Eisenhower Recovering

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is making a steady recovery from major surgery to relieve an intestinal blockage.

New Attack May Affect Progress Of Peace Talks

PARIS (UPI)—American negotiators at the Vietnam peace talks said today the new Communist attacks in South Vietnam could affect progress at the bargaining table.

"These attacks may have an effect on the progress of the peace talks but at the moment we cannot say how or to what extent," a U.S. spokesman said in Paris.

Victory for either side would seriously alter bargaining positions and a decisive movement either way might provide the break needed in the deadlocked talks, American sources indicated.

They also said that a protest against the indiscriminate Viet Cong rocket attacks on the South Vietnamese civilian population might be included at Thursday's meeting with the Communists.

Should such a protest be addressed to the Viet Cong delegation, it would imply American recognition of the Viet Cong, according to diplomatic sources.

Any protest on Thursday would also carry added significance, since President Nixon arrives here Friday. He is to meet Sunday with Henry Cabot Lodge, the chief U.S. negotiator. Nixon ordered a full report on the new Communist attacks in the war zone.

doctors said today. The executive officer of Walter Reed Army Hospital said at mid-morning the 78-year-old general "is resting as comfortably as can be expected."

"His life signs are stable," Col. John L. Bradley said, "and his cardiac condition is stable." The former chief executive underwent the high-risk, two-hour, 20-minute operation Sunday night after physicians had tried unsuccessfully to unblock an intestinal obstruction by other means.

The blockage was reported caused by tough scar tissue from earlier surgery which was binding over an intestinal tract.

Doctors told reporters today they could not tell whether the scar tissue was from a 1923 appendectomy or a 1966 gall bladder operation. They ruled out a 1956 intestinal block operation, saying an examination showed the scar tissue to be in satisfactory condition.

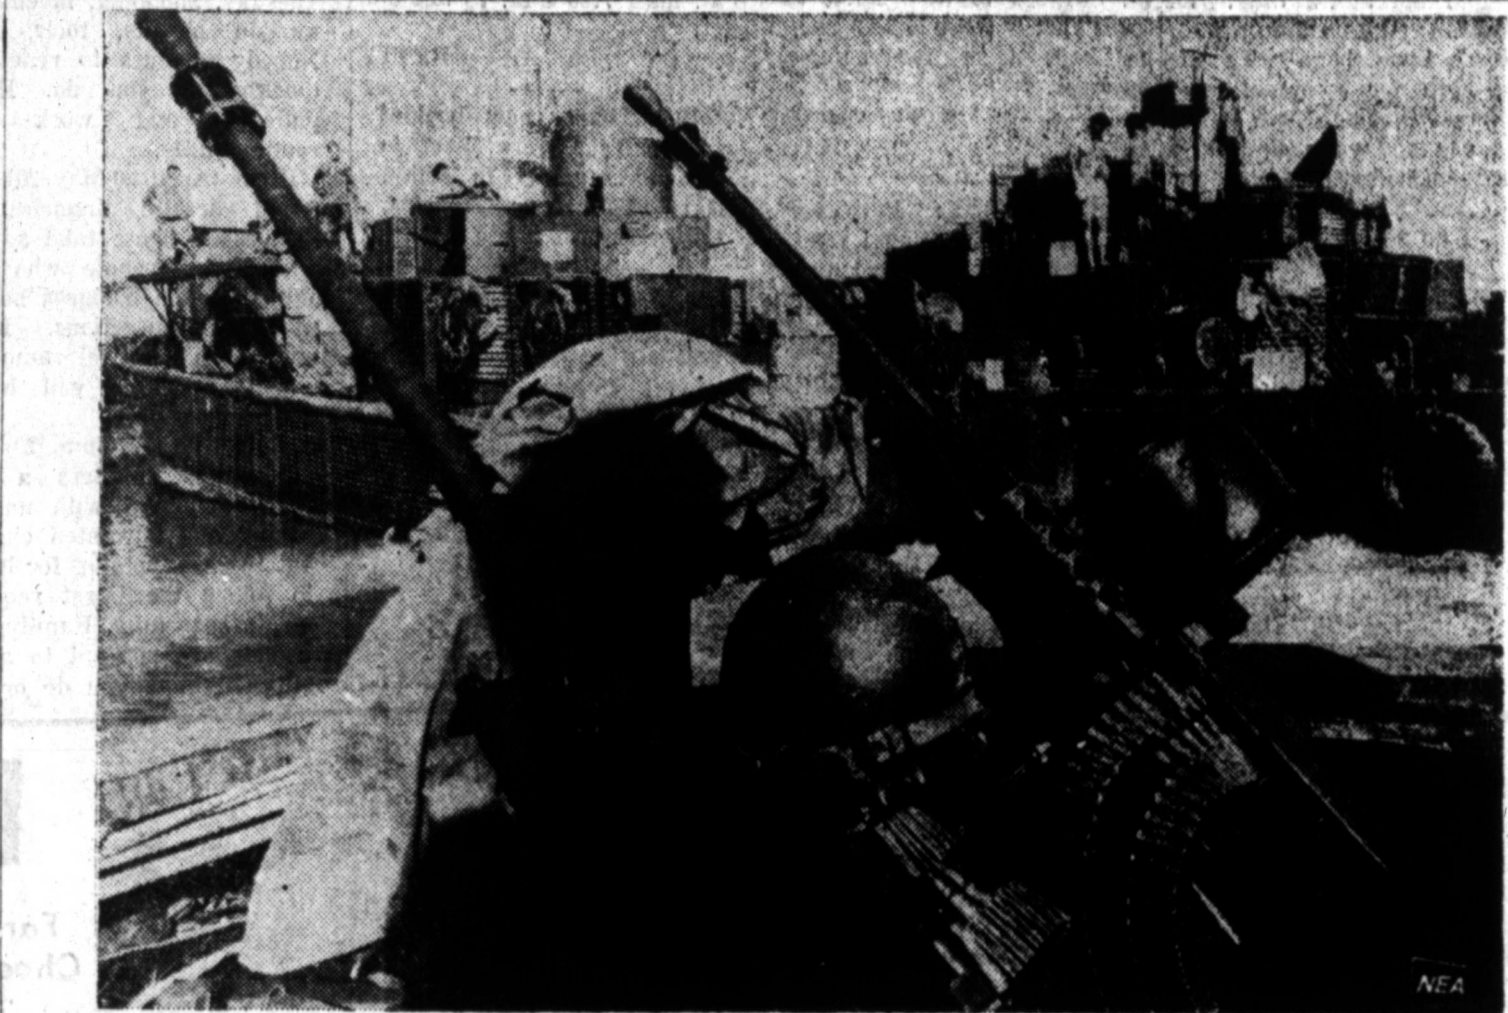

The general's wife, Mamie, was at the hospital during the operation, which ended shortly before midnight Sunday.

Brig. Gen. Frederick J. Hughes Jr., commanding general of the Walter Reed Medical Center, made the announcement one hour after completion of the operation that Eisenhower had come through it all right.

The operation was a risky undertaking in view of Eisenhower's advanced age and especially his cardiac history. Eisenhower has suffered seven heart attacks and has been hospitalized since last April.

"One hour after the operation was completed, Hughes told newsmen: "Gen. Eisenhower underwent surgery for intestinal obstruction this evening. The procedure began at 8:30 p.m. (CST) and terminated successfully at 10:30 (See EISENHOWER, Page 3)

Nixon Promises Leaders To Seek Summit Meeting

UNCOVERING ENEMY POWER — U.S. forces patrol in river boats along the Cambodian border, turning up a cache of hidden armament. The operation, involving Air Cavalry troopers, Navy, sailors and commandos, has been extremely successful in unearthing enemy arms. Even so, a number of similar caches have been used by Viet Cong to provide weapons for the current attacks upon Saigon and other South Vietnamese cities.

Belgian Police Keep Demonstrators Away

By EUGENE V. RISHER

BRUSSELS (UPI) — President Nixon told his NATO allies today he hoped to hold a summit meeting with the Russians "in due course." And then to squeals of joy from Belgian and American school children, he broke off his official duties to shake hands with welcoming crowds.

The wild acclamation and shouts of "Nixon! Nixon!" came as he drove from NATO headquarters to the tomb of the Belgian Unknown Soldier. Police kept anti-American elements away and there were none of the anti-Nixon demonstrations that marred his arrival.

Nixon arrived Sunday on an eight-day six-nation tour of Europe. His first major act today was to visit NATO headquarters where he promised to work for a summit conference with the Kremlin leaders—but not until he works out a united program on world issues with the Western allies. From NATO headquarters he drove in a motorcade to the Belgian square that houses the tomb of the unknown soldier.

There he waded into a mob of wildly enthusiastic American schoolchildren and started shaking hands.

Hundreds of schoolchildren and a few adults, many of them Americans stationed at NATO headquarters, waited for hours under a leaden sky and in the chilly wind that blew across the downtown square where the columned monument is located.

The crowd chanted "We want Nixon! We want Nixon!" until a bugler played taps.

They fell silent for a moment but as the last echo died away to end the official ceremony, Nixon broke into a smile and walked up to the metal barricade holding back the crowd and began shaking hands.

It appeared Belgian police had allowed in only children and the adults with them. Less (See NIXON, Page 3)

Student Trouble Continues to Hit Nation's Colleges

By United Press International
The president of Stillman College Sunday ordered students to break up a boycott of classes and go home but the students locked themselves in a campus building. The president talked to some of their parents and postponed his order until today.

At the University of California's Berkeley campus, a new board of regents ruling to suspend immediately any student violating campus regulations during a "state of extreme emergency" went into effect today and campus militants predicted violence.

A sit-in by 200 students from half a dozen colleges went into its seventh day at the University of Pennsylvania. The University of Wisconsin was quiet during the weekend, but a student leader at the 33,000-student school said militants would strike as long as they had to.

Sixth Day
At Stillman College, a predominantly Negro school of 750 at Tuscaloosa, Ala., a boycott of classes was in its sixth day today.

Sunday, Dr. Harold Stinson, the Stillman president, ordered the campus cleared by 6 p.m. CST. About 300 students moved into the Student Union, stretched chains with padlocks across the doors and vowed to stay until their demands were met.

The students demanded the firing of a maintenance worker who was a security guard last (See STUDENTS, Page 3)

Minutemen Try To Spread Aims

DALLAS (UPI) — Police arrested two men early Sunday in connection with a leaflet bombing in downtown Dallas over the weekend.

A homemade bomb exploded about 10 p.m. Saturday on a parking lot, scattering leaflets expounding the Minutemen philosophy and blowing away the front end of an automobile in the lot. No one was injured.

The men, two brothers aged 43 and 48, were arrested early Sunday at their home by police armed with search warrants. The bomb was supposed to spread leaflets signed by the ultra-conservative Minutemen, denouncing communism and socialism.

Apollo 9 Astros Seek Clearance

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The three Apollo 9 astronauts sought medical clearance today for launch Friday in the windup of a space tripleheader opening tonight.

The busiest week of space activity in years gets under way at 7:14 p.m. CST with the launch of a Mariner television probe on a 156-day journey to the planet Mars.

The shot will be followed early Wednesday by the launch of a new weather satellite.

Apollo 9 astronauts James A. McDivitt, 29, David R. Scott, 35, and Russell L. Schweickart, 33, are scheduled to take off at 11 a.m. Friday on a 10-day earth orbital voyage to test the Apollo moon landing craft nicknamed "Spider."

They were getting their last major physical examination today, but there was little doubt about its outcome. All three pilots were expected to be (See ASTROS, Page 3)

ALSO SHELL BASES, CITIES

Communists Bombard Saigon With Rockets and Mortar

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist troops in an offensive ultimately aimed at Saigon slammed at least 50 rocket and mortar barrages into cities and allied military camps today, most of them near the capital.

But unlike the opening day of the offensive Sunday, U.S. headquarters reported "no significant ground actions."

U.S. and South Vietnamese spokesmen listed more than 1,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops slain Sunday in heavy fighting with Allied troops.

Today, an American intelligence officer said, the guerrillas were shelling bases and towns on approach routes to Saigon in an attempt to keep Allied soldiers tied down while some 40,000 Communists slip closer to Saigon.

Allied spokesmen said overall losses in the new shelling were light. But, they said, 39 South Vietnamese civilians have been killed and 112 others wounded in attacks on cities since Sunday.

Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker urged Washington to warn Hanoi's delegates to the Paris talks to stop the shelling, which violate a tacit agreement that halted U.S. bombing of North Vietnam Nov. 1, embassy sources said.

President Nixon, on his European tour, was kept informed of the latest Vietnam developments in case the new Communist drive should imperil the talks.

The new offensive fell short of the intensity of the Communists' 1968 Tet offensive which penetrated virtually every major city in the nation. A U.S. spokesman predicted this drive would end up a "Grade A fiasco."

U.S. and South Vietnamese soldiers fought major battles Sunday at Long Binh and Bien Hoa, two major U.S. bases north of Saigon. Spokesmen said the Viet Cong captured the railroad station at Bien Hoa but were driven out.

U.S. headquarters listed at least 35 Americans killed and 185 wounded in major battles since the start of the Communist drive.

IN REPRISAL

Israeli Warplanes Raid Syrian Bases

By United Press International
Waves of Israeli warplanes attacked Syria today for the first time since the 1967 Middle East war and fought a two-hour air battle with Arab fighters that rose to challenge them.

Announcing the raids against Arab commando bases in Syria, Israeli spokesmen said their planes shot down one Syrian MIG17 and returned home without a loss.

In Damascus, Syrian officials deplored the raid and said three of the attacking French-built Israeli Mirage jets were downed in the two-hour dogfight. Syria said it lost two Soviet-made MIGs.

The raids were apparent reprisals for Arab commando attacks on an El Al airliner in Zurich last Tuesday and the Arab bombing of a supermarket in Jerusalem last Thursday.

The Israeli air raiders hit Arab commandos at Al Hamah and Mesalun, two major bases on the road to Damascus near Syria's frontier with Lebanon.

Damascus said 20 civilians were wounded in the morning attack and that a diplomatic automobile en route from Beirut to Damascus and two other cars were smashed.

Damascus Radio broadcast a communique announcing the attack at the city's doorstep at 9 a.m. and then aired martial music. The two bases are 6 to 10 miles from the capital, which is about 35 miles from the Israeli-occupied Syrian Golan Heights.

Syria is the main training ground for Palestinian commandos, and Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) Chairman Yasser Arafat was in Damascus on an inspection tour when the planes struck. However, Syria has never been known to send commandos directly across the border into Israel.

Police officials in Zurich said (See ISRAEL, Page 3)

Sirhan's Defense To Call Brothers

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sirhan B. Sirhan, two of his brothers and his mother may be among the 42 defense witnesses summoned to bolster efforts to save the 24-year-old Palestinian Arab from the gas chamber.

Sirhan's mother Mary and brother Munir conferred Sunday morning with associate defense counsel Russel E. Parsons in his office, apparently in connection with their forthcoming appearance on the stand.

They and another brother, Adel, presumably would support the defense contention that the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was "totally the product of a sick, obsessed mind and personality."

Associate Prosecutor David N. Pitts said it was possible the people's case would be rested by Wednesday, clearing the way for the defense to begin its presentation.

Chief defense counsel Grant B. Cooper expects to take about three weeks to present the defense case.

Defense attorney Emile Zola Berman of New York said in the defense's opening statement: "The killing was unplanned and undeliberate, impulsive and without premeditation or malice, totally a product of a sick, obsessed mind and personality."

House Expected to Consider Bill Concerning Sales Tax Elections

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — House members were expected to vote today on a bill designed to give cities a second chance to adopt the city sales tax without waiting two years between elections.

The bill, authored by three Rio Grande Valley lawmakers, would reduce the waiting period between sales tax elections from two years to one year.

Rep. Menton Murray of Harlingen, one of the sponsors, said he would push for final passage of the measure today. He said he had not encountered any house opposition to the bill.

"We have some cities who voted it down the first time around, and now have changed their minds and want a second chance at it," Murray said.

Reject It Too

The measure would also permit cities which have adopted the tax to reject it one year after its adoption, but Murray said he knows of no cities that want to get rid of the one per cent levy.

The house faced its longest calendar of the session today, but most of the 10 bills up for consideration were minor bills.

The only ones considered likely to draw opposition were a proposal to change the name of Stephen F. Austin College to Stephen F. Austin University, and a bill creating a University of Texas nursing school at San Antonio.

A senate committee last week deferred action on a similar nursing school proposal on grounds that the bill would require an appropriation.

Neither house passes legislation requiring appropriations until after the general appropriations bill is approved.

The Fort Worth lawmaker said his bill would give peace officers the authority to "go in and bodily throw anyone out who tried to disrupt school activities or take over any buildings."

The proposal has been attacked by the University of Texas student newspaper, which said lawmakers should have better things to do than write such laws.

New Offensive Seen in Outlook

SAIGON (UPI)—The nationwide wave of Communist attacks almost certainly marks the start of a new Red offensive aimed at Saigon, U.S. intelligence sources said today.

The primary objective of the widespread shelling and ground assaults apparently was to divert Allied forces while up to 40,000 Communist troops began closing in on the capital, they said.

Allied bases along infiltration corridors around the capital have been alerted to expect continued shelling and ground attacks as "three" Communist divisions move toward Saigon from the north, east and west.

The sources said that all indicators long have pointed to Saigon as the Reds' "ultimate objective."

DEAR ABBY: This is for the lady who has been married for 21 years, and still calls her husband every day at work just to say, "I love you." But maybe she should look at it from another point of view. Perhaps one day she will have an emergency at home and really need to talk to her husband in a hurry. What will she do if she calls and gets a busy signal, because all the lines going into the company are busy with wives calling their husbands to say, "I love you"?

Also most companies have a limited number of lines, and in all fairness to the "hand that feeds her" those lines should be kept open for company business.

SWITCHBOARD OPERATOR

DEAR ABBY: I was so touched by something I read in your column, I decided to try it, so I called up my husband at work and said, "Honey, I love you."

Know what he said? "Gee, do I have to lock up the liquor when I go to work?"

Very truly yours,
 HARRIET

DEAR ABBY: I've been on the same switchboard for 19 years and I can tell you that the married men who work here are not bothered by their wives so much. It's their girlfriends who call them. I don't have time to listen, but I've got about 10 bosses who are called five or six times every day by a "Miss Jones" or a "Miss Smith." You'd think these stupid women would use a little more imagination.

If you publish this letter, please do not use my name or company. I'd like to continue working here a little longer.

"BROWN EYES"

DEAR ABBY: I am furious. What a slap in the face one of your readers gave us PBX operators!

I've been at the switchboard of my company for six years and I wish I had a dime for every time I've had to drop everything and try to locate some employee so his wife can tell him to stop on the way home and bring home a loaf of bread. And if she's calling just to say, "I love you," that's worse yet. She has from 5:50 p.m. until 7:30 a.m. to tell him that.

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano says parliamentary proposals to legalize divorce for couples married in religious ceremonies would violate the Italian constitution.

Nixon

Held Meetings

He held meetings until almost midnight Sunday with Belgian officials to discuss NATO and East-West problems in general. He was sticking close to his program of a "working" tour, long on conferences and short on ceremonies. Meetings went on from the time of his arrival until the lights were turned out late in his suite in the Brussels Hilton Hotel. The White House said the President was "watching very carefully and closely" the new offensive by North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in South Vietnam, especially as it might affect the Paris peace talks. His address to the NATO council stressed what Nixon said beforehand was the purpose of his visit to Belgium, Britain, Bonn, Berlin, Rome, Paris and, finally, the Vatican. "I have come for work, not for ceremony," he said. "To inquire, not to insist; to consult, not to convince; to listen and learn, and to begin what I hope to be a continuing interchange of ideas and insights."

Police Seeking Missing Youths

Two Pampa youths missing since Friday are believed to have gone to Bryan, Tex., in an automobile apparently belonging to one of the boy's family, according to a police report.

The father believed the two youths were planning to visit a third boy who attends a military school at Bryan. The school might be a private one, according to the police blotter, or Texas A&M.

Authorities at Bryan had been requested to pick up the two Pampa youths if found there.

The Mariner 6 Martian explorer set for launch tonight is scheduled to fly within 2,000 miles of the Red Planet July 31 and snap up to 124 closeup pictures showing Mars' surface in 10 times better detail than ever before seen.

The 910-pound, $64 million spacecraft will be followed on its 226-million-mile interplanetary voyage March 24 by an identical craft named Mariner 7. It will swing by Mars Aug. 5.

The probes also may clear up once and for all the nature of the mysterious "canals" long seen on the Red Planet. Among their questions they may answer are what the planet's polar "ice" caps are actually made of, and what the differences are between blue and orange areas seen on the planet.

Deputy Israeli Premier Yigal Alon, speaking Sunday at the funeral of two students killed in Friday's bombing of a Jerusalem supermarket, said the Israeli army has a "long reach and those responsible for such deeds will not go unpunished."

Foreign Minister Abba Eban then told a cabinet meeting Israel "reserves the right to active self-defense"—a remark interpreted by Cairo's semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram and observers throughout the Middle East as meaning the Israelis were ready to strike back.

Kress Farmer Is Named Southwest Area Consultant

WASHINGTON—J. Jones, Kress farmer and agriculture leader, has been named as a consultant to the Secretary of Agriculture for the Southwest area of the nation. Panhandle Congressman Bob Price said he was gratified that Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin had selected a man of such outstanding ability and experience in a broad area of agriculture and business. Jones, a graduate of Texas Tech, has served for 14 years as Director of the Swisher County Farm Bureau, was superintendent and a member of the Board of Directors of the Swisher County Stock Show. He has served other groups including Plains Cotton Growers, is a member of the Cotton Institute, helped in obtaining the Co-Op Castor Oil Mill in Plainview and has contributed to the High Plains Research Foundation since its beginning. He is also a Flying Farmer and an honorary member of FFA.

At Berkeley, a student strike went into its second month Sunday. The regents, at a session attended Friday by Gov. Ronald Reagan, voted 10-3 to immediately suspend any rule-breaking student during Reagan's declared "state of extreme emergency."

Support Demands

At the University of Pennsylvania, protesters voted to support the broader demands of Philadelphia Negro community leaders, who want a 106-acre tract next to the university to be turned over to the community. Previously the demonstrators had demanded that only a portion of a 26-acre tract earmarked for a science center be given to the community for low-cost housing.

At the University of Wisconsin, rebel leader Kenneth Williamson said the movement backing black students' demands was still on despite a week of quiet. Williamson and other student leaders appeared on a two-hour television program Sunday to explain the black students' demands for a Black Studies Department, 500 more black students admitted—the school now has 585—and the admission of about 90 blacks expelled from Oshkosh State University because of violence there.

Coral Gables, Fla., Police Chief William Kimbrough said 124 policemen were moved to the University of Miami campus Sunday night when it was rumored students might seize control of the Administration Building. Kimbrough said the Students for a Democratic Society cancelled its takeover plans because police were "too well prepared."

Easter Seal Drive Starts

The annual Texas Easter Seal campaign, running six weeks and culminating on Easter, starts this week, according to Paul Keim, representative for Gray County. Easter Seal appeal letters are going out now. Keim notes, and enthusiastic response is hoped for. "During 1968," Keim said, "the Texas Easter Seal Society provided treatment and services to 11,390 children and 6232 adults in need of rehabilitation services. Such services are available to enable disabled who can benefit from assistance provided by the Easter Seal Society." Physical and occupational therapy is provided, as well as speech and hearing programs, the chairman added. Special equipment loans also are available to enable disabled persons to make the best use of their abilities in overcoming handicaps. Training of professional personnel for staffing rehabilitation centers, as well as research into the causes and cures of crippling conditions, also are made possible by funds contributed in the annual campaign.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst Window on The World: Down to Business: Allied analysts believe that despite North Vietnamese and Viet Cong intransigence, their negotiators finally will agree to drop their demand for an "unconditional American withdrawal at the Paris peace talks and engage in meaningful bargaining. They are hoping that Le Duc Tho, supervisor of the North Vietnamese delegation, will return to Paris shortly from his current consultations in Hanoi with instructions permitting a breakthrough in the talks.

Passing Storm

Western officials now feel fairly confident the crisis over the West German presidential election will pass without an all-out confrontation with the Soviets in Berlin. They interpret the joint Soviet-East German maneuvers as the least the Kremlin could do to register its displeasure but not a major challenge to the West.

Israel Marks Time

Western diplomats are predicting Israel will let the Zurich El Al Airliner attack go by without specific reprisal. Information in London is that the Israeli government will wait to see whether the United Nations and the big powers can bring enough pressure on the Arabs to halt such attacks. If, as the Israelis believe, these efforts fail, they are likely to do something really spectacular next time. A possible attack on a key Arab city or the Aswan Dam in Egypt is not ruled out.

Nixon-Wilson talks

Whitehall sources say Prime Minister Harold Wilson hopes the main result of his 10-hour meeting with President Nixon will be establishment of a friendly personal relationship rather than any specific political agreements. Wilson still hopes to make political hay out of a trip to Washington later in the year for a second round of talks with the President.

Diplomatic Ban Lifted

One of the most applauded moves Philippines Foreign Secretary Carlos P. ## Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Alexander Hamilton Institute notes that investors fear the surtax will be continued and that banks may increase the prime interest rate. Despite the general market and absence of encouraging factors, the firm says "it is well to keep in mind at times like these that Wall Street has seldom rewarded the pessimists for very long. Selective buying of well situated stocks in market declines can...prove very profitable."

The Dines Letter points out that "what is happening now might be all for the best in that the decline might reattract buying interests." With technical factors bullish since December, the firm says, the entire decline so far can be considered, "a small and minor interruption in a broad up-sweep."

Spear 1 Staff says it is "ironic" that "items...normally construed as good news—rising indicators of business activity—now may have bearish implications." It adds that unless the economy cools, "the screws will have to be tightened a couple of more turns, raising the danger of the dreaded overkill."

Publicity on Airplane Hijackings Causes Problem Without Solution

By ROBERT RUCKHOHN WASHINGTON (UPI)—The airline hijacker—a faceless, unpredictable nobody — has created a problem without a real solution.

And David D. Thomas, acting administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration, contends that publicity over hijackings encourages "more psychos, kooks and nuts" to do the same thing.

Stuart Tipton, president of the Air Transport Association (ATA), a trade group representing the major airlines, maintains on the other hand that publicity is needed to show potential hijackers that they probably will end up in a Cuban jail.

To psychologist John T. Dailey, taking over control of a plane gives the hijacker a "kick... a sense of achievement" that offsets a lifetime of failure. He doubts that even free passes to Cuba would stamp out all hijacking.

The TAA is offering a reward for information leading to apprehension of any hijacker. But since most of hijackings generally are not planned over a long period, the reward is not expected to be effective except to publicize the possible death penalty for hijacking.

Marine Guards

Why not arm the pilots, or keep armed guards—or Marine, as one senator suggested—in the passenger compartment?

This, is ruled out by most airlines. The reason is simple: A gun fight would run the risk of killing a passenger, a crew member, or dangerously damaging the plane—with no guarantee it would lead to capture of the hijacker.

What about detection devices? They are being developed, but again they offer no cure-all. A hijacker could use a plastic knife from his dinner tray, as a weapon.

The public is a fountainhead of suggestions, most of them useless. They range from trap doors to drop the hijacker into space to filling the passenger compartment with nonlethal gas.

But there is slowly taking shape a number of counter-hijacking actions that observers hope will appreciably reduce the rate of these incidents. There already have been more hijackings this year than in all of 1968.

The most hopeful suggestion hinges on acceptance by Cuba's Fidel Castro of a plan to return hijackers to face punishment in U.S. courts.

If a hijacker cannot find sanctuary in Cuba, and faces a minimum of 20 years in prison and a maximum of death, he will less likely think about hijacking, observers feel.

Acceptance by Castro The State Department is working behind the scenes on the agreement, and there are some indications Castro might be willing to go along.

Earlier this month, he allowed a hijacked jetliner to take off immediately from Havana with its load of passengers. In the past, Cuba had insisted that jetliners were too big to take off from Havana's airport, forcing the airlines to fly a second plane to Cuba to return the passengers.

The State Department also points out that Castro has made little use of hijackers for propaganda, and that as a group hijackers are undesirable, ranging from escaped convicts to unstable husbands who were having family trouble.

Added to this is the ever-present possibility a hijacking will lead to a disaster. This, in turn, would reflect on Cuba's world image.

Aside from the U.S.-Cuba negotiations, the airlines of the world hope to work out soon a agreement (to include Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, which opened its doors on Dec. 3, 1833, was the first truly coeducational institution of higher learning in the United States.

Marijuana's 'Mild, Effect Do Not Sound Harmful-But

EDITOR'S NOTE: This concluding article of a series on marijuana deals with the pros and cons of its effects on users.

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI)—"I talk to people and I see the words coming out of their mouths in big, block letters in a steady stream.

"I can look at any part of the sentence a person is saying as it crosses the room, or refer back to an earlier part of the sentence.

"Sometimes conversations are difficult. Once I was with a couple and the wife began talking about their garden. I could visualize the walled garden, with a neighborhood dog managing to get in and dig it up, and all these problems with the dog.

"When I said something about the dog, no one knew what I was talking about and I realized I had built the whole scene in my mind while the conversation was about something else."

That was the description of a marijuana "high" as experienced by a 31-year-old New Yorker. He says he smokes a marijuana cigarette about once in six months and sees no reason why it shouldn't be legalized.

No Hangover
His description of marijuana's effects—relaxation, waves of euphoria, some unbalanced conversations but no loss of physical equilibrium, a craving for sweets, no "morning after" hangover—do not sound alarming, and most people know or know of someone who suffers much more harmful effects from alcohol. The comparison between alcohol and marijuana is not uncommon, ranging from the high school girl who noted "adults drink booze, we smoke pot," to the 24-year-old New Jersey girl who uses both moderately and says she prefers marijuana because it isn't fattening. Both the teenager and the older girl believe marijuana or "pot" should be legalized.

Dr. Henry Brill, director of New York State's Pilgrim State (mental) Hospital in Brentwood, Long Island, is strongly opposed to legalization of marijuana and he finds backing in the same alcohol analogy.

"The two are not the same," Dr. Brill said. "There are similarities. You can have chronic alcoholism and chronic cannabisism." (Cannabis is the scientific name for the hemp plant from which marijuana is derived.)

Create Another Problem
"We now have an estimated five million alcoholics in this country, and 30,000 to 40,000 deaths a year are traced to alcohol one way or another. It doesn't seem logical to create another problem similar to alcohol."

Dr. Brill added the two were not identical in effect, and he said if alcohol had never been legal in the United States, he would not favor making it so. Prohibition, however, proved that such taboos cannot be enforced when a custom is long-established. Marijuana, however, has no such history in the United States.

"I am strongly against the legalization of marijuana," he said, "and I am strongly against the message it would carry to the public—that this is a harmless or relatively harmless drug. It isn't."

The psychiatrist does not unrealistically threaten marijuana experimenters with an inevitable slide into drug addiction. Warnings such as that fall on deaf ears when young people—and some older ones—have tried marijuana and found themselves able to smoke it or leave it alone.

"There are two main dangers," Dr. Brill said in an interview. "One is acute pathological intoxication from a relatively small dose—that is, a person could experience an acute psychotic episode.

"A Bad Trip"
"I say pathological because it is assumed that some underlying instability produces this effect. It may be berserk sometimes, depressive others. There can be waves of suspicion causing a dangerous paranoid reaction. These extreme reactions to a very small dose of marijuana are not statistically prominent, but they make up a not inconsiderable number of cases."

In drug jargon, this is a "bad trip" or "bummer." More significant," he added, "is that in any exposure to any intoxicating substance a certain number of people are unable to take it occasionally and leave it alone the rest of the time.

Instead they use it in fairly steady doses and over long periods of time. In addition they look for a more powerful effect. Again, this is not 100 per cent, but it is true in a significant proportion of cases."

This is your classic case, who begins by smoking marijuana and dabbling in drugs, and ends up either really dependent on marijuana, or worse, physically addicted to stronger drugs such as heroin.

Brill also warned that under the influence of marijuana "some people become sufficiently relaxed and involved with it that over a period of time they lose interest in productive activity" and "drop out, drift off the academic scene."

LET'S TALK

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The thing I personally prefer in show business entertainment—whether movies, television or the stage—is amusement. Puerile messages by juveniles who have just discovered that the world is not perfect bore me. I sympathize with the producer who suggested that if he wanted a message, he would send for Western Union.

As an admirer of comedians, it has been interesting to note the impact of Rowan and Martin, and the Smothers Brothers, in an area other than that of their racy and often controversial television humor. Forget their messages for a moment. For what they have done for show business is to help bring back one of the most enjoyable types of acts the entertainment world can offer: The comedy team.

Years ago, show business was flooded with great comedy teams: the Marx Brothers, Laurel and Hardy, the Ritz Brothers, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, Abbott and Costello, George Burns and Gracie Allen and on and on. In recent years, though many minor teams appeared, very few top ones emerged to blockbuster status.

Perhaps the single major exception in television was the partnership of Jackie Gleason and Art Carney, who—for years now—have proved themselves to be one of the truly great comedy teams in the history of American show business. The problem, however, is that they are only together now and then on Gleason's series. And when Carney is not there, the series at once becomes just another variety program, despite Gleason's undeniable talents.

Veteran televisioners must have got a special kick Sunday night in watching Herschel Bernardi perform numbers from his Broadway musical success, "Zorba," on CBS-TV's Ed Sullivan Show.

The stage version of "Zorba" is kind of a Greek "Fiddler on the Roof," and there was Bernardi Sunday night on the Sullivan Show, singing, dancing and having a rowing good time, and offering viewers a sample of just how professional a real pro can be.

lo, George Burns and Gracie Allen and on and on. In recent years, though many minor teams appeared, very few top ones emerged to blockbuster status.

Perhaps the single major exception in television was the partnership of Jackie Gleason and Art Carney, who—for years now—have proved themselves to be one of the truly great comedy teams in the history of American show business. The problem, however, is that they are only together now and then on Gleason's series. And when Carney is not there, the series at once becomes just another variety program, despite Gleason's undeniable talents.

Veteran televisioners must have got a special kick Sunday night in watching Herschel Bernardi perform numbers from his Broadway musical success, "Zorba," on CBS-TV's Ed Sullivan Show.

The stage version of "Zorba" is kind of a Greek "Fiddler on the Roof," and there was Bernardi Sunday night on the Sullivan Show, singing, dancing and having a rowing good time, and offering viewers a sample of just how professional a real pro can be.

SHARE THE WEALTH

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man (UPI) — The mourners at James Wilkie's funeral thought it strange they were asked for their names and addresses before being seated.

A few days later, they learned why. Wilkie, a lifelong bachelor, had set aside 30 per cent of his estate to be divided among everyone who showed up at his funeral.

Nearly 100 persons will share in part of Wilkie's estate, the value of which has not yet been determined.

Rebs Tops, Pampa-Borger Tie For Second In 4-4A

By RON CROSS
Tascosa with a 23-8 season record and 15-3 district mark will meet Odessa High, probably in Lubbock, Tuesday night in the first round of district competition.

for the third time this season. Borger finished with the second best season record among district teams (20-4) while Pampa's 19-8 mark was third best.

The Bulldogs 14-4 overall district mark tied the Harvesters for second place in the overall district standings.

Tascosa won the first half with a perfect 9-0 mark and finished in a tie for second with Borger in the second half at 6-3.

Pampa was 6-3 in the first half of play and won the second half with an 8-1 record. The Harvesters enjoyed even a better season than their 19-8 season record shows under new coach Sterling Gibson.

Pampa was picked to finish no higher than fifth in a pre-season poll of the basketball coaches in the district.

But Gibson and his charges made teamwork and hustle pay off for their lofty finish. For the second straight season the Harvesters had the district's leading scorer in Jim Hollis.

Hollis scored 332 district points for an 18.4 average and won the title by 31 points over Borger's Carl Taylor. Billy Thomas, who came on to be one of the most valuable members of the team, finished in the top 10 scorers with a 12.1 average. Hollis posted a 19.3 season mark and Thomas was the only other Harvester to average in double figures as he equaled his district average.

Unruly Teams, Fans Mark Basketball

By United Press International
There may not be any student revolts, disruptive protest marches or violence on Southwest Conference college campuses, but the cops and officials certainly are having their problems with unruly basketball players, coaches and fans.

Williams' driving layup with two seconds left, bedlam broke loose when a traveling violation was called on him and the goal voided.

It was the second overtime loss of the week for SMU, which had bowed 87-84 to TCU in a wild game Tuesday night. Among the more calm games, Tech beat Arkansas 59-57, Texas edged Rice 81-80 and beat TCU 64-54 and Rice beat Arkansas 74-67.

Same Finish Seen For Young Yankees

NEW YORK—PROSPECTUS — Ralph Houk's youth program started paying off last season when Yanks climbed to fifth. Emphasis remains on youth and Yanks appear to be at least halfway home in building program that started in the American League cellar five years ago.

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

Our Capsule Policy

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Cloud Nine Legal Talent

The possibility of, and opportunity for, preferential treatment inherent in the federal government's power to reward one company or individual while penalizing others were never more graphically illustrated than in an article, "Lawyers Get $4 Million in Pacific Routes Battle," by Scripps-Howard Staff Writer, Dan Thomasson, in the Rocky Mountain News.

As in the case of the income tax laws, which created an entirely new class of lawyers feeding upon the tax fallout, federal regulatory agencies, such as the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) and many others with the power to approve or deny entry into the market place, have created a class of lawyers whose sole purposes in life appear to consist of obtaining governmental favors for their corporate clients, and whose successes, it might be added, seem to hinge upon the size of their retainers and who they know in Washington, D.C.

According to the Rocky Mountain News article, "Ten major airlines spent more than $4 million for Washington lawyers and law firms in 1967 while the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) was considering controversial trans-Pacific air route cases, CAB records show."

Prospects for 1968, when all the dope is finally correlated, the article added, promise to be at least as lucrative as in 1967. The huge sums paid out by the airlines for legal talent, the article continued, "must be regarded, CAB officials noted, in relation to the huge increase in revenues winners in the cases expect to receive. CAB has estimated increase in annual gross revenue for each airline awarded a new or expanded Pacific route at more than $10 million."

Here, as extracted from the article, are some of the sums paid out by various airlines to Washington, D.C. legal talent:

Ernst & Young to the firm of Arnold and Porter — $408,000. Incidentally, Abe Fortas, Supreme Court Justice was a partner in the firm prior to his court appointment as is his wife at this date. In addition, Joseph Califano, former White House aide to LBJ, recently joined the

Tax Revolt Storm Signals

While politicians at all levels of government are scouring to find more sources of revenue, the talk of a revolt by the tax payers is growing throughout the nation.

U.S. News & World Report (Feb. 10) discussed "Tax Revolt Brewing in U.S." The weekly magazine particularly discussed the fact that voters are rejecting bond issues, particularly for schools.

U.S. News published a table showing that from 1957 to 1967, state and local taxes increased in all categories: Property taxes, $12.9 billion to $26.3 billion; sales taxes, $9.5 billion to $20.6 billion; personal income taxes, $1.8 billion to $5.8 billion; corporate income taxes, $1 billion to $2.2 billion; other taxes, $3.6 billion to $6.3 billion. Over-all the state and local collections went from $28.8 billion to $61.2 billion. State and local spending of all money, including federal handouts was up 132 per cent during the 11 years.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States does some advance estimates and says employed Americans will work

2 1/2 hours of every 8-hour working day to pay their federal, state and local tax bills during 1969. Thus nearly a third of a worker's earnings will go for taxes.

It's estimated that all taxes, federal, state and local, will amount to $1,000 for every man, woman and child in the nation. In 1958, the total was $568; in 1948, it was $349; and a few people will remember that in 1902, all taxes amounted to only $17 per person.

There has been some talk among political figures about "reforms" in taxes. But these proposals usually are for shifting the tax from one means of collection to another. Only in isolated cases are politicians talking about reducing government expenses, which are the only meaningful way that taxes will be reduced.

The storm signals are flying, and unless the political spenders, state, local and national, heed them, they are likely to find themselves in the midst of a tax revolt of tordadic proportions. And they won't like it.

They Paused To Remark

(American Opinion) For the nation most heavily committed to both the Korean and Vietnam wars—i.e., the United States—has refused as a major point of policy to make its own national interest the measure of its conduct of either war. . . In both wars the United States government not only refused to make victory its objective, but took punitive measures against those who sought victory—against General Douglas MacArthur, against General Edwin A. Walker. Since MacArthur was cashiered, no U.S. commander in any field of combat (except Oxford, Mississippi) has been allowed to seek victory. . . Since the series of persecutions of General Walker, no officer has even spoken in recognizable terms of national victory. Medford Evans

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: The News often states that the reason the country is in the trouble it is in today is that people are trying to use a double standard of right and justness, which is really no standard at all. How has it happened that people try to go by a double standard of right and do not recognize that it is no standard at all?

ANSWER: The trouble is that people learn from example more than from reasoning, and the example everywhere around us is of people trying to live by a double standard of right and justice. So it has become accepted by the great majority of people as "the way things are," and they never think beyond that point.

The entire system of tax-supported schools is based on the erroneous idea that it is right for the state to do what no individual would have a moral right to do.

No individual would contend that he had a moral and just right to force his neighbor to educate his children as that individual thought they should be educated, nor would he contend that he had a moral and just right to force all his neighbors to pay for educating those children as he wanted them educated.

Yet almost everyone believes it is moral and right for the state to do that very thing. It is a double standard — one standard for the individual, another standard for the state.

Now, since the schools and the administrators and the teachers all owe their existence and their livelihood to this double standard, they certainly are not going to teach that. Since it is based on a double standard, the system is wrong. As soon as their pupils realized that, they'd be out of jobs.

In the higher grades, in such subjects as sociology, anthropology and psychology they emphasize the vast variety of mankind's customs and try to use this to prove that there are no moral absolutes, no universal single standard of right and justice. So they preach "permissive psychology" and relative morality, and place responsibility for all good or bad on what they call "society."

But they ignore the testimony in all those same studies that all people recognize the same moral imperative of "thou shalt not steal" no matter in what language it may be expressed. "Thou shalt not steal" is a moral absolute and if it is wrong for one to steal, it's wrong for all or a group or the state, to steal. That is a single standard of right.

But our schools, our churches, most of our newspapers, the magazines, the books, the films, the television, and all our so-called intellectual leaders believe in and advocate the state doing things that would be wrong for an individual to do. For four generations or more tax-supported schools have existed and have indoctrinated their pupils in a double standard, by example and by precept, so it is no wonder most people accept it and do not even recognize that it is no standard at all. Most schools do not even dare to encourage inquiry about moral absolutes and a universal single standard of right and justice. They do not lead a search for truth and understanding. They simply train their pupils in a few more or less complex skills, like animals taught to manipulate a maze.

Even before tax-supported schools became general of course, there were people who believed in a double standard. But their influence was small and was counteracted by those thinkers like Jefferson, Paine, Franklin, Spencer and Kant, who saw that there is but one code of morality whether it be for individuals or for nations, as Jefferson said.

But once all children were compelled to go to schools which existed under a double standard, then everyone became indoctrinated to believe in it and were less and less inclined to question it. It's this process of being able to influence the minds and beliefs of the young that leads every dictator to try to gain control of the youth of the land in order to perpetuate his own power by leading the youth, and ultimately everyone, to believe that it is proper.

Johnson Privately Challenging HHH On 'Titular' Party Leadership

ROBERT ALLEN WASHINGTON — Former President Lyndon Johnson is talking privately as if he is spilling for a fight over the leadership of the Democratic party.

To visitors at his Texas ranch, he has dropped hints darkly implying he is not taking kindly to the claim of his former teammate and 1968 presidential standard bearer that he is the party's "titular" leader.

From these inside accounts, Johnson apparently has no designs on that role himself. Instead, he is described as maintaining that, under existing political circumstances, the party's leadership is rightfully vested in the hands of the "elected" Democratic leaders of Congress.

Not only does former Vice President Hubert Humphrey emphatically reject that contention, but he is bluntly making it clear he is prepared to forcefully assert his claim as a "titular" leader.

Said a close Humphrey associate, "If Mr. Johnson is looking for a row over this issue, he will have no trouble getting it. It may prove very jarring and painful to him. He will discover that important and influential elements of the party feel just as hostile toward him now as when he was in office. So while we're not seeking any disputes with him or anyone else in the party, if he really has in mind challenging Hubert's leadership, we'll meet him head-on."

Johnson's argument that with a Republican President in the White House it is up to the Democratic congressional leaders to exercise party leadership is an old story with him.

That's the trend that he, as Senate Democratic Leader, and the late Speaker Sam Rayburn, Tex., adamantly professed throughout the eight years of the Eisenhower Administration. They flatly refused to recognize the late Adlai Stevenson as "titular" leader, and when he set up a National Policy Advisory Committee, they would have nothing to do with it — thus effectively scuttling it.

Humphrey not only intends to establish a new Policy Advisory Committee, but to be chairman of it.

Johnson and former President Harry Truman will be invited to be members — with leaders and authorities from a "wide spectrum" of fields. Also included will be several or more Negroes. If Johnson declines, no tears will be shed.

WHAT HUMPHREY'S AFTER — Keeping a firm hold on the Democratic party's leadership is only one of Humphrey's ambitions.

Another, even more important, is regaining a Senate seat. One big hurdle — is Senator

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANSTADT

Allergist Should Find Cause of Giant Hives

Q—I have had angioneurotic edema of my lips for four years. The attacks come on suddenly and are very upsetting because in my job I have to meet the public. I am taking Librium three times a day. Is there anything better?

A—A careful examination by an allergist should help you to find the cause of your giant hives and eliminate it. Just because your diagnosis contains the word "neurotic" doesn't mean that taking a tranquilizer will cure you.

Q—When I handle ice cubes I get a severe itching in my hands. Could this be an allergy to cold?

A—It could be a physical allergy to cold or a mild case of chilblain. You'd better wear gloves when you handle ice.

Q—I am a girl, 19. Is there any age limit on the Roman slimming method you described in a recent column? Do the injections of human chorionic gonadotropin (HCG) cause any bad side effects? How long does it take to get all 40 injections? Is exercise, such as jogging or swimming, permitted while on this diet? Following this diet how long would it take to lose 25 pounds?

A—Although Dr. Simeoni's treatment finds its greatest appeal for women in their late 30s and early 40s, it is suitable for adults of any age. No undesirable side effects have been reported when the injections are given as directed but too large a dose in female adolescents or young adults may have a virilizing effect—hair on the face, acne, menstrual irregularity and deepening of the voice.

The duration of the treatments varies—five or six weeks is the average. Exercise is permitted after the first seven to 10 days. Those who strictly adhere to the method may lose from eight to 24 ounces a day but should not lose more than 35 pounds in any six-week period.

Q—I am told that doctors have varied opinions about the Roman slimming method. What are the pros and cons?

A—Some doctors are skeptical about the value of the injections of HCG and some claim to have tried the method without success. To be successful, the method must be carried out exactly as originally described. Failures have been shown to be due to modifications. The chief advantages of the plan are that it enables a person to adhere to a low-calorie diet without being hungry and that those who follow it seem to lose fat in the places where they are most anxious to lose it.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

New York Governor, Mayor Want More of Your Money

By PAUL HARVEY New York City has not grown in 25 years; it has just sat there deteriorating morally, socially and economically.

Now one in eight New Yorkers is on welfare, living off the taxes of the other seven.

Now the governor of New York and the mayor of New York City want more of your money to help keep their island afloat.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has been in Washington lobbying for a system called "federal tax sharing." It's a complicated concept in which he would increase your federal taxes and distribute these dollars to hard-pressed state and local governments.

It sounds unlikely that Congress or the White House would penalize you and me for the mismanagement of New York City, but remember we once considered political reapportionment unlikely, too.

Yet it came to pass that population concentrations were given more votes, so don't bet they won't get more money, too.

Rockefeller, in the Cabinet Room of the White House, stood before charts and diagrams, insisting that it costs more to run a city than it used to but the tax dollars are not available locally to pay those costs.

What he meant but did not say was that there are too many freeloaders on the Big City's welfare rolls and he wants us to pay their upkeep.

Under the Rockefeller plan, Big City politicians could continue to buy re-election with welfare handouts—the army of indigent would be encouraged to expand—while the cost of all that welfare would be diverted to hard-working dues-paying Americans in Wisconsin and Colorado and Texas and Georgia and Arkansas.

The concept of "federal tax sharing" is not new. Dr. Walter Heller advised the Kennedy Administration to consider distributing federal revenues to state and local governments.

Defense Secretary Mel Laird, as a congressman, proposed that 5 per cent of the federal tax take should be returned to the states.

New York Sen. Charles Goodell, when a congressman, suggested thus diverting 3 per cent to 5 per cent of federal taxes to the states "on a population basis."

I am not unaware of big-city problems. I headquarter in Chicago. Chicagoans of means are migrating to suburbs. Chicago proper is populated more and more with tax recipients rather than taxpayers.

Yet better than a redistribution of everybody's dollars, it seems to me, would be a redistribution of these population concentrations.

The drones who moved into New York City, encouraging the workers to move out, went there to stay there because of the continuing handout.

Are we curing the problem by increasing and perpetuating that handout?

Here we are not talking about widows and orphans and ailing and aged and other deserving needy. Here we are talking about the welfare rolls which are growing twice as fast as our population is increasing.

And in an era when every metropolitan newspaper is bulging with jobs begging for people.

California Gov. Ronald Reagan, it seems to me, offers a more traditionally American recommendation. He says, "Let's stop, at home and abroad, being our brother's keeper; let's start really being his brother—and let him keep himself!"

National Debt Skyrockets As Government Hikes Aid

SCOTCH WISDOM (Wink, Tex., Bulletin)

Back in the 1930s, in that period which has since come to be known as The Great Depression, millions of families received assistance from various government agencies. In the worst of those years, 1934, a total of 6,333,000 households received aid of one kind or another from either federal or local governments.

The total federal expenditures for the year 1931 were $3.6 billion. This was the first year in which spending exceeded collections, thereby creating what has come to be known as a deficit. The national debt stood at $18.5 billion. Since 1931 it has risen on a curve like a Saturn rocket; there have been only six years without a deficit since that time. In passing we will note that federal expenditures in 1934 were $6.7 billion but they rose to almost $8 billion in 1937, although the high-water mark for relief payments had been reached three years earlier.

Today, according to U.S. News & World Report, the government is handing out government checks to 33,000,000 individuals of voting age. In addition, there are 3 million farmers who receive at least occasional conservation or price support or other type of check which adds to the income of an estimated 10 million people in farm families. Still to be considered is the so-called anti-poverty program, which is disbursing funds at an annual rate of $2 billion.

Meanwhile, that $18.5 billion national debt has rocketed to $352 billion. The annual interest on the debt is a fantastic $14.5 billion. And there is another trillion dollars of what the late Senator Byrd called "legislated and contractual obligations" of the Federal Government.

Yet we are living, we are told, in the longest period of greatest prosperity that our country has ever known.

Have we reached the danger point of which Professor Tyler, of Edinburgh University, warned nearly two centuries ago? That canny Scot declared: "A democracy can't exist as a permanent form of government. It can only exist until a majority of the voters learn that they can vote themselves largest out of the public treasury."

"You might have had a best seller on your hands—if you looked like Jacqueline Susann!"
