DESPITE EFFORTS

Former President Fails to Improve

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower "continues to grow weaker" despite efforts to reverse the heart condition that threatens his life, doctors reported today.

In a brief morning bulletin on the 78-year-old general's condition, Brig. Gen. Frederic Hughes, commander of Walter Reed Army Hospital, said "Gen. Eisenhower continues to grow weaker."

"Evidences of congestive heart failure continue unchanged," Hughes said.

Mrs. Eisenhower remained at her husband's bedside.

The morning medical bulletin on Eisenhower said:

"Gen. Eisenhower continues to grow weaker. He sleeps for longer periods, but when awake is lucid and able to communicate with members of the family and, last evening, with President Nixon. The evidences of congestive heart failure persist unchanged. Mrs. Eisenhower remains close to the general's bedside and is a constant source of support and encouragement both to the general and others present."

Hughes would not answer direct questions from newsmen.

The next medical bulletin was scheduled for late afternoon in the absence of major change in Eisenhower's condition.

Another medical statement was expected at midmorning.

President Nixon made a spur-of-the-moment trip to the hospital Wednesday for a brief chat with Eisenhower. A Nixon aide emphasized the President was not "called" to the bedside, but had decided to make the visit on his own.

Eisenhower, his wife Mamie at his side, was reported conscious and able to carry on lucid conversations with those around him.

In a brief medical statement at 4:25 p.m. CST Wednesday, Brig. Gen. Frederic Hughes, the hospital commander, said "There has been no appreciable improvement in the general's condition."

He added the "failure to respond is considered an unfavorable prognostic sign."

Hughes said the ability of Eisenhower's heart to perform its normal blood-circulating functions is showing a "slow deterioration."

Government Will File Suit Against LTV Acquisition

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department said Wednesday night it will file by April 15 an antitrust suit against Ling-Temco-Vought Inc., to try to stop it from absorbing the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp.

The announcement came as Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell revealed that LTV and J & L had agreed to the entry of a preliminary injunction pending the outcome of the government's antitrust suit. This is the first such action to be brought against one of the giant new conglomerate corporations.

Under the injunction, LTV would be limited in its acquisition of any more J & L stock to a maximum of 81 per cent of the common shares and would maintain J & L, the nation's sixth largest steel company, as a separate entity while the antitrust suit was pending.

LTV already owns 63 per cent of the J & L stock, but if the government wins its suit LTV would be required to rid itself of all J & L stock.

ON-SCHOOL BOND

Trustees Canvass Results of Election

By WANDA MAE HUFF
News Staff Writer

After waiting 45 minutes to get a quorum, Pampa school trustees canvassed the school bond issue election returns today and approved the original count of votes, 1,336 for and $75 against the $900,000 bond issue.

When the meeting was scheduled to start at 9:30 a.m. today, only two of the five school trustees were present. Jimmy Thompson was in conference and unable to attend; Warren Hasse had to leave today for Houston; Dr. R. M. Hampton could not be reached by trustees or his office. Dr. James F. Malone, school superintendent, was called to Kilgore to serve as pallbearer for a friend's funeral, according to Homer Craig, director of school business services.

To make the three out of five quorum required to canvass election returns, board members John Gikas and John Spearman waited until Thompson could be called out of conference and attend the meeting.

After Thompson arrived, the trustees canvassed the vote, approved the textbook committee's recommendations and heard a report from Craig on the school district's bond rating.

After Craig's report, trustees approved financing Bob Davis' trip to New York to secure a rating for the district. Davis, representative of Columbian Securities, is the district's fiscal agent.

"The last rating made for Pampa Independent School District was in 1958 when the last bond issue was passed," Craig said. "At that time, we had a Moody A rating, the second highest classification a community can have. We've always had that rating and need to get a more recent one to insure getting enough bids to sell the bonds. A rating is a classification."

Viet Cong Reject Saigon's Offer to Have Secret Talk

Call Thieu's Proposal A Maneuver by Nixon

By GEORGE SIBERA

PARIS (UPI)—The Viet Cong today rejected South Vietnam's offer to hold secret peace talks and called it a "maneuver of the Nixon administration." The talks promptly bogged down on other matters — Communist infiltration of Laos and Cambodia.

The offer of direct peace talks was put forward this week by South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu and was warmly endorsed by Washington, which hailed the offer as the best chance yet to achieve peace in Vietnam. Thieu had called such talks "the light at the end of the tunnel."

Tan Buu Kiem, delegation leader of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front (NLF), said the offer is "not a serious act, but a maneuver of the Nixon administration." He called instead for direct talks between the Viet Cong and the United States.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge had gone into the meeting with professed optimism. Knowing of the Viet Cong rejection in advance, he entered today's meeting with the statement, "I think something is going to come out of it."

Pham Dang Lam, the chief South Vietnamese negotiator, and Lodge, attempted to expand the scope of the conference to cover North Vietnamese violations of Cambodian and Laotian territory.

Lam made withdrawal of all North Vietnamese "regular and subversive forces" from Laos and Cambodia as well as South Vietnam the price of a peace settlement.

Lodge said "at least 40,000 North Vietnamese troops are deployed in Laos, fighting and otherwise interfering in Laos affairs." He said the North Vietnamese also are daily

S. Vietnam May Resume Bombing

SAIGON (UPI)—Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam said today his nation "quite possibly" could defy the United States and resume the bombing of North Vietnam on its own.

"South Vietnam could quite possibly unilaterally take the decision to bomb the North," Ky said. "The planes are ready. There is no reason why we can't bomb Hanoi."

Ky reportedly has urged a resumption of the bombing, at least by South Vietnamese planes, in retaliation for the nationwide Communist offensive in the South, now in its 33rd day.

Both the United States and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam have taken a cautious attitude toward resuming the bombing, stopped Nov. 1 in a peace move by former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

"Do we need the approval of the U.S. for anything we do?" Ky asked a newsman, who replied the South Vietnamese would have to use U.S. bombs in the raids. "Well, they can withdraw their bombs," Ky replied.

Ky said he had explained his ideas to Thieu on the bombing, "and it is up to him to decide today. We can go today. The planes and the pilots are ready."

Thieu said Tuesday night the problem could be solved in another way besides bombing—"a more rational way," he called it. In that same Tuesday speech, Thieu proposed secret talks with the Viet Cong.

Ky in his conference today said "there is nothing to" reports the Saigon government already has begun discussions with the Viet Cong. "If there had been anything like that, I would have known about it," he said.

BROCHURES FOR STATE STUDENTS—Five Pampa High School student council officials prepare boxes of brochures describing their school. The brochures will be distributed during the state Student Council convention in Amarillo today through Saturday. PHS is running for

PHS Campaigns For President At TASC Convention

Pampa High School, a candidate for the office of president of Texas Association of Student Councils, which is convening in Amarillo today through Saturday, will send four PHS students as the school's official delegates.

Delegates are Brenda Duncan, Moss Hampton, David Irwin and Randy Marsh.

About 60 PHS students will also attend the three-day meeting to campaign for the office, according to John Karr, student council president.

In submitting its candidacy for office, PHS student council members prepared a pictorial brochure representing highlights of Pampa High School students' activities.

The brochure included photos of its band and choir performing at an AFL championship game in New York; Randy Matson, Olympic gold medal winner and former Pampa Har-

TWO ON MERCY MISSIONS

Communist Ground Fire Hits Four Helicopters in Attack

SAIGON (UPI)—Sheets of Communist ground fire shot down four U.S. helicopters, two of them on missions to evacuate wounded GIs from the battlefield, military spokesmen said today. Eight Americans died.

One of the 'copters was clearly marked with a red cross, the U.S. command said. The losses, from the Mekong Delta to the northern I Corps, brought to 1,044 the number of U.S. helicopters shot down in South Vietnam.

At the same time, American headquarters said the Communist offensive entered its 33rd day with 35 rocket and mortar barrages into cities and military camps.

U.S. headquarters said losses in the overnight Communist barrages were light but that seven major American outposts were targeted, including the U.S. Marine supply and helicopter pad at Marble Mountain near Da Nang.

Four U.S. servicemen died in the costliest helicopter downing Wednesday 180 miles northwest of Saigon. Marked with red crosses, the 'copter ran the gamut of Communist ground fire trying to get in to evacuate the wounded and crashed.

A U.S. Marine helicopter, unmarked but also on a mercy mission, was shot down 10 miles west of Da Nang but no one was hurt.

The two other 'copters went down in the Central Highlands and the Mekong Delta, killing four Americans and wounding one, according to U.S. war communiques.

Increased U.S. patrols up and down the nation have turned up enough hidden guerrilla rice to feed a 12,000-man North Vietnamese division for a year.

More than 1,017 tons of rice have been captured by U.S. Marines alone in South Vietnam's far northwest corner just below the Demilitarized Zone, war communiques said. The Leathernecks were still digging.

In that same cache, described as the biggest captured in the war, the Marines have found 125,000 pounds of TNT, the announcement said.

The cache announcements accompanied war communiques disclosing 25 overnight guerrilla rocket and mortar barrages into allied camps and towns on the 33rd day of the winter-spring offensive.

Seven long-range rockets hit the Marines' supply and helicopter base at Marble Mountain outside Da Nang early today but as in all other attacks, damage and casualties were said to be light.

Court Hinders Ray's Move

ON SEEKING NEW TRIAL

Court Hinders Ray's Move

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—The Tennessee Supreme Court has dealt what could be a fatal blow to the legal grounds on which James Earl Ray was reported to be basing his bid for a new trial.

The high tribunal ruled Wednesday a convicted criminal cannot invalidate a prison sentence by alleging he pleaded guilty on the advice of his lawyer. A top legal source said the ruling could "fit the James Earl Ray case like a glove."

But the admitted slayer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. apparently is planning to attack his 99-year sentence nonetheless. A Memphis attorney identified as Richard J. Ryan tried to visit Ray Wednesday, but was turned away by Tennessee State Prison authorities who said he had not been officially retained by Ray.

Expect Return To Memphis

A prisoner who was a cell neighbor of Ray's in the prison said on his release Wednesday Ray told him "he didn't expect to be in prison very long."

James Powers said Ray indicated he expected to be returned to the Memphis Jail soon to await new legal proceedings.

The court's ruling came Wednesday in the case of Robert E. Richmond, who had petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus on grounds his pleas of guilty in two burglary cases were induced by "improper advice" from privately retained counsel.

Writes Opinion

Justice Allison B. Humphreys Jr. wrote the opinion in which the court noted a federal ruling to the effect that for a person to be denied due process by ineffective representation by counsel it "must be such as to make the trial a farce, sham, or mockery of justice."

Humphreys noted the ruling has been applied to a number of situations arising out of criminal cases, including situations where a defendant entered a plea of guilty on the advice or urging of his lawyer.

PHS Singers Score Highest In Regionals

With 36 AAAA choir participants in the regional high school music contests Wednesday, Pampa music students took three sweepstakes awards of the six available.

The winners were girls glee club, boys glee club and mixed choir, all of Pampa High School, directed by Bill Davis.

In all, 140 students of the local schools were represented in the contest, Davis said today. The contest took place in the new Amarillo Civic Center auditorium.

This is the second year for Davis as music director at Pampa High School.

AGREE ON RENEWAL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States and Spain have agreed in principle on renewing the U.S. lease of four military bases, but apparently failed to agree on how much military aid America should give in return.

Spanish Foreign Minister Fernando Maria Castiella y Mais was returning to Madrid today to consult with his government on the American offer of military aid.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Courts and other judicial bodies sometimes hand down decisions based on technical points rather than coming to grips with the central issues in the cases. Even the U.S. Supreme Court has done this on occasion. So would perhaps be unfair to accuse Sydney S. Asher Jr., a trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB), of being chicken. Nevertheless, Asher recently had an opportunity to render a landmark opinion in one of the great gray areas of labormarital relations. And in my judgment, he blew it.

Was Fired
The case involved a lady, a non-union employee, who was fired for failing to report to work. When her boss asked the reason for her absence, she explained that her husband had forbidden her to cross a union picket line outside the plant. The company took the position that this was an invalid excuse.

But when threatened with dismissal unless she got back on the job, the lady insisted on obeying her husband.

"After all, I have to live with him; you don't," she told her boss. Or words to that effect. At an NLRB hearing on the dispute, the company argued that "her refusal to cross the picket line was not based on her desire to assist her fellow workers, nor on sympathy for their cause." Rather, it was "the result of outside influence at home."

Motives Immaterial
Asher, however, recommended that she be reinstated, asserting that her "motives for honoring the picket line" were immaterial.

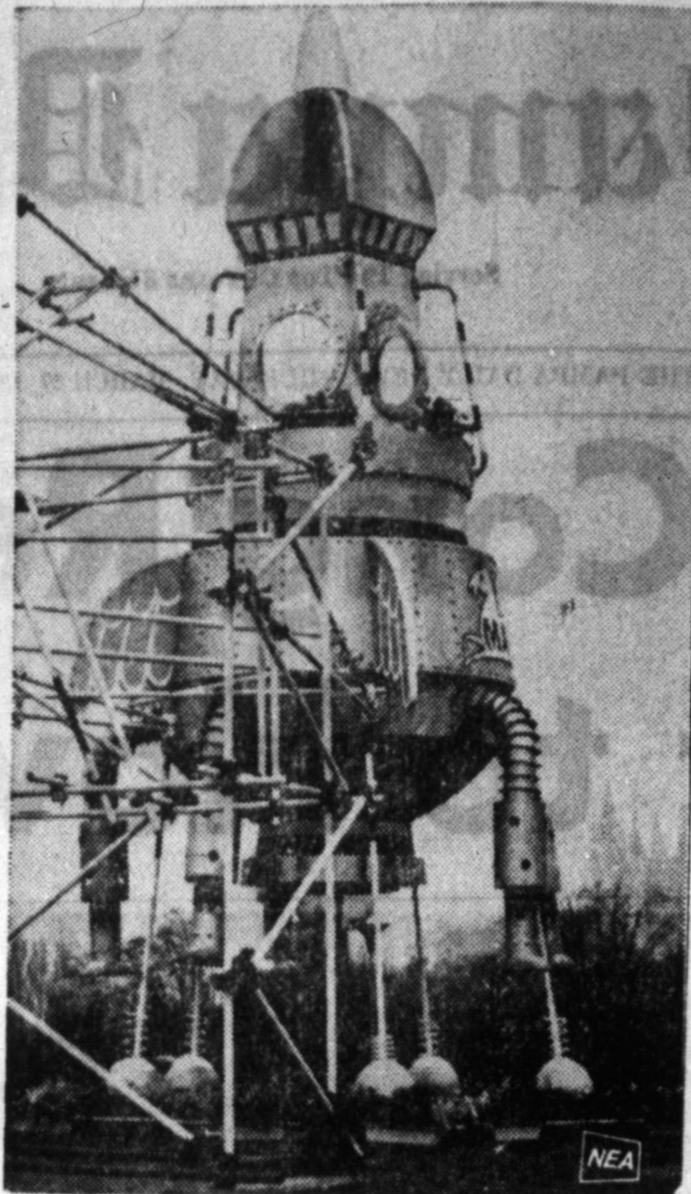

This left unsettled the basic question of whether a husband does, or does not, have the authority to control his wife's actions.

I regret that Asher did not see fit to hazard an opinion on that issue. It might not have done anything to clarify labor law, but it might have helped us husbands find out where we stand. Indications are that we don't have a leg to stand on. At least that is the way I interpret a divorce case in Hollywood this week.

The judge granted actress Irish McCall a divorce after she testified that her marriage broke up because she refused to vote for Eldridge Cleaver, last year's Peace and Freedom candidate for president.

Medical Science Still Tracking Down Cancer Virus

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Medical science has been unsuccessful in its efforts to decisively pin down a provable virus in a human cancer. But it isn't from lack of trying. The American Association of Cancer Research ended a three-day meeting this week which included more than 50 reports on the known cancer-causing viruses in animals or "virus-like particles" in human tumors. The reports came from widespread sources—the prestigious Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N.Y.; a joint study by a French scientist in Lyons and a Chinese team in Hong Kong; and a German gynecologist who works at night in her private laboratory. Dr. James T. Grace Jr., chief of the Roswell Institute, reported that he and his colleagues have been studying the relationship between leukemia and a common virus similar to that which causes a human skin disease called herpes simplex. Grace said they took the virus, which can be found in almost everyone, from human lymphoma patients and injected it into volunteer patients who were suffering from incurable chronic leukemia to see if the virus altered the course of the leukemia. He said the patients developed symptoms of infectious mononucleosis, another disease believed caused by the herpes type virus. (See MEDICAL, Page 11)

The PHS theme is "Progression Through Unity," which would be carried out by seven goals, uniting TASC by encouraging member schools to support TASC candidate for a national office, initiating a district presidents' mid-year meeting, encouraging semi-annual reporting by high school councils and encouraging consultation by more correspondence between schools.

The PHS students also would promote uniting district organizations by encouraging district leadership, creating caucuses at TASC convention to allow district delegates to confer with candidate schools, and encourage better communication through more district meetings and problem clinics.

Previously, PHS has held two state offices, that of vice president in 1952-53 and president in 1953-54; two Top of Texas district offices, secretary in 1965-66, and president in 1966-67.

PHS representatives have attended National Student Council conventions in 1967-68, and participated in conventions and workshops in Texas and surrounding states, and presented convention discussion groups at the Southern Association of Student Councils and the NASC.

Engineers Association

To View Potash Film

A film on the mining and production of potash will be shown at the March dinner meeting of the Panhandle Section of the National Association of Erosion Engineers at 7 p.m. Monday in Sutphens Barbecue at Borger.

Jerry Jenkins, representative of Potash of America, will be the speaker. A social hour is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m.

THE POP MASTER — Cabot Corp. of Pampa will unveil a new machine for use in feedlots in a special showing at 3 p.m. Saturday. Special guests will view the machine, which is used to prepare grain for use as feed.

Cabot to Unveil New Machine for Feedlots

Wherever the Pop Master, 14-1, Cabot Corporation's first adventure into the feedlot machinery field, is put into use, all the livestock within sniffing distance will be irresistibly drawn by its haunting aroma, like Grandmother's old-time kitchen on baking day.

For the Pop Master is, as its name indicates, a version of the hand-operated corn popper, on an extremely garrulous scale. The idea is to pop sorghum grains into a form of popcorn, turned out by the barrel-full, to make the feed more enticing and eventually nourishing, to animals.

The new machine will be unveiled before a group of special guests — and potential customers — at a 3 p.m. Saturday ceremony at the Cabot plant. Acceptances have been received from the adjacent five-state area, as well as from overseas, according to Jerry Stewart Cabot marketing expert.

"Although versatility is our aim," said Stewart, "this is our initial step into the feedlot industry. We have been manufacturing oilfield equipment, including drilling and other rigs, backhoes and cranes.

"We also have been manufacturing by contract gun tubes for the US Army and are going into the lines of water well equipment."

The company is searching out other areas with machinery needs that Cabot might fulfill, Stewart said. The Pop Master is an invention of Norman Sachnik of San Angelo. A thermal oven-reverse-air circulating machine — its purpose is to cook or prepare grain to make it more appealing and with a higher conversion rate of feed into beef, Stewart notes. It makes feed handle more easily and with less waste.

The new machine was tested for 13 months under feedlot conditions and performed excellently, Stewart added.

Talk

Dispatches from Vientiane and Saigon in recent days reported Hanoi has virtually annexed two northeastern provinces of Laos in order to strengthen its Ho Chi Minh Trail supply system into Laos, and that many of the troops threatening Saigon in the Communist offensive operate from sanctuaries in Cambodia.

In his sharply worded brush-off of the Saigon talk, Kiem said it was aimed at covering up the Nixon administration's "policy of intensifying the war of aggression in South Vietnam, and coping with public opinion in the United States and the world."

Kiem criticized Thieu's statement Tuesday in which Thieu said the South Vietnamese was prepared to hold secret talks with the Viet Cong but was opposed to the withdrawal of U.S. troops and was against the establishment of a coalition government.

The Viet Cong rejection was a blow to hopes of achieving an early breakthrough at the Paris talks, which have been stalemated since their opening Jan. 18.

Kiem said the South Vietnamese proposal was "a maneuver of the Nixon administration aimed at covering up its policy of intensifying the war of aggression in South Vietnam and coping with public opinion in the United States and the world, which is indignantly condemning the United States for its intensification of the war and for the hampering of the progress of the Paris conference."

City Hall Begins Changeover To Data Processing

Conversion from current accounting methods to IBM data processing at City Hall will be started during the next two or three weeks, according to City Manager Charles Hill.

The city manager said when the process of converting gets under way in earnest, it will take probably six months before it is completed.

The city commission last Tuesday awarded a one-year contract to Tri-State Service Center of Pampa to handle City Hall records and accounting procedures.

Conversion of City Tax office records is expected to take the longest, it was pointed out today, due to the fact that the 1969 tax roll already has been processed under the present system. The new system will take effect in the tax office with the 1970 tax roll.

Meanwhile, tax office employees will be engaged in the task of preparing records for the final conversion.

Change to the new method will take less time in the waterworks department and the office of the city finance director.

City Manager Hill said Tri-State will have one or two employees at City Hall to assist city workers in preparation for the change over.

Tri-State also plans, Hill said, to install a key punch machine in City Hall to assist in conversion from the card punch system.

Pipeline Company Presents Awards

Miami, Pampa, Quindino and Kingsmill employees of Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America were honored for their safety records at a dinner Wednesday at Dyer's Bar-B-Que, Pampa.

A group award for 10-years' continuous service without a lost-time accident was presented to the Miami Booster Department. The Kingsmill Production Department and the Fritch, Quindino and Kingsmill Measurement Departments received one-year group awards for having no lost-time accidents in 1968.

In addition, Ramon R. Cowan of Miami and Charles L. Smith of White Deer received individual 10-year safety awards.

Gordon A. Miller, 405 Roberta, and Reggie W. King, 612 Powell, were given one-year safety awards.

Speakers included Laurence A. Lowry, general superintendent of NGPL's Gas Control Division, who talked on safety and system operations; Marcel L. DeCraene, superintendent of the newly-created Codes and Safety Department, who spoke on the Natural Gas Pipeline Safety Act; and Jack A. Evans, supervisor of safety, who discussed safety belts in vehicles.

The city of Cullman, Ala. had no traffic fatalities in 1968.

Burial was in Plymouth Cemetery near Samnorwood, directed by Kelson Funeral Home. Mrs. Scott, 71, formerly resided at Samnorwood.

Survivors include two brothers, W.E. Browning, Pampa and Nolan Browning, Samnorwood; and a daughter Mrs. Mary Chano, Austin.

C. F. CATES

CANADIAN (Sp) — Funeral services will be at 2:30 p.m. Friday at Stuckley Funeral Home Chapel, Canadian, for Clarence Frederick Cates, 73, of Pampa. Mr. Cates died Wednesday morning at Veterans Hospital, Amarillo.

Dale Monroe, minister of the Church of Christ at Canadian, will officiate. Burial will be in Washita Cemetery.

Mr. Cates was born at Toombs, Okla., but had resided in the Panhandle area most of his life. He was a veteran of World War I. He was a former resident of Canadian.

Survivors include two brothers, Ben, Pampa, and Charlie, Port Barre, La.; and a sister, Mrs. Eva Adcock, Canadian.

Only Five More Days to Register Motor Vehicles

Gray Countians have only five more days to register their motor vehicles and buy tags. County motorists have through April 1 to purchase tags in the office of Tax-Assessor Collector Jack Back. Back's office is open from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. and also through the noon hour.

Back said that through last Friday 7,300 car tags had been purchased in his office. There are about 16,000 cars in the county that have to be tagged.

If a motorist fails to get his license plates in time, he faces a 20 per cent increase in fee as a late penalty.

Cree Speaker At Southland Life Annual Seminar

Joe Cree, Pampa life insurance agent, was one of the principal speakers at today's forenoon session of the three-day first annual workshop seminar, sponsored by the Southland Life Texas Plains Agency in Amarillo.

The seminar opened today and will run through Saturday at the Amarillo Country Club. Cree's subject was "Communications and Self Concept," a message directed to the seminar audience comprised of life insurance men attending from over the plains area.

Other speakers addressing the workshop meetings include Dr. Maxwell Maltz, internationally known plastic surgeon, and Sy Miller, director of training for the Dreyfus Sales Corp., both from New York City.

Dr. Maltz is author of several books, including "The Magic Power of Self Image Psychology." He will speak at the annual awards dinner tomorrow night.

Explorer Post Considered By Rotary Club

A special Explorer Post for high school boys beyond the normal scout level was discussed at the Pampa Rotary Club's regular luncheon meeting yesterday in the Coronado Inn.

The project, aimed at "Exploring Vocations," would be sponsored by the local Rotary Club in cooperation with the Adobe Walls Council of Boy Scouts of America and Pampa's public school system.

Members of the club would associate and work with groups of high school students in specific vocation areas.

Bob Curry is chairman of the organizing committee.

In other business, George Newberry announced that the Inter-City Rotary meeting will be held in Borger on April 8. Cities expected to be represented include Pampa, Borger, Dumas, Panhandle and Perryton.

School to Close For Vacation

Parents will find their houses filled with children during the next week as Easter vacation begins Friday afternoon.

Classes of Pampa public schools will dismiss at the close of school Friday afternoon for the Easter holidays.

Students will return to classes on April 7, the day after Easter, according to the school superintendent's office.

The state flower of Vermont is the red clover.

Coffee Cake Adds Spark To Breakfast

It may be gulp, skip and run for breakfast on week days but how about a special breakfast on Sunday?

With apples in season, a quick coffee cake that bakes in less than half an hour will provide a tempting treat. Serve it in a menu with chilled orange juice, Canadian-style or regular bacon, scrambled eggs and beverage, advises Reba Staggs, meat authority with the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

APPLE COFFEE CAKE

- 1-3 cup lard
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 1/2 teaspoon mace
- 2 medium-sized apples, sliced
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon mace or cinnamon

Grease 8-inch square pan. Cream lard and sugar. Add unbeaten egg. Mix thoroughly. Add milk. Fold in sifted dry ingredients. Spread evenly in pan. Place apple slices on top of batter pressing narrow edge into batter. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons sugar mixed with Potato salad with zest of spring.

Virginian Boasts Potato Salad Dish

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Editor

We have a tall and massive friend in Virginia who brags easily about many things. His name is Alan Rains and he is president of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association. One of his most outstanding boasts is about his potato salad, which he, personally, makes every spring, time when new potatoes come to market.

Although the peak of the new potato season is in May and June, there are plenty of these bright-skinned little new potatoes around now. So let us take our chances and try to make a dish as good as Alan's fabulous potato salad.

ALAN RAIN'S POTATO SALAD

- 3 pounds new potatoes
- 1 clove garlic, split
- 1 cup thinly sliced celery
- 1/2 cup chopped scallions
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- Juice of 1 lemon (about 1/4 teaspoon mace or cinnamon)

Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees) for 20 to 25 minutes. (Serves six).

- 1/4 cup)
- 1 cup mayonnaise . . .

Wash potatoes. Cook covered, in a small amount of boiling salted water until just tender; drain, if necessary. While potatoes are cooking, rub a wooden bowl with garlic. Combine celery, scallions, salt and pepper in wooden bowl. Let stand at room temperature. Pare potatoes as soon as they can be handled. Cut in half lengthwise, then crosswise into 1/4-inch slices into another bowl. Sprinkle with lemon juice. Toss lightly and chill. About 1 hour before serving, transfer potatoes to wooden bowl. Spoon mayonnaise evenly over potatoes. Toss lightly. If desired, garnish with hard-cooked eggs. Six to 8 servings.

When the fire insurance policy comes up for renewal, ask the agent to review coverage and determine whether you are insured to value. If you are not, it will pay to increase coverage so that it is adequate in the light of current conditions. A dwelling adequately insured for $20,000 just three years ago probably should be insured for $22,000 upon renewal today.

Flavor Vegetables With New Marinade

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Editor

Spring is the time to try something new. So now is the time to marinate fresh mushrooms and celery in a glass jar, then serve at will with your meat, fish or poultry dishes. You will be surprised how really good and different this marinade will taste.

Mushrooms are, of course, one of the world's great flavoring vegetables. So is celery—particularly the crisp, green, pascal type which is gradually taking over the celery world. And with these two, combine also parsley flakes, oregano, basil and ground black pepper. And, of course, onion—whether fresh, instant minced, onion powder, onion salt or onion flakes. Altogether, they will produce wonderful flavor.

Combine oil, vinegar, water, minced onion, parsley flakes, minced garlic, salt, oregano, basil and black pepper in small saucepan. Bring to boil; reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Meantime place mushrooms, celery and pimento in alternate layers in hot, sterile, quart jar. Pour hot marinade over vegetables in jar. Seal tightly. Let stand until cool. Refrigerate at least 2 days before serving. Makes 1 quart.

Homemakers Harmonize Pork Cuts, Lima Beans

Layers of sliced, smoked pork shoulder roll make a great team with vegetables. The flavor of this cut is similar to ham since smoked. Many homemakers like this juicy and flavorful meat since it's smaller in size, and boneless, too. The weight of a smoked pork shoulder roll averages from two to three pounds, points out meat expert, Reba Staggs of the National Live Stock and Meat Board. This meat is simmered until tender in water, a step which can easily be done a day in advance of serving.

VEGETABLE COMBO

10 slices cooked, smoked pork shoulder roll, cut one-half inch thick
 2 packages (9 ounces each) frozen French-style green beans
 3 cups coarsely grated carrots
 1 cup thinly sliced celery
 1/2 cup hot water
 2 cans (10 1/2 ozs. each) condensed cream of mushroom soup
 1 cup crushed bite-size shredded cereal biscuits
 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
 1/4 teaspoon thyme . . .
 Mix green beans, carrots, celery and water in saucepan. Bring to a boil. Stir in mushroom soup. Place vegetables in a 13 x 9-inch baking dish. Arrange meat slices on top. Mix cereal, melted butter or margarine and thyme. Sprinkle mixture over

Cupboard Casserole Adds Convenience

When off the shelf and into the casserole is your theme song, there's nothing that meets the time budget more easily than this main dish.
 Can opening skill and simple cutting of the luncheon meat is really all that's necessary, says Reba Staggs, home economist with the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

CUPBOARD SHELF COMBO

1 can (12 ounces) luncheon meat, cut in 1/4-inch cubes
 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed tomato soup
 1 can (4 ozs.) mushroom stems and pieces, drained
 1/4 cup finely chopped meat and vegetables. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 minutes or until vegetables are done. (Six servings).

onion
 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
 1/4 teaspoon oregano
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 1 package (10 ozs.) frozen peas and carrots, cooked or 1 can (16 ozs.) peas and carrots, drained
 1-3 cup grated Cheddar cheese . . .
 Combine meat with tomato soup, mushrooms stems and pieces, onion, mustard, oregano and pepper. Stir in peas and carrots. Bake in a lightly greased, 1 1/2-quart casserole in a moderate oven 20 minutes, minutes longer. (Four servings).

 Results, not the amount of time, is what counts in cooking. So for Easter dessert, try one of these two excellent and very colorful recipes.

NO-COOK STRAWBERRY CHEESE CAKE

2 packages (10 1/2 ozs. each) unbaked cheesecake
 6 tablespoons sugar
 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted and softened
 3 cups milk
 1 pint fresh strawberries, halved
 1/2 cup currant jelly, melted and cooled . . .
 Combine contents of both pouches of crust crumbs, the sugar, and butter or margarine. Mix well. Press on bottom and halfway up sides of 9-inch spring-form pan. Chill 15 minutes before filling.
 Measure milk into bowl. Add contents of both filling mix pouches. Beat as directed on package. Pour into prepared crust. Top with strawberries; brush with currant jelly to glaze. Chill at least 2 hours. (Twelve servings).

Washington Window

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Back-

stairs at the White House: Recent speculation that President Nixon might buy a 64-room castle on the Southern California coast for something over $400,000 stirred some memories in Washington.

This sort of thing has happened before to chief executives who were quite surprised to learn they were about to purchase expensive real estate—and about which they knew almost nothing.

It happened to John F. Kennedy when he was President. The story was that a group of his friends were forming a syndicate to purchase a summer White House for him at Newport, R.I., and make a gift of the house and property to the federal government.

Kennedy tried to squelch the rumors as soon as they broke into print, but the report continued to pop up from time to time until Kennedy's death. About all he was ever able to establish about the plan was that someone wanted to sell a house.

It would be surprising if Nixon planned to purchase additional real estate anywhere. He currently is paying for two relatively expensive pieces of waterfront property at Key Biscayne, Fla. While he is a well-to-do man, friends say he is not the sort to lay out $400,000 for anything at this point of his career.

Nor does it seem likely that he would want to ask Congress to put up federal funds for a branch White House in California.

What he would like is the use of a house on the lower California coast for several weekends a year and this he can have easily—for free or on a rental basis. Presidents have made such arrangements in the past without causing public outcry.

Members of the Eldorado Country Club at Palm Desert, Calif., near Palm Springs, were more than happy to provide a house for President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Furthermore, they continued the arrangement after he left office.

Members of the Augusta (Ga.) National Golf Club also provided a house for Eisenhower and his family several weeks each year. When he went quail shooting in south Georgia, he look over the estate of his Treasury secretary, George Humphrey.

Kennedy paid a fairly large rental for Glen Ora, his first place at Middleburg, Va., before deciding to build his own house at Atoka, just outside of Middleburg. At Palm Beach, Fla., however, Kennedy used a borrowed beachfront estate. And for one brief summer stay, he borrowed the Maine island home of Gene Tunney, the former heavyweight champion.

While he was in office, President Lyndon B. Johnson spoke privately several times of wanting to have a winter place at Palm Springs, Calif., but he never did much about it. He made a number of tentative plans for holidays at one resort or another, but invariably ended up at his Texas ranch instead.

Instead of investing big money in a California house, Nixon can be expected to do what other presidents have done—borrow, rent or make more use of the government-owned presidential retreat, Camp David, Md.

Scotland exports more than 40 million gallons of whisky annually, about half to the United States.

HIDALGO, Tex. (UPI)—Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and Bob Sanchez, chairman of the Migratory Labor Committee for the American GI Forum, agree many persons cross the Mexican-Texas border here illegally.

What they disagree on is who is to blame for the illegal crossings. Sen. Mondale, after spending about two hours watching border crossings between Hidalgo and Reynosa, Mex., last week says immigration officials are lax in checking cards which allow Mexicans to cross the border and work in the United States.

Sanchez says the hands of immigration officials are tied by federal regulations. Mondale, the new chairman of the migratory labor subcommittee, has said he saw a steady stream of people crossing the bridge in Hidalgo and he said he felt many were crossing illegally.

"It's hard to believe all those people who stream across the border each morning are living in the U.S.," he said after his visit last week.

Mondale said many holders of the so-called "green cards," which allow Mexicans to work in the United States, get the cards illegally.

Lutheran World aid NEW YORK (UPI)—Lutheran World Action, an annual financial appeal for a global program of spiritual and material aid, raised $3,999,203 in 1968. The total receipts from the American Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church in America—the two bodies in the United States that are members of Lutheran World Federation, sponsor of the appeal, came to 98.6 per cent of the goal of $4,056,738.

Since the first LWA appeal in 1940, members of the ALC and the LCA and their predecessor bodies have contributed $95,192,976 toward world needs.

GROOM (Sp1)—The following teachers were re-elected for the coming new school year at the regular March meeting of the Groom school board of trustees: Mrs. Kay Burk, Mrs. Theora Downing, Mrs. Corrine Wheeler, Mrs. Irene Metcalf, Mrs.

Burniece Johnson, Mrs. Bess Grownover, Mrs. O.A. Dennington, Charles Burk, Mrs. Virginia Cleveland, Mrs. Betty Hudson and Mrs. Janetta Lamb. Elected at the regular February meeting of the board were Gordon Stevens, Roger Arnold, Kenneth Friemel, James Lanier, Johnny Brumety and O.A. Dennington. Resignations of Mrs. Janet Clark and Bill Blackstone were accepted.

Education Today

By FREDERICK H. TREESH
United Press International
"Races are many different colors, red, white, brown and yellow. I think races should stay together...as rainbow power. Colors put together."

This is articulate social comment from the pen of an 11-year-old fifth grader, Rosalind Franklin. She is a Negro from Cleveland.

Among the children of racial minorities who grow up and go to school in disadvantaged urban settings there is apparently a vast well of latent talent for self-expression—lean, literate, realistic commentary on the world as they see it.

Writer Budd Schulberg found it when he established his writers workshop in Watts.

Author-poet George Mendoza, now touring schools in America's large cities gathering material for a new book, is amazed and excited about the artistic quality of the poems, essays and art he is finding. From New York, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Baltimore and Los Angeles he has gathered a poignant collection of "expressions of their little lives in the world today."

The artists and writers range in age from 5 to 17.

"They have incredible innate awareness of their lives and their frustrations," Mendoza says. He believes great writing and poetry are being born among the seeds of urban unrest.

"This is not superficial minorities who grow up and go to school in disadvantaged urban settings there is apparently a vast well of latent talent for self-expression—lean, literate, realistic commentary on the world as they see it."

Consider the jarring protest poem written anonymously by student at New York's Julia Richman High School:

"Hey there mister
"With two cars.
"Why do I have "Only one shoe?"

Mendoza, who is assembling the material for a forthcoming anthology "The World from My Window" to be published by Hawthorne Books, says he sees hope, not hopelessness, in the expressions of the youngsters. There also is, he says, "a deep yearning to understand 'Why is this happening to me.'"

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—William Holden's movies have brought much pleasure to television watchers for years. But the star himself has long been a holdout against personal participation in the video medium.

On Wednesday night, the long holdout ended as Holden appeared on CBS-TV as the host and narrator of a one-hour documentary, "Adventures at the Jade Sea," about an expedition he led to Kenya's primitive Lake Rudolph region.

It was a colorful and amiable network debut for the actor, and when the script of producer-director-writer David Seltzer zeroed in on the human elements of conservation, and on the poor tribes in the area, the Holden broadcast had moments of distinction.

Unlike many actors, Holden actively participates in the causes he champions verbally. And, as a resident of Kenya for the last decade, he has been active in championing game preservation.

Seltzer is a very good writer, and an exceptionally bright young man, and there was one particularly lovely sequence in which balloons from the expedition brought joy to poor native children so earthbound in merely trying to exist. And there was a wholly memorable sequence in which Holden and his cohorts showed a movie about wild African beasts to a tribe whose children had never seen lions because of the deadly killing work of poachers.

It was astounding when the script noted that these children probably knew less about the wild animals of their own land than youngsters elsewhere in the world.

Since the area around Lake Rudolph has been described as a harsh environment, and because of the idea of an "expedition," I suppose the one thing I had looked for more of in Wednesday night's hour was sheer adventure. Here, however—despite all the advance publicity about the African trek, leading one to expect great adventure—we had basically an enlightening journey, yet, as recorded on the show, not a very thrilling one.

The best way I think one can describe what arrived on the network air is to say it was colorful, somewhat educational and at times quietly crusading in its concern for all life—human and animal.

Senators Waiting To Question Nominee

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Some Democratic senators have some questions to ask of the man nominated to head the Ozarks Regional Commission.

In fact, the questions have some dollar signs attached.

Oklahoma Republican chairman E. L. "Bud" Stewart, who has been nominated federal co-chairman of the commission, had his day before the Senate Public Works Committee.

The committee agreed "to hold the record open" while Democratic Sens. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, John L. McClellan of Arkansas, and Stuart Symington of Missouri work up some questions for Stewart.

McClellan is not on the committee, which is looking over Stewart's qualifications preparatory to deciding whether to recommend him to the full senate in the "advise and consent" chain. But McClellan is on the appropriations committee, which will write the checks for the commission's operation.

The senators, particularly Harris, want to be sure he will operate the commission in a bipartisan fashion. McClellan is concerned about what he believes was short shrift given Arkansas in supplemental grants the commission controls.

Sens. Thomas F. Eagleton and Symington are worried that plans for fiscal 1969 work by the commission show little for Missouri.

The senators will be submitting some questions in writing to Stewart and will ask for written replies.

Then, they will take the matter back to the committee.

The Ozarks Commission includes parts of Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas. There have been proposals to include broader areas, perhaps even the whole of the four states. But there is concern the appropriation the commission can get this year may not be enough to carry out an effective program if its sphere of influence is broadened.

Not indicative.

Stewart told the committee Tuesday he could be bipartisan when he operates the commission. He also said the apparent weight of money for Oklahoma compared with the other states is merely the initial allocation, and he would work to make the final allocation be in better balance.

Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., introduced Stewart to the committee. Bellmon said he is confident Stewart will not make the Ozarks Commission a Republican operation.

Many Feel TV, Movies Are Violent

NEW YORK (UPI)—More than two-thirds of the Americans interviewed in a nationwide poll agree, either fully or in part, with the idea that television and movie violence causes violence in real life.

Sindlinger & Company, a market research firm that conducts daily public opinion polls, reported that 67.5 per cent of the 1,554 Americans polled from March 20 to March 24 said they agreed either fully or partially with the idea.

By comparison, Sindlinger said only 49.8 per cent of the respondents agreed either fully or partially with the same idea in a similar poll conducted last June, following the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy Jr.

The findings, released Wednesday, are part of Sindlinger's daily report series, a service that provides the firm's clients with a daily account of consumer activity and public opinion on current topics in the news.

Those polled were asked: "Some people say that violence in movies and on television is the cause of today's violence in real life. Do you agree with this... partially agree... or, do you disagree?"

The survey showed 13.5 per cent of those polled said they agreed fully with the idea. 54 per cent agreed partially and 30.4 per cent disagreed. The remaining 2.1 per cent expressed no opinion.

Phi Epsilon Beta Chapter Conducts Ritual Ceremony

Three pledges of Phi Epsilon Beta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi were given the Ritual of the Badge recently in a candlelight ceremony in the home of Mrs. Jim Brashears. Welcomed into the sorority were Mrs. Grady Savage, Mrs. Thomas Skinner and Mrs. Mike Clark.

As members stood around a table draped with a white satin tablecloth, Mrs. John Lyle, president, conducted the ceremony assisted by Mmes. Calvin McConnell, Jim Simpson, Ronnie Atkinson, Charles Hoskins, and Gary Clark. A pink rose bouquet was in the center of the table and on either side were lighted blue candles in silver candelabras. New members were presented with their Beta Sigma Phi pins and pearl bracelets which were a gift from the chapter.

Following the ceremony, refreshments were served to those present which also included Mmes. Jerry Wright, Dennis Wyatt, Robert Danford, Gary Epperson, Jim Brashears and Mrs. D.B. Jameson, sponsor.

Lipstick marks, hair dye stains and coffee rings on bathroom walls, floors and counter tops surfaced with ceramic tile are easily removed with soapless detergent.

Scouting Scoops

By Mrs. G. J. Boyd

The third session of Outdoor Training was held March 27, at the Girl Scout Little House, Pampa. Menu planning, troop equipment, lashing, outdoor cooking and a movie on troop camping were included in the day's activities.

Training in the Care and Use of Camp Mel Davis will be given by Ceril Batton, Spearman, a member of the Camping Committee, from 10-12 noon, Saturday at Camp Mel Davis, which is located East of Lefors. Departure point will be from the Little House on Kingsmill at 9:15 a.m. Saturday. Leaders wishing to use camp must have this training which is offered annually.

Outdoor Training will be concluded with a Council-Wide Leaders' Outdoor Day at Camp Mel Davis from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. April 18. Training and practice in outdoor skills will include setting up a primitive campsite, cooking, trail signs, use of the compass, and tent pitching.

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM THIS EASTER

Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight, or your waistline is larger than 32 inches, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A feather-stitched panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem.

The girdle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of nylon, acetate and spandex. It is so comfortable, but has such slimming strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim" in both girdle and panty versions, is the peak achievement of the California designer-genius, Olga. They are available at

JEANE DIXON

FRIDAY, MARCH 28

YOUR BIRTHDAY Friday: What level you have achieved thus far and how well you have prepared yourself for eventualities are important in the year ahead. Readjustment to changing, improving conditions is made accordingly. Fresh assistance is available where needed. Use intuition in seeking it; try new contacts freely. Friday's natives frequently encounter special emotional inhibitions or other problems relating to speech and may, as a result, be taciturn.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Confidence and confidential information both come your way Friday. Put them together and make the most of the advantages at hand, as they will not recur in the same pattern. Retire early without looking back.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your friends and various relatives, in general, surprise you. There is good news, but do not be distracted from clearing off the routines before the week-end. There's enough to think about tomorrow. Romantic interest stirs.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Make your bid for promotion now. Just ask for whatever you feel you have earned. Clear the work decks so you have free sailing for a few interesting days.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Pending deals ought to be completed now. Get ready as if for a journey by tying together all loose-end situations. Romantic and sentimental interests take your attention at night.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): It is surprising how much fresh energy is available to you if you really need it. Take the day in comfortable stride however, and prepare for a lively weekend coming up.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Urgent discussions over the use of tools, vehicles, cash may develop. Just don't get excited. Compromise so as not to spoil your prospects for a happy weekend.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The going is easier Friday, likewise the public relations. Do things in stride as the urge comes to you and wind up week nicely. Celebrate this evening at home with a small group.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your operations ease up a bit according to how well you have striven to work them out. Forgive everybody for getting in the way and for their shortcomings.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Accounts, collections, budgets, all need attention Friday, and can be coaxed apple order. Good earnings are indicated as probable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Communications keep you busy, or something important to you takes up most of your attention. Get through with routines as quickly as you can, as demands are coming up that will take much of your time later.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Close deals, make and file applications, petitions, franchises and the like, as long as your attorney approves. Take a break and meditate before beginning the later evening amusements.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Put in the day as routinely as possible, then close up shop promptly. There will be another time for asking for raises or other benefits; not today. Take it easy this evening.

Mrs. Christenson Feted at Shower

SKELLYTOWN (Spl) — Mrs. Larry Christenson, Berger, the former Valerie Wimsel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Wimsel, Skellytown was honored at a post-nuptial shower recently in the home of Mrs. A.F. Cornelison, Skellytown.

Mrs. Craig Wimsel, Pampa, registered guests. Misses Kay Cornelison and Beverly Bentley assisted the honoree in opening and recording gifts.

Refreshments were served from a table which was covered with white net over a pink cloth and centered with a miniature bridal couple. A cake baked and decorated by Mrs. Cornelison carried out the honoree's chosen colors of pink and white. Assisting in serving were Miss Carla Sangster, Mrs. Jack Cornwell, Bill Campbell and A.F. Cornelison.

Hostesses were Mmes. Clifford Coleman, Jim Ruth, Walt Shari, Jack Cornwell, Bill Campbell, S.W. Paul, Ethel May Thurmond, Irvin Thompson, Everett Huffhines, Ralph Fox Jr., L. E. Jordan, H. M. McClelland, Ruby Forrester, Bill Wood and Wesley Russell.

Here's help for males deciding to try something other than the ivy league suit; don't buy the something other if it looks outlandish. "We are reaching a tricky point in men's wear," says the designer, Richard Miller. "The minute one man looks outlandish in a suit, it's no good. We are drawing a line of good taste."

Not once in the 35 years that I have known have I said one word to my parents about it.

Now they know that I know because we all celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary quietly, and I was nearly 50 at the time. All I said to them was, "Thank you for the wonderful home we were raised in and all the love you have given us."

This is one of the things I feel I have done right in my life.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman who had fallen in love with her pastor interested me because I, too, am in love with my pastor and always will be.

You advised that woman to change to a sister church and to keep her "love" to herself. A minister wrote in, disagreeing with your advice, and said he would advise the woman to confess her love for her minister, after which he would recommend that she see a psychiatrist who would help her to work her problems through.

You were both wrong. In my case, neither changing churches nor seeing psychiatrist could ever change my love.

Here is my recommendation: In public, be a good actress and pretend only a platonic, friendly interest in him. At home, keep busy, busy, busy. Scrub the floor twice, instead of once, if necessary; pursue interesting and time-consuming hobbies to keep the mind from dwelling on "him."

According to the "rules," I must not be in love with this remarkable man who is the most wonderful person I have ever known. But my heart does not know these "rules," and my love for him will endure as long as I live.

IN LOVE FOREVER
DEAR "IN LOVE": Since you've already convinced yourself that you will be in love with this unattainable man "forever," you surely shall be. A "love" which is neither expressed nor reciprocated brings only frustration and pain. If you choose to punish yourself by looking, listening, and longing, with no hope of fulfillment, you are welcome to the pleasure — and pain. I suggest you scrub less and face reality.

DEAR ABBY: Every Christmas my husband gives me a cash gift (usually $25) and tells me to go out and buy myself something I'd really enjoy. How wonderful!

Then a week later he asks if he can "borrow" it back, and I never see it again. What advice have you for me?

NO PRESENT
DEAR NO: The minute you get your hands on your "present," either spend it or bank it.

DEAR ABBY: You keep telling kids who write in that they should be happy to help with the housework. I think you are wrong.

My dad works all day to support his family. That's his job. My brother and I go to school all day and do two hours of homework at night. That's our job.

So why shouldn't my mother do the housework? That's her job. It's not like she was sick, worked outside the house, or had little kids to take care of. She always has plenty of time for golf and bridge. Why not for housework?

TIRED OUT AT 16
DEAR TIRED OUT: If your mother plays golf and bridge instead of doing her housework, shame on her. But if you're exaggerating, shame on you!

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for answering "Wondering Mother's" letter the way you did. I, too, was the child of parents who were married after mother became pregnant, and I agree with you. Don't lie. The children almost always find out anyway. I did. I hope children who do learn the circumstances of their parents' marriage do as I have done.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
 UPI Foreign News Analyst

Since 1953, American Polaris submarines have been slipping in and out of the Spanish base at Rota and American warplanes have been patrolling the Mediterranean from three Spanish airbases.

This week, the United States and Spain must decide how much it is worth to either of them to continue their military arrangement.

The beting is that agreement will be reached.

For Spain the agreement reached on Sept. 26, 1953, and renewed twice since then in five-year segments, has been a good one.

It removed Spain from isolation and put her into partnership with the richest nation in the world.

To develop the bases the United States spent more than $400 million.

In addition, Spain won $700 million in arms and $2 billion in economic aid.

With France out of the military arm of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and with Soviet presence in the Mediterranean on the rise, Spain last year decided to raise the price.

The result was months of haggling and a serious reconsideration by the United States on the worth of bases acquired during the depths of the cold war and before the development of today's long-range weaponry, including missiles.

As the treaty reached its expiration date on Sept. 26, 1968, Spain's price tag stood at $200 million a year in military aid, plus a mutual defense agreement.

The United States refused both, but a six-month period of grace permitted the two sides to continue their negotiations until March 26, 1969.

Spain argued that the increasing Soviet strength in the Mediterranean and the presence of the American bases exposed her more than previously to retaliatory or preventive attack. She needed the arms, she said, to increase her defensive strength.

The United States replied that it was willing to pay more but not nearly what the Spanish were asking. It also refused any mutual defense treaty, which would require congressional approval.

In the United States there were other than military doubts.

One concerned the political wisdom of a close relationship with a Spain ruled by Generalissimo Francisco Franco. The state of emergency imposed last January, strictly limiting Spanish freedoms, roused further doubts. The state of emergency since has been lifted, although with a warning that it may be imposed again.

The virus also seemed to have a stimulating effect on the human lymphatic system, whose cells are also involved in leukemia.

Dr. Guy de The, of the International Agency for Research on Cancer in Lyons, France, described the isolation of a virus associated with cancer of the upper part of the throat.

De The said tumors of this area, known as the nasopharynx, are found far more commonly among Chinese in Southeast Asia than among whites. He said tumor tissue was sent from Chinese colleagues in Hong Kong to Lyons, where it was grown and reproduced in cultures.

An individual effort was reported by Dr. Philippine Hartmann, a Munich gynecologist who practices medicine full time. She began her experiments at her own expense 15 years ago when she found many of her patients falling victims to cancer of the ovaries.

Hofheinz May Be End to Staub

Judge Roy Hofheinz is nobody's fool but he is in the process of trying to be one awfully hard.

Judge Hofheinz, who besides owning the Houston Astros, also owns the big dome in Houston feels like the Montreal Expos have dealt his club a dirty deal.

Mr. Hofheinz decided sometime ago that he'd like to have Jesus Alou and Donn Clendenon play baseball for him and he'd let the No. 1 Astro, Rusty Staub play for the Astros.

Alou agreed. Staub agreed. But Clendenon didn't. He decided he'd had it in baseball and announced his retirement.

This angered Mr. Hofheinz and he decided he'd rather have Rusty Staub in Houston playing with the Astros.

Mr. Staub said, no, thanks, he'd rather play with the Expos. After all how much enthusiasm could he have playing ball for a guy that just a few months ago didn't want him.

You Don't Say...
By

Baseball's new commissioner Bowie Kuhn decided he'd let the two clubs try to work out an agreement, which they couldn't.

Friday Kuhn ruled that Montreal owns the contract of Staub and Clendenon and Houston owns Alou's contract.

Mr. Hofheinz didn't take kindly to this ruling and filed a suit in Federal court asking Montreal for a declaratory judgment and at least $10,000 in damages.

The Astros say they have suffered $10,000 in damages due to the delay in returning Staub's contract and "such other and further amounts as plaintiff may hereafter by amendatory or supplemental pleading show itself entitled to."

The Astros also say they are ready and willing to return the contracts of Clendenon and Alou to Montreal.

Judge Hofheinz has declared, "A fight to the finish."

Which, may just be the finish of a darn good baseball player named Rusty Staub.

Rookies Have Baseball World Excited Again

By United Press International

Count any spring not lost which produces a new Stan Musial or Sandy Koufax—at least until the baseball season opens—and, so, count not the spring of 1968 lost.

Major league camps abound with so many sparkling rookies this spring that one wonders if such old fogeys as Denny McLain, Bob Gibson, Pete Rose and Carl Yastrzemski will get a chance to play when the season starts.

These rookies include:

—Outfielders Larry Hisle and Ron Stone, who turned in spectacular performances Wednesday to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to an 11-1 rout of the Houston Astros.

—Bobby Murcer, a 22-year old infielder who stretched his hitting streak to nine games as the New York Yankees defeated the world champion Detroit Tigers 7-2.

—Rudy May, a 24-year-old left-hander who pitched seven shutout innings in the California Angels' 9-3 triumph over the Oakland Athletics.

Vada Pinson and Tim McCarver hit run-producing fourth-inning doubles to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 2-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Rookie Mike Torrez, a 6-6, 210-pound sidewheeler, yielded just one run in six innings for the Cardinals. . . Ted Uhalender's third straight single drove in two runs in the ninth inning and gave the Minnesota Twins a 4-3 decision over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Catcher Paul Casanova's error on a squeeze bunt enabled the Baltimore Orioles to score the winning run in the eighth inning and beat the Washington Senators 3-2, despite Frank Howard's first homer of the spring. . . Duane Josephson's run-scoring double in the first inning was the big blow of the Chicago White Sox' 2-1 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates behind the seven-hit pitching of Joe Horlen, Bob Priddy and Bob Locker.

Wayne Garrett hit two homers and a single to lead the New York Mets to a 6-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Alex Johnson hit a three-run homer for the Reds. . . Ken Holtzman pitched seven shutout innings as the Chicago Cubs downed the Cleveland Indians 10-0 with the help of triples by Randy Hundley, Don Kessinger and Don Young off Sam McDowell. . . Bobby Bonds hit three singles and scored four runs in the San Francisco Giants' 7-5 victory over the Seattle Pilots.

Hofheinz Backs Off, Apologizes to Bowie

By MILTON RICHMAN

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Judge Roy Hofheinz is a man of his word. Yes, sir.

The last time we met, the tough, hard-minded Houston Astros' owner gave me his personal assurance the shaving cream would hit the fiddle if he wasn't satisfied with commissioner, Bowie Kuhn's decision and he kept his word.

The Judge wasn't at all happy with the commissioner's ruling regarding the Houston-Montreal

SPORTS PARADE

Celtics, SF Ramble Past Playoff Foes

By United Press International

The pride of the Boston Celtics still has its magic, and the Los Angeles Lakers still need more points than 11 from Wilt Chamberlain.

The Celtics, fourth-place finishers in the National Basketball Association Eastern Division, topped the Philadelphia 76ers 114-100 Wednesday night, while the Lakers were being stymied, 99-24, by the San Francisco Warriors as league playoffs began.

The Warriors led by as much as 19 points in both the second and third periods, only to have Jerry West bring the Lakers back each time. He hit for 14 points in the second quarter and 15 in the third.

Boston got prime efforts from Bill Russell and John Havlicek. The player-coach blocked 12 shots, pulled down 15 rebounds, and had eight assists. Havlicek rang in with high scoring honors on 35 points.

Playoff action continues tonight with New York visiting Baltimore and San Diego traveling to Atlanta.

national emergency. Montreal lost Larry Jackson and didn't start burning all the papers in its office. Granted, Staub might mean more to Houston than Jackson does to Montreal. Hofheinz still has no call to degrade the commissioner the way he did and holler injustice.

The Judge suffers from a poor memory. He should remember Montreal's Expos came into being as an expansion club only because he was dead set against the establishment of a major league franchise in Dallas-Fort Worth and had he not objected so much to that Montreal wouldn't be in the National League today.

Hofheinz also conveniently forgets he is part of a 24-man group of owners and presumably all 24 are dedicated to the betterment of baseball. Fear in mind that word presumably. It gets a big laugh in some quarters.

By now the Judge probably has an idea his fellow owners are not especially enchanted with his latest course of action. In case there's any doubt in his mind, maybe he'd be interested in what one of them has to say.

"Judge Hofheinz is a partner of mine," says Francis L. Dale, the young, aggressive president of the Cincinnati Reds. "When we go to his park we get a return for that and vice versa. Like any partnership, one partner can hurt or help the other. I'd like to remind the Judge that when we sat in Miami Beach and elected a commissioner unanimously, and that word is important.

McAdams Day Festivities Set in WD

WHITE DEER—Mayor Joel Sewell's proclamation declaring Saturday as "Carl McAdams Day" will signal the kick-off for activities honoring the communities of White Deer and Skellytown's outstanding football graduate of White Deer High School.

Carl Lee McAdams, twice All American at Oklahoma University, was due in White Deer today to visit with his parents, relatives and friends. He will be the guest speaker at a banquet honoring WDIS Seniors of 1969 in Pampa Saturday night.

Youth and Youngsters of the community are urged to meet at the White Deer Volunteer Fire Department Saturday at 11:30 a.m. where they will be treated to a ride around town on the fire truck with McAdams.

At noon a catered, western style meal will be served by Harvester Pit Barbeque from Pampa. Tickets will be available at the door for a nominal price as the meal is not a fund raising event.

Mayor W. J. Houghton, Skellytown, has been invited to form a special welcoming committee at the White Deer school cafeteria at noon with Mayor Sewell, Mayor Pro-tem Horace Williams, Boss Lion R. E. Bob Martin, and Lion Don Davis all of White Deer.

Visiting aldermen and Lions from Skellytown have been urged to attend with other Skellytown fans.

Local Lions and their families will join with all interested citizens in response to "Carl McAdams Day."

The Carl Lee McAdams are parents of two young sons—Carl Mack, 2 years and Joe Dan, two months.

They live on a ranch near Farris, Oklahoma, during the off season of the New York Jets professional football schedule.

Huffman Wore Out His Shoes, Decided to Stay

By MIKE WESTER

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—The name of Berl Huffman has become almost synonymous with Texas Tech University athletics.

"Many people say that if you stay around long enough to wear out a pair of shoes you will never leave Texas Tech," the portly Huffman recently recalled.

Huffman, whose association with the rapidly-growing school on the windswept South Plains dates back to 1934, hasn't always headquartered on the Tech campus over those three decades.

There was a three-year span in the Armed Forces from 1942-45, during which he stayed close to his first love—athletics—by coaching the Keesler Field (Miss.) football teams in 1943-44 and the Fort Worth Skymasters (Carswell AFB) in 1945.

SPORTS

Then, he left again to devote some time to his second love—talking. He served as manager of the Albuquerque, N. M. Chamber of Commerce, directed the New Mexico Economic Development Commission and the Alamogordo, N. M. Industrial Development Corp.

"I left Tech, all right—but just for a 'holiday,'" Huffman said. "It wasn't long before I was back."

Huffman earned four football letters, and some more in track and basketball, at Trinity University when that institution was located at Wacahachie, Tex. He then spent six years in the high school coaching ranks.

He came to Tech in 1934 as head track and basketball coach and freshman football coach when Tech was struggling for recognition as a member of the now defunct Border Conference.

When J. T. King took over as head football coach at Tech in 1961, one year after the school had been voted into the Southwest Conference, one of the first men he called was Huffman.

King said he was looking for "a mature coach, one who could direct the freshmen and be a father confessor to help them over the difficult first year."

King was not unaware of Huffman's ability as a public speaker, but it is doubtful that even King realized that his investment was going to spend such rich dividends.

Huffman no longer coaches the freshmen, but handles special assignments. Most of his spare time is spent on the banquet trail and everyone at Tech is aware of the part his speaking plays in the overall recruiting at Tech.

Huffman has a reservoir of jokes—most of them reportedly true—as deep as comedian Milton Berle and a homespun philosophy that seems to be a post graduate version of Dale Carnegie's "How to Win Friends and Influence People."

Huffman has blended these factors into creating so much good will for Tech that its athletic program has soared by leaps and bounds to the point it competes on equal footing with the long-established conference schools.

Huffman is assuming a new role as an administrative assistant to the athletic director with a job of "shaking the bushes" for Tech.

But, Huffman says he still is the "same old country boy who chased down the road early every morning to see if some car the night before had run over something the Huffman family could eat."

CHL Leaders Get Warning From Foes

By United Press International

The Central Hockey League season is over today and it ended with a warning to the two teams which won the division titles.

Kansas City leaptfrogged into second place in the northern division Wednesday night by defeating division-leading Tulsa 4-2 at Tulsa.

And Oklahoma City, the top team in the southern division, was slightly humiliated by the last place Fort Worth Wings by an identical 4-2 score.

Those two games set the stage for the post season playoffs which begin Friday on three fronts.

In the only other game scheduled Wednesday, Dallas bumped off Memphis 5-4.

The Kansas City victory was important to the Blues as it allowed them to open their best of five playoff series Friday at home against third-place Omaha.

Dallas, No. 2 in the southern division, will host the Houston Apollos in their first playoff game Friday night.

The winners of these two playoff series will meet in another best-of-five affair for the right to meet the winner of the Tulsa-Oklahoma City best-of-seven series for the CHL championship.

Defending CHL champion Tulsa will host Oklahoma City Friday night in the first game of their affair.

The championship series will be played on a best-four-out-of-seven basis.

JENSEN HOSPITALIZED

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Jackie Jensen, former outfielder of the Boston Red Sox, New York Yankees and Washington Senators and the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1958, was hospitalized late Wednesday with a severe heart attack.

Jensen, once known as the "Golden Boy" while playing fullback for the University of California, turned 42 on March 9.

He suffered a heart attack during practice of the University of Nevada baseball team. He took over as head coach at the school this year after spending one season as assistant coach.

God of the Airways Centralization of the means of communication and transport in the hands of the state. In 1848, Karl Marx, in the Communist Manifesto, set forth the ten necessary steps required to bring about a socialized society. The above quote, calling for the socialization of the means of communication and transportation, is the sixth step in the process as specified in the Manifesto. Marx envisioned, of course, the outright ownership of the means of communication and transportation by the state (communism); whereas the Fabians and other force-worshipping enemies of private enterprise and freedom of choice discovered that the same results could be achieved by leaving nominal (paper) ownership of an industry in private hands while exerting bureaucratic control via laws and regulations (i.e., by fascism or Nazism).

However, since ownership without control is not ownership at all, the difference between the two concepts is merely academic; both transfer the control of property from individual owners to the bureaucrats composing the political state. Regardless of how much they may bicker and fight among themselves, Communists, Fabians, Fascists, Nazis — all socialists — are ideological brothers under the skin. All believe that they have been ordained from On High to dictate to the rest of mankind. Although unable or unwilling to support themselves in the market place on the basis of voluntary exchange they, nevertheless, believe themselves qualified to rule those who can and do. And an insight into the degree that the Marxist doctrine has been applied in this kind of once nearly free people can be gained by studying the current hassle over airline routes, with its accompanying indications of influence peddling, bribery,

The Sky's the Limit The aviation industry has nowhere to go but up, according to "Aviation Forecasts, Fiscal Years 1969-1980," just published by the Federal Aviation Administration. Here are a few of the heights it will reach: In 1980, airlines will be carrying some 470 million passengers, more than three times the fiscal 1968 total of 152.6 million, reflecting an average annual growth rate of 10 per cent. This is a conservative estimate. In 1968, passenger traffic increased 20.7 per cent over the previous year. In the 1964-68 period, average annual growth was 16.5 per cent. More than 90 per cent of the 3,600 airline planes in use will be jets, compared to slightly more than 50 per cent in 1968. The general aviation (nonairline) fleet will number 214,000 and production of civil aircraft will reach nearly 34,000 a year, both figures almost double the 1968 totals. Use of jet fuel will zoom from 6.2 billion gallons in 1968 to 16.9 billion in 1980, and aviation gasoline consumption will go from 642 million to 835 million gallons. With more planes in the air, the number of take-offs and landings at FAA-controlled airports will rise to 171.5 million, more than triple the 53 million in 1968. The spacious skies are getting less spacious by the year.

War Evaders Always With Us Every war this country has fought has seen its share of deserters, sitters-outers, evaders and those who could not in good conscience participate. The Vietnam war is no different, although we sometimes get the impression that all these categories are more heavily represented than in any previous war. Since the beginning of the massive U.S. troop build-up in Vietnam three years ago, more than 100,000 servicemen have been officially listed as deserters (absent without leave for more than 30 days). Until last year, however, the desertion rate per 1,000 servicemen was comparable to that during the Korean War and is still well below the rate during World War II. More than 85 per cent of those carried on the rolls as deserters eventually turn themselves in voluntarily, says the Pentagon. Deserters have sought broad, and 40 per cent

The American Way By D.R. SEGAL A close blood relative of mine is going to journalism school. My roommate is not altogether pleased. She has had a lifetime of association with people involved in journalism and she does not have an unfailing high opinion of the trade or its practitioners. "At least the kid ought to get into television," she said the other day. No offense meant, but my exposure to television "personalities" has been unsettling. I suppose the plain fact is that television is show biz, not journalism, and to judge it by the standards of good journalism practice doesn't show good sense. Anyway, I was pleased to come across a short editorial in the Winston-Salem, N.C. Journal, thus: "In 1937 Gen. James G. Harbord, chairman of the board of Radio Corporation of America, predicted that the printed newspaper would shortly disappear. In only a few years, people would get their news from a facsimile machine installed in the home. "In 1947 Gen. Robert Sarnoff, president of RCA, predicted that the printed newspaper would shortly disappear. In only a few years, people would get their news from a facsimile machine installed in the home. "Now skip the next 20 years. In 1968 RCA announced plans to acquire the St. Regis Paper Co., a major producer of paper for the newspaper industry. Evidently RCA's actuaries had changed their estimates of the life expectancy of the family newspaper. But last week St. Regis, having thought a little more about the merger, said, "No thank you. We prefer to go it alone." Perhaps the Journal is reading too much into the story; but me — I take comfort in it. I have a feeling that at some point in history Ugg's wife came up and said, "Hey, stupid, when you go on quagmire carvin' them dudes on the wall of the cave? Don't you know nobody reads no more. I hear some cat has invented fire, and that means the end of all this prehistoric jazz, Daddy-O." I do believe printed journalism will survive if only because of man's innate cussedness. There is pleasure and satisfaction to be gained by turning back to the recorded Great Thoughts of yesterday and finding out that many of them have turned out to be clinkers. For example, if the generals from RCA hadn't gotten down in print their notions about the perishability of the newspaper industry, they wouldn't have to eat them now. Who can remember exactly what somebody said on a broadcast 10 years ago — or 10 minutes ago?

Inside Washington History Repeats In ABM Debate ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Most of the top scientists questioned the feasibility of the new weapon and deplored its great cost. A prestigious scientific advisory panel, raising moral objections as well, recommended against the proposed development. The President, however, after extensive consultation with his national security advisers, rejected the scientists' advice. From the White House he announced that all-out development of the controversial weapon would proceed. That President, of course, was Harry S. Truman. The weapon was the "super," the embryonic H-bomb, and all this was 20 years ago. Now, in the controversy over President Nixon's deployment of an anti-missile defense, it is hard to escape certain parallels. In September 1949, the United States discovered that Russia had tested an atomic bomb. A few scientists, a few government officials, and the Senate Atomic Energy Committee were urging that an all-out drive for the H-bomb — the thermonuclear "superbomb" which had been discussed as a theoretical possibility since the start of the nuclear era. The scientific community was generally opposed to the "super," however. Physicist J. Robert Oppenheimer had doubts that "the miserable thing will work." The only obvious path to a thermonuclear explosion was devilishly expensive. On October 29, 1949, the Atomic Energy Commission's general advisory committee, headed by Oppenheimer, met to consider the "super." Feasibility and cost were discussed, and it was also argued that the H-bomb's mass destruction would be immoral for a civilized nation. Finally, the general advisory committee recommended against the development program urged by physicist Edward Teller, AEC member Lewis L. Strauss, and the late Sen. Brien McMahon, D-Conn., chairman of the Senate-Atomic Energy Committee. The AEC sent the negative recommendation to the White House, but President Truman decided in January to go ahead with the plan. PARTICIPANTS TOO — Not only the events of 20 years ago but some of the participants are mirrored in the ABM controversy. For example, a young congressman named Henry M. Jackson was a member of a subcommittee sent to the Los Alamos laboratory by McMahon in 1949 to look into H-bomb research. Jackson, now a senator and a top weapons expert, supported the super and is a supporter of the ABM development. Lee A. DuBridge, then president of the California Institute of Technology, was a member of Oppenheimer's advisory group which recommended against the "super." Now President Nixon's White House science adviser, DuBridge issued a special statement supporting the President's missile defenses. Glenn Seaborg, now chairman of the AEC, was another member of the advisory committee. Absent in Europe from the 1949 session on the "super," Seaborg wrote Oppenheimer that he would need to hear some powerful arguments before he could take a stand against the H-bomb development. Dr. Hans Bethe, the Cornell physicist who is a leading opponent of the ABM deployment, planned for a short period in 1949 to buck scientific opinion and work on the "super" with Teller. He changed his mind, however, and decided NOT to leave his position at Cornell. RIGHT AND WRONG — In retrospect it can be argued that the scientists were right, and then wrong, about the "super." The device, as Teller first envisioned it, was not a "feasible" weapon and, in Oppenheimer's words, it could not have been delivered on target "except by ox-cart." After Truman ordered the crash program, however, there was a break-through. Teller had a talk with Los Alamos mathematician Stan Ulam, and one of Ulam's ideas started Teller on a new train of thought. The results of the Ulam-Teller conversation are still classified, but they made it possible to produce a thermonuclear explosion from deuterium rather than from Teller's awkwardly frozen tritium. A transportable weapon became feasible and by the same breakthrough, the tremendous H-bomb costs were no longer tremendous at all. As for President Truman's judgment, the Russians fired their own H-bomb in August 1953, only nine months after Teller's first experimental H-bomb had been tested. U.S. scientists quickly discovered that the Russians had by-passed Teller's original "freeze" technology and could produce a transportable bomb. One theory is that the Russians moved so quickly because they had discovered from atom-spy Klaus Fuchs all of the early H-bomb technology which Fuchs had learned here. In any case, Mr. Truman's decision was vindicated — the United States would not have wished to be any slower in H-bomb research. There was, in fact, a period of several months after the first Russian thermonuclear explosion when the United States was behind the Soviet Union in important aspects of nuclear development.

The Doctor Says By DR. W. G. BRANSTADT Drugs Used to Control Most Epileptic Seizures A mother writes that a few months ago her daughter, 16, passed out in school. A brain wave test showed that she has epilepsy. Since there is no epilepsy on either side of the family, this mother wonders what could have caused it. Although there are about a dozen different types of epilepsy, in most cases the cause is unknown. Careful studies have shown that the disease is not hereditary. This young girl is now taking diphenhydantoin regularly but she lives in constant fear that she will have another spell. Since in most epileptics the seizures can be controlled with anticonvulsant drugs, of which this is one, she should relax and live a normal life. Her mother wonders whether she can be allowed to drive a car or get married and have children. Illinois, Montana, Ohio, Utah and Wisconsin have set definite and rational licensing standards for drivers with epilepsy. The standards in other states are varied. Some epileptics who are capable of driving without risk to themselves or others are barred while others who should not drive manage to obtain licenses by making false statements. Since epilepsy is not inherited there is no reason why an epileptic whose seizures are well-controlled should not marry and have children. For more detailed information write to The Epilepsy Foundation of America, 1419 H. Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20005. Q—My daughter, 8, is an epileptic. Her first convulsion occurred when she was 3 months old. The doctor says her spells were caused by a birth injury. She has taken Dilantin, Celontin, Dexedrine, Librium, Meproin, Meprospan, Mebaral and Zaronin but none of them help much. What would you suggest? A—Birth injury is the most likely cause of epilepsy that has its onset in infancy. Your doctor has tried a variety of drugs that are usually effective. Celontin, Dilantin, Mebaral, Meproin and Zaronin are anticonvulsants; Dexedrine is an antidepressant; and Librium and Meprospan are tranquilizers. If you have not already done so, I would suggest a consultation with a specialist in disorders of the nervous system.

WASHINGTON: U.S. Can Give S. Vietnam Self-Reliance of S. Korea By RAY CROMLEY SEOUL, KOREA (NEA) — There's a lesson here for the United States in South Vietnam. All the data available indicates that if North Korea's Kim Il Sung attempts to repeat his 1950 invasion, South Korea's ground troops would be more than a match for the invaders. This has been demonstrated in the defeats handed repeated probing attacks by small North Korean units, by South Korea's excellent performance in Joint South Korea-U.S. field exercises and by its superb showing against the Communist forces in Vietnam. Only in the air, the sea and in certain technical areas would the South Korean forces require major American participation in an all-out invasion by the North Koreans. Some American ground units would be essential for a demonstration of solidarity. But, it must be repeated, South Korean infantrymen are now able to handle the North Korean ground forces, assuming that neither Communist China nor the Soviet Union enter a war with important numbers of troops. This is a far cry from 1950, when, as in South Vietnam, the United States found it necessary to commit major American ground, air and naval forces even before the entry of Mao Tse-tung's Red China. This experience indicates that if the United States had begun in 1956 or 1957 (or even as late as 1961) to train officers, men and units in South Vietnam in a major way, the South Vietnamese would have been able to carry a much heavier part of the war and by now be able to handle 80 to 90 per cent of the infantry load of the Vietnam fighting. This would have saved the United States and South Vietnam tens of thousands of battle casualties and billions of dollars. In fact, if thorough political and economic preparation of the type and scale given to Korea had been instituted in South Vietnam in 1956 (along with the military assistance mentioned above), there is considerable reason to believe Ho Chi Minh's full-scale invasion of the south would have aborted in its infancy. All this leads to another lesson for the future. Detailed studies under way for the past seven years have pinpointed those countries which might be the most likely targets for Vietnam-type underground insurgencies and infiltration-invasions. The United States has been giving some economic and political assistance to these lands. But Korea and Vietnam demonstrate that a greater concentration on these key, already-pinned cases — and adding major amounts of assistance aimed at strengthening political institutions responsive to the people (as desired by the host countries) — would go a long way in preventing future Korean and Vietnam-type wars. In the interest of economy, funds could be diverted from lower-priority to higher-priority target countries — the priority being calculated on the anticipated Communist timetable.

The Clearing House Articles for this column are preferred to be 300 words or less in length. However longer articles may be printed. All letters must be signed. Editor: In a recent news article, the question was asked—"Can Democracy Last?" More properly the question might have been phrased, "Why Didn't Democracy Last?" The Communists already have us. Some dying gasps are being emitted, but so far it amounts to little more than a feeble and scared protest. It is strange to note that Washington, State Capitols, and City Halls can see Communism far away, but we fail to detect it in our own home towns. Little law enters into our controlled actions now. Mostly we are now controlled by "directives." Our President has within his power to give away anything that is not nailed down. For the most part we are in terror when Government officials beckon to us, and we do anything that is named, as long as it bears a semblance of the law. Powerless thru our fear, we will pass most any kind of bond issue, it doesn't matter whether we understand it or not. It is unthinkable to suggest that we examine or criticize anything as long as it has its start in City Hall, State Capitol, or the national Capitol. Few business men dare to speak out because "I'm in business, and have to walk a middle of the road policy." In a prominent building in Pampa there is a pamphlet, which says—"All must win, or all will lose." The proposed working out of this so-called state of affairs seems to be that the Government must take away the "haves" and give it to the "have nots." Our national officials seem to be scared to death that they will make someone mad. We must bow and scrape to be sure that we don't offend anyone. It could start a third world war. None of us wants an atomic war, but if our national officials do not get something for a backbone besides a yellow gristle, it will not take an atomic war nor a super-bomb to subdue us. Already we think and act, and tremble, like Communist subjects. Yes, Mr. inventor of Communism, we seem to be ready to fall into your hands like an over-ripe plum. L.P. Fort 129 S. Faulkner

Russians Could Live With The Best Bread

MOSCOW (UPI)—If man could live by bread alone, the Russians would have no problems. Bakers here produce what some gourmets regard as the world's best bread.

It comes in startling variety. Moscow central bakeries feature around 130 kinds while it is claimed officially that more than 200 breads are baked across the nation.

Gastronomically speaking, bread has always been regarded by the government as the main consumer item. There is even a Ministry of Bread Production here.

Pound A Day

A Soviet citizen, according to statistics, eats on the average more than a pound of bread each day and consumption of bread in rural areas is believed to be even higher.

Indeed, the Russian language reflects bread's paramount importance in the national diet by applying the term bread (khleb) to wheat, barley, corn, flour and several other cereals.

"We Russians, we can't live without bread. Not because we have no other food but because we love bread," said a shapely 26-year-old Moscow secretary who admits she watches her figure though refusing to cut down on bread.

Moscow's bakeries are doing little to discourage people from buying their products.

A visitor to a central bakery shop on Kalinin Street or a similar shop on Gorky Street faces an almost endless variety of bread in different shapes, sizes, black and white, with and without trimming, whole grain, half grain and other grinds."

NEW YORK (UPI)—The current judgment of the stock market as a whole seems to be that "overall domestic and world conditions are not quite as dark and bleak as many confirmed bears would lead us to believe," Hayden, Stone Inc. says. At least for the time being, the firm adds, most of the news regarding domestic credit seems to have been absorbed, though the market is having obvious difficulty analyzing and estimating the economic situation in the months to come.

Bache & Co. says investors have become generally inured to monetary developments if their lack of response to Federal Reserve Board Chairman William Martin's hint at the possibility of a further tightening in monetary policy is any indication. The market is a "convincing" stage, the firm adds, and "internal durability must be maintained over the near term in order to draw cautious investors off the sidelines."

B.F. Hutton & Co. says railroad issues have shown a "rather uncharacteristic volatility of late due mostly to alternating investor enthusiasm and dismay over railroad holding companies." In assessing 1969 potential for the railroad industry, the firm says a number of negative factors must be considered, including restrictive monetary policy, higher interest rates, adverse weather conditions and the dock strike. On the plus side, the firm notes, are freight rate increases obtained in June and November of last year, the possibility of another rate increase, improved outlooks for several key commodities, continued high automobile production and a projected step-up in piggyback and container traffic.

Regardless of short-range action, the market is now in an "Indian summer" phase, according to Indicator Digest. The boom cycle is well along, the firm says, and "we are very likely witnessing the terminal stages of the great super-bull move which began back in 1949."

Mafia Seen Everywhere

(First of Two parts)
By THOMAS CORPORA

NEW YORK (UPI)—Eat a bagel for breakfast, go to a night club to hear your favorite singer, buy a hot dog at the corner stand, join a union, buy a package of cigarettes from a machine, build a house, invest in the stock market or start a bank account for your child's future and you may be helping to support organized crime.

The Mafia, Cosa Nostra. The Syndicate—they are all the same thing—is involved in all these legitimate businesses and more. Gone are the days when criminal gangs engaged only in extortion.

Rackets like narcotics, gambling, prostitution, hijacking, or the big shots of crime may sit as directors of a bank today. They may be union officials. They may be owners of construction companies or trucking firms. Their influence may reach into the city council of your city, or into the state legislature.

Some officials fear that if the influence of the Mafia continues to grow—and there is little reason to doubt that under present laws it won't—organized crime could someday reach into the highest levels of Washington.

Alarming? Yes. Alarmist? No. The history of the Mafia in the United States shows a virtually unbroken record of growth. "Business reverses" have been few and there has never been a depression. Old "executives" have been jailed, deported and killed and there has always been a supply of young blood to move into their places.

Kiss of Death

Frankly, little is really known about the Mafia and its operations. Occasionally, a leader or an underling is brought to trial, but rarely will he talk. What is known comes from a handful of police experts who have made the Mafia their life's work, and informers, the most famous and most revealing of whom was Joseph Valachi, the Cosa Nostra "soldier" who decided to sing after the late Vito Genovese gave him the two-cheek "kiss of death" in a cell at the Atlanta Federal Prison.

Valachi identified more than 300 members of the Mafia and said there were about 5,000 in the criminal organization throughout the United States. Other estimates are greater.

The Mafia originated in Sicily where it was known as the "Honorable Society." It came to the United States with the great immigrations of Italians in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. It has never been known here as the honorable society.

At first, Mafiosi preyed on their own people, using strong arm methods to extort money from laborers or to force small businessmen to pay for "protection." They went wherever Italian community went. In New Orleans, the Mafia controlled hiring on the docks. In Hillville, Pa., armed Mafiosi waited at the pay windows of mining companies to collect their fees from the workers.

It was small in those days but then came prohibition and with it, bootlegging, which gave the Mafia the big money it needed to move into rackets outside the Italian communities. It did not do so without bloodshed. Jewish and Irish gangs already controlled some rackets. Where it could, the Mafia made alliances with these ethnic gangs, like the Dutch Schultz gang, or with Longie Zwillman or Bugsy Siegel. In other cases, gang warfare was the result of Mafia expansion. Between 1920 and 1930, 800 persons were killed in these wars, according to Valachi.

By 1932, Charles Lucania (Lucky Luciano) had organized the Mafia — and syndicated crime—in New York City into five gangs or "families," which still control things here. Outside New York, territory was assigned to other top gangsters. The move into legitimate business did not take hold until after the war. True, the gangs had always operated legitimate fronts like night clubs and bars, warehouses, vending machine companies or trucking firms.

In 1946, Vito Genovese, who, with Luciano, was "boss of the bosses," had just been returned to the United States from Italy, where he had fled in the 1930s to escape a murder charge. The charge was dropped when the star witness died of poisoning while in police custody.

Legitimate Business

Luciano was in prison then and soon to be deported and Don Vitone, as he was called by underlings, gave the order for Cosa Nostra (our thing) to move into legitimate business. That was 23 years ago. Without giving up any of its illegal enterprises (with the possible exception of narcotics, although there is disagreement on this point. Some authorities say the Mafia decided narcotics were too hot to handle and others say it could not resist the high profits despite the heat), the Mafia moved into dozens of different areas in the world of legitimate business.

Ft. Worth Bandit Held in LA Jail

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Fort Worth's "Blue Blazer Bandit," said by police to be one of the busiest bank robbers around, is being held today in a Los Angeles jail in $20,000 bail.

A preliminary hearing has been set for April 22.

Police said they believe Robert Lee White, 45, alternately known by Fort Worth authorities as the "Blue Blazer Bandit" or the "Wiltshire Boulevard Robber," has robbed nine banks in the last two years.

They claim he pulled four stickups in the last two months alone.

- * Portable
- * 115 volt operation
- * no expensive installation

Cook a 5 lb. Roast in 37 Minutes...Hamburger (on the Bun) in 1! No Stifling Heat, No Pots or Pans to Clean... Portable! And Completely Automatic!

SAVES TIME by cooking foods inside and out at the same time — FOODS TASTE BETTER because there's less drying and less loss of natural juices than you get with conventional dry heat methods of cooking. COOKS COOL with micro (radio-like) waves that create heat in the food — doesn't waste heat on space in or out of the range or on utensils. EASY TO CLEAN because splatters and spills can't bake on — oven surface never gets "baking" hot. EASY TO USE set the dial, touch the start switch and cooking begins immediately.

An Amana EXCLUSIVE Radarange MICROWAVE OVEN WARRANTY

Amana warrants for 2 years from date of original purchase for home use only in U.S. free replacement or repair, including related labor, of parts found defective as to workmanship or material under normal use, and returned through Amana's dealer-distributor organization. Owner is responsible for local cartage, and accessories. Any product subjected to accident, misuse, operation while oven is empty, operation with metal utensils in the oven, negligence, abuse, detachment of serial plate or alteration shall void the warranty. If the Service Seal is broken by other than an authorized Amana service, the warranty is void.

In Canada, the warranty applies as shown except that it does not cover taxes, duties, assessments levied at time of part repair.
