Governor Offers Suggestions For Safe Weekend

AUSTIN (Staff)—Governor Preston Smith today offered four suggestions to motorists planning trips over the Labor Day holiday weekend. Noting that traffic will be heavy, the governor urged all drivers to "stay within established speed limits, avoid fatigue, avoid drinking if driving, and drive defensively."

"As your governor, it is my responsibility to lead our state efforts in traffic safety. I urge all Texans and visitors who will be driving this weekend to use utmost care and good judgment," Smith said.

The Labor Day holiday will officially begin at 6 p.m. Friday, August 29, and run through midnight Monday, September 1. During this time, the Texas Department of Public Safety estimates that 44 persons will be killed in traffic mishaps within the state.

Col. Wilson E. Speir, director of the Department of Public Safety, joined the governor in urging all motorists to obey the law. He said the DPS would have all available uniformed patrolmen on duty over the holiday weekend in a special "Operation Motorcade."

"We will make full use of manpower and equipment to control the unsafe driver," Speir said, "and will begin full implied consent law at midnight the morning of September 1." The implied consent law provides that drivers suspected of driving while intoxicated may have their driver license suspended if they refuse to take a breath test to determine intoxication.

The governor pointed out "our highway system is second to none in the nation. Our highways are meant to be enjoyed and to be used."

"We can enjoy our highway travel this weekend and we can travel safely, but this is up to every individual behind the wheel," he added.

Both the governor and Speir urged Texas motorists to adopt the slogan "Drive to Stay Alive" as their personal motto.

Jury Opens Probe Of Land Office Affairs

AUSTIN (UPI)—A former employee of Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler testified Thursday before the Travis County grand jury about alleged "irregularities" in the land office.

Rep. Jake Johnson, D. San Antonio, Sadler's chief critic also testified in the case.

The San Antonio representatives was in the grand jury room 87 minutes. He emerged with a tape recorder in hand and said only "they were all there, they all insisted. That's all I asked for."

Johnson wrote the panel asking permission to present evidence which he claimed would show Sadler used Homer Long to manage his Palestine, Tex., motel while Long was employed in the land office.

Johnson also said he had information for the grand jury "pertaining to certain irregularities" in the land office.

A Department of Public Safety report on the same matter was sent to the Travis County grand jury in 1967, but the grand jury took no action.

A Company Mutiny Spawned By Fear

LANDING ZONE BALDY, Vietnam (UPI)—The men of A Company told the story of their mutiny today—a tale of fear, of loyalty to buddies, of a lieutenant who took death hard.

Lt. Eugene Shurtz Jr., 26, of Davenport, Iowa, the company commander at the time, said his men were stricken with fear after nearly a week of heavy combat.

"If you've worked in Vietnam and you've seen a battlefield, you know what it's like," Shurtz said.

He described the losses his unit had suffered as "tremendous. We had 95 men on Tuesday and 52 men on Sunday," the day of the mutiny.

Shurtz was relieved of his command following the incident and was reassigned to LZ Baldy, headquarters of the 196th Light Infantry Brigade.

At least one of his former troopers said Shurtz was too inexperienced for the company commander's job but that the order for the company to advance was "stupid."

"We had five people and fear grabbed hold of them," Shurtz said. "In previous days, they had been able to conquer it. Once these five people were talked to and reassured, they moved out."

He confirmed the official Army version—that five men (See MUTINY, Page 2)

House Tosses Budget Together

How To Stall

LONDON (UPI)—The law says a motorist cannot be given a sobriety test by police until 20 minutes after his last drink—but Police Review magazine has advised police on how to stall suspected drunks until the 20-minute margin is up.

Police Review says that if a driver blames that strong alcoholic odor on the fact that he just had a nip minutes before, the answer is to dilly-dally with him. Ask for his driver's license, his insurance papers, his driving test certificate and the spelling of his name, even if it is S-M-I-T-H.

A police spokesman sidestepped comment. "The Police Review is a private publication," he said.

FOR $240 MILLION

UPRR Purchases Celanese Subsidiaries

FORT WORTH (UPI)—The Union Pacific Railroad Co. will buy Champlin Petroleum Co. and Pontiac Refining Co. of Fort Worth from Celanese Corp. for $240 million.

Under an agreement in principle announced Thursday by Union Pacific and Celanese, half of the price will be paid when the deal is closed and the other half over a three-year period.

Champlin and Pontiac have total crude oil production of about 30,000 barrels a day from wells in nine states and three Canadian provinces.

Pontiac has a refinery at Corpus Christi, Tex., with a daily capacity of 55,000 barrels and Champlin has a refinery at Enid, Okla., with a daily capacity of 36,000 barrels.

Pontiac and Champlin also had three natural gas processing plants in Texas and two in Oklahoma and have interests in three other plants operated by other companies. These three plants process 445 million cubic feet of gas a day.

Continuing Program To Upgrade Beef Benefits Buyer And Seller

By DORIS E. WILSON
News Staff Writer

The progress of the Hereford Breeders' Association to keep the quality of cattle upgraded to provide the most beef at the lowest possible cost was commended by guest speaker, Dr. George Smallwood at the association's annual summer banquet in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn Thursday night.

Dr. Smallwood, head of the agriculture department at West Texas State University, said, "During the past 150 years of commercial breeding the association has striven to improve their commodity for the commercial man as well as for the consumer."

To illustrate, Dr. Smallwood projected slides of a cattle-feeding study undertaken this summer, June 24-25, at the University of Wisconsin, sponsored by the Hereford Breeders' Association and attended by members of the beef industry from throughout the United States.

The graphs illustrated the results of feeding cattle and how a breed could evolve improvement through the process. Cross-sections of freshly butchered beef showed fatty tissues that can accumulate in unimproved cattle-feeding.

Door prizes were presented in a carefully planned "mix-up" of names by Chamber Manager E.O. Wedgeworth, who had just returned from a chamber executives meeting in Del Rio. Prizes ranged from sacks of cattle feed to $5 cash awards to an arrangement of autumn flowers.

Hereford Breeders' Association President Earl Breeding of Miami presided. The guest speaker was introduced by Jake Hess also of Miami.

Entertainment was provided by folk-singer Bruce Childers, a Pampa High School senior and by organist, Don Pierce, who played an interlude of dinner music.

CIA Dismayed Over Berets' Murder Charge

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) is understood to be deeply dismayed by what it considers false charges that it ordered the assassination of a Vietnamese double agent by members of the Army's Green Berets.

Such charges have been made by civilian lawyers for some of the eight Green Berets being held by the Army for investigation in connection with the alleged murder of the Vietnamese civilian.

According to a version of the case circulating in high circles here, the CIA was not involved in the affair except to the extent of advising the Green Berets, when they said they had discovered the man was a double agent, to turn him over to South Vietnamese officials and let them handle the case.

version to top Army officials in Vietnam that the man had been sent on a mission that would neutralize him.

The next development in the case, according to this version of events, was when a Green Beret came to a CIA agent in Vietnam and said that the Vietnamese agent had been killed and his body dumped into the China Sea.

One source here said the Green Berets are in trouble with the Army because they lied to Gen. Creighton Abrams, U.S. commander in South Vietnam by saying the man had been sent on a mission instead of disclosing what really happened.

Abrams, according to the source here, ordered the eight Green Berets arrested and put in solitary confinement after he determined he had not been told the truth about the case.

Countians Ready For Labor Day

With Labor Day just around Monday's corner, Gray Countians are planning a variety of activities that will signal the close of summer vacation and the start of fall activities.

Gray Countians are cautioned to use care in their holiday travel and in any activities planned.

First National Bank, Citizens Bank and Trust Co., Security Federal Savings and Loan Co., as well as the Post Office are giving their employees a day off Monday.

The Post Office lobby will be open to boxholders and there will be delivery of special mail, but there will be no home deliveries.

City Manager Charles Hill and County Judge S. R. Lenning Jr. said city and county offices will be closed Monday.

However, the sheriff, police and fire departments will be on duty throughout holiday weekend, including Monday.

In a survey of local retail stores, some will close, while others will be open on the Labor Day holiday.

The Pampa Daily News will publish Monday, but advertisers are asked to please observe deadlines for ads. Monday noon is the deadline for classified advertising for Tuesday's newspaper. Mainly About People ads will be accepted until 9 a.m. Monday for Monday's newspaper.

Teenyboppers, Music Freaks Arrive For TIPP

LEWISVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—Teenyboppers, music freaks and festival followers began arriving in great numbers today for the three day extravaganza billed as the Texas International Pop Festival.

The first shock of the Labor Day weekend bash hardly caused a ripple of excitement in Lewisville, the conservative North Central Texas community bracing for the onslaught. That shock came when the first young lady went for a nude swim in a nearby lake.

With that out of the way, all the citizens hope for now is their town, known primarily for fishing, rodeos and drag races, will not become another Bethel, N.Y., where some 300,000 descended recently for the Woodstock Pop Festival. Chances are their fears are groundless.

Senate May Dump Measure For Its Own

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—A patchwork, 10-part $380-$400 million tax package thrown together in six hours of House debate gets its first—and probably last—public airing in the Senate today.

As soon as it can wind up perfunctory public hearings on the House proposal, the Senate is expected to dump the measure for a bill of its own.

Nixon Looks For Dependable Sign From Hanoi

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon today continued a slow steady pressure on Hanoi to produce a dependable sign the North Vietnamese want peace.

What bothered the Chief Executive and his top advisers at the western White House was that they had no visible proof the North wanted to end the hostilities in Southeast Asia.

The Nixon pressure was evidenced in his delay in announcing of continued U.S. force reduction. He had planned originally to say something on this volatile subject before the end of August. According to White House officials, a determination beyond the 25,000 cut announced at Midway Island in early June would have to await Nixon's return to Washington Sept. 8.

Also, Nixon had another international trading card which had to be considered—what the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong representatives do and say in Paris. Thus far, they have done little toward the sort of settlement the United States would accept.

The American message was coming through slowly: No pull-down without some commensurate action from the North.

The President will have several opportunities to lean on Hanoi in public statements in the near future.

His appearance before the National Governors Conference in Denver, Colo., on Labor Day.

At the Mexican border Sept. 8 when he makes a public appearance with Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz near Del Rio, Tex.

When he returns to Washington the night of Sept. 8. Meantime, there would be a steady tattoo from San Clemente, sending what would try to be this consistent message to Hanoi: Slow down or face a heavier level of American combat performance.

Nixon met Thursday with his chief economic advisers and Ziegler said afterwards that certain indicators show "there is a beginning in the cooling off of the inflationary tendency."

He cited the slowdown in the rise of wholesale prices and indications that prices for durable goods may be stabilizing as hopeful signs.

Ziegler stressed, however, that the administration does not expect an "immediate" response to efforts to halt rising prices by keeping the budget in the black—and restraining federal spending.

He said he has a tax package that will get 18 or 19 votes in the Senate. It is based on at least two items—a two-factor corporate franchise tax and sales tax on alcoholic beverages—which were turned down by the House in writing its bill.

Wilson said his proposal would also include a one-fourth cent hike in the state sales tax, a 5-cent per pack cigarette tax increase, a 5-cent per drink tax on alcoholic beverages served in private clubs, and extension of the sales tax to telephone and telegraph service.

Should the Senate adopt that package, the House probably would reject it, sending the tax fight back to a conference committee where it was deadlocked during the final week of the first special session. Neither House has altered its position since tax negotiations broke down before the close of that session.

The House's tax bill, passed 77-58, includes a one-half cent sales tax hike, a 4 1/2 cent boost in cigarette taxes, and a conglomerate of other items which would raise up to $500 million if House members were accurate in their estimates of what each provision would net.

The Legislature Thursday erased the pressure on its tax writing efforts by passing and sending to the governor an emergency 60-day state budget that would allow the state to continue operating even though lawmakers may not be able to agree on new taxes by the time the fiscal year begins Monday.

Gov. Preston Smith said he objects to budgeting "on a part-time basis," but said he could hardly veto the bill. Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr., D-Paris, Senate sponsor of the budget, said Smith had told him he would sign it.

During its marathon tax-writing session Thursday, the House turned back attempts to levy a corporate profits tax and to extend the sales tax to beer and liquor.

Rep. Neal Solomon almost won approval of a provision to (See SENATE, Page 2)

Chance Of Rain Still In Pampa

The phrase often heard in the Panhandle: "If you don't like the weather today wait until tomorrow," has not been true the past two weeks as cooler weather and clouds consistently stayed in the area.

But it had to change even if it was gradually, and temperatures were to warm-up slightly today even though the chance for rain will remain with us.

An intense group of thunderstorms in the Gulf of Mexico off the Texas coast moved inland to the Austin area today and small craft warnings were out from Brownsville to Beaumont. A forecaster in the Houston Weather Bureau said the band of thunderstorms, about 30 miles wide, extended straight into the Gulf from the Freeport area.

The forecaster said they extended outward into the water several hundred miles and were kicking up four or five foot waves.

Joan Kennedy Suffers Third Miscarriage

HYANNIS, Mass. (UPI)—Joan Kennedy, wife of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, suffered her third miscarriage Thursday night. Kennedy said after visiting her that she was "feeling good" today.

Mrs. Kennedy, 32, who had been expecting the baby in February, miscarried after canceling plans for an overnight camping trip with her husband and friends on Nantucket Island.

The senator, who rushed back to the mainland from Nantucket after he was advised his wife was ill, visited with her for about three-quarters of an hour today.

He said she was "feeling good" but would not be discharged from Cape Cod hospital today. Asked if the miscarriage was the result of an accident or fall, Kennedy said, "No—she just didn't carry."

Dr. Leonard Smith, Mrs. Kennedy's physician, left the hospital about five minutes before Kennedy. He refused to comment on the miscarriage.

Mrs. Kennedy was in one of the hospital's four private maternity rooms with a view of Lewis Bay. Kennedy, deeply tanned but obviously worried, was driven to the hospital in a small foreign car.

Kennedy walked through the emergency room and rode an elevator to his wife's room on the second floor. He was wearing a blue suit, white shirt and dark necktie.

A hospital spokesman said Mrs. Kennedy awoke at 7 a.m. after sleeping comfortably during the night. The spokesman described her condition as "good."

Mrs. Luella Hennessey, a nurse who has cared for the Kennedy clan children over the years, was at the hospital to care for Mrs. Kennedy.

Grocer Offers Reward For Vanandalism Info

The second break-in within a month at the Cashway Super Market, 502 W. Francis has prompted the store manager, Kermit Plowman, to offer a $100 cash reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of person or persons guilty of the vandalism and attempted burglaries.

Anyone with information is asked to contact Plowman. The store was broken into Thursday night, according to city police. Entry apparently was gained through the roof by cutting vent covers from holders and jumping into the storeroom.

An undetermined amount of small change was taken and extensive vandalism done, according to Plowman.

WITH ISRAEL Four-Nation Summit Conference Expected

CAIRO (UPI)—A summit conference of Israel's most militant Arab foes—Egypt, Jordan, Iraq and Syria—will soon be convened in Cairo to coordinate Middle East military strategy, the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said today.

Al-Ahram said the four-nation summit would be held despite Arab League preference for an all-Moslem summit, which would include chiefs of state from about 40 nations, many of them moderate and pro-Western.

A separate statement by Al-Ahram Editor Mohamed Hassanain Haikal a close confidant of President Gamal Abdel Nasser, indicated Egypt will not consider resuming diplomatic relations with the United States while American arms flow to Israel.

Al-Ahram's comment on the prospective four-nation summit coincided with the scheduled departure of King Hussein of Jordan for Saudi Arabia and Cairo.

Hussein was expected to discuss with Saudi Arabia's King Faisal his preference for an Arab-only summit and to further this discussion Saturday to illustrate Egypt's anger with Washington and its current preference for Moscow.

It was Faisal who first proposed a summit of all Moslem nations as an alternative strategy to the limited Arab summit. His ambassador advanced the all-Moslem summit proposal successfully at this week's Arab League conference in Cairo.

Al-Ahram said the summit conference of Nasser, Hussein, Syria's Premier Nouruddin Atassi and Iraq's President Ahmed Hassan al-Bakr would open in the near future.

It would discuss "highly important military issues" and map joint plans for dealing with present and future developments in all fields. Al-Ahram said.

Haikal disclosed what he said was a detail of the latest U.S. peace plan for the Middle East.

Life-Saving Turtle Dumbest Of Species

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—If Korean seaman Chung Nam Kim actually clung to the back of a giant sea turtle while awaiting rescue at sea, it must have been a leatherback, turtle experts said today.

The Swedish motorship Citadel was due in Los Angeles Harbor this afternoon (about 3:30 p.m. PDT) carrying the seaman who contends— he survived a fall overboard from another freighter in the Pacific off the Nicaraguan coast last week by hitching a turtle ride.

An interpreter from the South Korean Consulate was to be at dockside to try to get straight from Kim whether he actually matched the feats of the boy on the dolphin or whether his tale gained something in translation through the Swedish skipper of the Citadel in his brief radio account to his home office in Malmö.

In the interests of marine science, United Press International spoke with the chief diver at Marineland, the famed aquarium on the Pacific, and observed the technique of turtle-riding.

Jake Jacobs, who has been studying turtles for 30 years, narrowed down the identity of the Good Samaritan to the leatherback.

"Now we don't want to call this man loose with the truth," said Jacobs. "And in his favor we must concede that the waters off Nicaragua are the habitat of the leatherback."

"The leatherback grows to a size of more than 1,000 pounds with a span across his shell of six to seven feet. He is the dumbest of all turtles. You could get on his back and he would never know it."

"We put a couple here in the tank and they swam to the wall."

Mike Heiskell Found Guilty Of Assault

A 17-year-old Pampa boy Mike Heiskell, was fined $10 and court costs by Gray County Judge Sherman Lenning Jr. Thursday on a charge of aggravated assault on a police officer.

The charge on Heiskell, who pleaded not guilty, resulted from a fracas at the police station July 21, when officer Roy Denman claimed Heiskell struck him several times.

Heiskell and his father, according to Judge Lenning testified the officer struck the first blow and the officer testified that Heiskell cursed him and struck him while resisting arrest.

Lenning also levied fines on a Briscoe and Lefors man, both on charges of driving while intoxicated.

Harvey Keith Puryear, Briscoe, was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and placed on six months probation after pleading nolo contendere.

Bobby James Barnette was fined $100 and costs by Lenning, drew the same jail term and placed on six months probation on a like charge.

put beer and liquor under the sales tax by coupling that item with a repeal of the sales tax on services.

But the House leadership dived the plan, and let services be dropped from the tax bill without picking up the sales tax on alcoholic beverages.

House members adopted 10 amendments to the tax bill, including two proposals that had not been debated previously in the House. These were a tax on shell dredging and a proposal to extend the state sales tax to materials purchased by contractors working on federal contracts.

Rep. Bill Swanson, D-Houston, said the provision dealing with federal contracts could possibly bring in up to 200 million during the biennium, but there were no firm estimates as to what amount of revenue could be certified by the comptroller.

Only one member—Rep. Tom Moore, D-Waco—spoke against passage of the House tax package.

Moore bitterly criticized the House for its tax-writing policies, but failed to vote against the bill when it was finally passed. Moore paired with Rep. J. H. Clark Jr., D-Dallas, who was absent.

The Waco representative criticized what he called a House attitude of "extreme concern for big corporations and a callous disregard for homeowners and average Texas consumers."

He said corporations are interested in Texas as long as our natural resources last.

Other items in the House tax bill include a $15 a year tax on all vending machines except those dispensing food, a hike in the corporate franchise tax rate, a 10 per cent admissions tax on professional sports and entertainment, a 10 cent tax on each drink served in private clubs and a 25 cent tax on stock transactions.

The Communists said they would consider releasing the men only after the United States admits to the "criminal act" of sending the copter over North Korea and promises it will not happen again.

The first information on the fate of the crewmen was revealed at a meeting between Allied and Communist officials at the Korean Military Armistice Commission. Two previous requests for the information had been turned down.

This time, Maj. Gen. Ri Choon-Sun of North Korea agreed to the demand of U.S. Marine Maj. Gen. Arthur Adams.

He said Capt. David H. Crawford of Pooler, Ga., and Spec 4 Herman E. Hofstatter of Lowpoint, Ill., had suffered serious injuries. WO Malcolm V. Lopke of Richmond, Ind., was slightly hurt.

"They are now receiving medical treatment," Ri said, giving no details on the men's injuries. The OH23 helicopter went down just across the north-south border, 25 miles north of Seoul.

"You have stated that your side wounded three UNC (U.N. Command) personnel on Aug. 17, 1963. Now I ask you to immediately return them for proper medical treatment," Adams told Ri.

The Communist general repeated earlier North Korean allegations the copter flew across the border on a hostile mission.

Adams replied: "I told you emphatically that the helicopter was not dispatched to fly over North Korean territory and had no hostile intention against your side."

Ri refused to accept Adams' answer and continued in the 105-minute meeting to demand the United States disclose its "military purpose" in the incident.

U.S. officials have said the bubble-topped observation helicopter was unarmed and had strayed off course when it was shot down. Witnesses watching from South Korea corroborated the contention.

In demanding an American apology this time and an assurance that such an incident would not happen again, Ri said.

District Court Judge James A. Boyle ruled Thursday that witnesses at the inquest schedule would be allowed counsel at their side "for the sole purpose of advice on their constitutional rights against self-incrimination and for privileged communications only."

The lawyers, who argued that the inquest would be more like criminal proceeding and that those who testify should therefore be afforded the constitutional rights of criminal defendants, said Thursday they had reached no decision on a possible appeal.

The judge turned down motions to allow lawyers to question witnesses, to present evidence, to compel witnesses to appear and to seek court rulings.

Boyle adhered to the traditional concept of an inquest in Massachusetts that it is simply a search after truth and not an accusatory proceeding. It would have been unprecedented for him to rule otherwise.

Boyle also levied fines on a Briscoe and Lefors man, both on charges of driving while intoxicated.

Harvey Keith Puryear, Briscoe, was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and placed on six months probation after pleading nolo contendere.

Bobby James Barnette was fined $100 and costs by Lenning, drew the same jail term and placed on six months probation on a like charge.

One factor in chicken industry pressure for the decision was a desire to make a bigger market for deboned meat from chicken backs and necks.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—That hotdog you bite into may soon have up to 15 per cent chicken in it.

Meat packers who currently put poultry meat in sausages must disclose this by using a special, prominently displayed product name, such as "chicken dog" or "frankfurter with chicken."

But the Nixon administration decided Thursday to permit the use of up to 15 per cent chicken without the special labeling.

The Agriculture Department, which announced the decision said the rules would take effect early in November. They will apply to the use of chicken and other poultry in federally inspected cooked sausages such as frankfurters, knockwurst and bologna.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—That hotdog you bite into may soon have up to 15 per cent chicken in it.

Meat packers who currently put poultry meat in sausages must disclose this by using a special, prominently displayed product name, such as "chicken dog" or "frankfurter with chicken."

But the Nixon administration decided Thursday to permit the use of up to 15 per cent chicken without the special labeling.

One factor in chicken industry pressure for the decision was a desire to make a bigger market for deboned meat from chicken backs and necks.

Shurtz, an athletically built six-footer, had been in Vietnam about a month. "The only thing wrong with Lt. Shurtz was that he didn't have enough experience," said Sgt. Dennis Davis, 21, of Siloam, N.C., a member of the lieutenant's former company.

"Nobody wanted to go but the rest of us were ready to move out." Davis said the five reluctant men were "short-timers"—men with little time left to serve in Vietnam—who wanted to talk to the inspector general and reenlist so they could get out of the field.

Joan Kennedy Suffers Third Miscarriage HYANNIS, Mass. (UPI)—Joan Kennedy, wife of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, suffered her third miscarriage Thursday night. Kennedy said after visiting her that she was "feeling good" today. Mrs. Kennedy, 32, who had been expecting the baby in February, miscarried after canceling plans for an overnight camping trip with her husband and friends on Nantucket Island. The senator, who rushed back to the mainland from Nantucket after he was advised his wife was ill, visited with her for about three-quarters of an hour today. He said she was "feeling good" but would not be discharged from Cape Cod hospital today. Asked if the miscarriage was the result of an accident or fall, Kennedy said, "No—she just didn't carry."

Dr. Leonard Smith, Mrs. Kennedy's physician, left the hospital about five minutes before Kennedy. He refused to comment on the miscarriage. Mrs. Kennedy was in one of the hospital's four private maternity rooms, with a view of Lewis Bay. Kennedy, deeply tanned but obviously worried, was driven to the hospital in a small foreign car. Kennedy walked through the emergency room and rode an elevator to his wife's room on the second floor. He was wearing a blue suit, white shirt and dark necktie. A hospital spokesman said Mrs. Kennedy awoke at 7 a.m. after sleeping comfortably during the night. The spokesman described her condition as "good."

Mrs. Luella Hennessey, a nurse who has cared for the Kennedy clan children over the years, was at the hospital to care for Mrs. Kennedy. The second break-in within a month at the Cashway Super Market, 502 W. Francis, has prompted the store manager, Kermit Plowman, to offer a $100 cash reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of person or persons guilty of the vandalism and attempted burglaries. Anyone with information is asked to contact Plowman. The store was broken into Thursday night, according to city police. Entry apparently was gained through the roof by cutting vent covers from holders and jumping into the storeroom. An undetermined amount of small change was taken and extensive vandalism done, according to Plowman.

Grocer Offers Reward For Vanandalism Info Baptist Official Blames Tax Mess On Lobbyists AMARILLO (UPI)—The beer lobbyists are responsible for the tax mess in the Texas Legislature, according to a Baptist official. James Dunn, secretary of the Christian Life Commission for the 1.8 million member Baptist General Convention of Texas, said Thursday the proponents of alcohol and beer lobbyists are "selling the state down the drain in order to preserve their massive profits."

WITH ISRAEL. Four-Nation Summit Conference Expected CAIRO (UPI)—A summit conference of Israel's most militant Arab foes—Egypt, Jordan, Iraq and Syria—will soon be convened in Cairo to coordinate Middle East military strategy, the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said today. Al-Ahram said the four-nation summit would be held despite Arab League preference for an all-Moslem summit, which would include chiefs of state from about 40 nations, many of them moderate and pro-Western. A separate statement by Al-Ahram Editor Mohamed Hassanien Haikal a close confidant of President Gamal Abdel Nasser, indicated Egypt will not consider resuming diplomatic relations with the United States while American arms flow to Israel. Al-Ahram's comment on the prospective four-nation summit coincided with the scheduled departure of King Hussein of Jordan for Saudi Arabia and Cairo. Hussein was expected to discuss with Saudi Arabia's King Faisal his preference for an Arab-only summit and to further this discussion Saturday to illustrate Egypt's anger with Washington and its current preference for Moscow. It was Faisal who first proposed a summit of all Moslem nations as an alternative strategy to the limited Arab summit. His ambassador advanced the all-Moslem summit proposal successfully at this week's Arab League conference in Cairo. Al-Ahram said the summit conference of Nasser, Hussein, Syria's Premier Nouruddin al-Atassi and Iraq's President Ahmed Hassan al-Bakr would open in the near future. It would discuss "highly important military issues" and map "joint plans for dealing with present and future developments in all fields," Al-Ahram said. Haikal disclosed what he said was a detail of the latest U.S. peace plan for the Middle-East.

Stolen Pistol A 38 caliber pistol, reportedly stolen earlier in the week from a used car lot in Pampa, was recovered by a Pampa police officer Thursday and a 16-year-old youth admitted the theft. The youth, who had worked at the car lot, told the officer he took the gun because he hadn't been paid for his work. He said he sold it to another man. Brown recovered the gun and the youth was turned over to Gray County Juvenile Officer Bill Leonard.

Life-Saving Turtle Dumbest Of Species

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—If Korean seaman Chung Nam Kim actually clung to the back of a giant sea turtle while awaiting rescue at sea, it must have been a leatherback, the dumbest of the species, turtle experts said today. The Swedish motorship Citadell was due in Los Angeles Harbor this afternoon (about 3:30 p.m. PDT) carrying the seaman who contends he survived a fall overboard from another freighter in the Pacific off the Nicaraguan coast last week by hitching a turtle ride. An interpreter from the South Korean Consulate was to be at dockside to try to get straight from Kim whether he actually matched the feats of the boy on the dolphin or whether his tale gained something in translation through the Swedish skipper of the Citadell in his brief radio account to his home office in Malmö. In the interests of marine science, United Press International spoke with the chief diver at Marineland, the famed aquarium on the Pacific, and observed the technique of turtle riding. Jake Jacobs, who has been studying turtles for 30 years, narrowed down the identity of the Good Samaritan to the leatherback. "Now we don't want to call this man loose with the truth," said Jacobs. "And in his favor we must concede that the waters off Nicaragua are the habitat of the leatherback."

"The leatherback grows to a size of more than 1,000 pounds with a span across his shell of six to seven feet. He is the dumbest of all turtles. You could get on his back and he would never know it. We put a couple here in the tank and they swam to the wall and just kept pushing against it until they collapsed." In a radiotelephone conversation Thursday, the seaman told South Korean consul Jai Sung Kim there was a party, he had a few drinks, went on deck to get some fresh air, and fell overboard. He swam for about 13 hours before he saw the turtle. "He thought it was some kind of fish so he was afraid because he thought it was some kind of a shark, you know, but then he found it was a turtle," the consul said. "In Korea, we have a legend that the turtle is a good animal in the seas. We call it the messenger or the courier of the sea." One of the greatest sources of skepticism was the fact Chung's turtle did not want to dive during the hours he hung on. "That is unlikely but not impossible," Gerald M. Champion of Marineland said. "Turtles sometimes feed on the surface for hours and when they get sick with air under the shell, they float indefinitely."

Mike Heiskell Found Guilty Of Assault A 17-year-old Pampa boy, Mike Heiskell, was fined $10 and court costs by Gray County Judge Sherman Lenning Jr. Thursday on a charge of aggravated assault on a police officer. The charge on Heiskell, who pleaded not guilty, resulted from a fracas at the police station July 21, when officer Roy DeWanna claimed Heiskell struck him several times. Heiskell and his father, according to Judge Lenning, testified the officer struck the first blow and the officer testified that Heiskell cursed him and struck him while resisting arrest. Lenning also levied fines on a Briscoe and Lefors man, both on charges of driving while intoxicated. Harvey Keith Puryear, Briscoe, was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and placed on six months probation after pleading nolo contendere. Bobby James Barnett was fined $100 and costs by Lenning, drew the same jail term and placed on six months probation on a like charge.

Senate... (Continued From Page 1) put beer and liquor under the sales tax by coupling that item with a repeal of the sales tax on services. But the House leadership dived the plan, and let services be dropped from the tax bill without picking up the sales tax on alcoholic beverages. House members adopted 10 amendments to the tax bill, including two proposals that had not been debated previously in the House. These were a tax on shell dredging and a proposal to extend the state sales tax to materials purchased by contractors working on federal contracts. Rep. Bill Swanson, D-Houston, said the provision dealing with federal contracts could possibly bring in up to 200 million during the biennium, but there were no firm estimates as to what amount of revenue could be certified by the comptroller. "Only one member—Rep. Tom Moore, D-Waco—spoke against passage of the House tax package. Moore bitterly criticized the House for its tax-writing policies, but failed to vote against the bill when it was finally passed. Moore paired with Rep. J. H. Clark Jr., D-Dallas, who was absent. The Waco representative criticized what he called a House attitude of "extreme concern for big corporations... and a callous disregard for homeowners and average Texas consumers. He said corporations are interested in Texas as long as our natural resources last." Other items in the House tax bill include a $15 a year tax on all vending machines except those dispensing food; a hike in the corporate franchise tax rate, a 10 per cent admissions tax on professional sports and entertainment, a 10 cent tax on each drink served in private clubs and a 25 cent tax on stock transactions.

Ted's Lawyers May Appeal Inquest Ruling EDGARTOWN, Mass. (UPI)—Lawyers for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and other witnesses at the inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne studied the possibility today of appealing a ruling denying their clients the rights given criminal defendants. They could appeal to the U.S. District Court, raising constitutional issues, or challenge the inquest law in Massachusetts Superior Court on the grounds it is outdated. Miss Kopechne died July 18 when a car driven by Kennedy went off a narrow bridge into a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island across a small bay from Martha's Vineyard. District Court Judge James A. Boyle ruled Thursday that witnesses at the inquest would be allowed counsel at their side "for the sole purpose of advice on their constitutional rights against self-incrimination and for privileged communications only." The lawyers, who argued that the inquest would be more like criminal proceeding and that those who testify should therefore be afforded the constitutional rights of criminal defendants, said Thursday they had reached no decision on a possible appeal. The judge turned down motions to allow lawyers to question witnesses, to present evidence to compel witnesses to appear and to seek court rulings. Boyle adhered to the traditional concept of an inquest in Massachusetts that it is simply a search after truth and not an accusatory proceeding. It would have been unprecedented for him to rule otherwise.

$50 Bond Set On DWI Charge Bond of $500 was set on L. D. Boyd, 710 N. West St., on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Boyd was arrested by the Texas Department of Public Safety. Judge E. L. Anderson set bond.

Korea Says U.S. Helicopter Crew Alive But Hurt

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UPI)—North Korea said today the three crewmen of a U.S. Army helicopter shot down Aug. 17 over its territory are alive but wounded, two of them seriously.

The Communists said they would consider releasing the men only after the United States admits to the "criminal act" of sending the "copter over North Korea and promises it will not happen again. The first information on the fate of the crewmen was revealed at a meeting between Allied and Communist officials at the Korean Military Armistice Commission. Two previous requests for the information had been turned down.

This time, Maj. Gen. Ri Choon-Sun of North Korea agreed to the demand of U.S. Marine Maj. Gen. Arthur Adams. He said Capt. David H. Crawford of Pooler, Ga., and Spec. 4 Herman E. Hofstatter of Newport, Ill., had suffered serious injuries. WO Malcolm V. Lopke of Richmond, Ind., was slightly hurt.

"They are now receiving medical treatment," Ri said, giving no details on the men's injuries. The OH23 helicopter went down just across the north-south border, 25 miles north of Seoul.

"You have stated that your side wounded three UNC (U.N. Command) personnel on Aug. 17, 1969. Now I ask you to immediately return them for proper medical treatment," Adams told Ri. The Communist general repeated earlier North Korean allegations: the copter flew across the border on a hostile mission.

Adams replied: "I told you emphatically that the helicopter was not dispatched to fly over North Korean territory and had no hostile intention against your side."

Ri refused to accept Adams' answer and continued in the 105-minute meeting to demand the United States disclose its "military purpose" in the incident. U.S. officials have said the bubble-topped observation helicopter was unarmed and had strayed off course when it was shot down. Witnesses watching from South Korea corroborated the contention.

In demanding an American apology this time and an assurance that such an incident would not happen again, Ri said: "The aardvark is a large, nocturnal burrowing mammal of Africa."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure you've heard of "compulsive shoppers" and "compulsive eaters." Well, I am a compulsive telephoner.

We are fairly new in this city and we don't know many people. My husband works out of town during the week and is home only on week-ends, so naturally I get lonesome and start calling my friends. They all live out of town, so these calls are "long distance."

I won't even tell you what some of our telephone bills have been. I even went to see a psychiatrist about this and all he could offer was a prescription for "pills" to relieve depression. I'm not really "depressed." I'm just bored and lonesome. Besides, I love to talk on the telephone, but once I get started I forget about time and can talk for an hour.

My husband has threatened to take out our telephone and put in a pay phone, and to tell you the truth, I'm about ready to let him. Is there any other solution?

LOVES TO TALK

DEAR LOVES: I think your husband's solution is probably the best. Just don't start calling your friends "collect" or you're apt to find that they don't love to talk as much as you do.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a gentleman who lets a lady win in a game of sports or cards?

THE LADY

DEAR LADY: If a gentleman lets a lady know that he has let her win, he's no gentleman.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder if the kids today ever stop and ask themselves "Is it worth the gamble?" I'm talking about grass, acid, and all the illegal narcotics.

Although my part with drugs was very small (I was not "addicted" — I was only an experimenter), I got "busted" anyway. I was one of those people who thought, "It can never happen to me." Well it did.

Most kids don't realize that being arrested on a narcotics charge is a nightmare which lasts a lifetime. It brands your parents, sisters, brothers, and even your friends.

Can you imagine what it's like for parents to get a call at 3 a.m. and be told that their son or daughter has been arrested for narcotics? Then you are mugged and booked and have a record with the FBI for a "felony."

HAIR-RAISING CUSTOMS

Tressed for the Occasion

A fortnightly shampoo was enough for the well-groomed woman of fifty years ago who believed that combing and brushing—not washing—was the last word in hair care.

In the 20's, flappers washed and set their bobbed tresses once a week while today's cool mods spend so much time shampooing, tinting, frosting, and combing their free-flowing locks that men wonder how they have any time left over for homework and hobbies.

But no matter how lovely a girl looks, she spoils her good appearance every time she combs or fusses with her hair in public.

"Of course, every girl must carry a comb wherever she goes, but she should use it in the ladies room not at the library—and never, never at a restaurant or near food," cautions Ann Evans, grooming consultant.

Miss Evans adds the following useful tips to young men and women who are job hunting.

- 1—Take a comb with you but don't let it show at the interview.
 - 2—Don't run your hands through your hair when being interviewed, as this indicates a lack of interest or confidence.
- Whether you're looking for a job or just want to make a good appearance, it pays to pay attention to your hair. People may be looking you over with a fine-tooth-comb.

The kicks from drugs is simply not worth the gamble. I have learned the hard way, and it is hell.

FBI RECORD AT 20

DEAR ABBY: The man who keeps worrying about his son's long hair should be more concerned about what's inside the boy's head—not out! The modern generation wants to be "modern." So what do they do? They start wearing their hair the way men wore it 200 years ago!

The Spanish have an old saying. "The cloth does not make the monk." So why should I worry about the way the next fellow wears his hair?

MARTIN IN NEW ORLEANS

EASY ADD-ON

A big advantage of hydronic (hot water) home heating, according to the National Better Heating-Cooling Council, is its flexibility. Since heated water is carried through small tubing, it is simple to "snake" tubing through the wall into add-on rooms or converted attics. There is no need to tear apart walls or flooring.

CAN YOU LIST HER FASHION-SAFETY ERRORS? — Model above has made some fashion choices that can impair her ability to drive safely, others that can help her avoid traffic accidents. Arrows indicate choices in question. If you guessed gloves, hair, cape and bracelet as potential dangers, you're right, according to safety experts.

Higher Hems Help Minimize Mistakes

If you will need an excuse for wearing a mini-skirt, here's a beauty: It could lower your chances of having a traffic accident.

What you wear can make a difference in how well you drive, according to an insurance firm whose drivetrainer system is used to teach driving at 650 high schools and colleges. And there's nothing like the leg freedom of a short skirt for easy braking and accelerating.

The firm notes the number of traffic accidents involving women motorists has climbed faster than hemlines during the past decade, and one of every seven disaff drivers is likely to be in an accident this year.

While safe driving habits are your best bet to remain in the accident-free majority, sensible clothing can help, the insurance company suggests.

Being mad for the mod look is a step in the right direction. For example, high skirts demand low heels, which are ideal for driving. Unlike the stiletto heels of old, today's square heels are less likely to catch in your car's floor covering or on the accelerator a pair of situations likely to produce accidents. If you do occasionally wear high or narrow heels, keep a pair of flats in the car to slip on for driving.

If you wear gloves while driving, they should be of a material such as leather that gives you a sure grip on the steering wheel. A slippery fabric such as nylon or cotton could cause you to lose control in an emergency.

Don't let coats and jackets limit your freedom of arm movement. If they're too tight or bulky they could leave you in a driving bind. Unbutton your coat or re-arrange it so you can move freely.

And watch the dangling bracelets and wide sleeves. They can catch on the shift lever, window and door handles, or turn signal. Imagine the consequences if your bracelet were caught and you had to move quickly to avoid an accident.

Much of the beauty of long hair is the way it floats when trouble. Tying your hair back you swing your head, but if it happens to swirl in front of your eyes in a car, you may be in a fashionably

Your Horoscope

JEANE DIXON

SATURDAY, AUG. 30

Your birthday Saturday: Your year ahead: Deciding which of present opportunities for the coming decade or so. Most of this is mental rather than physical. Romantic and sentimental interests are to be pursued quietly, persistently. Saturday's natives often have high talents in mathematics, political maneuvering.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Now you have everything going for you — energy to drive forward. Stick with your main planning, do whatever fits the needs of the moment.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Saturday you can gather consultants not available during the week and be able to evolve secret plans. Creative work is strongly emphasized, but it is not time to reveal it publicly yet.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Physical fatigue is the main hindrance Saturday as you tear around trying to accomplish everything. A generally successful day in all departments. Get others to cooperate now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Cheerful moods attract cheerful moods, so do your share today to brighten up the world. You'll find there has been some change since you last visited places.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Consolidation of plans now gets under way. The patterns of other-people's plans begin to be visible, and you can guide your own path a little more precisely.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Trust your luck Saturday. Get away from home as far as your circumstances permit; test your skills at your pastimes with new contestants. You will learn a variety of things in the turns of the games and in the psychology of the players and spectators. Have fun.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Consider your clothing, particularly shoes. Replace anything out-of-style or out-worn. Your own people are with you solidly today. Be happy in your world.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Now you have the chance to review recent experience and to draw conclusions. Make a permanent record. Check your medical, dental conditions; listen to advice for prevention of troubles.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Get into physical shape; later you'll be glad! Take time out for hobby or pastime. Your emotional nature is wide open for a new attraction (perhaps romantic).

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 21): Give the household chores a once over lightly Saturday. Take all the short cuts so you will have time to plan for the rest of the weekend; there's much to do.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 22-Feb. 18): Brothers and sister agree with you in theory, but refrain from testing it in practice. Take yourself away from the commercial stage and do what you can on your creative ventures. Gather old friends at night.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Things go well now, and any discrepancy is the result of settling for less than you are entitled to — or from faulty estimates of your opportunity.

HEAT IS NEEDED
Nine out of ten remodeling jobs will require heating work of some kind, report heating engineers at the National Better Heating-Cooling Council. The wise homeowner will plan his heating requirements in advance of any modernization work.

HEAT WITH "EXTRAS"
Millions of homeowners are using their hydronic (hot water) home heating systems for other than heating chores. Some use it to automatically melt snow off their driveways. Others heat swimming pools, greenhouses, add-on rooms and attached garages.

A small bouquet of fresh flowers can be a dramatic beauty spot in a tiny room. Space is usually at a premium in breakfast nooks, powder rooms or dressing rooms. A plump yet dainty arrangement of daisies, miniature carnations, or chrysanthemums will beautify these rooms.

Grandmothers Trade Rocking Chair Image For Bikini-Clad Swimming

Woman's View
By GAY PULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—These days, grandmas are more apt to be wearing bikinis for the backyard swim pool than shawl for sittin' and rockin'.

Falling into the bikini category (36-24-36) is Mrs. Raymond (Terry) Smith, who at 37 copped the title, "Most Beautiful Grandmother," of 1959. Mrs. Smith, a gray-eyed ash blonde from Central Islip, N.Y., edged out 19 other competitors for the title, most of them in their 40's, the-oldest 69.

All told, in the contest to show that "granny power" isn't dead and that figures don't have to fade with the years, the grandmas had 38 grandchildren. Mrs. Smith has two.

Kenneth, her eldest child now 20 and married at 18; has a 16-months-old daughter and a one-month-old son. Mrs. Smith's other children are Deborah, 16, and Paul, 9.

Mrs. Smith, born in Brooklyn, was 16 when she married. Her husband, now a lineman for the Long Island Lighting Co., was only 17. They'd known each other since childhood and had dated steadily from the time she was 13, he 14.

In an interview, the couple expressed mixed feelings about managed, but in a way we're today's culture—the teen marriages which are on the increase. "It depends on the individual," they agreed. "We one of the phenomena of just now beginning to live."

For financially, the early years were full of struggle as a young couple coped with a family that began to arrive before they'd had time to accrue any savings.

"That's one reason I advise young people to wait a while to marry," said Smith. "So they'll have a career started, a little money ahead—I doubt if some kids could make it, as we did."

"But I don't believe in parents supporting kids after they marry. If you're old enough to take on a family, you're old enough to support it somehow," Mrs. Smith nodded agreement.

The Smiths are, as she says, "a little more secure now." They own a colonial ranch, four-bedroom house on a one-acre plot in Central Islip.

Flowerology

(Gemini, May 22-June 21)
The yellow chrysanthemum is the flower of those born under the sign Gemini, aquarize their birthstone, and versatility their main characteristic. Geminians love to experiment and explore, ask questions and make connections. Most likely they will be firmly planted in the communications field, where they can gather facts then link them together.

Geminians love to travel, and don't be surprised if your Gemini friend sends you flowers from every spot he visits. As FTD florists are handy and can have flowers delivered anywhere in the country, a Gemini just can't resist. With such varied interests, those under this sign must always be on guard against flightiness, disorganization and superficial examination of problems.

DR. GEORGE F. MEENAGHAN, center, head of the Chemical Engineering Department at Texas Tech was presented a check from the Cabot Corp. for a research grant. Making the presentation is Curt Beck, associate director of Cabot's Research and Development Department. Looking on is D. W. Bond Jr., left, industrial relations director for Cabot's Western Region.

Texas Tech Awarded Grant

Dr. George F. Meenaghan, head of Texas Tech University's chemical engineering department was a recent guest of Cabot Corporation. During his visit, Dr. Meenaghan visited Cabot's facilities in the Pampa area and met with various members of management. During a noon luncheon, Curt Beck, associate director of Cabot's research and development department, presented Dr. Meenaghan a check for a research grant. Dr. Meenaghan will be in charge of this project, which will be conducted by the Texas Tech chemical engineering Department in conjunction with Cabot's Research and Development Department at Pampa. D. W. Bond, Jr., Cabot's Industrial Relations Director presented Dr. Meenaghan with a Cabot scholarship to be awarded to a deserving student in the school's Chemical Engineering Department this fall.

Television In Review

By ROBERT MUSEL
NEW YORK (UPI)—Among the millions watching "Bonanza" on the night of Sept. 21 will be a pretty blue-eyed blonde for whom this particular program has very special significance. Her name is Connie Hines and her performance as a guest star in the segment titled, "The Witness," marks a major step in her effort to change her television image from comedienne to dramatic artist. Any really good actress, and Miss Hines qualifies by heredity as well as dedication, can handle any emotion from mirth to melancholia as she herself proved in more than 30 network shows in her first year on television. But viewers have long memories and many remember her as co-star to Alan Young in the "Mister Ed" series which gained her national recognition as a comedienne. In "Bonanza" she is "Hilda," the local cafe owner entrusted by the Cartwrights with watching over a young girl who is a vital witness in a stagecoach holdup. Miss Hines' problem is not exclusively her own—the stars of any long-running series face the same hazard. They are type-cast because of the peculiar persistence of the medium, the inflexible effect of week after week of hammering the same characterization into the minds of viewers. And when viewers forget the original along come reruns to remind them. Miss Hines comes by her acting ability honestly. Her mother was an actress and so was her grandmother. Her father was a drama coach who organized his own theatrical troupe in her hometown of Dedham, Mass. She wasn't carried on stage in the true theatrical tradition—she crawled on by herself during a performance. Miss Hines broke into television as a teen-ager in commercials and eventually was hostess of her own morning and evening shows on station WMBR-TV in Jacksonville, Fla., where she also free-lanced as a photographer's model. After more theatrical experience with the Helen Hayes group in New York she headed for Hollywood where she got most of her roles by doggedly making the rounds of casting offices. But that's in the past. Miss Hines will be watching Sept. 21 for clues to her future.

Can't Tell Fact From Fiction

We have been wont to note at intervals that bureaucrats have differentiated between fact and fiction. The evidence in support of that evaluation continues to accumulate.

Take, for example, a letter and enclosure just received from George P. Schultz, secretary of labor. Typed on U.S. Department of Labor stationery, dated July 31, 1969, and signed by the secretary himself, the text of the letter follows:

"Dear Editor: With the successful rocketing of man to the moon, this nation has entered upon a new age — an age in which education will be a more important factor than ever in determining a man's success in the world of work.

"Yet, we are faced today with these stark facts: —About two million 16-21 year-olds in the labor force have not been graduated from high school.

—Only 77 of 100 youngsters who should receive their high school diplomas this school year will actually be graduated.

—About 800,000 youngsters will drop out of school this year.

—If this trend continues, by 1975 there will be more than 23 million adults over 25 in the labor force without a high school education.

—With your help, this trend can be broken.

"I am enclosing an editorial pointing up the need for educated workers in this technological age. I urge your cooperation in printing this sometime during August — when our nation's young people are making what may prove to be the most crucial decisions of their lives."

Evidently, the secretary of labor is not aware that Freedom Newspapers don't depend upon canned releases from government agencies for their editorial comment and that the word "editorial," as used in its proper sense, means the expression of a newspaper's own independent views, not those of some bureaucrat.

But let that go. As it so happens, Secretary Schultz has said something in his "editorial" which, as Smokey says, "bears repeating." Entitled "The Need For Education in This Technological Age," by George P. Schultz, the piece, taking up 3 1/2 typewritten pages, is much too long to quote in its entirety even were we so inclined. The gist of the article, suffice it to say, is a listing of all the horrors awaiting the youngster who fails to sit behind the prescribed desks, for the prescribed number of hours a day, for the prescribed number of years with the objective of gaining that coveted piece of paper — a high school diploma — certifying that he, or she, is now an educated human being.

We will quote only the first and last paragraphs of Mr. Schultz' "editorial."

"With the flawless performance of our Apollo II mission and the landing of two Americans on the moon, the United States left no doubt that it is the most technologically advanced nation in the world."

The above, the first paragraph of the secretary's essay, is quoted merely to establish the fact that he is talking about an actual physical flight to the moon, and not a "flight" beyond a universal body of human knowledge.

And, now, the last paragraph: "Now that man has successfully LEFT THIS UNIVERSE (emphasis added), no one knows what the future will bring. Only the educated will be in a position to cope with the rapid changes we can anticipate in the decades to come."

This from your secretary of labor — who sat behind the prescribed desks, for the prescribed number of hours a day, for the prescribed number of years to get AB and PhD degrees!

But even more alarming than the fact that a man of such high office who presumes to order other people's lives for them is obviously unaware that the moon is well within our universe, is his use of the awesome power of that office to "urge" newspapers all over the country to publish fiction as fact.

Our Balkanized Economy

Since the end of World War II, national policy of the United States has recognized, for the record, at least that liberalized international trade is essential to promote and preserve the strength and peace of the world.

For nearly 2 1/2 decades, five presidents have backed the removal or lowering of tariff barriers and the creation of common markets in Europe and Latin America.

Today manufacturers in the Netherlands can buy steel from West Germany without having to battle local tariffs. In Central America, similar trade walls have fallen.

But in the United States, ironically, where the idea of a common market was pioneered 190 years ago, we seem to be retreating into local protectionism. The giant of American commerce finds itself increasingly fettered by Lilliputian bonds in all but a few of the 50 states.

These bonds take different forms — taxes, regulations and administrative ruling — but their net effect is to penalize the out-of-state seller.

In Arkansas, local publishers can sell magazines by subscription without having to pay a sales tax. Out-of-state publishers are denied this exemption.

Six states have varying rules which discriminate against the person who trades in a car purchased in another state and Florida, Kansas, Louisiana and North Carolina all have tax formulas that tax products made outside the state while exempting the identical product manufactured within the state.

In some instances, state protectionism takes the form of regulations which assure local monopoly. Dairymen, for example, have been complaining for years about artificially high health standards which are used by some states to prevent shipment of fresh milk from another state.

The American Way

Mr. Nixon, who seems to us to be the supreme rajah of the ordinary and obvious (no offense meant), has assessed the performance of the lunar landers as the greatest day in the history of the human race. We suggest, however, that an event of last week presaged an infinitely more significant, if rather more subtle, advancement in our national life than the moon bit.

L'affaire Kennedy — Teddy this time — would be just another tragic incident in the saga of an ill-starred family of drivers if it were not for the reaction it commanded.

Senator Kennedy went on the air to explain (if one may call it that) how the beautiful blonde secretary drowned and why he pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident. This, of course, should ring a bell in the mind of Mr. Nixon; for it was young Mr. N. who, a number of years ago, was on the point of being dumped by Mr. Eisenhower and who saved his bacon by appearing, en famille, on the tube to show what a nice guy he really was: With dog, of course. Checkers, wasn't it?

Mr. Nixon came on strong, and as a result Mr. Eisenhower could not dump him.

This, ironically, may have set the stage for Ted Kennedy's ploy. It is a kidney.

Even earlier, of course, there was Tinker Bell, the little fairy who sported around with her Peter Pan. This was the classic appeal to an audience: "Will Tinker Bell be able to fly again? Do you want Tinker Bell to die? You out there in the audience, if you want Tinker Bell to live, repeat after me, 'I believe in fairies.' You bet your cotton-pickin' life the audience believed in fairies. For generations audiences have affirmed their belief in fairies at every performance of Peter Pan. Who wants to let Tinker Bell cop out in the second act."

And so young Mr. Kennedy followed Tinker Bell and Dick Nixon in appealing to the audience to spare his life. What can you say to a guy like that? "Sure, kid, it coulda happened to anyone."

The point to which we are slowly proceeding, however, is that the American public seemed not to judge the actions of Mr. Kennedy on that night so much as they judged his television performance. We became a sophisticated, detached, almost amused nation of dramatic critics. We judged not the merit of the case but the quality of the performance.

This, we submit, is not the reaction of a Puritan community, a nation of boobs, a congregation of clods. Perhaps the nation has turned a corner, for better or for worse, and reached the European attitude of accepting everything and believing nothing.

In Gastonia, N.C., you heard grocery clerks say, "I wonder how many guys he had writing that speech." And a Texas furniture dealer said, "I heard they really rehearsed him in every gesture and movement."

For everyone who assessed his degree of culpability, 10 others assessed the quality of his performance.

This would not have happened 10 or even 5 years ago.

This, indeed, signals a new and nettlesome political consideration. If we have become as hard-boiled, sophisticated, detached and cynical as politicians as the politicians themselves have always been, look out. We might not buy any more slick tv scripts and, eventually, we might not even buy any more slick political panaceas and economic placebos. That would require an entirely new breed of politics, a development at least as feticious as the landing on the moon.

President Nixon's long range plans (like those of former President Johnson) have always called for a reduction in armed strength to some 2.5 million men from the Vietnam war. These plans contemplated a phased reduction over a period of several years to the pre Vietnam level.

Accelerated manpower cuts would be popular in Congress too. Defense appropriations originate there, and in the present anti-military climate there would be congressional fringe benefits in any steps which cut the armed services and thereby freed funds for non-military purposes.

"I Think There's a Definite Slant to the Right!"

Inside Washington

By JOHN GOLDSMITH and ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — The current Pentagon budget exercise, called by some participants "the billion dollar drill," could result in an immediate and significant reduction in the size of the armed forces, before the war in Vietnam is concluded.

The "drill" is a part of President Nixon's drive to cut another $3.5 billion from the $78.5 billion defense budget. Each of the military services has been asked by the Bureau of the Budget to say how it would apportion funds if it had to absorb a further billion-dollar slash.

Many of the economies listed by the services will, of course, be vetoed, in the end, when results of the exercise are reviewed under the direction of Secretary Melvin R. Laird. Some of them are expected to be approved however.

With weapons programs already subjected to intensive economy screening, as witness the discarded Cheyenne helicopter and manned orbiting laboratory (MOL), force levels are under close scrutiny now. All the services are taking a look.

The idea is to save money, and each man subtracted from the 3.5 million man strength of troops are withdrawn from the $8,000 to $10,000 a year. Thus, a reduction of only 50,000 men overall could mean a budget saving of up to $500 million.

There was a straw in the wind a week ago when the Army deactivated a brigade of the Ninth Infantry Division and division headquarters, incident to a withdrawal from Vietnam, rather than relocate the units. Some 6,000 men were involved, with savings conservatively estimated at more than $40 million this year.

Some budget experts think there will be more cut-backs of that sort — especially as more troops are withdrawn from the war zone.

AS MANY AS 200,000 — Speculative reports have suggested that as many as 200,000 men could be trimmed from the armed services more or less immediately. That is certainly within the realm of possibility.

President Nixon's long range plans (like those of former President Johnson) have always called for a reduction in armed strength to some 2.5 million men from the Vietnam war. These plans contemplated a phased reduction over a period of several years to the pre Vietnam level.

Accelerated manpower cuts would be popular in Congress too. Defense appropriations originate there, and in the present anti-military climate there would be congressional fringe benefits in any steps which cut the armed services and thereby freed funds for non-military purposes.

Such, pro-Pentagon congressional leaders as Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, have been telling their colleagues that real savings in the Pentagon must come from personnel cuts, rather than haphazard slashes in weapons programs.

REDUCTION IN EUROPE? — Pressures are beginning to build again in Congress for withdrawal of U.S. troops from Europe. Withdrawals of that sort would help to clear the way for reductions in overall troop strength.

A showdown appeared to be in the making, just a year ago, over the presence in Europe of some 600,000 Americans (more than 300,000 troops plus civilians and dependents) as a part of the NATO defense structure. Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., was proposing that funds be denied for U.S. troops in excess of 50,000 after the start of this year.

In the waning months of the Johnson Administration, it appeared that Symington's proposal, or a somewhat milder version, might pass the Senate. A majority of the Senate's 100 members were already on record in support of some reduction in U.S. troop strength in Europe.

Then the Russians led Warsaw pact armies into Czechoslovakia. Symington and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., the prime-mover in the troop reduction drive, decided that it should be deferred for a while.

Mansfield told us last week that he plans to reoffer his resolution calling for substantial troop withdrawal "at an appropriate time." When that time comes, he will have support, not only from the anti-Vietnam Senate doves but also from such pro-Pentagon stalwarts as Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., another long-time advocate of troop withdrawals.

Indications now are that Mansfield will not force the issue for the present but will reoffer the troop-reduction resolution so that it will be ready for action after Congress reconvenes in January.

NOTE: While they would unquestionably ease the way for further overall reduction in armed strength, withdrawals from Europe could not be wholly reflected in a smaller army. One of the rationales for troop withdrawal from the continent is that ready forces in the United States could be quickly returned, if necessary, with the greatly expanded airlift now available.

Inequities In Granting Broadcasting Licenses

By DON OAKLEY Washington Correspondent

Like the weather, everybody complains about the quality of radio and television programming but nobody does anything about it, so says Don Oakley.

The Federal Communications Act of 1934 empowers the Federal Communications Commission to grant, and to renew, three-year broadcasting licenses to station owners upon its determination that "the public interest, convenience and necessity" will be served thereby.

Critics have long charged that the understaffed and under-budgeted FCC is incapable of regulating broadcasting properly and that it has developed the practice of granting license renewals almost automatically.

In recent months, however, a wave of attacks against established broadcast licensees has been mounted by various citizens or investor groups around the country.

In Boston, the FCC has told a television station to surrender its license and turn it over to a group of local citizens. Judge Warren Burger, in his last decision before being appointed chief justice of the United States, ruled in favor of a group of church and civil rights leaders and ordered a Jackson, Miss., television station to vacate its license.

Currently, a television station in New York, one in Washington and another in Los Angeles are also under attack.

Broadcasters, alarmed by the trend, claim that the law, which requires the FCC to consider any and all applicants at the time a license comes up for renewal, faces a station owner with the possibility of being "outpromised" by an individual or group seeking the license. Even if he has an excellent record, he could lose his license if four of the seven commissioners decided somebody else could do a better job.

They raise the specter of a "fast buck" situation where license holders, unsure that their licenses will be renewed, would hesitate to make long-range investments in facilities, programming and public service operations but would try to get a quick return on their money.

Thus they are strongly backing a bill introduced in the U.S. Senate by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., chairman of the communications subcommittee and himself an outspoken critic of network programming.

Pastore's bill would amend the present law to the effect that the FCC, "is acting upon any application for renewal of a broadcast license, may not consider the application of any other person — until and unless it had found that such renewal would not serve the public interest, convenience and necessity."

The bill brings a little stability into the picture. However, it is not too specific about the procedure to be followed by the FCC. It provides that the commission shall make its determination "upon the record and representations of the licensee" but does not say whether it must also consider objections that may be brought by other parties against that record or those representations.

This aspect of the bill should be cleared up during the hearings scheduled to be held after Labor Day. A license renewal should not be "automatic"; on the other hand, the burden of proof should be put upon a complainant contesting the renewal.

Even as things now stand, the revocation of a license is not a simple matter. Both the Boston and Jackson cases are being appealed in the courts and final decisions may take years.

In the meantime, few areas of the country have utilized more than a tiny fraction of the 84 UHF channels opened up by the FCC a few years ago. The competition and diversity promised by that vast enlargement of the broadcasting spectrum have so far failed to materialize.

But setting up a new station is an exceedingly expensive and chancy proposition. One wonders if the present law may not actually be encouraging some would-be broadcasters to try to take over existing stations with built-in audiences rather than start their own from scratch.

Local Representative Pens Letter To Governor Smith

With every layer of government searching for new ways to tax us to balance their respective budgets, it was refreshing to read the recent comments of State Representative Malouf Abraham.

Representative Abraham wrote Governor Preston Smith the following letter:

Governor Preston Smith: I know that you, along with most Texans, are concerned about the tremendous cost of state government. Four years ago our budget for the biennium was about $3.8 billion, and we are now looking at something close to a six billion dollar budget and we this is an increase of well over fifty percent in four years.

It is obvious to all of us in state government that it takes money to provide for the needs of a fast growing state. However, I think it is imperative that we proceed to a more efficient operation of all phases of the state government at the earliest possible moment. Many of our departments and agencies have "grown like Topsy" over the past years. There have been proposals each session for some sort of interim study committee to promote economy in government. These have failed for various and sundry reasons — primarily political.

A couple of years ago California introduced a "Citizens Survey of State Government." About 250 business and management specialists volunteered to conduct a survey on efficiency and cost control, which the governor authorized by executive order. Their services were donated to the state. They made hundreds of recommendations. Those that have been put into effect have saved the state of California millions of dollars through consolidation, efficiency in operations, and other money-saving devices. From my own experience I know that all of the major oil companies have hired efficiency experts to scrutinize their operations and have effected tremendous savings as a result.

I strongly urge that you call for volunteers for such a Governor's Committee to study our operations in Texas. This committee, unhampered by politics, could come back to you with their recommendations prior to the next session of the legislature. These recommendations could be submitted to the 62nd Legislature which should result in substantial savings to the taxpayer. It is obvious to me that our taxpayers are demanding that something like this be done. I feel sure that you would have the support of the vast majority of the legislature and the people of Texas. If there's any way I can be of service, please call on me.

Malouf Abraham Since government is nothing more than a political animal, it will be interesting to see if any economical study can be put in to look over the skeleton. We suggest that possibly Governor Smith just start with a sharp axe.

Chamber Execs Name Manager For New Honor

DEL RIO (Staff) — Jack G. Springer, executive vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, was named "Manager of the Year" at the concluding sessions of the Chamber of Commerce Executive Association of West Texas annual convention here this week. The award is given annually for outstanding service and leadership in chamber of commerce profession.

Pampa Chamber Manager E. O. Wedgworth returned Friday from Del Rio where he has served as moderator for the roster of speakers at the 34th annual workshop conference.

Wedgworth is past president of the association and received the first "Manager of the Year" Award given in 1963.

Officers named for the year were: Fred Tyler, Midland, president; Keith Vaughn, Sweetwater, vice president; Tom Eastland, Big Spring, secretary-treasurer; Don Davis, Weatherford, editor CCEAW News; two-year directors: Ted Weaver, Slaton; Jack Gressett, Abilene; Buddy Byars, Mineral Wells; E. H. Sheffield, Del Rio; Dan Lewis, Denton.

Also elected were one-year directors: Lloyd Gilley, Kermit; Mike Scorcio, Fort Worth; George Jordan, Brownwood and Gene Garrison, Odessa. All officers elected also serve on the board of directors.

Texas' Crime Rate Up In 1966

AUSTIN — The crime rate in Texas for the first six months of 1966 is running 1.7 per cent higher than the comparable period last year, according to a report released today by the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Col. Wilson E. Speir, DPS director, said major crime increased in all categories except murder and homicide, where the statewide rate declined by 8.8 per cent.

The greatest increase was listed in the robbery category, up 31.2 per cent. Aggravated assaults were up by 20.9 per cent, auto theft up 14.8 per cent, burglary up 9.7 per cent, and said rapes were up 7.2 per cent and thefts up 3.9 per cent.

In Texas, the crime clock ticked off one major crime every 1 and one-third minutes for the January through June period. There was one murder every eight hours, a rape every 4 and one-half hours, a robbery every 1 and one-quarter hours, and a burglary every five minutes.

An aggravated assault occurred every 21 and one-half minutes, a theft every 2 and one-third minutes, and an auto theft every 16 minutes.

The greatest increase in crime was in urban areas where the overall rate increased by 8.5 per cent. In rural areas throughout Texas, the average rate increased by less than 1 per cent.

An analysis of crime rate changes in urban areas by population indicates an upswing of almost 9 per cent in cities of over 100,000 population. The rate is up 7.1 per cent in cities of over 50,000, and up 18.8 per cent in cities having populations between 25,000 and 50,000.

Cities having populations between 10,000 and 25,000 had an overall rate increase of 6.9 per cent, while those between 5,000 and 10,000 had a 12.4 per cent decrease. Smaller towns from 2,500 to 5,000 population report an increase of just over 18 per cent.

Statewide crime clearance rates for the first six months held at 27 per cent, the same as 1965. However, DPS statistics indicate an 84 per cent clearance rate for murders and 66 per cent for rapes, with a 39 per cent clearance rate for robbery.

In urban areas, the 1966 crime clearance rate is 26 per cent, the same as last year. Rural clearances stand at 37 per cent, as compared to 43 per cent at mid-year 1965.

Local Youth Named Winner In Essay

Joe Daniel, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Daniel Jr., 1938 Evergreen, was recently announced as one of the three national winners in the twelfth grade division of an English essay contest sponsored by Encyclopedia Britannica.

His essay, "The History of Segregation in the United States," was sponsored by John English, Pampa High School English teacher.

Daniel was awarded a set of encyclopedias and English was given a replica of the original set of Britannica encyclopedias.

Local Church News

United Pentecostal

The United Pentecostal Church, 610 Naida St., will dedicate new church and Sunday school facilities and observe the fifth anniversary service of Rev. and Mrs. H. Veach, Aug. 31 and Sept. 1.

Rev. A. H. Browning, district superintendent of the Texas District of the United Pentecostal Church, will be the special speaker for the night services Sunday and Monday.

Rev. Garvin Tidrick, district Sunday School director, will be master of ceremonies for these two services and special speaker for the Monday afternoon services.

The church has just completed the Sunday school department consisting of the pastor's study, church office, six Sunday school rooms, children's Chapel, nursery and kitchen. The auditorium has also been remodeled.

Everyone is invited to attend the dedication services.

Lefors Church Of Christ

LEFORS (Spl) — The Lefors Church of Christ will be in revival September 8-14, with Charly Tutor as evangelist, according to Pat Burke, minister of the church.

Mr. Tutor was formerly a missionary to Africa and for sometime was minister here in Lefors. Presently he is serving in El Campo, Tex.

Pat Burke came to Lefors in June from Post, Tex., where he served as minister and he and Mrs. Burke taught school.

All are welcomed to attend services at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m.

First Christian Church

Rev. Carlton S. Downing will fill the pulpit for the morning worship hour Sunday. The special music under the direction of Rosemary Lawlor will be a quartet consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Robert LaFon, Mrs. Paul Reimer and Mr. Charles Vance. They will present "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee" as arranged by Steckel.

Due to the Labor Day holidays there will not be any evening activities at the church. Choir Rehearsal for the fall program of the church will resume at 7 p.m. Sept. 3 according to Miss Rosemary Lawlor, director.

The Priscilla Group of the Christian Women's Fellowship will meet at the church at 9:30 a.m. Sept. 2. The Ross Group of the CWF will meet at the church at 9:30 a.m. Sept. 3. Mrs. Vardeman Smith will have in her home the Mary Martha Group at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Free Will Baptist

Rev. L. C. Lynch will be speaking at the 11 a.m. service on the subject "A Day of Rest," Heb. 4:9. Special singing will be by the church trio.

The Cliff Lawson Ozark Gospel Trio from Hutchinson, Kans. will be in the Free Will Baptist Church for a concert at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 2 featuring Ernie Couch, soloist and pianist. The public is invited to attend. There will be no admission charge.

Church Of The Nazarene

Revival services will be conducted all next week, Sept. 17, at the Church of the Nazarene, with evangelist Johnson, Ft. Worth, Tex. Rev. Johnson is the pastor of the Wedgewood Church of the Nazarene in Ft. Worth, as well as doing extensive evangelistic work in the area.

He is a native of Alabama and graduate of Bethany Nazarene College in 1961. He pastored three years at Midwest City, Oklahoma. He is the vice-president of the West Texas Nazarene Young People's Society, carrying several responsibilities in the district youth work.

The services will begin each evening at 7:30. The singing and the choir will be led by the pastor, Rev. Charles M. Spicer.

Sunday is Promotion Day in the Sunday School and the Annual Sunday School Picnic will be held at Central Park noon Sunday.

Jehovah's Witnesses

At 10:00 a.m. Sunday the Pampa congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will hear the discourse "Psalms-A Beautiful Guide to Life" delivered by Mr. Ed Rippley of Amarillo. The public is invited to attend at the Kingdom Hall located, 1701 Coffee.

Immediately following the public talk, at 11:00 a.m. the weekly Watchtower Study will be held. The study lesson is in the Aug. 15 issue and is entitled "God Rewards the Earnest Seekers." The text under consideration is Heb. 11:6.

Included in the discussion are the needs for a happy family life, and the three primary requirements for those seeking God to please Him.

13-Week Summer Session

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of this Sunday's Christian Science Lesson-Sermon. It includes these verses from Philippians: "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus; For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of His good pleasure," Phil. 2:5-13.

Services, which are open to all, will be held at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 901 N. Frost, at 11 a.m.

A passage from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy refers to Christ Jesus: "His purpose in healing was not alone to restore health, but to demonstrate his divine Principle. He was inspired by God, by Truth and Love, in all that he said and did."

Glorieta Assembly Closes

GLORIETA, N.M. — Southern Baptist students from across the nation met at Glorieta Baptist Assembly Aug. 21-27, followed by single adult Baptists Aug. 28-Sept. 1, to end the 13-week summer season at the assembly.

Following the theme "Because We Believe," the 17th annual Baptist student conference featured youth speakers from across the nation. Special workshops in creative worship, creative music, creative drama, creative art and coffeehouse expressions were available on Aug. 22, 23 and 25.

The student conference is sponsored by the student department of the Sunday School Board.

This Century Bahai Faith Begins Spread

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Bahai Faith is a relatively new world religion. In an effort to clarify its basic tenets, The News publishes the following article submitted by a Bahai from the writings of Mrs. Natalie M. DiBuono, the assistant director of public information for the Bahai Faith in the United States.

By NATALIE M. DIBUONO

The Bahai Faith is a new and independent universal religion revolving on the axis of oneness — oneness of God, oneness of religion and oneness of mankind. It is not eclectic, syncretic or a sect of any other religion — nor does it claim to derive its inspiration from the sacred books of other religions. The Bahai teachings are based on justice and reason and on the dignity of man; they revolve around the central theme of the unity and wholeness of humanity.

The writings of Bahauallah, the founder of the faith, are concerned with the sweeping and chaotic changes in contemporary society as it moves into its stage of maturity; they give the individual the means to achieve victory over fear, superstition, prejudice, and uncertainty. Bahauallah teaches man that he was created through love to know and worship God and to express his love for God through service to his fellow men.

The life of the soul, Bahauallah affirms, continues in the next life and endures throughout eternity, progressing ever closer to God. The progress of the soul which has not prepared itself for the next life in this world is dependent on the mercy of God for its advancement in the immortal world. In Bahai belief, this is a workshop in which man must strive to develop those qualities which prepare him for immortality.

Heaven and hell are defined as conditions of the soul: heaven being nearness to God and obedience to His Laws; hell being the opposite — remoteness from God and willful disobedience to Him with resulting frustration and deprivation. Bahais do not believe in the concept of original sin. Sin is deliberate disobedience to the laws of God.

To a Bahai, God is unknowable and undefinable, but His signs are everywhere apparent, and His unity is absolute. Bahauallah makes clear for the first time in religious history the relationship of the Messenger (or Prophet) to God.

He teaches that it is impossible for the Infinite Reality (God) to incarnate His Essence in a finite sense and that the specially prepared and selected one who makes God's way known to man serves as the intermediary necessary to bring the Creator and the created into a meaningful relationship. As Christ said: "No man cometh unto the Father except by me," so each messenger serves as the "connecting link between man and God."

The founder of each revealed religion, such as Buddha, Moses, Zoroaster, Christ, Muhammad etc., taught essentially the same truths regarding man's spiritual development, but gave different social laws according to the advancing needs of mankind.

Bahauallah exhorts his followers to put into practice the principles of love, justice, mercy, courtesy, kindness, cheerfulness, forbearance, divorce, prohibits celibacy and trustworthiness etc.

He forbids the use of alcohol and narcotics; commands marriage and discourages divorce; prohibits slavery and mendacity; enjoins daily prayer and an annual fast, and exalts — to the rank of worship — work performed in the spirit of service. He emphasizes that belief without action is not acceptable to God in this day.

Bahais have their own sacred scriptures, but they accept the spiritual truths taught in revealed religions of the past and accept and revere the messengers who brought them.

There is no paid clergy in the Bahai Faith. In this layman's religion, every person assumes responsibility for teaching and shares in the activities of the community.

Ritual is excluded from Bahai worship, which consists of prayers, meditations, readings from the sacred Scriptures of the Bahai Faith and the holy books of all religions and must. Bahai worship does not end here, however; it must be expressed in a daily life.

For further information on the Bahai faith, write to: National Bahai Public Information Department, 112 Linden Ave., Wilmette, Ill., 60091.

Catholic Schools Fight For Survival

CURT WALLIS

Wallis Accepts El Paso Church Education Job

Curt Wallis, minister of education at Central Baptist Church, has accepted the position of minister of education at First Baptist Church, El Paso.

Wallis has been at the Pampa church for two years working with T.O. Upshaw, pastor.

In his new position he will be working with Gene Garrison pastor of the El Paso Church.

Garrison was pastor of First Baptist Church, Altus, Okla., of which Wallis was a member when he first entered vocational Christian service.

The Wallis family includes his wife, Peggy, and two children, Karen, 17, and Mike, 13. Mrs. Wallis has served as coordinator for pre-school children at the local church.

Selection of Wallis came as the result of a recommendation of the church's personnel committee and the board of deacons, followed by a vote of the church membership.

Wallis accepted the new position earlier in the month of active Sept. 1. He will leave following the evening service Sunday.

United Press International Catholic parochial schools, caught in a financial bind and fighting for survival, will enroll fewer students this fall than at any time in recent years.

The National Catholic Education Association estimates total enrollment in more than 12,000 Catholic elementary and high schools will drop below 4,900,000. Some Catholic educators would not be surprised to see it go as low as 4,700,000.

This compares with 5,633,000 in the past school year, and 5,255,000 in the 1967-68 term.

In nearly every diocese, there will be fewer Catholic schools in operation. Church officials say at least 200, perhaps as many as 400, schools have been closed or merged with other schools since June.

In the past, the low-cost labor of teaching nuns enabled Catholic schools to operate with modest tuition charges. But in recent years, there has been a sharp drop-off in the number of nuns available for teaching duty. As a result, Catholic schools have had to hire more and more lay teachers. Last year, for the first time, lay teachers outnumbered nuns in Catholic schools.

Since lay teachers cost four to six times as much as nuns, staffing charges have soared. And attempts to raise tuition have run into strong resistance from Catholic parents.

In the archdiocese of New York, for example, cash operating costs increased from $55 per pupil in 1958 to $156 pupil in 1968 and are expected to rise to $379 per pupil in 1972.

By that time, the New York parochial schools will be running $30 million a year in the red.

Catholic leaders say there is no hope of bailing out the parochial school system solely through higher tuition payments.

"Unless the federal government and the state governments come forward with more aid, we cannot survive," says Msgr. James C. Donohue, education director of the U.S. Catholic Conference.

He warns that withholding public aid "will spell not only the end of the private school system as we know it, but also financial chaos in the public schools as well."

If all of the 49 million parochial students were dumped on public schools, he says, it would add billions of dollars annually to their cost of operation.

This year, Catholics waged major campaigns for state aid in the legislatures of 26 states. They argued that parochial schools are performing a public purpose by providing secular education to children who otherwise have to be taught in public schools.

Their bid for tax funds was strongly resisted in most states by those who regard any public assistance to religious schools as a violation of the Constitution's guarantee of church-state separation.

The battle is sure to be joined again as soon as state legislatures reconvene next year.

SPRINGFIELD, MO. (UPI) — Approximately 70 candidates for foreign service have been commissioned by the Assemblies of God School of Missions after completing intensive training in missions methods, relationships and goals.

Within a year the candidates expect to be in the countries to which they are assigned. They will join 969 missionaries of the denomination already under appointment in 82 countries of the world.

REV. SAM GODWIN

Sam Godwin Appointed To Local Church

Rev. Sam Godwin, formerly of Dumas, has been appointed pastor of Foursquare Gospel Church, 712 Lefors, by Rev. J. Craig Biggs, South-central director for the Foursquare Gospel Church.

Godwin has spent over 25 years in part-time and full-time ministry.

Godwin, his wife and two of their children still living at home, Carol and Dennis, are all active in church work.

Mrs. Godwin works with her husband and holds revivals in other churches.

Carol will leave the first part of September for Monterrey, Mexico, where she will work as a missionary assistant. She has also been dean of girls at a Christian high school in Oregon.

Dennis, who will be a senior at Pampa High School, is preparing to enter the ministry.

Wives Of Ministers Have Hard Vocation

By United Press International There must be a special place in heaven, somewhere between the saints and the cherubim, for the wives of clergymen.

They have one of the most difficult of all human vocations. Because most of them accept the hardships of their role with quiet fortitude, few people realize how much they have to put up with. Even their own husbands sometimes fail to comprehend the heroic measure of patience and dedication required of a minister's wife.

Some of their trials are fairly obvious, even to a layman.

One is a chronic lack of money. Ministers are the lowest-paid professional group in America, and surveys of their financial status reveal that a large majority are constantly in debt. The husband may worry about this, but it's the wife who has to scrimp on the household budget and make do with last year's dress.

Another cross—the one which many clergy wives find hardest to bear—is the fact that a pastor's time is not his own. He can rarely plan an evening at home without having it interrupted by a call from someone in trouble or a meeting which he has to attend. "I never see him" is the classic complaint of the clergy wife, and in some cases it's not much of an exaggeration.

A congregation also marks demands—sometimes quite unreasonable and thoughtless demands—on the time of the minister's wife herself. She is expected to show up at all major church functions and at many minor ones involving women, no matter how inconve-

It takes an insider to identify other hardships which may befall the woman who marries a minister.

It takes vision and courage to create — it takes faith and courage to prove.

—Owen D. Young, American businessman.

God asks no man whether he will accept life; that is not the choice. You must take it. The only choice is how.

—Henry Ward Beecher, American clergyman.

Top O' Texas Golf Tourney Starts Saturday

By RON CROSS
Sports Editor

The 32nd annual Top O' Texas golf tournament, which will feature a new champion, among other things, begins its three-day run Saturday over well-groomed Pampa Country Club course.

Host pro Hart Warren and assistant Martin Reeves will welcome 206 top amateur golfers from four states, Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Colorado.

The amateurs will begin teeing off at 7:30 a.m. Saturday with 10th flight golfers going first and the championship flight last. The same tee off time holds for Sunday and Monday's tee time is 8 a.m. with the championship flight going first on its initial jog of 36 holes.

Defending champion John Farquhar will not be back to defend the title he won last year. Farquhar is playing in the National Amateur tournament in Oakmont, Pa., and is one of the contenders for national honors.

Although he will have more pressure on him than ever before, former Pampa Harvester golfer, now playing out of Texas A&M, Richard Ellis has been established as the favorite.

Ellis, who is expected to be one of the top collegiate golfers in the country next season, has won three individual tournaments this summer and teamed with another Pampa and pre-tournament favorite, Buster Carter to win the Amarillo Partnership tournament.

PAMPA DAILY NEWS 11

Despite all the pressure Ellis has several things going for him including the great golf he has played this summer; he is a birdie golfer and he is very familiar with Pampa Country

Club's 6,010 yards and hilly greens.

But of the 42 golfers in the championship flight several have a chance to upset Ellis.

One golfer who is receiving a lot of mention is Benny Castloo of Mineola. Castloo brings a plus two handicap into the tournament and this means he's a good golfer.

Also on hand are Carter, Steve LeCone of Amarillo, a former winner of the tournament; Marvin Dick, also of Amarillo; Pampan Max Hickey and David Parker and Jerry Hrciar of Shamrock.

All are capable of beating PCC's 35-36-71 par layout. The championship flight will be cut to the low 20 players and ties after 36 holes and the first flight, which is 54 holes of medal play, will be cut to the low 15 golfers and ties after 36 holes.

Flights two through 10 will play 18 holes of match play Saturday and Sunday and 18 holes medal play Monday.

Oklahoma will have three of its better players in the tournament in Jimmy Deaton and Jim Young from the Oklahoma State University golf team and Tulsan Ladd Larson.

BOOK UNVEILED
NEW YORK (UPI)—The Baseball Encyclopedia, a 2,300-page book which includes the records of every player who's seen action since 1876, was unveiled Thursday at a press preview. Bowie Kuhn, the commissioner of baseball, was the guest of honor.

The book, to be published Sept. 10 by the MacMillan Co. and Information Concepts, Inc., is a completely new work which has been researched the past two years and contains information, particularly about records before 1920, which has never been compiled.

Cowboys Bounce Oilers 14-11

HOUSTON (UPI)—Coach Tom Landry got mean at halftime and his Dallas Cowboys got mean in the third quarter—mean enough to beat the Houston Oilers 14-11 Thursday and win the unofficial Texas pro football championship.

The first annual Governor's Cup, symbolic of the championship, was presented to Cowboy owner Clint Murchison by Gov.

Preston Smith in the skybox near the rafters of the Astrodome.

"We got a little bit sore at halftime and they came out hitting pretty well," Landry said, soft-pedaling his halftime talk. "The talk that I gave them must have helped. In the third quarter, we moved the ball real well."

Dallas trailed 3-0 at halftime, making only 97 yards and never crossing the Oiler's 40-yard line before intermission. Then the Cowboys rolled 173 yards in the third period, to score one touchdown and were in the midst of their second drive when the period ended.

Quarterback Craig Morton hit Lance Rentzel on a 34-yard scoring pass for the Cowboys' first touchdown and then passed 34 yards to Bob Hayes to the three-yard line to set up the second touchdown.

The pass to Hayes came on the opening play of the fourth quarter. Rookie Calvin Hill of Yale scored on the next play, Mike Clark kicked both conversions.

Don Trull, who replaced an inept Pete Beathard at quarterback for the Oilers in the last quarter, passed three yards to Jim Beirne for Houston's only touchdown. It came with 1:34 left in the game. Trull then tossed to Hoyle Granger for a two-point conversion.

Roy Gerela kicked a 30-yard field goal for Houston's first half points.

Phil Clark, who intercepted the Pete Beathard pass, got the game ball for the Cowboys. Pettis Norman, the veteran tight end, got stuck with a 100 fine, which is automatic for an ejection.

Norman was kicked out for fighting with Oiler defensive back Ken Houston in the fourth quarter.

"It cost me $100 and I didn't even get a lick in," Norman said. "I went in to break up the fight. After the game, we went looking for each other and shook hands."

Farquhar Four Back Of Leader In National

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI)—They played giveaway at the U.S. amateur golf championship Thursday and there were no takers.

Husky Steve Melnyk, the leader, stumbled around the final holes into the second round of the tournament but the only man who played well enough to take advantage was too far behind to challenge.

Melnyk of Brunswick, Ga., scored a 2-over-par 73 Thursday for a 143 total while Allen Miller, whose 69 was the best round of the tournament, was at 146.

Bruce Ashworth of Las Vegas, Vinny Giles of Lynchburg, Va. and John Farquhar of Amarillo, Tex., all were at 147 after 36 holes with Jim Masserio of Duquesne Pa.; Jim Rheim, La Jolla, Calif., and Rian McNally, Pleasanton, Calif., at 148.

Among the notables who missed the cut at 156—highest since the tournament went to stroke play in 1965—were defending champion Bruce Fleisher of Hialeah, Fla., and colorful Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C.

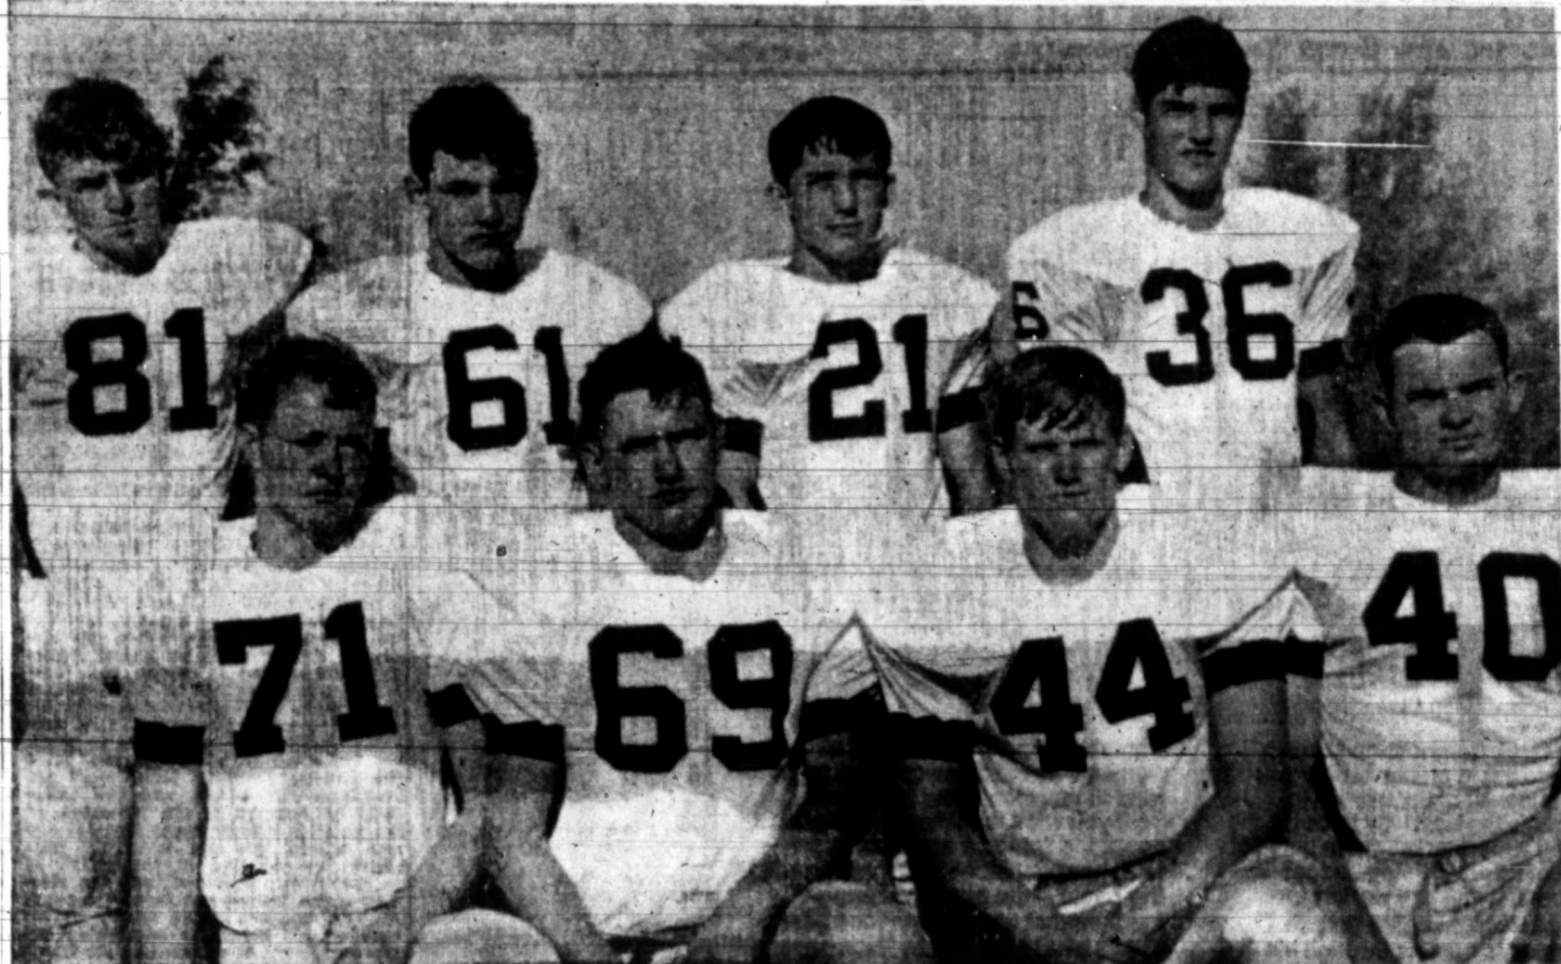

Fleisher added an 81 to his opening 78 for a 159 total, then left quickly. He said he has not felt well ever since a bout with mononucleosis in the spring.

Longhorns To Test Astroturf In Drills

By United Press International
The Texas Longhorns get their first taste of Astroturf today when the defending Southwest Conference co-champions report for the first session of practice for the 1963 season.

Arkansas, the team that shared the SWC title with Texas last year, also stages its first conditioning workouts today as do the Aggies of Texas A&M, the 1967 champs.

Southern Methodist, Texas Christian, Rice, Texas Tech and Baylor got a slight headstart on their fall workouts.

The Longhorns, who will be playing and practicing on artificial grass for the first time this season, received a bit of bad news even before it was time to report for duty. Deryl Comer, Texas' highly touted tight end, has not sufficiently recovered from an off-season knee operation and was not supposed to be in uniform today.

"He just can't start now," said Texas coach Darrell Royal. "We'll just have to wait and see."

Royal said Comer is a long way from hitting the stride he was at when he was injured by a teammate in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1.

Randy Peschel is the likeliest candidate to move into Comer's spot at tight end with sophomore Tommy Woodard as the backup man.

Royal, who is also the athletic director at Texas, ordered the artificial turf installed at Memorial Stadium and on the team's practice field across the street and over a creek from the stadium. Memorial Stadium also is due for another

WT Football Drills Open On Monday

West Texas State University's Buffaloes, hoping to continue the tremendous success they have enjoyed for the past three seasons, report to the campus this weekend and start two-day football drills Monday.

The Buffs, under head coach Joe Kerbel, have won 23 games and lost eight during the past three years and that mark is 13th best nationally among NCAA major universities.

The players will parade in front of cameras Saturday afternoon at Buffalo Bowl during the annual press day. Coach Kerbel and his staff will replace the news media as the players' instructors Monday as the squad begins making ready for the season opener Sept. 20 against Northern Arizona in Buffalo Bowl.

With 21 lettermen returning from last year's 8-2 team the Buffs have a fine nucleus.

Joining that group are 11 squadmen, 14 freshmen lettermen and nine junior college transfers.

SIGNS CONTRACT
ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Noel Picard, a 30-year-old defenseman for the St. Louis Blues signed his contract Thursday for the 1963-64 season of the National Hockey League.

Picard collected five goals and 19 assists last season while the Blues won the Western Division title in the NHL.

Dove, Teal Season To Open Monday

The fall hunting season will start Monday with the opening of the rail, gallinule and mourning dove seasons, to be following in a few days by whitewing dove and teal.

The rifle hunter has not been left out altogether. Two hundred deer hunters who drew out to hunt in Arkansas National Wildlife Refuge will begin searching for trophy antlers shortly after 1 p.m. Monday.

Starting Monday, rail and gallinule hunters can begin one-half hour before sunrise and continue through sunset. Bag limit on the king and clapper rails will be 15 per day and 30 in the aggregate.

Sora and Virginia rail baglimit is 25 per day and 50 in the aggregate.

Mourning dove hunters must wait until noon Monday in the North Zone. The bag limit is 10 per day and 20 in possession. South Zone mourning dove hunting will begin on September 20.

COUNT FEWER FARMS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The 1969 agricultural census probably will show there are fewer farms in the United States than at any time in nearly a century, according to the Census Bureau. It said Wednesday the census, to be conducted in January, will count fewer than 3 million farms, compared with 3.2 million in 1964. That year, the average farm was 352 acres, compared with the 1935 average of 155 acres.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—It will take a great deal of time to repair the technical damage done to the market this summer, says McDonnell & Co. But provided no further stringencies are imposed on money and credit, "September seems likely to bring considerable improvement in the market's tone and buoyancy," the firm predicts. The odds are slightly in favor of a rally over the next couple

The prognosis for corporate profits is unfavorable but the markdown in stock prices has gone a considerable distance toward discounting this prospect, according to the Wiesinger Investment Report. "Barring unexpectedly adverse developments in the credit area, prevailing valuations and the market's performance suggest the popular stock averages are in the early stages of bottoming." The market climate is now such that "it is reasonable to expect individual stocks to reflect their respective merits," the firm observed.

James Dines & Co. noted that a number of factors are pointing to short-term improvement, but that the majority of technical indicators still are negative. It still is too early to determine whether the current rally "is only a belated summer rally or the start of a brand-new and huge bull market," the firm said, adding that a real selling climax, "instead of the mini-climax we had," would inspire more confidence in the prospect of a coming bull market.

If you want to make supermarket news, you need Newspaperability

Women shop for food. In fact, they shop for it twice. First in the newspaper and then in the market. A recent survey found that most women check the food ads before they go shopping. If you sell groceries, you need newspapers. Everybody eats. More money is spent on groceries than on any other single retail item. Each year, Americans spend over $66 billion on food. Competition is keen, so if you want to get in on the action, you must reach almost all of the women in your area. What's the best way to do it? Well, a leading supermarket chain puts 85 to 90 percent of its advertising budget into newspapers. It must be working. Seven out of ten women agree that "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach." And 74 percent of all women who read newspapers regularly read the women's and food pages. So if you want to make supermarket news, the way to a woman's heart (and her pocketbook) is through ads in the paper—the one advertising medium that almost everyone sees. That's what we mean by Newspaperability.
