and came to rest on its top in a drainage ditch filled with three feet of water. Department of Public Safety Trooper Wayne Williams was investigating officer.

After shooting incident

Pampan critical

A Pampa man was listed in critical but stable condition in intensive care at High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo late Saturday after being shot twice at close range Friday night in Pampa.

Terry Brookshire, 22, of Johnson's Mobile Home Park on W. Kentucky Street, was transferred to High Plains after being taken from Highland General Hospital to Amarillo Emergency Receiving Center by Metropolitan Ambulance.

According to police, the incident occurred shortly after 12:30 a.m. at 832 W. Foster St. Brookshire was shot at close range in the face just above the chin and in the lower abdomen, police said.

Donald Dean Beistle, 23, of 417 N. Christy St., was arrested in connection with the shooting on charges of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. He was being held in Gray County Jail Saturday night in lieu of $7,500 bond set by Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford.

According to police, the shooting grew out of a fight over an alleged traffic violation. The fight reportedly involved several persons, and police listed nine witnesses to the shooting.

Police said bullets which struck Brookshire came from a .25 caliber pistol. The victim was fired at three times, but was struck only by two of the shots, police said.

The victim was allegedly armed with a baseball bat when the shooting occurred.

Brookshire was pierced through the roof of the mouth with one of the shots.

A spokesperson for High Plains Baptist Hospital said Saturday that the victim "seemed to be doing well" and that his condition was stable although he was still listed in critical condition. The wound to the abdomen did not include any possible spinal injury, she said.

CAN'T SMILE Without You" the Pampa Middle School Sixth Grade Choir sings to a nearly full house at the Pampa High Fieldhouse Friday evening. The selection was part of the Annual Choral Festival which combines the vocal talents of over 700 Pampa school choir members.

Festival is success

It might have seemed as if all of Pampa was lifting its voice in song Friday night as the combined Pampa school choirs presented their annual Choral Festival at the Pampa High Fieldhouse.

The 1978 program was distinguished by the return of former Pampa High choir director Dr. Hugh Sanders as guest conductor. Dr. Sanders conducted the more than 700 young singers in "A Psalm of Assurance". The guest conductor is now Dean of Fine Arts at West Texas State University.

The annual program was also highlighted this year by a rousing salute to the 50th anniversary of the state song, "Texas, Our Texas", composed by William Marsh, and adopted by the Texas legislature in 1929 as the official state song.

Spectators who might have felt uncomfortable with the high notes of the national anthem at sporting events, were given a lot of help Friday as "The Star Spangled Banner" was boosted with the combined voices of everybody present.

In addition to the national anthem and the Texas State Song, patriotism couldn't have had a better toast in song as the choirs combined for a "Patriotic Fantasy" which included the timeless "Yankee Doodle Dandy" and "It's a Grand Old Flag". Dr. Sanders conducted the combined high school choirs in "From Sea to Shining Sea" and "And Thou, America". The combined elementary and secondary choirs closed the program with "America".

The Pampa school conductors were Mrs. Hester Branham (Mann Elementary), Miss Elena Donald and Mrs. Sue Higdon (Pampa Middle School), Miss Eloise Lane (Baker), Miss Kathy McCurley (Lamar), Mrs. Louise Richardson (Austin), Mrs. Edith Sayles (Wilson), Mrs. Wathena Watt (Travis), Mr. John Woickowski (Pampa High).

Action to be taken on garbage system

After months of study, the city is taking official action to convert Pampa's garbage collection method to a container system.

Three resolutions initiating the change from individual cans to larger containers will be considered by the city commission when it meets Tuesday. One resolution sets June 22 as the date to accept bids for new waste collection equipment, and the other two deal with financing the switch to containers.

City Manager Mack Wofford estimates the change will cost between $850,000 and $1 million. The city will finance the change by issuing certificates of obligation, which would be bought by local banks and then repaid with interest by the city over a seven- to eight-year period.

The certificates are similar to revenue bonds, but put the city under a reater obligation. With the certificates, if the city is unable to repay the buyer with fees charged for the service being financed (in this case, the city's waste collection rates), then it is required to use its taxing power to make up the difference. As a result, interest charged on the certificates is less than that of bonds.

The way the current money market is, this would be the least expensive in terms of interest," Wofford said.

Under the new system, three cubic-yard containers would replace the smaller cans now used for residential garbage disposal in city alleys. The containers would be mechanically emptied by side-loading trucks.

The change should eventually save money and help alleviate the sanitation department's problem with rapid employee turnover, Wofford said.

"We're locked into this manpower thing that's giving us problems, and this seems to be the only way to solve it," he said. "There's no doubt that we would cut our labor costs appreciably and be more efficient at the same time."

Wofford said he has been talking with officials at Citizens Bank and Trust Co., the city's depositor, about buying the certificates of obligation.

"They have said they will purchase them at a given interest rate, provided the certificates are backed by the full faith and credit of the city," he said.

The precise interest rate, Wofford said, will be determined after the city learns the total cost of new system, which won't be until the bids are received.

One of the resolutions on Tuesday's agenda would authorize an agreement with Rauscher, Pierce, Refsnes Inc. of Dallas to act as the city's financial consultant regarding issuance of the certificates.

Police search continues

Pampa police are still searching for a man who reportedly robbed a local convenience store early Friday morning, abducting two juvenile females and raping one of them at gunpoint in his truck outside of town.

Two 16-year-old girls, a clerk and a customer at Allsup's Convenience Store at 500 E. Foster St., were forced into a truck shortly before 2:30 Friday morning by a man who had just taken an undetermined amount of cash from the register, according to police.

The man was described as a white male, about 25 years old, standing five feet five inches with "a very chubby build." The suspect was also described as having blue eyes, medium-length brown hair and a brown mustache.

The incident is the eighth involving robbery or rape at Pampa convenience stores year. It is the fifth time an Allsup Store has been robbed.

An Pampa 7-Eleven store was robbed of an undisclosed amount of cash on the morning of May 9.

The incident is the second reported rape. Mills said Friday there was no evidence linking the latest robbery to the others.

According to police, the man drove the two girls to the overpass on Loop 70 east of the city, where he stopped, threatened the girls, and raped one of them. Police said the other girl ran from the scene, distracting the man, and both girls escaped. The suspect, who was reportedly armed with a small caliber pistol, fired two shots at the girls, police said.

Mother's day outing ends in burn tragedy

By JOHN PRICE
Pampa News Staff

It happened one week ago today. James E. Grange and his family, who live about a mile east of White Deer, were enjoying a Mother's Day picnic at Lake McClellan. Grange's wife Bonnie and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Billy Watson of Pampa, were walking on the shore along the water with 16-month-old Tiffiney Grange. The time was around 6 p.m.

"She (Bonnie) started to leave the baby with me," Tiffiney's grandmother, Mrs. J. D. Floyd of Pampa, recalled when telling the story. "I wish to God she had."

Tiffiney was walking between her mother and Mrs. Watson when she tripped and fell. Suddenly she started screaming.

Despite the many years and millions of dollars the government has spent pushing Smokey the Bear's message -- thoroughly extinguish all campfires -- some Americans haven't listened. Tiffiney found out the hard way.

As she screamed, the two women picked her up. Burning coals were stuck to her bare feet. Apparently, a well-meaning but careless person enjoying a cook-out had finished by covering a fire with sand, hiding the coals but not killing the heat. Bonnie Grange wiped the coals off the baby's feet, and to her horror the skin came off, too.

Tiffiney was rushed to Groom Hospital and then to Amarillo for burn treatment. It was determined that she had suffered second and third degree burns on her feet, especially her right foot. According to Mrs. Floyd, that foot is burned up to the ankle, and the little toe was turned to the bone.

The little girl is at home now, but must be taken to High Plains Baptist Hospital every other day for therapy and to have her bandages changed. Her grandmother said plastic surgery will be necessary to restore Tiffiney's feet to their original condition.

"They just about have to, the way the baby's foot is burnt," said Mrs. Floyd. "It looks like a piece of hamburger meat right now."

"If they leave it the way it is and let the skin grow back, it'll be a miracle if she can walk."

But one thing stands in the way of surgery: money, or rather a lack of it. Doctors have told the family Tiffiney may have to go to a burn center in Galveston. As far as James Grange is concerned, it may as well be in China.

Grange is a laborer for Circle L Services, and his wife doesn't work. They have no hospitalization insurance and "just barely get by with the skin of their teeth" when it comes to doctors' bills, Mrs. Floyd said.

The family is hoping people in the community will again demonstrate their renowned compassion and generosity by helping little Tiffiney regain the normal use of her feet. Contributions for her operation can be made by contacting Glenda Anderson at First National Bank in Pampa.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Presidents attack on hospital costs

President Carter says he will lead the fight to win the passage of a hospital cost - control bill. He said it "offers us one of our best opportunities to bring down the rate of overall inflation." The patience of the American people is wearing thin, and "rightly so," he said.

If the president is putting all his inflation - cutting eggs in this basket, he may find that the American patience is wearing thin, but in a much more comprehensive manner.

A futile attempt to address the total ills of inflation by concentration of misplaced efforts in the medical sector is like seeking water in a mirage. Controls on wages and prices in the general business area will do nothing to cure the inflation disease prevalent in our economy. Whether voluntary, semi-voluntary or legally mandated, they will not halt an inflation being spurred by government fiscal folly.

One president of a hospital association said he did not know how hospital prices could be held down in the face of rising costs of all the things needed to operate. He said hospital costs were rising at unbridled rates and suggested that a complex set of regulations would "require a huge, huge bureaucracy to handle it."

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Joseph A. Califano Jr., briefing reporters, said the proposal could save the average family about $390 over a five - year period in insurance premiums, income tax and Social Security tax. He also said it would effect only about half the hospitals since the other half already operate within the anticipated "guidelines."

We would suggest that taxpayers do not plan on spending this extra savings until they have it well in hand. It might even be better if they held themselves ready for more increases in the most costly part of their budget: taxes.

When all taxes are considered, they have led the field of family costs in rapid and devastating increases. Lack of spending controls on government and proliferation of regulations is a two - edged sword which hits taxpayers directly in increased taxation and gets them again as consumers, when producers pass on their costs of regulatory controls and red tape.

Michael Bromberg, president of the American Federation of Hospitals, says, "The measure will be a clear test of congressional feeling about over - regulating of industry, expansion of HEW regulatory power and the size of the federal bureaucracy."

Bromberg's analysis is accurate, we believe. It will also be a test of the ability of the Washington - menage to zero in on the basic cause of inflation and deal with it on a true non - partisan, non - political and sensible manner.

If this nation's political leader continues to act on the assumption that any medical cost - control legislation is the prime answer to our inflation problems, there is not much hope of real help from the administration. If this is Carter's basket of eggs we had better look to pressure from the states to lead us out of the wilderness of federal government gone berserk.

No more junkets

Congress returned recently from a 10 - day "district work period" which just happened to find between one - fifth and one - quarter of its members scattered across the globe on various "fact - finding" missions.

In an earlier era, before euphemisms, became the semantic order of the day on Capitol Hill, "district work periods" were known as "recesses" or even "vacations."

And foreign trips were labeled "junkets." But image - conscious lawmakers insist that time out of Washington is devoted purely to work, even if it happens to coincide with periods designated as holidays for ordinary mortals.

What they don't mention is that much of the work performed during "district work periods" is primarily designed to insure their own re-election.

The real reasons for the gas crisis

By BUTLER D. SHAFFER

One would think that, after enduring both ever increasing prices and the inconveniences associated with the purchase of gasoline, people would become a little smarter and stop advocating more of the conditions which have led to present problems in that industry.

But no, politicians, editors, self-styled "consumer advocates," and other frauds have reached down into their shallow bag of magic solutions and proposed more government controls on the oil industry. If these people were alcoholics proposing free booze as a solution to their problems, one could dismiss their contentions as expressions of a weak resolve. But since very few people understand much of anything about economics anyway, their babblings come across to most people with a plausibility akin to the fatuous speculations of primitive witch doctors as to the origins of the universe.

The Same People
More government controls? What on earth do these economic-alchemists think caused the shortages? Was it not "government controls" that placed restrictions on the amount of oil that could be imported each year? Was it not "government controls" that held up the construction of the Alaskan oil pipeline for a number of years ("controls" advocated, I might add, by many of the same people who now stare mindlessly into their navels for explanations of the "gas shortages")? Was it not "government controls" that have prevented many oil companies from building new oil refineries; that have held up construction of oil storage facilities; that have prevented oil companies from drilling for additional oil on the grounds it would "destroy the environment"?

In many cases, of course, such controls have been placed on the oil industry against their wishes. But there is another form of government control which has been in effect for many years, and all with the active promotion and approval of the oil companies. That has to do with laws enacted within the oil producing states to limit the amount of oil that can be taken from oil fields. Such laws have, of course, been trumpeted by the oil companies as so-called "conservation" measures. "Conservation" is one of those nice sounding, public spirited phrases that so reeks with mom, apple pie, and the fourth of July, that people overlook its cartellistic, price-stabilizing purposes.

In the 1920s, oil companies began promoting legislation to place controls on oil production because the amount of oil being produced drove the price down to levels which such companies found "uncomfortable." Industry members exploited the "conservation" arguments and sentiments in order to get legislation passed that would allow state governments to limit the amount of production so as to stabilize prices at levels the oil companies found more agreeable. It should be noted, in partial defense of the oil companies, that the failure of the courts to identify and protect exclusive property interests in underground oil contributed to the industry's quest for political alternatives. But it must be emphasized that the principal motivation underlying such "conservation" laws was a desire to limit production in order to stabilize prices at a higher level than existed in a free market.

Overproduction 'Evils'
In 1928, the influential Oil and Gas

Journal declared: "Excessive competition begets excessive competition which sooner or later takes the form of price cutting." An official of Standard Oil (N.J.) echoed these sentiments during this same time period when he stated: "... earnings cannot be sufficient without a larger measure of cooperative effort in the balancing of production and demand." Humble Oil's William Parish announced "we are interested in conservation," then added his endorsement of government and industry cooperation "to balance production with consumption." An official of Shell declared that conservation was "the only way to eliminate the evils of overproduction." Without conservation," he went on, "the industry will continue to bring in new producing fields before they are needed; price wars will continue; oil profits will disappear." When pressed to explain how oil was being "wasted" by competition, Edward Seubert of Standard Oil (Ind.) responded: "Well, it is wasted in the fact it is put in the market at demoralizing prices and is wasting to the extent of demoralizing the general industry."

As a result of pressure from the oil companies, state legislatures began passing legislation to provide the anti-competitive, price-increasing controls which, even today, operate to restrict the amount of petroleum that can be taken from the ground. Oil companies may be asking for some limited "decontrol" of their industry, but you can be assured that they will not be asking for a removal of controls on production itself. In this regard, the oil companies share with many disgruntled drivers and so-called "consumer advocates" a belief in the necessity for governmental controls.

With all the talk about energy lately you would think the primary concern for Americans would be to improve roadways and save gasoline. As most of us can tell, that is not the primary concern with our local government though.

If you have lived in Pampa for more than a month undoubtedly your car rattles like a tin can and your shocks have completely had it.

The dips in the streets not only tear up your car but are extremely dangerous, even at the posted speed limit.

If a vehicle did not slow down for some these dangerous bumps they would surely travel out of control after impact.

Recently our city fathers in their wisdom decided to spend thousands of dollars for street repair. No, not to fix the holes in the street or to supply proper curbs and gutters but to seal coat the streets already in good repair.

They say this will protect the streets from the hard weather we have experienced lately but in fact it will do little good for the people of Pampa.

If the city fathers are going to spend our tax dollars they should at least look at the problem and try to spend the money wisely.

The local government said there was not enough money allocated to pave the streets of Pampa and that seal coating was the practical way to spend the money.

Even if the city paved three blocks of the city streets it would be a vast improvement in the condition of our city's roadways.

I noticed the city has done some paving lately. No, not on the main arteries of town but on a side street that is seldom used by anyone, even the people that live around it.

Why the city paved that street is beyond me.

Have you looked around at what your tax dollars are buying for you.

Fine city streets, adequate drainage to prevent street flooding, curbs and gutters on all the streets of Pampa, new or remodeled government buildings to better serve you, new playground equipment in the city parks, a local urban renewal project to beautify the city.

None of these things exist in Pampa. Your money, those hard earned dollars, goes to pay salaries of street maintenance crews that you never see on the streets, city workers that can be seen at all hours of the day shopping in local stores, and countless other city employee salaries that are not necessary.

If we got what we paid for with our tax dollars and cut out the waste, even on a local level, Pampa would be the nation's most beautiful city.

I think every person in Pampa should make it a point to tell our new mayor just what they think of what they are getting for their money and let us see how he can change Pampa for the better.

Women less than naked

Anyway, I'm not alone any more. A month ago you and I compared notes concerning the advertising of feminine hygiene items on television and elsewhere.

It seemed to me that TV, for all its "codes" and protestations of innocence and careful scrutiny of cleavage, was stripping women less than naked with sanitary napkin commercials.

According to the Wall Street Journal there is more to come: "Five giant corporations are preparing to launch an all - out advertising war for the $300 million tampon market."

The National Association of Broadcasters which sets the rules for most TV stations has decided to restrict feminine hygiene commercials to certain hours - 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and after 10 p.m.

Presumably these are the hours that children are not viewing. Only during those hours may the product advertisers tell listeners and viewers that if women really want to be fresh and smell nice they must use certain products.

I'm not alone in finding these commercials an affront.

In the Los Angeles Times Jim Sanderson writes: "My sex education has been increased by television ads to include details of douches and woody - smelling vaginal spray; my sanitary napkin horizon has been expanded to include the pros and cons of betless maxi - pads and light - day pantliners."

He says, "I tried not to pay attention but during the second half of last night's movie three different ladies tried to sell me tampons."

And his remarks brought a response from 5,000 men and women who were similarly fed up.

At least one broadcasting executive says, "I seriously question whether, as an invited guest, it is appropriate for us repeatedly to talk in mixed company about these products. I know of no homes where this is a generally accepted mixed - company conversational subject."

In another paper, "TV ads for feminine hygiene products have been around for four or five years but as the public became more tolerant the advertisers became more graphic."

Two women - Pat Myers and Gail Richter - have formed an organization called OFF - Organization for Femininity.

Through their insistence the advertising code writers agreed to the omission of certain words and phrases which the women considered particularly offensive.

But with typical Madison Avenue callousness the peddlers of the products have managed to parade and promote the items in a code - allowable manner which I am sure they consider ingenious.

I was brought up to believe that our living room, dining room, and kitchen were open to others, but that our bedrooms and our bathroom were private.

Obviously, that is an old-fashioned premise but, anyway, in my sadness at the legalization of intellectual rape I am not alone any more.

Today in history

By The Associated Press
Today is Sunday, May 20, the 140th day of 1979. There are 225 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1862, President Abraham Lincoln signed the Homestead Act, opening millions of acres of land to settlers in the American West.

On this date:
In 1507, Christopher Columbus died in Spain.

In 1861, North Carolina voted to secede from the Union.

In 1902, the United States ended its occupation of Cuba.

In 1943, during World War II, the United States and Britain ratified a treaty abolishing extra-territorial rights in China.

In 1968, the U.S. Supreme Court reaffirmed the right to a jury trial for anyone charged with a serious crime.

A real cool idea

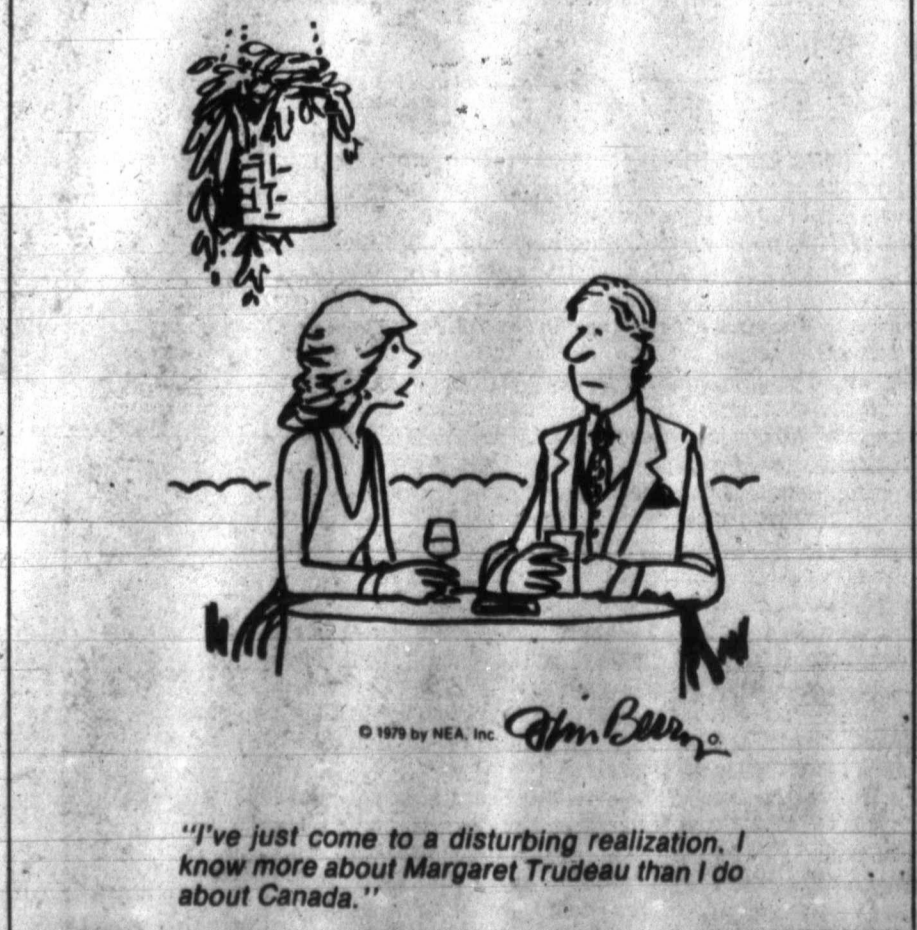

In something of a contemporary variation on the old one about Mohammed and the mountain, a Saudi prince says he intends to solve his arid country's water problem by going to a source where there are literally mountains of it - Antarctica.

Specifically, Prince Mohammed Al Faisal, a businessman and banker, is planning to tow Antarctic icebergs through the Indian Ocean and Red Sea to the Saudi coast where their meltdown, if you'll pardon the expression, could yield water in a flow estimated at many times that of neighboring Egypt's life - giving Nile River. Saudi food production would triple and the desert he made to bloom. The prince hopes to start operations next year. He estimates the cost of towing a medium sized berg to the point of use could come to $100 million, but expects to make a $30 million profit over that.

Well, to some the project may sound all wet. But then, that probably would have been the response not too many years back to a suggestion that one of the globe's most forbidding regions might soon be finding sufficient wealth under its sands to be in a position to drain not only the Antarctic of its cold ice but the industrial world of its cold cash.

Senators called 'deserters' by colleagues

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Their Senate colleagues chastised them Saturday as "deserters" immorally violating their constitutional oaths.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby called them "fugitives of the law." But the missing state senators known as the "Killer Bees" say they will remain at their hideout indefinitely to stop passage of a "rigged" 1980 presidential primary measure.

One absentee not with the 11 others reportedly has taken refuge in a Catholic church in San Juan, Texas, some 12 miles from a courthouse where he eluded state troopers Friday. But a priest at the church said Saturday the senator was not there.

The "dutiful" 19 senators — minus some with excused absences — convened briefly Saturday morning and criticized the "fugitives." After dismissing them indefinitely, Hobby questioned the effectiveness of state troopers and Texas Rangers sent to hunt down and arrest the absentees.

"The effort has not been very impressive," the Senate's presiding officer said at 10 a.m., 24 hours after the search. "It's 12 prominent senators of the state they've failed to find."

Sgt. Charlie Russell of the Texas Department of Public Safety said a car linked to Sen. Raul Longoria, D-Edinburg, was found at 1:30 a.m. Saturday parked within a church compound.

Russell said officers were observing the church law of sanctuary and had no plans to enter the church building and adjoining retreat grounds.

Hobby said the car sighted was registered to U.S. District Judge Reynaldo G. Garza of Brownsville "who is supposed to be at the same retreat that Senator Longoria is at."

But Moises Yela, a Harlingen attorney who also attended the retreat, said Longoria was not there.

Other Democratic senators who boycotted a Friday Senate session were:

Chet Brooks of Pasadena, Ron Clower of Garland, Lloyd Doggett of Austin, Gene Jones of Houston, Glenn Kothmann of San Antonio, Oscar Mauzy of Dallas, Bill Patman of Ganado, Carl Parker of Port Arthur, A.R. "Babe" Schwartz of Galveston, Carlos Truan of Corpus Christi and Bob Vale of San Antonio.

Russell said an estimated 30 troopers and Texas Rangers checked friends, relatives and local hangouts in the member's home districts overnight but found no leads. If arrested, the absentees would not be charged with a criminal violation.

Two absentees phoned separate Capitol news offices after the group issued a joint statement Friday afternoon.

"We will be out for the weekend unless there is some indication that the leadership of the Senate is ready to get down to the people's business," Doggett said.

TALK ABOUT Animal Control! This obliging canine made Animal Control Officer Travis Howell's job a little easier Thursday afternoon. The dog jumped on the back of Howell's truck while he was driving in the 1100 block of South Sumner and liked riding there so much that Howell couldn't get him to leave. Howell had no choice but to take the dog to the animal shelter, but at least the pooch enjoyed his ride to incarceration.

Old books never die; they just turn yellow

Old-book sales have a kind of musty poignance, since old volumes never die, they just mellow, then yellow and crumble and become unglued. Perhaps this is due to a certain stigma attached to destroying a book, especially a hard back volume. Apparently, a great many people feel inhibited about euthanasia where books are concerned. And, of course, burning a book is a symbol not only of irascible ignorance but of totalitarian suppression of free speech.

Anyway, such were my thoughts while recently browsing through rows of old and new volumes (most were in good condition) at the Friends of the Library's annual book sale. Here were books of every conceivable kind, many of which had probably done years of time in attics or closets or forgotten storage trunks. The books were beyond a mere bargain, most selling for token prices of 50 or 75 cents, and these prices were cut by half toward the end of the sale.

For $1.15, I took home a 400 page novel by C.S. Lewis ("Corridors of Power"), the same author's famous "Screwtape Letters" (one of the most literate and popular defenses of Christianity ever written), a long novel by New York lawyer-banker Louis Auchincloss ("The Embezzler"), and an old edition of short stories and sketches by Dorothy Parker ("After Such Pleasures").

For all practical purposes, the Friends of the Library weren't so much selling books as trying to find a new home for as many of them as possible, a task as admirable as the organization itself. The sale seemed dedicated to the proposition that all books should be preserved as long as possible—even those vagrant paperback historical romances, a few of which turned up at the sale, along with somebody's old college textbook on accounting. The token price was a courtesy to the books themselves, helping to prevent them from being indiscriminately hoarded—as things inevitably are when they are handed out for nothing.

The British author and bookseller Christopher Darlington Morley once wrote in an essay on the buying of books and the stalking of bookshops, "There are some knightly souls who even go so far as to make their visits to bookshops a kind of chivalrous errantry at large. They go in not because they need any certain volume, but because they feel that there may be some book that needs them..."

The Friends of the Library sale provided for the emergency rescue of unwanted volumes which did not even have the solace of a bookshop. Frankly, if books could die, the Lovett Memorial Library gallery where the sale was held would have seemed like a morgue. But, since books don't die, it was more like a combination nursing home and adoption agency. Each buyer purchased a chance to bring a disabled volume back to a productive life.

Waxing so sentimental about books, I should opine that there's no mortal sin in burning unused literature; and I confess I once took a lot of pleasure in burning a book I didn't like.

It was called "The Walk of the Conscious Ants," an account by a New England college professor of his part in the "greening of America."

"The Walk of the Conscious Ants" sounds like the title of a low budget horror film, and in a way it was a horror story (though, like most bad horror stories, inadvertently funny) about what so-called higher education is coming to. The book detailed the good professor's success in developing a college course in which students received so many hours of class credit in philosophy simply for participating in a 600 mile walk.

This was obviously "back to basics" with a vengeance. The book was full of petulant counter-culture nonsense about the insensitivity of university authorities to the project and about the leering comments from the rednecks our scholar-hikers encountered along the way, so smug with exhortations to "stop and smell the flowers", so full of the good professor's bone-headed conceit, that I set "Walk of the Conscious Ants" down on the concrete slab I call the patio and gently caressed it with the soft flames of a half-dozen kitchen matches.

As luck would have it, the pages were thick and porous, and the thing burned elaborately into a nice crisp cauliflower shape. I placed it on the Lazy Suzan in the dining room where for several weeks it maintained itself as a work of modern sculpture titled, by a neatly lettered placard, "Book Review."

In a way, making a burnt offering of "The Walk of the Conscious Ants" was a sacrifice as senseless as the sadistic boyhood pastime of drowning grasshoppers. But, without the brutal aid of charcoal lighter, there was a certain dignity in its demise, and a definite honor in its reincarnation as a floral arrangement.

Roloff bill may receive fatal setback

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Radio evangelist Lester Roloff's legislative efforts to avoid state licensing of his homes for wayward youngsters have taken a possibly fatal setback.

The House, whose presiding officer was in Roloff's corner, voted 78-59, to delay action on the "Brother Roloff Bill" until May 26.

That's two days before the regular legislative session ends, and under House rules the bill could not be debated then.

"I'm glad that the House decided not to involve itself in what I feel was an attempt by the state's chief executive officer, Governor Clements, and the state's chief law enforcement officer, Attorney General Mark White, to squirm off the political griddle," said Rep. Dave Allred, D-Wichita Falls.

Allred, a part-time minister in the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), led the House fight against the bill.

Gov. Bill Clements, who received campaign help from Roloff and his allies, also had declared himself in favor of exempting the Roloff homes from licensing and inspection by the State Department of Human Resources.

The Austin American-Statesman quoted sponsors of the Roloff bill as saying it had been drafted in the offices of Clements and White.

Only last week, Roloff paid a 1976 contempt judgment totaling $33,146 for operating his homes without a license, and White filed a new contempt suit over the continued unlicensed operation of the home since 1976.

Rate This Week Annual Effective Yield Subject to Change At Renewal

This week's Money Market rate at Panhandle Savings is the highest rate available at any financial institution.

Federal regulation now prohibits any financial institution from paying a higher rate on Money Market certificates when the rate is at or above 9%.

Drop by or call Panhandle Savings & Loan. They'll show you how an investment of $10,000 for 26 weeks in a Panhandle Savings Money Market Certificate at this week's rate will yield you a tidy profit.

Federal law and regulation prohibit the payment of savings certificates prior to maturity unless three months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate. Federal regulations will not allow us to compound interest on Money Market certificates.

Company sponsors contest

For the second consecutive year, Hesston Corporation with the cooperation of Miami Implement Co., and other Hesston farm equipment dealers throughout North America are sponsoring a "Salute To Agriculture" essay contest for members of the Future Farmers of America that will be developed into a public service television message to be aired during the telecast of the 1979 National Finals Rodeo in December.

FFA members are being asked to submit a message in 100 words or less on the importance of agriculture to the economy and standard of living in North America, including Canada. A total of $2500 in prize money will be awarded winning entries. First place winner will receive $500; four second place winners will receive $250 each and ten third place winners, $100 each. Winners will be announced at the National FFA Convention in Kansas City on November 7.

The first place entry will be developed into a 60 second public service message to be aired over a special Hesston Rodeo television network of approximately 200 stations in the United States and Canada that are scheduled to carry the final performance of the National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City in early December.

Last year's winning message submitted by Jim Ramsbottom, member of the Belleville, Kansas chapter of the FFA, was selected from more than 2500 entries received from FFA members around the U. S.

The contest is open to any of the 500,000 bonafide, dues-paying members of the FFA. Entry forms and complete rules are available from Hesston Corporation and any of the local Hesston farm equipment dealers throughout North America, or from the National and State FFA offices.

Entries must be submitted no later than September 30, 1979, directly to Hesston Corporation, Hesston, Kansas 67602. Attn: Salute to Agriculture Contest. Each entry must contain the name, date of submission, address, phone number of the entrant, and the name of his FFA Chapter. The entries will be judged by a panel of agri-industry executives.

Students concerned about no assembly

Some Pampa High School students were disappointed when they discovered the annual awards assembly had never been scheduled. One concerned senior wrote a complaint and a forewarning to future graduates in the form of a petition, which was signed by 45 of the Class of 1979.

The petition was published in Friday's "Little Harvester," the student publication and stirred the emotions of some students who felt the assembly was important.

"I am against not having an awards assembly because it shows how far the school has gone," one senior said, and "it (the assembly) should have been the highlight of the year."

Another senior said, "I don't care because I wasn't going to be in it."

The publication said the students' knowledge of his fellow classmates was important and advised future students to prevent the same thing happening to them.

Principal Paul Payne, who schedules assemblies and has received many complaints from parents and teachers as well as students, said, "You'd really be beating a dead horse to try to do much about it at this time."

Dead week will begin Monday and will be followed by several days of graduation activities, he said and added that the public announcement system in the Field House still may be faulty.

"The Field House was not appropriate at the time the assembly should have been scheduled," he said, and explained that the PA system was working poorly then.

Many students complained of being unable to hear the keynote speaker of the Career Clinic because of static from the PA system.

"We can't have all the students in the auditorium because they won't fit," he said, and although some students would lessen the attendance by skipping, the school would still be responsible for their actions.

Explaining other problems of scheduling the event, the principal said the awards assembly was originally for honoring the academic student and has drifted from that.

The number of possible awards presentations has increased considerably, he said, and in trying to present them all we could start at 8:30 a.m. and still be in assembly in the afternoon.

Cancellation or a drastic change in format are the two possible considerations for assuring that the assembly will be held without problems, he said.

"Where do you draw the line for something like this?" he asked.

He is presently considering making the guidelines for participants in the assembly more strict by honoring only Student Body officers, top academic students and the high departmental achievers.

The dinner honoring the top ten percent of the graduating class served to replace the assembly by going back to the original emphasis of academics, according to Payne.

As for possible changes in future assemblies, he said he would also like to see the parents involved in the event.

Much of the assembly is also duplication, he said, for many already know who most of the honorees are through announcements and banquets, such as the large Vocational Opportunity dinner.

This is probably not the first time the assembly was not held, he said, however next year will again check the possibilities.

Pampans awarded scholarships

Two 1979 Pampa High School graduates are recipients of Cabot Corporation Scholarships.

Julian G. Clark and Douglas S. Skaggs received the scholarships. Each year, on a competitive basis, Cabot Corporation makes a total of twenty-five college scholarship awards of $1,000 each to children of its employees in the United States and Canada.

The evaluation and selection of applicants for scholarship awards is the responsibility of a scholarship committee. The committee, whose membership rotates each year, is made up of representatives from colleges and universities in four geographic areas where there are Cabot facilities and operations.

In addition to the twenty-five $1,000 scholarship awards each year, four alternate applicants are selected in the order of merit and in the event that one or more of the original twenty-five scholarship recipients are unable to make use of an award, the alternates, by rank, will fill the vacancy or vacancies.

Julian Clark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack F. Clark of 1013 Charles Street, Pampa, Texas. Julian plans to study pre-law at Texas Tech University. During the past year he has served the Pampa High School student body as Vice-President. He was the varsity football captain and selected as a participant on the all-district first team. Julian is a member of the National Honor Society, Concert Choir, Key Club and he ranked in the Top Ten of the graduating class. Julian enjoys all sports and participates in football, baseball, basketball, and track. His favorite hobbies include reading, traveling, and collecting both baseball card and iron banks. He is vice president of his church choir.

Doug Skaggs is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Skaggs of 2714 Comanche, Pampa, Texas. Doug is interested in a math and science major at Texas Tech. Doug is ranked in the top ten percent of his class and is a member of the National Honor Society. He was co-captain of the basketball team and won District Honorable Mention and Free Throw Award in basketball. He is president of the Octagon Club, sponsored by the Pampa Optimist Club. He was a participant in the Mock Congress Political Debate at school and has been a Volunteer Political Campaign Worker. He is a member of the Math and Science Club. Doug also enjoys sports, including basketball, tennis, golf and skiing. His hobbies include building models and woodworking. Doug works part time at the Pampa Country Club.

In the southwest one other 1979 Cabot scholarship award went to Rance R. Ingram, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ingram, Route 1, Box 187X, Franklin, Louisiana. The Ingram's lived in Pampa prior to their move to Franklin, Louisiana, in 1971.

Cain rules in Dumas court

223rd District Judge Don Cain was in Dumas this week presiding over civil cases for which 69th District Judge Bill Sheehan disqualified himself when taking office in January.

The 69th District Judge had disqualified himself from about 40 civil cases because of his involvement in some cases as a private attorney in Dumas, his secretary Barbara Jackson said Friday. Sheehan had practiced law in Dumas for 21 years before his appointment to the district bench this year.

SPECTACULAR BID crosses the finish in the 104th running of the Preakness Stakes in Baltimore, Md., to claim the second jewel of the Triple Crown. (AP Laserphoto)

Spectacular Bid wins

BALTIMORE (AP) — Spectacular Bid took control on the final turn and ran off with the $265,300 Preakness Stakes at Pimlico on Saturday with the second-fastest clocking in the 104-year history of the race.

It was a spectacular performance and put the Kentucky Derby winner in line to become thoroughbred racing's third Triple Crown winner in three years.

Spectacular Bid, ridden by Ronnie Franklin, flashed under the wire a clear winner over Golden Act. Screen King came next, followed by Flying Paster and General Assembly, who had cut out the early pace.

Spectacular Bid completed the 13-16 miles in 1:54.15, just one-fifth of a second off the stakes and track record set by Canonero II in 1971. The track at race time was listed as good.

Spectacular Bid's victory was delayed in being made official because of an inquiry involving Screen King and Flying Paster. However, after deliberating, the stewards allowed the order of finish to stand.

The Bid's 12th straight victory before a "home" crowd of 72,607 made him the sport's 24th millionaire.

He earned $165,300 to boost his career bankroll to $1,123,587 on a record of 14 wins and a second in 16 starts.

Spectacular Bid's margin of victory was five lengths over Golden Act, the Derby third-place finisher, who was four lengths in front of Screen King. Flying Paster was 1 1/2 lengths further back.

Spectacular Bid, owned by Harry, Teresa and Tom Meyerhoff, paid $2.20 and $2.20. It equaled the lowest Preakness payoff set by Citation in 1948.

Local softball play

In city league softball play, Vicky Nunn and Nuggie Thomas topped the hitting display of Dunlaps as it defeated the Pampa News 27-3 at a May 17th game.

Pricella Bernal was the top hitter for the News while Neva Davis was its pitcher, but their efforts were squelched by the pitching of Dunlap's Thomas and the fielding of her teammates.

The News failed to hit effectively May 14th while playing Holtman which, lead by pitcher Sherry Free, won 18-6.

Kelly Richardson, Peggy Ferrell and Dee Ann Gray topped the game batting averages for Holtman, and Brenda Thrasher lead the News' hitting with a home-run smash.

Pitcher Jackie Graham lead Jenkins Motor Co. in a 5-4 victory over R & W at a May 16th game, and her throwing was reinforced by the hitting of Nelson Medley and Allen Jenkins.

Dale Taylor was the pitcher for R & W, and Alan Cloud and Freddy Romines paced its hitting efforts.

Harvesters finish season

By JERRY GUNTER
Pampa News Sports Editor
LUBBOCK—The 1979 baseball season for the Pampa Harvesters came to an end early Friday afternoon at Lowrey Field.

District 4-AAAA titlist Lubbock Monterey wasted little time in disposing of the 3-AAAA champion Harvesters as they rolled to a 6-1 win. The victory gave the Plainsmen a two-game bi-district sweep over Pampa and advanced Monterey into the regional round of the state playoffs.

Monterey wasted little time in getting started as the Plainsmen scored once in the first inning and added four more tallies in the second enroute to the romp.

The loss brought an end to the season for the Pampa crew as the Harvesters finished with a very respectable 19-7 mark. Meanwhile, Monterey will carry a mark of 28-7 into next week's playoff contests.

The main weapon for Monterey Friday turned out to be the superb pitching of sophomore hurler Steve Coleman. He scattered six hits and fanned 13 Harvester batters. Throughout the day, he had Pampa on the ropes as the Harvesters had a great deal of trouble in getting the base hits.

In fact, Pampa never advanced anyone as far as third base until the sixth inning when Mark Jennings blasted a triple to the center field fence. Rick Dougherty followed with a ground rule double to knock in the only run of the day for the Harvesters.

Jennings picked up two hits for the day for Pampa as he added a single along with that three-base smash. However, it was Steve McDougall who had the most success against the tough Monterey pitching. McDougall went three-for-four with three singles.

Monterey got started fast in the first inning as Andy Barren led off with a single to left. Randy Ledbetter then walked. Both base runners then stole a base, before Ricky Pinkerton hit a sacrifice fly to chase Barren home. That put Monterey out in front, 1-0.

In the second inning, again losing pitcher Rick Dougherty was having control problems as he walked the first two Plainsmen batters in succession. Later in the inning, a sacrifice bunt by Barren knocked Bart Burgess in and then a high hopper by Ledbetter got past Pampa first baseman Mickey Bynum, which allowed pinch runner Kelly Grammer to score.

Then Pinkerton got a single to score Ledbetter. The final run of the inning for Monterey came as Kent Potts sliced a single to left with two outs. That brought Pinkerton in for a 5-0 Monterey lead.

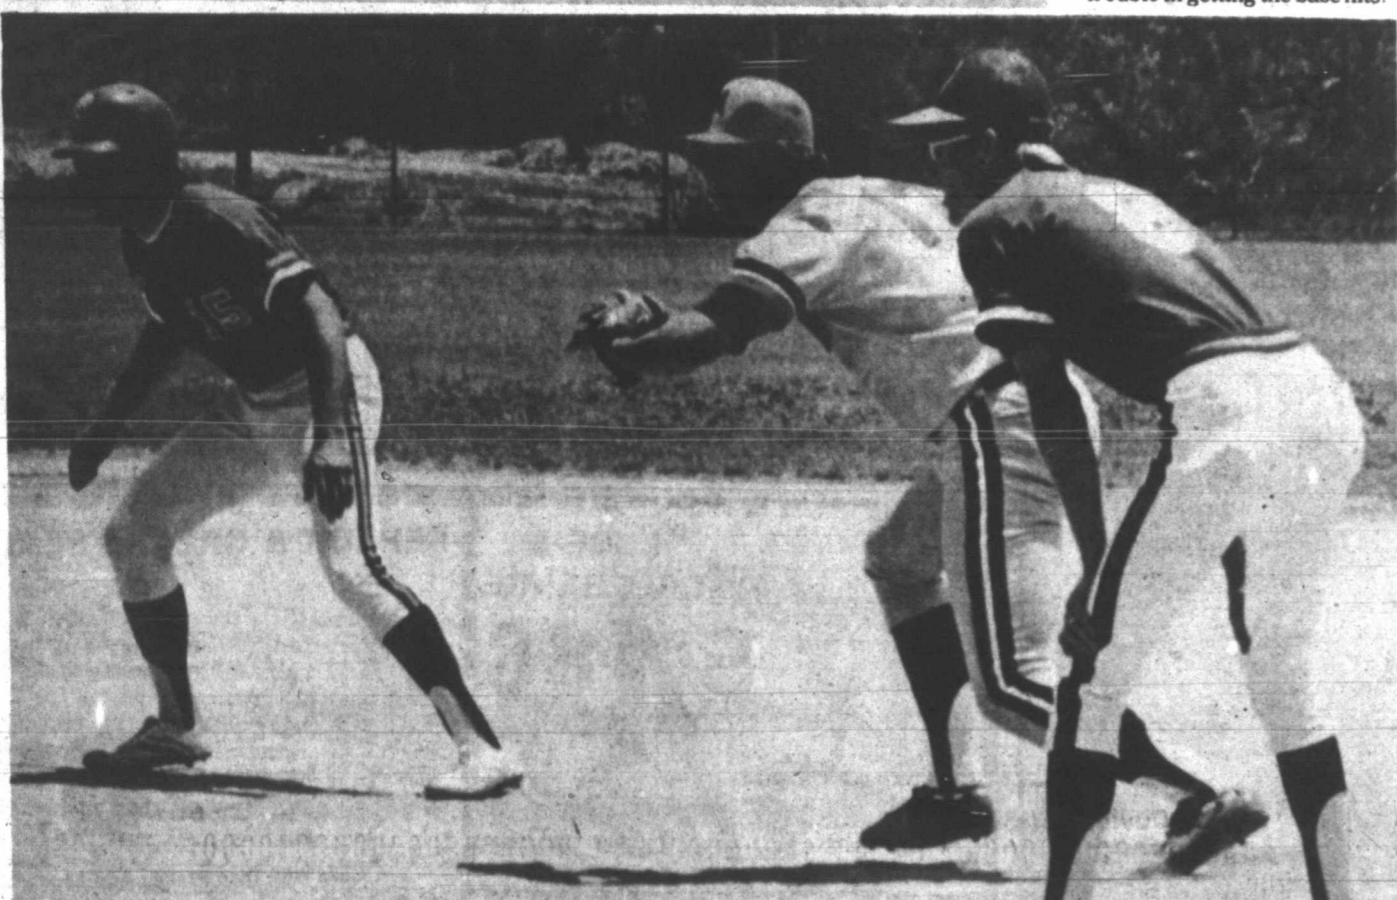

There was not any more scoring until the fourth inning when Ledbetter slammed a single to right to chase Barren home from second. That gave the hosts a very comfortable 6-0 edge after four full innings.

Up until the sixth frame, Pampa had not threatened but twice. The initial one came in the first inning, when the Harvesters had base runners on first and second with just one out. But Coleman got out of the jam as Dougherty fouled out to the catcher before Greg Koch was retired swinging. Again in the third inning, McDougall and Wuest got on safely, but the threat stalled at that point.

Pampa made one last desperation try in the seventh, but pinch-hitters Steve Stout and Doug Baird struck out. McDougall kept the Harvesters alive as he got an infield hit. However, the season ended as Richard Wuest hit a pop up to Coleman to end the game and the season for the Harvesters.

MONTEREY'S NO. 1, Randy Ledbetter (top) gives his team a four-run lead in the second inning of the second and final game of the bi-district playoff in Lubbock Friday as Harvester catcher, Clyde Coffee, awaits a throw. (Bottom) Richard Wuest (15) inches toward second, but sticks close to base while Monterey's Kent Potts crouches in preparation. Wuest, making it to first base twice, was unable to score against the Plainsmen.

Longhorns dominate Conference

By The Associated Press
 The University of Texas dominated The Associated Press 1979 All-Southwest Conference baseball team much as the NCAA playoff-bound Longhorns did the regular season and the post-season tournament.

The Longhorns, who rolled to a 22-2 regular season mark and swept through the tournament without a loss, were guided flawlessly by Coach Cliff Gustafson, who was named the SWC Coach of the Year.

Texas pitcher Jerry Don Gleaton, who was 6-0 in the regular season with a 0.95 earned run average, was named The Player of the Year. Arkansas ace Steve Krueger, who was 7-0 with a 1.15 ERA during the SWC season, was named The Newcomer of the Year.

The other pitcher on the three-man staff was Ricky Wright of Texas, who was 5-2 with a 1.26 ERA for the year, just nipping teammate Keith Creel, the All-Tournament MVP.

Ronn Reynolds of Arkansas, who hit .381 with 19 RBIs and three homers, was the All-league catcher and batterymate for the illustrious mound staff.

The other infield positions on the mythical team included Terry Salazar of Texas, who collected a league-high 23 RBIs with a .286 average and only one error afield at first base; second sacker Johnny Ray of Arkansas, a .316 hitter with only five errors; third baseman Fritz Connally of Baylor, a .342 hitter; shortstop Ron Gardenhire of Texas, a .304 hitter with only five errors; plus utility infielder Ed Wallace of Arkansas, a .400 hitter.

The outfielders included Larry Selby of Texas Tech, a .381 slugger with 17 RBIs; Joe Bruno of Texas, who hit .324; Jay Beard of Houston, a .347 hitter; and utility outfielder Shelton McMath of Texas A&M, a .300 hitter.

The designated hitter is Luke Prestridge of Baylor, who hit .352.

Hey America, want a free quart of motor oil?

*Purchase required.

As incredible as it may seem, Conoco wants to give you a quart of our best motor oil—free.

Why? Because we're out to prove just how good New Generation All Season Motor Oil really is.

We know the best way to prove it is through performance, not talk.

So when you try it, you'll find that our oil can save you money three ways.

First, it saves money on oil because it goes 15,000 miles or one year (whichever comes first) between changes.

Second, it saves money on gas. When you combine it with good car care, you can improve gas mileage.

And third, it saves money because it's priced lower than most new generation oils.

So America, get your free quart of New Generation All Season. It'll put you miles ahead when it comes to saving money.

Here's how to get your free quart of motor oil.

- Buy five quarts of Conoco's New Generation All Season.
- Circle motor oil purchase on receipt.
- Score around the words "The Motor Oil That Saves You Money" and peel from the can labels.
- Fill in coupon, send it, your receipt, and five labels to us. We'll refund your money for one quart.

Orioles edge Jays—roundup

By the Associated Press
Orioles 4, Blue Jays 3

Lee May hit a two-run homer and Rick Dempsey drove home the deciding run with an eighth-inning double that gave Jim Palmer and the Baltimore Orioles a 4-3 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays Saturday.

Indians 6, Tigers 0

Jim Norris drove in five runs with a pair of homers Saturday to spark the Cleveland Indians to a 6-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Red Sox 4, Yankees 3

Jerry Remy singled across the tying run, then scored with two out in the seventh inning on Fred Lynn's third hit, lifting the Boston Red Sox to a 4-3 victory Saturday over the New York Yankees.

Pirates 3, Cubs 9

Pittsburgh's Jim Rooker baffled Chicago for two singles in eight innings Saturday in his 1979 debut, and the Pirates rode Dave Parker's first-inning home run to a 3-0 victory over the Cubs.

Cards 9, Mets 4

Richie Hebner's bases-loaded, two-out fielding error in the 12th inning opened the floodgates and allowed St. Louis six unearned runs as the Cardinals whipped the New York Mets 9-4 Saturday.

Yankees' 'million dollar arms'

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — They are George Steinbrenner's "million dollar arms."

They are like a Las Vegas slot machine — these guys who comprise the pitching staff of the world champion New York Yankees. They are fed by gold nuggets from Steinbrenner's seemingly bottomless coffers. They are always a gamble.

Give the throttle a tug and — ding, dong, bang, bang, whammo, jackpot! As in the case of Tommy John. Another pull and — whir, whir, whir, thud — a plum, a bar and a lemon, as in the case of injury-plagued Don Gullett.

But together they form one of the most intriguing conundrums in baseball: Who's pitching for the Yankees?

There's never been a staff assembled in the game which cost as much or boasted greater experience and credentials. Look 'em over. Five are under contracts of $1 million to $3.5 million. Seven have scored victories in the World Series. Six have had 20-plus seasons, some in multiplicate.

Where or when has there been a staff that could afford to let a man who pitched two no-hit games (Ken Holtzman) decay on the bench for most of two seasons, a Cy Young winner (Sparky Lyle) spend his time in the bullpen spitting tobacco juice and discard a relief ace (Rawly Eastwick) who was a stopper for the Cincinnati Reds in their halcyon years in the mid-1970s?

What other team could afford to take its 25-3 Cy Young winner of the year before (Ron Guidry) out of the front lines and assign him to bullpen holding action? Guidry is back to regular duty tonight.

Steinbrenner began assembling his mound nuggets by signing Jim "Catfish" Hunter, the backbone of Oakland's world championship staff, to a $3.5 million contract in December, 1974.

The Catfish, now 33, paid immediate dividends. He won 23 games in 1975 and 17 in 1976 before developing soreness in his right shoulder. He is in the last year of a five-year contract.

The Yankees added Holtzman ($185,000-a-year) and Gullett ($2.09 million) in 1976. They picked up Andy Messersmith ($1 million) and Eastwick ($1.1 million) in December, 1977.

None measured up to the price tags although hope springs eternal for Gullett, a washout in 1978 and a question mark in 1979 because of shoulder problems.

Holtzman subsequently was traded to the Chicago Cubs. Messersmith, injury prone, was released, picked up by the Dodgers. Eastwick was traded to the Phillies.

Steinbrenner protected his flanks by signing reliever Rich Gossage ($2.7 million) in the winter of 1977 and a year later adding aging Luis Tiant ($1 million over 12 years) and Tommy John ($1.75 million).

Is George getting his money's worth? Only his accountant knows.

Education grant

AUSTIN — Texas will move into its first statewide program development effort in career education July 1 under a $1.1 million grant from the U.S. Office of Education.

The grant application, approved May 12 by the State Board of Education, will support both elementary and secondary career education efforts in some 250 school districts throughout Texas.

"A number of school districts and regional education service centers have developed career education programs on their own initiative," said Dr. L. Harlan Ford, Texas Education Agency deputy commissioner for programs and personnel development.

"While we have worked closely with these districts and the regional units in developing the State Plan for career Education, we have not been able to provide any financial support," Ford says.

"With this federal grant, we expect new programming and teacher inservice training to move ahead much faster," he said.

Teenage minds—what's there?

Psychologists and administrators have tried to search every nook and cranny of the lives of teenagers to find out what goes on inside their minds.

Tests of Freudian, Jungian or of other philosophical origins have been created to enable the curious to analyze the teenage mind, yet the accuracy of these evaluations has and always will be subjective.

According to a recent journalistic study, the teenage thought pattern can be best determined from the scribbling found on desk tops.

Although the conclusions drawn from the study are far from foolproof, they could be considered food for thought or regurgitation.

The artists are usually the first to reveal themselves in these high school hieroglyphics.

One future Rembrandt sketched a fellow student's head twice, leaving out details and emphasizing a curt smile and big eyes.

This student sees others as nice and uncomplex, and as either securely happy or insecurely unhappy because of the simplistic design.

Several of the artists have tried to portray their teachers in some kind of perspective, indicating a deep consciousness of their educators.

One sketch of an octopus topped with a skeleton head probably pronounced one teenager's feelings that the world has bad things hidden in it.

After rummaging through several desk tops, love can be seen as common in the profuse number of hearts, which enclose initials.

One teenager showed a deep abiding respect for his mother, for inside one heart, he had gingerly written "Mom."

Another person wrote "Whoever finds this I love you," and the finder replied "I love you too."

Possessiveness also seemed to be characteristic with many students writing notes that the desk belonged to them.

A desire to be known could be seen where several students had left initials and full names for the next occupant of the chair to read.

However, one of the unintentional historians (the marks are now of the past) combined possessiveness with pride in his name by writing "Joe sits here."

One person, who probably had to sit at the possessed desk, answered with a simple "so." This responsive person seems to detect arrogance from the seats original warmer.

The popularity of a movement is illustrated with the unmarred pencil drawing of a clinched fist surrounded by phrases, such as "soul city" and "right on to the bone."

A cross with a streamer and an engraving of "Jesus Saves" were probably left by Christian who wanted to witness to fellow students.

"Viva la france" could have expressed the sentiments of a high school Frenchman who thinks his country is dying.

Many loyalists have emblazoned their class year and yells into the wood or have written proclamations of which cycle or car is the best.

One student is uncertain of his commitment to a class and wrote "We're the class that is first rate. We're the class of X."

He could have also been uncertain of his graduation.

A peace sign and a swastika are pencilled in wood as storybook remnants of war and blood. The students could have engraved it, but their consciences probably wanted the mess easily cleaned.

A philosopher accentuates a taste for the obscure with his Chinese proverb - "Man who keeps wairus in bathtub should not ride children across Menah desert."

The mathematician has engraved his desk with triangles and stars and has made perpendicular boxes to indicate right angles.

One student, probably a girl because of the rounded perfect cursive writing, had proved himself resourceful by marking notes of the number of judges in the Appeals and District Courts (could it have been a cheat sheet? - no!).

A command of the English language was exemplified by the usage of all the latest cliches and the oldest curse words. The attitude here is uncommunicative.

An inclination toward belief in the unknown is visualized in a picture of a long-faced dog with antennae.

The word "BOOGIE," boldly written, conjures up a vision of a time when students strode down the hall with long steps and wore T-shirts with iron-ons of "LET BOOGIE."

These highschoolers probably had a philosophy of continual movement, reinforced by strong emotions toward rock n' roll music.

To follow this study, read next week's continuation, which seeks to further evaluate the student psyche through graffiti on the bathroom and other walls.

Homemaker News by Elaine Houston County Extension Agent

The Gray County Homemaker Council will meet Monday, May 21st at 9:30 a.m. in the Annex Meeting Room. Barbara Shaw will present a brief program on parliamentary procedure. We will also present the 4-H scholarship recipient - Berklee Brainard. Marilyn Butler, County Texas Extension Homemakers Association chairman will conduct an election to elect delegates to the state meeting in Fort Worth, September 25-27. All council members should plan to attend this meeting.

CULTURAL ARTS WORKSHOP:

A Cultural Arts Workshop will be held, Tuesday, May 22nd at 9:30 a.m. in the Annex Meeting Room. Lil Hall will show how to make a tissue box cover with poly motif (similar to needlepoint on plastic canvas). The approximate cost will be $1.50. Those attending should bring a skien of any color yarn, scissors and a large eye needle. Everyone is welcome to attend this free workshop.

HOMEMAKERS COLLEGE:

Members of the Gray County Homemaker Clubs attended a "Homemaker's College" last week at the District Research and Extension Center in Amarillo. Theme of the college was Homemakers Fight Inflation. Representatives from the local homemaker clubs attended workshops on fashion up-date, make-up; nutrition and weight control; decorating with sheets and energy conservation, and money management. These club members will be presenting the information to Homemaker Clubs for a club program. Those attending and receiving certificates were: Helen Hogan, Gladys Stone, Mary Symonds, Helen Danford, Barbara Shaw, Roselle Collingsworth, Connie Parks, Sherry Thacker, Eloise Wells, Polly Benton, Marilyn Butler, Pat Murray, Katie McDonald, Annette Muncy, Mrs. G.C. Davis and Pauline Beard.

SEWING WITH SILKS:

Sew with silks to create fashions for summer. Silks come in a variety of fabrications from the beginner's best - bet, broadcloth, to delicate transparent chiffon, to the lustrous crepe de chine, to slightly nubby, sporty - looking noil. Silk linen comes in weights from light handkerchief to heavy suiting. Many silks combined with other natural or man-made fibers produce lower priced, washable blends.

When buying silk fabric, check the stability of the fabric. It should resist slipping and twisting. Check the drape of the fabric. It should fall naturally when hung. Silk should have a dry "hand" (feel dry when touched). This makes it easy to work with and signifies the fabric has a rich body.

In cutting silk, follow the pattern guide. Always use sharp, long-blade shears. If using nubby or coarse - crisp silks, such as tussah, cut pieces singly. The folded fabric may stick to itself and not lay flat. When cutting soft, slippery, lightweight silk, pin to lightweight paper for more stability.

On fine silk fabrics, use a toothed tracing wheel without carbon paper. Also, use chalk or white carbon paper rather than wax - the grease will stain the fabric. Tailor tacks can always be used. Select a natural cotton 80's thread or cotton 50's for heavier fabric. Silk thread is acceptable for basting but not for final stitching - it is too strong. Always use a weaker thread than the fabric for final stitching so that in case of stress the thread breaks instead of fabric tearing. Use fine silk pins to prevent pin hole markings.

Use size 11 sharp needle for fine fabric and size 13 for heavier weights. To avoid puckering, machine tension should be loose and well - balanced. The presser foot pressure should be light. Use 10-12 stitches per inch for fine silks and 8-10 stitches for heavier silks.

Seam finish will depend on the amount of tailoring and fabric weight. Sheer silks, such as chiffons and georgettes, because of the fabric's transparency, should have enclosed seams such as French or flat - felled. These are used on straight or slightly curved seams only. On heavier, unlined silks, use bound seams or a Hong Kong Finish. For lightweight silks, press seam open with one - fourth inch of the raw seam edge turned under and stitched. A plain seam with pinked edges or hand or machine overcasting can be used on firmly woven silks.

New officers installed Wheeler assembly held

Your money's worth by Sylvia Porter

Under a recent California law, auto manufacturers cannot appoint a new car dealer too near to a present dealer if the present dealer objects - unless a state board says that is fair.

Does this mean a state of the U.S. is guaranteeing a dealer a competition-free zone within which the dealer can extract the most possible from us, the consumers?

Or does this mean the state is merely being fair to a dealer who has invested his hard-earned life savings in a showroom by making sure the dealer does not wind up with the manufacturer selling to another outlet right next door?

The battle of competition vs. protection of existing outlets from "cut-throat" rivalry is as old as the medieval guilds which at one time said that no one could sew more than a certain number of stitches a day so that too much pressure would not be put on other members of the occupation involved.

The California car-dealer protection law was challenged in the U.S. Supreme Court as being a violation of due process because an objection by one present dealer could automatically block the car manufacturer from appointing a new dealer in a territory until a hearing before the state board.

The Supreme Court ruled against the manufacturer and upheld the California law, saying that the state has the powers to pass the laws, even though the philosophy is in direct contradiction to the competition mandated by the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. The car manufacturer did not raise the issue of whether or not the California law imposed an unreasonable burden on interstate commerce, and therefore the Supreme Court did not rule on that issue.

Thus, laws such as this still may be vulnerable. But this has not stopped a drive in the direction of protecting dealers from "unfair" competition in just about every form. The results could be:

- (1) Bigger markups which we, the consumers, must pay.
- (2) Highly sophisticated, coordinated campaigns by established dealers in many industries to keep products out of the hands of "discounters" and mail-order houses.

Safety program offered

The Gray County Extension Service will offer a 4-H Farm Tractor and Machinery Safety Program at the Courthouse Annex in Pampa on June 1st and 2nd.

The program will begin at 9 a.m. each morning and dismiss at 5 p.m. each afternoon. Appropriate breaks and a lunch hour will be observed. Participants may wish to bring a sack lunch. Interested youth should register for this tractor safety program at the Extension Office before May 30th.

This training program will be offered to enable 14 to 15 year old youths to meet the requirements for exemptions from the Hazardous Agricultural Occupations order of the Department of Labor. Participants who attend all sessions of the Program and pass the written and driving tests will receive a certificate stating that they have successfully completed the safety training course.

The program will include several hours of classroom instruction and a written exam. Participants will also be given a practical test on the operation of a tractor and trailer over a given course.

Individuals enrolled in the safety program should develop positive attitudes toward tractor and machinery safety and learn the basic principles of tractor and machinery operation and safety.

For more information or to enroll in the course, contact the County Extension Office at 669-7429.

Seniors caps and gowns arrive

The caps and gowns for graduating seniors arrived Wednesday and are waiting to be picked up in room 301 at the high school.

Seniors should hurry and get their garments to iron out the wrinkles, said Principal Paul Payne.

Vespers practice will be held May 29 at 3 p.m. in M.K. Brown and the service will be at 7 p.m.

WHEAT FIED DAY:
The Bushland Wheat Field Day will be held Thursday, May 24th at the Southwestern Great Plains Research Center, 2 miles west of Bushland on the south side of I-40.

The tour begins at 1 p.m. and the public will be able to see the latest in wheat research and hear progress reports from various outstanding research leaders. The program will be very interesting and beneficial to farmers attending the tour program.

TERMITE SWARMING SEASON:
Spring is the time when many homeowners discover they have termites. This is the time when winged forms appear and swarm. Recently we had a local homeowner who found termites in the sheetrock on her ceiling. This was not a typical location, but nonetheless, termites were present in her home.

If winged termites are seen outdoors, usually there is no problem since this is a natural occurrence. But if they are found indoors, usually on a window sill, chances are good that an infestation has established in your home.

Termites can cause extensive damage to wooden parts of your home, so take some precautions.

Quite often termites and certain ants swarm at the same time and it's important to be able to tell the difference between these two insects. Carpenter ants swarm in the springtime and can cause some structural damage to wood. However, termites are much more destructive and require different control measures. Termites have a broad waist—ants have a narrow, constricted waist; termite wings are the same size and shape—ants have a front and back pair of wings of different lengths and shape; termites have straight antennae (feelers on their heads)—ants have elbowed antennae.

Termites may be attracted to your house by dead tree limbs, stumps, old lumber and other sources of termite food. These should be removed. If soil is above the point where wood or brick meets the foundation, termites have easy access to your home. Anywhere that wood meets dirt (siding, wooden steps) is a potential spot for termite entry into the home.

Termites also have the ability to build mud tunnels over non-wooden structures to reach a food source. These tunnels (about one-fourth inch wide) may extend several feet up concrete surfaces. On a slab home, these may be seen on foundation concrete between soil and brick. On homes built above the ground, these tunnels can be found on piers or pipes that go from soil to structure. The bath trap in homes built on a slab is another source of entry. Plumbing in this situation has contact with soil under the slab, and termite tunnels may be found in this area.

Although a thorough inspection is best done by a professional, a homeowner can make a quick check for termite infestations. If termites or damage is found, contact a local pest control company. This is one insect pest that could not be handled by a "do-it-yourselfer." Commercial pest control companies have the necessary equipment and experience to effectively rid a home of termites.

GROWING GUMBO:
Okra, or gumbo, is a common vegetable in home gardens. Okra is a good vegetable to grow in home gardens since it yields heavily from a relatively small space and will continue to yield throughout the long Texas summer. Okra is a relatively good source of protein and some vitamins and minerals.

Since it is a warm season crop, okra should not be planted too early. It should be planted when the minimum average temperature is about 65 degrees F. The faster any seed germinates and the seedling emerges from the soil, the fewer will be the problems in getting a stand. Okra seed planted too early when the soil is cold may rot or produce weak seedlings.

Germination of okra seeds can be accelerated by soaking the seeds for several hours prior to planting. This tends to soften the seed coat and make emergence of the young seedling easier. Some gardeners have reported success in speeding okra germination by freezing the seeds thoroughly prior to planting. The frozen seed are taken directly out of the freezer and submerged in luke-warm water. This may break the seed coat and accelerate germination.

Okra seed does not store well. Home gardeners often have difficulty getting a stand of okra due to the use of old seed which are slow to germinate if they germinate at all. Okra seeds should be renewed each year. Plant okra in rows 36-40 inches apart. After emergence, okra should be thinned to 10-12 inches between plants.

Okra should be fertilized preplant with a complete fertilizer just as other vegetable crops grown in the home garden. The relatively long growing season required by okra necessitates addressing during the growing season. Sidedress application of garden fertilizer should be made after the plants begin to flower. Okra is moderately tolerant of drought conditions, however, weekly applications of one inch of water in absence of rainfall will greatly increase the yield and quality of the okra pods.

Okra is very susceptible to nematodes and wilt. For these reasons, okra plantings should be rotated away from vegetables such as tomatoes which can cause buildup of nematodes and wilt in the soil.

It's the things you can't see that save money in your home!

Wind to heat, cool dwelling

FRITCH—Tired of rising utility costs? A Fritch man might have the way to end those monthly bills and put an end to the energy shortage that is currently plaguing our nation.

His answer is underground living. M.M. Durr, a retired engineer and farmer, has designed an underground dwelling that, according to him, will end the monthly payments that he makes each month to the utility companies.

"If (President) Carter is serious about ending the energy shortage I have the answer for him," Durr said as he unveiled plans for an underground home he is building near here. "Using solar energy and the wind I will be able to do away with the use of any outside energy sources."

Durr claims the United States has the technology to end the energy shortage today if it would use the research already done by NASA. "Before we went to the moon NASA spent $4 billion on research to colonize the moon," Durr said. "The research they (NASA) did is available to anyone for $4.95."

"The research was done using solar energy and wind as a heating and cooling source," Durr said. "NASA also did extensive research on underground living."

The former Phillips engineer spent five years researching and planning his underground home.

"It has taken a lot of time to get all the things worked out, but now it will only take me 90 days to complete the dwelling," he noted.

Durr uses the term dwelling to describe his home, since the word house makes people think of conventional living above the ground.

"All the power for heat, lighting and cooling will be generated by the use of a wind tunnel or solar collectors," he said. "Everything in the dwelling is unconventional to the standards that we are used to."

Designed in the shape of a circle to cut down on wind resistance, the dwelling also allows the wind to keep the room temperature at a constant 68 degrees.

According to Durr, the project will be complete within 90 days.

"There is really nothing to it once you get started," Durr said. "Everything is figured out. You pour the floor, then the walls, and pour the ceilings and you are done."

The home builder estimates the 3,000 square foot home will cost only $30,000 to construct.

"We are doing the work ourselves but even if the work was contracted you couldn't build that many square feet for any less money," Durr said. "The savings in utility bills will pay for the house after a while."

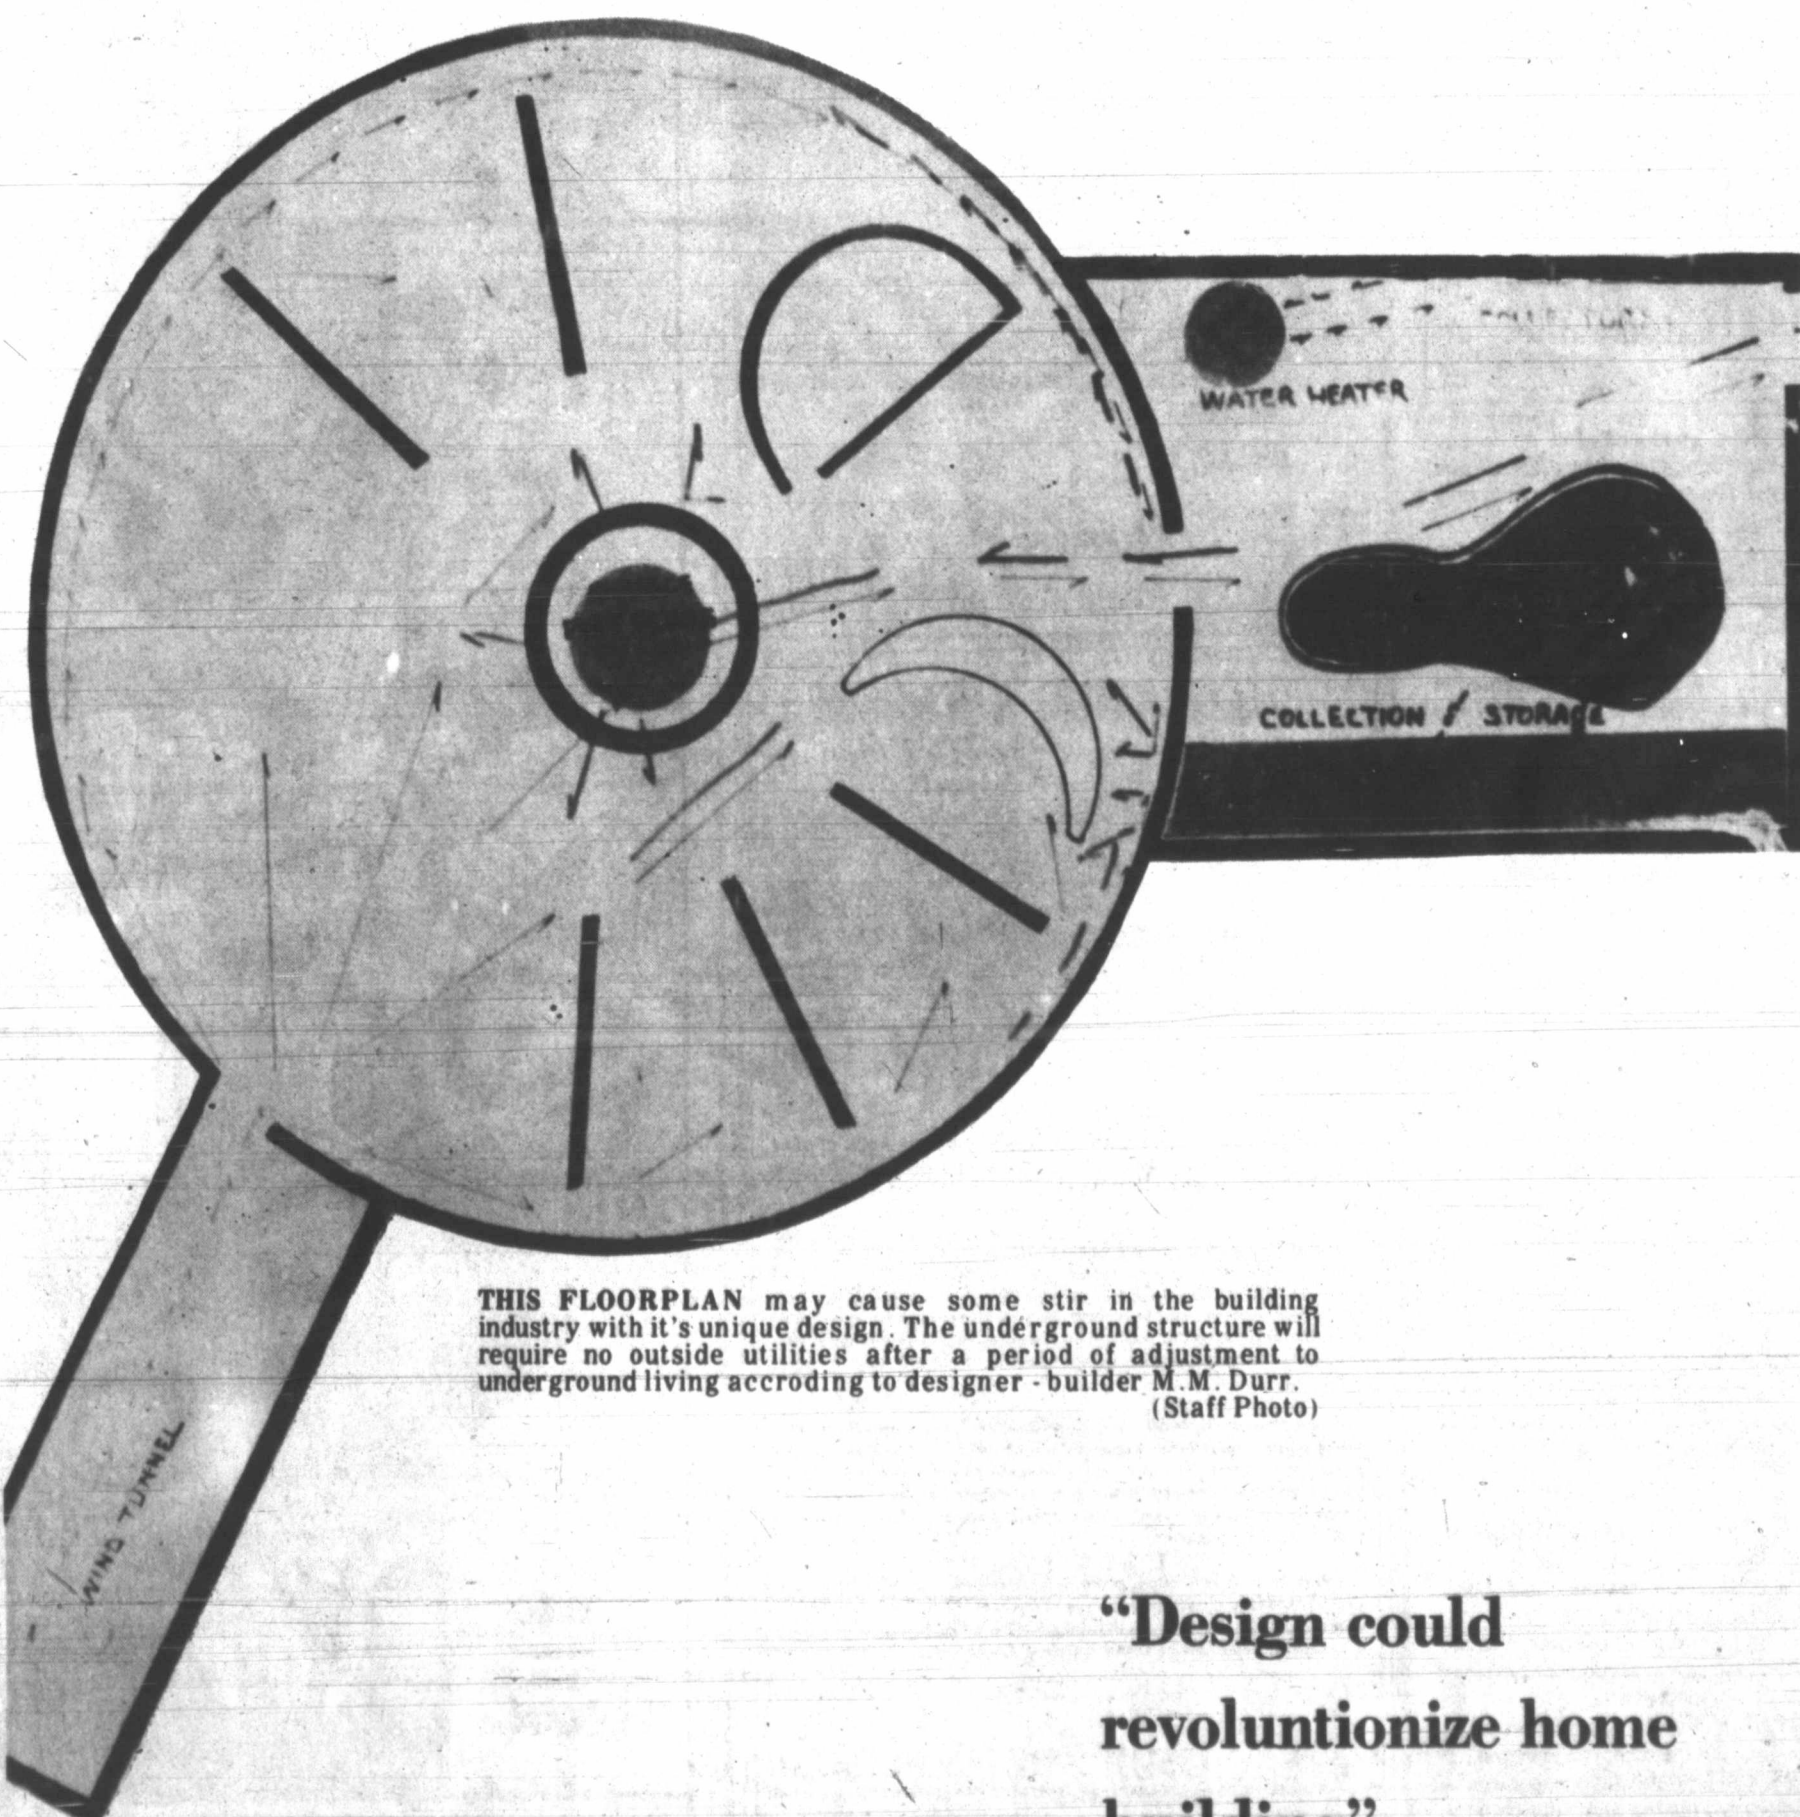

When questioned about regulating heat in the structure, Durr said there were two methods that could be used.

"The heat can be regulated by closing off the wind tunnel for less cooling effect or by increasing the amount of heat from two solar panels built into the house," Durr said. "It is really a simple process that even a child could do."

The house also contains an underground greenhouse that Durr says will be used to supply fresh vegetables for his family.

"If a person puts their mind to something they can really do anything they want to," Durr added.

By the way his project is shaping up, it seems obvious M.M. Durr has put his mind to work for him.

THIS FLOORPLAN may cause some stir in the building industry with its unique design. The underground structure will require no outside utilities after a period of adjustment to underground living according to designer - builder M.M. Durr.
(Staff Photo)

"The first six months in the underground dwelling our utility bills will average $15 per month total. After that we won't have to pay for any outside utilities."

Mending mature marriage

by louise pierce

There's nothing worse than a personal ultimatum. The demand to shape or ship out may work in brinkmanship or even in statesmanship. But in the partnership of marriage, it's a no-no. In my survey of older married couples, I found (and authorities agree with my findings) that the bickering is one of the leading causes of middle-aged divorce that is increasing in percentage every year. Many counselors tell us that there are more bad marriages than good ones, that it gets worse after ten years of living together, and is pathetic after thirty years and up.

So what causes the bickering? It's partly due to boredom, of course. Lack of understanding of each other comes in for a share, along with endless other causes. But one thing that always seems to stir up animosity, when one mate gives it and the other gets it, is an ultimatum. Perhaps this wouldn't be so if we lived under dictatorship and were thus accustomed to following unreasonable orders from bir.h. But in this country we love our freedom and don't intend to lose it, not even to a despotic spouse. No matter if you've been married over forty years, you still won't tolerate the screech of: "I'll leave you if you don't get rid of that dog! He tracks in mud and he barks all night and dog hair makes me sneeze. So it's that mutt or me—take your pick!" Maybe she has a cat he hates, but it makes no difference. She still despises his dog and makes her "or else" demand.

A middle-aged wife is usually minded to pack up and move out, if she can afford to, when the old boy she thought she loved shouts at her: "I'm sick and tired of thawing my own TV dinners while you and your senile gossips go bumming all over town! Either you get home by five-thirty to get supper—or I'll go some place where somebody else will cook for me!" Such a man usually forgets that he's more senile than she is, by five years or so—and that, while older women gossip about who had a face lift and who went bald when her wig blew off in the wind, older men chew the fat for hours about who got fired and deserved to, whose grandkids got kicked out of school and which absent buddy cheats you at cards if you don't keep your eyes on him.

Sometimes, I grant you, a good gripe is justified. If she doesn't wash often enough to keep him in clean shirts or if he won't give her money for a new dress more than once every two years, there is cause for deep discussion. And it mostly occurs. Recent correspondence discussed the ultimatum problem.

DEAR LOUISE: Right in the middle of my favorite TV show one night, Ned laid me out. He hollered so loud that I turned off the set, the first time I ever had. He said I neglected him and he wasn't going to put up with it any more. He said when we went to the club or the church or the supermarket, I acted like he wasn't there. He felt like a shopping cart, he said. Wasn't that a selfish thing for him to say? Lana Mc.

Dear M. Mc: What's the longest you ever left him alone in any of those places? Was it as long as two hours? If it was, he may have a right to be upset. Nobody likes to be ignored for more than thirty minutes, and not many can stand it that long.

DEAR LOUISE: It's been three hours lots of times. But did he have to bowl me out in public, right at the check-out counter, the day after he yelled at me at home—and then drop a carton of milk all over our shoes because he was so mad? L. Mc.

DEAR L. Mc: You both have a right to ruffled feathers. His protest was well-deserved. But he should not have hurt your feelings by shouting at you in front of your friends. He could have given you another shout at home. And when he yelled, you could have made a quick resolution to mend your ways—and forced yourself to do it. Everybody deserves consideration—and nobody should insult any loved one by screaming at him or her.

Maybe the ultimatum serves some purpose when it's directed at a mate who comes home pie-eyed every night for six weeks—or who knows he's ruining his health by over-drinking, over-smoking, over-eating, over-anything—and he says he won't change. But even in such extreme circumstances, I question the value of saying "or else". It can so easily drive the offending one away, convinced that you'd rather be rid of his bad habits than try to help him change them. You're risking separation that may make you wish you'd hung onto him in spite of everything—because you've learned, to your sorrow, that with all his faults, he was far better than no mate at all. Loneliness that you force upon yourself is the worst kind because it carries regret also.

And don't forget that two cannot live as cheaply as one—unless they live together.

Crafty Cooking

by sally shaffer miller

My husband is a salesman, and a good one. But as in any profession, there are days when everything goes wrong. He says he couldn't sell dollar bills for a nickel. Everybody said NO, as if they had developed a sudden personal hatred for him.

I have learned how to spot the NO-days. First of all, he comes home early. He doesn't spring up to the house like he does on good days. Instead, he slams the car door, storms up to the porch, acts as if the door key was out to get him, and slams the door from the inside.

Once in the house, this usually gentle man bellows at the dogs to get out of his way. The look on his face is a complete transformation from the normal. Let me explain. Usually, he is bright, cheerful and joking. On the NO-days, his eyes are lifeless until he is spoken to. Then they snap and the hair on the back of his neck begins to rise. He's set his mouth into a slit, and it's sort of white around the corners. I often suspect he is beginning to grow fangs.

I think, "Uh-oh!" I know he has come home prepared to echo all the NO's he's heard all day, no matter what the question or the statement.

I know better than to even bother to ask what he wants to hear. You see, he's ready to tell me in no kind terms just what he thinks of food in general, and precisely what he thinks of my suggestions in particular.

On such occasions, I have learned it is best to smile sweetly, and say nothing. A big hug also helps, if I can get close enough. (I usually can.) I know there's something in the freezer guaranteed to change a no-man to a yes-man. It's THE YES-MAN STUFFED HAM SLICES.

HAVE ON HAND:
13X9X2 inch baking dish
2 ham slices, each about one-half inches thick. These may be smoked or not.

4 C. soft bread cubes
One-half C. raisins
One-fourth C. firmly packed brown sugar
One-half tsp. dry mustard
One-third C. butter or margarine, melted
Whole cloves

1 can (20 oz.) sliced pineapple in sweetened syrup. Drain and reserve the syrup.

Parsley
NOW DO THIS:
Heat the oven to 300-325 degrees. Place one ham slice in the baking dish.

Cut up the bread cubes. Melt the butter. Now toss the bread cubes, raisins, brown sugar and mustard with the melted butter.

Spoon the stuffing evenly over the ham slice in the dish. Put the second ham slice on top. Plant the whole cloves around the top slice. Use as many or as few as you wish. NO-man likes a lot.

This next is going to sound strange, but do it anyway. Put two slices of pineapple in each corner of the dish. Put the other two slices on top of the ham. If you want to be fancy, and I did this time, separate the wedges so they will form a flower. Brush the top ham slice with the pineapple syrup you have saved.

Now bake UNCOVERED at 300 degrees or 325 degrees for one and one-half hours. Several times during the cooking, brush more syrup on the ham. All this will give him time to become a YES-man, because it smells so good.

This looks especially pretty garnished with parsley, even if you think no one is going to eat that pretty green thing. I served this with coleslaw and asparagus.

Class of '49 needs help

Pampa High School's Class of 1949 will hold its 30 year reunion June 30.

Registration will be from 10 a.m. to 12 noon at the High School cafeteria, followed by an outdoor picnic. There will be a catered dinner at 5 p.m. in the M.K. Brown Auditorium, followed by a social hour to provide ample opportunity for renewing old acquaintances.

The organizing committee needs help in locating the following former graduates: Harry Cayce, Bobby Green and Emil Snoga. The committee also needs to locate the following students who were members of the class of '49 but did not graduate from Pampa High School: Nola Mae Abbott, Mike Allaway, Duane Blanton, Leroy Brittain, Norma Culverhouse, Norma Covey, Joann Cooper, Marie Davis, Elsie Dixon, Betty Dulaney, Jack Ellis, Tommy J. Estes, Yvonne Eubanks.

Patsy Ferguson, Clayton Fike, Loanne Finney, Billy Garrison, Margie Goddard, Jerry Harris, Mary Jo Harvey, Everet Huffines, Orville Johnson, Shirley Lowe, Bill Litton, Bryce Lively, Elizabeth Lockhart, Ben Nix, Lois Nichols, Irene Nicols.

Elmer Pendergrass, Betty Parks, Gail Price, Claudia Ratliff, Paula Scott, Lafern Thompson, Loyd Taylor, Marion Wenger Nadine Wilkerson, Jean Winborne, Kenneth Wright, Eloyse York, Marjorie York.

Anyone who knows the whereabouts of any of these people is requested to call Sue Derington at 665-5552, or Donna Sidwell at 665-1390.

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: After 51 years of marriage, our father has left our mother! They've had their fights over the years but we never thought it would come to this.

Dad left mother for a 48-year-old nurse he met six years ago when he was in the hospital for a prostate operation.

Now that this has come out, everybody is saying they knew about dad and this nurse all along. Dad is 79 and mother is 77. Mother is so humiliated that she hasn't been out of the house since dad left.

What do you think of this mess? How can we get dad to come to his senses and come back to mother? It's the talk of the town.

DISGRACED IN LONG ISLAND

DEAR DISGRACED: Stay out of it. And you needn't feel "disgraced." A person can disgrace only himself.

DEAR ABBY: Do all marriages go stale after 25 years? Ours has. My husband and I don't seem to have much to talk to each other about anymore. We used to talk about our kids, but now that they're grown and gone, we're out of conversation.

I have no major complaints, Abby, but the old excitement is gone. We watch a lot of television and read, and we do have friends, but when we're alone together it's dull. We even sleep in separate bedrooms now.

Is there some way to recapture that old magic? I don't expect him to chase me around the bedroom like he did 20 years ago, but we're much too young for rocking chairs.

We still love each other, but...

THE SONG HAS ENDED

DEAR SONG: I highly recommend MARRIAGE ENCOUNTER. It's a weekend course in how to revitalize a hum marriage. It first came to my attention when several enthusiastic readers (some married over 40 years!) wrote to tell me that the experience had improved their marriages enormously!

Respectfully Yours...

DECORATING TRENDS... Charlie's

PATTERN should be used with care in planning the decor of your room. Properly used, patterns can bring life, individuality and distinction to the room. Overdone, it can create a confused, "busy" feeling.

We're often asked if you can use more than one pattern in the same room. The answer is a qualified "yes"—but not two big, bold patterns. If you choose such a pattern in a print on your sofa, and you'd like another print in a chair, be sure the chair print is small to complement the bolder pattern on the sofa. And if you've gone this far with patterns, avoid using another different one in your draperies.

You can achieve variety in your furniture and backgrounds without using different patterns. A change in texture or finish will give you a more subtle variety. Look at the difference when the same color, or one very similar, is used in velvet or an elegant quilted fabric, and again in a rough-textured weaves. It will appear different again in smooth nylon draperies.

For variety in furnishings, promise yourself to visit our showroom soon. You'll find a delightful range of decorator fabrics, colors, prints and textures to choose from in fine upholstered furniture, along with a beautiful selection of wood finishes. Come in!

Songwriter amuses kids by kidding

BALTIMORE (AP) — We all remember our childhood — teachers yelling, parents screaming, babysitters doing diabolical things.

And Barry Polisar wants to make sure we don't forget it.

At age 24, Polisar has put out a string of record albums for children, but they're hardly the everyday nursery-rhyme pablum or "namby-pamby" ditties for kids, as he calls the usual children's fare.

Instead, Polisar's records are satirical, with album titles like "I Eat Kids and Other Songs for Rebellious Children," and "My Brother Thinks He's a Banana and Other Provocative Songs for Children."

"My main objective is to make people laugh and look at themselves. In fact, my songs make me look at myself and laugh," Polisar said.

For example, Polisar recalled watching his mother try to coax one of his younger brothers into eating some vegetables.

"She kept trying to coax him by telling him that his friends eat their vegetables, and that gave me the idea for the song, 'He Eats Asparagus, Why Can't You Be That Way,'" Polisar said.

Mrs. Michael C. Nash

Edwards-Nash united in marriage

Laura Beth Edwards and Michael Clay Nash were united in marriage recently in a candlelight ceremony in the First Baptist Church, Prairie Grove, Ark. The Rev. Ed Powers performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Edwards, formerly of Pampa, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd J. Nash of Prairie Grove.

Traditional wedding music was played and Tom Stearns was the vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white organza with a v-neckline outlined with a bertha collar cape with cluny lace and satin ribbon. The circle skirt with deep flounce repeated the cluny lace and ribbon and fell into a chapel train. Lace medallions and pearls trimmed the skirt and bodice. The fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a band of white roses and she carried a cascade bouquet of peach roses, tiger lilies, snowdrifts, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry G. Gillis Jr.

Hobgood-Gillis exchange vows

Melody Rhea Hobgood became the bride of Jerry Gene Gillis, Jr. at 7:30 p.m. on April 28 in the Wolfen Avenue Baptist Church, Amarillo. The Rev. Jim Gillmore of Borger, uncle of the groom, and the Rev. Travis LaDuke of Amarillo, officiated at the ceremony.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Jim Gillmore at the piano and the vocalist was the groom's cousin, Ms. Keith Reed of Dumas.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Hobgood, Amarillo, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry G. Gillis, Amarillo, formerly of Pampa.

The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Greg McCoy of Canyon, and the maid of honor was the groom's sister, Christie Gillis of Amarillo.

The best man was Danny Novak of Amarillo, and the groomsman was David Wilson of Burleson. Ushers were Mark Hobgood and Nacho Quintero, who also served as candlelighters, and Wendell Herndon, all of Amarillo.

The flower girl was Raquel Gillmore of Amarillo, cousin of the groom; the ringbearer was Brandon McCoy of Canyon, nephew of the bride.

The bride wore a formal white gown of Chantilly lace over bridal taffeta. The gown featured a fitted bodice. Queen Ann neckline trimmed with seed pearls, and long tapered lace sleeves. The full tiered skirt flowed into a chapel length train. She wore a fingertip three tiered veil of bridal illusion edged in Chantilly lace held in place by a headpiece trimmed with matching lace and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white pixie carnations and roses and blue baby's breath.

A reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the Church. Serving at the reception were Mrs. James Thomason, Clovis, N.M., Mrs. Jeri Messersmith, cousin of the bride, of Boise City, Oklahoma, and Sheri Messersmith. The new Mrs. Gillis is a 1978 graduate from West Texas State University and her husband graduated from West Texas State University in 1976.

The couple plan to live in Dallas.

Mrs. David G Fort Maddox-Fort
united in marriage

Laurel Ann Maddox became the bride of David G. Fort at 3 p.m. on May 19 in the First Baptist Church, Miami. Dr. Maurice Smith performed the marriage ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Maddox, Miami, and the groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Milton Giles Fort, Dallas.

Wedding music was provided by Jerry Whitten of Pampa at the organ; Sue Hodge of College Station was the vocalist.

The bridal attendants were Mrs. Steve Evans, Lakewood, Colo. and Mrs. James Quast, Comanche, sisters of the bride; and Roxann Tomlin and Miss J.J. Risch, both of Dallas.

Attending the groom were Dr. Milton Giles Fort, Wayne Maddox, Russell Maddox, Dallas and Dr. Giles Fort, Springfield, Colo.

The bride chose a princess style gown of white organza and Brussels schiffli lace featuring a peasant bodice, sheer yolk and wedding ring collar. The long peasant sleeves ended in a ruffle at the wrist. The skirt was trimmed at the hemline with a schiffli flounce and fell into a chapel train. Her veil consisted of three graduated tiers of white illusion falling beyond the length of the train. She carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids and pink roses.

The new Mrs. Fort graduated from Miami High School and Texas A & M University. She will graduate from Texas Women's University School of Physical Therapy in Houston in August.

Her husband graduated from Milton High School in Bulawayo, Southern Rhodesia and from Texas A & M University. He will graduate from Southwestern Medical School in Dallas in June and will begin residency at Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas.

The couple will live in Dallas.

Mrs. Russell A. Lemmons
Rodrigue-Lemmons
exchange marriage vows

Patty Sue Rodrigue and Russell Arthur Lemmons were united in marriage at 2 p.m. May 12 in the First United Methodist Church, New Iberia, La. The Rev. Donald J. Hall and Deacon John J. Marin officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Rodrigue, Avery Island, La., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Lemmons, Pampa.

A musical selection was provided by Jo Ellen Armentor, vocalist.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Randy J. Rodrigue and the best man was Robert Todd Lemmons, Jr., brother of the groom.

The bride wore a formal length white gown featuring a v-neckline, ruffled collar, full sleeves and Empire waistline. The skirt was edged with a deep eyelet flounce trimmed with maize ribbon. She wore a wide-brimmed hat with matching eyelet insertion and maize ribbon and carried a cascade bouquet of daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Lemmons is a graduate from New Iberia High School and the University of Southwestern Louisiana in Lafayette.

Her husband graduated from Pampa High School and from Texas Tech University, Lubbock.

Mrs. Bruce Wayne Ferguson
Vincent-Ferguson vows are exchanged

Leatrice Vincent of Lefors and Bruce Wayne Ferguson of Clarendon were united in marriage at 7 p.m. on May 18 in the First United Methodist Church in Clarendon. The Rev. Robert Brown performed the marriage ceremony.

Parents of the couple of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vincent of Lefors and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ferguson of Turkey.

Wedding music was provided by Dee Williams at the organ and Mary Nichols at the piano; Shirley Fields and Carole Watson were vocalists.

The maid of honor was Carol Vincent, Lefors. The candlelighters were Ann Brown and Joan Crowell. Carolyn Furr was registrar.

The best man was Joe Bob Crowell, Turkey; the ushers were David Brown and Leek Fuston.

The bride chose a formal length gown of white crepe trimmed with lace at the hemline and falling into a sweeping train. It featured lace sleeves and a lace wedding ring collar. Her chapel length net veil was trimmed with lace medallions and was held in place by a matching lace band. She carried a bouquet of white daisies.

The bride is a 1979 graduate from Clarendon Junior College and her husband is a 1978 graduate from Texas Tech University. He is employed by the American Soil Conservation Service in Clarendon.

Sheppard-King engagement

MR. AND MRS. Don G. Sheppard, 2409 Comanche, announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Carol Sheppard, to Mason Jean King, Guyman, Okla., son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell King, Texhoma. The bride-elect will be a 1979 graduate of Pampa High School. The couple plan a July 14 wedding.

Fischer-Symons engagement is announced

MR. AND MRS. Joe Fischer announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean Irene Fischer to Gregory Kevin Symons of Tulsa, Okla. Ms. Fischer is a 1972 graduate from Pampa High School and a 1976 graduate from Texas Tech University. She is employed by Menley & James, Tulsa. Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Symons, Tulsa. He is a 1970 graduate from Grand Junction High School and a 1973 graduate from the University of New Mexico. He is employed by the Bank of Oklahoma. The couple plan a Sept. 1 wedding in the First Presbyterian Church, Pampa.

Mrs. Glen Blanscet
Crook-Blanscet
united in marriage

Becky Jo Crook and Glen Blanscet, both of Canyon, were united in marriage at 7 p.m. on May 19 in the First Baptist Church in Canyon. The Rev. James Hancock officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Joyce Fields and Wallace V. Crook, both of Albuquerque, N.M., and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Blanscet of Pampa.

The maid of honor was the bride's sister Velvet Ann Crook, Albuquerque. The candlelighters were Leesa Mercer, Friona, and Barbara Webb, Wichita Falls.

The best man was Gary Blanscet, Lubbock, brother of the groom. Ushers were Jim Summersgill, Canyon, and Rodney Durham, San Antonio. The bride wore a formal length gown of white Silesta Qiana and a chapel veil. The bride and groom will be 1979 graduates from West Texas State University and will make their home in Lubbock. Mrs. Blanscet will be employed by Methodist Hospital and her husband will enter Texas Tech School of Law this fall.

May 21, 1979

Your circle of friends will be greatly expanded this coming year and many new opportunities will come through them. One relationship; in particular, will prove to be exceptionally fortunate.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Think in expansive terms today. You'll have no trouble acting on them because associates who can help will quickly rally to your side. Your new Astro-Graph starting with your birthday offers many new facts about you. Get yours by mailing $1 for each Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be starting the week off with a bang. Dame Fortune has singled you out to be the recipient of one of her lavish gifts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The positive manner in which you present yourself is stimulating and exhilarating to others. They'll be jumping on your bandwagon.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Follow your hunches today, because profit from a source that is not necessarily visible to you is likely to be quite large.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A good friend or an associate will prove herself to be valuable again today. Substantial benefits to both of you can be realized.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is another excellent day that could prove extremely rewarding in matters relating to your career or work. Go after what you want.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Matters of the heart could occupy the most important spot in your life today. You'll have an opportunity to commune with one you love.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Deal with individuals with whom you share emotional ties today and you will find things will work out more to your advantage.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You should have no trouble gaining the support of others today, whether it involves a personal matter or even business affairs. Team up now.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Tackle your chores wholeheartedly today. A golden opportunity is being presented to you, but you can find it only through conscientious effort.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You should be receiving a boost from Lady Luck today. If there is something personal you'd like to have, go after it now.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Choose members of your family as your confidantes today. They are the ones who can point the way and show you where your real treasures lie.

SOUND COUNTRY

Tom T. Hall's 'Saturday Morning Songs' LP is a welcome addition and a refreshing change from the current 'love-em-and-leave-em' recordings that are dominating the country record scene.

The LP contains two upbeat, sing-along tunes, 'Rattlemouse' and the title track, which we should all take the time to learn—at least once. That's why you have to be 'You' is Hall's simple explanation of why we can't always be what we'd like to be. The song ends with the simple question 'Ain't We Great?' There's a story about a dog that Hall calls 'Pisty,' in which he explains what 'Pisty' does and doesn't like, and what she will and won't do. Hall wrote all the songs on the album. Rex Allen Jr. continues to prove that he can carve his own place in the industry. His newest Warner Brothers release is titled 'Me & My Broken Heart.'

Mall construction continues on store

The construction of a new 34,200 square foot JC Penney store in the Pampa Mall is on schedule. According to store manager, Altie Orr, the new JC Penney store will open at 9:30 a.m. the morning of June 6, 1979.

"We've committed ourselves to open that Wednesday and we are working hard to get ready," said Orr.

He explained that the interior of the store has been designed to incorporate the latest merchandising concepts developed by the 2,090-store Penney Company.

"While we are stressing Penney's traditionally friendly service and merchandise value, we are paying a great deal of attention to giving our Pampa area customers a comfortable and convenient place to shop," continued Orr.

"The latest designs in department layout and merchandise display are being combined with attractive decor and colors. And we have planned our store so that the busy shopper can find everything she wants quickly and easily," he added.

This new Penney's, with a total of 34,200 square feet of space, will replace the firm's existing store in the central business district which will close shortly before the new store opens.

When they're old enough to ask...

They're old enough to know the facts of life and death.

"Don't tell children that Grandma has 'gone away' thinking you are sparing them pain. Tell them in words they can understand. Perhaps for the very young a family pet which has died can serve as an example. But tell them truthfully and lovingly. We've given up the stork stories; now it's time to be honest with children about death."

And if you need help knowing what to say, call us, we're the funeral professionals.

Save like never before on Quality Furniture from THOMASVILLE

GOLDEN ERA

by Thomasville.

At the turn of the century, American furniture designs exhibited a special ambience of livability and charm. The ideal of comfort and tranquility was seen in the late Victorian, even Edwardian designs. These designs illustrate the perfect blend of sophistication and cultural history that brings the warmth and beauty of nostalgic furnishings into the mainstream of today's eclectic room settings. Mirror accents on these pieces are etched for authenticity. Several cast aluminum pieces are finished in a matt black tone to achieve the look of wrought iron so popular for ornate fences and balcony trimwork in earlier times. For this Golden Era collection, Thomasville chose rustic pecan veneers and oak solids. The mellow fruitwood finish is distressed to provide the look of prized antiques. Hardware includes a white knob with brass finished backplates, a period brass ball design and finger-grip pull. Here are exciting designs of yesterday, yet beautifully stated for today's life styles.
