

Teacher's Pay Hike Now Law

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—A teacher pay raise proposal that will hike salaries of Texas teachers to by an average of $1,800 over the next two years was signed into law by Gov. Preston Smith Saturday.

In the governor's address to the state Friday evening, Smith said he would approve the $60.4 million package even though he would veto the state's one-year budget proposal. The pay raise had nearly unanimous support from legislators, and the governor was committed to the proposal.

The bill provides a 10-year program of step-by-step pay increments which will give teachers an average salary increase of $776 for the coming school year.

Teachers will receive an average hike of $1,050 for the 1970-71 school year under the bill's pay formula.

The measure was sponsored by Rep. George Hinson, D-Mineola. Another education bill by Hinson providing for upgrading technical education programs was also approved by Smith Saturday.

Among other measures signed by the governor:

—A bill by Rep. Joe Ratcliff,

Dallas, creating a state board regulate private employment agencies.

—Legislation by Rep. Cletus A. Davis, D-Houston, empowering the governor or any city or town to declare a state of emergency in times of civil disorder or natural disaster.

—A bill by Reps. Hinson and L. Dewitt Hale, D-Corpus Christi, revising and updating statutes related to the state's public school programs.

—A measure by Sen. A. M. Aikin, D-Paris, providing funds for the newly-created Governor's Committee on Human Relations.

Smith said he would allow to become law without his signature:

—A bill by Sen. A. R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, which prescribes venue in suits to enjoin labor strikes.

—A measure by Rep. James W. Stroud, D-Dallas, requesting the College Coordinating Board to study the feasibility of lifting a requirement that students in state-supported colleges take certain history and government courses.

Negro Strike Prompts Riots

Abernathy Is Jailed During March

By WILLIAM COTTERELL
CHARLESTON (S.C. UPI)—Officials moved Saturday to clamp a lid on this racially-tense city, imposing a dusk-to-dawn curfew and setting $50,000 bonds for the leaders of demonstrations that sparked a night of violence.

Gov. Robert E. McNair ordered the curfew and kept National Guardsmen at the ready in a nearby army following a clash Friday night between police and Negro youths.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, arrested when he led an estimated 400 Negroes in an unauthorized march to support striking Negro hospital workers, remained in jail.

Magistrate Donald Barkowitz told the head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference "for an offense of this nature, in fairness to the people of this city, I cannot order bond for a penny under $50,000."

Abernathy and his top aide, Hosea Williams, went to jail charged with rioting, inciting to riot, parading without a permit and disorderly conduct.

Before going to jail Friday night, Abernathy promised his followers "we are going to practice civil disobedience in Charleston as it has never been practiced before."

McNair said National Guardsmen and highway patrol officers would be patrolling the streets of this historic city Saturday night to prevent a recurrence of the violence.

McNair ordered the 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew at midday Saturday.

The violence was the worst yet in the three-month-old strike against the State Medical College Hospital and Charleston County Hospital.

Abernathy led marchers onto the streets Friday night but was stopped by Charleston Police Chief John Conroy. He told the marchers they had no parade permit and ordered them to disperse.

After insisting the world hold a "prayer vigil" to support the strikers' grievances, Abernathy turned and told his followers: "We are going to practice civil disobedience in Charleston as it has never been practiced before. We are going to have militant nonviolent activity that Dr. Martin Luther King and I used to talk about but never has been seen."

Abernathy, who succeeded King as head of the SCLC, then set down in the street, Conroy ordered his officers to take Abernathy to a waiting police wagon.

As the officers removed Abernathy and Williams, Negro youths surged forward, throwing rocks, bricks and pipes. Five policemen were struck and a UPI newsman from Columbia was struck in the face by a brick thrown through his car windshield. A nearby television news car was overturned.

It was the second time Abernathy has been jailed during the strike. He spent nearly one week in the county jail the first week in May after he was arrested for leading a march that violated an injunction limiting marchers around the medical college hospital.

The hospital workers went on strike March 20 demanding better wages, the rehiring of 12 discharged workers and union representation. The state is putting a pay raise into effect for the workers July 1, but the issues of the union and rehiring have snarled negotiations aimed at ending the lengthy labor dispute.

Texas Legislators Irate Over Decision

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Gov. Preston Smith officially vetoed the one-year budget proposal Saturday, thus sounding the death knell for the state's financial master plan on the day before it would have automatically become law.

Smith returned from Dallas to the capitol to veto the appropriations bill, two general revenue measures and 13 other proposals. Under state law, the bills would have become law automatically Sunday, the 20th day after the legislative session ended.

In his proclamation, Smith said the one-year bill would delay the collection of necessary new taxes and might double the increased tax burden on the state's citizens.

"I cannot in good faith to the people of Texas create a situation which could cause the imposition of a disproportionately high rate of taxation by resorting to a temporary, stop-gap solution to our state's current fiscal requirements," he said.

Although unknown factors might reduce the state's tax needs in the coming fiscal year, "this sort of speculation is inconsistent with the 'pay as you go' mandate of our constitution," Smith said.

The revenue measures Smith vetoed included a $14 million transfer from highway accounts into the general revenue fund, and a measure permitting $10 per semester building use fees to be levied on state college students.

Smith said transferring the highway money "has the effect of placing an undue and disproportionate burden on highway

'SOMETHING MUST BE DONE' Pampa Youth Seeks Support In Counteracting SDS Plot

By TEX DEWEESSE
Executive Editor

David Harmon, a Pampa student at West Texas State University, Friday appealed to Pampans and Top O' Texans to join him in a nationwide movement to put down the Students for a Democratic Society "now infiltrating college campuses in an effort to destroy the U. S. government."

Harmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley S. Harmon, is functional vice president of the Association of Student Governments, a national group organized at Kansas State University in 1964.

Harmon currently is on leave from WTSU to work with the office of Vice President Spiro Agnew on plans to halt the SDS movement in the nation's colleges and universities. He has been speaking on campuses all across the country.

He will meet in Washington next week with Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of the late President, in furtherance of the plans.

The West Texas student body senator has been back in the Panhandle for the past few days addressing civic clubs and youth groups, explaining purposes of SDS and actions of his own organization to put a stop to regulate private employment "use college students" in its plan to tear down the nation's democratic processes.

He told members of the Downtown Kiwanis Club at their Friday noon luncheon in First Methodist Church that the SDS currently was holding its national convention in Chicago

Summer Is Hot News In Texas, Pampa

Saturday, bringing in summer, 1969, not only was the first day of summer in Pampa, and the longest of the year, it was also the hottest, with the temperature soaring to 101 degrees at 6 p.m.

The day had begun in civilized fashion with a reading of 74 at 8 a.m.

The "longest day" was of 15 hours and 19 minutes' duration, which is to be exactly matched today and Monday.

It was much the same throughout the state Saturday with readings from 90 to 100 degrees to 101 in Wink and San Angelo. Today's weather is expected to be much the same with possible exception of the southwest and the coastal regions where thundershowers are in the forecast.

Only in the hill country of Texas were temperatures lower, with patches of clouds keeping the readings down.

Today is scheduled to see warm to hot temperatures and clear to partly cloudy skies (See SUMMER, Page 2)

SDS Unity Cracked By RYM and Labor

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Students for a Democratic Society, in noisy convention, boiled toward an ideological showdown Saturday on how to run the revolution.

Amid the shouting, jeers, four-letter words and numberless caucuses has emerged a bitter division between two strong factions that has shattered any solidarity the radical student organization may have once had.

What delegates must provide and what appears all but impossible to obtain is a working compromise between the Revolutionary Youth Movement (RYM) on one side and the Progressive Labor Party (PLP) on the other.

The convention, meeting in the aged and shabby Chicago Coliseum, was scheduled to wind up today. By its conclusion three national secretaries and eight members of the national committee were to be elected and resolutions enunciating SDS doctrine passed.

Since Wednesday the Coliseum has been the scene of vicious ideological infighting. The RYM, led by National Secretary Michael Klonsky, and the PLP, led by Jared Israel of Harvard and others, have competed in an epithet-slinging battle.

At one point in the monotonous, rhetoric-filled sessions, Klonsky charged the PLP with "fake Maoism." Israel responded with a criticism that the RYM and Klonsky had no "patent on Chinese thinking."

The SDS dropped its Communist exclusion clause in 1965. But this year the group's leaders and the delegates were franker than ever before in

Vice President's Daughter Marries

TOWSON, Md. (UPI)—Fame-la Lea Agnew, who had managed to shun the limelight since her father's election as vice president, was married to her college sweetheart Saturday in a wedding that drew the President of the United States and all the attention he commands.

Half an hour before President and Mrs. Nixon arrived in this Baltimore suburb for the marriage of the oldest daughter of Vice President and Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew, Baltimore County police hustled away about 15 antiwar demonstrators who carried signs reading "end the war" and chanted their opposition to it.

The marriage of Miss Angew to Robert E. Deilaven, a specialist in teaching handicapped children, was not marred by the demonstration.

But one of the groom's guests, Robert Hieronimus, a psychedelic artist in a loud outfit, was pulled from the church and had difficulty establishing his identity to gain release.

Hieronimus wore a double-breasted blue blazer with blue and brown checkad pockets; striped bell-bottom pants and his sandy blond hair to his shoulders and a long mustache which came down the sides of his mouth to the edge of his chin. The police assumed he was uninvited—especially after he passed out namecards bearing his name, a psychedelic pattern and the word "soul."

By time the Nixons arrived, a crowd of 800 suburbanites—children in shorts, women in summer cottons—had assembled behind orange police barricades and they serenaded the First Family with a chorus of "Happy anniversary to you" in honor of the Nixons' 20th wedding anniversary.

The Bride's World Edition is an added attraction. It will give information for the bride and her groom to help make their lives together a treasure to remember.

Dropout From DeGaulle's Reign Reinstated In Present Government

PARIS (UPI) — Premier-designate Jacques Chaban-Delmas said Saturday he planned to announce his government Sunday evening, and former Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing, dropped by Charles de Gaulle in 1966, will be a member.

Chaban-Delmas' announcement, following a morning of political negotiations came after former Premier and Finance Minister Antoine Pinay, 77, turned down an offer to head a "save-the-franc" austerity campaign.

President Georges Pompidou, who nominated Chaban-Delmas after his inauguration Friday,

Wanted Pinay to head the administration's economic team to take charge of economic and financial recovery.

Chaban-Delmas said in addition to D'Estaing, whose post had not yet been decided, three prominent Gaullist ministers will join the governments.

They were Roger Frey, in charge of parliamentary relations in De Gaulle's last government, Olivier Guichard who was charged with planning and Francois-Xavier Ortoli, outgoing finance and economy minister.

Their eventual posts also had not yet been decided, Chaban-Delmas said.

Contract Is Let For Harvester Stadium Track

A contract for construction of the new running track at Harvester Stadium was awarded to VibraWhirl Corp. of Panhandle at a called meeting of the Pampa School Board Friday night.

At their regular meeting last Thursday board members were unable to reach a decision because bids had exceeded the $35,000 budget estimate set for building the track.

VibraWhirl, the low bidder, agreed Friday night to reduce its bid of $36,355 to $35,000 when the board extended the completion date deadline from Sept. 1 to Dec. 1.

The track to be installed will have eight lanes, each 42 inches wide. It will have a 2 1/2-inch slope from the top of the outside curb to top of the inside curb.

It will consist of a one-inch top of reslite mixture on a 5-inch base of highway finish and base asphalt.

The track will be constructed around the football stadium. School employees will install a new stadium fence by Sept. 1.

C of C Directors To Hear Activity Reports Monday

The June directors' meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held at 10 a.m. Monday in the chamber offices. George B. Cree, Jr., president, said Saturday.

Several committee reports relating to activities during the past 30 days plus a report on city business by City Manager Charles V. Hill will be on the agenda.

The June membership luncheon is scheduled for Monday, June 30, at 12 noon in the Coronado Inn Starlight Room. The program will be presented by the newly formed Agribusiness Council headed by James McCoy. The speaker at the luncheon will be State Rep. Bill Clayton, of Springlake, now serving as executive director of Water, Inc. and discuss the state water plan amendment to be voted on in August.

"People from the entire Top O' Texas area are invited to attend his meeting," Cree said, "and especially those particularly interested in getting the latest information on projected plans for water for West Texas from the Mississippi River."

Reservations may be made by calling the Chamber office in the Hughes Bldg.

Pioneer To Get Answer on Gas Rate Increase

Pioneer Natural Gas Co. is slated to get its answer on a rate increase request at Tuesday morning's meeting of the city commission.

Gas company officials two weeks ago appeared before the commission and asked an approximate 14 per cent increase in domestic and commercial rates for city consumers.

Other items on the Tuesday agenda for commission consideration include:

A Gray County proposal on charges made by the city for providing fire protection.

A resolution regarding possible legislation affecting municipal tax exempt bonds.

A revised Canadian River Municipal Water Authority contract amending fiscal year dates.

Opening of bids for purchase of traffic control equipment and for the paving of N. Nelson St.

Appointment of Traffic Commission members to fill vacancies.

Recommendation to regulate sanitary landfill hours.

Library Hours Changed For Summer Months

Summer hours at Lovett Memorial Library have been adjusted to accommodate the heavy increase in circulation of children's books, according to Mrs. Barbara Cockrell, librarian. Increase in library use during morning hours also is provided.

During the summer, Mrs. Cockrell said, the library will open weekdays at 8:30, instead of 9 a.m. and will remain open two nights a week instead of the normal four.

A vacation reading program is under way, having started June 2. It will run through the month of August. To date 64 children have enrolled. The program is planned for children from first through sixth grade.

"This is a 'fun' thing and not competitive," Mrs. Cockrell notes. The theme is 'Cool It with Books'.

Each child, upon registration, will receive a membership card making him a member. When he has read five books he will be given a lapel button.

A "Read Aloud" program is under way each Wednesday at 1 p.m. A member of the library staff reads aloud books selected by the children. Each reading session is followed by discussion of the content.

He said many students in the colleges where SDS has taken over and rioted have joined in when they didn't even know what SDS stood for.

"They simply employ the tactics of using the students," he said, "and students who do not think it through or investigate are allowing themselves to be used for something they would oppose if they knew the real truth."

The SDS, he stated, is blatant in its attempt to "destroy the U.S. but has absolutely no plan for rebuilding, even if it should be successful.

In concluding his Kiwanis Club talk, Harmon said: "We hope you will be concerned in helping us work for the democratic process, so that when we make our pledge of allegiance and say, 'one nation under God, indivisible, we really mean it."

Harmon, a 1966 graduate of Pampa High School, first evidenced his deep interest in government and political science as a member of the Pampa Key Club, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

Skelly Announces Purchase of Hawkeye Co.

TULSA, Okla. — Skelly Oil Company and Swift and Company today announced the sale of Hawkeye Chemical Company, Clinton, Iowa, to Skelly. Skelly previously owned 50 percent of Hawkeye. Sale price was not disclosed.

The Hawkeye manufacturing center is located on a 253-acre site five miles southwest of Clinton. Initial construction was completed and the plant went on stream in 1963.

Various units in the complex have these capacities, in tons per year: ammonia — 138,000; urea — 34,000; nitric acid — 117,300; ammonium nitrate — 148,625; carbon dioxide — 138,000; and urea-formaldehyde, 10,000. In addition, facilities are available for producing 69,000 tons per year of the ammonium nitrate as prills.

Also at Clinton, Skelly Oil holds a half interest in Chemplex Company, a plastic resins manufacturing organization owned jointly with American Can Company. The Chemplex plant is located on a 200-acre site adjoining Hawkeye.

Ernest B. Miller Jr., Skelly president, said the purchase of Swift's interest in the petrochemical operation is a part of Skelly's continuing program of upgrading its raw materials.

He also said Hawkeye will continue to operate under its present management.

$20 Bogus Bill Passed In City

Pampa banks were braced during the weekend in case counterfeit $20 bills began showing up in merchants' deposits.

Arthel Gibson of the First National Bank reported to Pampa police Friday evening that a counterfeit $20 bill had been found at the bank in a Post Office department deposit.

A Post Office spokesman said there was no way of telling who had passed the counterfeit bill.

According to a Pampa police report the bogus bill had a good likeness to a regular $20 bill but was not like bogus bills passed here last year.

FUNDS STILL NEEDED

Ex-Pampam Will Do Research on Cancer

Dr. Donald Ray Shepherd, who was born in Pampa and spent his early childhood here, has received a fellowship grant from the Texas Division of the American Cancer Society for the period of July 1, 1969, through June 30, 1970, according to an announcement made at the recent mid-year executive meeting of the division held in San Antonio.

Mrs. Jack Foster and Mrs. Kermit B. Lawson, both from Pampa, were in attendance.

Dr. Shepherd was born in Pampa Sept. 7, 1935. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Shepherd were in business here at that time. They later moved to Denison, where Dr. Shepherd was graduated from high school.

He is a graduate of Austin College, Sherman, the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School, and interned at University Hospital, Little Rock, Ark. Dr. Shepherd is now with Baylor University Medical Center, Dallas, and maintains his home in Richardson. He is married and the father of three children. He holds membership in the Phi Chi Medical Fraternity and the American Society of Clinical Pathology.

Dr. Shepherd's project, regarded as having great merit in cancer research by the fellowship committee, is stated as follows: "To determine the levels of trace elements in serum and tissue of patients with lymphoma and leukemia and to utilize the serum levels as an aid to diagnosis, response to therapy, and follow-up care and the tissue levels as an indication of tumor metabolism."

Dr. Shepherd's grandfather, Leslie Shepherd, is a resident of Pampa. His great-grandfather, Cal Shepherd moved to the White Deer Community in 1908 and a number of relatives still reside in the area.

Mrs. Inez Carter, Pampa, made the first donation of a $3,600 Fellowship to the Texas Division in 1961 which launched the Fellowship Program of the Texas Division. Fourteen such fellowship grants were made for the current fiscal year. The grants are considered a very vital program of the American Cancer Society. With the ever-increasing breakthroughs in research the program is said to be in need of being enlarged and the amount of each fellowship increased to keep pace with the rising costs in research equipment.

The national board of the American Cancer Society awarded 112 new research grants totaling $7 1/2 million for fiscal 1969-70. Twenty-six other grants also were approved.

State Welfare Commissioner To Visit Pampa

Burton G. Hackney, state welfare commissioner, will be in Pampa this week for two speaking engagements.

Commissioner Hackney will speak at the noon luncheon of the Pampa Lions Club on Thursday and at the Friday luncheon of the Downtown Kiwanis Club.

Both meetings are scheduled at First Methodist Church.

Prior to his appointment as commissioner in December of 1966, Hackney served on the State Board of Public Welfare for 12 years. He was chairman of the board for eight years.

Before moving to Austin to take the post as state commissioner, Hackney practiced law in Brownfield for 32 years.

His visit to Pampa will mark the commissioner's first trip to the Texas Panhandle.

Summer (Continued From Page 1) across the state with scattered showers are predicted in the southwest and along the coast.

But cheer up. Nothing lasts forever. Beginning Tuesday the days start to shorten and depreciation will be steady and sure leading up to the year's shortest—and hopefully coolest day, Dec. 21.

New Books

SEVEN CONQUESTS — Paul Anderson; seven tales of war and peace in the not-so-far-off world of the future.

THE CARE AND FEEDING OF YOUR DIABETIC CHILD — Sally Vanderpool; an optimistic approach to the control of childhood diabetes... valuable information and instruction for parent and child.

THE SINO-VARIANT — Allison Lind; in this taut, sophisticated tale of international dimensions, Colonel Lind ingeniously involves his reader in minute-by-minute, mesmerizing suspense.

AWAY FROM IT ALL — Sloan Wilson; the story of what happened when the author decided to abandon a luxurious apartment, to cast off the false securities of too much alcohol and too hectic a social life in order to live on his yacht, act as his own crew and cruise the coastal waters with his wife and child.

YELLOW FLOWERS IN THE ANTIPODEAN ROOM — Janet Frame; novel of a man who was pronounced dead as the result of an accident, but who had the dubious fortune of "coming back to life" after being in a coma for 36 hours.

THE ARTICULATE WOMAN — Evelyn Oppenheimer; the first book on public speaking written to and for the woman speaker — to help her to be a better and more effective speaker anywhere, anytime.

BULLET PARK — John Cheever; the story of two men, Elliot Nailles and Paul Hammer, who are linked together by a mysterious binding power; and a third crucial character, Tony Nailles, 17 years old, who holds — and is in — the bag.

TEACHING MONTESSORI IN THE HOME — Elizabeth G. Hainstock; for the first time you can give your child the benefits of the dramatically successful Montessori method of education at home — easily and inexpensively, with actual classroom activities, adapted for the home.

In 1965 President Johnson signed a four-billion, $700-million income tax bill.

The Crazy World That Is Washington

By LEON BURNETT
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — Odds and ends from the nation's capital, mostly odd.

The American Society of Oral Surgery, in solemn conclave in Washington, decided to hold a news conference.

Word went forth via public relations teletype, telephone calls and something approaching a barrage of printed announcements.

Reporters converged, drawn by phrasology that evoked visions of some significant informational breakthrough thanks to a survey the society has conducted.

The big news? Oral surgeons questioned have the decided impression that facial injuries have increased somewhat during the campus and city riots.

Wayward words:
 The weather bureau caused considerable indecision as to the choice of wearing apparel on the day it reported by teletype that the high temperature would be in "the mid 00s."

In the United States Senate and its committee hearings, the utterances tend toward the formal and the fancy.

US Withdrawal Not Sufficient Negotiator Says

PARIS (UPI) — Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong's chief negotiator at the Vietnam peace conference, said today withdrawal of all U.S. troops from South Vietnam would not be enough for peace in Vietnam.

"It is necessary that the Americans withdraw not only all their troops, but also all their materiel, and that without condition," she said as she left Paris for a visit to East Germany.

In the first comment by an official of the Communist side on President Nixon's promise to withdraw more troops from South Vietnam, she said, "the deeds of the American government do not correspond to the statements of President Nixon."

Again rejecting Nixon's call for a mutual U.S. and North Vietnamese troop withdrawal from South Vietnam, Mme. Binh said, "the Americans are the aggressors and must withdraw. But the Vietnamese evidently cannot withdraw from their own country."

BELL PONTIAC is now an American Motors Dealer.

Come in and kick my tires. When you bounce your foot off the tires of an American Motors' car, you'll also have a chance to bounce your eyes off the body.

Which is some treat. Especially if it's the new Javelin, the hot sporty car that's high on sex appeal and low on price.

We've got the new Ambassador, too. The SST 4-door sedan comes with standard air-conditioning, and optional velvet velour seats, just like a limousine. Except a lot less expensive.

Maybe the most kickable tires of all are on the Rebel. In fact, the whole Rebel is kickable. It's the family car that dared to cross the treacherous Baja Peninsula—and survived.

Then there's the Rambler. It's the car that made American Motors' reputation as a maker of tight-fisted compacts.

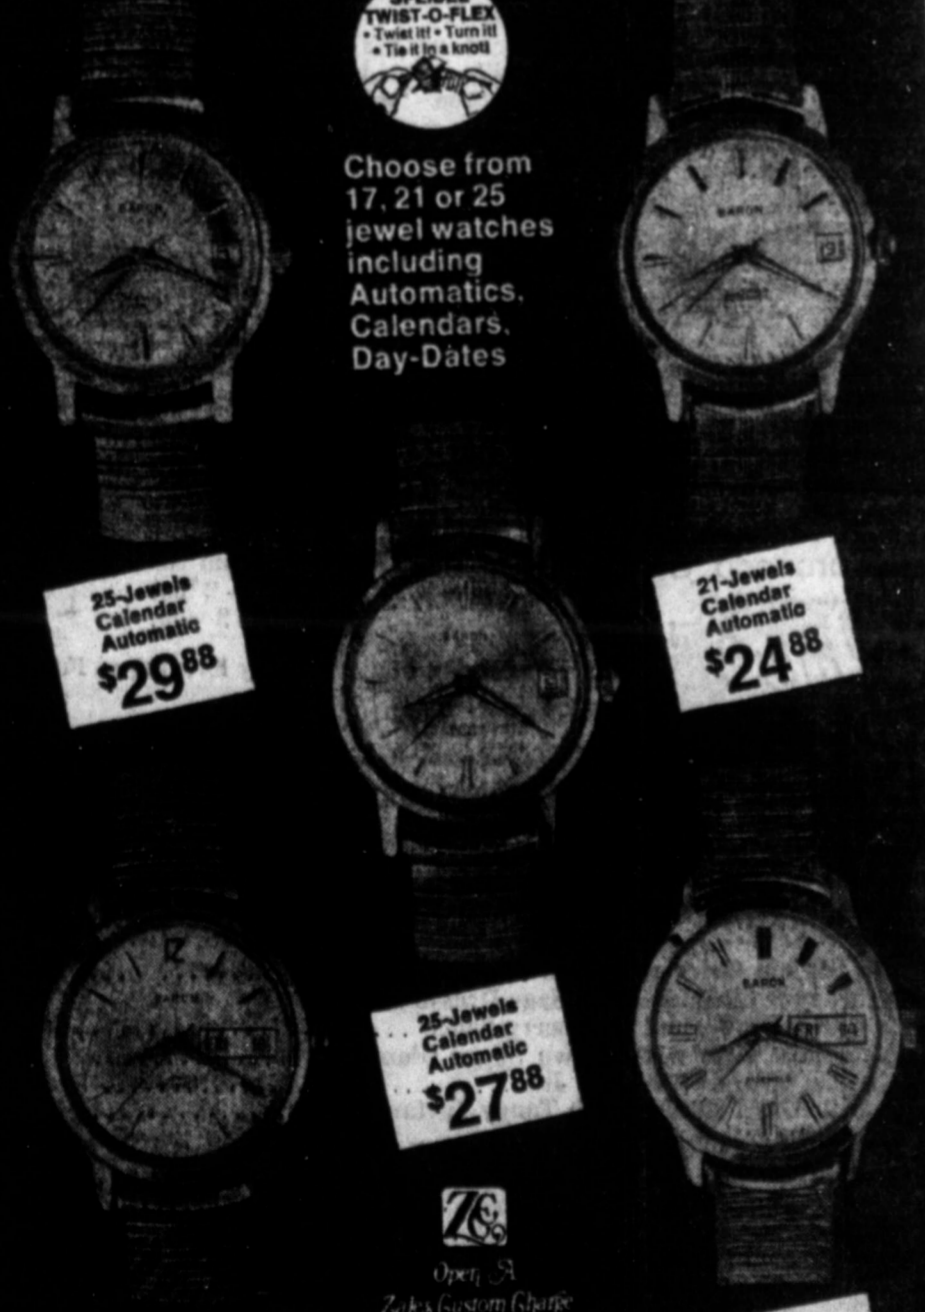

The AMX, though, is the car that's unmaking that reputation. Because, while it is tough and little, it's also one of the flashiest two-seater sports cars around.

All in all, we've got a great line-up of new cars. You can kick our tires all you want, but you won't find anything else to kick about.

State's Future For 50 Years May Be Decided Aug. 5 at Polls

The course that Texas will take well into the next century will be determined by voters Aug. 5 when they decide the fate of Amendment No. Two to the Texas Water Plan. The amendment would authorize the Texas Water Development Board to issue $3.5 billion in bonds to finance the state's share of the Water Plan.

A member of the Governor's Committee of 500, the money will provide temporary financing which will be repaid by water users. The Amendment also removes the 4 per cent ceiling on Water Development Bonds.

The objective of the plan is to provide adequate water to maintain the growth and prosperity of Texas into the next century when a population of 3.5 million is forecast for the state. The plan provides for the full development of the state's water resources and the importation of surplus water from the lower Mississippi River for distribution to areas with declining water resources.

Texas Beef Still Bargain Among Grocery Choices

FORT WORTH, Texas, — Critics of rising beef prices received a sharp reply from the president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, T. L. Roach Jr. of Amarillo, at the meeting of TSCRA directors in Abilene Saturday. "Beef is still a bargain today," said Roach and he listed numerous facts to support his statement, facts which the public in general is not aware of.

Beef is still a bargain today. The prices received by the producer and feeder at the present time are no higher than they were 17 or 18 years ago. During this same period, general inflation has brought about price increases for all goods and services in excess of 40 per cent. During this same time, per capita disposable income increased 50 per cent. Yet beef today is at the same price structure of 18 years ago. One hour's labor today buys 3 1/2 pounds of beef versus under 3 pounds just 10 years ago — or to compare it to 20 years ago, consumers are getting 66 per cent more beef for the same percentage of after-tax income. In addition, the consumer is getting a far better product than 10 years ago. Over two-thirds of today's beef has spent time in a feedlot, compared to only 40 per cent a few short years ago, resulting in increased tenderness, flavor, and desirability.

Recent price increases and statements appearing in the news media do not give the public the entire case and beef industry spokesmen are indicating that the industry is greedily holding back animals to force prices up artificially, and that indicate that beef prices are unjustifiably high. The reverse is actually true.

Agriculturally Speaking

By Jesse Hoermann, Asst. County Agricultural Agent

At the time of this writing, everyone is still anxious about getting into the wheat fields. I know all the wheat farmers are and the business men ought to be a little worried also.

Many of the custom cutters have already pulled out and headed north due to previous commitments.

There are not many complaints from the people with cattle on grass. The grass across the area already looks good and should get better.

Ruben Baggerman is cooperating with us on a wheat variety test plot one mile north of Grandview school on the George E. Collingsworth farm. There are 11 different varieties. Several are late maturing and indications are that there would be some good wheat to graze out. The varieties will be harvested and taken to the Bushland Experiment Station to get the yields and weights. Results will be published in the 1969 Result Demonstration Handbook. We should have the results in about 2 months.

If we ever get the wheat out, there are still plenty of good boys looking for tractor jobs, that have passed our tractor safety school course. Please contact Kenneth Heflin if you need a good boy.

Everyone needs to encourage our youth to become a part of the 4-H program. 4-H is available for all youth between the ages of 9 and 19. 4-H character and good citizens. This is a time when we really need to think about our youth. Projects are available for all. 4-H is not only for farm youth but urban youth as well. Let's encourage our youth to take a part.

Ranchers and feeders, like other businesses, have been faced with increased costs of production which have almost doubled in the past 20 years and resulted in the selling price of their product being at or below the break-even point of the cost of production. Even with today's improved prices, the cattle industry is receiving a disproportionately lower amount for what they sell in comparison to what they buy, and cattlemen are receiving returns on their investments considerably below any other industry.

Recent price increases and statements appearing in the news media do not give the public the entire case and beef industry spokesmen are indicating that the industry is greedily holding back animals to force prices up artificially, and that indicate that beef prices are unjustifiably high. The reverse is actually true.

Report Acreages By August 15, ASCS Reminds

Final date for reporting acreages of cotton, corn and grain sorghums for harvest is Aug. 15, according to spokesmen for the Gray County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Diverted acres also must be determined by the same date. Farmers are encouraged to report these acres when plantings have been completed. The papers will be processed in the county offices after the report has been sent in for payment. Payments for farms in both the wheat and feed grain programs will not be made until after Sept. 1, but the papers can be processed for earlier payment if the acreage is reported early.

Farmers are reminded that diverted acres may not be grazed until Oct. 15. These acres cannot be harvested in any way this year.

If requested before Aug. 1, measurement service is available at $7 plus $2 for each plot over one.

The wheat loan rate for grain stored in Gray County is $1.26. Storage will be deducted from the date of deposit in the elevator. There is also a premium for high protein, as in past year.

Producers participating in the 1969 wheat program are eligible for CCC wheat loans on the 1969 crop.

Angus Breeders Meet July 25 At Columbia

One of the major beef cattle attractions of 1969 will start July 23 at the University of Missouri-Columbia, when cattlemen from every part of the nation gather for the 15th American Angus Conference and the first National Junior Angus Heifer Show. The event will conclude at noon on July 25.

The highlight of the gathering will be the heifer show, the first of its kind ever held. It will start at 8 a.m. Thursday, July 24 in the University's new livestock center. The classes will be limited to 20 head so there is a narrow range of age in each class. The biggest innovation in the show will be added premiums paid to the youngsters who have had their heifers measured in the Angus Herd Improvement Records program. Those who have measured the weaning age, grade and weight will receive an additional 25 percent added prize money. If the winner is also the breeder he will get another added 25 percent.

The potential first prize will be $75. The idea behind the show is to promote the use of production records in order to help junior members learn more about the individuality and growth rate of their heifers. Judge of the show will be Robert Totusek, Oklahoma State University, Stillwater, who also will conduct a demonstration of "What to Look For When Watching an Angus Show" on Friday morning.

The event will start with registration beginning at 3 p.m. on Wednesday, July 23 at the University's Livestock Center and in the lobby of the Ramada Inn. Welcoming the group to the University and Columbia will be Dr. Elmer Kiehl, dean of agriculture. A special dinner and dance will be held for junior members at the Memorial Student Union.

The conference program will start following the selection of the champions in the heifer show. Leading speakers will be L. S. Pope, Texas A & M University, College Station, who will discuss "Designing Your Program to Breed a More Efficient Cow Herd", and Lloyd D. Miller, secretary of the American Angus Association, St. Joseph, Missouri, who will outline "Your Association's Goals in the sweeping Seventies".

A panel of leading Angus cattlemen will explain how they have used production records in their herd to improve efficiency of production.

Dates To Remember

Some "final" dates for Gray County farmers to remember, according to Evelyn Mason of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, are: June 30—Repay 1968 grain sorghum loan, or request extension of 1968 loan; July 1—Request New Grower Feed Grain base; Aug. 1—Request measurement service on cotton and seed grain; Aug. 15—Report final cotton, feed grain and diverted acres.

Panhandle Water

By Felix W. Ryals
The Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District, sponsors on an annual basis, essay contests using the topic "Why the Importance of Water Conservation".

Eighty-three seniors from high schools within the district wrote essays on water conservation during the spring of 1969. The essay contest was begun in 1958. Comparing essays written 11 years ago with those written in 1969, reveals that the high school senior of 1969 has a much greater awareness of the value of water and of the important part it plays in the life of the people.

One of the fine 1969 essays was written by Patricia O'Neal of Panhandle. In today's column we are carrying a portion of her essay in order to let you know what our teenager thinks about water:

"If water were not so commonplace in our everyday lives, we would look upon this marvelous liquid with utter astonishment. It is composed of two of the most common elements on earth, hydrogen and oxygen. Together, they create the only liquid that forms naturally on the earth's surface, a simple, sparkling substance which rises and falls in ocean tides, spirals and crashes in surf, forms fluffy clouds, and reflects the splendor of sunsets."

"Water's marvelous properties are caused by its unusual molecular structure. Water can absorb more heat than almost any other common substance without rise in temperature. The capacity to hold heat is important to life. Thus, the ancient oceans were able to be magnificent reservoirs of energy absorbed from sunlight. In this environment living cells developed, and thereafter water continued to quicken the chemical reactions of the energy systems of living organisms."

"When plants and animals emigrated from the sea, elaborate arrangements had to be made to keep every cell in their bodies in a watery environment. Because of this, it takes a lot of water to sustain life. The human body is 70 per cent water. In an adult, water comprises 80 per cent of the blood, 75 per cent of the muscle. The material of bones is 25 to 30 percent water. This water level must be maintained—a man can die of dehydration within six days.

"Water did not create life—it did assemble the necessary elements and bring it forth. Everything living is dependent on water for its existence. When water appears, life as we know it appears. Water is a miraculous liquid that makes our world possible.

"The extent of water's importance is readily visible to me on our farm. The 'weather man' seems to control the levers for operations. Grass grows green and luxuriant; seeds pop up, yielding abundant crops; healthy, black calves frisk in the morning dew; and the entire scene tends to look brighter when there has been plenty of rain.

But let there be a drought and the scene changes to one less fruitful. A worried glare on my father's face changes to a look of relief when a hopeful water well becomes reality. When our water pump breaks and leaves us without water, we feel as if 'Dame Fortune' has truly frowned on us. The inconvenience done just to daily chores is immeasurable.

"Yet we never fully appreciate water until it is not there. My family is just one small consumer unit used as an example, but when there are millions of consumer units in the United States just like our family, water certainly becomes more important."

4-H Corner

By Jesse Hoermann

Asst. County Agricultural Agent

Texas has been selected as one of the states to receive grants from the Readers Digest Foundation for 4-H Citizenship in Action. Any county, club, or local 4-H group may develop a project proposal for grants from $50 to $500. The money will be used for the cost of conducting the program.

Examples of programs are: camps for disadvantaged youth, forming sewing groups in town and citizenship workshops.

Please contact the office immediately if you are interested or have any ideas for a project just a club or the county 4-H'ers could do.

The 4-H County Horse show has been rescheduled for Friday, June 27 at 6 p.m. It will be at the Top O' Texas Rodeo Arena.

Skip Youngblood will return from Washington, D. C. about June 24 and should be able to share some good experiences of the Citizenship short course and visits to interesting points in Washington.

Let's get those letters in on the camp and picnic August 23-25 so that plans can be made.

Top O' Texas 4-H Meets

At the Top O' Texas 4-H Club meeting Monday Margaret Wilkes recited the motto, Della Epps the pledge, Prayer was offered by Jodie Erwin and Patsy Kelley gave the inspirational reading.

Other reports were by Regina Atwood, clothing, and Ted Atwood, tractor.

Coming dates stressed were the white elephant sale July 15-16, dress parade July 19, and the rodeo parade July 22.

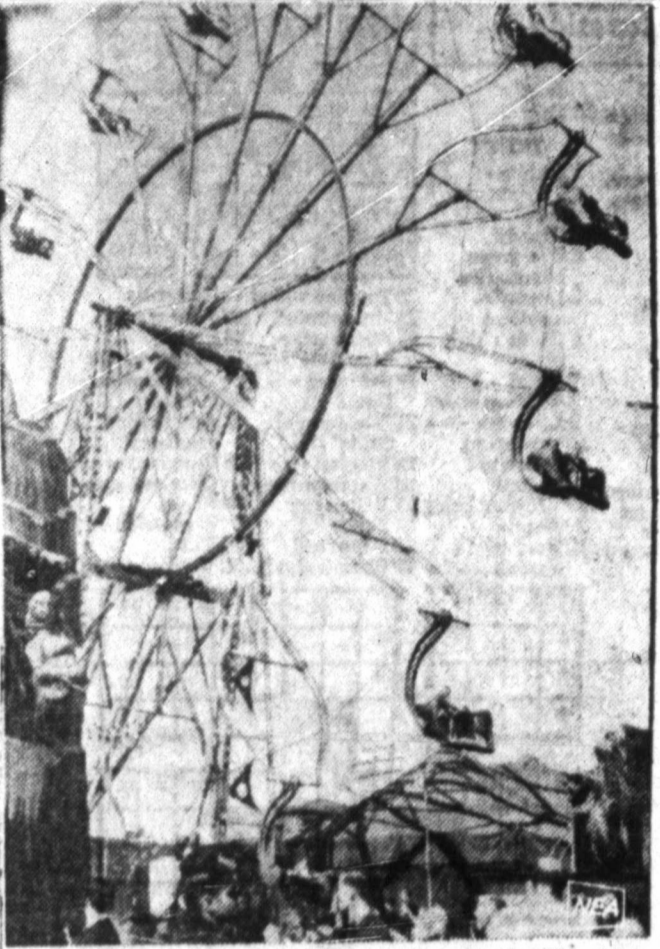

A water safety program was presented by Pete Erwin after which members went swimming.

Sale of Pop-Master Memphis' Beale St. Is Now Just 'A' Name

On Rise At Cabot

BY RUTH LEWIS

When Jerry R. Stewart spoke at a recent Lions Club Luncheon recently he was introduced as the "Number One Person" the Japanese minister of agriculture was coming to this country to see.

The second, said Eddie Polnic, Lions public relations chairman, was President Nixon.

Stewart, of Cabot Corporation's machinery division, admits the introduction was a playful one, but he did, in fact, meet at Hereford the following week with the agriculture minister and several ranking politicians from Japan.

"These of course were not buyers, Stewart says, "but they were gathering all the information possible about the new Pop-Master and considering its potential."

The Cabot company's new machine which converts milo into a fluffy product similar to popcorn and with a tantalizing aroma, is making new friends almost daily, Stewart admits.

The Pop-Master was unveiled in April by Cabot at an open house for cattle feeders and buyers. Enthusiasm was high from the first. The advantage of this new machine, invented by a Texan named Newman Sachnik, of San Angelo, and manufactured right here in Pampa, is three-fold over the former steam-flaking method, Stewart says. The ration is more appealing to the cattle eat more; it is highly digestible, so they get hungry faster; it already has been proved to bring about 10 per cent higher gains in the cattle fed.

Visitors to the Cabot plant at the unveiling admitted the smell of the popping grain was so intriguing they tried a handful and it was delicious.

Gene Newman, owner of Veribest Cattle Feeders, San Angelo, commented after using the machine. "We have finished 1582-head on popped milo and the cattle performance was fully as good as on steam-flaked milo." Indeed, Newman added, "Popping makes mincing a pleasure. The difference is in cost of operation and in convenience."

One lot of 70 heifers on a ration of 89 per cent popped grain ate 17.89 pounds of feed per day, a conversion of 6.69. He fed an adjoining pen of 70 heifers steam-flaked ration and the latter lot ate almost 10 per cent less feed. Their gain was 10 per cent lower also.

Stewart said the machine is "the only one of its kind in the world."

Sales are really starting to boom, the machinery division official says. "We have sold a few and have orders for five more. There is a potential already of 34 additional machines."

When the Pampa plant gets into production it can turn out the huge machines at the rate of two a week.

There have been inquiries from Italy, Spain, Germany, England and Japan, Stewart said.

There has been no advertising campaign so far. The machine has simply sold itself up to this point, Stewart added.

In 1968 more than 50,000 persons took part in a "Poor People's March" in Washington.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (NEA) — "I've been trying to get the old man to move away from here for years," smiled Maurice Hulbert Jr., a lanky young man in his 20s. Leaning against a printing press, one ear cocked to the unsteady beat of an air conditioner, Hulbert nodded toward his father. "He talks about it sometimes," the son continued, "but they will carry him out in a box. Beale Street is in his blood."

"It all started here a long time ago," explains Hulbert Sr., a nattily attired Negro in his 70s. "This is the cradle of the only original American art form. This is where the blues were born. This, mister, is Beale Street."

Hulbert says the name with pride. He's the mayor of Beale Street, the oldtimers tell you, and he remembers things as they once were.

This year marks the 150th birthday of this bustling Mississippi River port and "The Mayor" has seen a lot of its history written right here on Beale. Once it rivaled Greenwich Village for color and notoriety. Both have slipped a long way.

Shade your eyes to the sun and squint through the timeworn window of Hulbert's print shop and you can see Beale Street as it is today — the way his son sees it.

"Nothing here," says the young man, downing a soft drink. "Nothing but old buildings and old men and memories of a lot of things that probably never happened in the first place. There's still good music — Booker T. lives here and Johnny Winter and Albert King are in town this weekend, but they're not on Beale Street. Nothing is."

Whatever it once was, Beale isn't much today. The official Memphis guidebook calls it dilapidated, which is being kind. The Memphis Housing Authority sees Beale not as it is or was but as it will be after a $240 million urban renewal project plows under the rubble and gives birth to a "blue-light" district of night clubs and restaurants reminiscent of Beale Street's colorful past."

Whatever that means, it's bound to be an improvement. But the old ways die hard in places like this and the future can be frightening to the hardy handful of Beale Streeters who were here shortly after the turn of the century when W. C. Handy used to spread his music sheets on the cigar counter of Pee Wee's saloon. Handy wrote "The Memphis Blues" at Pee Wee's, getting his inspiration from the street, but that was a long, long time ago.

"The white kids like the blues," says Hulbert the elder, shutting the door to his shop behind him and stepping into the mind-bending heat, "and Handy would have liked that. His music was for everybody. If you ask me, he was way ahead of his time."

Walking along Beale, past the long-boarded-up Daisy Theater, where the rank smell of urine fills the air, the ghosts of happier times are everywhere — and Handy's spirit dominates the street. His statue casts a giant shadow from its perch in Handy Park, where pigeons land disrespectfully on the stone likeness of the great man's trumpet and sleeping drifters take cover from the sun.

"Back around 1910," Hulbert recalls, "things were really happening around here. Handy was at his best and there was gambling and corn whisky and policy houses and plenty of women and good times. Lots of things went on here that wasn't right with the law, but they were right as far as we were concerned. As the kids say now, we were doing our own thing."

Which may explain why, on a blistering Saturday with the temperature nudging the 97-degree mark at noon, a half-dozen white kids from half a country away walk down Beale, shading their eyes from the sun, searching for the truth.

"I didn't come all the way down here to see a lot of broken-down buildings and cracked-up sidewalk," explains Bob Thomas, a New Yorker who says he's skipping his college graduation to be here for a blues festival. "I came to hear the music, but I figured that as long as I'm here I might just as well see the street. This is where 'soul' was born, in the truest sense of the word. When you listen to Winter or Jimi Hendrix, or Janis Joplin or Charley Musselwhite, you know their roots are here, even if they have never been near this street. If it hadn't been for Handy, there wouldn't be much worth listening to today."

And so it is that the late W. C., a quiet genius whose music made other people rich, has taken his place today as the man who closed the generation gap. Those who remember him well don't seem too surprised by his most recent accomplishment.

"Handy wasn't much when it came to getting paid," recalls Robert Henry, a 79-year-old pool room operator. "I remember when his band used to make $2.50 a night right across the street from my place. Funny thing was, the white folks always liked Handy the most. The blacks never did think too much of him until he packed up and moved to New York."

"But Handy's music was the real thing. The songs of the fields, the long days in the sun, the hard times, it was all there. Handy told it was a long time before anybody thought up that expression. First time I heard it, I thought they must have had Handy in mind when they made it up."

A block or so away, in a house that's scheduled to be torn down to make way for that $240 million project, Otto Lee, a member of Handy's last band, collects pictures and clippings of his former friend and waits for the bulldozer.

"I used to call him Professor Handy told it like it was a long pleasant voice. "There were other bands but Handy was the master. He wanted to have a band that would make headlines from Beale Street to Broadway, but it never worked out. Professor Handy would have liked things the way they are today. He was such an honest man who believed in love and kindness that he would have liked playing for these young folks."

Just around the corner, in an old hotel that has seen better days, Sun Smith, a blind trumpeter well into his 70s, fingers his horn while sitting in the breeze of a fan and gets ready to go.

PARIS (UPI)—Allied and Communist delegates to the Vietnam peace talks conferred in one of their longest semisecret negotiating sessions yet in Thursday's 22nd formal meeting.

Allises Confer With Communist In Long Session

President Nixon said in Washington he hoped to see some progress in the talks within the next two to three months. He did not elaborate. Lawrence E. Walsh, acting head of the U.S. negotiating team, said the exchange Thursday between the four delegations was "extensive." Asked if he considered it "a day of no progress," Walsh replied "on a day-to-day basis, I don't think progress can be measured."

The prepared statements of the four delegations in the formal sessions are made public but the exchanges between negotiators that follow are not. It was this semisecret period which lasted longer than most such sessions since the talks began.

In the main session of the talks Thursday, the United States and South Vietnamese challenged the Communist side to submit its claims of popular support to the test of free and internationally supervised elections.

Social Security Questions Answers

Q. I recently married a widow who receives social security benefits for her three year old son. If I adopt this child, will the benefits stop?

A. No, adoption by a stepfather will not affect the child's right to the benefit checks. However, your wife should notify us of the adoption since it will require a change in the child's name on our records. Adoption of a child beneficiary by someone other than a stepparent, grandparent, aunt, uncle, brother, or sister will terminate the child's benefits.

Q. Most of what I have heard about disability insurance benefits under social security applies to persons with a physical disability. Would a person suffering from a mental illness be eligible for benefits?

A. Possibly. There are different types of mental illness, and each of these vary greatly in degree of severity. If the illness is so severe that it prevents the person from doing substantial gainful work, he should be eligible, provided he also met the requirements for past work history.

Q. I retired at age 65 and my Medicare medical insurance premium is being deducted from my benefit check. If I return to work and stop my benefits, how will I pay my premium?

A. You will receive a premium billing notice every three months. A card and envelope will be enclosed for you to use in mailing your payment.

Q. I am 64, but I have never applied for social security retirement benefits although I have not worked in seven years. When do I apply for the back pay to the month I was 62?

A. Back payments can be made for only one year. If you apply in this month, you may receive checks starting with June of last year. For others who may be interested, back payments can be made only for past months a person is eligible, that is, when he is old enough, is insured, and meets the retirement requirements. . . and such payments can be made for not more than a year back.

Q. I recently sent in your post card form to check my social security record. The statement I received shows earnings of only $3,000 for 1967, although I earned over the maximum of $6,600 in 1967. How do I get this straightened out?

A. You should come by the social security office and we will investigate the matter for you. Bring your 1967 Form W-2 with you as evidence of your earnings.

Aggie Sophomore Breaks World 440 Mark

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Sophomore Curtis Mills of Texas A&M, a journalism major who wants to be a sports writer, cracked the world record in the 440-yard dash and upset Olympic champion Lee Evans of San Jose in the process Saturday with a time of 44.7 seconds in the NCAA track and field championships.

Another sophomore, Marty Liquori of Villanova, upset world record-holder Jim Ryun of Kansas in the mile event, with a stunning time of 3:57.7, an NCAA meet record.

The Pampa Daily News

San Jose edged Kansas by three points, 48 to 45 for the team title. Washington State and Oregon State tied for third with 40 points each and UCLA was fifth with 39. Southern California, last year's champion, finished eighth with 33 points.

Wehrwein of Michigan State third in 45.7. "I felt that during the race this would be my fastest run," Mills said. "I passed Evans 50 yards from the finish. I could see him out to the side as I crossed the tape."

Evans said he thought he had it won after he passed Larry James of Villanova, the only man to beat him, previously. "I wasn't thinking about anyone else," he said.

Seagren missed in three attempts at 18 feet. Dick Fosbury of Oregon State, who again delighted his "Fosbury flop," also set an audience with his backward NCAA record at winning the high jump in 7-2 1/2.

Sun Devils Pound Tulsa For Crown

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—The Arizona State Sun Devils won the 1969 College World Series Friday night, soundly thumping Tulsa 10-1.

Lefty Larry Gura pitched a strong six-inning lead the Sun Devils to the championship.

Gura, making his fourth appearance in the tournament which opened a week ago, registered his 19th victory of the year against only two losses. He struck out 10 and was never threatened seriously after Tulsa took a brief 1-0 lead.

Douglass Into One Stroke Lead In Kemper Open Golf

By DAVID MOFFIT
UPI Sports Writer
CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UPI)—Dale Douglass, whose only tournament victory came earlier this year right here in North Carolina at the Azalea Open, grabbed the third-round of the $150,000 Kemper Open Saturday by sinking a final-hole birdie putt for a 9-under-par 207. The 33-year-old Douglass, a pro for nearly a decade before getting his first win at Wilmington, N. C., in April, shot a 4-under-par 68 over the sun-baked Quail Hollow course to take a one-stroke lead over Masters champion George Archer and New Zealand left-hander Bob Charles, both at 208.

The dark, lanky Douglass, who has won nearly $50,000 already this year and who could move among the top six money winners by grabbing the $30,000 top prize here, started the day locked in an eight-way tie for second place, a stroke behind second-round leader Charles. A scrambling, seven-birdie, three-bogie round had Douglass in and out of the lead throughout the long, hot afternoon. But he moved into a tie with Archer by sinking a 10-foot birdie putt at No. 16—then went in front with another 18-footer at 18.

"Even though I made a lot of birdies, I was all over the course today," Douglass said. "I'll try to change the final round Sunday."

Archer, who shared the first-round lead with a 67 and soared to a 73 Friday, came back with a 68 Saturday while Charles had a 70.

Lionel Hebert, coming out of nowhere with birdies on the last two holes shot a 5-under-par 67 Saturday to tie for fourth place at 209 with England's Tony Jacklin who shot a 70 and Australian Bruce Crampton who had a 69.

Steve Rogers, who went the first 5 2-3 innings for the Hurricane, took the loss, his first against eight victories.

Arizona State tied the game in the bottom of the second and then came up with three runs in each of the third, fifth and sixth innings.

Billy Cotton pulled a three-run homer in the fifth and John Dolinsek, later to be named the most outstanding player in the series, hit a blast over the right field wall with one aboard in the sixth to wind up the scoring.

The Sun Devils, who won will not start until after the previous national titles in 1965 and 1967, finished this season with a record of 56-11, while Tulsa completed the year with a mark of 39-5.

Gura gave up Tulsa's only run when Steve Caves tripped to right center and was singled home by Bob Murphy. After that no Tulsa runner got past second.

By LEE MUELLER
HOUSTON—(NEA)—Forget the animals that Joe Namath and Paul Newman stir in the bosoms of America's female population. So what if Clark Gable could wiggle his ears? Feast your eyes, gentlemen, on Miller Barber, golf's gift to the Bromo Seltzer generation.

As sex symbol, Miller Barber comes on with all the charisma of Buddy Hackett with his shirt off.

Barber is, nevertheless, a sex symbol, a 37-year-old beacon of hope for American males unfortunate enough to have been born ugly. (After blowing up in the final round of the U.S. Open—he led the field by three strokes after three rounds and wound up trailing by three—unfortunate, indeed, is the best word to describe Miller Barber.)

Great folds of fat hang from Barber's belly. His hair is colored a delicate bald. His face, usually red, is of a nondescript quality that swoops gracefully from his broad forehead to disappear somewhere in his second chin.

Blotting out the middle of Barber's face are the omnipresent sunglasses. (No one has ever seen his eyes.) Prescribed to correct his critical nearsightedness, the shades instead of being cool and suave are the goggle and wire type generally associated with motorcycle cops or bus drivers.

When Barber speaks, it is with a shy, whispering twang not easily understood. One usually cannot tell whether he just described a birdie putt or how to plow out the bottom 40.

Finally, Barber says, he sweats a lot. "Oh man, ah'm 'bout to die," he says, sticking a finger in a white towel and wiping his eyes beneath his sunglasses.

Yet, as was observed here during the U.S. Open, women love Miller Barber. Pretty women. Pretty young women. Pretty blonde young women.

Some golfers say Barber is a loner—the mysterious Mr. X behind the sunglasses, they call him. Not true, he says. "I like people as much as anybody, but explain what it was about Miller Barber that "turned her on." She laughed. "There's something different about Miller," she said. "He does not turn me on the way Arnold Palmer turns me on, if you know what I mean, but he's so nice you just like him—a lot."

Being a bachelor on the pro golf tour has been depicted as lonely by some fellows, says Barber, "but it all depends on who the bachelor is."

Jerry Quarry in Madison Square Garden.

"Some of the writers have written some bad stuff about me because they say I'm not friendly," Frazier, an 11-5 favorite said, "but put them in my place and see if they would spend as much time as I do answering the same questions a hundred times. I've got one thing on my mind right now. I've come too far and now that I have that title I'm not going to let anyone take it away."

Maybe Joe doesn't punch as hard as most people say, and maybe he is a stubby guy. But he is able to destroy his opponents' will to fight by pumping away for three minutes in every round and shaking off their punches.

"I always give 'em a good show," Frazier said. "Always come out smoking, and that's the way it's gonna be against Quarry. He says he's gonna knock me out in five, but if he fools around with me he ain't gonna see the fifth round."

"I'm just a little guy," he added, "but when I get out there in the ring and feel the power behind those punches, I feel powerful. It's hard to describe the feeling against a big opponent."

Frazier has literally shattered the will of several opponents. George Chuvalo was never a great fighter, but he had a fierce pride in his record of always managing to go the full distance. With one punch, Frazier gashed open Chuvalo's eye, and he had to quit. Manuel Ramos of Mexico shook Frazier early in their bout, but a gesture of defeat a few minutes later under Frazier's barrage. Buster Mathis simply collapsed from the non-stop attack after 11 rounds.

Archer, who shared the first-round lead with a 67 and soared to a 73 Friday, came back with a 68 Saturday while Charles had a 70.

Lionel Hebert, coming out of nowhere with birdies on the last two holes shot a 5-under-par 67 Saturday to tie for fourth place at 209 with England's Tony Jacklin who shot a 70 and Australian Bruce Crampton who had a 69.

Sanders go out of the way to promote their playboy image. Barber plays quietly. Everywhere he goes, girls go. "I don't try to swing during a tournament, though," Barber says. "I usually go out on Mondays and Tuesdays... two scotch and waters are about all I ever drink."

Until last year, Barber was known in some circles as the black knight. His golf course costumes consisted mostly of garage door brown and basement black.

"Now look at all this," he says, stretching his neck back to look down under his sunglasses at his tangerine shirt. One wonders if his new wardrobe helped his bachelor pursuits.

"You bet your bottom, that is, dollar, it has," he says, grinning.

Now that he has made more than $250,000 in nine years on the pro tour and owns a country club near Dallas, Barber is thinking about quitting and getting married.

"The tour's not really a very glamorous life," he said. "Different hotels and different beds and different people every week." Anyway, he says, the idea of marriage is beginning to sound appealing.

"I've got five or six prospects," he said. "Swinging Susies. I'm thinking very seriously of making a move pretty soon."

Take your time, Miller. The world is full of ugly married men.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn says his continuous investigation of off-field and outside business activities by players and owners would eventually produce a set of guidelines to define what sort of connections were undesirable for the sport.

Kuhn made the comment Friday while disclosing that three club owners had advised him of their intention to terminate relationships as directors and shareholders of the Parvin-Dohrmann Company.

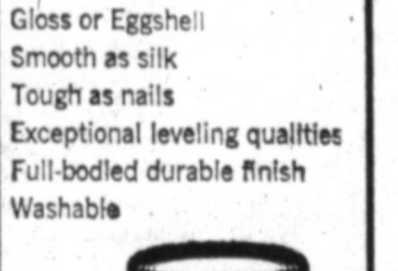

Parvin-Dohrmann, a restaurant and hotel supply company whose shares are publicly traded on the New York Stock Exchange, owns and operates the Fremont, Stardust and Aladdin Hotels in Las Vegas, Nev.

Kuhn said William C. Bartholomay and John J. Louis Jr., directors and stockholders of the Atlanta Braves; and Charles O. Finley, president of the Oakland Athletics advised him of their intentions to sell their holdings and terminate their relationships with Parvin-Dohrmann.

FRIDAY N.L. ROUNDUP

Honeymoon Ends for Durocher

By United Press International
 Manager Leo Durocher received a timely wedding present from his Chicago Cubs Friday—a 2-0 victory over the Montreal Expos.

The Cubs broke a five game losing streak with the help of Ernie Banks' bat and the pitching of Bill Hands as Durocher was handling the team for the first time since his marriage to Lynn Goldblat on Thursday.

Banks drove in the only run Hands needed in the first inning with a sacrifice fly and moved into a tie in the all-time runs batted in standings with Joe DiMaggio. It was the 1,337th

RBI of Banks career and placed him 15th on the all-time list.

Hands spaced five Expo hits as he earned his sixth win of the season and chalked up the 15th shutout pitched by a Cub this year.

In other National League action Houston swept San Diego 6-1 and 3-1. Los Angeles downed Cincinnati 4-2. New York edged St. Louis 4-3. Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh 8-7 and Atlanta defeated San Francisco in 12 innings 4-3.

In the American League Cleveland trounced Baltimore in the first game but the Orioles took the nightcap 5-1.

Washington downed Detroit in 10 innings 7-2. Chicago and California split a doubleheader, the Angels taking the first game 2-1 and the White Sox the second 9-1. Oakland nipped Minnesota 3-2. The New York Boston game was rained out.

The Cubs, who have led the Eastern Division from the first day of the season, went into a tailspin that saw them lose to Cincinnati and drop a four-game series to Pittsburgh. But on Thursday Durocher took time off to get married while his players had the day off.

The Mets continued to amaze by winning their 16th game in their last 20 starts. Cleon Jones' two-run single and a run-scoring triple by Ken Boswell as the Mets jumped to a 4-0 lead after two innings. Nolan Ryan, making his first start since May 3, worked the first six innings and Tug McGraw finished in stunning fashion by striking out the side in the ninth inning as a crowd of 54,083, the largest in the National League this season, roared its approval.

Bob Gibson suffered his fourth loss despite hitting his first homer of the season. Curt Flood and Vada Pinson drove in the other Cardinal runs.

Larry Dierker hurled a fourthitter and knocked in a run with a single while batterymate Johnny Edwards smacked a two-run triple to lead the Astros to their opening game win. Nate Colbert homered for the Padres, his 13th of the season.

In the second game reliever Gary Ross walked Doug Radar to force in the winning run in the seventh inning. Curt Blefary's double and Marty Martinez' sacrifice fly accounted for the other Astro runs.

Don Drysdale won his second straight game since coming off the disabled list June 13 and Jim Lefebvre drove in two runs to lead the Dodgers to victory. Drysdale allowed only three hits while working the first six innings.

Rick Joseph drove in Gene Stone with the winning run in the seventh inning and rookie Billy Wilson gained credit for his first major league victory with splendid relief as the Phillies overcame a 7-0 deficit to down the Pirates.

Bob Tillman slammed a home run with one out in the 12th off Frank Linzy as the Braves rallied to defeat the Giants. Homers by Rico Carty and Bob Aspromonte in the bottom of the ninth sent the game into extra-innings.

FRIDAY A.L. ROUNDUP

Healty Lopez Helps Baltimore

LUIS TIANT
 ... stops birds
 Major League Linescores

By United Press International
 Marcelino Lopez may start a ton-sillectomy rush.

Lopez, starting his first game Friday night after six relief appearances, teamed with Eddie Watt for a six-hitter as Baltimore downed Cleveland 5-1 after the Indians had snapped the Orioles' seven-game win streak in the opener with a 7-2 triumph.

Lopez credits his improved pitching with, of all things, the removal of his tonsils.

"My arm hurt me two years ago and it hasn't been right since," said Lopez, who began the season pitching for the Orioles' Rochester farm club in the International League.

"Then I had my tonsils taken out and that did the trick."

Don Buford, Paul Blair and Brooks Robinson homered in the second game to pace an hit Baltimore attack.

In the opener, Luis Tiant pitched an eight-hitter and hit a two-run homer for his fourth victory against eight losses.

Elsewhere, Washington ripped Detroit 7-2 in 10 innings. Kansas City beat Seattle 6-2 after the Pilots won the opener 3-3. Chicago belted California 9-1 after losing 2-1 in 12 innings and Oakland edged Minnesota 3-2 in 14 innings. The New York-Boston game was called in the first inning due to rain.

Brant Alyea's three-run pinch-hit homer capped a five-run rally in the 10th inning as the Senators snapped a four-game losing streak by beating the Tigers.

Reliever Don McMahon walked two batters and hit another to load the bases in the 10th John Hiller relieved and one run scored as Hank Allen hit into a force play and another came on when shortstop Mickey Stanley threw wildly past first attempting to complete the double play.

Dierker's Bat Finally Comes Alive

HOUSTON (UPI)—As an incomplete ballplayer, Larry Dierker of the Houston Astro stranks near the top.

The complete player, the experts say, is one who can hit, run and throw equally well. Dierker throws with the best and hits a little, but he flunks running.

He did a lot of throwing — pitching a four hitter—and a little hitting—driving in a run with a sixth inning single—to defeat the San Diego Padres Friday in the first game of a twilight doubleheader in the Astrodome.

The Astros, undefeated in three twin bills in the Dome, also won the second game, 3-1, behind the combined four-hit pitching of Jim Ray and Freddy

"Flintstone" Gladding.

Dierker, 9-5, runs to first base like he's carrying the entire Astro team, which he has on occasion this year. He goes to second even slower.

When he dumped his run-scoring single down the right field foul line, any other Astro would have been standing safely at second before the ball arrived. But the plodding Dierker could make it sliding.

Put the plodding Dierker can walk. He allowed only three singles and Nate Colbert's 13th home while striking out nine and pitching his seven the complete game. Colbert also batted in the Padres' run in the nightcap with a single after Jose Arcia's sixth inning triple.

New Marginal Vehicle Will Conquer Terrain

FORT BELVOIR, VA. (ANF) — The U.S. Army Combat Development Command (CDC), proposing a new Marginal Terrain Vehicle (MTV) for the Army's inventory. The vehicle would satisfy a long-standing requirement for a transporter capable of operating in marginal terrain as well as on solid ground. The personnel and equipment carrier is on sure footing in swamps, rice paddies, delta areas and inland waterways.

Additional adaptations specified by CDC would permit versatile transport in the deep snows and "muskeg" vegetation bogs of arctic and sub-arctic environments. The MTV is capable of carrying 14 passengers or a full infantry squad with equipment. It's 3000 pound payload also allows cross-country transport of platoon company and battalion materiel.

Lightweight materials and the unique "terra-tire" propulsion system tend to let the MTV operate on top of rather than in the terrain medium. This gives it great operability in the "twilight zone" where medium depth is such that a vehicle is neither actually afloat nor resting on firm ground. Knee-deep mud or mossy vegetation would be examples of the "twilight zone." A "step-climber," the MTV can pass over walls 30 inches high from initial "footing" having the consistency of a rice paddy.

Weighing four and a half tons, the vehicle is envisioned for use on a continuous basis in the forward combat area. Twenty feet long, it should maintain desirable speeds of 45 miles per hour on improved roads, 10 miles per hour in marginal terrain and 7 to 10 miles per hour in water. It can be delivered by parachute or carried as an external sling load by medium-lift helicopters.

When fielded, the MTV will give tactical units a greatly increased capability to conquer what soldiers call the "tyranny of terrain."

Inflation Giving Americans Pain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unchecked inflation is giving American consumers an acute pain in the pocketbook.

It also is causing concern—ranging from mild to serious—among bankers, economists, businessmen and union leaders, members of Congress and high government officials.

The measures on which President Nixon has been relying to curb inflation—namely credit restraints and a federal budget surplus—have thus far failed to cool the overheated economy. Further price rises, particularly on meat and other foods, appear to be in the cards for the immediate future.

Those were some of the findings in a nationwide survey by UPI of the impact of inflation. The 20-man reporting team which participated in the survey also found that:

Retail prices which rose 4.2 per cent in 1968 have risen so far this year at an annual rate of 7.5 per cent. Consumers are borrowing record sums despite the highest interest rates in history. Corporation profits, industrial wage levels and total output all are rising and adding ever more pressure to an economy that has been booming for 100 consecutive months.

Concern in official Washington has reached the point where Congress is virtually certain to grant President Nixon's request for a one-year extension of higher income and excise taxes now due to expire June 30.

Some government economists are now voicing private fears that the tax extension may prove to be too little and too late to halt the wage-price spiral that is eating away at the dollar's purchasing power.

So far, however, there is no serious prospect of the administration asking for or Congress approving wage-price controls.

No other drastic anti-inflation steps are presently contemplated by the administration.

President Nixon fears that too rapid an application of brakes might cause the economy to slide into a recession—something he is determined to avoid.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
 UPI Foreign News Analyst
 Window on the World:

Arms Talks:
 Soviet-American talks on strategic arms limitations, due to open shortly, will be tough. Diplomats in London expect it will take months for them to get down to specifics and perhaps years before firm agreements can be reached, if they ever are. The Russians want to enter the talks with rocket parity with the United States, or even a lead, so as to be able to negotiate from strength.

Philippines Switch?
 The Philippines may be on the verge of re-thinking its stand against the admission of Communist China into the United Nations. Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo already has come out in favor of Peking's membership in the non-military, non-ideologic Asian and Pacific Council (ASPAC). President Ferdinand E. Marcos has declared he favors peaceful co-existence with Red China in anticipation of eventual American withdrawal from Asia. Romulo's statement on possible inclusion of Communist China in ASPAC could be a trial balloon to test Filipino sentiment.

Out But Not Clear Out:
 No one in Paris diplomatic chanceries believes that Charles de Gaulle has withdrawn from the political arena for good after his humiliating April 27 referendum defeat that prompted him to resign. He readily accepted an offer of his heir, President Georges Pompidou, to put at his disposal a roomy office at Avenue de Breteuil off the Champs Elysees. Some faithful Gaullists say he regularly will try to influence the course of French events by public statements from his new office.

Save the Franc:
 French officials say Pompidou's experience gained as a Rothschild bank manager will serve him well in his efforts to save the franc from devaluation.

And Another Thing

By RUTH LEWIS

Written last Sunday a letter from my "children" in Paris noted in advance that Pompidou was "probably a shoo-in" for the Presidency. The other candidate was making an appeal to the Communist vote, it was added, "but the central committee of the party is trying to push a boycott of the election. In one district where the Communists are strong, they have plastered pictures of Poper and Pompidou in a Janus (two-faced) pose with the legend, (single quote) Blanc Bonnet—Bonnet Blanc. Or, you might say "Six of one, half a dozen of the other." It's clever propaganda and one suspects it is quite true, but the real test is whether the party can exercise enough discipline on its adherents to keep them away from the polls.

"Most of the Pompidou posters in our neighborhood have Hitler mustaches drawn on them (Pompidou.)"

My son writes that he picked up two newspapers last Saturday, The Times (London) and the New York Herald-Tribune. "Even though the parent Trib is no more," he writes, "the European edition keeps going; the New York Times and the Washington Post underwrite it." (I had not known this — r.)

"The Trib carries little advertising except classified," my correspondent goes on, "and was only eight pages, price 20 cents. The paper must be a financial albatross, particularly where one can buy half a dozen British papers for the same price."

There was little attention paid in Paris to the D-Day anniversary, the letter adds. "but NATO's 21st birthday is being celebrated with posters and such."

"One woman's store was commemorating the 10th anniversary of the death of Sidney Bechet."

The writer adds, "Speaking of deaths, I didn't know until yesterday (that would be June 14) that John L. Lewis had died."

"The tourists' "best trip so far," I am told, "was a tour of Chartres Cathedral. On the way we stopped off to visit the Palls de Versailles but the highlight was Chartres. Today we are going back to the Louvre and will stop at Notre Dame to hear an organ recital."

It may be of interest to others that this pair is making the trip at reduced air fare rates by reason of their membership in the Modern Language Association. This, or, I suppose, any organization, can make such reductions available to members by agreeing in advance to provide X number of fares in a season. The MLA is made up of professors of English and other modern languages and I suspect it was easy to recruit the required number since professors travel abroad perhaps more freely than any other group. There is nothing "guided" about the tour—the travelers visit sites of their own choosing and at their own convenience. It is merely a matter of a lower transportation price for a larger order.

These two crossed the Atlantic via Air France.

Bishop Aisle H. Carleton of the Northwest Texas Division, United Methodist Church, felt quite at home here, he said Wednesday. The bishop, who lives at Albuquerque, noted that he grew up at Floydada and that a Pampa woman, Mrs. J.B. Massa, was one of his high school teachers, as well as junior class sponsor.

"Lest that sound as though she is a lot older," the bishop explained, "it is really only that she was brilliant and I was dumb and she graduated from college very young."

Mrs. Massa stoutly denies her former student's designation of himself. All who know the man, she says, are proud that he has used his high natural endowments to such good purpose.

The First Lady Hopes To Tour Colleges This Fall Despite Riots

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pat Nixon hopes to tour colleges this fall, despite campus riots, to recruit students for volunteer projects.

The First Lady got back to the White House Thursday night from a West Coast trip where she saluted unsung volunteers. She was ready to go again.

Pepped up by her first solo venture, she disclosed her future campus swing in an impromptu news conference on her homeward bound jet flight from Los Angeles.

"I'm not afraid of anything," said Mrs. Nixon when reminded of widespread student rebellions. "I'm not going on a political trip."

She said she got the idea for the college tour on her recent travels after meeting students who were involved in volunteer work. "I was so encouraged," she said. "They felt they were needed. Students want recognition. They know when you're phony."

The First Lady and her daughter Julie Eisenhower, 20, were showered with mock "napalm" confetti by anti war protesters in an appearance at a Portland, Ore. slum project. About that episode, Mrs. Nixon said: "I just didn't have any reaction at all. I was out doing the very best I could if that's the best thing they could do—that's sad."

STUFFING SMELLY
LEEDS, England (UPI)—It wasn't the roast chickens John Appleby was getting that annoyed guards at Armlay jail. It was the stuffing.

They figured something was amiss when they found Appleby, 29, busily trying to cut his way out of jail with hacksaw blades.

The blades, they said, were smuggled to Appleby inside chickens brought to the jail by Appleby's wife and two friends. They were charged with conspiracy to help him escape.

In 1912 the U.S. government adopted the eight-hour day for all its employees.

Miss Davis, Dean Evans Repeat Vows in Double-Ring Ceremony

Given in marriage by her father Miss Patti Rogena Davis became the bride of Dean Clinton Evans at 8 o'clock p.m., June 21 at Saint Mark's United Methodist Church in San Antonio. Rev. Dale Hasson, pastor, read the vows for the double-ring service.

Mrs. Dean Clifton Evans
... nee Patti Rogena Davis

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Harry Davis, San Antonio.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Maurice Evans of Pampa.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk organza with a high jewel neckline and long bishop sleeves. The demure gown featured flower appliques of peau d'ange lace. Lace graced the slightly raised bodice and in scattered sprays flowered the flared skirt which swept wide into a Chapel train. A coronet of white lace pedaled the bride, served her as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids, Berkley Evans, Pampa, sister of the groom, Judith Lynn McCracken, Houston, and Glenda Beth Huffaker, McCamey, were dressed in bishop sleeved shirt-maker gowns of maize colored organza, frost with lace edged ruffles and maize picture hats.

Edward Samson Williams, Pampa, was best man. James Michael Davis, San Antonio, and brother of the bride, Terrance Albert Kuhlmann, Houston, and William David Elliott, Sherman, were groomsmen.

John Paul Bowers, Pampa, Daniel Warnell Lee, Jr., San Antonio, Richard Lee Morgan, Corpus Christi and Russell Weldon Lyday, Corpus Christi, seated the wedding guests.

Catherine Ann Fillingim, San Antonio, served as flower girl.

The couple exchanged vows in a setting of palms and two large spiral fifteen light candlelabras. Large arrangements of chrysanthemums, gladiolas, and stock flanked the altar and, along with two seven light candlelabras, came forward to the outside of the chancel rail.

Mrs. Alfred H. Forester, San Antonio, was organist for Miss Frances Clarke, Lefors, as she sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "Together Forever"

The bride's mother wore a soft yellow A-Line of Alaskine with three-quarter sleeves. The sleeves were adorned with beads and pearls. She wore matching accessories.

The groom's mother wore a sleeveless panel front dress of Papaya Alaskine and accented with matching accessories.

RECEPTION
For the reception at Oak Hills Country Club, was a very large arrangement of yellow and white calla lilies, gladiolas, stock and chrysanthemums placed at the center of a serving table which was in the shape of a cross.

Mrs. James Langston, Austin and Nancy Stafford, San Antonio, served at the punch bowls as Mrs. Grady Pierce and Mrs. Charles Jetel, both of Houston served the bride's cake. Mrs. John Bergeron, San Antonio, served the groom's cake.

For the wedding trip to San Francisco and Carmel, Calif., the bride traveled in an ensemble with a sheath of lime green crepe and a matching petite point coat and bone accessories, with the white orchid corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride graduated from the University of Texas in May with a degree in elementary education and special education. She belonged to Southern Singers, Council for Exceptional Children and was president of Little Sister Organization of Austin.

The bridegroom graduated with honors from the U of T and was selected one of ten

MRS. JAMES PHILLIP GRANT
... Lalinda Lee Cotham

Wedding Ceremony Unites Miss Cotham, James Grant

Miss Lalinda Lee Cotham was united in marriage with James Phillip Grant in a double-ring ceremony in First Methodist Church, Rev. DeWitt Seago, pastor, officiated for the 8 o'clock evening service June 20. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Cotham, Pampa.

BRIDE
Given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I" avowal, the bride was dressed in a satin wedding gown which was fashioned with a round neckline and long petal point sleeves. Special trim of her dress, designed with an empire waistline and A-line skirt, were re-embroidered French lace motif. Her imported illusion veil was attached to a cluster of roses for a headpiece. She carried white roses for her wedding bouquet.

ATTENDANTS
Miss Shirley Reno was maid of honor and Miss Audrey Molletta was bridesmaid. They wore street length, candlelight blue crepe with an empire waist, scalloped neckline and hem, featuring a sash in back. They carried white mums with white lace streamers for their flowers.

Best man was Terry Ellis and Mickey Jennings, Vega, was groomsmen, David Cotham, brother of the bride, and Dan Briggs seated wedding guests.

Mrs. Lois Fagan, organist, played traditional wedding march and accompanied vocalist Vickie Grant, sister of the groom, and J. E. James as they sang the "Wedding Prayer" and "Twelfth of Never."

The bride's mother wore a blue three piece knit suit with bone accessories. She wore white and pink cymbidium for her corsage.

RECEPTION
For the reception in the church parlor after the wedding the table was decorated with gold candlelabras surrounded by white carnations and blue ribbons. The three-tiered cake was trimmed with blue roses.

Sue White, Berger, assisted at the punch bowl and Georgiann Jackson served cake. Janice Farmer registered the wedding guests.

For the honeymoon, the bride traveled in an A-line dress of

Expect Surprises When Dining With Young Newlyweds

Young newlyweds are delightfully experimental in choosing their home furnishings. And when it comes to entertaining, expect a few pleasant surprises when invited for dinner these days.

You may dine on fingerfood while seated crosslegged on the floor or approach a traditional buffet gleaming with the elegance of gold.

There is a current gold rush starting with electro-plated flatware and hollow-ware and echoed in goldrimmed china and crystal. Behind much of the gold interest are advances in technology that make the electroplated items tarnish-free and dishwasher-proof. And they are reasonably priced so that wedding guests may send their best wishes with a golden touch without taking a bank loan.

Just as important in the shift to more elegance for newlyweds when entertaining is the willingness to mix-match what is on hand. Few items are tucked away in dust-catching corners and presented only once or twice a year. Youthful entertainers are finding they can combine modern table linens for example crisp white-and-black polka dots and geometrics with a golden bracelet china pattern and their gold service.

A buffet of ham, new potatoes, asparagus, and strawberries looks even more appealing when served in the few gold pieces a new bride may have in the first year or two of marriage.

She may use a Chippendale tray as a meat platter with the slicing done before placing it on the tray. Place plates do double duty as dessert plates and add highlights to the table. A sauce bowl with attached stand holds whipped cream surrounded by colorful strawberries.

For serving she may use a gravy ladle for the potatoes and a pierced fork and spoon to serve the meat while a sugar spoon is used for the whipped cream.

As you can see almost everything goes when the setting is neat, colorful and the company congenial. An added tip comes from a couple who finds extra-large throw pillows help solve the seating problem.

Guests use large napkins for lapkins or these are spread on small tables as place mats. Flexibility is a key to the young mood today.

Trimble-Saltzman Wedding Slated

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Walker, 808 E. Malone, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Rhona Walker Trimble, to Emmett F. Saltzman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Saltzman, 1112 N. Starkweather. Wedding vows will be repeated in early September. Miss Trimble is a graduate of Pampa High School and is presently employed by Bell Telephone Co. Her fiancé, a graduate of PHS is presently employed by Cabot Corp.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENT
A bridal shower was held June 6 in the Citizens Bank and Trust Co. Hospitality Room. Hostesses were Mmes. Dane Cembren, Kay Fancher, Kent Olson and Shirley Reno, Audrey Mollet, Georgiann Jackson and Judy Abernathy.

Mrs. Coley Will Attend Convention

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars met Tuesday evening in the V.F.W. Hall, with the president, Mrs. Jess Hatcher, presiding.

Plans were finalized to send Mrs. Jerry Coley, wife of District 9 Commander, to the Department Convention to represent the local auxiliary. The Convention is to be held in Galveston, June 27, 28, and 29.

Mrs. Jess Hatcher, outgoing president, was presented her "Past President's Pin" by Mrs. J. E. Beard, past president local auxiliary and past president of district 9. Mrs. Hatcher was complimented for her loyalty to the organization, and efforts in securing new and re-instated membership. Twenty-eight new members have been added this year.

Members present were Mmes. Jess Beard, Mina Eenham, Norman Brown, Jerry Coley, J.W. Dart, Anna Eckroat, Clyde Gray, Jess Hatcher, J.D. Malone, Jessie Rance, Tony Smith, Bunah Walling and Carl Wright.

Visitors were Mrs. Linnie Chandler, Mrs. Pat Hantsche and daughter Deanna.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Dart and Mrs. Gray.

Next meeting will be July 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the Y.F.W. Hall.

MRS. MYRON SCRIBNER
... nee Helen Reyna Kvesich

Miss Helen Kvesich Says Vows With Myron Scribner

Miss Helen Reyna Kvesich and Myron Scribner were united in marriage in an evening ceremony in First Christian Church recently. Rev. J.W. Duke, pastor, officiated for the double-ring wedding service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard R. Bronner, 1900 N. Zimmers. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L.M. Scribner, 309 Miami.

BRIDE
Given in marriage by her father, the bride was dressed in a full-length gown of silk organza over silk faille. The sleeveless dress was trimmed with narrow rows of edging and designed with a narrow Victorian neck band accented with edging.

Her veil was fashioned of three layers of net attached at the center with a lace band.

ATTENDANTS
Miss Pam Mills, maid of honor, wore a pale-green full-length dress and carried white and yellow daisies for her flowers.

Best man was Elly Wayne Scribner, Pampa. Rick Maynard and Gary Hyatt seated wedding guests.

Organist, Mrs. Wanda Gill, accompanied Mrs. Paul Reimer, vocalist, who sang "Because." Vows were exchanged in a setting of white gladiolas, white daisies and white mums.

RECEPTION

The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with yellow daisies and topped with the traditional miniature bride and bridegroom. Letzla Kvesich assisted with the punch service as Becky Scribner served cake. Kellie Kvesich registered guests as Jason Bronner distributed rice bags.

For the wedding trip, the bride traveled in a pink silk dress and wore the flowers from her wedding.

The bride is a Pampa High School graduate, attended Texas Tech and was employed at a Pampa beauty shop. The bridegroom, a PHS graduate, attended West Texas State University and is employed in Amarillo.

Pre-nuptial event was a shower given at the home of Mrs. Joyce Clanton.

Out-of-town guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. W.A. Bullard, and Mrs. Dora Bullard, all of Sheridan.

Mrs. Eugene M. Franklin Elected ABWA'S Woman Of The Year

Mrs. Eugene M. Franklin (Bessie) was elected by write-in vote at the last meeting as ABWA'S Woman of the Year.

Bessie has been married 26 years, has three children and four grandchildren. She and her husband reside at 859 East Kingsmill Street. She has lived in Pampa ten years, moving here from Oklahoma City. Bessie is a native of Seminole, Okla. She was born to a Seminole Indian family, reared in Indian Territory and with Indian customs. She was one of five children and like most Indians, with a meager living. Her chances of getting an education were poor as the grade up but this did not dim her hopes.

She was married to Eugene at the age of 16, moved to Oklahoma City and began working in a doctor's office there. She started back to a high school to finish her high school education, completed it at age of 33 and was class favorite her senior year. She was elevated to office nurse on her job and decided to make nursing her career.

She moved to Pampa with her family and enrolled in Frank Phillips College at age 35. After finishing her college work, Bessie enrolled at North West Texas Hospital Professional School for Nursing. She attended the regular school hours, worked one shift nursing hours and drove to and from Amarillo each day in order to maintain her duties as housewife and mother. Mrs. Franklin is a graduate R.N. She is now employed as Director of Vocational School of Student Nurses at Highland General Hospital.

She attends the University of Texas Workshop for Advanced Techniques of Instructions two weeks of each year. Mrs. Franklin is a member of the American Nurses Association, North West Texas Alumni, The Texas Heart Association and the past two years she has been the legislative chairman representing District 23 Nurses Convention. She is a volunteer Red Cross Nurse and in this capacity she goes to Amarillo from time to time to draw blood from donors for the Red Cross and to send to service men in Viet Nam. She has been the Honoree of the Week sponsored by The Business & Professional Women's Club of Pampa. She has been instrumental in obtaining several scholarships for student nurses and assisted one girl in getting R. O. T. C. training at West Texas State University, the only known lady to receive such training. Mrs. Franklin has given many lectures on Indian customs to various groups including Boy Scouts.

member of the American Business Women's Association in 1960 and has been a very dedicated and loyal member. She wrote the winning letter recommending her boss, Miss Vermell Meador, as Boss of the Year in 1967. She is presently serving as president of Pampa Charter Chapter of ABWA.

Her hobbies are sewing, fishing and hunting. She loves being close to nature and is known to be quiet a marksman with a target. Her Indian heritage has given her a special charm and a winning personality. She is admired by all who know her.

MRS. DOUGLAS LEE SCAGGS
... nee Claudia Lewis

Claudia Lewis Says Vows with Doug Scaggs

Miss Claudia Lewis became the bride of Douglas Lee Scaggs in a double-ring marriage ceremony in St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Galveston June 14 with Rev. Robert C. Berry officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curt Lewis of Galveston. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. and Mrs. H. E. Scaggs of Pampa.

BRIDE
Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white linen accented with Venice lace. The slim sheath featured a high, scalloped neckline and sleeveless bodice outlined in lace. A wattleau panel fell into a chapel-length train. Her tiara of seed pearls and lace caught the bouffant veiling of pure silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids and Stephanotis.

ATTENDANTS
Matron of honor was Mrs. Sherrilyn Denham of Sherman and bridesmaids were Ann Layden and Phyllis Austin both of Dallas.

The attendants wore street length gowns of crepe in a seapray hue. Their dresses featured a high ruffled neckline which dipped to mid-back. They carried clusters of spring flowers and wore short veils, crowned with three Dior roses.

Keith Bearden of Hale Center was best man, Leon Long of Lubbock and John Weed of Rockdale served as groomsmen. Seating the guests were Jim Morgan and Charley Reinken both of Plainview.

The couple traveled to Las Vegas, Nev. for a wedding trip. The bride is a graduate of Texas Tech University in Lubbock with a BBA in Business Education. She was a member of Alpha Chi Omega Sorority, Phi Kappa Phi, and Pi Omega Pi honorary fraternities.

The bridegroom is a graduate of TTU with a BBA in Marketing. He was a member of Tech band, Tech Jazz Ensemble and Kappa Kappa Psi, honorary band fraternity.

Both bride and groom are employed in Houston and will be at home at 1522 Branard, Apt. 4 in Houston.

Your Horoscope

JEANE DIXON

SUNDAY, JUNE 22
YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: This coming year is full of promise for all material benefits. Where you have developed any real competence and ask a fair wage, everything that happens brings in more rewards. New ventures, side-lines, extra part-time jobs are all well favored. Services and maintenance predominate early in the year, with the emphasis passing to finer arts, more esthetic projects later. Today's natives take life, and philosophy, seriously.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Avoid inappropriate remarks on encountering social surprises. Use your senses for all they're worth to stay out from between squabbling friends.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Get out bright and early today, make the rounds of your community, take a share in the local customs.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): No plan seems to turn out as you had thought today. Go along with the upsets in a spirit of fun and adventure.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Personal welfare is better served now. The month ahead should be quite busy and profitable. Take a careful look at what seems normal in your particular fields of interest, make extra allowance for completely new additions.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Changes in the earning situation may tempt you to excess. Avoid. Entertainment, at home is favored this evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): For you this Sunday is bright, sprightly, normal. Get out and make the rounds of your friends and neighbors, catch up on the latest news and changes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): In the social amenities overheard today are many unconscious revelation of what your opposition is up to. If you are not involved in any conflict with them, you do better to merely take into account your discoveries.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Far fields look greener this month... and most of next, make the fullest use of whatever resources are available. Use a moment's leisure for long-range planning.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You may find public places of amusement interesting. Take your friends and make a picnic day of it. Your conversations could include profitable new arrangements, joint purchasing and the like.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): New associates or competition force an overhaul in the coming month. While attending the Sunday routines, let your mind range over the situation, seeking new perspectives.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your intuitions are tested strongly today, as they incline you to some course of action you cannot explain readily to skeptical people.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): The ripple of changes in your life continues. Benefits are available in many fresh directions. You may have to share some with newcomers.

MONDAY, JUNE 23
YOUR BIRTHDAY MONDAY: Now begins a time of distributing your energy over a wide area. Tested ideas become more firm. Many old activities get squeezed out. Monday's natives often pursue informal behavior, may care very little for public opinion of them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Make up your mind to hold your temper Monday particularly about any break in household routines. Help make peace amongst others.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your work should proceed well. Do what comes naturally, in the steady pace you are accustomed to following.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): The week begins on a very busy note. Find time to advance your pet projects — spread the word. The evening is better spent in developing your ideas further.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Home situations tend to be more important than business Monday. Try to maintain a fair balance between them. Remember to bring home all things which have been in short supply over the weekend.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your most likely path tends to lead you to matters you do not yet know enough to judge. Keep an open mind. There is more to it than is anticipated now.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take a firm grasp, and move with the confidence supplied by your intuition. Celebrate a successful day in the evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your tact and patience continue at peak value. Peace-making actions bring results and improve your earnings as well. Go shopping, lay in supplies and new appliances.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Nothing attempted in secrecy quite works out Monday. Keep your course direct and simple so the mystery-seekers will focus on another target.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You cannot fool anybody Monday, so settle back and enjoy life. Your friends are in the mood to share their pastimes and parties with you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The indirect approach is again the better course. A day of diligent, quiet action is to be followed by satisfying enjoyment of a social evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Bring your plans to the action stage early; gain the advantage in the situation. Monday begins a very active month in your vocation.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): The results of your financial choices now come to light. Join new groups volunteering to make your community a better place.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Teacher Offers Advice For Children's First Aid

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Linda how to put the buttons in the back of her couch in place again. When upholstering, you remove the cover that is tacked across the back, leaving the springs exposed. After the rest of the couch is covered in the new material, use a large needle and very heavy thread to sew the buttons to the back. Fasten the end of the heavy cord to the metal pieces that hold the springs. Stick the needle through to the top once, put the button on and push it to the back. It is really no trouble. When the back cover is in place, you will not know the buttons have been off.

—NIOLA

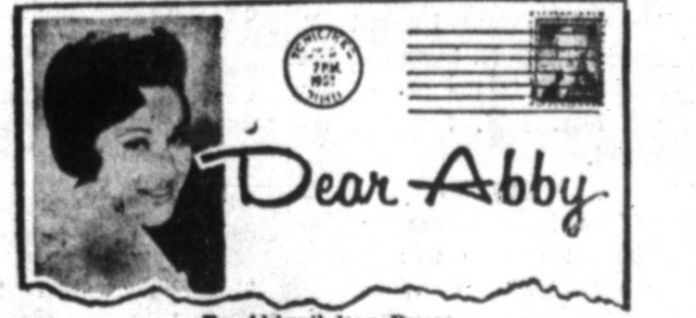

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — Last year I bought a 9x12 oval nylon rug that has a large wrinkle on each side from folding. I have kept turning it over and over, hoping to work wrinkles out. The big ones are still there. Can anyone tell me how to remove them?

—SUSAN

DEAR POLLY — To answer Linda on how to replace couch buttons after upholstering, she should slip a bobby pin through the shank of the button, bend the prongs of the pin out wide and insert by squeezing together again gently. As the pin is released inside the couch, it will spring open and hold the button on.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My 15-year-old daughter (I'll call her "Linda") is my problem. She is so boy-crazy she worries me half to death. All she thinks about is boys, boys, boys.

When the doorbell rings, she nearly breaks a leg running to talk to any delivery boy who happens to show up.

Linda also lies a lot. She is not allowed to go in cars with boys, so she walks to a girl friend's house and the boys pick her up there. (I learned this when I happened to glance at her diary.) When I ask Linda for the truth she tells lies to cover up for her lies. Why does she lie so much and how can I get the truth out of her?

LINDA'S MOTHER
...DEAR MOTHER: Children lie because they haven't the courage to tell the truth. Give Linda that courage by assuring her that no matter what she's done you will "understand" and forgive her. Perhaps your threats are to frighten and your punishments too severe. Give her plenty of love and expect the best, and she won't let you down. And quit "glancing" at her diary. The way to inspire confidence is to show it.

DEAR ABBY: How long does a person have to live in a place before it's "home"? My husband has been married to me for 16 years, and whenever he goes to see his parents he says, "I'm going home."

Maybe I'm out of line to get so upset over this, Abby, but it just burns me up to hear him say that. Don't you think "home" is where a man's wife and children are? Or do you think maybe my husband actually still feels more at home with my mother and father than he does with me?

ALMA
...DEAR ALMA: Where one has spent his earlier years is "home"—no matter how long he's been away from it. Many old-timers who have been on this side of the ocean most of their lives still refer to their native lands as "home," so don't take it personally.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from "PRAYERFULLY WAITING," who had a long list of complaints against her young dedicated minister's wife.

I am also a young minister's wife, and here's where I speak up for all who feel as I do!

In the first place, if "PRAYERFULLY" would think beyond herself and the mold into which she wants to place the minister's wife, she might realize that the couple probably married before they entered seminary. The wife didn't marry a "minister," she married a man! And she probably had no idea of the pettiness she was in for.

In the second place, the man married the woman for what she was. How does "PRAYERFULLY" know that the wife is a "millstone" around her husband's neck? Perhaps if the compassion you spoke of were practiced more often, Abby, there would be fewer men leaving the parish ministry. Sign me.

ALSO PRAYERFULLY WAITING

DEAR ABBY: In answer to "PRAYERFULLY WAITING": I can hear their prayer now: "Lord, you keep them humble, we'll keep them poor." Sign me, "BEEN THERE MYSELF"

Plunder Is a Plague

A bold slogan seems to be garnering increasing acceptance in our land. "If you don't have it take it." In some instances, it broadens to "Even if you have it, then take some more."

In a recent article by columnist Howard E. Kershner, "It's Up To You," was the report that a Washington newspaper carries a daily "crime clock" of armed robberies for the preceding 24-hour period. On a "typical" day in that city as many as 16 robberies were committed, and in 1968 the total number of holdups was double that of 1967!

There seems to be no respect for "mine" and "thine." And the factors of "need" or "good causes" enter rarely into the wrongful acts. "Honor" and "morality" seem condemned to the ash heap, with no weight of appeal.

The whole attractiveness seems to lie in immediacy. This is an age of speed, and whatever anyone wants is wanted NOW. That victims lose valuable items, perhaps their businesses or even their lives are not regarded by the I-don't-care about anyone-but-me crowd.

Where did this impetus to plunder come from? Could it be from examples of that socialistic saw, "Take from those who have and give to the have-nots." From the time tots are five until they are nearly of age, they attend "free" schools. So they think they are "entitled" to goodies. Taxes were originally raised to meet needs of a particular community, but it did not take long for those in power to learn that they could continue to "take" the people to finance whatever boondoggle they felt they should have. Not that all boondoggles are bad ideas; the harm is using the tax or "take" method of attaining them. If people want a thing badly enough, they can and will find ways to achieve it honorably.

Perhaps the greatest irony of all is found in the answers some young people give for such crimes. They tend to blame it on the examples of gross materialism of the over-30 sector. In their disdain for property, they apparently feel no reluctance to destroy it. But after they have destroyed a store for instance, suddenly their disdain converts to greed as they hasten to seize material objects and carry them off for themselves. Who are the materialists?

Fighting taxation and all forms of plunder in practice is a step toward ending crime. The only permanent solution cannot come from imposed sources but from within the individual. He must have a desire for a sense of justice as originally scribed in the Golden Rule: "Do not do unto others that which you would not have them do unto you."

Then, too, the Negroes should realize they have no claim to any reparations whatsoever. If the economy of the whole world is to be turned upside down by demands for imagined past injustices, then we should have a strange world indeed. The one thing that is clear is they, like everyone else, have a claim to only what they have earned, no more and no less.

As a matter of fact, if the Negroes have a claim for $500 million or $6 billion or whatever amount, what about the claim of the American Indians? After all, this was their country until the white man came and seized it for himself.

Which is remindful of a recent poll taken on an Indian reservation. The poll revealed that 60 percent of the Indians thought we should get out of Viet Nam, and 95 percent of the Indians thought we should get out of the United States! Surely the American Indians have a much clearer claim to all of America and everything in it than any others involved.

But there is another view to this. One of the interesting transactions in the history of America was the purchase of Manhattan Island from the Indians for the equivalent of $24.00 in beads and trinkets. We have smiled at that over the years and have considered it an outstanding example of how the white people flim-flamed the Indians. As a matter of fact, though, $24.00 was perhaps all Manhattan Island was worth at the time. If the white man had never come to the shores of America, $24.00 would perhaps still be a good price for Manhattan Island. The billions of dollars worth of property now located on that plot of ground was placed there by the hard work, the energy and the ambition of those who built it.

Are the lands of the world to be owned by those who occupied them first? If so, the Bantus would own most of Africa; the Indians would own North and South America; the Aborigines would own Australia; the Maoris would own New Zealand and the islands of the South Pacific; the Orientals would own the Far East; and perhaps Europe would be owned by the Caucasians.

If that were the case, what values would these various lands have now? What progress would have been made in the world? Or should the land be owned by those who had the energy, know-how and ambition to create the values that are there?

Today's young student reformers could profitably spend this summer studying the life and times of John L. Lewis.

Talk about charisma. Talk about taking on and putting down the Establishment. The tough, dedicated union leader had a patent on the flowery-worded insult for those who opposed him, with nary a four-letter obscenity needed. But he also knew when to charm. Lewis defied presidents, senators, courts. He cost his United Mine Workers millions of dollars in fines. But he changed the lives of millions of workers for the better.

And hair. When will we ever see the likes of those famous shaggy eyebrows again?

The Tax Collectors now stand beside each beauty contest winner, his hand out for a share of her winnings.

The Internal Revenue Service has ruled that the scholarships and other awards going to such winner is income and as such is taxable.

Sensing The News

The Negroes and the Indians
A news item that has received considerable attention recently, if not support, is the demand by certain Negroes who are officers in welfare rights organizations, that the Negro people be paid tremendous sums of money for the "injustices" meted out to them by the white people over the last several hundred years.

These claimants started out in various churches of the land by invading their pulpits or interrupting their services and demanding $500 million reparations.

Then, apparently one of them divided $500 million by the Negro population of the country, 20 million, and found out that was only $25.00 apiece. They then decided this was by no means enough and, taking over the stage at the bankers convention in New York, upped their demand to $6 billion, or $300.00 each if equally distributed.

This amount also would not last for very long, but after all, if the $6 billion request is acceded to, what's to keep them from demanding $60 billion or $600 billion or any other amount they wish?

As a matter of fact, the Negroes are going at this proposition backwards. What they need is the same viewpoint as that gained by an intelligent Negro in this country who went to Africa sometime back, studied the situation among the natives there very carefully, and returned to the United States saying: "Thank God, my ancestors were sold into slavery."

Actually, the Negroes in this country are not only much better off than if they had remained in their native jungles the last three or four hundred years, they are much better off than most all people of any race or any color in any part of the world.

Rep. William Scherle, R-Iowa, is indignantly assailing the plan as a waste of taxpayers' money, and is set to fight it if it reaches the House floor.

Several months ago, Sen. John Williams, R-Del., and Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, leading economy advocates, were sharply critical of spending government funds for this purpose. Gross caustically characterized the proposal as "almost beyond belief."

Scherle, in the forefront of the drive to enact legislation designed to curb student violence on campuses, is equally critical. He is stressing two points: (1) The disturbing state of the national economy and the urgent need for cutting government expenditures; (2) that the government spends $22 to $34 for headstones for servicemen killed in combat.

"At a time when the economy of our country is at a critical stage and budget priorities are essential," says Scherle, "it is preposterous for a family whose every member has trust funds and assets totaling millions of dollars to request this additional burden on the taxpayer. Kennedy family dedication would seem to indicate that a small part of this great wealth could finance the construction of this memorial — and the taxpayers' money could be devoted to more important needs."

Under the pending plan, the Kennedy family would put up $420,000 of the approximate $750,000 estimated cost of the Robert Kennedy memorial. The government share would be $258,000.

Scherle asserts flatly, "There is no precedent for the use of public money to construct such a memorial for a U.S. senator."

Members of the Congress are entitled to have their funeral expenses paid for by the government," says Scherle. "They are not entitled to have a free grave marker much less the granite wall and reflecting pool planned for the Kennedy site at a cost of nearly three-quarters of a million dollars. The Kennedy proposal is in sharp contrast to the thousands of small white crosses in Arlington Cemetery that mark the final resting place of our veterans who died defending their country."

Also bitingly noted by Scherle is that the memorial erected for the late Sen. Robert Taft, R-O., was paid for entirely by private funds.

Has The Actual Cutting Started?

'No Precedent' for Using 'Public Money' For Memorial....

WASHINGTON, — That proposal for the government to contribute $258,000 to help pay for the construction of an elaborate memorial to the late Senator Robert Kennedy in Arlington National Cemetery is running into new opposition.

Business owners and managers, thinking "it can't happen to me," have avoided getting involved on the right side and encouraging youth to get involved on the right side. Wise men know that youth is going to get involved on one side or the other.

Now business owners and managers are beginning to realize that "it can happen here," when they see the SDS and their manipulators and fellow-travelers turn their efforts to undermine the loyalty of wage-earners. Just as concerned individuals have been asking, "What can I, one person, do?" business owners and managers are beginning to ask what they can do.

This is a drastic cure for those who refused to recognize the dangers and heed the warnings of seasoned anti-communists. But it will enable managers and owners of businesses to extricate themselves from a situation whereby they have been sitting by and watching while the American way of life and freedom, based on the individual-initiative profit — motive system, was going down the drain.

It is time for business owners and managers to join with the quiet majority of concerned citizens to save our Republic USA, which has made their success and the success of personal and private business possible. The "spirit of crusade" may be required but can be made without panic, in the tradition of the Founding Fathers who enabled us to build the greatest nation the world has ever known.

A LOOK AT THE BOOK

By DR. BOB JONES

Ghosts Do Not Walk
Twice the disciples thought Jesus Christ was a ghost. The first time they were in a storm on the sea, and they beheld Him walking on the water (Matthew 14:25-26). The second time, the disciples, still unconvinced of His resurrection, were gathered in the upper room where He suddenly appeared in their midst (Luke 24:36-37).

What a strange and stupid thing that the disciples should twice take refuge from the miraculous in the superstitions supposing they beheld a ghost rather than accepting the manifest evidence of their own eyes — that He Himself stood before them!

How much more logical on the first occasion to believe that the One who made the water should use it for a highway! How much more reasonable the second time to accept the evidence of His physical presence in the wound prints in His hands and feet and side!

At the root of this strange and stupid attitude was lack of faith and hesitancy to accept that which was, from the standpoint of human reasoning, impossible. Having seen Christ perform so many miracles, they should have accepted these miraculous manifestations of His power over natural law and over death without surprise — but such was not the case.

Christ said, "All power is given unto me in heaven and earth." There is nothing impossible for omnipotent deity. The man who recognizes an omnipotent God has no trouble believing in the miraculous. When your minds limit deity, naturally our hearts will lack faith. Men question the historical accuracy and the inspiration of the Bible because it recounts miraculous happenings which they are unwilling to accept. Grant that God is able to do all things and there is no room for doubt as to the authority and accuracy of His Word. Men accept the foolish and impossible evolutionary theory of the creation of life because they limit God. They refuse to recognize a Deity Who by the Word of His omnipotence created the universe and made man in His own image. Because men limit God's power they, like the disciples saying, "It is impossible," believe a theory full of obvious errors and manifest impossibilities rather than accept the Genesis statement of simple truth having divine omnipotence as its foundation. The God Who made the universe, Who hung the world on nothing and the North on the empty space, is certainly able to perform the miracles recorded in the book of Jonah. The God Who created all material things could certainly turn water into wine and feed five thousand men with five loaves and two fishes.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

You Become What You Hate

By PAUL HARVEY

Mahatma Gandhi warned us that it is dangerous to hate because "you become what you hate."

For example, we presently have individuals in revolt against violence in Vietnam, themselves becoming increasingly violent.

Similarly, there are black leaders denouncing exploitation of their people, who are themselves exploiting their people.

The recent demand for "reparations" is an example. When black militant James Forman carried his demand for "$500 million in reparations" to the Reformed Church of America, he and followers occupied the church office in New York, forcing regular workers out.

He issued his "black manifesto" demanding that his church contribute its share of the blackmail through his organization.

Frightened whites in the church agreed to study his demand. It was a black Lutheran minister in Newark, the Rev. Levin B. West, leader of Newark's antipoverty program, who dared to challenge Forman's arrogant premise.

Dr. West said, "You are perpetrating a terrible crime against our people by asking them to believe that you, or anyone else in this country, have a valid reparations claim against the church."

When services were disrupted at three churches in St. Louis by militants demanding money and threatening to "spit in the communion cup," it was a Negro leader who shamed them.

Mayor Charles Evers of Fayette, Miss., said, "Any black folks or white folks come into my church threatening to spit, they're going out on their heads!"

Evers said churches should never allow Negro demonstrators to disturb services no matter what their cause. "Churches which allow it encourage it."

Yet delegates attending the convention of the Illinois Synod of the Lutheran Churches urged their church to respond favorably to the demands of the "black manifesto."

Again it was a black leader, Roy Wilkins, who rejected Forman's self-appointment, reminding us that there are 22 million Negroes in the United States and Forman has not been designated as a spokesman for even 22 hundred of them.

Consistently, it is black leaders who are seeking to shush this absurd demand for "reparations"; whites generally don't dare.

For blacks to demand that we pay them money because some of our ancestors bought and sold their ancestors...

Is altogether as silly as if blacks in America should be required to pay because many blacks in Africa still do sell one another into slavery.

Church denominations, ready to surrender and pay, are hearing from some of their white members who are not. I've seen at least one such letter in which a white woman says she has paid disproportionate taxes for years to contribute to the support of many blacks who have refused to work; she thinks it's she who is entitled to "reparations."

Here, too, be careful. For, as Gandhi said, you tend to imitate that which you hate.

H. L. Hunt Writes

BUSINESSMEN NEED TO "GET INVOLVED"

Many businessmen have not wished to get involved when they have observed the SDS and other far-left and pro-communist movements agitating students to revolt. Youth in its idealism wants to "get involved" and wants to be "in on the act," even if on the wrong side.

Business owners and managers, thinking "it can't happen to me," have avoided getting involved on the right side and encouraging youth to get involved on the right side. Wise men know that youth is going to get involved on one side or the other.

Now business owners and managers are beginning to realize that "it can happen here," when they see the SDS and their manipulators and fellow-travelers turn their efforts to undermine the loyalty of wage-earners. The House Of Lords

(The Journal Published by The Society For Individual Freedom, London, England)

The Earl of Arran Speaks To Members of the Society at a Luncheon in the Harcourt Room on Friday 8th November, 1968

I am highly pleased to put in a word for the poor old House of Lords, but I am afraid you have chosen a rather feeble instrument for the purpose. True, I am a peer, but I have only been in the House a short time and, never having expected to succeed, I took no great interest in it until I was suddenly pitched-forked into the place.

An Effective Institution

So, please do not imagine I am going to make a learned and informative defence of the upper chamber. I am not going to talk about its history; I don't know very much about it. I am just going to say briefly, and as convincingly as I can, why I believe it is that Britain, and that, for the moment includes Scotland and Wales, has been so lucky in still having an hereditary House of Lords, and illegitimate as you may think it, what an effective and useful institution it is — like the hereditary monarchy. How equally illogical that great British institution is. But would you like that abolished?

The first thing all who disapprove of the House of Lords have had to face, is that it works and that in 60 years no-one has thought of anything better. It has done its job, and it has done it well. It is an important part of the British constitution. The legislature could not exist without it. People have criticised it, but the truth is that most of the critics have not the faintest idea about what we do, or even why we do it. Their dislike, their prejudice has been an a priori prejudice. They just don't like the sound of it. "An hereditary system? How unjust, how utterly disgusting! Isn't every man and woman born equal? Aren't I as good as you? What right have you, etc. etc. . . ."

Non-Party Debates

Well let's take a look at the House of Lords and see what this terrible place has done. This is the routine business first. As the Upper House, the second chamber, we have examined Government Bills and we have amended them — not usually for party reasons but because we think the Bill might be better another way; we have discussed the Nation's business calmly and without passion, for few of us have any axe to grind. We have voted. We have asked Parliamentary questions; and we have done all these things in almost every case without a political motive. True, the House has been divided into Tories, Socialists and Liberals, but our debates have not been conducted on party lines — or only very rarely, as for instance when my cousin divided the House on the Rhodesian Order. What we have done is to speak and vote according to our personal principles; according to what we thought best. We have represented nobody but ourselves. We had no constituents except our own consciences and we didn't give a damn. The advice given me by my political chief when I joined the House, as a National Liberal — I am now a Liberal — was, "Vote against the Government whenever you feel you can." I followed his Lordship's instructions to the letter, and the Whips quickly gave me up.

Independence

It is in these things — in our unwillingness to toe the line, our contempt of the party machine, above all in our independence of thinking enjoyed by no other body — that our importance has lain. The power rests, and rightly, with the elected House of Commons; the objective, critical corrective functions are ours.

A Brilliant Assembly

But these of course, are legislative functions and are only a part of our duties. What we have also done, and what the House of Commons rarely does, is to discuss the great issues of life and to discuss them with a knowledge and expertise unparalleled elsewhere. And here I want to say, quite definitely, that I believe the House of Lords, even in its present form, to be the most brilliant legislative chamber in the world. I think it is generally accepted that the standard of debate is far higher than in the House of Commons, which is not saying much. But what should also be realised is that the peers — I am obviously speaking not so much of the hereditary peers (though some of them are no fools either) — are a far cleverer bunch of men than the members of the lower House. This is not a wild statement, it is the truth.

The House of Lords has among its members the most outstanding of the elder statesmen; it has the greatest judges in the land, who often do not attend enough incidentally, to their shame; it has the bishops and you don't get made an Anglican Bishop unless you are clever as well as godly; it has the cream of the ex-diplomats and civil servants; it has the greatest sailors, soldiers and airmen, whom the country has thrown up in fifty years of almost uninterrupted war; it has the trades union leaders, the doctors, the university dons, the scientists, the school masters. In our midst often, though alas not often enough, you will find the biggest assembly of talents to be found anywhere. All we lack at the moment is a coloured life peeress.

And this is why our discussions usually have been infinitely more worthwhile than anything to be heard in the House of Commons. Moreover, as I said, we alone have grasped the big issues. To mention only two debates — we have talked about Christian Unity and the problem of leisure — long-term things for which there is no time in the House of Commons. True, these debates do not get so well reported as our little sallies into such things as "Lady Chatterley's Lover". They are, however, recorded in Hansard, and they make their impact.

Private Bills

But perhaps most important of all, we can and have made laws. I have no idea what your views are on abortion or homosexuality, but the fact is that were it not for the Lords these reforms would not have come about. No Government would dare touch them — they are political dynamite, potential vote losers — and no individual M.P. would have a hope of getting the necessary time in the Commons. That's where we come in. It's open to any one of us to introduce a Bill, and now that I am finished with my recent Bill, I am going to introduce one on National Social Service for the young, even if I am not allowed to vote on it. To any one of us present peers has been given, and is still given, the unique and tremendous opportunity to try and get things changed. It is so far not fully exploited. But it will be. I propose myself to go on legislating until I drop.

My Sexual Offences Bill

Here you may like to know, as it were in parenthesis, what it's like to introduce, to try and make a law. Here very briefly is the story of my Sexual Offences Bill, or rather Mr. Abse's Bill, which I facetiously call "William". Three years ago I decided to have another go at implementing Wolfenden Part II. Others had tried before and failed, and the best I hoped for was to take the dog out for another run. I introduced a Motion — not a Bill — and I wrote to the peers most likely to be sympathetic. Out of 23 speeches made, 21 were in favour. Fired by this, I decided to introduce a Bill.

This time the opposition gathered their forces in strength including two ex-Lord Chancellors and ex-Lord Chief Justice, Lord Goddard. Arrayed against us were the might and majesty of the law — and the government were strictly and shamefully neutral. Dire were the warnings and awful the condemnations. When the Lord Chancellor put the Question, there was a murmur of "Content" and a roar of "Not Content". I was certain we had lost. We went into the Lobbies. I was a Teller — and then suddenly coming towards me I saw a long and seemingly endless crowd. Lord Stoneham gave me the thumbs-up sign and I knew we had won — as it turned out by 94 to 49. As the Guardian put it, "a splendid palindrome".

Process Repeated

This was the first breakthrough. Then to the Committee Stage. A clever barrister drafted a full Bill, but it was torn to shreds. Eventually the Government was so exasperated by my inefficiency that they gave me the assistance of the Parliamentary draftsman. Thereafter we were home and dry though every clause was bitterly contested. The Bill passed the Lords, and immediately, as if inspired by malice, Mr. Wilson decided to have an election. "William" went into limbo.

Third Time Lucky!

Thereafter, I had to introduce it for a second time, stage by stage. Again we won, but now it was a question of finding someone in the Commons to take the Bill up, for the Government still would not touch it. The only hope lay in the Ballot, but we were unlucky. There remained the ten-minute rule, and under it lion-hearted little Mr. Abse got a 2-1 majority. This time the Government were moved to action and gave him what is called Time and Facilities, though still no official support. He got an unopposed second reading. But the amazing thing was that under the Ten-Minute Rule, he had to introduce a Bill of his own. He could not pick up my Bill, so although his was identical down to the last comma, I had to introduce it for a third time in the Lords. The Bill passed. During the course of it I sent out over a thousand whips, including two telegrams to Bishops cruising in the Mediterranean which cost 15 pounds each. I also had two strokes.

I hope you will forgive this little excursion. It is an example of how things get done, and just how inefficient and capricious our legislative machine is — not the Lords machine, but the Parliamentary system as it now stands. So much for our powers and our limitations.

Hereditary Members

In regard to our membership, all the true things I have mentioned so far about talent in the House of Lords have mainly applied to the life peers and peeresses, and to those who have been elevated because of the great things they have done. Where do the hereditary peers come in? Of course, this is a difficult one to answer. In theory and in fact a man has no right to authority because of the accident of birth, any more than the Prince of Wales has the right to be the Prince of Wales. You cannot "justify" it. But again, the plain fact is that it worked.

You may think our hereditary peers a pretty rosy lot, but whether you like it or not, we do, from time to time — and not so rarely as all that — throw up someone quite outstanding, like Lord Home for example, or Lord Longford or Lord Salisbury. And in addition to the not-so-hereditary members, we also seem to produce some pretty competent second-eleven men — men who make good junior Ministers and who know what Government means. For, though you may not agree, I believe Government is an art and a tradition, and it is a fact that where there is tradition of Government as in the great Whig and Tory families, like my cousins the Salisburys and the Devonshires and the Derbys, the knowledge — the know-how — is carried on from father to son and to son again.

We are beginning to see this among the Socialists too. They are throwing up a new dynasty, the Silkins for example; Lord Silkin the father of abortion and of the New Towns in the Lords, and his son John, Chief Government Whip in the Commons; Lady Summerskill, the mother of three Acts on the Statute Book and also of Miss Shirley Summerskill, M.P.; and Mr. Roy Jenkins, the son of a Welsh M.P. They are beginning, but only just, and though I confess that I am myself at heart a Socialist, I have been disappointed because the Socialists when in Office, have showed that, great and sincere as is their humanity, they just lack the knowledge of how to do the job. I am sorry about this, because taken man by man I think they are much nicer than the Conservatives.

More Democratic

And now, I do not expect you to go all the way with me on this, but I honestly believe that the House of Lords in its present form is a more democratic place than the House of Commons. You have had in us an utterly independently-minded cross-section of the whole population — some of us clever, some of us stupid; some of us rich, some of us poor; some who have done well in life, others who have done badly; some of us great, some of us very small indeed; some who have amassed great fortunes, others who have gone bankrupt; some of us who are Knights of the Garter, some of us who have been in prison. We are simply men whose names have been drawn out of the hat in some divine lottery and the only thing that could remotely justify our place is that we are ordinary British human beings. And it is we, ordinary human beings, who are now being thrown out, to be replaced by a gaggle of yes-men and party hacks.

What have we done to deserve this? Of course, I have to admit that the attendance at the Lords has been scandalous, and that many peers should be ashamed of themselves. I do not, of course mean that all peers should come every day. Like the rest of us they have other quite important things to do. But at least they should have put in an appearance from time to time and vote — and occasionally speak — or stop being peers. It is largely because of the silliness of these people, that the House of Lords has got its reputation with those who do not know, for being an archaic, half-dead institution calling for immediate reform. But we should not have been judged by our defaulters. What has mattered is that there has been a hard core of dedicated men and women who are doing the nation's business, and doing it on the whole pretty well.

Reform Red Herring

I repeat, what have we done to deserve this sudden Government decision to reform us? Apart from Lord Salisbury's decision to commit hara-kari on behalf of us all, what was Mr. Wilson's reason? To take the people's minds off the wage freeze and unemployment problems? For surely Lords' reform is the reddest of red herrings. And indeed, far from there being public indignation about the Lords, from my own personal knowledge it is far more popular than it has been for 20 years or more. I have been to almost all the Universities in the country, usually debating or lecturing about our House and the justification for its continued existence; and I think on every occasion I have won. The latest occasion was at London University itself, when it was decided by a 3 to 1 majority that the country would be better governed by the House of Lords than the House of Commons.

End Of Independence

But whatever the reason, the result is going to be the same. We are going to have a new House of Lords, a House composed of professionals, a House of lobby-fodder to whom a three-line Whip will be an order, a command, a pale emasculated version of the House of Commons. Guts and independence will be gone. This is not a good day for you individuals. It is not a good day for Britain.

Medicine — The Freedom To Choose

There is nothing the public likes more than the matter of freedom in medicine, said Mr. A. Dickson-Wright, M.S., M.B., F.R.I.C.S., in an entertaining speech at a luncheon of the Society for Individual Freedom (of which he is a Vice-President) at the House of Commons on December 2nd.

The public, he said, love to go to the man of their choice, and very often he was the "wrong" choice, though they didn't know it. "You the public have the greatest freedom in the matter of choosing who shall look after you before you die," said Mr. Dickson-Wright, "but we medicine men do not have the same freedom towards the public. We are forced to join the National Health Service. We deal with all members of the public, rich and poor alike. We give them free service, and when Aneurin Bevan, that Welshman who brought it in said that this would end all the huckstering and the profiteering that goes on in the medical profession, he was wrong. There is still a bit of it going on."

Mr. Dickson-Wright said that he still believed that a free system of medical service with the co-operation of a doctor who tried to carry out his work as he wished was the right method. It still worked in America, where they had very high standards and spent a lot of money. They didn't have it in Russia, which had the highest death rate in the world — and the worst surgeons he had ever had the misfortune to see.

"All we want is a decent livelihood, and we will do our best to perpetuate your miserable days on the face of this Socialist world", Mr. Dickson-Wright concluded. "We will do everything we can to help you even if we are paid. In the old days we were not paid. Under the old service all my work at the hospital was done for nothing. As a result of the simple work I did on the poor the doctors knew how I could work, so I used to climb on the shoulders of the poor into the pockets of the rich."

"That was the basis. The more we did for the poor the more we got out of the rich. When you stopped working for the poor your practice was finished. It was a very fine and a very humane way of running things", Mr. Dickson-Wright was introduced by Viscount Lambton, M.P., President of the Society for Individual Freedom.

The Road To Peace

The Abyss Of Chaos

(The Wall Street Journal)

The issue is academic freedom, not to mention a few other fundamental American rights such as freedom of speech and assembly. The question is whether the nation's colleges and universities are going to let neo-fascist minorities, Negro and white, dangerously devalue the quality of higher education or indeed destroy the institutions themselves.

The whole aura of sentimentality, emotionalism and romanticism helps explain the pusillanimous reaction to the violence on the part of many educators. Confronted with "non-negotiable" demands, they eagerly set up "black studies" courses, even acknowledging that the result is bound to be a double standard for Negroes and whites — what a service to the Negroes to give them an inferior education. Equally eagerly, they came in to the demands of white militants.

It is a spectacle, needless to say, that has no place on the American scene. The essence of the American political experiment and experience is that one's own rights, one's own freedoms, depend on respect for the rights of others. And that is so because the history of the ages hammers the message that without tolerance liberty is lost.

Yet here we have these totalitarian students, unfortunately with not a few sympathizers and fellow-activists on the faculty, forcibly preventing the majority from getting an education, doing assault on persons and property, in the case of Cornell strutting around armed to the teeth. Why? Most Americans have granted from the start that students do have certain legitimate grievances, that a lot is wrong with the structure and conduct of the contemporary university. Very well; grievances can be discussed, defects put right. But these students (and non-student) fascists are not interested in remedies. They are interested in destruction. Given the power they seek, they would not know what to do with it except to destroy the academic tradition, emphatically including academic freedom.

Somewhat paradoxically, it seems to us, the violence they are perpetrating stems from the sentimentality that has imbued much of the nation's political and sociological thinking for a generation or more. In this view, the child is to be "developed" but rarely disciplined (progressive education), the adult's individual responsibility is held to be minimal (society is to blame for aberrant or criminal behavior), and the people generally are to be shepherded and subsidized (the welfare state).

This is not just an instinctual development; it has been preached from many platforms, not least the very colleges and universities now in turmoil. It is not altogether surprising, therefore, that a number of young people flout authority and heap scorn on the pervasive sentimentality that lets them get away nearly with murder. They, you can be sure, are a much tougher breed. In the special case of attitudes toward Negroes, some administrators and faculty members have expressed the sentimentality in an excess of guilt, trying to do literally anything to make up for past wrongs. Yet, as S.I. Hayakawa of San Francisco State has observed, it is one thing to accept responsibility for the consequences of slavery; it is quite another to go overboard on guilt for what our ancestors did. Guilt, unlike responsibility, can easily become a neurotic emotion.

The whole aura of sentimentality, emotionalism and romanticism helps explain the pusillanimous reaction to the violence on the part of many educators. Confronted with "non-negotiable" demands, they eagerly set up "black studies" courses, even acknowledging that the result is bound to be a double standard for Negroes and whites — what a service to the Negroes to give them an inferior education. Equally eagerly, they came in to the demands of white militants.

It helps explain, it does not excuse. Those capitulating administrators and professors have demonstrated their abysmal inadequacy. Consider Cornell, where a majority of the faculty have reversed themselves and nullified disciplinary action against five lawbreaking Negro students. What kind of way is that to run a university? In the pitiful words of one professor, "We felt we had to draw back from the abyss of chaos."

The abyss is at hand, all right, but capitulation is not how to escape it. The obvious, right, procedure is to keep the classes going, with the aid of police if necessary, and to suspend, expel or otherwise discipline the campus fascists who are making life hell, and education all but impossible, for the many more numerous serious students.

Unless the nation and its educators can overcome their emotionalism and return to common sense, not only the present but the future is full of peril. Education is not everything in life, but in our society it is a great deal. If America lets the quality of its academic institutions be degraded or destroyed, it will become a second-rate nation, a nation of near-incompetents in the arts and sciences and all else that makes for civilized existence.

The proposals for a guaranteed annual income extended by a member of the Cabinet are far inferior to the views expressed by President Nixon. The welfare proposals advocated by Robert Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare, are not consistent with Mr. Nixon's own stand just a year ago. At that time, Mr. Nixon said he was convinced the guaranteed income plan "would not end poverty. . . and would have a very detrimental effect on the productive capacity of the American people."

properly for children, or pay the rent or purchase suitable clothing. The guaranteed annual dollar, however, could be expected to kill initiative for work. Certainly there would be little if any incentive for a person assured of an income for loafing to look too hard for a low-paying job. Instead of looking down the endless road of the cash dole, Mr. Finch would be better advised to seek a welfare system that would put some premium on individual initiative and stir a desire for a person to help himself. For those unable to work, a combination of federal aid and compassionate local welfare cognizant of needs and circumstances offers the best assistance and controls.

Far from solving the welfare headache, guaranteed income can only complicate and perpetuate a problem that has grown increasingly large and uncontrollable. We are more likely to find a sound, workable solution by a renewed emphasis on education, training and elimination of the chiselers who literally take food from the mouths of the poor.

Mr. Finch proposed substitution of federal cash welfare payments for the many oblique programs, including the food stamp plan. He also advocated a guaranteed annual income for those who cannot work or be trained.

In defense of his idea, Mr. Finch said, "Cash income. . . best preserves the dignity and freedom of choice of the individual to meet his own needs through the workings of the private market." There can be no guarantee, of course, that all welfare recipients would spend their money for the necessities, including the sort of food necessary for a balanced diet to avoid malnutrition. Nor is there any guarantee that cash would be used to care for children, or pay the rent or purchase suitable clothing. The guaranteed annual dollar, however, could be expected to kill initiative for work. Certainly there would be little if any incentive for a person assured of an income for loafing to look too hard for a low-paying job. Instead of looking down the endless road of the cash dole, Mr. Finch would be better advised to seek a welfare system that would put some premium on individual initiative and stir a desire for a person to help himself. For those unable to work, a combination of federal aid and compassionate local welfare cognizant of needs and circumstances offers the best assistance and controls.

Loaded Scales Of Justice

(Chicago Tribune)

Justice William J. Brennan of the Supreme court is offended because critics have accused the court of freeing guilty criminals on technicalities. He blames crime on social conditions and not on encouragement by the court. Yet consider a few of the court's decisions which have provoked the charge that the court has been engaged in the biggest jail delivery in history.

A year ago Sen. John L. McClellan said that the effects of such decisions as those in the Mallory case (1957), Escobedo (1964), and Miranda (1966) had "weakened intolerably the force and effect of our criminal laws." He said they had freed many dangerous criminals and were daily preventing the conviction of others who are guilty. He said that the guilty were being turned loose "on some alleged, minor, or dubious technicality."

Andrew Mallory was positively identified by his victim as the man who raped her in a basement laundry. Mallory confessed to the crime seven hours after his arrest. A committing magistrate could not be found that night and he was not arraigned until the next day. The Supreme court reversed the conviction on the ground that the interval between arrest and arraignment was too long. Subsequently Mallory was convicted of another rape in Philadelphia.

Escobedo Case

Danny Escobedo of Chicago was turned loose by the court after his conviction for murder on the ground that a confession could not be introduced into evidence if a request by the defendant to see a lawyer after he had been taken into custody was denied. Later he was convicted of another crime.

The Escobedo doctrine was extended in the cases of Ernesto Miranda, convicted in Arizona of kidnaping and raping an 18-year-old girl. He made both oral and written confessions. The court reversed on the ground that the defendant should have been instructed on his right to remain silent and his right to have legal representation from the moment he was taken into custody, also that he should have been warned that anything he said might be used in evidence against him.

When Miranda was tried a second time, the presiding judge wryly commented that the trial was "a nine-day game of constitutional chess, during which the jurors heard only six hours of testimony, none of which dealt with the basic question of guilt or innocence." Miranda admitted the rape on cross-examination and was again convicted.

In Columbus, O., a self-confessed murderer, who had directed police to the murder weapon, was turned loose on the basis of the Miranda decision. In Washington James Kilgore strangled his wife and buried her in the city dump. He confessed and directed police to the body. He made a second confession after arraignment. On the basis of Mallory, conviction was reversed.

Miranda Again

Recently the court held in the Witherspoon case that the death penalty imposed for the murder of a policeman was invalid because potential jurors who opposed capital punishment were excluded from the jury. Miranda was again invoked in a Texas murder case where the killer, awakened by police, admitted he had been at the scene of the murder and directed police to the murder weapon, concealed in a washing machine.

Only recently the court reversed the rape conviction of a 14-year-old Mississippi because he was detained and fingerprinted when no warrant had been issued or "probable cause" had been established. This was supposed to represent unreasonable search and seizure, in contravention of the 4th amendment.

Director J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI complained not long ago that there was undue concern for the "rights" of defendants, while citizens could not walk the streets without being mugged, raped, or murdered. That seems to put Justice Brennan's complaints in proper perspective.

Wit And Whimsy

The Army doctor was examining the draftee. Doctor Jones — Have your eyes ever been checked? Joe (the draftee) — Oh, no, sir. They've always been brown. Three-fourths of the earth's surface is water and one-fourth is land. It's clear the good Lord intended man should spend three times as much time fishing as he does plowing. A man suffered a nervous breakdown and was ordered to take a vacation. He wrote his psychiatrist: "Having a wonderful time. Why?"

Vernon Plays Waiting Games

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) —The lightning has struck, but it's tough waiting for that clap of thunder.
That's the period John Vernon is in now — between the lightning and the thunder. He has done two big pictures — "Topaz" and "Justice"—and either or both could make him a big star. But they won't be out until late summer and early fall, respectively, and that gives him a bit of a lull in his work.
Meanwhile, you see, his agent wants him to wait.
"My agent doesn't want me to do anything now," Vernon says. "No television, no movies, nothing. Just wait. It's tough sitting. I play a little golf, play a little bridge, read some scripts. And wait."

Air Board Asks For Shut Down Of Plant

AUSTIN (UPI) —The Texas Air Control Board today asked the attorney general to take immediate action to close down a La Porte chemical plant that has been releasing a deadly gas into the neighboring community.
The anti-pollution agency asked legal aid to obtain a court order to prevent recurrence of the emissions of phosgene, a highly toxic gas used during World War I.
The chemist chemicals division in La Porte uses the gas in manufacturing insecticides.
P. V. Werner, La Porte city administrator, said there have been three emissions of the gas in the last two weeks, making more than 40 residents of the area ill. Werner said more than 20 had to be hospitalized.
"Three releases (of phosgene) since June 5—there's something wrong. It's either negligence or they just don't give a damn," Werner said.
"We are not against industry, but we are against careless industry or unsafe industry," Werner said. "If it takes shutting down the plant to make it safe, that's exactly what we want to do."
Henry G. T. Luyties of La Porte, head of a local citizens' anti-pollution group, presented a petition signed by some of the citizens hospitalized because of the gas emissions. The petition asked the Air Control Board to take emergency action in the case.
Air Control Board investigators said they were denied admission to the plant to check equipment. The plant has a variance exempting the operation from certain anti-pollution regulations but board officials said the variance does not authorize emissions of the toxic gas.

Jeep Is Found On Roof
ST. CLAIR SHORES, Mich. (UPI)—William Zornes knew parking was tight around his filling station but he was still a little surprised Thursday when he found a jeep on his roof.
Zornes, 33, isn't sure how it got there but he suspects a lift truck.
"I don't think my insurance covers this," said Zornes as he looked for a lift truck big enough to get it down. He said crane rental would cost $800 to $1,000.
Police said there was no ordinance against parking trucks on service station roofs.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS
The Constitution took the power to coin money away from the states and gave it to the federal government. The first coin authorized by Congress, The World Almanac says, was the 1787 Fugio cent. The Latin "Fugio" ("I Fly") stamped near a sun dial refers to time. The coin, bearing the further advice, "Mind your business," is also called the Franklin cent because he is said to have authored the inscriptions.

Harvest Hand Loses Billfold
Donald E. Wilson, who is in Pampa working with the wheat harvest, reported that he lost a billfold Wednesday.
The report stated that Wilson, who is staying with Ed Barnes, Rt 1 Box 39, lost his billfold between 6 and 10 p.m. Wednesday.
During that time he was in both the north side of town and downtown.
The billfold is made of tan leather and contains his driver's license, Social Security Card and $12 cash.

Perryton Hospital Head Resigns Post
PERRYTON — Announcement was made yesterday of the resignation of Gerald F. Geyer as administrator of Ochiltree General Hospital here.
Geyer served as the hospital's head since its opening and had a part in its planning.
The administrator said he was quitting to accept an administrative position with one of the nation's largest nursing centers.
A successor to Geyer has not yet been chosen.

The Prairie Wind

Our Little Leaguer grandson, Billy Bob, is out for several days and it has been a great help to have him around. The nine-year-old is pretty handy at handling and loading those 50-pound cake sacks for feeding the big calves in the north pasture and the replacement heifers at home.

We also rode pasture and had to pen a cow with a bad eye preparatory to taking her to the sale. Billy Bob did his first real riding job on the new horse we got. He said he liked riding him fine but loved old Cowboy best!

Buel Gray, Rick and Jay Harvey went to the sale on Monday to take a dogie calf. Buel got with a bunch of black cows and calves he bought.

Leonard Johnson, home from the hospital, has company. His brother, Sam, and his wife and three children are visiting here.

Leon and Velma Wellman of Olney, sister and brother-in-law to the Dock Stocktons and friends of the Terrys, have been visiting briefly with the Stocktons and even more briefly with the Terrys. An afternoon to catch up on our talking and to let their grandson Mike ride Cowboy as his sister once rode Old Bob.

Almost three inches of rain on Nubbun Ridge has made a fine grass crop, but reckon the wheat farmers weren't ecstatic about it. We saw a few fine wheat crops en route home from El Paso last week and some amazing feed lots.

Bonnie Renfro reported that her husband, Lloyd, was going to wheat harvest on the Romey Adams farms as soon as it dried up enough to begin cutting.

The Alhambra Home Demonstration Club visited the home of Rene Childress of Berger last week, and according to Bonnie Renfro, it was the most distinctive home one could imagine: flowers made by Mrs. Childress, old bottles collected by her husband, and everywhere things of elegance contrived from nondescript articles which might, in other homes, have been discarded!

Vernon Payton branded one pasture on Saturday according to Flossie Stockton who always goes over whenever the Crutch works cattle.

The Berth Haille Ranch has been sold. The place was a most welcoming ranch home during the times when the Buel Grays and the Bert Hailey families lived there, and has been just as much so during the many years that the Rob Harlans have made it their home.

Now, we wonder—will we lose our long-time friends and neighbors, or will this continue to be home, since the Harlans own a section of land in the White Deer Creek community and also have land and grass down near Kellerville.

We are hoping they will not go too far away, after Jim Campbell of Pampa takes over next May 1.

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith, Director
Pampa Youth and Community Center

CENTER WRAP-UP MEMBERSHIPS To all newcomers in Pampa and to those persons who have not used the nice facilities at the Youth Center, you might be interested in this information. The Center is a community programed project and does not receive any tax money to operate from any source. The operation of the Center is carried on through donations from individuals, businesses and organizations along with the fee of memberships. When you purchase eight of our memberships you know that someone else has already paid about 75 per cent of the price for you.

The two types of memberships available at the Center are the individual and the family. When you purchase either of these memberships there is never an extra charge to participate in any of the activities. You must however, sign up for the swim lesson program.

The individual membership is available to all persons 8 years of age or older. This sells for $5 for six months and $8 per year. If you are below 8 years of age, you must be carried on a family membership plan. The family plan when purchased includes membership for the entire immediate family. This TEEN DANCES For young people who like to do their thing, the Center sponsors teen dances on Friday nights from 8-11 p.m. The Center features all the local bands in addition to some out-of-town guest bands. Such bands as Tyme, Heavy Rain, Payne, Westgate, The Renegades, The People and many others will appear at the Center.

All dances are chaperoned by adults and are very nice affairs. There is always an off-duty policeman present. There are at least 9 chaperones at all the dances and usually more. We do not allow teen-agers to come and go, but must either stay or leave permanently. Parents are invited to come out and help chaperone anytime.

SUMMER HOURS The schedule at the Center changes during the months of June, July and August. We stay open weekdays and Saturdays and close only on Sundays. The schedule reads from Monday-Friday open 9-12, 1-5, and 7-10 with swimming from 14:30-17:00. Closed Saturdays. The gym and recreation halls are always open for participation.

Nixon Says ABM Will Win Approval

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon, claiming the Safeguard ABM system has enough support to win congressional approval, says "new intelligence information" on Soviet weapons tests make antiballistic missiles even more important than they were before.

The President asserted during his news conference Thursday night that 50 to 51 U.S. senators have lined up in favor of the controversial multibillion dollar defense program he proposed in March and predicted "we will win the fight for Safeguard."

The latest UPI survey of senators showed 49 against ABM deployment, 44 for and seven undecided. House approval of the Safeguard has long been considered certain.

The President said new evidence indicates 80 per cent of America's 1,000 Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) could be vulnerable to attack by 1973 if Russia continues developing multiple-warhead missiles.

If the Russians were willing to stop testing these new weapons, he said, the United States might be willing to halt development of its own multiple-warhead missiles, called MIRVs for multiple independently targetable re-entry vehicles.

"We are considering the possibility of a moratorium on (multiple warhead) tests as part of any arms control agreement," Nixon told his news conference Thursday night.

But he said a unilateral halt would not be "in our interest." Nixon said the talks—covering both offensive and defensive missiles—at which such agreement might be possible might begin between July 31 and Aug. 15, perhaps in Vienna or Geneva.

He said the United States is completing preparations for such talks, is about to consult its Allies on them and has suggested July 31 as a "target date" to Moscow, but has heard no reply.

Russia has been testing multiple warheads, but U.S. officials are not sure whether they are independently targetable or are merely fired in clusters.

TRAPS HIMSELF

TIPTON, England (UPI)—Shopkeeper Les Nadin set a trap for thieves who had been raiding his store by ripping up floorboards at the entrance, leaving an eight-foot trap into the cellar.

Nadin, 49, forgot about the trap the next day and fell into the cellar, breaking several ribs and cutting himself so badly he needed a transfusion of seven pints of blood.

News In Brief

PRESERVES OSPREY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Forest Service plans to set aside an area in Oregon's DesChutes National Forest for preservation of the American osprey, a fish-eating hawk in danger of extinction. The management area, on which no shooting will be allowed from April 1 to Sept. 30 each year, includes the Crane Prairie Reservoir and a 5,300-acre strip around it.

WILL BEGIN STUDY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A three-man team from the U.S. Bureau of Radiological Health will begin a study next week of color television receivers produced by 20 domestic and five foreign manufacturers. The team will be trying to determine how much X-ray emission comes from the sets.

The Yugoslavs aren't giving up on their new pill despite the test results, the journal said. They will go ahead with another trial—this time with an X-ray emission in color sets. The government is attempting to devise a safety standard for triple dose.

SERIOUS SIDE EFFECT

LINDON (UPI)—The new birth control pill had one somewhat serious side effect. Twenty of the 43 women who took it became pregnant.

The British Medical Journal said today scientists in Yugoslavia designed the pill to eliminate a hormone which had caused some side effects.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—There has been a lot of talk this week about the possibility of a confrontation between Congress and the Supreme Court.

The court's ruling that Rep. Adam Clayton Powell was unconstitutionally denied his seat in 1967 may have put it on a collision course with the House of Representatives.

Some of the more militant congressmen have threatened defiance should a lower court now rule that Powell is entitled to collect the pay he lost while in limbo and Bimini.

I wouldn't venture to predict the outcome of such a confrontation, but if it does take place, I hope I'm here to see it.

There is a lot more to this than just the Powell case," one of the militants told me. "We congressmen feel alienated from the mainstream of Supreme Court decisions and we are demanding that congressmen be given a bigger voice in running Congress."

It is believed the militants speak for only a small portion of the legislative body. The overwhelming majority of today's House members are on the side of law and order.

But we all know that militants usually prevail over the moderates when the situation gets down to the nitty gritty.

In that event, the justices and the lawgivers would be eyeball to eyeball. Or, as the case might be, bifocal to bifocal.

In my mind's eye, I am already getting some vivid mental pictures of what the confrontation would be like.

It would begin, I imagine, with a group of congressional militants occupying the House Disbursing Office to prevent execution of the court order regarding Powell's back pay.

The lawgivers obviously would have numerical superiority. They outnumber the justices 435 to 9 when both are at full strength.

A vacancy caused by the resignation of Abe Fortas has further weakened the bench and some of the justices are near the doddering age.

But in seeking to enforce the order, the court would have at its disposal a sizable force of U.S. marshals, some of whom have been battle-tested on college campuses.

Moreover, the court presumably would have the support of Powell himself, and it is likely that several other lawgivers would defect.

The House has reserves of its own, however. It could call out the congressional police force, which has gained valuable experience ejecting peace demonstrators from the Capitol steps this spring.

And, as a last resort, it could throw up a defense line composed of "Fishbait" Miller and his fearsome corps of House doorkeepers.

I wouldn't venture to predict the outcome of such a confrontation, but if it does take place, I hope I'm here to see it.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—A "constructive investment attitude" is called for at this time, Wright Advisory Reports says. The market is recovering from the "inflationary speculative fever" of the last few years, it adds.

The analyst offers the opinion that "the inevitable correction has only just begun, and the process will continue throughout 1969 and well into 1970."

Federal Reserve policy, which has contributed to the credit crunch, could well reverse itself in the coming months, Walston & Co. observes. But, the analyst continues, even before the FED turns the credit faucet on, the stock market could hit the bottom of its downsizing and a new bull market could follow.

"Stocks have been hit by such a sharp shakeout that the next bull swing could produce some pretty good percentage gains," the company adds.

The stock market is "reeling from an unvaried diet of bad news," according to Spear and Staff Inc. With Wall Street gripped by "a general malaise," issues have a "strong propensity" to sell off on any further bit of bad news "out all proportion to what a rational examination of the news would call for," the company says. Its advice to investors: "Caution is the best policy. Confine new commitments to selected issues."

Goodbody & Co. says it does not know whether the "current anxious moments of the stock market" can stretch a bit further, but "the virility of the American way of life...is still the dominant force over American economy." The company says the economy "is fully capable of sustaining an equity price structure equal to or even higher than the current one." It adds: "It takes no more than ordinary confidence in the American political process to resist the temptation to regard 1969 as the year of the bear."

Red Cross News

By Libby Shotwell
Executive Secretary ARC

This has been a most disappointing week, first the rains came and the children could not begin their Learn to Swim Classes at the City Pool until Thursday morning and then the sun came out and we were able to begin classes. Then too, a very dear friend of Red Cross died and his funeral was in Amarillo Tuesday morning. We will miss Harold A. Gallerneau who was always ready and willing to work for Red Cross in raising funds and in disaster service. Amarillo and all of the CST will miss Harold, and our sincere sympathy goes to his wife and daughter. Ted Gikas and Libby Shotwell attended the funeral in Amarillo Tuesday morning.

We have two new hospital Volunteers who have taken the orientation and will work Sunday afternoon at the Highland General Hospital with Donna Ray. These girls wear the blue and white uniforms and serve juice to the patients at the hospital. They may deliver flowers and cards to the patients also. We are very proud of the girls who work as volunteers at the hospital.

Monday evening June 23rd the Budget and Admissions Committee of the Pampa United Fund will meet at the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. office to review the needs of the organizations who are in the United Fund. Our committee will be John S. Skelly fund chairman, James McCarley, B. D. Middle, Mrs. Don George and Bill Jean, our Field Representative from Amarillo. They will present the needs of the American Red Cross. Our National Organization has requested Gray County to make 10 layettes for the Near East this coming year. If there is any organization who would like to sew baby things—very simple garments without decorations—should call the Red Cross and we will buy the material and furnish the patterns for you to make these needed garments. We will soon be making Ditty bags for our servicemen who are away from home at Christmas time.

We still have some places for swimmers and children who wish to Learn to Swim in the June 30th and July 14th classes. Come by the Red Cross office and enroll your child. We cannot register your child over the phone and you do not want to disappoint your child in this program.

Are your children in the City Summer Recreation program? The children meet at the High School Gym and have directed play and then go to the swimming pool for 1 hour of free swim. If your child can swim, he gets a chance to practice and if he is learning to swim, he gets used to the water and it is not so hard to teach him in the Learn to Swim Class sponsored by Red Cross.

We have a new Water Safety Instructor, Jim Cole. He completed his WSI in Midland, Texas where he is a life guard and WSI for children in a learn to swim classes. We also lost two WSI this past week, Jennie Potter and Mrs. Charlotte Judkins, both have moved to Oklahoma City, Okla. We always hate to lose our WSI.

Get Ahead As A Hair Stylist

By ERNIE HOOD
Distributed by NEA

Job opportunities for newcomers as well as for experienced cosmetologists are expected to be extremely good all through the 1970s. Even those seeking part-time work should find employment readily.

Among factors responsible for the anticipated employment growth are the population increase and the more frequent use of beauty salons as income levels rise and more women take jobs outside the home.

Replacements through retirements, transfers to other employment, etc., also will average about 25,000 a year. An estimated 475,000 people employed as hair-dressers and cosmetologists in 1967—more than 10 per cent of men. The proportion of part-time workers is high.

Often called beauty operators, hairdressers or beauticians, cosmetologists actually provide a variety of beauty services most of which are related to the hair.

Most are employed in salons which are operated as independent establishments or in conjunction with hotels and department and specialty stores.

Employment generally is concentrated in urban areas, although many operators work in small towns and rural areas in all parts of the country.

The great majority of beauty salons are small establishments with fewer than four employees. More than half are owner-operated.

All states require that beauty operators be licensed. Before they are eligible to take state licensing examinations on the theory and practice of cosmetology, they usually must be at least 16 years of age, present certificates of good health and have completed at least the eighth grade—in many states the 10th and, in a few, the 12th.

A state-approved cosmetology course is recognized as adequate preparation for these examinations in all states; in some, a period of apprenticeship may be substituted. More than three-fourths of the states provide for reciprocity and, therefore, operators licensed to work in one state can often move to another and continue their work without taking another examination to qualify.

More than 3,000 public vocational schools and private schools offer training which meets state licensing requirements for a general operator's license is available in evening classes. Many daytime classes offered by public and private schools require six months to complete, others, which may include academic subjects required for a high school diploma, last from two to three years.

Apprenticeship training usually continues over a period of one or two years.

Practically all beauty schools help their students find work after graduation.

Advancements may come in the form of higher earnings as operators gain experience and build up a steady clientele, or as they become skilled specialists in one or more phases of the work. Some also advance to positions in which they manage salons or open salons of their own and others advance to teaching positions in cosmetology schools or use their knowledge and skills in some different type of employment—working as demonstrators for manufacturers of cosmetics, for example, or as beauty editors for newspapers and magazines.

Many cosmetologists are paid on a straight commission basis, others receive a salary plus commission. Estimating total earnings is difficult because, in addition to salaries and commissions, most receive tips. Earnings also depend upon such factors as experience, speed of performance, skill, type and location of the beauty salon and the ability to satisfy customers and build up a clientele. Many beginning operators earn between $60 and $80 a week, according to limited information available.

Most full-time operators work 40 hours or longer a week, including late-afternoon and Saturday work. In many large salons and in establishments such as department stores and hotels, operators may participate in group life and health insurance and other employee benefit plans. Some salons allow their employees annual paid vacations of at least one week after a year's service.

EXPAND POWERS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., has introduced a bill to expand the enforcement powers of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. The measure would give the commission power to issue cease and desist orders in cases of employment discrimination. The proposal has already brought criticism from some senators who do not want to see the agency given more power over businesses.
