

Ford proposes income tax cut

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today proposed a $10 billion personal income tax cut along with corporate tax reductions and an increase in personal Social Security taxes. The package is nearly a carbon copy of tax cut proposals Congress rejected last year. Like last year's package, the new proposal includes $2.5 billion in corporate tax reductions. It also calls for a $5.1 billion increase in personal Social Security taxes over a two-year period. Last year's proposal called for a $1.65 billion increase in personal Social Security taxes.

The administration proposal last year was linked to compensating cuts in spending. But this time, Ford's proposal was initially unclear on whether he would seek compensating spending cuts. Ford noted in a message to Congress that he will be sending up his spending proposals with his budget later this month.

Ford estimated his tax proposals would save $227-a-year for a family of four with an income of $15,000. The Democratic controlled Congress is expected to await the economic stimulus plan of President-elect Carter rather than act on Ford's proposal.

Carter has indicated his program would focus on job creation. Ford's tax proposals were targeted at what the President called middle-income tax payers.

"The tax reductions of 1975 and 1976 focused tax relief on the lower income taxpayer,"

Ford said. "However, it is high time to focus substantial tax relief on middle-income taxpayers."

The package includes a proposal to increase the individual income tax exemption from the present $750 to $1,000, said L. William Seidman, the President's economic adviser.

Ford's proposed tax saving for individuals would be effective with the current year. It would be offset to some degree by increases in Social Security taxes effective next Jan. 1.

The Social Security tax rate for individuals currently is 5.85 per cent of income up to about $16,000. Under the Ford proposal, that rate would rise to 6.6 per cent by Jan. 1, 1980, although two-tenths of a per cent of that increase is already mandated by law.

The impact of the Social Security increases on a family of four with an income of $15,000, and only one wage earner in the family, would be about $112 in additional taxes in 1980 compared to this year.

Ford is proposing the tax cut package not as an additional stimulus to the economy, Seidman said. The main purpose is to cut down on government spending and control and to give the individual a larger say in the use of federal tax dollars.

Ford's campaign proposals also included tax revisions regarding estate taxes in an effort to make it easier to keep farms and small businesses in the family. He has proposed an increase in the estate tax exemption from $60,000, a level established in 1942, to $150,000.

Football or not?

By PAUL SIMS
Pampa News Staff

CANYON — For sale or rent, one football stadium, capacity 20,000.

For hire: head football coach and athletic director, six years collegiate experience.

The want-ads, although fantasy, may be indicative of action taken by the West Texas State University Board of Regents in a meeting to discuss financial problems of the school's athletic department Thursday at the WTSU Student Activities Center.

The meeting, scheduled for 10 a.m., originally was to be held Jan. 18 but reportedly was moved to Thursday to give student athletes the "chance to make changes," according to Dr. Lloyd Watkins, university president.

"They ought to have the opportunity to do it before the second semester is under way... they deserve to know about it as soon as they can, if changes occur."

Changes might include the elimination of football at WTSU or the curtailing of the overall athletic program, which is expected to face a deficit of around $300,000 for the 1977-78 fiscal year.

The deficit probably would occur if a rider attached to an appropriations bill by the Legislative Budget Board is passed. The rider would end the payment of coaches' salaries out of state-supplied instructional funds if a full-time teaching load requirement isn't met.

All of West Texas State's coaches but three — Bob Kitchens (track), David Kent (tennis) and Ted Layne (trainer) — receive three-fourths of their yearly salaries from instructional funds and approximately 25 per cent from athletic funds (ticket sales, student fees, etc.).

If football is eliminated, it would spell the end of Gene Mayfield's tenure as head coach and athletic director. Mayfield, a successful high school coach at Borger and Odessa, has been under fire recently for a 24-39-2 won-lost record over six seasons.

Mayfield, although "a little bit concerned" about what action the regents will take Thursday, said he understands why the meeting date was changed.

"It would give the football players on scholarship a chance to transfer prior to the start of spring semester. I guess they'd have a little better opportunity if they could be at another school by the start of spring practice."

The WTSU athletic director blames a refusal to face the school's problems earlier for the current financial plight.

"I think it should have been handled a lot differently," Mayfield said. "I think long-range plans should have been made a long time ago, much as you do with any business — you decide what your problems are, what you need to do and then you embark on a program."

"I think we'd be better off to stop and look the thing over and see what we can do in the future. My personal feeling is football shouldn't be dropped. We might have to drop back and play in Division II, but I think dropping football would have a rather detrimental effect on the university."

Four regents — Jack Shelton of Amarillo, James Lovell of Dumas, Wallace Harrell of Gonzales and T.L. Roach of Amarillo — make up an ad-hoc committee which is meeting with various interest groups and lawmakers today and Wednesday prior to making a decision on Thursday.

The committee may consider Mayfield's proposal to drop down to Division II but it is likely a stronger action will be taken. A statement released Dec. 20 by the regents read:

"In light of the fact that West Texas State University may be facing a deficit in the athletic department for the school year 1977-78 in the approximate sum of $300,000, and because the Board of Regents does not have a solution that would allow the present athletic program to be continued, and in view of the fact that West Texas State must, in all probability, eliminate the football program or drastically reduce the overall athletic program, and because a decision on whether or not West Texas State University will have any football program might settle the question of the athletic administration."

"Now, therefore, be it resolved that the chairman of the Board of Regents (Shelton) appoint a committee to meet, investigate and recommend back to the Board of Regents by the 18th day of January, 1977, the course of action that would cause the least amount of harm to West Texas State University, its students, athletes, and coaches."

The ad-hoc committee met with the WTSU Buffalo Club this morning at the Student Activities Center. It will meet with Mayfield and the faculty athletic committee, headed by Jack Bullock (chairman), at 2 p.m. and with four state lawmakers — Senator Max Sherman, and Representatives Danny Hill and Bob Simpson of Amarillo and Phil Cates of Shamrock — at 4 p.m.

Wednesday, the four regents will meet with the Ex-lettermen's Association, the Cager Club, the Touchdown Club, the Ex-students Association and some area bank presidents.

"The purpose of the meeting is to gain input from these various groups as to solutions to the current financial problem," Shelton said.

Sen. Sherman told The News this morning he did not know the exact reason for the afternoon meeting.

"I was just invited to come," Sherman said. "My guess is they would like to know what we think will happen with this rider attached to the appropriations bill by the budget board."

Sherman favors the rider, even though it might result in the end of football in some of the state's colleges and universities.

"I think money appropriated for education and teaching should be used for that purpose. I think an athletic department should be handled in other places, like student fees and ticket fees."

"I believe very strongly in athletics myself, but if you're going to appropriate money for athletics you need to call it what it is — you shouldn't do it under the guise of teaching."

Sherman said the current situation allowing for the payment of coaches' salaries out of teaching funds is not illegal, but "this rider makes it very clear it cannot be done."

Bill Hobby, lieutenant governor and chairman of the budget board, told The News he does not consider the rider controversial, adding that he was surprised at the effect it would have on WTSU.

"You're the first person that's talked to me about it all," Hobby said.

"I certainly think it will pass, it always has passed. I can't really see how it can be controversial... if folks are to be paid out of money that's appropriated for instruction, they ought to instruct."

Sheriff Rufe Jordan, aided by Lefors city secretary Yvonne Pittman, center, played auctioneer this morning as he sold 10 tracts of land in Lefors which owners lost because of failure to pay school taxes. The sheriff, who estimated that 25 or 30 attended the sale beside the Gray County Courthouse in Pampa, said the land brought $2400. (Pampa News photo)

Israel minister denied charges, shoots himself

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — With a national election only five months away, the suicide of Housing Minister Avraham Ofer after accusations of embezzlement has hit Israel's ruling Labor party with its fifth corruption scandal in two years.

Ofer, 54, shot himself with a 22-caliber pistol Monday in his car near his Tel Aviv home, the national news agency ITIM reported. He left a note denying accusations by the weekly newspaper Haolam Hazeh that he profited illegally from government real estate purchases while he headed a government construction company.

"I did not embezzle or steal, it is all lies and fabrications," said the note, which was read on the state television service.

"All my life I only helped as best I could, and never did anyone harm. Why was I so persecuted?"

Ofer, a strong supporter of Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, was the first cabinet minister implicated in the wave of corruption charges against government officials and officials of government companies.

Others brought down by the scandals include financier Michael Tzur, former controller of foreign exchange, serving a 15-year prison sentence for fraud, bribery and illegal currency deals; Asher Yadin, a Labor party leader nominated to be governor of the Bank of Israel last fall, indicted on fraud and bribery charges; Customs Director David Peled, charged last Friday with taking bribes from a financier who committed suicide, and Zvi Rechter, chairman of a government building company who resigned last year under fire.

"People are wondering what sort of a party this is, with Yadin under arrest and Ofer a suicide... a well-placed political source commented."

Rabin resigned two weeks ago, advancing the election date five months in the belief that an earlier vote would improve his chances against the right-wing Likud bloc.

Sheriff sells Lefors land

Sheriff Rufe Jordan auctioned 10 lots of land in Lefors outside the Gray County Courthouse at 10:30 a.m. today.

The Lefors Independent School District had claimed these lots due to delinquent school taxes.

At a court hearing in October, the court placed a minimum bid on each lot. The value of the land was assessed and compared with the taxes owed. The lower of the two figures became the minimum bid.

Jim Blair, attorney for the Lefors Independent School District, the City of Lefors and Gray County, appeared at the auction with Sheriff Jordan.

The lots were sold for cash and a Sheriff's deed will be given to each purchaser on Monday.

The lots were all purchased by residents of the city of Lefors.

Bob Cole bought the first lot for the minimum bid of $223.52.

The second lot went to Jim Whitley for $300 after competitive bidding raised the minimum bid of $223.52.

The minimum bid for the third lot went uncontested to Betty Wells for $188.83. Fred Blackwell bid high for the fourth lot. It began at $160.62 and was bought for $300.

A representative of the City of Lefors took the fifth lot for $255, raising the bid from the minimum of $173.52.

—Mrs. Nettie Lee purchased the sixth lot without competition at the minimum bid of $223.52.

—The minimum bid of the seventh lot also went uncontested to I.M. Alexander for $161.73.

—David Livingston, representative of the City of Lefors bought the eighth lot for $200 after some competitive bidding that raised the minimum bid from $160.90.

—More bidding on the ninth lot took the price from the minimum bid of $173.52 up to $200 which was bid by J.W. Walls.

—The final lot began at $98.52 and sold to C.B. Hatcher for $125. According to Blair, there will be further lots for sale later.

Carter to get out of peanut business

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Confessing to "some regrets," President-elect Carter pledged today to free himself of any possible conflict of interest by turning over his prosperous peanut business to trustees who will lease or sell it.

Talking to reporters outside the headquarters office of his peanut marketing partnership operation, Carter said he felt he had to "bend over backwards" because "I don't want to have any decision I make as president have an effect on my income."

The president-elect made his comments as aides unveiled a tough ethics code for top government officials. Carter's own action in trying to build a wall between himself and the family business was in line with the measures he is requiring of others.

"It was a hard decision for me to make," Carter said, adding, "I don't have any regrets about it." After a pause he continued, "There are some regrets." He said he plans to remove himself so completely from the Carter's Warehouse partnership, which is the basis of the family fortune, that he will instruct its trustees "not to even inform me" if they sell the business.

At the same time, Carter expressed concern about the minority interests in the partnership of his brother Billy and mother, Miss Lillian. But he said he felt certain the trustees would act in a way that would not "upset their lives too much."

The ethics code requires presidential nominees, starting with Cabinet members, to divest themselves of any holdings that could conflict with their government duties and to submit detailed statements of their personal wealth.

In addition, for the first time, they must sign a pledge to remain in government for their full appointed term, unless dismissed sooner. They also must agree that for two years after leaving government they will avoid any private job that would cause them to deal with their old departments or agencies on matters that concerned them as federal officials.

"It is the objective of the new administration to avoid any conflict which could in any way influence any government officer except in the even interest of all the people," said the written guidelines.

Another announcement said Carter's interest in Carter Farms Inc., which consists of agricultural real estate in this area, and Carter's Warehouse, a partnership that buys peanuts from area farmers for subsequent marketing, will be transferred to a special trust.

"It was not immediately clear what would happen to $25,781 in common stocks owned by Carter's wife, Rosalynn. A Carter aide had said last September that Carter would sell his stock holdings if elected.

Carter's interest in Carter Farms was valued at $348,444 on Dec. 31, 1975, and his interest in Carter's Warehouse was valued at $330,062.

The land owned by Carter Farms will be retained in the trust so long as he is president and will be rented for an annual fixed amount.

"Thus," the announcement said, "the Carter family will not be affected financially from profits or losses of any of the farm operations."

Carter's Warehouse, in which the President-elect is the principal partner, while brother Billy and mother Lillian have minority interests, "will be either leased for four years for a fixed amount, or sold, at the discretion of the trustee," the announcement said.

In either event, it said, "neither Jimmy Carter, his wife nor children will be affected financially from profits or losses of any of the warehouse operations."

Under the guidelines applying to appointees, those named to the two highest federal pay levels will have to divest themselves of any interests that would "more than rarely" cause them to disqualify themselves because of possible conflicts.

Those named to lower-paying jobs would be required to divest themselves of private holdings only if "disqualification will seriously impair the capability of the officer to perform the duties of the office to which nominated."

It said Carter will issue an executive order to spell out the financial disclosures he will require.

Carter first promised to make the ethics guidelines public on Dec. 20, but his press secretary, Jody Powell, discovered there was no copy of the pertinent documents here. An announcement then was promised for last Friday, but Carter ordered it delayed as part of an effort to encourage reporters covering his activities to return to their homes for the New Year's holiday.

Meanwhile, Carter worked Monday on his plans to reorganize the federal bureaucracy.

After meeting with Carter, Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., chairman of the House Government Operations Committee, predicted the incoming president will quickly be given fresh authority by Congress to propose reorganization plans, subject to veto by either the House or Senate within 60 days.

Brooks also predicted Congress will act favorably on Carter's specific proposals to revamp the bureaucracy, although acknowledging that agencies Carter wants to abolish will have vocal defenders and the entire operation will find lobbyists "jumping through the hoop."

Is there world hunger?

Consider these two recent items from the academy. Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School of Public Affairs will offer a course this spring on "Problems of World Hunger." An organizer says that "Hunger has never been known on such a world-wide scale as it is today." Yet Stanford Professor Walter P. Falcon, director of its Food Research Institute, states "The world is not slowly starving to death" and adds the per capita grain availabilities have increased fairly steadily in the last 15 years.

Such contradictory statements aren't unprecedented, but they reinforce our suspicion that "world hunger" is a particularly misleading slogan. The basic argument, that the world's population growth will outstrip its ability to produce food, has been around since well before Malthus's late 18th Century pamphlet, somehow since then the world population has doubled and fed itself without laying the idea to rest.

Currently, observes Prof. Falcon, the annual rate of population growth is averaging 1.9 per cent, while that of food production is 2.5 per cent. The real problem, he observes, is local and regional food shortages. These certainly cause agony to the victims, but that problem is primarily one of distribution and local policy, which differs significantly from one of universal shortage.

To put it bluntly, some frequently cited examples of "world hunger," like India, to the extent that they do fit that greatly exaggerated stereotype, have suffered from their own maladministration, not from shifts in the global ecology. One thoughtful Indian economist, B.R. Shenoy, has written that his country's food problem cannot be blamed on sacred cows or population pressures. (India, he maintains, actually suffers from a "severe seasonal scarcity of labor.")

Indian agriculture, he argues, is markedly less productive than the world average because of a lack of capital investment, resulting from government limits on traditional moneylenders. And even with this handicap, India since independence has managed to avoid the terrible famines of its earlier history, and achievement Mr. Shenoy says would have been possible even without American shipments of grain.

Where bad policy causes suffering, moreover, better policy can alleviate it. Yet it's hard to identify these specific situations in the midst of highly charged rhetoric about "world hunger." This guilt-ridden talk is not only misleading, it may also prolong the Problem. — Wall Street Journal

Put government on a diet

Trim (Tax Reform Immediately) Bulletin
Your Uncle Sam is a tax glutton. He's never satisfied with little tax snacks. He wants a banquet — and always at the expense of taxpayers and consumers. To see what his gluttony is doing to you, take a good look at your paycheck stub the next time you get paid. You'll see that Uncle Sam and his cousins — state and local governments — have already gobbled up one-fourth of your earnings.

But that's only the beginning. Uncle Sam and his cousins are still hungry. They now eat further into your income with hundreds of direct taxes, including those on real estate, automobiles, gasoline, entertainment, food, and clothing. By the time they've finished this meal, they've consumed one-third or more of your earnings.

Yet Uncle Sam is still not satisfied. But he has a problem. If he keeps eating at the taxpayers' pockets openly, they may revolt. So he turns to hiding his excesses. After directly taxing so many of your hard-earned dollars, Uncle Sam now resorts to hidden taxes — business regulations, business taxes, and inflation.

Most persons would never think of these as hidden taxes, but they all eat into your cash just as if you had been taxed directly.

Here's how these hidden taxes affect your pay: When businesses are hit with regulations or taxes, their costs increase. The businesses have no choice — they must increase prices to pay the higher costs. When the consumer buys a product or service, the hidden taxes are already included in the price.

Only naive or dishonest men advocate shifting the tax burden to businesses in order to reduce individual taxes, because when businesses are taxed, consumers will always pay.

The major point that critics of the Great Britain economy make is that the government's share of the people's income is so vast it is approaching 60 per cent of their national economy and is strangling the investment capital and profits that are necessary to finance new jobs and increase production of the supply of goods and services. The results are rising unemployment and runaway inflation.

A prize for fiction

Some congressional staff members have admitted responsibility for the publication of a "transcript" of some Senate hearings that never took place.
Exposure of this sleight of hand led to the resignation of the staff director of the Senate subcommittee that passed on the $65 billion budgets for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.
It turned out that the 12 days of hearings described in the committee transcript had not occurred.
The "witness" had sent in written statements. The editor inserted words of welcome and other remarks by various senators to give the impression that the hearings took place.
The way to stop such nonsense is not only by cleaning house in a committee, but by doing away with the same practice in the granddaddy of all phony transcripts — the Congressional Record. It is published day after day with speeches supposedly made in congressional chambers by senators and representatives who may have been out playing golf or other games at the time. One member of Congress was quoted in the Record two days after his death — because his text had been handed in for publication earlier, as many "speeches" are.
Congress is right in ordering its staff members to publish only facts about committee hearings actually held, but it should start by making an honest document of its own Congressional Record.

Texas death toll below predictions

By Associated Press
Traffic deaths in Texas during the long New Year's Day holiday weekend fell well below the figure of 43 predicted by the Texas Department of Public Safety as 20 persons died in road accidents.

A Department of Public Safety spokesman said 60 persons died on Texas streets and highways in 1972-73, the last time the state had a 78-hour holiday weekend. He noted, however, that at that time, the state's speed limit was 70 miles per hour, compared to the current limit of 55 m.p.h. The DPS attributed the low holiday death toll during the past weekend to poor driving conditions and said reports from the field indicated that most drivers were driving slower because of road conditions.

The count ended at midnight Sunday.

In addition to the 20 traffic deaths, one person died in a fire, three were shot to death, four drowned and two died of apparent carbon monoxide poisoning at Fort Worth.

The latest traffic deaths reported included:

An unidentified man who was burned beyond recognition when his automobile struck a bridge at El Paso Sunday morning.

Stanley W. Keyhoe, 52, of Houston, who died Sunday night after he was struck by a car as he walked across a Houston street.

In the worst incident of the weekend, four young children from Houston drowned when a van in which they were riding apparently rolled backwards into a lake in East Texas near Goodrich.

The children were identified as Anna Victoria Miller, 3, Olga Alicia Miller, 4, Nora Munoz, 8, and Raneé Munoz, 10. Officers said the children were in a van at Baker's Boat Ramp when the van rolled backwards into 20 feet of water.

Among the other fatalities: Walter Reed Crabtree, 56, of Houston, died in a one-car accident on U.S. 87 in Galveston County.

Casaniro Thomas Zapata Jr., 19, of Maple, died Sunday in a one-car accident on a county road 14 miles northwest of Morton in Cochran County.

Police in Wichita Falls said 15-year-old Ron Brown died Sunday when the pickup truck he was riding in turned over and crushed him. That accident happened on private property.

Sandra Neeley, 17, and Joe Cavazos, 18, of Fort Worth, were found dead in a parking lot at the Colonial Country Club in Fort Worth. A spokesman for the Tarrant County medical examiner's office said Miss Neeley apparently became ill from carbon monoxide fumes and choked to death and said Cavazos was asphyxiated by the fumes.

Orvel Kyser, 61, of Dallas, died when a fire swept through his apartment.

Two persons died in separate Houston shooting incidents and one person was shot to death at Dallas during the weekend. The Houston victims were identified as Mary Helen Mays, 36, and Robert Lee Swain, 38. Ricky Joe Armstrong, 23, was shot to death at Dallas.

Other traffic accident victims included:

Cleveland Dubois, 59, of Orange, who died when he fell into the path of an automobile at Orange.

Jesusa Cardenas, 16, of Rosenberg, who died in an accident near Rosenberg.

Jamie Flores, 19, of Palacios, who died in a one-car accident on Texas 35 near Palacios.

J.B. Morris, 66, of Brady, who died in a one-car mishap on a county road near Brady.

James E. Davidson, 26, of Nacogdoches, who died in a one vehicle accident at the intersection of Interstate 35 and FM 620 at Round Rock.

Medal winners announced

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President Ford announced he will give the Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian award, to 21 Americans, including Nobel and Pulitzer Prize winners and personalities in science, literature, baseball, labor, the arts and politics.

Former First Lady Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, and Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller were among those on the list, announced for New Year's Day.

Ford will present the medals at the White House on Jan. 10, a little more than a week after he returns to Washington from a 14-day skiing vacation in the Colorado Rockies.

Application for fed grant in final stage

City Manager Mack Wofford said today city officials are in the final stages of preparing Pampa's pre-application for a $250,000 Community Development Block grant from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The city manager said he and David Callison, city planner, are scheduled to meet Thursday morning in Amarillo with Benny Lawrence, in charge of the grant division of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, for a file review of the city's preliminary application.

Wofford said the city is required to file two copies of the application with HUD, two with Gov. Briscoe's Office of Budget and Planning and one copy with the PRPC. The grant must be approved by all three

The Medal of Freedom honors persons "for meritorious contribution to the areas of security or national interest of the United States, world peace or cultural or other significant public or private endeavors."

The announcement came as the President was off on a skiing run on a brilliantly sunny New Year's Day, the last of his vacation stay.

He had celebrated the new year in his rented Swiss-style home with about 60 friends and members of his family, sipping champagne and engaging in some nostalgic remembrances. He joined in the singing of Auld Lang Syne at the stroke of midnight.

The list of Medal of Freedom winners was the fifth and the longest that Ford has made since he took office 2½ years ago.

Prince Andrew goes to Canada

LONDON (AP) — Prince Andrew flew today to Canada and six months in a private school where he may have to sleep out in the Canadian winter and take his turn at waiting on other students at meals.

Buckingham Palace, as usual, made every effort to shield the 16-year-old son of Queen Elizabeth II from publicity. His seat aboard the British Airways flight to Toronto was booked under the name "Mr. Cambridge," and he was kept off Heathrow airport's VIP list.

The rugged, good-looking young prince, second in line to the British throne, carried only two gym bags and a black briefcase as he was driven to planeside to board. The rest of his baggage had been sent ahead.

Andrew will be attending Lakefield College school near Peterborough, Ont.

Woman kills self, children

LOVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Despondent over her broken marriage, Betty Lee Tracy bundled her three children into the family car and died with them as the vehicle idled in the garage, authorities said.

"This is a triple homicide and suicide," said Clermont County Coroner Dr. Frank Capurro.

He said Mrs. Tracy, 32, and her children Teresa, 11, Patty, 9, and Curtis, 6, all died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Miami Township Police Chief Harry Snyder said Mrs. Tracy was upset over her divorce from her husband, Patrick, 34, and over difficulties she was having remodeling her house.

"Mrs. Tracy worked awfully hard on the house," said a neighbor, Jean Young. "She worked on the house all the time, trying to get it to look decent."

Tracy and his brother, Michael, who operate a tractor repair business behind the house, stopped at the home Sunday afternoon because they thought the house was abnormally quiet.

They found the car in the garage and a suicide note in the house, Snyder said.

Capurro said the victims died sometime during the night.

"The children were wrapped up in blankets with pillows like they were going on a long trip. I think they were sleeping when they died. They never knew"

PR statehood unlikely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Early congressional action on President Ford's proposal to make Puerto Rico the 51st state is unlikely because of opposition from congressional leaders and the possibility Ford's term in office may run out before he can submit the legislation.

Leaders of the two congressional panels with jurisdiction over legislation affecting Puerto Rico say they have no intention of holding committee hearings on Ford's proposal.

Nessen said the legislation "is very complicated." If the legislation is not completed, Nessen said Ford probably would try to make his point in the State of the Union message he plans to deliver to a joint session of Congress around Jan. 12.

Udall, in an interview, said: "I'm not about to take any part in initiating congressional action on this until we've been asked to do so through the regular democratic processes in Puerto Rico." That would require legislative action by the Puerto Rican legislature and the agreement of the governor of the island.

Moslem gunmen kill passers-by

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Six Moslem gunmen in a Mercedes limousine sprayed machine-gun fire at passers-by in a Christian quarter today, killing four persons and wounding several others, the Christian Phalange radio reported.

The attack occurred just a day after an explosion outside a Christian militia barracks in Beirut killed 35 persons and wounded more than 50. The incidents undermined the precarious, two-month-old cease-fire in Lebanon.

A quantity of explosives and files belonging to the Communist Action organization were found in the car, the Phalange broadcast said. The Phalange militia is the largest on the Christian side in the civil war.

The broadcast also said an unidentified alien tried to enter the Christian enclave in an auto loaded with more than 40 pounds of dynamite. He was arrested by Christian militiamen and turned over to the Syrian-dominated Arab League force supervising the cease-fire, the radio said.

Phalange leader Pierre Gemayel and Christian National Liberal party leader Camille Chamoun appealed to their followers and residents of the Christian area to remain calm and let the peace force handle the situation.

radio said. Christian militiamen firing automatic rifles in the air blocked traffic today in the Ashrafieh district, scene of Monday's explosion.

The Phalange radio said Christians in that area went on strike to protest "this vile and barbaric crime." Shops were closed and armed men turned back children on their way to school.

Most of the militiamen put their weapons away after Syrian troops occupied Beirut and imposed a cease-fire in November.

A government communique said the explosion Monday night outside a Phalangist barracks in Ashrafieh was caused by a charge planted in a car. It was the worst act of terrorism since the Syrians moved into the city.

Longet lawyers choose jurors

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — With prosecutors saying they might call singer Andy Williams to the stand, six jurors were tentatively seated in the trial of his ex-wife Claudine Longet on charges of killing her lover.

Williams escorted the 35-year-old singer-actress to the Pitkin County Courthouse on Monday in this post ski resort community where she faces up to 10 years in jail and a $30,000 fine if convicted.

Jury selection was to resume today for the manslaughter trial in the March 21, 1976, shooting of 31-year-old professional skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich in the $250,000 home he shared with Miss Longet.

During a recess Monday, Williams said he was uncertain why prosecutors subpoenaed him to testify. Dist. Atty. Frank Tucker refused to discuss why Williams was summoned. The singer left for Los Angeles after the noon break, saying he expects to return next week.

Wearing no makeup, Miss Longet sat quietly through about six hours of proceedings. She occasionally brushed back her straight brown hair, held by barrettes, and glanced at the press section, filled with about 30 reporters and artists. Few residents of this celebrity-filled town showed up in the second-floor courtroom, but dozens lined up in the first-floor lobby to get new auto license plates which became available Monday. Low numbers — a status symbol in Aspen — are given out to first comers.

Tucker, wearing blue jeans and cowboy boots along with a jacket and tie, said the fame of both victim and defendant was making it difficult to find impartial jurors.

Any of the four men and two women tentatively seated Monday may be disqualified later through further challenges from defense or prosecution. Jury selection is expected to take about one week.

One of three prospects dismissed the first day, Aspen Mayor Stacy Standley, admitted, "I felt the defendant was guilty, based on the information I had received" from a police officer.

Tucker said he had decided that Miss Longet's 13-year-old daughter Noel, who was reportedly at home when the shooting occurred, was "too young" to be called as a witness.

Miss Longet says the gun fired accidentally while Sabich was teaching her how to use it.

Perryton man satisfactory after wounds

A shooting victim, Lee Tresner of Perryton, is listed in satisfactory condition today at Amarillo's High Plains Baptist Hospital following surgery for shotgun wounds to his back.

Tresner, 23, who manages the Pizza Hut in Perryton, was wounded Thursday by two armed bandits who robbed him of approximately $300 in cash and checks.

Melancon to manage Pampa Club

Appointment of Andre Melancon as manager of the Pampa Club in the Coronado Inn has been announced by club officials.

Melancon comes to Pampa from the Balcones Country Club in Austin with 18 years of food service which began with working in officers' clubs while in the U.S. Marine Corps. After leaving the service he trained under European chef Joseph Boone in Brussels, Belgium.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press
Stiff and gusty winds drove a fresh cold front through the Texas Panhandle today, and it was expected to finish sweeping all the way to the coast tonight, kicking up dust here and there along the way.

casts promised to other moisture. Winds behind the strong frontal system gusted up to 45 miles per hour at Amarillo in the Panhandle and 60 m.p.h. at El Paso in far West Texas.

At the same time fog and drizzle plagued the eastern half of the state, making travel hazardous in some areas. Visibility dropped to zero between Cotulla and Del Rio in the south before dawn.

Temperatures near dawn were relatively mild for this time of year, ranging from 20 degrees at Childress in the Panhandle up to 52 at McAllen in the extreme south. Top marks Monday reached up to 71 at Presidio in the Big Bend of West Texas.

Snow flurries were expected along with diminishing winds in the north part of West Texas this evening. Aside from a few showers in South Texas, forecasts promised to other moisture.

Overnight readings as low as 18 were promised in the Panhandle, down to 30 in North Texas and down to the lower 40s in South Texas.

National weather

By The Associated Press
Heavy snow fell over much of the Rocky Mountain region and into parts of the central plains overnight. Five inches covered Salt Lake City this morning, and 10 inches fell at nearby Hill Air Force Base.

Heavy snow warning was issued for western Nebraska and southwest South Dakota today. Winter storm watches were posted through tonight for other parts of Nebraska and South Dakota, as well as for parts of Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana.

In the mountains of Utah, more than a foot of snow fell, and nearly as much in the mountains of Colorado. Heavy snow or winter storm warnings remained in effect through today for southern Montana, all of Utah and much of Colorado.

Snow continued to fall across the Great Lakes, the northern Appalachians and northern New England.

Snow began to diminish in California and parts of the plateau region, and advisories were canceled for Nevada, Arizona and the Sierra Nevada Mountains of California.

Rain ended over the southeastern and middle Atlantic states, but left sleet and hazardous in some areas.

Meanwhile, a combination of snow, freezing rain, freezing drizzle and sleet spread into parts of Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri.

Most of the nation remained cloudy except for the northern and southwestern sections of the plains and in the extreme Southwest.

Overnight temperatures ranged from 65 degrees at Key West, Fla., to 21 below zero at Bismarck, N.D.

Trash fires busy firemen

The Pampa Fire Department extinguished three trash fires in dumpsters and responded to a false alarm at 2700 Navajo early this morning.

However, the clean-up was said to have been successful, and the oil will not pollute the reservoir, according to Owen Ivy, director of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

The three dumpster fires — in the 1400 block of N. Hobart, 300 block of N. Hobart and the 100 block of S. Cuyler — were reported within minutes of one another from 12:43 a.m. to 12:50 a.m.

More than 1,000 different languages are spoken in continental Africa. The most widely spoken are Arabic, Swahili and Hausa.

A fire department spokesman said the three trash fires were arson.

The worst earthquake in recorded history devastated Szechuan Province in China in 1856. It is estimated to have cost 800,000 lives.

In San Juan, they're laughing

By EDITH M. LEDERER
Associated Press Writer
SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — "Is it a joke, or is it true?" telephone callers demanded of San Juan newspapers after President Ford announced he would propose legislation to make Puerto Rico the 51st state.

Samuel del Valle heard the news on a broadcast shortly after 2 p.m. last Friday and nearly lost control of his car. Rene Quinones left his chair in a restaurant.

The Puerto Rican version of April Fool's Day is Dec. 28, the Day of the Innocents, and one was cracked. "In his usual slow way, Ford missed it by three days."

More than half of those questioned by the San Juan Star newspaper refused to give an opinion. Of those who did, most disapproved of the way Ford handled the matter.

Nurses won't stay in hospitals

Inland oil spill probed

IRA, Tex. (AP) — An inland oil spill on the Colorado River got prompt attention Tuesday, as state police and others worked through the pre-dawn hours to clean up the mess.

The survey found. It rated nursing care in the United States and Canada at a "low B" grade. The smaller the hospital, the survey indicated, the less the responding nurses thought of the care.

As for nursing homes, 55 per cent of responding nurses who worked in such institutions said they would not want to be patients where they work.

Nursing 77 reported that the nurses blamed insufficient staff, the burdens of paper work and other obligations that took time away from attending to patients as reasons why nursing care of patients is less than excellent.

The magazine last May published a "Probe of Quality Care," listing 78 questions and asking its nursing readers to respond to them. Those responses, more than 10,000 of them, formed the basis of the article in the current issue.

Concerning health care nationwide, said Nursing 77, 3 per cent of nurses rated it as excellent. Half said it was good, the magazine reported, while 42 per cent rated it as fair, and 5 per cent as poor.

The nurses rated physical care as good to high at their hospitals, the report said, but considered emotional or psychological support of patients and families as being only fair and sometimes poor.

Only about one-third of the responding nurses said they thought other nurses gave good or excellent psychological support to patients.

One nurse suggested a reason: "The physical (care) is stressed as all important. If we're found sitting in a patient's room offering support, we're not considered to be working — just talking."

Judge William Taylor said Monday he expected to sign an order today that would give print and electronic media access to executions at the State Prison in Huntsville.

The action came as result of a suit filed by Garrett, who sought permission to film an execution and interview inmates awaiting capital punishment.

"I'll be knocking at the door of the State Prison Wednesday asking to interview one or more prisoners on death row and I expect the TDC people to let me in," said Garrett, 39, who represents the public KERA-TV.

Judge Taylor's ruling allows such interviews at the times allotted, normally on Wednesdays between 9 and 11 a.m.

Garrett said he expected the TDC to appeal Judge Taylor's order through the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

A spokesman for TDC Director W.J. Estelle Jr. said Monday that the TDC would have no comment until Taylor's order is in hand and read and indicated that comment from Estelle could come today.

Judge Taylor said, "Very simply, I said the news media are entitled to have representatives there, following a policy that had been followed for a number of years."

That is that the representatives of The Associated Press and United Press International would serve as pool reporters and also that there could not be any distinction as far as electronic media were concerned.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My mother always has something the matter with her. It's either a "splitting headache," "dizzy spells" or eating something that didn't "agree" with her.

"She eats 'pain-killers' like you wouldn't believe. If the directions say to take two, she takes four. She buys every kind she can get without a prescription. I've tried to tell her this is dangerous, but she won't listen to me."

She reads your column faithfully and thinks you know everything, so maybe you can straighten her out.

I'm not exaggerating, and I'm not a child. I'm a 30-year-old married woman who loves her mother and is worried sick about her.

WITHHOLD MY NAME

DEAR WITHHOLD: Tell your mother that Abby said a "pain" is Nature's signal that something is wrong. And to kill the pain and ignore the warning instead of seeing a physician is not only foolish, it could be fatal.

DEAR ABBY: I was invited to someone's home for dinner, and when I arrived, the stereo was blaring loudly. All during dinner and even afterward when we were talking, the stereo was turned up so high I could scarcely hear anything else, and I had to practically shout to be heard.

Needless to say, I didn't enjoy the evening. In fact, when I left I had a headache.

Don't people realize how rude it is to have a stereo turned on so loud that it's impossible to carry on a normal conversation? I hope you print this.

PAT FROM PARKLAND

DEAR PAT: I'll print it for those who aren't aware that loud stereo music is often more irritating than entertaining, plus those who timidly tolerate it rather than ask their host (or hostess) to please turn it down—a reasonable request.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a grown man who cheats at cards, and when confronted, throws the cards up in the air, runs to his room and broods for the rest of the evening?

Abby, this man has a Ph. D. in nuclear physics and holds a $40,000-a-year job.

We have been playing bridge regularly for over three years. This past weekend when I caught him cheating, I confronted him and asked for a re-deal. He literally threw a tantrum. We're not speaking now as a result of all this.

Should I have kept my mouth shut, or was I justified in letting him know I was on to his sleight-of-hand trick?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: You should not have kept your mouth shut. But had you waited to tell him privately instead of humiliating him before the others, you could have avoided an ugly scene.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have seborrheic dermatitis. All of a sudden, four years ago, my face broke out in a rash. It's between my eyebrows, but mostly on both sides of my nose.

At that time it only broke out occasionally. Lately it bothers me a lot. I can tell before it starts to break out. My face itches, and the next thing it gets red with oily scaly patches. My family doctor said it was hereditary and gave me some cream for it. The cream doesn't seem to help much now. Please tell me what can be done about this.

At times I hate to even go out because of my red face. I wash my scalp regularly with Selsun.

DEAR READER—This is a chronic condition, and your treatment will have to be directed toward controlling the problem rather than curing it permanently. It is caused by overactivity of the sebaceous glands, with an excess production of sebum. The term seborrheic means this, and dermatitis merely means inflammation of the skin.

The lesions are as you describe them with red or scaly spots in the areas involved. These spots can be quite troublesome. They may extend to the eyebrows, the sides of the nose, over the ears, behind the ears and may involve the scalp. Actually, dandruff is one type of the disorder. The reddened spots of inflammation may be over the center of the breast bone (sternum), under the arms, between the shoulder blades or in the groin area. The spots may be covered with yellowish, greasy scales. And they do itch.

The disorder may be associated with acne, but it is different in that it is more chronic in some instances. The greasy scaly lesions are

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is when I buy a blouse or sweater and the saleslady does not even take time to fold it but just stuffs it, all wrinkled, into a bag. I consider this an insult to the store, the blouse and to me. —N.O.T.

DEAR POLLY—Those who do crewel embroidery know how much leftover yarn accumulates. I use this to cover hangers for planters. This looks very colorful and the extra yarn does not go to waste. Just keep wrapping the yarn round and round the wire. When you come to the end of a piece tie on another. —A READER.

DEAR POLLY—Some bottles that hold cosmetics are very hard to hold in one's hand, particularly hand or cleansing lotion. So, I slip such a bottle in an old stretch sock that I have cut off to the proper length. This affords a firm grip.

Those shoe bags with rows of pockets that hang on a closet door are great to use for holding the tots' small toys. They love to dig in them and stay fascinated for quite a time.

My dinette chairs needed recovering so I decided to put my scraps of knit material to good use. I used a piece of old cloth to cut pieces the desired size for the new seat covers. I then placed and pinned odd scraps in a crazy quilt pattern on the cloth pattern, and then stitched them in place using odd colors of leftover thread. I have made good use of those scraps of knit fabrics as well as thread. Everyone loves the way the chairs look. The children would even enjoy pinning the scraps on for Mom and could use their own ingenuity in making patterns and designs.

My thirteen-year-old wanted me to tell you that when he loses the plastic end on a shoelace he makes a new one by wrapping the end of the lace tightly with adhesive backed plastic tape. —ISABEL.

Gardening by Moon Signs

Use winter to explore plants

By LOIS BOYNTON

Special to The News
The Moon Signs for January are: 1-3 Destroy weeds; cultivate; trim to retard growth. 4-6 Plant annuals, biennials, perennials, tulips; irrigate; fertilize. 7-10 Trim to retard growth; cultivate; destroy weeds. 11-14 Cultivate; spray with dormant spray; destroy weeds; trim to retard growth. 15-18 Destroy weeds; cultivate; trim to retard growth. 19-21 Cultivate; destroy weeds. 22-23 Plant annuals, biennials, perennials, dormant shrubs and trees; irrigate. 24-25 Destroy weeds; cultivate. 26-28 Plant annuals, biennials, perennials for hardiness. 29-30 Destroy weeds; cultivate. 31 Plant flowers inside for planting outside in the spring; irrigate.

We very seldom have a white Christmas here in the Panhandle. This year was no exception but we did have beautiful days so our friends and loved ones could go and come for their visits without dangerous icy highways.

And now comes the new year with its hopes and anticipations for a better and greater gardening year. A new and exciting fresh season ahead.

What were your good resolutions for this year? To clean out the hedges, weeds, leaves, debris and all? To tidy up your plant room? Bundle up the stakes? Whatever you intended to do take advantage of the mild days we always have in January, to catch up on some of these chores.

Much time will be spent indoors during the next two months. January is a good time to learn more about the plants you grow. Visit the library, or buy yourself a good book with this information. You can find much information in the seed catalogs, many of these can be had by sending a post card with your name and address. Take the glowing accounts and beautiful pictures with a bit of salt. But do plant something new and different this year.

If you have seed left over from last year, and you are not sure of their freshness or viability, test them in this manner. Sprinkle a few between damp paper towels, keep moist, if they do not sprout in the time stated on the seed packet, discard them and get new seed.

Water house plants with care, not in rotation, but as needed, when the soil is dry. Do not overwater during the winter. This is the plants resting time and they do not require as much water as in the growing season, but even the cacti should not be allowed to become desert-dry. It is always best to use warm water.

Get your seed orders off early, as well as any plants or evergreens you plan to buy. This will enable the seedmen or nurserymen to deliver at the most favorable times for planting.

Buy only from reliable dealers and expect to pay a fair price.

Dormant spraying of fruit trees as well as ornamental trees and shrubs can be done at this time when the temperature at night is not expected to go lower than 35 degrees.

Seed potatoes should be ordered now or if you save your own they should be set out now for greening on a window ledge that is warm and bright, but not sunny. A north window would be fine.

The 13th or 14th place a sweet potato that has a number of eyes in a jar of water with one third to one half of the potato extending above the water. The jar will soon be filled with roots and plants will begin to grow from the eyes on the potato. When these sprouts have about four to six leaves break them off and place in another jar of water to grow roots. They can then be potted up and placed in a bright window where they will soon make strong plants, to be planted in the garden in late April or early May.

Many received poinsettias as gifts for Christmas, if properly cared for they will last for weeks. They should never be allowed to dry out. We water ours daily with a solution of liquid plant food. They should be kept out of drafts, they like plenty of light, a south window suits them fine. They are very difficult to get to rebloom, we plant ours outside after all danger of frost is past. They never bloom but grow into a beautiful plant.

Now is the time to start tuberous begonias. Place them on moist vermiculite, pot up as soon as they begin to grow, do not cover the bulb after potting until it has made good growth.

December was very dry so water every thing well taking care to soak the evergreens.

If you received a gloxinia for Christmas they will go dormant after flowering. Its leaves will fall and you will think it is dead. Store it on its side for a couple of months in a place where the temperature is around 60 degrees. Then bring it out, water and feed it, new foliage will be followed by flowers.

Check pansy and strawberry plants for heaving press down soil around the plants.

Have you looked at your trees lately? Many are magnificent, the bare silhouettes of their branches against the wintry sky. The English walnut with its beautiful grey bark, even the big old elm tree has a beauty of its own.

Inspect the trunks of peach and cherry trees for borers. If you find a trickle of sawdust, slit the bark near the hole following the tunnel until you overtake and destroy the pest.

Start geranium seed indoors for summer bedding plants, they come easily from seed and you may have an unusual plant when it blooms.

Fresh manure may be spread now on dormant beds, under shade trees, hedges, and shrubs.

Don't spread salt to melt ice on pavements, sidewalks or steps. Sand will do the same job without damaging the plants or soil near by.

Hosing is the only safe way to remove ice from trees and shrubs. Whacking it will merely snap the brittle wood.

Make a schedule of the things you wish to do this year, keep it in prominent place where you will check it at least once a week. Happy Gardening for 1977.

Grow indoor trees from seeds

By ELVIN McDONALD

Have you ever thought about growing an indoor tree from seeds? If you have the patience, it's obviously a way to save money and your tree will just naturally be accustomed to the environment of your home from the very beginning.

The seeds for two of the trees easiest to grow indoors may be in your kitchen: citrus and avocado. In fact, citrus alone can provide you with orange, lemon, grapefruit, lime, tangerine, tangelo and kumquat trees.

Beyond these, there are all kinds of possibilities for indoor trees to grow from seeds, either purchased in packets or gathered from suitable tropical species. Some of the ones I have grown from the seed catalogs are abutilon or flowering maple, coffee, ficus or fig, grevillea or silk oak and sparrmannia which is sometimes called parlor linden.

Any tree or shrub which grows in the tropics holds the potential of adapting to life up North in a medium for planting seeds, mix together equal parts peat moss, all-purpose potting soil, vermiculite and sand (or perlite).

Fill a fairly large pot, one that measures at least 5 inches across the top, with this mixture and moisten well. Lightly firm the surface with your fingers, and level it off about one-half inch below the pot rim.

If the seeds are surrounded by a shell, husk or fruit pulp, remove this covering and wash the seeds in water, then blot dry. If the seeds are fairly small, like those of citrus or coffee, you can plant several in each pot, spacing them about an inch apart.

Now comes the big question: How deep should the seeds be planted? One good rule of thumb is to cover each seed with soil to the depth of its own thickness. Unfortunately, this applies only to seeds that don't require light in order to sprout, and many of the tropics do—including avocado, loquat, coffee, grevillea and palm. For example, to sprout an avocado directly in soil rather than first in water, snuggle the fatter part of the pit into the surface of the growing medium, but leave the upper half of it exposed. The procedure is essentially the same for other seeds that require light in order to sprout: half-bury the big ones, simply press the smaller ones into the surface but don't cover them.

After the seeds are planted, it is vital, repeat vital, that the growing medium be kept constantly moist. If the soil dries out after roots have begun to grow, the seedlings may be killed. The way I handle this is to enclose the planting, pot and all, in a clear plastic bag, or place a pane of glass over the surface of the pot. As soon as I see green inside, I remove the covering so that the seedlings can have the fresh air they need, along with increased amounts of sun.

Here is where the patience I mentioned earlier comes into play. Some seeds will sprout within a month, others may lie dormant and apparently lifeless for 90 days or more. However, as long as there is no sign of seed deterioration and you keep the growing medium moist, there is hope.

And there are ways to speed germination. For instance, coffee beans sprout much more quickly if they are first soaked for 48 hours in water, which should be changed twice daily during this period. The seeds of any fruit—such as avocado, loquat or citrus—are much more likely to sprout quickly if the fruit itself was fully ripe at the time of picking.

One other tip applies to Plants in the home

sprouting any seed with a flint-hard coat or covering: If it fails to grow either with or without light, try nicking the coat with a nail file, then soak overnight in water before planting.

HOUSE CALL
Q. I notice tiny black flies coming off the soil of any house plants. Is there anything I can put in the soil to kill them?

A. Yes, some growers get rid of these gnats, which are usually more annoying than harmful, by drenching the soil with a solution of one-half teaspoon 50 per cent emulsifiable malathion concentrate mixed in one quart of water. This is designed to kill the whitish maggots in the soil, and from which the tiny black flies you describe hatch.

Q. I have a 3 1/2 ft. tall Chinese hibiscus tree in a 10-inch pot. Most of its leaves have recently turned yellow, shriveled up and dropped. Should I cut the stem off, or wait to see if new leaves sprout? The branches do not seem dry.

A. It sounds like the soil got dry enough to defoliate your hibiscus, but not to kill the woody stems. I would take special care to keep the soil evenly moist and give the plant as much light as possible. If the branches don't come alive with new leaves by late winter or early spring, I would take the pruning shears to them, cutting back to stem tissue that is obviously alive and green. If there is no encouraging sign, discard the remains, including the soil; clean the pot and plant something else in it. (P.S. Try not to feel guilty if this happens!)

large pot or tub kept indoors most of all of the year. On the other hand, trees and shrubs indigenous to a temperate climate rarely make good house plants, simply because it is their nature to require an annual rest induced by freezing.

The essentials for sprouting the seeds of tropical trees and shrubs are light, warmth, moisture and a humusy, well-drained growing medium. Although not all of the seeds require light in order to sprout, once the green shows, the seedlings will grow best in or near a sunny window. You can also keep them in a fluorescent-light garden until they outgrow its space.

Unbeaten Pitt Panthers named No. 1

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

The Steelers failed to bring a football title to Pittsburgh this season but the Pitt Panthers did.

Barely one week after the defending pro champion Steelers were eliminated from the National Football League playoffs, the unbeaten and untied University of Pittsburgh Panthers were named today as winners of college football's national championship.

Pitt, which wrapped up its first all-winning season in 58 years Saturday by routing

Georgia 27-3 in the Sugar Bowl for a 12-0 record, was an overwhelming and near-perfect winner in The Associated Press' national championship poll.

The Panthers received 59 of 62 first-place votes and 1,234 of a possible 1,240 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. It was their first national championship in 39 years and second since The AP poll originated in 1936.

Pitt, ninth in the preseason poll, moved up to third place by winning its opener handily against Notre Dame on the road 31-10. The Panthers then climbed into second place behind Michigan on the third weekend of the season and took over the top spot when the Wolverines were upset by Purdue 16-14 on Nov. 6.

Southern California, which won 11 games in a row — including a 14-6 triumph over Michigan in the Rose Bowl — after dropping its opener to Missouri 46-25, finished second in the final rankings. The Trojans received the other three first-place votes and 1,118 points in moving up from third in the final regular-season poll.

Michigan, which was No. 1 for the first eight weeks of the campaign, slipped from second to third with 847 points. Houston's Cinderella Cougars, unranked before the season, jumped from sixth to fourth with 804 points by upending previously unbeaten Maryland 30-21 in the Cotton Bowl.

Then came defending champion Oklahoma, up from eighth place to fifth with 638 points following a 41-7 Fiesta Bowl rout of Wyoming. The two-time champion Sooners, who got as high as third place early in the season, fell short in their bid for an unprecedented third consecutive national title.

Rounding out the Top Ten were Ohio State, 11th in the previous poll but a 27-10 winner over Colorado in the Orange Bowl; Texas A&M, up from 10th to seventh by walloping Florida 37-14 in the Sun Bowl; Maryland, down from fourth to eighth; Nebraska, the pre-season leader, which jumped from 13th to ninth by downing Texas Tech 27-14 in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl; and Georgia, which was fifth in the previous ratings and had an outside shot at the national championship until losing to Pitt.

"That's great, great news," Pitt Coach Johnny Majors said in Honolulu when he was informed that the Panthers officially had been declared national champions. "I hope I get another one in the next 25 years."

Majors, who is leaving Pitt to become head coach at the University of Tennessee, pointed out that Tennessee has not won a national championship in 25 years.

"The bowl game made it overwhelming," Majors added. "I felt if we beat Georgia by a point we could have won it, but after we beat them by so much I felt very comfortable about our chances."

The AP's Second Ten consisted of Alabama, Notre Dame, Texas Tech, Oklahoma State, UCLA, Colorado, Rutgers, Kentucky, Iowa State and Mississippi State.

In the final regular-season rankings, it was Ohio State, Colorado, Nebraska, Oklahoma State, Notre Dame, Alabama, Rutgers, Baylor and North Carolina, with Mississippi State and Penn State tied for 20th.

Tony kicking way to pros

An AP Sports Analysis
By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pro football scouts are drooling over the barefoot place-kicking exploits of collegian Tony Franklin but their eager anticipation is tempered somewhat by a touch of reality plus a measure of uncertainty.

As a sophomore at Texas A&M, the shoeless wonder has two more seasons before he puts himself on the money block. Also, nobody knows how well he might do if his toes are cramped by a tight leather shoe.

"When he goes to the pros, he will have to wear shoes," warned Jim Kensil, executive director of the National Football League.

League rules — everybody's equipment has to be the same.

Also in the NFL, Franklin will have a narrower crossbar target — an 18.6-foot crossbar instead of the 24.6 used by college teams — and will have to do his stuff without the benefit of a two-inch tee, barred by the pros.

None of this may matter. Franklin's forte is unbelievable pedal power. He banged a 62 yarder in the Sun Bowl Sunday as Texas A&M beat Florida 37-14. During the season he exploded a boot of 65 yards — an NCAA record.

Franklin's Sun Bowl field goal sailed 10 or 15 yards over the bar, giving rise to speculation that he probably would have hit from 10 yards farther back.

"I think I'll get that 70-yarder some day," the youngster said confidently.

Franklin is a soccer-style kicker, meaning he belts the ball with his instep. With or without shoes, he looms as a future redhot commodity in a game which glorifies its quarterbacks but subsists on podiatry.

The all-time leading scorer of the NFL is not one of the glamor touchdown makers such as Jim Brown or Gale Sayers but the old field goal kicker, George Blanda with 2,002 points, followed by another placement specialist, Lou Groza, with 1,349.

The 1976 scoring champion wasn't Pittsburgh's Franco Harris or Minnesota's Chuck Foreman, but Baltimore kicker Tom Linhart, 109 points, with 20 field goals and 49 extra points.

Harris and Foreman tied for ninth with 84.

Franklin is not the first or only player to succeed with an unorthodox technique. Michigan State turned up about 10 years ago with a barefoot kicker out of Hawaii named Dick Kinney but Kinney flunked his pro tryout with the Philadelphia Eagles. Texas Tech currently has a young man who does extra point and short yardage assignments with a wooden leg.

The NFL is finicky about equipment and no one is more demanding on proper uniform attire than Minnesota's Bud Grant, who sends his Vikings against Oakland's Raiders in the Super Bowl here Sunday.

Before playing Washington in the divisional playoffs, Grant complained that the Redskins' kicker, Mark Moseley, was using an illegal kicking shoe with lead in the toe. The NFL investigated and found no hidden ballast.

Fighting Irish drop another

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
AP Sports Writer

It's back to the drawing board to work on fundamentals today for Notre Dame's slumping basketball team and dejected Coach Digby Phelps.

Notre Dame, No. 8 in this week's Associated Press poll, absorbed its second straight setback Monday night, losing on the road to unranked Princeton 76-62.

The Tigers utilized a tenacious defense and had little trouble solving Notre Dame's full-court press. The Fighting Irish failed to rattle Princeton, which worked the ball around for good shots and hit with consistency.

Bill Ormelchenko and Tim Olah, the Tigers' guards, displayed sound ballhandling ability. They dribbled around the Irish kill time and consistently hit the open man, passing off with precision to set up the shots.

"But the other thing that beat us was turnovers," said Phelps. "I can't overemphasize this, both in our loss to Kentucky and tonight — they killed us."

Notre Dame gave away the ball 26 times and also sent Princeton foul shooters to the free throw line 34 times.

The Fighting Irish had won their first seven games, including victories over Maryland and UCLA, and had been ranked second nationally last week. But last Thursday night, Notre Dame traveled to Kentucky and was beaten by the Wildcats 102-78.

Notre Dame hit on only 39 per cent of its shots against Princeton's tough defense, the stingiest in the country. Don "Duck" Williams, the leading scorer for the Irish, connected on only three of 13 shots. The Tigers, in raising their record to 7-2, have allowed only 55 points per game.

Bob Slaughter topped Princeton with 19 points and Frank Sowinski hit six-for-six from both the floor and foul line and scored 18 points for the Tigers, who led 35-25 at halftime. Bill Paterno topped the Irish with 15.

In other games Monday night involving Top Ten teams, third-ranked Kentucky outlasted Georgia 64-59 in overtime; Alabama, No. 4, edged Auburn 74-71, and ninth-rated Nevada-Las Vegas turned back Colorado 113-91.

Pampa battles Monterey

Pampa and Lubbock Monterey, the two hottest teams in their respective districts, meet in what could be a preview of the bi-district showdown at 7:45 p.m. today in Lubbock.

Pampa, 12-4 in non-conference games, is coming off its first tournament championship of the season, while Monterey, 14-4, has won two tourneys.

The Harvesters grabbed the Clovis, N.M., tourney title with 64 Mike Buckner, named the most valuable player in both of the Plainsmen's tournament victories and averaging more than 14 points per game. Guard Jerry Fewell, deadly from the 20 to 25 foot range, is averaging more than 11 points.

Brian Bailey, the most valuable player at Clovis, heads the Pampa attack, Bailey, a 6-3 guard who also was named MVP in 3-AAAA, last season after leading Pampa to the district title and a 26-6 record, 6-4 post Don Hughes and 5-11 guard Rayford Young were named to the Clovis all-tourney team.

The Harvesters have been solidified with the return of 6-4 leaper Rickey Bunton, who is coming off an ankle injury. Bunton scored four points and grabbed five rebounds against Clovis Wednesday.

The New Mexico tournament may have been beneficial to Pampa in that it presented a new type of challenge.

"It was almost a bloodbath," McPherson said. "It was no blood, no foul — it got extremely physical. It's just the brand-of ball they play over there. The officiating is a lot looser. I think it was good for us."

Concerning tonight's opponent, the Harvester coach said, "It's probably the best team they've had in two or three years."

Monterey beat Pampa in the bi-district contest two years ago.

Oakland scouts Cal facilities

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Leave it to Al Davis to leave nothing to chance.

The mysterious, sometimes sinister, and always secretive head man of the Oakland Raiders Monday sent his advance troops to the battleground of Super Bowl XI a day before the team's arrival to scout the training facilities.

The troops: Head coach John Madden and all his assistants. Their mission: Checking all the nooks and crannies of the University of California at Irvine.

That might not seem like such a big deal — but Minnesota Coach Bud Grant can surely understand the Raiders' apprehension and thoroughness.

Remember Super Bowl VIII in Houston? Grant does. His Vikings were totally unprepared for what they found when they arrived, namely a high school field assigned to them for practice. And it took a 20-minute bus ride every day to get the Vikings there from their hotel while the Miami Dolphins could simply stroll across the street to their facilities, the Houston Oilers' practice field.

No one knows whether the Raiders are pleased with their UC-Irvine training camp or their Newport Beach hotel a 10-minute bus ride away — and if Madden is any sort of diplomat, we'll never know.

It's already known, though, that Grant doesn't like the idea of the Vikings being quartered in Costa Mesa, 10 minutes from their training camp, the Los Angeles Rams' in-season training site at Blair Field in Long Beach.

The problem, Grant points out, is that it's perhaps a two-hour bus ride north from Costa Mesa (and from Newport Beach, for that matter) to Pasadena and the Rose Bowl, the scene of Sunday's game. So Grant and the Vikes will be pulling up stakes in Costa Mesa on Friday and sequestering themselves in Pasadena for the final 48 hours or so.

Immigrant may be UAW head

DETROIT (AP) — Douglas A. Fraser, a Scottish immigrant who started out as a metal finisher in a DeSoto plant, has emerged as the likely next president of the 1.4-million member United Auto Workers union.

Fraser, 60, is expected to lead the nation's largest industrial union along the path of progressive social activism blazed by the late Walter Reuther and followed by retiring President Leonard Woodcock.

Woodcock said a canvass of the union's executive board showed Fraser had the solid backing of a majority of the 26 members.

The executive board will meet Jan. 11 to select a consensus candidate to put before the UAW's convention in Los Angeles. That choice is virtually assured formal election by voting delegates.

Fraser, a UAW vice president, appeared certain to succeed Woodcock after two potential rivals gave Fraser their support Monday.

Nixon violated rules, doles out federal jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration violated Civil Service regulations hundreds of times in an effort to get federal jobs for politically favored persons, a House subcommittee has concluded after a 22-month investigation.

In its final 246-page report on abuses in federal employment between 1969 and 1973, the subcommittee said there was "pervasive manipulation of merit system procedures to provide preferential treatment for favored candidates for career appointments."

It said the White House personnel operation was the "nerve center" of this operation. The report of the subcommittee on manpower and civil service is expected to be released late this week.

The report of the subcommittee on manpower and civil service is expected to be released late this week. A copy was obtained by The Associated Press.

The report urged changes in federal personnel laws, including a prohibition on political referrals for career federal jobs, which are supposed to be filled by the best qualified applicant.

The report said applications for jobs with political backing were accompanied by a form known as a "pink tag."

Wheat stored, man missing

IOWA PARK, Tex. (AP) — About 40 North Texas wheat farmers say they are concerned about their grain stored by an Iowa Park grain dealer who reportedly fell overboard from a cabin cruiser in the Gulf of Mexico early Monday.

U.S. Coast Guard officials at Port Aransas said a three-hour air and ground search failed to turn up any trace of Robert Johnson, 43, of Iowa Park.

Johnson reportedly fell from the cabin cruiser Honey Beau just inside the Port Aransas jetties about 1:15 a.m. Monday.

And if you haven't already booked a hotel room, be prepared for "sleeping-bag room only."

There's a long list of free events for the public — and some 300,000 just plain folks have been invited — but many will be held outdoors.

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Former President Richard Nixon, who has not been to Washington since he resigned in disgrace in 1974, has an opportunity to return for Jimmy Carter's inauguration.

In San Clemente, Calif., there was no response from Nixon's staff when reporters called to find out whether Nixon intended to go to the inauguration.
