GROOM - A 21-year-old Groom woman was pronounced dead at the scene of a one-car rollover which claimed her life at 5 p.m. Friday.

Kimberly Barbee died after her 1990 Pontiac rolled seven and a half times as she traveled north on FM 2300. The car, which Department of Public Safety officials say was traveling at a high rate of speed when Barbee lost control, came to rest in a plowed field after crashing through a barbed wire fence. She was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Margie Prestidge of Pampa.

The driver was ejected during the sixth roll. During the third roll, the door to which the seat belt was attached was ripped from the Pontiac, DPS officials said.

Barbee was wearing a seat-belt, the spokesman said.

The accident is being investigated by Trooper Joe Longway and Gary Davis of Groom, and Cpl. Roland McGill and Cpl. Chris Ray of Panhandle.

PAMPA — Jana Barnhill of Lubbock, third place finisher in the International World Championship of Public Speaking in 1993, will be the guest speaker at a charting ceremony set for 7 p.m. Wednesday honoring Pampa's Toastmasters International chapter. The dinner will be held at Danny's Market.

Club charter members include Peter Berzanskis, Vernell Houska, Scott Flat-house, Lois Strate, Pat Youngquist, Bobbie Sue Stephens, David Day, Denise Story, Ken Wright, Nathan Hopson, Merle Houska, Daniel Silva, Alfonso Walker, Rutley Chalk, Gary Casebier, Marta Day, Noah Davis, Kathy Wright, Jigger Rowland, Doris Ekleberry, Michelle Chalk and Ron Knack.

The club is one of more than 8,000 Toastmasters Clubs around the world providing its members with training in public speaking and leadership.

The local club meets 6:30 to 7:30 a.m. on the first and third Tuesday of each month at the Coronado Inn.

Barnhill is the daughter of Pampans Ernest and Dorothy Barnett.

Dinner reservations may be made by calling Vernell Houska at 669-7402 before noon Tuesday.

LEFORS - The board of trustees of Lefors Independent School District has hired Norman Baxter to lead the district for the 1995-1996 school year, according to board member Nora Franks.

He was hired Thursday to replace Joe Roper, who retired. Baxter is superintendent of Grandview-Hopkins Independent School District.

Thornberry responds to constituents

By CHERYL BERZANSKIS
News Editor

WHEELER - Tax reform, military spending, Medicare, affirmative action, federal deficit, National Endowment for the Arts, Davis-Bacon Act, campaign reform, fetal tissue research.

Are you tired yet? Constituents of Republican Congressman Mac Thornberry grilled him Saturday in Wheeler on these topics, expressing their disgust with Washington politics, anger toward a world they perceive to be out of touch with their own, and a desire to move the nation toward their definition of a common sense approach to government.

Thornberry, who visited Wheeler, Lipscomb and McLean, told the 24 attendees at the Wheeler Banking Center to be patient because things are changing in Washington, albeit slowly.

He told the Wheeler countians: • A committee is considering a complete overhaul of the tax system, including a study of a universal sales tax or flat tax which will eliminate inheritance and inventory taxes.

"I think something's gonna happen eventually," he said.

• On Friday Congress voted to eliminate two proposed federal office buildings slated to house the Food and Drug Administration and the Department of Agriculture, he said.

• Six appropriations bills have passed this session of Congress.

• While military spending has fallen, he said, he believes the services need to recruit and retain the best personnel, and success hinges on pay and housing issues.

"I think the top priority of the federal government is to provide for the common defense," Thornberry said.

"Weapons are getting smarter and we need smarter people to operate them," he said.

• The House of Representatives has passed a bill providing for a reduction in the capital gains tax and indexing for inflation. Thornberry said he expects the Senate to pass a reduction in the capital gains tax which will be retroactive to Jan. 1.

One Wheeler County landowner, John Taylor, opined, "I'm interested in doing away with them. You can't afford to keep (your land), you can't afford to sell it."

• Medicare patients need to be able to choose physicians outside the system, Thornberry said.

The Medicaid system is structured to encourage the most expensive forms of medical care, Thornberry said. He said

Medicaid may be reformed to look more like a health maintenance organization to channel people away from emergency rooms for primary care.

• A knock-down, dragout fight over NEA funding ended with a House bill to cut off funding in two years, Thornberry said.

• Thornberry said he supports military funding at current levels, though he could support some increases.

He said plans to vote for the latest round of military cuts, but believes the efforts to save money have gone far enough.

• There is a move afoot to repeal the Davis-Bacon Act, which requires workers on federal projects to be paid union scale wages, he said.

• There is sentiment to urge Occupational Safety and Health Administration to work with employers to enhance safety, Thornberry said. That is in contrast to the 1994 sentiment which urged OSHA to apply standards to ranch and farm operations and attach criminal penalties for violations, he said.

• Affirmative action may be the biggest campaign issue in the 1996 presidential race, Thornberry said.

He said Republicans want to include people of all races and sexes, but want no quota rules.

Tax reform may also contend for the top spot among hot issues for the 1996 campaign year, Thornberry said.

• Since the Supreme Court ruled that campaign contributions are a form of freedom of speech, political action committees will continue to exist, he said.

• The Congressman expects an amendment which will prohibit fetal tissue research. He said it will take a new Supreme Court to overturn Roe vs. Wade, the 1974 decision which legalized abortion in the United States.

• Pantex isn't likely to go to Nevada, he said.

It is more likely that Pantex, the cleanest Department of Energy site, will take on new missions rather than move or close, Thornberry said.

And who is the likely 1996 GOP presidential contender? Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas or Sen. Phil Gramm of Texas.

"It's too early to tell," he said.

Thursday's announcement that two long time backers of President Bill Clinton - Tyson Foods and the Stephens banking family of Arkansas - have changed horses putting their money on Dole, is only "somewhat significant," Thornberry said.

"We need to not underestimate Clinton's political clout," he said.

The Liberty Bluegrass Boys charm audiences Saturday at the Old Mobeetie Bluegrass Festival. While bands played and sang onstage, lots of shade tree pickin' could be heard off stage.

Toe-tappin' music lovers attend Old Mobeetie Bluegrass Festival

OLD MOBEETIE - They resined up their fiddles and drew down their bows at the 16th annual Old Mobeetie Bluegrass Festival which yearly draws toe tapping music lovers under the elm tree shade for old timey music and good fellowship.

A summer sky like a great blue bowl smiled down on Saturday music lovers who ate homemade ice cream and listened to old favorites like "Rolling in My Sweet Baby's Arms" and the "Orange Blossom Special."

On Friday, a summer storm sent festivalgoers scrambling for cover when rain blew in and shut down the stage.

Amarilloan Jack Griswold, with a suntan like a Coppertone commercial and eyes as blue as a new born baby's, has been involved the festival since its inception.

"People that's not involved don't know what all goes on," Griswold said.

"I enjoyed it and made lots of friends ... I don't go to festivals but what when I park, people don't go to hollerin' 'Hey, Jack,'" Griswold said.

Griswold picks the guitar and banjo, but doesn't do much singing. He took up the instruments at age 55.

"When they're a bunch of good pickers, I do more listening than picking," he said.

Pampa Army Air Field Reunion scheduled

The Pampa Army Air Field Reunion Association Inc. will hold its 1995 annual reunion Aug. 17-19, its 23rd get-together.

Early registration will be held Wednesday, Aug. 16, from 4-7 p.m. in the Coronado Inn lobby, followed by a dutch-treat dinner and visitation.

Scheduled activities include tours, golf, a performance of TEXAS, business meeting and banquet.

Registration continues Thursday, Aug. 17, from 8:30-10 a.m. Friday, Aug. 18, will include a business meeting and election of officers, and the annual banquet will be held at 7 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 18.

Those attending will have the opportunity to participate in several tours, including a local industrial plant, homes, an area ranch, shopping and a look at J.C. Daniels' antique cars. Golf will also be available. A trip to Palo Duro Canyon for those wanting to catch a performance of TEXAS will also be available.

A special highlight for those attending this year will be a chance to inspect the recently acquired U.S. Marine Corps PBJ aircraft, known more familiarly to the public as a B-25 Mitchell Bomber. The aircraft, currently stored at Perry Lefors Field, was acquired for a planned static exhibit at Freedom Museum USA.

The dark blue bomber, fully restored by conservators at the U.S. Marine Corps aviation museum in Quantico, Va., was destined for static display at the USMC museum in Cherry Point, N.C., until funding cuts forced the search for another home.

Freedom Museum USA members learned about the PBJ when a member of the local National B-25 Preservation Group chapter heard about the aircraft on a visit at the Mid-America Aviation Museum in Liberal, Kan.

Museum officials went to work and, with the efforts of W.C. "Dub" Ferguson Jr. of Magnolia, Ark., a board member of the museum and active member of the PAAFRA, acquired the aircraft, which arrived in Pampa in time to be in the Top O' Texas Rodeo parade.

The B-25 was the plane used for much of the training at the former covered the last weekend in July logged the lowest amounts of rainfall from 1895 to 1979.

"And people think bluegrassers are just dumb hay-seeds," Tolbert laughed.

Fiddler Bill Smith has been playing 45 to 50 years.

"I learned it from my dad's brother," the retired electrician said.

He fiddled for Wanda Jackson, an Oklahoma City country music singer turned Baptist preacher. He plays professionally for the Big Texan and in the Tri State Bluegrass Express, a band which performed at the first Old Mobeetie Festival.

"I put a lot of stock in this (bluegrass) club. I don't care for 'hot' or 'new' grass musicians. It takes no talent. What you have here on that stage is supposed to be the best of traditional bluegrass," said Smith, an association past president.

Most members are more than 45 years old and prefer the older music, Smith said.

He won't compromise his love of traditional music for the "wild" stuff, he said.

"And I'll step aside first," Smith said adamantly.

Bluegrass, which has its roots in the Scots-Irish heritage of Appalachia, has its own Texas flavor, aficionados say.

"This is still Bob Wills country regardless of what type music is played. Bob Wills is king," said Tolbert.

Baptist seminary retains accreditation from one agency

FORT WORTH (AP) - The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools chose not to penalize Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, which was placed on probation by another agency.

"Southwestern remains a member in good standing," said David Carter, associate executive director of the Southern Association's Commission on Colleges.

The seminary was placed on a two-year probation by the Association of Theological Schools in January after questions arose about last year's firing of then-President Russell Dilday.

The Southern Association investigated the governance of the school and sent a team to school twice this year.

Susan Smith convicted of murdering her kids

UNION, S.C. (AP) — Susan Smith knew what she was doing when she strapped her boys into her car and rolled it into a lake, and what she did was murder, a jury found after deliberating for more than 2 1/2 hours Saturday.

Ms. Smith shivered as the two verdicts were read and the jurors polled one by one. Defense lawyer David Bruck put his arm around her.

The sequestered jury will decide after a hearing scheduled for Monday whether she will be sentenced to death by electrocution, or life in prison.

The panel rejected the lesser charge of involuntary manslaughter, which carries a sentence of up to five years in prison.

Prosecutor Tommy Pope said the penalty phase of the trial could last as long as a week. Bruck declined to say what evidence he will produce at the hearing.

"This is a very difficult case, it's a heart-breaking case. It's a terrible tragedy," Bruck said. He added that he wasn't surprised by the verdict.

Ms. Smith's sons, 3-year-old Michael and 14-month-old Alex, vanished on Oct. 25. Their 23-year-old mother claimed for nine days that a black carjacker had abducted them. On Nov. 3, she confessed she let her car roll into the lake with the boys strapped in their car seats.

Prosecutors contended she killed them to eliminate an obstacle to a love affair, but defense lawyers called her act a failed suicide attempt by a young woman with a long history of emotional problems.

In closing statements earlier Saturday, both sides stressed Ms. Smith's state of mind.

The prosecution emphasized its claim that she made a conscious decision to drown the boys: "She had her hands over her ears so she could not hear those babies crying out her name," Pope said, his voice rising. "Crying out for their father. Asking for her to come back and save them."

The defense hammered hard at her confusion: "Was it evil? Was it wicked? Or was it reckless?" Judy Clarke asked. "Evilness had nothing to do with this. Mental illness, mental disorder, whatever you want to call it, had everything to do with it."

After about 35 minutes of deliberation, the jury asked to see two TV interviews with Ms. Smith, including one "where she was pleading for help."

In that interview, a day after Ms. Smith let her car roll into the lake, she described the carjacker and shared her hopes and prayers for the boys.

The judge dismissed one juror just before deliberations began, saying he had a family tie to the case.

The judge agreed Saturday to the jury to consider the lesser charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Outside, a crowd gathered in the muggy evening air. A former neighbor of Ms. Smith, Dot Frost, left the building in tears as deliberations began.

"I don't want to see Susan get the death penalty," she said. "They should go get the ones that hurt her. And they hurt her like hell. ... She loved those kids."

Pampa High School Class of '45 schedules 50th year reunion

Heat wave death toll hits 13 in Spain

SEVILLE, Spain (AP) — Temperatures hovered over 108 degrees Saturday in much of Spain, causing two deaths and raising the toll of victims of a week-long heat wave to 13.

Saturday's two victims succumbed in Seville, said a spokeswoman at the southern city's Virgen del Rocío hospital. She said most of the casualties were elderly people suffering from chronic ailments exacerbated by the heat.

Man experiences pain relief with acupuncture

Rick T. Wilson of Amarillo experienced a numbness in his left arm that resulted in a loss of dexterity and strength in his left hand. He also experienced pain in his left shoulder and lower neck area.

After a series of treatments, the 41-year old patient regained dexterity and strength in his left hand and he doesn't experience any discomfort in his shoulder or neck area.

According to Wilson, the treatments have made a significant difference in his daily activities. He would recommend acupuncture to anyone who suffers from chronic pain and needs drug-free relief.

Rick Wilson is just one of hundreds of Amarillo and area acupuncture patients who have reported pain relief after a series of acupuncture treatments. Many patients report relief after being treated with acupuncture. The amount of relief experienced and the time involved in achieving that relief depends on the individual and the ailment.

The China Acupuncture Clinic, with offices at 1700 N. Duncan in Pampa and 6015-B W. 45th in Amarillo, is proud to offer hope to hundreds of people who suffer from all types of ailments and injuries. Acupuncture involves the use of a special type of needle that is inserted into definite "acupoints" on the body in order to obtain the therapeutic effect. Research shows that changes in physiology, physiopathology and biochemistry occur during treatment and these changes produce profound results including alleviation of pain.

Wong, a certified acupuncture specialist, says that acupuncture, according to the prestigious World Health Organization, has been successfully used in the treatment of at least 47 different diseases including migraine headaches, bursitis, osteoarthritis, trigeminal neuralgia, menstrual problems, sex problems and other ailments. Acupuncture is also utilized for weight control and to help people break the smoking habit. Wong reports a 90 percent success rate for smoking cessation treatment.

"Acupuncture is an ancient healing art that has offered pain relief and freedom from many forms of addiction to millions of individuals worldwide," Wong commented. "At the China Acupuncture Clinic we would be happy to visit with you about a course of treatment for yourself or a member of your family. We feel confident we can make a significant difference in your lifestyle without resorting to pain killers or other types of medication."

For a consultation and more information about acupuncture, visit the China Acupuncture Clinic located at 1700 N. Duncan or call them at 1-806-669-3253. If you live in the Amarillo area, visit them at 6015-B W. 45th or call 1-806-352-0225.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Tax proposal lacks significant change

House Minority Leader Richard Gephardt of Missouri has at least brought the Democrats into the tax reform game. But while his promise of greater simplicity and a 10% income tax rate for most taxpayers - at least those families making less than $40,200 - is attractive on the surface, the Gephardt proposal offers much less in the way of simplicity and incentives for economic growth than do some of the other proposals on the table.

Indeed, it probably should not be analyzed in anything but in terms of the strictest political opportunism.

Gephardt's plan would drop almost all deductions except the deduction for mortgage interest, and install five basic tax rates. A married couple making up to $40,200 would pay a 10% income tax, a couple making up to $97,150 would pay at a 20% rate, and there would be three other rate levels - 26%, 32% and 34%. Gephardt claims that three-quarters of American taxpayers would fall into the 10% tax bracket.

What Gephardt's proposal does not do is to address the bias against saving and investment that is so much a part of the current tax system. Indeed, if anything, it reinforces that bias. Gephardt is upfront about that. "We speak for those who have no idle investments," he said in his speech introducing his plan. But investments and savings are not "idle"; they are the engines of economic growth and job creation.

For anybody with savings income and real estate, the Gephardt plan would not provide much more simplicity than does the current nightmarish system. Interest and dividends, capital gains, the amount of taxable Social Security and income from small businesses and farms would still need to be added up for taxation purposes. All these would probably require separate schedules. And money that is saved or invested would be taxed two or three times, as it is now.

The advantages of a genuinely flat tax or a consumption tax - besides the elimination of double taxation - lie mainly in the reduction of paperwork and reporting requirements. A simplified tax system holds the promise of making more time and money available for the kind of investment that creates new businesses and new jobs. Gephardt's proposal would provide more simplicity and perhaps lower taxes for lower income taxpayers - not to be sneezed at - but would not eliminate any of the current roadblocks the tax system throws in the path of people who want to start businesses or undertake other entrepreneurial activities.

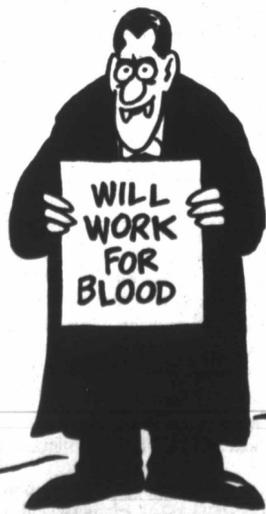

Whatever its shortcomings, however, at least the Gephardt proposal represents a recognition from a prominent Democrat that the current tax system is badly broken. Most political observers believe that far reaching tax reform - with outright elimination of the income tax on the table for the first time in memory - is likely after the 1996 elections. Gephardt's proposal gives voters a hint about what Democrats might do if returned to power. It should help make the voting in 1996 a little more informed than it might otherwise be - unless he comes up with two or three other proposals between now and then and further confuses the issue.

'Crazy checks': A welfare story

In order to fully appreciate this column, you just have to get your pay stub and see how much of your earnings was taken out for Social Security. Lake Providence, La., is probably the poorest town in the country. But one of its Citizens does quite well. According to Reader's Digest, Rosie Watson goes to the post office each month to pick up nine federal welfare checks totaling $3,893 worth of tax-free income that adds up to $46,716 a year.

Watson, 44, gets $343.50 in disability payments because a Social Security judge found her too stressed out to work. Weighing 386 pounds, her common-law husband also gets a disability check for the same amount. Rosie has seven children ranging in age from 13 to 22. They've all scored poorly on psychological tests and lagged behind in school. Under government welfare rules; her kids are eligible to receive $458 each for failing to demonstrate "age-appropriate behavior." These welfare payments in Lake Providence and other communities are so widespread that they are popularly known as "crazy checks."

According to the Reader's Digest story, Rosie's handouts haven't contributed much to civilized living standards. "The screen door hangs open. Soaps blare from the television. Koaches crawl the walls in the living room; the kitchen is caked with dirt. The house lacks a telephone, but Rosie does have two scanners to monitor police calls." Rosie explains her scanners, saying, "That's so I know what's going on."

Willie Bell, a black, is the principal of Southside Elementary School across the street from Rosie's house. Bell complained, while appearing before the National Commission on Childhood Disability, that "SSI is having an impact on my students' academic performances because I have honor roll students who are no longer trying because of the need to substantiate their claims for disability benefits." Bell and his staff say parents are encouraging, or coaching, their children to perform poorly and misbehave in school to get the SSI checks. "The children don't want to fail," Bell says. "They are doing what Mama wants."

Ray Owens, school psychologist from Moorehouse Parish, said, "Many parents don't spend the money (crazy money) on the child." One father's boy, Owens recalls, was bleeding from the gums, but one dentist wouldn't treat the boy because he didn't accept Medicaid. The father responded, when asked why he didn't spend some of the $458 on a private dentist, "That's my money."

If I didn't know better, I'd swear the "crazy money" scheme was part of an insidious Ku Klux Klan plot to sabotage black education. However, this program and others that produce similar bizarre disincentives have the support of "caring" white liberals, black politicians and civil rights activists. If the Republican Congress ever got around to ending the crazy money program, rest assured we'd hear choruses of liberal howls of protest just as we heard when changes were being made in the school lunch program. They'd accuse the Republicans of abandoning the nation's children, with the media buying into the charge.

History is not going to be kind to liberals. With their mindless programs, they've managed to do to black Americans what slavery, Reconstruction and rank racism found impossible: destroy families and the work ethic. Liberals share Rosie Watson's vision of a compassionate society. Rosie says, "I've got nothing to hide. SSI has done a lot for our family. We're not able to work, and it's the best income."

Today in history

By The Associated Press
Today is Sunday, July 23, the 204th day of 1995. There are 161 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:
Fifty years ago, on July 23, 1945, French Marshal Henri Petain, who had headed the Vichy government during World War II, went on trial, charged with treason. (He was condemned to death, but his sentence was commuted. On this date in 1951, Petain died in prison.)

On this date:
In 1829, William Austin Burt of Mount Vernon, Mich., received a patent for his "typographer" - a forerunner of the typewriter.

In 1885, Ulysses S. Grant, the 18th president of the United States, died in Mount McGregor, N.Y., at age 63.

In 1886, New York saloonkeeper Steve Brodie claimed to have made a daredevil plunge from the Brooklyn Bridge into the East River.

In 1892, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia was born.

In 1904, by some accounts, the ice cream cone was invented by Charles E. Menches during the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis.

The return of sporting standards

R. Emmett Tyrrell Jr.

The Brits are being difficult again. When Temper Tantrum McEnroe was being his rebarbative self at Wimbledon, they were shocked and displeased. Now, a perfect gent, Pete Sampras, has just won his third straight Wimbledon, and they complain that he is boring. Boring? He just made it clear that he is one of the greatest tennis players ever to step on the court at Wimbledon. In beating Boris Becker the other day, he was so overwhelming that he never faced a break point. His serve is among the most precise and powerful in the history of tennis. Of 26 service points, he won 24 during one set. And the Brits call him boring.

Well, perhaps we should not judge them harshly. There are American sports fans who find Sampras boring, too. In fact, there are large numbers of so-called sports fans all over the civilized world who attend events to be entertained, and neither superb execution nor sportsmanship satisfies them. They are oblivious to that which makes sports worthy of an intelligent person's attention. These oafs sit in the stands in anticipation of vulgarity, brutality and embarrassment: a sports figure wiggling his posterior at them, Roseanne grabbing her crotch and spitting after singing the National Anthem before a San Diego Padres game, that sort of thing. This mentality displays very little knowledge of any sport - aside, perhaps, from a shaky grasp on statistics. Few have remained active in sport, and many never participated in any sports event in their lives. They would be just as happy watching Oprah if vendors walked through the audience selling beer and peanuts.

After cringing over the deplorable conduct of my countryman, McEnroe, I take heart in Sampras' manners and his colossal achievements. Possibly, the long decline in manners that began in American athletics with Muhammad Ali and Joe Namath is over. For too long, an athlete could make a name for himself with boorish manners and some cheap gimmick: a clenched fist during the National Anthem, a dirty sock worn round the head in place of a head band, smacking an opponent when his back was turned. True, the disgusting Andre Agassi is still around, but then there is the matured Boris Becker. He certainly displayed a sportsman's grace in defeat, and he actually had something illuminating to say about the game.

After losing in the final to Sampras, Becker observed, "Many people have been talking about a role model with Andre Agassi. If there's one role model in tennis, it's Pete Sampras. He's behaving perfectly on the court, he's a nice fellow off the court, and he's playing great tennis altogether. He doesn't really have a bad shot in his game. I think he's definitely extremely good for the game of tennis." And statements like that are good for sport.

There is too much hype and too much misspent money in sports today. The commentators are the Pontius Pilates of it all, lamenting bad manners and cheapness even as they dwell excitedly over them. Writer and athlete Taki Theodoracopoulos, writing in London's Spectator, reminds us of The New York Times' incomparable sports commentator of yesteryear, who "wrote about the small fry as well as the champs. Most of all, he wrote about sporting gestures and courage on the court. They do go together. Now we have Bud Collins, a cheerleader for gross and boorish behavior as long as it attracts headlines." And Taki reminds us of the gentlemen in sports who were so civilized that they could think and write, notwithstanding their greatness in athletics. He summons to memory the champion of the 1920s, Bill Tilden, who wrote of Jean Borotra, his rival, "Borotra's personality was far more intriguing than his tennis. He was what passes for typically French. That is to say, he had all the charm, warmth, glamour and complete insincerity which is Paris."

A splendid new book expresses in vigorous detail my prejudices and hopes for a new era in sports dominated by gents like Sampras. In Sporting Gentlemen: Men's Tennis from the Age of Honour to the Cult of the Superstar, Philadelphia E. Digby Baltzell relates the history of tennis to an evolving culture of declining standards. He writes of the turn-of-the-century era of Anglo-Saxon confidence, fair play and the superiority of the gentleman. Its message should not be lost on those who admire sport for values that set it apart from mere grotesque spectacle. For that matter, its message should not be lost on those who hope that in time our cities will be returned to the law abiding.

Dismissing atrocities for the sake of profit

Charley Reese

President Clinton made a mistake, recognizing Vietnam. I'm not surprised. That Arkansas creek jumper has the mouth of a Democrat but the heart of a Wall Street Republican.

That's what it's all about - money. A bunch of big American corporations thinks it can make caboodles of money in Vietnam. If it does it in the usual way, it will close factories in America and hire cheap labor in Vietnam.

The profiteers don't care about American prisoners of war who were tortured and executed. They don't care about the missing in action still unaccounted for even though the U.S. government knows they were captured alive. They don't care that the sorry Communist government of Vietnam has lied all these years, handing over a bone now and then and treating the families of the MIAs like dogs. They don't care that the same sorry government abuses the hell out of the human rights of the Vietnamese people. All they care about is money.

And that's all Clinton and most politicians care about, too. They'll treat the American people like dirt, but they'll lick the shine off any wallet full of cash.

So they abuse American foreign policy for financial and political advantages. Then they insult the intelligence of the American people with their cow-pie explanations.

Here's what's wrong with recognizing Vietnam:

1. It tells the rest of the world that the United States puts private profits ahead of public principles. It says our foreign policy is for sale. If you want something from the U.S. government, see Mobil or Pepsi or some other fat cat.
2. It tells the world our rhetoric about human rights is nothing but cheap lies. If a place smells of profits, then the U.S. government doesn't care if it also stinks of prisoners, corpses and tortured bodies.
3. It tells the world that when American politicians talk about promoting democracy, they're lying about that, too. Vietnam is no democracy; the present government has murdered, killed, maimed, tortured and imprisoned thousands of Vietnamese patriots to make sure it isn't democratic.

Please note for future reference that nearly all the American leftists who said during the Vietnam War that we should not help the South Vietnamese government because it was undemocratic have lost their interest in democracy.

4. It tells the families of those who died that dying for the cause of freedom is less important than American corporations signing lucrative contracts with the people who killed them.

5. It tells the young men and women in the armed forces today that they are not only expendable in battle, they are also expendable for political expediency and private gain.

The United States left living Americans in Vietnamese prisons and lied about it. It is still lying about them.

Sen. Bob Smith, R-N.H., one of a small number of decent men in the Senate, has noted that Vietnam has the records that would clear all the MIA cases but refuses to divulge them. He has shown a lot of courage and integrity in standing up for the MIAs and suffered a lot of liberal ridicule as a result. He deserves, however, the gratitude of Americans.

Clinton slipped and told the truth. He said he'd rather have the families of the MIAs mad at him this year than next year during the campaign. He does a disgraceful thing and [times it-What??] for cheap political gains. He gave aid and comfort to the Vietnamese communists when they were killing and capturing Americans. This is the second time he has turned his back on those Americans who fought a war from which he ran.

Letters to the editor

A fine experience

To the editor:

On Sunday evening, July 2nd, 1995, at 6 p.m. in the First Baptist Church in Pampa, Texas, we had an experience I never thought possible or would never come about. But thanks to our Good Lord and our black brothers and sisters from four of our fellow Christian churches and our pastor Dr. Darrell Rains of First Baptist.

We had pastors and our black brothers and sisters in Christ from New Hope Baptist Church, Macedonia Baptist Church, Open Door Church of God in Christ, St. Mark CME Methodist Church.

When the black people began arriving, they didn't just go and seat themselves, they stayed at the front door to greet and welcome others as they came, and all in all everything went off beautifully. Nothing rehearsed — That's the way God's people are supposed to work, and we did.

One thing, when the services began and the music started, you could feel the spirit of the Lord. The words Brother Patrick preached were very inspirational. It was great to see how others worship their Lord and Savior. It's an experience I enjoyed and will stay with me a long, long time.

After the service, we all met in the fellowship hall for ice cream, cake, cookies, tea and coffee. It was a great social time that was enjoyed by everyone. It was a great night for me and I hope for everyone present.

Thanks again for a good, enjoyable night of good Christian fellowship.

Your brother in Christ,
Bob Andersen

No 'yokels' serving

To the editor:

"YOKEL: a rustic; a country bumpkin." Any writer who indulges in referring to school board members as "local yokels," as was done recently in this space, does not wish to be taken seriously, and I am pleased to accommodate them.

Our community should encourage the expression of opinion without resort to ad hominem attacks. Pampa, like any other city, may have a quota of yokels, but I doubt that many of them find a seat on the school board or other governing bodies.

Policy on letters

The Pampa News welcomes and encourages readers to express their opinions on issues of public interest and concern. However, we also reserve the right to accept or reject any letter for publication.

Letters should be 300 words or less. Letters submitted for publication should be neat and legible, typed if possible, or at least handwritten in a clear manner. Letters may be edited for length, clarity, spelling, grammar, taste, style and potentially libelous statements. Submission of a letter does not guarantee its publication, nor can we guarantee a date of publication due to space and time limitations.

ALL letters must be signed for publication; no unsigned, name withheld or anonymous letters will be published. The writer must list an address and a telephone number or numbers where he or she may be contacted for verification, if needed; addresses and telephone numbers will not be printed, unless requested for a specific reason.

Poetry, candidate or political endorsements, letters to third parties and "thank you" letters will not be published except at the discretion of the editor, depending on general interest.

Letters may be dropped off at the office, 403 W. Atchison, or mailed to The Pampa News, Letters to the Editor, P.O. Box 2198, Pampa, TX 79066.

On hauling grass

To the editor:

I understand the city hauls grass only up to 23rd Avenue. I also understand the lack of money is why they don't serve us all.

The city does not have any business being in the grass hauling business. Let everyone take care of their own grass. Continue what you have always done, hauling items that will not go in the Dumpsters. We sure don't need any more taxes for this service.

You can haul grass in your car, you don't have to have a pickup.

Pampa city commissioners to meet Tuesday

Pampa city commissioners are to meet in work session at 4 p.m. and regular session at 6 p.m. Tuesday to consider:

- Review of city contract with American Medical Transport. The contract expires Sept. 30.
- A resolution authorizing the submission of a Texas Community Development Program application to the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs for the disaster relief fund.
- An ordinance authorizing issuance of general obligation bonds to satisfy the court ordered judgment in Wilkinson and Fortner vs. the city of Pampa and Glen Hackler.

- Change orders for street work on Duncan Street and Frost Street which total $12,412.75.
- Appointments to the traffic commission.

An executive session is planned to consider appointments to the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority.

Also set for closed discussion is Jack Chaney vs. city of Pampa.

A public hearing for citizen comments on the priority of tornado reconstruction efforts is scheduled during the regular meeting. The work session will reconvene after the meeting for budget discussions.

Work sessions are held in the third floor conference room of City Hall and meetings are held in city commission chambers on the third floor.

KAMR adds new reporter for weekend

AMARILLO - KAMR-TV has announced the addition of Dave Speelman to the News 4 staff. Dave began his duties as weekend weather anchor and reporter on July 22.

Speelman comes to Amarillo from WGBC-TV, the NBC affiliate in Meridian, Miss., where he headed up their weather department and anchored the noon news.

"I'm looking forward to the opportunity to work with top of the line weather equipment and a news organization as professional as News 4," Speelman said.

Bill Dunaway, vice president and general manager of KAMR-TV, says, "We know Dave will make an exciting addition to the professionals on staff at News 4. His experience will help us to better serve our viewers on the High Plains."

Speelman graduated from Anderson University in Anderson, Ind., with a bachelor of arts degree in broadcast journalism. He continued his education at Murray State University in Murray, Ken., where he received a master of science degree in mass communications. He started out doing weather forecasting and news reporting in radio. In 1992, he expanded into television and continued weather forecasts and reporting. He has extensive training in the weather forecasting field and is working to receive accreditation from the American Meteorological Society.

Rigs fall by one

HOUSTON (AP) - The number of oil and gas rigs operating nationwide fell by one this week to 719, Baker Hughes Inc. said Friday.

There were 779 rigs operating during the same week a year ago.

Of rigs running this week, 391 were exploring for natural gas and 305 for oil. Twenty-three rigs were listed as miscellaneous.

Houston-based Baker Hughes has kept track of the count since 1940. The tally peaked at 4,500 in December of 1981 during the oil boom. It dropped to a record low of 596 in the summer of 1993.

'L.A. Times' cuts sections, staff positions

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Los Angeles Times, citing soaring costs of newsprint and a still-soft regional economy, will eliminate several sections, its Washington edition and about 150 editorial jobs.

"The elements we are eliminating are unprofitable, and in the current environment we simply cannot afford to continue publishing them," Publisher Richard T. Schlosberg said in a statement Friday.

The move is part of a reorganization and cost-cutting effort that has brought a 29 percent reduction in staff since 1990, the death of a San Diego edition in 1992 and the demise of three weekly suburban sections in May.

His announcement detailed some of the cuts that parent Times Mirror Co. announced were in the works earlier this week.

Profits fell 42 percent in the second quarter and Times Mirror closed its money-losing New York Newsday last Sunday.

Schlosberg cited the soft Southern California economy and the cost of newsprint, up 85 percent since spring 1994.

Editorial layoffs involve full-time, part-time and temporary employees. Full-time employees will receive severance packages of up to a year's pay, health benefits and job-hunting assistance.

The Times will still have more than 1,100 people in its news department after the staff cuts, Schlosberg said. The Times had already eliminated 230 positions since January through attrition, buyouts and reorganization.

Within weeks, the Times will cease publication of the City Times section, which appears every Sunday; Nuestro Tiempo, a weekly Spanish-language tabloid newspaper; and World Report, which appears every Tuesday.

Amarillo NARI chapter forms

ARLINGTON, Va. - The National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI) expands its nationwide network of chapters by welcoming a new chapter: NARI-Greater Amarillo.

David Burks has been named the first president of NARI-Greater Amarillo. The charter was officially conveyed on June 30.

The chapter currently consists of 15 members and is growing.

According to William C. Carmichael, NARI executive vice president, "We are steadily increasing our presence throughout the country and are pleased to add Greater Amarillo to the list of areas where contractors and remodeling professionals have banded together through NARI to promote consumer awareness, develop their business and technical skills, and increase the integrity of the remodeling industry as a whole."

NARI is a non-profit trade association with nearly 6,000 member companies nationwide, representing over 40,000 remodeling industry professionals. With over 50 years of experience, NARI is committed to enhancing the professionalism of the remodeling industry and serving as an ally to homeowners.

For additional information about NARI, call (703) 276-7600.

'TEC Connection' airs today

AMARILLO - KAMR-TV and the Amarillo office of the Texas Employment Commission are working together to open doors to a brighter future for everyone on the High Plains.

At 5 p.m. today, KAMR-TV will air TEC Connection, a half-hour show designed to bring together employers and prospective employees.

TEC Connection will feature segments on Texas Employment Commission programs such as Job Search Seminars, The Job Training Partnership Act and TEC Express, just to name a few.

Also featured will be numerous job applicants and a summary of their qualifications.

TEC Connection will be hosted by Roy McCoy, KAMR-TV morning weather anchor and Employment Interviewer at the Texas Employment Commission.

For employers this show could save time and money in finding qualified applicants for their company.

For those searching for a job, it is an excellent opportunity to reach a large number of employers, KAMR and TEC officials said.

Desk & Derrick to meet in Borger

The regular monthly meeting of the Pampa Desk and Derrick Club will be held Tuesday at the Borger Country Club in Borger.

Speaker will be Pete Stynes with Phillips Petroleum. His presentation will be on the operations of the Borger Refinery and the Philtex/Ryton Plant.

Stynes has a bachelor of science degree from the University of Michigan and came to Borger in 1985 as an associate process engineer. He is presently the Philtex/Ryton area manager.

The social time will begin at 6:30 p.m. with the meal and meeting beginning at 7 p.m.

The public is invited and reservations can be made by contacting Esther McAdoo at 655-9345 or 665-3404.

Club members wishing to car pool should meet at W-O Operating Company on the Borger highway at 5:45 p.m.

Minding your own Business

By Don Taylor

That sorry service

A few weeks ago, I mentioned that you can measure the quality of your customers service by how often you have to say you're sorry. This thought was one of several I mentioned in that previous column. However, it generated more comments than all the other thoughts combined. Several readers suggested that I should devote an entire column to "we're sorry customer service." A few suggested the shorter version of "sorry service."

I made notes of those suggestions in my column idea file and went on with more urgent matters. I find that good ideas from readers are like wine: They need a little time to turn into something good. However, a series of incidents occurred a few days later that made me realize that the time for this column had come.

Sorry service

The following incidents all happened within a few hours. It started as I pulled into a fast food drive-thru to order breakfast. After waiting a few moments a voice in the speaker said, "I'm sorry to keep you waiting, may I take your order now?" I ordered, and waited for the cars ahead of me to move.

A short time later - I hadn't moved an inch - the voice in the speaker came back and once again offered to take my order. I explained that I had already ordered but couldn't pull ahead until the cars ahead of me moved. "Oh, I'm sorry," the voice said.

When I reached the window a few minutes later, I was told they were out of large cups. "Sorry." When I finally got nearly what I ordered, the parting words from the pleasant face in the window were, "Sorry you had to wait so long." Four "sorrys" on one visit may be a record.

Later at the office the "we're sorry" saga continued when I tried to complete a telephone call. After being put on hold, the next words I heard were, "I'm sorry to keep you on hold so long." When I asked to be connected to my party, the operator said, "I'm sorry, but Mr. So-and-so isn't in, may I connect you to his voice mail?" I said yes and was greeted with, "I'm sorry, but I can't take your call just now..." I left a message.

During my lunch hour, I ventured into a retail store to pick up some needed supplies. "I'm sorry, we're out of that just now," was the clerk's reply to my request for a common item. So I took what I had and went to check out. At the check-out counter, the clerk had to wait for more one dollar bills. When she returned my change she said, "I'm sorry to make you wait."

Eliminate the cause

While it is polite to apologize, the real answer for "we're sorry" service is to eliminate the causes of having to say you're sorry. If you don't do it, your competitors will.

From observing a number of well-run companies, I can tell you that good planning, common sense and a little hustle will eliminate a lot of "we're sorrys." However, everyone involved must be committed to eliminating poor service.

Recently, I chided a young man who was obviously "dogging it" on his job. "Is that your fastest speed?" I asked.

"Nope," he replied. "I'm only getting minimum wage." "I'm sorry," I said. And, I really was sorry. For I knew he had not yet learned that the secret to getting paid more is to be worth more than you're being paid. However, that's another column. I'm sorry, but I can't go into that now.

Chamber Communiqué

The Pampa Area Disaster Relief Fund, through the generosity of many contributors, has funded 51 Pampa area families $20,410. This fund, administered by the Pampa Ministerial Alliance through the Chamber of Commerce was established to help individuals who suffered damage from the June 8 tornado. Applications for funds can be obtained at the Chamber office at 200 N. Ballard.

Forms for citizen input supporting Pampa's proposal to have the corridor from Amarillo North come east to Pampa and north to Perryton to the state line that the Department of Transportation has designated as one possible route from Lubbock (IH 27) are available at the Chamber office or by calling 669-3241. This form needs to be mailed by Friday, July 28. It is important to show local support to the proposal!

Welcome to the Tri-State Senior Golf Association members and their wives who will be in Pampa this week for the annual tournament to be held at the Pampa Country Club.

Meetings:
Tuesday - 2 p.m., Tourism Committee Meeting in the Nona Payne Room.

FOOTBALL

PAMPA — The 1995 Huntress Pre-Season Rankings has the Lefors Pirates picked as one of the top six-man football teams in the Pampa area. Of the state's 84 six-man teams, Huntress has the Pirates ranked at the No. 43 spot. Lefors finished with a 7-3 record a year ago. The McLean Tigers are ranked No. 50 while the Miami Warriors are No. 68. The Huntress Six-Man Rankings were started during the 1993 state playoffs and have continued since. They are compiled by Granger Huntress of San Antonio, a mathematician, corporate computer salesman and former math teacher.

VOLLEYBALL

PAMPA — Final check-in for all girls registered for the Lady Harvester volleyball camp will be at 4 p.m. today at McNeely Fieldhouse. Each participant will pay remaining fees and pick up equipment to be issued for the camp, which will run from 9 a.m. Monday through Friday. The camp is for fifth through the eighth grades.

AUTO RACING

MORRISON, Colo. (AP) — Kenny Bernstein, Chuck Etchells and George Marnell were the leaders after Friday's opening day of qualifying for the 17th annual Mopar Parts Mile-High Nationals at Bandimere Speedway. Qualifying was to continue Saturday with two sessions for the professional competitors. Final eliminations for the $1,289,950 NHRA Winston Drag Racing Series event are Sunday. Bernstein, of Dallas, set the pace in Top Fuel, covering the quarter-mile distance in a track-record time of 4.892 seconds at 298.90 mph in the Budweiser King. Bernstein's run came during the night session and ousted Mike Dunn from the top spot. Dunn had recorded a 4.892 at 298.90 during afternoon qualifying. Etchells, of Putnam, Conn., was the Funny Car leader with a track-record time of 5.189 at 281.42 in the Kendall GT-1 Dodge. Marnell, of Las Vegas, drove his Olds Cutlass to the top of the Pro Stock field with a 7.474 at 183.26. Marnell and Steve Schmidt recorded identical times with Marnell getting the No. 1 spot with a faster speed. The Pro Stock Bike leader was John Smith at 8.058 and 166.60.

TOUR de FRANCE

LIMOGES, France (AP) — Texan Lance Armstrong got a little help to win the 18th stage of the Tour de France. "The last few kilometers I started to suffer, but I certainly had Fabio on my mind the whole time," Armstrong said. "Certainly those things helped and motivated me today." The Austin resident said he was trying to win for Motorola teammate Fabio Casartelli, who was killed in a crash on Tuesday and was buried Thursday. "I was feeling very very bad in the last bit, but I kept thinking about him and I did that for him," he said. As Armstrong was within sight of the finish line Friday, he pointed to the sky and blew kisses upward in an emotional gesture. "Everyone loved Fabio. He always laughed, he always talked, he had a lot of friends," said Armstrong, a native of Plano. "He never had to be a cyclist because his family had a lot of money, so he was doing it just out of enjoyment." On another hot day, with temperatures close to 95 degrees, Armstrong won the 103-mile leg from Montpon-Menesterol to Limoges with a surprise attack with 18 miles left.

Switzer may have most to prove at camp

By CHIP BROWN Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Training camp typically is a proving ground for players. But at the Dallas Cowboys' camp, the person with the most to prove may well be coach Barry Switzer. Last year, the former Oklahoma coach came to training camp as a last-minute replacement to lead a team coming off back-to-back Super Bowl victories. The team didn't need Switzer's input, it simply needed him to stay out of the way. He did. Assistant coaches made key decisions while Switzer repeatedly compared the NFL to the Big Eight Conference, causing many to wonder if he knew he was out of Norman, Okla. The power vacuum created by Jimmy Johnson's departure and Switzer's arrival created some infighting among assistants. Players — many still loyal to Johnson — were leery of Switzer. With only a few hiccups, the Cowboys repeated as NFC East champions and then turned the ball over three times in the first quarter before losing 38-28 to the San Francisco 49ers in the NFC championship game. That, many argue, was Johnson's team. Now, Switzer says, the Cowboys are his team. During a 13-minute, profanity-laced tirade at a three-day mini-camp two months ago, Switzer said he wouldn't tolerate any deadbeats. He jumped all over the Cowboys' top draft pick, Alabama running back Sherman Williams, for missing a day of the mini-camp to have his picture taken by a trading card company. He also chewed out offensive guard Nate Newton for being 40 pounds overweight. "Now it's my team," he pronounced. The players were listening. "He is taking more control over what's going on and that is a plus for us," said safety Darren Woodson. "The first meeting we attended at the mini-camp, he came in and said that this was his team and he was going to take total control over the decisions made. He told us he was available if we wanted to talk to him face-to-face. I don't blame Barry for sitting back last year and not really touching anything because the team had just won back-to-back Super Bowls. There wasn't much fixing he could do. This year he is going to have to do some fixing," Woodson said. Switzer said he has done his homework. "I have walked the halls. I know our football team. I know our strengths and weaknesses. More importantly, they know me and my personality," Switzer said, adding that he believes he is finally out of Johnson's shadow. "There is not the comparison-contrast that we dealt with daily last year. I think that's something that is gone by the way-side and should be. I know the character, strength and fiber of this team and that's key. I didn't know it last year. I hadn't ever seen them work. I hadn't seen the price they were willing to pay. Now I know what the Dallas Cowboys are," Switzer said. Some players, including Troy Aikman, say Switzer will have to back up his words with actions. "We'll find out once we get into camp," Aikman said of Switzer's promise to take control. "Last year, he didn't call the shots on a day-to-day basis. There was no confusion about that." Veteran safety Bill Bates, who has played for Tom Landry, Johnson and Switzer, said the team will be in trouble if the second-year coach doesn't take charge. "We have always needed someone to step up and be the leader and the motivator on the team," said Bates, who is beginning his 13th season. "The past year was tough because no one really understood what direction we were going in. You just need that figure head there. Barry tried to do that a little bit last year, but it was awful hard with Jimmy being gone and it being his first year. I am glad he has made the statements that he has made." Bates added. "The veteran players appreciate it. We don't need a whole lot of kicking in the pants, but we just need to have somebody there who can point us in the right direction." Switzer says he'll be tough, adding that he already has fined a player $10,000 for missing a team meeting. He proudly pronounced it a team-record fine, although he declined to reveal the player's identity. "I told the player not to test me because that was one test he would flunk, and he did, $10,000 worth," Switzer said. "When I've got to be mean, I am a mean SOB. Don't think I won't fire a player. If I've got to do it, I'll do it."

Amarillo's Browning ready for another try at Tri-State crown

By L.D. STRATE Sports Editor

PAMPA — Amarillo's Joe Bob Browning made quite a run at the Tri-State Seniors Association Tournament championship last year before falling in a playoff to Pampa's Elmer Wilson. Browning, who will make only his second Tri-State appearance, has his game in line for a shot at the championship again. "I've been playing pretty good," Browning said. "I shot a two-over 74 Friday in a tournament here in Amarillo." Browning struck up a friendly rivalry with Wilson in last year's tourney. With the pair tied at 221 at the end of three rounds, Wilson was able to win the tournament on the first playoff hole when he sank a 3-foot putt to beat Browning by one stroke. "Elmer and I are good friends," Browning added. "That Pampa Country Club has a real nice course. It's the best-run tournament there is. Everybody is real nice." Browning tied for medalist honors with Dill DeLoach of Carrollton last year with an opening round 69. He soared to an 80 the second day before finishing with a one-over-par 72 on the last round.

Canadian's Freeman, Midland's Keck win ACC Women's Partnership

AMARILLO — Canadian girls' basketball coach Mona Freeman teamed with Lisa Beck of Midland last week to win the Amarillo Country Club Women's Golf Partnership. Freeman and Beck defeated Juanita Jones and Karen Henderson 2-up for the championship. Beck made a birdie putt on the final hole to clinch the win. It was the second time in three years for Freeman and Beck to win the ACC Partnership. They were seeded fourth after the qualifying round.

Henderson, of Canyon, and Jones, of Amarillo, were the defending champions. Ida Goad of Wheeler and Jean Hassell of Childress won consolation in the first flight. They defeated Pat Payne of Austin and Chloe Roberts of Edmond, Okla., 5-4. Cheryl Bunton of Jacksonville, Fla. and Pat Jayton of Jayton were the first flight champions. They defeated Martha Harlan of New Orleans and Billy Jean Reasor of Shreveport, 2-up. Gail Crowder and Sheryl Maitland of Vail, Colo. were the second flight winners, defeating Ellen Dawson and Ann Herrick, 11-8. Freeman, the former Mona Jennings, won the state golf championship as a high school senior at Wheeler. She overcame injuries received on the basketball court to finish third as a junior. Freeman went to Texas Tech on a golf scholarship. She will be in her second year as head coach of the Lady Wildcats' basketball squad. She previously coached two years at White Deer.

Campbell takes lead in British Open

By RON SIRAK AP Sports Writer

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Michael Campbell, a virtual unknown from New Zealand, made seven birdies and one unbelievable shot to take the lead going into the final round of the British Open. Campbell's 7-under-par 65 was simply sensational, three strokes better than anyone else shot on Saturday and nearly nine strokes below the course average of 73.80 for the third round. It was saved by a miraculous blast from the Road Bunker on No. 17 to within 18 inches of the hole. The shot, with Campbell facing double bogey or worse, put him at 9-under-par 207 going to Sunday, two strokes better than Constantino Rocca of Italy and three ahead of Australian Steve Elkington. John Daly, who won the 1991 PGA Championship, and Corey Pavin and Ernie Els, the last two U.S. Open winners, were in position along with Katsuyoshi Tomori at 211 to put pressure on Campbell in the final round. "I've been watching the British Open on TV since I was 12 years old," said Campbell, a 26-year-old rookie on the European Tour. "Here I am leading the British Open after three rounds. It has a nice ring to it. He wouldn't be leading if it weren't for a bit of luck and a brilliant blast. Campbell's approach to the 17th green landed in the back left corner of the Road Bunker, just 10 inches from the head-high, nearly 90-degree wall between the sand and the green. Campbell had trouble getting a stance, and it seemed impossible that he'd get the ball up high enough and quick enough to get out of the bunker. In fact, he didn't. "It hit the wall about 2 feet below the top," Campbell said. But the ball bounced up instead of back, landed on the lip and trickled to 18 inches from the hole. Campbell broke into a wide smile, held both hands out to the side, palms up at shoulder length, and tipped his hat to the roaring gallery. Later, both Nick Faldo and Ben Crenshaw would need two tries to get out of the Road Bunker with similar but easier shots. "There's someone up there smiling on me," said Campbell, a descendant of a 19th-Century Scottish immigrant who married a Maori woman, the indigenous people of New Zealand. "He became mayor of Auckland and was rather famous in New Zealand," Campbell said. "Now I think I am." Campbell's run at the top came as the second-round leaders faltered. Daly, Tomori and Brad Faxon started the day as co-leaders at 6-under. But Daly and Tomori shot 73 to fall four behind Campbell, along with Pavin and Els, both of whom shot even-par 72.

Rockies routed by Mets, 12-1

DENVER (AP) — Pete Harnisch pitched seven shutout innings and the New York Mets broke open the game with an eight-run eighth Friday night, beating the Colorado Rockies 12-1 for their seventh win in nine games since the All-Star break. Jose Vizcaino drove in three runs and Joe Orsulak had four of the Mets' 18 hits. Brett Butler, who had three straight four-hit games, went 0-for-4. Harnisch (2-7) and Jerry DiPoto combined to shut out the Rockies until Larry Walker's RBI single in the ninth. Harnisch scattered six hits, struck out seven and walked none.

Old anger makes Mexican state ripe for revolt

By ANITA SNOW
Associated Press Writer

TEPETIXLA, Mexico (AP) — A massacre of civilians by soldiers two decades ago set off one of Mexico's rare modern rebellions, pitting a strong-arm governor against a guerrilla leader in this rugged western state.

Now history threatens to repeat itself. Many worry that last month's massacre of 17 peasants by police working for Gov. Ruben Figueroa Alcocer could spark another revolt in impoverished Guerrero state.

"It was after just such a massacre that Lucio Cabanas armed himself and went to the mountains," said Cirilo Plácido, a leader of the Guerrerense Council of 500 Years in Resistance, an Indian rights group with thousands of members statewide.

Plácido referred to the uprising Cabanas led against Figueroa's father, then-Gov. Ruben Figueroa, after soldiers massacred eight people at an anti-government rally. The 36-year-old Mixtec Indian was a boy when his mother told him of the guerrilla's daring raids and kidnappings.

The June 28 massacre could ignite the same pent-up anger. Community leaders and human rights activists say political repression and poverty make Guerrero ripe for revolt.

Nearly half of the state's 3 million people have dirt floors, no plumbing, no potable water. Many survive on small plots of corn and beans.

With its marijuana and opium poppy fields, rural bosses and family feuds, disputes in the state's remote mountain villages are often settled with machetes, bullets or a rope hanging from the bough of a tree.

The leftist Democratic Revolution Party says 40 of its activists have been killed and another 33 "disappeared" since Figueroa took office in 1993.

Plácido showed the scar on his leg where a horse ridden by a policeman stepped on him last September. He was one of about 50 marchers injured when authorities broke up a march in the state capital of Chilpancingo.

Figueroa has ignored a government human rights commission call for him to suspend the state police chief, Cmdr. Manuel Moreno Gonzalez, during an investigation of that incident.

Moreno also was present at the June massacre 20 miles north of Acapulco. It was the first of three violent incidents over a 10-day period. In all, 35 people died.

Witnesses say the 17 peasants were riding in two trucks that were stopped on an isolated dirt road by as many as 300 state policemen. Authorities say the peasants attacked first with machetes. The peasants say the police started firing without warning.

Two police commanders and eight other officers were later arrested in connection with the killings. Human rights activists say the suspects are receiving special treatment in jail, a charge the state government denies.

"I would say that things are worse than they were in the 1970s and that (current) Gov. Figueroa is just like his father," said Javier Mojica of the independent Center for the Promotion and Defense of Human Rights, based in Acapulco.

The massacred peasants belonged to the Peasant Organization of the Southern Sierra, which considers Cabanas a hero. But leaders of the group, known by its Spanish acronym OCSS, say it opposes armed struggle.

"Our only war is the war to find enough food to feed our families," spokesman Jose Asencio Dominguez said outside the organization's headquarters in this town of dirt streets and mud brick houses. "We don't have enough money to buy food, let alone arms."

But others worry. "A new guerrilla war is possible," said Florencio Salazar, former federal deputy from Guerrero for the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, in comments published Tuesday in the Mexico City daily La Jornada. "There are conditions and radical elements seeking violence to change the order of things."

Even Figueroa, a member of the ruling party, has accused the OCSS of links to Cabanas' Party of the Poor, which kidnapped his father for 4 1/2 months in 1974.

OCSS leader Benigno Guzman Martinez, who went into hiding shortly after the massacre, also talks tough.

"If Figueroa wants revolution, we'll give it to him," Guzman declared earlier this year.

THE MIRACLES OF JESUS

"Many other signs therefore did Jesus in the presence of the disciples, which are not written in this book: but these are written, that ye may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye may have life in His name." (Jn. 20:30-31.) The power to perform miracles was certainly God-given as Nicodemus observed (Jn. 3:1-2.) Jesus certainly had supernatural powers beyond ever known before or since. But He did not perform miracles just for the sake of performing miracles. As John says, it was in order that people might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing that they might have life through His name. The emphasis is on believing that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God. This faith is imperative to salvation (Jn. 8:24.) It is, therefore, the will of the heavenly Father that all men be persuaded that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God in order that they might be saved. While no one today has actually seen Jesus nor seen Him perform a miracle, many do believe that He is the Son of God. We believe this, not because we have seen Him nor seen Him perform a miracle but because of what we read of Him in God's book, the Bible. The emphasis today is on the written Word, the Bible. Even though some today still claim to be able to perform miracles, there is no evidence that they can do the things which Jesus did. And, even if such were possible today, what would be the purpose of them? Would they lend any proof to the fact that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God? Certainly not. We accept, by faith, the accuracy of the inspired account of Him and thus believe that Jesus is the Christ. Many others after Jesus had ascended back to heaven performed miracles and signs as Jesus promised they would (Mk. 16:15-20.) These signs were for the purpose of convincing people that those doing the signs were indeed delivering the message of God (Heb. 2:1-4; Acts 8:5-13.) Since the revelation of God's will has been given and written down, we have no further need for the miracles and signs. But we still must believe in Jesus Christ and obey His gospel in order to be saved. But the evidence is in the written Word of God in order to produce a saving faith.

Bar cookies are the baker's best friend. It's faster and easier to fill a pan than measure out individual cookies—and they'll come out neatly the same size if you cut them carefully.

Home-made ice cream sandwiches are a quick and easy dessert. Toast the waffles, spread with fruit preserves and wrap them around ice cream sliced from a half-gallon brick.

Fancy food magazines tell us the cheese course, an assortment of cheeses served after the main course, is back in style. It's a nice way to relax over the last of the wine. Dessert can wait a while.

Smart cooks have discovered frozen puff pastry. What used to be a time-consuming recipe is now a 1-2-3 snap!

New take on an old favorite—chicken nicoise. Slice roast or grilled chicken breasts into strips. Arrange on lettuce with cooked new potatoes, cut up, quartered hard-cooked eggs, green beans or sugar-snap peas, sliced olives and tomatoes. Drizzle on dressing.

High Plains offers free Otoscan appointments

Thea Beck and the hearing care professionals at High Plains Hearing Aid Center take pride in providing their customers with the best possible care. They evaluate everything new that comes on the market and offer those products and services which have proven beneficial to their customers.

During the month of July, High Plains Hearing Aid Center will offer free Otoscan appointments.

This safe procedure allows Thea to record your ear's condition in a color image clearer than an X-ray. You will be able to observe your outer ear, ear canal and ear drum on the Otoscope's color monitor. The Otoscan may be helpful in the early detection of developing conditions which may need attention.

During this special event Mrs. Beck will be able to answer any questions and give information about the Miniscope hearing aid (the latest aid available) and other new technology. To guarantee your personal appointment, it is advisable to call 665-6246 or 1-800-753-1696 to reserve your time.

If a hearing aid is necessary, a Miniscope hearing instrument may be the best choice. The newest in hearing aid technology, the Miniscope hearing instrument is so small it's like a contact lens for the ears. Because of its deep ear canal placement, it may barely be visible to others.

If you need a hearing aid or suspect you may have a hearing problem, visit High Plains Hearing Aid Center at 721 W. Kingsmill or call Thea or a member of her staff at 665-6246 for an appointment. If you like, you can call one of their offices or service centers conveniently located in area towns toll free at 1-800-753-1696.

An Otoscan appointment is an opportunity to learn more about your hearing health with no obligation. If you do need a hearing aid, High Plains Hearing Aid Center can offer you the finest equipment available and include the services of people with long experience in the hearing aid field. Your hearing is too valuable to risk with cheap equipment and dispensers who may or may not have the background to offer you the service you deserve. For service you can trust, put your trust in High Plains Hearing Aid Center.

Journalist's Living Legacy Is His Advice to Slow Down

DEAR READERS: Recently I received a letter from Lilian Thorpe of Pinehurst, N.C., advising me that her father, Wilferd Peterson, had passed away at the age of 94. He was a fine journalist whose poem "Slow Me Down, Lord" has appeared in my column over the years, and also appears in "Keepers," my booklet of the most requested poems and essays.

Mr. Peterson was best known as the author of the "Art of Living" books, eight volumes of essays that appeared in 42 Sunday newspaper magazines during the 1960s and '70s. His books sold more than a million copies during that time.

May I share his thoughts on success from "The Art of Living Treasure Chest" (Simon and Schuster, 1977):

"There are no secrets of success. Success is doing the things you know you should do. Success is not doing the things you know you should not do. Success is discovering your best talents, skills and abilities, and applying them where they will make the most effective contribution to your fellow man. Success is not arriving at the summit of a mountain as a final destination. It is a continuing upward spiral of progress. It is perpetual growth."

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

However, my all-time favorite is "Slow Me Down, Lord," and to honor his memory, here it is again:

Slow me down, Lord!
Ease the pounding of my heart
By the quieting of my mind.
Steady my harried pace
With a vision of the eternal reach of time.
Give me,
Amidst the confusions of my day,
The calmness of the everlasting hills.
Break the tensions of my nerves
With the soothing music of the sighing streams
That live in my memory.
Help me to know
The magical restoring power of sleep.
Teach me the art
Of taking minute vacations of slowing down to look at a flower;

To chat with an old friend or to make a new one;
To pat a stray dog;
To watch a spider build a web;
To smile at a child;
Or to read a few lines from a good book.
Remind me each day
That the race is not always to the swift;
That there is more to life than increasing its speed.
Let me look upward
Into the branches of the towering oak
And know that it grew slowly and well.
Slow me down, Lord,
And inspire me to send my roots deep
Into the soil of life's enduring values
That I may grow toward the stars
Of my greater destiny.

To receive a collection of Abby's most memorable — and most frequently requested — poems and essays, send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby's "Keepers," P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447. (Postage is included.)

Horoscope

Your Birthday

Monday, July 24, 1995

A promising relationship might be established in the year ahead with a person you've long admired from a distance. Together you'll make a dynamic, winning team.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Devote complete attention to your tasks or assignments today. If you let your mind wander and think of other things, jobs may have to be scrapped. Major changes are ahead for Leo in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you find it difficult to say something nice about another today, say nothing at all. Derogatory statements you make will be traced back to you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You might suddenly back off today just when you have a victory well within your reach. Do not quit until the trophy is mounted on the wall.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Concerning an important issue today, take a position that makes sense to you and stick to it. Avoid switching your views to placate others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Keep a close eye on the procedures of persons working for you today. If a costly mistake is made, you will end up bearing the burden.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You like to make your own decisions and this is well and good. Today, however, you might be swayed by inept counseling and do something foolish.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Although a project you're involved in might not be completed on time today, the blame won't be yours. Your co-workers lack drive and determination.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You could prove extremely susceptible to flattery. Beware of persons using this device to further their selfish purposes.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you don't use caution in career matters today, an arrangement you thought was secure might suddenly be snatched away from you. Take nothing for granted.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Do not pretend to be knowledgeable about things today if you have only a cursory understanding. Someone might humiliate you in front of others.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Wishful thinking might replace your ability to make logical assessments in financial affairs today. Strive to see things realistically and without embellishment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Do not be overly concerned today about the views of others. Remember, you can count in your repertoire ideas they wished they had conceived.

Chile peppers add zest to your meals

Horticulturists call them fruits. Botanists call them berries. Your grocer thinks they are vegetables. And when they are dried, they are a spice. All you need to know is that chile peppers (also known as hot peppers) can make your cooking sizzle and soar.

Chile peppers come in many different shapes and sizes. There are short green jalapenos and red cayennes. There are plump, red-cherry "hot" and blackish-green heart shaped poblanos. Each variety has its own flavor and its own degree of heat. Here are some of the varieties and their special characteristics:

- Banana Pepper - a relatively mild pepper often sliced into rings and pickles for use on sandwiches, pizza and salads.
- Anaheim Pepper - also known as the California green chile or the long green chile, it is one of the mildest chile peppers; it is often the favorite for use in chiles rellenos (stuffed peppers).
- Poblano Pepper - also a relatively mild chile pepper, this blackishgreen and heart-shaped favorite has a touch of bitterness; it's perfect for adding mild heat to Mexican and Southwestern dishes.
- Hungarian Hot Yellow Wax

Homemaker's News By Donna Brauchi

Pepper - a somewhat hotter pepper with lots of flavor; this one's excellent pickled whole or minced into a hot pepper relish.

• Cherry Pepper - a medium-hot chile a little more than an inch in diameter; try it in dishes that need an extra "edge" of flavor, but not all-out heat.

• Jalapeno Pepper - a small, pungent green chile made famous by Tex-Mex and Mexican cuisine great for salsas and guacamole.

• Serrano Pepper - a contender, along with the habanero, for the hottest pepper of them all. Use with caution.

• Habanero Pepper - undoubtedly the hottest of the hot!

• Cayenne Pepper - a small, thin, hot pepper most commonly ground for sprinkling over soups, casseroles and stir-fried dishes.

The chile pepper's "kick" comes from a chemical called capsaicin, an amazingly powerful compound not found in any other plant. You would notice the heat of just one single drop of tasteless and odorless capsaicin in 100,000 drops of water.

The heat intensity in recipes calling for hot peppers can be adjusted without seriously compromising the quality of the recipe. By adjusting the proportion of membrane and seeds of the hot peppers used in a recipe, you can adjust the fiery effect the peppers have.

If you desire a mild product, remove the membrane and seeds from the peppers before adding them to the recipe. Some recipes work well with substituting the variety of pepper used, mild for hot or hot for mild, as long as the measurement remains the same.

Hot peppers are coveted for their "bite," but they also provide a significant amount of nutrition. Chile peppers are extremely high in vitamin A, niacin, potassium and calcium.

Pickled hot peppers are a year round option for that hot-pepper zest. Pickled hot peppers are there when you need them. They retain more of their natural flavor than peppers that are allowed to dry. Pickled peppers are also a great way to preserve many peppers at once.

You can pickle just about any variety of hot pepper. Just remember that they require special handling. The seed and interior veins of hot peppers can burn. So, wear rubber gloves and don't touch your face or eyes while handling them.

Make sure you choose peppers that are firm, bright and glossy. Also, check for fresh stems.

For research-based, quality-tested recipes for pickling peppers, contact your Gray County Office of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Teenage smoking surges

ATLANTA (AP) - A federal report blamed the surge of teens who took up smoking in the 1980s on massive promotional campaigns by tobacco companies, including the debut of Joe Camel.

The CDC report is the third government pronouncement in the last week singling out tobacco companies' success at targeting teenage smokers.

In 1980, when tobacco companies spent $771 million on freebies and giveaways, 5.4 percent of 14- to 17-year-olds started smoking, according to a study by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

That dropped to 4.7 percent by 1984, but then rebounded to 5.5 percent in 1989 - the year the tobacco industry spent $3.2 billion on caps, T-shirts, trips, coupons, and other items to promote smoking and brand loyalty, the CDC said, citing figures the companies gave to the Federal Trade Commission.

The highest rate, 6.3 percent, came in 1988, the year R.J. Reynolds introduced the popular Joe Camel cartoon character in its advertising and promotions.

Meanwhile, the percentage of adult smokers dropped, from 33.2 in 1980 to 25.5 in 1990.

La Toya Jackson files bankruptcy for protection from her creditors

NEW YORK (AP) - La Toya Jackson has filed for protection from creditors under federal bankruptcy laws, claiming she had less than $50,000 to her name and bills of between $500,000 and $1 million.

Her husband-agent, Jack Gordon, said the cash crunch was caused by the owners of the Moulin Rouge club in Paris, who are trying to collect $650,000 from the pop singer for cutting short a six-month engagement two years ago.

Gordon said the club owners had filed liens on everything in Jackson's name, including royalties on her book The La Toya Jackson Story and her nude video for Playboy, as well as future performances.

The Chapter 11 petition was filed last week at the U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Manhattan, the court clerk's office said.

"It really wasn't her fault," Gordon said. "It was absolutely forced."

Romance Writers schedule activities

AMARILLO — Romance Writers of the Texas Panhandle has scheduled three special activities for the remaining months of the year, including a fund-raiser event, a writing contest and a "Haunted by Love" conference.

The fund-raiser will be held Aug. 25-26, with a picnic on that Friday night and a workshop the following day.

Activities kick off with a picnic icebreaker at 7 p.m. Friday, Aug. 25, in the large picnic area past waterhole No. 5 in Palo Duro Canyon. Those planning to attend are asked to bring a dish of food large enough to feed at least four people.

On Saturday, Aug. 26, a workshop titled "The Dark Side of Man" will be held at the Harrington Cancer Center Auditorium, 1500 Wallace Blvd., will begin at 10 a.m. and conclude at 4 p.m.

Speaker will be Glenn Starkey, author of such books as Dragon's Breath, The Hunt, Year of the Dragon and The New Kingdom. Starkey, who was awarded his black belt in karate in Japan, is a former Marine Corps sergeant, Vietnam veteran and former police sergeant. He currently is working as a supervisor in the security and incident response team for Amoco, supervising security details for 2,400 employees at one site and for visits by various international dignitaries.

While in the Marine Corps, Starkey was assigned to the State Department for 2 1/2 years, with assignments ranging from an ambassador's personal protection unit to diplomatic details with the Secret Service for the president and vice president of the United States.

Workshop sessions will be held from 10 a.m. to noon and 2-4 p.m., with a dutch-treat lunch at Harrigan's. Cost is $20 if paid before Aug. 15 and $25 the day of the workshop.

Funds raised from the event will pay for Starkey's expenses, with the balance used to defer costs for RWTP's November conference.

Pre-registration fees may be mailed to RWTP, P.O. Box 1343, Amarillo, TX 79105-1343, with checks made payable to RWTP. For more information, call Pam Waddell, chapter advisor, at (806) 352-7982.

In other activities, entries are currently being accepted for a writing contest for unpublished works in categories of romance, mainstream, western and short story. Deadline for submitting entries is Sept. 1. Contest fee is $100 for RWTP members and $110 for non-members.

Contest winners will be announced at the "Haunted by Love" conference scheduled for Nov. 3-4 at the Radisson Inn in Amarillo.

Tentative speakers include Georgia Gentry, Dusty Richards, Eugenia Riley, Bill Ice, Jean Price, Steve Ramos and Cathleen Treacy. Special guest will be Bill Black, president of Leisure.

The conference will include workshops, awards luncheon, mystery dinner, and editor/agent appointments.

For more information on the writing contest and conference, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to RWTP, P.O. Box 1343, Amarillo, TX 79105-1343, or call Pam Waddell at (806) 352-7982.

Diamond-Shamrock reports second quarter earnings show slight increase, credits rise in petroleum prices

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Diamond Shamrock, Inc. reported a slight increase in second-quarter earnings and credited a general rise in petroleum prices for the results.

Diamond Shamrock had second-quarter net income of $28 million, or 93 cents per share, on revenues of $789.7 million. That compares with net income of $27.5 million, or 91 cents per share, on revenues of $646.5 million for the same quarter in 1994.

"Our second quarter earnings reflected improved refining volumes and margins, good retail performance and the strong profitability of our allied businesses, particularly propylene," said Roger R. Hemminghaus, president and chief executive officer of Diamond Shamrock.

For the first six months of this year, the company's profits were $33.4 million, or $1.08 per share, compared with $39.7 million, or $1.29 per share, for the first half of 1994.

A week ago groceries meant a soda and Twinkies. Suddenly, you had to live with your decisions. The freedom of adulthood, at times, was overwhelming. Luckily, you had a family. They were your support, preparing you for the day, and then helping you doing as you needed it.

Without all that nurturing support, well, you would have known how it feels to be a foster teen — adolescents who, due to either an abusive or neglectful situation, have been removed from their homes by the Children's Protective Services of the Texas Department of Human Services.

They've spent much of their growing up years in emergency shelters or group homes. So they've missed out on many of the learning experiences that would have given them independent living skills.

The TDHS has an answer, but it requires your involvement.

GROW UP!

YOU CAN HELP A TEEN UP!

The Texas Department of Human Services is looking for foster parents — people willing to open their hearts and homes to teens.

Nothing can help teens grow up better than a healthy role model, and an opportunity to practice independent living skills. A home setting can provide both. Foster parents not only care for the day-to-day needs of teens, they provide for their emotional and developmental needs as well.

It takes commitment. But for those who do, there is training and both financial and professional support.

In fact, the TDHS has a program to assist adolescents in achieving social, emotional, physical and economic independence. It's called PAL, Preparation for Adult Living, and it involves professionals, volunteers and peers in a team effort to help teens grow up.

Contact the Children's Protective Services, 358-6211, for more information about foster parenting a teen.

The result can be a healthy, mature adult, ready to live life independently and successfully.

alone.

'ER' gains 20 Emmy nominations

LOS ANGELES (AP) — ER, NBC's hot and hyper medical drama, received a leading 20 nominations for primetime Emmy awards, and last season's sensation, NYPD Blue, ranked second.

Series stars Anthony Edwards, who plays sensitive Dr. Mark Greene; George Clooney, the heartthrob Dr. Doug Ross; and Sherry Stringfield, beleaguered Dr. Susan Lewis, received nominations for lead acting in a drama series.

NYPD Blue, which last year gained a record-setting 26 nominations, this year received 12 bids as the second most nominated show.

Among the networks, CBS and NBC tied with 85 nominations each. ABC, the No. 1 network last season, received just 39, fewer than the cable channel Home Box Office's 48. Award winners will be announced in September.

Besides outstanding drama series nominees ER and NYPD Blue, bids in the category also went to Chicago Hope, Law & Order and The X-Files. Picket Fences, which won the drama Emmy the past two years, failed to receive that nomination this year despite, some critics say, some of its best shows this past season.

The nod to The X-Files was a rare Emmy nod for a show in the thriller-science fiction genre, although it was recognized with a Golden Globe best drama award.

Among comedies, Frasier received the most nominations with 10, followed by the new sitcom hit Friends with eight.

Frasier star Kelsey Grammer received a best lead actor bid. Lead acting nominations did not go to any members of the ensemble cast of Friends, though it did pick up two supporting acting nominations.

Nominations for the best comedy series also went to The Larry Sanders Show, Mad About You and Seinfeld.

ABC's popular Home Improvement was shut out of the top categories. Last year its star, Tim Allen, was disqualified for failing to meet the entry deadline.

Bids for lead actor in a comedy also went to Garry Shandling for The Larry Sanders Show, Paul Reiser for Mad About You, John Goodman for Roseanne and Jerry Seinfeld for Seinfeld.

Nominees for lead actress in a comedy included Cybill Shepherd for Cybill, Ellen Degeneres for Ellen, Helen Hunt for Mad About You, Candice Bergen for Murphy Brown and Roseanne for Roseanne.

Nominated as lead actor in a drama with Edwards and Clooney were Mandy Patinkin of Chicago Hope, Dennis Franz of NYPD Blue and his co-star, Jimmy Smits.

Actresses receiving the honor besides Stringfield were Angela Lansbury of Murder, She Wrote, Claire Danes of the canceled My So-Called Life, Kathy Baker of Picket Fences and Cicely Tyson of Sweet Justice.

Also among leading nominees for this year's awards: Barbra Streisand The Concert. The HBO version of Streisand's musical comeback tour was nominated 10 times.

Dramatic supporting actor bids went to two ER cast members, Eriq La Salle and Noah Wyle, and to Ray Walston of Picket Fences, Hector Elizondo of Chicago Hope and James Earl Jones of Under One Roof.

Two NYPD Blue co-stars, Sharon Lawrence and Gail O'Grady, were nominated for dramatic supporting actress. Other nominees were Barbara Babcock of Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman, Tyne Daly of Christy and Julianna Margulies of ER.

Nominees for supporting comedy actor were David Schwimmer of Friends, Jason Alexander of Seinfeld, David Hyde Pierce of Frasier, Michael Richards of Seinfeld and Rip Torn of The Larry Sanders Show.

Comedy supporting actress bids went to Lisa Kudrow of Friends, Christine Baranski of Cybill, Julia Louis-Dreyfus of Seinfeld, Laurie Metcalf of Roseanne and Liz Torres of The John Larroquette Show.

The five nominees for outstanding miniseries were Buffalo Girls, Children of the Dust, Joseph, Martin Chuzzlewit and A Woman of Independent Means. Buffalo Girls was the most nominated miniseries with 10.

In the outstanding made-for-television movie category, bids went to The Burning Season, Citizen X, Indictment: The McMartin Trial, The Piano Lesson and Serving in Silence: The Margarethe Cammermeyer Story.

The Emmy Awards ceremony will be held Sunday, Sept. 10, at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium and will air on Fox, part of a rotation deal with the four broadcast networks that replaced the academy's controversial exclusive pact with ABC.

City reporter finds trouble in rural Maine

By JERRY HARKAVY
Associated Press Writer

WATERVILLE, Maine (AP) — Newsman Gerry Boyle can remember when he wanted to be like his fictional creation Jack McMorrow, working at the pinnacle of his profession as a reporter for The New York Times.

McMorrow has fallen hard. He landed in backwoods Maine, first as a weekly newspaper editor in a gritty paper-mill town, then as a struggling free-lancer in the puckerbrush of Waldo County.

McMorrow's loss is Boyle's gain. His newly published second mystery, Bloodline, reveals how McMorrow becomes the focus of a murder investigation after he begins to research a magazine article about teenagers who have babies.

Boyle, 39, now divides his time between writing mystery novels and working three days a week as a columnist and copy editor at the Morning Sentinel, the Waterville daily where he has worked since 1981.

Boyle, who came to Waterville to attend Colby College, once aspired to climb the journalistic ladder, advancing to bigger and bigger papers.

"I really wanted to be Jack McMorrow, except that he was on the downside, having done all the things that I was planning to do," Boyle said.

"It seems like I took somebody who had accomplished what I wanted to accomplish and then I brought him back to where I was, and kind of immersed him in my world of central Maine."

McMorrow, to some degree Boyle's alter ego, has become disillusioned with a profession that gives him free rein to intrude into the lives of strangers.

"He's just been beaten about by his years in newspapers and by people. He hasn't lost his ideals, but he became cynical about the news business, chewing up one source and going on to the next."

Boyle's forte is writing about people, a talent he honed in the Sentinel column that used to appear three times a week but now comes out once weekly. He often focuses on life's underdogs, the people he encounters at courthouses, welfare offices and dead-end jobs.

The author shares the anguish of characters such as Missy

Hewett, the young mother who agonizes over her decision to give her baby up for adoption as she attends college in an attempt to break the cycle of dependency into which her family has fallen.

Towering above the rest of the cast is McMorrow, who drinks too much beer and winds up in an emotional black hole as a result of his separation from his love interest, Roxanne.

"After a while, (the characters) don't seem made up to me. I really care about them," Boyle said. "In a way they represent real people, so I can't treat them cavalierly."

Bloodline and last year's critically acclaimed first novel, Deadline, are the first samplings of McMorrow's exploits. In Boyle's next book, McMorrow goes to work as a court reporter on a small daily and becomes snarled in a domestic abuse case. A fourth McMorrow novel is already written and a fifth is in the works.

The wise-cracking McMorrow has been likened to Spenser, the Boston-based detective created by another Colby graduate, Robert B. Parker. "One reviewer called Bloodline Spenser in the sticks," said Boyle.

'An Evening on the Caprock' set for Aug. 6

CANYON — "An Evening on the Caprock" will be presented by the Caprock Theatre Foundation on Sunday, Aug. 6, at 8:15 p.m., in the Caprock Amphitheater south of San Jon, N.M.

Bluegrass music, western songs and a variety of dance works will be presented by cast members of the musical drama TEXAS and the WTA&MU Dance Ensemble to benefit the Caprock Theatre and the Division of Dance at West Texas A&M University.

The Caprock Theatre is reached by driving west of Amarillo on I-40 and then bearing south at San Jon for about 20 miles. The facility is located on a beautiful mountain setting.

Last season, Billy the Kid was presented in the theatre. This summer the theatre directors are sponsoring a variety of musical shows as plans for the future are being formulated.

The TEXAS performers will present many of the dances they performed in Austin for the rededication of the Texas State Capitol plus dances in the Folklorico, Spanish, Native American and classical styles.

The Texas Bluegrass Orchestra will be featured in the presentation as well as singers from the Texas cast.

Admission to the performance is by donation at the door.

Hog calling champion recording song

By STEVE O'NEIL
Lubbock Avalanche-Journal

LUBBOCK (AP) — Roxanne Ward taps her foot and nods her head to the beat of a twangy country western song. Her friend Nowlin Tubbs gives her the cue and she lets it rip.

"Sooooooo-eeeeee, Sooooooo-eeeeee," she yells. "Here hog, here hog."

A moment later he takes off his headphones and grins. "That was good," he says. "Real good."

Ever since Ward hollered her way to winning the World Championship Hog Calling Contest in Weatherford, Okla., earlier this year, the attention has been non-stop.

The 39-year-old Littlefield resident has been interviewed in countless newspapers and has appeared on radio and television shows, including ABC's Good Morning America.

Now her hog calling will be featured in a song, written by Tubbs, a Littlefield singer and songwriter.

"I have know Roxanne forever," Tubbs said Monday while taking a break from recording in Lubbock's Jungle Studios. "Then once I saw her on Good Morning America, I thought she would be perfect for one of my songs. I thought, hey, lets get the ball rolling."

The result is "Cajun Melody, The Night of the Cajun Hog Trot." The song will be available on a soon-to-be released CD, Tubbs said. In the meantime, the best way to catch the song is to request it on the radio, he added.

It's a country song, but Ward predicts it will have wide appeal. "My son is a real rocker, and he likes it," she said. "And the guys down at the carwash in Littlefield like it. That is the true test."

Ward began her hog-howling days when she was just a tyke, romping around the hog pens of South Dakota. And now, after years of practice, she says she is comfortable with her porcine pitch.

"I have older people come tell me that they have not heard a call like that in 30 years," she said. "That feels good."

Ward said she appreciates all the attention and has tried not to let the success go to her head. The biggest thrill she says simply is sharing her gift with as many people as possible.

So what's the next step? "I would love to be on The Tonight Show," she said taking a deep breath. "That is my ultimate dream."

Panhandle Professional Writers sets annual conference Aug. 4-5

AMARILLO — Actor, director, playwright and teacher Sam Havens will be the keynote speaker at the Panhandle Professional Writers annual Frontiers in Writing Conference Aug. 4-5.

"As a playwright, Mr. Havens is eminently qualified to teach the art of writing dialogue, and good dialogue is an essential element in any successful story. Understanding that how a character expresses himself is as important as what he says is an important step in the professional development of any writer," says Doris Meredith, publicity chair of the conference.

"As keynote speaker, Mr. Havens will present two lectures on dialogue," Meredith said. "At the Friday night banquet he will discuss the use of evocative dialogue to add texture to a story and advance the plot. Even the title of his lecture is evocative. 'I Love the Smell of Napalm in the Morning' is not your usual bland title."

"It definitely catches your attention as does the topic for his Saturday morning lecture: 'A Spoonful of Vitriol. A spoonful of sugar may make the medicine go down, but too-sweet dialogue in a novel leaves the reader diabetic instead of involved. According to Mr. Havens, tart is more realistic and more effective.'"

Other presenters will speak on how to translate personal experience into saleable material, children's writing, research and marketing.

A three-time recipient of the Spur Award from Western Writers of America for best non-fiction book, best short nonfiction and best short fiction, Joyce Gibson Roach will conduct a workshop entitled "Turning Folklore into Commercial Sales."

Melanie Hemry, whose work appears in Guideposts and Reader's Digest, will conduct a workshop on "Hope: The Heart of Inspirational Writing."

Anna Myers will conduct a workshop entitled "Writing for Children." Myers' first book, Red-Dirt Jessie, received the 1993 Children's Book Award from the Oklahoma Center for the Book and was nominated for the Jane Addams Peace Award.

Sam Brown will conduct "Researching the Western Novel, Or Cowboys Don't Kiss Their Horses." The author of four novels, Brown has twice been a finalist for a Spur Award from Western Writers of America.

Jerry and Janet Weiner are a husband and wife writing team with over 350 articles and short stories published in such magazines as McCall's, Family Circle, Parents and Seventeen. An after-school special produced by CBS Television was based on their teen court article. They will hold a workshop on how to write and sell articles to the national magazine market.

In her workshop "How to Write and Sell Your Poetry," poet Sheryl Nelms will emphasize both writing skills and marketing techniques. Nelms has had over 3,500 poems published in literary and commercial magazines as well as six volumes of poetry.

Edwin Eakin, founder and president of Sunbelt Media, Inc., will present "How Best to Market Regional Fiction and Nonfiction." Sunbelt is the largest privately-owned book publisher in Texas specializing in regional titles.

Pre-registration for Friday night's banquet and the Saturday workshops is $60 for members and $75 for non-members, and must be received by July 29.

Pre-registration for the Saturday workshops only is $40 for members and $55 for non-members, also due July 29.

Registration at the door Saturday is $60 for both members and non-members.

For more information, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Frontiers in Writing, P.O. Box 19303, Amarillo, TX 79114, or call Doris Meredith at 352-3889, Frances Cleeg-Ferris at 764-3458, or Loretta Harrison at 353-2814.

Agriculture

The Market Forecaster

By George Kleinman

WHEAT - (BULL)

Outlook: Last week, the USDA announced its most recent estimate for U.S. wheat production - 2.18 billion bushels. The market yawned after the number came out, closing barely up for the day. What I believe the market's missing now is, the world can't afford to lose any wheat anywhere at anytime this year. If you take the implied U.S. ending supplies this year, and factor in the world situation we're faced with the lowest wheat supply in 20 years - since the '75-'76 season when wheat traded higher than now. Add in 20 years worth of inflation and I'd say based on the fundamentals wheat's undervalued.

Presently, the ongoing winter wheat harvest and slack export demand could subject the market to sudden price dips and profit taking. Longer term, I don't see any sign the top is in yet this year. Don't rule out sharply high prices later in the season.

Strategy: Hedgers: Perhaps the recent volatility in the wheat market underscores the advantages of our strategy. This involves the sale of wheat supplies [either in storage or as cut] at the current profitable prices, with the simultaneous purchase of call options. This will limit your risk to the price of the calls, a feature not available with stored wheat. You in effect place a floor under the market, have use of the cash immediately, and still can benefit from additional gains in the wheat price.

At the money calls for September can be had for less than 20¢/bu. now.

Traders: Based on our previous recommendation, you may still own September Chicago at $4.26 with a stop at $4.11 and objective of $4.71. If you were fortunate enough to buy Minneapolis, you've cashed out with a $2250 profit per contract, but if you bought the Kansas at $4.45, you may have been stopped out for a $750 loss before fees.

If out, look to buy the Mpls. back at $4.40 or lower with a 15¢ risk and a 50¢ profit objective.

CORN - (BULL)
Outlook: The statistics seem to get more and more bullish with every release. Last week, the government [and this is probably a conservative estimate] lowered its supply estimate by another 25 million bushels over and above what most analysts were expecting. Two weeks ago, on the June acreage report, they knocked another 3 million acres off their March estimate.

The ante's been raised yet another notch. The stocks to use ratio is so tight now, this market cannot afford to lose more acreage or supplies. Prices look like they could work higher with perfect weather. And what if cruel weather's in the cards? My only advice is don't be caught short.

Strategy: Hedgers: You've hedged 25 percent of anticipated production with the purchase of the September 280 puts at 10¢/bushel. Hedge another 25 percent with the $3 puts if or when September reaches this level. You also own the September 2.70 calls to maintain ownership of previously sold old crop supplies. These were fully paid for with profits on previously sold July 2.50 calls.

Traders: You continue to own December futures at an adjusted price of $2.57. Risk to a close under $2.75 [note this is 10¢ higher than our previous stop] and hold.

CATTLE - (BULL/BEAR)
Outlook: The packers appear to have won the latest round in the feeder/packer war. Even though they're enjoying record margins [have you looked at the price of IBP's stock lately? - it's tripled in the past few years], they refused to raise bids. They appear to be able to let the market come down to them, and let's face it, when the cattle are ready the feeder has to move 'em.

Perhaps the period of best demand this summer is behind us. If it's too hot, meat consumption suffers. This market also must contend with larger supplies of market ready animals over the coming weeks. Based on the reality of a market which appears to have run out of steam, by necessity we must temper our previous bullish enthusiasm.

Strategy: Hedgers: We still own our "peace of mind insurance" - the 61-63 August and October put options. Puts allow you to retain a fair portion of any upside price potential, but give you a guaranteed floor price during weak periods. The cost is relatively modest. Feeders have also been advised to protect against higher feed costs with the purchase of call options or futures for December corn at lower levels.

Cow/calf operators: Hedgers own the August and September 66 puts, purchased for less than $2. If October futures trade down to 64, confirming the trend is down, I would consider the 64 Octobers as well. The biggest risk to feeder prices remains the corn market, and corn looks to me like it's headed higher.

Traders: We were able to cash in with a nice profit last week prior to the collapse. If you followed our previous recommendation, you bought August at 6225 or less and cashed out at our objective [at least 6397]. This is a minimum profit of $687 per contract before fees.

A&M gets grant for collaborative research

COLLEGE STATION - The Agriculture Program of the Texas A&M University System has received a grant to promote collaborative research, education and development work with institutions in Mexico.

The three-year project is funded by a $229,735 grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Mich.

Rick Foster, program director at the Kellogg Foundation, said, "This grant is intended to prepare food systems professionals to interact in dual cultures, to be culturally sensitive and to see themselves and the food system in a global context."

Project funds will be used as "challenge" grants that concentrate on priority environmental, production, marketing and education concerns of both nations. The funds will be available for use by all agricultural units of the Texas A&M System to leverage additional support. A "challenge" grant stipulates that complementary support must be mustered from other sources.

"People must work together to ensure a safe and plentiful food supply," said Dr. Edward A. Hiler, vice chancellor and dean for agriculture and life sciences and director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. "People of different cultures working together are the building blocks for global security and development."

"This effort," Hiler said, "builds on many collaborative initiatives we have had with Mexican counterparts in the recent and distant past. It allows us to respond to broad based human concerns that ignore national borders and cultural and economic differences. Because we will be looking for projects that are mutually benefiting, we expect our partners to contribute equally to this initiative."

Dr. Manuel Piña Jr., project director in the department of agricultural education at Texas A&M University, will coordinate activities with the Office of International Agriculture Programs.

"This is the second grant we have received from the Kellogg Foundation to support our collaborative efforts with Mexico," Piña said. "It is through joint work to develop and provide solutions to real world situations that true understanding develops between partners."

The W. K. Kellogg Foundation was established in 1930 to "help people help themselves." As a private grant-making organization, it provides seed money to organizations and institutions that have identified problems and designed constructive action programs aimed at solutions.

Foundation programming priorities concentrate grants in the United States, Latin America, the Caribbean and southern Africa.

Hot, dry weather hurts South Texas corn

WESLACO (AP) - Grain elevators are rejecting tons of South Texas corn because of high levels of aflatoxin, the cancer-causing byproduct of a fungus that thrives in hot, dry weather.

The Texas A&M Agricultural Research station said that corn buyers are turning away much of the corn intended for human consumption in the Rio Grande Valley and the Coastal Bend.

Some of the rejected corn can be sold for cattle feed.

But growers who receive an average of $6.50 per hundred pounds of food-grade corn will get only $4 to $4.50 per hundred pounds of feed corn, the research station said.

"Many growers have just plowed their corn back into the ground," said Terry Lockamy, Texas A&M agriculture extension agent in Cameron County.

"The yields per acre were only somewhat depressed, but the aflatoxin just takes you right out of the market." Federal guidelines limit the level of aflatoxin in food-grade corn to 20 parts per billion.

"We've having a lot of fields having a lot of trouble getting anywhere near that," said Harvey Buehring, extension agent in Corpus Christi.

He predicted that only a few fields of the 70,000 acres of corn in Nueces County will test safe for human consumption.

Eco-Fair Texas '95 to be held in Austin

AUSTIN - Oct. 6-7 are the dates for Eco-Fair Texas '95, a one-of-a-kind forum for the exchange of ideas and information on the cutting edge of agriculture.

Sustainable and profitable agriculture will be the focus on Friday, Oct. 6. Featured keynote speaker Dr. Wes Jackson's research team is conducting the first ever work on developing a perennial grain crop.

In addition, Friday's program will offer a full day of workshops covering agricultural topics such as soil health, cost management, crop rotation and farm scale composting, along with much more to help farmers and ranchers become more successful.

Many of these workshops will offer practical experience from practicing farmers and ranchers as well as nationally recognized agricultural specialists. Those who are farming or ranching and want to learn the latest innovative techniques won't want to miss this event, Eco-Fair organizers say. Saturday, Oct. 7 will also offer a range of workshops for both rural and urban residents.

Eco-Fair Texas will be held at the Austin Convention Center in Austin from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days. More than 125 exhibitors from across the nation will display their products and services. Admission is $5 per day for the Trade Show and all workshops.

For more information, call Carole Berry at (512) 451-5212.

Don't hold dressing from ground water

WASHINGTON (AP) - If you're trying to be Earth-conscious, don't hold the dressing.

The Agriculture Department reports that scientists in southern Colorado have found that salad oil can clean ground water contaminated with nitrogen fertilizers.

The salad oil - corn, soybean or other vegetable oils - filters the water, trapping the harmful fertilizers. The oil also provides a carbon source with natural microorganisms that consume the nitrate, and in doing so, convert it to an innocuous gas.

Scientists reached the ground water before it became drinking water by injecting the oil under pressure into the base of wells.

Drinking water in many areas of the nation is contaminated by the fertilizer that makes its way from crops to the ground water supply.

Scientists estimate that it would take only one to 1 1/2 quarts of soybean oil to remove 10 parts per million of nitrate-nitrogen from about 10,000 gallons of contaminated water.

IN THE UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS AMARILLO DIVISION

TRANS TERRA CORPORATION INTERNATIONAL NO. 294-20457-JCA-7 DEBTOR: INVITATION FOR SEALED BIDS

Jim Clements, trustee, pending approval of the Court, invites separate sealed bids upon the following personal property to be sold free and clear of liens.

ALL OF THE INTEREST OF JIM CLEMENTS AS TRUSTEE FOR TRANS TERRA CORPORATION INTERNATIONAL, IN AND TO EXHIBIT "A", FOR A COPY OF EXHIBIT "A", A COPY OF THE BID SHEET AND A SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE, PLEASE CALL THE TRUSTEE'S OFFICE AT (806) 371-7978.

THE PROPERTY WILL BE SOLD "AS IS" THE LEGAL DESCRIPTIONS AND PERCENTAGES ARE ACCURATE TO THE BEST OF OUR KNOWLEDGE. THE TRUSTEE DISCLAIMS ANY WARRANTY, EXPRESSED OR IMPLIED. IT IS THE PURCHASER'S RESPONSIBILITY TO DETERMINE THE VALUE OF THE PROPERTY BEING SOLD. ALL BIDS MUST BE IN WRITING, USING THE BID SHEET, SEALED AND DELIVERED TO THE TRUSTEE BY U.S. MAIL AT P.O. BOX 50370, AMARILLO, TEXAS 79159.

ALL BIDS MUST BE POSTMARKED ON OR BEFORE THE 14TH DAY OF AUGUST 1995. HAND DELIVERED BIDS WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED. THE BID SHEET OBTAINED FROM THE TRUSTEE'S OFFICE MUST BE USED FOR ALL BIDS.

YOUR BID TO BE VALID ALL BIDS MUST BE RETURNED IN A SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE OBTAINED FROM THE TRUSTEE'S OFFICE TO BE VALID. The bid must include earnest money in the form of certified funds equal to ten percent (10%) of the bid price.

THE successful bidder will be notified by telephone and mail when the final order approving the sale has been entered. In the same notice, demand for the balance of the funds will be made.

FAILURE TO DELIVER THE FUNDS INTO THE HANDS OF THE TRUSTEE WITHIN THE TEN (10) DAYS FROM THE DATE SAID NOTICE IS POSTMARKED WILL CONSTITUTE DEFAULT ON THE PART OF THE BIDDER.

THE party who bid the second highest amount will then become the successful bidder. The first bidder will forfeit their earnest money. THE BALANCE MUST BE PAID IN CERTIFIED FUNDS.

THE process is dependent upon approval of the United States Bankruptcy Court. The trustee reserves the right to extend the deadline for bids as well as reject any and all bids. All bidders will be notified of any extension by mail. All bids will be opened in the office of the Trustee, Bank One Building, Suite 904, Amarillo, Texas 79101, at 2:00 p.m. on August 18, 1995.

ANY question should be directed to the Trustee at the address below. Dated July 7, 1995.

Jim Clements, Trustee P.O. Box 50370 Amarillo, TX 79159 July 16, 23, 30, 1995

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR FLUID INJECTION WELL PERMIT

Makar Production Company, P.O. Box 1239, Pampa, TX 79066-1239 has applied to the Railroad Commission of Texas for a permit to inject fluid into a formation which is productive of oil or gas.

The applicant proposes to inject into the Granite Wash Formation, Anderson, Clarence Lake, Well No. 2. The proposed injection well is located 9.3 miles SW of Pampa, TX., in the Panhandle Gray County Field, in Gray County. Science is winning over politics in the effort to restore the European market for U.S. beef, according to the Texas Cattle Feeders Association.

Codex Alimentarius Commission, an international health-standards body, this month voted to establish Maximum Residue Levels (MRLs) for five growth promotants used by the U.S. beef industry, said Burt Rutherford with Amarillo-based Texas Cattle Feeders Association.

The move, according to National Cattlemen's Association, adds weight to the case against the European Union (EU) ban on growth promotants. The World Trade Organization will respect the ruling when it passes judgment on trade disputes, Rutherford said.

The EU ban, in place since 1989, prohibits the sale or import of meat products from animals treated with growth promotants. For U.S. cattlemen, the ban means lost sales of an estimated $100 million each year.

EU Commissioner Franz

Fischler will convene a conference this fall to review the ban.

The head of the National Cattlemen's Association is saying that beef is a great buy because of lower prices.

"I am writing to urge you to use the available resources and programs under your jurisdiction to purchase beef now and take advantage of the abundant supply at lower prices," NCA President Bob Drake said in a letter this month to Dan Glickman, Secretary of Agriculture. "It will also help a depressed beef industry by moving more product at a critical time."

Drake, a rancher in southwestern Oklahoma, detailed self-help projects the industry is developing to move record supplies of beef, including a summer featuring partnership program with approximately 20,000 retail stores.

A new general permit from the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC) is now available for Texas feedyards, according to the Texas Cattle Feeders Association.

Effective July 13, the permit provides for a consolidated permit for air and water allowing a single public notice and application fee, restricted public comments to those based on technical merit, a streamlined review process, and pollution prevention plans similar to the EPA permit.

Feedyards may retain their site-specific permit or adopt the new permit when amending or renewing, according to TCFA officials.

The U.S. Senate turned its attention to food safety this month as it debated S. 343, a bill to reform the regulatory process.

The bill would require regulations that cost business $50 million or more annually to be subject to cost-benefit analysis and other requirements, according to the industry sources. However, an amendment offered by Sen. Bob Dole (R-Kan.), the bill's co-author, was passed that exempts E. coli regulations from cost-benefit analysis and risk-assessment provisions of the bill.

Another amendment was narrowly defeated that would have exempted the HACCP regulation from all provisions of the bill. Legislation similar to S. 343 was passed earlier in the House.

Independent Counsel Donald Smaltz is having trouble with the Mike Espy investigation, according to published reports in The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal and the Chicago Tribune.

Smaltz, heading the investigation of the former Ag Secretary, has had several subpoenas quashed by Federal Judge John Garrett Penn after Espy's attorneys argued that Smaltz has expanded his scope beyond official matters.

In a separate action, Tyson Foods Inc. asked Attorney General Janet Reno to dismiss

Smaltz because he overstepped his bounds.

The International Monetary Fund is agreeing to release an additional $10 billion in aid to Mexico, after reviewing the country's economic stabilization program.

According to IMF, about $2 billion will be made available immediately, with the remaining funds to be disbursed in five equal installments of about $1.7 billion each beginning in August and continuing through August 1996.

However, the spokesman said the additional disbursements will be made subject to continuing satisfactory performance.
