Searchers Find Boy

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

Seven-year-old Richard John Hooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hooks of Stinnett, was found about 9:30 a.m. today after spending a couple of cold nights and all day Sunday wandering lost in a rough area along the Canadian River near the Hutchinson and Roberts County border.

The 65-pound second grader had been missing since Saturday afternoon and the search that followed involved about 60 area law enforcement officers and about 250 other searchers — members of citizens band radio clubs, 4-wheel vehicle owners, horseback riders, and concerned area ranchers and residents from surrounding towns.

Young Hooks reportedly was found by a group of seven or eight horsemen including Pete Bridwell and his two sons of Pampa, according to the Gray County Sheriff's office. Capt. Gene Zachary of Granite, Okla., who was flown in about 6:30 p.m. Sunday with a team of trained hounds, was following the boy's trail about a fourth of a mile from the place he was discovered.

Gray County sheriff's deputies Ken Keith and Randall Nichols were in the vicinity and among the first to see the boy. They described him to Sheriff Rufe Jordan as being "pale, weak, hungry and cold."

Capt. Zachary and Milo Miles from Granite, Okla., said young Hooks was found lying on the creek bank in a dazed condition. He was, Zachary said, suffering from exposure and searchers were concerned about the condition of the boy's feet, which Zachary described as looking "pretty bad."

A helicopter flew young Hooks to North Plains Hospital in Borger where he was admitted in satisfactory condition.

A hospital spokeswoman said at 11:30 a.m. that the boy was listed in good condition and was "up and eating."

He was found at a marshy area known as Garden Springs only three miles from the camp he wandered away from Saturday.

Claude Hooks Jr., the boy's uncle and one of the eight people in the hunting party, described late Sunday what had happened.

"We were cooking supper," he said. "They were playing in front. He must have got on the other side of the brush. There was a big, terrible wind storm came up. He couldn't have had 15 or 20 minutes jump on us."

The uncle said Richard was dressed in "thermal long handles, a couple of sweat shirts, and a sweater." It wasn't cold enough to have his coat on. "We thought at first he was wearing it but we found it later in the tent."

But it got cold Saturday night with temperatures in the teens and the chill factor estimated at near zero by some officials.

An air of frustration was present in the searchers' camp late Sunday afternoon, after the day's concentrated efforts had proven unfruitful.

"That boy ain't four miles from here in any direction," one searcher speculated with conviction.

Mrs. Dollie Howard, Richard's second grade teacher, said early this morning that "Richard doesn't talk much. He's the type that would wander off and no one would notice it. He gets involved in what he's doing and doesn't think of anything else."

She said that young Hooks has 16 classmates and "I know they are going to be terribly upset. I'm expecting to have a very hectic day."

But later in the morning, after she learned Richard had been found, Mrs. Howard reported that the children had been very quiet when they came to school.

"Oh gracious," she said. "I've never seen them so quiet. One little boy informed me that Richard wouldn't be here this morning because he was lost. They just didn't say much about it. But when Mr. (Olin) Johnson (the school principal) told us he was found, there was no stopping them. Now they are telling me what their fathers did to help look and how their mothers made sandwiches to take 'so when they found Richard he'd have something to eat."

The teacher said that today's lesson plan will be changed from the regular to "We're going to talk a lot about safety. I'll tell you," she told this writer. "And they are learning a lot of other things — how people help, for example."

Help and equipment and offers of help and equipment poured into the area from surrounding towns. People went to search for the boy and others went with food and coffee for the searchers.

Just a couple of Pampa examples.

Scotty Hess of Hess's Truck Stop east of Pampa on Highway 60 heard of the search and loaded up about 200 sandwiches, 10 gallons of coffee, and a barrel of gasoline and went to the area.

Melvin Beum tended a campfire Sunday and kept strong coffee boiling in a large pot — he brewed up about a pound an hour between 1:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.

As the search wore on, fears for the boy's well being mounted. The area of the river where they were camped has bog holes with quicksand. There are deep pools of water.

An area rancher said, "it's so grown up with brush around there it's almost impossible to get cattle out, much less a kid."

At one point in the search — about 4 p.m. on Sunday — it was reported that Richard had been found and was being taken to the hospital. Many searchers heard the radio reports on the find and gave up their efforts.

It was not Richard who had been discovered, however. Another youth, somewhat older, reportedly had been injured in a motorcycle accident on Plemons Bridge.

A 17-year-old youth was admitted at 3:30 p.m. Sunday to North Plains Hospital in Borger with a strained back. He was listed in good condition this morning.

Efforts were renewed when it was learned that Richard still was missing but as it grew darker and colder — searchers returning to camp began to pin hopes on the arrival of the bloodhounds.

The dogs and many searchers worked all night.

At first light today, organization of efforts included the use of 25 to 30 four-wheel drive vehicles fanning out from the river.

Sheriff Jordan, who had worked with Zachary and his dogs before and who was responsible for having Sgt. Fred Brown of the Pampa Police Department fly them in, credited many local people for their efforts in the search.

Richard Hooks

He said three of his deputies stayed with the search in its entirety — Keith, Nichols and Buster Collins.

"The city police department has done a magnificent job on dispatching," the sheriff said.

He said that Bob Watson, a deputy sheriff from Wellington, drove up with his tracking dog — a German shepherd — to aid in the hunt.

And Buck Williams, the Game and Fish warden, has done a magnificent job down there directing traffic. It's really been a coordinated effort. I've never seen anything like it," Jordan said.

Claude Hooks said that when they realized they were going to need help in locating Richard, "We got some fast help and a bunch of it."

Recession Gives Scrooges Excuse To Cut Gift Lists

DETROIT (UPI) — A debt counseling specialist says the nation's high unemployment and recession have given latent Scrooges a great excuse to cut Christmas gift lists that grew burdensome in better times.

Al Horner, president of the nonprofit Consumer Counseling Centers Inc., supervises 14 offices helping 8,000 customers cope with heavy debts in one of the nation's highest unemployment regions.

Comments from his customers and others around the nation portend a bleak Christmas for persons on the lists of chronically debt-ridden Americans and even those just suffering from the double whammy of inflation and recession.

"Through the more prosperous times we had in the last four or five years, some gift-giving got out of hand," Horner said. "So many people now feel this is a good year to cut back the number and cut down on the amount of gifts."

"Many opinions we get are that people will have to cut out good old Uncle Joe and Aunt Tilly and most of their in-laws. They've been wanting to for years anyway, but now they have a valid excuse."

Even fiscally responsible consumers have been forced to use their Christmas savings for living expenses, Horner said. Some will adjust by cutting back, others will fall victim to the credit card.

"People often use the card without a specific amount in mind for each gift or a list of who and how much," Horner said. "Many will find that next Christmas they're still paying for this one. Some are paying for Christmases three and four years ago."

Two previously untouchable Christmas benefactors — business associates and children — will feel the crunch. Horner said businesses are reducing or eliminating bonuses, gifts and even cards to employees and customers.

For children, Horner said, so-called luxury gifts, mostly toys, will be replaced with necessities. That means the parents can expect the kids to turn up their noses en masse Christmas morning as they unwrap that oft-maligned present — clothes.

Chinese Claim US-Soviet Detent Will Cause World War

PEKING (UPI) — China's leaders welcomed President Ford warmly today and then took the bloom off with a blistering attack on U.S.-Soviet detente, claiming Russian aggression "is bound to cause a new world war."

"Today it is the country which most vehemently preaches peace (the Soviet Union) that is the most dangerous source of war," acting Premier Teng Hsiao-ping said in a welcoming banquet toast four hours after Ford arrived for a four-day visit.

"Rhetoric about detente cannot cover up the stark reality of the growing danger of war," Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger treated Teng's blast with diplomatic aplomb, saying it was just what he had "expected," and White House aides said Ford saw the text in advance and was unruffled.

His responding toast included a low key but firm defense of U.S. efforts to seek peace with the Soviets.

Nonetheless, most of the American delegation heard out Teng's remarks in silence and the toast put a rough edge on a welcome that had gone smoothly up to that point.

China's finest — the top political leaders available — were on hand when Air Force One touched down in cold, sunny weather at Peking Airport. Teng led a bigger and more prestigious welcoming contingent than U.S. diplomats had hoped for and, as a bonus, thousands of Peking residents jammed the streets to see Ford's 100 car motorcade pass.

The streets were empty when President Richard M. Nixon arrived on his historic China visit three years ago.

The welcome put Ford in fine fettle for his four-day visit. He laughed and smiled often as he, Mrs. Ford, daughter Susan, Kissinger and their party watched the ceremonies with Teng and listened to a People's Liberation Army Band play "The Star Spangled Banner" and "The East Is Red."

But only three hours later, Teng took the rostrum in Peking's Great Hall of the People and ripped into the Soviet Union and the "rhetoric" of U.S.-Soviet detente — in welcoming toast at the Ford banquet.

Teng said, in passing, that the United States and China could further "normalize" relations by following the guidelines laid down by Nixon and Chairman Mao Tse-tung, the sifting Chinese leader whom Ford expects to see before he leaves China Friday.

But Teng stressed the dangers of war and laid them at Moscow's door.

"Our basic view is that there is great disorder under heaven," he said.

"The contention for world hegemony is intensifying, and, strategically, Europe is the focus for this contention."

"Such continued contention is bound to lead to a new world war."

Teng thus laid out in the bluntest terms the subject that is likely to dominate Ford's talks with Chinese leaders. The President replied 10 minutes later, saying:

"We have a mutual interest in seeing that the world is not dominated by military force or pressure. (But) in pursuing our objectives, each of us will of course determine our policies and methods according to our differing positions in the world and our perceptions of our respective national interests."

Ford said he looked forward to "frank and beneficial discussions" on U.S.-Chinese relations, including those fields "where our perspectives differ."

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford considered Teng's toast "frank but not provocative. If you look at the whole day, the diplomats at the airport, the crowds in the streets, it doesn't give you the impression of provocation."

Kissinger said "What they said about detente was expected. They've been saying it to everybody."

The President will remain in Peking until Friday morning on a largely symbolic diplomatic visit he nonetheless regards as "of great importance." He will return home by way of Indonesia, the Philippines and Hawaii on a 10-day, 24,000-mile Far East tour.

U.S. diplomats had fretted over the possibility that China, known to be upset by U.S.-Soviet detente, might deal Ford a subtle diplomatic snub and send only second-raters to the airport.

About 300 green-uniformed honor guards of the Peoples Liberation Army snapped to attention as Air Force One rolled to a stop in front of a line of Mao posters. Teng moved to the foot of the ramp and shook Ford's hand firmly as the President, with Mrs. Ford on his arm, marched down the steps in sparkling clear 40-degree weather.

Spain's Council Meets

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Spain's powerful Council of the Realm gathered today to pick three candidates for the key post of president of Parliament. King Juan Carlos will choose the president from the 17-man council's list.

With the approach of his politically important decision, the king of 10 days has come under mounting pressure from Communists, reformers, and right-wing Falangists.

The closed-door session of the Council of the Realm was being held at the downtown Cortes (parliament) building, site of Juan Carlos' elevation to the throne on Nov. 22.

The Cortes presidency is now vacant. The new president will play a key role in the country's political life because he also heads the Council of the Realm.

Under Spanish law the council is "to assist the chief of state (Juan Carlos) in the affairs and important resolutions that fall solely on him."

The king was facing threats and pressure from both Communist and right-wing leaders today over his first efforts to

County Officials Get 10 Per Cent Wage Hike

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

The Gray County Commissioners' Court today approved a 10 per cent salary hike effective Jan. 1 for elected county and precinct officials with the same raise to be considered for all other county employees on Dec. 12.

The proposed budget for 1976 will be $1,946,780.19 as compared with $1,751,559.38 for 1975 — a $195,000 increase.

A study session on the proposed budget was discussed during the morning session today.

Action was taken on elected official salary increase because law requires that increases just be published in the Nov. 17 issue of the Pampa News.

The only exception to the 10 per cent hike is County Judge Don Cain, who will receive a $300 monthly increase.

In other action today the court approved the purchase of a motor grader and a dozer with West Texas Equipment as the successful bidder in both purchases.

The cost of the motor grader for Precinct II is $52,194 with a trade in of $8,500 leaving a net cost of $43,694 — to be paid from revenue sharing funds.

Don Hinton of Pampa is Precinct II Commissioner. The dozer for Precinct III was priced at $49,967 with a trade in of $7,065. The net cost is $42,902. J.O. McCracken of Grandview is Precinct III Commissioner. Half of the cost will be paid from revenue sharing funds.

Commissioner Ted Simmons of McLean who attended a meeting recently in Washington on revenue sharing told the court he thought the program will be continued — "perhaps with a few stipulations."

During the study session on the proposed budget Judge Cain said the county will pay $93,500 on the hospital bonds this year and $27,375 on the airport bonds.

"Gray County has a very low bonded indebtedness," Judge Cain said. He added that he will recommend in January the continuation of the homestead exemption for those over 65 years of age.

The Department of Transportation, Federal Aviation Commission, district office in Albuquerque notified Judge Cain that an inspection of Perry Lefors Field in Pampa resulted in a good report.

However, Bill J. Howard, chief of the district office, noted three maintenance items which require attention including a general cracking throughout runway 17 - 35, a missing threshold green lens from the end of runway 17, and a need for repainting the beacon tower.

"We understand a contract has been let to accomplish crack filling and sealing," he added.

He also noted that the McLean Gray County Airport report was good, but called attention to recent vandalism of the lighting system.

Replacement parts for that system are on order, according to Howard's report.

In final action, the court approved an increase in mileage from 12 cents to 16 cents effective Jan. 1 for the adult probation office, and authorized reimbursement to the grant fund from the county adult probation fund of any excess.

Garlic, by any other name, would still smell.

And even if you call a spade "an implement for utilization in engineering projects that require the movement of earth by hand," it still looks like a shovel.

People who are good with words have a way of really making them work to an advantage. And the way some folks have of delivering their verbal packages makes it even more difficult to discern the contents.

Take for example our local superintendent of schools, Dr. Dan Long. An extremely nice man, he is, and indications are that he is also quite a capable supe. And a most admirable talent he possesses when it comes to turning a phrase.

It is always a pleasure, when a need arises, to pick up the phone and call Dr. Long for a comment. Whatever the subject at question, he gives the matter his full attention and follows, rapidly, with a well-thought, well-put statement.

And, most of most of the time, Dr. Long calls garlic garlic and shovels shovels. But, recently, he has taken to saying that the need for car-owning Pampans to pay a tax on their means of conveyance (pickups and motorboats and campers, too) is because the state "has increased our local fund assignment."

Ultimate Tax Loophole

Today any politician, cognizant of your growing resistance to taxes and wanting to gain your attention and vote, will ultimately bring up the subject of "tax reform," meaning, of course, that he has a plan to reduce the amount of taxes you pay.

Pushed to explain just how he intends to reduce your taxes, the usual explanation offered is that he plans to "close the tax loopholes" being enjoyed by others. That, almost without exception is what a politician means when he talks of "tax reform," not that he intends to really reduce taxes, but that he plans to shift the impact of taxes from one group to another. The implication being, naturally, that those "others," by the employment of "tax loopholes," are somehow retaining something that is not rightfully theirs.

In order to understand, expose and counter this political trick by which Americans are turned against each other and the economy of this country is being systematically damaged, it is necessary to first grasp how your earnings are viewed by the political-bureaucratic establishment. Toward that end, Walter B. Wriston, chairman of CITICORP, provided some invaluable thought-prodders in an address to members of the Financial Executives Institute in New Orleans last month. Titled his speech, "The Ultimate Loophole — Spend Your Own Money," Wriston noted that:

"As early as 1753, Benjamin Franklin suggested a (tax) standard. He wrote, 'It would be thought a hard government that should tax its people one-tenth of their time, to be employed in its service.' The fundamental principle of (minimal taxes) laid down by our founding fathers (who understood that when the government takes a part of our income, it is commandeering the fruits of our labors) has now been reversed. Today, the part of your income you succeed in keeping for yourself is denounced as a 'loophole.' The ultimate logic of that assumption is that everything you earn belongs to the state. The benevolent Congress may permit you to keep a little, not as a right, but only as a benefit."

Obviously, if all the "loopholes" were closed, the political-bureaucratic establishment known as "The State" would soon have it all, and you would have nothing but your slavery. Just as obviously, the enlightened earner and taxpayer should not be interested in closing tax loopholes, his own or anyone else's, but in prying them out wider and wider until, finally, "The Ultimate Loophole" is made available to one and all and you are free to "Spend Your Own Money," all of it, as you think best.

There are two other aspects of taxation which we all need to better understand. They are:

1. The ultimate result of all taxes, regardless of what they may be called, and irrespective of where they may be applied or upon whom initially imposed, is to funnel capital into the governmental non-productive sector. This process, which is nothing less than the legal taking of wealth from those who earned it and giving it to those who did not injure the capacity of the nation's people to produce. With less produced, where is less for all to consume. All are harmed. It is as simple as that.

2. Ultimately, all taxes again regardless of the name given to them, again irrespective of where applied or upon initially imposed, are taxes upon production, simply because it is not possible to tax anything else. Consequently, since consumers consume what is produced, and must pay the costs thereof, all taxes wind up being borne by the productive consumers.

Enough of this political prattle of "tax reform" based on the promise of "closing the tax loopholes" of some for the benefit of someone else.

The only meaningful "tax reform" is one that will reduce taxes, including the tax of monetary inflation, rather than spreading them around that means less government spending! And any politician who refuses to talk in such terms, including the specific government programs he would cut, should be walked away from and left talking to himself.

Why Not More?

You remember. Not so many months ago one of the primary fears of Americans, fed largely by alarmist politicians, was of masses of foreign investors, particularly Arab and Japanese, nearly taking over American industry. The big concern was how to stop the threat before it got out of control.

Maybe there's not a threat, after all. The cool and collected Conference Board has released its newest survey on the subject. As so often happens, politicians' worries were a lot more noisy than they needed to be. According to the survey, the first nine months of 1975 showed a sharp drop in foreign investments in this country, from 200 in the comparable period of 1974 to 119.

"Most of the investment," reports the Wall Street Journal, which is temperamentally compatible with the Conference Board, "came from Europe, as usual. There was only one Arab acquisition, the purchase by Kuwait of a small building prefabricator in Houston. The Arabs, it seems, are more interested in real estate than production."

Of course, not only was all the worry too intensive, it was misdirected as well. Congress should have been concerned that not enough investment dollars from the reaches of the globe were finding their way to this land. After all, what is wrong with foreign investment in a free economy, anyway?

Some people believe that if the bottoms of your feet itch, you are going to take a trip!

People who are good with words have a way of really making them work to an advantage. And the way some folks have of delivering their verbal packages makes it even more difficult to discern the contents.

Take for example our local superintendent of schools, Dr. Dan Long. An extremely nice man, he is, and indications are that he is also quite a capable supe. And a most admirable talent he possesses when it comes to turning a phrase.

It is always a pleasure, when a need arises, to pick up the phone and call Dr. Long for a comment. Whatever the subject at question, he gives the matter his full attention and follows, rapidly, with a well-thought, well-put statement.

And, most of most of the time, Dr. Long calls garlic garlic and shovels shovels. But, recently, he has taken to saying that the need for car-owning Pampans to pay a tax on their means of conveyance (pickups and motorboats and campers, too) is because the state "has increased our local fund assignment."

The increase amounts to something in the neighborhood of $400,000 (Who can afford to live in that kind of neighborhood?)

"We must contribute this," Dr. Long says. "We have no choice."

Straightforward enough, I'd observe. Simply put and to the point. True, too, as far as it goes.

But the rest of it — and Dr. Long understandably seldom mentions it — is that the $400,000 which must be sent to the state by Pampans parallels an amount received by PISD teachers in salary raises this year.

By trimming off the verbal fat, one might conclude that our cars, etc. will be taxed so that our teachers can be better paid.

When I was a teacher, I was all for teachers being better paid myself. And if I still was a teacher, I'd go along with them in thinking even higher wages are needed. I'm rather selfish, I'm so selfish, in fact, that I don't want to pay taxes on my little, old car so that teachers can have the raise. But they already have it (the raise) and car owners are going to get it (the tax business).

A fellow the other day told me he was telling a teacher that he didn't know how he could afford to buy even another dollar's worth of tax receipts and he might have to sell his beat up old pickup and go to walking.

"You think that's bad," the fellow said the teacher replied. "My wife and I are going to have to pay taxes on two cars, a camper and a boat. We'll be paying a big part of our own raise. Does that seem fair?"

Somewhere back down the road a few years, teachers learned that there is, indeed, strength in union. And they consequently put together a strong union, with effective lobbyists, and managed to convince enough vote-conscious state representatives and senators of a need for bigger salaries.

A beginning teacher with no experience must be paid $8,000 for the 190 days that school meets between September and the last of May. Pampa adds even more to that.

The state says Pampa has to pay the state minimum, but the state doesn't say Pampa has to pay the additional $500 that is being tacked on every PISD teacher's salary. That totals up to, roughly, $145,000 per year.

There is no longer any shortage of teachers like there once was. They abound. If Pampans were to pay the state base and save the difference it would create few real problems — possibly a greater rate of turnover which would require the superintendent and staff to do more hiring each summer. Our schools certainly would not be closed as a result.

People sometimes accuse me of being against teachers. I'm not. Some of my best friends, you know. It's just that I am very much against taxes. No matter what purpose the levying of them serves, additional taxes are applying some pretty weighty straws to the camel's back.

A bill before Congress would require the FTC, USDA and Justice Department to make an annual report on competition in the food industry. Consumer advocates support this, believing that increased competition will inevitably reduce prices.

It's Taps for British India

By WILLIAM RUSHER

In their new book, "Freedom at Midnight" (Simon and Schuster, $12.50), Larry Collins and Dominique Lapierre have told superbly the great story of the end of the British raj and the coming of independence to India at the stroke of midnight on August 14, 1947. If, like me, you tend to find serious fiction a bit thin and gratuitous, and books on "current affairs" painfully reminiscent of the daily papers, "Freedom at Midnight" is for you: the true story of an immense historical event, rich in fascinating figures, steeped in both triumph and tragedy, and laced with poignant lessons about the vanity of human aspirations.

It begins with the almost accidental coming of British rule to the subcontinent — the unanticipated impact of a swashbuckling European nation, hungry for trade, on the crazy-quilt of princely states that comprised seventeenth-century India. There never was, and never will be again, anything quite like the British raj. The East India Company received its charter from Queen Elizabeth I on December 31, 1599, and during the next 250 years, by shrewd diplomacy and brute force, gradually became the supreme authority in the whole vast area between the trackless wastes of Afghanistan and the hot green jungles of Burma. When the British government itself took over control in the latter half of the nineteenth century and Victorian India, it was the first time in history that the word "India" had ever been more than merely a geographic expression.

Political unity, then, was Britain's most important gift to India, but not by any means its only. Almost as important as unity, and probably indispensable to it, was the gift of the English language itself: the only tongue in which India's diverse millions could all communicate among themselves. Add to these the successful transplantation of such sturdy political institutions as "British justice," the development of the able and indispensable administrative cadres of the Indian Civil Service, and the finest rail network in all Asia, and it becomes apparent that British sway over India was far from being all take and no give.

But there was never any doubt who was boss. Even "Freedom at Midnight" can only touch on the fabulous story of the generations of Britons who flourished in India under the Viceroy's: "There was the India of gentleman officers wearing plumed shakos and riding at the head of their turbaned sepoy's of district magistrates k.e.s.t in the torrid wastes of the Deccan; of sumptuous imperial balls in the Himalayan summer capital of Simla; of cricket matches on the manicured lawns of Calcutta's Bengal Club; of polo games on the sunburnt plains of Rajputana; of tiger hunts in Assam; of young men sitting down to dinner in black ties in a tent in the middle of the jungle; solemnly proposing their toast in port to the King-Emperor while jacksals howled in the darkness around them...."

Most of the book, however, is an account of the end of the raj: of how a frail little Hindu lawyer, Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi, invented the technique of "satyagraha," or nonviolent resistance, that proved so superbly adapted to the task of prising India from the fingers of twentieth-century Britain; of Mohammed Ali Jinnah, the shrewd and implacable leader of India's Moslems, who turned Gandhi's ultimate triumph to ashes in his mouth by insisting upon the partition of British India into separate nations — modern India, and Pakistan; and finally of the last Viceroy, the elegant and aristocratic Lord Louis Mountbatten, to whom in 1947 fell the unenviable task of hauling down the Union Jack for the last time, knocking together the heads of the Indian leaders who would succeed him, and watching with helpless horror the hideous bloodshed that ensued, as the two new nations sorted themselves out in one of history's vastest and most painful migrations.

Nearly thirty years on, we know to well how it all came out. how the fragile plant of freedom withered and finally died under the blazing skies of India. But the story is a mighty one, magnificently told, and packed with solemn lessons for any optimist who still believes in the rationality of mankind. (Copyright 1975)

As a juicy example of what's wrong with learning to read in many American schools, take a quick look at a recent New York Times story on Wayne State University's education professor, Kenneth S. Goodman. According to him, if a child "clearly understands" the meaning of a sentence, it doesn't matter if he gets some of the words wrong.

Example cited: "The boy jumped on the horse and rode off." Instead of reading "horse," the child substitutes "pony."

Question: Should the teacher correct him?

Goodness gracious no, frowns Prof. Goodman. After all, the child hasn't made a nasty old "mistake"; instead, he has made a perfectly healthy "miscue." The professor, incidentally, has been researching said "miscues" for 10 long years, surfacing at last with the — alas! — perfectly predictable finding that most of them are "quite logical" and "reflective of sophisticated reasoning."

Let me pause here to assure you that I'm not putting you on. Prof. Goodman is all too real, not something out of "Through the Looking-Glass." In that Lewis Carroll tribute to the absurd, you'll recall, Humpty Dumpty stated that a word meant whatever he intended it to mean, no more, no less. When pushed literally to the wall on the matter, he quashed further questioning about his tyranny over terminology by saying firmly: "The question is which is to be master — that's all."

Similarly, Prof. Goodman doesn't care if the child reads "pony" where the word is really "horse." I presume he would be equally unconcerned if the child confused "Ford" with "Chevrolet" or "professor" with "jackass," for that matter. All he wants is for Junior to get the main thrust of the written thought; the details and peculiarities he leaves to time and chance.

Here's his reasoning:

Reading isn't a process of looking at individual words and deciding what they mean. Instead, it's a process of taking in data, making informed "predictions" about what will follow, checking these predictions as you go along and if necessary making revisions.

Sound familiar? It would if you were a computer programmer, and of course that's the newest, shiniest "avant garde" hobbyhorse the professor is riding, even if he calls it a pony.

Thus, in the example quoted above, the child predicted "pony" from "jumped on" and "it doesn't matter to Dr. Goodman that the character in the story ended up atop a Shetland when the author intended him to be galloping away on a stallion.

Flapdoodle, professor.

The story writer is trying to tell you his story, or am I on the wrong side of the looking-glass? If you let the reader substitute his own words for those of the author, pandemonium and old chaos quickly become the order of the day. Hopalong Cassidy rides off into the sunset on a dogie, and King Arthur's knights thunder into action on burros. Sense becomes nonsense; art becomes grotesquerie.

An author usually derives precious little remuneration from his toil, and I speak as one who knows. Up to know, however, he has at least had the satisfaction of knowing that the words he commits to paper mean what he and Noah Webster say they mean, not what each individual reader "predicts" they ought to mean.

Let me sum up.

Words are important, profound! So are individual letters and syllables. We simply must not raise a generation unable to distinguish between a laser and a loser, or between critical mass and criminal mess, and this for a horribly obvious reason.

Former Fatty Catches Abby's Lifeline

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I send this letter out of gratitude for recommending Overeaters Anonymous. It saved my life. In December 1973 I weighed 326 pounds. If my high blood pressure or heart trouble wouldn't eventually have killed me, I'd have done it myself. I lived with loneliness, depression and despair.

I was a heroin addict and a 23-year-old divorced mother of three on welfare. I hated myself enough to prostitute my body to get money for dope. I suffered humiliation after humiliation. (A 300-pound prostitute gets all the sadists and perverts no other hooker will take.) I had no self-respect, no hope, no God — no nothing.

I wrote to you, never expecting an answer. Your letter was the first word of encouragement I had had in years. I took your advice and went to an O.A. meeting in June of '74. I believed none of it. "These people are crazy," I thought, "I'm a fat, ugly junkie, and they're telling me I can get thin and regain my self-respect if I want to!" "No way," I told them right out loud. No one threw me out. A beautiful, middle-aged man put his arm around my shoulder and said, "Come back and listen. Try us for 30 days. What can you lose?"

I didn't believe him, but I went back, and back and back. Today I've lost 121 pounds, and I'm still losing. I'm drug-free, and I'm learning to like myself. I have a responsible job, a belief in a power greater than myself, and the love and respect of my children and people who believe in me when I didn't believe in myself.

There is no scale at O.A. They don't shame you if you backslide. They are a group of loving, caring, supportive people who are there to help you because they have helped themselves.

After sinking so low, O.A. gave me a chance to be what I've always wanted to be: a lady.

How can I thank you for sending me there?
"BORN AGAIN" IN GROTON, CONN.

DEAR BORN AGAIN: You owe me no thanks. I merely threw you a lifeline. You caught it.

DEAR ABBY: I was a happily married woman until my husband came home and calmly asked me if he could bring another woman into our home to have sex with us. He told me that other couples do this sort of thing all the time. He said it helps them improve their sexual relationship in marriage.

When I absolutely refused, he became angry and called me a "square."

Abby, if that's the kind of sex he wants, I don't think I should be married to him. So what's your answer?
SQUARE IN INDIANAPOLIS

DEAR SQUARE: If you're a "square," I want to be in all four of your corners. Your husband's attitude about sex is sick. He needs help on the couch — with a doctor!

DEAR ABBY: I am 14-years-old and need your help. My girl friend's mother lets her kids call her "Rosemary." I think that's neat.

I tried calling my mom "Shirley," and I nearly got a hit in the head.

How can I get my mom to get with it like my girl friend's mother?
SANDY

DEAR SANDY: If by "getting with it," you mean she should allow you to call her by her first name, I can't help you. Respect your mother's right to be addressed according to her wishes. If you have children and want them to call you "Sandy," that's your privilege.

Diet, Cancer To Be Studied

By AL ROSSITER JR.
UPI Science Editor
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A public health authority has called for stepped-up research into the possibility that diet may play a major role in human cancer.

Dr. Ernst Wynder, president of the American Health Foundation in New York, said studies of populations around the world suggest nutrition may have a part in half of all cancers in women and a third of those affecting men.

He led a symposium on cancer and nutrition sponsored in May by the National Cancer Institute and the American Cancer Society. Reports from the meeting were published Sunday in the journal Cancer Research. For example, Wynder said, it is possible the human processes that handle food in the body may not be able to cope with all the cholesterol consumed in fat-rich foods. High cholesterol diets already have been linked to heart disease.

"As a matter of public health, it seems prudent to suggest that all individuals should lower their intake of total fat calories and cholesterol," he said. Wynder said one way diets may affect cancer is in the form of nutrients, additives or contaminants that may start, promote or accelerate cancer growth. Another possibility is that dietary deficiencies may lead to biochemical abnormalities that in turn start cancer processes.

We Hold These Truths...
A Chronicle of America

November 10, 1775:

Proceeding with the formation of a comprehensive military force, Congress resolves that "two battalions of marines be raised . . . [and] that they be distinguished by the names of the first and second battalions of American Marines." Samuel Nicholas of Philadelphia is appointed the senior Continental Marine officer. On the 17th, Congress designates Henry Knox of Boston as "colonel of the regiment of artillery"; he creates the Continental Army's first artillery regiment. Knox also devises and carries out a plan to haul — overland — 55 cannons from Fort Ticonderoga to the Continental troops besieging Boston. On the 28th, Congress adopts "Rules for the Regulation of the Navy and the United Colonies."

Democrats Don't Want On Wallace Ticket

United Press International
Jimmy Carter says he has no aspirations for the Democratic vice presidential nomination, "but I can't say that I would never accept it."

He says he is running for the top spot because he is the best qualified person to be president.

Morris Udall, another of the 10 Democrats running for president, says he is the best candidate because "better than any other candidate I can pull this party together and win the election."

In separate broadcast interviews Sunday, both agreed on two major points: Neither would be on the same ticket with George Wallace and neither expects the Democratic nominee to come out of a "brokered" convention.

Both pointed out that no Democrat has been chosen in a "smoke-filled room" in 50 years and both said the winner will be the one who has done best in the 30 state primaries.

Carter, former governor of Georgia, appeared on CBS' Face the Nation and Udall, an Arizona congressman, appeared on NBC's Meet the Press.

Ronald Reagan, the former California governor challenging President Ford, appeared on ABC's Issues and Answers and said he would support Ford if the President is nominated. But he declined to say whether he would support Nelson Rockefeller if the vice president is the nominee.

Reagan, like Ford at his news conference last week, pretty much ruled out a debate in the primaries.

He also ruled out running as a third party candidate, said he would strive to cut the federal budget by $90 billion and would support an antibusing constitutional amendment only as a "last resort" because "I don't think the Constitution should deteriorate into involving itself in what should be done by statute and legislation."

Reagan also criticized Ford's foreign policy. He said he hopes the President's trip to China improves chances for peace but that he should not sacrifice U.S. relations with Taiwan.

He also said, "I have criticized detente because I don't believe it is as much of a two-way street as it was out to be and is supposed to be."

Trapeze Clown Falls

BOLINGBROOK, Ill. (UPI) — Veteran trapeze artist John "Jimmy" Troy was wrapping up his comedy trapeze act Sunday night.

The crowd "ooohed" and "ahed" as Troy — working 20 feet in the air with no net — feigned losing his grip on the bar and flopped about, grabbing it in the crook of his arm, slipping, grabbing it again.

Suddenly he wasn't acting. The 56-year-old trapeze clown lost his grip and fell to his death. At first, the 800 people at the Old Chicago Amusement Park thought it was part of the act — until Troy hit the ground head first, breaking his neck. He was killed instantly.

"When he hit the ground there was a stunned silence," said George Condon, a spokesman for the park. "The performers rushed over but there was nothing they could do. He was dead."

Deck the Halls

The lobby of the U.S. Post Office in Pampa is decorated for the Christmas season for the first time in history. J.D. Williams, postmaster, said the decorations were purchased at no cost to taxpayers. Employees contributed money for the project and donated their time Sunday afternoon. Tom Cantrell, postal building maintenance employes, is shown stringing gold trim along the metal grating that separates the work area from the lobby.

School Teachers Strike Over Wage Contract

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Pittsburgh public school teachers went on strike today, braving snow flurries and cold winds to set up picket lines.

The teachers struck in a wage contract dispute which their top negotiator said could be a long walkout. It could mean an extended Thanksgiving vacation for the area's 62,000 students.

School officials have asked students to report to school at 1 p.m. but an announcement was expected before then on whether classes will be open.

"Today is a test," Paul Francis, vice president of the Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers, said. "The school board is wanting to see how many teachers show up before deciding whether to close the schools."

Francis said the subfreezing temperatures were working to the union's advantage.

"If it's a nice day, the teachers don't feel like they are fighting a battle," he said. "With the weather like this, they feel like they're in a war. It strengthens their resolve."

Although no negotiating sessions were scheduled, Francis said he expected talks would resume today under the direction of state mediator James Rush.

The teachers Sunday night rejected an 11th hour contract offer, turned down a school board offer of a $1,000 raise and went on strike at the district's 110 schools and 40 other work sites. School transportation and food service were canceled.

The strikers, including 3,300 teachers, 400 counselors, nurses, social workers and psychologists and 70 clerical and technical workers, were represented by the Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers.

Union president Albert Fondy predicted the strike could last as long as two months.

Besides salary, the two sides were in disagreement on class size proposals, job security provisions, teacher schedules, hiring of reading teachers, discipline policies and other items.

The teachers, who now make between $8,700 and $16,700 a year, originally asked for raises of $1,300 to $3,500 as of January. The school board originally offered about $300 for September, but then hiked the offer to $1,000.

The board also asked the federation to extend the contract through December, but the request was rejected.

Hearst's Attorney Rules Out Insanity

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An attorney for Patricia Hearst has ruled out insanity for use as a defense in the newspaper heiress' trial on bank robbery charges.

"I will not use the defense of alibi or insanity," Albert Johnson said Sunday in a telephone interview from his home in Boston.

Miss Hearst's attorneys were ordered to appear before U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter today to disclose whether they would use insanity to defend their client.

Federal prosecutors have said previously they would oppose such a defense.

Johnson said he was "leaving the door open to a brainwash defense." Defense attorneys have hired a British psychiatrist, an expert on brainwash techniques, to examine Miss Hearst.

Miss Hearst's family has maintained the Symbionese

Liberation Army brainwashed her after kidnaping her from her Berkeley, Calif., apartment on Feb. 4, 1974.

The U.S. Attorney's office last week asked that Miss Hearst's attorneys furnish examples of her voice and handwriting for use in connection with her prosecution.

The government was expected to introduce tape-recordings in which Miss Hearst, shortly after her abduction, swore allegiance to the SLA.

Prosecutors said the recordings "are believed to be related to the bank robbery with which the defendant is charged and believed to contain, in part, the voice of the defendant."

In one recording Miss Hearst said she participated in a bank robbery in April, 1974, of her own free will.

Escaper Found In Weed Patch

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI) — An escaped prisoner sentenced to a federal jail term for a $1 million Florida jewel robbery was found hiding in a patch of high weeds Sunday only a half-mile from the city jail.

Authorities said Edward Richard Jones, 32, was rousted from his hiding place and returned to confinement after only a few hours of freedom.

Jones, who escaped once before while in custody in Atlanta, was in Shreveport awaiting trial on a federal arms charge.

He used a knife-like shard from a broken water glass to threaten the jailer into opening a steel door. He then took an elevator to the main floor of city hall and walked out.

Parents Say Respirator To Be Stopped

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Doctors and parents of a 6-year-old boy Sunday agreed to turn off the respirator which kept him alive four days.

Dr. John A. Coates, a neurosurgeon, said the Donnie Ray Wallen's brain was dead and there was no voluntary breathing or reflex action.

Coates said he, a pediatrician and the parents agreed and the life-sustaining equipment was turned off.

The boy suffered massive brain damage Wednesday when he was accidentally shot in the head. Coates said the boy breathed on his own for only a short time after he underwent surgery.

The youngster and his 7-year-old brother found a gun under their parents' mattress and were playing with it when the older brother shot Donnie in the left eye, authorities said.

Volcano Simmers Down After Shaking Island

HILO, Hawaii (UPI) — The 500-foot Kilauea volcano, triggered into dazzling eruptions by Hawaii's mightiest earthquake in more than a century, was simmering down today without any spurts of lava. But aftershocks were still shaking the big island.

Two persons, including a Boy Scout leader, died Saturday when a 25-foot wave stirred up by the quake churned over a beach campsite near the volcano. More than 50 persons were injured — many the victims of crashing waves.

Officials said the quake itself caused $2 million in damage to homes and businesses.

Dr. Jack Lockwood, a geologist at the Volcanoes National Park Observatory, said there were many aftershocks and the volcano itself was "still erupting" but there were no signs of lava on the surface.

Lockwood said the volcano was draining itself through the southwest rift zone. Seismologist Peter Lipman said Kilauea was still very unstable.

The big island was hit first by a 5.3 Richter quake shortly after midnight. Then, just before dawn, the 7.3 Richter tremor rocked the island for 10 minutes. A tidal wave alert was broadcast.

Dr. Robert Tilling, in charge of the observatory, said Sunday's 250-foot lava eruptions sounded like "jet roars."

Boy Scout Timothy Twigg-Smith, 13, one of some 35 persons who had been camping on Kalape Beach 1 1/2 miles from the epicenter, said:

"We were all sleeping in tents ... when the first quake woke us up about 3:30, but nobody paid much attention, and we went back to sleep. Then at 4:30 the ground started sliding and rolling."

"It was still quivering when this big wave came out of the night and crashed on top of us. It was the biggest wave I've ever seen."

Obituaries

H.E. MERRIFIELD
Funeral services for H.E. (Gene) Merrifield, 62, manager of the Childress Chamber of Commerce, were conducted Sunday in First United Methodist Church at Childress.

Mr. Merrifield, a chamber of commerce manager in several Texas cities over a period of 20 years, was widely known throughout the Texas Panhandle as pianist with "That Band With Dixieland," managed by E.O. Wedgeworth, Pampa chamber of commerce general manager. He also had played with several nationally known name bands of the 1930s and 1940s.

Mr. Merrifield died suddenly following a heart attack Friday in Childress.

STEVENS CONFIRMATION
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., head of the Senate Judiciary Committee, says confirmation hearings for U.S. Supreme Court nominee John Paul Stevens are expected to begin next Monday.

"I don't think it'll take long," Eastland said in a telephone interview Saturday. Asked if he would go along with President Ford's request for speedy action, Eastland said, "That's right, I hope we can."

But Senate sources predicted Congress would not confirm Stevens' appointment before taking its Christmas vacation Dec. 19.

CUBAN TROOPS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — There are more than 5,000 Cuban soldiers in 10 foreign countries serving Soviet military interests, according to U.S. News and World Report magazine.

The magazine Sunday quoted unidentified U.S. intelligence sources as saying "not one of the nations to which Cuban military men have been sent is of any conceivable interest to Cuba."

In addition to 3,000 Cuban troops in Angola cited recently by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, the magazine said due to expire and followed three days of intensive debate.

At the same time, the Council agreed to begin debate Jan. 12 on the Middle East problem including the Palestinian question.

Outgoing Council President and Soviet Ambassador Yakov A. Malik read a statement prepared by Guyana, Cameroon, Mauritania and Tanzania that said:

"It is the understanding of the majority of the Security Council that when it reconvenes on 12 January 1976 ... the representatives of the Palestine Liberation Organization will be invited to participate in the

UN Extends Peace Troops

By United Press International
The U.N. Security Council has extended the mandate of peacekeeping troops on the Golan Heights and opened the way for Palestine Liberation Organization participation in next month's debate on the Middle East.

The Council, meeting at U.N. headquarters in New York, voted 13-0 Sunday night to extend for six months the mandate authorizing the presence of a 1,200-man force in the buffer zone between Israel and Syria.

The vote — with China and Iraq abstaining — came only hours before the mandate was

FORD VETO
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has vetoed a bill that would have authorized up to $3.5 million a year to reimburse state and local governments for providing protection and other services to foreign missions and visiting diplomats.

The bill also would have expanded the Executive Protective Service to include guarding foreign diplomatic missions outside Washington, D.C.

Ford said the reimbursements "would set an unwise and potentially very expensive precedent."

BIG GAS DEAL
TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Iran Sunday wrapped up the biggest natural gas deal in history with four countries, including the Soviet Union.

The National Iranian Oil Co. signed an agreement with the Soviet Union, West Germany, France and Austria to sell those countries 17.6 billion cubic yards of natural gas a year.

The gas will begin flowing in 1980, half of it to the Soviet Union, after a 950-mile, $2.4

However, U.N. experts pointed out that Malik's statement was not binding since it was not an action of the full Council contained in a regularly adopted resolution.

U.S. Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan said inclusion of the PLO in the forthcoming debate was "not a decision of the Council but a simple summation of the views of some of the members."

He said the United States agreed to the resolution "solely out of deference to the right of the Security Council to take up any matter it wishes."

Lets Abortion Rule Stand

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Byron R. White dissented on grounds at least two other circuit courts of appeals have held similar regulations void under the high court's 1973 abortion ruling.

They said the other justices should have voted to hear oral arguments in the case and decide it by a full written opinion rather than leave conflicts among lower courts unresolved.

CHINESE OIL EXPORTS
HONG KONG (UPI) — China claims to have achieved oil self-sufficiency and says it can now become an oil exporter.

"After a quarter of a century's efforts, China has built up an oil industry embracing such branches as prospecting, drilling, oil-field construction, oil refining and scientific research," the official New China News Agency said in a report monitored in Hong Kong.

"China is now self-sufficient both in quantity and variety," NCNA said. "China can now export oil."

NCNA said China's oil production has increased an average of 20 per cent a year over the last 20 years. It also said during the first 10 months of this year production rose by more than 20 per cent over the same period of last year.

Search at River

Richard John Hooks, age 7, of Stinnett was found — alive, but in shock — at 9:30 a.m. today after he was missing Saturday and Sunday nights after wandering from a hunting campsite on the Canadian River. Ken Keith, Gray County deputy, left; was among the first at the scene after the boy was discovered. Below, the boy's uncle, Claude Hooks of Stinnett, remains at the campsite Saturday afternoon, exhausted after a sleepless vigil and hoping the boy will find his way back.

21 Die in Texas Holiday Toll

By United Press International
Traffic accidents, including the collision of a pickup truck with an eagle, two plane crashes and a house fire contributed to the Texas Thanksgiving holiday accident toll which ended at midnight Sunday.

A United Press International survey showed 19 persons killed in traffic accidents, two dead in plane crashes and one killed in a residential fire for a total of 21 deaths. The holiday period began at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

The Department of Public Safety said Donna Gale Leonard, 23, of Elgin, S.C., and Keri Maurice Hollis, 19, of Elk City, Okla., were killed near Fort Stockton Saturday in the collision of their pickup with an eagle. Jennifer Leonard, 1, was injured in the wreck.

The vehicle went out of control and the women and a year-old female infant were thrown from the truck. Both women were dead at the scene. The child was treated for minor injuries and released from a Fort Stockton hospital.

The only other multiple fatality auto mishap reported was Wednesday night near Zephyr. A head-on collision killed Dorothy Fallin and Gayla Sue Clatterback, both of San Angelo. Five other persons were injured.

Another San Angelo resident, Robert Dale Hudson, was killed Thanksgiving Day in a one-car accident south of Sonora.

Charles Whitel Pierson, 30, a student pilot, was killed Friday in a plane crash at Plainview. Pierson died about five hours after the crash. A flight instructor on board the plane was critically injured. Witnesses say the plane's landing gear snagged a telephone line and the craft flipped end over end and crashed.

In another plane crash, Harry Buggy III, 26, of San Marcos, died Friday in the southeastern Texas crash of his light plane.

Mrs. Conner Greer, 25, died Friday night of smoke inhalation suffered during a fire at her Fort Worth home.

Little Fire Damage

Fireman contained a blaze to the back room of Ruby's Liquor Store, 866 W. Foster, Saturday night. Fireman Tom Loggitt said the Police Department reported the fire at 9:20 p.m. and firefighters returned to the station at 10:45 p.m. The store, which was closed at the time, sustained light fire and smoke damage. The blaze was believed caused by a broken water pipe in the ceiling which caused electrical wiring to short out.

Search Crews Find Body Frozen After Snow Storm

By United Press International
Crossed skis — a distress signal — marked the spot where 16-year-old Mark Ebaugh, dazed by snow and cold, wandered into the face of the blizzard.

His signal for help was found, but it was too late.

Search crews using probes found Ebaugh's frozen body under the snow some distance from where he had left the skis in a final plea for help.

He had been caught in a sudden, furious snowstorm while cross-country skiing in the Wasatch Mountains.

Authorities said he apparently left the distress signal and then, dazed by his rapidly dropping body temperature, wandered away to his death.

"They say it's a painless death," a National Weather Service spokesman said. "You kind of get numb, then fall asleep and never wake up."

Ebaugh was one of five victims of a Thanksgiving storm that swept across Utah. Four of them died in traffic mishaps on snowswept Utah roadways.

Two duck hunters had better luck. They were rescued Sunday from the frozen marshes of the Great Salt Lake after being stranded for more than 48 hours. Authorities said they were suffering from exposure and minor frostbite but were otherwise healthy. The pair's boat had drifted from land and gotten stuck in the ice. They were rescued by an Air Force helicopter.

A new storm was brewing today over the Pacific Northwest. Rain, snow and winds made roadways treacherous.

Travelers advisories were posted today in Oregon's Cascade Mountains and in portions of Washington, Idaho, Wyoming, Montana and the Rockies of Colorado.

Snowdrifts and stranded cars forced the closing of portions of U.S. 95 in central Idaho. Up to foot of new snow clogged portions of eastern Washington state.

A storm also chugged over the nation's midsection and travelers' advisories were issued for portions of Michigan for powerful winds, icy temperatures and locally heavy snow.

Sixty mile per hour winds buffeted the lower Great Lakes and thunderstorm rumbled over the southeast.

Raiders Clinch Crown

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

It's the same old story for the Oakland Raiders — another division title and another tough road to the Super Bowl.

The Raiders clinched the AFC's West Division title in the National Football League Sunday when they scored a 37-34 overtime victory over the Atlanta Falcons on a dramatic field goal by 48-year-old George Blanda.

But to Oakland management, players and fans the reaction was: so far, so good but also what?

This time around, the Raiders face the prospect of having to win over two teams with superior records during the season — the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Minnesota Vikings, both now 10-1 compared to Oakland's 9-2 record.

The defending Super Bowl champion Steelers ran their winning streak to a club record nine games with a 20-7 triumph over the New York Jets Sunday while the Vikings also have a 10-1 mark despite a 31-30 loss to the Washington Redskins. At the moment the records favor the Steelers and Vikings to meet again in the Super Bowl with the Raiders watching on television.

The Cincinnati Bengals defeated the Houston Oilers 23-19, the Baltimore Colts beat the Kansas City Chiefs 28-14, the Green Bay Packers blitzed the Chicago Bears 28-7, the Dallas Cowboys topped the New York Giants 14-3, the Philadelphia

Eagles downed the San Francisco 49ers 27-17, the Cleveland Browns shaded the New Orleans Saints 17-16, and the Denver Broncos nipped the San Diego Chargers 13-10 in other Sunday games.

The New England Patriots play the Dolphins in Miami, Fla., in the Monday night TV game.

Blanda kicked an 18-yard field goal with three seconds left in regulation time to tie the score at 34-34 and then booted a 36-yarder on the final play of sudden-death overtime to give the Raiders their victory. Ken Stabler threw four touchdown passes, three to Cliff Branch, for the Raiders while Steve Bartkowski threw for one TD and ran for another for the Falcons.

Colts 28 Chiefs 14
The Colts rolled to their sixth straight victory as Lydell Mitchell ran for 160 yards, including a 70-yard scoring dash to hand the Chiefs their sixth loss in 11 games.

Packers 28 Bears 7
John Brockington scored on three runs from inside the 10-yard line as the Packers scored an easy win over the Bears. The Packers led 28-0 at halftime and stifled both the Bears' passing and running attacks.

Cowboys 14 Giants 3
Roger Staubach threw a 54-yard touchdown pass and set up another TD with a 62-yard pass-play in the first period enabling the Cowboys to remain tied for first place with St. Louis in the NFC's East Division.

Eagles 27 49ers 17
Mike Boryla threw touchdown passes of five, 11 and 42 yards leading the Eagles to their third win in 11 games.

Browns 17 Saints 16
Greg Pruitt ran eight yards for a touchdown and Don Cockroft kicked the extra point with 3:12 to play giving the Browns their second straight victory and leaving both they and the Saints with 2-9 records.

Broncos 13 Chargers 10
Jim Turner kicked a 25-yard field goal in sudden-death overtime as the Broncos handed the Chargers their 11th straight defeat. The winning field goal was set up when Chris Fletcher was called for pass interference on a John Hufnagel to Jack Dolbin pass at the San Diego 20.

Groom TD

Thomas Reed swiped an air-borne ball, which Jayton's Mark Fincher had fumbled, and raced 47 yards for a Groom touchdown in the second quarter of the Class B quarterfinal contest Friday night in Memphis. Groom whipped Jayton 24-13 to qualify for the state semi-nals, where the Tigers will meet defending state champion Celina at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Vernon. The winner will play either Big Sandy or Moody for the state championship the following week. (Pampa News photo by Michal Thompson)

Bartow, UCLA Fall To Indiana

By CHRIS SCHERF
UPI Sports Writer

"Pressure" is the word Gene Bartow has heard most often since replacing John Wooden as UCLA's coach and pressure proved the Bruins' demise Saturday night.

It wasn't the pressure of John Wooden's ghost that ruined Bartow's UCLA debut, but Indiana's pressure defense.

UCLA guards Andre McCarter and Jim Spillane proved unable to cope with the top-ranked Hoosiers' tenacious defense in St. Louis and the result was a surprisingly lopsided 84-64 Indiana victory.

"If a team doesn't get the pressure relieved efficiently and smoothly against Indiana, they're in serious trouble," Bartow said. "Indiana's pressure defense has always gotten many teams in trouble. Indiana proved they sure deserve the No. 1 rating they have."

The UCLA guards certainly were never able to solve Indiana's pressure defense and the Bruins were guilty of 21 turnovers.

All-America forward Scott May scored 33 points as the Hoosiers established themselves as the top-heavy favorite to win the NCAA championship in Philadelphia at the end of the season.

However, Bartow was determined the Bruins would be there for a rematch with the Hoosiers. "Come March, we'll be there," Bartow said. "Don't worry, we'll be better."

"I've never had a team execute better," Indiana coach Bobby Knight said.

Forward Richard Washington led UCLA with 28 points.

In other games involving top-ranked teams Saturday:

Fourth-ranked North Carolina, with guard Phil Ford setting a school record of 14 assists and scoring 15 points, took a 115-75 victory over Howard University.

All-America John Lucas and Steve Sheppard combined for 52 points to lead fifth-ranked Maryland to a record-tying 127-84 rout over East Carolina.

Eighth-ranked Tennessee's run-and-shoot attack, led by Ernie Grunfeld, blitzed Biscayne College 81-63. Grunfeld had 28 points to lead all scorers.

Bob Miller and Steve Collier combined for 42 points as the 10th-ranked Cincinnati Bearcats opened their season with an easy 98-65 win over Cleveland State.

All-American Adrian Dantley, with 25 points, led 11th-ranked Notre Dame to a 90-61 victory over Kent State.

Steelers 20 Jets 7
Terry Bradshaw threw his 14th and 15th touchdown passes of the season as the Steelers virtually assured themselves of a playoff berth.

Redskins 31 Vikings 30
Bill Kilmer completed four passes for a total of 77 yards, including a 15-yard payoff toss to Frank Grant, and Mark Moseley kicked the game winning extra point for the Redskins with 40 seconds left in the game.

Bengals 23 Oilers 19
John Reeves threw two touchdown passes in a 16-point second period which gave the Bengals control of a game played in a driving rain at Cincinnati.

Canadian's Arrington Leads Sooner Cagers

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) — University of Oklahoma basketball fans might be surprised to learn one of their returning players set seven OU records last year.

She is Julie Arrington, a sophomore from Canadian, Tex., who plays on the women's basketball team.

She led the team last year with most points scored, 137; highest scoring average, 8.6 points per game; most rebounds, 129, and in free throws, most attempted, most scored and highest percentage.

"I hope to improve this season on my defensive play and to break my records from last year," she says. "I think anyone who sets a record tries to break it. That's what I like about athletics."

She says the players this year have more ability than last year's players and she expects the team to be better.

She also is more serious about this season.

"With the increase in fan support, I believe our program will get better," she says. "Last year, people thought women's athletics were a joke. Now some of those same people are beginning to take notice. That makes me play a little better."

Coach Cathie Schweitzer expects Julie to take a position of leadership on the court.

"As center, she will have to be a leader on defense because she is a backup for the other four players on the court," the coach said. "I also hope she will be a leader on offense."

Dallas Edges Giants

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — As works of art go, Sunday's New York-Dallas contest ranked right up there with a 3-year-old's fingerprinting.

But even if it wasn't a Rembrandt, the Cowboys were willing to pay top price for it.

A win, after all, is a win, and the drab 14-3 decision over the offensively ineffective New York Giants Sunday made Dallas a division leader again.

The Cowboys are now deadlocked with the St. Louis Cardinals atop the NFC East with a 8-3 mark and those two teams meet next Sunday in St. Louis. The winner of that one all but certainly will own a place in the playoffs.

"We weren't mentally sharp," said Dallas coach Tom Landry. "But we got this one out of the way and all the marbles are on the line next week. That's the big one."

Dallas turned a potential runaway into a reasonably close contest.

Roger Staubach hit Jean Fugett less than four minutes deep in the game with a 54-yard touchdown pass and late in the first quarter Staubach teamed with Golden Richards on a 62-yard throw that set up Doug Dennison's one yard scoring plunge.

Morton misread the coverage on a safety blitz and threw right into the hands of Cowboy defensive end Ed Jones.

"The fact that Craig is a former Cowboy made us play harder," said Dallas defensive tackle Jethro Pugh. "But the most important thing was that we had to win this one."

"The St. Louis game is the big one. They will be extra tough because of their loss (to Buffalo on Thanksgiving Day). They hang in there to the end and we will have to be ready."

Giants' coach Bill Arnsparger, whose team is now 3-8, took the loss with style.

"We didn't accomplish a victory," he said. "But I feel we accomplished a lot of things as a team. I saw some things out there that I liked. Our specialty teams played well and I am pleased with that aspect."

"But, overall, we still need to work and that's what we will do."

And Giants' middle linebacker Brian Kelley put things into what he felt was the proper perspective.

"Actually, when you look at it, we didn't do too bad in holding them to 14 points," he said.

Arizona State Goes To Fiesta

College Football Roundup
By United Press International

Arizona State locked up a berth in the Fiesta Bowl for the fourth time in five years Saturday night, leaving only two spots undecided for the post-season major college football bowl parade.

The two remaining slots are in the Cotton and Liberty Bowls and both will be determined next Saturday when second-ranked Texas A&M meets 17th-ranked Arkansas for the Southwest Conference championship. The winner will go to the Cotton Bowl to meet Georgia with the loser facing Southern California in the Liberty Bowl.

Arizona State, which finished its season with a perfect 11-0 record, defeated Arizona 24-21 in their Western Athletic Conference showdown and will face Big Eight runner-up Nebraska (11-0) in the Dec. 26 Fiesta Bowl at Tempe, Ariz.

Texas A&M, which trimmed Texas 20-10 on Friday to remain unbeaten in 10 games, will be seeking its first Cotton Bowl appearance since 1967 and Coach Emory Bellard doesn't feel his team will have any problem maintaining an emotional peak for the Razorbacks.

"When our guys start looking at the films of Arkansas, it won't take them long to get in the right frame of mind," says Bellard. "Our team doesn't have any illusions about Arkansas."

Arkansas (8-2), which has not been to the Cotton Bowl since 1966, will undoubtedly be the underdog but Coach Frank Broyles isn't especially awed by the Aggies.

"They are tough," said Broyles. "There is no doubt of that. But we think we are tough, too."

In other major games Saturday, fourth-ranked Alabama spoiled the finale of retiring Auburn Coach Shug Jordan by blanking the Tigers 28-0. 13th-ranked Florida nipped Miami (Fla.) 15-11. Hawaii upset 16th-ranked San Jose State 30-20. Navy crushed Army for the third straight year, 30-6. Rutgers upset Syracuse 21-10 and Houston upended 18th-ranked Tulsa 42-30.

Aggie Cagers

Former Pampa Harvesters Marsh Gamblin, left, and A.J. Brewer will play for the Panhandle State basketball team against West Texas State of the Missouri Valley Conference at 7:30 p.m. today in Amarillo's Civic Center Coliseum. The Pampa pair likely won't start but are expected to see playing time. Aggie starters probably will be Russell Dixon of Borger and Jeff Clayton as guards, Willie Reese as forward and Joe Kerr of Borger and John Ratliff as posts. (PSU photos)

Abilene Tops Pampa

ABILENE — Pampa's hopes for a title repeat ended somewhat drastically as two Abilene High players scored over 20 points and the host team coasted to an 80-46 win over the road-weary Harvesters in the championship game of the Key City Invitational Basketball Tournament Saturday night here.

Pampa, 5-31 for the season, plays Perryton in a makeup game at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday in Harvester Fieldhouse. The junior varsity game between the schools starts at 6 p.m. The Harvesters play Lawton Eisenhower in the first round of the Lawton, Okla., Bi-State Classic at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

Pampa, which got to the Abilene finals by edging Fort Worth Poly 49-47 and Breckenridge 53-47, was victimized by a 23-point outburst from Abilene guard Mike Little. Andere Hickman added 22, Daryl Baxter 15 and Steve Thomas 10 for the winners, who were not severely challenged in any game of the tourney.

Donnie Hughes and Winslow Ellis led Pampa with 12 and 10 points, respectively.

Named to the all-tournament team from Pampa were Brian Bailey and Rayford Young. From Abilene were Baxter, Little and Hickman.

"Brian played real well. He handled the ball on offense, played good defense and rebounded good. Young played well. He scored well, not in the last ball game but he did in the other ball games," Pampa coach Robert McPherson said.

"We didn't play that bad, they just played super. It was the incentive factor — what happened here (Pampa beat Abilene 56-51 in overtime in Harvester Fieldhouse) — and the fact that our kids were physically beat. They had a real tough ball game against Poly."

"Any time you stay in a motel away from home, you're at a definite disadvantage. Plus, they've got a great ball club." Abilene never trailed in the contest.

Reaves Thwarts Oilers

By RICK VANSANT
CINCINNATI (UPI) — It was only 15 minutes before game time when Cincinnati Bengals coach Paul Brown confirmed to reserve quarterback John Reaves he would be starting Sunday's game against the Houston Oilers.

"We know you can do it," Brown told Reaves after deciding that regular quarterback Ken Anderson should not risk re-injuring his badly bruised chest.

"Keep calm and poised," Brown further instructed Reaves. "Just go out and throw the ball like we know you can."

Reaves did just that. Undaunted by a driving rain an remarkably steady in his first start of the season, Reaves fired two touchdown passes in the second quarter and guided the Bengals to a 23-19 win over the Oilers.

The 34- and 40-yarders that Reaves drilled to Chip Myers were his first TD passes since his 1972 rookie season with the Philadelphia Eagles, who benched the former University of Florida star in 1973 and 1974 and then traded him this year.

"I feel fantastic again," smiled Reaves, who completed 13 of 23 passes for 162 yards and played the entire game. "It's a new feeling, a great feeling. I've been trying to put those years at Philadelphia out of my mind."

"I was really getting discouraged last year, especially after Philadelphia had told me I was the quarterback of their future and all," said Reaves, sporting a scraggly, two-week old beard he decided not to shave for good luck. "Today, I made up my mind that I would be disciplined and we went out and got them."

Anderson said Reaves' performance may speed his recovery.

"I certainly hope to be ready for next week," said Anderson, who was smacked in the chest the previous weekend against Cleveland. "If I don't get back soon I may lose my job."

Prof Collects Old Papers Of Cherokee

WEATHERFORD, Okla. (UPI) — A college professor hopes he can find the remaining official papers on the life of controversial Cherokee Chief John Ross before the documents decay in attics or are otherwise lost.

Dr. Gary E. Moulton, assistant professor of history at Southwestern State University, has collected more than 600 documents on Ross, a bitter opponent of his people's ouster from their original homeland in Georgia and their forced migration to Oklahoma.

Moulton said there may be another 200 documents in existence to help shed light on the life of Ross. But he said much of his success depends on people who now own the manuscripts.

"It is discouraging to think that in some dusty attic there may be some of these valuable historic records deteriorating for lack of proper care," he said. "Some people feel that disclosure of the contents of their collection will diminish its value."

"Fortunately, most of them believe as I do that focusing national attention on a collection can only enhance the value."

Moulton says the papers have turned up in unexpected places, including Shreveport, La., and Detroit.

He has written a biography of the chief which is to be published soon. He first became interested in Ross as a student at Northeastern State University at Tahlequah.

The Ross papers probably will be published in a multivolume work, he said. It is part of a large effort by the National Archives to gather papers of prominent Americans such as Hamilton, Jefferson and the Adams family.

"Ross is the only Indian and the only Oklahoma personality to be included," Moulton said. "Ross bitterly opposed the 1835 treaty signed by Major Ridge, Stand Watie and Elias Boudinot acquiescing to Cherokee removal from Georgia to Oklahoma. Moulton contends the treaty was illegal."

"There has been extensive research and publication from the Ridge-Watie-Boudinot chapter in Cherokee history, but it is remarkable that Ross, chief of one of the foremost Indian tribes for nearly half a century, has not received the attention he deserves," Moulton said.

He is quick to defend Ross against accusations that he was a party to the murders of Ridge, Watie and Boudinot by Ross adherents.

"There is absolutely no evidence to suggest that Ross took part in or even knew of this bloody part for revenge," he said. "On the contrary, everything I have seen points to the conclusion that those who plotted the murders took great care to keep the plan from Ross until it had been carried out."

Moulton, formerly of Tulsa, holds a doctor of education degree from Oklahoma State University. He has been a member of the Southwestern faculty since 1973.

Arrest 20 Years Ago Led To Black Struggle

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Twenty years ago a black woman named Rosa Parks boarded a bus and, in obvious violation of state law, refused to give up her seat to a white. She was arrested. Other blacks had been arrested for similar violations in the past, but the arrest of Mrs. Parks, a 48-year-old seamstress, on Dec. 1, 1955, led to the Montgomery bus boycott, considered the first major mass action of the Southern struggle for civil rights.

For 382 days blacks refused to ride the buses. The boycott propelled a young minister named Martin Luther King Jr. to national attention and ended with victory as the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that segregation on the buses was unconstitutional. "I don't really know why I refused to move," Mrs. Parks said later. "There was no plan at all. I was just tired from shopping. My feet hurt." The boycott began four days after her arrest, on Monday, Dec. 5. King, who would rise to international fame and win the Nobel Peace Prize before being shot to death 13 years later in a Memphis motel, was then a 26-year-old minister almost unknown outside of his own church.

The black community, alerted by handbills, got a sampling of King's speaking ability at the first meeting to organize the boycott. He told of Mrs. Parks' arrest and listed the injustices of the bus company. Then, with "amens" echoing through the church, he said: "But there comes a time when people get tired. We are here this evening to say to those who have mistreated us so long that we are tired—tired of being segregated and humiliated, tired of being kicked about by the brutal feet of oppression. We have no alternative but to protest."

Initial demands of the boycott now seem modest. Blacks did not ask for an end to segregation on the buses, just for a "first come-first served" policy, with blacks filling the bus from the back as before and not required to move if the bus filled and more whites boarded. They also asked for more politeness from the drivers and that some blacks be hired as drivers. But whites reacted angrily. Efforts to negotiate broke down, largely due to fears that victory would lead blacks to seek further concessions. Homes and churches were bombed and some employers threatened blacks with firing if they joined the boycott.

King and 88 members of the Montgomery Improvement Association, which organized and led the boycott, were arrested and convicted on charges of violating the state's antiboycott law. But the boycott continued.

Reporters from around the globe converged on Montgomery, and stories of individual action and courage began to appear.

"Jump in, grandmother," a bus driver was quoted as saying to an elderly black woman. "You don't need to walk." "I'm not walking for myself," she replied. "I'm walking for my children and my grandchildren." King's home was bombed on the night of Jan. 30, but no one was injured. An angry black crowd gathered at the home, some brandishing weapons, but were dispersed by King.

"Don't get panicky. Don't do anything at all. Don't get your weapons. He who lives by the sword will perish by the sword," he said from the shambles of his front porch. "We want to love our enemies. We must love our white brothers no matter what they do to us."

Mrs. Parks had appealed her conviction and $10 fine but the appeal moved slowly in the state courts. Then the blacks filed a suit in federal court seeking to have the state and local laws requiring segregation on buses declared unconstitutional.

A three-judge panel ruled that it was unconstitutional, and on Nov. 13, 1956, the U.S. Supreme Court affirmed that decision. On Dec. 21, after official notice of the decision had finally reached Montgomery, King and Ralph Abernathy, another young minister who had led the boycott, proudly boarded a bus and sat in the front. The boycott was over.

Tired Shopper Started Boycott

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Rosa Parks was tired, she explained later. So when she was ordered to stand up to allow a white to sit down on the bus, she refused—and was promptly arrested.

Mrs. Parks, a 48-year-old black seamstress, was not the first black to defy the state law requiring segregation on buses. But her refusal to stand up on Dec. 1, 1955, set off the Montgomery bus boycott.

It was the first major mass protest of the southern civil rights movement. Civil rights leaders from around the country will meet in Montgomery this week to commemorate the 20th anniversary of the boycott, which led to a U.S. Supreme Court ruling banning segregation on buses and brought national attention to a 26-year-old minister named Martin Luther King Jr.

The boycott lasted 382 days and made Montgomery, in the words of the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, then a local minister and now King's successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, "not only the cradle of the confederacy, but also the cradle of freedom, justice, and equality."

"I don't really know why I refused to move," Mrs. Parks said later. "There was no plan at all. I was just tired from shopping. My feet hurt."

King, who would go on to win the Nobel Peace Prize, was "just a happy-go-lucky young minister" virtually unknown outside his own church when

E.D. Nixon, a longtime local black leader, picked him to lead the boycott. Nixon chose him, he recalled, "because I had heard him talk."

The initial demands of the boycott now seem modest. The blacks did not ask for an end to segregation on the buses—just for a "first come-first served" policy, with blacks sitting in the back of the bus but not required to move if the bus filled and more whites boarded.

They also asked for more politeness from drivers and that some blacks be hired as drivers. The boycott was effective. Two-thirds of the bus drivers were laid off and whites denounced the boycott leaders. Homes and churches were bombed.

King and 88 members of the Montgomery Improvement Association, which organized and led the boycott, were arrested and convicted on charges of violating the state's antiboycott law.

But the boycott continued. Mrs. Parks had appealed her conviction and $10 fine. But as the appeals dragged out, the blacks settled on a different course. They filed suit in federal court to have the state's bus segregation laws declared unconstitutional.

A three-judge court agreed, and on Nov. 13, 1956, the U.S. Supreme Court affirmed that decision.

On Dec. 21, after official notice of the decision had finally reached Montgomery, King, Abernathy and Nixon climbed on a bus and sat in the front. The boycott was over.

Chaffee To Close Before Yule

FT. CHAFFEE, Ark. (UPI) — Federal officials are planning to close down the Ft. Chaffee refugee camp by Dec. 20 even though more than 6,000 Vietnamese remain at the facility.

"Unless something I haven't imagined happens, I don't see how we can miss," Donald MacDonald, senior civil coordinator, said Sunday.

An average of 300 refugees must leave Chaffee daily for the camp to close Dec. 20. During July, the best month for outprocessing during the six months of the camp's existence, an average of 272 refugees left Chaffee daily.

None of the 6,028 refugees at Chaffee Sunday acquired sponsors, which is required before a Vietnamese refugee can depart. But MacDonald said 375 were expected to leave to join sponsors today, 244 Tuesday and 139 Wednesday. "Those were the projections, as of Saturday," he said. "The projections are generally underestimated. Generally more people leave daily than are projected to. I think we will do 900 the first three days of this week."

MacDonald said he hoped to have all refugees remaining in the camp linked with sponsors by Dec. 10, and spend the last 10 days only on outprocessing refugees. There are 121 former Cambodian military officers who have asked to be returned to Cambodia and 14 Vietnamese who have requested repatriation to their homeland.

The Cambodians were in the United States for military training when their government fell. MacDonald said only three of the Vietnamese repatriates were refusing to accept sponsors.

Gov Lease May Get Hard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Interior Department is about to propose new rules that would make it harder for someone to get an oil or gas lease from the government and then sit on it.

Critics in and out of Congress recently have charged some oil companies are "speculatively withholding" production of known reserves on federal leases, particularly the production of natural gas, in hopes of future higher prices.

The charges deal mostly with gas because interstate gas prices are regulated by the Federal Power Commission. Oil from newly-drilled wells is free of controls.

That some companies are not vigorous enough in drilling to see what oil or gas exists on the leases they have obtained.

Under existing federal regulations, federal lease holders have five years to start drilling. But an Interior Department spokesman said extensions often have been granted to producers failing to meet that five-year deadline.

"There was not so much pressure for quick action on leases until the oil embargo," the spokesman said. "Now, domestic production is much more important. It became obvious that we were going to have to get these guys to produce or get off."

Interior is now drawing up new regulations to require "demonstrated physical activity" on a lease as a justification for any extension of the five-year deadline, the spokesman said. The new rules, he said, should cut down on extensions or nudge lease holders into more diligent drilling activity.

Action already has been taken by Interior officials to deal with "shut in" wells—those that are able to produce but have been temporarily capped.

The department adopted new procedures this year requiring a prompt report from each producer who shut-in a well.

Using those reports, Interior follows up with inspections and computer analyses to see if the well capping was justified.

Arms Experts Point To Ambiguities by Soviet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Arms control experts say there have been some "ambiguities" but no outright violations by the Soviet Union in executing the SALT I strategic arms agreement of 1972.

But they say if the administration opens up the record to prove that the Russians have not cheated it will itself violate a key clause protecting the confidentiality of the U.S.-Soviet Standing Consultative Commission.

"We are in a no-win situation trying to counter these charges of violations," officials said in a background interview at the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

The administration has been under pressure from private arms control groups and university disarmament specialists to lay out the record in public. A dead lock exists over a House committee's insistence on seeing a memo in which former defense secretary James A. Schelesinger reportedly listed Russian violations and suggested a National Security Council meeting to consider them.

But officials said the United States agreed to keep confidential the transactions of the consultative commission—the joint body where possible infractions regularly are discussed—and this prevents the government from laying bare all the facts.

To do so, they said, also would compromise key elements of the CIA's intelligence gathering and verification methods for monitoring the SALT accord.

If the confidentiality of the consultative commission is breached by constant demands for details about possible infractions, the United States could lose a valuable U.S.-Soviet mechanism, the officials said.

In recent months Adm. Elmo Zumwalt, retired Chief of Naval Operations, former Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, Colin S. Gray, associate director of the International Institute for Strategic Studies in London, and the usually well-informed aerospace journal Aviation Week and Space Technology, among others, have raised questions about Soviet good faith in living up to the SALT-I accord.

U.S. officials acknowledge that the Soviet Union has disregarded some of the seven "Unilateral Statements" which Kissinger drew up during the SALT negotiations. But they point out that these do not constitute part of the formal accord.

Children Rate TV Above Dad

FARMVILLE, Va. (UPI) — Some Virginia youngsters prefer the company of a television set to their fathers.

Dr. Jung Bay Ra, a Longwood College professor, posed the question, "Which do you like better, TV or Daddy?" to a group of children aged four to six in the Farmville area.

Forty-four per cent favored television. "TV is a formidable rival to a father in earning his child's affection," Dr. Ra said. "A child's assessment of the value of TV is a strong as his assessment of the value of his father."

The study, conducted over a two-year period, found that children with working mothers were somewhat more prone to "like Mommy better than TV" than those whose mothers did not work.

Cancer Society Raises $107 Million Last Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Cancer Society reported Saturday it raised a record $107 million last year to fight cancer—but the toll from the dread disease continues to rise.

Donations were up some $10 million over the previous year. The society's 76 edition of Cancer Facts and Figures estimated an annual one per cent rise in cancer deaths. But a recent report from the National Center for Health Statistics shows a 5.2 per cent increase in cancer deaths during the first seven months of this year.

Among statisticians at the National Center and the Society there is concern and puzzlement over the apparent big upswing in cancer deaths.

There is some corroboration of the trend, however, from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company which reports a six per cent jump in cancer deaths among policy holders the first half of this year—compared with the same period in 1974.

"Facts and Figures" was prepared before the latest report on cancer death trends from the National Center. A Cancer Society spokesman said statisticians are baffled and will try to probe the meaning of the apparent increase—"if it is valid"—in the weeks ahead.

The Cancer Society's report said one million Americans will be under care for cancer in 1976 and some 370,000 will die of cancer.

The Society's statisticians say cancer deaths would be leveling off, or even going down if there was no lung cancer.

Lung cancer will take more than 200,000 men's lives in 1976—a new record for one year. The toll among women is going up, too. It jumped 173 per cent in 20 years.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon
TUESDAY, DEC. 2
Your birthday today: Ushers in a year of challenge. Try to perform routines in a new way. Your experience may be in unfamiliar places learning fresh skills. Relationships have a touch of glamour and disillusionment, and are rather unstable all year. Today's natives are energetic, literal-minded, headstrong, freedom-loving and capable of high earnings.
Aries [March 21-April 19]: What at first appears difficult turns out to be fortunate and worth doing. Technical terms are easily misconstrued; get a second opinion on any problem requiring professional advice.
Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Confusion is present in all activity. Take advantage of it if you can, but be sure to verify facts or any measurements. Many projects begin before people and materials are ready or available.
Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Peculiar conditions cause anxiety unless you're set for them. Select your contacts to avoid repetition. Communicate directly, but don't belabor the point.
Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Don't waste words in self-praise; just do the most efficient job you can. Taking careful notes and double-checking figures is essential. Don't assume anything about new work.
Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Your imagination is vivid, lively and effective but not practical enough. Personal programs are subject to revision, and sudden but favorable quirks of circumstance.

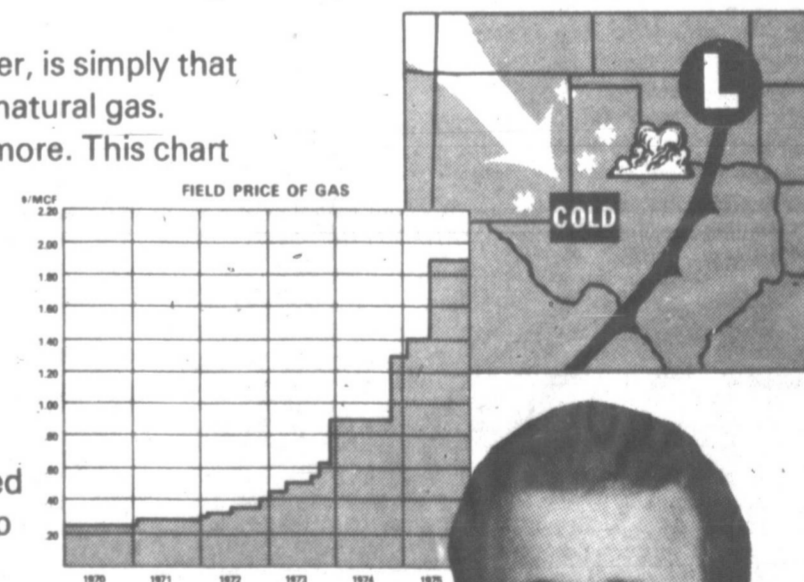

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Offer thanks where due but don't expect any. Overstress on obligations or debts defeats your purpose. Let others find out for themselves; don't try to teach them through your experience.
Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: You're forced to make decisions on sketchy information. Do the best you can with the best counsel available. Cultural pursuits, provide memorable incidents.
Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Money flows in and out and challenges you to secure a fair share of any increase. New proposals are complicated and open to varying interpretations. Examine the details.
Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Plans can be presented in a way that gain special favor from powerful people. Be wary of schemes offering shortcuts or quick profits. Watch what you say and avert misunderstandings.
Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: You have much sorting and classifying to do. Many ideas are unrealistic now. Shelve them until a more favorable time. Meet new people and examine unfamiliar reactions among old friends.
Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Self-improvement comes naturally as you negotiate shifting tides in today's events. It's an important turning point; you make subtle changes of direction.
Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Cautious diligence gets you past complex, hard-to-judge matters. Keep to your original schedule. Experiments yield unexpected repercussions.

"I'd rather explain higher gas bills than why you don't have gas."

Your natural gas bill is higher. And, you have every right to know why.

One reason is lower temperatures brought on by winter.

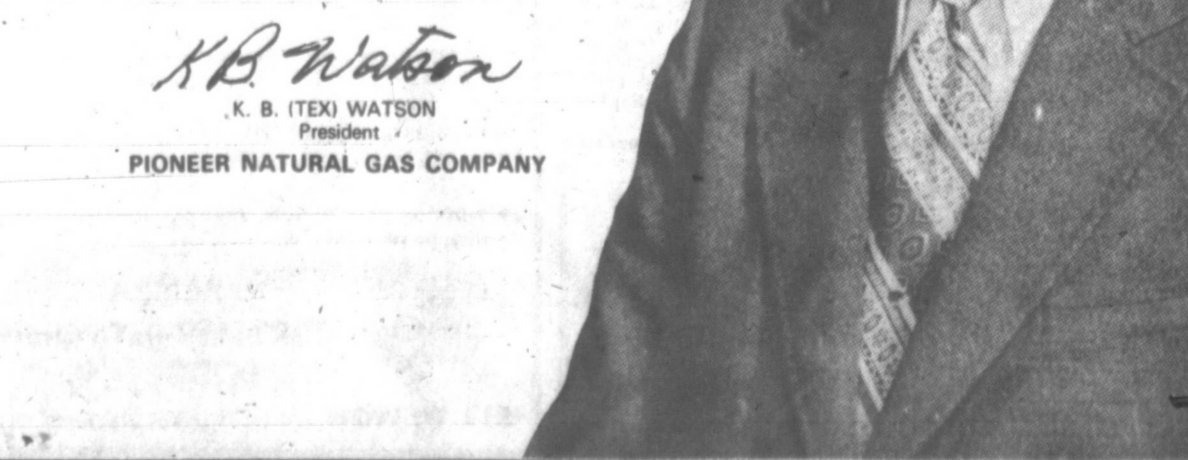

The main reason, however, is simply that you are paying more for natural gas. Because we are paying more. This chart shows how much:

This increase hurts both you and Pioneer. It adds to your bill and to our cost... a cost for which Pioneer is not entirely compensated. It is passed through without mark-up or additional charges.

Why does gas cost more? Competition... particularly from petrochemical and other industries. The competition for gas has never been so fierce.

We will have to pay more for gas than in the past. But by working together, and without outside interference, you'll have the gas you need today and in the future.
