HOUSTON (AP) — A seven-alarm inferno consumed a warehouse and spread to two other buildings on the city's east side Saturday, forcing the evacuation of hundreds of nearby homes.

Three firefighters were treated for minor injuries, officials said. A cause of the blaze, which began around 8:30 a.m. and continued into late afternoon, had not been determined.

Board views more credits for graduation

By CHIP CHANDLER
Staff Writer

Graduation requirements and semester test exemptions may be changing if suggestions slated for action at the Pampa Independent School District's July meeting are passed.

Pampa High School Principal John Kendall and his Pampa Leadership Committee made up of department chairs presented their proposals to the board at its Thursday regular meeting. Administrative recommendations should come in July, and the board will then vote to accept or deny the proposals.

The committee recommends that graduation requirements be raised from 24 credits to 26. These credits are out of a possible 32 in the block-scheduling format.

With the two additionally required hours, the committee members say they hope students will be encouraged to take electives they find interesting or helpful for future careers.

Noting that a number of high school graduates seek no further education, the committee said they wanted to encourage students to take classes like keyboarding and speech that have impact on employment.

To be classified a sophomore under the proposal, a student must have six out of a possible eight credits. Juniors must have 13 out of a possible 16 credits, and seniors must have 20 out of a possible 24 credits.

Students would be classified at the first of the school year only, with the exception of fourth-year students who could be reclassified in December.

The committee recommended that these requirements begin with the 1994-95 freshmen.

The committee also proposed changing the semester test exemption policy to fit the block schedule adopted last year.

Under the current policy, students who have no more than three excused absences and no unexcused absences, along with a B average, can be allowed an exemption from semester tests in May.

The proposal would allow students with a B average and only two absences in a term (August to December or January to May) an exemption.

Students under the proposal would have to take a final exam at the end of the first and third nine-week blocks, and some students would take an "end of course test."

Action on the proposals is expected in July.

The board also heard a report on the planned Multi-Purpose Activity Center at the high school.

The M.K. Brown Foundation agreed to a matching grant of up to $100,000 for the construction of the MPAC building. The foundation will match monies donated to the project by June 5, 1996. Already $51,576.74 will be matched, and officials expect another $50,000 in donations by next year.

To date, $277,639.36 has been raised, according to Jack Bailey, executive director of personnel services.

In other items, the board was asked to consider an amendment allowing more medical exemptions under the flexible benefit health insurance plan. Lee Carter, instructional technology coordinator, gave a report on the school's progress in getting hooked up to the Internet.

City to begin mosquito spraying program

The City of Pampa will begin fogging for mosquitoes, weather permitting, on Monday evening, June 26, and continue through Friday, June 30.

It should take approximately one week to spray the entire city, according to Parks Director Reed Kirkpatrick. The chemical being used to spray for mosquitoes is Malathion, which is considered safe for human and animal life, he said.

However, parents should watch their children and not allow them to run behind the spraying trucks, for safety reasons, he said.

Kirkpatrick offered some tips to help control mosquitoes around one's home:

- Keep the grass mowed short. Mosquitoes like to hide and breed in tall grass.
- If there is any standing water around one's home, it should be drained. Also, it is a good idea to remove containers that might hold water such as cans or tires from your yard.
- Be especially careful during the times when the insects are most active, which is any time they are disturbed, plus 30 minutes before sunset and 30 minutes after sunrise.

Kirkpatrick urged residents to contact the City of Pampa Parks Department at 669-5770 if they do not wish for their neighborhood to be sprayed.

"Even if you have called in years past requesting your neighborhood not be sprayed, please contact the Parks Department again," he said.

By this method, the Parks Department can have an up-to-date record of these requests. People move constantly, and current records are most important, he said.

Texas ranch compiles $1 million debt

DALLAS (AP) - Texas taxpayers reportedly stand to lose more than $1 million on a ranch that the federal government has supported with loans for the past five years.

The Moczygemba ranch, off of Highway 181, is just one of hundreds of ranches that have no way to repay loans taken out from the federal government that total in the billions of dollars.

Ira Moczygemba told The Dallas Morning News that the Farmers Home Administration is to blame - and that its decision not to give the ranch more loan money is ruining him.

"You go ahead and plant a crop and charge these bills," he said. "Then they turn around and tell you 'We're not going to pay you.' They have destroyed us," he said.

The Farmers Home Administration, an agency ranked among the 14 worst federal programs by congressional auditors, is designed to be the last line of defense against foreclosure for financially troubled farmers.

Moczygemba lives with his wife and two sons near Poth, a small town about 40 miles south-east of San Antonio.

In 1990 the agency wrote off Ira Moczygemba's bad debts. They totaled nearly $180,000.

By 1993 the ranch family owed half a million dollars. They were also broke.

The organizations should have foreseen the troubles that unfolded, Ira Moczygemba said.

"I'm entitled to restitution for what the government's done to me. My family feels like a bunch of damn lepers," he said.

Cowboy hats for the Russians

Farid Jagoudin, Vladimir Tokarev and Evgueni Korolev of Russia try on a couple of straw cowboy hats at Wayne's Western Wear Friday afternoon in Pampa. They and Serguei Zakirov, Andrei Kravtchenko, Evgueni Gorlov, all of Varyeganneftegaz Production Association, Tyumen Region in the Russian Federation, and Arkady Chudnov, of Tradin and Business Services Ltd. of Moscow, Russian, were in Pampa from June 12-24 training at IRI International for the operation and maintenance of two mobile workover rigs sold to the VPA company. "We liked Pampa," said Chudnov, IRI agent in Russia and manager of marketing and sales, oil and gas equipment. "We connected with Pampa." They were doing some last-minute shopping before heading back to their homes.

Former Pampa couple to bring their Andalusian horses to TOT Rodeo

The Andalusian has been called the horse of kings, the only appropriate mount for royalty, said Dennis Mortimer, 1968 Pampa High School graduate.

"Legend tells of a Spanish king who decreed that all noblemen ride stallions," added his wife, Carolyn, also a Pampa native. "The Andalusian was selectively bred for its kindness while maintaining its athletic abilities."

Mortimer is the son of Earlene Mortimer of Pampa. His wife is the daughter of Dayton and Etta Wallace of Pampa. The couple now live in Lawson Mo., where they raise Andalusian horses. They will bring two of their horses, Alipax and Pampero, to their hometown in July for an exhibition at the Top O' Texas Rodeo.

Alipax is a 10-year-old Spanish stallion, Mortimer said, while Pampero is a 13-year-old Andalusian stallion. Both have appeared at the American Royale in Kansas City. Mortimer said that there are fewer than 2,500 Andalusian horses in the U.S., but they played an important part in the settlement of the country, particularly the Southwest.

"These horses were the horses of Coronado and the other Spanish explorers that are so much a part of the Texas Panhandle," he said. "They are the basis for the American mustang and the tie from the Spanish background to the American cowboy."

Andalusians are popular at breed shows, open dressage competitions, open driving events, open events of Western and various English disciplines, in parades and at special high school exhibitions which frequently include airs above the ground, Mortimer said.

"Andalusians are tireless mounts on farms and as a trail horses — mares and stallions working side by side," he said.

Some Andalusians have exceptional open jumping ability.

"The Andalusian is always in great demand for exhibitions and parades due to his great presence and flashy style," Mortimer said.

"They are famous as the mounts from the Spanish Riding School. They learn with ease the classical movements necessary to make them the exotic beauties that leave crowds breathless while still retaining the athletic ability and courage to carry a bullfighter into a ring."

Clarendon College Pampa Center plans to add Internet learning at new facility

By BETTY HALLERBERG

Clarendon College Pampa Center is planning to provide distance learning at its new facility.

Distance learning in the information age is defined as school coming to us. At some institutions, distance learning is an audio/video link between two classrooms geographically set apart.

Some distance learning is much like a home study course. Students are provided with lecture videos which they watch in a specific time. Then they take a test and send it and any required papers back to the original institution, which returns a grade and grants course credits.

Distance learning on the Internet is different. This is a medium that Clarendon College Pampa Center will incorporate along with its more traditional classes. This type of learning on the Internet focuses on the student's ability to quickly — in a few seconds — gain access to large volumes of data and to send and receive messages via a computer. Drill, practice, simulation, problem-solving and tutorial software provide students with direct, creative and alternative forms of instruction.

Because of the Internet's electronic-mail features, typical courses are not limited by time or place. Communication between professors and students takes place at any convenient time. Most importantly, Internet courses are self-paced and flexible. This customized learning can be student directed.

The quality of the Internet courses depend on the imagination, ingenuity and understanding of the course designers. By using the Internet's conferencing capabilities, course designers can let students work together on line. Students can then develop a cohesive class experience even if the other students are hundreds or thousands of miles apart.

The advantage of this type of learning is that Clarendon Junior College can offer upper level courses to those seeking four year and/or graduate level degrees. The possibilities for continuous education are limitless.

In a recent survey of 3,500 American institutions of higher education by CCA Consulting Inc., 30 percent of the schools indicated they are currently involved in distance education and an additional 28 percent said that they had distance learning alternatives in the planning stages. In Great Britain there are over 27,000 distance education courses offered by 800 institutions.

If the worldwide trend is any indication, then education of the future will rely upon the small screen to give us the big picture.

Group helps to share the loneliness

By DEE LARAMORE
Guest Writer

Death can create a devastating sense of loneliness for the surviving member of a couple, but one Pampa widow has found a positive way to deal with her loss.

Joann Graham's husband, Jess, died in November 1994. Early in 1995, Mrs. Graham participated in a four-week grief support class sponsored by Hospice of the Panhandle.

"After the last class, we didn't really want to stop, so six or seven of us decided to keep meeting on Mondays at Furr's for dinner," she said. "We invited other single people we knew to come, too."

This informal group now meets every Monday at 5 p.m. with everyone paying for their own meals. They eat, visit and enjoy a short social time together, usually about an hour in length.

Most are widows or have lost a loved one recently. Sometimes they share their grief experiences; sometimes they don't. Those who are further along in the grief process listen and offer suggestions that have helped them through the tough times. The group always seems to share a laugh and a good time, as well.

On the first Monday of each month, one or more staff members from Hospice of the Panhandle also meets with the group to offer support, if asked, or to simply socialize. While several of the group members have had family members who were Hospice of the Panhandle patients, Graham emphasized that the group is open to any one who is experiencing grief or loneliness and would like to spend time with others who are in a similar situation.

"I lived by myself before I married Jess. I know what it's like to be alone," Mrs. Graham said. "You have to eat any way, so you might as well go somewhere where you can your meal and visit and then go home. It sure beats sitting at home."

In addition to the Monday night dinners, Mrs. Graham has also organized a game night from 7 to 9 p.m., on the second and fourth Thursdays of the month at First Christian Church, 1633 N. Nelson.

"We usually play dominoes and cards. We set up tables for people to sit at and play games," Mrs. Graham said. "This is for everybody, especially people who don't have anything to do except go to Senior Citizens (Center)."

Graham invites any interested persons to attend the Furr's dinner group meeting at 5 p.m. on Mondays or the game nights at First Christian Church at 7 p.m. on the second and fourth Thursdays each month.

Fewer Mexican import cattle sold on open market

SANTA TERESA, N.M. — Most cattle coming into the U.S. from Mexico this past week were previously contracted, retained or sold on video compared to the previous week.

Receipts were estimated by the USDA Market News at 12,000 compared with 19,433 the previous week.

Few cattle were sold on the open market. Those that were sold for a dollar to two dollars lower.

Quality of cattle consisted mainly of number two's and three's. Demand was good on steers and heifers weighing over 400 pounds and light on calves weighing under 400 pounds.

The bulk of the supply consisted of steers and heifers weighing 250 to 600 pounds. Included in the supply were about 1,200 head of slaughter cows and bulls.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Is Bosnia a vital American interest?

All Americans can share in the joyful welcome home for Air Force Capt. Scott O'Grady, who was plucked from a wooded hillside in Bosnia, six days after his plane was shot down by a Serbian surface-to-air missile. As President Clinton aptly put it, "this is one amazing kid."

While all the fanfare goes on, however, including O'Grady's visit to the White House, the Clinton administration should be answering a few tough questions about why Capt. O'Grady had to endure what he did.

First, O'Grady's brush with disaster raises the nagging question of what the administration is trying to achieve in Bosnia. Obviously, our servicemen are being put in harm's way already. For what end? What objective are they being asked to accomplish? What "peace" are they trying to keep? What vital American interest is at stake? So far, President Clinton has failed to articulate any answers other than a vague reference to "our commitments."

Secondly, was Capt. O'Grady properly warned of the danger of his mission? According to recent reports, officials at the National Security Agency knew beforehand of the presence of an anti-aircraft missile site in the area where O'Grady was flying, perhaps as far as a day in advance. If so, why wasn't the pilot at least warned or, better yet, why wasn't his mission scrapped altogether?

Finally, if American airmen are being sent into dangerous air space, are they being adequately protected?

Is the administration, for whatever reason, forcing our pilots to operate, under "rules of engagement" that deny them the ability to strike back at hostile forces? Under more flexible rules, could Serbian missile and radar sites have been knocked out before they could be used to down an American jet? Are we courting another Somalia type disaster?

We're glad Capt. O'Grady made it out of Bosnia alive. Let's straighten out our policy in Bosnia before one of his colleagues meets a less fortunate fate.

The nation's capital provides one of the best examples of the destructiveness of liberal ideas. Washington used to be a thriving city where free persons of color and freed slaves established flourishing family businesses that covered the gamut from taxicabs and small stores to hotels and restaurants. The city was also home to many well educated descendants of freed slaves.

As early as 1899, the black students of Washington's Paul Lawrence Dunbar High School scored higher than any of the white schools in the District of Columbia. From 1870 to 1955, most Dunbar graduates went to college, including schools like Oberlin, Harvard, Amherst, Williams and Wesleyan. Washington was home to a broad, upwardly mobile black middle class.

All that has changed. According to Philip Murphy's article in Policy Review, Washington has "the highest per-capita murder and violent-crime rates, the highest-paid school board, the lowest SAT scores, the most single-parent families and the most lawyers per capita." Neighborhoods, once bustling and serene, are now economic wastelands where law abiding residents live in daily terror.

People are fleeing Washington in droves. The result is not white flight, but black flight to the suburbs. During the second half of the 1980s alone, over 157,000, or one-fifth of Washington's population, moved. This exodus disproportionately consisted of black households earning between $30,000 and $50,000 a year. Today, Washington's population is 578,000 down from a peak 800,000.

Can we blame racism for Washington's emergence into a bankrupted Third World type of city? To do so requires a lot of imagination. Washington is a city where the mayor is black, the chief of police is black, the superintendent of schools if black and most of the city council is black. Can we blame poor revenue sources? According to Murphy, the city takes in an astonishing $8,950 in revenue for every man, woman and child in its jurisdiction. That's to be compared to $4,000 and $3,700 in nearby Maryland and Virginia, respectively. Nonetheless, the city is in receivership. Its bonds have achieved junk status because it manages to spend $1,000 more per person than it receives in revenue. The city's deficit is approaching $1 billion.

Washington's story can be told in varying degrees in other predominantly black cities. The story is a monument to the failure of the liberal ideas of Democrats, black politicians and civil rights organizations. Liberals have convinced blacks that we deal with crime not by arresting and locking up criminals, but by searching for crimes' original causes. This theory gives criminals carte blanche to prey on law abiding citizens. Liberals have convinced blacks that we deal with educational fraud by spending more money to create programs that fall just short of lunacy. Liberals don't expose their children to this nonsense - they enroll their children in private schools, as does Franklin Smith, Washington's superintendent of public schools.

Victims of the liberals are mostly poor, black people who have few options - such as Sheila Stamps, a widowed mother of five living in a housing project. She complains, "You can't let the children out by themselves, and the playground is littered with intravenous needles." Like most black parents, Stamps wants school choice, saying: "Any child in this city should be able to go to the best schools. If they meet the criteria, let them go." But her liberal "benefactors" say no.

When black Americans finally come to the full realization of what liberals have done to us, it's going to make last November's political revolution look like a Girl Scout outing.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, June 25, the 176th day of 1995. There are 189 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On June 25, 1876, Lt. Col. George A. Custer and his 7th Cavalry were wiped out by Sioux and Cheyenne Indians in the Battle of Little Big Horn in Montana.

On this date:

In 1788, the state of Virginia ratified the U.S. Constitution.

In 1868, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana, Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina were readmitted to the Union.

In 1888, the Republican National Convention, meeting in Chicago, nominated Benjamin Harrison for the presidency. (Harrison went on to win the election, defeating Grover Cleveland.)

In 1906, a love triangle came to a violent end atop New York's Madison Square Garden as architect Stanford White, the building's designer, was shot to death by Harry Thaw, the jealous husband of Evelyn Nesbit.

The common man's equalizing power

Charley Reese

Perhaps you haven't thought of it, but the gun - so much in the news these days - was the most democratizing tool ever developed.

In late 19th century America, a common saying was, "God created all men, but Sam Colt made them equal." Colt was the inventor of the revolver that was to become so famous. There was great insight in that old saying.

Long before America and the Colt .45, the gun indeed had doomed feudalism, which fundamentally was rule by a warrior elite. In Europe, they called them knights; in Japan they called them samurai.

The warrior elite had evolved out of inevitable human conflicts. They were simply the best fighters. It did not take them long to figure out that if they were going to protect the less able, they also ought to rule the less able.

These men were full time fighters who began their training with weapons as children. No doubt it was hard, brutal training. A small boy in a samurai family who cried over an injury would receive a severe reprimand from his mother. "If you cry about that, what are you going to do when someone cuts off your arm in battle?"

These men became so physically well trained and proficient in the use of their weapons that no commoner stood a chance against them. To make sure, the samurais practiced their own form of sword control. But no peasant could pick up a sword for the first time and hope to last very long in combat with a man who had spent his life perfecting his lethal art. And the elite actively discouraged his opportunity to own a weapon and practice with it.

Then the gun was invented, and it doomed feudalism. If the sword was the weapon of the elite, the gun was the weapon of the common man. It did not take a lifetime of training and great physical strength to master. A consumptive peasant with a gun could knock down the most proficient swordsmen at a distance too great for his sword to be of any use.

That's still true. With a gun, a 90 pound woman can defeat a 200 pound rapist. With a gun, an elderly person can defeat a 20-year-old thug with the body of an athlete. Only, the gun was, and remains, the great equalizer.

The democratizing impact of the firearm so alarmed the Japanese elite that it banned the gun and all contacts with the West, thus preserving its feudal system well into the 19th century. No such luck for those of the European elite. Theirs crumbled.

The gun made possible the citizen army, and thus American farmers, hunters and craftsmen were able to more than hold their own against the British army and its mercenaries.

The privately owned gun became inextricably rooted in the idea of a free people - and nowhere more than in America. To the men who fought the American Revolution and who wrote the Constitution, the idea of a free man without a gun was a contradiction in terms.

Those men knew a lot of history and had their own experience. An armed elite can always rule an unarmed majority, but no armed elite can rule an armed majority without the majority's consent. If Americans were to be always governed only with their consent, then they must be always armed. Hence, the Second Amendment to the Bill of Rights.

And nothing important in human affairs ever changes. Force still rules, though in more disguised ways sometimes. Elites still fear common folk and still wish them to be unarmed and therefore more easily governed. Tyrants, especially, are great advocates of gun control because they know it's not easy to murder and brutalize people who can fight back.

Today, the people urban elitists really fear, and therefore want to disarm, are blacks, immigrants, those they consider Southern yahoos and Western radicals - us common folk. They wish to run our lives.

Gun control has always been an elitist issue that has nothing to do with crime. It is always directed at the goal of ensuring that the underclass will remain docile.

In short, gun control is undemocratic to the core.

Court decision amounts to gobbledygook

R. Emmett Tyrrell Jr.

Leave it to columnist George Will to spoil my day, perhaps my entire week. Here I am, researching the origins of our great big lovable lug of a president (along with those of our presidents), and George writes the most dismal column of the year. To be brief, the Supreme Court recently handed down a decision scotching affirmative action and setting off little festivals in the hearts of all conservatives and opponents of racism. Then, George comes along with a column announcing that the court's split decision and its entanglement in "hairsplitting reasoning about race-based government action" make our celebrations nigh unto delusional. Damn!

The court decided that race based policies are constitutional only if there is "strict scrutiny" that the policies affect narrowly prescribed matters that establish a "compelling governmental interest." If I understand George's critique, he considers that gobbledygook. Others believe that even this tortured reasoning will doom racially preferential contracts, hiring and professional advancement. I hope they are right.

George prefers the straightforward and stirring dicta of concurring Justices Antonin Scalia and Clarence Thomas. Among other things, Scalia wrote that government has no "compelling interest" in maintaining racial discrimination for whatever purpose. He also wrote, "Individuals who have been wronged by unlawful discrimination should be made whole; but under our Constitution, there can be no such thing as either a creditor or debtor race ... In the eyes of government, we are just one race here. It is American." I agree with George that Scalia's reasoning is more compelling and more devastating to the pretensions of affirmative-action programs.

And, consider what Thomas wrote in terms of clarity and substance: "As far as the Constitution is concerned, it is irrelevant whether a government's racial classifications are drawn by those who wish to oppress a race or by those who have a sincere desire to help those thought to be disadvantaged. There can be no doubt that the paternalism that appears to lie at the heart of this program is at war with the principle of inherent equality that underlies and infuses our Constitution."

Had either of these intellectually disciplined justices written the court's majority opinion, affirmative action and the amazing federal policy of handing out contracts to so-called minority firms would surely be dead. All the ambiguity and sophistry would be vaporized, along with the deceitful terminology that has befogged this debate since the 1960s. But, it seems to me that the court's opinion does a pretty good job of slaying the policies of benign racism - if such a racism is possible.

Through the years, critics of this benign racism have noted repeatedly that all the policies, issued from it are bound to preserve and even encourage racial animosity. They are bound to damage the self-esteem of minorities even as they envelop in doubt an otherwise competent professional from a minority background. Yet, in reading the wise judgments of Scalia and Thomas, I am reminded of another foul legacy of affirmative action. It elevated within American life the principle that words and actions have no meaning. The Constitution and its laws can be manipulated. Power is all that matters.

The advocates of affirmative action have had the power for decades. Thus, out of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, whose language and debates specifically opposed affirmative action, morally superior thugs, fashioned affirmative action programs that have cost American taxpayers billions while visiting upon working Americans countless injustices. The words of such civil rights champions as Sen. Hubert Humphrey were either twisted or ignored. Never would the civil rights laws allow reverse racism, he insisted; but they did, beginning almost immediately.

There is something poetic about seeing the affirmative action debate come to crisis while I research the life of Bill Clinton down here in Little Rock. He is a perfect example of the slippery affirmative action advocate in action. He is for the policy but against it. He will end its infelicities by undertaking a study. The study will be late on arrival but against affirmative action's infelicities. But it will be for affirmative action. Meaninglessness!

Throughout the debate, the morally superior thugs lectured us with the deceit that racial quotas were only goals. Oh yes, and racial discrimination on behalf of minorities is not racial discrimination. And, numbered among the nation's minorities would be women, who compose 52 percent of the population. Now, the future of race based policies is very much in doubt. How fitting that I should get the news down here, while researching the origins of a politician whose future is very much in doubt.

"PSST! Hey, buddy! Want to see some smut on the Internet?"

Letters to the editor

She still wants no MTV

To the editor:

I was very disappointed to read in The Pampa News that so few filters had been purchased to block MTV. Of course, I can understand the reluctance of cable users to purchase a device to block a channel when it appears that it is so simple to get added channels. According to Sec. 18 Sammons franchise: "additional channels may be added by the company when subscriber interest in receiving the program is determined."

Survey results submitted by Sammons stated that 105 viewers wanted MTV while 438 viewers wanted MTV blocked. No numbers were given as to the requested new channels desired, some of which have been added such as SCI-FI, etc. If viewer interest got these channels added, why has the interest of the 438 viewers to have a channel removed not been honored or at least addressed?

In December 1994 the Cable Advisory Commission asked the City Commission to approve a letter to Sammons asking them to explore the possibility of scrambling the MTV channel and let those that choose to have the channel available in their homes purchase a descrambling device. When I called a representative of CAC on Feb. 21, 1995, I was told the letter was going out that week. I'm sure there are others like myself that would like to know the response to that letter. Perhaps some subscribers have been waiting to hear from Sammons on this request.

There is undesirable programming on the majority of the channels but MTV is the only one so far that has stated "MTV is not a channel it is a cultural force," "MTV has affected the way an entire generation thinks, talks, dresses, and buys," "We don't shoot for the fourteen-year-olds - we own them" and "our audience doesn't just watch MTV - they live it."

Is Sammons Cable operating with the same type of arrogance? They are the "only" cable franchise we have available at this time. Even though petitions and a survey submitted by Sammons show that the majority of Pampa cable viewers have requested no MTV, Sammons has let it be known that they are in control.

Hopefully, the city commissioners will give this issue some thought before renewing Sammons contract to the year 2000.

American Family Association has made available a video MTV Examined to be checked out through the Gift Box. Pharmacists work hard

To the editor:

I am writing in response to the letter published June 4th regarding a problem with the call rotation of the local pharmacies. I am a registered pharmacist at the hospital and partly responsible for the call rotation. The purpose of the call rotation is to make available a pharmacy to patients needing emergency medications filled after business hours and on days the local pharmacies are closed. Before the rotation was begun, a patient was on his/her own to find a pharmacy to fill these medications.

I would like to point out the fact that the five pharmacies who participate in the call rotation do so on a strictly voluntary basis. The only compensation offered them is a free dinner every six to seven months.

There are a few things I would like to say and think need to be said about the pharmacists who participate in the call rotation. From my personal dealings and conversations with them, I can honestly say that these are some of the hardest working, most respectable people in our community. I know from personal experience that the average independent retail pharmacist works five to six days a week averaging anywhere from nine to twelve hours a day. The local pharmacists know their clientele and their clientele's needs very well. It is apparent to me that concern for the health and wellness of ours and the surrounding communities runs deeply within this group of healthcare professionals.

In my opinion, the author of the aforementioned letter was incorrect to imply that the pharmacist on call purposefully did not answer calls or return messages in a timely manner. It is my belief that no pharmacist would maliciously prevent or delay a person from procuring a necessary medication, no matter what the situation. The author of that letter was correct in mentioning the fact that extenuating circumstances sometimes arise.

What we must remember is that there are no pharmacies open late or on Sundays and holidays in Pampa. These pharmacists are providing a much needed and valuable service to the citizens of this city.

Thanks for tornado aid

To the editor:

On the 8th of June, our businesses were ravaged by the tornado, as were many other businesses and homes in our community. Our heartfelt prayers go out to all who had losses, but at the same time, we say thank you God that we are picking up wood, metal and plastic instead of dead neighbors, friends and loved ones. The kindness, the calls and the help we received was unbelievable!

Men, women, young adults, friends, strangers and local businesses rallied with manual labor, machinery, food, drinks and a kind and encouraging word to help us salvage what we could from the buildings.

We want to take this occasion to say a heart-felt thank you to law enforcement personnel, the Salvation Army, the Red Cross, Gray County, the Texas Highway Department and the City of Pampa for a super job of service to the entire community. The list would be extremely long to even begin to list all those who came to our need and didn't say "call me if I can help," but who showed up and said "show me how I can help!" Our deepest appreciation to all those named and unnamed; the Lord knows who all of you are!

"What good is it, my brothers, if a man claims to have faith, but has no deeds? Can such faith save him? Suppose a brother or sister is without clothes and daily food. If one of you says to him, 'Go, I wish you well, keep warm and well fed,' but does nothing about his physical needs, what good is it? Faith by itself if not accompanied by action is dead." James 2: 14-17.

Also a special thanks to all who have taken the time to call and return personal items from all across town, this again speaks for the quality of Pampa people.

Thanks again from all of us at Liquid Recovery Systems and the Ragg Nook for putting your faith into action!

He's upset at salary games

To the editor:

I have no idea how other Gray County voters felt when they read the article in last Tuesday's paper on Judge Peet's salary games, but I felt enraged.

I am a conservative and generally vote Republican, but in the last election my vote went to Jim Osborne because I felt that Richard Peet probably knew more about "government and politics" than I wanted in the position of county judge. I didn't feel that he would manage our tax dollars effectively.

Judge Peet's action (manipulation) in justifying a raise for his secretary confirms my original suspicion. It's fairly obvious to me that he fully intended to make this move when he hired his new secretary. In fact, since Mr. Peet can obviously plan and manipulate, it would not surprise me to learn that he planned this before he was even elected.

The judge's actions certainly don't track with any fiscal conservative philosophy I've heard about lately. The logic used by Judge Peet in his justification sounds like the same logic used in Washington, D.C., when they claim to have made spending cuts while only reducing the projected budget growth.

I feel that Richard Peet has betrayed the conservative voters of Gray County who did vote for him, and I strongly question Mr. Peet's dedication to controlling our tax dollars.

I ask all Gray County voters who are as offended as I am about Judge Peet's financial ethics to contact me at 665-8501. Based on your response, a recall election may be warranted.

Class reunion appreciated

To the editor:

To the 1985 Class Reunion Committee members: John Tarpley, Dona Darby Cambern, Kristi Hughes Fatheree, Laura Horne Green, Renee Sprinkle, Kim Wilson Stevens, Michele Muns Kelley, Lyn Turner Ledbetter, Tony Santa Cruz, Daniel Silva, Dean Birkes and Carla Mann Stout.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation for the fantastic job in the planning and administration of our 10 Year Reunion conducted on the weekend of June 17, 1995. Your hard work and countless hours of preparation were certainly noticed. The reunion was a great success, and I share this opinion with all classmates that attended.

The time spent updating our lives with one another as well as paying respect and remembering our classmates that have left us along the way are memories that I will never forget. Despite the many different paths we now travel or the various roles we play in our society, one common bond still exists, "We're the greatest class alive, We're the Class of '85!"

BASKETBALL

DALLAS (AP) — The expansion draft is over and the three Texas NBA teams still have their problem players.

Dallas is stuck with Roy Tarpley. Houston couldn't dump Vernon Maxwell and San Antonio still gets to watch Dennis Rodman change his hair color.

Although protection lists for each team were not made available, it's believed that Tarpley and Maxwell were left unprotected for Saturday's draft to stock the rosters of the league's two newest teams.

Instead, the Mavericks lost former first-round pick Doug Smith, the Rockets lost 7-tooter Zan Tabak and the Spurs lost off-injured guard Willie Anderson.

All three were taken by the Toronto Raptors.

Smith won't necessarily end up with the expansion team. He was a restricted free agent, but by being drafted he becomes an unrestricted free agent. He can negotiate with any team.

Other players with Texas ties who also went to the Raptors included former Texas Longhorn B.J. Tyler, of the Philadelphia 76ers, and Fort Worth native Oliver Miller, of the Detroit Pistons.

CORRECTION

PAMPA — It was Josh Blackmon instead of Shaun Blackmon who had the rare double eagle two June 18 at Hidden Hills golf course. Using a 3-wood, Blackmon holed out his second shot on the par 5, No. 18 hole.

BASEBALL

PAMPA — Undefeated Dumas downed Pampa, 12-8, in an 18 and under slugfest Thursday at Harvester Field. Dumas has a 5-0 record for the season while Pampa is 0-4.

"We gave an unbeaten team a good run. I was real proud of our guys. We were much aggressive at the plate," said Pampa coach Steve Watson. "I feel like we're starting to turn things around."

Clint Curtis and Jaron Miller slammed home runs for the Panthers. Curtis also tripled.

The Panthers went with Matt Benton on the mound. It was his first time to pitch, Watson said.

"He did a great job, but we made some errors that hurt us," Watson added.

Pampa trailed by only one run going into the final inning. Dumas scored three runs in the seventh to nail down the win.

AUTO RACING

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Jacques Villeneuve turned back challenges from Al Unser Jr. and Jimmy Vasser on Saturday, winning the pole position for the Budweiser G.I. Joe's 200.

Villeneuve set a track qualifying record of 117.614 mph on the final lap of the 30-minute qualifying session, breaking the mark of 116.861 set a year ago by Unser on the 1.95-mile, nine-turn Portland International Raceway road course.

The 24-year-old Canadian driver came into Saturday's session holding the provisional pole with a lap of 116.606, but saw Unser, the defending race and series champion, take the top spot with a lap of 116.875.

Villeneuve re-took the lead with a 117.383, while Vasser, matching his best qualifying effort as an Indy-car driver, got up to 116.969. That fell well short of Villeneuve, who earned his first Indy-car pole.

The pole gave Villeneuve one more PPG point and raised his season lead over runner-up Robby Gordon to 80-75 entering the ninth of 17 races on the Indy-car schedule.

Top O' Texas Basketball Camp ends with awards ceremony

Robert Hale's Top O' Texas Basketball Camp finished up last week at Pampa Middle School.

The camp was open to boys in the second through ninth grades. The campers received instruction in the fundamentals of the game, but team play and shooting were emphasized.

Hale is head coach of the Pampa Harvesters.

Norman storms to Hartford Open lead

CROMWELL, Conn. (AP) — Greg Norman stormed through the third round of the Greater Hartford Open, shooting a 5-under-par 65 Saturday that gave him a three-stroke lead over Fuzzy Zoeller heading into the final round.

Norman, a co-leader after the second round, had seven birdies and two bogies for a 14-under 196, breaking the previous record for 54 holes of 11-under set last year by defending champion David Frost.

Norman, the runner-up at the U.S. Open last week and the second-place finisher at the GHO last year, could have carried a four-stroke lead into the last round, but missed a 10-inch putt to save par at No. 18.

Norman will be paired in Sunday's round with Zoeller, who was playing in the group ahead of Norman and had reached 11-under with a 10-foot birdie putt at No. 18, his seventh birdie of the day.

Zoeller, who shot a 66, needed the birdie for sole possession of second place after his partner Grant Waite sink a 20-foot birdie putt at the last hole for a 67 that put him at 200, tied with Kirk Triplett.

Triplett, who was tied with Norman at 9-under after two rounds, got off to a shaky start in front of the huge galleries following Norman, but recovered with two late birdies to stay in the hunt.

At 201 were Dave Stockton Jr. (68) and Billy Andrade, whose round of 62 broke a course record of 63 set by Zoeller in the second round.

Norman started the day with a birdie at No. 1 and missed a chance to gain another stroke at the next hole when he lipped the cup on a short putt.

His birdies at Nos. 4, 6, 7 and 9 put him 14-under at the turn.

Rookie League tournament starts at Optimist Park

PAMPA — Sports Shots Photography started the season off with bats in hand and an infield the Texas Rangers would have been proud of.

"Throughout the season all the boys worked hard at practice and just seemed to get better and better each week," said Manager Garry Moody.

In Bambino Rookie League baseball, a pitching machine instead of a pitcher is used and 10 players are allowed on the field instead of the customary 9. But that is where the differences end.

Quick thinking and accurate throws on defense combined with hard hitting and smart base running on offense helped the Sports Shots team past each of their opponents by an average of 6 runs per game.

"We had some close games," Moody said. "W. O. Operating and Titan Specialties played very tough games, which ended in 11-10 and 14-12 decisions, respectively, and both of which were not decided until the bottom of the sixth inning. The one thing I was proudest of is the overall progress each player has made while playing this year. At the beginning of the season, I was concerned about the general attitude that all outfielders were the less talented players on the team and were placed in the outfield so they could get their playing time. We started the season stressing the importance of the outfielders and teaching them how to watch the ball and play backup to the infielders on throws as well as hits."

Moody believed working with the outfielders helped prevent the opponents from scoring several runs against us from bat throws that would normally have gone into the outfield and rolled to the fence.

"I am extremely proud of our coaches for the work they have done and of the players for the way they have worked together as a team and supported each other. I'm sure we will see several of these players on future all-star teams if they continue to work and play as hard as they did this year."

The Rookie League is comprised of over 100 players on eight teams which include: Danny's Market, Rheams Diamond Shop, Titan Specialties, Frank's Thriftway, W.O. Operating, Warner-Finney Attorneys, Thompson Parts and Sports Shots Photography.

The double-elimination Rookie League City Tournament started play at Optimist Park with six games this Saturday. Today's games will be at 1 and 3 p.m.; Monday and Tuesday night games at 6 and 8 and single games will be played Wednesday (8 p.m.) and Thursday. The championship game on Thursday starts at 6 p.m.

"The tournament is up for grabs," said League President Brenda Moody. "The overall records of each team was so close that we had to wait until the last games of regular-season play before we could place teams in the tournament bracket. This year has been very challenging with the weather problems we have had, but the coaches and parents have worked well together to make the season very enjoyable."

When asked about the 7 and 8 year old players, she went on to say, "this league is designed to teach the players hitting and throwing skills they can use in the next league to help them be more competitive and enjoy the game. Since I know most of the kids, I tend to watch over them and watch how the coaches interact with them."

Mrs. Moody said it's been fun watching each player's progress this year and knowing that the coaches have made a determined effort to teach them the things they need to know.

"Sportsmanship has been a key item stressed this year in addition to the basic fundamentals and I think all of the coaches should be commended and can be proud of the work they have done in this league to promote good sportsmanship and on and off the field," she said.

Moody would like to encourage the city of Pampa to come to "The Ballpark in Pampa," and enjoy some fast-paced and exciting baseball with all of "her Kids."

Rockets have new uniforms

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets won't unveil their new uniforms until the NBA draft Wednesday, but T-shirts and other licensed items bearing their new cartoon-like logo have begun circulating around town.

Based on documents submitted by the team for trademark registration and at least one T-shirt design floating around, the new logo features a sharp-toothed, needle-nosed red, white and blue rocket ship orbiting a basketball.

The word "Rockets" is emblazoned across the logo in one design. The Rockets also have sought trademark protection for an auxiliary logo that show the toothy rocket blasting off from a capital "R."

The Atlanta Hawks and the Seattle Sonics — no longer the SuperSonics — also will have new looks next season.

No replica jerseys have cropped up yet, but the Houston Chronicle says sources in the licensing industry have indicated the word "Rockets" will be placed above the logo, with the uniform number on the upper left.

Wavy pinstripes that apparently simulate the rocket's exhaust trail snake up and down the shirt and pants, the sources say.

Former club pros share lead in Senior Nationwide tourney

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer

ALPHARETTA, Ga. (AP) — Both Bruce Summerhays and Larry Laoretti, a pair of former club pros, birdied the final hole Saturday to share the lead after the second round of the Senior PGA Nationwide Championship.

Summerhays, the first-round leader with a course-record 69, shot a 71 and Laoretti a 68. Both are at 10-under-par 134 on the hilly, 6,777-yard Lakeside Course at the Country Club of Georgia.

Three-time U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin and Bob Murphy, a two-time winner this season, are one shot back. Irwin birdied seven of the first eight holes for a 65 and Murphy had the low round of the day, a bogey-free 64.

Laoretti, the 1992 U.S. Senior Open champion, built a two-shot lead when he got to 11-under on the front side, but a double bogey-5 on No. 13 knocked him out of the lead. He recovered with birdies on the final two holes.

Summerhays, the former Stanford golf coach in his rookie Senior season, couldn't duplicate his first-round performance.

Graham Marsh was alone in fifth place with a 67-136, and Tom Wargo followed with his second consecutive 69.

Former PGA Tour commissioner Deane Beman, who shared second with Laoretti after the first round, had a 73, dropping into a tie at 139 with Japan's Isao Aoki and Bobby Nichols. Nichols shot a 68 and Aoki 70.

Irwin, appearing in his second Senior event since turning 50 on June 3, had the best front side on the tour this year, a 7-under 29.

"Disappointing? It sort of is when you get into that kind of jump," said Irwin, who chose not to go for the green on his second shot at the par-5 No. 9. He laid up and settled for a par.

"My heart kept saying go for it," he said. "Really said think about it. Reality won that. I should have gone for it."

He said it changed his momentum and he was never able to recover. He missed three birdie putts in the 6-12-foot range on the back, took a bogey when he missed the 16th green and got his final birdie when he two-putted from 25 feet on the 18th hole.

Irwin's birdies on the front came from 3 and 10 feet on the first two holes before beginning a string of five in a row on No. 4 with putts of 6, 2, 7, 15 and 12 feet.

Murphy had four birdie putts in the 2-7-foot range on the front side, started the back by sinking a 15-footer for another birdie on No. 10 and then chipped in for his sixth of the day from 20-25 feet on the 12th. He also birdied 13 from 2 feet and 18 from 20.

Astros edge Cubs in 12 innings

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Derek Bell will worry about recognition when the season's over and he's visiting his favorite fishing hole.

Until then, he's all business.

Bell's run-scoring single in the 12th inning gave the Houston Astros a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs, ending their seven-game home losing streak.

"I don't worry about what's on paper, this number or that number," said Bell, acquired as part of a blockbuster trade with San Diego in the offseason. "I just put the ball in play and bust my tail down the line. When you're fishing in the offseason, that's when you look at those things."

Bell helped the Astros with his fielding and hitting. He made a diving catch on a sinking fly ball by Shawn Dunston to start the 12th that could have caused the Astros trouble.

"I didn't think I was going to get it," Bell said. "It was sinking so fast."

Bell has hit safely in 40 of the Astros' 51 games this season. He's been held hitless in consecutive games only once this season and is batting .344 — tying him with Colorado's Dante Bichette for the NL lead.

"A lot of people don't get a good read on that guy (Bell), the truth is, he really loves to play, he's a heck of a hitter," Astros manager Terry Collins said. "I don't know where we'd be without him."

With one out in the 12th, Brian Hunter had an infield single off Mike Walker (1-2) and went to second on a single by Craig Biggio. Jeff Bagwell hit into a force play that left runners at first and third. Bell then followed with his game-winning hit on a 3-2 pitch.

"I told myself I had to go and get a piece of the ball," Bell said. "I got in my two-strike stance and concentrated on putting the ball in play and hitting it to right field."

The Astros lost at home Thursday night to the Cubs, their first game after returning from a 7-2 road trip. They are 8-16 at home this season and 19-9 on the road.

Todd Jones (4-1) allowed one hit over two innings, while striking out five and walking three.

The Astros tied it in the ninth against Randy Myers when Bell led off with a single. After one out, pinch-hitter Tony Eusebio singled to right, sending Bell to third. Craig Shipley then hit a sacrifice fly to make it 2-2.

The Cubs got only three hits off Mike Hampton, who retired the next 16 batters after Mark Grace's ninth homer in the third. Hampton struck out six and didn't allow a walk in eight innings.

"Hampton's one of the best young left-handers in the league," Cubs manager Jim Riggleman said. "He's especially good to be so young."

Pampa Dairy Queen to host 'State of Texas Finals' event

The Olympic Games are coming to Pampa. But residents shouldn't expect to see Dan Jansen, Carl Lewis ... or even Tonya Harding. Instead, finalists from across the state will compete in the official Dairy Queen Olympic "State of Texas Finals" competition Wednesday at the newly remodeled Dairy Queen on Hobart Street. Opening ceremonies begin at 1:30 p.m. with a torch run, naturally. Mayor Bob Neslage will officially declare the games open at 2 p.m. Regional champions from Fort Worth, Euless, Granbury, Richland Hills, Keller, Watauga, Azle, Wofforth, Slaton, Floydada, Shallowater, Dumas, Crosbyton and Stinnett will compete for gold, silver and bronze medals. Competition involves how well each champion produces the restaurant's famous cones, sundaes, "Blizzard" treats, banana splits and parfaits. Judges from across the country will evaluate the contestants on product portioning, speed and appearance. Bob Phillips from television's Texas Country Reporter will serve as master of the opening ceremonies. Representatives from the City Council and Chamber of Commerce will also be on hand.

Phillips has traveled hundreds of thousands of miles over the landscapes and backroads of Texas for 22 years with his "Country Reporter" television series. The series first aired in October 1972 on KDFW-TV in Dallas and now airs in all Texas markets. He also hosts a radio program which is broadcast live on the Texas State Network every Sunday from 8 to 10 p.m. and is the publisher of Texas Country Reporter newspaper. Phillips is also the official spokesman for Texas Dairy Queens and is seen on Dairy Queen commercials. Born in Dallas, Phillips spent much of his time growing up in the country just south of Lake Texhoma. He started his career as a photographer for KDFW-TV, where he spent 17 years. He also worked as a news reporter. Phillips graduated from Southern Methodist University in 1973 and received his master's degree from SMU in 1976. He is the recipient of many honors, including an Emmy, Best Feature awards from UPI and AP, Best Feature from the Dallas Press Club, the Southwest Journalism Forum Award and numerous others.

You will be able to observe your outer ear, ear canal and ear drum on the Otoscope's color monitor. The Otoscan may be helpful in the early detection of developing conditions which may need attention.
 During this special event Mrs. Beck will be able to answer any questions and give information about the Miniscopic hearing aid (the latest aid available) and other new technology. To guarantee your personal appointment, it is advisable to call 665-6246 or 1-800-753-1696 to reserve your time.
 If a hearing aid is necessary, a Miniscopic hearing instrument may be the best choice. The newest in hearing aid technology, the Miniscopic hearing instrument is so small it's like a contact lens for the ears. Because of its deep ear canal placement, it may barely be visible to others.
 If you need a hearing aid or suspect you may have a hearing problem, visit High Plains Hearing Aid Center at 721 W. Kingsmill or call Thea or a member of her staff at 665-6246 for an appointment. If you like, you can call one of their offices or service centers conveniently located in area towns toll free at 1-800-753-1696.
 An Otoscan appointment is an opportunity to learn more about your hearing health with no obligation. If you do need a hearing aid, High Plains Hearing Aid Center can offer you the finest equipment available and include the services of people with long experience in the hearing aid field. Pampa's own Bed and Breakfast Combining a bit of history with relaxation, the Hughey House gives those who stay there a look to the past.

There's something new in Pampa — and it's been there for almost seventy years. It's the Hughey house, which owners Larry and Lynn Ray and their daughter Kristi and her husband Tim purchased and turned into a bed and breakfast, the first of its kind here in Pampa.

Located at 321 N. West Street, the house was first built back in 1926 by I.B. Hughey, a farmer and rancher.

Five bedrooms and three and a half baths will be available for people to rent.

Each of the five rooms have a theme with the downstairs master bedroom known as the Hughey Room. The other downstairs bedroom is known as the Green Room. Located upstairs are the Sunflower Room and the Pioneer Room. A contest was held to name the other upstairs bedroom. Once the person who won is contacted, the name of the bedroom will be revealed. That person will get to stay for a free night at the house.

The house had its grand opening June 17. Nine guests stayed there that night.

A bed and breakfast is fitting for this house. Mrs. Hughey used to rent rooms to teachers new to Pampa back in the 1920's because housing was hard to find with the oil boom.

The living room and parlor reflect the original charm and elegance of a majestic old home.

"We wanted a place where people could come and relax and feel at home," says Lynn Ray. "This home is built for a family and now operated by our family so that people will have a place to bring their family."

"It's also a place where traveling business men can feel at home when they're not," says Tim Hutto. "I know that in the past when I traveled, I would have loved a place like this."

The house is located only a few blocks from the White Deer Land Museum and Freedom Museum U.S.A.

"If people want to get a feel for the history of the Panhandle, this would be a good place to start," says Larry Ray.

"All I can say is, it's Southern," says Kristi Hutto. "It's good and it's all you want to eat. You'll leave rested and very full."

Above: The Hughey room located on the first floor of the Hughey House Bed and Breakfast features pictures of the original owners of the house, Mr. and Mrs. I.B. Hughey and their only child, Fern.

The cedar fencepost bedframe of the pioneer room located upstairs, was made by Joe H. Murphree, the father of Lynn Ray, over 50 years ago. Murphree, a carpenter of more than 30 years, crafted the bed out of cedar fence posts when he and his wife lived on a small ranch during World War II when metal products were impossible to purchase. The pioneer wagons on display in the room were built by Larry Ray and are on loan to the bed and breakfast from his private collection. A brief history of each wagon can be read on a wall plaque.

Right: Tapestries found in the attic of the house decorate the wall along the staircase. Items such as drapes and other things were taken out of the attic to help give the house the feeling of the way the house was back when the Hugheys owned it. Other items from that era were purchased and are being used in the house.

Patrons of the house will be served homecooked meals in the dining area of the house.

Asparagus is a sure sign of spring. Super salad matches crisp-tender pieces of asparagus with Belgian endive and arugula, dried tomatoes and strips of Fontina cheese. Toss with your best vinaigrette.

For a fluffy, soufflee-style omelet, mix egg yolks with creamy herbed cheese, then fold in beaten egg whites. Cook the bottom until set, fold, then cover the skillet to cook the top through.

Health note: ruby red grapefruit varieties have much more betacarotene than ordinary white grapefruit. Taste good, too.

ACCEPTING JESUS

"He that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my sayings, hath one that judgeth him: the word that I spake, the same shall judge him in the last day." (Jn. 12:48.) The Jews who opposed Jesus constantly questioned His authority and His claim that He was the Son of God. What Jesus means by "rejecting" Him is to reject the fact that He is the Son of God and to refuse to do what He taught. Those opposing Him would not accept His deity, neither would they obey His word.

There are many today who reject the divine Sonship of Jesus and His teaching also. There are also those who accept His divine Sonship, that is, they give lip-service to the fact that He is the Son of God but they do not obey His words: Yet, Jesus says that one must not only accept that He is the Son of God but do His teaching also.

The signs and wonders which Jesus did were to prove that He is the Son of God and those things are written in order that we believe that He is the Son of God and have life in His name (Jn. 5:36; 20:30-31.) Except we believe that Jesus is the Son of God we will not be saved (Jn. 8:24; Rom. 10:9-10.) And, in accordance with that, we must accept His words in doing what He commands us to do (Lk. 6:46.) Most assuredly, in the last day the vengeance of God will be administered against those who have not accepted Jesus as the Christ and who have refused to obey His gospel (2 Thess. 1:8.)

Many today are misled into believing that all they have to do to be saved is to just accept Jesus or give mental assent to His deity. But there were rulers in the days of Jesus upon this earth who believed on Him but they would not confess it because they were afraid of the Pharisees (Jn. 12:42.) Obviously, they would not do what Jesus was teaching people to do to be saved.

To really and truly accept Jesus as the Christ, the Son of God is to not only believe in that fact but to do what He tells us to do. Jesus said, concerning His gospel, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that disbelieveth shall be condemned." (Mk. 16:16.) Therefore, one must believe and obey in order to be saved.

The Record Is Set Straight In Candy Bar Controversy

DEAR ABBY: Babe Ruth and the Baby Ruth candy bar were mentioned in your April 28 column. Unfortunately, Cindy Adams of San Diego misinformed you and your readers by erroneously quoting the Baby Ruth commercial which is now airing as a salute to baseball legend Babe Ruth.

In her letter, she shared her version of the commercial with the following quote, "Babe Ruth — one of the all-time greats of baseball. To this day you hear his name, as he had a candy bar named after him."

Abby, the candy bar was not named after Babe Ruth, as she stated, and the commercial doesn't suggest that it was. Rather than implying that the Baby Ruth candy bar was named for the baseball hero, the TV commercial suggests that perhaps it was the secret weapon responsible for "The Babe's" success. Folklore has it that the candy bar was actually named after Ruth Cleveland, daughter of our 22nd president, Grover Cleveland. This is the message that Nestle has consistently communicated since acquiring the Baby Ruth business in 1989.

The commercials were made as a tribute to Babe Ruth during the 1995 year-long celebration of the 100th anniversary of his birth. Three nostalgic 1920s period commercials retell the story of The Babe's famous center field home run.

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

We appreciate the opportunity to clarify our message behind the "Babe" advertising campaign, and hope that you will find space in your column to correct the misinformation shared with so many of your dedicated readers worldwide.

PATRICIA BOWLES, MANAGER, PUBLIC RELATIONS, NESTLE CHOCOLATE AND CONFECTIONS, GLENDALE, CALIF.

P.S. As for the Ruth family and their feelings about the new Baby Ruth ads, Julia Ruth Stevens (daughter of "The Sultan of Swat") asked me to forward the following to you:

DEAR ABBY: I have enjoyed your column for many years, and read with interest the letter from the writer who thought the TV commercial indicated the Baby Ruth candy bar was named after my father.

Our whole family is excited about how the country is celebrating the 100th anniversary of Daddy's birth. It's nice to know that people of all ages still honor him. The Baby Ruth TV ad is one of the many authorized tributes to Daddy that are planned for this year.

In the TV commercials, Nestle refers to the "secret weapon" that may have led to his success. Other "secret weapons" were his generosity and sincere appreciation of his fans.

Thank you in advance for printing this letter.

JULIA RUTH STEVENS

DEAR MS. BOWLES AND JULIA RUTH STEVENS: I heard from a surprising number of readers offering varied opinions about the origin of the Baby Ruth candy bar name. Some said it was named after the granddaughter of the president of the company which introduced it. Others claimed it was called "Baby Ruth" instead of "Babe Ruth" to avoid paying royalties to the Ruth family.

Thank you for clarifying the confusion concerning the Babe Ruth/Baby Ruth TV commercials.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Use common sense in your conversations with friends today. If there are topics that you shouldn't discuss, don't bring them up.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If your companions are fun-loving today, let yourself go and get in the swing of things. Avoid setting serious perimeters on lighthearted involvements.

Thunder Junction park plan still alive and well

By BILL RUSSELL
Guest Writer

CLARENDON - Thunder Junction, the water park scheduled for construction near Greenbelt Lake in Donley County, has more lives than a cat and has gone through more changes than the Congressional Record. At last report, however, the park plan is still alive and well, despite the fact that opening day has been delayed.

"If we can get things in place to open this season we will, even if it's only for a week," said Stan McClendon of Wellington, a stockholder in Thunder Junction. "If we can't open until next season, that's when we'll open. But we will open!"

The most recent change of plans was caused when the British Corporation that was going to fund the water park backed out. But a construction loan was negotiated with Ralph Hatfield, a builder from Chicago. The corporation formed to oversee the project was taken over by Frank and Chauncy Hommel of Donley County and McClendon of Collingsworth County.

"It's an all-Texas corporation now," said McClendon, "and that seems to be a better situation all the way around."

The new group has purchased a large water slide from a Rhode Island water park and is having it shipped to Clarendon, where it will form the centerpiece of the park.

"Buying the water slide is a done deal," said Frank Hommel, owner of the Bar H Dude Ranch in Donley County. "The water slide will be on its way to Texas soon."

In addition to the water slide, plans call for the building of a Go-Cart track. Six of the motorized Go-Carts have been purchased and are in Clarendon. In addition, current plans call for the construction of a 10,300 square-foot building to house arts and crafts booths, food concessions and a video game arcade. Another 2,000 square-foot building will house dressing rooms and restrooms.

"Vaughn and Associates of Amarillo have finished the soil testing and survey work," McClendon said. "We should have some blueprints ready very soon."

Future Thunder Junction Water Park plans call for the building of a miniature golf course, a wave pool, batting cages and a Lazy River Ride. The Go-Cart track will eventually be expanded to handle 60 cars.

The link between Thunder Junction and Yesterday's Children is still an important part of the project. Yesterday's Children is a non-profit organization established to secure funding for senior citizens projects throughout the Panhandle.

"Our connection with Yesterday's Children is the best advertising tool we can have," Hommel said. "Yesterday's Children will always be a part of Thunder Junction."

The "TJ" Capital Corporation has been formed to sell shares in Thunder Junction in order to raise additional investment capital for future construction. But a substantial portion of the funding is already in place.

"We have a budget of $325,000 with a firm half of that already in place," McClendon said. "We are taking a long-term view when it comes for planning the water park."

NFU head proposes market loan farm program

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The president of the National Farmers Union (NFU) unveiled a 1995 farm bill concept recently that makes use of a targeted marketing loan program and planting options to enhance farm income and save Federal dollars.

Testifying before the Senate Agriculture Committee's Subcommittee on Production and Price Competitiveness, NFU President Leland Swenson said this year's farm bill options are limited by "two powerful forces." They are intense pressure to reduce the deficit and the philosophical outlook of the new majority in Congress.

Swenson said Farmers Union's concept would accomplish deficit reduction and increase farm income by creating a marketing loan with rates established at the five year average cash market price, (indexed for reductions in the Export Enhancement Program required under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade with the index phased out over five years). The plan would limit the amount of commodities participants could enter into the loan program and establish a Normal Crop Acreage program instead of a commodity-specific base.

"Basing the commodity loan rates on the five-year average cash market price is not market distorting and should be scored as a minimal budget exposure," Swenson said.

"We strongly recommend that Congress draft a 1995 farm bill, as well as budget legislation, which replaces direct income from the government with genuine income opportunities from the marketplace, rather than simply balancing the budget on the backs of family farmers," said Swenson.

The farm leader said major cuts in federal farm spending without an offsetting increase in market price income will be devastating for rural Americans.

"In our drive over the past decade and a half for market oriented farm programs, we have neglected the income of producers," said Swenson.

He cited U.S. Department of Agriculture statistics indicating that 88 percent of the income of average farm operator households comes from off farm sources and that net return-to-equity ratios for farmers average near zero.

"Continued erosion of price support levels under current farm law provisions spells economic disaster for rural America," he said.

In addition, Swenson said land ownership and production should be tied together to enable conservation and environmental concerns to be addressed in the farm bill. He said approximately 45 percent of U.S. farmland today is owned by absentee landowners.

NFU's recommendations also include ending unpaid triple-base farm bill provisions and eliminating assessments on farmers to achieve federal budget reductions. Meanwhile, the farm group opposes lowering target prices to save budget outlays and opposes loan origination fees for commodity loans.

Licenses enter electronic age

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas hunting and fishing licenses are emerging from the era of carbon paper and entering the age of electronics.

Transactive Corp. - which currently operates the Texas Lone Star system replacing paper food stamps and welfare checks with a plastic debit card - is the finalist to provide a system to issue electronically hunting and fishing licenses and stamps, Lynne Lange of the state Parks and Wildlife Department said.

Ms. Lange, license section supervisor for the state agency, said the state is in final negotiations with the company and that a contract is expected to be signed by the end of the month.

She said that currently, people in retail stores and agency offices fill out license applicant information by hand in a large book that makes carbon copies. Retailers send the state a copy of the license, and the state sends retailers bills for what they owe.

Under the new system, an electronic terminal will allow information to be entered immediately into a state database, and a license will be printed out, Ms. Lange said. She said this will avoid the problem of a retailer not having a particular type of license on hand.

The state also will get its revenue faster because it will know immediately about each sale and will automatically deduct the amount owed from retailers' accounts, similar to a credit-card transaction, she said.

Transactive spokesman Marc Palazzo said, "We welcome the opportunity to expand our government services in Texas, and intend to turn our knowledge and experience into an advantage for the state, retailers and the avid hunters and anglers in Texas."

Transactive is a wholly owned subsidiary of GTECH Corp., which contracts to provide computer systems and services to the Texas Lottery.

Gun instructors begin process for applications

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Department of Public Safety last week began the application process for people who wish to instruct handgun courses under the new concealed-gun law.

The agency started taking telephone calls at 8 a.m. Thursday from those interested in becoming handgun instructors. Applications will be mailed to each caller.

The department had received more than 1,000 application requests by 4:30 p.m. Thursday, said DPS spokeswoman Sherri Deatherage Green.

"Since the House signed off on the bill, there have been days where we've gotten more than 100 calls, mostly from people who want to be instructors," Ms. Green said. "We've gotten far more calls from people who want to be instructors than those who want to get a license."

The first class for certified handgun instructors is scheduled to begin July 17 at the DPS Training Academy in Austin. The DPS plans to train about 60 applicants per class.

"The Department will continue the certified handgun instructor course on a weekly basis until all interested applicants are trained," said DPS Director Col. James R. Wilson.

Applicants must pay $100 for the handgun course, and the fee will be nonrefundable to those who don't complete the course, which will be taught only in Austin.

Applicants will be responsible for their own lodging and meals.

Minding your own Business

Value of a good idea

The price of a good newspaper is usually around a dollar. The value of a good idea may be thousands or even millions of dollars. Part of our job as newspaper columnists is to increase the value of your newspaper. We do this by struggling to come up with useful information and good ideas packaged in such a manner to make them interesting reading.

Therefore, I offer you a very special value in today's column: 10 good ideas. Their exact value will depend on how you use them, but any of them could easily pay for a lifetime supply of newspapers.

Worth a million

- You can measure the quality of your customer service by how often you have to say you're sorry. This assumes that you do apologize when you make mistakes or fail to meet your customer's expectations. Good service means never having to apologize. Anytime you have to say, "I'm sorry," note the reason. You should try to eliminate the cause of apologies.

- Become a problem solver. There are three kinds of people in business: Those who cause problems and know it, those who cause problems and don't know it and those who are more concerned with solving problems than determining who caused them. You will increase your value to others by becoming a problem solver. Focus your energy and efforts on finding answers and solutions, not on assigning blame.

- Assume that you have no job security. Even if you're self-employed, your customers can fire you by taking their business elsewhere. Life is not a probationary period where you can mess up continually. Long-term security is a series of short term successes.

- Be thankful for your success and happiness. Despite what you may see on television or at the movies, most of life's problems cannot be solved in 30 minutes. All stories do not have happy endings.

In real life people lose jobs, get sick, lose loved ones and have big problems. If life is going well for you, rejoice and be grateful. Being thankful can lower your stress level and help you live a healthier, happier life.

- Work toward simplicity. Divide complex projects, into smaller, less difficult tasks. Write short sentences and paragraphs. Avoid using voluminous, polysyllabic, metaphorical discourse when small, common words will convey the same meaning.

- Be courteous. I often observe rude, ungrateful people as I travel. And yet, I've never met a successful manager or business owner who had the respect of both employees and customers who wasn't courteous. Courtesy is a mark of class, and an important factor in building a profitable business or career.

- Read junk mail only when you're looking for direct marketing ideas. Once in a while you may find a good idea you can use or adapt to your marketing efforts. Remember that most junk mail is junk, so filter ideas carefully.

- Learn to do more with less. Many people use the lack of resources as an excuse for not accomplishing anything. Find ways when there are no ways. You increase your value to others when you develop a reputation of getting the job done anyway. If you work for yourself, doing more with less will help you make more money and can keep you profitable when others are failing.

- Wherever you go, whatever you do, try to look your best. Your appearance is important. Sloppiness may cost you dearly in both credibility and money. It is always better to overdress than to appear disheveled.

- Allow time for thinking. If your schedule keeps you too busy to think, you're too busy. Everyone needs some time to "sort things out." Thinking is the source of creativity and innovation. Careful thought often solves little problems before they become big, highly visible ones.

High bond rating

AUSTIN (AP) — The University of Texas System and Texas A&M University System should be able to issue bonds for construction projects at lower interest rates thanks to an upgraded rating by Moody's Investors Services.

The UT System said bonds backed by the Permanent University Fund have been upgraded to Aaa, the highest possible ranking.

The public endowment fund established by the Texas Constitution benefits 17 institutions in the two university systems. Its investment portfolio includes more than $4 billion and it has 2.1 million acres of land in West Texas. The Permanent University Fund is managed by the UT System on behalf of both university systems.

OSHA updates services booklet

The U.S. Department of Labor's Occupational Safety and Health Administration has updated the "Consultation Services for the Employer" booklet.

The 18-page booklet explains the steps a consultant takes to employers who want help implementing an effective safety and health program.

Primarily targeted for small businesses in high hazard industries or with especially hazardous operations, the free consultation service is given chiefly at the worksite, although limited services may be provided away from the worksite. At the worksite the consultant will identify any specific hazards and give advice and assistance establishing or improving the employer's safety and health program.

Consultation is a cooperative approach to solving safety and health problems in the workplace and is provided only upon request of an employer. The OSHA consultation program provides professional occupational safety and health advice at no cost.

A single, free copy of the booklet may be obtained by sending a self-addressed label to the OSHA Publications Office, Room N3101, 200 Constitution Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C., 20210.

Michael Jackson to record new song version

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michael Jackson will record a new version of the song "They Don't Care About Us" to eliminate slang perceived as anti-Semitic, his publicist said. When and where the song will be re-recorded was not known, publicist Lee Solters said. The song included the lyrics "Jew me" and "kike me." It is one of 15 recordings on Jackson's new double-CD, HIStory Past, Present and Future Book 1, which went on sale last Tuesday. There was no indication that albums already produced would be recalled. A rabbi said Jackson's manager told him that stickers explaining the lyrics would be placed on albums already produced. The rabbi, Abraham Cooper, hailed the decision to revise the lyrics. "Basically, Michael Jackson's done the right thing, and yet again, this is another example of where I think the industry has failed the community," said Cooper, associate dean of the Simon Wiesenthal Center in Los Angeles. "I think that most people still believe this is not a person who is a bigot. He made a mistake." But he said no album gets into the marketplace without input from many people besides the artist. Who will pay for the re-recording was unknown, said Melani Rogers, an Epic Records spokeswoman.

Grammy-winning country/western group Asleep at the Wheel will be playing for the Saturday night dance July 15 at the Top O' Texas Rodeo in Pampa.

Top O' Texas Rodeo to feature Asleep at the Wheel for dance

Asleep at the Wheel could be called the past, present and future of country music. They've been taking Western swing across the nation for over 23 years, and they'll be bringing it to the Top O' Texas Rodeo in Pampa in July.

While Amarillo band Kracker Jack will play for the Top O' Texas Rodeo dances Thursday and Friday nights, it will also open for Asleep at the Wheel Saturday night, July 15.

In their last album, Asleep at the Wheel Tribute to the Music of Bob Wills and The Texas Playboys, on Liberty Records, the Wheel created an album which showcases the many styles of country's top artists.

Asleep at the Wheel's founder and lead singer Ray Benson called the album a once in a lifetime chance with the result being a historic collection of Western swing music.

The album begins with the old fiddle tune, "Red Wing," featuring Vince Gill, Eldon Shamblin, Johnny Gimble, Chet Atkins, Marty Stuart and Lucky Oceans. Benson said he thought it was appropriate since the recording that most influenced the Wheel years ago was a tribute to Wills and the fiddle: Merle Haggard's A Tribute to the Best Damn Fiddle Player in the World (Or My Salute to Bob Wills).

Bob Wills' music was one of the most innovative, multi-faceted sounds in country's history, said Ray Benson. Artists involved include George Strait, Vince Gill, Dolly Parton, Huey Lewis, Merle Haggard, Suzy Bogguss, Brooks & Dunn, Garth Brooks, Lyle Lovett, Johnny Rodriguez and Willie Nelson.

The cut of "Misery" features some of the finest mandolin players in the business, Benson said.

"Marty Stuart is one of about a handful of folks who play the electric mandolin, an instrument used in Western swing bands," Benson said. "With Marty, Johnny (Gimble) and Ricky (Turpin), in the same studio, we probably had 50 percent of the known electric mandolinists in the world!"

Benson called "Hubbin' It" cowboy western swing at its best.

Featured vocalist Huey Lewis may seem an unlikely choice for this cut, but Benson said he was a natural.

"I met Huey 23 years ago when we used to play around the San Francisco Bay area," Benson said. "He was with the band, Clover, and they did this song as one of their tunes."

Asleep at the Wheel first came together in the early '70s, when Ray Benson, Leroy Preston and Lucky Oceans began playing bar and lodge gigs in West Virginia. The road manager of Commander Cody and his Lost Planet Airmen, whom Benson had met at a college show in Ohio, suggested that the group move to San Francisco. They did, nearly starving while they competed with the other 1500 bands there.

They finally connected at the Longbranch Saloon, drawing enough press attention to garner the first of nine different recording contracts. They began attracting fans from both the West Coast's counterculture and the Southwest's cowboy crowd. The atmosphere in Texas, in fact, led them to relocate there in 1974, using Austin as a launching pad.

The success of their debut album on Capitol, Texas Gold, not only reintroduced Western swing to contemporary country fans, it had an effect on Wills' original Playboys. A number of the group, including Leon McAuliffe, performed on television with Asleep at the Wheel, and the shows led to new recording contracts of their own.

Asleep at the Wheel fuse Western swing, boogie, rock and jazz with music ranging from their own to Nat "King" Cole and the Rolling Stones. In addition to winning 16 Grammy nominations, Asleep at the Wheel has been voted the Academy of Country Music's Best Touring Band.

The band's line-up has changed over the years. The current band consists of Benson on guitars and vocals; Tim Alexander on piano, accordion and harmony vocals; Cindy Cashdollar on Hawaiian steel guitar; Mike Francis on saxophone; Ricky Turpin on fiddle, electric mandolin and vocals; David Earl Miller on bass; and Tommy Beavers on drums.

For information on tickets for the band's July 15 appearance at the Top O' Texas Rodeo dance, contact the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, 200 N. Ballard, (806) 669-3241.

Parents should consider options for college funds

ATLANTA - Tassels, caps and gowns - a sight that triggers high school students' dreams of college - often signal a financial nightmare for parents facing college costs estimated to reach as high as $120,000 within five years.

There's no miracle solution for financially strapped parents with only a few years to raise funds for their child's college education, but there are several investment vehicles that can help, according to Mary Sullivan, vice president of the International Association for Financial Planning (IAFP).

"If a child is five or more years from starting college, parents should put money in a fairly aggressive investment vehicle, such as a growth mutual fund," Sullivan said.

She suggests keeping the fund in a parent's name to prevent the child from spending the money on something other than a college education when he or she becomes legally entitled to the funds.

A more conservative investment approach is recommended if a child will attend college in three to four years.

"A balance mutual fund, mixing stocks and bonds, is a conservative investment that minimizes risks," Sullivan said. "If a family only has a year or two to save, short-term zero-coupon Treasuries are extremely safe investments that pay a set amount upon maturity."

For families needing immediate financial help, options include securing a home equity loan, where the interest rate is tax deductible, and borrowing from a 401(k) pension plan.

"Short-term investments, such as U.S. government notes, money market mutual funds and bank CDs, can provide some help to families that need to protect their principal," Sullivan said.

"Unless the total amount needed to pay for a college education is saved, students should apply for any type of financial aid - scholarships, grants and loans - for which they qualify."

Fireworks will be set off at dark on July 4, organizers said. The July 9 event will also include the top 15 county roping teams.

XIT Rodeo set

DALHART - The chute on the 59th annual XIT Rodeo and Reunion will open Wednesday, Aug. 2, here with the junior rodeo.

Scheduled to run through Saturday, Aug. 5, the XIT Rodeo and Reunion includes the world's largest barbecue and this year will offer a free stew feed and free watermelon feed, according to Mark Brown, spokesman for the event.

Brown said that this year, in addition to the Pony Express race, there will be a three-man wild horse race.

A different country star will perform at the dance following rodeo performances each night. Larry Stewart will play for the dance Thursday; Lisa Brokop, Friday, and Mark Collee, Saturday.

Deadlines for the world's largest open rodeo is July 27. All events will have $1,000 added money, Brown said. The deadline for the team roping with $1,000 added money is July 25.

Brown said entries should be wired to Boatmen's First National Bank, Dalhart Banking Center, ABA#111300945 - WILSON, RODEO ACCT# 120117293.

The Market Forecaster

By George Kleinman

WHEAT - (BULL/BEAR)

Outlook: Still waiting for a harvest price break to be a buyer. Will it come? We see this most years. This year, there has been a modest break from the top, but not what I'd call significant.

A good rule of thumb (which served us well last year) is to buy December wheat futures when the harvest is about half over. What if we don't see a significant break by that time? In my opinion, this would be very bullish. We'll buy at the market then.

Bottom line, because the statistics point to just about the tightest world supply on record, it's not a question of buying wheat, just when.

Strategy: Hedgers: Our July 360 and 370 puts will expire end of this week, and they possibly could be worthless. If they are, this is good news in that the market has been strong enough not to see a harvest related break. Remember, puts allow for unlimited upside price potential in strong markets, but give you the assurance of a price floor during weak ones.

We'll most likely hold these for just a few weeks until harvest is about half done nationally.

Traders: We're still on the sidelines with the intention of making a major purchase in the next week or so.

CORN - (BULL)

Outlook: The corn market hasn't a price correction of more than 10¢/bushel all year. I know lots of traders who are waiting for a correction to buy. The best bull markets don't give "left out bulls," or "hurting shorts," the opportunity to get in (or out) cleanly. This appears to be one of those markets, and with good cause.

China may need to import in excess of 5 million tons of corn this year. This from one of the world's major exporters. My opinion hasn't changed. With even minor weather problems this year, the corn market has explosive upside potential - at the very least the north side of $3.

Strategy: Hedgers: Last year readers may recall we purchased September 280 put options when the market was near the highs. These served us well when the market fell into harvest.

You'll notice, with the market now over $2.80 (new crop), I've yet to suggest any new crop protection this year. This is a good price after all, but the corn upside potential appears much higher than the downside risk at this time. This is why I've held off thus far. The purpose of futures and options for a hedger is not just to minimize risk, but to maximize profit. At time you need to consider no hedges to accomplish this.

Those of you who sold cash corn still own September 2.70 calls. These were paid for with profits on previously owned July 2.50 calls.

Traders: You own December at $2.71, having previously taken a 16¢ profit in the July. The risk point remains a close under $2.65.

CATTLE - (BEAR)

Outlook: The cattle feeder has a bit of a problem to contend with over the next 60 days - large supplies. No matter how efficient he is, no matter how current his stays, he has a lot of competition. At least, this is what the numbers look like on paper and there's no reason not to believe the numbers.

The packer who buys the cattle knows as well as anyone, the supplies of market ready cattle will be more than adequate. Therefore, he can wait for the market to come to him and won't need to chase it. The demand side of the equation is the bright spot, in that it looks good. Marketings out of feedlots were huge over the past month, yet the market still was able to rally. Demand will prevent the market from falling as far as I thought it could a few weeks ago. However, supply should prevent rallies from lasting. Sell the rallies!

Strategy: Hedgers: I've recommended feedlot operators buy put options for protection in recent months, and they've worked. If our analysis for the summer is right, you'll still need the protection puts provide. Remember, puts give you unlimited downside protection, for a predetermined cost, yet still leave your upside potential open.

Cow/calf operators: Hedgers own the August and the September 66 puts, bought for $2 or less. Corn still looks bullish [which does nothing for feeder prices].

Traders: Go short August on the first close under 6150. Risk to a close over 6250. Leave the downside open for now.

Perry orders sunset review of ag rules

AUSTIN - Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry, calling over-regulation a threat to Texas' economic health, announced an unprecedented sunset review of all Texas Department of Agriculture regulations.

Perry's review will retain only those regulations that protect the public and natural resources in the least intrusive manner possible.

"For the first time ever in the history of Texas state government, I am going to require a sunset review of all our agency regulations," Perry said. "All of our rules in place today will expire on Aug. 31, 1996. That will force us over the next 16 months to look at every single regulation we have on the books. We will debate, discuss and thoroughly dissect them, and in the end produce a better, more reasonable and more efficient regulatory program."

Perry said TDA rules, which number in the hundreds, will be analyzed to determine if they have outlived their purpose; if they need to be modified to better accomplish their purpose; or if they are working fine and should be left alone. Just as in the legislative sunset review of agencies, the public will be given the opportunity to comment on proposed changes and repeals.

"At the end of this process, only those rules we need to protect public health and our natural resources and to ensure accountability - written only in a balanced, rational way - will survive," the commissioner said.

Perry also encouraged other Texas state agency heads to initiate similar regulation reviews. "I believe this is an action every agency should take," he said. "We've got to kick the frustrating governmental habit of creating massive and expensive paperwork requirements for our citizens and businesses sometimes for no purpose at all."

As an example, Perry cited a current TDA requirement for butter and margarine that forces packagers to produce products in certain sizes instead of responding to consumer preferences, possibly for smaller sizes. The current rules, which TDA is considering eliminating, require that these products be sold in standard sizes of 1/4 pound, 1/2 pound, 1 pound, 1 1/2 pounds or 24 ounces.

"This is a minor example, and we expect to find larger ones during the regulation review at our agency," Perry said. "In the end, all these little, minor paperwork annoyances add up in a big way to hinder business and stifle economic activity and competitiveness. And that's why unworkable regulations must be rooted out."

Council urges no changes in cotton program

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. cotton's situation has improved tremendously under the market-oriented cotton programs of 1985 and 1990 and program principles should be left intact in 1995 farm law.

That message was conveyed to the Senate Agriculture Committee's Production and Price Competitiveness Subcommittee here this month by Jimmy Sanford, president of the National Cotton Council of America.

The Council is the central organization of the U.S. cotton industry, representing producers, ginners, seed crushers, warehouses, cooperatives, merchants and manufacturers.

The Prattville, Ala., producer said the industry's goal is to work with Congress to ensure a cotton title and general farm program provisions that provide a reasonable safety net for farm income and do not diminish the industry's ability to compete aggressively in the world market.

He said the industry places a very high priority on maintaining cotton's core marketing loan program, including its three-step competitiveness plan and world price discovery mechanism.

"The marketing loan has done an exceptional job of keeping U.S. cotton price competitive, protecting farm income and controlling government cost," he said.

Sanford noted that U.S. cotton just produced the largest crop on record. He said domestic mills will process more cotton than they have since World War II and exports will reach the highest level since 1926 by the end of the season.

"This success did not just happen," Sanford said. "The U.S. cotton industry has invested heavily, both in technology and promotion. The result of this investment has been improved competitiveness."

"But the real payoff on this investment did not, and could not, occur until a market-oriented farm program enabled U.S.

cotton to be price-competitive with heavily subsidized foreign growths," he added.

Sanford said the marketing loan's effectiveness was illustrated dramatically in 1993 when six million bales of Central Asian cotton were unleashed on a sluggish world market already saturated with cotton. He said that if not for the marketing loan, that additional cotton would still be having a detrimental effect on the U.S. market.

He told the panel the industry prefers authority for cotton acreage reduction programs be established with the priority on producing enough commodity to satisfy demand, not on budget management.

Sanford said the industry also opposes means tests and other forms of payment limitations and believes cotton has all the cropping flexibility needed.

"Testimony we have heard to date indicates that most segments of agriculture prefer an increase in non-paid acres to reduced target prices as a means of achieving requisite spending reductions," Sanford said. "This should go a long way toward satisfying needs for increased cropping flexibility."

He said the industry's seven segments are willing to be responsible players in Congress' efforts to balance the federal budget, but agriculture should not be asked to take disproportionate cuts.

"U.S. cotton understands budget pressures virtually ensure that at least some changes will have to occur in 1995 farm law," Sanford told the panel. "But if the budget number is reasonable, our analysis suggests that the cotton program's principles can be maintained and entire components of the program would not have to be discarded."

Hereford groups approve merger

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The American Hereford Association (AHA) and the American Polled Hereford Association (APHA) will merge into one organization Sept. 1.

The combining of the two white-faced beef cattle registries culminates a year and a half of planning and negotiating, which will result in the new AHA becoming the second largest breed in the nation in terms of registry numbers. Both votes were held in early June.

H.H. "Hop" Dickenson, AHA chief executive officer, reported that nearly 87 percent of the AHA members voted in favor of the merger with 50 percent of those eligible returning ballots. APHA's CEO Ed Bible said that 89 percent of the APHA members voted in favor with nearly 40 percent returning ballots.

Dickenson will serve as chief executive officer of the newly merged association. APHA personnel will move into the AHA's headquarters building in downtown Kansas City.

"Even though this is not the first time we've entered into merger discussions," Dickenson said, "the timing proved to be right in this instance. Breeders in both associations saw the need for the great efficiencies to be gained from a merged organization."
