

Nixon May Try To Kill Office Of Economic Opportunity

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Some members of Congress are beginning to think President Richard M. Nixon will try to kill the New Frontier's storm-tossed antipovertry agency, the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Only one Congressman, Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, was ready to predict out loud that Nixon would seek to "scuttle" OEO. But Nixon's failure to date to designate a new OEO director and the total absence of rumors about who might get the job has others speculating that the antipovertry agency may be marked for extinction. However, no one seems to think that the Nixon administration would try to wipe out all the antipovertry programs started under President Johnson. Instead, the guessing is that the most popular of the programs would be farmed out to other agencies, leaving OEO with nothing to do.

Emphasizing that he had no official word on the matter, Ayres said he believed Nixon planned to leave Bertrand M. Harding, OEO's second director in its four-year life, on the job for the time being.

While other House members and senators who have been involved with antipovertry legislation were unwilling to forecast Nixon's position on OEO, there was general agreement that any attempt to kill the antipovertry agency would provoke a spirited congressional battle.

The Washington Post reported Sunday that a nine-member Nixon task force will recommend that the incoming president make sweeping changes in poverty and other welfare and food programs, including a dismantling of the OEO.

The Post said the proposals, if endorsed by Nixon, would require legislative action that could keep Congress busy "for many months."

Campus Trouble Hits the Nation

By United Press International
The president of Brandeis University has offered to meet today with 65 Negro students he suspended for barricading themselves in the schools' communications building. The president of San Francisco State College says he is prepared to fire union teachers who continue a strike.

House Committee To Investigate SDS Organization

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Students for a Democratic Society, activist promoters of many campus and anti war demonstrations, will be the top target of the House Un-American Activities Committee this year.

Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., said the student organization will be the first matter for investigation by the committee of which he has just become chairman.

Police Still Checking For Clues in Murder

AUSTIN (UPI)—Austin lawmen today continued their search for an unidentified "sadist" who they believe killed a pretty University of Texas coed and her date last week.

County Approves Bid for Bridge

Gray County commissioners court approved bids for a new county bridge and two new vehicles in a 10 a.m. session this morning.

R.L. Garrett Construction Co. of Lubbock submitted the low bid of $26,314 for the bridge to span Red Deer Creek, which collapsed this summer under the weight of a heavy truck.

Harold Barrett Ford of Pampa submitted the low bid for a new 2-ton truck for Pet. 1 with a bid of $1,822 with trade in. Ted Simmons Chevrolet of McLean had the low bid for a 2-ton truck for Pet. 4, submitting a bid of $2,424 with trade in.

In other business this morning, the commissioners court also approved the payment of $449 to Charles R. Bergstrom III of Houston for right-of-way (See COUNTY, Page 3) black students at Brandeis, a Jewish institution of 2,400 students—about 150 of whom are Negro—at Waltham, Mass., was in its sixth day today. The dissidents seized the communications center to protest alleged "racism" at Brandeis and issued a list of 10 nonnegotiable demands.

President Morris B. Abraham suspended them Saturday. However, he allowed the deadline for their eviction from the communications building to pass and offered to meet alone with the protesters.

Brandeis has said eight of the 10 demands already were school policy, and one demand involving a white student who allegedly shot at a Negro with an air rifle will be handled as a disciplinary matter. The principal demand is for an autonomous department of Afro-American Studies with its own budget and policies. The faculty voted in favor of the demand if the students left Ford Hall.

At San Francisco State, acting President S. I. Hayakawa vowed to carry out a state law providing for the "automatic resignation" of any teacher missing five consecutive days of classes. The American Federation of Teachers, in the sixth day of a strike today, said any dismissals of union teachers would touch off a one-day strike in all state campuses. Hayakawa said it would be "at least still trying to follow every lead we get. But we don't have a description of the man—other than just a young white man. "But there is no question about this being the work of a sadist," he said.

The suspect was reportedly seen by several persons in the Bull Creek area shortly before the body of John Albert White.

BULLETIN

AUSTIN (UPI)—A joint statement by law officials today revealed it is believed that the killer of a pretty University of Texas coed and her date last week drove a "light colored 1968 or 1969 Volkswagen."

Travis County Sheriff T. O. Lang and the Austin Department of Public Safety said this information is "based on statements from witnesses."

21. of Corpus Christi, was found Wednesday. His date, 19-year-old Keitha Morris of White Deer, was found 65 miles away the next day in Inks Lake.

While lawmen tracked down leads in the investigation today, a Taylor, Tex., man offered a $500 reward for any information leading to the arrest of the killer.

Friend of Sheriff Lang said the man, Tony Mottish, "has no connection with law enforcement, he's just a citizen of Taylor and a friend of mine."

Cong Squad Hits Helicopters In Surprise Attack

SAIGON (UPI)—A Viet Cong bomb squad blew up 18 helicopters today, killed eight Americans and wounded 10 others in a surprise attack on a Mekong Delta airbase.

Communist gunners shelled two U.S. division headquarters and three towns near Saigon.

U.S. intelligence sources said it was too early to tell whether the stepped up Communist attacks meant the Reds' long-awaited fourth offensive was underway.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, said captured Communist documents first indicated an offensive would start in December but the plan was delayed until January. Now he said the documents mentioned Tet, the lunar new year starting Feb. 17.

Abrams said 40,000 Communist troops are operating to the north and northwest of Saigon and about half of them have begun moving southward toward the capital in small groups.

The Viet Cong guerrillas cut their way through the barbed wire surrounding Can Tho airbase in the Mekong Delta 75 miles southwest of Saigon before dawn today, tossing satchels of dynamite at parked helicopters. They damaged 18 of them, some heavily, U.S. spokesmen said.

For more than two hours the Communists traded gunfire with U.S. defenders

HICKEL IN TROUBLE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate takes up President-elect Richard M. Nixon's cabinet choices this week, with the man from Alaska the prime target for some Democrats.

Walter J. Hickel, Alaska governor and Nixon's choice for interior secretary, appeared to be the only major cabinet designee who might fall short of a quick approval.

The lineup calls for a series of hearings on the appointees, beginning Tuesday, with formal approval shortly after Nixon assumes office a week from today.

Most of the hearings already were tagged as routine. But Hickel, who stirred dissent among some conservationists with a few much-publicized sentences last month, might be headed for some tough questioning.

He goes before the Senate Interior Committee on Wednesday. Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-

Communists Reject Formulas On Procedures Of Conference

PARIS (UPI)—The United States failed Sunday in an attempt to get the Paris talks on Vietnam moving while Lyndon Johnson is still president. Cyrus Vance, deputy chief of the U.S. delegation to the talks, presented two more allied formulas on procedures to North Vietnam in a 4 1/2-hour meeting with his Hanoi counterpart, Col. Ha Van Lau. The Communists rejected them as "nothing new."

Once again the Washington and Hanoi diplomats seemed on the verge of agreement, but the same sticky question of what status the Viet Cong would have in an expanded conference remained unresolved.

American officials said some agreement on the crucial issues of the shape of the conference table and the speaking order might come before the inauguration of President-elect Richard M. Nixon on Jan. 20.

But diplomatic observers were less optimistic because of the time-consuming negotiations between U.S. and South Vietnamese delegates which invariably precede sessions between Vance and Col. Lau.

Warns of Communist Buildups Near Saigon

By JACK WALSH

SAIGON (UPI)—The commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam said today he will not recommend sending any American troops home "until I'm absolutely sure it's an order." But he said a cutback was inevitable.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said the decision to reduce the U.S. troop commitment should be made "Deliberately, analytically and with sound objectives. We've put too much into this war in terms of sacrifice to get away with it now."

Abrams warned of Communist troop buildups northwest of Saigon and below the North-South Vietnam Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) but said, "By September, we felt their (the Communists') military campaign had run its course." He did not rule out further Red offensives.

Questioned while en route to a meeting in Saigon, the four-star general said he had no timetable for sending American troops home. He said the South Vietnamese Army was accepting more and more of the fighting load.

"I'm not going to recommend a reduction (in American troops) until I'm absolutely sure it's in order," Abrams said. "I frankly think it's inevitable. Perhaps I'm optimistic about the future."

The cigar-chewing American commander said the Communists have about 40,000 troops to the North and Northwest of Saigon and were "working like mad" below the border Demilitarized Zone.

"The way I look at it, he (the enemy) is trying to create an option so that if he chooses to, he can attack," Abrams said.

Asked about captured Communist documents that indicated when a guerrilla offensive would begin, Abrams said, "nothing new."

On a nearby golf course, Capt. John Ayres, 27, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Ayres, 923 E. Browning, died Friday (CST) in Andersen Air Force Base dispensary in Guam after he was found shot in the head on a nearby golf course.

Preliminary investigation revealed the wound was self-inflicted and ruled out foul play as a cause of death. 1st Lt. Barry Musselman, Dyess AFB information officer, said, "Capt. Ayres was assigned to Dyess with the 337 Bombardment Squadron and was serving temporary duty at Guam as a member of a B52 bomber crew. He was a radar navigation bombardier."

He was due to leave Guam the day he was shot and was awaiting departure of his aircraft to return to Dyess. He was to load his luggage at 3 p.m. the day he was shot. When he did not appear to report for departure, his friends went out to look for him. (See AYRES, Page 3)

Jury Selection Slated to Begin In Sirhan Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The trial of Sirhan B. Sirhan entered its second week today and not once during the legal maneuverings has the name of the man he is charged with murdering been mentioned in open court.

But the name of Robert F. Kennedy was likely to be mentioned many times today as the trio of attorneys defending the 24-year-old Arab got down to business of selecting a jury.

Grant Cooper, head of the defense team, said he was almost certain that jury selection could begin shortly after the trial resumed at 11:30 a.m. CST in the steel-plated courtroom.

The last of the defense motions to establish a firm basis for later appeals was the first order of business. Cooper spent the weekend researching arguments challenging the jury selection process itself.

He was expected to argue that persons in some occupational groups are automatically excluded from the list of potential jurors and any panel selected from them is not truly representative.

A major issue in jury selection was the massive publicity given the assassination, the arrest of Sirhan and the developments in the case during the past seven months.

Opposing attorneys and presiding Judge Herbert V. Walker were faced with the long and difficult task of picking a jury whose mind is not made up as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant.

Walker planned to question some prospective jurors individually and in private to learn whether they have formed an opinion about the case. He also wants to know if they have read accounts of it and other sensitive matters.

Another key question likely to be asked of potential jurors is whether they are opposed or in favor of capital punishment. Under California law the jury first decides whether the defendant is guilty and then, in a separate penalty trial, determines whether he should die in the gas chamber.

YOUR BIRTHDAY Tuesday: You face a year in which conflicting urges must be reconciled. The easy way out would be to pursue a narrow path, only to find yourself psychologically dulled. Tuesday's natives generally prefer a militant approach to life, strong opinions.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Self-improvement programs and experimentation pay off in your regular work. Let well enough alone concerning the affairs of your friends and neighbors.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Group financial efforts make progress. New methods applied to your own affairs, will produce better now. Put something aside for savings.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): The more the merrier Tuesday. Get everybody in on the project and keep them talking while they work. Original ideas (before you call them that, be sure they are) pay off readily.

Romance flourishes.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Exploit your advantages (within the limitations of good taste). You are well received today. You are due a fair result. Quit early and change the subject altogether for the evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Tuesday is one of those charming adventures into the whimsical, might-be or could-be world, if you will see it thus. Get the most out of it as there is a core of truth behind even the wildest fantasy.

DEAR ABBY: You may be unable to help me, but perhaps you can offer an opinion.

How does a decent, deeply religious widow overcome her desires to be kissed and be loved?

After being married 44 years with only one man in her life, widowed a year, not exactly ancient (62), one lives only with memories, constantly revived by TV and books, all ending the details. Time you move to fit the moods of your partners. Expect garrulous conversation all day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Confidential operations are indicated for Tuesday. Negotiations for institutional business go better than expected. Work for older relatives also flows smoothly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): If you are fully informed on what is happening in distant areas of your field, you are at a favorable vantage point now. Present your suggestions briefly and with conviction.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Personal attentions are on their way into your awareness. This is the day to send letters. You are advised to prepare for relatives in the future, per-in sex, and while pleasant to review, they bring to life desires that are difficult to suppress.

Having once had pure gold, I could not replace it with brass. No man however good could ever take the place of the one I lost, yet isn't it evil to harbor desires such as mine? This writer feels ashamed and unclean, and she is miserable beyond words. Please try to help me.

ALONE

DEAR ALONE: You have no cause to feel "ashamed" or "unclean" because your natural desires remain undiminished as a widow of 62. Instead of trying to "overcome" your desires to be loved, look for someone who's in the same boat—to whom you can give love. And don't be so quick to evaluate the "metal." You need an ALLY, not an ALLOY.

DEAR ABBY: My twin sister and I have the same problem. About a month ago our whole family was involved in an automobile accident. There were no serious injuries but our parents were scared out of their wits and gave us strict orders that we were not to ride in cars.

We both have steady boy friends and this rule is causing problems. Our boy friends are good, careful drivers and had nothing to do with this accident. Is this fair? Help!

18 AND 18

DEAR "18": No, but time will solve your problem. I predict that in due time the memory of the accident will fade, and so will the rule.

DEAR ABBY: If you should get a letter saying, "Dear Abby, my husband and I are not able to communicate because he never tells me anything," it will be from my wife. But before you answer it, let me fill you in on a few facts:

She's right. I don't tell her anything anymore because every time I open my mouth to say something, she butts in, finishes it, and tells me where I'm wrong.

You see, she reads two newspapers every day and has her television on from morning until night, which makes her an "authority" on positively everything, altho she contradicts herself and invariably gets her facts all mixed up.

I am a responsible man, and my job requires that I keep abreast of all the local, national and international news, so it's not like I was down in a pit all day completely oblivious to what's going on. So now I just say good morning and good night. Sign me—

Science Shrinks Painful Hemorrhoids Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

Finds Way That Both Relieves Pain and Shrinks Piles in Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases—to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching and relieve pain. In case after case doctors proved, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. The secret is Preparation H®. There is no other formula for hemorrhoids like it. Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

Mrs. Emanuel Hernandez, 420 N. Zimmers, protested last week to Mrs. Madalyn Murray O'Hair's anti-religious steps by starting a petition. The petition, entitled, "America, Speak Out," is to be mailed to the Supreme Court and to the three astronauts who completed their moon orbital recently, Mrs. Hernandez said Saturday.

The three astronauts supported by Mrs. Hernandez's efforts are William Anders, Frank Borman and James Lovell, who read from the Book of Genesis during their moon orbital flight and were criticised by Mrs.

O'Hair for reading the Bible. "Mrs. O'Hair is trying to erase the name of God from about everything. She was the one who got the Supreme Court to forbid written prayers in public schools and wants the word 'God' taken out of the Pledge of Allegiance," Mrs. Hernandez said.

Mrs. Hernandez, with assistance by Pampa High school students, circulated the petitions in downtown Pampa Saturday in a "man-on-the-street" effort to poll Pampans' opinions on the anti-religious trends.

"We'll continue the petitions as long as people are willing to sign them. I believe before we're through, more than a thousand names will be on our

The Courts and Colleges

"College students are entitled to the same degree of due process as a suspected pickpocket..." So writes William W. Van Alstyne, professor of law at Duke University.

Prof. Van Alstyne sums up, rather neatly, a recent attitude of the courts... an attitude reflected in the recent decision of a federal district court here in Texas. In that case, Dist. Judge Reynaldo Garza, without ruling on the merits of the case itself, said that a student may not be expelled without due process of constitutional law...

On the face of it, some school men concluded they had lost all disciplinary control over their students. (It's interesting to reflect that in the early days of universities, students controlled their schools. They set virtually all the rules, controlled the faculty and determined the goals and content of the academic program.)

Today, Edward Schwartz, outgoing president of the militant National Student Association, advises his members: "Test your rights in the courts. The climate is receptive."

Schools, including universities, have long operated on the theory that they are "in loco parentis" — that is, taking the place of parents and exercising the disciplinary powers of the absent guardian. Second, it has been assumed that attendance at a tax-financed school is a privilege, not a legal right, and that the privilege may be withdrawn by the school authorities.

The Harvard Law Review says both views are now "largely unacceptable" to the courts. The Review cites a case very similar to the one before the court in Texas. In Hammond vs. South Carolina State College a federal court reversed the suspension of students who had demonstrated in a protest movement.

The court in that case held, as did Judge Garza, that a rule requiring prior school approval of all campus demonstrations was violation of the First Amendment. The court further held, as Judge Garza found in Texas, that a flat ban on all campus demonstrations would be a violation of the amendment.

Perils of Hoing a Row

The farmer may be closer to nature than other people, but he's even more a victim of technology than his city cousin.

Old Dobbin-kicked Farmer Jones once in awhile, sometimes fatally, but he seldom rolled over on him. Almost half of all farm accidents involving tractors are due to rollovers or tipovers.

The fact is that farming is the third most dangerous occupation in the nation. Only mining and construction work are more hazardous. And even though the number of farm accidents is slowly decreasing, the per capita accident rate is on the increase, say safety experts.

Flu Plays Favorites

Speaking of the Hong Kong flu, as who isn't, it appears to be undemocratic while at the same time displaying a marked preference for Democrats.

The avalanche of statistics pouring into health offices across the country since the bug began bugging us indicate that it finds its favored victims among the affluent. Suburbanites, commuters, office workers and students seem to have been getting the worst of it.

The less-privileged, who apparently do not get around as much, or at least not in fashionably infectious circles, have not been hit so hard.

As for Democrats, it has bedded President Johnson and Vice President Humphrey while letting resident-elect Nixon off with a light touch and ignoring

The Struggle In Congress

While the outlook for the Executive Branch of the U.S. government is bright for the first time in many years, the situation in the Congress is not nearly as cheering. Believers in orderly, responsible government were dismayed January 3 when the U.S. House of Representatives voted to seat the Rev. Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem Democrat who had been refused a seat two years ago after a House study committee accused him of misusing Congressional funds.

Another indicator of attitudes was the election of Sen. Edward Kennedy to the post of Democratic whip, defeating Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana. Sen. Kennedy's election was a setback for Conservative Democrats in the Senate. It also indicates that a move is under way to create a Kennedy power base in the Senate.

These and other developments on the Congressional scene suggest that Richard M. Nixon won't have an easy time with a Democratic-controlled Senate, or at least with the "liberals" in the House and Senate. Obstructionist tactics are likely to be encountered by Mr. Nixon as he seeks to deal with inflation, introduce reform in labor laws, and produce new, realistic legislation for the 1970s.

The American people gave Mr. Nixon a clear mandate for change, but the Congress was left virtually unchanged. So Mr. Nixon faces a difficult four years in the White House. He will have to work hard to mobilize public opinion in support of conservative reforms in government practice. Grassroots opinion will have to be energized so that the "liberals" in Congress will feel its impact.

Fresh initiatives are desperately needed in Washington because the old policies, espoused by the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, failed to work. Massive federal anti-poverty programs, instead of eliminating poverty, have provided opportunities for abuse, as a recent inquiry in Detroit revealed.

More gloomily, James A. Perkins, president of Cornell, ponders that the time might not be far distant when the awarding of diplomas and degrees, the marking of papers and the awarding of grades, will be open to legal challenge and requirements to conform to judicial standards.

We Can Make A Home For Him

Pull Up A Chair

By JOHN KEASLER

Punchline Cuba "PHILADELPHIA. — The departure of an Eastern Airlines jet plane for Tampa was delayed 15 minutes at Philadelphia International Airport after a man entered the cockpit and asked, apparently as a joke, 'Is this plane going to Cuba?'"

Authorities said... he entered the pilot's section and asked Capt. C.M. Eckman the question. Eckman notified the ground crew and the man and his family were taken off the plane.

The man denied the incident but Eckman identified him 'positively' and said he was 'fed up with that kind of stuff.' The man was given a refund of his fares and permitted to leave.

A precocious youth, Fitzhugh "Chuckles" McGrite had already gained a measure of local fame as a humorist by the time he reached the second grade and was known for his ever-ready store of witty sayings.

"What's your name, little boy?" people would ask him, and his friends in the know would wriggle in anticipation. "Puddin' n' tane!" he would respond. "Ask me again and I'll tell you the same!"

By the time he reached junior high school he was known far and wide for his exuberant ability to turn a laugh from any situation. When someone would say "What time is it?" he would come back, quick as a flash, with, "Same time it was this time yesterday!"

Laugh and the world laughs with you, that was Fitzhugh's motto, and he maintained his jolly outlook despite coming from a broken home. He broke it.

His entire family got so tired of him answering the phone by saying "Go ahead, it's your nickel" or "Joe's poolhall—chief eightball speaking" that they all moved to Waukegan one night while he was down at the Bijou.

He loved to sit in the front row and regale the performers with his sayings. "Hey!" he would shout, "Is that your nose or are you eating a banana?"

Left to fend for himself, and by now a stalwart young man, he took stock of his assets and, shortly after the advent of World War II, took a job as sales clerk in a large concern.

No matter what anybody asked for he coined a riposte which gained a certain fame. worked well in the past and no doubt will operate effectively in the new Congress. But conservatives will have to work very hard, for the radical movement in the country also is intent upon strengthening its position inside Congress. It will be committed to its own effort at mobilization of leftist opinion on college campuses and in urban protest areas. Major political battles lie ahead that will determine the future of the Republic.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: Does the U.S. Constitution contradict the spirit of the Founding Fathers as set forth in the Declaration of Independence? If so, how?

ANSWER: It certainly does, because the Declaration of Independence says that government should derive their just power from the consent of the governed. That does not mean just the consent of the majority, that means the consent of all those who want to be a part of the government, that is, the consent of each individual.

This is what we refer to when we say that government services should be supported voluntarily and that those who don't want the service should not have to pay for it, nor should they get the service. When you voluntarily pay for something, you are clearly giving your consent, with no quibbling, and you are not imposing your choice on anyone else.

But the constitution gives the Congress the power to tax, and you have to pay taxes for what the Congress decides to spend them for, whether you want that service or not. The power to tax is thus a violation of the spirit of the Declaration of Independence.

Chief Justice John Marshall said, "The power to tax is the power to destroy," and Alexis de Toqueville said that "Democracy in the United States will last until those in power learn that they can perpetuate themselves through taxation."

And this is what has happened in this country. Power has been expanded through taxation. So far it has not been possible for one man, or one group of people, to perpetuate themselves in power as every few years we play musical chairs at election time, and the ones who grab the chairs get to exercise the power. But the power exercised over the lives of the people goes on. In fact, it grows, and taxation grows with it. One is not possible without the other.

The Declaration of Independence said that all men are created equal in that they have equal rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That means that no man should have power to control the life of another man. But when Congress, that is, politicians, are given the power to tax, they are given the power to control the lives and property of everyone else. And that certainly violates the spirit of the Declaration of Independence.

The big game hunter, took his wife on his newest safari in Africa. The sportsman had bagged a few minor trophies, but the great prize was the head of a huge lion, killed by his wife.

Jack (her husband)—No, with the station wagon we hired!

Arabs Need Understanding

By PAUL HARVEY

Our relationships in the Middle East are in such a monumental snafu that where 11 years ago the Lebanese asked and got protection by U.S. marines, today Lebanon is inviting protection by the ships of Soviet Russia.

If it's true that much of the mismanagement of all foreign relations derives from a "language barrier," this is especially true when dealing with Arabs.

Nasser shouts, "We will fight to the last drop of Arab blood!" and Wall Street's nervous nannies fall out of bed. This is silly. An Arab sounds like that when he's ordering a taxicab. Correspondent Charles Arnot, recently six years stationed in the Arab world, explains, "Nasser's most urgent motivation is to save his own face with other Arab leaders." Loudly voiced bravado, in other words, is a face-saving ploy.

These are, fundamentally, Oriental people in thought and philosophy. Understanding what the Arabs say and what they do requires an understanding of their religion and their historic emotional penchant for martyrdom.

In every Arab village, town and city the most sacred piece of real estate is the street or the square called "Martyr's Street" or "Martyr's Square." It is almost akin to the pre-World War — Japanese belief that "to die for the Emperor is to live forever."

The Moslem religion is based on a belief that, at a certain moment of crisis, Allah will take over and preserve Islam and Moslems.

During visits to Cairo I have experienced this philosophy which permeates the everyday life of the Moslem. Riding with an Arab taxi driver, stalled in heavy traffic, I have seen him throw up his hands and say, "In-shah-lah." That translates "If God is willing" or, more precisely perhaps, "Let Allah now take over."

This combination of fatalism and martyrdom governs most all Arab behavior. When we try to interpret Arab utterances literally, we are likely to be 180 degrees mistaken.

In his swan song as secretary of state, Dean Rusk indicated that there is lack of understanding of the Arabs even among the top echelon of our government. He talked of that area being "on the brink of a catastrophe."

I am not saying that a renewal of large-scale hostilities in the Middle East is impossible. It is presently highly unlikely. Partly because Israel does comprehend the Arab martyrdom complex and has been retaliating for border raids, not by killing people but by destroying Arab planes 13 at a time. That is hitting where it hurts. Such acts, however unpopular in this era of pulled-punches wars, are a potent deterrent to hit-and-run Arab raids.

In Cairo, the semi-official publication El Ahram (its editor is a close, personal friend of Nasser) says, "Time has run out for any peaceful settlement. There will be another full-scale war this year."

This won't be.

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANSTADT

Inhaling Asbestos Dust May Cause Lung Cancer Because of the surprisingly varied uses to which asbestos interest among doctors in the lung disease called asbestosis.

This is one of a group of diseases of the lungs caused by the inhalation of various dusts. In asbestosis, the inhalation of asbestos dust over a period of years causes permanent needlike asbestos crystals. The irritation they produce is mechanical rather than chemical and the result is fibrosis or scarring of the lungs.

This in itself can be serious, but even more serious is the fact that the victims have a death rate from lung cancer eight times that of men who are not exposed to the dust. Their death rate from cancer of the digestive tract is also higher than the expected rate. A further study revealed that among asbestos workers, those who smoke cigarettes have a death rate from lung cancer 92 times as great as that of men who neither smoke nor work with asbestos.

In addition to asbestos weavers, those in danger include auto mechanics, brake manufacturers, carpenters, clutch manufacturers, filter makers, manufacturers of floor tiling, insulators, miners, roofers, shingle makers, shipbuilders and steam fitters. Even "sidewalk engineers" who enjoy watching new skyscrapers go up are at some risk because appreciable amounts of asbestos, though not visible to the naked eye, have been shown to be present in the surrounding air at these locations. And children are not immune to the danger. Some kindergartens have been known to supply raw asbestos for tots to mix with water to make "dough."

Unlike the usual case of tuberculosis, the lesions caused by the inhalation of dust are not localized but are diffused throughout the lungs. Since there is no effective treatment for asbestosis, prevention is essential. All workers with asbestos in any form should be protected by well-constructed vents to carry the dust away or they should wear respirators. Those who smoke should quit and those who don't should never start.

Wit and Whimsy

A farmer, used to driving in his village where only one traffic light existed, came to the city and was stopped by a red signal. He looked both ways and then continued through. A policeman stepped from nowhere, asking, "Officer Case—What's the idea of going through the red light?"

A farmer Cole—Why, we always do that in Happyville if nobody's using the green.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Broadway Joe Namath, who psyched and then whipped the Baltimore Colts in the Super Bowl Sunday, is a show business star today. Sandy Koufax, at his peak, was the top celebrity in Hollywood. Television has made sports a major part of show business. All of which explains NBC-TV's "Academy of Professional Sports Awards."

Namath is a nominee for the outstanding football player prize in the second annual awards program, which will be broadcast Feb. 19 for an hour, with Perry Como as host. It is a black tie invitational affair, with about 800 persons expected to attend at the NBC studios Burbank, and take part in a dinner afterward—and if last year's ceremonies were indicative, more movie stars will be present than at the Academy Awards Show.

Something Special

Awards programs invariably get big television ratings, but a broadcast that honors sports figures is, in Hollywood, really something special to see because, to the movie and television figures that the rest of the country idolizes, the super athletes are very unique and rare celebrities. They are the stars to whom film and stars offer their own hero worship.

Norman Baer, a bearded former sports writer for International News Service who is producing the sports awards show for NBC-TV, recalls the time he introduced a tough agent to John Unitas, the great Baltimore Colt quarterback. The agent, says Baer, "was like a little boy. He told Unitas: 'You're my idol.'"

NEW YORK—President-elect Richard M. Nixon, admitting to a gathering of intellectuals his lack of popularity in comparison to his former rival, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey: "If the vote were taken in this room, it would probably come out Humphrey first and Nixon second."

WASHINGTON—Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., announcing that he plans to submit a bill substituting "Internal Security" for "Un-American" in the name "House Un-American Activities Committee."

"Un-American as a term is ambiguous. It's not a good legal term and that concerns people who have more libertarian philosophies."

MIAMI—New York Jets defensive back John Dockery, praising Jets quarterback Joe Namath, who led his team to a 16-7 upset victory over the Baltimore Colts in the Super Bowl: "He not only made me believe we'd win but he made us all believe. I never saw another fella like him in all my life."
