WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dean Acheson says President John F. Kennedy gambled "to the point of recklessness" in the 1962 Cuban missile crisis and won partly because he was "phenomenally lucky."

While Robert F. Kennedy had praised the free-flowing discussion process among presidential advisers during the crisis, Acheson said it was "repetitive, leaderless, and a waste of time."

Acheson, President Harry S. Truman's Secretary of State, who was called in as an adviser during the crisis, commented on what took place in an article in Esquire Magazine released Tuesday.

The article was in reply to an account of the crisis written by Robert Kennedy before his death and published last October.

"Sen. Kennedy seemed at the time—a view strengthened by his account—to have been moved by emotional or intuitive responses more than by the trained lawyer's analysis of the dangers threatened and of the relevance to these of various actions proposed." Kennedy was then attorney general.

In the article Acheson says he repeats the arguments he made in the inner councils of the administration during the days of crisis. He said he opposed the naval blockade which the administration adopted and advocated instead air strikes against Soviet offensive missile bases in Cuba.

"As I saw it at the time, and still believe," Acheson wrote, "The decision to resort to blockade was a decision to postpone the issue at the expense of time within which the nuclear weapons might be made operable." During this time, he said, Russian offensive missiles in Cuba could have become operational. Robert Kennedy, he said, took the position that air strikes would be "a Pearl Harbor in reverse." Acheson calls this a "thoroughly false and pejorative analogy." He said the Japanese attacked the United States without warning, thousands of miles from their shores, whereas the Russians were installing 90 miles from Florida a capability to destroy much of the United States.

Writing of the moment when President Kennedy discarded a tough note from Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and answered instead a confused Khrushchev message which seemed to contain seeds of a settlement, Acheson said, "It was a gamble to the point of recklessness, but skillfully executed, with ideas contributed by Robert Kennedy."

Later, Acheson said, he wrote President Kennedy and congra-ulated him on getting through the crisis, Acheson added, "It does not detract from the sincerity of this message to add that I also thought he had been phenomenally lucky."

At another point Acheson said: "It does not detract from President Kennedy's laurels in handling the Cuban crisis that he was helped by the luck of Khrushchev's befuddlement and loss of nerve. The fact was that he succeeded."

Prime Interest Rates Increase

NEW YORK (UPI)—The rise in the prime bank interest rate to a record 7 per cent was denounced by a congressional expert Tuesday as a "robbery" which could cause "depression... like we have never seen before."

Britain to Keep Expelled Asians From Its Shores

LONDON (UPI)—Britain will not open its doors to an estimated 50,000 to 60,000 Asians threatened with expulsion from Africa, British government sources said today.

But Britain is expected to say it is willing to help financially and otherwise resettle them in India and Pakistan.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government was reported set to take this tough stand on one of the most explosive issues facing the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference, which opened Tuesday.

City Planning Drive On Delinquent Taxes

The City of Pampa is going to "vigorously pursue" efforts to collect as much as possible of approximately $266,000 due in collectible delinquent taxes dating back 29 years to 1940.

City Manager Charles Hill said today City Atty. Bob Gordon will go into back tax records to compile a list of delinquent taxpayers and property involved over the 29 year period.

"The city staff will work with the city attorney to pursue vigorously the matter of delinquent tax collections," Hill said.

Clues Checked In Ax Murder

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—Police rechecked the final hours of a Harvard coed today, seeking clues to the identity of the ax murderer who left her nightgown-clad body sprawled on a blood-soaked bed.

Jane S. Britton, 22, daughter of Radcliffe College Vice President J. Boyd Britton, was found dead Tuesday in her apartment, a few blocks from the Harvard campus.

Miss Britton, a 1967 graduate of Radcliffe, was a second-year student of anthropology at Harvard. She wanted to become an archeologist.

Her body was found by her boy friend, James Humphreys, 27, of Toronto, who went to her apartment after morning classes. Humphreys said he was worried because Miss Britton was absent from a morning exam.

The four-story building where the body was found was the same in which Beverly Samans, a 23-year-old student, was stabbed to death in 1963 in the (See CLUES, Page 3)

Sirhan's Defense Seeks Two Jury Trials on Case

OCWA PICKETS — These two pickets at Skelly's Kingsmill natural gas processing plant braved chilly weather yesterday to display their picket signs noting that the plant's OCWA members had answered a strike call issued by the union early Saturday. At left is Jake Winborne of Pampa and at right is Harold Gosnell of Skellylytown. The plant is being picketed around the clock by men on four-hour shifts. The men are part of about 275 OCWA members in the Pampa area on strike at Skelly, Cities Service and Sinclair units. No progress in negotiations was reported today.

Court Judge Denies Tries to Delay Case

By JACK V. FOX
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sirhan B. Sirhan's defense team sought today to throw his murder case out of court after a startling opening day demand that his trial for the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy be heard by two juries.

The Jordanian immigrant was brought back to the sealed off court room to watch his attorneys make the ritual attempts to get the case suppressed.

The trial had an unusual beginning Tuesday when the defense argued that Sirhan should have two separate juries — one to decide his guilt or innocence and another to decide the penalty.

Superior Court Judge Herbert Walker quickly denied the motion by flamboyant Grant Cooper, chief defense counsel for the 24-year-old Arab.

The request for two juries was permissible because California law divides determination of guilt and death penalty hearings into two separate proceedings. However, in most cases one jury is used for both.

Doctors Advised Not to Counsel In Sex Problems

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — People with sexual hangups usually turn, first to their doctors for advice. That's a grave error, says a New York City obstetrician, because "most physicians are sexual cripples."

The average physician is not free enough from his own hangups to counsel in sex problems," Dr. Selig B. Neubardt Tuesday told Michigan State University's seven week seminar on "Sexuality — A Search for Perspective."

Neubardt, a guest lecturer, said doctors are normally the first place people turn for sexual advice. Its usually the worst place they could go.

He said that until recently, medical courses contained no instruction on sex, leaving doctors unequipped to counsel patients with sex problems.

"And a lot of good doctors are troubled by this," he said. "They want to help but they don't know how."

A psychology professor from the University of Houston said Tuesday Americans mistakenly believe college students are more promiscuous these days because of increased emphasis on sex in newspapers, books and magazines.

"For example, although 75 per cent of college girls express the belief that their classmates are sleeping around, surveys and research studies consistently point out that only 20 per cent of all college girls experience premarital intercourse," said James K. McCarty.

McCarty said today's college students are no more promiscuous than their parents were. They just think they are.

"In a recent preview of the new Kinsey report, researchers found few differences between the sexual attitudes of today's young men and women, and those sexual attitudes and behavior on which they reported 25 years earlier," McCarty said.

Grim Sece

It was a grim setting in the small court room Tuesday, and the tiny Sirhan seemed to grow smaller in his leather chair as he listened to the judge speak in a gravel toned voice of the possibility of death in the gas chamber.

Constantly watched by two six-foot deputies, Sirhan spoke not a word during the 90-minute session which ran into a snarl of defense motions.

After a session of more than an hour at the trial's outset behind the closed door of Walker's chambers, at which the judge was believed to have refused a 30-day continuance, Cooper sprang his jury proposal. (See SIRHAN, Page 3)

Julie Andrews Files Libel Suits

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — (UPI)—Actress Julie Andrews has filed libel suits totaling $6 million against two movie magazines, including one which linked her romantically with actor Sidney Poitier.

The story appeared in the January, 1969, issue of "Screenland." The Superior Court judge charged the story falsely said Miss Andrews had dated Poitier and was romantically linked with him.

Miss Andrews said in her complaint filed Tuesday she has never dated Poitier and only on rare occasions had they been fellow guests at events.

She denied statements attributed to her in the story and charged they were fabricated by the author, West Coast editor James Gregory.

The other suit charged that a story in the January, 1969, issue of "Modern Movies" falsely stated Miss Andrews was indifferent and unconcerned about the welfare of her 6-year-old daughter, Emma.

The lawsuit said the story by Madeline White stated Emma became ill as a result of her mother's friendship with movie director Blake Edwards, while in fact, a "warm and loving relationship" existed between Edwards and her daughter.

The suits were filed against Screenland and Magazine Management Co., which publishes "Modern Movies."

New Flu Strain Strikes Nation

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Hong Kong flu has an equally devastating American cousin—Louisiana flu — the National Communicable Disease Center (NCDC) reported Tuesday.

But the NCDC said the Louisiana flu is "so similar to the original Hong Kong flu, that for practical purposes, it can be said to be the same virus."

There have been reports, the NCDC said in discounting them, that a new flu strain had cropped up in the South.

"Any confusion that has arisen may be due to the routine practice of labeling influenza viruses according to the location in which they are isolated," the NCDC said.

"Thus, the virus found in Louisiana was called A2 Louisiana."

Dr. George E. Hauser, director of laboratories for the Louisiana State Health Board, isolated the virus in New Orleans from the throat cultures of two Baton Rouge children.

"Since some of the cases in Louisiana are being treated in the state have proven to be extremely severe, there is always the possibility that the Louisiana strain of virus may be capable of producing very severe attacks," said Hauser.

Talks Delegations Still Trying To Decide on Shape of Table

PARIS (UPI)—American negotiators today made plans for another meeting with North Vietnamese diplomats for a final try at getting the expanded Vietnam War talks started before President Johnson leaves office.

American officials said deputy U.S. delegation chief Cyrus Vance would meet North Vietnamese negotiators again soon—possibly today—to try to resolve the two delegations' differences over the shape of a conference table.

But the only hope for breaking the deadlock and getting the talks started before President-elect Richard M. Nixon's inauguration on Jan. 20 hinged on a change of mind by Hanoi on the table.

Vance met Tuesday with the South Vietnamese delegation and later urged Hanoi to reconsider its previous rejection of an American proposal for a solid, circular table with only a symbolic baize strip dividing it.

The South Vietnamese indicated they would go no further toward a compromise on the table issue, which has emerged as the main stumbling block to getting the talks started.

President Nguyen Van Thieu said in a speech in Dalat, South Vietnam, that the Saigon government's "careful" approach to the talks was necessary.

"We might lose our country because of the table," Thieu said.

Hanoi rejected the latest American proposal Monday.

Vance said after a two-hour meeting with Pham Dang Lam, the head of the South Vietnamese delegation, that the United States "seriously hopes this does not reflect their considered opinion and we hope they will reconsider their attitude."

Vance's remarks indicated no new offer was agreed on in the U.S.-South Vietnamese conference Tuesday.

White House four years ago. The tall, lean, dark-haired Georgian (who calls himself "just a country boy" from "the other side of the tracks") started out as a White House fellow, and stayed on as low man on the totem pole under former Press Secretary Bill Moyers.

No. 2 Man He is currently No. 2 man in presidential Press Secretary George Christian's office and has taken over briefing chores at times when the boss is away.

It took some soul-searching for young Johnson to decide to spend the next six months to a year, at least, with a former President.

He has many tempting job offers, including one from an avant garde magazine for young people which offered him a $75,000 editor-publisher post.

But Johnson is looking forward to his future in Austin, Texas, presiding as executive assistant in the LBJ offices in the Federal Building. "I decided after a great deal of reflection to accept the President's offer," he said. "Everyone is looking ahead rather than back... to the future."

A Small Staff The retiring President will have transitional funds and $80,000 annually to operate his office. His assistant will direct a small staff including a few secretaries and two White House speech writers who will be churning out lectures and helping the President on his future memoirs. The writers, both former newspapermen, are Robert L. Hardesty of St. Louis, Mo., and Harry J. Middleton Jr. of Topeka, Kan.

The magnitude of the job ahead and the smallness of the staff somewhat worries Tom Johnson. He will be responsible for the President's mail—perhaps 3,000 letters a week—appointments, speeches, articles, lectures at some 40 universities, and books now at the planning stage.

But the president feels young Johnson is up to it all. "He's a young man with his eyes on the stars and his feet on the ground," the chief executive commented recently.

TREE FOR TWO OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—On Dec. 10, Mrs. Frank Baker left her new Christmas tree in a bucket of water on the front porch and someone stole it, bucket and all.

When she walked out on the porch Sunday night, the tree and the bucket were back, along with a note that said: "Thanks for the use of your tree. I'm sorry I'm late. Happy holiday." It was signed "Santa Claus."

Republicans Vote to Give Barry Old Seat on Services Committee

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republican public senators have voted unanimously to give back to Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, Ariz., an Air Force reserve major general, his former seat on the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The GOP senators also elected Sen. John G. Tower of Texas as chairman of the Republican Senate Campaign who is up for reelection in 1970. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen presented the resolution assigning Goldwater "the first vacancy" on the Armed Services Committee.

The GOP is sure of at least one new seat on the committee so the resolution assured the Arizona Republican a spot.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—There was no movie on NBC-TV Tuesday night, a fact that was significant in itself. Instead, the network presented the debut of "First Tuesday," a monthly two-hour news magazine of the air.

The fact that a monthly two-hour public service program can substitute for a network entertainment feature is not only significant, but heartening. One of the reasons such a substitution is possible nowadays is, undoubtedly, that the shortage of good movies for television has caused a new search to fill the gap with unique long-form material.

NBC-TV has used back-to-back specials as one way to fill the gap, as with the recent Elvis Presley and Brigitte Bardot hours on the same night. And there have been the two-hour movie from telefilms released as "World Premieres," another device. Considering the obvious natural corporate desire to substitute entertainment for entertainment, the very notion of something like "First Tuesday" is commendable.

As for the prime time news magazine concept, it now has spread from national educational television's "Public Broadcast Laboratory" to CBS-TV's "60 Minutes" to NBC-TV's "First Tuesday." One of the misfortunes of network scheduling is that "60 Minutes" and "First Tuesday" are head-on competitors.

The "Public Broadcast Laboratory"—PBL for short—can surely take credit for getting the news magazine notion rolling in primetime in a big way. Yet the debut of "First Tuesday" was a perfect example of what has been missing often in the educational video project. "First Tuesday" was not as patently, boastfully crusading as "PBL," but it made its points subtly, skillfully, with maturity, and never, never amateurish.

"First Tuesday" hopes to attract, among others, young adult viewers, and this goal is likely to be aided by the winning presence of the anchorman, Sander Vanocur. Not only does he have an exceptional reporting talent, but long sideburns as well. I liked his striped shirt, which was a splendid feature about heart transplant patient Philip Blalberg, including a delightful interview conducted by Vanocur. There was also a feature about baton twirling, which seemed a slightly subject at first for such a program—but by the time it was over, "First Tuesday" had created a sardonic, sometimes hilarious study of bad taste, almost a horror story about the absurd passion attached to this insignificant practice.

The major piece of the program was a lengthy takedown on Fidel Castro's Cuba, highly personal look at those for and against it. There was a light piece on strongman Charles Atlas, the famous physical culturist, at age 76 and it evoked a bit of

Local Church, Psychiatric Center To Sponsor Programs on Children

The First Presbyterian Church of Pampa and the Kilgore Children's Psychiatric Center in Amarillo are jointly sponsoring a series of three presentations on the problems and treatment of emotionally disturbed children.

Dr. Louis Fairchild, chief psychologist at the Center, will direct the presentations. These presentations will be held in the sanctuary of the First Presbyterian Church Jan. 12, 19 and 26 from 7-9 p.m.

The first of the lectures, entitled "How Emotional Disturbance Manifests Itself in Children" will be presented this Sunday, Jan. 12, at 7 p.m.

Dr. Fairchild will be available for informal questions and observations from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. each Sunday evening of the series.

Jan. 19 Dr. Fairchild will speak at 7 p.m. on the topic, "Methods of Treatment for Emotionally Disturbed Children. At 7 p.m. Jan. 26 the award winning film, "David and Lisa," will be shown and Dr. Fairchild will direct discussion of the film's implications.

Dr. Fairchild joined the staff of the Children's Psychiatric Center in Feb., 1958, having received his BA degree from Baylor University in 1959, his BD degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in 1962, his MA and PhD from the University of Houston in 1966 and 1967.

Dr. Fairchild has completed a residency in clinical psychology at the University of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston. He has been a frequent speaker on mental health problems and treatment before many civic and church groups throughout the Panhandle.

The purpose of the meetings is to generate church and community interest in the problems of mental health and to assist parents, public school teachers and counselors in dealing with "The Lonely Children."

A nursery will be provided for pre-school children and a children's film will be shown for grades one through six in the auditorium from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. at each session.

Deputy District Attorney Lynn Compton objected that the trial should be conducted in a normal manner and Walker, an owl-faced man with white, bushy eyebrows, agreed.

Walker also denied a second defense motion that prospective jurors be given certain basic questions of qualification in a written form to speed up selection of 12 regular and six alternate jurors.

Smiles at Mother
Sirhan, neatly dressed in a light blue suit and blue tie, smiled faintly at his mother, Mary, who sat in the rear row of the court with his brother, Munir, squeezed in among newsmen from all over the world.

Cooper had two other motions ready for the afternoon session today.

He sought to quash the indictment on grounds the pool of prospective jurors was selected unconstitutionally because it barred certain occupations such as lawyers, doctors and nurses. Another contended the grand jury which indicted Sirhan was unconstitutional because it did not contain certain minority groups.

Cooper told newsmen after the session that the defense would not deny that Sirhan killed Kennedy.

Damage, Theft Are Reported

Smoking damage and the theft of a $40 remote garage signal device was reported to Pampa police Tuesday by Bruce L. Parker, 2601 Duncan.

Parker said his daughter had her car parked at the high school parking lot last Friday when someone unlocked the vehicle and burned a hole in the front seat.

Parker said the remote RCA unit that opens the garage door at the Parker residence was taken.

The tire the experts asked for.

"Looking at our results, it is easy to see why radial ply tires are so appealing. But here we look, the more we feel that all the advantages are a result of the belt, which stabilizes the tread, and not the radial plies themselves. In fact, the areas where the radial tires show signs of weakness can be related to the radial plies, not the belt. We can't help but think that a combination tire—a cross ply with a belt—would be an admirable solution."

Pampa Chapter, DAR Honors 3 for Citizenship

Las Pampas Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution met recently at Furr's-Cafeteria for lunch as Mrs. Henry Merrick, regent, presided.

Mrs. George Friauf introduced the girls who had been chosen by a faculty committee of their respective high schools as meeting the requirements for the DAR Good Citizen.

Beverly Boyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Boyce of Groom; Janice Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shelby D. Johnson of Wheeler; and Nita Paden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L.L. Paden of Pampa were chosen for their qualities of dependability, leadership, service and patriotism. They will be honored and receive their pin at the annual Martha Washington Tea in February.

Members were invited to attend the birthday party which was given for Mrs. Katie Vincent Dec. 27 in the Hospitality Room of Citizen's Bank and Trust Company. Mrs. Vincent is a charter member and chaplain of Las Pampas chapter.

Mrs. J.S. Skelly gave the from the National Defender. She spoke of the "De'tente Psychois" in America's policy. "Many observant Americans are agast at the condition of the national mind. We are told, and it seems to be accepted, that communism is a minor force in both domestic and foreign affairs; Soviet and Red Chinese are bitter antagonists, the hard line is mellowing; and in our domestic affairs, the Communist Party is a minor element in our revolution," she said.

"It is cardinal rule that all Federal commissions ignore the communist presence and attribute all violence to sociological conditions. These do not correspond to reality. Our leaders have jumped to a conclusion that de'tente is necessary and possible, in defiance of all the relevant evidence. This mental attitude is the chief danger to our national security," she said.

Mrs. W.S. Dixon showed slides of the Kate Duncan Smith DAR school which is located at Grant, in Marshall County, Ala. on Gunter Mountain.

This school is a day school with about 700 enrolled. It is a 12-grade school and had several graduates attend institutions of higher learning with DAR financial assistance. With 25 buildings, 240 acres and thousands of dollars worth of equipment it represents an investment of about one million dollars.

Your Horoscope

JEANE DIXON

THURSDAY, JAN. 3

Your birthday Thursday. Improvement of your financial situation is indicated! Progress in converting latent assets into material benefits is also promised; necessary effort is concentrated mostly in the early months. Sentimental interests require patience and may suffer postponements forced by unusual circumstances. Thursday's natives are generally forthright, enterprising, and self-reliant; frequent encounter with hazardous conditions seems normal.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Expect less cooperation, unsettled working conditions. Avoid undue stress by mastering your impatience and pacing your efforts to fit reality. Meditate Thursday evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Important moves are better postponed (some people apparently are not yet able to go along with the spirit of change). Let disappointment serve as a lesson. Older people, health care demands your attention now.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Leave friends out of your financial arrangements now. Somebody long-known may cause some unexpected expense, inadvertently. Accept different opinions at face value for the moment to avoid a cash contribution each year to this school and sends used clothing which is either used by the students or sold and the money used to apply on the general expenses.

Other guests present were: mothers of honorees, Mrs. R.E. Boyce, Mrs. Shelby D. Johnson and Mrs. L.B. Paden, Miss Jane Hudson of Groom was also a guest.

Members attending were Mmes. Katie Vincent, J.B. White, Lois Young, J.S. Skelly, V.L. Hobbs, George Friauf, Henry Merrick, Doyle Osborne, Turner Kirby, Leldon Hudson, John McKerney, W.S. Dixon, James Hopkins and A.D. Hills.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): First impressions are important. Be alert and watching, likewise notice what you are projecting. Partnership matters go somewhat better, but be sure pertinent facts are known to all who need them.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Financial considerations are optimistic but not quite to the payoff stage. Luck is promised on all social fronts. Graciousness attracts invitations and favors from friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Do not expect quiet or too much cooperation. Just keep putting consistent effort on the line. A breakthrough point is very near for you; ponder on it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Make the most of this rather promising day in your career effort. Play up your personality. Check information before doing anything for a partner, your mate. Plan an evening of sober discussion with people important to you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Stick to your own intuitive decisions. Speak up, present your own special talents for productive achievement. You can make it one of the most cheerful days of the season.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Everybody wants you to do something else; heed older, better established counselors. Uninvited or unfamiliar personalities provide curiosity and stimulation. If you're in love, this is a day for declaring it!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): With a bit more patience, all comes out well in home affairs. Nobody is quite happy with things as they are, while actually they're not so bad. Have supplies for company at home.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): There is no point in fretting over the past, even an hour ago. Continue pushing, just as if no outcome were possible beyond the triumph of your ideas.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Ideas from last night turn out to have real possibilities. There are bargains available if you take the trouble to look for them, mostly one-of-a-kind things you must take while they are to be had.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You told a woman who blamed her husband when she found out she was pregnant when she did not want any more kids that she should lay off because it was partly her fault, too. You said, "It takes two to tango," or something like that.

Well, you are dead wrong. It takes only one strong determined male to trap a helpless female, but it's the poor woman who pays the price in the end. I ought to know. It happened to me.

DEAR NELL: That was no tango, Lady.

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading your advice every day looking for a solution to my problem, but to no avail. So here goes:

I am a 38-year-old married woman with no children. My marriage is a happy one now, but for years I didn't draw a sober breath. I haven't touched a drop in two years and I feel in my heart that nothing in this world could ever make me touch the stuff again.

Now, what's my problem? Does a nonpracticing alcoholic have to go through life looking like a "hag" for the rest of her life? My drinking has aged me 20 years. My face is covered with deep lines and wrinkles. I look like an old woman. I've tried all the facials and "tightening" creams and nothing has worked. Is there a good plastic surgeon in the Chicago area who isn't too terribly expensive, and would let me pay on time?

Also, Abby, please tell your readers that there is no better way in the world to learn how to live without alcohol than at ALCOHOLICS ANONYMOUS. I really did not want to quit drinking but went to a meeting just to get my family doctor off my back, and here I am, sober and happy and eager to face life. If I can quit, anybody can.

NAMELESS, PLEASE DEAR NAMELESS: My hat's off to you. Talk to your family doctor about that plastic surgery; and ask for his recommendation.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "DEPRESSED," the 25-year-old wife and mother who wants "shots" to increase the size of her bust:

In the first place, where did she get the idea that all males consider big bosoms important? It just isn't so. What is important to a man is that a woman should be neat, clean, honest, and considerate. I have spoken to other men about this, and they agree that a big bust is zero. It does not add one thing to a woman's real sexiness. In other words, a real man would not walk around the corner to stare at one of those top-heavy cows. Thank you.

Pale Spots Darken

When a picture has been hanging against a wood wall for some years, the paneling behind it may be a lighter shade than the rest of the wall. But if the picture is removed, the area will darken to match the surrounding wall surface, often within six months.

Wood Hues Diverse

Among the various species of woods, there's a color to suit every taste. Orangi-gold Douglas fir, nut brown Ponderosa pine, champagne-hued western hemlock, and golden-brown cedar are some of the favorites.

Mother Wants Schedule For Housekeeping Chores

DEAR POLLY—I am 22, have been married three years and have an 18-month-old son. I enjoy being a housewife and mother but sometimes feel like a failure at getting my housework done efficiently. I feel so frustrated as I try to wash, cook, bake, sew, iron, water the yard, do the dishes, mop and vacuum, run errands—all this on some sort of a weekly schedule to keep things livable and pleasant for my family and guests. I am sure there must be others who feel this way. Perhaps someone could give me a solution in the way of a weekly, bi-weekly or monthly schedule.

By POLLY CRAMER
put the clean, dry, unfolded diapers in a laundry basket kept in the bottom of the linen closet and folded the diapers just as I needed them.

Q. School really gets to be a drag this time of year—it's a long time between vacations, the weather isn't good for afterschool activities, and all my friends and I are feeling awfully restless. Do you have any ideas for brightening the academic life a little?

A. School's not about to change! So how about a bright new attitude for you? Try reorganizing your desk and notebook. Treat yourself to an interesting new pen, note pad, and bookcovers to put a little sparkle into studying. Maybe this is the time to get involved in a school club you've thought about but never joined. If you ordinarily like to play volleyball, try sewing, and vice versa. You also might try having study parties with friends to put some of the fun back in learning history or math. Waiting for the next vacation makes time go slower—unless you add the brightness!

Q. Our parties are really great, but somehow the room always looks like a disaster zone after they're over. How can you prevent all that spilled soda, etc., when teenagers get together?

A. Be prepared! Often you can't prevent spills—but you can be ready for them! At your next party keep a roll of border decorated paper towels handy and as soon as you (or someone else) sees a spill, grab a towel and wipe it up. This way, spills will be a very temporary problem—and the party room won't be a permanent mess. Makes after-the-party clean-up chores a lot easier too!

Q. I've heard that you can keep your hair-do in place while sleeping if you wrap some bath tissue around your head. Sounds like a neat idea, especially to avoid setting it every night. Does it work?

A. Sure does! It's an old idea, still as good as ever. But now you can use boutique bath tissue in bold gold, hot pink, and true blue or avocado green to match your robe or gown whenever you're using this hair-do saver trick! Just take a length of the tissue, wrap it around your head and pin or clip in place. This tissue tip also helps keep rollers intact overnight!

Dining Dress-Up
Deadpan plaster is no asset to a formal dining room. For an inexpensive dress-up, cover the lower third of walls with hemlock board paneling to make a dado. Then mount individual panels of wallpaper on the upper walls, framing each with wood molding. Leave about eight inches between each framed panel for the best effect.

Rebels Nudge Pampa, 48-46

51st YEAR

THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS
WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 8, 1969

By RON CROSS

Tascosa proved it had every right to first place in District 4-A Tuesday night by overcoming an eight-point Pampa lead with four minutes to play.

The Rebels got two free throws from reserve Eddie Moore with three seconds left and nudged Pampa, 48-46, to remain unbeaten in the first half of district play.

The victory boosted Tascosa's league mark to 6-0 and a 13-5 season record while Pampa fell to 4-2 in league competition and 9-5 for the season.

The game was tied 46-46 when Pampa's Tommy Ivey was fouled with six seconds to play but the senior workhorse missed both of the charity tosses and Jim Hollis fouled Moore on the try for the rebound.

But it was the Rebels 6-8 Les Cundiff who was a thorn in Pampa's side all night. Cundiff scored 15 points before fouling out late in the final period. Most of his goals came on easy shots since he could reach over everybody's head.

Jim Ryan took advantage of a slight Pampa defensive breakdown to score 13 points, nine of them in the vital fourth period.

Hollis scored 20 points to pace both teams and hit on nine of 16 from the floor while Jim Gallman scored 13 points, nine from the charity stripe.

Edward Moultrie fouled out for Pampa to reduce the Harvesters rebound strength in the final period and the senior jumper deserved a better fate.

Pampa took a 9-8 first period lead but trailed 21-20 after half-time. But the Harvesters came back strong to take a three-point, 34-31 third quarter lead, which at that time was the biggest margin either team had managed.

The score went to 38-30 with 4:02 to play but the Rebels scored seven straight points when the Harvesters started making mistakes.

But Hollis and Epperson scored to make it 42-37. With 1:08 to play Pampa enjoyed a one-point lead at 44-43 but Tascosa went in front, 45-44 with 51 seconds to play.

Jim Gallman hit two free throws 44 seconds left to tie it but Pampa never got the lead.

The Harvesters caught Tascosa hot with the Rebels connecting on 57 per cent of its field shots while Pampa mustered 45 per cent.

The Shockers leveled its season record at 4-4 with their third straight victory, 51-43 over the Tascosa Junior Varsity.

Brumfield scored 7, Johnston 13, Thompson 6, Jordan 16, Jenkins 7 and Hood 2.

The Harvesters travel to Lubbock Friday where they meet Lubbock High.

Howe, Hull, Orr Top Star Picks

MONTREAL (UPI)—Forwards Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings and Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks and defenseman Bobby Orr of the Boston Bruins were the top vote-getters in 1969 All-Star team balloting announced today by the National Hockey League.

Howe was selected to his 20th All-Star berth in a poll of NHL writers. Hull and Orr each received the highest total of points in the voting with 90 apiece.

Center Red Berenson of the St. Louis Blues received 86 points and was the top choice in the Western Division. It will be Berenson's first appearance in an All-Star game in eight seasons of professional play.

The NHL announced 24 of the 38 players who will meet at the annual All-Star game in the Montreal Forum Jan. 21, when for the first time, Eastern Division All-Stars will play the West Division Stars. In previous games, the All-Stars met the defending Stanley Cup champions.

Houston's Lewis Wins Honors

DALLAS (UPI)—The Texas Sports Writers Association Tuesday picked Guy Lewis, who directed the University of Houston to the No. 1 basketball ranking in the nation last year, as Texas Senior College Coach of the Year (winter season) for 1968.

A STEAL — Tascosa's Les Cundiff steals the ball and Johnny Epperson, left, Billy Thomas and Jim Gallman apply the breaks to start backdown court and prevent a score in Pampa's 48-46 loss to the Rebels.

OVER THE TOP — Pampa's Jim Gallman tries to put his shot over the outstretched fingers of Tascosa's Bobby Bridges, Tascosa edged the Harvesters, 48-46 in a battle for first place.

Burger, Rives Selected A, B All-Staters

Groom and Wheeler represented the Pampa area for 1968 with one football player from each school named to the coaches All-State team.

Groom, one of the top class B schools in the state, saw four year regular Ken Burger named to an offensive tackle position on the first team.

Ronald Rives of Wheeler was named to the Class A All-State first team, at an offensive tackle position. Rives was also named to the second team defensive squad.

Burger, 6-1, 195 pounder, was a starter as a freshman for the Tigers and in his freshman season was honorable mention on the all-district team.

He then made the team the last three years as a first team tackle.

Rives was joined by Everett Monroe of Clarendon on the all-state selections, both from District 2-A.

The 6-1, 205 pound senior has started for three years at Wheeler and both he and his brother, Don, a star running back with the Mustangs, have several colleges running after them.

Baylor Scores Win Over Mustangs, 69-67

By United Press International

The Baylor Bears have ensured there will be no runaway in the Southwest Conference basketball race this year.

The Bears bumped off Southern Methodist 69-67 in Waco Tuesday night, keeping the Mustangs from picking up two big victories on the road. SMU had opened the league race last Saturday by knocking

Mount Leads Purdue Win

By United Press International

Rick Mount may have to climb to another peak if he hopes to retain his Big 10 basketball scoring title this season.

The Purdue flash led the league in scoring with a 29.7 average as a sophomore and he hasn't lost his touch with a year's growth. Mount scored 37 points Tuesday night to lead the Boilermakers to a 98-84 upset over previously unbeaten Illinois.

But Rudy Tomjanovich, another junior and a definite threat to usurp Mount's scoring championship, enjoyed the greatest night of his career with a record-tying 48 points as Michigan outlasted Indiana 89-87 in overtime.

Tomjanovich's total equaled the school record set by Cazzie Russell in his last home game in 1966.

Purdue jumped to a 16-7 lead and built it to 32-18 on its home field at Lafayette, Ind. The Illini, unbeaten in their previous 10 games and ranked fifth nationally, fought back to a 42-38 halftime deficit and actually moved ahead at 51-49 early in the second half.

Stay In Front — A field goal by Mount and two more by George Faerber put the Boilermakers ahead again, 55-51, and they didn't trail thereafter. It was the ninth success in 12 tries for Purdue, which is 2-0 in Big 10 play. Illinois' league record is 1-1.

off TCU in Fort Worth.

Baylor's victory put it into the lead in the early Southwest Conference going with a 1-0 mark, tied with Arkansas, Texas and Texas A&M.

Arkansas bumped off Rice Tuesday night in Houston 67-62. Texas whipped Texas Christian 63-59 in Austin and Texas A&M dumped Texas Tech in College Station 85-84.

Larry Gatewood and Tommy Bowman paced the Bears over the Mustangs, scoring 19 points between them in an eight minute period of the second half to squelch a SMU rally. Gatewood wound up with 25 points while Bowman got 13.

Baylor got cold from the free throw line, however, late in the contest, and with 11 seconds SMU had a chance for a tying basket. Gene Phillips failed to get the shot off when he stepped on the out of bounds line driving for the basket.

SMU is now 1-1 in conference play.

Texas handed TCU its second straight league defeat by connecting on 23 of 27 free throws while the Horned Frogs got only nine of 17.

Kurt Papp pitched in 17 points to lead the Texas effort and help the Longhorns pick up their 10th straight win over TCU in the final seven minutes, but hung on for its one-point victory.

The Aggies tried to hold the ball and slow down the pace late in the game, but the strategy almost backfired. Harry Bostic and Ronnie Peret led A&M with 21 and 20 points respectively, while Steve Hardin paced the Raiders with 18.

Arkansas outscored Rice 5-2 in a frantic final six seconds to get its victory. The Razorbacks scored on a jump shot, on a technical foul shot and a layup all in the final six seconds of amazing basketball.

James Eldridge led all scorers for the Razorbacks with 20 points while Gary Reist had 15 for Rice.

In the top game outside the Southwest Conference around Texas Tuesday night, West Texas State ran its record to 9-2 with a run-and-shoot 111-104 victory over Hardin-Simmons.

Pampa, Lee Cagers Win

Pampa ninth and Lee eighth and ninth grade teams won games Tuesday after a lengthy layoff.

Pampa ninth downed Spearman, 49-18 with Brantley and Knutson leading the scoring with 10 points each.

Hendrick scored 6, Bunton 5, Smith 8, Nipp 4, Roland, Cunningham and Mudley, 2 each.

Lee ninth ripped Borger Austin, 54-44 and Lee eighth downed Borger Austin eighth, 42-35.

For Lee ninth Gary Haynes scored 13, Marsh Gamblin 10, Jeff Hogan 16, Mike Edgar 8, Don Cain 5 and Randy Stephens 2.

In the eighth grade game A.J. Brewer hit 9, Randy Bloomer 7, Shane Lee 6, Elli Soman 9, Rick Musgrave 6 and Tom Farrell 5.

Weeb Sees Bowl Victory

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Weeb Ewbank is convinced his New York Jets can be the first team to take a Super Bowl title from the National Football League champions. He has the quarterback, the receivers and the defense.

"We are the best AFL team to play in the Super Bowl. I wouldn't have said it earlier in the season, but I'll say it now. Our defense got better as the season went along," the Jets' coach says.

The Jets have shown no lack of poise since arriving to begin training for next Sunday's match in the Orange Bowl with the Baltimore Colts. Even the sometimes short tempered Namath, the Jets' player of the year quarterback, has withstood with a smile constant badgering by fans and the press. And he kept his cool when tough Colt Lou Michaels threatened to knock his head off in a local restaurant last Sunday night. Joe just laughed.

The Colts also are displaying a bit of poise by doing all they can to talk down the three-touchdown point spread by which they are favored to do in New York. They talk up Namath and the Jet defense.

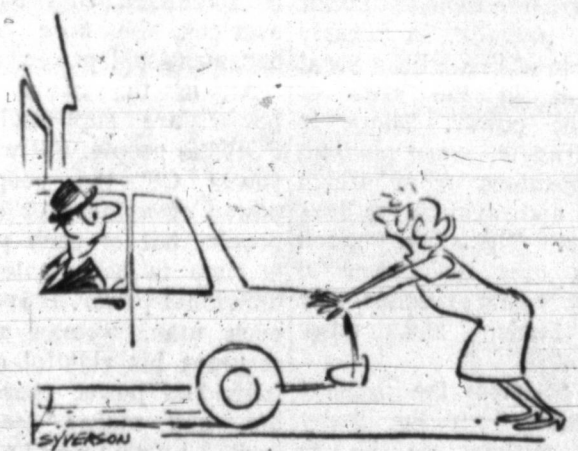

"We're impressed by their defensive line and their linebackers. They are well coordinated and they work well together," Baltimore coach Don Shula said Tuesday. "Their front four is a lot like Green Bay's front four—they have agility and quickness."

'69 Pro Golf Tour to Open in LA Thursday

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Fifty-two pros, each teamed with three amateurs, start the 1969 PGA race for glory and dollars today in a pro-amateur prelude to the 72-hole $100,000 Los Angeles Open.

Defending champion Bill Casper, Arnold Palmer, Bob Goaly, Lee Trevino, Bruce Crampton and many other big names are entered in this first event of the tour.

This is the 43rd Los Angeles Open and this year it returns to its old site—the par 71, 6,800-yard Rancho Park Municipal Course. When Casper won in 1968, the scene was Brookside Park in nearby Pasadena but that was just a one-year stop.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Money's Running Out

Like politicians—who exhibit an amazing capacity to misinterpret and underestimate the growing public disenchantment with political action and, consequently, fail to understand the nature and extent of the trouble their greed has brought upon themselves—the government school people, peering out from their tax and tenure-protected sanctuaries, appear incapable of measuring the depth of public discontent over the incompetence, inefficiency, socialistic ideology and ever growing expense of so-called public schools.

The increasing number of school bonds and tax overrides rebellious taxpayers have turned down in recent years should have provided the warning note; however, most school people, with ever bigger budgets, failed to take heed. There seems to be something about the bureaucratic way of thinking which tends to downgrade reality while upgrading whim. Most school people appear utterly incapable of grasping the fact that the tax payers' cupboards, assailed from every direction, are running bare; their patience at an end.

That such discontent and impatience are present and spreading, there can no longer be any doubt: More and more often of late, news of the growing tax payer rebellion has been making its way to the front pages of newspapers across the nation to such an extent that 1968 may go down in history as the year in which the "public school" system, unable to curtail its greed, sprung its fatal leak.

The Wall Street Journal, an old and respected publication not given to dramatizing the news, is only one of many and increasing examples.

"Strangled Schools," the headline read, followed by "Rebellion by Taxpayers and Rising Costs Force Curtailment of Classes," "Youngstown Shuts Its System For Month; Other Cities Cut Staff and Book Buying" and "The Day the Money Ran Out."

In Youngstown, Ohio, all 28,000 of the city's elementary and high school pupils were at home last month as a result of a taxpayer rebellion. "Voters," noted the Journal, "defeated a tax increase needed to provide the school system with enough funds to finish the year."

In Grand Ledge, Mich., near Lansing, said the Journal citing another example, "a $1.5 million school completed last summer stands empty because residents three times have refused to approve the taxes necessary to staff it."

In Champaign, Ill., the Journal continued, "public school teachers are being paid with vouchers that local banks have agreed to cash on the assumption that the hard-pressed school district eventually will sell enough bonds to redeem them. If a school tax boost isn't passed by next September, school officials say, they will have to dismiss as many as 140 of the district's 800 teachers."

The plight of public schools in these three cities, admitted the Journal article, is "unusually severe, but their basic problems are far from rare" and are essentially the same as those being experienced across the nation. "Hundreds of school systems," said the Journal pinpointing the problem, "are caught between the skyrocketing costs of education and mounting voter resistance to local tax increases. Many school boards have been forced to make ends meet by extending vacations, laying off teachers or cutting back instructional programs."

Obviously the concept of "public schools" is in deep trouble which should come as no surprise to anyone taking the trouble to examine its foundations based on coercion and force. Just when its total collapse will come, no one can say with any degree of accuracy; however that its collapse WILL COME, should the present trend continue, is no longer a matter of conjecture.

Every additional teacher strike; each new demand for more taxes to finance more luxurious swimming pools, auditoriums, and "nice to have" classes which have nothing to do with education; each new outburst of violence within the regimented system, will hasten the day of that coming collapse.

For Individual Power

Each new day seems to bring new demands for more power. Some are so obsessed by the idea of power that they advocate tearing down one kind of power group to supplant it with another.

The much touted power structure prevails in nearly every phase of life, with a great deal of it in the area of government power. There is found a struggle for political offices, positions from which some rule and regulate the lives of others. There is much quarrelling over the power to distribute welfare funds, or housing funds, and other goodies.

Today perhaps the biggest noise comes from the many segments wishing to be in control of the schools, ranging from the national education assn., to the teachers unions, and now the students are in the hollering act. There are pushes by labor leaders for union power. There is argument between those who want creative capitalism as economic power and those who want the phantom "equalizer" of socialism. And, one cannot overlook the area of church organization power.

All of the above bids for power are supposedly power FOR the people. But what about power OF the people? Not power of a mass or a mob of people, but of each person. It is time to accentuate creative individual power. It is time that each man, woman and child assumes his rightful charge of individual power over his own life, and makes decisions to seek inspiration, not degradation; to build, not destroy; to help, not to hinder. It is time to be somebody through individual power.

Counter Attack Pays Off

When in suit, counter-sue. That would seem to be the gist of a recent study by Jury Verdict Research, Inc., which found that the defendant in a personal injury lawsuit who cross-complains shows a distinct advantage over the defendant who merely denies he was negligent.

Analyzing the outcomes of 900 cases in which the defendant cross-sued the plaintiff—in effect, not only denied his negligence but blamed the plaintiff for his own injuries—the legal research group found that the defendant's chances of winning increased while the plaintiff's chances dropped substantially.

Surprisingly, however, in those cases where plaintiffs did win, their awards averaged well above normal, but when cross-complaining defendants won, their awards averaged somewhat below normal.

In other words, a good offense is not always the best defense in a court of law, but it's better than nothing.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: Why was the presidential vote by the electoral college system established? Why is the practice continued today? What of the future.

R. B.

ANSWER: The presidential electoral college system was established in the Constitution as a means of selecting the president and vice president by the states, which were considered supreme over the national government. The Constitution sets forth the number of presidential electors of each state as being equal to the number of congressmen and U.S. senators, but did not say how they were to be chosen. That was left to the states. It was all a part of the attempt by the founding fathers to prevent the United States from becoming a pure democracy (or rule by the mob), which James Madison and others of that day feared.

The states theoretically were to choose men who would exercise independent judgment to select men they considered qualified to be chief executive of the federal government. The founding fathers didn't realize that political parties would become so powerful in choosing the candidates. In fact George Washington, in his Farewell Address, warned the nation against parties as such.

The practice has continued, although most of the politicians have become attached to parties, probably because many of the congressmen have not found any substitute upon which they could agree. Several changes have been proposed, but there has been little agreement.

If there is a change in the future, we have no crystal ball to see what the change in the future will be. Based on present trends toward pure democracy, we would suppose that any future change would be toward a direct vote of the electorate, both responsible and irresponsible.

We would think that it is not so important, how politicians are to be elected, as to finding safeguards to prevent governmental officials from further invading the lives of the individuals.

Charge 'Community Action Programs Impede War On Poverty' Most

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — The convening of the new Congress has brought to light an unpublished report that bodes ill for the already furiously controversial community action programs of the Johnson Administration's so-called war on poverty — on which more than $8 billion has been spent since its being launched in 1964.

Prepared by Rep. William Scherle, R-Iowa, plain-talking member of the House Education and Labor Committee, the report charges flatly "community action programs have done more to impede the war on poverty than any other component."

Based on a detailed study of widespread scandals, corruption, violence, maladministration and numerous other outrages in community action programs in cities throughout the country, the Scherle report underlines the little-known fact that more money has been spent on CAP than any other aspect of the war on poverty.

The CAP budget for the current fiscal year is $540 million — as against $526 million last year. Since 1964, $2.45 billion has been expended for community action programs — more than one-fourth of the $8 billion voted for the entire anti-poverty project.

CAP does nothing directly to alleviate, eliminate or combat poverty.

Significantly, Rep. Scherle's unpublished findings are squarely in accord with those of former Assistant Labor Secretary Daniel Moynihan in a forthcoming book scathingly denouncing the handling of the anti-poverty program by the Johnson Administration.

This book and Scherle's report were prepared separately and independent of each other. Scherle's study was made last summer, and is only now surfacing.

Moynihan, who will be President Nixon's special adviser on urban problems, was one of the chief authors of the anti-poverty program. In his book, he caustically assails CAP as ill-conceived and grossly mismanaged. Says Moynihan:

"The cry for community control took the form of denying the legitimacy of electoral representation that had developed over the years — indeed the centuries — and which nominally did provide community control. Of a sudden, the city councilman was not enough, the state assemblyman not enough, the congressman not enough. . . The institutions of representative government, imperfect as they may be, have the singular virtue of defining who speaks for the community in a certain set of circumstances."

The full impact of the tragedy in the recent presidential election, is just now being felt. Nixon has appointed two compulsive truth-tellers to his cabinet. (That's the worst kind.)

It seemed that we had come a long way since George Washington cut down the cherry tree, but look at us now. How can the politician promise his friends an early spring and a late frost?

Just when the credibility gap got to be respectful, along comes a setback from the highest body in the nation. No longer was it necessary to tell a man "You are a liar, sir."

You only hinted that there was a credibility gap in his remarks.

Look at the hardship it will place upon fishermen. No blue-blooded fisherman would dare question another about the alleged size of his catch, or about the one that got away.

What about the man who tells his wife that he has to get up all night with a sick friend? Telling your mother-in-law how much you love her will become taboo if the sentiment toward truth and veracity seep down from Olympus to the common herd.

It may be recalled that when Harry fired General MacArthur, the report went out of Washington that a large percentage of the people in the nation had sent their approval. However, this kinda cooled down when actual figures accumulated.

One man told me that if everyone told the exact truth, then you would not have to remember anything. If this truth-telling can penetrate down just a little, it will help. Some have the conviction expressed by the quaker — "All men are liars except me and thee, and I have serious doubts about thee."

number of detailed instances in which community action agencies engendered violence, alienation, malfunctioning and other costly and obstructive difficulties.

"Community action agency personnel have organized and directed confrontations and demonstrations against public officials," declares Scherle, "to a degree where tensions have mounted and complete community disruption has resulted. Too frequently these displays of hostility have been coincident with racial unrest and have polarized the Negro and white communities."

"The lack of coordination and cooperation between community action agencies on one hand and school officials, welfare agencies, housing authorities and representatives of private enterprise on the other, have brought about total alienation of the community leaders from anti-poverty programs. Community action leaders seem to have overlooked their responsibility to mobilize and utilize" resources, public and private, of a community in an attack on poverty. Rather, the contrary appears to be true.

"Community reaction to the abrasive aspects of community action has developed an atmosphere of conflict and bitterness. There is ample evidence that hostility and conflict exist between anti-poverty agencies on one hand and elected officials and community agencies on the other."

Among the cities cited by Scherle as glaring instances of this is Houston, Tex. Scherle says:

"Mayor Louis Welch testified that he had complained to the Office of Economic Opportunity that anti-poverty workers were fomenting racial unrest. He said he received no answer from OEO for more than two months. A riot occurred on the campus of Texas Southern University in which one policeman was killed and two were wounded. Houston officials in a letter to OEO pointed out that anti-poverty workers agitated university crowds with incendiary and inflammatory statements, such as: 'When is your racist mayor going to wake up to the fact that this town is going to burn down?'. The shooting by students at TSU was justified because the white man has been oppressing the Negro for 300 years and now it is the black man's turn."

Other instances include: Durham, N.C. — "Anti-poverty officials arranged and paid for buses to transport over 100 demonstrators to the city hall. Protest demonstrations followed and a disruptive situation ensued at a time of high tension during the Newark riots."

Nashville, Tenn. — "Police Captain John A. Sorace testified that OEO funds had been issued Railroads, Come Back!

By PAUL HARVEY

How come most every other enlightened nation is improving its rail passenger service while we are letting ours decay? Our railroads have been phasing out passenger service as fast as the Interstate Commerce Commission will allow.

With skyways jammed and airports forced to curtail traffic, the need for alternative transportation is increasing. Railroads protest that passenger trains lose money; they can't afford the drain.

Recently, the ICC issued an economic report contradicting that conclusion, showing that for each of the last eight years railroad revenue from passenger service exceeded expenses for passenger service.

Additionally, the ICC says that during the past 14 years—despite losses from 1954 to 1958 and again in 1967—passenger service more than paid for itself. Passenger revenues those 14 years exceeded operating expenses by $35 million!

The Assn. of American Railroads says it isn't so, charges the ICC with "financial chicanery," says the agency must be using "some kind of new math."

And while this ancient debate drones on, Americans with a preference or a need for train travel are finding schedules reduced, passenger accommodations less attractive, services aboard declining or discontinued entirely.

Gallantly, some railroads have tried to hypo short-haul passenger service. High-speed rail service between New York and Washington, operated by the Pennsy, at 110 m.p.h. has cut rail time between those cities to less than three hours. (Counting travel time to and from airports, this is competitive with air transportation—and less costly.)

At the same time, the C&O-B&O, beginning Jan. 1, 1969, serves complimentary meals to sleeping-car passengers.

Conversely, however, the CB&Q wants to discontinue two passenger trains between Chicago and Kansas City "because the Burlington lost more than $282,000 last year on those two trains."

The railroad's spokesmen note that competing Ozark Airlines, over the same route, has received federal subsidies since 1954 totaling more than $5 million.

This—subsidy—appears to be the necessary inducement for which rail men are waiting. Some of us who consider passenger train service essential to our wartime and peacetime mobility find no satisfaction in the name-calling between the AAR and the ICC. Railroads remain the most economic form of passenger mass transit. Railroads cannot be expected to perform this service as some sort of charity. And we cannot afford to allow more railroads to go bankrupt.

Sen. Harrison Williams is sponsoring a bill which would authorize the federal government to subsidize commuter railroads. It would pay up to two-thirds of out-of-pocket operating losses.

The railroads would still have an incentive to make money on passenger service, but would be protected from losing too much unprofitable routes.

Such encouragement might provide the incentive necessary to upgrade and repopularize passenger train service. The Chicago and Northwestern over the past six years has modernized equipment, improved service, doubled its commuter traffic, is showing a profit.

Also, the new Canadian National Railways Turbtrain has proved that when speed and luxury and convenience are combined and available, such service is profitable.

Sen. Williams' subsidy may not be the whole answer, but it's better than nothing. And we've tried nothing.

THE GLOBAL VIEW

Rising Crime Is Giving Russia Hard Time, Too

By LEON DENNEN

Foreign News Analyst
NEW YORK (NEA) — Soviet sociologists how concede, however reluctantly, that crime respects no boundaries or political ideologies.

They have insisted for more than five decades that the criminal could flourish only in "decadent capitalist society."

However, recent investigations by Marxist-Leninist sociologists, mainly of juvenile delinquency, reveal that Communist society is as plagued with crime as Western countries.

They, also emphasize that all industrial nations have similar problems in the field of crime, which have little to do with the type of social order or prevailing ideology, but stem from the deep-rooted problems and imperfections of "technological civilization." This, of course, has long been acknowledged by Western social scientists.

One interesting conclusion reached by Soviet investigations is that more than 30 per cent of the total number of juvenile delinquents tried in Russian courts in recent years were children of the Soviet privileged elite.

They were the sons and daughters of government officials, high ranking Communist party-bureaucrats or industrial managers whose economic position in Soviet society is comparable to that of the affluent upper middle class in the United States.

Few of the youngsters engaged in criminal activity because of physical need. Most explained they resorted to crime out of sheer boredom or because they were in revolt.

Syracuse, N.Y. — "City officials and established agency administrators were subjected to continuous harassment, picketing and abuse by anti-poverty workers. Mayor William Walsh stated, 'The poor have been over-promised and over-sold. The poverty program has been under-productive and under-achieving. The war on poverty served to polarize the host community. The theory of hostility and conflict, equally repugnant to most Negroes as well as whites, fanned the flames of racism, and set back race relations a quarter of a century.'"

The playful, middle-aged wolf sidled up to the burnette. — George — Where have you been all my life? — Turning to him coolly, she replied, "Dolly — Well, for the first half of it, I wasn't born."

What particularly shocked the sociologists was the "surprising behavior" of the women at the trial. They refused to admit that embezzlement was a crime against Communist society.

"Yes, we did steal — so what?" said one woman who was a prominent member of a local Soviet. "The state is rich."

Another woman asserted "everybody steals in Russia."

Highlights and Sidelights From the State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association
AUSTIN—Just before the New Year dawned the Governor's Committee on Public School Education unfolded details of a controversial plan to shake up school district boundaries and dramatically revise finance formulas.

Indications are that it will have rough sledding in the Legislature.
 Committee's reorganization plan to help make Texas schools better and more efficient would limit 219 of 254 counties to one school district each. General rule is that all operating 12-grade systems should be either countywide in size or contain at least 2,600 students in average daily attendance.

Exception would be sparse area districts stretching over a county or more with less than 1,600 pupils and 24 special-purpose units like that operated in connection with military bases.
 Governor's Committee recommended that the Legislature adopt its proposed district maps for further study by special local countywide study committees charged with approving the new pattern or recommending something better to suit their own area needs. State Board of Education would compile the final reorganization plan by June 1, 1971.

Projected plan would slash the number of school districts from 1,218 to 354. All but 19 of 662 districts which now have less than 500 pupils would be eliminated. There would be 35 multi-district counties (those of larger population) with from two to 13 districts. All of the latter would have fewer districts than they now have.

Committee's proposals for figuring local districts' adjusted share of a basic foundation school program will also prove controversial, particularly in rural areas. Local share is calculated on the actual property-taxpaying ability in each district.

In many counties the number of districts would be reduced drastically. They include the following:
 Bowie from 14 to two; Cameron 14 to three; McLennan 20 to four; Williamson 12 to two; Grayson 14 to two; Collin 16 to three; Denton 11 to two; Tom Green nine to one; Hunt, Taylor, Henderson, Cherokee and Nacogdoches 10 to one; Rusk nine to one; El Paso nine to three; Nueces 17 to four; Hidalgo 19 to eight; Fannin and Lamar 11 to one; Cameron 14 to three; Johnson 12 to two; and Ellis 11 to two.

APPOINTMENTS—Gov. John Connally named J.G. McDuff of Brunet to the State Board of Control, the purchasing and housekeeping agency for state government. McDuff succeeds veteran member E.E. McAdams of Austin. His term extends to Aug. 31, 1973.
 Connally picked Mack M. Stripling of Nacogdoches and J.M. Haggard Sr. of Dallas for membership on the industry-hunting Texas Industrial Commission. Haggard fills the unexpired term of McDuff (extending only until next Feb. 15) and Stripling succeeds William F. Farah of El Paso for a term expiring Feb. 15, 1973.

Joe B. Finley Jr., of Encinal and E. Porter Halbert of Bronson succeed Steele Wright of Nacogdoches and Norman Moser of DeKalb, also on the Industrial Commission. Terms run to Sept. 7, 1973.

Mrs. Hazel Richardson, Bryan Carnegie Public Library librarian, will serve on the Texas State Board of Library Examiners, succeeding Mrs. H.L. McLaughlin of San Antonio.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES—Omission of a paragraph in a 1968 tax bill eliminated the exemption of non-profit corporations providing homes for elderly from franchise tax on debt. Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin said in a new opinion.

In other opinions, Martin concluded that:
 Establishment of a retirement trust for the president of Midwestern University does not constitute a supplement to salary and does not make the official ineligible for a $1500 raise provided in an appropriations bill by the Texas Legislature last June.

Petitions for a local-option liquor election, filed after Nov. 5, must contain signatures of 25 per cent of voters for governor at the general election on that date.

A girl 15 to 18, or a boy 15 to 17, who is first-time offender may be tried in a court that is other than a juvenile court, and can be sent to jail until he has paid his fine or served it out if convicted of possession, purchase or consumption of alcoholic beverages.

Martin also filed suit for an injunction against an Austin auto transmission repair company, alleging deceptive trade practices banned by the Consumer Credit Code. District court hearing is set for Jan. 9 in Austin.

SUNKEN TREASURE—Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler displayed the treasure salvaged from a Spanish ship sunk by a hurricane off the Texas coast in 1553. It's the first such treasure-trove found in Texas waters.

A gold crucifix, which Sadler estimated to be worth $100,000, plus a gold bar (showing a ragged end where the tax collector had cut off the crown's share), over 500 coins of Charles V of Spain and his mother, Queen Joanna "the Mad," and some 30-pound "plates" of bulk silver were among the items displayed.

Exact value of the treasure hasn't been set, but may run into "millions," Sadler said. Texas and the Indiana salvage firm working the wreck will split the treasure 50-50, which Sadler says is the best deal worked out for any government. Legally, the treasure—or the money from it—belongs to the Permanent School Fund, which owns the land on which the ship sank. Details on the exact sharing of the booty have yet to be worked out. And there are four other ships which sank in the same area during the hurricane that are expected to yield more "goodies."

CREDIT CODE STUDY—Texas Finance Commission is making a comparative study of the 1967 Texas Credit Code and the proposed Uniform Consumer Credit Code.

Study will be submitted to the Legislature for guidance in revising the code adopted two years ago.

Uniform code was drawn by National Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, approved by the American Bar Association and recommended for adoption by all states.

If adopted in Texas, uniform code would supplant the 1967 state code.
 Consumer Credit Commissioner Frank Miskell said Texas is the only state which has a comprehensive code regulating consumer credit.

"It seems assured, however, that the 61st Legislature will consider some changes in the Texas code to make it conform with new federal truth-in-lending law," Miskell said.

COLLEGE GRANTS APPROVED—Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System allocated $315,000 in federal funds to Texas colleges for community service and continuing education institutions and 26 programs will be financed by the funds, plus matching state outlays at each school.

Institutions receiving the money were:
 Texas A&M $56,847 for five programs; Texas Technological College $37,114 for one project; Lee College $14,901 for one project; Texas Christian University $34,847 for seven projects; The University of Texas at Austin $17,000 for one project; Southern Methodist University $3,519 for one project; Lamar State College of Technology $6,000 for one project; The University of Texas at El Paso $14,771 for two projects; University of Houston $40,820 for two projects; The University of Texas at Arlington $49,728 for two projects; Austin College $20,000 for one project; and Texas Woman's University $2,833 for one project.

PLANNING REGIONS ANNOUNCED—Governor Connally established 21 multi-county state planning regions to serve as a guide to state and federal agencies in developing service areas and to serve as a framework for coordination of planning activities.

Delineation is intended to improve communication and coordination among planning and related functions of state, federal and local governments.

Governor's Division of Planning Coordination developed the regions after two years' study and consultation with state agencies, consultants and officials at all levels of government. Regions represent natural social and economic groupings of counties reflecting shared interest. They will serve as master areas for state government planning with the aim of better coordination among all units.

Regions are Capitol, Alamo, Golden Crescent, Coastal Bend, South Texas, Lower Rio Grande Valley, Gulf Coast, South East Texas, Deep East Texas, East Texas, North East Texas, North Central Texas, Concho Valley, Panhandle, South Plains, Permian Basin and Upper Rio Grande.

Texas crop output increased 18 per cent over 1967, led by a 26 per cent cotton production jump, according to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Texas hospital employees' salaries rose seven to 14 per cent during the last year, Texas Hospital Association estimates. On Jan. 1, Texas gained two new high court judges: Sears McGee of Houston as Supreme Court Associate Justice and Leon Douglas of Vernon as Court of Criminal Appeals judge.
