New Zoning Law Facing Hurdles

Pampa's proposed zoning ordinance which was aired in part at a public hearing in City Hall this forenoon is going to face some hurdles in further review and study and perhaps

6,000 Countians Have Signed Up For 1969 Voting

With Friday the deadline for 1969 voter registration, an estimated 6,000 Gray County citizens had signed up by Monday afternoon.
Residents may register at the tax assessor-collector's office on the first floor of the Gray County courthouse, in the First National Bank here, in Cabot Corporation's offices in the at the Hughes Bldg. here, at the Celanese plant near Pampa, or at Gibson's Discount Store.
Registration at these places will be conducted during business hours, except at Gibson's, where registration will be held from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. tonight and tomorrow.
No regular federal or state elections are scheduled during 1969. Tax Assessor-Collector Jack Back pointed out, but several special elections and referendums on the local and state level are expected to be called.
Several city and local school board elections are also slated within Gray County this year, Back said.

a number of changes before it is adopted.
Approximately 100 persons turned out for the joint hearing before the City Commission and the City Planning and Zoning Board. A score of them registered to speak and later lodged their protests and requests for changes.
Some of the witnesses even asked that the zoning regulations be put to a vote of the people on the grounds that not all property owners could leave their businesses or jobs to appear at the hearing.
James Vaughn, 600 Lowry, said he appeared to "protest the whole thing. I think it should be put to a vote of the people. So many of them couldn't be here."
Mayor Jim Nation opened the hearing and stated its purpose was to "allow the people to express themselves and ask questions about the proposed zoning ordinance."
The mayor said no decisions would be made or final action taken on the legislation until all complaints and protests had been reviewed by the Planning Commission and its recommendations are made to the City Commission.
"It would be a major miracle if every property owner agreed with all the regulations," Mayor Nation stated.
He then turned the hearing over to Luke McClelland, chairman of the Planning and Zoning Board.
McClelland called first on Marving Springer, Dallas urban consultant who drew up Pampa's recent Comprehensive Plan, to explain the ordinance.
Springer explained the 14 dis-

Nixon Won't Use News Conference To Reveal Policy

By GEORGE J. MARDER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Newsmen can not expect to rush from a Nixon news conference with a hot bulletin announcing some major policy decision in reply to a question.
It just won't work that way. If the President's first, formal meeting with reporters in the White House is any criterion.
Nixon is an organization man. He is not inclined to talk off the cuff about policy, as he made abundantly clear. The first conference was business, from start to finish.
Bubbling Over
Last week, after the inaugural, he had gone from meeting to meeting as President bubbling over with good humor and enthusiasm. He told one joke after another, some straight from Joe Miller.
All that light and fluff was gone when Nixon met the press in the formal East Room.
Nixon was stiff as a board and nervous as he entered the room. The newsmen had been lined up outside in the cold to get into the conference.
Presidential news conferences are valuable in establishing the forum in which the press finds out what is on the president's mind and in which the president finds out what's on the mind of the press and perhaps the people.
And so Monday, without getting any major announcements the press did learn:
1. That the Middle East is topmost in the President's mind as a place where the nuclear powers could get involved in a dangerous confrontation if there is another explosion.
2. That he may think of looking elsewhere than the United Nations for a solution to the Middle East.
3. That he does not quite see eye-to-eye with Saigon about total withdrawal before a cease fire, because such a condition would not fit a guerrilla type of war.
4. That he does not insist on military superiority over the Soviet Union before nuclear arms negotiations but that a "sufficiency" would do. There was no explanation on what a "sufficiency" might be. But something else is mulling over in his mind about arms negotiations: Shouldn't the United States try to improve the political climate with the Soviet, perhaps get political agreements before going into (See NIXON, Page 3)

END OF THE ROAD — Harold Wayne Hale, 37, of 803 W. Foster, was listed in critical condition today at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo from injuries suffered when his 1959 pickup went out of control and turned over three times after a high-speed chase Monday. Pampa Police patrolmen T. J. Hill, left foreground, and Roy Demman give assistance to the injured man, while Patrolman Gene Aufleger, left rear, tries to comfort Hale's girlfriend. Officials Expecting Attacks to Increase

By JACK WALSH
SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese troops, taking over most of the fighting in the Central Highlands, today reported killing 320 Communists in the biggest Vietnam battle of 1969.
Behind U.S. air strikes and artillery barrages, South Vietnamese Rangers caught the guerrillas threatening the allied highlands bastion at Pleiku and tore into them Sunday.
In fighting that broke off at noon Monday, the Rangers suffered no fatalities but had 51 men wounded.
The battle coincided with the U.S. turnover of its 3,000-man highlands garrison at Dak To to South Vietnamese troops. Only a handful of American officers remained behind to provide liaison with U.S. air strikes, artillery and helicopters.
It was by far the biggest battle of the new year, which has seen but scattered fighting from the Demilitarized Zone to the Mekong Delta.
To the north, U.S. Marines and infantrymen on their final push through the Batangan Peninsula encountered Communist minefields so intricate, the Americans were slowed to a virtual crawl.
UPI correspondent David Lamb said the footsoldiers fell in behind armored personnel carriers which moved through the fields firing special explosives to detonate the mines ahead.
Two Marines were killed and 17 were injured Monday when their scout dog lay down to rest and triggered a Communist mine.
The peninsula 320 miles north of Saigon, long a Viet Cong stronghold, has yielded hundreds of tunnel complexes during the Americans' two-week offensive.
Military spokesmen said 121 Viet Cong had been killed and 137 captured against light allied losses in the drive that began with the biggest U.S. amphib- (See TROOPS, Page 3)

Lt. Gov. Barnes Ready to Name Committee Heads

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, off to a successful start in his attempt to modernize the state senate, was expected to reward his moderate and liberal allies today with key committee chairmanships.
Barnes said he would announce his committee appointments before the senate adjourned today.
Choice assignments were expected to go to some of the 25 senators who voted Monday for rules reforms that Barnes said would "make the senate more democratic."
The Others
The six senators who voted against the rules reforms were not expected to fare so well.
The senate's 25-6 vote for new joint rules that include limitations on the power of conference committees had been billed by Barnes as "my first test and an important one."
The new lieutenant governor was so pleased he made a brief speech to the senate in which he said "the actions the Texas Senate has taken so far should point out to the people of Texas that the senate is willing and able to give the people of Texas the most productive session in the history of the state."
Later he told reporters he considered the rules changes "some of the most significant changes in legislative rules in the history of Texas."
Joint Rules
The joint rules proposed by the senate would restrict the powers previously enjoyed by many of the senate's oldtimers.
In the past, influential members have been able to completely rewrite bills in conference committee. The house and senate could only accept or reject the entire bill because conference committee reports cannot be amended.
Under the proposed new rule, conferees could only negotiate matters on which the house and senate were in disagreement.
The joint rules also would require a bill's author to provide an analysis of it, and would set up a joint committee to look for errors in bills that have been passed but not yet sent to the governor.
Mutscher Undecided
The house has not yet approved the joint rules and Speaker Gus F. Mutscher said he has not decided whether he will support them.
The senate also adopted its own rules Monday, adding two new anti-secrecy provisions.
Senators will be permitted to say how they voted in executive sessions, and committee hearings on gubernatorial appointments will be open unless closed by majority vote.

Britain Sympathetic To Mideast Meeting

By United Press International
Britain is "basically sympathetic" to a French proposal for a Big Four meeting at the United Nations to try to bring peace to the Middle East, authoritative British sources said today.
Such a meeting would have to be in the U.N. and in agreement of Israel and the Arab nations and would have to be "a contribution" to the peace mission of U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring, the sources said in London.
The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said nearly the same thing today, quoting British envoy Goronwy Roberts as saying Britain "favors" such a conference of the Big Four.
A peace offensive involving the Big Four had slowed in recent days with rejection by each side of a Soviet peace proposal and Israel's insistence that there must be direct negotiations with the Arabs.
In Baghdad, Iraq defended as "a necessary measure" its execution Monday of 14 persons including nine Jews, as spies.
In Jerusalem, Israeli Premier

Levi Eshkol vowed Monday Israel would retaliate for the hanging of the nine Jews in Iraq.
"The Lord shall avenge their blood," he said. Iraq said its armed forces were ready.
Iraq hanged 14 men, including nine Jews Monday on charges of spying for Israel. Eshkol told parliament a few hours later the hanged Jews were not spies.
"The sole and only crime of these nine martyrs consists in their being Jews," he said.
The hangings brought reactions of shock to much of the world.
In Washington, President Nixon said the Middle East was a "powder keg" that could result in a confrontation of the nuclear superpowers.
Nixon called a meeting Saturday with his foreign policy advisers to study the Middle East crisis.
In the United Nations, Secretary General Thant deplored the executions as a blow to peace in the Middle East. Iraq said it was none of Thant's business.

American, Saigon Delegations To Call For DMZ Reactivation

PARIS (UPI) — American and South Vietnamese negotiators today went into strategy sessions to prepare for Thursday's meeting with the Communists. Diplomatic sources said the Allies will make a new call for a prompt reactivation of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).
In addition to a flurry of joint meetings, chief American negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge scheduled a conference with Bun Charoengchai, the Thai ambassador to France, whose country also is battling Communist guerrillas, and is one of the main supporters of the Allied war effort in Vietnam.

Shortly after conferring with Charoengchai, Lodge was meeting at the U.S. Embassy with South Vietnamese delegation leader Pham Dang Lam.
Approach approved
Preparations for Thursday's second plenary session of the Vietnam conference were under way while Western diplomats and the Paris press expressed satisfaction with President Nixon's approach to the Vietnam problem he outlined at his news conference Monday.
The French press, which was largely cool to President Nixon during the presidential campaign, today applauded his first news conference as a "brilliant" performance.
The North Vietnamese delegation, after a close scrutiny of the presidential remarks was expected to issue a comment later today. Observers said both Hanoi and the Viet Cong would reaffirm their determination to discuss first the end of American military presence in Vietnam before tackling any other matters.

Test of Good Will
The allies desired their negotiating proposals as a test of good will which will show (See DELEGATIONS, Page 3)

Nixon Speaks Of 'Sufficiency'

By DONALD H. MAY
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has backed away from the phrase "military superiority" which he used during the campaign and is speaking instead of "sufficiency."
The change is probably one more of words than of substance.
In his first news conference as President, Nixon said Monday:
"Let me put it this way: when we talk about parity, I think we should recognize that wars occur, usually, when each side believes it has a chance to win. Therefore, parity does not necessarily assure that a war may not occur.

"By the same token, when we talk about superiority, that may have a detrimental effect on the other side in putting it in an inferior position and, therefore, giving great impetus to its own arms race.
"Our objective in this administration . . . and that will be the subject of a major discussion in the National Security Council within the month—our objective is to be sure that the United States has sufficient military power to defend our interests and to maintain the commitments which this administration determines are in the interest of the United States around the world.

"I think," Nixon concluded, "sufficiency is a better term, actually, than either 'superiority' or 'parity.'"
Real Superiority
On Oct. 24, in a campaign radio broadcast, Nixon said: "I intend to restore our objective of clearcut military superiority—meaning by this the aggregate that constitutes real superiority rather than competition weapon by weapon."
Nixon's October campaign broadcast said: "It was concluded that by marking time in our own defense program, we could induce the Communists to follow our example, slacken their own effort, and then we could have peace in our time. Such were the dreams that crimped our national defense program. Out of it all evolved peculiar, unprecedented doctrine called 'parity.' This meant America would no longer try to be first. We would only stay even."

The "superiority" means negotiations to some, to others it means missile launchers.
Nixon's word "sufficiency" more accurately describes how weapons are planned. But by itself it tells little about what Nixon's weapons policy will be. How much is "sufficient?"

Gardening Crew Used to Prevent Memorial Tries

PRAGUE (UPI) — A city gardening crew today placed dozens of evergreen trees and small plants around the monument of St. Wenceslas in the center of Prague, apparently to keep away youths trying to set up memorials to Jan Palach.
Sunday and Monday nights jeering youngsters clashed with police who guarded the gray stone statue in an attempt to restore calm to Czechoslovakia following Palach's burial Saturday.
The young people wanted to replace candles and wreaths placed last week around the monument as a memorial to Palach, the student who burned himself to death to protest Soviet occupation. Virtually all the tributes were removed early Sunday morning after an agreement between government and student leaders.
Today, where Sunday and Monday police armed with rubber truncheons chased youngsters, gardeners wielding rakes and shovels covered concrete pavement around the monument with about a foot of soil, then plants and evergreens.
The same tactic was used in early September when, on orders from Soviet occupation authorities, city crews placed a large garden in front of the monument to keep flag-carrying Czechoslovaks away from it.
Heavy police reinforced by machine gun-toting soldier units patrolled the streets of the city during the night to enforce the Communist party's call for calm.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 29
Your Birthday — Wednesday: Most of this coming year will involve a fresh start, novel approaches, many changes. The last two months will be less hectic; you make use of the understanding gained in the first 10 months. Wednesday's natives tend to seek a universal viewpoint and can take advantage of generalizations even where specific attention is more productive.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Neglected affairs should be moved up to first priority, just to expedite the disposal of all things which have lost their original purpose and serve no new use. Have a relaxing evening at home.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): The tendency is toward quiet, steady effort. Your chances of getting caught up with clerical chores are better than usual.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): No point in getting upset over paper work. Stay away from the idea that you are desperate for relocation; you are not, really. Try to get early rest; then if you're wakeful later, practice a little simple yoga.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): If you can restrain the temptation to be a bit overbearing with your cronies, you stand to gain greatly from experimenting in leadership, in candid terms.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Business advertising or some exhortation along similar lines is favored. The results must be counted as long term, sometimes with long delayed reactions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22):

You can virtually write your own ticket this morning. Slow down in dealing with seemingly important strangers. It's not too early to think about future travel.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The extravagant gesture tempts you; resist it. The sense of being tested tends to create nervous tension. Major fault-finding is an unnecessary social custom to be avoided. Entertain graciously this evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Make your own itinerary if you can; leave open the choice of letting people know where you are going. Your basic ideas lack the moderation provided by mature companions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Review your insurance coverage. Are you protected for fire? Research is rewarding. You must burrow to get to the results you are looking for.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Wednesday provides a chance for a total rest. If you are weary of seeing your associates steadily, try to arrange to take a few days off for a change of environment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): When you get to your quarters in the evening, give some thought to how you will revise and improve your home life. A new appearance will be attractive to others.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Much profound and conservative advice comes to you; your responsibility is to make use of it. Understand the characteristics of things you need to establish a neat home.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Is there anything wrong with a man wanting his wife to get all dolled up just for his benefit once in a while? I don't mean every night, but maybe once a week she could get her hair done, make-up her face and put on something sexy, enticing and just a bit revealing for her man. I don't expect my wife to put on a 30-minute strip tease, but what's wrong with giving the old man the "come on" when they're alone in private?

She knows I've never been unfaithful. I'm sober, hard-working, and I give her unrestricted use of the check-book. We're both in our mid-thirties, have three nice children, and she doesn't work outside the home. Am I wrong? She thinks I'm crazy. Sign me...

DEAR CASEY: Your wife is "crazy" if she doesn't jump at the chance to put a little zip into your marriage. There's no excuse for a wife striking out when her man pitches 'em right over the plate.

DEAR ABBY: I didn't appreciate that letter from Elaine lambasting people who send annual newsletters to their friends at Christmas time.

As you have probably guessed, I write an annual newsletter, and must say that I, for one, look forward each year to receiving them from old friends we seldom see but who are often in our thoughts.

I would rather get a mimeographed newsletter at Christmas than a card with the sender's name printed at the bottom. May I defend the newsletter set and lambaste the card senders whose cards are about as personal as the "occupant" throw-aways we are always receiving. My retort would go something like this:

"Dear Friend, Your Christmas card was received so we know you still have our address. It must have come out of the $2.50 box at least. Or are you one of those smart shoppers who waits until after Christmas to buy them at half-price?"

"Your message was really original. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year! I bet you really had to burn the midnight oil to come up with something so creative. Glad your name was printed on the bottom. Never could remember how to spell your name. And O, yes, one more thing. My memory isn't as good as it used to be. Who are you anyway?"

Sincerely, MARGY

DEAR ABBY: Guess what? You saved my life. I am stationed at a base four miles from Cambodia. This morning at 0830 we received incoming 82MM mortar 40-50 to be exact. I was sitting here reading the Stars and Stripes, turned the page and elected to read Dear Abby, I got so interested in it I put off Mother Nature for a few minutes.

Lucky for me. It turned out that the latrine was the center of Charlie Cong's vengeance. So because of your article I am still here. Thank you!

"STILL HERE"
DEAR STILL: Thanks for writing. You made my day.

Troop 214 elected officers for the coming semester: Jeannine Maness, secretary; Lou Ann Fulcher, treasurer; Debra Brumfield telephone and refreshment chairman, Cindy Hicks discussion leader; Marva Rowan, songleader, and Cathy Collinsworth, reporter.

Otto Mangold visited Troop 214 and explained about helping the mentally ill, which enabled the troop to complete the Challenge of Active Citizenship. The troop met during December to assemble purses. Each member brought a box, handle, catch, hinges, paint and brushes. Purses were made by using paper mache, designs outlined in heavy string while others were only painted. The girls finished the articles at home since many crafts require more time than troop meetings to complete an article. Leaders schedule more meetings to work on one article or as in the case of older Scouts, Troop 214 who are Cadettes, members complete the article at home.

FOR KINDERGARTEN

Parents To Attend Orientation Meet

Parents of the 32 five-year-olds enrolled in Pampa's first kindergarten will attend an orientation meeting at Woodrow Wilson Elementary School at 7 p.m. today.

Miss Shultz was released before graduation from Tech so she could attend special training courses in Amarillo sponsored by the Panhandle Educational Services Organization.

Pampa is one of two Panhandle schools which is initiating a pilot kindergarten program. Class hours here are 8:45 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., and 12:30 to 3:15 p.m. daily.

Only older five-year-olds, those with birthdays in September or October, are included for this first year.

Zoning

(Continued From Page 1) tricts into which the city would be divided on the zoning map. Detailed sections of the ordinance were not explained, presumably because of the length of the ordinance and the length of time it would take.

Springer made it clear that all comments heard at the hearing today would be reviewed and studied before any final action is taken.

One of those who spoke at length was E.C. Sidwell, former mayor of Pampa, during whose administration in 1960 the City Commission rejected a partially completed Comprehensive Plan started in a prior administration.

"The city has spent more than $50,000 for Comprehensive Plans in the last ten years," Sidwell said. "How many plans do the taxpayers have to pay for?"

Sidwell said he wondered if some of the ideas didn't come from Washington "to fit in with later urban renewal plans of the Federal Government."

"If we adopt this, it would be all things to all people," Sidwell said.

Most of those who appeared were worried about the legislation putting them out of small businesses now conducted in homes or about the designation of districts in such a manner it would lower the value of property.

E.R. Southard, 201 N. Faulkner, said: "I think this ordinance is unfair and needs a lot of study. It puts too much power in the hands of certain people."

Stolen Stereo Tapes Reported to Police

Two burglaries of auto stereo tapes were reported to Pampa police yesterday.

Tapes of an undetermined value were taken from a car belonging to a high school youth who lives at 2601 Navajo.

Another youth reported the burglary of $75 worth of stereo tapes from an auto parked in a driveway at 2712 Duncan.

Both burglaries occurred sometime between Sunday night and early Monday, police said.

well's questioning he charged that the city's current zoning ordinance was consistently violated and he wanted to know what the city's intentions were about enforcing a new ordinance.

One person appeared who had no protest to make. She was Mrs. Thelma Bray, 1305 Hamilton, who said: "I just want you to know there are many people in Pampa who have confidence in you."

Tom Dunham, Pampa real estate man, was another who questioned the joint commissions at length on various phases of the zoning regulations.

Hale Listed In Critical Shape After Accident

Harold Wayne Hale, 703 W. Foster, was listed in critical condition today at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo from injuries received when his vehicle overturned on a country road south of Pampa following a high-speed chase by law enforcement officers.

The chase started about midnight when Hale, apparently angry following an argument with a girl friend, drove by the police station, "burning rubber for three blocks and fishtailing all the way," according to a police report.

Pampa policeman Gene Aufleger was joined in the chase by other units from the police department and sheriff's office.

Aufleger said Hale headed for the east part of town, turned to U.S. 60, cut over to the Lefors highway, and then turned onto a dirt road about three miles outside Pampa.

Officers said Hale lost control of the 1959 pickup following speed of over 100 miles an hour. The vehicle turned over three times.

Hale was taken to Highland General Hospital and then transferred to Northwest Texas Hospital, suffering from a broken neck and head and internal injuries.

Hale's girlfriend said he was apparently afraid he would lose his driver's license if arrested for another traffic violation.

Hale is being held in the hospital. He is expected to remain in the hospital for several weeks.

Bristol Wouldn't Trade Bench For Namath

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dave Bristol had better get ready for an argument.

He says he's got a signal-caller he wouldn't trade for anybody in the world, including Joe Namath.

"My boy's got that quick release, too," points out the always observant, always alert manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

Bristol was talking about Johnny Bench, his 21-year-old catcher who looks like the greatest thing to come out of Oklahoma since Mickey Mantle and who many believe is the best young prospect in baseball today, but how could anybody in his right mind stand his ground and say uh-uh to a straight up deal, even a hypothetical one, for Broadway Joe Namath?

You don't know Dave Bristol. He's in his right mind but even if they came to him with the proposition he wouldn't take Namath for Bench even up.

Had he seen what Namath did to Baltimore in the Super Bowl?

"Certainly I did," laughed Cincy manager from his home in Andrew, N.C., after he had shaken the snow off his shoes to come inside and talk on the telephone. "He did a tremendous job picking that defense apart. Joe Namath's got that great arm, good instincts and he can throw the ball but Johnny Bench can do all that and more."

"You got something against Namath?"

"Not a thing," said Bristol, laughing some more.

"Ever meet him?"

"Yeah, once. He wouldn't talk to me because I wasn't from New York. I'm only kidding about that. He's a very nice fella. I played baseball in the Army with his brother, John, a catcher."

"Was he as good as Johnny Bench?"

"Joe's brother was good about because I don't think that won't bother him though. He loves to play. That's what he comes to the ballpark for every day."

Keeps in Shape

Bristol's only concern about Bench is that the youngster, as well as batting champ Pete Rose, are playing some amateur basketball in Cincinnati this winter. Bristol is concerned but not really worried.

"I'd rather have 'em doing that than sitting around in bars. At least they're doing something wholesome. I don't think there's anything really to worry about because I don't think they're playing that much basketball."

Rose, who moves to centerfield this spring, will be playing his third position in as many years. Bristol doesn't feel the switch will bother him at all.

"He wants to play centerfield. He's licking it up. I think he'll be a fine centerfielder. I think he'd do well no matter where he played. That's the type he is."

Rose led both leagues last year with a .335 average when everybody else was struggling to hit .250 and Bristol says he wouldn't be surprised if his new

Since last season the Reds have gone out and gotten themselves ballplayers like Jim Merritt, Bob Tolan, Wayne Granger, Jack Fisher and Leon Wagner and the feeling in some quarters is that Cincinnati could unseat St. Louis as kingpin in the National League.

"I'll take our front nine over anybody else's," says Bristol.

"Over anybody's?"

"That's right," said the Cincinnati manager. "Over anybody's. I'll still take my nine."

Oh well, Joe Namath wouldn't fit in there anyway.

Mike Ditka Finds Welcome Trade

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Mike Ditka, the fiery tight end sidelined by Philadelphia Eagles coach Joe Kuharich for most of last season, found himself with his third National Football League team today following a welcome trade.

The only thing unexpected about Ditka's trade to the Dallas Cowboys in a straight swap for rookie pass catcher Dave McDonald was that Kuharich didn't get around to it until Monday, the eve of the pro football draft of college players.

Ditka, whose two years of feuding with the Eagles coach reached a climax with his published criticism of Kuharich following the team's 10th loss of the season last November, had vowed that he would not play for the Eagles next season if Kuharich still was the coach.

Ditka thus joined a growing list of prominent Eagle players who found themselves transferred to other teams after differences with Kuharich, the team's general manager as well as coach with the power to hire and fire. The list included the popular pass-receiving team of Sonny Jurgensen and Tommy McDonald and all-pro linebackers Maxie Baughn and Irv Cross.

The departure of the 30-year-old Ditka, an all-pro receiver for four straight years after being drafted first by Chicago in 1961, will not end open criticism of Kuharich. He leaves behind a large group of disgruntled fans whose "Joe Must Go" signs and slogans became a commonplace sight during the Eagles' 2-12 season last year.

McDaniel, a 23-year-old speedster drafted by Dallas last year as their second choice, was in eight Cowboy games last season. The rookie split end established an NAIA record while playing at Mississippi Valley College by catching 65 passes for 1,236 yards in 1967.

Ditka and Gary Ballman, another Eagle end with wings clipped by Kuharich, were suspended after their criticism of the former Notre Dame coach following the loss to the New York Giants last Nov. 17 appeared in print in New York the following day.

Ditka was quoted as saying the Eagles' morale was low and that quarterback Norm Snead had problems throwing the type passes suited for Ditka and Ballman, the reason they were stifling on the bench while the team was losing 10 games without a victory.

Kuharich reportedly was particularly angered by a published quote attributed to, but denied by, Ballman that "Kuharich has ordered a set of cufflinks engraved 0-14." Kuharich labeled both players "troublemakers" but reinstated them after a meeting the following day.

Ditka predicted his trade later, saying "I'm not wanted and he doesn't want to use me." He vowed he "could not and would not" play for Kuharich this year.

Ditka came to the Eagles from the Bears in 1966 in a trade for quarterback Jack Concannon. His departure from Chicago was attributed by some to his "lockerroom lawyer" criticisms of the Bears' management.

The trade with Dallas brought no comment from the Eagles' financially-embarrassed owner,

Jerry Wolman, who has stuck with Kuharich through four years of increasing hostility among the fans.

HALAS HONORED

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—George Halas, the founder and owner of the Chicago Bears, will be honored by the Wisconsin Chapter of the Professional Football Writers of America for distinguished service to football.

George Halas Jr., president and general manager of the National Football League team, will accept the award for his father at the chapter's dinner, Feb. 9. The elder Halas still is recuperating from hip surgery last fall.

ALCAN TOURNEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Portland Golf Club of Portland, Ore., will be the site of the Alcan Golfer of the Year championship, Sept. 25-28.

A field of 26 to 30 players will shoot for the top prize of $35,000, and they will be selected on the basis of a series of 28 tournaments in seven parts of the world.

The hostility reached an apex when a group of fans organized pro football's first boycott campaign. But only about 8,000 of the usual crowd of 60,000 at Franklin Field remained away from what turned out to be the team's first home victory, a 29-17 win over the New Orleans Saints on Dec. 8.

Kuharich has had only one winning season in his five years with the Eagles, a 9-5 second place tie for the Eastern Division in 1966. His only year as head coach at Notre Dame marked the school's first losing season in the Irish football history.

Putter George Archer Wins Crosby Pro-Am

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Many followers of the game these days rate George Archer the best putter on the golf tour.

After the way he played Monday to win the $150,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am they could add he's pretty good from tee to green, too.

Archer, the gangling Gilroy, Calif., native who placed fourth on the money winning list last year with $150,000, had every part of his game under complete control in the Crosby final. It wasn't spectacular golf, two birds, a bogey and 15 pars, but it was good enough for a one-over 71 and victory by a stroke over Howie Johnson, Bob Dickson and Dale Douglass.

Douglass started the final round two strokes ahead of Archer but lost the lead quickly with a string of three bogeys from the seventh through ninth holes. Johnson and Dickson, who shot 73 and 68, respectively in the final round, were next and Archer withstood the challenge.

Archer thus won $25,000 while Dickson, Johnson and Douglass, who closed with a 74, won $9,666 each. Dickson won an additional $3,500 when he and his amateur partner, Jack Ging, combined for a 257 in the Pro-Am best-ball competition.

Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper, as well as defending champion Johnny Pott, U.S. Open king Lee Trevino and Masters champ Bob Goaly, never figured as serious contenders on the final day.

Nicklaus shot a two-under 70 to wind up at 287, two strokes behind young John Lotz; Palmer had a 73 for a 293; Casper a 70 for 290; Pott a 73 for 290; Trevino a 72 for 291; and Goaly a 75 for 292.

Buffalo Picks Simpson In First Round Of Draft

NEW YORK (UPI)—Buffalo gets the rights to the hottest piece of property in college football—Southern California's O.J. Simpson—when the Bills exercise their first choice in today's pro football draft.

Buffalo, which finished last in the American Football League's Eastern Division, earned the rights to draft first by compiling a 1-12-1 record—the worst in pro football.

Despite apparent weaknesses at other positions, Bills' owner Ralph Wilson has stated publicly that he'll take the record shattering Simpson, the 1968 Heisman Trophy winner and two-time All-America.

Atlanta will pick second and Philadelphia third as the teams choose in inverse order of their combined final standings. The Falcons have yet to decide on a second choice, being torn between Leroy Keyes, the versatile All-America back from Purdue and a pair of fine offensive tackles, George Kuntz of Notre Dame and Dave Foley of National Champion Ohio State.

Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Boston, a trio with quarterback problems, are next in line and their choices will probably be a split between Notre Dame's Terry Hanratty, Cincinnati's Greg Cook, Bobby Douglass of Kansas and Columbia's Marty Domres.

San Francisco picks seventh, using a choice attained from New Orleans and Los Angeles, with three first round picks, drafts eight, tenth and 21st. The Rams' No. 8 pick is one acquired from Detroit and their 10th was part of a deal with Washington.

San Diego will draft ninth, using Denver's first round choice. Miami will be 11th, followed by Green Bay, Chicago, the New York Giants, Houston and San Francisco.

New Orleans chooses 17th, using Minnesota's pick, with San Diego 18th and St. Louis 19th. Cleveland is 20th, followed in order by Los Angeles, Oakland, Kansas City, Dallas, Baltimore and the world champion New York Jets.

Denver, Washington and Detroit traded away their choices and will not pick in the first round.

Baltimore and the New York Jets are the only exception in the order of the draft, selecting last as league champions.

Have you blown your nose until it is raw? We're sorry you're suffering but obviously you're not aware of our product SYN-CLEAR and this is our fault.

SYN-CLEAR is the original steroid release tablet that gives up to eight hours of relief from cold symptoms and clogged-up sinuses. And that's a guarantee.

We do not have millions to spend on TV to tell you about SYN-CLEAR, just a small ad. We do not gimmick our advertising and instead by offering twelve hours of medication. What is medication without relief? SYN-CLEAR is what we offer and it gives you eight hours relief per tablet at your money back in full.

We could go into detail to tell you our product works and about the fine formula, but we would rather you ask the experts about SYN-CLEAR. The druggist at the store listed below at your family doctor can tell you about the merits of our fine formula.

SYN-CLEAR costs a little more ($1.50 & $3.00 sizes) because it does more. You're having relief and no gimmicks.

Try SYN-CLEAR as soon as possible — you know — all have to lose are your discomforts.

This little ad has an awfully big job to do — to get you to try SYN-CLEAR. So as a bonus, cut me out and send it with an empty SYN-CLEAR container and we'll mail you a check for 50¢ for just trying SYN-CLEAR. If you have time to fill us about the results SYN-CLEAR gave you, we would be pleased to hear from you.

Bristol Wouldn't Trade Bench For Namath

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dave Bristol had better get ready for an argument.

He says he's got a signal-caller he wouldn't trade for anybody in the world, including Joe Namath.

"My boy's got that quick release, too," points out the always observant, always alert manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

Bristol was talking about Johnny Bench, his 21-year-old catcher who looks like the greatest thing to come out of Oklahoma since Mickey Mantle and who many believe is the best young prospect in baseball today, but how could anybody in his right mind stand his ground and say uh-uh to a straight up deal, even a hypothetical one, for Broadway Joe Namath?

You don't know Dave Bristol. He's in his right mind but even if he came to him with the proposition he wouldn't take Namath for Bench even up.

Had he seen what Namath did to Baltimore in the Super Bowl?

"Certainly I did," laughed Cincy manager from his home in Andrew, N.C., after he had shaken the snow off his shoes to come inside and talk on the telephone. "He did a tremendous job picking that defense apart. Joe Namath's got that great arm, good instincts and he can throw the ball but Johnny Bench can do all that and more."

"You got something against Namath?"

"Not a thing," said Bristol, laughing some more.

"Ever meet him?"

"Yeah, once. He wouldn't talk to me because I wasn't from New York. I'm only kidding about that. He's a very nice fella. I played baseball in the Army with his brother, John, a catcher."

"Was he as good as Johnny Bench?"

"Joe's brother was good service catcher."

The one thing Dave Bristol doesn't kid around about is Johnny Bench, who could become to the Reds what Mantle and Willie Mays once were to their ball clubs. Bench impressed anybody with two eyes in his rookie season last year and Bristol was happy to read in the paper the other day where his young catcher had set goals of 25 homers, 100 RBIs and at least a .280 batting figure for himself this year.

"I think he's capable of doing anything he says," Bristol said. "Very much so. I know the other clubs are gonna try to find out what makes him tick. That won't bother him though. He loves to play. That's what he comes to the ballpark for every day."

Keeps in Shape

Bristol's only concern about Bench is that the youngster, as well as batting champ Pete Rose, are playing some amateur basketball in Cincinnati this winter. Bristol is concerned but not really worried.

"I'd rather have 'em doing that than sitting around in bars. At least they're doing something wholesome. I don't think there's anything really to worry about because I don't think they're playing that much basketball."

Rose, who moves to centerfield this spring, will be playing his third position in as many years. Bristol doesn't feel the switch will bother him at all.

"He wants to play centerfield. He's licking it up. I think he'll be a fine centerfielder. I think he'd do well no matter where he played. That's the type he is."

Rose led both leagues last year with a .335 average when everybody else was struggling to hit .250 and Bristol says he wouldn't be surprised if his new

centerfielder hit right around that same figure this year.

Since last season the Reds have gone out and gotten themselves ballplayers like Jim Merritt, Bob Tolan, Wayne Granger, Jack Fisher and Leon Wagner and the feeling in some quarters is that Cincinnati could unseat St. Louis as kingpin in the National League.

"I'll take our front nine over anybody else's," says Bristol. "Over anybody's?"

"That's right," said the Cincinnati manager. "Over anybody's. I'll still take my nine."

Oh well, Joe Namath wouldn't fit in there anyway.

Mike Ditka Finds Welcome Trade

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Mike Ditka, the fiery tight end sidelined by Philadelphia Eagles coach Joe Kuharich for most of last season, found himself with his third National Football League team today following a welcome trade.

The only thing unexpected about Ditka's trade to the Dallas Cowboys is a straight swap for rookie pass catcher Dave McDaniels was that Kuharich didn't get around to it until Monday, the eve of the pro football draft of college players.

Ditka, whose two years of feuding with the Eagles coach reached a climax with his published criticism of Kuharich following the team's 10th loss of the season last November, had vowed that he would not play for the Eagles next season if Kuharich still was the coach.

Ditka thus joined a growing list of prominent Eagle players who found themselves transferred to other teams after differences with Kuharich, the team's general manager as well as coach with the power to hire and fire. The list included the popular pass-receiving team of Sonny Jurgensen and Tommy McDonald and all-pro linebackers Maxie Baughn and Irv Cross.

The departure of the 30-year-old Ditka, an all-pro receiver for four straight years after being drafted first by Chicago in 1961, will not end open criticism of Kuharich. He leaves behind a large group of disgruntled fans whose "Joe Must Go" signs and slogans became a commonplace sight during the Eagles' 2-12 season last year.

McDaniel, a 23-year-old speedster drafted by Dallas last year as their second choice, was in eight Cowboy games last season. The rookie split established an NAIA record while playing at Mississippi Valley College by catching 63 passes for 1,236 yards in 1967.

Ditka and Gary Ballman, another Eagle end with wings clipped by Kuharich, were suspended after their criticism of the former Notre Dame coach following the loss to the New York Giants last Nov. 17 appeared in print in New York the following day.

Ditka was quoted as saying the Eagles' morale was low and that quarterback Norm Snead had problems throwing the type passes suited for Ditka and Ballman, the reason they were stiffing on the bench while the team was losing 10 games without a victory.

Kuharich reportedly was particularly angered by a published quote attributed to, but denied by, Ballman that "Kuharich has ordered a set of cufflinks engraved 0-14." Kuharich labeled both players "troublemakers" but reinstated them after a meeting the following day.

Ditka predicted his trade later, saying "I'm not wanted and he doesn't want to use me." He vowed he "could not and would not" play for Kuharich this year.

Ditka came to the Eagles from the Bears in 1966 in a trade for quarterback Jack Concannon. His departure from Chicago was attributed by some to his "lockerroom" lawyer" criticisms of the Bears' management.

The trade with Dallas brought no comment from the Eagles' financially-embarrassed owner,

Jerry Wolman, who has stuck with Kuharich through four years of increasing hostility among the fans.

HALAS HONORED

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—George Halas, the founder and owner of the Chicago Bears, will be honored by the Wisconsin Chapter of the Professional Football Writers of America for distinguished service to football.

George Halas Jr., president and general manager of the National Football League team, will accept the award for his father at the chapter's dinner, Feb. 9. The elder Halas still is recuperating from hip surgery last fall.

ALCAN TOURNEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Portland Golf Club of Portland, Ore., will be the site of the Alcan Golfer of the Year championship, Sept. 25-28.

A field of 26 to 30 players will shoot for the top prize of $55,000, and they will be selected on the basis of a series of 28 tournaments in seven parts of the world.

The hostility reached an apex when a group of fans organized pro football's first boycott campaign. But only about 8,000 of the usual crowd of 60,000 at Franklin Field remained away from what turned out to be the team's first home victory, a 29-17 win over the New Orleans Saints on Dec. 8.

Kuharich has had only one winning season in his five years with the Eagles; a 9-5 second place tie for the Eastern Division in 1966. His only year as head coach at Notre Dame marked the school's first losing season in the Irish football history.

Putter George Archer Wins Crosby Pro-Am

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Many followers of the game these days rate George Archer the best putter on the golf tour.

After the way he played Monday to win the $150,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am they could add he's pretty good from tee to green, too.

Archer, the gangling Gilroy, Calif. native who placed fourth on the money winning list last year with $150,000, had every part of his game under complete control in the Crosby final. It wasn't spectacular golf, two birds, a bogey and 15 pars, but it was good enough for a one-under 71 and victory by a stroke over Howie Johnson, Bob

NEW YORK (UPI)—Buffalo gets the rights to the hottest piece of property in college football—Southern California's O.J. Simpson—when the Bills exercise their first choice in today's pro football draft.

Buffalo, which finished last in the American Football League's Eastern Division, earned the rights to draft first by compiling a 1-12-1 record—the worst in pro football.

Despite apparent weaknesses at other positions, Bills' owner Ralph Wilson has stated publicly that he'll take the record shattering Simpson, the 1968 Heisman Trophy winner and two-time All-America.

San Francisco picks seventh, using a choice attained from New Orleans and Los Angeles, with three first-round picks, drafts eight, tenth and 21st. The Rams' No. 8 pick is one acquired from Detroit and their 10th was part of a deal with Washington.

San Diego Ninth

San Diego will draft ninth, using Denver's first round choice. Miami will be 11th, followed by Green Bay, Chicago, the New York Giants, Houston and San Francisco.

New Orleans chooses 17th, using Minnesota's pick, with San Diego 18th and St. Louis 19th. Cleveland is 20th, followed in order by Los Angeles, Oakland, Kansas City, Dallas, Baltimore and the world champion New York Jets.

Denver, Washington and Detroit traded away their choices and will not pick in the first round.

Baltimore and the New York Jets are the only exception in the order of the draft, selecting last as league champions.

Medic Alert—Silent Guardian

In 1956, a young girl in California nearly died after receiving an injection of tetanus antitoxin to which she was allergic. Her father, Dr. Marion Collins, made a bracelet carrying the warning of her allergy for her to wear at all times.

This was the first Medic Alert bracelet and the beginning of an organization which has made more secure the lives of tens of thousands of persons with special medical problems who might receive no treatment or the wrong treatment during episodes of shock, delirium, unconsciousness or coma when they are unable to communicate with those trying to help them.

Today, the organization—its full name is Medic Alert Foundation International—has more than 200,000 members in America, with some 2,000 joining monthly.

There are another 100,000 members in affiliates around the world.

Yet the American Medical Association estimates that there are over 40 million people in America alone who suffer from some special or "hidden" medical problem, such as epilepsy, heart condition, allergy to penicillin, who are taking anti-coagulant drugs or wearing contact lenses.

Medic Alert is nonprofit. For a basic fee of $7, a member receives a bracelet or necklace in stainless steel and one medical problem engraving. Each emblem is registered and the serial number is engraved on the reverse side, as is the telephone number of the foundation's central file at its headquarters in Turlock, Calif.

The central file accepts, on a 24-hour basis, collect calls from physicians, hospitals, law enforcement officers and other authorized persons and relays additional information from the individual's file.

A new service which Medic Alert recently announced is the first worldwide human transplant information pool.

This will enable hospitals and officials to determine immediately whether a dead or dying accident victim wearing the Medic Alert emblem desires to donate his eyes, heart, kidney or other organs to help save the life of another.

The Computerized Fielder

So someone takes you out to the ball game next summer and you witness a fine display of fly ball snagging by ace outfielder Joe Fungo. You may not know it, nor may Joe himself, but what you have also witnessed is a practical demonstration of the solution of somewhat involved problems in trigonometry.

Seville Chapman, director of the physics division at Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, tells how Joe does it, as reported in Scientific American.

Consider first balls hit in a direct line with the outfielder. The only changes he can see in the position of the ball are in the vertical. If what he sees is that the tangent of the angle of elevation of the ball (the angle between the ball and the horizontal as measured from the fielder's eyes) increases uniformly with time, he just stands still and waits for it to come to him.

If the tangent of elevation increases at a decreasing rate,

Quixotic Joust At Vitamin Pill

Government hearings into the vitamin pill industry drag on. This is a business the Food and Drug Administration would like to clamp down on, maintaining that most people do not need vitamins or other food supplements.

Manufacturers in turn have claimed that the agency has been playing dirty pool at the hearings. Latest charge is that the FDA has commissioned a public opinion survey, so rigged with true-or-false questions that it is guaranteed to reveal widespread ignorance about health.

Now, undoubtedly a lot of people are taking vitamins and stuff that they really don't need, or whose benefits they could derive from a better-balanced diet. And undoubtedly some manufacturers would just as soon have them go on buying their products.

But in the absence of proof that people are actually harming themselves — proof that has not been forthcoming — the government's role in this matter might more properly be to concentrate on the areas of education and regulation, the latter being the maintaining of quality standards and the prosecution of outright fraudulent advertising.

In view of the fact that the best that the government has seen fit to do with cigarettes, which nearly every medical authority believes are injurious if not downright deadly and which even their makers do not claim are good for the health, is merely to require a mildly cautionary label on every package, the FDA's war against vitamins suggests a case of massive overkill against a doubtful enemy.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The ukulele is not of native Hawaiian origin, as commonly supposed, but was introduced to the islands by Portuguese sailors in the 18th century. The World Almanac says. The size and number of strings of the Portuguese guitar were reduced and the new four-stringed instrument was given the name ukulele, meaning literally, "jumping flea."

Pull Up A Chair

By JOHN KEASLER

The news that Erry Goldwater's former chief speechwriter has swung over to the New Left, and now wears a gold turtleneck and lumberjack boots, could start a healthy new communications trend in America.

Most of the trouble between the New Left and the Old Right is neither knows what the other is saying.

This is the prime reason we bruised victims here in the Murky Middle are getting the hell beat out of us with flying rhetoric.

The New Left does not understand the Old Right jive and it in turn finds the New Left jargon indecipherable. I don't care which side speechwriters defect to, but I wish more would — everything is getting lost in the translation and the old communication gap-osis keeps unzipping wider.

Goldwater's former speechwriter is Karl Hess, who drafted the Goldwater speech in 1964 containing the famed sentence:

"Extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice; moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue."

That was a grand sentence, causing much consternation, and I always liked it, not only because you could play with it like a yo-yo or drape it entirely over your mind like a serape but also because mentally moving the semicolon from word to word was an economical opiate and practically all that got me through 1964.

Now Karl Hess has long sideburns and likes the New Left, Good. He may turn out to be the only one there who can translate from the original Henry Cabot Lodge. At the same time, and with due credit to Hess, I think it is even more imperative that some New Lefters move over to the Old Right.

Perhaps Beady-pot Allen Ginsburg could volunteer to ghost some of the lighter stuff for H. L. Hunt, or Eldridge Cleaver's bondsman could fill in for Bill Buckley on vacation. Some common ground is eventually going to have to be established, as witness one confusing statement issued by Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

This school issued a revolutionary statement about students and riots. It says if you want to go to that school, o.k., student, but do not try to run it or you can just get right back out.

It's not the sheer originality of such thinking I object to — it is that — this statement was not said like that, but in such a way (Traditional Right) that leftists simply won't dig it.

Actual wording of the statement runs like this:

"Students enter Worcester Tech voluntarily. They apply presumably because they wish to further their education and hopefully because they believe Worcester Tech with its traditions and reputation is capable of advancing their intellectual attainments. Students come to learn, to be guided, not to direct.

"If they do not like some of the rules and regulations, traditions and policies, they do not have to enter. . . threats, disturbances or force of any kind — whether by a single student, a minority or a majority — will not be tolerated."

See how being too close to an idea can obscure it?

Now you know and I know that nobody but a conservative can understand an idea that far out. If it isn't translated, it's simply going to cause riots.

Communication has never been more important than at this crucial time in America which, unlike Europe, is handicapped by the language barriers of many races and cultures.

Karl Hess can't do it all. America needs men of literate ability who are not afraid to do missionary work in an alien surrounding — men who can, if only in simple Pidgin, re-establish some form of communication between a Ronald Reagan and a Sunset Strip; a George Wallace and a Rolling Stone; a DAR and a Go-Go dancer; a Spiro Agnew and a Spiro Agnew, and all the rest.

To all of you avid Leftists, then, and to you Arch Reactionaries, too, I say that your duty is clear. Go somewhere else.

$3.8 Million Slash For 'Pride' Is New Labor Secretary's First Problem?

JOHN GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — There is a good chance Labor Secretary George Shultz' first thorny problem will be an irate congressional demand for the cancellation of the $3.8 million contract his Democratic predecessor dishd out to Pride, Inc., last September — as the presidential campaign was swinging into high gear.

Influential House members are heatedly charging this widely publicized ghetto youth project is riddled with corruption, payroll padding, kickbacks and other scandals.

Squaring in the middle of this explosive storm is the General Accounting Office — supervisory and investigative agency of Congress. On express orders of the Senate Appropriations Committee, aroused over numerous charges of Pride boodling and grafting, GAO was directed to examine and report on the management of the project.

GAO's findings are a graphic example of bureaucratic muzzymouth and temporizing.

On one hand, GAO admitted that "the serious weaknesses in Pride's system of accounting and internal controls allowed for conditions under which many of the irregularities and improprieties that have been alleged could have occurred. . . (Also) we cannot conclude that all funds advanced to Pride under its first two contracts with the Labor Department were properly expended and accounted for."

Having thus delivered itself of this gobbledygook condemnation, GAO then went on to bestow its blessing on the culprit, as follows:

"We do not believe that it is feasible to determine now with any degree of certainty the full extent to which funds may have been misused. We believe that the passage of time and other circumstances relating to Pride operations would make any attempt at such determination inordinately costly and the results would probably be inconclusive."

On the basis of this GAO pussyfooting, former Labor Secretary Wirtz gave Pride a new $3.8 million contract — just as the election battle was heating up.

This bountiful handout made a total of $6.1 million ladled out to Pride since it was hastily launched in the summer of 1967 to provide employment for hundreds of Negro youths in Washington's ghettos — at a time when tensions were high and the capital appeared on the verge of racial turmoil and violence.

Communication has never been more important than at this crucial time in America which, unlike Europe, is handicapped by the language barriers of many races and cultures.

Karl Hess can't do it all. America needs men of literate ability who are not afraid to do missionary work in an alien surrounding — men who can, if only in simple Pidgin, re-establish some form of communication between a Ronald Reagan and a Sunset Strip; a George Wallace and a Rolling Stone; a DAR and a Go-Go dancer; a Spiro Agnew and a Spiro Agnew, and all the rest.

To all of you avid Leftists, then, and to you Arch Reactionaries, too, I say that your duty is clear. Go somewhere else.

ming for clashes with the police.

Foremost among the accusations made by Broyhill in a letter to Elmer Staats, head of GAO, are:

"During the pay period Dec. 20, 1968-Jan. 3, 1969, Pride officials granted a general holiday to all members of the staff and all enrollees. Prior to Dec. 20, 1968, time and attendance reports for the pay period were constructed in advance and all employees and enrollees subsequently were paid in full, even though they were not on-board during this period. It is estimated that the gross payroll for Pride during this period was approximately $65,000.

"During Nov. 1968, approximately $504 of Pride funds were spent to purchase gas masks, to be used presumably should confrontations with the Metropolitan Police Department take place.

"Records of Pride, Inc., indicate that salary advances to employees are made on a regular basis. Amounts up to $8,000 have been advanced, including substantial advances to top officials of Pride.

"Payroll irregularities and errors have persisted during the administration of the third contract ($3.8 million).

"Excessive expenditures have occurred for rented autos which have been used for personal business. During the Christmas holidays, one official purchased a tank of gas daily for a rented car which was paid for by Pride.

"Pride's director of administration resigned last month because the board of directors and top administrators refused to comply with Labor Department and General Accounting Office instructions concerning adequate record keeping procedures.

"Despite the requirements that Pride institute and install adequate bookkeeping procedures, there has been no general ledger recording the fiscal activities of the organization established to date.

"The journal account for the third contract has not been reconciled. Similarly, the petty cash account under the third contract has not been reconciled."

MORE PROBES — Significantly reinforcing Representative Broyhill's caustic fusillade are two new investigations of Pride — one of the Senate Rackets Committee, headed by Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark.; the other by the FBI at the direction of former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark shortly before he departed.

Both probes were initiated as the result of continuing reports of rampant Pride scandals and illegalities. The FBI investigation could lead to grand jury proceedings on prosecutive misdeeds.

U.S. air attacks on North Vietnam has directly led to greatly increasing free world shipping there.

The statistics are starkly revealing.

In 1967, the Defense Department reported only 78 free world freighters unloaded cargoes in North Vietnamese ports. Last year, as a result of the bombing halt, the number more than doubled—169.

To counter this disturbing development, Rep. Charles Chamberlain, R-Mich., who has long sought tougher measures against this traffic, is introducing a bill to do that. This legislation would not only close U.S. ports to foreign vessels engaged in any kind of trade with North Vietnam, whether transporting government or private cargoes, but would impose a $10,000 fine and one year imprisonment on anyone convicted of dealing with blacklisted vessels.

"In most wars, if someone helps the enemy, we try to stop them," says Chamberlain. "Now we are helping them. We allow merchant vessels that have supplied the enemy into our ports. That is not only wrong, it's ridiculous. Why we tolerate it is beyond my comprehension.

"The war can't continue without supplies and the wherewithal to fight. It's just that simple. This source of supply is helping the Communists to prolong the war. Although I realize this traffic is in part accomplished by people on both sides of the bamboo curtain who know how to take full advantage of loopholes in the maritime laws of nations, I shall never be able to accept any justification for the continuance of this immoral trade."

Chamberlain noted the distressing fact that British flagships are the chief offenders.

In 1967, of the 78 free world vessels that delivered cargoes to North Vietnam, 68 flew the Union Jack. Last year, the big increase to 169, 114 were of British registry.

THE STARTLING HOLIDAY GREETING — Close friends of the late Senator Robert Kennedy are still blinking over an unusual Christmas remembrance they received from his widow.

It consisted of a glossy photograph of him autographed by her.

Said one RFK adviser, "This really jarred me. It was downright grisly. I had always considered Ethel a woman of dignity, taste and discretion. But this didn't fit any of those qualities. I understand she sent out hundreds of these photos all over the country."

Nixon 'Trusted' to Emerge In White House Infighting

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — After being knocked down when it first surfaced in November, the notion has arisen again that newly installed President Nixon intends to use his White House staff as some sort of transmission belt but not as a generating force.

The fact is that even if the President had such a resolve, and there is no conclusive evidence that he does, it would probably not work out that way.

In recent regimes, the intrusion of the White House staff as a virtual fourth branch of government has developed from the realities of late-20th century government: the glacial character of the bureaucracy, the relative remoteness of many department and agency heads (even though only at the end of a telephone line), the instant utility of men close around the president whom he learns to trust and depend upon in the often swift-moving course of policymaking.

Realists within the new White House establishment believe it will be no different this time. Even before they moved in, there were signs that some delays in planning were occurring because certain cabinet heads could get no signals from a too-busy Nixon.

Obviously, veteran personal advisers like Attorney General John Mitchell and HEW Secretary Robert Finch hold special status. They are in effect extensions of the White House staff and, undoubtedly, will be in that building many times.

So, too, must exception be made for State Secretary William Rogers and Defense Secretary Melvin Laird, both old Nixon friends but also the heads of two of the most vital agencies. After all, Robert McNamara was no stranger to the White House in the Kennedy-Johnson era.

Fundamentally, however, the agency heads will need guidance from the President which he frequently will be too busy to give personally. The White House crew will have to supply that signaling service. Nixon—has, in fact, already given his aides some idea of the ways in which they can speak in his name.

And the President's past performance, privately observed by some of his helpers, indicates that where doubt exists in an aide's mind, Nixon expects him to resolve it in favor of action rather than holding back.

Not only do his realistic assistants understand this, but for varying spans of time some have engaged in fierce competition for the top inside roles in guiding the course of the new administration.

Nixon has watched this competition with strong interest. It is as if he wants to see who emerges from the fires, so he may put maximum trust in them.

The consequence of the struggle has been ups and downs for several men. One, who has to be nameless here but was among those styled as a "generalist" at the outset, is already suffering badly.

Another helper who frets over the competitive tension is urbanologist Daniel P. Moynihan, who is being left to prove himself even as he eyes the possibly rival endeavors of the "Delmonico Group," an informal cluster of advisers which may take on enduring shape.

Under leadership of economist Dr. Arthur Burns, this group, which also includes such men as the new head of the Council of Economic Advisers, Paul McCracken, and researcher Dr. Martin Anderson of the White House staff, met seven days a week in the preinaugural period to plan Nixon programs in many fields.

The kind of aggressive behavior exhibited by the Delmonico Group, not to mention some others, seems to fit the President's "sink or swim" approach to his aides' development as his personal instrument.

Obviously, those who sink will be little heard from and may not last long. Those who survive will be forceful contributors to policy-making and action, both in the legislative field and in the laying down of presidential authority to department and agency heads groping for guidance from an overburdened new leader.

Well, Mr. Richnix made it official despite wind or chills or stizmark of a over-enthusiastic skier on the cold damp pavement.

The Bible was opened to the phrase that calls for beating the swords into plowshares and the spears into pruning forks. If they go to work and beat all their swords and spears up into tools where are they going to find the farms to use them? It seems to me we'll have all our money tied up in pruning forks with nobody to do the pruning.

In the address Mr. Richnix got flowery and said the American people should "build a great cathedral of the spirit—each of us raising it one stone at a time. . ."

I don't know how he found out about it. But I own a rock. It is the only thing I can call my very own and I have been hiding it these many years so they wouldn't put a tax on it.

I ain't too sure that I want to contribute my rock for his cathedral. I think mebbe there are a lot of little fellers in this country besides myself who don't own anything else but a rock and I would like to wait and see if they are all going to donate their property to this project.

Mainly what I'm afraid of is they might uncover enough rocks to build this here cathedral, then turn around and use the rocks for something else. That's the way they do with taxes and I don't see that rocks are any different.

Thomas Jefferson described the presidency thus: "The second office of the government is honorable and easy; the first is but a splendid misery."
