UNITED FUND officials have selected Brenda Duncan, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Duncan, 2322 Duncan, as Miss United Fund of 1969. The Pampa High School senior is a cheerleader and a member of the National Honor Society. She was first runner-up in the recent Miss Top O' Texas Beauty Pageant. The Pampa UF campaign with a goal of $87,200 is readying for a "blast off."

Smith Criticizes Solons For 'Patchwork Financing'

State Short On Funds For New Biennium

AUSTIN (UPI) — The state of Texas begins a new fiscal biennium Monday with only enough money in the checking account to finance state government for two months.

Gov. Preston Smith Saturday signed an emergency 60-day budget but criticized legislators severely for "patchwork financing."

Smith said he had no choice because if he vetoed the bill "Texas would be without funds to operate past midnight Sunday."

"Because of my signature on the bill, agencies can keep operating until the Legislature fulfills its constitutional responsibility," Smith said.

The governor called the situation "the most serious fiscal crisis which has ever faced Texas. He urged continuous sessions of the Senate and House to keep the heat on legislators to break their deadlock over taxes to finance a full two-year budget."

Smith tried unsuccessfully to keep the Legislature from taking a three-day break for the Labor Day holiday.

Passage of the 60-day budget was designed to avert a crisis at the start of the new fiscal year, but it also released the pressure to reach a quick agreement.

Some lawmakers talked of continuing in Austin "until Christmas," or "until next July." The Legislature could continue temporary budgets until revenue from existing sources runs out more than a year from now.

Agreement on taxes appears as far away as it was 34 days ago when the Legislature first began trying to levy some $350 million in new taxes to balance a full two-year budget of almost $6 billion.

The heart of the disagreement is whether business or consumers should bear most of the new tax burden. But that issue (See FUNDS, Page 2)

President Will Make 'Pitch' For New Program

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon plans to make a sales pitch for his "new federalism" program Monday when he addresses the National Governors Conference at Colorado Springs, Colo.

And the Western White House expects Nixon's policy of shifting Washington power and responsibility back to the states will have a lot of appeal with the governors, particularly his plan for revenue sharing with the states. The plan, if approved by Congress, would get off to a slow start in 1971 with a federal income tax rebate of a modest $500,000 to the states and cities, building up to $5 billion by 1975.

Administration officials said the proposals which include a revolutionary plan for poor family income assistance, day care center and job training already have received widespread popular support.

On his Labor Day trip to Colorado, Nixon also will tour the North American Air Defense (NORAD) command headquarters tunneled in Cheyenne mountain about 10 miles from Colorado Springs. He will be given a top secret military briefing.

Nixon summoned his cabinet to a meeting Thursday and planned a social evening for them and their wives at his new Spanish tiled-villa.

On his flight homeward Sept. 8, the President will meet with Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz for a joint dedication of the $78 million Amistad Dam on the Del Rio, Tex.-Acuna, Mex. border.

The President faced a major decision on continuing the American troop pullout from Vietnam when he gets back to Washington.

A rebellion also in the making at the Justice Department by Civil Rights Division lawyers who protest the administration's go-slow policies on school desegregation. So far the White House has steered clear of any comment on the revolt.

In three separate actions today, Nixon declared Illinois and Vermont major disaster areas and allotted Ohio another $1 million in federal assistance.

All three states were hit by severe rains and flooding. He granted Illinois an initial $500,000 and Vermont $200,000 in federal aid.

MEMBERS OF the Pampa Antique Car Club are preparing to "crank up and head for old Mobeetie" to be a featured attraction in the Labor Day parade of the annual Old Settlers' Reunion. This year's celebration will be centered around the 90th anniversary of Wheeler County. Entertainment will include Indian dances, songs, music, costume displays and a free barbecue at noon for

JET HIJACKED TO DAMASCUS

LA Teacher Credited In Traveler's Release

DAMASCUS (UPI)—A group of Americans led by a Los Angeles woman schoolteacher Saturday forced Syrian authorities to agree to release all passengers aboard a hijacked Trans World Airlines plane including six Israelis.

An Alitalia plane was dispatched to the Syrian capital to pick them up.

Earlier, Syrian officials had said all but the Israeli women and two men aboard the Boeing 707 hijacked Friday while on a flight between Rome and Athens would be free to go. There were 113 persons on the plane, including 12 crewmen.

There was no word on the two hijackers, two Arab commandos. One was a woman identified as Shadia Abou Ghazala, a Yemeni, and the other a man identified only as an Algerian. They were hustled from the airport by Syrian Security police.

"All of you, including the Israelis will leave within the hour," a Syrian official told the passengers, many of whom had spent the night at Damascus University dormitories.

The Alitalia plane had to be flown in because the hijacked plane was damaged by an explosive charge apparently set by the hijackers before they left the plane. It extensively damaged the cockpit and front section, but, according to Syrian authorities, caused no injuries.

Finne Perry, who said she teaches chemistry and physics in Los Angeles, led a group of American passengers who told the Syrians they would not be separated from the four Israeli women among the passengers.

Miss Perry said she would go with the Israeli women "wherever that may be."

The Syrians had separated the four from the rest of the passengers for a while but later allowed them to rejoin the others. In the presence of other passengers, the Americans were assured that all the

Jaycees Launch Plea For 'Space Prayer'

Milton Saltzman, director of Individual and spiritual development committee for the Pampa Jaycees has appointed Gene Schneider as chairman of a campaign to counteract activities of atheists in their attempts to prohibit astronauts from praying while on space flights.

The campaign, "Space Prayer" was adopted by the local Jaycee Club after state president Eddie Dyer appeared recently on television requesting a statewide effort be conducted.

According to Schneider, the Jaycees' plan of action is to provide individuals with mimeographed letters with a space for a signature and address. The local goal is $3,000 with the state goal set at $60,000.

Community civic leaders and clubs will be asked to sign letters and the Pampa Council of Churches will also be asked to participate in the project.

The letters will be taken to the Jaycee's state office at Grand Prairie and then trucked to NASA headquarters in Washington.

Pampa Lawns, Alleys Win Beauty Awards

Eleven Pampa homes were designated as having the "most beautiful lawns" in town following a three-hour judging tour Saturday by members of the Pampa Garden Club headed by Mrs. Thelma Bray, chairman.

Mrs. Bray said there were so many lovely yards, it was difficult to make a decision.

"And," she added, "we saw so many pretty ones that were not nominated. We hope next year they will be."

Winning "the most beautiful lawn" award was based upon general appearance and appeal, overall design, color of foliage, originality and self-maintenance.

Three winners: first, second and third were named from each of Pampa's four wards with the exception of Ward Four, where there were not enough entries.

Winning first place in Ward One was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Curry, 1126 Charles; second place, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Tripplehorn, 1616 Charles; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy McCune, 811 N. Frost third.

In Ward Two, winners were Mr. and Mrs. E.P. Maglaughlin, 2547 Duncan first; Mr. and Mrs. Art Ahergut, 2329 Aspen; Mr. and Mrs. Billy B. Davis, 2536 Duncan, third.

In Ward Three, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Herr, 429 Phits first; Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Keeton, second; Mrs. Ola Nabors, 820 Campbell, third.

Ward Four winners were Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Gibby, 858 S. Sumner, first and Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Williams, 1016 S. Dwight, second.

Judging the "cleanest alley in town" was completed late Friday by Mayor Milo Carlson, City Councilmen George Cree and Clyde Garuth, Director of Public Works Jiggs Cooke and

Travelers Jam Nation's Highways

By United Press International

Holiday travelers jammed the nation's highways in record numbers Saturday, off for a final summer fling during the Labor Day weekend.

The National Safety Council estimated in advance of the long holiday weekend that from 625 to 725 persons would die in traffic accidents. A comparable non-holiday period would claim 500 traffic victims.

The council estimated that the nation's 100 million motor vehicles would log a record 10 billion miles during the three-day weekend which began at 6 p.m. local time Friday and ends at midnight Monday.

The record for a Labor Day weekend was set last year when 688 persons were killed in traffic accidents. The worst total for a summer holiday occurred over the 1967 July Fourth four-day weekend when 732 persons were killed.

Nixon Accused Of 'Failing To Act'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Several Republican congressmen who made a tour of college campuses last year have accused the Nixon administration of failing to act on warnings there may be more trouble on the nation's campuses this school year.

The congressmen feel the only response they got to their recommendations was administrative backing to beat down repressive legislation and a statement in favor of lowering the voting age to 18.

Much of the dissatisfaction among these lawmakers centers on the department of Health, Education and Welfare and on Bud Wilkinson, President Nixon's special consultant on youth affairs.

Rep. William E. Brock, R-Tenn., who led the task force that visited the campuses and made the recommendations, said through a spokesman that he was disappointed with the response from the secondary levels of the administration.

While I throughout am very pleased with the President's reaction to the report, I can't say the same about the reaction of some of the cabinet and sub-cabinet officials who could by now have acted on some of the major proposals and have not," Brock said.

Rep. Donald J. Riegle Jr., R-Mich., one of the five unit heads of the 22-man task force, said through a spokesman, "You can be sure that the congressmen who have been

Treatment Of POWs Concerns U.S. Allies

PARIS (UPI)—The allied delegations to the Vietnam peace talks in Paris have become increasingly concerned over Hanoi's hardened position on the American prisoners of war question, an allied official said Saturday.

The North Vietnamese have refused a request by chief U.S. negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge to supply names of the Americans held in North Vietnam and to allow an impartial inspection of POW camps, the free flow of mail and the release of sick and wounded prisoners.

At Thursday's 32nd session Lodge made a formal request and received a reply in rebuttal session.

The North Vietnamese said "the question of American servicemen captured will be settled with the 10-point over-solution" presented by the Viet Cong.

An American spokesman termed this stand "outrageous and rather extraordinary," adding that the Communists were in essence "presenting us with a series of things that would add up to recapitulation of the Vietnam on our side" in order to have the prisoner request fulfilled. A South Vietnamese spokesman said the North Vietnamese had hardened their position on war question, an allied official determined why. He said the Communists "knew" well that the question of prisoners is a very sensitive question.

At the last meeting of the two sides Xuan Thuy, the chief North Vietnamese negotiator, recited a list of moves the Americans must make before the prisoner question would be discussed.

Saying the North Vietnamese treated the prisoners "according to a humanitarian policy," he demanded:

An end to reconnaissance flights over all the territory of North Vietnam.

Judge's Ruling Due Next Week

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (UPI)—President Judge Bernard C. Brominski of the Luzerne County Court will hand down a ruling next week on a Massachusetts request for an autopsy on the body of Mary Jo Kopechne, killed in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car.

"I'm working on it right now and I'll work through the Labor Day weekend," the judge said Saturday. "I expect I will announce my decision next Tuesday or Wednesday."

Judge Brominski said his decision would be on whether he was the authority or jurisdiction to order exhumation and autopsy of the girl's body, as requested by Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis, of New Bedford, Mass.

Asked to which court Dinis might appeal if Brominski held that he lacked jurisdiction, he replied:

"That's Mr. Dinis' problem. I'm not being facetious when I say I don't know. My problem is a ruling on the motion."

ASG Presidents Meet Slated In September

WASHINGTON (Staff) — The first annual "Presidents to Presidents" Conference, sponsored by the Association of Student Governments, (ASG) will be held Sept. 19 through 21 at the Sheraton Park Hotel in Washington. It was announced today by ASG President David Harmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley S. Harmon, south of Pampa.

More than 700 campus leaders, student body presidents and their college and university presidents representing over 350 schools, are expected to attend.

Highlighting the conference will be addresses by Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare—Robert Finch, Gen. Lewis Hershey, director of the Selective Service, and a panel on the role of the college president which includes Dr. Morris B. Abram of Brandeis and Dr. John Howard of Rock of College.

Harmon said others which have also accepted to participate are: Walter Davis,

Ag Dept. To Have Series of Talks With Farmers

Panhandle Congressman Bob Price announced today the Department of Agriculture is going to hold the fifth in its series of "listening conferences" Sept. 18, at Texas A and M University in the Coliseum at College Station. The Texas representative said Dr. Clifford Hardin, secretary of agriculture, will represent the Nixon Administration at the conference. The secretary will be accompanied by senior members of his staff as well as several members of the House Agriculture Committee.

Price stated "the listening conference" is being held for the purpose of giving the Department of Agriculture and interested members of Congress the opportunity to hear first hand about farm problems and solutions for farm problems from farmers and farm organizations.

Price urged farmers, farm organizations and agri-business men interested in participating "listening conference" to contact Dr. Harry O. Kunkle, dean of the college of agriculture at Texas A and M.

Funds ... (Continued From Page 1) has now been clouded by others, including budget cutting schemes and the question of taxing alcoholic beverages.

The house consistently has proposed to get most of the new revenue from sales and cigarette taxes. In general the senate has rejected that approach and tried to shift more of the burden to business taxes.

The frantic negotiations of the past two weeks narrowed the division on that question of "balance" but opened a new breach over alcoholic beverages.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes says a majority of the senate will accept no tax bill unless it levies a sales tax on beer and liquor. The house is just as adamant against such a tax.

Speaker Gus F. Mutscher says Barnes is using the issue as a "smokescreen" to hide senators' inability to agree among themselves on a tax package.

Barnes and the senators contend Mutscher and the beer lobby, with which he has close ties, have caused the deadlock out of a selfish desire to protect beer from taxation.

In attempt to demonstrate the more liberal spending tendencies of the senate, the house passed a budget-cutting plan that would have required no new taxes at all.

The senate answered that with a mass of testimony about the disastrous effects such a plan would have on education, and nearly every other facet of state government, thus embarrassing many of the house members who voted for it.

director of the Department of Education from the AFL-CIO; Dr. James Allen, Jr., commissioner of Education; Chairman Edith Green of the House Special Subcommittee on Education; and Fred Hechinger of the New York Times.

"One important aspect of the conference," Harmon said, "will be late evening discussion groups. Designed to facilitate and interchange between delegates, they will cover a wide range of topics including governing boards, minority studies, codes of conduct and admissions and scholarship policies."

The ASG is a non-profit non-political educational organization which represents over 300 colleges and universities through its respective student government organizations.

In recent testimony before the Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee, Ned Callan, acting president, stated the ASG "Stands for universities where all questions are open to inquiry, deliberation and debate."

After eight months of planning, the ASG has created this conference to put words into action.

Nixon ... (Continued From Page 1) working on this issue and the campus report will be getting together early in September to press for more direct acknowledgment and initiative from the administration on this subject.

Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Wis., another unit head, said: "I'm dissatisfied with the response thus far from the administration insofar as the recommendations of the task force is concerned."

"I am very pleased by the strong position taken by the administration in opposition to the repressive legislation. My concern is on other recommendations which require actions by the administration."

The primary recommendation which the congressmen had strong feelings about was one to establish a presidential commission on higher education.

Wilkinson may have reflected the administration viewpoint on this particular recommendation when he said in a recent UPI interview about progress on some of the youth programs branched out in HEW, Labor, Justice and the White House: "They're never going to package neatly. You can't bring them under one picture."

There were reports many of the congressmen don't feel Wilkinson is attuned to the problem and they are not bappy with him.

Pampa Jaycees To Offer Rest Stop or Travelers

The Pampa Jaycees will sponsor a "Rest Stop" Monday for tourists and motorists to have a proper place to rest as they are traveling, according to Jerry Rogers project chairman.

Rogers said the stop, which will be open from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. will offer people free refreshments. They will be provided by the Jaycees and local business.

Pop, coffee, cookies, doughnuts and candy for the children are a few of the items which will be offered.

The 1000 block South between Frederick and Campbell was the cleanest in Ward Three. The 1000 block South between Nelson and Sumner won honors for Ward Four.

Fatheree said a representative from the alley-winning blocks will be presented parchment, suitable for framing, at the first Chamber of Commerce Membership Luncheon in September.

Winners of the Lawn Award will also be honored at the luncheon.

In closing out the contest, Fatheree expressed appreciation for the time people took to make nominations and for the time and energy Pampans spend making their homes and lawns "showplaces" in Pampa.

"Atheists have overstepped their bounds by making the request that American citizens have to be told where and when they can pray," Schneider said. "They almost singlehandedly removed prayer from our public schools. It is imperative that we do not let this happen again."

Schneider said the project has been organized following a recent deluge of letters to NASA officials sparked by atheists after the recent Apollo 11 moon landing. He pointed out as of this date NASA has received approximately 29,000 letters opposing prayer in space.

"The Jaycees do not wish to tell any one American when and where he can pray, but hope he may be able to choose for himself," the chairman said.

200,000 Persons Mass To Hear Bob Dylan Sing

WOODSIDE BAY, Isle of Wright (UPI)—A youthful crowd of nearly 200,000 persons is expected to mass on this English Channel island Sunday to watch American singing star Bob Dylan appear in a pop music festival that is facing financial disaster because of thousands of gate-crashers.

The music fans began pouring onto the island Friday night for the weekend show and by Saturday about 100,000 had gathered to watch performers by several pop groups from Europe and the United States.

The crowd was expected to double to about 200,000 by Sunday.

The tremendous influx caused a massive traffic jam but no other serious problems. The fans arrived on the island by ferriesboats and light aircraft and then either walked or took ground transportation to the festival site overlooking Woodside Bay.

Many youths carrying bedrolls and rucksacks on their backs pitched tents on a 60-acre site provided for camping. In one section of the tent city, girls—some wearing topless dresses—were sharing space with long-haired boys. Thousands were living in boats or house trailers. In the nearby town of Ryde, hotels and guest houses were booked solid.

Small groups wolfed food from tin cans packed for the trip and others munched food purchased at flourishing local establishments.

The youths fit candles, and sang and danced well into the night Friday. They touched off sticks of incense and clapped hands and banged Indian cowbells.

There were almost no incidents reported. "Everything is running smoothly," indeed, said one police spokesman. Another said mild behavior of the crowd "was absolutely incredible."

Press reports said drug-taking had become a problem but detectives battling with the crowd denied it. The island's 130-man police force has been put on alert as a precautionary measure.

Indictments Returned By Grand Jury

Six indictments were returned by a grand jury in 31st district Court Friday afternoon.

Dates for hearing will be set later, according to District Attorney Guy Hardin.

Claude James Williams of Pampa was indicted on a charge of theft of small tools from Cabot Corp. Bond was set at $50.

James Richard Cienfuegos of Lefors was charged with failure to stop and render aid following a two-car collision in mid-August. Bond was set at $1,000.

Lee Kenyon Stone of Pampa, charged with driving while intoxicated, had bond set at $1,000.

Lawrence Scott of Burnett was indicted for theft of a saddle in Wheeler County.

Gerald Dean Stuart of Shamrock was indicted on a second offense of driving while intoxicated. Bond was set for $1,000.

Cabot Victorious Over Jaycees In Softball Game

Cabot softballers overcame an early Pampa Jaycee lead to take a 4-3 victory in a donkey softball game sponsored by the Jaycees here last week. The game was held at Optimist Club Park.

The Jaycees scored first in the second but Cabot came back with three runs in the bottom of the third inning. Jaycees scored single runs in the fourth and fifth innings setting the stage for the rally which produced the winning run for Cabot in the last of the fifth inning. Donkey softball games last only five innings.

In keeping with the tradition that the chairman of the project gets the wildest donkey, Emmett Saltzman, Jaycee chairman, was stepped on three times in the process of scoring the tying run and suffered a broken toe.

A crowd of about 150 roared their approval as members of both teams were bucked off the donkeys and chased them down. Norman Fritzer acted as announcer.

Housewives Upset Over Beef Prices; To Raise Own Beef

RED OAK, Iowa (UPI)—Two housewives who think meat at counter prices is too high will get a chance to raise their own beef.

Eddie Collins said Saturday he plans to ship a live calf to both Mrs. Mickey De Lorenzo of LeVittown, N.Y., and Mrs. Jan Stophlett of Melbourne Beach, Fla.

Collins, who does a broadcast farm show from Red Oak, said the project has received "overwhelming support" from farmers in a nine-state midwest area.

Collins said both women think farmers are getting rich off high meat prices, and he intends to "let them see how it really is."

The first calf will be in New York by next weekend, he said. Collins said he planned to move

Pop Festival Campers Act Like Scouters?

LEWISVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—Many of the 20,000 pop festival campers at the Garza Little Elm Reservoir sleep in tents with the opposite sex innocently—like it was a scout camp.

Others use sleeping bags by their camp fires. And many curiosity-seekers—just wanting to watch and not camp—mill around listening to all-night music or wait to see some "chicks" swimming in the nude.

Not all of the campers are bearded hippies. Many have shorter haircuts with long sideburns. They come from as far away as Alaska, Iowa, New York and California. They have many things to offer to "really groove-out."

"You guys want smoke with us?" a clean-out collegian from a group of six campers asked two curiosity seekers. "If you need some grass, there are three chicks lying by the band," he said.

"One of them—the one with the big bag—she has plenty of it. It goes for ten ($10 a lid (matchbox full). It's real pure and thick, like pipe tobacco."

The young man went back to his camp after inviting his acquaintances to "come smoke with us whether you buy or not."

Around the camp it is easy to find someone selling marijuana. The campers say there is no fear of being arrested. Most of the cops are outside the gate and many campers warn of disorder if one person is arrested.

The campers park in large groups, often with other pop music fans from their hometown. One group from Houston consisted of two Volkswagen fulls, a tent, campfire and two sleeping bags.

The female in the group, a blonde named Maria, was friendly. She offered ice water to thirsty visitors curiously wondering what she thought of the show. It was 4 a.m. Saturday, 12 hours before the festival officially opened on a dragstrip between Dallas and Lewisville. It lasts through Monday night.

"If Janis Joplin and the Led Zeppelin (a rock group) are not here, oh, it won't be as groovy," Maria said.

Maria is a soft-talking, stringy-haired blonde wearing bell-bottomed trousers and a flowery blouse. She is in her late teens and sounds like the girl next door who is offering a glass of water to friends she went to high school with.

"We're proud of our tent," Maria said. "It sleeps six (five guys and Maria)."

The crowd of campers got bigger as the early morning turned to dawn. In one spot psychedelic pictures were flashed on two bed sheets hung over a makeshift bandstand.

A rock band played "oldies" for about 400 night owls, of both sexes and colors. Everybody becomes a "brother" and "sister." Requests for smokes, lights and beer easily are granted. There is very little trouble among the brothers and sisters.

On the bandstand a college-aged man wore a beard but had no clothes. He danced around the band to the laughter of the audience. He had no inhibitions. Inhibitions are "square" at the campsite of the Texas International Pop Festival.

MATTRESS FIRE City firemen made a run to 324 N. Doyle shortly after 12:30 a.m. Friday to extinguish a mattress fire.

Firemen said the mattress had caught fire inside the house and when it was taken outside, it re-ignited.

Hotel Board To Name Eight New Directors

Eight directors will be elected at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Community Hotel Co. of Pampa at a meeting called for 10 a.m. Oct. 7.

The eight directors will succeed the eight whose terms of office will expire this year, according to Hugh Burdette, president.

Ballots have been mailed out nominating sixteen stockholders; the eight who receive the highest number of votes will be nominated to fill vacancies on the board.

Mobil Employees Commended On Safety Records

Safety dinners commending Skellytown and Lefors employees of Mobil Oil Co. for completing one year without an accident were hosted by Production Superintendent G. C. Rutherford.

Lefors employees were honored on Tuesday at Harvester Pit Bar-B-Q at which time C.L. Rodscape, lease operator, was presented with a 35-year service emblem.

On Friday at a dinner for the Skellytown crew, P. C. Houston, production foreman and J.W. Alexander, gang pusher, were also presented with 35-year service emblems.

Employees families were special guests.

Local KC Council Asks Support For Pope

J.S. McBride, chairman of the Membership Committee of Frank Keim Council, Knights of Columbus, has announced the participation of his council in a move to reaffirm support for the authority of the Pope.

Between now and January 20, Frank Keim Council will join with other councils to encourage Catholic laymen to become enrolled in the Knights of Columbus under the theme "Reaffirmation of the Faith," a personal pledge reaffirming their recognition of the ecclesiastical supremacy of the Holy Father.

Mr. McBride said that the number of applicants will be forwarded to the State Deputy Alfred N. Nicolas, who will in turn forward them to the Supreme Knight, John W. McDevitt. The names of all applicants will be presented to the apostolic delegate to the United States. Results from Canada, Mexico, and the Philippines will be forwarded to the Apostolic Delegates in these countries.

Mr. McBride said, "growing liberal tendencies to assert the authority of laymen in areas which have traditionally been the responsibility of the clergy, are a cause for concern. This demonstration of faith will express to the Holy Father in certain terms our support of his authority."

Frank Keim Council is now engaged in a membership campaign; "Reaffirmation of Faith" will be a phase of the overall campaign.

Grand Knight, Dwain Urbanczyk of Council 2767 is general chairman of the drive.

Alabama is the seventh largest state east of the Mississippi River.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The naked truth of it is, I have no shirt!—William Shakespeare in "Love's Labour's Lost."

"Without naked broads we'll lose our shirt—anonymous Hollywood producer."

Movie nudity has been done fasteously, and again to good effect. "I Am Curious (Yellow)" was clinical and offensive to most theater goers. "The suggestion of nudity in "Romeo and Juliet" was applauded.

Nudity, it appears, is with us to stay awhile.

Such male stars as Kirk Douglas and Charlton Heston have appeared in the buff (rear view) and uncensored feminine beauties from Brigitte Bardot and Gina Lollobrigida to Katharine Ross and Raquel Welch have bared their all for the cameras.

To Lure Customers

No matter what the rationale, the purpose of undraped actors on the screen is to lure more customers to the box office.

Almost every actress I've talked to who shed her clothes for the camera said she did so "because it fitted into the scene, otherwise I don't approve of nudity."

Eliminating underground films, flagrantly nudie flicks and outright stag films, the Hollywood record holder for appearing in the buff may well be Susan Clark, a beautiful Canadian-born actress of patriotic features.

TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

Our Capsule Policy

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

To Find The Truth

Possibly the sole difference between our editorial policy and a conservative policy is that the conservative maintains illusions we believe we have abandoned. Fundamental to conservative thinking is the idea that the present situation in the world is caused by "bad" men who have obtained power. If we could only toss out these "bad" men and put in "good" men and give them power, then the problems of the day could be correctly solved.

In the main this is the conservative argument, with many themes and variations.

The view we take, which we classify as libertarian, is that power corrupts and that any man endowed with more than ordinary power is going to do more than his share of harm. In other words, when you take a human being, who by nature is but meagerly equipped to solve his own problems, and thrust upon him the task of solving all manner of problems for all kinds of people, you will come to grief. If the man is a "bad" man, he will invoke the power in such a way that his own selfish ends (which we would view as evil) would be attained.

But if the man is a "good" man, then he will invoke the power in such a way that his own selfish ends (which we would view to be good) would be attained.

So, whether a man is "good" or "bad" means, in the final sense, whether he happens to agree or disagree with our own private value judgments. Example: We believe it to be "bad" for governments to perform welfare functions. If people are in difficulties, we think they should be permitted to solve their own problems or to obtain assistance from charitable or religious persons or institutions.

However, there are others who believe it is "good" for governments to perform welfare functions. If people are in difficulties, they will contend that the government is the rightful agency which, in the role of a "good father," can intervene on behalf of the unfortunate and "needy."

But the key factor that we see here, which conservatives, as such, seem to have difficulty in seeing, is that the government which is "good" in the conservative sense, is engaged in FORCING others to accede to the conservative will.

Faced with this problem, the conservative is prone to respond that he will put up with the use of force provided it is employed in the "correct" way; to wit, it will be used to enforce conservative policies.

But this is precisely the point of view of the "liberal" in politics who will be happy to go along with the use of force, provided it is done on "humanitarian" or "welfare" grounds.

The libertarian position is one which if adopted knowledgeably, is taken in hopes of finding the truth and adhering to it. The libertarian does not wish to win the war simply because he can be strong enough to win it. He wishes to win it because he is right. If he is not right, he wishes to be informed so that he can become right. With the libertarian it is the truth, not the power, that counts.

So, while the conservative might resort to force in an effort to back up conservative policy, the libertarian would resort to facts and logic in an effort to win support for facts and logic.

Seen in this light, the conservative and the liberal, in the modern political sense, are strident opponents, each one seeking power so that the policies of the other can be overruled.

The libertarian, on the contrary, does not seek power. Rather, he seeks knowledge and truth. He is disenchanted with the ages-old political power struggles.

In this sense, the libertarian provides a haven of freedom for conservative or liberal who is willing to devote himself to the truth rather than to power.

Jobs For Children

Laws—even for those who believe in their necessity—can benefit from a second look occasionally; especially those that may be affected by changing social conditions. Two psychologists suggest it is time we did this in the field of child labor legislation.

The numerous child labor laws, both federal and state, enacted in the past several decades were originally designed to "protect" children from hazardous occupations and "exploitation" in the so-called sweatshops of the early years of the century. More flexible labor laws permitting children 10 to 16 years old to work, would be more in line with reality and might benefit the children, say the psychologists.

Compiling the first child labor figures since the early 1930s, Dr. Mary Engel and Gerald Marsden of the University of Michigan found that more children, mostly boys, are working than we realize or the census figures reveal. Many work illegally because they are below the legal age or "do not" have work permits.

In a project involving more than 500 boys in Greater Boston under the age of 14, the researchers found that 73 per cent of them had worked for money outside their families. Surprisingly, the need for money was not a primary factor. More children from middle and upper middle-class homes worked than from poorer families.

The boys started to work as early as 9 or 10 with wages varying from $1.40 to $13.50 a week for a wide range of tasks. Average age of the study group was 12.

corners, with shoeshine boxes, or yelling out the evening headlines, or dropping the news of the day in front of the doors of sleeping citizens."

Others paste labels in supermarkets, stack boxes in supermarkets, shovel walks on, sit with babies.

The study also revealed that by the age of 12 boys have definite work habits. By the time a boy is 16, it is more difficult to change his attitude and work pattern.

"The child labor situation has changed so drastically that we should start thinking about work for children in a new light," says Dr. Engel.

"Children are eager to work," she concludes, "and it may very well be to their psychological benefit to let them do so."

CAPTIVE NATIONS WEEK OBSERVED

With the continuing pressure to "co-exist" with communism and to "build bridges" to communist nations, it is easy to forget that countries under the control of the Soviet Union were forcibly enslaved and that the people in these countries are deprived of their freedom and fundamental rights.

It is fitting that we recall these facts at least periodically. Therefore Congress has authorized the third week of July each year to be proclaimed "Captive Nations Week" until such time as freedom and independence shall have been achieved for all the captive nations of the world. This year President Nixon proclaimed July 13 to 19 as "Captive Nations Week."

Private groups and organizations throughout the country, such as the American Friends of the Captive Nations, observed the week with suitable ceremonies, pointing out the desire for liberty and independence by the overwhelming majority of the people of the submerged nations of Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, and Rumania.

Through the observance of this week, we were reminded that the imperialistic and aggressive policies of Soviet Russian communism have resulted in the creation of a vast empire which poses a dire threat to the security of the United States and of all the free peoples of the world.

We were reminded that in fifty years of communism, some 100,000,000 individuals have lost their lives as a direct result of communist tyranny.

Hopefully there will be even more ceremonies and observances next year, inviting all citizens to give renewed devotion to the just aspirations of all people for national independence and human liberty.

Housing Secretary George Romney says, "With urban renewal we bulldozed a lot of people out of their homes. Primarily they were low-income families, welfare cases."

"Then we came along with our highway program and bulldozed many more welfare families out. As a result we have a higher percentage of welfare families than before. We brought this on ourselves. Higher expenses in the improved housing necessitate higher rent but most of these families cannot afford higher rent. It's a tough problem."

Private industry, trying to do the same thing, has fared little better.

U.S. Gypsum pioneered in private slum renovation, built 32 buildings with 760 apartments in four cities. After five years the project is still in the red.

Admittedly, ESG hoped these pilot efforts would encourage other private contractors into slum renovations thus expanding the market for Gypsum products.

But Gypsum's red ink example has been less than encouraging to others.

The only way out, as I see it, if you want to keep a gun without registering it, is to go out and get yourself a police record and immunize yourself from this law that is intended to molly-coddle the criminal and harass the hard-working citizenry that has become a blight on the countryside.

The old saying "Crime doesn't pay" will have to be changed to "Crime Doesn't Pay Unless You Get Caught." Repeaters make up the bulk of crimes committed — 70 per cent with prior convictions and 82 per cent with prior arrest.

But there is good news — 63 per cent were rearrested on "new charge." This is because the "favored few" are being sent to college now and instead of being mere heisters they can now become topembezzlers.

Frankly, we have enough problems persuading young people to become interested in religion without having Nixon support it.

Public housing is headed for bankruptcy in 15 major cities. Idealists were certain that public housing would pay for itself but widespread vandalism and soaring upkeep costs have left most local housing authorities unable to pay their bills. Now they are appealing for more federal money, meaning yours. Have we expected too much in return for taking poor people out of the slums?

Daily Loss of Hair

Is Normal

Q—I am a girl, 18. What could make my hair fall out? Would being a diabetic cause it?

A—It is normal for many hairs to fall out every day. Fortunately, in most girls they grow back as fast as they fall out. So you need not worry unless there is definite evidence that your hair is thinning. Pony tail hair styling, the use of brush rollers or anything that exerts a steady pull on the roots will cause excessive loss of hair. The hair may also be lost temporarily following a prolonged illness with fever or with a local scalp disease.

Brushing your hair will stimulate your scalp but should be done in moderation because excessive brushing can also thin your hair. Diabetes is not a cause of thinning.

Q—I am a woman, 62. For the past two years my hair has been falling out. Could this be caused by a lack of vitamins or by using hair dyes?

A—No.

Q—My daughter, 39, is almost bald on the top of her head. Could the fact that she is a heavy smoker have caused it? Would taking gelatin help her?

A—Smoking is being blamed for many ills but not for loss of hair. Gelatin is one of many things tried as a remedy for baldness but there is no evidence that it does any good.

Q—Baldness does not run in my family. Could harsh hair straighteners cause it?

A—Chemical hair straighteners may make the hair brittle and irritate your scalp, but they don't cause baldness.

Q—What causes alopecia areata? Is there any cure for it? Will the hair come back in?

A—The cause of patchy bald spots is unknown but it is seen most often in highly nervous persons. It must be differentiated from ringworm of the scalp. In almost all persons with true alopecia areata, the hair eventually comes back. Meanwhile, massage and exposure of the involved areas to the sun or a sun lamp to produce a mild burn but no blisters may be helpful.

Q—Would griseofulvin stop my hair from falling out?

A—Only if the cause of the trouble is a fungus disease.

Where Is That Tax Cut Of 5 Percent? —Jarring Facts

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—There is a lot less Santa Claus than claimed for taxpayers in the middle income brackets ($8,000 to $20,000) in the tax reform bill voted by the House.

Instead of the loudly fanfares 5 per cent cut in individual rates for the millions of taxpayers in these brackets — hurriedly written into the measure at the last minute by the Ways and Means Committee — the actual reduction is from 1/2 of 1 per cent to 1 1/2 per cent.

This "jarring reality" is revealed in an analysis of the House-passed bill made by staff experts of the Senate Finance Committee — where the legislation is now pending. The committee opens hearings on it next week when Congress resumes.

The Finance Committee study states the measure does cut individual tax rates 5 per cent. But it points out that percentage is an overall figure that includes all income brackets — from $500 to $400,000 and over.

In other words, 5 per cent is a blanket reduction — as it works out, benefits only those with incomes of $64,000 and over.

Several millions of poor are exempted from paying any income tax.

Following is what the backstage analysis says about the House's rate cut:

"The bill reduces all income tax rates by at least one percentage point and reduces the top bracket rate from 70 per cent to 65 per cent. In all brackets this is a tax reduction of 5 per cent or more. The reduction is to take place in two stages because of the revenue loss: half in 1971, and the full reduction in 1972."

TELL-TALE CHART—The Senate study points out that under the existing law individual income rates range from 14 to 70 per cent on taxable incomes in excess of $100,000 for single persons and $200,000 on joint returns.

In deciding on a downward revision of these rates, the analysis continues, the House tax writers were prompted by two principal considerations:

"Existing rates take an excessive portion of the income from those subject to the full impact of the rates; such high rates encouraged many taxpayers to shelter their income from the top rates by using tax avoidance techniques which have frequently developed into tax loopholes."

For that reason, "it was deemed appropriate to redistribute the tax burden by closing loopholes and eliminating preferences on the one hand, and lowering tax rates on the other."

The manner the Ways and Means Committee did that on middle income brackets, and the House approved it, is shown by the following chart:

Percent Law 1971 1972

$8,000 to $10,000 28 17.5 27

$10,000 to $12,000 32 31 30

$12,000 to $14,000 36 35 34

$14,000 to $16,000 39 38 37

$16,000 to $18,000 42 41 40

$18,000 to $20,000 45 43.5 42

Married (Joint)

$8,000 to $12,000 22 21.5 21

$12,000 to $16,000 25 24 23

$16,000 to $20,000 28 27.5 27

PRO AND CON—The House-passed rate schedule will mean an annual loss in federal revenue of $4.5 billion.

That is $2 billion more than initially contemplated by the Ways and Means Committee. Its original bill cut individual taxes by $2.5 billion. But at the last moment, the committee discovered it had overlooked the great mass of middle income brackets from whom the bulk of taxes is extracted.

So, with much fanfare, the committee announced the "overnight" had been "corrected" and rates for these brackets were being reduced 5 per cent.

The Senate Finance Committee's analysis reveals that claim is grossly exaggerated. Far from 5 per cent, the maximum cut is less than half more that — 2 per cent.

The study presents the main arguments for and against this rate schedule, as follows:

FOR — "The reduction is justified on the ground that present rates are unrealistic and have been instrumental in encouraging the development of tax avoidance devices and tax shelters. Lower rates reduce the incentive to use and devise methods of avoiding tax and reduce the disproportionate influence of tax consideration on economic decisions, both socially desirable goals."

AGAINST — "Tax rates should not be reduced during the period when inflation is so strong, and further extension of the income tax surcharge is being considered to combat it."

Also the reduction of all tax is highly questionable because of the huge loss of revenue — $4.5 billion. The amount unbalances the reform and relief program in contrast to the rate schedule in the bill as reported — by the Ways and Means Committee. That rate schedule roughly balanced the revenue gain from tax reform and revenue loss from tax relief."

WHAT COMMITTEE'LL DO — The House measure is certain to be considerably changed by the Senate Finance Committee.

Both Republican and Democratic committeemen disagree with many of its provisions. Also, members want to incorporate additional items. Foremost among them is an increase in old age Social Security benefits.

Two amendments already are pending on that. One by Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., would raise these payments by 7 1/2 per cent; the other by Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., by 10 per cent.

Hartke contends an immediate 7 1/2 per cent hike is feasible without increasing Social Security taxes. He bases this on the ground the Social Security reserve has some $3.5 billion in surplus funds to finance such a hike — which both he and Aiken vigorously argue is necessary because of the inflationary increase in the cost of living.

"There are more than 20 million old age Social Security pensioners," says Hartke, "and they are the only people whose income has not been increased by the government. Everyone else on the federal rolls, from members of Congress to white and blue collar employees and the armed services, have had at least one and in some instances several pay hikes."

"But our senior citizens who need it most, and who have contributed to their pensions, have gotten nothing. The administration says wait until next year. Why wait? We have the necessary funds and no one can legitimately say the need isn't urgent. So why wait until next year for electioneering purposes?"

Sen. Aiken heartily echoes these sentiments.

A Look at the Book

By DR. BOB JONES

LIGHT FOR OUR DARKNESS

None of the statements which the Lord Jesus made of Himself is more emphatic than this, "I am the Light of the world."

No assurance which He gives to man is more positive than this, "he that followeth Me shall not walk in darkness."

He is Light and the Author of light. By Him were all things made. His hands lighted starry tapers, and at His word were born the blazing suns of the universe in Him—there is no darkness at all — no darkness of ignorance, for He knows the end from the beginning; no darkness of death, for He is the Light of Life; no darkness of sin, for He is the Sun of Righteousness; no darkness of error, for He is Truth incarnate. Heaven itself finds in Him the source of its light. John on the isle of Patmos, catching a glimpse of the beauty and of fulgent glory of the New Jerusalem, wrote, "And the city had no need of the sun, neither of the moon, to shine in it, for the glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof: and the nations of them which are saved shall walk in the light of it" (Revelation 21:23-24).

Former 'Guests Of The State' Now Working For The Law

SEATTLE, Wash. (NEA)—The district, "dismal and dilapidated, is known as the Central Area. It's four miles square and some 50,000 blacks live there.

The summit of their hill overlooks Skid Road. At the turn of the century, loggers sloshed through muck to skid logs of new-fallen timber to the waiting mill below.

It's still a fast trip downhill as the Central Area's record of crime and violence testifies.

The population includes at least 400 ex-convicts still on parole. An untold number of others in the area have records but have "done their time."

In this atmosphere, five convicted felons, all black and three still on parole, are engaged as state parole officers in a project called "New Careers." They divide their time between classroom work and on-job training in a pilot program of the U.S. Department of Labor that could be applied nationally if their efforts meet with success.

Bill Wienke, immediate supervisor of the five, says: "They're good. They can get through walls of silence that others can't."

Each of the five has been assigned 15 to 20 parole cases and they maintain close touch with them in personal interviews to review their progress. They also do pre-parole and job replacement investigations.

While they can't make arrests, they can and do make recommendations that result in sending parolees back to prison. None of the five has any reluctance about public identity with the program.

Larry Brooks says, "The more people who know me, the better contacts I have to reach and help those I want to help."

Brooks, 29, is still on parole after serving 19 months for burglary and an earlier violation of parole. Married and father of two, Brooks gets take-home pay of $270 a month from the $359 salary paid to trainees.

He takes on part-time employment to help get by. He worked with a 31-year-old robbery parolee from St. Louis who liked to be known as the St. Louis Kid — a guy who liked to doll up in fancy clothes, run around with the girls and gamble."

Brooks recalls: "The St. Louis Kid's money had to come from some place. The Kid was winning some at gambling, and the gals were helping him, too. But his luck couldn't hold and he knew it. He visited my place one evening and I finally got through to him. He'd taken welder training in prison, so I helped him land a job. He's earning $170 a week now. He still likes to wear those flashy clothes. It's more comfortable to know they're paid for."

Another of the trainees, Joyce Gallante, 23, still on parole after serving 12 months on a grand larceny charge, is attending classes now at Bellevue (Wash.) Community College and eventually plans to transfer to the University of Washington. A bachelor's degree is required for eventual appointment as a parole officer.

Washington Window

By RAYMOND LAHR
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — The liberal side of the political spectrum in the United States is giving belated attention to the middle income taxpayers who helped put President Nixon in the White House.

This attitude was apparent July 12 at a meeting of the National Board of Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), an unabashedly liberal organization that meeting heard the new ADA national chairman, Joseph Duffey, argue that the liberal coalition must enlist more support from people he called "average Americans," those in the $6,000 to $10,000 income brackets.

The same attitude was evident Aug. 4 when the Democratic Study Group, composed of about 140 liberal Democrats in the House, issued its review of the tax reform bill which came out of the Ways and Means Committee.

Laver Registers 26th Straight, Hits Cups Finals

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI)—Rod Laver, claiming "you can't live on a reputation," registered his 26th consecutive victory Saturday to gain the fourth round of the $137,000 U.S. Open tennis championships...

HARVESTER MARK WATKINS is one of the big, tough tackles you've been hearing so much about. Watkins, at 216 pounds, is scheduled for a starting berth again this year for Pampa. He will miss a couple of practices, however, with an injured knee.

Landry Ponders Where To Use Rookie Hill

DALLAS (UPI)—Aside from maintaining the intensely-sought mental and physical toughness evident in the Dallas Cowboys pre-season games, Coach Tom Landry's biggest problem with the National Football League title contenders is how to use rookie Calvin Hill.

SPORTS

and the emergence toward maturity of quarterback Craig Morton has all but erased the problems created by the last-minute retirements of Don Meredith and fullback Don Perkins.

Dave Edwards. So Hill isn't particularly needed there, either. Hill has shown a real knack at pass-receiving as the Cowboys have turned more to throwing to their backs and tight ends instead of bucking the concentrated coverage on wide receivers Bob Hayes and Lance Rentzel.

Ellis Takes Top O' Texas Lead

By RON CROSS Sports Editor Pampa's Richard Ellis chipped in from 20 feet away for an eagle two on the 14th hole at Pampa Country Club Saturday to take a one-stroke lead over another home-town favorite, Buster Carter in the 32nd annual Top O' Texas golf tournament.

rounds of 35-32. Carter, who has come close to winning this tournament several times, led the golfers after nine holes with a three-under par 32 but a double bogie six on No. 10 cost him the tournament lead. Carter finished the day at 32-36-68.

Robert McKenney of Lubbock at 36-34-71. The longest math of the day occurred in the sixth flight where Doug Ward and W. Ware went 26 holes or eight extra holes before Ware closed out the match with a par.

34-37 for his 71. Two shots back is Top O' Texas tournament chairman Elmer Wilson who came in with nine hole totals of 37-35-73. Ellis played confident and steady golf, using only 28 putts, 15 on the front nine. He didn't miss a green and had only one bogie, on No. 7, a 145 yard par three where he chipped past the green and two-putted.

footer on No. 18 for a birdie four. Carter, who didn't putt well at all, used 32 putts in his round but great chipping and driving kept him in the game. He had five birdies and the double bogie in his round and rolled in putts from 20 feet to three feet.

for a bogie five on the par 4, 14th. Jarvin Dick played his round with four birdies and two bogies while Cleland ran into trouble on the back nine after a 33 on the front nine. He bogied holes 12 and 16.

Melnyk Wins, Farquhar 10 Strokes Back

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI)—Steve Melnyk, winner of the Western Amateur golf tournament, earlier this year, added the 1967 U.S. Amateur championship to his record Saturday with a closing one-under-par 70 that gave him a four-round 286, five shots better than his nearest rival.

STEVE LECRONE of Amarillo lets fly the golf ball off No. 10 tee at Pampa Country Club Saturday. LeCrone shot a one over par 72 to be five shots back of tournament leader Richard Ellis.

The 240-pound Brunswick, Ga., golfer blasted out of a trap for an eagle and added three birdies in a blazing four-under-par 32 on the front nine of the 6,670-yard Oakmont Country Club course to open his lead to eight strokes, then coasted in. His tournament total was two over-par.

Allen Miller of Pensacola, Fla. who went into the final round tied with Giles for second place at six-over-par, three shots behind Melnyk, fired a 74 and finished with a 293.

It was the first time since the U.S. Amateur was changed to stroke play four years ago that the winning margin was more than one stroke. The last winner by a big margin was Jack Nicklaus, who beat Dudley Wysong Jr. 8 and 6 in match play at Pebble Beach, Calif. in 1961.

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. who has not won a tourney since that Masters victory, although he has won $40,112 on the current tour, said, "I've been playing a lot better in the last two months."

Brewer's Sizzling 66 Good For Shot Lead At Hartford

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. who has not won a tourney since that Masters victory, although he has won $40,112 on the current tour, said, "I've been playing a lot better in the last two months."

Jack Nicklaus, Al Baiding, Bert Greene and Dave Hills, kept in contention with 36-holes scores of 136. Brewer, 1967 Masters champion and Ryder Cup member, overcame bogeys on the first and ninth holes with three birdies, including a 30-foot putt on the fourth, for a front nine total of two-under-par 33.

Goldman Wins National Seniors Tourney Again

COLORADO SPRINGS (UPI)—The 30th annual World Seniors Golf Championship here was captured Friday, by David "Spec" Goldman of Dallas.

It was Goldman's second victory in the tournament. He walked away with the honors last year in his first appearance in the competition.

Goldman, 60, slipped by slightly-favored Curtis Person of Memphis, Tenn., 2 and 1. Person did wind up medalist with an even par 144 for 36 holes.

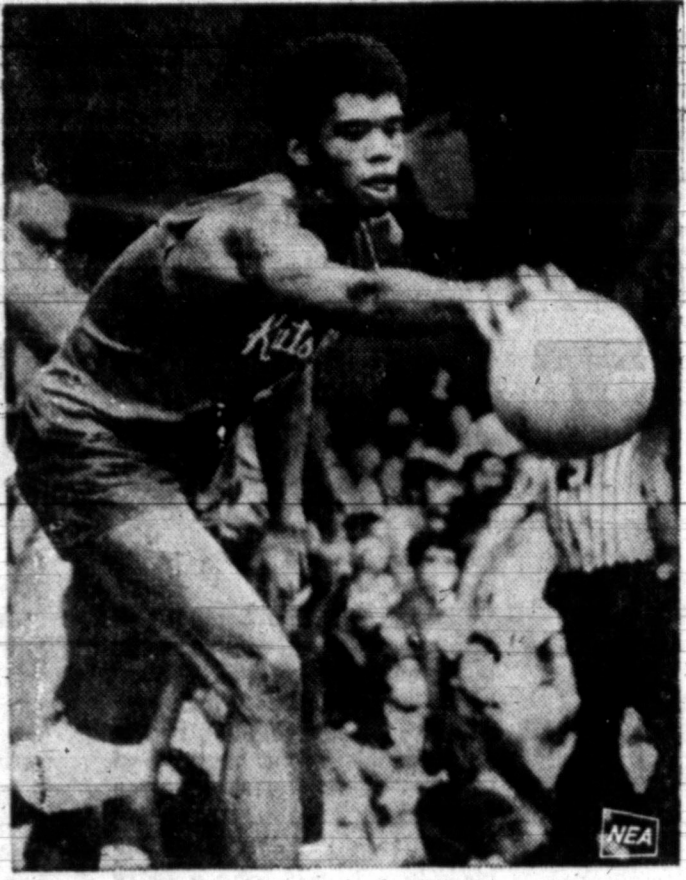

Goldman had a four-hole lead over Person of Baylor, is not during the next four holes. He came alive again and closed out the match by halving the 17th.

Chamberlain, Lew Pleased With Each Other's Play

By IRA BERKOW
MONTICELLO, N.Y. (NEA)—It was old hat only in that he had done it this way so many times before. Here was Lew Chamberlain, long and quick, bursting out of the left corner, driving to the basket, scoring and sweeping the ball through the hoop.

The slam shot was unusual, though, since it was over the arms of Wilt Chamberlain.

"I was surprised myself,"

Lew Alcindor: "I was out here to learn"

Alcindor would say later. "Since I was a kid, I'd always seen Wilt way up there."

"The man is good," Wilt would say later. "But it doesn't surprise me. I've seen Lew play since the seventh grade."

Never before, however, had they played against each other. And before the first, there was an air of expectation, mixed with the scents of balsam and blintzes at Kutsher's Country Club in the Catskill Mountains here. The occasion was the 11th annual Maurice Strokes benefit game, which included some of the finest players in the National Basketball Association.

Surely, Oscar Robertson, Willis Reed, Billy Cunningham, Zelmo Beatty, Walt Frazier, Don Nelson and Walt Bellamy, to name some of the players, along with the 2,000 and more fans stuffed into Kutsher's Sports Academy building—as well as Wilt and Lew—were curious to see what Alcindor could do against the pros.

But no one was more interested than Wes Pavalon, who paid $1 million to possess Alcindor for his team, the Milwaukee Bucks.

In a private plane, he flew in from Milwaukee, nuzzling a lip, to see his investment. He arrived just in time to be met by the departing crowd.

This is what he missed: A spirited game in which Alcindor played 25 minutes, mostly against Wilt, and made six of 11 shots from the field, took 10 rebounds and blocked four shots. Meanwhile, Chamberlain hit six of eight from the field, pulled down 16 rebounds and blocked six shots; he also was voted Most Valuable Player.

"Did you feel pressure?" "No," he said. "You do as well as you can. There have been too many 'pressure' games in my life to be upset now. Besides, I was just out there to learn. And I did."

"Pavalon came in and was met by Jack Twyman. 'Wes,' he said, 'your boy made some moves you—just wouldn't believe.' But he was believing, he was believing."

"The pressure," said Pavalon, "has to be tremendous for him. He's got such an image to live up to. We were together the other day and everywhere we went people were talking to him, saying things like, 'how's the weather up there?' and all that stuff. We were in an elevator and Lew made the best comeback I think I've ever heard. It was terrific. This guy looks at him and says, 'How's basketball?'"

"And Lew says, 'I don't know. Ask basketball.'"

"Then I'm out at a lake, getting a boat. And some guy recognizes me and says, 'You're the guy who owns that big freak dunker, aren't you?' My hands were in my pockets and they were clenched. But if I get that kind of pressure, you can imagine what Lew is up against."

"But Lew has such desire to make it. I remember the first intrasquad game we played. He was playing against Dick Cunningham, an eager young fella who weighs about 270. He was laying all over Lew. Lew did well, but after the game he said, 'Wes, I'm going to have to get after the game he said, 'Wes, I'm going to have to get up to 300.' He's about 235 now; that may be a little bony for someone over seven feet."

It was enough for Zelmo Beatty of the St. Louis Hawks. "He is," said Beatty, "a lot of man."

"He jumps," said Walt Frazier of the Knicks, "like he's on a trampoline. He'll be great."

Good news for Millionaire Pavalon and Alcindor.

Longhorns Slip On Turf, Razorbacks Wait To Say

By United Press International
Texas and Arkansas, the defending co-champions of the Southwest Conference, may be forced to learn how to run again before they begin to plan attacks for the 1969 season.

The artificial turf installed at these two schools is causing some problems, mainly with the size of cleats. The same length cleats are not used on AstroTurf that are employed on the natural turf.

Down at Texas, they experimented with shorter cleats Friday and the Longhorns complained they were slipping around too much. The Razorbacks also worked out for the first time on the man-made sod, but no verdict was rendered.

A spokesman at Texas said the cleat situation is just "something we'll have worked out in a few days."

Coach Frank Broyles of Arkansas had a whopping 110 prospects turn out Friday for the opening day of practice. The first couple of days will be devoted to conditioning drills. Broyles said, to test the players who underwent operations during the offseason.

Broyles is especially concerned about a trio of outstanding linemen who went before the surgeon's knife—quarterback Bill Montgomery, tailback Bill Burnett and flanker Chuck Dickens. All three are bonafide all-Southwest Conference prospects.

Two lettermen at Texas A&M, tackle Carl Gough of College Station, Tex., and halfback Jack Whitmore of Houston, were placed on the "out indefinitely" list by Aggie Coach Gene Stallings, who said the two did not recover fully from knee operations.

Lineman Dale Watts missed opening drills because of a mild case of tonsillitis. But Stallings said Watts should be back with the club in a few days.

Eil Beall, in his first year as of Lawton, Okla., another let about to waste any time. Beall said the Bears would begin to work on their opening foe, Kansas State. The Bears planned to practice against all the formations Kansas State used last season plus the kicking game.

Predictions Fair To Good For Fall, Winter Hunting

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists over the State are predicting a "fair to good" and sometimes "very good" hunting season, based on observations of game quantity of habitat.

The physical condition of game animals appears to be good, despite sparse rainfall this summer. Biologists seem to think the drought conditions in some areas of the State will actually help hunters get their animals since less food was produced and animals will have to wander farther and eat longer to get their fill.

The following is a rundown of hunting conditions throughout the State.

WEST TEXAS
The Panhandle, Permian Basin, and Trans-Pecos Regulatory Districts have all received very little rainfall this summer, but despite this, biologists are predicting a generally "fair to good" season for hunters.

PANHANDLE: The year began with good prospects for the hunting season and gradually deteriorated because of lack of rainfall on range vegetation. Prospects for hunting white-tailed deer are fair to good. The species has become fairly stabilized in what is considered limited habitat.

Mule deer in the Panhandle are increasing and prospects should be good this year. 46 per cent increase in population over last year by winter counts plus a spectacular production of 89 per cent by does indicates a good year ahead for the hunter and the mule deer.

Doves are scattered across the Panhandle, but it appears hunters should have a season equal to that of last year.

Prospects continue to look good for the quail which have increased their range over last year. The quail population appears to be up, with a helicopter census noting 3.14 sheep per hour seen, compared with 1.9 sheep seen per hour last year.

The harvest of antelope should be about the same as last year. An aerial census revealed about a five per cent population decrease from last year, but production was 37 per cent this year, compared to 34 per cent last year.

There was fair to good quail production for both bobwhite and blue quail. The drought has hurt, but there is a possibility that recent rains will have brought back some vegetation which would help the quail considerably. Hunting prospects are better than last year.

Turkey poults may have actually benefited from the dry weather and the great number of insects. The harvest of turkeys should be fair to good.

Prairie chicken breeding male counts in the spring on the courtship grounds indicated a 25 per cent increase over last year. There is a good chance of an excellent crop for the population, and there was good harvest.

Pheasants began the year with an excellent breeding early nesting success. However, drought and chemical spraying could lower the harvest potential. Biologists say it is still too early to make a prediction on pheasants.

HOSTS WINTER GAMES
LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI)—Notification was received here Friday from the Federation Internationale Sports Universities in Turin, Italy, that Lake Placid won the honor of hosting the 1972 World Collegiate Winter Games. More than 300 athletes are expected to compete in the February, 1972, games.

Jones Favors Hawkins In Cage Controversy

NEW YORK (NEA)—One evening in late June Sam Jones, home in Washington, D.C., received a phone call. It was from Connie Hawkins in Pittsburgh.

"Sam," said Hawkins, "I'm throwing a party in a couple weeks. I want you and Gladys to come up here. I'm sending you two plane tickets and reservations are set at the best hotel in town."

"We went to Pittsburgh," recalled Mrs. Sam Jones, "to celebrate with Connie. Well, maybe celebrate is too frivolous a word. I think it was more to relieve the tension. And we wanted to be there to show Connie how happy we were for him, and to show him Sam was still behind him—after all these years."

Hawkins threw the party after the National Basketball Association, faced with a $6 million damage suit by Hawkins, decided to lift its ban on him. Hawkins had NEA because of some alleged peripheral association with basketball game fixers. But Hawkins claimed innocence and in fact was never proved guilty of any wrongdoing.

But the years since he was forced to leave the University of Iowa when a freshman in 1961 had been known for Hawkins. No one knew this more than Sam Jones, recently retired forward of the Boston Celtics.

It was Sam Jones whom Hawkins would call when he was down and prospects of playing in the NBA looked negligible; it was Jones who always offered encouragement and it was Jones to whom Hawkins went in early June at a critical moment.

Hawkins' lawyers, Dave and Roslyn Litman and Howard Specter, after years of preparing the case, believed that a trial date would come this fall. Hawkins needed fellow basketball players to justify that (1) he was good enough to play in the NBA and (2) he was, truly, a reputable person.

Dodgers Eye Help From Rookie Slugger

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI)—Come the first week in September, the Los Angeles Dodgers' mod squad will be initiating a new member.

Steve Garvey, a 20-year-old combination third and first baseman for Albuquerque in the Texas League, is expected to be called to the major leagues when the Texas League season ends.

When he does, Garvey will be joining Bill Sudakis, Ted Sizemore, Willie Crawford and other members of the Dodgers' new breed who have helped keep the club in the thick of the National League's Western Division race.

"It feels good to be making the big jump," said the Tampa, Fla., native who has pounded Texas League pitching at a .370 clip and hit 14 home runs since joining the Albuquerque club June 11.

Garvey said he had talked to Los Angeles scout Al Campanis about a week ago and the Dodger official told him he could expect to be called up.

"For Garvey, a former all-American under Michigan State coach Danny Litwiler, the 'big jump' comes just two years after his start in pro ball.

Garvey, whose late arrival in Albuquerque was due to his studies at Michigan State, signed with the Dodgers "for around $50,000."

Last season, Garvey played for Ogden, Utah, of the Pioneer League, hitting .340, clouting 20 homers and driving in 60 runs in 63 games.

The Dodgers were so impressed, they moved Garvey up to the Class AA Albuquerque club where the righthander has continued his torrid hitting. Besides his .370 average and 14 homers, Garvey has also knocked in 73 runs in nine weeks at Albuquerque.

"I've been very fortunate, and then too I've been making very good contact all year," said Garvey, who has had a 17-game hitting streak.

Garvey also credits Albuquerque manager Del Crandall with much of his batting success.

"He's taught me to stay in on a pitch because I used to have a tendency to pull out," Garvey said. "He's also stuck with me and points out the little things that go wrong during a season."

12th Man Still Defense Mystery For Kansas

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION
In college football's annals of the bizarre, there will always be room for the 12th member of the University of Kansas football team last New Year's Night—whichever he was.

The scene was the 1969 Orange Bowl where Penn State defeated Kansas, 15-14, against overwhelming odds—say 12 to 11. During the last 80 seconds of play, Kansas conducted a brilliant goal-line stand by using 12 men against Penn State's 11. Through a misunderstanding on the field—two Jayhawks came in, one went out—Kansas counted itself into infamy.

Penn State actually scored against the Jayhawk dozen with 15 seconds remaining. Then the Lions failed on a two-point conversion try as a flock of Jayhawks knocked down an attempted pass. The flock, however, was too big by one.

Umpire Foster Grose had counted the Kansas crowd from his position in the end zone. "I knew before the ball was ever snapped that I'd have to call a foul," he said. "I had my hand on the marker. It was all very routine, the counting of players, I mean. I do it almost every play."

Pampa School Administrators Move Offices Into Remodeled Carver Center

Pampa school administrators moved into a new home this summer, away from the crowded downtown offices in Pampa Junior High School.

The administration's new home, Carver Educational Services Center, is located at 321 W. Albert.

This center, a one-story L-shaped brick building, which was once an elementary school, offers space for teachers and administrators to have large or small group conferences, in-service workshops for each grade level, storage space for all textbooks, and supplies, and a media-reference center for teachers to prepare visual aids.

The men and women who direct and coordinate education in Pampa have their offices here. In the north wing, are located offices of Superintendent Dr. James F. Malone; James Trusty, the administrative assistant and purchasing director; Mrs. Frances Walls, library coordinator; J. C. Randall, visiting principal; Mrs. Gwen Tidwell, textbook custodian; Mrs. Rena Belle Anderson, attendance officer and school census director.

In the east wing are offices of Mrs. Marjorie Gaut, director of educational services; J. R. Cronister, elementary schools coordinator; Don Nelson, secondary schools coordinator; Mrs. Doris Friend, special education director; and Mrs. Wilsam Hill, coordinator of Panhandle Education Service Organization.

SUPERINTENDENT FOR ALL PAMPA SCHOOLS — Dr. James F. Malone, superintendent, checks his calendar of board meetings, pupil-parent conferences, teacher consultations and other meetings necessary to coordinate education for Pampa schools. Dr. Malone and other administrators moved from Pampa Junior High School into the remodeled Carver Center this summer. All offices are paneled and decorated with paintings, plants or floral arrangements.

PART OF A SECRETARY'S DUTIES — Mrs. Fay Reece, right, secretary for Dr. James F. Malone, interviews a prospective substitute teacher for the Fall term, Mrs. Gwendolyn Mitchell. Mrs. Reece's office is located in the north wing, between Dr. Malone's office and the receptionist's office.

PURCHASING EXECUTIVES — James Trusty, right, and his secretary, Mrs. Bill Batten, check invoices with Homer Craig, director of school business services. Trusty, purchasing agent for the district and administrative assistant to Dr. Malone, has an office in Carver Center's north wing. Tax services and Craig's office remain in Pampa Jr. High.

RECEPTIONIST FOR CARVER CENTER — Barbara Casey, 17, summer assistant for the superintendent, works with the district's new receptionist, Mrs. Don Nelson, to prepare records for the Fall term. Miss Casey, a Pampa High School graduate, will attend Stephen F. Austin College at Nacogdoches this Fall.

COORDINATORS FOR EDUCATIONAL SERVICES — J. R. Cronister, left photo, is the newly-employed elementary schools coordinator. In three grouped center photos, Mrs. Francis B. Walls, librarian, and her assistant, Linda Dyer, 18, examine book lists in the textbook center, while Mrs. Wilsam Hill and her secretary, Mrs.

Bud Crow, work in their PESO offices in the east wing. In the top photo, center, Mrs. Marjorie Gaut, educational services director, visits with a parent, the Rev. Carlton

S. Downing, First Christian Church pastor. Don Nelson, right photo, coordinates secondary schools curriculum.

Marriage Service Unites Martha Jo Phipps, James Gary Conner

Martha Jo Phipps was united in marriage with James Gary Conner, 1165 Neel Rd. Given in marriage by Bunard Wright, her uncle, the bride was dressed in a peau de soie gown, which was designed with a scalloped neckline accented with tiny seed pearls. Her long lace sleeves extended to a point at the wrists and were accented with tiny covered buttons.

The long lace train was attached with two bows at the back of her A-line dress, which was trimmed with lace around the hem. The silk illusion elbow-length veil was attached to a cluster of tiny flowers accented with seed pearls.

She carried a cascade bouquet of a white orchid centered in an arrangement of feathered carnations and white stephanotis. Mrs. Eric Fitting, Midland, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Berdon Byrum, Lancaster, and Mrs. Tommy Scruggs, Fort Worth.

Petersburg, and Larry Murphy, Childress. Other attendants were Mark Parks, ring bearer; Leann Parks, and Susie Jones, flower girls. Karyn Johnson, organist,

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last winter I had some extensive surgery and can have no more children. Fortunately I have a little six-year-old son. I didn't tell my parents about my operation at the time because they live far away, couldn't have come anyway, and besides my mother has a heart condition and I didn't want to upset her. Now my parents are coming to visit me, and I plan to keep quiet about my operation. I have told all my friends and neighbors who know (and that includes about half the town) to please not mention it to my folks. Knowing my mother, she is sure to ask, "When are you going to get busy and have a little sister or brother for Junior?" I don't want to worry her about my condition, but what can I say that will be acceptable?

DEPENDING ON YOU
DEAR DEPENDING: Tell your mother the truth. If it's her heart you're concerned about, she'd be better off hearing the news from you at a time of your own choosing than from an absent-minded friend whose mouth works faster than her brain. And if you don't have at least one, you're the lucky exception.

DEAR ABBY: I am heartsick. My 14-year-old daughter has been picked up for shoplifting! She is a good girl and has never been in any trouble before. I can't understand what got into her. She gets a generous allowance, has never been denied anything she wanted or needed. She was with two other girls, and all three were caught red-handed. The other girls were even better off financially than my daughter. I have tried to raise this child right. Where have I failed?

SHOPLIFTER'S MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Don't be so quick to accept the blame. You haven't failed. Your daughter has. She has failed to realize that shoplifting is a crime. She thinks it's a "game" or a challenge. Or a new "sport." It's a strange new epidemic. I can offer seven rules for parents as a preventative to curb this new game:
1. Explain to your youngsters that shoplifting is a crime, which leaves a criminal record. And a criminal record is a lifetime shadow.

2. Emphasize that "Going along with the crowd" for fear of being "chickened" is the coward's way out.
3. When youngsters go on a shopping expedition, know where your child is going, how much money he has and what he expects to buy.
4. If your child comes home with more merchandise than he or she had money to buy, ask about it. And don't take any easy answers about where it came from.
5. If your daughter goes shopping with an oversized purse, be wary.
6. Outlaw all clothes swapping unless the parents on both sides know exactly what is being exchanged.
7. Practice what you preach.

DEAR ABBY: Why is it considered "improper" for a young man and his steady girlfriend to give gifts to either of their relatives or to mutual friends?
Johnny and I are both 18 and we don't have a lot of money, and we can get nicer things if we share the cost. We have been told that this is "improper" until we are married — or at least officially engaged. What is your opinion?

PUZZLED
DEAR PUZZLED: When a gift is sent from a couple, it is naturally assumed that the couple is in fact a "couple" — legitimately. Joint gifts from officially engaged couples, yes. From "John and Mary," who happen to be going together, no!

DEAR ABBY: This is how my husband put an aggressive young secretary in her place. She asked him if they could have lunch together sometime. He said, "Certainly," so the next day he handed her half of a peanut butter sandwich.

STILL LAUGHING
Everybody has a problem. What is yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Area Couple Says Wedding Vows In Pampa First Baptist Church

Belinda Tepe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Tepe, Canadian, and Don Crosier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Crosier, also of Canadian, were united in marriage Aug. 22 in the parlor of the First Baptist Church, Pampa.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. G. Roberts, Lefors, before an archway of greenery flanked by arrangements of crystal votive cup candles amid greenery, white carnations and matching lime green shoes.

Registering the guests was Mrs. Norman Fulps of Pampa. The bride's dress was covered with a white net cloth over lime green and was centered with the arrangements of crystal votive cup candles, greenery and white carnations.

The three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath an archway, was served by Mrs. Tommy Carter, Amarillo, cousin of the bride. Mrs. Curtis Crosier presided at the punch bowl.

For the wedding trip to Galveston, the bride wore the sleeveless dress from her wedding ensemble and the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will be at home after Sept. 1 at 709 Avenue R in Lubbock. Mrs. Crosier was graduated from Canadian High School and is a junior at Texas Tech, majoring in home economics and merchandising. Mr. Crosier is also a graduate of Canadian High School and formerly attended Texas Tech. He is employed by a freight company and plans to resume his college work.

A rehearsal dinner for members of the wedding party was held Aug. 21 at Furr's in Pampa.

Lighted candles adorned the walls of the dining room and the table was centered with candleabras holding white candles. Those present were the honorees, Belinda Tepe and Don Crosier, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Tepe and brother, Howard Crosier, James Jackson, Dareda Jameson, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Elliott, Freddie McPherson, and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Crosier.

MRS. JAMES GARY CONNER nee Martha Jo Phipps

Bridesmaids were Linda Kay Steger, Iowa Park, and Sandy Gail Jones, Dallas. All bridal attendants were dressed in yellow maize A-line gowns with matching veils and carried nosegays of yellow daisies trimmed in avocado. Emery McCulley, Amarillo, was best man. Joe Bob Sanders, Dimmitt, and Jim Yates, Plainview, seated wedding guests. Groomsman were Monte Brogdon and Andy Cole, both of Pampa; Jerry Foote, played traditional wedding music and the selection, "The Twelfth of Never." The bride's mother was dressed in a pale pink silk A-line dress with matching jacket and pale pink accessories. Her corsage was a double white orchid with pink throat. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige lace dress with matching beige accessories and a double yellow orchid.

For the reception in the church Fellowship Hall, Terry played traditional wedding music and the selection, "The Twelfth of Never." The bride's mother was dressed in a pale pink silk A-line dress with matching jacket and pale pink accessories. Her corsage was a double white orchid with pink throat. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige lace dress with matching beige accessories and a double yellow orchid.

Miss Coleman Has Birthday Party
SKELLYTOWN (Sp) — Cheryl Ann Coleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Coleman 2700 Rosewood Lane, celebrated her first birthday with a party sponsored by her mother.

Youngsters were served refreshments from a serving table covered with a white linen cloth and centered with a decorated birthday cake with one tiny candle in the center, with the large cake flanked by circle of frosted cup cakes.

WMU Has Meeting In Mrs. Knight's Home

GROOM (Sp) — The Night Circle of the W.M.S. of the First Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. Bertha Knight, recently for a regular monthly meeting. Circle chairman, Bertha Knight, was in charge of the business. Ermine Bray read the prayer calendar and remembered the missionaries who had birthdays. Mrs. H.C. Swank, program chairman, gave the mission study "A Committed Company."

Those attending were Misses Viola Harrell, Thelma Pool, Dan Ashford, B. C. Swank, Bob Milton, Ermine Bray and the hostess, Mrs. Knight.

STARRING IN HER television special, "Monsanto Night Presents Lena Horne," Wed. Sept. 10, 9-11 CDT on NBC, Lena Horne sings with the Honeycons. Miss Horne is wearing claret velvet pants topped with an aubergine vest of blue "C" nylon by Monsanto. A fringed scarf, earrings and chains complete the gypsy ensemble. The Honeycons are dressed in shades of pink blue "C" Nylon.

Lena Horne To Star In Special

Lena Horne, one of the few enduringly great performers in the entertainment world, will star in her first American network television special, "Monsanto Night Presents Lena Horne," Wed., Sept. 10, 9-10 p.m. CDT, in color on NBC.

For the first time, American network television viewers will see an hour-long Lena Horne performance, an experience which has, until now, been reserved for those who have followed her career in the smart supper clubs of the world. It's quite a different Lena Horne to be seen on the Monsanto Night special, however. She sings the vibrant music of today's young people as well as the beautiful love songs that are traditionally Lena Horne.

"This is a new bag of music for me," she said, "but I'm very comfortable with it. One of the songs in this show was written by the Beat-les... another is from 'Hail.' This is direct, honest music. It speaks of our times... After all, it doesn't make much sense to sing about castles in Spain when some of us can't rent a house in Des Moines."

Miss Horne's guest stars on the Monsanto Night special are singer O. C. Smith, who has a hit recording of "Little Green Apples," and David Janssen, of the "The Fugitive" television fame.

Miss Horne opens the program with "Watch What Happens," a pure simple love song, followed by "A Flower is a Lovesome Thing," a gentle ballad written by her close friend, Billy Strayhorn and arranged by her husband, Lennie Hayton.

With O. C. Smith she sings the hauntingly lovely "Didn't We," O. C.'s solo number is "Friend, Lover, Woman, Wife," which Miss Horne says makes her glad she's a woman.

One segment of the show is a simulated rehearsal scene done with the Honeycons, a talented young vocal group. Musical selections include "Never Fall In Love Again," "Rocky Raccoon," and "You Made Me So Happy."

Several selections are sung to the accompaniment of a folk guitarist, Gabor Szabo, including "Black Bird," "I Wish, I Knew," "Starshine," and the poignant lyric, "Turning Point."

David Janssen sings a modern Rod McKuen ballad, "I've Been To Town," He teams with Miss Horne in a "This is your life" type number done with Janssen childhood still photos to the familiar tune, "I Remember It Well."

One of the highlights of the show is an exotic dance number choreographed by Claude Thompson. Miss Horne and six male dancers, dressed in black, unisex Indian-look pants suits, will captivate the audience with their unadorned version of "Cissy Strut."

The suits for this number are

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Next to collecting taxes, the thing the federal government does best is clarify situations. This usually is a two-stage process.

In the first stage, some official issues a statement clarifying a certain situation. In the second stage, another official issues a statement clarifying the first official's clarification.

The week now coming to a close has been a particularly busy one for the clarification clarifiers. We have had the eastern White House clarifying the western White House, the Defense Department clarifying the State Department and the Council of Economic Advisers clarifying the Commerce Department.

All of which may have set a new record for clarity.

Daniel S. Moynihan, President Nixon's urban affairs adviser and clarifier, struck the first blow for lucidity by clarifying the situation regarding the $22 billion "peace dividend" once expected to become available when the Vietnam War ended.

Speaking at the western White House, Moynihan said that windfall had "turned out to be evanescent, like the morning clouds."

Moynihan's clarification lasted only as long as it took clarifiers back here in the eastern White House to lay hands on a dictionary and look up the word "evanescent."

As soon as they found that it meant "gradually disappearing from sight," they began putting out clarifications that reincarnated at least part of the vanished dividend.

The State Department's clarification of the North Vietnamese troop situation also turned out to be evanescent.

Television In Review

By ROBERT MUSEL
NEW YORK (UPI)—You can find himself in beautiful Downtown Burbank. Looking For Actor "The Laugh-In" (NBC-TV) showed up," he said. "They were looking for an actor—and they took me. They also were looking for a writer—and they added me to the writing team, too. So here I am, delighted to be here, looking forward anxiously to the actual season and praying I'm everything they hoped I would be."

"Laugh-In" had a supercilious English type (Roddy Maud-Roxby) in its first season but Lloyd has a wider range. You will see him as Toulouse-Lautrec—with an Oxford accent. Or a baseball player talking like a member of the House of Lords—and that isn't cricket.

Now television is resuming a tradition that goes back to Claude Allister in the early days of the talkies (and the current late shows) and includes such other sterling British character actors as Eric Bloré, Alan Mowbray, and Arthur Treacher, the 75-year-old regular on the Merv Griffin Show.

Treacher is back and it is pleasant to report that it is in the safe hands of Jeremy Lloyd, a tall, blonde young man who remembers walking down the King's Road in London's swinging Chelsea District and suddenly

Negro Clowns Way To Theater Career

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — The ringmaster tweets his whistle. The lights come up in the arena. The band omps some happy music. And the clowns dash in. There are perhaps a dozen or 15 of them, hopping around and laughing. It's like it has always been with clowns, except for one big difference. One of them, this time, is a black man.

Reggie Montgomery is his name. Once you know he's there, he's easy to spot. He hasn't attempted to cover his face, only adding triangles of red and circles of white and squares of blue. But the background is black.

He thinks he is the first one in the United States. There are a few in Europe, he has heard, and there may have been a black clown here many years ago, but that's only a rumor. Certainly, Reggie Montgomery is the first Negro clown in the United States that anybody can really be sure of.

He is with the Red Unit of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus. He is just a rookie clown. This is his first season. It has been an interesting experience, but not all happy.

He is disturbed by the caste system in the circus. It has nothing to do with color. He says that clowns, and particularly the younger, newer clowns, are discriminated against.

"For a long time," he says, "we weren't even invited to the parties on the train. We're really treated rough."

We have to provide our own mirrors. We dress so far from the arena that we have to run back and forth when we change.

"With the other acts, we have to prove ourselves every day — prove ourselves as human beings and prove ourselves as performers. People are loosening up now, but it was slow."

Reggie is a Florida boy. His father was a high school football coach who now is coaching at Florida A & M. Reggie played for his father at Tallahassee high school, then went to Florida A & M himself.
