Four-Hour Fight Kills 212 Viet Cong

Pompidou To Reign President of France

PARIS (UPI)—France headed today into a new seven-year era of Gaullism under Georges Pompidou, a 57-year-old former high school teacher, banker and premier who learned his politics from the man he succeeds as president, Charles de Gaulle.

Pompidou, who served De Gaulle for six years as premier only to be fired last fall, won election Sunday as the second president of the Gaullist Fifth Republic in a near-landslide victory over interim President Alain Poher.

Pompidou is expected to make some changes in his mentor's policies, most likely in the form of better relations with the United States, an easing of French opposition to British entry into the Common Market, and possibly a more neutral Middle East policy, heretofore pro-Arab and anti-Israel.

In a victory statement broadcast on radio and television, the portly former premier said he regarded his win as "consolidation and consecration" of De Gaulle's work and at the same time appealed for national unity.

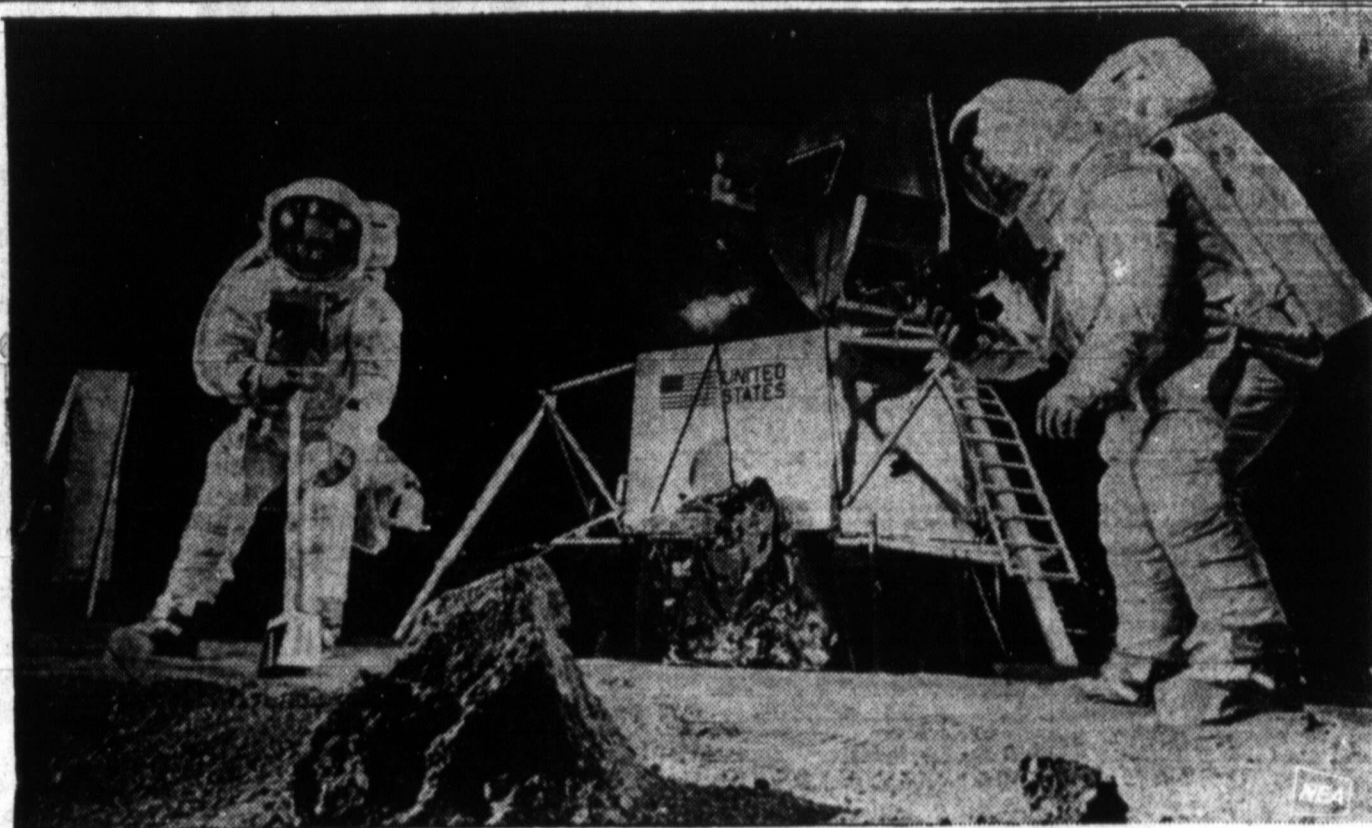

Final Voting Figures
The final voting figures, complete except for results from five overseas departments—which could not change the outcome—were:

Pompidou 10,801,963 — 57.78 per cent; Poher 7,895,821—42.22 per cent.

In the percentages, this was better than De Gaulle himself did in the 1965 runoff against Francois Mitterrand, candidate of the combined left. De Gaulle was then the victor by a 55-45 per cent margin.

The turnout this time was low because the Communists ordered their followers to boycott the runoff. A little over 30 per cent of the 29 million voters

Thai Soldiers Battle In Two-To-One Odds

SAIGON (UPI)—Outnumbered two-to-one in their biggest battle of the war, Thai soldiers today threw back 1,000 Viet Cong who tried to overrun their camp east of Saigon.

Allied headquarters said 212 guerrillas were killed in the four-hour fight.

U.S. helicopter gunships replied quickly to calls for help from the Thai battalion commander whose men were fighting the attackers in hand-to-hand combat at the barbed wire perimeter 24 miles from Saigon.

The copters raked the charging Communist regiment with rocket and machine gun fire while Thai artillerymen inside the camp leveled their guns and fired into the Viet Cong ranks. Thai losses were put at six killed and six wounded.

It was the biggest battle of the war for any of the 10,000 troops Thailand has sent to aid its South Vietnamese allies, military spokesmen said.

For the past four days, the Command has concentrated its ground forces against selected Allied bases, trying to overrun two U.S. paratrooper camps in the A Shau Valley and now hitting closer to Saigon.

In a similar but smaller attack today, North Vietnamese soldiers firing anti-tank rockets and hurling satchel charges killed four Americans and wounded seven others on Nui Ba Den (Black Widow) Mountain 55 miles northwest of Saigon.

Military spokesmen said the Communists left two bodies behind following their attack on a signal corps relay station atop the mountain, a conical-shaped peak that juts from the flat paddy lands that surround it for miles.

Officials said the Communists shelled 32 towns and bases overnight. Five rockets aimed for Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Air Base fell short.

Headquarters spokesmen said eight of the salvos against

Rioting Colleges May Lose Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A bill to cut off federal aid to colleges which do not adopt plans for dealing with campus rioting was expected to be approved this week by a delicately woven majority on the House education committee.

The presidents of eight universities—California at Berkeley, Texas, Alabama, North Carolina, Michigan, Chicago, Yale and Brandeis—were invited to testify today on the measure by Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore.

College educators in general have bombarded Congress with letters urging they be allowed to work out the problem at the campus level without new federal legislation.

But a coalition of 14 Republicans and four Democrats on the committee—a sufficient majority to move the measure to the floor for action—claims that the bill really protects colleges from repressive legislation called for by other members of Congress.

No one in Congress has said he favors campus violence, but beyond that starting point Democrats have fought Democrats and Republicans are in conflict with their own administration on how to combat the problem.

There is also disagreement in President Nixon's official family on the issue.

Education Commissioner James E. Allen, Jr., said there should be no new legislation, but his boss, Robert H. Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said he is working on a bill.

A committee vote on the Green measure could come Tuesday; but continued delay threatened to erode conservative Republican support on the panel for the bill.

Brazil's Government Appeals To Nation, To 'Accept Rocky'

BRASILIA (UPI)—Brazil's military-backed government appealed to the nation today to receive New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller "with traditional hospitality" and jailed 100 suspected political agitators to try to prevent anti-American demonstrations.

Rockefeller was arriving in this modern inland capital in late afternoon for a three-day visit to Latin America's largest country. It is the third stage of his tour of Latin America for President Nixon to collect facts the administration will use in formulating a new U.S. policy toward its neighbors to the south.

Rockefeller will go to Rio de Janeiro Tuesday and to the nation's largest city, Sao Paulo, on Wednesday, then to Paraguay and Uruguay.

(Rockefeller, 23 advisers, 10 staff members, 12 reporters and 10 other persons, some of whom were Secret Service body guards, left New York aboard a chartered Pan American Airlines Boeing 707 jet. The party was expected to arrive in Brasilia about 5 p.m. EDT.)

(At the airport, the New York governor said not all the problems of Latin America were in Latin America. He said some originated in Washington and these had to be removed. ("For 35 years we've had friendly ties with Brazil, even if we don't see eye to eye with some of the ideas of the Brazilian people," Rockefeller said. "We may not see eye to eye with the policies of the government, but we won't let that hurt our trip.")

Besides rounding up suspected political agitators, the government of President Arthur da Costa de Silva forbade the press and radio and television stations from mentioning the anti-American demonstrations Rockefeller encountered in the first two segments of his trip.

"Gov. Nelson Rockefeller is coming to listen to what Brazil thinks about relations between the United States and Latin America," said an appeal broadcast over radio. "The revolutionary government (of President Costa de Silva) has a definite opinion about this. It knows what can harm these relations and it knows how to speak up with independence."

"Brazil is large enough and conscious enough of its sovereignty to speak as equal to this foreign envoy without abandoning the traditional hospitality of our people."

Although Brazil had been the third largest recipient of U.S. aid after South Vietnam and India, most American aid was cut off after Costa de Silva shut down Congress and assumed near dictatorial powers in December.

Brazil, like most other Latin American nations, wants the United States to liberalize its loans, most of which now must be spent in the United States.

Wheat Farmers Still Worry About Rain

Wheat farmers still were on the anxious seat today as rainfall continued to delay harvest operations.

County Agent Foster Whaley said this forenoon 11 combines were stacked up bumper to bumper at the County Agriculture Bldg., awaiting enough drying out to move into Gray County fields.

"Right now," Whaley said, "the harvest is at a dead standstill."

As of today, Whaley stated, there has been very little damage to the wheat. He added if the condition lasts for several more days it could become a real problem.

Continued rain could lower the grade of wheat. Rains of the past few days have lowered the grade a little, but it still is near the top, according to Whaley.

Today's weather forecasts indicated more scattered showers could be expected through Tuesday.

Union Strike Stalls Merchant Vessels

NEW YORK (UPI)—The dispute is a demand by the 11,000-member pilots organization that any contract assures that ship captains will make more than engineers, who won a pay raise last year enabling some to make more than captains.

"We will have to have some reduction in the (pay) differences in the old contract before we will even talk about a new contract," the spokesman for the Masters, Mates and Pilots said.

Other unions involved in the talks are the American Radio Association, the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association and the National Maritime Union.

The Maritime Service Committee is negotiating for eight shipping lines with more than 200 vessels. The strike would affect about 605 of the 900-ship merchant marine fleet, hard hit earlier this year by the longest maritime strike in history which was called by the International Longshoremen's Association representing dockworkers.

The poison, which was not identified, is injected into the Vietnamese-brand cigarettes.

Poisoned Smokes New VC Weapon

SAIGON (UPI)—The Viet Cong are using a new secret weapon—poisoned cigarettes.

According to captured communist documents, Viet Cong agents gave a pack of the cigarettes to government policemen in the Mekong Delta. One policeman died and 10 required hospitalization, the documents said.

Hassle Continues, Who Was At Fault In Ship Collision?

SUBIC BAY, Philippines (UPI)—The officer guiding the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans may have had the wrong base course for the Australian carrier Melbourne shortly before the two ships collided June 3, testimony revealed today.

The mistaken course appeared to be one of the key factors which led to the collision and the loss of 74 American sailors during Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) exercises in the South China Sea.

Testifying before a six-man U.S.-Australian board of inquiry, Lt. Richard E. Newby, 29, the officer on the bridge of one of the accompanying destroyers, the USS James E. Kyes, said the Melbourne's base course just prior to collision was 220 degrees.

On Friday, Lt. (j.g.) James A. Hopson, 28, one of the two officers on the bridge of the Evans, told the board that to the best of his knowledge, the base course was 185 degrees.

Hopson and Lt. (j.g.) Ronald C. Ramsey, 24, of Long Beach, Calif., senior officer on the bridge of the Evans at the time of the collision, have been told by the board that they are suspected of negligence in their handling of the ship.

Ramsey had been scheduled to testify today, but the board granted him an additional day to prepare his testimony.

The Melbourne's skipper testified last week that although the true base course was 220 degrees, because of an antisubmarine zigzag plan, the ship actually was on a heading of 260 degrees.

Hopson, of Kansas City, Kan., indicated he plotted his ordered move from a forward position to one astern of the carrier on the basis of the 185-degree course, plus a 20-degree correction for the zigzag plan.

This meant that he decided on his maneuver toward the carrier thinking it was on a 205-degree course—a 35-degree error in the base course and a 55-degree error in actual course.

Newby, of Huntington Park, Calif., testified he heard the Melbourne give its course as 260 or 265 degrees and the Evans acknowledge receiving it shortly before the collision.

Hopson testified he heard no such signal.

Another officer of the deck, Lt. James R. Haug, on the U.S. destroyer Everett F. Larson, also said he believed the Melbourne's course to be 260 degrees.

The heading of a ship is calculated on a 360-degree basis, with due east being 90 degrees, south 180, west 270 and north 0 or 360.

Also appearing before the panel today was a destroyer squadron commander who testified that the Evans was one of the outstanding American ships in the Pacific.

Capt. Joseph J. Doak Jr., 46, of Los Alamitos, Calif., was the commander of destroyer squadron 23 to which the Evans had been assigned for 11 months. He said he had anticipated nominating the Evans for his squadron's annual battle efficiency award.

Doak said there was "no doubt in my mind" that the Evans was in "a high state of readiness."

The U.S. naval officer said he was screen commander in charge of the five destroyers operating with the Melbourne at the time of the collision.

Day of Mourning Proclaimed In Spain, 50 Dead

SEGOVIA, Spain (UPI)—City officials proclaimed a state of mourning today for 50 persons crushed in the collapse of a restaurant roof in a model village Sunday. Police arrested the owner of the project and sought the designers.

Doctors said they feared many of the 120 injured would not survive.

Nearly 300 persons were eating a late lunch at a fiesta to celebrate the opening of a new convention hall restaurant in the model village of Los Angeles de San Rafael 50 miles northwest of Madrid when the tragedy occurred.

It was almost time for selection of three beauty queens of the fiesta.

"Suddenly there was a deafening roar and I saw a big cloud of dust erupting from the building," said Civil Guard Corporal Jose Flores.

"Dozens of people were screaming, trapped under the debris. It was terrible." Police said the dead included

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Norman Mailer, the author who is running for mayor of New York, has promised that if he is elected he will change the city into a state.

Well, that's one way to get to work on right away.

Naming a state is a lot different from naming a book. I can assure him that the rest of us aren't going to accept just any old name that happens to pop into his head.

Unfortunately, there is very little precedent for naming a new state from scratch. Most of the states already had a name when they came into the Union, and the old name was retained.

This explains how we happened to get stuck with a lot of ridiculous names like Massachusetts and Connecticut. Mailer, who has an extraordinarily creative brain, can surely come up with something better than Kansas or Utah.

The easy way out would be to make the name directional, as happened to the Carolinas, the Dakotas and part of Virginia. Mailer could simply call the new state South New York and be done with it.

Or, adopting a custom in vogue during the colonial era, he could call it New New York.

Police arrested Jesus Gil, owner of the residential project, and said they would detain "the technicians" who designed the partially completed complex. The charges against Gil were not announced.
A Requiem Mass was scheduled in the Cathedral of Segovia, and city officials proclaimed the state of mourning would continue until the burial of those killed.
Generalissimo Francisco Franco ordered he be kept informed of the progress of the investigation, according to official sources.
The building where the 300 diners were sitting had just been completed. The fiesta was to celebrate its opening.
The hundreds of tons of masonry and steel plunged through the floor, which collapsed, hurling the dead and injured into the building's basement.
The army brought in huge cranes to remove the debris in the search for bodies. Workmen used blowtorches to free the dead and injured from twisted steel.

"We want to know how many people are being harmed by the rules, and they couldn't tell us," Musgrove said. He estimated about 1,400 students are being "disfranchised" by the transfer rule.
Swanson's proposal, which never reached a vote in the House, would have allowed students moving to a new school to ask for approval in order to qualify them to compete in sports at the new school.
A decision would have to be made within 40 days, under terms of the proposal.
Musgrove also lost an attempt to pass legislation regulating the UIL during the special legislative session in the summer of 1963.
He contends the organization was never officially created by statute, and that he did not have legal authority to draw up some of the rules now in effect.

Mrs. Betty Bowen, 106 E. 27th Street, died this morning at Highland General Hospital. She was born Oct. 29, 1924 at Dolores, Colo. and later moved to Pampa where she was graduated from high school in 1942.
She attended Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, the University of Denver and New Mexico University, Albuquerque.
Survivors include the husband, Bill; two sons, William Wade Hooper and Jim Ewen, both of Pampa; her mother Mrs. Dora Thomasson, Pampa; and a sister Mrs. Wadene Vineyard, Amarillo.
Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

THOMAS A. BALDRIDGE
Thomas Alexander Baldrige, 49, of White Deer, died Friday of a heart attack at Jonesboro, Ark. He was visiting relatives when the attack occurred.
Mr. Baldrige, an employee of the Cabot Corp. Pampa, had resided seven years at White Deer.
The body was to arrive late tonight, according to Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Home spokesmen.
Survivors include the widow, Edrie; three sons, Billy, Randy and Johnny, and a daughter Debbie, all of White Deer; his mother, Mrs. Georgeann Baldrige; a sister Mrs. Mary Tyland, both of Monette, Ark.; and one brother Everett, Paragould, Ark.
Carmichael-Whitley will announce arrangements.

Ink Spot Damage
Mrs. Mark Buzzard, 2142 N. Summer, reported to Pampa police that someone had thrown ink on the two garage doors of her house and on her late model car Saturday night.
According to the police report, a common type of ink had been thrown on the two garage doors and on a yellow Mustang.
The ink was washed off but left stains on both the car and garage doors.
Damage was estimated at $110.

City Attorney Absent Until June 26th
In the absence of vacationing Bob Gordon, corporation court judge, persons cited for infractions will report to the court as usual and fines for traffic and similar violations may be paid at the desk, according to the clerical staff.
Cases that have to be heard by the judge will be processed upon his return June 26.

Shellac Thinner Kills Four
ROME, Ga. (UPI)—George Lindsey couldn't shake the hangover from the drinks he had shared with four other persons at a rooming-house Friday.
He went to a hospital late Saturday. It may have saved his life.
Lindsey's companions died within a 24-hour period after the drinks. Police said Sunday they had been drinking shellac thinner purchased at a paint store.
Acting Desk Sgt. O.W. Pierce said officers went to the rooming house Friday afternoon after receiving a telephone tip. They found Francis Otting, 40, dead, and Johnny Smith, 39, Clinton Ellis, 54, and Robert Sampler, 54, unconscious. One of the men died Friday night and the other two Sunday.
Lindsey had left the party, but police began a search for him when it was learned he also had consumed the poison thinner.

Two Thefts Are Reported To Pampa Police
Theft of an auto stereo tape player and two tapes was reported by Gregg Sims, 1100 Mary Ellen, Sunday morning.
According to the police report, the tape player and tapes, valued at $60, were taken from Sims' car Saturday night.
Another Pampa man had better luck Sunday morning when a sleeping bag and mattress which were missing from his camper Saturday night were returned early Sunday morning.
The police report stated that Carl L. Cordell, 1719 Dogwood, had reported the sleeping bag and sleeping mattress had been found missing by his two children Saturday evening when they went out to their camper.
At 1:56 a.m. Sunday Cordell called the police department to report that the items had been returned by someone who had thrown them over the fence into his backyard.

House Floor Action Nears On Cigarette Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Opponents of a bill that would give the cigarette industry another six years of immunity from stronger government regulation vow a fight this week to head off its passage by the House.
On the eve of floor action, scheduled Tuesday, there was still little indication of the mood of the House.
The leadership of neither party has taken a stand on the measure, and President Nixon has never delivered a promised statement of his position.
The basic bill would extend for six more years a 1965 congressional prohibition against any federal, state or local requirement that cigarette advertising carry a health warning—other than the label warning for cigarette packs.
Another section would require a somewhat stronger health warning in place of the one required on the labels of cigarette packs.
The bill's package warning falls short, however, of a warning the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) has proposed for all cigarette labeling and advertising if Congress fails to extend the 1965 prohibition, due to expire July 1. That warning would say cigarette smoking could cause death.
The issues raised by the legislation are complex, cutting across political lines and raising questions about the proper authority of regulatory agencies like the FTC and the Federal Communications Commission (FCC). The FCC has threatened a ban on broadcast cigarette commercials.
These are in addition to the basic issue of whether the U.S. surgeon general and the Public Health Service have proved cigarette smoking is a cause of lung cancer and contributor to heart disease and other ailments.

Censorship: Why Not? 'Great', Hope Says
DALEAS (UPI)—Bob Hope, never known as a straight man in the business of making people laugh, played it straight in an interview broadcast Sunday night and, among other issues, said he thought government censorship of television programs would be "great."
Hope, who combines talents of comedian and television and film actor, also said he thought student dissent was provoked by influences outside the country and that the State Department and military "have fumbled the ball" in Vietnam.
Murphy Martin, special projects director of WFAA-TV, Dallas, interviewed Hope recently when he visited Dallas. The interview was recorded and broadcast Sunday night.
The part of the interview about TV censorship went like this:
Martin—(Having asked Hope about the possibility of censorship)—"What if they approach the point of censorship, though?"
Hope—"Well what's wrong with that. I think it's great."
Martin—"You think if they censor television, it would be good if they have some sort of control?"
Hope—"Oh, I think they have to have a certain amount of censorship. When you refer to I think you are referring to content... like the Smothers brothers... Yeah, when you have to... I don't think you can just let those guys... The only thing that the Smothers Brothers did was that they got on a kick that was sort of anti-American. And people resent this because you are playing to a broad-based audience when you are on TV, and I think that is what got those kids in trouble because they are very good."
On student dissent:
Hope—"Dissent is great if it doesn't allow it to destroy the system which allows it to function. There is no way... when you see burning buildings... there is nothing that can justify that... the actions of some students... I just feel that they are prompted by outside forces. Let's face it. Kids are kids and I was a kid that way and I wanted a lot of excitement and the chase. That's the name of the game when you are a kid. But when you get outside help... then it becomes very, very serious when this stuff is happening, and it certainly doesn't help our image across the world."
Martin—"When you mention outside help, are you referring to 'out of country' help?"
Hope—"Right."
On the Vietnam War:
"It is very tough to say... and I just feel that we have fumbled a lot... we have fumbled the ball with our State Department and our military... that we couldn't... I mean, I have talked this over with a lot of people and I think we have fumbled the ball a lot... I think we should have ended this war about two or three years ago."

Pompidou
The Communist party asserted that only 37 per cent of the electorate had voted for him, making him a "cut price president."
From his vacation retreat in Ireland, De Gaulle cabled Pompidou congratulations, saying: "For all national and personal reasons, I address you my cordial congratulations—Charles de Gaulle."
Announcing the provisional results at midnight, Interior Minister Raymond Marcellin said Pompidou will take over as president Friday after the constitutional council has proclaimed the final official results—probably Thursday night.
Alain Poper, a virtual unknown outsider of France before he became interim president following De Gaulle's resignation, conceded defeat less than an hour after the polls closed. He cabled his congratulations to Pompidou, saying "my struggle had not been useless" and pointing out the new president will be obligated to take his views into account in forming government policy.
Poper, 60, had promised a sharp break with 11 years of Gaullist rule and changes in every field—domestic and foreign. Sunday's victory by Pompidou showed that although Frenchmen had tired of De Gaulle, they still favored his policies.
Western diplomats consider an early move by Pompidou for a meeting with President Nixon a distinct possibility, but they warn against any sudden or dramatic policy changes toward the United States.

Offset Press Speeds Fugate Printing and Lithographing

In keeping with their reputation as "Pampa's progressive printers," Fugate's recently installed a large Royal Zenith offset press that will give Pampa business people all the advantages of the large-high speed lithographing equipment usually found only in the larger cities.

This outstanding piece of equipment will produce beautifully-printed sheets at speeds up to 8,500 sheets per hour, thus reducing the time required and greatly increasing the quality.

Fugate Printing has become known as the "modern printers" by supplying hundreds of carefully designed forms and stationery for Pampa and Top O' Texas business firms and organizations.

Fugate's while specializing in stationery, also produces many other printed items: Brochures, catalogs, booklets, cards, tags, checks, programs and tickets... almost anything printed on paper or cardboard. Each order is given careful personalized attention to the finest detail.

Bob Fugate, owner, has been known in Pampa for top quality printing and lithographing since 1951, and on his reputation, has expanded to the present large, modern printing plant at 210 N. Ward St.

Another printing service is the availability of the high quality steel die engraving. Those beautifully engraved wedding invitations, informal notes, and business cards are available in many styles and prices. The more moderately priced 'simulated engraving' is also available for those items.

Fugate's stocks a complete line of office supplies which includes all the popular brand pads, post and ring binders, names, columnar sheets and filing folders; also guides, expanding wallets, typewriter and pencil carbons, typewriter and adding machine ribbons, mimeograph stencils and ink, duplicator master units and fluid, all kinds of tapes, paper fasteners, stapler and staples, pencils, ball point pens and refills, and hundreds of other items necessary for the efficient operation of any office.

You will also find in stock good supply of cut and warped papers for mimeographing, duplicating and general typing. Many grades and colors are included, as well as legal ruled paper and second sheets.

Fugate keeps on hand one of the largest assortments of envelope styles and sizes in the area.

In addition to their printing and lithographing service and office supplies, Fugate offers the best copying service in the area. The "Xerox" method is used to make copies of almost any typed, drawn or printed material. Fugate has 24-hour service on Xerox work — and even "same-day service" at special prices.

Ward Street in Pampa.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS
The Governor's Committee of 500 met in Austin on Monday of the past week. This Committee was appointed by Governor Preston Smith to promote the Texas Water Plan.

The immediate portion of the Texas-Water-Plan is proposed Constitutional Amendment No. 2. Amendment No. 2 will be voted on by Texans Aug. 5. The amendment would authorize the Texas Water Development Board to issue three and one-half billion dollars in bonds to finance Texas's share of the cost of the Texas Water Plan.

The Texas Water Plan was born during the administration of Gov. Allen Shivers and picked up impetus under Governor Price Daniel. The Water Plan came into full bloom under Governor John Connally and has reached maturity under Governor Preston Smith.

Just seeing the current Governor and the ex-governors on the same platform working in unison, at the Monday meeting in Austin, was all the inspiration needed to convince the Committee that the Texas Plan was the thing needed most by all Texans. The Texas Water Plan has also received a big boost from Lt. Governor Ben Barnes, House Speaker Gus Mutscher, Senator Tom Creighton and State representative Bill Clayton.

Representative Clayton will be in Pampa June 30 to speak before the Pampa Chamber of Commerce on the Texas Water Plan and the proposed amendment. This meeting is a must for those interested in water for Texas.

The current issue of the Panhandle Water News has arrived from the printer and now being mailed out to those on the mailing list of the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District. The current issue carries the 1968 declines were determined from throughout the district. These declines were determined from observation wells that are read each year. Anyone not on the mailing list may receive a decline map by writing the District office in White Deer, Tex.

A recent report from California indicates that some of the more sophisticated advances in physics may at last be finding their way into the water pollution control field. Specifically, the break-through being hailed by some as the greatest advance in water treatment in the past 30 years, hinges upon the use of pure radiant energy from a gamma ray source to treat sewage.

Armco Steel Corporation. The next step calls for the immediate production of the unit, called "Ionizer Oxidizer," in the 5,000-gallon per day size and in the 10,000 to 25,000 gallon per day size. The smaller unit will handle a complex of at least 5 single family houses, while the larger variety is suitable for medium-sized apartment buildings and commercial establishments. The company claims that the unit's ability to return essentially pure water to the ground makes it ideal for use in areas where commercial construction has been curtailed because of bans on septic tanks or where cost of hooking up to the nearest sewage network are prohibitive.

The system, which can be used for purification of fresh water as well, is said to kill essentially all disease-producing organisms, reduce water-borne poisons to a harmless state, and release significant quantities of oxygen in the water.

It is claimed that tests show that the unit can change raw sewage to a colorless and odorless liquid which, in combination with conventional mechanical water treatment devices, will result in pure water exceeding the U.S. Public Health Service's standards for drinking water.

This unit is no doubt the forerunner for others to be produced using similar principles. Like all fresh innovations, it will have to stand the test of use and time and overcome the resistance of those in the industry who have been long married to chemical additive techniques.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Monday, June 16, the 167th day of 1969 with 198 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:
In 1871 the ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine was set up in New York City by Dr. Walter Fleming.
In 1775 the United States Army was founded when Congress authorized the recruiting of 10 companies of riflemen to serve one year.
In 1940 the Germans entered Paris at dawn and began World War II occupation of the French capital.
In 1951 Wisconsin Republican Sen. Joseph McCarthy charged Defense Secretary George Marshall with having "common cause" with Josef Stalin of Russia during and after World War II.
In 1963 Russia put its first woman into space—Valentina Tereshkova.

CAREER CORNER

PAY CHECK. A recent study of newspapers shows that many copy readers, after from two to six years' experience, receive $150-200 a week. It varies across the country, smaller papers pay less, and in larger metropolitan papers, the minimum is as high as $250 per week.

QUALITIES WANTED. The ideal candidate should be a person:
Who is resourceful and has initiative.
Who is intellectually honest, has a challenging mind.
Who is courageous. One who is not afraid to be a minority of one.
Who is fair. One who knows there are two sides to all controversial questions and who will listen to both sides with empathy.

Who has an overdeveloped sense of justice. One who is aroused by injustice and who reacts instinctively against special privilege, but one who believes the majority has rights just as the minority does.
Who has a sense of humor and an innate cheerfulness.
Who is willing to assume responsibility.

I've left the main quality for the last. It is judgment. Some call it common sense. There is nothing more valuable. Probably it is a natural derivative of some of the qualities listed above. Some are born with it, some acquire it, but no one has it thrust upon him."

SPELL IT "HEART." Mr. Thornburg also said that one type of applicant newspapers are NOT interested in hiring is the malcontent with a chip on his shoulder because he's handicapped: "We look for a man with positive attitudes. It's unimportant whether he can walk or run or crawl or hobble — or however he gets around — what counts is how the spirit moves him."

John Huston Acting Again
Hollywood (UPI) — John Huston, the only man ever to direct his father, daughter and himself in films, makes his eighth film appearance in "The Kremlin Letter," playing a Navy admiral.

It could be embarrassing:
NOT to know about a wedding!
NOT to know about a death!
NOT to know how the neighbor boy's baseball team was doing!

Elizabeth Hurley To Attend TTU Summer Workshop

Elizabeth Hurley, 319 N. Somerville, has been named to attend the fifth annual Photo-Journalism Workshop July 13-26 at Texas Tech University.

Miss Hurley, journalism teacher at Pampa High School, and 19 other high school and junior college journalism teachers from across the nation will receive grants to attend the workshop from the Newspaper Fund, Inc., of the Wall Street Journal.

The workshop, under the direction of Professor Ralph Sellmeyer, is the only one of its kind financed by the Newspaper Fund.

Quilting Members Cook-Out in Park

Metanet Quilting Club members attended a breakfast cook-out at Hobart Street Park recently and played games of cards, Yahtzee, and horseshoe pitching.

Guests for this last meeting this year were Mmes. William Booth, Jessie Downs, J. T. Lamberson and Miss Parla Wineget. Members attending were Mmes. Earl O'Neal, J. C. Longan, O. L. Johnson, George Hamlin, Forrest Cloyd, J. B. Jones, Joe Gallia and Raymond Neff.

Hostesses were Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Hamlin. New officers will be elected in August for next year.

Area WSCS Hosts Program on Plants

LEFORS (SPL)—Mrs. Fannie Merideth, Mrs. Jane Cates, Mrs. Walter Pflug, Mr. and Mrs. Bill McAninch, John Pritchard and Charlie McAninch were guests for the Spring Party for Senior Citizens, in Lefors Civic Center.

Members of the WSCS were hosts to those present by serving refreshments, giving prizes, playing games, and conducting singing.

Mrs. Carole Watson, Mrs. Bettye Read and Miss Kay Hollenshead sang special hymns, while Mrs. John Hollenshead, Mrs. Jess Graves, and Mrs. Vernon Webb served refreshments. Pflug Pritchard and Mrs. Walter Pflug drew door prizes.

Your Horoscope

JEANE DIXON

FOR TUESDAY, JUNE 24, 1953
Your birthday Tuesday: The coming year is a path into a different life pattern. Nothing can be taken for granted. On most projects you can find few opportunities for sharing the job, as all that is to be done is new and lacks examples. Tuesday's natives tend to be philosophic, optimistic, with a sharp memory for long-past incidents.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): In what turns out to be a busy day, cover as much ground as is possible while you have a clear field. Romantic interests favored at night.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Tuesday is a good time for starting a new course in health maintenance, or a diet. Any symptom of discomfort should be checked by a physician.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You are unusually free to follow your own ideas now. Do a good complete job of it—no compromises. Entertaining turns out to be successful in the evening.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Make use of an early opportunity to change your schedules for a day of free, spur of the moment action. Your intuitive faculties are quite effective in choosing what courses to take.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Invite your friends along with you and have a sort of welcome for visitors' day on your job. Local affairs turn out productive.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Continue the same direction as yesterday, and consolidate your results. People important to you tend to take notice.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your public image comes up for review. Give thought to your attire, coiffure. Whatever no longer serves your purposes should be discarded and replaced with something that does.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): There is a lesson to be learned from reviewing recent developments and comparing them with your long-range plans. Some part of your schemes may be better changed now, without announcement.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Community organizations need help—Consider whether you fit in. It is apt to be a lucky day with coincidences brightening up the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Put on your thinking cap and drive right ahead in your vocation. A brief pause for meditation occasionally will help you find the short cuts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Different areas of study open up. Enroll in correspondence courses, buy books which bear on the subject you want to study. Your regular work, however, is not to be neglected now.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Budgets and plans are subject to improvement, simplification. Perhaps there are too many people involved. Ask yourself what to do.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I love my husband and feel that he has been very good to me, but one thing is becoming a sore spot. He is a real miser when it comes to my parents.

My parents are quite old and not in very good health. My father was unable to work long before his retirement age. They now get by on a meager Social Security check.

My husband owns a cash and carry grocery store. We are not struggling. The store does very well and we have a much higher than average income, but my husband insists that my parents pay the full retail price for everything. Also, the store doesn't deliver, and although my husband goes within two blocks of their home, he refuses to drop off their groceries. So my poor father has to walk nearly a mile to the store and lug the groceries home himself. I feel terrible about his. How can I get my husband to change his ways?

PERPLEXED IN POUGHKEEPSIE

DEAR PERPLEXED: Don't waste too much energy trying. Your husband doesn't sound like much of a prize to me, but what excuse has a daughter in better than average circumstances for allowing an elderly parent to lug groceries on foot?

Hostesses Sponsor Wedding Shower For Mrs. Grange

SKELLYTOWN (Spl)—Mrs. Joe Grange, the former Karen Slavens of Pampa, was honored with a wedding shower in the Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church in Skellytown recently.

Hostesses were Mmes. Paul Mathews, Clifford Coleman, Robert Germany, Edna Dunivan, J.C. Jarvis, Virgil Moore, Ed Harmon, Arlin Kaiser, Gary Gortmaker, Earl Looper, Clarence Kaiser, Irvin Brown, Howard Moore, and R.E. McAllister.

The honoree was presented a yellow and white carnation corsage from the hostesses.

She was assisted in opening her gifts by her mother Mrs. Clifford Everhart, Miss Nan Harmon recorded gifts in the bride's book.

The serving table was covered with a white lace table cloth over yellow with a yellow and white floral center-piece. The white sheet cake was decorated with two large gold wedding bands entwined and the name Karen inscribed in one and Joe inscribed in the other one. Tiny yellow sugar rosebuds with two white sugar wedding bells were placed in each corner of the cake. Mrs. Mack Grange and Miss Nan Harmon presided at the serving table.

Attending were Mmes. Joe Grange, Clifford Everhart, J.M. Grange, Ken Maddox, Virgil Moore, Mack Grange, Elsie Groniger, Allen Harmon, Don Essary, Orville Craig, Mike Germany, Leroy Allen, Edna Dunivan, J.C. Jarvis, Orma Harlan, Terry Marlar, Gary Gortmaker, Irvin Brown, Clyde Moore and Clifford Coleman.

DEAR ABBY: What kind of crazy controversy did you attempt to settle by deciding it was a draw? A 16-year-old girl has a date with a boy she never dated before, and because her father was downstairs in the recreation room watching television she didn't bother to take her date down to meet him. And because maybe the father wasn't shaved, or maybe he had his shoes off, he didn't bother to come upstairs. So who was wrong?

You say, "Who's complaining? If it meant so much to the girl to have her father meet the boy, shame on her for not dragging the boy down there. And if the old man complains because he didn't meet the boy, shame on him for not going upstairs."

Well, Abby, shame on you! Kids should not expect their parents to come to them. The girl should have gone down with her date and introduced him to her father. At least the way it was at our house. And I didn't care whether I had my shoes off, or my tie on straight either.

Today, no matter how bad the father looks, the boys who come to take out their daughters usually look worse. We raised four daughters and my wife used to get so dolled up just to answer the door when one of the girls had a date, I think the boy half expected her to go along.

Me? I never bothered about the way I looked, but the girls would always bring the boys to meet Pop, even if I was out in the shed back of the house in my overalls.

OLD-FASHIONED PAPA

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the 16-year-old girl on her first date with a boy and her father not coming up from the recreation room. Your indecision disap-

MISS DEB

... answers questions about Junior Miss etiquette, grooming and interests.

Q. My mother's birthday is next month, and as usual I'm stumped. What can I give her that she'd never forget?

A. Try lending her some teenage bounce and pep! Wrap up a package with a note inside that promises 12 weekend nights of babysitting with younger brothers and sisters. Or offer to shoulder some special household chores like washing windows or polishing silver. If you decide to help out around the house, be sure to use new disposable paper helpers like window cleaners and metal polishers. They cut down rubbing and scrubbing and help you do a job that Mom will appreciate.

Q. The dentist told me that I need braces, and I'm terrified. Is this going to end my social life? How long will I have to take care of all the wires in my mouth?

A. Probably, the guys won't notice your braces more than once. But they will notice your sparkly smile when the wires come off! Modern dentists are making braces lighter and less obvious. Avoid gooey sweets that stick to braces and teeth—a sure recipe for cavities. Stick to foods rich in vitamins and minerals like milk, cereals, fruits and vegetables. Brush your teeth three times daily with a firm, dry brush. An occasional rinse with mouthwash will boost your self-confidence and charm.

Season To Season By Changing Styles

By changing the fabrics and sleeve lengths, this style can be used to make several dresses that will take you from season to season in ease. Sew the sleeveless, as shown, in a soft print cotton or silk for summer; in a lightweight wool with short sleeves for fall; in a bright jersey with three-quarter length sleeves for winter; and in a cotton twill or butcher-linen with contrasting front panel and short sleeves for spring.

Consult the Co-ordinator (included in each Young Original pattern) for accessories, color suggestions and fabrics.

B-121 with Photo-Guide is in New Sizes 8 to 18, bust, 31 1/2 to 40. Size 10, 32 1/2 bust. 2 1/2 yards, of 45-inch.

Drysdale Returns; Leads Dodgers

By United Press International
 It's a brand new season for Don Drysdale and it could be the start of something big for the Los Angeles Dodgers, too. Making his first appearance after eight weeks on the disabled list, Drysdale picked up his first victory since opening day Sunday as the Los Angeles Dodgers edged the New York Mets, 3-2 and then he announced he is ready to take his spot back in the regular rotation.

retiring. But now he's back on the beam and feels he can be a winner. "My control was a lot better than I expected after that long layoff," he said. Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati beat Chicago, 7-6, in the first game but trailed, 5-4, when the second game was suspended after seven innings. St. Louis nipped Houston, 5-3. San Francisco swept a doubleheader from Montreal, 7-4 and 6-1. Atlanta topped Pittsburgh, 6-4, and Philadelphia topped San Diego, 5-4 in 10 innings. Los Angeles pushed across two runs in the fourth inning on a sacrifice fly by Ted Sizemore and a wild pitch by loser Jack DiLauro to give Drysdale his winning margin. Bobby Tolson singled in Jimmy Stewart in the ninth inning to break a 6-6 tie and hand Cincinnati the victory over Chicago in the first game. The Cubs were leading, 5-4, when the second game was suspended after seven innings so Cincinnati could catch a plane to San Francisco to begin a series with the Giants today. The game will be completed Sept. 1. Paul Popovich had a two-run homer for the Cubs in the suspended game while reliever Jim Maloney had a solo homer and Tolson had a two-run blast for the Reds. Giants Win Doubleheader

 Homers by Dick Dietz, Bobby Bonds and Bob Etheridge powered San Francisco to victory in the second game over Montreal and the doubleheader sweep as Mike McCormick pitched a seven-hitter to gain the triumph. Larry Jaster took the loss. In the first game, Ken Henderson celebrated his 23rd birthday with a three-run homer with one out in the last of the ninth that gave the Giants the win. The Giants had trailed, 4-3, going into the ninth but Jim Davenport's single tied the game before Henderson won it with his blast off Dan McGinn. Bob Gibson pitched an eight-hitter and the Cardinals rallied for three runs in the eighth to snap a 2-2 deadlock and beat the Astros. Run scoring by Curt Flood and Vada Pinson and a fielder's choice scored the three runs for the Cards. Don Wilson took the loss. Bob Didier drove in two runs with a pair of singles to pace Atlanta past Pittsburgh. Didier's hits highlighted a two-run second inning and a three-run fourth. Ron Reed, knocked out in the eighth, picked up the victory while Steve Blass took the loss.

Boston Tries New Technique To Stop A's Reggie Jackson

By United Press International
 The Boston Red Sox weren't having much luck getting Reggie Jackson out so they did the next best thing. They got his bat out. Then they plunked the disarmed Oakland Athletics' slugger with a pitch. Catcher Russ Nixon of the Red Sox raised the protest when the 23-year-old Jackson stepped to the plate in the eighth inning of Sunday's 13-5 Oakland victory. In 14 official at-bats during the three game series in Boston, Jackson had made nine hits, including four homers, a triple and two doubles and had driven in a total of 15 runs. It turned out that Jackson wasn't carrying a cannon—just a bat which had a small flat surface on one side. The umpire promptly threw the bat out of the game and reliever Jim Landis followed by hitting Jackson with a pitch which forced in the Athletics' final run of the game.

me. He was just trying to pitch me up high." The Baltimore Orioles swept the Chicago White Sox, 9-0 and 13-2, the Detroit Tigers blanked the Kansas City Royals, 7-0, the Minnesota Twins shaded the Cleveland Indians, 3-2 and the New York Yankees defeated the Seattle Pilots in a rain-shortened and protested 5 1/2-inning game, 4-0. California at Washington was rained out. Paul Blair homered in each game and drove in a total of six runs and Brooks Robinson drove in five runs during the Orioles' sweep of the White Sox. Dave McNally pitched a four-hitter to win his ninth straight game in the opener and Tom Phoebus pitched a five-hitter to raise his record to 7-1 in the nightcap. McNally is now 23-2 since the 1968 All-Star break. Dick McAuliffe hit a three-run triple and Jim Northrup a three-run homer as the Tigers scored all their runs in the fifth inning. Earl Wilson pitched a two-hitter, struck out seven and walked one to win his sixth game against five losses. Graig Nettles' bunt single with two out in the seventh inning scored Rod Carew from third base with the Twins' winning run. Harmon Killebrew tripled in the Twins' first two runs to raise his league-leading RBI total to 52. Dave Boswell pitched a five-hitter, embellished with seven strikeouts, for his eighth win. Jimmie Hall drove in four runs with a pair of two-run triples and Stan Eshenau allowed three hits for the Yankees, whose Bat Day attracted a crowd estimated at 58,000. Manager Joe Schultz of the Pilots protested the game.

It Was Mickey's Biggest Day But His Kids Stayed At Home

NEW YORK (NEA)—On the greatest day in the life of Mickey Charles Mantle, life went on as usual at 5730 Watson Circle in Dallas, Texas. A swimming pool was in the process of construction in the backyard. There to watch its progress were Mickey Mantle, 16; David Mantle, 12; Billy, 11, and Danny, 9. Their dad had just received a pulsating nine-minute standing ovation from some 60,000 people in Yankee Stadium, the kind of sentimental outpouring that tugs at tear ducts. Mickey Mantle—the old man—didn't cry, but it took an effort. And he was visibly affected by the demonstration and tribute of the special ceremonies in his honor. There to share his feeling were his wife Marilyn and his mother and his mother-in-law. Also the men who discovered him and the managers for whom he played and the players with whom he shared 18 years in the big leagues. "They don't go much for this kind of stuff," he expanded later. "I guess they'd rather stay home and watch the pool being built." The pool may be a symbol of affluence in this society, but to Benjamin Braddock ("The Graduate") it was the escape route—down to the bottom in his scuba diving outfit or lounging on an inflated raft sipping beer—and could also be called the instrument of dramatizing the generation gap. The absence of the Mantle boys from one of baseball's all-time heart-throb moments, and particularly one in which they had a personal stake, vividly portrays baseball's own generation gap. It's a dry fact in the polls that older people are the ones who stick to baseball, who gush in its sentimentality, who identify vicariously with the heroes of another generation (and therefore can name the starting lineup of the 1934 world champion Detroit Tigers). Baseball's great hold on the public was its tradition, its continuity of records and its obsession with statistics. All these were polarized under one grand heading—the national pastime. Without denigrating the old-timers, that isn't the scene any more. It's Joe Pepitone and his elaborate coiffure.

Ex-Army Sergeant Orville Moody Wins Bogey-Blasted U.S. Open

HOUSTON (UPI)—Out of the wreckage of a bogey-blasted final round when it seemed no one wanted to win emerged today a plain-speaking, old-country boy nicknamed "Clevy" as the new U.S. Open golf champion—and the question is whether his ideas will rock the whole game. Was there ever a more unlikely golf champion than "Clevy"—or, more properly, ex-Army sergeant and one-fourth Choctaw Indian Orville James Moody of Killeen, Texas? The 35-year-old Moody, who is only on his second year as a touring golf pro, had to sink a 14-inch putt on the final green Sunday to win the U.S. Open championship worth maybe a million dollars. Moody thus finished a final round of two-over-par 72 with one birdie and three bogeys and a 72-hole score of 281. Geilberger, Rosburg and Beman deadlocked at 281, and then came Bob Murphy, the first-round leader, at 283. Barber, who started the day 4-under-par and wound up 4-over-par, tied at 284 with Australian Bruce Crampton and Arnold Palmer, whose efforts to "Charge" produced only a 72. "That was the highlight of the day for me," said Moody about his conversation with President Nixon. But he didn't miss the opportunity for a quip. "He told me it wasn't often that a fellow came out of 14 years in the Army to win the

Who Is Orville James Moody? Not Many People Seem to Know

HOUSTON (UPI)—The 1969 U.S. Open champion is Orville Moody, but who is Orville Moody? He thought he was Orville James Moody, but found out three years ago he officially is recorded in birth records in Oklahoma City as Orville Cleve Moody. "I don't know where they got that," he confesses. Moody was born in Chickasha, Okla., a town of 15,000 about 50 miles southwest of Oklahoma City. He was one of seven children of a greens keeper. "I started playing golf when I learned to walk," Moody said, but he never had enough money to join the tour. That's one reason he stayed in the Army 14 years, four months and four days. Moody attended high school in Oklahoma City while his father kept greens in suburban El Reno, but Moody was graduated from high school in Chickasha. He was good enough to get a football scholarship from the University of Oklaho-

Texas Tech Signs Basketball Star

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Texas Tech basketball coach Bob Bass announced Saturday the signing of his seventh basketball player this year. Bass said he signed 8-2 guard Greg Lowery, an all-state, all-America prepster from West Palm Beach, Fla. Lowery had a 33.5 scoring average during his senior year at West Palm Beach. His team won the state championship with a 27-0 record in 1968. He was named to the Dixie Dozen, the 12 best basketball players in the South. From high school, he went to Oklahoma Military Institute and racked up 28 points per game. OMI discontinued sports this year and Lowery has three years of eligibility for Tech.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

Our Capsule Policy

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Rocking the Emotion Boat

A Tennessee doctor got into the news the other day when he appeared before the House Commerce Committee.

The doctor, Duane Carr, professor of surgery at Tennessee U., talked about lung cancer and smoking. He said: "Unfortunately, many supposedly well informed officials in the Public Health Service and certain voluntary health organizations have permitted their emotionalism and zeal to outdistance the actual scientific knowledge and proof."

This has resulted in misleading the public into believing there is proof when none exists. Well, he almost got into the news; it was back-packer stuff. And it was explained hastily that the tobacco industry paid the doctor's expenses and fees for making the Washington trip. The latter fact, one must suppose, carried greater weight than that the man teaches surgery at the Tennessee College of Medicine.

A couple of other doctors testified, too. One is a pathologist from Kansas City, Mo., and the other is a thoracic surgeon from Chicago. Both said they couldn't tell the lung of a smoker from the lung of a non-smoker. One declared that smoking has not been proved a cause of cancer. The other said, "I cannot accept the preachment that the use of tobacco in general or the smoking of cigarettes in particular causes this important disease."

How come people like that are always showing up to rock the boat? Here people were, all convinced that smoking causes lung cancer, honestly convinced and as justifiably convinced as anyone could be as long as there is not a full explanation of precisely what cancer is and precisely how it works.

And all those voluntary organizations had built up such a head of steam to wipe out smoking and the health hazards it causes, pitching propaganda electronically and otherwise in all directions.

Now here come three men who say, in effect that we have gone off half-cocked and make clear that unless we cool it and rethink, in their opinion, we may not make much progress toward solving the cancer problem for a long time. Now a dilemma.

If smoking cigarettes really does cause lung cancer, what a shame to lose time doubting it!

The other horn: If emotionalism and zeal have spurred us to overjump and reach a wrong conclusion, what a shame to rush off in the wrong direction!

They should have kept their mouths shut. Columbus thought he had discovered a new route to India. If it had been allowed to stand at that, maybe everything would have been all right.

But somebody came along and smart-alecked up that he had done no such thing. It turned out that the smart-aleck was right, that old Chris had jumped to a bad conclusion.

He made it impossible for the world to pretend North America and its islands were India and the East Indies.

And in so doing he practically forced the navigators to find out that the Pacific Ocean is there, that the real route to India was much longer and much less direct than emotional and zealous Columbus could have realized.

Protection From Ourselves

Who wants to be pushed around and told what he must do? There is hardly an individual from tots to students to adult citizens who will not bristle at the thought. But a very popular camouflage is being painted over the pushing around effort. So-called experts white-wash such phrases and letter over them such luring terms as "protection" or "human rights."

Expected to be completed before Fall 1970 is a report on a comprehensive study to determine how much protection is the consumer's "right," a task of the National Commission on Product Safety.

But according to the Southern States Industrial Council Bulletin, initial hearings have already exposed the main issue: whether manufacturers will continue to have exclusive power over the standards that apply to a vast variety of products.

As we rush headlong into added regulations for daily living—or against it?—Who can help but agree with General Counsel Tyre Taylor's concluding question about the study? He asks, "Is it desirable, practicable or even possible to require that every product must be subjected to government premarketing clearance for safety, as medicines have been since 1938?"

Instead of demanding so imposed "protection" against an individual's own fallible nature, thus weakening his capacity for decision-making, we would hope for a trend to trust the people's ability to decide their own acts (and purchases) and an encouragement of opportunities to learn wisdom from doing so.

Jitters on the Hoof

Does tension keep your stomach tied up in knots? Suffer from acid indigestion, an ulcer? Then consider the poor bovine with his multiple stomachs. For even the contented cow has fallen victim to the hectic pace of modern life. The outwardly placid cow or steer may in fact, be a hide full of jitters as a result of new feeding and farm management techniques, reports Organic Gardening and Farming magazine.

"Modern farming has converted the cow from a hay burner into a simple stomach animal," it quotes Dr. Richard F. Bristol, professor of veterinary clinical medicine at Iowa State University. "This is desirable to obtain maximum feeding efficiency, but at the same time we have created problems."

New methods of confinement feeding in which cattle are held in feed lots instead of being allowed to roam the pasture, are producing nervous and digestive disorders and disease which formerly went unrecognized, says Bristol.

This poses a problem not only for the farmer, or the cow, but may also have public health implications, inasmuch as some diseases of the central nervous system in animals are transmissible to man.

This is one more worry we really didn't need.

Sensing The News By THURMAN SENSING

Welfare Mothers in Action

Some of the ugliness and moral cowardice on the national scene these days is almost beyond belief. Certainly, it is hard to believe what happened at the recent National conference of Social Welfare in Washington. Yet it did happen.

The Washington Post was handicapped in its reporting of the shocking events at the conference, for much of what was said could not be printed in a family newspaper.

The 5,000 social workers who gathered in the capital for their annual meeting were subjected to a stream of four-letter obscenities. Members of welfare "rights" organizations jumped on the stage and took over the microphones. They shouted vile words at the audience of social workers. These workers were called "racist pigs" and members of the "white imperialistic oppressive society." Such terms were mild compared to other words and phrases employed. The Washington Post referred to "obscene" demands made by welfare mothers.

But that wasn't all. When one of the captive audience attempted to lead a mass walkout from the conference room, a human chain of welfare mothers blocked the exits. Dr. George A. Wiley, head of the welfare protesters, declared nobody was going to leave until thousands of dollars were anted up for more of the poor to attend conference meetings. With that, plastic ice buckets were passed around for financial contributions.

The Post reported that it was necessary for the temporary ballroom dividing wall to be removed in order for the delegates to the conference to escape.

This unspeakable crude and insulting session was not the last, however. Wiley and his welfare mothers carried out other interruptions of the proceedings during the remaining days of the conference. Unscheduled speakers, who broke into the meeting, included black social workers, Puerto Ricans, an Indian and a young woman who shrieked that she was a former mental patient and an ex-drug addict.

The social workers apparently were stunned by the experience. One of them told a reporter: "I said to myself this couldn't be happening to us." As shocking as the behavior of the welfare mothers, was the craven attitude of the outgoing president, Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, who also is president of the National Council of Churches. He didn't order the silencing or removal of the welfare mothers who shouted obscenities at the delegates. On the contrary, against the advice of some of his board members, he refused to stop anyone from speaking. When the time came to turn over the presidential gavel to the incoming president, Dr. Fleming bragged "I did not use this gavel once this week—I didn't think it was appropriate."

The public has no idea what the delegates thought of Dr. Fleming's toleration of obscenity-shouting disruptions. But many Americans familiar with the story of these shocking events in Washington must be sickened by Dr. Fleming's attitude. The country simply cannot afford mental confusion or moral leniency in confrontations with barbarians. This is what America really faces today, and which was manifested at the social workers conference in Washington—barbarians.

Educated men and women who refuse to apply the remedies of law and order when confronted by savage behavior as in the case of the welfare mothers at Washington, are exposing the nation to rule by barbarism. It is a mistake to think of barbarism and savagery as features of the ancient past or remote jungle areas. Even the most advanced societies can be exposed to primitivism within. The methods used by the welfare "rights" organizations are manifestations of this primitivism.

In New York City, members of welfare "rights" have attacked city welfare officers, broken furniture and upset files—all because they weren't getting the size relief payments they demanded. Toleration of this kind of violent behavior is impossible if America is to remain a civilized country.

Eggheads Pretty Helpless

By PAUL HARVEY

If the eggheads can't run our colleges, no wonder they have been mismanaging our country. In recent years, more and more colleges and universities have sought administrators from outside the academic fraternity. They have employed businessmen, ex-governors, lawyers and generals as presidents. Most of these experienced administrators appear to have escaped or survived the recent campus ferment.

The professional intellectuals have not. Dr. Clark Kerr and subsequent heirs to his ignominy at Berkeley are everywhere challenged by students who think they can run their universities better than the front office can.

And everywhere these frightened, idealistic eggheads tippy-toe around all real and manufactured student sensitivities, they, the administrators, are being "overcome."

Under fire in the past year, the presidents of 250 college or universities have gotten out in the towel, given up, thrown in. In 200 colleges the president's office remains vacant and 70 of those are big ones.

Now that we see the trouble professional intellectuals are having keeping order on campuses, we should have a better understanding of how our nation has been mismanaged under the recent influence of Harvard's Whiz Kids.

Here is what history says: We, the people, somehow managed to tame a savage continent with our bare hands. We, the people, dropouts from Europe, scratched and clawed and chopped and sawed and dug and mopped and hoed out of a wilderness—the most prosperous society the world has ever known.

All right. Then along came a generation awed by science insisting that we, the people, are clods—unable to do these things for ourselves any more. "Government must take care of the masses," they decreed. And for the while that they, the intellectuals, dominated our government, they dominated us. But they collapse under pressure.

It was they who got us into senseless wars which they were ashamed to lose, yet afraid to win. It was the enraged intellectuals who insisted on buying our insurance with our money and buying our votes with our money and who tried to buy the world—with our money.

This is not to contend that anybody with brains is a menace. I married a Phi Beta Kappa key. But academics to the professional intellectual is what sex is to a prostitute: everything.

I accept Eric Hoffer's definition of an intellectual: "A literate person who feels himself to be a member of the educated minority. He has a feeling of belonging to an intellectual elite, and the less valid his claim, the more typical his pose. In Asia, Africa and Latin America, every student feels himself equipped for national leadership."

Occupants of the ivory tower can provide needed and necessary counsel in their respective specialties, but we can see now that they are pretty helpless without the policeman and the fireman and the butcher and the baker and the candlestick maker—and somebody to grub out the sewers.

We, the people, should be respectful, but not awed by the intellectual elite. Together we can go to the moon if we want to, but they can't go anywhere without us.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper function of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: — What is the meaning of the phrase "to think of oneself"? How can a man think for himself when so many of every hue and stripe are loudly yelling and telling him what to think?

ANSWER: It would seem the meaning of the phrase "to think for oneself" is to use one's own mind just as he is obliged to use his own digestion to digest food.

To think for oneself one must use his intelligence. Albert Jay Nock in his book "The Theory of Education in the United States" quotes Plato as saying that "the person of intelligence is the one who always tries to see things as they are... who never permits his view of them to be directed by convention, by the hope of advantage, or by an irrational and arbitrary authoritarianism... uncontrolled by prejudice, prepossession or formula."

Nock goes on to say "...and thus we may say that there are certain integrities at the root of intelligence which give it somewhat the aspect of a moral as well as an intellectual attribute."

We can think of no other way of a man becoming independent and self-reliant and being useful to himself and to his fellow man than to be able to think for himself; make up his own mind. It would seem that he should always be willing to have his belief challenged and if he cannot answer questions without contradiction or evasion, he should realize that he is not in harmony with natural or God's laws.

Ortega Gasset, the great Spanish philosopher and author of "What is Philosophy?" contended that life is nothing but making decisions. In order to make decisions, one has to think and not be a follower; he must always strive to develop his spiritual and mental faculties as to justice and moral absolutes such as the human relations commandments. You must have standards to make decisions by, to think for yourself, then have your beliefs and convictions tested by being able to answer, without evasion or contradiction, questions on moral beliefs that you are advocating.

WIT AND WHIMSY

A sultan's jester was approached by a neighbor who wished to borrow his camel's hair rope.

Jerry (the jester)—I'm sorry, but it's in use. At the moment I have fifteen gallons of water tied up in it.

Larry (the neighbor)—Oh, come, now. How can you tie up water in a rope?

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — The Secretary of Defense claimed that new intelligence data supported his stand, but he was challenged by Pentagon critics. Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., charged that the intelligence books had been "juggled" by the Republican Administration. It all sounds timely and familiar, doesn't it? Actually, the date was January 27, 1960. The Defense Secretary was the Eisenhower Administration's Thomas S. Gates Jr. The issue was the threatened "missile gap" which became a major factor in the election campaign by which the late John F. Kennedy defeated Richard M. Nixon.

In 1959 Symington had charged that the Kremlin's capacity for producing intercontinental nuclear missiles (ICBMs) would give the Russians a 3 to 1 lead over the United States in a couple of years. In 1960 Secretary Gates was contending that new data on Soviet intentions refuted any such claim.

Symington, former secretary of the Air Force, was then campaigning for a speed-up in U.S. strategic weapons deployment. He said the intelligence data had been doctored to protect the Eisenhower Administration's budget restrictions.

In 1961, shortly after Kennedy's inauguration, a new secretary of defense dispelled the "missile gap." Robert S. McNamara said the then current intelligence did not suggest the ICBM disparity which Symington had predicted.

Now, in 1967, Symington and such colleagues as Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, are again challenging Pentagon data and the uses to which it is put by another defense secretary, Melvin R. Laird. Again there is an angry talk of doctored intelligence estimates.

This time, opponents of President Nixon's Safeguard anti-missile system are trying to block deployment of the controversial ABM system. They complain there is an "intelligence gap," and that the CIA and Pentagon in assessing Russian missile strength sound as if they were talking about two different things.

NIE Etc. — As a matter of fact they ARE talking about different things, not two but three of them, three different but related appraisals of Soviet potential. The gap, if any, is not in the intelligence itself.

It works this way: NIE — The basic projection of Russian missile strength is in a National Intelligence Estimate (NIE) prepared by the National Intelligence Board, an interagency group which includes representatives of all the government's intelligence gathering agencies, civilian and military. The national estimates, however, predict Soviet deployments for only 18 months to two years.

Projections — To provide estimates over a longer time period, the sophisticated computers which serve the CIA office of National Estimates make annual projections from the NIE which attempt, by a sort of extrapolation, to forecast Russian actions for 10 years.

Greater than Expected — For its own planning purposes in SHAPING U.S. strength the Board—or the CIA—makes an estimate of the greater-than-expected threat which U.S. forces might have to face. This process was once described by McNamara as a "hedge" against the worst possible circumstance.

There is no disagreement about the national estimates of Russian missile strength. Despite the senatorial confusion, there is no dispute about that basic inter-agency consensus on Russia's potential. There is, however (and there is bound to be), a difference between the NIE projections and the Pentagon's planning data for what the Kremlin might be able to do.

SECRET SESSION? — Embused by this difference, Fulbright has been talking of a secret Senate session to talk about intelligence data. Opponents may seek to force such a closed-door session soon during consideration of the pending supplemental money bill.

Closed-door Senate sessions are rare. Three have been held in recent years, in 1963, 1965, and 1966, and two of them ('63 and '66) were called for discussion of matters relating to anti-missile systems in Russia and the United States. No discussion behind closed doors, however, can provide a final answer now on whether the Kremlin will, as the Pentagon fears, have 500 of the dread SS-9 missiles, each with three separately targeted warheads by the time an ABM could be operational in 1975. Only time will tell. Perhaps the Symington group will be right this time. A 50 per cent accuracy record, considering only the law of averages, would seem to be attainable even if the intelligence problems are not understood. It can even be argued that Symington and his missile-gap associates learned a lesson from the fact that Russia had the capacity to build up a missile lead in the early 1960s but did not elect to make the sacrifices necessary to exploit that potential. In January 1960, however, the evidence was beginning to accumulate that Russia was NOT deploying all the ICBMs that it could deploy. Now, in the early months of 1967, the indications are that the Kremlin is continuing its strategic build-up, including the deployment of the SS-9. Moreover, Pentagon experts are becoming more and more certain that the SS-9 will have independently targeted warheads, like the touted U.S. MRVs, and not just a multiple warhead pod which disperses a salvo of nuclear weapons at a single target.

Driver Killed In Auto Crash

LEMANS, France (UPI)—British driver J. Woolfe was killed Saturday when his Porsche slammed into the side of another car soon after the start of the Le Mans 24 hour auto race.

Woolfe's Porsche hit Ferrari Number 19 driven by New Zealander Chris Amoy at White House corner. Both cars left the track and crashed on the left side of the road.

Woolfe was flown to a hospital in helicopter where he died. Amoy and Woolfe's co-driver were unhurt.

Woolfe's 4.5 liter Porsche slid into Amoy's Ferrari as the field jockeyed for position shortly after the start. Woolfe was thrown out.

White Woolfe's car broke up and spewed smoke on the side of the track. Amoy managed to keep control and pull up safely about 100 yards away. He was unharmed.

Glen Campbell Making Film HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Glen Campbell, Carol Lynley and newcomer Kim Darby will costar in "Norwood," a film version of the Charles Portis novel to be produced by Hal Wallis at Paramount.
