Lebanese forces against Israeli air attacks and said a maze of trenches would be dug and fortified. Villagers will be trained in the use of arms, the army said.

The military conscription bill resulted in part from unrest among students in Lebanon. At least 15,000 have gone on strike to dramatize demands for a tougher line against Israel. The new bill would make possible the callup of 70,000 to 100,000 draftees the first year. Youths reaching 18 would be eligible for 12 months service.

Egypt meanwhile joined Jordan in seeking help from the United States, the Soviet Union and other major powers in bringing peace to the Middle East. But at the same time diplomatic sources reported Russia, despite a reported peace offensive, was not prepared to impose an arms embargo on the Middle East.

In Cairo, informed sources said President Gamal Abdel Nasser's government sent its request for aid through Gunnar Jarring, the United Nations' peace envoy in the Middle East.

In London, Jordan's King Hussein, who flew to the British capital Sunday for medical treatment, told newsmen, "We (See LEBANON, Page 3)

Sirhan In Realistic Mood Before Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sirhan B. Sirhan was described today as being in an eager but "realistic mood" on the eve of his trial for the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The tightest security in the history of American courts was being marshalled for the murder trial beginning Tuesday morning on the 8th floor of the Los Angeles County Hall of Justice, not only to protect Sirhan but also the judge, jury, attorneys and witnesses.

Sirhan, who will be escorted daily inside the building under heavy guard in an elevator from his 14th floor cell and through a steel-plated corridor to the courtroom, was reported eager for the proceedings to begin after seven months imprisonment since Kennedy was fatally wounded.

A member of the defense staff who saw Sirhan during the weekend was asked what the 24-year-old Jordanian immigrant thought of his chances in the face of the overwhelming eyewitness evidence upon which the prosecution is basing a charge of first degree murder carrying a maximum penalty of death in the California gas chamber.

Sirhan Realistic

"We have been realistic with him all along and he is in a realistic mood," the defense aide said.

"He has been very cooperative and helpful in preparing his case and wants to get it underway. His frame of mind is about what you would expect of anyone charged with a capital crime."

Another of Sirhan's attorneys, Emile Zola Berman of New York, has said candidly that the principal objective of the defense is to save Sirhan from execution.

Death Threats

Sirhan has received dozens of death threats through the mail since the death of Kennedy, who was shot June 5 in the Ambassador Hotel minutes after he spoke to a crowd celebrating his victory in the California Presidential Primary. Superior court Judge Herbert V. Walker, who will preside over the case, revealed that he also had received a letter suggesting he better "see that my life insurance is paid up."

Once the jury is selected, its members will be locked up nightly in a hotel during the expected three months of trial.

State Officials Investigating Reform School Mistreatment

WACO (UPI)—State Rep. Vernon Stewart of Wichita Falls said early today he detectors showed guards at Gatesville State School slapped five youths kept in solitary confinement "but did so to disarm and control them."

The statement came after a six-hour meeting with Dr. James Turman, director of the Texas Youth Council, the state agency in charge of training schools, Louis Henna of Round Rock, Tex., a TYC commissioner, and State Rep. Bob Salter of Gatesville.

The five youngsters and five supervisors from the school were brought to Waco early Sunday for lie detector tests at the Department of Public Safety regional headquarters after Lt. Gov.-elect Ben Barnes made a middle of the night trip to the school to investigate personally charges of brutality.

Heads House Panel

Stewart heads a Texas House committee that heard testimony Friday and Saturday of mistreatment of youngsters confined to the correctional school at Gatesville.

Early today Stewart issued a personal statement after conferring with members of his committee by telephone and after the lengthy meeting with Turman, Henna and Salter. Salter is not a member of the committee.

"The polygraph (lie detector), given by the DPS, maintained that the guards in the case of these five boys did slap them several times but did so to disarm and control them," Stewart said.

Members of his committee talked with the five Saturday afternoon during a surprise visit to the school. The youngsters were being held in the solitary confinement dormitory at Mountain View School, a maximum security unit surrounded by a double fence topped with barb-

Smoking Causes Couple's Death

BAY CITY, Mich. (UPI)—A couple whose three children died three years ago in a fire caused by careless smoking died Sunday in a fire which had the same cause.

Fire authorities said the bodies of Lawrence Herber, 45, and his wife Thelma, 42, were found in their three-unit apartment which had been gutted by a fire caused by a cigarette left smoldering on a davenport.

Three years ago the couple's children, Marie, 3; Darla, 4, and James, 10, died in a fire also attributed to careless smoking.

House, Senate Meet to Verify Nixon's Election

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House and Senate called a joint session today to verify Richard M. Nixon's election to the presidency and to decide on a rare case of a defecting elector.

The Congress was meeting to officially tally the Electoral College returns which Nixon won with either 301 or 302 votes depending on how the defector's case is decided.

The meeting was set for noon, CST.

The House was meeting in advance of the joint session to take up legislation which would increase the salary of the President from $100,000 to $200,000 a year—the first raise since the $25,000 increase in 1949. Approval appeared assured, and the Senate was expected to follow suit before inauguration day Jan. 20.

In contrast to the usual electoral ballots for president, the House and Senate this year had to decide whether a North Carolinian's vote should remain in the column of third-party candidate George C. Wallace or go to Nixon, to whom the elector was pledged originally.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., mounted the effort to overthrow the vote by Dr. Lloyd W. Bailey of Rocky Mount, N.C.—a Republican elector who swung to Wallace after his district went to the former Alabama governor.

His vote for Wallace when the North Carolina electors members met in December made it 12 votes for Nixon to 1 for Wallace.

Discussing the challenge on a Sunday television interview (Issues and Answers-ABC), Muskie denied that his plan was an effort to sidestep the need for a constitutional amendment to reform the electoral system.

"I want to do what I think we can do... to minimize the risk that in some future presidential election the electoral college will be used to frustrate the popular will," he said.

The three-party situation in the 1968 presidential campaign—raising as it did the possibility of a deadlock and a constitutional crisis—touched off a fresh round of demands for a change in the system.

U.S. Helicopter Rescues Patrol From Red Unit

SAIGON (UPI)—A U.S. Helicopter snatched to safety an outnumbered and embattled U.S. patrol and divebombers swooped in to batter the attacking Communist unit. U.S. spokesmen said today.

The patrol and the jets they called in together killed 38 of the Communists without any U.S. casualties.

The fighting broke out near the Cambodian border Sunday 73 miles north of Saigon when the Americans flushed the Communists out of a jungled infiltration route.

In Saigon, terrorists tried to assassinate South Vietnam's Minister of education today in a grenade attack that killed his chauffeur. Police said they were uncertain whether the motorbike-riding attackers were Viet

Demos Speculate On 1972 Nominee

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield "would not be in the least surprised" if Sen. Edward M. Kennedy emerged with the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

Mansfield also thinks Hubert H. Humphrey will be a power in the party and could get a second chance at the White House.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, who proved an attractive candidate as Humphrey's running mate in 1968, was asked if he might try for the top of the ticket next time out. His reply:

"At least I want to explore it."

With the inauguration of Richard M. Nixon still two weeks away, Mansfield and Muskie made these speculative statements Sunday on separate television interviews (Face the Nation—CBS, and Issues and Answers—ABC).

Mansfield, asked twice if he saw Kennedy as the 1972 nominee, replied both times: "I would not be in the least surprised."

But Mansfield said he did not believe the Massachusetts senator's seizure of the assistant Senate party leadership from Sen. Russell B. Long was a first step toward seeking the presidential nomination.

BULLETIN

SAIGON (UPI)—Terrorists on a motorbike today assassinated South Vietnamese Education Minister Le Minh Tri, 43, and his chauffeur in the country's first political murder in more than a year. The assassins escaped.

The chauffeur died instantly and Tri succumbed 12 hours later to wounds caused by shrapnel from a hand grenade which ripped into his head and stomach, the chief surgeon of Grall Hospital reported. The hand grenade was lobbed into his car in Saigon's morning rush hour.

Cong or personal enemies of the minister.

The U.S. command also announced a new offensive involving 5,000 allied troops in a drive to disrupt Communist supply lines between the abandoned fortress of Khe Sanh and the Laotian border.

DEAR ABBY: Does a young woman have the right to tell an intelligent, eligible, highly successful professional man that she will marry him if and when he loses 35 pounds and quits smoking cigars?

DEAR "ME": The "right" to say what one chooses is one of our cherished freedoms. And do not forget, an intelligent, eligible, highly successful professional man also has that right.

DEAR ABBY: You gave BEWILDERED some excellent advice. She was married to a man who did not want his family to know he was married. I hope she listens to you, and finds out why he is so determined to keep their marriage such a big secret.

I wish that I had had the brains to ask somebody what to do about a husband who did not want his family to know that he was married. When he left me, 18 months later, I found out he had wives living in Montana, Wyoming, California, and another one right here in the same town! Yours truly,

TUESDAY Jan. 7.

Your birthday Tuesday: The coming year will bring you the reputation of being a "fixer-upper" especially in summer and fall. People born on this date simply are not a definable group. Each individual follows his own very personal path.

Every known profession is represented among these "something-else" people.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Romantic ventures run into squally weather. Put your main efforts elsewhere. Money sprouts wings easily today.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): In the course of Tuesday's work, an idea of great interest may crop up. Extend your patience to cover the preoccupation or strong moods of the people you care about.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Creative projects are strongly favored; you may have to give up something. Use every minute, don't dawdle. Your outside interests distract you from home affairs if you let them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Tuesday you are the target for an emotional pitch. Watch your purse and small belongings wherever you go. Take nothing for granted about your appointments, particularly those involving people you love.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): There's little truth in Tuesday's gossip; forget it. Check all arrangements twice; even then surprises are likely. Allow friends the luxury of an irritable mood the moment you don't snarl back.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): New ideas, possibly financial savings aside. Your progress seems easier, your persuasive powers greater later in the day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Many contrary factors are at work. Follow safety rules for avoiding hazards and fire.

Postpone major home-fixing chores and clean-ups. The evening is much lighter, entertainment goes well.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You imagine all sorts of dire events, none of which is apt to come to pass. Avoid asking questions, especially personal ones. You learn much more by letting people express themselves, spontaneously. Be patient and prepared to cancel social contacts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Force no issues. Careless words about money tempt others to try to take advantage. Snap decisions can be faulty. People you love are especially sensitive to your moods now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The way you have organized your affairs comes under pressure. Early, confusing conditions give way to better understanding according to how you project your basic competence and talents. Personal relationships require tact.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Personal plans, original projects, writings are all become confused and entangled in dealing with women and loved ones. Avoid an outright "no" if possible.

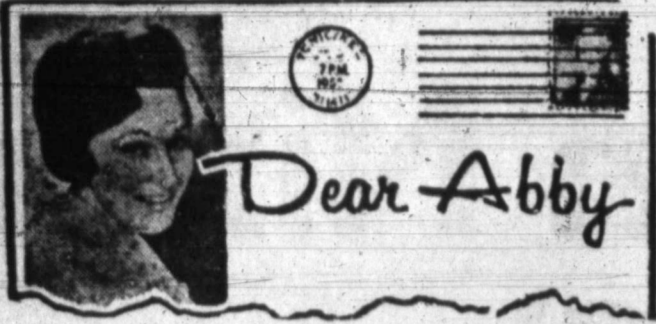

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): You are probably feeling a bit lazy about everything. Rouse yourself to at least show interest in the places the world looks for it most: Your job, family, young people.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Sex is an animal instinct which is normal in ALL animals. Man is an animal, right? So when man feels the natural urge to have sex, what is wrong with following his natural instincts?

JUST CURIOUS: All animals have a natural urge to procreate. The lowest animals "mate" by instinct. Man, the highest of all animals, "mates" not only to procreate, but to express the ultimate in love.

Animals have no capacity for love. One mate is as good as the next. Casual and promiscuous "mating" among civilized people (or simply for one's own selfish sex urge) is not only immoral, it's meaningless. It is for lower animals. It is also for the birds.

DEAR ABBY: This is very important to me. I am 24 and Bobby is 29. He's smart, good looking and has a great personality. Bobby started gambling back in college. He played cards and bet the horses and would win at everything he gambled on. At first it was for fun and now it is his fulltime occupation. Bobby has read extensively on the psychology of gambling, has studied the odds, and claims he bets "scientifically," so he can't lose. Maybe he's been lucky so far, but he always seems to have plenty of money.

My question: Is it possible to marry a gambler and be happy? Some people say gambling is a disease. Also I don't think I'd be proud to say my husband is a professional gambler. Bobby is not lazy. He's a college graduate and could make a good living in many other ways. If you or your readers know anything about this subject, please help me.

BOBBY'S GIRL: The "psychology of gambling" is not all that complicated. It's the "science" of trying to get

"OCAW employees of Skelly's four natural gas processing plants and its manufacturing department went on strike at midnight Saturday. Union employees of Cities Service's gasoline and production department's were to go on strike at 4 p.m. today."
All affected companies in the Pampa area indicated they would continue to operate with supervisory personnel.
The union, whose contracts with oil firms expired Dec. 31, asked for a 72-cent wage increase over the next 23 months and improvements in fringe benefits. Union officials said major companies had offered about half the amount asked.
"There is no indication whether the strike will be long or short," a national union spokesman said. "It's up to the oil companies as to how long it will continue."

Surtax Lag Causes Confusion In Return

EDITOR'S NOTE: It is time to think about the income tax again. This is Chapter One of a series reviewing the regulations, with emphasis on taking advantage of all exclusions and deductions legally due you.

BY RAY DE CRANE
NEA Publications
"More" is the byword of our times.

The worker demands more wages, arguing that everything he buys costs him more. Corporations seek more profits than before; their stockholders constantly demand improvement over the past year's performance. Government is not to be outdone. At all levels—city, county, state and federal—the cry is for more taxes.

You felt the first effects of this year's cry for more on the first day of the new year. On Jan. 1, 1969, your Social Security taxes went up. A year ago you were assessed at the rate of 4.4 per cent on the first $7,800 of earnings. This year's rate: 4.8 per cent. But the big blow is still ahead. When you file your federal income tax return between now and April 15 you will receive the full effect of that 10 per cent surcharge that was in the headlines most of last year. As everyone knows by now, the surcharge is a reality.

It hit you first in mid-July when your withholding deductions from pay checks were increased because of the surcharge. You will find when you complete your tax return that even the increased deductions were not enough.

Congress made the surcharge retroactive to last April 1. But the increased withholding did not begin until July 15. That three and a half month's lag will have to be made up when you file this year's tax return.

If you have been in the habit of paying an additional sum when you file your return you'll pay more this year. If you have been fortunate enough to obtain a refund in the past, it will be smaller this year.

Never before has it been so advisable to be fully informed on your rights so that you can claim every possible deduction, thereby reducing your tax to the lowest level possible. Tax savings offer you the best savings possible, since they represent after-tax money. A $1 saving on your income tax return is worth an additional $1.25 or more in earned income on which a tax is still due.

In this series of articles, of which this is the first, simple, easy-to-understand instructions will be given designed to help you simplify your tax chore and save money in the process.

Clip and save them for the valuable assistance they will offer when you sit down to complete your own return.

NEXT: A choice of three forms.

The government expects you to take advantage of every legal income tax deduction and exclusion. Check yourself. Send name, address and $1 for the 1969 "CUT YOUR OWN TAXES" book. For the first time, it offers a bonus of low-cost computer assistance with your tax. Send name, address and $1 to "Cut Your Own Taxes," in care of Pampa News, P.O. OLEN ANDERSON, shown above, is checking out a car engine on the Dyna-Vision Motor Analyzer. This electronic instrument pin points the trouble spot on any engine so that Olen can get right at the heart of any trouble quickly and get your car back in smooth operating condition again. Olen's Tune-Up & Front End is located at 310 N. Ward, and that's the place to take your car for a real tune-up job.

Olen Anderson Checks Auto Engine Problem

It's tune-up time—time to get your carburetor cleaned and have the ignition checked. Don't wait for trouble to pop up. Do something to prevent it now. Bring your car in to Olen's Tune-Up Brake and Front End, 310 N. Ward, and Olen Anderson can solve all those cold-weather engine problems.

How's your car running? Is it a hard starter? Has it lost its 'vim and vigor'? If so—then it needs a tune-up! At Olen's Tune-Up Brake and Front End, you can get an electronic tune-up that eliminates all guesswork and assures you that your engine will run at peak efficiency.

His electronic test instrument will analyze your engine and show the problems on a TV screen. Let Olen give your engine a test on this analyzer. It will take only minutes to check the condition of your motor and show you what might need correcting. After Olen has checked the electronic condition of your engine, he will give it what every tune-up needs... a thorough carburetor cleaning and adjustment. If the carburetor isn't operating properly, it's impossible to get your car running perfectly. This carburetor cleaning is a very important part of the tune-up procedure, and you can get it done right at Olen's Tune-Up Brake and Front End.

Stop in today. Olen's is located at 310 N. Ward Street. There's a perfect tune-up waiting for you there. Olen has the equipment and know-how to render satisfactory service for the motorist with car troubles.

Olen is well known for his brake and front-end work. If you suspect that these parts of your car are not working properly, drop in and have Olen check them. All work is done to the exact specifications recommended by the manufacturer.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Some professionals from England arrived on NBC-TV during the weekend in a play, "Male of the Species," and reminded us that the acting in our own video series is basically barbaric.

The play, by Welshman Alan Owen, was a trilogy of comedy and drama about a 20-year-old girl's successive relationship with three provocative men—her widower father (Sean Connery), a good-natured young romeo (Michael Caine) and an elegant, wily barrister (Paul Scofield).

Anna Calder-Marshall, a splendid young actress who portrayed Ophelia opposite Tom Courtenay's Hamlet at the Edinburgh Festival, was just right as Owen's heroine, a girl who learns something from each of her relationships and matures through hard experience.

And Sir Laurence Olivier, as the host, gave his relatively few lines as narrator such a stunning sophistication that even his little bit of sharply controlled humor was an acting less for anyone with aspirations for the theater.

Lied To Women
To put it as kindly as possible, all three male principals in "Male of the Species" were, in essence, liars with their women. The beauty of Owen's play, however, was that their lying was essentially of a very human and understandable sort, so that in the end one felt not only a compassion, but rather a liking—or at least a male identification—with the young girl's provokers.

The most convincing, poignant and best-written segment of Friday night's trilogy was the opening episode, concerning the girl's widower father, a proud master carpenter who is catnip to women, enjoys it—yet lies to his daughter about his escapades, and untruthfully tells her that her mother ran off.

As the father, Connery gave the most sustained and perfect portrayal of the night. But he also had the best lines. His putdown in a pub of his attractive female superior—and, in the process, his verbal seduction of her, leading to an obvious affair—was the play's high point, fantastically masculine in its revelation of a man's pride as well as his passion. It was, it should be added, bitingly amusing too.

The daughter finally leaves home when Connery, given another chance by her, continues—by habit now—to lie to her about his trivial escapade. And in the second episode, working in an office typing pool, she meets Caine, the overzealous but basically likeable young casanova. In a put-up job known to the other girls he has romanced, she leads him on, but keeps him at a distance. Yet finally, when he catches on, she realizes she has been taking out on him—to much—the bitterness she has accumulated from the past.

Seeks Youth
In the final episode, the young woman, as a secretary, gets involved with the aging, elegant barrister who toys with the hearts of available girls, almost impersonally, in his endless quest to retain his vanished youth. This was perhaps the weakest segment, yet it still had excellent moments, and Scofield is such an incredible actor that his portrayal sticks in one's mind with its undertone of an almost-mystical, dangerous charm.

In the end, the girl goes back to Caine, and now she is ready to accept life, knowingly and wisely, on a healthy level. Charles Jarrott directed the first two segments, and Anthony Page the last one. Playwright Owen, by the way, wrote the film "A Hard Day's Night" for the Beatles.

Sunday night, NBC offered a new one-hour series, "My

Harvesters Shoot for First

By RON CROSS

Pampa could do several things Tuesday night when they host Tascosa at 8 p.m. in Harvester Field House.

The Harvesters, with a victory, could throw District 4-4A into a three-way tie for first, that is, if Borger can get by Lubbock at Borger.

Too, should the Bulldogs lose and Pampa win, then the Harvesters and Tascosa would be tied for first in the first half of district play with 5-1 records. The Rebels upset Borger, 5-48, Friday night in Amarillo to take over sole possession of first place with a spotless 5-0 record.

Pampa and Borger are tied for second with 4-1 readings and Monterey and Coronado come next at 3-2.

Monterey came alive Friday, as did Amarillo. The Plainsmen smacked Palo Duro, one of the pre-season favorites to win the district, 80-58. Amarillo handled Plainview, 83-62.

There are two other important battles on tap Tuesday night when Monterey hosts Amarillo and Coronado hosts Palo Duro.

Pampa's 9-4 season record is best on the loss side but the Harvesters have played four less games than the other district teams.

Tascosa will bring a 12-5 record to town and the Rebels have won four straight contests. The Rebels, like Pampa, have a good defensive club and play for the good shot on offense.

Only two Tascosa players are averaging in double figures, Mike Cundiff (13.1) and Marc Case (10.6).

Phillips Takes Ponies To Top of SWC Standings

By United Press International

It is sometimes surprising what a difference one player can make in a basketball team.

Last season, Southern Methodist finished in the Southwest Conference cellar with a 5-9 record and an overall mark of just 6-18. Seven of the team's lettermen returned, but SMU went into league play this season again on the bottom with a 3-5 record against outsiders.

But the competition was perhaps the toughest faced by any team in the conference and only one of the losses was top-heavy.

Then, last Saturday afternoon in Fort Worth, coach Bob Pruitt's SMU Mustangs opened their bid for the championship against defending titlist Texas Christian.

TCU outbounded the Ponies 66-39 and took 92 shots from the floor to only 62 by SMU, but SMU won the all-important road game 81-78 and moved into the first full week of league action with a big jump on everybody.

The main reason is sophomore Gene Phillips, a little brother to SMU's team captain, Lynn Phillips, and one of the most widely-sought prepsters in the state two summers ago.

The younger Phillips lived up to all expectations as a freshman by leading the nation with a 35.4 point scoring average and is meshing into the varsity with spectacular success.

He hit 8 of 18 shots from the floor and 10 of 11 at the free throw line for 26 points as SMU outshot TCU 48.4 to 34.8 percent to build his season average to 22.3 points, second in the league.

If he can maintain that pace, SMU may surge from the cellar to the top.

Fry Named State's Senior Coach of Year

DALLAS (UPI)—Hayden Fry, the exuberant optimist who coached Southern Methodist to a much-better-than-expected 7-3 football record and a Bluebonnet Bowl upset of Oklahoma, has been named Texas Senior College Coach of the Year (fall sports) for 1968.

It was the third time in his seven-year tenure at SMU that Fry has been voted the honor by the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Fry won out over Rod Rust, who coached North Texas State to an 8-2 season, and Darrell Royal, whose Texas Longhorns bounced back from a tie and a loss to become one of the nation's strongest teams.

Fry's Mustangs were generally picked to finish seventh or last in Southwest Conference play due to general inexperience, especially at quarterback. But sophomore Chuck Hixson developed as the nation's leading passer and SMU lived up to its promotional billing as "Excitement '68."

The Mustangs lost only to the nation's No. 1, 5 and 9 ranked teams, all of whom won their bowl games—Ohio State, Texas and Arkansas. They finished 5-2 in conference play for third place.

Fry said he was "overwhelmed" at his selection for the second time in three years, and said that it was a climax to "the most pleasing and rewarding year of my coaching career."

"That's because I think we came further from the start in the fall than in 1966 (when he also was chosen for the honor) because I had 15 two-year starters that year and this team was so young and inexperienced."

"To watch this young team grow and progress and top it off with the victory over Oklahoma was most satisfying," he said.

"But, when any head coach comes by such an honor, he will always stop and ask himself, 'how come?' and reflect on the great job his assistants and the players did to make it come true," he concluded.

Beamon, Evans Show Form in American Games

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Bob Beamon says he is going to clear 30 feet in the long jump this year and Lee Evans says he plans to take the indoor world records in the 440, 500 and 600 yards.

The form the two demonstrated to the delight of a crowd of 11,838 at the Cow Palace Saturday night during the All-American games would indicate both will reach their goals.

Beamon and Evans were among America's bigger heroes in the 1968 Olympic Games. Beamon took the world long jump record to 29 feet, 2½ inches in what is described as the greatest performance in the history of track and field while Evans won gold medals with two world record performances.

Evans, the world's greatest quarterback, proved it without a doubt at Mexico City as he won the 400 meter dash in the record time of 43.8. Then, he ran a 44.1 anchor leg as the United States set another world mark of 2:56.1 in the 1,600-meter relay.

Beamon set his world long jump record at Mexico City on his very first try. He did it again—only twice—Saturday at the All-American Games as he won the long jump with a leap of 26-11 and the triple jump at 50-6.

Evans wasn't ecstatic about his performance although he won the 440-yard dash in 49.9 and ran a 47.3 quarter to help San Jose State take the mile relay in 3:21.9. In the relay, he made up 30 yards on the final leg and won it at the wire.

"I wasn't too happy with the way I ran," said Evans, "mostly because I didn't feel too strong. I've had the flu and it slowed down my training."

Then Evans explained how he expects to compete at longer distances on the indoor circuit this year because he wants the world records for the 440, 500 and 600 yard dashes.

"I'm going to shoot for all of them," he said. "I want to wipe out all those records and I may even go on to the 800, 1000 and the mile, but that will have to wait."

The All-American games got the 1969 season off to a good start, as a number of other Olympians also scored impressive victories—among them Willie Davenport in the 60-yard high hurdles (7.2), Wade Bell in the 1,000 (2:13.2), Ron Whitney in the 600 (1:13.0) and George Young in the two-mile (8:43.0).

There were some disappointments, though, as Bob Seagren and Dick Fosbury failed to reach heights they regularly clear in practice.

Seagren, the world indoor and outdoor holder in the pole vault, couldn't clear 16-6½ and Fosbury failed in the high jump at seven feet. Both were big winners at the Olympic Games.

TASCOSA NEXT — Pampa hosts Tascosa Tuesday night in a battle for first place in District 4-4A. Jim Gallman (45) has been a big reason for Pampa's 4-1 district record.

MORE IMPRESSED with camera than U.S. golfer Billy Casper is this pair of lionesses at Johannesburg, South Africa. Casper has won a lion's share of tournament money on the U.S. circuit this year.

Montreal Back In First Spot In NHL Division

The Montreal Canadiens are back in first place in the East Division of the National Hockey League following a weekend split with Chicago.

The Canadiens dropped a 6-3 decision to the Black Hawks at Montreal Saturday night but when the teams moved on to Chicago Sunday night the Habs prevailed 4-2.

Boston, which had the day off Sunday following a 2-2 tie at Minnesota the night before, fell a single point behind the Canadiens.

Jacques Lemaire scored twice within 53 seconds of the first period following a goal by Ted Harris to send Montreal off to a 3-0 lead at Chicago. Dick Duff added the final tally in the third period while Chicago's goals came from Stan Mikita and Eric Nesterenko.

In other games Sunday night, the New York Rangers battered the Minnesota North Stars 5-1, the Detroit Red Wings nipped the Pittsburgh Penguins 2-1, Philadelphia and Toronto played to a 2-2 tie and the Oakland Seals and Los Angeles Kings fought to a scoreless deadlock.

Rod Gilbert and Ron Stewart scored two goals each for the Rangers, who took 49 shots on goal. Milan Marcetta of Minnesota ruined Ed Giacomin's shutout bid with a goal midway through the second period.

Bruce MacGregor scored a while Detroit was short-handed and Gordie Howe added his 18th tally of the season to enable the Red Wings to beat Pittsburgh in a game matching the two cellar clubs. Bob Woytowich scored for the Penguins.

Jean Guy Gendron and Andre LaCroix gave Philadelphia a 2-0 lead in the second period.

Paille Lets Goals Slip By in Win

By United Press International

Fortunately for Marcel Paille, his teammates worked harder than he did.

Paille, the Providence goal-tender, had only 16 shots come his way in an American Hockey League game against the Hershey Bears Sunday night, and he let three of them slip past him. But the Reds responded with 42 shots of their own and registered with five of them for a 5-2 victory.

The triumph was an important one for the second-place Reds as it boosted them to within four points of front-running Hershey in the Eastern Division. Jean Mallette scored two goals for Providence, which fought back from a 3-1 second-period deficit.

The Buffalo Bisons increased their first-place margin in the Western Division to a runaway 14 points over Cleveland by edging the Springfield Kings 3-2 after the Barons dropped an afternoon contest to Baltimore, 6-4.

Evans wasn't ecstatic about his performance although he won the 440-yard dash in 49.9 and ran a 47.3 quarter to help San Jose State take the mile relay in 3:21.9. In the relay, he made up 30 yards on the final leg and won it at the wire.

Moral Busted Dallas Nudges Vikings, 17-13

MIAMI (UPI)—Riding the passes of Don Meredith and Craig Morton, the Dallas Cowboys came back Sunday— from a moral-busting title-upset by Cleveland and from 13-point jolt by the Minnesota Vikings in the annual and maybe last National Football League playoff game.

"The guys made up their minds they were here to play and win," said Dallas coach Tom Landry.

The Cowboys had to fight over every inch on mud in the rain-soaked Orange Bowl to emerge with a 17-13 victory over Minnesota, which was appearing in its first post-season game with all the fire of a small college group with dreams of an upset.

A second-period touchdown "bomb," carrying 51 yards from Meredith to Bob Hayes, Mike Clark's 11-yard field goal and a third period touchdown strike of 20-yards from Morton to Craig Baynam produced the victory.

Minnesota got all its 13 points in the first period. Bobby Bryant raced 81 yards to a touchdown with Ron Widdy's first punt, Fred Cox kicked the extra point then added field goals of 37 and 23 yards to sting the Cowboys into action.

The Playoff Bowl, ninth in the series which matches the runners-up in the NFL's Eastern and Western divisions may not mean anything to the fans, but Sunday's game had meaning for Landry.

Rebounds From Losses

"It showed that this ball club can rebound," Landry said, referring to Dallas' 31-20 upset by Cleveland for the Eastern title.

The Dallas defense had to hold Minnesota to Cox's two field goals until Meredith got his arm warmed up in the chilly Bryant raced 81 yards to a stadium.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Bill Of Rights Evaded

It is significant that as the nation gives lip-service homage to the Bill of Rights, attempts are made—and some are successful—to eliminate or emasculate the first 10 amendments to the Constitution of the United States.

A great many organizations, schools and individuals, are active in paying tribute to the amendments, which have been described as among the most negative documents ever written.

But they are negative for a positive reason. They deny to the political agencies of government the power to intervene in certain human affairs, where the Founding Fathers contended politicians do not belong. They are positive in insisting on individual rights for all men.

It should be well to remember that the Constitution itself never would have been accepted had there not been a clearcut promise by the Constitution's authors that a Bill of Rights would be the first order of business for the new Congress. That promise was kept by James Madison and his fellow sponsors of the Constitution.

The amendments were an attempt to keep the government out of religion, out of communications and to protect the individual in his right to assemble peaceably, to have arms for his protection, to be safe in his own home and person from agencies of government, and to have safeguards against arbitrary criminal prosecution. Generally, the safeguards have worked.

Yet, the Supreme Court has "amended" the Fifth Amendment protection against a person being "compelled in a criminal case, to be a witness against himself." Regarding the "criminal" provision, that court now says this means a person who refuses to answer questions about his activities or background is entitled to continue holding a job, even though the employer believes it is not in his best interest to have such an employee. The Fifth Amendment phrase "nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation" has virtually been abandoned. Cities, counties, states and the national government through zoning and anti-billboard legislation in effect are depriving the owner of a peaceful use of his property and

White House Information

There was some instinctive stirring of free-press hackles when Richard M. Nixon designated Herbert G. Klein to serve as "director of communications" in the new administration. Whether the raising of hackles is justified will depend on the concept of Klein's task, and on how it is carried out.

Though the lofty title conferred by the president-elect upon his old friend has not previously been used, presidential press directors in recent times have all tried in some measure to ride herd on information officers throughout the executive branch of the government. Klein, since he will not himself have to serve as a day to day press officer, may succeed where others failed.

Success in this endeavor is a relative matter, granted. But none of Klein's predecessors in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations has been able to keep department and agency information officers wholly in line. That may be all to the good, so far as the public is concerned—and this is precisely the consideration which some find worrisome when they think of Nixon having an overall "director of communications." It is feared that the holder of this title may turn into a kind of information czar, an undeniably distasteful idea. One well informed observer are giving him no compensation.

The Sixth amendment is supposed to protect a person charged with a crime. An individual is entitled to be tried by "an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed." This is violated when individuals are arrested and taken to other jurisdictions for trial in too many instances. On the other hand, some amendment provides that one charged with a crime is entitled to have "the assistance of counsel for his defense." This has been stretched by the Warren Court to mean that an individual must have a lawyer furnished at taxpayer expense even before there is a criminal prosecution. There are other evasions of the protective clauses of the Bill of Rights, but those serve as only examples.

Because of the distortions of the Fifth Amendment, there are individuals who should know better who say the amendment should be changed or repealed. Latest of these is Thomas E. Dewey, who has been mentioned in some circles as a possible appointee to the attorney general's spot in the cabinet of Richard Nixon.

Dewey has opined that the amendment seems to serve no other purpose than the protection of the guilty to the harm of the innocent. Therefore he says some thought should be given toward changing or eliminating the self-implication clause.

What is needed is not a change in the protective clause, but a corrective measure against those who have distorted the meaning of the Fifth Amendment. A change in personnel of the court may have some beneficial effect. Congress has the power to establish regulations for the Supreme Court under Article IV, Section 2, of the Constitution, and if the people become concerned enough that is what will happen.

We do not believe the Fifth Amendment or other protective devices in the Bill of Rights need to be eliminated. They need to be adhered to. And a true study of the first 10 amendments to the Constitution, as recommended by the National Commission on the Bill of Rights Commemorative Committee, is a first step toward defending these declarations.

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANSTADT

Accidental Chokings Largely Preventable

Small children learn about various objects by putting them in their mouths. A sudden fit of laughing, crying or gasping may carry the object into the windpipe and cause choking, a common but frightening experience for both mother and child. Since infants who do not yet have their molars can't grind peanuts, popcorn or hard candy, they should not be given such items. The objects most commonly involved in choking attacks, however, are safety pins.

An infant who sees his mother with a mouthful of pins naturally thinks the mouth is the place for them and imitates what he sees. Not only should safety pins be kept out of reach of an infant, mothers also should not set their children the bad example of holding pins in their mouths. When not in use, safety pins should always be closed.

Mothers of small children should bear in mind that each year peanuts, candy, watermelon seeds and other hard objects kill a great many babies. Most such accidents can be prevented by watching the baby more closely. In any case, if your baby starts to choke, don't panic. Don't pound him on the back because this may interfere with his possibly successful efforts to cough the foreign body out. Don't prod his throat with your finger because this is likely to push the foreign body farther down his windpipe.

If the initial choking stops, don't assume that the foreign body was swallowed. If it was small, it may have lodged in his lung where it will not cause any immediate symptoms. Call a physician who will arrange for X rays or a bronchoscopic examination or both. A foreign body in the lung must be removed promptly or it will cause pneumonia or a lung abscess.

Q—My son, 4, has frequent nosebleeds. What causes them? Could they be serious? Will he outgrow them? Should I take him to a nose specialist?

A—Nosebleeds in children are common, sometimes occurring as often as three or four times a week. Hot, dry air favors the formation of hard crusts in the nose. Then a light blow or picking the nose may start the bleeding. Most children outgrow nosebleeds in adolescence or sooner. Except in a congenital bleeder, they are not serious but when repeated more than twice a week they may cause secondary anemia. For this reason, if they persist, it is wise to consult a nose and throat specialist.

Inside Washington

Is Hickel Conservation-Minded — In Interior Committee Senators Sharpen Probes

ROBERT ALLEN

JOHN GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Despite mounting criticism, present indications are that Walter J. Hickel will be confirmed by the Senate as secretary of the interior, along with President-elect Nixon's other Cabinet appointees.

However, Hickel's record as governor of Alaska will get a thorough going over from the Senate Interior Committee when it considers his appointment. Hickel's view, especially his views on conservation and resource development, will be fully aired.

The new secretary will be put formally on record with specific comments on administration of federally-owned lands, use of oil shale and timber resources, and other matters on which his informal remarks have alarmed some congressional leaders. He will also be put on notice that his stewardship will be carefully scrutinized by Congress.

By the time Hickel meets with the Senate committee for a confirmation hearing he may find that one of his recent political adversaries is firmly ensconced there. That would be Sen. Mike Gravel, the new Democratic senator from Alaska.

Mindful of the vast federal lands and federal activities in his home state, Gravel has been actively seeking a seat on the Interior Committee. Before Christmas he met with the two Washington senators, in Seattle, to enlist their aid.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., is chairman of the Interior Committee. Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., is an equally influential member of the Senate's clublike inner directorate.

There will probably be at least one Democratic vacancy on the Interior Committee in the convening Senate. Magnuson and Jackson can help Gravel get it, and they have apparently agreed to do that.

REJECTION UNLIKELY — With 57 Democrats in the new Senate and only 43 of President Nixon's Republicans, it is of course possible that one or more of Mr. Nixon's cabinet appointees could be refused Senate confirmation. That is not likely, however.

Over the years, the precedent has been developed that a President is entitled to top advisers of his own choosing, barring evidence of wrongdoing involving moral turpitude, even if their suitability for their posts raises some Senate eyebrows. As a new President, Nixon can expect to get the benefit of the doubts under that precedent.

Under Jackson's chairmanship the Interior Committee was instrumental in securing passage of a bumper crop of conservation legislation in the last Congress. All of the committee members, including Jackson, are proud of their reputations as champions of conservation.

Even if Gravel fails to get a seat on the committee, Hickel can expect a cool reception from incumbent Democrats and perhaps even from a couple of Republicans. Indeed, a couple of committee Democrats have already questioned some of Hickel's post-election comments.

"A CONSERVATION CONGRESS" — It is Hickel's misfortune that his record on conservation has been challenged at a time when the Democratic Congress has been enthusiastically embracing the conservation cause. The last Congress was, in fact, called the "conservation Congress" by some observers.

Despite the heavy pressures for economy, Congress acted last fall to approve what is believed to be the largest package of natural resource and conservation legislation ever approved in a single session. Included were several bills which had been blocked by controversy in previous congresses.

For example, Congress gave final approval to the establishment of a 58,000-acre Redwood National Park in Northern California. It approved a North Cascades National Park in the State of Washington and gave a go-ahead for separate national systems of wild scenic rivers and scenic rural trails.

Compromised, after a long and bitter controversy, was a water-sharing dispute involving the lower Colorado River. An innovative new program on the approved list calls for development of a dual-purpose nuclear power and water desalting plant.

Perhaps the major conservation accomplishment of the last session was enactment of revisions in a 1966 law which will guarantee $200 million a year for five years for the land and water conservation fund. With help from House leaders, Jackson was able to tap revenues from offshore oil royalties to guarantee the five-year, billion-dollar funding.

All of these programs, and others, were spearheaded by members of the committee which will consider the Hickel nomination. The chances are that Hickel, before he is confirmed, will hear a good deal about this legislative record and the congressional climate which fostered it.

The Real, Mink-Lined Mirage MIAMI BEACH—The big tour.

Shank of the evening. Peak of the season. Take a little tour. Come as you are.

Maybe you're rich. Godspeed, good luck, wave as you pass, and give our regards to the high-rent district. Maybe you aren't. Come along anyhow. It's the same old show, unlike anything, a midway mirage out there on a con and a neon and any number can play.

I took what I happened to have with me, which happened to be $8.35; came back with a buck and a quarter, burping nostalgically from a splendid sausage pizza; came back steeped delightfully in second-hand sin and a couple of draft beers, and with my sense of wonder and delight at the human race all rounded and shiny. Put down your goosequill, stack your overdue bills nicely to one side, put your mind on at a rakish angle and head out to Miami Beach. This is perfectly ok, even if you live in Miami. (Miami is NOT Miami Beach, contrary to Northern opinion. Many Miamians hardly see it at all.)

This is a happy time on Miami Beach. The merchants look so glad for the tourists are here. Smiles are on the merchants' faces, here in Oz by the Ocean. All the tourists came back! Whee!

(These are the same merchants who, during the off season, were wailing and keening and storing acorns and pemmican against a hard winter. It happens every year.)

Go to South Beach first. Lots of odd-little restaurants. Early nondescript. A fine bowl of Italian soup and a pizza and some wonderful coffee was $1.15. Why does the Chamber of Commerce leave that part out?

You can walk this off by sauntering down Collins toward the dog track. You don't have to actually go into the dog track. You can watch other people. They run into the dog track rapidly, while cars honk and police wave red flashlights around. Everybody gets to the dog track at the same time and the idea is to see who can get in first. I think the dogs bet on the people.

If you like scarlet living, which is always nice, you could drive over to a burleycue. It's the same old burleycue, but in Miami Beach everything has something different. A tourist was trying to cash a $100 traveler's check. Where else can you see a tourist trying to enter a burleycue via a $100 traveler's check?

Back to clean living! I'll always like the Mall. Thousands of people from New York and New Jersey trying to see Florida through thousands of people from Ohio and Pennsylvania. Miami Beach was dredged up out of the Bay Bottom and mangrove swamp and once a bronze bust of Carl Fisher, the pioneer promoter,

The Mystery In The Mirror

By PAUL HARVEY

The moon is just a moon, but a man is a man! Intrigued by eons of lunar light, men imagined that on the moon's backside we would surely one day find heaven—at least.

So we went back there, found the backside is like the front side, gray plaster of Paris, pockmarked and pimply, "like dirty beach sand with a lot of footprints in it."

The magnificence and magic qualities which generations had attributed to the moon, earthmen might have found, instead, in themselves.

Yet today man sits surrounded by the trophies he has won, the frontiers he has conquered, the mountain of textbooks he has written and rewritten—and remains yet utterly confounded by what he sees in the mirror.

We now know much about the mysterious forces about us, but little about the mysterious forces within us.

It is within himself that man must next turn on the light. This inner space is the neglected frontier.

Brilliant and courageous though our performance may be 200,000 miles from home, back home we are a failure.

The divorce rate is now almost 50 percent. Crime is increasing nine times faster than our population. The enlightened generation with everything to live for hastens its own death with alcohol, drugs and assorted excesses.

Chemistry and biology are not enough. You cannot bombard a generation with the idea that men are animals without getting animal behavior.

Man is infinitely more wonderful than he knows. A computer would fill the Empire State Building and yet be unable to duplicate the function of a single lobe of the human brain.

Man has been falling to his knees in wonder before the Milky Way. There is more wonder in the orb of salt and was inscribed:

"He carved a great city from a jungle."

Somebody should honor the gods who have been busy here since. They carved a jungle from a great city.

The greenery is beautiful and everybody seems to slow down. Even the New Yorkers. Where else can you see a woman in tight slacks wearing a fur cape in 70-degree weather while the Christmas decorations are still up?

Floor shows. Headliners everywhere in the big clubs, lesser stars in the medium ones. Strip joints, between "police clampdowns."

For the Poor Man's Tour, the cheapest floor show and one of the most entertaining is the lobby of any of the swank hotels. Spring for a good cigar, settle back on a downy sofa in the lobbies where the money goes and you'll see many interesting sights.

Lush and lovely ladies leading sugar daddies, lush ladies leading poodles, lush ladies leading luses. Hard-eyed types, wide-eyed sorts, the ticket-sellers and the ticket-buyers, rub-on tans and all to the tune of jewelry rattling and the soft swish-swish of falling currency.

water and albumen called the "human eye" than in anything it looks upon.

The late Dr. J. Wallace Hamilton said: "The next great field of research will have to be in the realm of personality, the study of human nature. Man has explored almost everything in the universe except the explorer."

So he sits there among his trophies and his books miserable and unhappy.

Man is mud—but with a grandeur written into him which will never let him rest until he becomes that for which he was created.

The mirror has frightened man. In it he sees himself wearing both a halo and horns. There is terror in man's face when he is left alone with himself. So he has elected to hide from his own eyes.

It was ever thus. David did not always live as he sang. Solomon wrote proverbs of much wisdom, yet often behaved unwisely. Even as you and I.

I do not know what science may find when it dares to look behind the mirror. Will Durant, seeking to trace why the optimism of the 19th century had given way to the pessimism of the 20th, said: "The great question of our time is not communism versus individualism, nor Europe versus America nor East versus West; it is whether man can bear to live without God."

Question Box

We invite questions on economics and the proper functioning of government which will not injure anyone.

QUESTION: "What government finances it SHOULD control? Isn't this sentiment anti-libertarian, in that two evil acts (financing and controlling) are worse than one (financing)?"

ANSWER: Whether the double wrong is worse than the single evil is academic. The fact is that the two go together in political life: What the government finances it WILL control. And if a larger unit of political government finances an activity of a smaller governmental unit, the larger unit will exercise control. This has been demonstrated over and over again, in such practices as farm subsidies, flood control and power and irrigation dams, urban renewal, health, welfare and school aid.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Many people are wondering how well Richard Nixon, as a Republican president, will get along with the Democratic Congress.

I believe that for a couple years at least everything will be hunky if not downright dory.

Bear in mind that the amount of influence a congressman wields depends primarily upon his own ability. His ability to get re-elected.

A senator or representative may not be born great, or achieve greatness. But if he is re-elected for enough terms, he will eventually have greatness thrust upon him.

Once acquired, greatness can be exercised in two ways: 1. by promoting the passage of legislation the president opposes, or 2. by preventing the passage of legislation the president has endorsed.

Democrats who control the House and Senate have suddenly realized that after Jan. 20 they will no longer be able to thwart and frustrate Lyndon Johnson.

They could, of course, thwart and frustrate Nixon. But thwarting and frustrating an opposition president is never as much fun as thwarting and frustrating a political ally.

The leadership fights that preceded the opening of Congress this year illustrate this point. It now appears likely that congressional Democrats will devote most of their energies to thwarting and frustrating each other.

Republicans, on the other hand, are relatively united. Being the minority party, they realize they must work together in order to thwart and frustrate Nixon.

But despite the handicap of having his own party in Congress comparatively unified, I predict the bulk of Nixon's legislative program will be enacted. Whatever it may be.

As matters now stand, any program he offers is certain to create huge waves of dissent across the nation. Under such conditions, GOP unity in Congress will tend to break down.

Meanwhile, it will become difficult for Congress to pigeon-hole his recommendations.

A committee chairman can easily sidetrack a bill that has broad public support. But if protests against the measure begin to mount, there is strong pressure to bring it to a vote.

As long as the country remains as divided as it is now, many of Nixon's proposals will have a good chance of slipping through. Later on, if he succeeds in bringing us together, he may have real trouble with Congress.
