Accurate Course Retained, Astronauts Near Moon

Crew Sleeps As Ship Races Through Space

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Apollo 11's astronauts, three quarters of the way to the moon and pinpoint accurate in their course, start checking their "Eagle" lunar today to make sure it is ready for its Sunday landing on the moon.

Neil L. Armstrong, who will be the first man to step on the lunar surface, Edwin E. Aldrin and Michael Collins slept late today as their spaceship raced toward its date with destiny.

Flight Director Glynn Lunney said Apollo 11 was "Right on the book" and its course so accurate that the astronauts' third opportunity to correct it would be skipped today and a fourth opportunity Saturday might be cancelled.

"Nothing's wrong in the spacecraft," Lunney said. "The trajectory is not acting up. It's going as well as any mission we've ever had. That's for sure."

Meanwhile, Russia's big unmanned Luna 15 satellite was

Major Crimes Up 16 Per Cent In Pampa This Year

Major crimes were up 16 per cent and criminal arrests were down 14 per cent in Pampa during the second quarter of this year, according to a report filed today by City Manager Charles Hill.

There were 155 major crimes reported locally in April, May and June compared to 136 in the first quarter of the current year. However, the 1969 figure on major crimes was 15 per cent below the same period in 1968 when 183 were reported.

The city manager cited a "lack of police officers" as the major contributing factor for the quarterly increase in crime here.

"Shortage of personnel, vacations and officer training reduced the available hours for police work during the quarter," the report stated.

The city manager also stated traffic arrests decreased 16 1/2 per cent this quarter over the first quarter of the year. Parking citations were down 14 per cent from the same period in 1968.

He said the traffic arrest decrease resulted from using one of the meter maids as a police dispatcher to fill a vacancy that would have required use of a patrolman.

The report shows fire department runs were up over the past year. During the past nine months firemen responded to 193 fire calls, 58 of them out in the county. This is compared to 189 runs inside the city during the same period last year and 34 in the county.

According to fire department figures there have been as many residential fire runs in (See CRIME, Page 2)

Bears Escape From Caves At Chicago Zoo

CHICAGO (UPI)—Two polar bears escaped from their caves at the Brookfield Zoo by swimming the filled moat around their quarters after a rainstorm Thursday.

The bears then padded straight to the refreshment stand directly across from their home. It seemed the bears had been waiting for a chance to visit the place where the goodies are bought.

When zoo employees arrived for work Thursday morning the bears were seen munching on marshmallows and ice cream. They returned to their caves within two hours.

PRESENTS CERTIFICATE—Diana Files, left, museum consultant and staff member of the Texas Historical Committee, presents a certificate honoring the Gray County Historical Committee to Tracy Cary, chairman. Watching at right is Mrs. Fred Thompson, curator of the White Deer Lands Museum. The certificate honors the local committee for exceeding their quota in a program of historical recordation, appreciation, marking, preservation and surveys.

While Americans Walk On The Moon Texans Will Have Holiday

While two Americans walk on a small area of the moon Monday, many more Texans will be hitting the beaches, the roads or the homes of relatives with color television sets to enjoy a hastily planned extra day of vacation. Government employees and students will be the bulk of those with Monday off while many others may "sleep late" or declare their own unofficial holiday in response to President Nixon's request.

Texan Convicted Of Boy's Murder

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI)—Convicted killer Richard Welch, sat in a Kern County jail cell today awaiting a decision on whether he will spend the rest of his life in prison or die in the gas chamber. But the jury assigned the task of deciding was slow in producing.

Welch, 27, of San Antonio, was convicted last week, after a 19-day trial, of murdering Randy Jenkins, 17, of Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 25.

The same eight-woman, four-man jury that convicted him reconvened to decide his fate but they deliberated all day Thursday without reaching a decision. Under California law, Welch can only be sentenced to life in prison or the gas chamber.

Welch also was convicted of the attempted murder of Diane Bradford, 18, of Campbell, Calif., in the same incident. Jenkins and the girl were hitchhiking to Salt Lake City when Welch and his 17-year-old wife picked them up outside Bakersfield.

Miles later in a remote area of the California desert near Mojave he killed Jenkins, and then seriously wounded Miss Bradford with a shot to the back of the head.

Miss Bradford testified Welch forced her to partially disrobe and threatened to rape her before the shooting.

Welch contended during the trial that he shot the pair out of fear. He said they were on drugs and intended to harm him and his wife.

Welch's wife, who pleaded guilty to being an accessory in the crime, testified Welch beat her up, told her not to tell anyone about the incident and then disappeared.

Museum Group Hears Historical Survey Official

Donna Files, museum consultant and staff member of the Texas Historical Survey Committee in Austin, told committee members interested in developing museums in the Gray County area that the present image of the museum has to be changed.

"Museums are a constant, living institution," she said at a luncheon in her honor yesterday at the Coronado Inn. "Museums have a bad reputation of being old and crusty."

She told the group that museums should not only preserve the heritage of the past, but also should interpret and pass on that heritage for young and old to appreciate and enjoy.

"It should be a community project," she said. "It should include all the people of the area."

Miss Files warned the group to avoid acquiring too many "white elephants" in the relatively new Pioneer Cottage Museum.

"It should contain a central theme which will make it a much more valuable attraction for tourists. The theme should concern the distribution of land and which counties comprised this area or tract. This will make it more meaningful to them."

"It is more important to have a museum with a few pertinent artifacts than one filled with a hodgepodge of articles," Miss Files said.

"It is important to do an excellent job with what you have."

Following the luncheon the group including representatives from the M. K. Brown Foundation, Pampa Genealogical and Historical Survey Committee and the Tourist Development Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, returned to the White Deer Lands Museum for the last session of the all-day workshop.

The sessions dealt with every conceivable aspect of caring for artifacts, display of the articles and space utilization of the museums, Tracy Cary, chairman of the Gray County Historical Survey Committee, said.

Students attending most summer schools will have the day off.

Rice University, the University of Houston and the Houston Independent School District all said students and employees need not come Monday.

Texas Tech along with the Lubbock public schools will be closed. The only thing going at Lubbock Christian College will be a special presentation by the music department.

The University of Texas at Austin and the public schools in the state capital will not be in operation.

Most city agencies, except for the law enforcement branches, will take the day off. In San (See MOON, Page 2)

Kidnaped Texans OK Found In Wyoming

PINEDALE, Wyo. (UPI)—It was only a few days, but Mrs. Floy Chambers Sackett said it seemed more like "a million years."

The 42-year-old Pasadena, Tex., housewife and her 12-year-old daughter, Barbara, were kidnapped last Thursday from their home. They were freed early yesterday after the deaths of a teen-age girl and a Wyoming deputy sheriff.

"I lived a million years in that time," Mrs. Sackett said. "You just don't know what fright is. I think both of them are sane, but completely mean."

Mrs. Sackett said she was forced from her home by James Earl Arabelle, 27, the son of a neighbor, and Larry Ray Foster, 14, also from Pasadena.

She said Arabelle came to her house to inquire about a car she was selling, then told her he had stabbed a man and needed a car to get across the state line.

"They forced me at gunpoint to drive," she said. "I really don't think they knew where they were going until we got to the lodge. They just decided to rob it."

Wyoming law enforcement officers converged on the Battle Mountain Lodge, southwest of Jackson, Wyo., Monday night after investigating a report of a trailer theft.

Deputy Sheriff Billie Edwards, 32, of Teton County, Wyo., was killed when he tried to get inside. Authorities later found the body of Kathleen Annette Callier, 13, of Pasadena, a runaway who officials said apparently went along willingly with Arabelle and Foster.

Investigators said the young girl was shot five times, apparently after an argument with young Foster.

Mrs. Sackett said she had opportunities to ask for help but never did.

Gray County Judge Sherman Lenning, Jr. announced today he would make a trip to Austin next week to meet with Gov. Preston Smith, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and House Speaker Gus Mutchers.

Lenning said that he, Deputy County Clerk Wanda Carter and possibly 31st Judicial District Court Judge Grainger McIlhenny would make the trip by plane Thursday.

Judge Lenning said he had an appointment with Governor Smith at 2:30 p.m. and would meet with Barnes and Mutchers before seeing the governor.

The meeting is designed to ask the three top state political figures to help pass Senate Bill 318 in a special session of the legislature.

"The purpose of the bill," Lenning said, "is to keep hospital employees under the state retirement plan from losing their prior service if we have an election here creating a hospital district and it is approved by the voters."

The bill passed the Senate by a comfortable vote but bogged down in the House before it adjourned.

Gray County Commissioners recently voted to put the state retirement plan into effect for county employees, effective Aug. 1.

Highland General Hospital employees are included in the plan, even though hospital employees pay five per cent and the hospital the other five per cent and the county nothing.

If the bill doesn't pass then hospital employees would lose prior service if Pampa votes for a hospital district, Judge Lenning stated.

Testimony To Start In Trial

HOUSTON (UPI)—Testimony was expected to begin at 11 a.m. today in the retrial of once-convicted Pampa rapist Tom R. Vessels.

The 12th juror was selected about 9:30 a.m. today and two women and 10 men make up the retrial jury, in which Pampa District Attorney, City Hardin is seeking the death penalty.

Court recessed Thursday after six jurors had been selected to bring the total to 11.

Vessels' attorney, Warren Burnett of Odessa, used all of his challenges yesterday.

Vessels, who watched proceedings in a gray business suit and good spirits, is accused of the April 28, 1966 rape of a Pampa housewife. His first conviction was overturned by an appeals court for a number of complex reasons.

"I would characterize the previous trial as little more than a controlled or supervised lynching," said defense attorney Warren Burnett of Odessa, Tex. "No lawyer could have been effective in the previous trial because of the way the judge handled it."

Reserved Seats For Rodeo For Sale Monday

Reserved seats for the Top O' Texas Rodeo at Recreation Park July 23-26 will go on sale at 9 a.m. Monday at rodeo headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce office, Hughes Bldg. Grandstands at the rodeo grounds will seat approximately 5,000 with 2,250 being reserved seats.

Reservations may be made at the rodeo office between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. daily. After those hours they may be picked up at the box office at the rodeo grounds.

A few box seats still are available. Boxes have six seats on sale at $66 per box, which includes general admission, and tickets are good for the entire 4-day show.

It is pointed out that all box seats are good seats since all roping and bulldogging events originate in the north end, with the riding events starting from the south end.

Indications today were that there will be a big rush for reserved seats, and rodeo officials advised the public to secure tickets early to avoid the rush.

Merchants' complimentary tickets may still be secured by calling or writing Mrs. Lois Steward, rodeo secretary, at the rodeo office.

BRUCE WELLS

Bruce Wells, 71, of Rangeley, Colo., and formerly of Pampa, died Thursday while working in Wyoming. While living in Pampa, he was employed here and in Lefors and McLean as a cable tool driller.

Survivors are his wife, Ray Wells; his son, Bruce Eugene, both of Rangeley, two daughters, Mrs. Marvin Arnold, Odessa; and Mrs. Alvin Titus, White Oak; one brother, Othel Wells, Spencer, W. Va. and a sister, Mrs. Archie Fugate, Pampa, and nine grandchildren. Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Monday in Duenkel Funeral Home Chapel with burial in Fairview Cemetery.

EDWARD MAZEY

TULSA, Okla.—Edward Henry Maze, 68, born Dec. 2, 1901, in Sandino, Ohio, died at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in St. John's Hospital in Tulsa, Okla. A former Pampa, he was the father of Mrs. Charles Duenkel Jr., 321 N. Frost.

Funeral services are tentatively slated for 11:30 a.m. Saturday in Whitehurst Funeral Chapel in Tulsa, with burial in a Tulsa cemetery.

Mr. Maze moved to Pampa in 1927 and was employed with the Western Supply Co. He moved from Pampa to Tulsa in 1951, before he retired from the oil field supply business in 1968.

Survivors are his wife, Peggy, of the home; a son, William R., Manteca, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Charles A. Duenkel Jr., Pampa, and Mrs. Bill Christian, Irving; one sister, Mrs. Doris McMurtry, Atascadero, Calif.; eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

J. B. HORN

Funeral services for Jewell B. Horn, 71, former Pampa, were held Thursday in George J. Carroll and Son Chapel in Gainesville with burial in Fairview Cemetery in Gainesville. He died Tuesday in a Gainesville hospital.

Mr. Horn was born Sept. 11, 1898, in Huntington, Tenn., and had been employed with Phillips Petroleum Company 32 years. He lived at Bowers City near Pampa while working for the company and moved to Gainesville from Bowers City about seven years ago. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge in Pampa and Gainesville.

Survivors are his wife, two sons, J.B. Jr., Dumas; and Ray Douglas, Nederland; two sisters, Mrs. J.L. Lynch and Mrs. Bessie Gray, both of Gainesville, and seven grandchildren.

BILL RUTLEDGE

Funeral services for Bill Rutledge, who died at his home at 1226 E. Harvester early yesterday morning, will be at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the Carmichael-Whitley Colonial Chapel with the Rev. Max E. Rowing, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church officiating. Burial will follow at Fairview Cemetery.

Rutledge was born in Childress on March 14, 1930. He lived in Borger and finished high school in Childress in 1947. In 1956 he moved to Pampa. He was a member of St. Paul's Methodist Church, a charter member of the Pampa Evening Lions Club. He was employed at Pampa Office Supply Co. for 17 years.

Rutledge is survived by a daughter, Sheila, Pampa; two sons, Timothy Paul, and Kevin Bruce, Pampa; father, T. E. Rutledge, Childress; two brothers, Wilmer, Childress, and T. E. Jr., Tennessee; two sisters, Mrs. Fred Day, Las Cruces, N.M., and Mrs. Jack Barwick, North Carolina.

Eldridge Cleaver May Return To U.S.

PARIS (UPI)—Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver says he would return to the United States immediately to stand trial on an attempted murder charge if he was assured he would remain free pending the trial.

Cleaver spoke over the telephone Thursday from Algiers, where he is attending a Pan African cultural festival. He has been sought by U.S. authorities since an incident involving the Black Panthers and Oakland, Calif., police April 6, 1968. He jumped $50,000 bail on an attempted murder charge and fled the country.

Cleaver said it was the parole laws of California that kept him out of the United States. "This is just a departmental rule," Cleaver said. "If the power system would rescind that order regulated by departmental rule and let me stand trial, I'd catch the first plane back."

California law would require that Cleaver return to jail pending trial because he was on parole from an assault charge at the time of the shooting incident in Oakland. Cleaver declined to say where he had been the past eight months. Newsmen in Havana reported he was living there for awhile.

"I've traveled in eight countries . . . checking, and I've found yankee imperialism numbing people, starving them. It was them uptight," he said. "You know very well the U.S. government, the FBI and other agencies are seeking information against me," he said. "I'm not gonna do their work. They're gonna have to sweat for it." He refused to confirm or deny he has visited Cuba.

Cleaver said the U.S. government is practicing "oppression" against the Black Panther party and of the nation's black people.

Cleaver said his wife in the United States is pregnant and expecting their child soon. He said he had no plans yet but if he returns to the United States it will be "the same way I left it, without anybody knowing 'about it'."

The first nine months of the current fiscal year — 66 of them — as was experienced in all of fiscal 1967-68.

The city manager's report also revealed that 95.19 per cent of total taxes assessed were collected during the first nine months of the current fiscal year.

It was anticipated $795 would be collected during the year and $805,000 has been collected during the first nine months. There also has been an increase in delinquent tax collections.

The report shows there was a 16 per cent turnover in city employees. This was concentrated in six of the city's 24 departments—police, fire, street, sanitation, parks and recreation and sewer.

In these six departments alone, the city manager said, varied from a low of 20 per cent in the parks and recreation department. The figures show that in the six departments, 25 per cent or one out of every four employees left city service during the first nine months of fiscal 1968-69.

NIXON AT RETREAT

THURMONT, Md. (UPI)—President Nixon got off to an early weekend at his Camp David mountain retreat, planning to spend the time studying background material for his upcoming round-the-world trip. Nixon arrived at the camp Thursday and planned to stay until Saturday. The globe-circling trip will begin next Tuesday.

MOON WATCHERS

TOKYO (UPI)—A beer garden on the roof of a downtown Tokyo theater installed five high-powered telescopes and hired a professional astronomer to help moon watchers during the Apollo flight. Everyone who buys a beer is entitled to look at the moon through a telescope.

Investigated 26 Accidents In Gray County

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 26 accidents on rural highways in Gray County during June, according to Sgt. J. L. Dalrymple, Highway Patrol supervisor in the Pampa area.

The crashes resulted in 23 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $19,106.

The rural traffic accident summary for Gray County during the first six months of 1968 shows a total of 94 accidents resulting in six persons killed, 78 injured, and an estimated property damage of $81,666.

During the first six months of 1969 in Texas there were 1,470 traffic deaths, or two less as compared to the 1,472 traffic deaths for the same period of 1968. However, traffic officials predict if past trends continue the last six months will probably far exceed the first six months. During the last six months of 1968 there were 2,009 traffic deaths.

Sergeant Dalrymple stated, "With an all time record of 49 traffic deaths over the 4th of July weekend, we are not only well ahead in comparison to the beginning of the second six months of 1968, but well on our way to establishing a record year in 1969."

KKK Found Guilty Of Murder Plot

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals has held seven Mississippi Ku Klux Klansmen were guilty of a "cold-blooded and merciless" plot to murder three civil rights workers in 1964.

The seven were among 18 Klan members and sympathizers the Justice Department tried in December, 1967, at Meridian, Miss., on charges of "conspiring to injure, threaten, oppress and intimidate" the slain men: Michael Schwerner, James Earl Chaney and Andrew Goodman.

"We find ample proof of conspiracy and each appellant's complicity in a calculated, cold-blooded and merciless plot to murder," thereby violating the federal civil rights of the victims, the circuit court said.

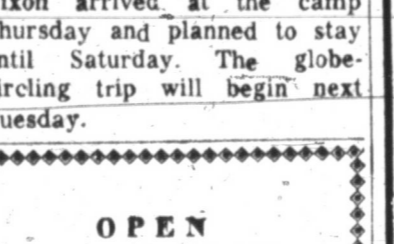

Attorney Mike Watkins of Meridian, appointed by the court to represent one of the defendants, said it was possible one or all seven would appeal the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"It looks like we'll have to do a little more work, assuming he wants an appeal," Watkins said.

Price To Speak On Happenings In Washington

Rep. Bob Price of Pampa will be the speaker when the Chamber of Commerce joins the Downtown Kiwanis Club in its regular Friday noon meeting July 25 in the First Methodist Church banquet room.

Congressman Price will address the joint session to bring listeners up to date on the most recent happenings in Washington and give a rundown on the moon landing.

Chamber members who are not members of the Kiwanis Club are asked to make luncheon reservations at $1.75 by Wednesday, July 23. The reservations should be made by returning cards which were in the mail today.

Judge Anderson Sets Two DWI Bonds

Two bonds were set by Justice of Peace E. L. Anderson Friday on cases of driving while intoxicated.

Charles Ralph Lockhart, 29, 618 N. Gray, and Guinn Loyd Cordell, 23, Big Springs, were both arrested by Pampa police early Friday morning. Cordell's bond was set at $1,000 and Lockhart's bond at $500.

Father's Promise To Son Kept In War Zone

EDITOR'S NOTE — James Dean, subject of the following UPI dispatch from Vietnam, formerly was news editor of The Pampa News. He now is news editor of The Santa Ana (Calif.) Register, a sister paper of The News.

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI) — Four years ago when James Dean promised to buy his son a drink on his 21st birthday, he scarcely envisaged travelling to Vietnam to keep his word.

But this week — four years, 10,000 miles and a $1,000 plane ticket later Dean fulfilled his promise over scotch-and-water highballs.

"When we learned Jim was going to Vietnam, I made up my mind I was going to buy him that drink," said Dean, 45, a newspaperman for 22 years.

Dean, news editor of the Santa Ana (Calif.) Register, convinced his publisher, C. H. Hoiles, to send him to Vietnam for one month to interview soldiers from Orange County, Calif. The Register is the flagship publication of the Freedom group of newspapers.

He caught up with his son James Jr., Tuesday at the Quang Tri headquarters of the 5th Mechanized Division's 1st Brigade just south of the Demilitarized Zone.

"Oh my God!" the young soldier stammered when his father walked unannounced into the supply office. "I just knew you were coming."

Jim, who received a four day "in country" leave from his commander, and his father flew 85 miles southeast of Da Nang where they are staying at the Marine Press Camp. This is also where they toasted Jim's birthday with 25-cent drinks of scotch-and-water.

"We talked to 25 men from Orange County over here — Jim makes 26 — and what impresses me most is their morale," Dean said. "It's unbelievably high. The camaraderie is unforgettable."

"Everyone bent over backwards to help me arrange these four days with him. I talked to one general who has one son over here and another on the way. His eyes just lit up when I told him why I was trying to get to Quang Tri."

Jim arrived in Vietnam last March and spent his first three months as an army rifleman in northernmost Quang Tri province. He saw enough action to appreciate the creature comforts at brigade headquarters where he now works as a supply clerk.

"I wouldn't have traded this for a million dollars," said Jim Senior, who passed his own 21st birthday in 1944 as a staff sergeant on Tinian Island in the South Pacific.

Colleges Favor Ammendments

WACO, Tex. (UPI)—The Independent Colleges and Universities of Texas organization has come out in favor of two proposed amendments on the Aug. 5 ballot. Baylor University President Abner V. McCall said Wednesday the organization endorsed amendment No. 6 (remove the interest limitations on all bonds authorized by the state constitution) and No. 8 (to authorize the state's college and universities coordinating boards to issue $200 million on college student loan bonds in addition to the previously authorized $85 million.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Isn't it strange that with man en route to the moon, not a single prime time entertainment series on television's new fall schedule deals with earth's venture into space?

Unless, of course, you count ABC-TV's children's series, "Land of the Giants."

There have, of course, been such past shows as "Star Trek," "The Invaders" and "The Outer Limits," not to mention such other kiddie programs as "Lost in Space," and science-fiction entries like "The Twilight Zone."

Well, why not now, then, when the time seems logical? Perhaps one reason is that as fiction gets closer to fact, comparisons can be odious unless truly first-class creative minds do contemporary justice to the fiction being handled.

But, unfortunately, television frankly has trouble in persuading some of the nation's best creative minds to work regularly for the networks. Many feel there are too many hangups they, as creative people, regard as extraneous: Sponsors, ratings, committee rule, etc., etc.

One top science-fiction writer who was approached by a network told a major executive there: "I would like very much to do a series. But I have an offer from the movies. And my feeling is that movies are written, whereas television series are constructed."

What he meant, of course, is that some of the creative elements that find their way into regular series are based largely on the competitive needs of a program, and that this is the result of many heads getting together in the corporate sense.

At any rate, the undeniable fact is that most television series on the new fall schedule are of the more comfortable sort for older viewers, who, according to the ratings, make up the bulk of the audience. Movies, on the other hand, have plunged with brilliant effect into the space events of our time. Consider the extraordinary motion picture "2001: A Space Odyssey," which avoided the cheap theatrics of melodrama.

And you begin to wonder about the old saw concerning the chicken and the egg, and which comes first: Are video series aimed mainly at the older audience because younger viewers have other interests? Or do the younger viewers have other larger interests because the series are aimed mainly at their elders?

EYEING Washington's social crown once held by Perle Mesta and Gwen Cafritz is Anna Chennault, according to reports out of the capital. Mrs. Chennault, right, widow of Gen. Claire Chennault of World War II "Flying Tiger" fame, is picked as the leading big party giver of the Nixon administration. Mrs. Mesta, upper left, was the original "hostess with the mostest" during the Truman administration and later minister to Luxemburg. Mrs. Cafritz, lower left, reigned during the Eisenhower years.

Five 4-H Members Plan To Attend Leadership Camp

Five 4-H members from Gray County, Cindy Youngblood, Lisa Friend, Mary Margaret Spearman, Jim Pepper, and Isaac Baggerman, will be attending the District Leadership Electric Camp in Cloudercroft, N.M., Monday through Friday. Approximately 100 4-H members from the Panhandle Counties will be attending the camp, which Southwestern Public Service sponsors annually. Purpose of this camp is to train district 4-H council members in duties and functions of a council and give 4-H club members training in electricity and its uses as it relates to a 4-H project. Activities include leadership, citizenship, sessions on uses of electricity, and recreation. Extension Agents Miss Jimmie Lou Wainseott, Miss Jeni D. Finch, and Jesse Hoermann will accompany 4-H'ers to camp.

Worthwhile Club Members Slate Watermelon Social

Worthwhile Home Demonstration Club members, meeting at Mrs. J. L. Carlton's home, 426 Crest, planned a watermelon party for 7:30 p.m. Aug. 8 at Mrs. N. B. Cude's home, 526 N. Ballard. Members demonstrating flower making with paper and cloth were Mrs. H. C. Skaggs, Mrs. Emma Tinsley and Mrs. Cude. Others attending were Mmes. O. G. Smith, Stella Wagner, Jess Beard, Mattie Kinzer, Pearl Ferguson, C. B. Rogers, and guests, Edna Daughtee, Mrs. F. M. Totty and Mrs. Skaggs' three grandchildren. Miss Daughtee assisted Mrs. Carlton with hostess duties for the planning meeting. Another meeting is slated for 9:30 a.m. Aug. 1 at Mrs. J. A. King's home, 1148 Prairie Drive.

Thanks to a new development, Mom and Dad won't have to blow up balloons for parties the hard and puff-way. A new vending machine, soon to be at shopping areas nationwide, fills balloons with helium. It takes 15 seconds. Each balloon comes with string.

Your Horoscope

JEANE DIXON

SATURDAY, JULY 19, 1969
Your birthday Saturday: A year of growth begins. Details are easier as the cycle develops. Take advantage of every reasonable opportunity for expansion of your program. Plan for a two-year period as a single, steady drive toward a very clearly defined goal. Saturday's natives are noted for determination tempered with caution.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): There's good news Saturday; join in the fun where people are relaxing. Your home life may run into brief inconvenience; get some younger person to help ease matters.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Follow your logic Saturday, as your feelings incline more toward wishful thinking. Imagination helps any creative enterprise.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You let yourself get carried away with strenuous activities concerning your home. Look around you for someone to help you with the heavy details.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Achievement comes now; perhaps in subtle form, perhaps in obvious public recognition, according to what you have been doing and how hard you've worked at it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Saturday has a spirit of its own—exactly when you've decided to have things go quietly, everything turns out lively.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Find new contacts Saturday. Clear off the chores early, take a trip into another neighborhood where you seldom go, just for the change of scene.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): This is not the day to explain what is on your mind to casual friends. Protect yourself from overexertion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): If you have taken an undue risk, there may be a moment of intense concern before you are aware that the crisis is past. Where you've played it safe, there is some incident of dramatic emotional expression that touches you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The unplanned prevails over whatever schedules you have set. Go along with the tide. Pursue distant romantic or sentimental ideals.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Correspondence is favored Saturday, as well as hobbies. Reservations for transportation should be made or confirmed Saturday.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Leave your reserve funds right where they are. Influential people can be of great help to your career if you will quietly make their association with you pleasant.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You and your mate both attract some bit of luck or windfall this morning. In any case, take off and spend the day somewhere away from home, preferably where there is light and plenty of air.

Altrusa Members Attend Luncheon, Name Chairmen

Altrusa Club of Pampa held its regular noon luncheon recently in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn and named chairmen for 1969-70.

Mrs. C. C. Fitzgerald, president, presided and introduced Mrs. Wilene Pate as a new member. She also welcomed Miss Rosemary Lawlor back who has been absent because of illness.

Mrs. A. D. Hills, an honorary member, was presented a corsage for her outstanding work in the club. Mrs. Roy Kay, finance chairman reported on the new budget.

The 32 members attending elected Mrs. Dick Sullins as a delegate to the International Convention which meets in Minneapolis, Minn. July 20-24. Mrs. Fitzgerald will also attend. Mrs. D. B. Jameson was elected as alternate delegate.

Committee chairmen named for 1969-70 are Mrs. Marian Heare, Altrusa information; Mrs. Billy Tidwell, community service; Mrs. Horace Prince, international relations; Mrs. Charles C. Duenkel, Jr., vocational services; Mrs. George B. Cree, Jr., career clinic; Mrs. Roy Kay, finance; Mrs. Russell Kennedy, meals; and Jay Flanagan, Senior Center.

A letter of appreciation was read from D. W. Bond for the $25 check the club gave to send a child to camp.

The next meeting will be a dinner at 7 p.m. July 28, in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Company. Each member is asked to bring a covered dish.

Of the nation's nearly 27 million women working white collar, professional, sales or industrial jobs, 22 per cent are single; 59 per cent are married and living with husbands; and 19 are widows, divorced or separated.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: The wife and I decided that after six kids (all boys) we didn't want any more, so I went to the doc and he did what is called a "vasectomy" on me. It's a minor operation which he performed right in his office. Three months later the wife turns up pregnant! We couldn't believe it, but it was true. I went back to that doc and what I told him you couldn't put in the paper. He ran some tests on me and sure enough his operation didn't "take," so where does that leave me? When he gave me that operation he didn't say "Maybe." Now he tells me that it is highly unlikely that this kind of operation will "fail" — but it is not impossible. Can I sue the doctor?

SEEING RED
DEAR SEEING: Of course you can sue the doctor, but whether you can collect is another question. In the meantime, think pink, and pray for a girl.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and very much in love with a wonderful guy. There is only one thing wrong with him. When he makes a date with me I can never be sure if he will keep it or not. He has stood me up about half the time, but when he starts explaining the reasons, I forgive him and we start in again where we left off. He's a real neat kid, Abby. Is there some way I can get him to quit standing me up? If it weren't for that, he'd be perfect.

WENDY
DEAR WENDY: That one "imperfection" is probably the most revealing clue to your boyfriend's character. His word is no good. If a man's word is no good, he is nothing. And a girl who gets herself involved with a guy like that is headed for misery. The word from here is "lose him."

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend, a kind and helpful soul, with whom I avoid dialog because she concludes every sentence with, "Ya' know what I mean?" This irritates me no end. I feel that she expects an answer, so I find myself nodding my head like a mechanical toy and going, "Uh huh," like a stuck phonograph record. Your help is desperately needed. (Abby, are you old enough to know what a phonograph is?)

WOUND UP AND WEARY
DEAR WOUND UP: You bet I'm old enough to know what a phonograph is—or are you giving me the needle? We all have our idiosyncrasies, so don't avoid this kind and helpful soul because of hers. Develop a resistance to her "question," to which she probably expects no reply. (Ya' know what I mean?)

DEAR ABBY: Every time I hear some nunny say "Congratulations" to a girl who has become engaged or married I want to scream. Don't they know that it is not proper to congratulate the girl — they are supposed to congratulate the man, and wish the girl luck?

Please put this in your column, Abby. I'm sure a lot of people could use the information.

PROPER IN TAMPA
DEAR PROPER: True, one congratulates the man and wishes the girl luck. Although in many instances, it's the girl who deserves the congratulations and the man who needs the luck.

DEAR POLLY — I sew pointers have become a part of my regular household routine. Now I have a "help" that I have not read among them. All women who have old, soft and comfortable girdles they hate to discard will dearly love you if you remind them that these girdles can be mended with elastic thread. I simply thread a needle as with yarn (pull the elastic thread through the needle with a loop of machine thread) and then mend the broken elastic. It really stays mended.

Neglect Religion Basics And Reap Fear, Confusion

I remember one season when the New York Giants football team had lost three or four games in a row. Their coach, Alie Sherman, was puzzled and worried by the team failure. He had not been hurt by injuries. His manpower was first-rate and the weather had been perfect.

Instead of long explanations and loud excuses, he took home films of the losing games. Over and over he watched the replay of these encounters. The next day, at practice, he told his squad that nothing was really wrong, they just needed to get back to basics. Like remembering to block and block again, to tackle low, to keep track of your man and be ready for an all-out effort even when exhausted!

Certain basics have always been present in the Christian experience. When these are played down or ignored or scorned, the religious community mills around in confusion and fear. You may have your own basic list but words like love, justice, forgiveness and reconciliation must be near the top if we are talking about the Christian faith.

And if we are concerned about the leadership of Christians in a tough time, then we should ask if love and justice are immediate concerns. If society is ripping apart, then, of all people, Christians should be counted on to break down the barriers of hate, suspicion and class warfare. It is dishonest for anyone to ask for a world without tension and strain. How we conduct ourselves and the emotions and energy we display will surely say a lot about our faith and belief.

Sometimes we need to be reminded about basic Christianity from those who are not part of the flock. Horace Alexander has a new booklet on Gandhi (published by Pendle Hill, Wallingford, Pa.) part of the 100th celebration of the Indian leader's birth.

Of this saint, Alexander wrote:

"Gandhi spoke of truth and nonviolence as the twin principles that guided him through every crisis. Nonviolence was the best expression that he could find for that aspect of love which is expressed in the Greek word agape—the mighty force of true, understanding affection; the love or charity of Paul's Epistle to the Corinthians."

Alexander reminds us that Gandhi had no use for shortcuts. "Once convinced that the right way to bring freedom to India was by nonviolent action alone, he would rather wait many years than resort to the alluring shortcut of violence."

Many voices now are raised against this strategy, this implementation of love in action. The track record of this country seems to be entirely locked up in a military mentality. It should not be so surprising that peace militants have adopted a paramilitary stance in pursuit of their freedom formula. Arnold Toynbee saw our day clearly enough to say:

"You have to shoot somebody, burn yourself alive, do something violent, in order to get any attention at all, however good your cause or causes, however well you have put your case. There is an absolute stone wall of indifference all over the world."

If the Christian community has nothing else to contribute to the world scene, to the stone walls of separation and indifference, it should be that ability and tenacity to hang in there when everyone else wants to fight, to press for an exchange of ideas when no one wants to talk, to have the divine courage to talk about peace when the missile men are loading warheads.

Here at home it means nothing less than the rejection of Marxist terminology and violent tactics now so fascinating to some black radicals. It also means a 24-hour watch on those whites who are aching to crank up the hate machines and then wire us in to a police state.

For Christians, the basics are very, very timely.

Religion Throughout Russia Continues To Be Suppressed

United Press International

Despite some easing in recent years of Communist efforts to suppress religion, it's still hazardous to be a practicing Christian in the Soviet Union.

How much it can cost a Russian to be faithful to his church is made clear in a poignant document smuggled out of the Soviet Union and now in the possession of the National Council of Churches' office of religion in Communist-occupied Poland.

It tells the story of Trofim K. Feidak, a carpenter, and Vladimir A. Vilchinsky, a locomotive engineer, who were leaders of the 500-member Evangelical Baptist community in the Byelorussian city of Brest.

Feidak and Vilchinsky were arrested, tried and found guilty last year of engaging in "anti-state activities." They are now serving five year terms in a Soviet labor camp.

Risking their own freedom, if not their lives, the remaining members of the Baptist community have lodged a formal appeal with the Soviet government, protesting that the charges were unjust and the trial a mockery.

This is the document that has now reached the West. It paints a grim picture of the kind of "justice" dispensed to religious believers in some Soviet courts.

One of the specific accusations against Feidak and Vilchinsky was that they "influenced believers to decline to take part in public activities or to perform civic duties." The sole basis for this charge, according to the appeal, was the fact that some members of the Baptist community refused to appear at the trial as prosecution witnesses to give testimony about the structure and membership of their church.

Another charge was that Feidak and Vilchinsky caused "a breach of public order" by conducting a worship service in the woods near the village of Ploska.

"We beg to make it known that we held that assembly under the open sky not by choice but through necessity," the Baptists said in their appeal. "It was all that was possible, as we have been deprived of our regular house of prayer since May, 1960."

They said the outdoor service was held "far from any public place" and the only breach of order occurred when the service was disrupted by "employees of the militia who were specifically sent to our service to prevent it."

GLORIETA, N.M. — A sermon of love, concern, and sharing was interrupted by the questions of a girl who doubted the sincerity of the speaker. Many church leaders in the congregation beamed approval.

The occasion was a dramatic presentation at the young people's leadership Sunday School conference at Glorieta Baptist Assembly.

Written by Glorieta Staffer Kathie Graves of Fresno, California, the "service" began with the popular song, "Elinor Rigby," which tells of the loneliness of people.

The "minister," a different staffer at each performance, read from John 4:7 about the woman at the well and then proceeded with his sermon.

Undaunted by the loud remarks of the heckler, the minister ended his talk without response to the questions about his lack of love for other races, his refusal to help her friends who take dope, and his failure to help her understand about God.

Leaving the pulpit, the minister told her to "stop by, my office for some pamphlets. If you have any questions, my secretary will answer them for you."

The bewildered girl wandered away as the song was heard again. "All the lonely people, where do they all come from... all the lonely people, where do they all belong?" Kathie said that she does not have time to talk with everyone about how she feels, so she uses poetry and dramatic presentations to get her message to church leaders.

Reaction among adult young people's leaders at the conference was mixed amazement and admitted guilt.

"It shook me out of my apathy," said Mrs. Virginia Crow of First Baptist Church, Muskogee, Oklahoma. "It was so dramatic. I know this is true and feel this terrible condemnation, but I had not been willing to admit it."

Sam Beam III, minister of music and education at First Baptist Church, Gatesville, Texas, said, "It was a graphic presentation of things that go on that we hate to admit. We close our eyes. The fact that the minister ignored her is what made it effective. This is what church leaders often do."

Christian Science Lesson-Sermon For Sunday Is On The Topic 'Life'

The Golden Text of this week's Christian Science Lesson-Sermon is from Psalms:

"I shall not die, but live, and declare the works of the Lord." (Psalms 118:17).

The subject of the sermon is "Life" and will be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday. The public is welcome.

"Jesus could give his temporal life into his enemies' hands; but when his earth mission was accomplished, his spiritual life, indestructible and eternal, was found forever the same." This correlative passage, from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, is also part of the sermon.

Services at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 901 N. Frost, are at 11 a.m.

The Family Lawyer

Beamed by Baggage

Whirling around a corner, the bus driver cut so sharply that a suitcase fell out of the overhead rack. It landed squarely on the head of an unsuspecting woman passenger, inflicting painful injuries.

In due course, she sued the bus company for damages. At the trial, the company protested that it should not be held responsible for such an unlikely accident.

But the court felt otherwise and ordered the company to pay the woman's claim. The judge said it was part of the driver's job to handle his bus with full regard for the dangers of falling luggage.

As it does on all common carriers, the law imposes substantial responsibility on a bus company for the safety of the traveling public. This responsibility extends not only to the way the driver handles the bus but also the way luggage is placed—either on the rack overhead or in the seats and aisles.

Consider this case: A passenger set his suitcase on the floor, where it protruded more than two feet in the aisle. Another passenger, coming through, stumbled over the suitcase and suffered a broken leg.

Here, too, a damage suit against the bus company was successful.

H-SU Teacher Tells Baptist Assembly Youth Seek Identity

GLORIETA, N.M. — "American society of the 60's has been experiencing neither a 'teenage-tyranny' nor a massive 'generation gap,'" Guy Greenfield told young people and their church leaders at Glorieta Baptist Assembly.

Speaking to the second week of "Confrontation '69," a young people's leadership Sunday School conference, the associate professor of sociology at Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, Texas, said that Americans have been observing the development of a unique youth subculture. Young people are trying to discover their identity in the midst of changing standards, goals, and guidelines.

Greenfield characterized youth in search for new guidelines as being irreverent toward sacred things of the past. This irreverence is felt by religion, parents and nationalism.

Today's young generation is humanistic, stressing the humanity of Jesus rather than seeing only the deity that former generations have emphasized. Young people reject war and the structure of society as it tends to dehumanize people.

"They deal with religious issues in a secular fashion, not committing themselves to religious organizations," Greenfield said. "They are not 'churchy' as are their parents but they seriously seek for answers to ultimate questions."

"Today's youth refuses to be the victim of the growing impersonalness and competitiveness of a computerized world. He refuses to be simply a social security number, a zip code number, an auto license tag number, a credit card number or just a number on a payroll sheet. He wants to be a real person, but he must find out for himself what that means."

"The modern leader and teacher of youth in the church is challenged as never before to discover how to relate the Biblical revelation of God in Jesus Christ to this unique search for identity by today's youth. They need to be led to discover the answer to their basic question, 'Who am I?' in the context of a meaningful Christian experience."

Jews Afraid To Laugh At Foibles, Follies

"Jews have never been afraid to laugh at their own foibles and follies," says Albert Vorspan to laugh at their own foibles and follies," says Albert Vorspan.

He'd better be right about that. If he has overestimated his fellow Jews' sense of humor, he's liable to be chased right out of New York.

Vorspan has perpetrated a book called "My Rabbi Doesn't Make House Calls" (Doubleday). It pokes good-natured fun at a wide variety of American Jewish folkways, from hard sell fund raising to the frantic scramble to get junior into an Ivy League college.

Vorspan's tongue-in-cheek thesis is that Gentiles need a book that tells them how to "get on the bandwagon" and adopt the Jewish style of life.

"It's in to be Jewish in America," he says. "Jewish folkways are becoming as much a part of the air we breathe as, say, automobile fumes."

Skellytown Gets New Minister

SKELLYTOWN (SP)—Minister James Douglas, formerly of Keys, Okla., moved here recently to become the new minister of the Church of Christ, Douglas and his wife Jean are the parents of two married daughters, Mrs. Jack Thompson, Pampa, and Mrs. Durward Bradshaw, Denton. Mrs. Douglas' mother is making her home with the Douglases.

The new minister replaces Kenneth Hales who is now pastoring a church in Stanton, Ky., after serving the Skellytown church for about two years.

Pampan Named TADA Director For Local Area

AUSTIN (SP)—Clinton M. Eyns, owner of Tex Evans Bpik-Rambler in Pampa, has been appointed to the key post of area director of the Texas Automobile Dealers Association.

H. C. Pittman, TADA executive vice president in Austin, said Eyns will report to the TADA Board of Directors on all phases of activity relating to the motor vehicle buying public in the Pampa area.

"Evans will work closely with legislative and other governmental officials on all matters pertaining to the industry and the auto buying public," Pittman said.

"The job of area director is one of the most important in our giant statewide association," said TADA President Ben Bock, New Braunfels, "and we are confident Evans will serve with distinction."

TADA represents the franchised new car and truck dealers in Texas.

First Presbyterian To Have Substitute

The Rev. Szaboics S. Nagy will be the guest preacher at both the 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. worship services at the First Presbyterian Church this Sunday. Rev. Nagy is Pastor of the United Church of Alpha, New Jersey. His sermon topic will be "God Speaks". Ruling Elder Ray Kuhn will serve as pulpit assistant, this Sunday.

Beamed by Baggage

Whirling around a corner, the bus driver cut so sharply that a suitcase fell out of the overhead rack. It landed squarely on the head of an unsuspecting woman passenger, inflicting painful injuries.

In due course, she sued the bus company for damages. At the trial, the company protested that it should not be held responsible for such an unlikely accident.

But the court felt otherwise and ordered the company to pay the woman's claim. The judge said it was part of the driver's job to handle his bus with full regard for the dangers of falling luggage.

As it does on all common carriers, the law imposes substantial responsibility on a bus company for the safety of the traveling public. This responsibility extends not only to the way the driver handles the bus but also the way luggage is placed—either on the rack overhead or in the seats and aisles.

Consider this case: A passenger set his suitcase on the floor, where it protruded more than two feet in the aisle. Another passenger, coming through, stumbled over the suitcase and suffered a broken leg.

Here, too, a damage suit against the bus company was successful.

Former Resident Assigned Post

KANSAS CITY—Jimmy Garland Conner, Amarillo minister, has been called to assist in the Refreshment Department for the "Peace On Earth" International Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses at the Municipal Stadium in Kansas City, July 18-25.

Conner, 1217 W. Interstate Dr., Amarillo, has been active in the local area as presiding minister of the Amarillo South and Pampa Congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses since 1961. Conner became an ordained minister while living in his hometown of Borger in 1955. He is serving at convention headquarters in a supervisory capacity, assisting in setting up the department that will be manned by approximately 1,700 volunteer workers.

Expressing himself on the effects of such a convention, which is expected to draw 36,000 delegates from 50 states and 11 foreign countries, Conner said: "World conditions and local problems make this effort most timely. Valuable Bible instruction given at the sessions will help entire families to apply more fully the fine Christian principles taught in God's Word."

Special features of the Kansas City assembly will include Bible dramas, some with modern-day settings; others will be put on in the dress of Bible times. Attention will be focused on the Bible book of Revelation, also first-hand reports of how the lives of tens of thousands are being dramatically changed each year as a result of Bible education.

Conner said, "The program is practical, enlightening and encouraging. It emphasizes the need to seriously consider how to apply Bible principles in daily living particularly now when so many deteriorating influences surround individuals and families. The highlight of the assembly will come Friday, July 25, at 8:00 p.m., with the public discourse, "The Approaching Peace of a Thousand Years" to be delivered by N. H. Knorr, President of the Watchtower Society."

Students To Lead Local Youth Revival

A week-end youth revival will begin tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Calvary Assembly of God, Love and Crawford Sts.

Rick Phiel and Michael Riggins, student ministers at West Texas State University, will be leading the services Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights. Phiel will be leading the singing and Riggins will preach.

The theme for the revival is "Give Up And Let Jesus Take Over." The public is invited to attend.

CHARGED WITH SMUGGLING

EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI)—Earl J. Moore, 22, and Sidney O. Hooper, 21, both of San Antonio, Tex., were jailed Wednesday in lieu of $12,000 bonds after being arraigned on charges of attempting to smuggle about 30 pounds of marijuana into the United States from Mexico.

Welcome To Pampa!

Pampa tonight adds its warm welcome to the Top O' Texas open door greeting extended today to U.S. House Agriculture Committee members and other federal and state officials on their current tour of Panhandle agri-businesses and visits with area farmers, ranchers and businessmen.

We know today's tour and the one to follow Saturday will reveal to the House committee some things about the Panhandle of Texas hitherto unknown to them.

For a number of the committee members, it will be their first trip to the area — their first opportunity to see, not only its current production and potential in cattle and agri-business, but to also see first-hand the industrial, oil and gas, and diversified commerce carried on in this part of Texas.

While they are in Pampa tonight they will learn, of course, they are in the land of carbon black, gun barrels, heavy oilfield equipment, petrochemicals, gasoline plants, meat packing, iron and steel castings, women's apparel, steel buildings, cattle, wheat and grain, sorghum among other things.

They will learn, too, that Pampa is the home of Randy

Matson, Olympic gold medal winner and holder of the world's shot put record, as well as the home of their own House Agriculture Committee member, Rep. Bob Price.

Congressman Price deserves appreciation for inviting his congressional committee co-workers to the Panhandle and committee chairman Texan W. R. Poage is due thanks for accepting the invitation and bringing with him the assistant secretary of agriculture, Clarence Palmby, and other agriculture department officials.

We think the theme of the current tour, "to give the group that makes the laws a chance to visit and talk with the people affected by the laws" is a splendid one.

There would be better understanding among lawmakers and the people they serve, if more governmental agencies would adopt the policy of "keeping closer in touch."

Pampa is honored by this visit of the House committee members and the state and area officials who came with them.

The red carpet welcome mat is out at tonight's reception and dinner in Coronado Inn. Pampa would like to have all of them come back again.

The American Way

By D. R. SEGAL

I sat near Jim Comer at this week's meeting of the local sing-along society and he put me in mind of a considered judgment rendered many years ago by my roommate. I quote: "Boy, superbly endowed in the brains department you are not."

One of my spectacular intellectual wapeouts concerns insurance. I have never understood the big type, much less the head-of-a-pin stuff at the bottom which tells all the ways the company can get out of paying. I can follow the general trend of insurance, which is that it is a sort of gamble with the odds against the customer, for the very same reason the house always wins at roulette. It is a question of odds, probabilities, statistics and "actuarial tables." An actuary, in my circles, is known as an odds-maker, and we refer to insurance companies as bookies. That way, I understand, I understand.

I did not say this to Jim Comer because he is very large in insurance and understands all about things like subrogation and double-declining, candy-striped, licorice-flavored annuities. I drive my insurance men mad by a numbskull approach to affairs which are, to them, as light as the candles on the altar of truth.

I am presently involved in trying to understand a pension plan which defies comprehension. It is insanely constructed so as to satisfy the computerized heart of the Internal Revenue Service. It involves trust funds and insurance policies and a 36-page document which, even when properly put together, beyond the understanding of man born of woman; but this fellow—my lawyer—shot me right out of the saddle by transposing two pages of the thing. I didn't know it was transposed until I noticed that the page numbers weren't consecutive. I put the pages in order and damn if it didn't read just as well when he had it all bolted up. I would never admit this to Jim.

There is, however, some consolation. I have asked our insurance guy and the trustee of our fund to give me a complete run-down on this beast, explaining as to a moist-nosed child the basics of this plan and, most particularly, how it stacks up fiscally.

They said, yeah, sure, give us a day or two and we'll have it all laid out on a platter so any idiot can understand it, even you.

Ha — It is now three weeks, and when I ask them about it they say there is some fellow in Atlanta, Ga., or Faith, N. C., who has the key to the monkeyhouse and as soon as he gets out of restraint he will give us the straight poop.

I am not anti-insurance, believe me. I guess maybe it's like passion: if you try to figure it out, forget it. The only insurance which gets me sore is the package the government peddles, the so-called Social Security canard. If this is insurance, then I am a liberal Democrat. It is, to my way of thinking, a form of swindle, a tool of political power, a source of inflation and an instrument of deception. Aside from that, it's okay.

I have a visceral objection to having to buy the government's "insurance" against my will and better judgment. I object to the use being made of the funds, and I suspect that a government which would perpetrate such a diddle would not hesitate to pay off innocent dollars some day.

Well, that's got nothing to do with how dumb I am about insurance; but I feel about that I've gotten-it-out of my system. Peace, brother.

Not Now...But Soon

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: Do those young people who want to tear down the "American Establishment" and rearrange it in some presently undetermined pattern, lack basic intelligence?

ANSWER: This is rather a difficult question to answer because the questioner does not give a precise definition of what he means by basic intelligence. Webster's dictionary gives about nine definitions for intelligence. He gives a synonym of "mind" or "news."

Of course, every person is different, and young people are as different as older people, although older people tend to drift farther apart in their ideas as they've lived longer and have been exposed to more ideas and experiences; and, no two people have had the same experiences.

The younger people lack the experience, and they are closer together in their ideas because they all have been exposed to pretty much the same ideas in schools and they have not had time to learn anything different.

It would seem that those who do want to tear down are acting without foresight and judgment when they want to destroy what they have instead of evolving or gradually improving it. They lack appreciation for the effort and pain that has gone into getting mankind as far along as he has come.

Their teachers have failed to show them the realities of man's history and of his existence in a basically hostile natural world. They have failed to teach these young people the truth that man has had to conquer his hostile environment and just what it takes to do so.

Of course, any basic fallacy has to be discarded—and there are many basic fallacies in man's relation to man—and if the young people see these, they are naturally impatient to have other people see them and discard them. But there has never been a perfect relation of man to man, and most of what these young people advocate is simply more of the same mistakes called by different names. The only hope for man is in those who have the imagination and reasoning power to create new ideas that really do provide, that enables man to make progress toward better relations with his fellow men and a better life for all.

No, I would say these young people don't lack intelligence. But they do lack experience and foresight and judgment. Experience is one of the best teachers. A person has the right to make mistakes, and if he learns from them, he has a real chance to develop.

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANSTADT

Best to Cook Meats, Wash All Vegetables

Q—Since protein is an important element of diet, how can a strict vegetarian get enough of it to maintain his health?

A—If a vegetarian allows himself some milk and cheese daily, he can do very nicely. Some vegetarians also eat eggs, which are a rich source of protein but do not come from a slaughterhouse. Those who take no food of animal origin are seriously handicapped because, like it or not, the human digestive tract is not designed for hay burning.

Q—Do farmers spray chemicals on vegetables? If so, must they be washed before we eat them? Is it dangerous to eat raw beef or pork?

A—Such vegetables as green beans and tomatoes that grow above the ground are likely to be sprayed with insecticides. They should be washed before you eat them. Raw beef and pork may contain tapeworm eggs and raw pork may contain the larvae of trichinella. Cook them.

Q—Does drinking orange juice make a person grow?

A—Orange juice is a rich source of vitamin C. It is essential for healthy teeth, gums, bones and blood vessels but it will not increase your stature.

Q—What effect does eating hot peppers and spices have on your stomach?

A—Primarily, it starts the flow of the gastric juice. Most natives of the tropics seem to thrive on these condiments but persons with colitis and other digestive troubles might do well to compare the effect of putting pepper in their eyes with that of putting it in their stomachs.

Q—After reading about the effect of coffee on one's heart, kidneys and nerves, I cut myself down to one cup a day. I slept better but I got headaches, so I switched to Postum. What effect does Postum have on one's system?

A—Headaches are a common symptom of caffeine withdrawal and are the reason many persons prefer not to develop a dependence on this stimulant. Postum is a cereal beverage that contains no caffeine and is completely harmless unless you are allergic to wheat.

Ho May Be Getting Set To Make A Secret Deal

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Some of President Nixon's analysts see signs the growing Sino-Soviet conflict may be bringing hard pressure on Ho Chi Minh to reach some sort of an accommodation in South Vietnam.

When Ho began arming his men with modern Chinese weapons and his cities with Soviet anti-aircraft arms, he made himself dependent on continuous doses of heavy aid from Peking and Moscow.

If China and Russia become too deeply involved, the danger is Red China will cut sharply its supply of weapons, ammunition, food and other assistance. Russian aid, which comes largely by rail through China, would likewise almost certainly be curtailed heavily.

The closing of the Suez Canal has already made shipping Soviet material to Hanoi by sea, more expensive.

Ho knows these facts. He has already issued orders to his troops to conserve arms, ammunition and other war material.

There are signs Hanoi calculates future replacements may be somewhat limited. Temporarily at least, the amount of war supplies carried down the Ho Chi Minh trails seems to have dwindled.

One elementary rule of guerrilla war is that to be successful, the guerrilla must have time on his side. He must be able to outwit the enemy at the conference table. He must have time to work on enemy public opinion and morale. He must have time to whittle slowly at enemy economic and political strength. He must give the impression that he is willing and able to stay at the game forever, if necessary.

Once time is no longer on its side, a guerrilla operation loses much of its strength. Farmers, officials, merchants and workers, who have been bearing the load of the war for 15 or 20 years, figure they can wait out another year or two. Resistance to the guerrillas rises. Their political and military strength begins to fade.

To some analysts here, the creation by the Communists of the Provisional Revolutionary Government may indicate Ho now believes time is no longer with him.

The important fact about that new "government" is that some old familiar faces have now faded to the background. All those in the National Liberation Front who were not tightly disciplined members of the Hanoi-operated Communist party were eliminated from the top positions in the new "government."

A guerrilla force—when it is growing—expands politically by the creation of a series of fronts, attempting to draw in larger and larger numbers of the population and key men with a wide following in various areas of the society.

Normally, such fronts become open Communist groups when the battle is won, the Reds are taking over, or when a crisis has been reached and the guerrillas must retreat and take hard-handed action in which orders from above are quickly and unquestionably obeyed, regardless of who or what is sacrificed in the operation.

Since the Communists have not taken over in South Vietnam, some administration Vietnam watchers reason Hanoi is clearing the ineffectives and wobblers out of the Viet Cong ranks preparatory to hard secret political bargaining with the South-Vietnamese.

Even if these analysts are correct, and Ho is now ready for a deal, Ho's concept of time is such that the talks could take a year, or two years.

Warning To Redheads

One of the most common summer maladies is sunburn. Nothing can ruin a vacation as quickly as overindulgence in sunbathing. Rare is the person fortunate enough to have missed the experience of too much of old sol's rays.

The American Medical Association and the American Red Cross have no accurate statistics on the number of cases of sunburn, since most cases are treated in the home. However, an article in Life magazine back in 1961 noted that some two to five million sunburns each year acquired second-degree burns. And that figure has probably increased since then.

The unfortunate part of the problem is the simplicity of avoiding overexposure to the sun. Pfizer Company, the Un-Burn experts, are distributing a pocket-size leaflet with some handy tips for sun worshippers on how to avoid the misery of sunburn. The booklet is free. (Pfizer, 235 E. 42nd St., N.Y., N.Y. 10017).

One of the most interesting bits of information in the Un-Burn pamphlet is that redheads are the most "sun-sensitive" among us. They can take less sun than blondes, who can take less than brunettes. Now all of you gals who have cast envious eyes at the redhead in the brief swimsuit on the beach, have less cause for envy. That is unless the redhead has read the pamphlet and heeded its warnings.

Sunburn can be more than just irritating, and caution is important, especially during the first few sessions in the sun. Sunburn may not be apparent until 24 hours after it has been contracted, but the effects usually last three long days and nights. In fact, sunburn on your legs, which is the most uncomfortable, is often slower to heal.

Even after treatment with a sunburn antiseptic lotion, sunburn can still produce fever, chills and weakness. The Un-Burn experts say that if these become severe, you should seek medical care.

By the way, if you see a redhead on the street, don't pat him on the back or shoulders. He may have read these tips in the backyard, fallen asleep and got a slight burn.

Renewal Of A Pledge

In his report to his constituents, Rep. Gene Snyder, of Kentucky, reprinted the text of the January 14, 1969, description of the Pledge of Allegiance by the TV great, Red Skelton.

It is so meaningfully eloquent that it bears repeating. Mr. Skelton said: "I remember this one teacher. To me, he was the greatest teacher, a real sage of my time. He had such wisdom. We were all reciting the Pledge of Allegiance, and he walked over. Mr. Lasswell was his name. He said: 'I've been listening to you boys and girls recite the Pledge of Allegiance all semester, and it seems as though it is becoming monotonous to you. If I may, may I recite it and try to explain to you the meaning of each word: "I—me, an individual, a committee of one. Pledge—dedicate all of my worldly goods to give without self-pity. Allegiance—my love and my devotion. To the Flag—our standard, Old Glory, a symbol of freedom. Wherever she waves, there is respect because your loyalty has given her a dignity that shouts freedom is everybody's job. Of the United—that means that we have all come together. States—individual communities that have united into 48 great states—48 individual communities with pride and

H. L. Hunt Writes

COMMUNISTS STILL ACTIVE IN INDONESIA

After Sukarno, the pro-Communist former President of Indonesia, was overthrown, communist activity in that country did not cease, but merely went underground. Now it is surfacing again, as evidence that the communists do not give up easily.

Recently Air Vice Marshal Budardjo, Indonesia's information minister, reported that the communist underground in central Java is actively engaged in terrorism. They are attacking army and police posts to obtain additional weapons.

The information minister described the situation in central Java as a "state of war." Major General Sutopo Juwono, commander of the army intelligence corps, described the communist forces as well-equipped and well-trained.

Last summer, communist guerrillas in east Java launched an offensive, but were defeated by the government forces. The communists have apparently learned from their mistakes because their present operations are more successful.

While Sukarno ruled Indonesia, the communists were able to act openly, because of the dictator's sympathy for Moscow and Peking. When Suharto took over, the Communists lost their platform in the government, but easily shifted their strategy to take advantage of the new situation.

The continuing communist activity in Indonesia is also significant because it shows the importance of that part of the world to the communists. Southeast Asia is one of their prime targets for subversion, and they will use any means necessary to achieve their ends. Freedomists should never be naive about communism nor lose sight of the many weapons it has at its disposal. We must never assume that it has given up, when it has simply changed strategies.

Apollo 11---Dream Realized

They're on their way!
In a flawless lift-off of the kind that has come to be taken for granted, three men—Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Michael Collins—broke "the surly bonds of earth" and are soaring through space to the realization of one of man's oldest dreams and the conclusion of an eight-year national endeavor.

It was on May 25, 1961, that President John F. Kennedy stated in a special message to Congress: "I believe this nation should commit itself to achieving the goal, before this decade is out, of landing a man on the moon and returning him safely to earth. No single space project in this period will be more impressive to mankind, or more important for the long-range exploration of space; and none will be so difficult or expensive to accomplish."

There were many who doubted that the feat was possible, or even worth-while. But commit itself the nation did. The road has, indeed, been difficult and expensive, in lives as well as money. (May not some landmarks on the moon be named after astronauts Grissom, White and Chaffee, who died in the Apollo capsule fire in 1967?)

As for impressive—for the next seven days 200 million Americans, and hundreds of millions of others around the world, will be sitting on the edges of their chairs as they watch and listen and read about the progress of the most exciting adventure in all history.

The high point, of course, will come at precisely 1:19 a.m. (Pampa time) on Monday, July 21, when a minimum estimate of 43 million Americans will be glued to their television sets as Armstrong plants the first human footprint on the moon, watching as it actually happens.

(Among the many superlatives needed to describe the mission of Apollo 11, one more will have to be added: Never before have so many parents allowed so many kids to stay up so late.)

There will be more moon landings after Apollo 11 and, eventually, scientific colonies. There will be even more difficult voyages, including, probably before the century is out, a manned landing on Mars. We are only at the dawn of the space age and the fantastically complicated Apollo 11 will someday be considered as primitive as the Wright brothers' first airplane. But no space spectacular will ever equal it.

We are all eyewitnesses to an unparalleled event in human history— anxious, hoping, praying eyewitnesses, but supremely confident in our three Columboes of space and immensely proud of them.

What Is Welfare?

Throughout the years since the very beginning of the exploration of the New World, this has been the land of opportunity. Early history is filled with early explorers' tales of streets paved with gold and the wealth that would reward any daring adventurer willing to migrate to the virgin land.

Over the decades since, millions of people have followed the ocean paths in search of the fulfillment of the promised dream. Some have made it, more in fact than ever before in the history of man. Others have not.

The American is, despite many shortcomings, a generous individual. He has learned that he has an unwritten obligation to his neighbor to help when needed. If another man is unable to care for himself why shouldn't he share in the abundance? If a man is unable temporarily to provide for his family's needs others will help him with the necessities until he is able to return to the work force. This is as it should be. We are a capitalist society. Each of us profits by the labor of others. What one produces another consumes. What is consumed is paid for with earnings received for productivity. The more men employed, the larger the market. Aid to the incapacitated is welfare. It is not demeaning. It is our way of proving to the world that we take care of our own. Aid to the temporarily unemployed is welfare. It, too, is not of itself degrading but a way of showing confidence in our system. It is an investment in the recipient's future, and should provide enough to prevent hunger or misery, without encouraging permanent unemployment.

When welfare provides a means of remaining unemployed, the time has come for Americans to have a careful look at exactly how much welfare can be dispensed without threatening their future.

Reading Problem Continues

Words seem to flow freely from our children's lips. But, if testing is to be believed, the words must come to them from TV or other types of echoes, not from reading recognition.

An article which appears in "The American Scholar," entitled "The Reading Problem," Summer 1960, warns against continuing difficulty despite varied attempts to resolve it.

Mortimer Smith, executive director of the Council for Basic Education and author of "And Madly Teach," "The Diminished Mind," and "A Citizen's Manual for Public Schools," writes:

"Evidence that Johnny still can't read floods in upon us, from the objective data showing draft rejection rates for illiteracy to the subjective complaints of employers about the number of applicants who can't read sufficiently to complete a simple application form.

"Undoubtedly some reading retardation is caused by physical or mental or environmental handicaps, but it becomes increasingly obvious that the reading problem is largely a problem of pedagogy.

"More and more outsiders question the monolithic design for reading instruction which the specialists—centered in the schools of education, the International Reading Association, and in the offices of textbook publishers—have fastened on the public schools. Any system, say the dissenters, that produces so many failures can't be all good."

The orthodox method's objective, claims Mr. Smith, "is to teach for meaning from the beginning where as the advocates of phonics instruction maintain that while the ultimate purpose is to get meaning, the first step in reading must be the process of turning printed symbols into sounds. . . . The majority of the leading reading theorists are adamant in opposing systematic phonetical instruction in beginning reading, claiming that research shows it is of little value, and may even be harmful.

"School systems that have increased their remedial staffs of reading specialists two- and three-fold without making fundamental changes in the way reading is taught find that their reading scores continue to go down. On the other hand, where the whole-word method has been discarded and replaced by a code-emphasis or phonics method, taught by teachers who know what they are doing, reading scores invariably improve.

Nixon May Get Insight On Asians

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—President Nixon's late-July trip to Asia is in effect a "field exercise"—in the continuing intensive White House review of U.S. defense and foreign policy around the globe.

Administration officials already have said the easy things to be said about this venture. Asian leaders will be asked how they see their countries' futures in a post-Vietnam war era, what they propose to do, what they want us to do.

The deeper inquiry, one surely destined to be only partly fruitful, will concern itself with the evidence visible in Asia as to the intentions principally of the Soviet Union but also of Red China in this region.

Soviet Communist Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev a month ago proposed an Asian collective security system, with the seeming intent of broadening the Kremlin's influence in Pakistan, India, Burma and beyond.

It should not go unnoticed that Moscow has been requesting of Pakistan and India, in quite polite terms, that it be granted naval base rights in South Asian waters serving as vital east-west trade channels.

Having in the last two years established a new presence in the Mediterranean, is the Soviet fleet emboldened to press for wider world maneuverability?

Do such undertakings accord with the notion that the Kremlin truly is seeking a fuller detente with the United States, or do they merely demonstrate that—despite the promise of arms talks and other encouragements—Russian leaders still are bent on extending decisive influence into new quarters of the earth?

The President's trip, swift though it will be, may provide him with fresh on-the-scene insights as to the Asians' view of these crucial matters.

Neither he nor the advisers who have been engrossed for many weeks in reviewing U.S. foreign and defense postures and commitments need to visit Asia or anywhere else to be convinced anew that the Soviet Union is still America's one great power rival in the world.

As former Undersecretary of State George Ball observes in a new Foreign Affairs magazine article, it's fashionable in some circles these days to downgrade this immense rivalry, to portray the two superpowers as seriously eroded in strength, and to contend that the great offsetting force is "polycentrism," the growth of many new centers of power rooted in exploding nationalisms.

If resurging nationalisms were coalescing in regional groupings, as the countries of Western Europe once bravely talked of uniting as a great "third force," the fashionable talk might have some weight.

In truth, exactly the opposite is being occurring. The dream of European unity is all but dead. The aroused poverty-ridden folk of Asia and Africa are fragmented almost to the point of self-destruction—often dignifying as "nationalism," what is really only a vigorously assertive tribalism.

Without any wish to belittle the aspirations of the people of Wales, this tiny British principality the size of New Jersey borders on the pathetic when it's firebrands talk of "nationalism."

Nationalism, tribalism, separatism of any insistent kind, these only dissipate offsetting power elements and leave the two giants—America and Russia—stronger than ever.

As regional groupings have failed to rise to challenge the superpowers, so, too, has the once-celebrated "neutralist bloc" disintegrated as a potential rival force. Neutralism today is a meaningless factor in the world struggle.

Delay In Segregation Not All That It Seems

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Those groups which have read into recent Washington announcements a slackening of the government's drive for school desegregation are in for a surprise.

The misunderstanding began with a recent confusing statement by Attorney General John Mitchell and Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Robert Finch. That announcement apparently removed the deadlines laggard school districts must meet under the law.

It can now be said that this statement was misleading, perhaps intentionally. Despite reports President Nixon is paying off Southern election debts by easing off on desegregation, it can now be reported with a considerable amount of confidence the administration has no plans to decrease the pressure on laggard school districts. In fact, in some critical instances, pressures will be increased considerably.

But the techniques will be somewhat different than in the past.

There will be more use of the courts to enforce the law. There will be a greater hesitancy about cutting-off of school districts that lag in their desegregation programs.

In any event, the government men say much of the job has already been done in the South. There were originally 4,477 school districts involved in 17 Southern and Border states.

To date, 2,994 of these districts have desegregated. Some 330 more have submitted acceptable plans and 333 more with accepted plans are well on their way to complete desegregation. That totals 3,657 districts, or 82 per cent, where desegregation has been completed or is well on the way.

Suits have been filed in 369 districts aimed at securing compliance through the courts. Seven more suits are under consideration. Funds have been cut off in 121 districts, and procedures started in 111 more for the shutting off of funds. That totals 608 districts, or 13 per cent, where prosecution has started or likely will soon begin or where funds have been cut off or cutoff action is under way.

That adds up to 95 per cent. Only 5 per cent, 212 districts, remain. Of these, 206 are under review. An additional six receive no federal funds and are therefore not affected by threats of fund cutoffs.

In a considerable number of these remaining cases, it is now thought the logical approach may be court action rather than fund cutoff, if persuasion fails.

There are three reasons for this shift from fund cutoff to court action: Cutting off funds may pressure school districts. But it ends up by making the students the victims. Black students are frequently hurt more than white.

Many of the cases left are the hard-core cases, the really difficult ones to solve for one reason or another. Threats in the past have been ineffective. Some districts receive no government funds or relatively small amounts and can't be reached by fund cutoffs.

Local antagonism centers on the administration when the Department of Health, Education and Welfare cuts off funds. When the courts decide a school district must desegregate, what resentment there is largely aims at the courts.

Grapefruit Is Good Source of Vitamin C

NOTE: I have frequently recommended Dr. Edmund Jacobson's book, "You Must Relax," to readers who complain of a chronic feeling of tension. Each time I sent my own copy to a friend, he failed to return it and I bought another copy until the book went out of print. I was delighted to learn a few days ago that McGraw-Hill publisher a fourth revised and enlarged edition in 1962 which is still available (retail price $5.95). The book is written for the layman and covers the subject of progressive relaxation.

Q—What food value is present in chocolate? Is there any iron in it?

A—Aside from the cocoa butter in whole chocolate, it has little food value. It is not a rich source of iron. The food value in chocolate candy is, however, another matter.

Q—When I buy fresh fruit, there are always a lot of fruit flies on it, even after I get it home. Can I get sick from eating such fruit?

A—Not if you wash it and cut away any parts that are spoiled.

Q—I drink a pint of unsweetened grapefruit juice every day. Is this harmful in any way?

A—This is a good source of vitamin C. In some persons, large amounts of citrus juice irritate the digestive tract and cause nausea and diarrhea. Otherwise, it is not harmful.

Q—Why does phlegm form in my throat after I eat ice cream or drink milk?

A—These and other foods stimulate the flow of mucus from the salivary glands. This is a normal physiological action.

Q—I have heard that kelp and lecithin will prevent baldness. Kelp is rich in iodine. Is this beneficial?

A—If you can prevent baldness this way, get it patented and you will be rich overnight. A moderate intake of iodine will prevent a colloid goiter—the large, nontoxic type of thyroid swelling.

Q—Does chicken liver have the same value as beef or calf liver?

A—Beef liver is a better source of iron and vitamins than calves' liver but chicken liver is better than either of these.

Q—Is peanut butter a healthful food? Is it hard to digest?

A—All nuts are very nutritious. They are hard to digest only if you don't chew them well. In peanut butter, most of the chewing has been done by machinery before it comes to your table.

Inside Washington

By ROBERT ALLEN and JOHN GOLDSMITH

Brezhnev Sold in Soviet For Now—Kremlin Watchers
WASHINGTON — A combination of recent events appears to have solidified the position of Leonid Brezhnev in the Soviet power structure, at least for the immediate future.

The view is quite different for the months beyond, however. A change in the Kremlin high command, in 12 to 18 months, is still a very strong possibility. Those are the current views of top Kremlinologists here. They are subject to the usual qualification: that the best predictions on Kremlin power shifts have sometimes missed the mark over the years.

It is being persuasively argued now, however, that the Sino-Soviet border hostilities, the non-failure of the recent Moscow meeting of world Communist leaders, and the receding crisis caused by the move into Czechoslovakia, have temporarily taken the heat off Brezhnev.

Top experts think the widely propagandized fighting on the China border has had a unifying result in the Soviet hierarchy. It has, in their view, caused the old guard group—Brezhnev, Alexei Kosygin, and Nikolai Podgorny—and their ambitious associates to rally round the cause of Mother Russia.

The sting is going out of the Czech affair, in this view, as the repression proceeds there, and, while the big meeting of Communist parties was less than a success, it did not collapse, and Brezhnev was not humiliated by the dissidents.

While the proceedings of that international party conference were no monument to the Kremlin leadership, the meeting is being hailed as a great success by official action of subordinate party groups in Moscow and elsewhere.

In these circumstances, the experts think Brezhnev's immediate future is reasonably secure.

THE LONGER RUN — Looking further ahead, however, a different set of circumstances points in the other direction.

The economic situation, under the present Kremlin leadership, has not been satisfactory. The rate of growth has not increased. Consumer goods and sometimes food are hard to come by, the experts say.

That connection, this year's bumper crop of recent years, and scarcities may well continue.

In addition, the adventure in Czechoslovakia must be assessed, eventually, as a mistake—a crudely handled affair which has antagonized the Communist parties of other nations and given the Peking propagandists a field day.

Reports persist that Kosygin has been ill, and some experts think he may soon resign. Since his role is primarily in the government hierarchy, rather than the Communist party structure, it is believed that Kosygin could be replaced without other repercussions.

A more convulsive change in leadership could result, in the view of these experts, as a result of the Communist party congress scheduled for next year. That could precipitate an agonizing reappraisal by party leaders so as to produce a major Kremlin shake-up.

PEKING PROPAGANDA — Propagandists for Communist China are gleefully chiding Moscow for domestic as well as international malfeasance. The New China News Agency is saying that Soviet industrial production has been thrown "into chaos."

"The rampancy of capitalism has more and more seriously undermined the Soviet economy. In the time when the Soviet Union was led by Stalin, industrial production advanced with high speed and the industrial front was a scene of prosperity. . . ."

"As a result of the intensified all-round capitalist restoration by the new tsars, an anarchic state in industrial production has been developing viciously," the Chinese propagandists claim.

In its international broadcasts, the Chinese propaganda agency has complained that a Soviet freighter delivered 900 tons of titanium to Seattle late last month. Titanium is, as Peking radio noted, a light metal used in aircraft production.

One broadcast said the Kremlin has been supplying "a bit of scrap iron" to the Communists in Vietnam while giving titanium to the United States "to enable it to make up-to-date aircraft to slaughter the Vietnamese people."

"They want to be prostitutes, yet they insist on having a monument erected to their chastity. While stepping up their collaboration with U.S. imperialism in doing evil, the Soviet revisionists pass themselves off as 'anti-imperialist heroes.'" Peking radio declared.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

The Boy From Wapakoneta

By PAUL HARVEY

This is for anybody who ever was a little boy—or for anybody who ever loved one.

The other day I went out of my way to visit a small farmstead six miles southwest of Wapakoneta, Ohio, seeking to get better acquainted with three farm children who'd lived there—to try to figure out why one of them did what he did.

Auglaize County, Ohio, is mostly agricultural. Farmers thereabouts, of preponderantly German extraction, are hard working, efficient, their farmsteads tidy.

The farm off Washington Pike which I visited is a third-generation homestead for this now-anxious family. Modest white frame house. Barn-red complex of grain farm buildings.

When Neil and Dean and June were very young, they romped in the hayloft and the sunshine and the snow of four-seasons Ohio.

But it was Neil who almost always had a book and usually three tucked under his arm.

And those books were usually about the new horizon that was then opening up for birdmen.

A shiny new Ford Trimotor visited nearby Lima, Ohio, when Neil was 6 and his daddy had taken the family to see the splendid machine. It was tiny Neil who begged to go for a ride. Dad bought two tickets for $4. Throughout the 20-minute ride, Dad was terrified—but wide-eyed young Neil was delighted.

From that day forward he collected pictures of airplanes and pilots. He memorized the biographies of the Wright Brothers. Took books to bed, read by flashlight. And one day Neil's parents learned that the lad had saved his earnings from chores and had ordered from a flying magazine a surplus warplane. He was 14.

His parents canceled the order. Grounded, Neil built a wind tunnel in the basement which shook the whole house. And got him an "A" in physics. Neil enjoyed science and math at Wapakoneta High because these were tools which men need to fly. With the moxie he earned after school he took flying lessons and when Neil was 16 he had a high school diploma and—before he had ever learned to drive a car—he was a licensed airplane pilot.

He flew through Purdue and Pensacola.

Then Korea.

Neil flew 75 combat missions in Korea. Was shot down once. Parachuted into a rice paddy.

By now sister June had married a doctor in Wisconsin. Brother Dean had gone with General Motors in Indiana. Neil, made of the same blood and molded in the same environment, had sprouted wings.

It was he who was chosen to test the X-15.

And when our nation chose its first civilian spaceman—it was the boy from Wapakoneta.

I found no easy explanation for Neil's overwhelming motivation during my visit to the Ohio home of his boyhood. Except for his intense interest in flying, his youth was so usual, so unremarkable, that there was no way then, any more than there is now, to know what a boy is likely to do.

This one, Neil Armstrong, within days, will step—onto the moon.

Birds Fly Late, Dave Still 13-0

Major League Roundup
 By United Press International
 It's that kind of a year for Dave McNally...he can do no wrong.
 McNally, Baltimore's unbeaten left-hander, seemed destined for his first loss of the season Thursday night after 13 consecutive victories. He trailed the Cleveland Indians, 2-1, when he was removed for a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning and Steve Hargan and Stan Williams were effectively containing the Orioles' attack.
 But it's that kind of year for Dave McNally.
 Boog Powell doubled in the eighth inning and Brooks Robinson followed with his 15th homer of the season to give the Orioles a 3-2 victory. The win went to Pete Richert, but McNally's streak remained alive.
 Elsewhere in the American League, Minnesota beat Chicago, 8-5, Detroit shaded Washington, 4-3, Oakland belted Seattle, 8-2 and the Boston-New York game was rained out.
 In National League play, Atlanta routed Cincinnati 12-2, San Francisco outslugged Los Angeles, 14-13, Montreal edged Pittsburgh, 5-4, and St. Louis trounced Philadelphia, 11-3.
 The Indians scored a pair of runs in the fourth. Larry Brown reached second on Mark Belanger's throwing error and scored on Cap Peterson's single. Peterson took third on Duke Sims' single and scored on Vern Fuller's double.
 George Mitterwald's two-run double highlighted a six-run first inning as the Twins beat the White Sox for their ninth straight victory.
 Issue Five Walks
 Chicago pitchers issued five walks in the first and Mitterwald contributed his key double. Harmon Killebrew led off the second inning with his 28th homer of the season.
 Willie Horton belted a three-run homer in the first inning and Dennis Higgins wild pitched across the eventual winning run in the eighth as the Tigers nipped the Senators.
 Horton's homer, his 11th, came after Jim Northrup and Norm Cash walked. Northrup and Cash singled in the eighth and Northrup scored the decisive run on Higgins' wild pitch.
 Sal Bando had five hits and drove in four runs to power the Athletics over the Pilots. Bando had two doubles and three singles to back Jim Hunter's six-hit pitching. Don Mincher accounted for the Seattle scoring with a homer and a run-producing single.
