NATIONAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an astronomical event that happens every 15 years, the rings of Saturn will all but disappear for 24 minutes on Monday. Most of the world's big telescopes will be trained on the planet to record the event, which allows astronomers to look for new moons.

The phenomenon, known as a ring plane crossing, causes Saturn's distinctive rings to be seen edge-on from Earth. With the rings temporarily invisible because of the Earth-Saturn alignment, telescopes can pick out faint objects near the planet.

Previous plane crossings have enabled astronomers to discover 13 of Saturn's 18 known moons.

LUBBOCK (AP) — Housing Secretary Henry Cisneros and his former mistress settled their lawsuit today, with Linda Medlar receiving $49,000, her attorney said.

"We did the deal this morning," Medlar's attorney, Floyd Holder, said.

Holder and Cisneros' attorney, Seagal Wheatley, filed the papers together in Lubbock to dismiss the case.

Ms. Medlar filed a $256,000 lawsuit last July, accusing Cisneros of renegeing on an agreement to pay her $4,000 a month for leaking word of their relationship while he was mayor of San Antonio. She contends he agreed to help make up for her humiliation when the adulterous affair became front-page news in 1988.

Cisneros denied a contract existed. He has said he was sending money to Ms. Medlar as recently as 1993 because he felt sorry for her.

The lawsuit prompted an investigation by the Justice Department, which concluded that Cisneros lied about the amount of money involved when the FBI interviewed him during his background check to join President Clinton's Cabinet.

School board OKs grading change plans

By CHERYL BERZANSKIS
News Editor

Trustees of the Pampa Independent School District Thursday approved applications to Texas Education Agency for waivers which will allow two campuses to revert to an earlier way of grading first and second graders in science and social studies, and allow a third campus to continue mastery portfolio assessment instead of number grades.

Travis Elementary principal Doug Rapstine told the board his parents and teachers were dissatisfied with the system in place and preferred number grading for language arts and math and letters S for satisfactory, N for needs improvement and U for unsatisfactory in science and social studies. Teachers will continue keeping work portfolios as in the past but will use number and letter grades, he said.

"The key thing is parents understand how their child is doing," Rapstine said.

Tommy Lindsey of Horace Mann Elementary echoed Rapstine's comments. His teachers plan to add E for excellent to the same letter grading system for science and social studies. The campus will retain master check lists for kindergartners.

Ray Thornton of Wilson Elementary asked to continue with mastery portfolio system assessment in kindergarten and first grade. Parents like it, he said, and the campus will continue with two parent conferences each year. Orientation to the grading methodology will be held within the first two weeks of school to explain it to parents, Thornton said.

Addressing the board were Chief Juvenile Probation Officer Albert Nichols and Pampa Middle School Principal Tim Powers, who described their visit to an in-school boot camp for sixth to ninth graders in Conroe. The four-level discipline system serves youths who are both assigned to it by the school and ordered to it by a district judge, according to an information sheet from Magnolia Junior High.

According to Nichols and Powers, the program which combines intense physical training with strict discipline, is a big hit with parents and the school.

Depending on the discipline level, youths may attend for one day or up to 24 weeks. The boot camp, which is conducted at school, is operated military style by the Juvenile Probation Office, runs year round and includes community service, Nichols said.

In other action, the board:

- Approved using Title VI funds for support services, supplies/materials, teacher training and equipment.

- Accepted a bid for supplies, audio visual equipment, furniture, winter sports and training room supplies. The total is not listed in the board book.

- Accepted a bid for $18,497 to replace water and gas lines under Pampa High School.

- Accepted a bid for $3,750 from L&R Concrete Construction for 975 square feet of concrete work at Baker Elementary.

- Accepted a bid for $10,174 plus $6.75 per square foot for wood repair to refinish the gymnasium floor at Pampa Middle School.

- Accepted a bid for $31,900 from Sport Court for resurfacing two high school tennis courts.

- Approved installation of a new maple floor for $60,650 in McNeely Fieldhouse.

- Tabled action on purchase of copy machines for the district.

- Approved a contract for services with Region XVI Education Service Center in Amarillo.

- Approved a TEA application for an alternative accreditation plan for Pampa Learning Center.

Debbie Phillip, a paramedic with American Medical Transport, located at 120 N. Gray, checks over some of the supplies in one of the ambulances, or mobile intensive care units. "Most people don't realize that these ambulances we have are mobile intensive care units," said Phillip, a paramedic of two and a half years. "You can treat as an emergency room would until you reach a definitive care facility." This week winds up Emergency Medical Service Week. AMT has five full-time and 10 part-time paramedics.

U.S. sends latest loan payment to Mexico

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid signs Mexico's economic crisis is easing, the Clinton administration today provided the latest $2 billion installment in U.S. loans to its southern neighbor.

"Mexico has improved significantly over the past three months," Treasury Secretary Robert Rubin said in a statement. "They have more than halved their short-term, dollar-linked debt... and they have implemented tough economic policies."

The $2 billion installment brings to $10 billion the amount that Mexico has tapped from a $20 billion credit package approved in February in a rescue deal between the two nations.

The plan remains controversial here, with Republican leaders in Congress threatening public hearings.

Today's loans will be used to pay off short-term, dollar-denominated debts, officials said.

Rubin said, "While it is too soon to declare victory, we are optimistic that with our support and continued perseverance by Mexico's people, full market confidence and economic health should return."

He said the loan package is in the best interests of the United States, because the nation depends on Mexico as a trading partner.

America's deficit with Mexico surged 36 percent to a record

$1.71 billion in March as the economic turmoil in America's third biggest export market continued to turn what had been trade surpluses for the United States into growing deficits.

The rescue plan was approved by President Clinton after Congress balked at the administration's call for prompt action to provide help.

Republicans on Capitol Hill, led by Sen. Alfonse D'Amato of New York, said the money is a bail out for rich investors and there are no assurances it will be repaid by Mexico.

Rubin said Mexico is putting major budget-cutting and revenue-raising measures into effect.

Rising country stars entertain crowd at Wal-Mart

Playing before a Pampa crowd Thursday, David Lee Murphy put some rock into his country music. He says he grew up listening to Willie Nelson and Waylon Jennings.

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

Jeff Carson and David Lee Murphy are on their way to Borger today after an open air concert Thursday night in Pampa, one of the first the two have had in decent weather since launching this leg of their tour.

From being sand-blasted in Lamesa to a rain-out in Plainview, the two country singing stars played to a Pampa audience under blue skies and balmy temperatures Thursday night.

Carson and Murphy are part of the Country Across America Tour 1995 performing in Wal-Mart parking lots this summer. Wal-Mart and Anderson Merchandisers teamed up with new artists to produce the 29-week tour that started in Nashville March 27 and will return to the music city for a finale concert in October.

More than a dozen record labels have committed artists for one or more weeks focusing on country music's top-selling states with 45 percent of the shows concentrating in Texas. Carson and Murphy will be in Borger tonight, Dumas Saturday and Guymon, Okla., Sunday.

Murphy, who opened Thursday's show, explained in more of a southern drawl than a midwestern accent that he's from Southern Illinois, not Chicago.

"There's a big difference," he said.

The 36-year-old singer and songwriter said he learned to write music from a Baptist hymnal.

"I learned about harmony from singing in the choir," he said.

His mother played piano at church and his father led the singing.

This week his "Party Crowd" hit number 24 on the charts, the first recording he's had that's broken into the top 25.

Murphy describes his music as "Saturday-night-in-a-pickup-truck-with-the-windows-rolled-down-having-a-good-time-party-music." It's country with a rock beat.

Although he's been performing since he organized his first band in 1979, he commuted from Southern Illinois to Nashville until 1983. Within months he was opening at Nashville clubs. In 1985 Reba McEntire recorded his return to the music city for a finale concert in October.

Next week, he returns to Nashville to make a video for his song "Dust on the Bottle."

Jeff Carson, who closed the show Thursday in Pampa, is also a singer and songwriter with a musical family.

Born in Tulsa, Okla., Carson's mother plays banjo and guitar, his sister plays piano and his brother plays bass. It was his grandfather, though, that taught Carson how to play his first musical instrument — a harmonica.

From his hometown, Carson entered a talent contest in Arkansas.

"I think I came in second," he said, "but I got offered a job playing with a band there."

From there, he moved to Branson, then on to Nashville.

Today, his choice of instruments is the bass, and his music has a traditional country sound that's uniquely Carson.

He credits the sound with his years of producing demo tapes in Nashville. A songwriter will hire a singer and band to sing his song, then pitch it for a star, he explained.

"When you're doing demos, you want your own sound," he said. "When you're doing shows in clubs, you tend to imitate others."

The first demo he sang, "Mirror, Mirror," hit the charts after Diamond Rio recorded it.

"I was in town about two years when I started doing demos for writers," he said. "That mushroomed to the point where I was doing 20-30 demos a week."

Having just released his first album, Carson now calls Northwest Arkansas home, although he spends much of his time on the road. He's been doing radio tours since Christmas.

He admits that he'll be happy to get back to Gravette, his home near Bentonville.

No-new-taxes budget totals $79.7 billion

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Public education is a winner in a no-new-taxes state budget that will pay for government services in 1996-97, lawmakers say.

Rep. Rob Junell, D-San Angelo, top House negotiator on the committee that worked out differences between House and Senate budget proposals, said Thursday public education would receive $2 billion more than is currently being spent. The increase would include $292 million for a teacher pay raise.

"The governor, lieutenant governor and speaker of the House all said to make public education No. 1," Junell said.

"We took that seriously and that's what we've done."

The Legislative Budget Board says that the state's next two-year spending plan tentatively totals $79.7 billion, an increase in state funding of $4.8 billion or 6.5 percent compared to 1994-95.

The House-Senate conference committee on appropriations finished technical work on the bill Thursday. After the voluminous bill is printed, the committee will take a final vote on the measure and forward it to each chamber for consideration.

The Texas Constitution requires that the comptroller set the maximum amount the state can spend during the next two years.

Andy Welch, a spokesman for Comptroller John Sharp, said the budget plan will be "a real tight fit in terms of meeting certification."

"We can't certify the bill until we have had a chance to review it in detail, line by line," Welch said. "That could take days, if not weeks."

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock said this week he feared that the budget proposal might be close to violating constitutional spending limits.

"We can't have that," Bullock said.

Junell said, "I think it's a responsible budget. It doesn't fill all the needs ... but I think it fills the basic needs of Texans without having to raise taxes."

Gov. George W. Bush has made education one of his top legislative priorities.

"I think there is general agreement among the governor and the legislative leadership that there is nothing more important than the education of our children," said Bush spokeswoman Karen Hughes.

"Gov. Bush had said during the campaign that the teachers of Texas deserved a raise ... and he applauds the efforts of the Legislature to find those dollars," Ms. Hughes said.

According to the Legislative Budget Board, the proposed spending plan comprises $45.3 billion in general revenue funds, an increase of $4.6 billion or 11.4 percent over current levels. General revenue includes the sales and corporate franchise taxes.

TV's 'Bewitched' star Elizabeth Montgomery dies at 57

By LYNN ELBER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Elizabeth Montgomery, who charmed 1960s television viewers as a nose-twitching suburban sorceress married to a wary mortal in Bewitched, died Thursday after a battle with cancer. She was 57.

Montgomery died at her home surrounded by husband Robert Foxworth and her children, said family spokesman Howard Bragman. Funeral arrangements were pending.

The actress underwent surgery in April to remove a small malignant tumor.

Montgomery's post-Bewitched career focused on TV movies, including Deadline for Murder, broadcast on CBS just last week. It was her second TV film based on the career of reporter Edna Buchanan.

The daughter of Hollywood star Robert Montgomery appeared in a few films in the 1950s and 60s, including The Court-Martial of Billy Mitchell. But television was her medium of choice. "I guess you'd say I'm a TV baby," she once told an interviewer.

Bewitched, which ran on ABC from 1964 to 1972, was her only series. Montgomery starred as Samantha, a pretty suburban witch who, to please her advertising executive husband, tries to avoid using her powers.

She was surrounded by relatives who disapproved of her efforts to abandon her supernatural roots, notably her mother, played by Agnes Moorehead. When Samantha wound up using sorcery as a last resort to solve a comic problem, a twitch of the nose was usually all it took.

Montgomery also played Samantha's mischievous look-alike cousin, Serena. Samantha and husband Darrin (played first by Dick York, then by Dick Sargent) first became script parents in 1966 with the birth of daughter Tabitha. The pregnancy coincided with a real-life pregnancy for Montgomery.

York, who suffered from emphysema, died at age 63 in February 1992. Sargent, 64, died in July 1994 after a battle with prostate cancer.

Montgomery went on to star in made-for-TV movies that often won her critical acclaim.

They included A Case of Rape (1974); The Legend of Lizzie Borden (1975); Black Widow Murders: The Blanche Taylor Moore Story (1993), and The Corpse Had a Familiar Face, about Buchanan, in 1994.

She worked with Foxworth in television movies (Mrs. Sundance, 1974, Face to Face, 1990) and in a 1989 New York production of the play Love Letters.

She also tackled more serious subjects, working for liberal causes and narrating The Panama Deception, a documentary that criticized the 1989 U.S. invasion of Panama. The film won the Academy Award for best feature documentary in 1993.

Among Montgomery's previous husbands were actor Gig Young and Bewitched producer William Asher; she and Asher had three children.

Capt. Kim Powell, Pampa Fire Department

Fire Department names Powell as training officer

Capt. Kim Powell, a nine-year veteran of Pampa Fire Department, has assumed the post of training officer for the department.

She is responsible for providing yearly continuing education credits required by the Texas Commission on Fire Protection and Texas Department of Health so local firefighters can maintain certification as firefighters and emergency medical technicians.

Her other duties include liaison with Pampa Central Dispatch, membership on the Local Emergency Planning Committee and Panhandle Emergency Response Committee.

Prior to the training position, Powell served as a shift captain.

"This is a whole different ball of wax to me," she said.

Powell recently returned from the U.S. Fire Administration and Federal Emergency Management Agency's National Fire Academy in Emmitsburg, Md., where she earned a certificate of achievement in Advanced Leadership Issues in Emergency Medical Services.

Her career goals include earning an associate's degree in fire protection technology from Amarillo College.

Powell is mother of four children, and is married to EMT Tyson Powell.

State House intends to pursue flag

AUSTIN (AP) — Always remembering, the Texas House has tentatively approved a bill that would authorize the state to negotiate the return of the Alamo battle flag from Mexico.

The bill by Rep. Bob Hunter, R-Abilene, was endorsed on a voice vote recently. It requires a final vote in the House before going to the governor.

Under the bill, the Texas State Library and Archives Commission would be charged with pursuing an agreement with Mexican officials concerning the loan or trade of the Alamo flag in exchange for three Mexican battle flags captured by Texans at the battle of San Jacinto.

Texas has long sought the return of the flag of the New Orleans Greys, which flew over the Alamo and was captured by Mexican soldiers in 1836.

In 1991, the Legislature asked then-President Bush to make the flag's return part of negotiations over the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Forensics experts argue against exhuming assassin's body

BALTIMORE (AP) — Digging up the remains of John Wilkes Booth would be a "massive undertaking" that would disturb the bodies of at least four others in the family plot and wouldn't answer key scientific questions, a forensic scientist testified.

Because Booth's precise burial spot in the Greenmount Cemetery plot is unknown, recovering the remains would be more like an "archaeological dig" than a single exhumation, James E. Starrs, a law and forensics professor at George Washington University, said.

At least three infants and a woman listed in cemetery records as "Mrs. J.A. Booth" would be disturbed in the 32-by-20-foot plot, Starrs said.

Starrs testified on the second day of the hearing before Baltimore Circuit Court Judge Joseph H. Kaplan. Twenty-two of Booth's descendants have petitioned to have his body exhumed and tested after several historians expressed doubt that Booth's body lies in Baltimore.

Lawyers for the cemetery, however, say the remains should be left in peace. Attorney Francis Gorman has argued the exhumation effort is a publicity stunt by distant relatives and self-promoting historians.

Most accounts say soldiers tracked Booth to a Virginia farm 12 days after he assassinated President Lincoln in 1865, then shot him in the neck as he tried to flee a burning barn.

But rumors flourished that Booth escaped and fled to Granbury, Texas, where he lived under the name of John St. Helen, before moving to Enid in Oklahoma Territory, and living there under the alias of David E. George.

Jean Baker, a Goucher College history professor and Civil War expert, said that Booth "probably" died in the barn and is buried in Baltimore. However, the remains should be exhumed so "Americans can get over this Booth issue" and clarify history, she said.

Starrs testified that even if the remains are exhumed, positive identification would be impossible. Starrs has been involved in forensic investigations related to the deaths of Lizzie Borden; Carl Weiss, the alleged assassin of Huey Long; and Frank Olson, the Fort Detrick scientist whose death in a fatal fall is being investigated.

"The best you'd be able to say is there's a reasonable probability" the remains in the grave are Booth's, he said.

Mark Zaid, an attorney for Booth's descendants, tried to portray Starr as an irreverent scientist without feeling for the family members of those he exhumed.

Rivers, fears rise again in Midwest areas

By CARL MANNING
Associated Press Writer

HARTSBURG, Mo. (AP) — Anxieties rose Thursday along with the Missouri River, as hundreds of people who suffered during the Flood of '93 packed up and moved out.

"You get out and let the river do what it has to do," said Dennis Groves, a 38-year Hartsburg resident who had 5 feet of water in his white frame house two summers ago. A dozen friends helped load his belongings onto pickup trucks.

Missouri has gotten 5 to 10 inches of rain since Sunday, and more is forecast through the weekend. The rain follows a couple of weeks of wet weather upstream in South Dakota and Nebraska that had already swollen the river.

Two deaths were blamed on flooding in Missouri: One man drowned when he tried to drive through a flooded creek, and one traffic death was blamed on standing water. Hundreds of people were also evacuated in Illinois.

Spring flooding along the Missouri River's lowlands isn't unusual; residents expect a flood about every five to 10 years.

And this week's high water is a far cry from the 1993 flood, which was caused by a month and a half of rain measured in feet. That disaster was blamed for 48 deaths and up to $16 billion in damage in nine Midwest states.

But with memories of 1993 still fresh, and broken levees not all replaced along the river, flood survivors are taking no chances this time.

"It's like a flashback for them," said Joann Mermelstein, a University of Missouri professor of social work who led a team that counseled some 4,000 flood victims in 1993. She had 3 inches of rain water in her own basement in Columbia, five miles from the river.

"We're smart from the last time. We're not overreacting. We went through the worst there was and we know what can happen. There's no surprises this time," Jeanette Crawford said.

Crawford hauled appliances and furniture out of her Globe Hotel bed-and-breakfast, a building dating to 1893. The inn relies on hikers and bikers from a nearby trail, which was closed by high water.

Tornadoes were reported in eastern Missouri, Texas, Tennessee and Kentucky, where 30 children were slightly injured when the roof was ripped off their school. More than a dozen were injured at a mall in Nashville, Tenn. High wind knocked out power to 25,000 customers in West Virginia.

Hartsburg residents and volunteers started building a quarter-mile levee of crushed rock and sandbags between the approaching river and their hamlet of 118 people.

Mayor Mike Rodemayer said 40 houses, two churches, a rebuilt post office and a couple of businesses had to be protected.

Building the stopgap levee "seems like a big job, but when you get people down here, like we had in '93, it goes pretty quickly," Rodemayer said.

Government sharpens scrutiny for disease among foreign travelers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agents at U.S. ports of entry are keeping a sharp lookout for arriving travelers who might have been infected by the Ebola virus that is killing people in Africa.

Immigration and Naturalization Service agents at passport checkpoints at all U.S. international airports have been told to be alert for anyone who appears to be ill, particularly if there is bleeding from the nose, mouth or ears, a major symptom of Ebola.

Travelers arriving from Africa were to be particularly scrutinized, said an INS official, and anyone who has recently been in Zaire could be questioned or examined. At least 87 people have died in one province of Zaire recently in an outbreak of Ebola.

Ebola is a vicious African virus that kills about 90 percent of those infected. Spread of the virus requires direct contact with a victim, such as being splashed with blood. The disease is not thought to spread through airborne droplets, as colds do. "We are now screening everybody coming in from anywhere overseas," Robert Steve of the INS said recently. "If they are coming from Africa, then they will have a second screening."

Passports usually bear ink stamps from each country visited, enabling agents to check the travel history of passengers arriving on international flights.

Steve said if the travelers have recently been in Zaire, then they can be referred to experts from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention who are standing by at major ports of entry.

"Those passengers could be quarantined if necessary," said Steve. The extra screening applies not only to immigrants and visitors from Africa, but also to American tourists returning from Africa, he said.

Most travelers arriving from Africa, said Steve, have stopped off in Europe, and immigration authorities in those countries are also alerted to screen for passengers who might be ill.

A man arriving from Zaire was quarantined in Toronto after he told Canadian health officials that his mother had died in Africa of Ebola.

Earlier, the CDC ordered airlines to notify the agency of U.S.-bound passengers who appear to have fevers or who are vomiting blood, both symptoms of Ebola.

Travelers suspected of Ebola infection would be taken to a hospital and other passengers on the airline flight would be monitored by CDC personnel, said Chuck McCance, director of the CDC's Division of Quarantine.

Robert Novak, a University of Illinois expert on tropical diseases, said the intensified monitoring "is a good start," but he warned that it doesn't completely remove the risk.

"We are never fully protected," said Novak. "We are not immune from things that float around the world."

Modern airline travel makes it possible for people to carry disease halfway around the world within a matter of hours, he said, and there is no practical way to absolutely assure that everyone coming into the country is free of infectious disease.

"You can't build a brick wall around America or take blood and stool samples (for disease screening) from everybody arriving at a U.S. port," said Novak.

Ebola and another African virus, Marburg, are the most lethal viruses known. There is no treatment or vaccine. The viruses kill by causing massive hemorrhage.

House passes GOP plan to balance budget, whittle government

WASHINGTON (AP) - Triumphant Republicans pushed a historic budget through the House on Thursday that proposes to halt decades of federal deficits, slash spending and bestow the biggest tax break since the Reagan era.

By a near party-line vote of 238-193, lawmakers approved a plan they said would bring an unprecedented $1.4 trillion in savings from budgets over the next seven years. Medicare and Medicaid would take the biggest hits and hundreds of other programs would be eliminated, but the sting would be soothed for some by $350 billion worth of tax breaks for families, corporations and investors.

Down the hall, the Senate commenced a weeklong debate on a similar $961 billion measure that for now lacked tax reductions.

Passage there was certain, too. But for the moment, the focus was on the House, whose more conservative members have propelled the Republican drive to transform federal priorities.

As the final roll call was under way, a line of Republican lawmakers snaked up the steps to the speaker's desk so Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., could autograph copies of the budget that claimed it would lead to a surplus in 2002, the first since 1969. Even Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., and Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M., visited the House to watch the roll call on final passage.

Six months after the GOP captured control of Congress and pledged to control the deficit and shrink government, Republicans trumpeted that their package would deliver just that, to the benefit of ordinary Americans.

"The 21st century is about the power of the individual, not the power of bureaucracy or the power of red tape," said the plan's chief architect, House Budget Committee Chairman John Kasich, R-Ohio.

As they have for weeks, Democrats protested that the Republican blueprints would cruelly siphon money from Medicare, Medicaid and other programs for the elderly and poor to help provide tax cuts to the well-to-do.

"Republicans are trying to sell the idea to the American people that you can make massive cuts in programs and give big tax breaks to the wealthy in this country and nobody will feel it," scoffed Rep. Jim McDermott, D-Wash.

President Clinton and Democratic leaders offered criticism but no competing plans of their own to eliminate the deficit, while Senate Democrats planned efforts - sure to fail - to ease GOP reductions in Medicare, education and tax breaks for low-income workers.

House Minority Leader Dick Gephardt, D-Mo., told reporters before the vote: "They won the election, they control Congress, and they're going to pass something that represents their values."

White House Chief of Staff Leon Panetta talked strategy with Democratic senators and offered a perspective the administration hopes voters will remember next year.

"The last thing we need to do is to cut the investments we make in our children, for example, in order to give tax breaks to the wealthy citizens of this country," Panetta told reporters.

But Republicans used to occasion to try to reap credit for being alone in trying to end deficits.

"One team favors bigger government, larger bureaucracy and higher taxes," taunted Gingrich in a breakfast speech to the National Association of Manufacturers. "The other team favors smaller government, less bureaucracy and lower taxes. Now I'm fairly comfortable giving the American people in the '96 election that choice."

On final passage, Rep. Michael Flanagan, R-Ill., was the only Republican to vote against the plan. Eight conservative Democrats defected and voted for it.

With the GOP commanding the House for the first time in 41 years and the Senate for the first time in nine, both fiscal outlines represented long-awaited chances for Republicans to demonstrate how they would reshape government.

The GOP budget

The House passed a budget Thursday that Republican leaders say will eliminate the federal deficit by 2002. Highlights:

The vote:
238-193

The savings:
$1.4 trillion over seven years

Who loses:
Recipients of Medicare, Medicaid, welfare and food stamps; veterans; farmers; students.

Who gains:
Families, corporations and investors who'll receive $350 billion in tax breaks.

What's next:
The Senate is debating a similar $961 billion measure that would cut more than 100 programs and offers no tax reductions. It's likely to pass.

Survey: 15% of patients are abuse victims

DALLAS (AP) - Fifteen percent of patients entering a doctor's office have been victims of domestic violence, according to a Texas Medical Association survey released Thursday.

The Blue Ribbon Panel on Family Violence, the association's seven-member survey panel, urged physicians to learn the telltale signs of abuse and how to respond to them.

"Despite the widespread presence of domestic violence and its major role in women's health, the medical community has yet to consistently identify victims of domestic violence and extend treatment beyond the physical manifestations of an abusive relationship," the panel said in its report, "Domestic Violence: Start the Healing Now."

The survey included 708 patients seen by 14 Texas physicians - eight family practice and six gynecologists - during the first week of April.

Among the highlights:
- 195 women, or 33 percent of the 584 responding, said they had been abused during their lives. Verbal abuse accounted for 38 percent and physical abuse, 29 percent.

- 32 men, or 26 percent of the 124 responding, said they had been abused at some time in their lives. Forty-six percent of those cases were verbal and 23 percent sexual.

- 15 percent of the females said they had been abused during the previous six months. Verbal abuse accounted for 47 percent of the cases.

- 12 percent of the males said they had been abused during the previous six months. Of those cases, 75 percent reported verbal abuse.

"It's real surprising on the number of male respondents, particularly teenagers," said Dr. Diana Fite, the panel chairwoman.

Legislator wants no nude car washes

TYLER (AP) - A state representative has introduced an amendment to ensure that the only thing topless about Texas car washes are the convertibles.

Rep. Ted Kamel, R-Tyler, told The Tyler Courier-Times for Thursday editions that he introduced the amendment to eliminate sexually oriented car wash businesses.

Kamel recently added an amendment to a House bill, restricting sexually oriented businesses, so that outdoor activities including nude or topless car washes would be banned in Texas.

"Most of us in East Texas raising our families don't even want to drive by these places," Kamel said.

Kamel said he has received numerous calls from constituents complaining about the emergence of sexually oriented businesses along Kilgore Highway between Tyler and Longview. Several area establishments allow topless employees to wash automobiles out of public view, according to Kamel.

It was unclear Thursday whether any such establishments were operating currently in Texas.

He said the amendment is designed to make sure such car washes are categorized as sexually oriented businesses.

"I don't see that running these type of businesses should be considered free enterprise," Kamel said.

At the car wash

Ray Cardenas (left), Big Brother/Big Sisters board member, Marilyn Brown, director of the Big Brothers/Big Sisters office, and Jack Albracht, board member and chair of the car wash, are among those of Pampa's Big Brothers/Big Sisters who will be washing cars from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. this Saturday at the Wal-Mart parking lot. Proceeds will help fund activities of the organization.

Tips for removing soils and stains

In addition to being beautiful, decorative laminates are durable, stain-resistant, scuff-resistant and easy-to-clean. These attributes make them a popular choice for counter tops in kitchens and baths. And because these two rooms probably attract a greater variety of stains and soils than any other rooms in the house. Here are some tips on the care and cleaning of laminated surfaces.

A quick wipe with a damp cloth will take care of most spills. However, be sure to remove any puddles immediately. Flooding a laminated surface or immersing it in water may damage the glue lines and cause the support material to swell and warp.

To remove grease, spray the surface with a glass cleaner or all-purpose cleaner and wipe with a soft cloth.

Regardless of the type of stain, try the easiest method first. This means cleaning the surface with a solution of warm water and hand dish washing detergent, using a sponge or soft dish cloth. Rinse with warm water and dry with a soft cloth.

If the spot or stain remains, move on to the second step - using an all-purpose/multi-purpose cleaner, or tub/tile/sink cleaner following the manufacturer's instructions. Rinse and dry.

If the stain still shows no sign of fading, treat it with a paste made from baking soda and water. Apply the paste with a soft bristle brush and rub gently, using a light, circular motion to avoid damaging the surface. Rinse with warm water and dry with a soft cloth.

Stubborn spots and stains can be treated with undiluted liquid household bleach (sodium hypochlorite). Follow label directions for proper use. It's a good idea to wear rubber gloves when using bleach. Apply the bleach full strength to the spot. Let it stand for no more than 1-1/2 minutes, then rinse several times, using plenty of warm water. Certain dried stains, such as coffee, mustard and chocolate, and some liquid medicines, including some children's vitamins, may require bleaching. If newsprint ink stains the surface, apply bleach and scrub lightly with a soft bristle brush.

Thorough rinsing is an important part of the cleaning process. If a dish left on the surface is wet or if the room's humidity causes condensation to form on the dish, the moisture around the bottom of the dish can reactivate even a small residue of cleaning solution. The result could be a permanent ring mark.

Certain types of stains may require some additional treatment. If the laminate surface is worn, some dark, wax-based marks, such as crayons and candle wax, may stain. If this is the case, clean them with all-purpose cleaner and a soft bristle brush. Clean up nail polish spills with a remover that is the same brand as the polish. The two products will have compatible formulas, which reduces the risk of permanent damage. Follow up with hand dish washing detergent and rinse with warm water.

Some substances can permanently damage the surface. This includes drain openers, oven cleaners, rust removers and toilet bowl cleaners, as well as hair dyes, textile dyes, food colorings and mascaras with permanent dye. If spilling occurs, wipe immediately, then rinse the surface several times with clean water. Work quickly and carefully. Read and follow label directions as some products contain strong ingredients that can burn your skin.

Laminated surfaces are relatively tough. However, if they are cut or burned, they cannot be repaired. Never put hot pots directly on the counter top or use the surface as a substitute for a cutting board. It's also a good idea to use a trivet or insulated pad to protect the surface from heat-generating electrical appliances, such as toasters, curling irons and electric slow cookers.

Never use an abrasive tool, such as a knife, paint scraper, sand paper or steel wool pads, to remove dried stains. Avoid strong cleaners or abrasives. Although paper towels can be used in place of soft cloths, avoid paper towels that are stiff and scratchy. For more information, contact your Gray County Extension Office.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

"SPIRITUAL WICKEDNESS IN HIGH PLACES"
THE BIBLE SPEAKS OF "SPIRITUAL WICKEDNESS IN HIGH PLACES" (EPH. 6:12) SOMETIMES THOSE IN AUTHORITY USED THEIR HIGH OFFICE FOR THEIR PERSONAL GRATIFICATION. THE BIBLE RECOUNTS NUMEROUS EXAMPLES OF THIS CONDUCT. DAVID'S SEDUCTION OF URIA'S WIFE, ELI'S DRUNKEN SONS, JEZEBEL'S GREAT WICKEDNESS IN HER PAGAN WORSHIP. IN DAVID'S CASE, GOD SENT THE PROPHET NATHAN OUT OF THE WILDERNESS TO REBUKE HIS SINFUL BEHAVIOR. AGAIN, THE LORD PICKED A HUMBLE PROPHET FROM THE WILDERNESS TO BEAR THE DIRE TIDINGS OF THE EVENTUAL DESTRUCTION OF ELI'S SONS FOR THEIR UNFORGIVABLE BEHAVIOR. IN JEZEBEL'S CASE, THE GREAT PROPHET ELIJAH WAS BROUGHT FORTH, AGAIN OUT OF THE WILDERNESS, TO PREDICT VIOLENT DEATH FOR HER MOCKERY OF GOD. IT IS INTERESTING TO NOTE THAT, INVARIABLY, THE HIGHER THE PERSONAGES...THE MORE HUMBLE THE MESSENGER FROM GOD!

Supermarket sanctuary: Church recycles for God's work

By ROY A. JONES II
Abilene Reporter-News

Hazel Wilson

Reception set Sunday for Hazel Wilson

Trinity Fellowship Church is to honor Hazel Wilson during the worship service 10:30 a.m. Sunday. A come-and-go reception at the church is set for 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Wilson came to Pampa in 1926 and taught music for over 50 years. She was active in several churches in the Pampa area and was a founder of Immanuel Temple Church.

At the age of 70, she began painting and several of her paintings hang in offices and churches throughout the area.

The church asks her friends to bring a birthday card for the celebration.

ABILENE - Not far from where shelves once displayed loaves of white, whole wheat and rye, the Rev. Scott Beard now breaks the Bread of Life.

Long windows which once enabled customers to watch their steaks being cut now allow overflow crowds to view worship services from the fellowship hall.

Where checkers used to rang up purchases, bags of groceries are now given away in a ministry to needy families.

Word of Emmanuel Church's new home was built to be a supermarket, not a church, but the new occupants couldn't be more pleased.

For starters they have more than three times as much space — plus plenty of the off-street parking which had hindered further growth at the old location.

"This building is an answer to lots and lots of prayers," said the Rev. Wilma Carter, who started the independent, charismatic church in the living room of her home 28 years ago.

Little did she know that Abilene's third Safeway supermarket, which opened in 1957, would someday be her church's new home.

The congregation had been shopping around for a new location since outgrowing its third home, but first real church building, more than a year ago.

Since 1979 the congregation had been meeting at 3349 N. 12th in a building originally constructed as a Presbyterian church. Word of Emmanuel had even added on to the sanctuary several years ago, but had run out of room again.

"We had 5,000 (square) feet, but that just wasn't enough anymore," Beard said. The church had 230 members but could crowd only about 175 of them into the sanctuary.

They finally found the answer to their prayers almost under their noses.

Developer Kenneth Musgrave, who attends the Northwest Church of Christ — located next door to Word of Emmanuel — was looking to sell the old Safeway building. When he was approached by Word of Emmanuel leaders he was all ears.

"We just shared our heart with Mr. Musgrave, what we'd run up against trying to find a new building, our vision for the church, and that we were just not in a position to service a big bank debt. He was very understanding and gracious," Beard said.

The pastor said Musgrave wound up selling the 16,000-square foot building to the church "for half of what it appraised for," and also volunteered to "carry the note at no interest."

The transaction may ultimately yield another blessing for the local church community, too. Don't be surprised if the old Word of Emmanuel building winds up as home for a new Hispanic congregation of the Church of Christ.

Word of Emmanuel Church members will depend on fiery preaching and their expressive, participatory style of worship to keep them warm on cold winter Sundays.

The church is more than adequately air-conditioned, but is not heated.

The former supermarket building had last been used as the center of Hendrick Medical Center's computer operations. As such it had been renovated extensively with plenty of insulation and cooling to keep the computers at a constant 65 degrees. Looking back, Beard said he sees how the Lord prepared him for the task of overseeing the renovation: he worked in construction for five years while he was going to college.

Carter's husband, Thurston, and son, Michael — both involved in the family construction business — also were invaluable in turning the office building into a church. Church members did much of the work, keeping the renovation cost to a minimum, Beard said.

"We recycled all the lumber and materials we could. Our material costs have just been nothing," he said.

The sanctuary can seat up to about 300 in moveable chairs; 240 attended dedication services last Sunday.

Carter gets a lump in her throat just thinking about it. Reared a Baptist she had been a member of Victory Bible Center (now Abilene Bible Church) for 16 years when she felt God leading her to start holding prayer meetings in her home in 1967.

Although they differed on the role of women in worship Carter said she and Dr. Joe Temple, the founder of Victory Bible Center, remained "dear, dear friends" until his death a few years ago.

"I was very happy there and got great Bible teaching. It was just that I had received this additional experience with the Lord. We were moving in another dimension of the spirit and I felt the need to fellowship with others of like mind," she explained.

From 1970 until 1979 her fledgling church met in the remodeled garage of the Carter's new home. And it continued to grow steadily. Carter did it all, playing the keyboard, leading worship, and preaching.

A son-in-law, the Rev. Stephen Mansfield, later became her associate for six years as she scaled back her leadership. Beard, a graduate of Texas Tech and Regent University, became pastor three years ago when Mansfield moved to a larger church.

"I think it is interesting to note that in its entire history this church has never had a church split," Beard said. "Not many churches can say that."

"From the beginning God led me to stay away from all the hype that was in the charismatic movement and to stay with solid Bible teaching," Carter said. "That's probably why we didn't rise and fall and rise and fall like a lot of the other more charismatic churches have done."

Grief at Husband's Funeral Is Shared by His Two Wives

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter in your column signed "Faithful Reader," asking if her husband should attend the funeral of his former wife.

Four weeks ago today, I lost my husband. He, too, had a former wife. He and "Chris" had been married for 12 years and had four children together. Their divorce had been very bitter, but fortunately, in the last year, they had come to terms with each other.

I invited Chris to attend the funeral, as it seemed to me that she, too, needed to say goodbye. I felt quite at ease including her in the family circle with all the children — his, mine and ours.

I agree with you, Abby, when you said the wishes of the immediate family should be respected.

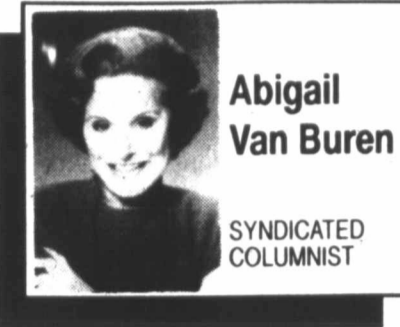

Please let "Faithful Reader" know that whatever the decision is, she should support her husband when the time comes, as he will go through the grieving process.

My prayers are with them. You may use my name.

MARY KINSTLER,
PORTSMOUTH, VA.

DEAR MARY: What a gracious, understanding woman you are. Because my column is a trouble dump, I rarely hear from anyone who has survived divorce with no bitter aftertaste.

How much better for the divorced couple — and the children — when they put the bitterness behind them and behave civilly toward each other. Anger and bitterness eat away at those who harbor these feelings, as well as those who are near and dear to them.

DEAR ABBY: This is the first Dear Abby letter I have ever written, so please answer.

We have lived in Northern California for three years, but my husband just got a new job that forces us to move to Southern California.

Our 17-year-old daughter refuses to move with us because she doesn't want to leave her friends and her school. I know it's hard for kids to move in their senior year, but she will be leaving for college in a year anyway.

I don't know if we should try to find a family for her to stay with during her senior year, or insist that she move with us. Please advise.

DESPERATE IN DANVILLE

DEAR DESPERATE IN DANVILLE: Your daughter is still a minor, and she must abide by your decision, but she is old enough to participate in making that decision. Much depends upon her level of maturity and whether there is a responsible family to whom you could entrust her. If she has a level head, you could allow her to spend her senior year with her classmates in the town she has grown to love.

DEAR ABBY: A quick note to add to the letter signed "Tired of Waiting" (in the outer offices of dentists and doctors):

How about the medical professionals whose patients are kept waiting anywhere from an hour to forever? They have a framed notice on their walls saying: "Appointments must be canceled 24 hours in advance, or patient will be billed for the visit."

Abby, how are patients supposed to know 24 hours in advance that they will have an emergency?

ELTHREE IN NASHUA, N.H.

DEAR ELTHREE: Good question. However, not all cancellations are due to emergencies. Some folks just have a change of plans, or an irresistible invitation. Readers?

Horoscope

Saturday, May 20, 1995

In the year ahead, you might form two unique alliances. The one that could prove the most beneficial may be with a person you may dislike in the early stages.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) To make a good impression on companions today, concede some of your demands to accommodate theirs. Thoughtfulness begets thoughtfulness. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, NY 10163.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do not be afraid to step away from an arrangement if you begin having second thoughts. The longer you hanging around, the harder it will be to cut loose.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Do not impose yourself on a group of people who do not seem to receive you warmly. Your perceptions will probably be right, so spend time with those who like you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try to sidestep situations that bring you into direct opposition with others. Search for peace, not provocation or discord.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You might overreact today to situations that you normally take in stride. If you feel your temper heating up, look for an exit, not an encounter.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A business arrangement could turn sour today if you grind too hard for your terms. Leave a little room for the other guy to make a dollar as well.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you aren't motivated today by your higher ideals and standards, you may have problems in your relationships. Avoid using methods that don't enhance your image.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Certain individuals might try to drop all their responsibilities at your doorstep instead of doing their own work. Be helpful, not a patsy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Diplomacy and tact can achieve more for you today than flexing your muscles or raising your voice. Throw away the big stick and purr a little.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Success might elude you today if your attack is launched from a frail springboard. Before making your move, make certain that you have a strong foundation.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Usually you're a very sensitive and charming person, but today these qualities might not be operative. Your bad mood might even prove contagious.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your financial web may unravel if you start pulling apart the threads that have been holding your household budget together. This is not a day to make adjustments.

BASKETBALL

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — There would be no second miracle finish by the Los Angeles Lakers. David Robinson saw to that. Robinson scored 14 of his team's 21 points in the fourth quarter, including 12 straight at one stage, as the San Antonio Spurs beat the Lakers 100-88 on Thursday night to win the second-round series 4-2.

SPEED SKATING

PLANO — Kenny Fritz, Roy Don DeVoll, Tre Stokes and Charlie Dean of Pampa Speed Skating Team participated in a pre-regional meet here earlier this month. Fritz returned with first, second and third-place awards. The team travels to Fort Worth for the regionals at the end of June. Roller hockey is now underway at the Pampa skating rink, 123 N. Ward, on Monday, Thursday and Fridays.

HALL OF FAME

WACO, Texas (AP) — Former Texas A&M football coaches Gene Stallings and Emory Bellard are among the six 1995 inductees for the Texas Sports Hall of Fame in Waco.

Also elected recently by a 21-member selection committee are Texas Christian University tennis coach Tut Bartzten; LPGA hall of famer Sandra Haynie; pro rodeo roping champion Toots Mansfield; and former Baylor and Chicago Bears linebacker Mike Singletary.

Bellard gained national fame in the 1960s as creator of the Wishbone option offense as an assistant at Texas. He became head coach at A&M in 1972, compiling a 48-27 record in six-plus seasons with three bowl appearances. He was head coach from 1979-85 at Mississippi State.

Stallings played for Paul Bryant at Texas A&M and served on his staff there and at Alabama. A seven-year stint as A&M head coach included a SWC title and victory over Bryant and Alabama in the 1968 Cotton Bowl.

Knowles, Glo-Valve notch Optimist wins

PAMPA — Josh Nachtigal scored three runs, including a three-run inside the park home run, and Kevin Youree had a two-run inside the park home run to lead Knowles to a 14-4 victory Thursday over Citizens Bank in the 9-10 year-old league.

It was a close 3-1 game when the error bug bit Citizens. They committed six errors in a two-inning span that accounted for seven unearned runs.

Other leading hitters for Knowles were Kyle Cambren, a triple, RBI and two runs scored; Daniel Williams, double and run scored; Samson Mattox, base hit and RBI.

Daniel Williams was the winning pitcher, giving up two runs and no hits while striking out four. Mattox pitched strong relief, giving up two runs, two hits and five strikeouts.

Carlos Solis had a triple, RBI and a run scored and Luis Campos had the other hit for Citizens. Jake Hopkins had an RBI, Fabian Soto scored two runs and Dennis Shuck also scored a run for Citizens.

Luis Campos was the losing pitcher. Solis pitched well in relief for Citizens, striking out three of the four batters he faced.

with four runs in the third inning. With one out, Randy Tice homered to left field. Kyle Keith walked and he went to second on an infield single by Strate and moved to third on a throwing error. Strate took second on a fielder's choice. A fielder's choice on a ball hit by Matt Driscoll and an error scored Keith and left runners at second and third. An infield out hit by Isaiah Manazanares scored Strate with Driscoll moving to third. Driscoll scored the last Glo-Valve run on a passed ball.

Hoechst Celanese rallied in the bottom of the sixth. Travis Lancaster singled off the first baseman's glove and went all the way to third base on a throwing error. He scored on an infield out hit by Jones. Harper singled and A.J. Smith was safe on an error. Alexander loaded the bases with a single and Struck struck out the next two batters to end the game.

Matthew Smith made the Glo-Valve defensive play of the game with a catch of a flyball in right field. A.J. Smith backhanded a sinking popup at first base for the Hoechst Celanese defensive play of the game.

Glo-Valve is tied with Curtis Well Service for second place in the Major Bambino National League with a 2-1 record. Dunlap Industrial leads the league at 3-0. Hoechst Celanese drops to fourth with a record of 1-1-1.

The official Opening Day of the season will be Saturday with most of the 49 Optimist baseball and softball teams playing. The first games will begin at 8 a.m. A barbecue lunch will be served from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Curtis Well Service plays Cabot Corporation at 11 a.m. Saturday in Major Bambino play. Operating Company will challenge DFB (Duncan-Fatheree-Bridges) for the American League lead at 1 p.m. At 3 p.m., Firefighters takes on Dyers' Barbeque. Rotary Club challenges Glo-Valve at 5 p.m. Hoechst Celanese goes up against the National League leader, Dunlap Industrial, at 7 p.m.

Lukas going after Preakness crown

BALTIMORE (AP) — For D. Wayne Lukas, it takes five to make a Triple Crown.

"If I get the fifth one, then I've accomplished something," he said.

Lukas won the last two Triple Crown races of 1994 — the Preakness and Belmont stakes — with Tabasco Cat. Then, he saddled Thunder Gulch to victory in the Kentucky Derby on May 6 at Churchill Downs, giving him three in a row.

He goes for No. 4 on Saturday with Thunder Gulch and Timber Country, his 1994 2-year-old champion, in the 1 3-16-mile Preakness at Pimlico.

Abbott signs letter

Pampa track standout Mechelle Abbott signs a national letter of intent to attend East Texas State University in Commerce. Pictured (left to right) are PHS head track coach Mike Lopez, hurdles coach Billie Osborne and Mechelle's mother, Cindy Abbott. Abbott has qualified for the state meet in the hurdles the past two years. Abbott's 15.0 time in the 100 hurdles and 45.5 in the 300 hurdles were the best times in the panhandle area this year.

Red Raiders blast Longhorns

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Dax Holmstead blasted a three-run homer to fuel Texas Tech's 9-3 blowout of the Texas Longhorns in the first-round of the Southwest Baseball Tournament Thursday afternoon.

Holmstead's first career home run capped a seven-run third inning that propelled the Red Raiders (46-11) into Friday's winners' bracket game, scheduled for 7 p.m. against the Texas A&M-Rice winner.

Texas (41-16) will play the A&M-Rice loser Friday at 1 p.m.

in the double-elimination tournament.

Tech's third-inning uprising came against Texas right-hander J.D. Smart, who dropped to 13-4.

Red Raider Jason Totman, who was 5-for-5, had a pair of doubles in the inning.

Left-hander Matt Miller (11-3) picked up the victory, with relief help from Jimmy Frush, who allowed one hit in three innings.

It was the third time this year Miller had beaten the Longhorns.

Tech walked 10 batters, but the Red Raider defense turned a tournament-record tying four double plays to stymie the Longhorns.

Totman's five hits also tied a tournament record. Red Raiders Clint Bryant, Matt Kastelic, David Lindstrom and Dion Ruecker each had two hits as Tech banged out 15 in all.

Brett Loeffler collected two hits for Texas.

Texas Tech, the regular-season champion, had won three of the four regular season meetings between the teams.

Hospice golf scramble nets around $3,800

PAMPA — Approximately $3,800 was netted from last weekend's Hospice golf scramble at Hidden Hills last weekend, according to Dee Dee Laramore, public relations-education administrator with Hospice of the Panhandle.

The proceeds will go to Hospice of the Panhandle, a not-for-profit agency caring for the terminally ill throughout nine counties of the Texas Panhandle. The fund will be used to provide hospice care for needy patients and their families.

A total of 19 teams, comprised of players from throughout the Texas panhandle and Oklahoma, participated in the event. The scramble was divided into two divisions — Nicklaus and Palmer. A women's team, comprised of Kori Brown, Laura Kindle, Joyce Swope and Ida Goad, came in fourth in the Palmer Division.

Another family, Vince Simon, Bill Simon, Bob Simon and Ed Hale, placed second in the Palmer Division. The team of Greg Vanderlinden, Herman Waite, Jerry Steed and Gary Griggs won with a 63.

Prizes were awarded in the first through fourth places in each flight.

The hole-in-one prize sponsored by B & B Turbine of McLean went unclaimed, despite the efforts of those trying for the two-week vacation for two to Hawaii.

Public arena funding could cost taxpayers $180 million

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislative leaders say they're concerned by new estimates that a public financing bill for professional sports facility construction would cost state taxpayers about $180 million in the first five years.

The projection from the Legislative Budget Board this week is significantly more than the first-year $25 million estimate provided by the legislation's sponsor, Rep. Curtis Seidlits, D-Sherman.

The board estimated the first year of tax rebates would cost the state $31.3 million in general revenue if all 10 zones were in operation.

The Legislative Budget Board did not disclose the factors and formula it used to estimate the cost.

However, the cost does not include local sales taxes and new city fees that also would be levied to finance the construction.

The new estimate could cloud the bill's prospects for passing the full House.

House Appropriations Chairman Rob Junell, D-San Antonio, and Calendars Chairman Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont, have expressed concern over the raised cost estimates.

"I thought it was revenue neutral. I'm going to have to talk to Representative Junell about it," Stiles said. The measure must clear Stiles' committee before it can be vote on by the entire House, and Stiles had no plans to bring it up before his panel next week.

The regular session of the Legislature has two weeks left.

The measure would allow for creation of up to 10 sports facility enterprise zones. Some revenue from sales, cocktail and other taxes generated in those zones would be used to finance the arena and stadium construction.

The House State Affairs Committee substituted that proposal for a Senate-passed bill that was would have been more generous to tenant teams.

Junell said he couldn't support the measure unless it were self-supporting and not dependent on the state treasury. Senate Finance Chairman John Montford, D-Lubbock, said that he shares those concerns.

Sen. Royce West, D-Dallas and author of the Senate bill, said he wants to discuss the House bill and its costs with Montford.

Judge may be headed to jail

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A judge may have to start serving her contempt of court jail term this weekend now that an appeals court again has refused to hear her last-minute pleas.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has denied three additional appeal requests by County Court-at-Law Judge Bonnie Reed of San Antonio and her lawyers. The Austin court also refused to consider Ms. Reed's appeals last week.

The 4th Court of Appeals in San Antonio has ordered Ms. Reed to report to jail by Saturday to serve the remainder of a 30-day sentence for criminal contempt of court.

Her legal troubles began when state Rep. John Longoria, D-San Antonio, an attorney, complained to the 4th Court after Ms. Reed denied his request to postpone a domestic violence trial until after the current legislative session. Legislative continuances are mandated by law.

The 4th Court found Ms. Reed guilty of contempt April 11 for failing to obey its order to halt the trial. Ms. Reed, who was led away in handcuffs, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $500 plus $1,454 in court costs.

She was released from jail about 2 1/2 hours later on an emergency order issued by the Court of Criminal Appeals.

In an appeal, Ms. Reed argued her jailing was unlawful. She later wrote to the 4th Court admitting she was wrong not to follow the court's order and apologized for the "negative publicity" her actions generated.

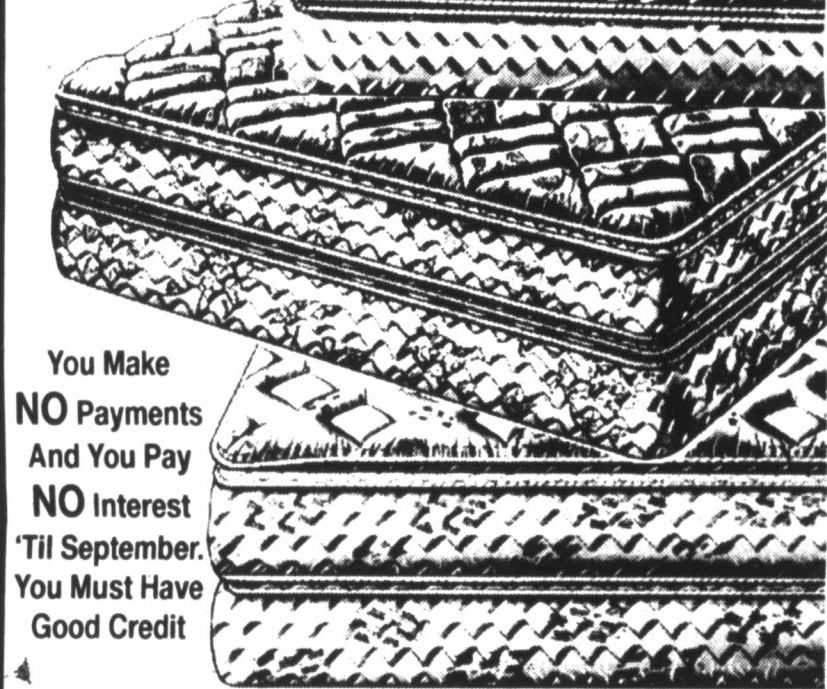

In her latest appeal attempts, which were denied Wednesday, her attorneys contended Ms. Reed will be improperly removed from office if jailed because she won't be able to hold court. Her attorneys also claimed Ms. Reed was entitled to a jury trial for the contempt charge.
