Mixup Develops Over School Board Filings

By WANDA MAE HUFF
News Staff Writer

One candidate for the Pampa School board has been declared ineligible and another last-minute candidate ran into legal complications today which could also eliminate him.

The first development started about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday when Homer Craig, director of school business services, notified Bob Sholar, 1115 Kiowa Place, that he was ineligible as a candidate because he had not lived in the state for one year. Sholar had filed for the lone seat on the school board at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

"I contacted Sholar's wife Tuesday afternoon about 2 or 2:30 p.m. and told her I didn't think he would be eligible to run for the office because he had not lived in the state a year," Craig said. "To file for a state or local office, a person has to live in the state a year and in the county six months."

When informed he would not be eligible, Sholar suggested Bob Tinney, a local apartment owner and owner of Top of Texas Builders, file for the office. Tinney's wife filed with Craig before the 4:30 p.m. deadline, with her husband's power of attorney, Tinney said.

Sholar moved here from Oklahoma April 26, 1968, and according to his poll tax receipt would not be eligible to vote until May 1, 1969, Craig said.

The second step in the candidates' mix up arose a few minutes before the school business office closed its an-

BULLETIN

School board attorney Bill Waters told the News shortly after noon today Bob Sholar is disqualified as a candidate because he is not a qualified voter.

Waters also stated it was his opinion that Bob Tinney did not file legally yesterday, but that he still had until midnight to file.

Waters said the calendar shows midnight tonight is the filing deadline instead of yesterday. Tinney, reached at his home this afternoon, said he would file before the deadline.

Salvation Army Sets Recognition Banquet

The building is new and shining, the food will be "delicious," spirits will be high and — most important of all — the speaker will be Col. Paul Thronburg, Dallas, divisional commander and official "Mr. Salvation Army" of the state of Texas.

The occasion will be the express appreciation to groups and individuals who have demonstrated friendship for our cause; and to present one of the most dynamic speakers in the state.

This will be the first dinner in the new Salvation Army Citadel, constructed last year and dedicated Nov. 10, 1968.

Advisory board members to be installed, each for a 3-year term, are Coyle Ford, Marvin Webster, Mrs. Allan Wise, Dan Carter, Mrs. J. B. Veale and Jack Imel.

Executive officers are David Fatheree, chairman; Frank Culbertson, vice chairman; Mrs. Thelma Bray, secretary; and Paul Crossman, treasurer.

Officers of the Pampa United Fund will be presented a plaque in appreciation of financial assistance. The plaque will be accepted by the current president, Jerry Sims, and the 1968 chairman David Tucker.

The Songsters, a group trained by the local Salvation Army, will provide special music.

Recognition for special services will be accorded about 20 organizations, each of which has figured prominently in Army activities, Capt. Duncan said.

The dinner is open to the public at $1.50 per person. Tickets may be reserved by telephoning Salvation Army headquarters, according to Capt. Duncan, or they may be purchased from any advisory board member.

Astros Conduct Transfer Through Tunnel In Space

Televise Pilot's View From Inside of Craft

By AL ROSSITER JR.
UPI Space Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Two Apollo 9 astronauts, one fighting off space sickness, crawled through a 32-inch wide tunnel from their mothership into its attached lunar landing craft today and televised back from orbit a pilot's view of the inside of the "Spider" that lands on the moon.

Commander James A. McDivitt and space rookie Russell L. Schweickart were spending about nine hours in the moon lander, putting it through the first of three days of tests that may tell whether or not Americans can land on the moon this summer.

David R. Scott stayed behind in the command ship to maintain a vigil while his space chums gave the lander they call "Spider" its first orbital workout with men at the controls.

After nearly three hours of preliminary tests, home television viewers got an all-business look at the two lunar module pilots standing at the controls the seatless spacecraft.

Before the 6-minute 45-second space telecast began at 8:29 a.m. CST, Schweickart reported in a private conversation with doctors on the ground that he had been sick and vomiting "a few hours ago."

He said, however, that the sickness cleared up. Ground controllers decided to continue with the crucial 10-day earth orbital test flight as planned. All three Apollo 9 astronauts previously had colds that

More Snow Seen For Area, Road Warnings Issued

A heavy snow warning was posted for the Panhandle today and travelers' warnings in the area also, as Texans girded for another onslaught of snow, rain and cold weather.

Heavy snow continuing through Thursday was forecast for Pampa and vicinity by the U.S. Weather Bureau in Amarillo shortly before noon today.

Snowfall is expected to reach an accumulation of 4 to 7 inches by Thursday.

Pampa had received .11 inch of moisture by 6 a.m. today. However, snow continued to fall on the city during the morning and had reached an accumulation of 4 inches by noon. More was expected.

Travelers' warnings were issued as the snow covered the roads and highways. Surfaces were slick, but no major accidents had been reported.

BULLETIN

Pampa classes were called off at 2 p.m. today because of icy road conditions and snow accumulation.

An inch of snow fell at Delhart Tuesday night and continued to fall today. It was expected to continue through the day ending tonight.

Heavy snow hit Lubbock Tuesday before it reached the rest of North Texas. It stuck to the ground and on automobiles and roads were iced by the late winter storm.

An inch of snow was reported Tuesday in Amarillo and Childress.

Temperatures as low as 24 degrees were predicted for extreme southwestern areas.

Rain was predicted for all sections of the state except for extreme southwestern areas.

An intensive cloud cover was reported over the entire state with the only exception being El Paso, which recorded clear skies.

Wind gusts up to 30 miles an hour resulted in small craft warnings being posted along the Texas coast from Brownsville to Port Arthur. The winds were expected to diminish by Thursday.

Happy Is Named First Place For Judging Teams

By RUTH LEWIS
News Staff Writer

A livestock show is expected to exhibit the finest possible examples of cattle, sheep and other animals.

But it also serves to point out quality human beings, as Tuesday's Future Farmers and 4-H members indicated at the annual banquet in the high school cafeteria.

To a detached observer — and what could be more detached than a woman reporter in a room full of handsome young men — this itself was a show — of good manners, good health and good taste.

There was rivalry, of course — the friendly competition of well-bred contestants — but there was also sportsmanship.

Of course the top judging team — from Happy — wasn't there when the winners were announced and photographs made. This was a disappointment to the directors and must have been doubly so to the winners when they were advised of their performance record.

The Happy team was high over-all winner with a total of 1076 points in judging. Pampa was in second place, with 1053 points.

Other winners in the over-all judging contest were, in order, White Deer, 1051; Canadian, 1040; Silverton, 1033; Abernathy and Spur tied at 1029; Hereford, 1021; Gruver 1016; and Childress 1009.

Highest scoring individual judge was Lloyd South, Miami, with 386 points, 10 points ahead of R. Wood, Silverton, who had 376. D. Burton Silverton, and S. Covey, Abernathy, tied for third with 373 each. Others were J. Beaton, Idalou, 372; A. Ralston, Gruver, 371; N. Mc Carley, Happy, 370; B. Dickinson, Canadian, and J. Schlenker, Friona, tied at 369; C. Long, Hedley 366.

High individual judges in beef cattle were B. Underwood, Mobeetie, 139; J. Britten, Groom, and L. Jones, Childress 135; S. Hale, Miami, 134; and Lloyd South, Miami, 131.

Beef cattle grading were S. Olson, Hereford, 66 D. Hinton, Boys Ranch, 64; J. Decker, Childress, M. White, Spur, and J. Schlenker, Friona, each 59.

High individuals in fat barrow judging were: J. Wilson,

Sale of Champion Stock Ends Top O' Texas Livestock Show

Central Computer of Wichita and Amarillo paid top price this morning for the grand champion calf at the Top O' Texas Junior Livestock Show and sale. The company paid $1 per pound for the Angus calf, shown by Mary O'Neal of Panhandle.

The Carson County 4-H Club member's calf sold for $904.

The grand champion swine, owned by Dale Teague, of the Pampa Future Farmers of America, sold for $125 a pound, and brought $26.25. The swine was bought by United Feed Co. Mike Long, of McLean and the Gray County 4-H, saw his reserve grand champion calf sell for 60 cents a pound, and a total price of $507.

The reserve champion swine, owned by Jim Roysse, of the Pampa FFA, sold for 90 cents a pound and brought Roysse $179.10.

Far Better Feeds of Hereford purchased the reserve champion calf and Heaton Cattle Co. bought the reserve champion swine.

Cheryl Maddox of Miami was presented the citizenship award given to the youngster judged to be the top citizen of the Top O' Texas Junior Livestock Show and Sale. The award was presented by George Cree, Jr. Chamber of Commerce president.

The Hereford Breeders' sale, which began at 1 p.m., wound up the 1968 show and sale.

Tuesday honors were swept clean by Roberts County ranchers with the grand champion junior heifer coming from Roberts County and the grand champion and reserve grand champion Herefords both from the Maddox ranch in Roberts County.

The Junior Heifer show was held for the first time and Ronnie Bill Childress of Miami, who's not nearly as tall as the animal he showed, won the grand champion ribbon with Merry's Mischief Lady, a spring yearling heifer.

Reserve champion, shown by Steve Dauer of Panhandle, was a junior heifer called Velvet Lady S.

Dauer's heifer placed first in its division and Thomas Bryant of Kelton placed second.

Janet and Sue Smith of Pampa showed the best senior heifer calf, Miss Mill Iron A2 and Cheryl Maddox of Miami won the summer yearling bull division with Lady Onward I.

Maddox's Beau Silver 21 was named grand champion in the Hereford division and his bull Beau Silver 19 was named reserve grand champion.

Frank Carter of Pampa had the best pen of three bulls in judging done Tuesday afternoon.

Maddox also showed the best bulls in the winter bull and summer yearling bull divisions, while Breeding and Caldwell of Miami showed the best junior bull calf, and J.P. Caldwell of Reserve champion, shown by

Hereford Breeders Hold Annual Banquet

Guest speaker Floyd Watson entertained a crowd of over 360 persons Tuesday night and Hereford Breeders re-elected all office holders in its annual Hereford Breeders banquet in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn.

At the conclusion of the banquet, members voted by acclamation to have their present officers and directors serve another term.

This means that Earl Breeding of Miami is again president of the group; Robert L. Newton of Lark remains vice president, E. O. Wedgeworth keeps his secretary post and Frank Carter continues to serve as treasurer.

All the present board of directors were held over for another term also.

Awards won during the Junior Livestock Show Monday and Tuesday and the Hereford Breeder judging Tuesday were presented at the banquet.

Pampa High School choir director Bill Davis entertained the crowd with song. Door prizes were given away.

Then the humorous Watson began his "Laugh-in" and kept the crowd roaring for 20 minutes.

Watson's humor touched on religion, his home, his travels and current events.

The speaker, president of Pampa's First National Bank, closed on a serious note, telling the story of Jerico and how important religion is in everyone's life.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter who is 21 years old is living with a young man of 26, and they aren't married. They say they are living together to see if it will work out, and if it does, they will eventually get married. What kind of an engagement is this? She says she loves him and he loves her. I told her that if they "love" each other they should get married. They are together for over three months now.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are having an argument and have decided to let you settle it. I say when company drops in on you, you are supposed to ask them if they care for any refreshments. My husband says you are supposed to get off your cluff duits and fix some and then offer it to them. Who is right?

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the 15-year-old unwed mother who refused to give up her child. I beg you to send her this warning: Unwed teen-agers who want to amuse themselves with "cute" babies must be made to realize that babies grow up sure as cuddly kittens become tough cats.

DEAR ABBY: My sister kept her illegitimate baby, and she adored him. He is now 20. Recently he broke one of her ribs and put a scar on her chin in various "requests" for money. He seldom works, pays nothing, but camps in her two-room apartment, demanding fine meals at his convenience.

Twentieth Century Forum Club Reviews Books On Sam Houston

The Twentieth Century Forum Study Club met at the home of Mrs. Joe Franklin, 1809 Russell, recently for a book review. Mrs. Frank Stolfa, president, requested Mrs. Hugh Barton to begin the meeting by leading members in the club collect.

Mrs. David Holt read a letter from the club's scholarship recipient, Corita Mills, who attends Texas Technological University. Mrs. Stolfa gave the president's report for the federation. Mrs. Neil Quattlebaum reviewed the book, "Sam Houston and His Twelve Women," by Martha Anne Turner.

"Much has been written about Sam Houston. Many have written about his sojourns with the Indians, his days as statesman, president of the republic, and governor of the state," Mrs. Quattlebaum said.

"Yet, if we examine lives of the women who most influenced the life of Sam Houston, and his relationship to them, we see strengths and weakness that do not reveal themselves in a man's world. We come to understand him better as a person."

"In the book, 'Sam Houston and His Twelve Women,' by Martha Anne Turner, we have the opportunity to examine lives of those women who greatly influenced his life. The five who seem to have been the most important in his years, were Elizabeth Paxton Houston, Eliza Allen, Tiana Rogers, Anna Raquet and Margaret Moffatt," Mrs. Quattlebaum said.

"Elizabeth Paxton Houston, mother of Sam Houston, was a woman of breeding, character, and courage. A widow at 50, and forced to leave their failing plantation, she and her nine children, with two teams of horses and all their worldly goods, crossed the Allegheny Mountains to the Tennessee wilderness to start a new life. Elizabeth Houston molded her son's life by wise counsel and her way of life. During his wild and restless years as a youth, Elizabeth challenged him to be somebody and amount to something. When she died, his respect and love for her guided him to establish himself.

"Eliza Allen was the first wife of Sam Houston. Their marriage of planning, rather than of mutual love, lasted about three months. Many years lapsed before Houston obtained a divorce but Eliza's immaturity and Houston's jealousy were the main factors involved in the conflict. The embittered and frustrated years in between led Sam once again to his life with the Indians, a life intermingled with drinking and brooding," She said.

"Tiana Rogers was the Indian wife of Houston during the years he lived with the Cherokee. After his separation from Eliza, he found himself attracted to the Indian woman he had known as a boy. He took her for his wife, in the eyes of the Cherokee, even though he was not legally divorced, and spent about three and a half years with her. Her influence helped to make life meaningful, and orderly for Houston; and on the day when he told her that he must leave her and his life with the Cherokee, she accepted the inevitable. Eight years later she died of pneumonia.

"Anna Raquet of Nacogdoches was the woman to whom Houston sent a laurel wreath from the battlefield of San Jacinto. With it, was a note telling of his victory. She was an intelligent, handsome woman whom Houston admired and courted, but did not marry. Once she saved Houston's life from an assassin's knife by physically interfering, and fashioned him a sword sash to wear to the war with Mexico. Their frequent correspondence included his poetry to Anna. A doctor, Robert Irion, married Anna Raquet, but Houston continued to be friends with both Anna and her husband for many years.

"Perhaps the most influential woman in Houston's life was Margaret Moffatt Lea, whom he married in May of 1840. She came from Mobile, Ala., and was the daughter of a Baptist minister. She was 26 years younger than Houston, but their 23 years of marriage was a stabilizing influence for Houston through the difficult years, especially from 1842 until he died, July 26, 1863. She was in ill health for many years, but she bore eight children. When Houston died, she and the children moved back to Mobile. Four years later she died in the yellow fever epidemic of 1867.

"Women were many things to Sam Houston: sources of frustration, objects of idolatry, the mother image, friend, mistress, lover. But all who were involved in the tangled web of his dramatic existence were women of individuality who deserved to be remembered.

The man who could cane a slanderer armed with two pistols, win a duel when forced into it for the sake of honor; who could deal with dictators, thwart unsound proposals of Congress with finesse and match strategy with the United States government—the man who designed his own empire could not handle women though he drew them like a magnet. Women managed Houston. The story of the women in his life is an index to the dramatic character of the man himself," Mrs. Quattlebaum said.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to Mrs. Holt Barber, Hugh D. Earton, Michael Dunigan, David Holt, Homer D. Johnson, M. McDaniel, Aubrey Steele, Frank Stofa, McHenry Lane and Quattlebaum.

Scouts Celebrate At Area Banquet

GROOM (Spl) — The annual blue and gold banquet to celebrate the anniversary of Cub Scouts was held recently at the American Legion Hall in Groom. About 70 Cub Scouts, parents, leaders and guests attended the 39th birthday celebration.

Tables were decorated with blue and gold streamers. Place cards, which were made by the Scouts, were gold napkins, folded neckerchief style with blue slides bearing various emblems.

The invocation was given by Gaylord Cook with Gene Carter as master of ceremonies. The Webos led in the pledge of allegiance with Den 2 in charge of songs. Bill Walker, Scout executive from Pampa, showed a film on the Apollo 8-moon shot. Den 1 received the attendance banner for 100 per cent attendance. Den 4 led the Cub Scout promise in closing.

Mothers furnished the pot-luck supper. Special guests were Bill Walker of Pampa, Bill McKee, John Brooks, Gaylord Cook and Cub Scout families.

Volunteer Workers Attend Devotional

GROOM (Spl.) — Volunteer Workers Class met in the Methodist Church parlor for their regular meeting recently with Mrs. C. A. Morrow, president, in charge. Mrs. E. R. Hess gave the devotional. ## Culture Club Has Special Program On U.S. Senator

Civic Culture Club heard Mrs. A.C. Houchin speak on Public Affairs, with the subject "She Faces the Challenge of Women", during a recent meeting in Mrs. Floyd Pennington's home.

Mrs. Houchin discussed the life of Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith, U.S. Senator from Maine and gave a resume of Mrs. Chase's speech, entitled "The Challenge to Women."

Mrs. Irvin Cole, president, presided and led members in the pledge of allegiance to the flag and in the club collect. Mrs. Emmet Osborne acted as secretary, due to the illness of Mrs. C.V. Forsman. Mrs. Cole reported on the club's entry in the Civic Improvement Program.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. A.D. Hills, March 11.

Members present were Mmes. Katie Vincent, Frank Grantham, Emmett Osborne, John McKnerney, A.C. Houchin, H.W. Waters, A.D. Hills, Irvin Cole and Floyd Pennington.

A thought for the day: Izaak Walton said, "I love such mirth as does not make friends ashamed to look upon one another in the morning."

Rusty Huff Still At Large After Jail Breakout

The Roberts County Sheriff's office said this morning that there was nothing new in the jail escape of Ernest (Rusty) Huff, 34, convicted in the armed robbery of the First State Bank of Miami in March of 1967.

Huff escaped from his cell at Miami between 2 and 6 a.m. Tuesday, then stole a red flatbed Ford pickup loaded with bales of hay.

Neither Huff nor the pickup has been found and Roberts County Sheriff Cy Carr said it was his theory that Huff had made it out of the state, probably headed east.

Carr said he didn't know when asked if he thought Huff joined his wife, Wanda Carver Huff, accused with him in the robbery and given a probated sentence.

Mrs. Huff was last heard from Jan. 20, when she quit her job at a Claude nursing home.

Carr said he still hadn't been able to determine what type instrument Huff used to chisel away concrete blocks in his cell or if he had help.

The Miami jail is located at the back of the fire station in downtown Miami. Huff chiseled the blocks from in back of the toilet in the cell.

Sirhan Says He Could Kill Johnson, Others

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sirhan B. Sirhan says that when he is "provoked," he could kill Robert Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson, Arthur Goldberg or anyone else who favors the Israeli cause.

The 24-year-old Arab immigrant got his chance in court Tuesday to present his views and let loose with a diatribe which must have satisfied him but which also could send him to the gas chamber for the slaying of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Sirhan cursed the Zionists from the witness stand. He said when he saw pictures of Moshe Dayan and Israeli soldiers at the Suez Canal he would have killed them if he could.

The defendant said the "God damned Zionists" collected $370 million to strengthen the Israeli economy after the six day war of 1967 while President Johnson was bringing troops home from Germany to keep dollars in America.

When defense attorney Grant B. Cooper read from notebooks Sirhan had written, the accused slayer of Kennedy admitted that when he heard a radio broadcast saying the senator felt Jews should be sent to Israel for defense, he looked into a mirror and saw Kennedy's face instead of his own.

Today Cooper was continuing to lead Sirhan through two scrawled notebooks in which he interspersed love notes about girls with such declarations as "Nasser is the greatest man who ever lived on earth."

Sirhan said he respected Robert Kennedy until he saw a television documentary showing Kennedy hailing Israeli independence. He said then he hated Kennedy.

"Did you write that Robert F. Kennedy must be assassinated before 5 June, 1968?" Cooper asked.

"If you (sic) were in front of me so help me God, he would have died at that time," Sirhan said.

Cooper read to him scribbles where Sirhan wrote about assassinating "the President, vice president, etc. down the ladder."

"Did you write that you would have assassinated Lyndon Johnson and the vice president and down the ladder?"

"I must have been a maniac at the time," Sirhan said.

"Well, did you write it?"

"That is what I thought and must have felt at the time. I would have blasted anyone."

"Did you ever have in mind killing Lyndon Johnson?"

"I must have been provoked. I hated him. But it sounds like a crazy man's writing."

"You think you are crazy? Do you think you are normal?"

"I don't think I am crazy," Sirhan said.

Sirhan said he saw Ambassador Arthur Goldberg during debates after the 1967 Arab-Israeli war in which Goldberg proclaimed that the territorial integrity of all states should be respected.

"Did you feel he should die for that?" Cooper asked.

"If I had seen him I would have (killed) him. I hated him," Sirhan said.

K and F Elects New Directors

Three new directors were elected recently to the board of Top of Texas Knife and Fork Club, according to Rufe Jordan, president.

The new members are Mrs. Dona Cornutt, Kay Fancher and W. A. Wagoner. Elected to 3-year terms, the trio will succeed three retiring directors, J. E. Gunn, Jordan and Jerald D. Sims.

Directors continuing in office are the Rev. J.W. Duke, Leslie H. Hart, Roy L. Kay, Harold S. Barrett, Dr. Harbord Cox and W.M. Ledbetter.

From among its own membership the board will select officers for the 1969-70 season, Jordan notes. He has called a meeting of the board for Next Tuesday at 12 noon at the Coronado Inn's Emerald Room for this and other business.

On the agenda will be selection of speakers for the coming year. The board will be assisted by a representative from Knife and Fork Club International in making choices.

Mrs. Fred Thompson is secretary-treasurer.

Senate to Act On Water Plan

AUSTIN (UPI)—The biggest bond issue in the history of any state will go before Texas voters if approved by two-thirds of the Senate.

After a heated debate, pitting East Texas against West Texas, the house passed Tuesday a proposed constitutional amendment which would allow sale of $3.5 billion in water development bonds. The measure passed by a 131-15 vote.

Rep. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi defended the west Texans when he attempted to amend the bill to allow transfer of water among Texas water basins without leaving a 50-year supply in the basin of origin.

"If my amendment doesn't go, you're not going to have any water development except in those areas that already have plenty of water," Hale said to Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake, the bill's sponsor.

Clayton, who called the bill the biggest bond issue ever submitted to voters of any state, said the proposal "is going to show the federal government the state of Texas is ready to go ahead with this plan."

Astros

delayed their launch three days. There was no indication what caused Schweickart's nausea.

Before Monday's blastoff, he took a motion sickness pill to avoid such an ailment.

The transfer from one spacecraft to another was the first for the United States. And it was the world's first switch of astronauts from one spacecraft to another through a pressurized chamber—a tunnel as wide as a narrow doorway on earth.

The Soviets performed a more risky spacewalk transfer with Soyuz 4 and 5 in January.

"Gumdrop, Spider, go ahead Spider, Gumdrop," were the first words radioed to earth between the two components of America's 45-ton moon voyage assembly.

Schweickart was first to climb into the cramped cabin of the moon bug. He entered the ship about 6:27 a.m. CST and McDivitt followed about an hour later.

"Alrighty, have a nice time," Scott told the two lunar module pilots as he prepared to seal the hatch between the two ships. He reported the operation was performed without difficulty.

One important test was quickly passed when McDivitt flicked a switch that unlocked and unfolded the Spider's four spindly landing legs. He looked out a window and reported they were stretched out as they should be.

A New Camera

The telecast from inside the lunar module used a new camera designed on later flights to flash back a television view of the men walking on the moon.

The image clearly showed the two pilots, but little else could be distinguished in the darkened cabin of the weird-looking ship designed to land men on the moon, support them there for 24 hours and then ferry them back to the mothership.

Radio communications with the two pilots was virtually nonexistent at the time.

"Gumdrop's reading me OK, but you weren't," McDivitt told the ground control center during the brief period when some communications came through.

Schweickart, who is scheduled to perform a two-hour spacewalk Thursday, was wearing the large white backpack, breathing unit that will use outside the spacecraft. It is identical to the unit that moon explorers will use.

The crew transfer got underway more than an hour late today—apparently because of a troublesome navigation telescope—but the pilots recouped most of the lost time by late morning after several communications tests were cancelled.

The day's activity was scheduled to end in the afternoon with a six-minute firing of the Spider's landing engine. It is the first rocket engine that can be throttled—much like the motor in a car.

Schweickart conducted a series of preliminary tests before McDivitt joined him. When the commander was ready to begin the transfer, he said:

"I'll put the checklist away and I'll put my helmet on and be over in a minute."

Schweickart. "I'm going to have to get these hoses hooked up." He apparently referred to oxygen hoses.

A few minutes after McDivitt joined Schweickart in the lunar lander, he told his copilot: "I'll get dinner ready when you're ready."

"Boy, am I hungry," said Schweickart.

Before the transfer began, Dr. Charles Berry, the chief astronaut physician, talked with the crew.

"They reported no additional symptoms of colds, although there was some nasal stuffiness reported due to the oxygen environment," a space agency spokesman said.

DWI Sentence Set

B. Masterson pleaded nolo contendere Tuesday in appearing before County Judge S. R. Lenning, Jr. He was charged with driving while intoxicated and was fined $50 and costs. The judge also sentenced the man to 10 days in jail with six months' probation.

PUBLIC'S HELP NEEDED SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—The San Antonio public has been asked to help police find a painting of a semi-nude woman, valued at $3,000. The painting, on display in a French restaurant during HemisFair, is owned by the French government and was reported missing shortly after HemisFair closed.

Portugal has the world's largest codfishing armada—66 ships and 5,400 men.

Administration To Crack Down On Segregation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration has announced a crackdown on the "subtle forms" of school segregation in 14 Northern and Western states.

Secretary Robert H. Finch of Health, Education and Welfare announced the "nationwide Title VI compliance program" Tuesday in a report to Congress.

The department will send 11 more agents into the states involved to investigate segregation complaints.

Finch announced the new steps in a report entitled "Establishing a Nationwide School Desegregation Program Under Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964." The report was requested by Congress in the Labor-HEW Appropriation Act of 1969.

"Every effort has been made by this department to comply with the congressional mandate for a nationwide application of Title VI," Finch said in a letter to House Speaker John W. McCormack.

"Justice cannot be served through the unequal enforcement of any law."

Title VI bars federal financial assistance to any program or activity that discriminates on the basis of race, color or national origin.

Finch told Congress these are some of the "subtle forms" of school segregation:

Gerrymandering of school attendance zones, assignment of Negro teachers to predominantly Negro schools, and allowing substantial differences in expenditures per pupil between predominantly Negro schools and predominantly white schools.

Finch said districts where apparent law violations exist include Wichita, Kan.; Ferndale, Mich.; Middletown, Ohio; McKeesport, Pa.; Union Township, N.J.; and Penn Hills, Pa.

He said desegregation plans have been completed since his report in Union Township and Penn Hills and the others are under negotiation.

Two districts whose cases have been turned over to the Justice Department are Pasadena, Calif., and Waterbury, Conn., a civil rights office spokesman said. Reviews have also been completed in Kansas City, Mo., as well as at Dayton and Toledo, Ohio, but none was cited for compliance.

Mixup

announced deadline for filing Tuesday afternoon.

Craig said Mrs. Bob Tinney, acting with her husband's power of attorney, filed in behalf of her husband. The filing was accepted, but later a question arose as to whether it was legal.

Tinney said today he "had an appointment with Bill Waters, the school district's attorney for Waters to rule on the legality of his candidacy. Until Waters decides, I'm content to leave it where it is and not contest the action," Tinney said.

The Pampa News made an attempt to contact Waters today, but he was unavailable for comment.

It is understood, Tinney filed late Tuesday night to file personally with John Spearman, school board secretary, who also is qualified to accept a filing of candidacy. Spearman did not grant Tinney's request, stating he was not certain of the legality of the procedure.

Tinney, a Pampa resident intermittently since 1953, has made his home here since 1960. He is owner of Top of Texas Builders and of apartments in Pampa.

As of noon today, Dr. R.M. Hampton, who filed for the board Feb. 20, was the only candidate certain of having his name on the April 5 election ballot. Dr. Hampton has completed three three-year terms and is running for a fourth term to succeed himself.

Amarillo, 142; R. Stuart, Mobeetie, and A. Palston, Gruver, 140; J. Becton, Idalou, and W. Anderson, Perryton, each 136.

Individual scorers in sheep grading were Randy Jordan, Pampa, 94; W. Culp, Happy, J. Graves, Perryton, S. Hamilton, Wheeler, and C. Long, Hedley, each 90.

High teams in beef cattle judging were Miami, 392; Mobeetie, 372; Groom, 371; Childress, 357; and McLean, 353.

Team scores in beef cattle grading were Canadian, 145; Friona 143; Hereford and Boy's Ranch, 140; and Palo Duro High, 135.

Team results in swine judging were Silverton and Happy, tied at 385; Gruver, 383; Spur and Perryton, each 378.

High in sheep judging was Happy with 257. Others in order were White Deer, 247; Boys Ranch and Vega, each 234.

When the awards were announced Frank Carter, longtime patron of the show and donor of the Frank Carter Scholarship, suggested that, "If you didn't do so well judging those sheep today, don't worry. We older fellows wouldn't have done so well either."

"In fact," Carter added, like a true cowman, "I don't like sheep."

The Pampa High School chapter of Future Farmers of America opened and closed the dinner meeting with the ritualistic ceremonies of FFA. Randy Jordan presided at this point. Leonard Taylor gave the invocation.

Jerald D. Sims of First National Bank welcomed the delegates and guests and paid tribute to the men who had been active in the 25-year history of the Top of Texas Junior Livestock Show, the "daddies" of TOT, he called them.

E. L. Henderson, chairman of the selection committee, presented the Frank M. Carter Scholarship award to Thomas M. Devin, Tulia. Carter himself made a brief speech to the group.

Quentin Williams, contest superintendent, praised the 20-year history of the Frank M. Carter Scholarship award and the work of Vocational Agriculture teachers in making the annual contest open and memorable.

He mentioned also the cooperation of Pampa's two banks, First National and Citizens', in aiding growth of the show. The two are official sponsors.

Two talented Pampa High School students, Mark Turner and Jeree Pitts, entertained with songs and banjo.

Tulia Boy Wins Carter Award

The annual presentation of the Frank M. Carter award to an outstanding student planning to major in agriculture was a highlight of Tuesday's Junior Livestock Show dinner at Pampa High School cafeteria.

Winner was Thomas M. Devin, Tulia. Runnersup were Smith W. Covey, Abernathy, first alternate, and Randy Arnold, Spur, second alternate.

The winner has an excellent high school record, having been a semi-finalist in the annual National Merit Scholarship tests this year. He also ranks first scholastically in the senior class of Tulia High School.

Devin is especially gratified to have been selected by his FFA Chapter to represent the group in the 1968 Youth in Action tour of Washington, D.C.

After being named to represent the local group, Devin was chosen in a statewide poll to represent Texas, according to E. L. Henderson, committee chairman.

The Carter scholarship consists of $500 to be applied on a scholarship in agriculture at the college or university of the recipient's choice.

Eisenhower Needs Time to Recover

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Doctors at Walter Reed Hospital warn it will be "considerable time" before former President Dwight D. Eisenhower gets back his strength, despite continued favorable progress.

Physicians at the Army Medical Center have stopped the 78-year-old general's intravenous feeding and various medications that had been administered since his intestinal operation 10 days ago.

"It should be emphasized that he is still very weak and considerable time will be necessary for him to regain his former strength," Tuesday's medical bulletin said. It said Eisenhower "continued to show favorable progress."

His heart condition was described as stable and pneumonia symptoms were lessening.

Bill on Campus Disturbances Is Sent to House

AUSTIN (UPI)—A slightly different version of a bill to curb campus disturbances in Texas is back in the house today.

The legislature's lower house passed a bill last week by a 123-vote margin but the senate placed two amendments on it Tuesday and sent it back for another house vote.

Quick approval of the bill was forecast by house spokesmen. The bill would make any person participating in a campus activity that disrupts the school guilty of a misdemeanor.

The amended bill was passed unanimously by the senate Tuesday.

CHAMPION BULL — Wayne Maddox, right, and Cliff Vincent, show the grand champion Hereford bull named Tuesday in the Hereford Breeder's show. Maddox is the owner of the bull and Vincent is a director of the Top of Texas Hereford Breeder's Association.

CAREER CORNER

by F. J. Lain

What Job would you like to see explored in this column?

POSSIBLE SOURCES IN MUSIC CAREERS

Miss Lain awards a Mercury portable, courtesy of the Royal Typewriter Co., to Mrs. W. D. MacKeen, Texas City, Texas, for her question:

"My daughter is in high school and has had music lessons. What opportunities are there in the music field (not singing)?"

A-Making music is easier than making a good living from it. The music performance field has been overloaded for years, and is expected to remain so through the next decade. One major factor: Recorded music and the entertainment media star a relatively few big-name or accomplished artists, leaving many other performers jobless babes in the woodwinds.

Only the most dedicated musicians can tolerate the financial anxieties between "gigs" (jobs). And, with exceptions, music-makers do not often work steadily for one employer, and often can not collect unemployment compensation.

SONG IN YOUR HEART? Obviously some musicians do cut it eating regularly, and, in some cases, very well. Speaking to those hooked on music, why back off solely on the basis of the odds? Instead, why not try to get experienced musicians to give you a candid evaluation of your talent? But you alone have to decide whether you have enough drive to survive the struggle.

NOT ALL WAGNER. There is a more jilting note for musicians who are qualified as teachers as well as performers — more will be needed in the years ahead. Herman Kenin, president of the 250,000-member American Federation of Musicians, is strong on this point.

In a recent conversation, Mr. Kenin told me: "Despite numerous benefits our union has negotiated for pension plans, re-use payments and other compensations, the field of music is still a difficult one in which to make a living. Young musicians with college degrees enabling them to teach stand the best chance of succeeding." GOOD SHOW. The U.S. Department of Labor says "a shortage of highly qualified church organists may persist in many communities during the next few years; first-class, experienced accompanists, and well trained, outstanding players of stringed instruments are likely to remain relatively scarce."

MORE CAREER CHORDS. Besides performing and teaching, there are opportunities in the world of music for: composing, writing about music (critics, copywriters for recording companies, editorial writers for music magazines, etc.). . . editing and arranging for music publishing houses. . . managing talent and performances. . . working as a music librarian (libraries, museums and broadcasting stations). . . promoting talent (press agents for musicians). . . private teaching of music (also a crowded field). . . working for retail music stores. . . serving as a U. S. Army entertainment director, or in various musical positions in the Peace Corps, Job Corps and VISTA.

STILL OTHERS have various jobs with recording companies, such as an A&R (artists and repertoire) girl, who finds and auditions talent, sits in on recording sessions. . . a copyist, who hand-copies musical scores. . . and in hospitals, a musical therapist, who uses music to help people with emotional or physical problems.

THE SCORE ON TEACHING. Many conservatories of music and collegiate schools of music offer a four-year program leading to a bachelor's degree in music or music education. Graduates then qualify for the State certificate required for elementary and secondary school positions. Advanced degrees are usually required for college teaching, but exceptions may be made for especially well-qualified artists.

ACCREDITED SCHOOLS OF MUSIC. The directory of schools costs $1.50; write to the National Association of Schools of Music, 1424 16th St. NW, Suite 202, Washington, D.C. 20036.

RESOURCE ADDRESSES: American Federation of Musicians (AFL-CIO), 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022; Music Educators National Conference, National Education Association of the U.S., 1201 16th St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

State Accident Rate Increase Noted During The Past Decade

By United Press International

More Texans were killed in automobile wrecks in the past 10 years than the state lost in both world wars and Korea.

In that decade 28,442 Texans died on streets and highways in the state—more than the population of cities like Kingsville or Sherman and more than most of the 254 counties in Texas.

And more die every year. From 1960 to 1966, the Texas highway death toll leaped 51 per cent. Violence in the streets killed 3,460 persons last year.

Part of this increase is doubtless due to the rapid increase in the number of automobiles used, and to the increase in population.

But the highway death toll is growing far faster than the population. While highway deaths were rising at a 51 percent rate, the state's population only rose 11 percent.

Death Toll Rises

Texas population increases 1.9 percent each year, but the automobile death toll rises 8.5 percent every year.

Property damage increases too. Over a 10-year period, property loss from auto accidents amounted to $5,044 million, enough money to send every family in Texas vacationing in Europe.

Why do these accidents happen? Those who see them first hand, ambulance drivers and police, say many could be prevented.

Bill Ragsdale, a Fort Worth ambulance driver who sees as many as 10 wrecks a day says,

"Most every wreck I go on there's somebody involved who's been drinking." He says driving while drinking is probably the greatest single cause of wrecks.

Drinking Big Problem

Lt. Gene Brewer, Dallas highway patrol safety officer, also emphasized drinking while driving, calling it "a tremendous problem." "I'd say drinking is involved in about half of our highway fatal accidents," Brewer said.

Other frequently mentioned dangers include driving too fast for road and weather conditions, and plain inattentiveness and daydreaming.

Dallas ambulance driver Don Harpool thinks drivers "have too many outside interests. They're thinking about their business — anything but driving." Lt. Brewer claims interstate

And Another Thing

By RUTH LEWIS

Since the Pampa area is as cattle-conscious as the Ardmore, Okla., environs — perhaps more so — a little tale from the latter town might be of interest here.

An Ardmore woman Mrs. G.W. Davison, whose husband is a lawyer, told me the story. The lawyer has many friends in the cattle business although he himself is not involved. Some of these cattlemen are so steeped in cattle lore that they forget — well, even their own names sometimes.

For instance: one friend of Davison's became enamored of a delightful young heifer he saw in the herd of a rancher friend. "If you ever decide to sell her," the first man said, "let me have first bid, hm?"

The friend promised. Some months later the heifer did indeed come up for sale when her owner advertised a lot of young stock. The friend of Davison couldn't wait to be first bidder when the heifer was put on the block and bought her at a handsome price.

A few days later the buyer's banker telephoned. "When you're in town, Jim," he said, "drop in and see me, will you?"

The other scoffed. "Don't tell me you've been bouncing my checks?"

Oh no, he was told. Just drop in sometime.

The rancher did drop in very soon. When a banker wants you, it's a good idea to find out why, he reasoned.

But the banker merely drew a check from a drawer of his desk.

"Is this right?" he asked. The fellow who had sold the coveted animal was named Bob Haney.

The check was made out to "Bob Heifer."

(This is a true story; I'm not that good a fictioneer.)

KINGSWINFORD, England (UPI)—Sir Gerald Nabarro, a member of parliament, cut the ribbon at opening ceremonies for a new car wash here Monday, and praised its efficiency in a speech.

He then sent his auto through the car wash—the first car to use it.

The machine tore a hole in his exhaust pipe and knocked off the car's insignia.

By United Press International
LOS ANGELES—Sirhan B. Sirhan, admitted slayer of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, when asked if he also shot Paul Schrader, United Auto Workers executive who was in the Kennedy party: "If the indictment says I shot him, I must have. I was not aware of anything."

PARIS — Tran Buu Kiem, foreign minister for the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, discussing President Nixon's attitude toward the Vietnam war:

"Mr. Nixon has shown us that he hopes to solve the Vietnamese problem by force. If he harbors such a delusion he will head straight for a major defeat."

WASHINGTON—Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., in opening statement for hearings on prison shortcomings:

"It is evident more and more that in virtually every part of the country, rather than performing correction, our institutions release more dangerous, more hostile and more embittered human beings than they received."

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Rocket expert Dr. Werner von Braun, commenting on the significance of the successful Apollo 9 launch:

"I believe our chances of landing on the moon first are now substantially better."

highways make driving safer, because "you don't have traffic conflicts, like left turns, head-on traffic, crossroads and so forth."

Fewer Deaths Reported

Statistics show far fewer deaths on interstate highways, only 191 in 1967, compared with 1,502 on other highways and roads.

Lt. Brewer said investigating wrecks makes police more cautious drivers themselves. Police learn an awful lot from other drivers' mistakes. He said: "They learn to appreciate their automobile, and the physical forces involved in driving."

Amalgamation drivers learn too. "It really doesn't scare me," Bill Ragsdale said, "but it makes me more cautious. It teaches me a lot about driving."

World-famed heart transplant surgeon Dr. Denton Cooley watches in Houston as one of his surgical team signs up with The Living Bank, a non-profit organization formed to help persons who wish to donate all or parts of their bodies for transplantation or research upon death. Dr. Cooley and several others on his team signed the few papers necessary. The Living Bank's founder, Mrs. Glen Karsten of Houston, provided the forms as nurse Mary Lou Budde signed. In a joint press conference following the event, both Dr. Cooley and Mrs. Karsten emphasized the importance of a central international information center such as The Living Bank for progress in the field of transplantation of human organs. The Living Bank can be contacted at P. O. Box 6725, Houston, Texas 77005. Dr. Cooley was presented with a gold Living Bank pin when he signed the forms to donate all of his body for medical use.

FIVE MASSACRED

MANILA (UPI)—Five young Filipinos were massacred in a sugarcane field Saturday 60 miles north of Manila in a province infiltrated by Communist Huk guerrillas. Authorities said the killers had used at least one submachine gun. The only clue was a jeep left near the bullet-riddled bodies. The men, ranging in age from 20 to 28, could have been killed by the Huks active in the area, authorities said.

Eagles use the same nest year after year, one known nest having been used continuously for 36 years.

The Family Lawyer

Missing and Presumed Dead

One fine morning Watson kissed his wife, departed for the office... and dropped out of sight. Years passed with no clue to his whereabouts. Finally Mrs. Watson, despairing of his return, put in a claim for her missing husband's life insurance.

But the insurance company refused to pay off without "proof of death." Mrs. Watson promptly took the matter to court.

"Seven years have gone by without any sign of my husband," she argued. "Surely he must be dead."

This made sense to the court, which ordered the insurance company to pay her claim. The judge said:

"A normal person will not, if alive, remain away from his home for seven years without communicating with his family or friends."

By and large, courts follow this "seven-year rule." That is, they accept a presumption of death after seven years of unexplained absence.

But the absence must indeed be unexplained. The presumption does not apply if there is some other logical explanation, besides death, for the person's disappearance.

Thus, another wife's attempt to collect her husband's life insurance was denied, even though she had not heard from him for eight years. The court noted that the missing man had abandoned his family once before, that he was a fugitive from justice, and that his girl friend had vanished at the same time — all good reasons for him to "lie low."

Nor does the presumption of death apply if there has been no reasonable effort to locate the missing person. For example, a court refused to presume that an absent husband was dead, when it appeared that his wife had not even bothered to ask her in-laws if they knew where he was.

Suppose that, after the presumption has been accepted and the insurance paid, the "dead" man turns up alive. In a case where that did happen, the wife was required to refund the money to the insurance company.

The court could see no justice in letting her keep both her husband and his life insurance.

Quality Hay Is Not Accident

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 30—There is variability in hay quality and livestock producers should be aware that quality is largely determined by the amount of fertilizer hay receives and the age at which it is harvested.

Dr. J. Neal Pratt, Extension agronomist at Texas A&M University, says that most crops cut for hay should be harvested in a young, actively growing stage. For Coastal Bermuda grass the best time to harvest is about once every four weeks and for crops such as sudan hybrids, Johnson grass and other grasses, the best time to harvest is before seedheads emerge.

Fertilizers influence protein and other qualities in hay crops. The agronomist stresses the importance of a soil test for determining the amount of nutrients needed for the production of good-quality hay. Soil samples should be taken now and submitted to a lab for testing, he adds.

For information regarding proper harvesting times and soil test methods, Pratt suggests contacting the county agricultural agent.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas—If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss... and grow more hair.

For years "they said it could not be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss... but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If you believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc. will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if you believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail, and without obligation. ADV.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House: It happened so late last Saturday night that it escaped great international attention—violinist Yehudi Menuhin's lecture on beauty over materialism, delivered to a basic audience of two.

Who made up the apparently somewhat surprised audience? President Nixon and his dinner guest, French President Charles de Gaulle.

The scene was the changeable drawing room in the Paris residence of U.S. Ambassador R. Sargent Shriver. The room, usually a comfortable large chamber for receiving small groups, had been converted into a banquet room for 83 persons. Then, after dinner, the tables were removed—slender gold chairs placed in neat rows and the guests, returned for a musicale featuring the violin virtuoso with his sister at the piano.

Menuhin played superbly and the two Presidents arose to thank him. The other guests also stood. The french president recalled how Menuhin, as a young prodigy, had performed for the Free French forces early in World War II.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — ABC-TV, which last year presented a series of six special programs about the race problem under the title "Time for Americans," will make a similar effort this summer.

The six new documentaries about racial matters will be part of a 13-program series, "Summer Focus, 1969," which will deal with timely and often controversial subjects. The "Time for Americans" theme will be continued by using that phrase as the subtitle for the broadcasts on black-white relations.

First of the racially angled programs, "It Can Be Done," airing June 19, will focus on the city of Atlanta, where efforts at promoting interracial goodwill have led to a more peaceful urban community.

Second Program

The second program, "Are Doors Opening?," set for July 13, concerns job and business opportunities for black citizens.

Next comes "Welfare," which on July 17 will explore the welfare system "to see if it is working properly, who is receiving welfare and how much they get."

Fourth is "Education and the Negro," which on July 27 deals with the issue of black studies on American campuses, and the furor this subject has caused.

Fifth in the racial broadcasts is "Prejudice and the Negro," set for Aug. 21, and concerning blacks as both victims and practitioners of prejudice — "who hates whom and why."

The sixth of the programs, "how it feels to be Black," airing Aug. 14, will examine "the deep psychological warring of the Negro inherent in white racism."

Also Offers Study

Outside of these half-dozen racially themed specials, "Summer Focus, 1969" also will offer a study of the Soviet GI, "Comrade Soldier," scheduled for July 7.

And other programs in the series are self-explanatory in their tentative titles: "War in the Mideast," "Abortion," "Medicare," "Ferment and the Catholic Church," "Law and Order" and "Explorers Club—Riddle of the Mayan Caves."

Back in 1964, Red Chinese Chairman Mao Tse-tung told a visiting foreign delegation in Peking that China had not given up its claims to some 600,000 square miles of Soviet territory, it just hadn't yet presented its bill.

These are the lands of Central Asia and Siberia which the Chinese claim that Czarist Russia took from them in the middle 1800's by "unjust treaty."

Fear of the time the Chinese might attempt to collect the bill by force has led the Soviet Union into a steady buildup of military strength along its borders with Red China, which have been described as the longest and tensest in the world.

And as relations between the two have deteriorated steadily over the last 10 years, border clashes have become commonplace.

Staub Deal Could Hurt Montreal

MONTREAL, N.L. EAST — PROSPECTUS — Baseball's first "foreign" team did some shrewd picking in the expansion draft (and some shrewd trading afterward) and might surprise a team or two this year. Gene Mauch has some seasoned pitchers; established hitters in Rusty Staub and Manny Mota, plus some promising rookies.

PITCHING—Mudcat Grant, Larry Jackson and Larry Jaster will anchor the pitching staff. Ex-Met Don Shaw and Dan McGinn, who saw brief action with the Reds last season, will back them up. Bullpen will be thrown open to rookies, the best of which appears to be Carl Morton (13-5) at Shreveport last season. Rating: B-.

CATCHING — John Bateman from the Astros will get the job but ex-Cub John Boccabella (whom Leo Durocher once rated highly) will give him a battle. Ron Brand, another ex-Astro, is No. 3. Rating: C minus.

INFIELD—Staub, who hit .291 at Houston last season, holds down first base. On opposite corner will be Bob Bailey, who is still trying to regain the batting eye he had in Pittsburgh but never quite regained after being traded to the Dodgers. Maury Wills, still a base-running threat, will handle short. Second base is wide open. Best bet is Angel Hermoso (.286 at Shreveport) and Jose Laboy (.292 at Tulsa). Rating: C plus.

OUTFIELD — Mota, who hit .281 with Pirates last year, will be in center. Mack Jones from the Reds will be in left and either Ty Cline (from Giants) or Don Bosch (from Mets) in right. Rating: C.

Predicted Finish: 6th in East

Earlier Cock O' Walk bumped First Baptist Church 62-41 in semi-final consolation play.

Former Pampan Honorable Mention in SWC

DALLAS (UPI) — Junior Tommy Bowman of Baylor and senior Bill Voight of Southern Methodist won repeat berths on the United Press International's 1969 All-Southwest Conference basketball team today, but SMU sophomore Gene Phillips was the only unanimous choice.

Bowman and Phillips thus become eligible to be the first three-time honorees on the mythical UPI team since Texas A&M's Carroll Broussard turned the trick in 1960-61-62. Rounding out the 1969 team, picked by UPI with the aid of the college sports information directors, were post man Ronnie Peret of champion Texas A&M and diminutive Greg Williams of Rice, both of whom lacked only one vote of joining Phillips in the unanimous class.

Phillips, one of the most highly-touted prep stars to enter the conference in years, living up to all expectations and was leading the conference in scoring going into Tuesday night's final game with a 21.3-point average.

Williams, the team's shortie at 5-9, pushed Phillips season long and squeezed in front on several occasions. He was just eight points back of Phillips with a 21-point average. Voight ranked fourth with a 19.5-point average and was among the top five rebounders despite his 6-3 size. Bowman, at 6-4 along with Phillips, was a shade better than Voight in rebounds with 10.6 per game and ranked second in the league in free throw percentage to go with a 15.3-point scoring average.

Howard had a great year for the Senators last year. He led both leagues with 44 homers and his 106 RBI's ranked second best in the majors. In a year when only one American League player was able to bat .300, the huge, free-swinging Howard didn't exactly have to apologize for his .274 average either. Only eight All hitters topped that.

For doing all this, Howard received $55,000, the club's highest salary. Now at 32, Howard, originally signed by the Dodgers for a $18,000 bonus, feels he has to make his move for "the future security of my family." He's asking for a three-year contract at $100,000 but Short isn't buying.

"I'm not gonna change my mind," promises Howard, who huddled with Short at Pompano Beach last week and then jetted back home. "There's principle involved here. Bob Short and I had an understanding. I told him I felt I deserved what I'm asking. He was very nice about it, but he didn't give me what I want."

"I'm not asking anything unreasonable. I look around and see what other guys are getting. I know guys making a lot more who didn't have the year I had. It was a helluva year. How much recognition did I get? I got nil."

"Look, I kid around about a lotta things but one thing I don't kid around about is money. I'm dead serious about this. I'll tell you one thing. I'm not playing games."

On his brief stopover at Pompano, Howard met new manager Ted Williams for the first time. Always cordial, he congratulated him on his new job and both men chatted for about five minutes.

"All the guys are enthused about him," says Howard. "There has been talk the Senators may move their fences in at home this year but even if they do, Howard doesn't imagine it would help him that much."

"The balls I hit out of the park would go out of most parks," he says. "You have to know Frank Howard to realize he isn't bragging. Seeing him is better yet."

The Senators' slugger didn't go home mad after his salary talks with Short in Florida. Howard doesn't generally get mad and that at least is something for which the entire human race can be thankful.

By nature, Howard is a friendly individual and that's the way he and Short parted. "I asked him what he wanted to do, sit on it a couple days?" Howard says. "He said maybe we had both better."

Frank Howard is doing his part. He's sitting home, and the stalemate isn't without its touch of irony. There was this one guy who couldn't wait to get from Green Bay to Washington and here's another one in no hurry at all.

Maybe they ought to get together. Frank Howard would look mighty good in anybody's Front Four.

Howard Not Budging An Inch

By MILTON RICHMAN
 NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank Howard isn't budging "an inch" and when you take into account his dimensions, it means traffic is stopped in every direction, nobody is going anywhere.

Ordinarily, Washington's 6-7, 265-pound gentle giant would be in a sweat in the warm sunshine at Pompano Beach, Fla., training with the Senators.

But he isn't doing anything like that at all. Instead he's sitting back home in Green Bay, Wis. It isn't as warm as Pompano Beach but at least you don't sweat as much there.

Howard heard all about how Washington owner, told him ready to trade him and the news shook him up so much he had only one glass of milk with his lunch instead of two. That's how much he was worried.

The word came right from the horse's mouth. Bob Short, the Washington owner, told him about it over the phone. "He told me he had feelers for me," Howard says. "He talked about the possibility I might be traded. I told him I didn't want to leave Washington, that there was nowhere I'd rather play and I'd like to stay, but if he had no alternative then he'd have to go ahead and do what he had to. I can understand his position; I told him I hope he understands mine."

Spearman Takes Wellington Girls, 62-29

Spearman easily rolled to a berth in the regional girls basketball tournament Tuesday night with an easy 62-29 victory over Wellington's girls.

The game, played in the PHS gym, saw Spearman roll up a 35-9 halftime lead. Marsha Shieldknight paced Spearman with 32 points.

Blues Nudge Kansas City On Late Goal

By United Press International
 The Kansas City Blues are in first place in the northern division of the Central Hockey League today but they arrived there back first.

For the second time in an many outings the Blues played to a standoff Tuesday night but it was enough to push them over the faltering Tulsa Oilers who went down for the fifth straight time.

What's more, the Blues can be assured of remaining in the top spot for at least one more day even though they were scheduled to play the winningest team in the CHL tonight. Under the point system used in determining hockey standings, a loss does not detract from the standings, but a tie and a win adds to it.

So a Blue loss tonight to Oklahoma City would keep Kansas City ahead by one since Tulsa is idle.

Kansas City scored two third period goals Tuesday night to take a 2-1 advantage over Fort Worth but Rick McCann of the Wings scored his 20th goal of the season with eight minutes left to knot the score.

Dallas, moving into undisputed possession of the second place in the southern division with their win over Tulsa on home ice, jumped out to a quick 3-0 lead before the Oilers could register their first score.

The remaining five CHL teams were not scheduled Tuesday.

Kansas, Colorado to Playoff For Big 8 Title, NCAA Berth

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A Big Eight playoff game, if needed to determine the conference NCAA basketball delegate, will be held Monday night at Kansas State University, Conference Commissioner Wayne Duke announced today.

Kansas and Colorado, both with 9-4 records, were the only clubs still with a chance to win a clear title, but four could possibly tie for it.

The Jayhawks and Buffaloes each have one game to play. Colorado hosts Missouri (7-4) and Kansas closed against Kansas State (8-5) Saturday.

K-State and Iowa State (7-5) still have a chance to tie for the championship but of the

Abortion Issue Stirs Paradoxes

Like old soldiers, old issues that were once guaranteed to inflame emotions have a tendency just to fade away.

The abolition of capital punishment is no longer the clarion call to controversy it once was. Without any final resolution of its pros and cons, the supreme penalty is simply being applied less and less frequently in fewer and fewer states.

The same emotions, and many of the same arguments concerning the questions of values and of rights once invoked for or against capital punishment, have lately been transferred to an issue having to do with the other end of the spectrum of human life—the once-taboo subject of abortion.

Here we are presented with the seeming paradox that some who are most adamantly opposed to the right of the state to take a life also argue for the right of every woman to decide whether she will or will not bear the child she may be carrying.

Conversely, some who are most distressed at the disappearance of capital punishment are most aroused by the idea of legalized abortion, even in those cases where, because of diagnosed mental or physical deformity in the fetus, birth would actually be an undesired sentence to lifelong punishment—for the child, its parents and society.

The moral questions surrounding abortion will never be resolved to everyone's satisfaction, any more than have those surrounding capital punishment. But it is likely, too, that in the former case as in the latter, the law will change not because of any national moral consensus but simply

Put Tax On Poverty?

The editor of a western newspaper used to print an annual salute that read: "The general assembly is in session. Let us pray."

The editor's name was Pooley and the politicians nicknamed him Cess. There was no discernible affection in the term.

We've often been tempted to crib that item when the Congress or the Legislature puts up the big tent and invites the rubes to step up and buy the Magic Elixir which cures things you didn't even know you had.

The session recently begun in Austin will, predictably, follow the traditional pattern. All manner of measures will be proposed to contain man's cussedness, direct his energies into proper channels and make him healthy, wealthy and wise if he just follows instructions.

All of it, of course, to keep us from self-destruction at the hands of a blockhead.

The thing about nearly any law you can name is that the sponsor dwells entirely on what it's going to do FOR us, skipping any consideration of what it's going to do TO us. The cost of any law is an ounce or an inch of what freedom remains to us. We're running out of inches and ounces to swap off.

Probably the failure of the Great Society was written in Lyndon's perverse refusal to take the ultimate step—making poverty and unhappiness illegal. Until we take a firm stand on those issues, why, we're just going to continue to mess around, putting a patch on a patch. Measures which created such incredible freaks as the OEO and the anti-poverty program are hacking away at the littlest branches of the tree.

What our politicians need to do is take the axe and cut the tree of poverty itself.

This, we submit, can only be done by making poverty, like owning guns, illegal and clearly against the public interest. Right? Once poverty is illegal,

The American Way

By D. R. SEGAL

Progress, as you may know, is not my bag. I don't suppose there is a man alive who has been so japped by it. I had a friend who was asked by a Senate committee if he considered himself to be a "progressive" financier and he said, "No, I consider myself to be a representative of entrenched greed." They recessed the hearing and went out in the cloakroom to ask him for some tips on the market.

I have not become a non-progressive for frivolous cause. I used to share the general notion that a new courthouse building was a sure sign of progress. I remember when the squire of Hyde Park hitched the nation's chairs up to his fireside and told us we had nothing to fear but fear itself and nuts to the national debt because "we owe it to ourselves."

I believed! Drop the curtain, dim the lights to denote the passage of time. New Deal, Fair Deal, Deal off the Bottom. Dawn the Johnson era. Lyndon made the first significant improvement on the New Deal with the Great Society. Right out of the Cutty Sark bottle. Lyndon discovered what others had only suspected: Poverty is the exclusive property of the Federal government and its greatest political asset.

Once the government has established an exclusive on poverty, anybody else who deals in the commodity is a trespasser and poacher. Some of my fellow sages think that the invention of the Credibility Gap is the most rollicking stroke of mendacity in the past few centuries, but I hold out for the Exclusivity of Poverty codicil. The fellow who owns poverty is the only one who can bring about progress, because what is progress but the elimination of poverty—poverty of mind, soul, character and pocketbook? And so the government becomes the only instrument of progress.

I shall give you an example of my personal encounter with progress and how it helped turn me into an old grouch. I used to live in an area where English she was not spoke so good, senior, and so a group of us who talked real good got together and taught an adult course in basic English. It was a voluntary effort and maybe we voweled when we should have consonated, seeing as how we were amateurs; but it went rather well. Our students were earnest folks, eager to learn and sitting there in those absurd little third-grade seats, because they wanted desperately to learn the language of their adopted land. I don't know how many we ran through the course. Plenty.

But presently a man came along and said, "Knock it off, citizens; we have here a federal program, complete with scads of training aids, experts, counselors, statisticians and money, money, money. It's called Head Start. Kindly break ranks and go peacefully to your homes."

We did. The voluntary program was abandoned, and the taxpayer was given the opportunity of spending millions of dollars in that community alone, doing the same thing those demented volunteers were doing free and for kicks. That is naked progress, friend. What one volunteer had been doing was taken over by one teacher and one "teacher's aid," whatever that is. The wage rate paid these people got so high the local schools panicked and complained to the government about bumping the scale. Now they want the government to "supplement" the local teachers' pay to meet the new standards.

Progress? Of course. All you have to do is buy Franklin's Law that we owe it to ourselves.

Now the national advisory committee on alcoholism wants to have alcoholics covered by health insurance. Also they want to include alcoholism in the anti-poverty program. I guess they figure the alcoholics ain't been supplied with enough drinkin' money.

The committee chairman, Dr. Strause from Kentucky, (out where the Bourbon grows) says there are more than 5 million alcoholics. He has made an extensive study of this at a goodly cost to tax payers. I could give him an estimate like that in five minutes.

If you go into any bar you will find at least three drunks. Divide three drunks into 150 million people and you have 5 million drunks. Carry one drunk out and another comes in so the figure remains stable.

A better idea for the drunks instead of putting them on the anti-poverty programme is to just buy pills for them. Then everybody will be happy. There is this new pill a fellow invented over in Switzerland. All you do is slip a drunk one of these pills and in no time at all he is sober again. The drunk would not be any trouble while sober. He would start out scurrying around for some more moolah to get another drink.

Also this would keep him in the best of health so you could forget about the health insurance end of it altogether.

In 1770 the Boston Massacre occurred as British troops, annoyed by taunting, killed five civilians.

Crack Down On Campus Anarchists Who Infringe Majority Rights—Talmadge

ROBERT ALLEN

JOHN GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Many state, local and college authorities are too timid in dealing promptly and forcefully with student rioters and insurrectionists.

That's what Senator Herman Talmadge, former Georgia Governor and chairman of the newly established Senate Veterans Affairs Subcommittee, is bluntly telling his colleagues.

In his emphatic opinion, "The time has come to restore law and order on our campuses, and the best way to do that is for the responsible authorities to crack down vigorously and decisively on trouble-makers. With characteristic outspokenness, Talmadge told the Senate:

"These people want a confrontation with authorities. Let them have it. The time has come to draw the line. Either so-called student demonstrators are going to be denounced and dealt with as the lawbreakers and trouble-makers they are, or we may as well prepare to see higher education reduced to a chaotic shambles."

Citing the fact that one out of every six college students now holds a scholarship, loan or grant from the U.S. Office of Education or a bank guaranteed by the government, Talmadge contends, "There is no place in the American society for anarchists of any kind, whether they be of the student, still-wet-behind-the-ears variety, or the adult, full-grown career type."

Campus disturbers invariably are a small minority, Talmadge maintains, who infringe on the rights of "thousands upon thousands of conscientious law-abiding students."

"Decent and honorable students are losing their right to safety on the campus and their right to an education," says Talmadge. "Tax dollars are going down the drain. A despicable minority of students and non-students, whipped into riotous frenzy by professional agitators, and revolutionaries, are threatening to tear down the very foundations of higher education."

"And while this has been going on, placid erstwhile do-gooders, including college administrators, have been standing on the sidelines thinking so-called lofty thoughts and saying such things as 'the right to dissent' and 'academic freedom'. They remind me of Nero playing the fiddle while Rome was burning to the ground around him."

"I say the time has come for the appropriate authorities, state, local and college, to restore law and order on our campuses. The time has come for judges to deal severely with student rioters and demonstrators who wantonly flout the law and make a shambles of our institutions of higher learning."

"Law and order must prevail over anarchy and insurrection. Our country is not a banana republic where hoodlums take over campuses, the streets and the cities and terrorize, loot and destroy as bomb-throwing rebels."

Senator Talmadge noted that last year Congress enacted provisions in the multi-billion dollar bill for federal aid to higher education barring such funds to those responsible for college disturbances. He declared his intention to press federal educational authorities to vigorously enforce these restrictions.

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANSTADT
Penicillin Effects Vary for Allergies

Q — Can penicillin be taken for a long period?

A — Yes, It is sometimes given daily for five years after an attack of rheumatic fever but for most infections prolonged use is not necessary.

Q — What effect could a penicillin shot have on a person who was allergic to the drug?

A — The effects vary from a mild case of hives to severe shock. The reaction is less severe when the drug is injected into the muscles.

Q — For what infections is V-Cillin K prescribed?

A — This antibiotic is given for typhus, Q fever, spotted fever, undulant fever, bacillary dysentery, tularemia and several other diseases. They may cause sore tongue, vomiting, diarrhea, skin rash, fever and uremia in persons who are sensitive to the drug.

Q — My son is taking tetracycline tablets. What are they for? What side effects may they have?

A — This antibiotic is given for typhus, Q fever, spotted fever, undulant fever, bacillary dysentery, tularemia and several other diseases. They may cause sore tongue, vomiting, diarrhea, skin rash, fever and uremia in persons who are sensitive to the drug.

Q — My son, 19, is worrying about a lump on his forehead. It was X rayed and the doctor said it was nothing to worry about. What could be the cause?

A — Since the doctor saw fit to have the tumor X rayed, I assume it was not a fatty tumor or a wen. There are several types of benign tumor of the skull and their cause is unknown.

Q — What is the cause and appearance of acne rosea? Can it be cured?

A The cause of this disease, also called rosacea, is unknown but it is often aggravated by emotional upsets, exposure to heat or cold, alcohol, spices and drinks that contain caffeine. It is characterized by redness of the center of the face which may be associated with oily skin and pimples. Most victims outgrow it but, meanwhile, the best treatment is strict avoidance of aggravating factors and the application of an astringent lotion that contains sulfur. For severe cases, a skin specialist may use electrolysis to destroy the dilated blood vessels in the skin.

The Manion Forum

By MARILYN MANION

What's Going On In The Church?

Time was when people went to church on Sunday to "Praise God, From Whom All Blessings Flow." But if that's what you expect from next Sunday's service, you are hopelessly outdated. It is more likely that you'll get a sermon on politics, and whatever moral instruction that happens to seep in will be watered down in comparison to the old-time Commandments.

This writer has been lectured from the pulpit on civil rights, Vietnam, and the inner city, to name a few subjects. By coincidence, all of the lectures have been blatantly liberal. (We must get out of Vietnam and stop being uncharitable to Communists; bussing of children is morally right and no doubt necessary for salvation.)

There is a reason for this madness, and it was explained over a recent Manion Forum Broadcast by Major Edgar C. Bundy, Executive Secretary of the Church League of America. Here are a few of Bundy's statements:

"You can hardly pick up a Communist publication in the U.S. today, whether it's the Daily World, Political Affairs, or the Draft Program of the Communist Party of the United States, but that they are chortling over the fact that they have broken down the resistance of the churches, and that many of the clergy are now cooperating with them, and agreeing that the basis of Christianity is Marxism."

"In the July, 1966 issue of Political Affairs, in the introduction, Gus Hall states that within the last decade they have had enormous success in lining up clerical help on the side of the Communists for promoting their objectives and plans.

"Then if you turn to the Draft Program of the Communist Party for the eventual takeover of the United States by Marxism, and to the book, Marxism and Christianity by Herbert Aptheker, you will find the same phrase used over and over again — that within the last decade they have made tremendous strides in neutralizing the churches' opposition to Communism. Secondly, they claim that they have now been successful in turning a great majority of the people in the United States against the anti-Communists; that they have caused he people to switch away from opposition to Communism. Now the people are actually opposing the anti-Communists."

"Harvey G. Cox of Harvard Divinity School; Quentin Lauer, S.J., a Jesuit and chairman of the Philosophy Department of Fordham University; Richard Lichtman, who is in the Philosophy Department of the University of California in Berkeley — all agree on one thing: They have rejected the supernatural, divine and Christianity. They have substituted in its place what we call a socialist, materialistic gospel for solving the problems of man."

"They say that because Marx and the Communists have been for the social, economic betterment of man, and Christians should certainly be for the social, economic betterment of man; therefore, we can get together on this common basis. And this is what they are doing. They are now permitting dialogue with one another."

"That's just part of it. Read this column next week for more.

Question Box

QUESTION: Why do so many believe in a double standard of justice and right?

ANSWER: It's undoubtedly due to their environment of so many pseudo-educators, businessmen, professional men, labor unions and politicians setting a bad example of living according to a double standard.

As Albert Schweitzer once said, most people learn from example rather than by reason or by being forced.

This double standard leads us to allow the local, state or federal government to do things that would be immoral and unjust for an individual to do.

We doubt whether any individual would contend he had a right to force his neighbor to pay for a church or for schooling that the neighbor did not want to use. Yet they turn right around and force people to pay for schools that they do not want and even believe will destroy the country. They even used to force people to pay for churches, but finally learned that that was wrong.

Herbert Spencer, the great philosopher, said, "A right course of action is one which may be advantageously adopted by all." Immanuel Kant, the great German philosopher said, "Make the maxim of thy conduct such that it might become a universal law." And that applies to groups as well as individuals. It was Jefferson who said: "I know of but one standard of right, whether it be for individuals or for patrons."

The reason we are in the predicament we are in is that we do not believe in a single standard of right and justice, but believe the group or the state or the majority has the right to force the minority to do something that no individual would have the right to force another individual to do.

Of course we are reaping exactly what we've been sowing for years in our tax-supported schools and colleges, which force people to pay for their services whether they want them or not.

If we'd get back to a free market basis, where all people voluntarily exchange goods and services, and therefore all believe they make a profit by doing so, it would solve most of our problems. Everything people need and want can be provided by other people and exchanged voluntarily in the market. This is the only just way; for then each one gets what he wants and is not forced to pay for the benefit of someone else and is not forced to pay for what he does not want.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Well, we may not be able to stop hijacking, but we can be prepared if it happens!"

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

On May 24, 1844, inventor Samuel F. B. Morse tested the first commercial telegraph service over a 40-mile line from Washington, D.C., to Baltimore. The World Almanac says, With Henry Clay and Dolly Madison looking on, Morse successfully telegraphed: "What hath God wrought!" a message selected from the 23rd verse of the 23rd chapter of Numbers by Annie Ellsworth, daughter of the commissioner of patents.

Quirks in The News

By United Press International

TESTS REACTION
CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Dr. Werner von Braun, pioneer of the U.S. space program, got involved in the stresses and strains of the Apollo 9 flight Monday.

Doctors fitted an electrocardiogram in a black box around his shoulders before blastoff to test his reaction to the nation's most dangerous space flight.

"It was my understanding that they have some data on the flight crew about the heart beat at takeoff and they wanted to find out how fast the hearts were beating in the guys on the ground," Von Braun told newsmen.

"They wanted to see which is tougher—the launch or a press conference."

WINS DRAWING
MARGATE, England (UPI)—Mary Ward was quite excited when she won the drawing at the local horticultural society's annual dinner. Then she found out it was 100 pounds of horse manure.

She gave it to a neighbor.

Chapel Dedicated
To Eisenhower
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Chapel of the Presidents, a part of the new National Presbyterian Church and Center being built in Washington, D.C., is dedicated to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who was a member of the National Presbyterian Church during his years in office.

The Chapel's windows depict the former President and five other Presidents in acts of faith. It will be the site of a unique, daily interdenominational prayer for the President and all national leaders when it is completed in mid-1969.

The gray langur, a monkey, is considered sacred by Hindus.

Martin Tired Of Being Told Sick

AUSTIN (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin told the legislature Monday "I'm sick of being told I'm sick."

In a speech prepared for a joint session of the legislature, Martin said "I happen to feel pretty good. This legislature looks pretty healthy to me. But far more important than that, this country looks healthy, except for a few parasites."

"Unfortunately the people who claim we are a sick society have passed themselves off as the real thinkers."

"They tell us that rioters and looters aren't responsible for their acts at all. It's the fault of the sick society."

In a belated Texas Independence Day speech, Martin said "we are under siege right now just as surely as the defenders of the Alamo were."

HOLMES ARRESTED?

DALLAS (UPI) — Sherlock Holmes has been arrested.

For Dallas police it was elementary. Watson, officers checking drivers' licenses Monday turned up a man they had been looking for — Sherlock Holmes. His offense—failure to pay a speeding ticket.

Gold has been hammered into sheets as thin as 1-250,000th of an inch.

SWINGING at a fast clip, Barbara Smith, the former Miss Britain, twirls her overdress, which is made of thousands of paper clips. The exact number of clips used was the object of a contest in London.
