Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 52 and I have been keeping fairly steady company with a man who is 60. He's very considerate, generous, and I certainly appreciate his company, after having been a lonely widow for four years.

He asked me if I would like to move in and keep house for him so we can find out if we are "compatible" before trying marriage. He says there is nothing wrong with it at our ages.

I refused. Was I foolish? Lately I have been re-considering his proposition. I don't enjoy being alone. He has money and could get plenty of other women on his terms.

Can you help me come to a decision?

LEXINGTON LADY DEAR LADY: I say, let some other woman have the pleasure of "moving in" with him to find out if she is "compatible." Respectable couples of all ages still marry before they live together. If you want to be a "housekeeper" with sleep-in privileges, it's up to you.

DEAR ABBY: My father-in-law likes to tell about the only time in his life he made a mistake, and that was when he "thought" he was wrong, and then found out he wasn't.

My former roommate was a public health nurse in San Francisco, and her job was to call on welfare cases to see if the children were properly fed and clothed. She told me (and there was no reason for her to lie) that about half the children were adequately cared for, but she usually found lots of cigarets, beer and liquor in the home and oftentimes a man in the bedroom. She said one mother had 12 illegitimate children. She got $800 a month, which was maximum, so she put her 13-year-old daughter to work starting a new family.

Abby, $148 (tax free) for one child, plus $1 per day, times 30 days per month, times five or six children, plus free housing, medical care, and food stamps, equals what some working men have to raise their families on. I am not saying that anyone is getting rich on welfare, but I wonder what would happen if these women were required to rise and shine at 6 a.m. and go to work in order to raise their illegitimate children.

You were right the first time when you said you thought that any woman who bears more than one illegitimate child should be taken off welfare. By apologizing for your original statement, I believe you made your first mistake.

MRS. R.C.M., JR. GLENDALE, CALIF.

DEAR MRS. R. C. M., JR.: You are mighty kind, ma'am, but if my original statement was a mistake, it wasn't my first.

DEAR ABBY: We are childless after 10 years of marriage, although we would dearly love to have a family. We go out with people about our ages and most of them have children.

Whenever we meet new people, the conversation invariably turns to children. I am often asked, point-blank, "Do you have any children?" It is becoming more and more painful to reply no. Why do people ask this?

Don't they realize that parents always mention their children if they have any?

I have even been asked, after having remarked that I have no children, "Why not?" Abby, this has been a very painful subject for me, and I'd rather not discuss it. Can you say something to stop people from asking such cruel questions?

HURT DEAR HURT: Most cruel questions stem from ignorance. Your best defense is to develop a stiff upper lip, a tougher hide, and believe it or not, compassion for people who don't know any better.

CONFIDENTIAL TO E. J. L.: To answer your questions: Your name and address need not accompany your letter in order to have a reply published in this column. For a personal reply, please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope. I do answer letters personally. All letters to this column are held in the strictest of confidences, and no names are ever used without the writer's permission.

New indoor-outdoor carpets don't look like indoor-outdoor carpets but wear even better, says the manufacturer of two new floor-coverings. Both are made via a new process that interlocks the fibers from above and below for increased durability. Another process, used with a heavier fiber, introduces a tweedy texture. The two new carpets, one with a foam backing, are available in 10 colors in widths of six and 12 feet.

SCOUTING SCOOPS

By MRS. G. D. BOYD
Girl Scout Week March 9-15, has come to a close with Scouts and troops participating in a variety of activities.

A highlight of Girl Scout Sunday, March 9, was the presentation by Rev. J.W. Duke of the coveted God and Community Award to Miss Cindy Gill, member of Girl Scout Troop 1. On this day, Girl Scout troops all over Pampa attended the church of their choice in uniform. Flag ceremonies were held at various schools on Tuesday, which is Citizenship Day.

On Monday Mrs. Richard Stowers, council president, and Garland Davis, a member of the public relations committee, were guests on Staff Breakfast. They explained the need Girl Scouts have for leadership of troops, committee and board members; for all kinds of adult volunteers who can help Girl Scouts become people who will make a difference in the communities they — and you — live in.

Monday night Mrs. Carrol Welch's Cadette Troop 22 presented a program that included Girl Scout vocabulary for the Evening Kiwanis Club. Junior Troop 3, directed by Mrs. Ralph McDonald, presented a puppet show for Jaycees. Senior Troop 2, with Mrs. J.P. Brumley as their advisor, presented a program of songs reminiscent of their Scouting years. Members of the Rotary Club learned the girls had 199 combined years in the Scouting program. Mrs. Jeff Anderson's Brownie Troop 21 gave a program for the noon Lions' Club. And on March 17, Mrs. W.J. Felter's Cadette Troop 2 gave a program for the Evening Optimist Club.

Advertising is a serious investment... art, engraving, typography and copy are costly. All are planned carefully to attract readers who are prospects for the merchandise or service.

No business can afford to waste any part of this investment in any medium that cannot guarantee finite circulation and readership.

"Waste basket circulation" in post offices, and so called throw-aways that usually travel to the incinerator are of little or no value to the advertiser.

In Damascus, the Al Assifa Arab guerrilla organization boasted it had killed the chief of Israel's secret service, Capt. David Ishak. (Continued From Page 1) it's best to watch your language." Dr. Martin said. "The unchanging moral and ethical laws which govern us associations and relationships have not changed. They are under attack. Human relationships are based upon values 8,000 years. Mankind has lived long and learned much about ethical rules which he transfers to moral values," he said. "The universe's physical laws and earth's biological laws have not changed and are beyond man's power to change. To make life possible, man must observe these laws and the spiritual laws of creation. Good and evil still exist. The wages of sin — death. This is not a sermon, but unless young people use these principles to guide their lives, the future is uncertain," he said. Explosions that are changing this world are in knowledge, technology, automation, population and political and economic thought, he said. "There's twice as much to know now than 20 years ago. That means you have to learn faster and spend more time at it. The educational life of knowledge is shorter. In some fields, what was fact nine months ago has become obsolete today. Daily discoveries which change our lives are made. We use materials, objects, inventions which were not in existence when you young people were born," he said.

City Hall was "in the dark" for about 25 minutes this forenoon. The entire building's lighting system went out at 9:15 a.m. and didn't come back on until 9:40 a.m. A rundown on the fuse boxes finally disclosed that the main fuse on the lower floor had "blown." As for City Hall being "in the dark," City Manager Charles Hill indicated that nothing more than the lights was involved. "Even the electric typewriters continued to function," he said.

Committee Hears Minimum Wage Bill Testimony

AUSTIN (UPI)—A state minimum wage would lift some Texans out of poverty "and prevent their children from having to drop out of school to support the family," a senate committee was told Tuesday. The committee was expected to approve and send the senate a watered down version of the minimum wage law proposed by Sen. Joe Bernal of San Antonio. The bill sets a minimum wage of $1.25 an hour effective next Feb. 1, $1.40 a year later, and $1.60 an hour beginning Feb. 1, 1972. Household workers, high school students and dropouts, salesmen, relatives of the employer and volunteer are exempted from the bill. Callan Graham, chairman of a special committee that drafted the compromise bill, said a minimum wage would not solve all the problems of the poor in Texas but would be "a meaningful initial response to a serious and potentially dangerous problem." "We feel that all but a few employers will abide by the law," he said. The Texas Farm Bureau has gone on record opposing the bill and any attempt to set a minimum wage law in Texas.

Poston and two members of the League of Mexican American Students are also on the information committee. A petition "in support of non disruption on campus," containing 2,000 signatures, was presented Tuesday to University of Houston president Dr. Philip Hoffman.

AUSTIN (UPI)—Sen. Jack Strong of Langview, defending his opposition to a proposed memorial for the late President Kennedy, said Tuesday it would be a "horrible precedent to create a state agency to memorialize one political figure." Petroleum Industry Begins Work On Tankers

By BILL MULLINS
United Press International
 The petroleum industry seems likely to have shipyards working on yet another type of tanker before long.

The decision rests with the SS Manhattan, a ship that is being converted for icebreaking service in the Arctic seas.

The ship is presently at the Sun Shipbuilding Drydock Co. in Chester, Pa., where it has been cut into four sections to speed conversion for ice-breaking service.

The modifications will include strengthening the hull and installing an ice breaker bow and propeller and rudder protective equipment.

Three major oil firms—Humble Oil & Refining, Atlantic Richfield and BP Oil Corporation—have chartered the 106,500 deadweight ton tanker for a crucial test.

However, the giant oil strike by Atlantic Richfield and Humble at Prudhoe Bay on the Alaskan north slope is believed to contain over 10 billion barrels of oil and exploration by other firms in the same area is in progress.

Test In June
 The tanker test in June will determine the feasibility of transporting oil by tanker from the north slope of Alaska through the Northwest Passage to the East Coast of the United States.

Arctic ice prevails over about half the proposed 4,500 mile route of the Northwest Passage during the ice season.

Confirmation of a usable Arctic passage to the East Coast might make other companies consider ice breaking tankers.

This is best shown by a briefing Humble recently gave on the problem. Seventeen firms with potential interest in using oil tankers in the Arctic sent representatives.

If the icebreaker tanker materializes, it will come close behind a surge of shipbuilding that developed when major oil companies began ordering massive tankers to transport Middle Eastern and African oil.

For example, Gulf Oil had six 312,000 deadweight ton tankers built in a move to transport Middle Eastern crude oil to European, Asiatic and Canadian markets at a lower cost.

If you want to compare with something familiar, the U.S. nuclear carrier Enterprise is 85,350 deadweight tons.

There is one anticipated difference if the firms decide to build ice-breaking tankers.

Japanese shipyards built many huge tankers used to transport Middle Eastern oil, but U.S. laws require that all trade between U.S. ports be carried in American-made ships that are manned by American crews.

And at least one U.S. shipyard is preparing for construction of 200,000-deadweight ton ships.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Dines Letter says the current market is "the most oversold one since the 1962 crash." The market "is at a critically sensitive point," the firm says, adding that it either "goes up immediately from present levels, or a crash will develop immediately." The sharp and surprising declines of the last two weeks are simply restating of the lows, the firm believes. If the lows don't hold, "selective selling would be advisable."

E.F. Hutton says the "increased plant and equipment spending would normally be regarded as a bullish news item, but in the current economic atmosphere, it is probably just the opposite as far as the stock market is concerned. It would indicate, the firm points out, that monetary authorities will be forced to impose further restraints if they are really serious about slowing down the economy."

Presidents William Howard Taft and John F. Kennedy are buried in Arlington National Cemetery. In his final dash to the North Pole, Admiral Byrd's party included only Matthew Henson, his colored servant, and four Eskimos.

Frontline Suez

Egyptian-Israeli artillery duels have turned the Suez Canal into the frontline of the unfinished Mideast war. Major clashes have occurred from El Qantara in the north to Port Taufiq in the south. Israeli shelling of Suez destroyed 50 per cent of Egypt's oil storage capacity and killed Gen. Abdel Moneim Riad, Egyptian chief of staff.

Lloyd Bridges Dislikes Picture for Television

By VERNON SCOTT UPI Hollywood Correspondent HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Motion pictures and television have mated to form a hybrid which is motion-pictures-for-television. It is betwixt and between. The swaddling is neither a movie nor a television show by strict definition. Pioneering the interbreeding has been Universal Studios and NBC-TV. They named their baby "World Premiere."

Same Purpose Now other studios and networks are wedding for the same purpose. The networks accrue a product, usually two hours in length. The studios find something to put on their shelves and to release abroad as movies. The public is usually stabbed in the back. This two-hour format still is in its infancy, however, and one day doubtless will replace the low-budget movie, restricting theaters to the super-colossal (Oliver!) or the prurient little art films which give the FCC the St. Vitus dance.

The Family Lawyer

During his romance with Myrtle, Jack often spoke tenderly of the children they would have once they were married. But after the wedding, he changed his tune. In fact, he insisted on the use of birth control measures. Finally Jack confessed that he had never intended to have children in the first place. Myrtle promptly sued for an annulment on grounds of fraud, and the court awarded her a decree. Annulment of a marriage is not granted lightly. But it is granted, as a rule, if one of the parties was deceived during the courtship about something "essential" to the marital relationship. And having children is considered essential — that is, part of the very foundation of the marriage.

Suppose the subject of having children had simply never been discussed before the wedding. Could the wife who wants children still complain that she had been deceived, even though her husband had never made her any promises? Yes, because that kind of commitment is implied in the marriage contract. As one judge put it: Affianced parties do not generally exact from each other a promise that they shall have offspring. Procreation, though not discussed, is taken for granted. On the other hand, complaints tory, he had a teacher who spoke with a cockney accent. Among other things, the teacher dropped his "itches." Consequently, Shakespeare always heard "the hides of March" pronounced as "The 'ides of March.'" This explains why Shakespeare used that line in his play about Julius Caesar and why the middle of March became known as the "ides."

"WORRY, WORRY, so much to do—there's a string to catch hanging from the curtains and a piece of paper on the desk, not to mention sharpening my claws on the sofa. What's a kitten to do?"

The Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Last Saturday when I switched on my car radio I heard a disk jockey mention that it was "The Ides of March."

Disk jockeys provide me with a lot of food for thought, and this one started me to thinking about how we often use expressions without really knowing what they mean. Most people know, of course, that in the old Roman calendar the "ides" came on the eighth day after the "nones," which followed the "calends." But why were they called "ides" in the first place?

No Sensible Answer You could, I'll wager, go out on the street and lasso the first 10 people you meet and not one could give you a sensible answer to that question. Being in the unlightened category myself, I spent the rest of the weekend brooding about this. And when I returned to work Monday, I dug out some reference books. The following version of the origin of "ides" may be challenged by some scholars, but it is the best one that I could piece together:

During the days of the Roman Empire, hunters customarily went into the woods in the early spring to collect deer skins, which they brought back to the city and sold for sandals. Like the deer hunters of today, the Roman hunters were erratic marksmen and easily confused. When stalking their prey through the woods, it was not uncommon for them to bag some farmer's cow. One of the poorest marksmen was a weak-eyed hunter named Antonio Martius, whose last name has been Anglicized as March. Heard Rumors In the year 44 B.C., a Roman soothsayer heard rumors that many of the deer skins Martius was selling actually were cow hides. Upon learning that Julius Caesar planned to buy some sandals, the soothsayer told him: "Beware the hides of March." This brings us to William Shakespeare. When Shakespeare was a schoolboy studying Roman his-

Which office should I contact?"

ONLY LATCHKEY KIDS? NO, although most children receiving group day care (typically ages two to six) have working mothers, fathers with sole child care responsibility or ill parents, the trend is toward expanding services for children with special needs (such as those who have been referred from social service agencies and psychiatrists, victims of family disharmony or inadequate housing, and so forth).

A normal day includes balanced rations of indoor-outdoor play, active-inactive play, free choice structured activities, plus rest and lunch.

EMPLOYERS Day care centers are often operated on a minimal fee basis by voluntary (non-profit) organizations and religious groups as well as by the government; others function as private, profit-making operations.

Boros Top Choice To Capture Masters

Midweek musings about things in general...

Bill Veeck, who more or less kept the fans happy in baseball, is now in the horse racing business and the fans again will reap the benefits, or part of them at least.

Veeck is the new president of Suffolk Downs and plans the same kind of jazz he popularized in baseball.

He has started off with a flat $1.50 admission charge for both grandstand and clubhouse. He'll strike a $200,000 turf race, the richest and longest turf race in the country.

He is thinking too, of a Lady Godiva Stakes for fillies, ridden by lady jockeys.

He also is in the market for a steam calliope too.

Jim Lemon the deposed manager of the Washington Senators took copies of the hitting articles run in Sports Illustrated and distributed them to his players.

The articles were written by Ted Williams who replaced Lemon as manager.

The National Football Foundation has set up a program to record the great moments of college football history with narration by the stars who could tell it like it was.

Tapes will be forwarded to the Hall of Fame at New Brunswick, N.J. if there ever is a permanent building erected.

Julius Boros, age 49, is the favorite to win the Masters Golf Championship in the annual odds prepared by Go's Digest.

Boros is listed at 4-1, followed by Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player at 6-1, Bert Yancey, Bruce Devlin and Arnold Palmer at 7-1, Eilly Casper, Frank Beard and Don January at 8-1.

My choices are Bruce Crampton and Lee Trevino. There is opposition to the designated pinch hitter being tried in exhibition baseball this spring.

But star Willie Mays says, "Hitting for the pitcher will keep a lot of us oldtimers in the game longer. I think I could go on at least five more years."

Ice Hockey is becoming more and more a knock-down, drag-out affair as it gets more popular ever year.

Things look promising for the Amarillo Giants this season. They will welcome back most of their 1968 roster.

The Giants open their season in Dallas on April 11 and play at home against Dallas-Ft. Worth April 13.

Ice hockey is becoming more and more a knock-down, drag-out affair as the sport is reaching an all-time popularity high.

For instance barely five minutes after the start of a game in Ontario's crack Junior A league between the Oshawa Generals and the Montreal Junior Canadiens, one of the worst brawls in hockey history erupted.

When it finally halted there were 14 minor penalties, 25 major penalties, 15 misconduct penalties and seven match penalties. A total of 373 minutes in penalty time.

But this is why hockey is so popular. People like violence...

Indians Continue to Pound The Ball, Win Ninth in Row

By United Press International The Cleveland Indians proved Tuesday one big inning is more potent than eight mediocre ones.

They got 11 hits and 10 runs off Oakland's Jim Nash in the second inning to defeat the Athletics 10-8. The Indians, taking their ninth straight exhibition victory, got only four hits in the other frames, but they didn't need them.

Oakland outthit Cleveland for the game, 17-14, but managed only eight runs out of the barrage. Consecutive home runs by Tony Horton and Duke Sims and five doubles sparked the Indians' big inning.

It was Oakland's fifth loss in six games.

Highlights and Sidelights From the State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — Thwarted in one effort to keep down the size of the 1970-71 tax bill by school fund diversion, Gov. Preston Smith took a new approach.

He called on Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin to rush an opinion as to whether income from state-owned submerged lands (bays, river banks, etc.) can be used for current school spending.

Martin earlier held unconstitutional the governor's plan to get $71.6 million in state land revenue bound for the sacrosanct permanent school fund for educational financing during the next two years. Only investment income from the permanent fund can now be spent.

Smith accepted Martin's original opinion, but noted that revenue from submerged lands was not dedicated to the school fund by constitution but by statute in 1939 and 1941. So, if the Legislature can dedicate money from those oil-rich lands, Smith feels it can "undedicate" as well.

"If 72 and a half per cent of the royalties involved were utilized it would mean approximately $32 million which the taxpayers would not have to produce to meet anticipated revenues needed to finance state government during the coming two years," Smith maintained.

He asked Martin for an early ruling in preparation for a supplemental message the governor will deliver to the Legislature, in which he will spell out alternative sources for the $71.6 million item invalidated by the attorney general's March 3 opinion.

Smith first said he has two alternatives: budget-cutting or a reinforced revenue plan. He decided he didn't have much fat left to trim in his budget and settled on alternative money raisers.

LEGISLATURE ACTS — Legislature finally reached its full complement, with the election of Rep. John H. Foerner of Hondo, a Republican, to fill the vacancy created by the death of Rep. D.C. Howard of Uvalde. And the lawmaking process continues.

Legislators have completed action on the workmen's compensation reform bill which raises benefits to injured workers from $35 a week maximum to $40. Measure went to the governor for his signature following House passage 146 to 1. (Senate acted earlier.)

One of the session's most important measures, a proposed constitutional amendment raising the water bond ceiling to $3.5 billion to finance the state's share of the $10 billion Texas water plan, passed the House 131-15 and went to the Senate.

In their liveliest action, both houses voted out a bill to provide maximum fines of $200 and jail sentences up to six months for disruptive activities on school and college campuses. Bill went to conference committee for adjustment of differences.

Another bill cleared by both houses would permit Texans to buy rifles, shotguns and ammunition in adjoining states despite the federal gun law. Similar legislation is being considered in other states.

Senate passed a variety of bills including a Texas Meat Inspection Law which is necessary to prevent federal regulation of meat; a trailer house uniform standards act; a 45-minute daily planning break for school teachers and extension of time for homecoming Vietnam servicemen (90 days after return) to renew their drivers' licenses.

House approved bills allowing persons between 19 and 21 to be licensed as cab drivers; protecting the rights of developers of new varieties of cotton; and requiring the labeling of eggs as to their state or country of origin.

BILLS INTRODUCED — Legislators kept dropping more and more bills into both the House and Senate hoppers, including:

A bill to require telephone companies to maintain a business office in every county seat where it provides telephone service.

Creation of a 50-member Governor's Committee on Human Relations "to recommend programs of action designed and intended to promote and obtain a better understanding and relationship between the various groups."

Establishing a Texas Board of Examiners in the Fitting and Dispensing of Hearing Aids to license and regulate all persons in that business.

Allowing haulers of agricultural products to get a permit to operate without having to prove their service would fit the "public convenience and necessity" which other truckers must show.

Creating the Legislative Modernization Committee to study and improve the legislative process.

Closely regulating when and how and for what purpose state law-enforcement agencies can use electronic eavesdropping or "bugging."

Requiring all elections in Texas to be with the use of voting machines, which the state would furnish but which would be stored and maintained by the counties.

Allowing school districts to increase the length of their school terms from nine to 10 months.

Increasing the penalty for the crimes of rape, armed robbery and murder.

Providing state support for kindergarten programs voluntarily operated by local school districts for five-year-old children.

APPOINTMENTS — Former State Rep. Joe Burkett Jr. of Kerrville was named by Governor Smith to the Texas Liquor Control Board for a short term extending until Nov. 11. He succeeds O.R. Crawford of Jasper who resigned.

Smith named Leslie R. Neal of San Antonio to succeed William E. Berger of Hondo on the Texas Water Rights Commission.

Governor appointed Tommy V. Smith of Austin as Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Governor Smith appointed Dr. Albert B. Spires of Taylor to the State Board of Medical Examiners; James W. Throgmorton and Daniel J. Bromley Jr. of Port Arthur as branch pilots for Sabine Bar, Pass and Tributaries.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES — To nobody's great surprise, Attorney General Martin declared unconstitutional Governor Smith's proposed diversion of money earmarked to the permanent school fund for current education spending.

Martin said legislation making air and water pollution misdemeanor offenses is unconstitutional as applied to associations and firms in that the constitutional reference applied only to individuals and private corporations. A variance by state agencies would be complete defense to prosecution.

Attorney General held as not qualified an applicant for registration as a professional engineer who holds only an agricultural degree from Texas Tech College prior to 1962.

BRUCCELLOSIS CHALLENGE — A McMullen County rancher is challenging the constitutionality of the Texas Animal Health Commission brucellosis program, which requires that cattle owners must sell any stock with brucellosis to slaughter houses.

R.J. Nunley got a temporary restraining order to stop the Commission from quarantining his cattle, which apparently have the disease. A Sinton court was to hear arguments on the issue.

Animal Health Commission is concerned because, if the brucellosis-control program is ruled unconstitutional, then other states likely will prohibit the importation of Texas cattle.

BOLL WEEVIL BEATEN? — If experimentation underway in Dickens, Motley, Briscoe and Hall counties proves successful, Agriculture Commissioner White says the dread boll weevil may become as extinct as the dinosaur.

High Plains cotton farmers are getting the help of an experimental boll weevil trap coupled with poison-baited plants to eradicate the biggest trouble-maker in Texas agriculture history and one of the South's biggest economy-changers.

Experiment will be carried out April 1-June 30. Cotton plants used will be grown in Brownsville. Weevils used to bait thermal traps will be flown in weekly from Mississippi laboratories.
