Golfer, 82, aces holes-in-one

Evelyn Tucci, an 82-year-old who usually shoots in the low 100s, recently sank two holes-in-one during one round of golf. "I prayed that before I died, I'd get a hole-in-one," Tucci said. Her wishes were answered twofold at the Crystal Lake Country Club in Pompano Beach, Fla., when Tucci, a 32-handicap, joined friend Carin West in a tournament.

"I wouldn't believe it 'til I saw it," Tucci said. "Then one of the other players shouted to me 'Evelyn, come over here and see. It's in the cup.'"

Tucci and West won the tournament with a handicapped score of 55.

State may squeeze strippers

The Arkansas Legislature has been considering two bills that would give exotic dancers less wiggle room.

One proposal would close establishments at midnight if nude dancing is performed. It would restrict dancers to the stage, no closer than 15 feet from patrons, and would ban tips. No one under 21 would be allowed to work as a dancer.

The other bill would redefine the offense of public sexual indecency to include "an act of nudity." It defines nudity as, among other things, showing of private parts of the body with less than a fully opaque covering in premises open to the public. It would exempt women who breast-feed infants.

State Sen. Brenda Gullett said the bills were intended to tighten the regulations of exotic dance venues, but not force them to close.

"This was such an issue in our community, and we had to work really hard to do something to make this a place that was really acceptable without squelching their right to be there," Gullett said.

Board votes to increase nursing-home rates

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

The Muleshoe Area Hospital District board of directors voted 3-0 Thursday night to increase room rates in the Muleshoe Area Healthcare Center—the first such increase in three years.

Board member Paul Wilbanks said before the vote that the timing "couldn't be worse" because the public's mood about skyrocketing natural gas prices.

Others at the meeting pointed out that gas prices affect the nursing home, too, and that would be part of the justification for the rate increase.

Jim Bone, administrator of the hospital district, said a natural gas bill that was about $2,800 in December 1999 increased to more than $4,900 last December and more than $10,000 in January.

The increases vary from $3 per month for some private-pay patients in semi-private rooms to $57.50 per month for those in private rooms with intensive nursing care.

According to figures presented at the meeting, the lower end of the new rates will still be cheaper than the average per-day costs around the region — $78 per day for a semi-private room and $94.50 per day for a private room.

Basically, the new Muleshoe rates set rates with light nursing care at $70 per day for a semi-private room and $80 for a private room; with intermediate nursing care at $80 per day for a semi-private room and $90 for a private room; and with intensive nursing care at $120 per day for a semi-private room and $130 for a private room.

Board member Arline Phelps made the motion to go ahead and adopt the new rates. Wilbanks seconded.

Board member L.T. Johnson also voted in favor of the proposal.

Boards pass May 5 vote resolutions

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

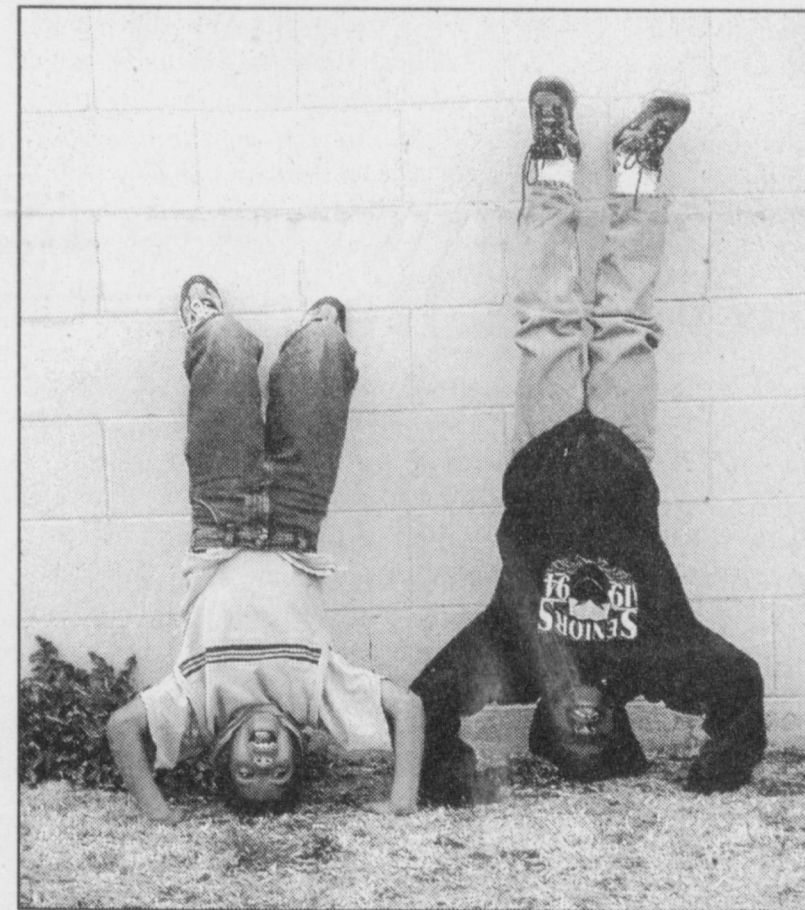

Area school boards and the Muleshoe Area Hospital District board have each passed their own resolutions setting May 5 elections, which have now been called for in the Muleshoe, Three Way and Lazbuddie school districts as well as the hospital district.

Seats up for re-election on the hospital board are the ones held by Tim Campbell and Arline Phelps.

In Lazbuddie, the board seats held by Tommy St. Clair and Rick Seaton will be voted on, while at Three Way the positions are held by Murry Davis and Dan Simpson.

As reported earlier, the Muleshoe School Board seats up for re-election are the at-large positions held by David Tipps and Bruce Barrett.

Perspective candidates may pick up applications through 5 p.m. March 21 at the administration office of the entity involved. (In the case of the Muleshoe School Board, applications will be available at Muleshoe Area Medical Center during the schools' spring break.) Write-in candidates must file between March 6 and 5 p.m. March 26.

Mules end season with Cooper loss

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

The Muleshoe Mules ended their basketball season Thursday night with a 75-67 loss to Lubbock Cooper's Pirates. The game was rescheduled from Tuesday because of the Lady Mules' playoff game that night.

Stephan Shelburne was moved to varsity for this final outing, both to play with his senior brother, Jeff, and to replace Lincoln Riley, who was on a college visit.

The Shelburne-to-Shelburne connection came together on the Mules' first offensive possession, with Stephan on the right wing and Jeff on the blocks. The Mules moved the ball around the perimeter to Stephan Shelburne; he passed to his brother posting up on the blocks, who spun and put up a 6-foot, left-handed baby hook shot for the first two points of the game.

Cooper put up the next three buckets before the younger Shelburne nailed a three-pointer from the corner, and on the next possession connected with his big brother for two points and a 7-6 lead with five minutes to go in the first quarter.

Darrell Lewis grabbed a missed Cooper shot and stole a glance at the clock. Seeing less than four seconds remaining in the period, Lewis drove to just past midcourt and launched a running shot for three points just prior to the buzzer, tying the score at 15.

Second-chance opportunities helped Cooper open a 10-point lead by the middle of the second period. Jeff Shelburne turned in the paint for two points and was fouled. He completed the three-point play to trim the Pirate lead to seven. Dan Williams found the range from behind the three-point arc and the elder Shelburne scored four points in the paint to cut the Cooper lead to 35-30 at intermission.

In the third quarter, Jeff Shelburne again scored four buckets in the paint, including a textbook pick-and-roll with Kyle Atwood. D.J. Domínguez made back-to-back three-pointers and dropped in a 10-foot jumper to cut the Cooper lead to 51-48 as the third-quarter ended.

Sonny Chávez's final quarter of high school basketball was one to be remembered. He made two free throws and drove the lane early in the period to keep the Mules close, but Cooper notched 11 of 12 free throws to hang Joey Tucker sails through the air during the Mules' game against Lubbock Cooper on Jan. 26, in which he scored four points including a three. Muleshoe lost its last contest of the season to the Pirates 45-30 Thursday in a game that was rescheduled because the Lady Mule playoff game Tuesday night. Jeff Shelburne, whose brother Stephan moved up from the junior varsity to play with him in his last game, led Muleshoe in both Cooper games with 21 points each time.

Jordan Gray tossed in six points for Three Way, and rebounders were Furgeson with nine, Gray with eight, Rodríguez with six, and Soliz and Victor Baeza three each.

"It's always good to end a season with a win, and this was a good one against Amherst," Eagles coach Royce Winnett said.

"Our guys played great team defense and provided a thrilling game for the fans. It is sad that this is the last high school game for our seniors, but we have several players coming back for next year." Spade 51 Three Way 47 Spade edged Three Way 51-47 on Feb. 2 despite a 23-point performance by the Eagles' Robert Rodríguez.

Ag's house members examine farm policy options

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL
WASHINGTON, D.C. — As House Agriculture Committee members prepare to embark upon the process of building consensus in future farm policy, they convened Wednesday to examine the final report of the Commission on 21st Century Production Agriculture. The commission was created by the Ag Committee in the 1996 farm bill to review the directions for future farm policy.

As directed by the 1996 bill, the commission was required to do a comprehensive review of the status of agriculture, taking into account economic risks, food security, trade, international competitiveness of United States production, farmland values, producer incomes and regulatory and tax relief for farmers and ranchers.

The commission's final report was also to contain a comprehensive review of the future of production agriculture in the United States.

The report contains suggestions and recommendations regarding the appropriate future role of the federal government in support of production agriculture. The 130-page report is posted on the Agriculture Committee's website, www.agriculture.house.gov specifically at <http://www.agriculture.house.gov/hearings/testimony.htm>.

Before questioning commission members, House Agriculture Committee Chairman Larry Combest (R-Texas) noted the serious problems facing the agricultural sector today.

"In addition to persistent low commodity prices, energy costs have skyrocketed, which in turn has caused fertilizer and other input costs to jump dramatically. These factors, on top of the normal production risks inherent to farming, are making it more and more difficult for farmers to see how they can continue on," said Combest. "Cash flows are tighter than ever before, which causes further ripples not just in the world of ag credit, but also with input suppliers and throughout the fabric of rural America. America's farmers and ranchers will be looking to us to not only assist them in coping with the challenges that they are facing, but also to make some meaningful improvements to the farm safety net in order to bring some stability to their livelihoods. I think that the report we are reviewing today presents us with a good opportunity to begin an earnest effort in this Committee to build consensus on how best to address all the challenges facing agriculture today, and to craft a better farm policy for the future."

The committee's ranking member,

Charlie Stenholm, (D-Texas) also commented.

"Today's forum is an excellent way to begin the process of recognizing the expectations of producers and their bankers — that Congress will continue to provide annual assistance to producers for their income and crop losses on the order of that received this past year. This hearing process is the first step in legitimizing our defacto baseline that lies outside the formal congressional budget process," Stenholm said.

"This baseline is real none-

Cooper Pirates down JV Mules 45-30

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

The junior varsity Mules traveled to Lubbock Cooper on Thursday night, but could not mount enough offense to stay with the Pirates. Cooper outscored Muleshoe 35-21 in the three quarters and then hung on in the final frame to defeat Muleshoe 45-30.

Chance Turney accounted for the Mules' first-quarter scoring with a free throw. In the second period, the Mules mounted more of an attack, with Eric Villa and Matt Luna both making three-pointers and Brennan Broyles dropping in four points.

Turney added two more free throws to complete the Mules' first half.

Luna nailed a second three in the third frame, and Broyles scored four points in the paint and dropped in a freebie to end the quarter.

Broyles started the fourth-quarter scoring with two from the elbow.

A.J. Flores picked the Cooper point guard's pocket, took the ball to the hoop and was fouled shooting.

He made both tosses from the charity stripe and Luis Sánchez added a pair of free throws to end the season for the Mules.

Broyles led the scoring for the Mules with 13 points. Luna added seven, Villa and Turney three each, and Jordan Dale and Sánchez had two each.

In Life and in Page Proofs, Errors Always Slip In

Would you believe it? I just found another mistake!

I really don't like proofreading. I've tried everything, I suppose, to make it more fun.

I've tried proofreading with coffee (no, not pouring the coffee over the pages; you know what I mean).

I've tried proofreading with English-style hot tea.

I've tried proofreading on a cold day in front of a warm fire.

And all of those things may help.

again, and off to press it goes!

Three times. Two proofreaders. Two sets of eyeballs pass over every jot and tittle of material, every dash, colon, period, and apostrophe, three times!

Time and again, I'm tempted to rush on past the last pass straight to the press. And I was tempted again today. But I forced myself to read the proofs one more time, and guess what? Just like always, I found one more mistake. "Rom" instead of "Romans."

Focus On Faith
Curtis Shelburne

But it's still just plain work.

You see, I have ample opportunities in my work to make public mistakes that get printed and copied and passed out for all to see.

Oh, I make plenty of mistakes in my sermons, I'm sure. But I'm talking about mistakes in church newsletters, bulletins, letters, reports, etc. All preachers have way too many opportunities of just this sort for many and varied verbal slip-ups. And add to my own proofreading plate this newspaper column.

But my biggest proofreading headache comes in the form of The Christian Appeal monthly devotional magazine my brother Gene and I have edited together for lots of years.

Putting the issues together — theme development, layout, content, etc. — are my tasks. Once the proofs are ready, I proofread one set, Gene proofreads another. I make corrections and proofread yet

(By the way, I love our new banners in the junior high gym. Should I mention that one is missing a period? No, I probably shouldn't. They really do look great!)

This forced attention to detail, well, I'm not sure if it's just necessary, a necessary evil, or a curse.

I'm kind of excited. I've got a book coming out, believe it or not, in late March. That's the good news. The bad news is that this week or next, I'll be proofreading about 250 pages. Then before long the book will be released, and I'll be happy about that. And then one day, years from now, I'll be sitting in front of the fire with a cup of Earl Grey tea in my hand and beautiful snowflakes gently falling outside the window. Nat King Cole's velvet voice will be singing on CD in the background. A beautiful scene. I'll open a copy of my book just to take a quick nostalgic glance, and there, glaring out at me on page 187, paragraph 7, line 5, will be a terrible typo—something on the order of htis for this. Count on it.

I'm glad Jesus lived a life without even the smallest moral typo so that the bloopers that slip through my life don't count against em. I mean me.

HERITAGE FOUNDATION

The Muleshoe Heritage Foundation board met Feb. 12 at the Muleshoe depot.

President Wells Hall conducted the business meeting, and there was a treasurer's report by Kristy Price.

Vivian White passed out letters for each board member to sign addressed to state Sen. Teel Bivins requesting that the Tour de Muleshoe bike ride be allowed to use farm-to-market roads. Senate Bill 238, which is pending before the Legislature, would stop bicyclists from riding on farm-to-market roads that do not have shoulders.

This would force the bicycles to travel the main highways, which have much heavier motorized traffic. It also was decided to send letters to Rep. Pete Laney, speaker of the Texas House.

Hall reported that a committee consisting of himself, Chuck Smith and Charles Flowers met with the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and other civic leaders to discuss a mule festival held in conjunction with the Tour de Muleshoe. Plans are still being discussed, and no action has been taken.

It was decided to go ahead and make plans for the Tour de Muleshoe, and the president appointed committees. The tour will be held this year on June 16 in order to avoid conflict with other bike rides.

Committees appointed included finance, Jean Allison and Vivian White; marketing, Wells Hall; T-shirts, Charles Flowers; water bottles, Chuck Smith; rest stops, Dan Throckmorton; door prizes, Kristy Price; Vivian White will order the food as well as check on the PA system and the stage.

Other details were discussed and final plans will be made at the next regular meeting. Lonnie Adrian came later to the meeting and informed the board members that the bike routes will be the same as last year. He noted that there should be fewer conflicts this year by changing the date to June 16, and he said there will be an advertisement in Biker's Club magazine.

Hall brought up the idea of having an Easter egg hunt at the heritage center this year, and members decided to try it. This hunt will be held at 10 a.m. April 14, the Saturday before Easter.

Repairs to the Janes ranch house and the Heritage Thrift Shop were discussed. White and Ladene Spears reported that the roof on the back part of the thrift shop is leaking and causing a great deal of damage. The main roof was repaired earlier by George Martinez, so members voted to have him also repair the part of the roof not done earlier. The Student-Community Action Club donated money to be used for repairs on the Janes house porch.

Peggie Bruton, the center's hostess, will call roofers, and bids will be reviewed by Hall.

Throckmorton reported that former Board President Jim Allison and former Muleshoe school superintendent Bill Moore have begun repairs on the wooden signs at the center.

Board members voted to buy a new U.S. flag and also a Texas flag for the center's flagpole.

Members examined a seal from the old Liberty School that was donated by J.C. and Zona Gatewood. Jack Hicks showed an old wire stretcher he had repaired.

Board members present for the meeting were Hall, Throckmorton, Hicks, Price, Jean Allison, Spears, Flowers and White.

Dear Valued Customer,
Just a note to inform you that Shafer Nursery has purchased King Spraying. Over two years ago when we sold that part of our business to Kevin, we had an agreement that if he ever decided to sell, we would have the first option to purchase the spraying service back. As you may be aware Kevin has decided to pursue other interests, and we have gladly accepted the opportunity to purchase back the spraying service. We are confident that we can continue the fine lawn service as it will compliment our nursery, making us again, your full service nursery. We invite you to stop by our nursery to visit and remind you that we have trees, shrubs, and do landscape installation, irrigation installation and repair.
