MIAMI — A California man was injured when the crop-dusting airplane he was flying crashed southeast of here this morning.

The plane, a 52-passenger Martin 404 belonging to Air Applicators of Oakland, Calif., crashed while spraying 800,000 acres with the chemical Malathion. The spraying was being done for the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Two men, the pilot and co-pilot, were inside the plane when it went down. Joe Morgan, 52, of Leucadia, Calif., and Kenneth Robertson, 28, of Upland, Calif., were taken to Highland General Hospital by Metropolitan Ambulance. Morgan suffered minor injuries and was admitted to the hospital, while Robertson was observed and released.

The crash occurred at about 8:30 a.m. Ken

Wilkinson, manager of Air Applicators, said the plane was flying low and failed to clear a plateau when one of the propellers touched down, causing the plane to crash. Wilkinson declined further discussion on the accident until after talking with the Federal Aviation Administration.

The plane reportedly skidded over 1,000 feet, crossing a farm-to-market road and finally coming to a halt on land reportedly owned by Roy Mathers of Miami. According to witnesses, a wing caught on fire and parts of the plane were scattered throughout the crash site.

The accident follows on the heels of plane crash south of Pampa, in which a local businessman and his wife were killed Sunday.

Summit participants to set specific import quota

TOKYO (AP) — President Carter, claiming the economic summit "equaled our highest expectations," announced today the seven participants agreed to set specific individual oil import quotas through 1985.

Speaking to reporters, Carter said the United States would freeze its imports at the current level of 8.5 million barrels a day.

The U.S. president said individual quotas for European nations would be fixed at the next meeting of the European Economic Community in Dublin next fall.

Carter prepared to fly to South Korea for a state visit shortly after the summit concluded.

He said Japan and Canada have agreed to limit their oil imports but did not disclose the figures involved.

Later, joining the other summit participants at a joint news conference, Carter said "we deplore the decision" of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to raise prices by a further 21.5 percent.

Carter said OPEC's action Thursday raising the average price to $20.90 a barrel would "lead to worldwide inflation, less growth, more unemployment and endanger the stability of the economic system of the world."

At his earlier meeting with reporters, the president said the summit's most difficult problem was persuading some of the European nations to opt for individual national import ceilings for 1979 and 1980 and through 1985.

Just a half hour before the two-day summit ended, Carter said, one unidentified participant proposed to amend the communique to adopt a collective quota for Western Europe rather than individual, country-by-country ceilings.

"I think the results of the economic summit were superb," Carter declared. "They equaled our highest expectations."

Earlier, Carter had decried the "extraordinary increases" imposed by OPEC and had predicted the summit leaders would "act aggressively" to restrain petroleum imports.

Iowa raked by killer twisters

MANSON, Iowa (AP) — Tornadoes that raked the Iowa Plains wiped out neighborhoods and forced evacuation of a small town where two tanks holding a toxic chemical ruptured. Four persons were killed and about 70 others injured, authorities said.

About 40 twisters spotted Thursday night uprooted trees, knocked out power and telephone lines and ripped through homes and businesses in six communities in northern and central Iowa, officials said.

The National Guard was called out to help the two hardest hit towns, Manson and Algona, which had been preparing to start a week-long celebration of its 125th anniversary Saturday.

Tornadoes also were reported Thursday in Minnesota, North Dakota, Colorado and Arkansas. Some damage was reported in those states but no deaths or serious injuries.

Four people were killed and about two dozen injured in Manson, officials said. Some 24 businesses and 100 homes were reported destroyed or heavily damaged.

Police Officer John Ewing said no homes were left in the area from downtown to the southeast edge of town. "It's just gone, clear out to the edge of town," Ewing said. "The houses are gone."

Harold Ricklefs, of rural Fort Dodge, rushed to Manson and had to dig his mother out of the rubble that was left of her kitchen.

"It's a mess. I'll tell you," Ricklefs said as he surveyed damage in the farming town of 1,900 people. "It just flattened houses. The streets are all blocked."

In Algona, 40 miles to the north, twisters heavily damaged a shopping center and a 100-square-block area. Ten persons were hospitalized with injuries and 35 others were treated and released, officials said.

Also hit by a twister was Renwick, 30 miles northeast of Manson. Some 420 residents were evacuated when two tanks holding anhydrous ammonia — a fertilizer — ruptured and released toxic fumes.

One tank later sealed itself and a second 26,000-gallon tank was sealed. The residents began returning home early today, the highway patrol reported.

Three other contracts awarded

Lubbock firm awarded school's construction bid

By EUGENE LAYCOCK
Pampa News Staff

In a specially called meeting Thursday, the Pampa Independent School Board unanimously awarded a contract for construction of an addition to Pampa High School's vocational building to the Monterey Construction Company of Lubbock.

The Lubbock company, which has already contracted to do panelling work at the high school, won the bid with a submission of $166,300. Sam J. Smith Construction Company of Amarillo, the only other bidder, had entered a $177,700 figure for the work.

But it wasn't all bad news for the Amarillo company. The Smith firm was awarded the contracts for renovation work of the high school art room at $16,500 and completion of the concession stands at Harvester Field with a $30,000 bid.

Electrical and mechanical work, which was estimated to cost about $9,000, was excluded from the submission and will be contracted later.

Installation of cabinets also were omitted from the contracted work, which has a completion deadline of August 15.

Smith's bid stated an allowance of 90 days for the completion of all the construction work. Monterey would have finished the work by deadline, according to their bid contract, but the cost would have been about $13,000 more.

The low bid of Noble W. Walker Co. of Dallas was conditionally approved after the board examined five contracts for portable classrooms to be erected at Austin Elementary School. The portable classrooms are earmarked for special education students.

The $43,293 contract will be subjected to the scrutiny of school architect Herbert Brasher, who has the board's permission to sign the contract if he finds that specifications have been met.

The bid calls for three portable buildings, each a 24 by 32 foot classroom, to be complete with bathrooms, air conditioning and heating.

Brasher has been ordered to check the buildings' insulation systems and number of windows before signing the contract.

The next lowest bid, which was from Morgan Portable Buildings of Amarillo, would have increased the expenditure to $47,958.

The board turned down a proposal from

Walker to lease each building at $384 per month for 10 years, after which they would become school district property for about $138,240.

The board then closed the meeting to the public to discuss personnel matters.

After the session, Steven Baily was elected to be athletic trainer and health teacher, while Patricia Bailey was designated as a part-time English teacher at the high school.

College gets $10,000 gift

Pampa philanthropist Nona S. Payne today donated $10,000 to Clarendon College - Pampa Center, outgoing Dean Loyd Waters announced this morning.

The money will be used "for further development of the Pampa Center, to improve facilities, furnish equipment and materials and develop new programs," Waters said.

The center has a projected need of $110,000 over the next two years, Waters said. Mrs. Payne's donation brings to $60,500 the total amount contributed to the college from individuals, business, industry and foundations, he added.

OPINION PAGE

Skylab is falling; and where is the question

Not to sound like Chicken Little, but Skylab is falling. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says the 85-ton space station is about to crash into the Earth and no one knows where.

The Skylab, which was vacated by the last team of astronauts in 1974, was supposed to stay in orbit until the space shuttle now being developed could go up and give it enough of a push to keep it aloft. But NASA discovered last year that sunspot activity affecting the Earth's upper atmosphere was causing the Skylab's orbit to decay much faster than expected.

NASA now predicts that the 118-foot vehicle will make a fiery descent through the Earth's atmosphere in the next few weeks. While much of it will burn up, 400 to 500 pieces are expected to hit the Earth, scattered over an area 4,000 miles long and 100 miles wide.

So much for the problem, and we hesitate to say where it belongs on a scale of 1 to 10. NASA insists the chances of someone being hit by a piece of Skylab are no greater than the chances of being hit by a meteorite or pieces of "space junk" that fall out of orbit every day.

But the odds were remote that something would go haywire at Three Mile Island. This has been a bad year for statistical probabilities. Besides, the Skylab debris will not be mere scraps of litter. One piece expected to survive reentry is a metal ring weighing 5,000 pounds. Another is a vault used to store film, about the size of an office safe and weighing 4,000 pounds.

There is no radioactive material on board, which was the case when a Soviet spy satellite carrying a small nuclear reactor crashed in northern Canada in January, 1978. Canada recently handed the Russians a bill for $6.1 million to cover the cost of cleaning up the radioactive debris. Under a 1972 treaty, the U.S. government would be liable for any damage caused by Skylab wherever its pieces may land.

But NASA has an ace in the hole - or at least a face card. As matters now stand, Skylab could fall anywhere in an area 50 degrees north to 50 degrees south of the equator. As the end draws near computers may be able to project whether a populated land area will lie in the path of its debris. By activating controls which determine whether the cylindrical craft meets the atmosphere head-on or broadside, its final orbit could be speeded up or slowed down so the impact occurs over an ocean, with no harm done.

NASA engineers admit this is a long-shot chance, but they are the people who got the Apollo astronauts to the moon and back and handled some ticklish emergencies in the process. If an ocean splashdown for Skylab isn't in the cards, we'll have to cross our fingers and hope for the best.

Scientists estimate that 200 million meteors enter the Earth's atmosphere every day, and although most of them burn up, some hit the ground regularly as hefty pieces of metal or rock. Yet in modern times there have been no authenticated accounts of anyone being killed by a meteorite, and there are only a couple of dozen recorded cases where they have ever hit a building. So the odds seem to be on our side.

The devil with rules and regulations

By D.R. SEGAL

Parkinson's Law says work has a way of expanding to fill up whatever amount of time is available.

The Peter Principle says people have a tendency to rise to their own level of incompetence.

I'd like to add the Segal Hypothesis - to wit, the principal business of any organization is the making of rules to govern its members.

There's almost no evidence to dispute Parkinson's Law or the Peter Principle. Doctors Parkinson and Peter have built imposing and formidable cases to prove their theories. Unionism is firmly founded on Parkinson's Law, and every hierarchy, private or public, is continuous proof of the validity of Peter's conclusion that each of us ends up one notch above his or her level of competence.

I can offer a respectable body of evidence in support of the Segal Hypothesis, too. One club to which I belong has promulgated two or three pages of new rules, some of them amendments to the old rules I've never got round to reading. I am sure all of them are well-reasoned and essential. But the point is that private rules, like federal regulations, are tolerated because a) nobody understands most of them, b) almost nobody pays much attention to them, c) they are almost never universally enforced and d) there is a tacit understanding among men of goodwill that there is no objection whatever to new rules which nobody intends to pay any attention to anyway.

The excessive production of rules has a salubrious effect in that it cheapens the total value of all rules, and, in the end, brings about less rather than more regulation. This is good because, to be truthful, people don't truly need all that regulation to get along with each other in comfort and mutual respect.

The insalubrious effect of tedious rule-making is that the governors may become preoccupied with piddling affairs, thereby missing essentials.

A club to which I once belonged nearly went down in a fight about paper towels vs. linen towels in the men's biffy. The food was rotten and the service poor, but the board was entirely absorbed in the Great Towel Controversy and it seemed to escape their notice that the kitchen staff had undertaken a systematic program to poison the membership. Finally they passed a regulation about the use of towels, and one member responded with a bawdy essay on Towels and the Professional Girl, which he posted in the locker room. The president of the club was pretty sore but he was smart enough to keep his mouth shut.

Rules beget rules, and beget and beget. Eventually, rules become more important than the activities they are intended to regulate.

Sooner or later, a refinement, an amendment. Mathematical progression sets in and every rule becomes a source of more rules which, in turn, reproduce themselves. The two principal industries of our government are making war and rules.

Private industry and private clubs seem to follow the trend, and with the same result. The Wide-World Axle Works may think its principal production is axles, but it would find on close self-inspection that its greatest output is a vast body of internal regulations. Rules & Regulations do not appear on the government charts that figure our Gross National Product, but if they put that item in, the GNP would reach staggering heights. Heights of what?

There's confusion in the agencies

By ROBERT LEFEVRE

Thomas Jefferson, third president of the United States, once opined that when a government becomes capricious it must be abolished. Capriciousness, as Jefferson then saw it, related to that kind of government which would favor conflicting policies at one and the same time.

If Jefferson were around now, I have small doubt that he would be trying to organize a new Continental Congress for the purpose of sending the present government in the wake of George III of England. Capriciousness? Take a look.

The federal government of the United States now has scores of agencies the rule of which contradict the rules of scores of other agencies. Many, and most notably, businessmen are caught squarely in between. If they comply with certain regulations, they will be in violation of others. Even more confusing at times, a given agency will, all by itself, institute regulations which are in conflict with others it has authorized. A classic case: OSHA wants all construction vehicles at a building site to have back-up alarms to warn the unwary when the vehicle is put into reverse. At the same time, OSHA demands that all workers at construction sites wear ear plugs to drown out the noise. The ear plugs make it impossible to hear the back-up alarms.

The environmental protection agency has ordered a particular steel plant to "scrub" emissions from coal burning. To comply, huge lakes of sludge are created. In cleaning up the air, the ground is made filthy. The EPA hasn't yet learned that there is a reaction to every action.

The federal government has presumed to establish traffic laws in every state of the union. The federal limit is 55 miles per hour. This was done, we are told, to save lives and fuel.

In predictable reaction, more and more businessmen are buying small planes. Airports are increasingly congested and the amount of gasoline used increases rather than diminishes.

The EPA wants steel-mill operators to put hoods over coke ovens to help reduce air pollution. OSHA prohibits the procedure because it increases the amount of fumes that could be inhaled by workers.

For cleanliness Meatpacking plants are required to have stainless steel or tile surfaces for the purpose of cleanliness. This is a rule of the Agriculture Department. But OSHA wants another surface used since sound reflects from steel and tile and raises the noise level.

The Securities and Exchange Commission requires the disclosure of certain financial information. These disclosures are in direct contradiction of IRS rules. In this case, a compromise was reached, but such compromises are rare.

Oil companies are required to look for more oil on an around-the-clock basis. However, to meet energy regulations, these companies employ the equivalent of 10,000 people full time at a cost of between $400 and $500 million a year to please the Department of energy regulators. If those dollars could be used to probe for oil, approximately 3,300 new wells could be drilled each year.

As almost any schoolboy would know, the primary function of the economy is to alleviate shortages. The government now has 87 separate agencies, all engaged in regulating other people's businesses. These agencies produce nothing. As one man observed: "These government agencies have the tendency of trying to fix things that ain't broke."

But there is one bright note to be seen. Each governmental agency is so eager for the reaffirmation of its own authority, and so unlikely to yield to another governmental agency, that the day may come when a war begins. It could be a war between the agencies.

If the agencies would just choose up sides and fight it out that might end the matter. If a few of these bureaucrats went out and attacked each other with fixed bayonets, the rest of us might find some peace and get back to work as we should.

IN WASHINGTON

DOE does it again

by martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Consumers worried about the high cost of petroleum products following the removal of all federal price controls on domestic crude oil ought to take a close look at the current gyrations in the aviation fuel market.

Although aviation fuel is a relatively esoteric petroleum product (it accounts for only about 4 1/2 percent of the nation's oil consumption), an examination of its recent price behavior can be especially instructive.

That's because it is the product whose price controls were most recently lifted by the Department of Energy (DOE) after the agency blithely proclaimed that "competition and market forces should be adequate to protect consumers" from soaring prices.

Those who naively accepted that optimistic prediction probably are also inclined to believe President Carter's current claim that the average American family will pay only an additional $100 for petroleum products in 1982, the first year of full decontrol of domestic crude oil.

Some background on aviation fuel: There are two distinct products, both of which have been subjected to price controls under various federal programs since the summer of 1971.

One is aviation gasoline, refined for use in smaller piston-engine aircraft. The other is kerosene-based jet fuel, commonly known as kerojet fuel, refined for use in larger jet and turboprop aircraft.

When DOE asked Congress earlier this year for authorization to decontrol the prices of both products, it predicted that the action would lead to price increases that "will probably average 1 cent per gallon" for aviation gasoline.

The increase might be "as much as 4 cents per gallon at some airports," but the nationwide average "is forecast to remain at less than 1 1/2 cents per gallon through 1980," said the confident DOE.

For kerojet fuel, said the department, "overall price increases resulting from (price control) exemption are not likely to exceed 1 cent per gallon."

At the time, airlines that held long-term fuel supply contracts with major petroleum corporations (a dozen oil companies produce more than 90 percent of all the nation's aviation fuel) were paying 38 to 40 cents per gallon.

In the three months since decontrol went into effect in late February, contract prices have spiraled upward. The country's major airlines now are paying 45 to 55 cents per gallon.

Aircraft owners whose fuel consumption is too low to justify a long-term contract, including most commuter airlines, must buy their aviation fuel on the open or "spot" market. Prior to decontrol, those prices averaged about 60 cents per gallon.

The "spot" price today ranges from 75 to 95 cents per gallon, with an increasing number of reported cases where the price exceeds $1 per gallon. In some locations, the going rate is approaching $1.20 per gallon.

A futile struggle to avert decontrol was waged on the Senate floor by four Democrats - Sens. Howard M. Metzenbaum of Ohio, Dale Bumpers of Arkansas, John A. Durkin of New Hampshire and Paul Tsongas of Massachusetts.

"We warned against believing the ridiculous projections of DOE," they said later. "We warned that this move would totally violate the nation's inflation guidelines."

After grossly misinforming both Congress and the public, DOE now displays virtually no interest in aviation fuel prices and their impact on the economy.

"We reemphasize that we intend to analyze kerojet fuel and aviation gasoline prices after deregulation," the department promised when seeking deregulation authority from Congress.

But a senior public information officer in DOE recently spent three days searching for someone among his almost 20,000 colleagues who was performing that task. His final report: "I can't find anyone in the department who tracks aviation fuel prices on a short-term basis."

Protecting the whistle blowers

By LARRY LIGHT

Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON - One key element of President Carter's civil service reform plan was a new organization to investigate federal employees' complaints and to protect whistleblowers in government service who expose wrongdoing.

But the newly created agency - the Merit Systems Protection Board - is warning that it has too little money to do the job Congress and Carter intended.

Board Chairwoman Ruth T. Prokop recently told Congress that her agency is swamped with cases it will not be able to deal with properly unless it gets more money.

"Otherwise, civil service reform will ground to a halt," she said.

Officials say that money problems and a lack of personnel have prevented the agency from adequately investigating cases from outside Washington. About nine out of 10 of the federal government's 2.8 million civilian employees live outside the Washington area.

Protecting the whistleblowers from retaliation is receiving greater emphasis in the wake of scandals involving corruption in the General Services Administration, the government's procurement and housekeeping arm.

The impetus to shield whistleblowers - who expose government lawbreaking, waste, mismanagement or abuse of authority - began a decade ago, when the Air Force fired Ernest Fitzgerald, an official who revealed cost overruns in development of a military airplane.

These days, the job of the Protection Board is to move in to help such people. For instance, the three-member board recently stayed the punitive transfers of four U.S. marshals in Atlanta who alleged racial discrimination in their ranks.

The administration, which backed the board as a major element of its Civil Service Reform Act of 1978, favors giving the board less money than its members believe is adequate.

The White House contends it still stands forthrightly behind the board. But for now it is accepting the lower calculations of its Office of Management and Budget (OMB) on how much the board needs to fulfill its mission.

The trouble, from Mrs. Prokop's standpoint, is that her new agency has fallen through the cracks.

"This is a classic case (of creating a new agency)," said Mr. Prokop in an interview. "There is no Machiavellian plot. We've just been allowed to drift."

The American Federation of Government Employees (AFGE) takes a different view. Officers of the union, which favors higher funding for the board, believe that the administration turned sour on the panel when Congress gave it the power to grant stays of disciplinary action against government employees.

"They're trying to recoup their losses by starving the board," said Nicholas J. Nolan, AFGE secretary-treasurer - a view the administration denies.

Heeding the administration, the House Appropriations Committee recently refused to approve the board's fiscal 1979 supplemental budget request and to support the lower budget OMB recommended for the board in fiscal 1980. As an independent agency, the board makes its own budget requests to Congress, but OMB also sends to the Hill its recommendations.

Above the $9.7 million in budget authority it has in fiscal 1979, the board wants an additional $1.4 million. Concurring with OMB's recommendations, the House Appropriations Committee gave it $700,000.

For fiscal 1980, the board is asking for $5.4 million more than the OMB-suggested figure of $46.6 million. A House Appropriations subcommittee has gone along with the administration.

Pet vaccinations top rabies weapon

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Pet vaccination is the best weapon against rabies' alarming rise in Texas, state health officials said Thursday.

"Although 80 percent of all rabies cases this year are among skunks, the domestic pet is the worst potential problem with the human population," said Dr. F.V. McCasland, chief state veterinary health officer.

McCasland and others met to discuss methods of combating rabies, which is being reported this year at twice the 1978 rate.

The state health department has recorded 567 animal rabies cases this year, compared to 563 for all of 1978. Texas accounts for one-fourth of all reported cases this year.

This year's statistics break down to 450 skunks, or 80 percent; 44 dogs; 24 cattle; 16 cats; 12 bats; 9 horses; 7 foxes; and 5 raccoons.

"It's difficult to believe that with the thousands of rabid animals in Texas that there haven't been more cases in humans," said Dr. Jerome Greenberg, deputy state health commissioner.

"Virtually everyone who contracts rabies dies," he added.

Only two Texas residents have died of rabies in the last 20 years, said Dr. Jerome Greenberg, deputy health commissioner.

However, two children from the Eagle Pass-Piedras Negras, Mexico, area recently became infected with the disease. Mexican officials report a girl died of rabies there. And a 8-year-old Mexican boy, who resides in Eagle Pass, is in critical condition at a San Antonio hospital with the disease.

Rabies is a viral disease affecting the central nervous system and is usually transmitted through a diseased animal's saliva.

Treatment for human victims includes a painful series of 21 abdominal shots that cost between $247 to $390. The state provides free treatment for indigent victims.

However, the shots are not 100 percent effective, said Dr. Charles Webb, head of the health department's communicable disease division.

Rabies cases are confirmed by the state health laboratory before entering the record books. Heads of suspected animals are shipped to the Austin lab, where brain tissue is tested for the virus.

Despite the alarming numbers of rabid skunks, control of wild animals is considered impractical. As of Sept. 1, it will be illegal to sell skunks for pets although individuals may own them.

Vaccinated pets provide the best buffer between humans and the highly contagious virus, Moore added.

Eagle Pass and El Paso have the worst rabid dog problem, with 11 and 20 cases reported, respectively, this year. Health officials say canine rabies is rampant along the Texas-Mexico border and federal officials should step in.

Beginning Sept. 1, state law will require pet owners to vaccinate their dogs or cats before the animals are four months old.

The state does not require annual pet vaccinations, as often done by local communities. However, state officials said they would try to develop a state guideline.

Look for Skylab fall July 13

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now look for Skylab on Friday the 13th. That's the latest in a daily change of expert predictions about when the 77.5-ton spacecraft is expected to make its fiery plunge to earth. Skylab, says the North American Defense Command, will fall between July 10 and July 18 and there is a 50 percent chance the date will be the 13th.

On Thursday, the dying space laboratory was in a near circular orbit, 147 miles by 159 miles.

Woman pays off strange bet

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A woman identified only as Jackie, a member of a group called Theater of Process Theater, bet her fellow dramatists they couldn't sell 48 season tickets for their summer repertory shows in one day.

"What will you do if we do?" they asked. "I'll run down State Street naked with a watermelon on my head," she answered.

They sold 52 tickets. She ran down State Street as promised Thursday — three blocks through the heart of downtown Santa Barbara, wearing the cut-out watermelon as a helmet to protect her from the hot midday sun.

Clements to extend odd-even plan

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements' odd-even gasoline rationing plan will cover four more counties — Galveston, Denton, Fort Bend and Waller — starting Monday.

The governor announced at his weekly news conference

Thursday he had added the counties to eight already under odd-even rationing.

Since Monday is an even-numbered day — July 2 — only cars whose license plates end with an even number will be able to buy gasoline on the first day of gas sales restrictions in the four new counties.

Clements said authorities in the eight counties already under the rationing plan tell him they "are satisfied with it and are convinced the lines are shorter and the system is indeed working.

He said "misbehavior is at a minimum" in the gasoline lines. "I am not familiar with any incidents in that regard." He mentioned with approval a new Dallas ordinance providing up to a $200 fine for line-jumping.

Clements said "first of the month allocations will ease" somewhat the present tight gasoline supply.

Bill Lauderback, administrative assistant to energy adviser Ed Vetter, said the governor's office would watch the gas situation for two more weekends before deciding about Sunday sales. He said the odd-even rationing system might leave stations open on gasoline to voluntarily open on Sundays.

Clements said he "can't understand" why the U.S. Department of Energy allows new service stations to open at a time when existing ones can't get enough gas.

Roloff indicted on 65th birthday

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Evangelist Lester Roloff spent a fearful 65th birthday after being indicted for operating a child care home without a license.

The indictment, returned by a Nueces County grand jury Thursday, came less than a week after Roloff yielded to state pressure to close the Rebekah Home for Girls.

"What is my crime? Is it a crime to do good?" asked Roloff, who shed tears Thursday night as his congregation sang "Happy Birthday" during a celebration at the People's Church.

Roloff is accused of operating the home without a license on or about May 11 — a day County Attorney Mike Westergren said was picked at random. The charge, a Class B misdemeanor, carries a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $1,000 fine.

"Our county attorney, Mike Westergren, was very insistent that the grand jury indict this notorious criminal as a lawbreaker," Roloff told a nearly full house.

Roloff compared indicting him after his homes were closed to someone digging up a dead body a week after it was buried.

"After 35 years and more of doing what most people say is good work, it seems strange that anybody would want to dig up a dead body," Roloff said. "But there will be a resurrection."

Roloff indicated he was perplexed by the indictment.

"At the age of 65 today, facing criminal charges, when all I've done is help people and never taken a penny of your tax money..." Roloff said, his voice breaking.

"If I'd raped, if I'd killed, if I'd been violent when all they were coming around, I might could understand. I've done all I know to do," he said, sobbing. "This is one of the saddest nights I've known."

"I could become popular by getting a license tomorrow morning, but that would be my debt. When my conscience is gone, there's no way to preach."

Westergren told The Associated Press he sought the indictment because of Roloff's

"flagrant and flaunting, open and notorious violation of the law."

"He was holding himself out and saying I am not going to obey the law," said Westergren, referring to Roloff's stand against state authorities seeking to close his three homes for troubled children.

Westergren said he expects Roloff to turn himself in today. Bond in such cases is usually $500, he said.

"I certainly would not oppose a personal recognition bond in this case, his being a prominent person," Westergren said.

The case is the first filed under the state child care licensing law, he said, adding the closing of Rebekah home "did not negate the fact that he was operating illegally."

"I'm never glad to prosecute anyone," Westergren said. "I'm just doing my job. But I am proud that the grand jury had the fortitude to take up this matter. No one should set themselves up as the final arbiter of what laws they are going to obey."

Wheeler County delays tax changes

The Wheeler County Commissioners Court recently joined other governmental bodies that are postponing provisions of recently enacted tax relief legislation.

The county will continue to tax private automobiles and appraise agricultural land at market value for 1979.

House Bill 1060, passed to implement the Tax Relief Amendment approved by voters in November, exempts private automobiles from property taxes and requires that agricultural land be appraised according to its productivity. However, the bill allows governing bodies to postpone the changes until 1980.

The commissioners court did just that by passing two resolutions earlier this month.

Democrats select New York as site of 1980 convention

NEW YORK (AP) — When the 1980 Democratic National Convention begins in New York, Jimmy Carter will be on friendly turf if Mayor Edward I. Koch has anything to say about it.

"We're going to have the convention and renominate the next president," Koch said Thursday after the Democrats announced they would hold the convention at Madison Square Garden.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press

Showers and thunderstorms were forecast today for Southeast Texas and the Texas coast.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms rumbled across eastern and central portions of the Texas Panhandle during the night, but ended before noon with only small amounts of rainfall reported.

By early today only Amarillo had reported any rainfall, only a trace.

Forecasts called for most of Texas to have continued clear to partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures. Highs were to be in the 90s except in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas where the mercury was expected to approach the 105-degree mark.

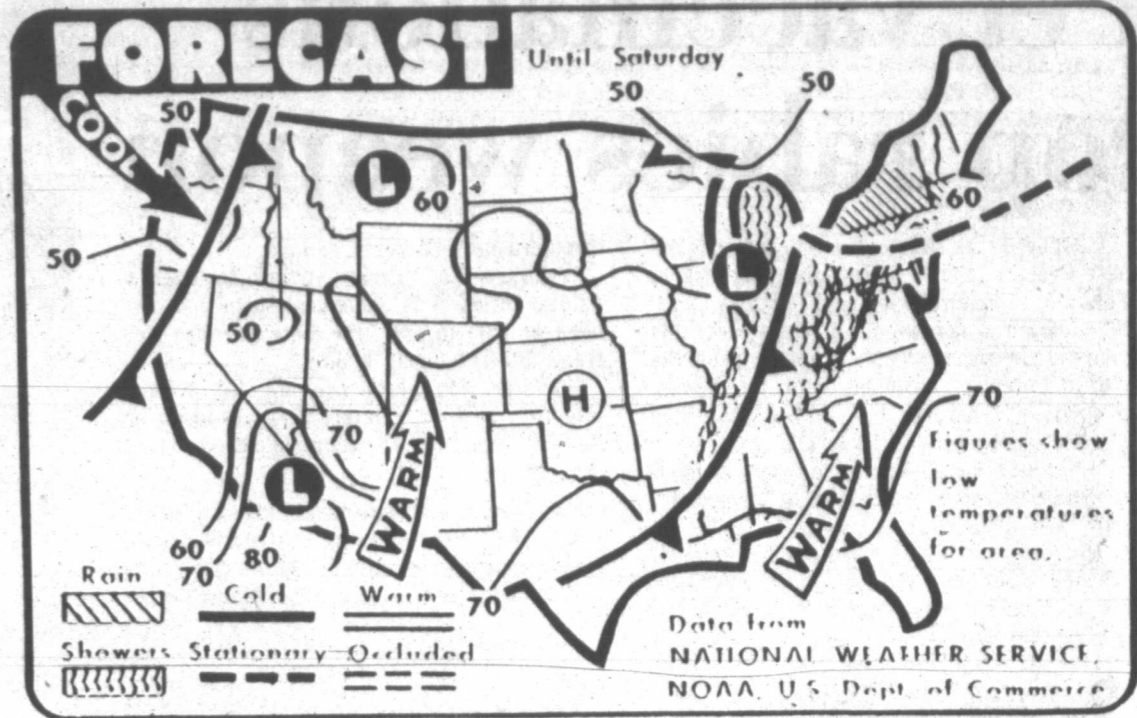

Skies were mostly clear early today. Early morning temperatures ranged from the upper 50s in the mountains of Southwest Texas to near 80 across much of the state. Early morning extremes ranged from 58 at Marfa and 65 at Dalhart to 80 at several reporting stations.

Extended

Sunday Through Tuesday

North Texas: Clear to partly cloudy, continued hot and humid. Daytime high temperatures ranging from the mid 90s southeast to near 104 northwest. Nighttime low temperatures in the mid 70s.

South Texas: Widely scattered afternoon thundershowers over southeast Texas Sunday and Monday. Otherwise partly cloudy and warm. High temperatures near 90 along the coast to near 100 along the Rio Grande. Lows in the 70s.

SHOWERS are expected from the upper Mississippi Valley to the Great Lakes and most of the Northeast. The remainder of the nation can expect mostly sunny skies. Warm weather is forecast for most areas, according to the National Weather Service.

Clements veto costs county $25,000

Among a number of budget-slashing vetoes by Governor Bill Clements during the 66th Legislature was a refusal to approve appropriations totalling $7.3 million of state assistance for county roads beginning in 1981.

The money, a portion of the state gasoline tax, has been apportioned on a formula basis to all 254 counties since 1951.

The cutback received strong criticism this week from representatives of the Texas Association of Counties and the County Judges and Commissioners Association of Texas. But Gray County Commissioner Ronnie Rice said Thursday he was unaware the county was even receiving state assistance for county highway maintenance and repair.

According to figures from the county auditor's office, Gray County has received about $25,000 annually from the state for use in county road and bridge repair and maintenance. Although 1979 budgets for the four county precinct barns totaled $779,887.82, County Auditor A.C. Malone refused to call the state appropriation negligible.

"Every bit helps," Malone said. "It depends on whether we are depending on it right now. We won't know exactly what effect it will have until the budget is made up for next year."

Malone said the $25,000 was divided among the four precincts with Precinct 1 receiving $5,230; Precinct 2, $7,985; Precinct 3, $6,390; and Precinct 4, $5,395 for 1979. The state funds were not budgeted for specific purposes, Malone said.

In a joint statement, Rockward County Judge Derwood Wimpee, president of the Texas Association of Counties, and Medina County Judge Jerome Decker, president of the Judges and Commissioners Association, said the governor's veto will force all 254 Texas Counties "to choose between a tax increase to make up for this unexpected loss in bridge maintenance and construction expenditures or a reduction of local road and bridge maintenance and construction."

The two county judges said that "with inflation and rising costs, the $7.3 million... provided in 1951 has less buying power. However, it has been an important source for hard-pressed county budgets."

Sam E. Clonts, Executive Director of the Texas Association of Counties, said the county highway funds "were already dedicated by statute" and could not be spent for anything else without legislative action.

"It's (the money) not going to be distributed, which I guess you can call a savings, but it can't be spent either."

Clonts also said the counties should share a greater amount in state automobile taxes. Texas counties are currently allowed the first $175,000 collected from automobile license and registration fees. A bill to raise that amount to $300,000 passed the House by a voice vote last session but was killed in the Senate.

Carter to spend night with troops in Korea

TOKYO (AP) — President Carter is heading for South Korea, where he plans to spend the night with U.S. troops 10 miles from the demilitarized zone.

The president planned to depart from Tokyo today after the wrap-up of an economic summit of the seven major industrial democracies.

After landing in Seoul, Carter was to fly by helicopter to Camp Casey, where American GIs block one route that North Korean troops would presumably take in any invasion of the South.

An elaborate welcome prepared by the Korean government awaits the president, including flag-decorated streets and a four-story poster of Carter and South Korean President Park Chung-hee.

A ticker tape parade was planned for Saturday and officials said they expected tens of thousands of citizens to turn out.

Though most South Koreans seemed pleased with prospect of the visit, anti-government dissident groups have issued statements saying it should have been canceled to protest the government's suppression of human rights.

Two issues promise to dominate Carter's visit to Korea: his now-frozen pullout of U.S. troops and the Korean government's suppression of political opposition.

The Carter administration pledged initially to pull out America's 31,000 troops from South Korea, but has halted the withdrawal because U.S. intelligence estimates showed that North Korea had more military strength than previously supposed.

Administration officials, who asked not to be identified, said Carter would discuss security matters with President Park but that the American president was not expected to make any announcement about future troop withdrawals during his visit.

However, South Korean officials said they were confident that Carter will tell Park privately that he has decided to cancel the scheduled troop withdrawals.

Dr. Lamb says

Sunshine can affect kerotosis

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have been having surgery for the removal of several large actinic kerotosis. One was 9 centimeters by 2 1/2 centimeters. They heal perfectly each time. Now more are developing all over my neck. At times they are very irritating. I can't have them all removed. What causes this condition and what can I do to reduce their growth?

DEAR READER - I think it's very important for people who have skin disorders to let a doctor look at the problem. A proper diagnosis often cannot be made without actually seeing what the person is talking about. By your use of the term "actinic kerotosis" I assume that your doctor has told you that's what you have. These are usually the large brownish or grayish spots that develop on the skin in response to exposure to sun.

I notice from your letter that you come from a sunny climate. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 7-10. Your Skin: Sun, Aging, Spots and Cancer. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City, New York, N.Y. 10019.

The Health Letter I'm sending you discusses in greater detail problems such as the spots you are developing on the skin. You probably already have quite a bit of skin damage as a result of exposure to the sun through the years. Nevertheless, it's important for you to try to limit your sun exposure to slow down or prevent such changes.

I think you should probably use one of the sunscreens daily, winter and summer. The effective sunscreens contain PABA. You can also use a physical blocker during the sunnier parts of the day if you have to be out. Of course, one important means of preventing such problems is avoiding exposure to the sun, at least in the parts of the day when the rays are the strongest.

Usually it's important to remove these spots, as some of them can progress to skin cancer. There are some salves which can be prescribed by your physician that will remove them chemically. The choice of whether surgery or chemical salves should be used depends on the spot.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I would appreciate it if you could help me out regarding a question I have about hialal hernia. I read in your column that the pain can be intense enough to bring tears to the eyes of a strong man. I lost the column and that item is of importance to me. I already have your booklet on hialal hernia.

DEAR READER - The hialal hernia itself usually doesn't cause any pain. The problem is that you can have a leakage of the acid digestive material out of the stomach into the lower esophagus. The acid irritation of the esophagus can cause burning or it can cause the esophagus to go into a spasm. This is basically a muscle cramp.

The esophagus is a long muscular tube, and it can cramp just as other muscles do. It's this muscle cramp or esophageal spasm that can cause the severe pain that was referred to in my previous column.

ALT sets membership meeting

The annual membership meeting of the Amarillo Little Theatre is set for July 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the theatre.

The nominating committee has presented a slate of nominees to fill 1979-1982 terms on the board of directors. Included on the slate are Jerry Sawyer, Patti Jo Mandel, Helen Wheeler, Linda Hestwood, Bill SoRelle, John Abbott, Steve Sterquell, Mary Berry, Dr. John Kaczmarek and George Raffkind.

Nominations also may be made from the floor. All members of the Amarillo Little Theatre are entitled to vote in the election of board members, who select the plays and musicals for the year and make decisions regarding spending of funds.

Auditions for the opening musical "Carousel" will be from July 30 through Aug. 4. Positions in all categories are open.

SS manager warns of fraud

Persons eligible for Medicare health insurance benefits should be sure they are not buying additional private insurance coverage already provided by Medicare, says Howard Weatherly, manager of the Pampa Social Security office.

Weatherly says Dallas officials of the federal agency administering Medicare and Medicaid programs are concerned that many elderly Medicare beneficiaries are buying duplicate or overpriced supplemental insurance policies.

According to Jerry Sconce, regional administrator of HEW's Health Care Financing Administration, some Medicare beneficiaries are being taken advantage of by a few unscrupulous insurance agents, often posing as representatives of Medicare or the Social Security Administration. Sconce has contacted state insurance commissioners asking their cooperation in identifying and controlling such sales practices.

Sconce said the problem is a costly one and cited a recent report of the U.S. House Select Committee on Aging, which estimated that senior citizens are "being taken" for $1 billion a year by a few insurance companies and their agents.

Sconce urges senior citizens who consider buying a supplemental plan to be sure that they are not duplicating existing Medicare coverage, and to seek policies that pay a high return in benefits.

Any insurance salesman representing himself as an agent of Medicare or Social Security should be viewed with suspicion, since no federal employee is authorized to engage in this activity, adds Sconce. Any misrepresentation should be reported to the local social security office and the state insurance commissioner.

Altrusa Club meets for officer installation

The Altrusa Club of Pampa ended its club year this week with a meeting to install new officers.

Theme of the program was "End of the Rainbow", with Geneva Tidwell, Maxine Ethridge and Ann Kay in charge of the arrangements.

The progra, directed by Mary Wilson, began with a candle-lighting ceremony, with Atha Wilks providing background music. Marian Stroup, outgoing president, presented her annual report to club members, discussing her seven goal and their achievements.

Officers were installed before an archway accented with vines, yellow roses and yellow ribbons. Installed were Mary McDaniel, president; Joyce Simon, vice president; Leona Willis, corresponding secretary; Louise Bailey, recording secretary; Geraldine Rampy, treasurer; Erma Lee Barber, Joyce Roberts, and Katherine Sullins, directors.

Each officer was given a yellow rose by Marilyn McClure, daughter of the outgoing president. Pins were presented to the past president and the incoming president, who explained her club goals in rhyme.

Forty Altrusans and five guests attended the meeting.

I cannot get the creases out even though I have rewashed them, wet them, rolled them up in a towel and then ironed them wet. What can I do?
MRS. R.S.

DEAR MRS. R.S. - Try using a pressing cloth that has been wrung out of a strong white vinegar and water solution.
POLLY

DEAR POLLY - No matter what sort of soap you use sprinkle a little sugar on your hands when you wish to wash grease and grime away. Mechanics often keep a shaker of sugar handy.
Wax all your ash trays and the ashes will not cling. The odor will not linger and they can be wiped clean with a paper towel.
Use napkin holders for your packages of cold drinks, salad mixes, etc., and the shelves will stay neater and better organized.

DEAR POLLY - I usually have a couple of macrame projects going and since I live in a small house space is a problem when I want to work on them.
I bought a tension curtain bar that can be bought in any drapery department and is adjustable. It will fit tightly in any doorway in my house. I slip a metal drapery pin over the rod, hang the beginning of my project from this pin and complete the article from that point. The rod can be pushed up in the doorway to accommodate the length of the item being made and the tension rod can be moved to another doorway for completion later. I find this most helpful and hope it will help other macrame friends.

Dear Abby says

Scents bother sensitive noses

DEAR ABBY: If people are "entitled" to clean air, devoid of cigarette smoke, why aren't they entitled to clean air, free from the scents of perfumes, colognes, after-shaves, etc., which also can make people sick?

I am allergic to scents. They give me a migraine headache. My nasal passages become irritated and swollen, and I have difficulty breathing.

It is torture for me to be helped by a heavily perfumed salesperson. Or to stand in line with perfumed people, get trapped in an elevator with them, sit next to them in a waiting room or theater or wherever people gather. Room sprays of all kinds are a disaster to me!

In writing this I hope scent-users will become aware of how offensive they are and will be satisfied with a daily bath and an unscented deodorant.

ALLERGIC

DEAR ALLERGIC: Thanks for a letter about scents that makes sense.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter (an only child) and I have a beautiful relationship even though she is 37 and I am 67. She is happily married. She and her husband invite me to be with them very often and we always have a wonderful time. I lost my husband six months ago, Abby, but when he was alive we saw a lot of "the kids."

Well, the kids are planning a vacation and want me to go with them. We enjoy the same things and always have a great time together. Some of my friends have told me it is not "healthy" to be with my kids so much. They say I shouldn't go on a vacation with them, that they asked me just to be nice. My kids say if I don't go with them they won't have as much fun.

I have other interests and friends, and do not feel as though I am clinging to my children. Perhaps I need another point of view.

MRS. R.

DEAR MRS. R.: If you feel that their invitations are sincere, and their enjoyment of your company is real, pay no attention to the suggestions from friends. Join the kids and have a good time!

DEAR ABBY: This may sound silly, but it is a big problem with me.

My boyfriend, 25, started to shave the hair off his chest about a year ago, then he began shaving his arms. I asked him why he did this and he said he didn't like the looks of all that hair. (I never thought he was particularly hairy).

Now he turns up with the hair shaved off his lower extremities! This really bothers me, Abby. Nobody sees his legs, so why does he need to shave them?

Now he claims that body hair is "unclean". How can I convince him that body hair isn't dirty, and that he should stop all this silly shaving?

IN LOVE WITH A HAIRLESS GUY

DEAR IN LOVE: Your boyfriend's problems could be more than skin deep. But as long as he doesn't consider his obsession with body hair a problem, it's no problem. If you do, I'm afraid that's your problem.

Crickets call in summer months
This is the month that house crickets start calling. To destroy them, apply a lindane or malathion spray in cracks where the crickets can hide, around baseboards and in closets. Try to prevent their entry by tightening windows, doors and screens.

Erma Bombeck says

Tan once envied, now scorned

By Erma Bombeck

Boy, you don't know what to believe anymore. Remember when tan was healthy and pale was sick? I do.

Back in Ohio, I dedicated four months out of every year of my life to getting a tan. My ultimate goal was to turn brown before Jan Reeves did. I never made it.

Jan was one of those women whom I suspect hung out all winter under a bulb in the refrigerator, greased up when she stood under a lighted theatre marquee, and turned bronze when she strung Christmas tree lights.

If I dragged out to the community pool right after Easter with a coat over my terminal goose bumps, there she'd be anointing her brown body with baby oil. She couldn't have tanned more evenly if she had been revolving on a barbecue spit. When I appeared she'd look over her large sunglasses and say, "You feeling better?" I felt like a naked chicken.

We all had a Debra Paget wish. Tans made your clothes look better, your teeth whiter, and besides, they announced to the world that you had time to lol.

I personally found being "into sweat" a bore and was relieved when it was discovered to be not only unhealthy but turned you into Dorian Gray.

People have done a complete about-face. No woman wants to admit any more that she suns herself. If you find one who is toasty brown, she'll stammer, "I got this in the garden pulling weeds." or "Can you believe I played golf on an overcast day?"

It makes me suspicious that if the sun has only recently turned into a villain, maybe it's only a matter of time before someone figures out that carrots cause cavities, roaches are a status symbol, glasses make you look sexy, giving birth is good for your figure, jogging makes you fat, and small cars are gas hogs.

Somehow, I can't get used to telling people who are tan, "Gosh you look so brown. Have you been sick?" You know, you ought to set aside just a couple of hours a day to get out of the sun more.

Darrouzett plans Deustches Fest for July 7

Lipscomb County residents will honor their German ancestry July 7 with their Deustches Fest in Darrouzett, featuring food and activities for all ages.

Proceeds from the annual celebration, which was started in 1971, are used for community improvement projects.

Activities include a saddle horse pull at 9 a.m., post-hole digging contest and the Pretty Fraulien contest at 9:30 a.m., and a parade at 11 a.m., followed by a feast of German foods.

The German costume contest starts at 1 p.m., with games for adults at 1:30 and for children at 3 o'clock, a liar's contest at 3:30 and a mustache contest at 4 p.m. Horseshoe pitching begins at 5 o'clock, followed by a pie eating contest at 6 p.m.

At 7 p.m., a talent contest will be staged, and the day's activities end with an adult dance from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Entertainment and carnival rides will be provided throughout the day, and a flea market will be held at the Senior Citizens Center.

News in and around Pampa

Bill Thorpe to entertain

Bill Thorpe, rodeo clown from Pampa, will entertain at the Independence Day rodeo performances in Canadian, scheduled July 2, 3, and 4.

Thorpe has 12 years of experience in the rodeo field, and has competed in all major rodeo events. He first appeared as a clown in 1968, in Colony, Kansas, and after a two-year apprenticeship with a professional clown, he struck out on his own.

Last year he worked 106 performances in 12 states.

Appearing with Thorpe is Cajun, a speckled 1900 pound brahman steer, who performs stunts at Thorpe's command.

Also included in the show is Wildfire, a cowpony spending his first year on the rodeo circuit, and making a return appearance is Blue, a multi-talented dog that can play the part of a giant jackrabbit. Blue also demonstrates his skills as a barrel racer.

Class of '49 to meet

The class of 1949 of Pampa High School invites all its graduates, schoolmates, faculty and interested friends to a reunion tomorrow. Registration is from 10 a.m. until 12 noon at the PHS library. Coffee and doughnuts will be served, and several former members of the faculty will be present.

The class will meet at noon in City Park for a picnic lunch. Beverages will be provided.

A catered dinner will be served at 7 p.m. in the Heritage Room of the M.K. Brown Auditorium. A photographer will be available during the evening. Persons wishing to make reservations for the dinner should call 665-5552 or 665-1390.

All 155 graduates of the class have been contacted, according to Mrs. W.J. Derington, who is handling reunion arrangements.

Charm course at library

A charm workshop for girls from the ages of nine through 19 is scheduled for Monday from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. at Lovett Memorial Library.

Conducting the session will be Laura Taylor, fashion coordinator for Sears and Roebuck. She will be advising the girls on modeling, make-up, hair and face care, fashion trends, and accessorizing. Girls should bring a sack lunch. Beverages will be provided.

Sponsoring the program is the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Cowboy reunion set

The 49th Texas Cowboy Reunion, considered the largest amateur rodeo in the world, will be July 2, 3, and 4 at Stamford.

The reunion will feature a parade at 4 p.m. on July 2, and rodeos at 8 p.m. each day along with a 2 p.m. performance on July 4.

Special entertainment will be provided by Snuffy Chancellor and his trained brahman bull.

Alternative to banquet fare

Politicians and non-politicians alike might appreciate an attack on the standard outrage that passes for a meal at political banquets. "Alternatives to Rubber Chicken" is illustrated by a hideous, brown rubber fowl stretched over a page and a half of sparkling plate. The article is a history of political fund raising and offers some relief for digestive tracts.

"Often," it begins, "the main dish is corrugated roast beef or laminated steak. Once in a while, it is something delicious. But whatever the menu, 'rubber chicken' has become the catchword for generally tasteless and high-priced political banquet fare, served up to be bolted down before the speeches get started."

After tracing the origins of rubber chicken: "Today, the price per plate is limitless and the economies of sponsors shameless. For a good cause or candidate, they would cheerfully put a $100 price tag on a $1 box lunch."

The alternatives? From a Washington banquet manager comes a suggestion for beef bourguignon or veal marengo or perhaps a little seafood Creole with shrimp and crab meat and paupiette de sole Veronique. In other words, filet of sole.

A major Chicago hotel boasts it hasn't served chicken for two years. It's now a steak dinner with fine wine, fresh fruit and baked Alaska. And for low-budget banquets, a New Orleans hotel has been known to serve hoagie sandwiches.

Public TV to rearrange network

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It was an interesting few days for public television.

The folks from PBS pulled into the Century Plaza Hotel just as the big boys — ABC, CBS and NBC — were pulling out. The commercial networks had just finished the summer press junket ritual, hyping their shiny fall schedules and special projects, defending the ways of commercial TV before the choler of visiting television critics.

"No," the network bosses said, one more time. "We won't be turning over any nights to coverage of ballet. That's not our business." There were parties and screenings and gang interviews with the stars, and by Monday, it was over.

Then, seeming almost an afterthought, PBS began its convention. It was a low-key affair, compared to the commercial network hoopla, but there were big doings aplenty.

First, public TV membership voted to restructure the network, forming three separate "mininetworks" that will transmit programs simultaneously by satellite. The membership directed the board of directors to have the plan implemented by January 1981.

The three public TV networks will consist of an educational service, to be aired in conjunction with local school programs; a regional service, for programs of local interest; and the regular PBS service, featuring cultural, entertainment and public affairs programs now offered by the network.

By the use of satellite transmission — a capacity PBS already has — the network can deliver three different programs to its affiliated stations at once, rather than just a single program, which is the limit of the commercial networks.

Satellite transmission will enable local PBS stations across the country to choose programs from any of the three planned services. The satellite service caters to the fierce individuality of local stations, which is one of the basic underpinnings of public TV.

That independence, though, has been seen by some in PBS as a hindrance to broader popularity for public TV. If local stations don't air network programs at the same time, as commercial network stations do, national promotion is useless.

In an effort to effect some semblance of network unity, 125 of PBS' 157 licensees agreed this week to join in "common carriage" of certain programs.

Fuel crunch plays havoc with holiday

By The Associated Press

A Rhode Island supplier said sales for traditional clambakes at the shore were off and a Maine town offered tourists free gasoline, as the spreading fuel crunch clouded travel plans for the weekend and July Fourth holiday.

A spot check by the Associated Press showed that weekend gasoline supplies were tight in 35 states, with the biggest pinch in the heavily populated cities in the East.

Seventy percent of West Virginia's gas stations were expected to be closed Saturday and 95 percent Sunday. In Portland, Ore., 93 percent were expected to be closed Sunday.

The situation has "stabilized at disaster," said the Automobile Club of New York, where gas lines stretched up to 2 1/2 miles this week and prices ranged up to $1.60 a gallon.

The Automobile Association of America said the average gas price across the nation was 94.3 cents a gallon — and OPEC adopted a new pricing system that will add four cents to that in the months ahead.

Guerrillas retreat from Managua slum

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — The Sandinista rebels gave up the Managua slums after two weeks of fighting but said they were withdrawing to regroup for more combat. President Anastasio Somoza failed to muster a quorum for a session of Congress and met with the new U.S. ambassador, Lawrence Pezzullo, amid reports the envoy asked him to resign.

The New York Times reported Somoza told U.S. officials he would step down if his national guard and ruling Liberal Nationalist Party were given a role in a transitional government. U.S. Embassy political officer Jack Martin called the report "pure speculation," and Somoza's private secretary, Max Kelly, called it "absolutely false."

Somoza told the Colombian newspaper La Republica: "If the Congress asks me to resign, I will dissolve it."

Only 28 of the 70 congressmen showed up for the session Somoza called Thursday, eight short of a quorum.

"We're going to Masaya," one of the guerrillas shouted to reporters as he and hundreds of others streamed out of the slums on foot and in captured national guard trucks toward the rebel-held city 20 miles south of Managua. They were armed with automatic assault rifles, rocket grenades and heavy machine guns.

A guerrilla source said the Sandinistas pulled out of Managua because of heavy guard fire and because they were running low on food and ammunition.

Southern Baptists display their style at recent meeting

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

America's largest Protestant denomination, the Southern Baptist Convention, has some singular qualities and they came into view in fascinating array at its recent meeting in Houston.

The incongruities, the grandeur, the suspicions and graciousness tumbled forth in mingled profusion, with the process starting out in one direction and winding up in another.

That curious, seesaw mixture of thrust and parry, backing and hauling, is part of the unusual nature of this vast, loose-knit body of 13.2 million Christians holding them together in teeming vigor.

Although retaining the "Southern" designation, they've stretched across the land in all 50 states, with missions in 90 foreign countries, and a myriad diversity of tastes and cultural beliefs.

They're people of "differing viewpoints whose freedom of expressing themselves has always been a hallmark," notes the Rev. Russell H. Dilday Jr., president of Southwestern Baptist Seminary in Fort Worth.

But whatever the frictions or tangles the Baptists display a fervent faith and passion to evangelize the world for Christ. They backed that dedication with budgets, praise and "Amen's," despite the peripheral upheavals.

Ironically, on the surface, however, the convention began with rolling thunder directed at seminaries and charges of lax teaching about the Bible, but ended with a salute to them for good work.

Strangely, too, the meeting of 16,000 "messengers" started with the triumph of an extraordinary political-style campaign for the denominational presidency by a strictly conservative coalition.

But in a remarkable twist, the convention afterward rebuked such "overt political activity... as a method of selection of its officers," and ordered an investigation of reported voting irregularities.

It was a zigzag, flip-flop sequence that brought tears and chuckles, arguments and embraces, but withal, that spirited, full-fledged commitment to the cause of spreading the Gospel.

"Let's get on with this obsession," their famed evangelist Billy Graham exhorted 48,000 of them in Houston's Astrodome, brushing aside the intramural bickering as beside the point.

The odd turn-around of affairs, however, apparently derived at least partly from the casual, easygoing makeup of the annual meeting, and offhand voting procedure, with some "messengers" apparently casting multiple ballots.

Any Southern Baptist — up to 10 from each of the denomination's 35,000 autonomous congregations — is eligible to attend, speak (if he can get recognized in the crowd) and vote, which could mean a possible total of 350,000 people.

But the count usually is around 20,000 or less, with time and geography having a lot to do with the makeup, and the bulk of "messengers" coming from the area nearer the meeting site.

Religious roundup

SILVER SPRINGS, Md. (AP) — When the electric bill for their one-room church which was used only two hours each week leaped from $6 to $297 per month, members of Mt. Zion United Methodist Church felt something was wrong.

They complained, but without results, and patiently borrowed the money to keep paying the steep bills. That went on for two years for the black church of about 100 members, with monthly bills averaging $250, despite regular protests.

Church treasurer Zelma Snowden said the Potomac Electric Power Company (PEPCO) sometimes ignored her calls, at other times promised to investigate. It reported the meter was working properly, she says, and the big bills continued.

Finally, however, the church engaged an attorney, and it was determined that the utility company had installed a high demand commercial meter, resulting in an inflated minimum commercial price for the church's infrequent power use.

PEPCO admitted its mistake, a United Methodist report said this week. Installed a new meter and agreed to repay the little congregation more than $2,000 it had borrowed to pay a bill it really didn't owe.

Pastor upset in Norway

OSLO, Norway (AP) — A Lutheran Church of Norway pastor strongly opposed to a new law allowing abortion says the king and members of parliament who supported it should be excommunicated.

The Rev. Boerre Knudsen says he will no longer perform civil duties required of pastors in the officially established church. Last year, the church's bishops issued a pastoral letter condemning the new abortion law.

Friars open home

GRAYMOOR, N. Y. (AP) — The Atonement Friars have opened their hospitable and scenic mountaintop home and Christian unity center for the 1979 pilgrimage season, which annually attracts thousands.

The season will continue until the last Sunday in October. The center, sometimes called "the holy mountain," was started by a controversial Episcopal priest, the Rev. Lewis T. Watson, in 1898, who founded the Roman Catholic Society for the Friars of the Atonement.

Rabbi elected to post

NEW YORK (AP) — Rabbi Arthur J. Lelyveld of Cleveland has been elected president of the Synagogue Council of America, the umbrella group including all three wings of Judaism, Conservative, Reform and Orthodox. A leader in the Reform branch, he succeeds Rabbi Saul I. Teplitz of Woodmere, N.Y.

Mexican Baptists meet

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Mexican-American Baptists meeting in Lubbock Wednesday focused their attention on illegal aliens, farm workers rights and law enforcement.

The Mexican Baptist Convention of Texas, affiliated with the 2-million member Baptist General Convention of Texas adopted a resolution that pointed out "strong blood ties with our neighbor to the south, Mexico," and said there are "evidences that the Immigration and Naturalization Service procedures have been continually violated."

Another resolution called on the Texas Legislature to pass workers compensation laws protecting farm workers and to establish procedures guaranteeing farm workers the right to collective bargaining.

The resolution said there are virtually no social restraints on the exploitation of farm workers.

"The farm worker has the right to expect decent housing with proper sewage and safe

A third resolution said that Mexican-Americans being held by law enforcement officials have suffered violations of their civil rights. It also said there are manifold needs for reform in the entire criminal justice system in Texas.

"We call upon our duly-elected public officials to investigate and bring criminal charges where needed and to rectify all instances of civil rights violations," the resolution said.

Johnson Temple schedules revival

The Johnson Temple Church of God in Christ has scheduled a three-day revival Friday through Sunday at its 505 W. Wilks Street location.

Evangelist R.G. Hines will lead the revival. E.L. James will be the organist and T.D. Sanders will be soloist.

Ward conference set for Sunday

Bishop L.B. Voyles has announced that the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 731 North Sloan, will have a ward conference on Sunday, July 1, under the direction of Duane Moss.

President of the Lubbock Texas Stake. The meeting schedule will be: Priesthood: 9:00 a.m. — General Session: 10:30 to 12:30. Lunch will be served in the basement from 1:00 to 2:00. The public is invited to attend.

"Thou wilt shew me the path of life.
in thy presence is fulness of Joy..."

Inscription for the Statue of Liberty

BY EMMA LAZARUS

Give me your tired, your poor,

Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free,

The wretched refuse of your teeming shore,

Send these, the homeless, tempest-tossed, to me:

I lift my lamp beside the golden door.

This truly reflects the attitude of a nation living close to God. The concern and love for others grows through Christian fellowship. Attend Church Regularly.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Car rentals on the rise

NEW YORK (AP) — Though its product is almost totally dependent on gasoline, the automobile rental industry is having some of the best times of its life. Business is great, and it's expected to get better.

Hertz reports business this year has been up 17 percent to 20 percent over a year earlier, but that it jumped to 25 percent higher as the oil shortage developed. Avis is said to have had a similar jump.

While the fuel shortage has created some problems, neither has been bothered by the price rise. They simply pass on the cost, plus handling charges, and rely on the daily charge and mileage rates for profits.

"Once you rent you can gas up at another Hertz outlet, providing it's open," said a Hertz official. "Check ahead," he advised. "If not, the best chance of finding a 24-hour outlet is at a major airport."

Avis' policy differs. While fuel may be obtained at certain sites, the location of which should be checked in advance, the company offers no blanket assurance of refills at every outlet, the Avis man said.

Despite the promotional advantage of being able to offer a full tank of fuel, the impression conveyed but seldom stated outright in talks with rental people is that gasoline is a major headache for them too.

Unlike many individual car owners, rental companies saw the problems coming, and back in 1974 the industry generally converted from wet rates to dry. That is, fuel was removed as a factor in pricing.

In almost every instance now the customer pays for whatever gasoline he uses, either by reimbursing the company for its costs or refueling at his own expense at neighborhood or highway gasoline stations.

Since most customers drive less than 200 miles, cars today generally are returned with little fuel remaining. As a result, companies have had to buy on the open market to enhance already curtailed allotments.

The high cost of gasoline, however, hasn't been the only factor in rising rental prices. Daily rates have risen, and so have mileage rates, in some cases to 36 cents a mile for a compact car.

For the rental companies, the damaging affect of these higher rates has been offset by several market factors, one of the most important being the increasing attractiveness of air travel.

Rowland named new field deputy

Travis Rowland, 35, of 813 N. Wells St., will assume duties as a field deputy for the Gray County Sheriff's Office effective July 1, Sheriff Rufe Jordan said Wednesday.

County commissioners approved the creation of a new deputy position in May upon a request from Jordan.

Rowland has served as a detective with the Pampa police department since June 1978. He also served a year with the Pampa force beginning in January 1976. Rowland previously served as a deputy sheriff in Henderson County and was a policeman in Athens, Texas.

A graduate of East Texas State University with a Bachelor of Science degree in biology, Rowland has taught in various schools, including Pecos High School in Pecos.

He and his wife Judy have two sons, 7-year-old Brad and 2-year-old Jason.

Jordan said the hiring of a new deputy will free one field man for night patrol duty.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede o. l.

June 30, 1979

This coming year you're likely to experience a more exciting social life than you have for quite some time. Partake of fun activities where you can meet and mingle with new people.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In order for you to manage others effectively today, you must first set the proper example. Assistants will mirror your behavior to the letter. Your new Astro-Graph Letter tells you what lies ahead for you for the year following your birthday. Get yours by mailing $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Forego temptations to take speculative risks today, even though they may look good on the surface. Gambles could backfire unless you analyze all the aspects.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Things that you can do quickly today you will be able to do quite well. Your skill may wane, however, in matters requiring great patience.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Opportunities for personal gain could be diluted today if you view things too skeptically. Don't let negative thoughts defeat you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Keep dealings with friends today on a purely social level. It's best that you don't become involved in their financial affairs, nor they in yours.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Luck may intervene today in helping you accomplish something you'd be unable to do on your own. The way it develops could be quite surprising.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be very frank and open today with your friends. Lay all your cards on the table. Give them no cause to think you are hiding something.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In joint ventures today, be very careful not to allow an outsider become involved. This person could throw a monkey wrench into the operation.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your judgment is quite keen today, but for some strange reason you may harbor unnecessary doubts regarding your decisions. Don't overanalyze needlessly.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Move while the industrious mood is upon you today or else you may put off doing essential chores. Your indifference grows the longer you procrastinate.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Under no circumstances should you compromise your high standards today, even though you may be tempted to do so.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Regarding changes you're contemplating, it's best that you do not seek too many outside opinions.

Borg faces crucial tennis tests

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Three-time Wimbledon champion Bjorn Borg faced dual threats to his title today, one in the form of hard-serving American Hank Pfister and the other a thigh injury.

Borg rested Thursday and he and his coach were clearly worried about continuing his campaign today.

Referee Fred Hoyles ruled out any chance for a day's grace.

"If he is scheduled to play he must. There are no dispensations or favors for champions," he said.

The cool Swede apparently strained the leg during a tough five-setter against Indian No. 1 Vijay Amritraj Wednesday. He was under treatment Thursday, but also found time to practice at Queen's Club.

Seven seeds have lost in the first two rounds. The two losing seeds Thursday were No. 6, Guillermo Vilas and No. 12 Manuel Orantes.

Tim Wilkison, a fresh-faced 19-year-old from Shelby, N.C., beat Vilas 5-7, 6-2, 6-1, 7-6 to earn a third-round match against Tom Okker.

Little-known Frenchman Gilles Moretton conquered Orantes 7-6, 3-6, 7-6, 3-6, 6-1.

Vilas, who has won every major tournament except Wimbledon, was bitterly disappointed at his loss to the agile Wilkison.

No. 13 Manuel Orantes of Spain also fell Thursday, losing to little-known Frenchman Gilles Moretton 7-6, 3-6, 7-6, 6-1.

Third-seeded Jimmy Connors lost the first set of his second-round match against 37-year-old Marty Riessen but went on to win 6-7, 6-3, 7-6, 6-0.

Connors, who has been elusive all week, once again refused to meet reporters.

Eighth-seeded Paraguayan Victor Pecci gave another impressive performance in beating veteran Australian Phil Dent 6-4, 7-6, 6-3.

In the women's singles, top seeds Martina Navratilova and Chris Evert Lloyd had a day off, but fourth-seeded Tracy Austin Cuyper 4-6, 6-1, 6-2. Austin had a first-round bye.

In contrast to the men, only two of the women's seeds failed to come through the second round.

Blind boy plays baseball

WEST COVINA, Calif. (AP) — "Yes, I'm blind — but I'm not handicapped," says 11-year-old Simon Risconi, possibly the first sightless designated hitter in Little League history.

Simon bats off a tee and gets help running to first base. He survives on a burning desire to "do what normal people do."

Simon, the only blind student at Westcove Elementary School here, has spent more than half his life in darkness since losing his sight to glaucoma at the age of 5. But that hasn't stopped him.

"The kids were practicing at Westcove School one day and he went up to one of the coaches and asked about playing in the league," explains league representative Don Payton, one of many who insist Simon's achievement is a Little League baseball first.

Payton said he talked to the boy on the telephone one night about playing in the Orangewood Little League and at the end of the conversation, Simon said: "Incidentally, I think there's something I should tell you. I'm blind."

Payton took Simon's case to the league's board of directors, and District 19 representative John Littlefield gave his approval after suggesting young Risconi hit off a batting tee, be helped to first base and not be allowed to play in the field to prevent possible injury.

A few weeks later, Simon was in uniform for the Angels of the rookie division, coached by Ed

Miraglia and Gus Sansone.

"He showed up at practice one day and said, 'I was sent here to be on your team,'" said Miraglia, who had never worked with a blind child before.

When Miraglia introduced the other players to him, Simon shook their hands and felt their shoulders and chests to find out how tall they were and how they were built, so he could remember them.

He is shown no favoritism; in the dugout he has to behave like all the other players.

"The biggest problem is keeping the other kids away from him," said Miraglia. "They want to lead him around all the time. He's too independent for that."

Simon's dedication makes him a major influence on the team.

"He thinks we're going to win just because he's out there," Miraglia said. "He's really a very positive little man. When he first came out, I asked him how he would get to first base and he told me to go down to first and call his name.

"I'm a police officer, and it brought tears to my eyes," the coach says. "He's so enthusiastic. He comes out like gangbusters."

It's Simon's turn to bat and unseem hands guide him from the dugout to the plate. The noises die down and he hears whispers of "That's the blind kid!" as he is turned toward the pitcher's mound, moving his hands up and down the tee to get a mental picture of the ball.

He steps back, swings the bat to where the ball should be, and — CRACK! — drives it over the head of a down-in-fielder.

"He's an inspiration for every kid in the league," says Payton.

"Take a picture of me hitting the ball!" shouts Simon. "I wanna see that in the paper."

Gold Sox lose

By The Associated Press
Chico Alfaro's three-run homer was the big blow in a five-run outburst in the fifth inning Thursday night as the Midland Cubs edged the Amarillo Gold Sox, 6-5, in a Texas League baseball game.

In other Texas League action, Arkansas slipped past Jackson in 10 innings, 7-6. San Antonio defeated El Paso, 6-2, and Shreveport trounced Tulsa, 18-0.

It was Alfaro's ninth home run of the season and helped Mark Parker, 5-5, pick up the pitching victory. Mark Thurman, 0-1, was the loser.

Gene Roof's double and Neil Fiala's sacrifice in the 10th inning helped the Arkansas Travelers to a 7-6 victory over the Jackson Mets. Jody Davis and Ronald McDonald each homered for the Mets.

Ray Searage, 6-0, was the winning Arkansas hurler. Pete Hamner, 1-2, was charged with the loss.

Catcher Bob Kearney gave his Shreveport Captains teammates a going away present in the 18-0 rout of the Tulsa Drillers. Kearney had a grand slam home run, his third homer in the last four games, in his final outing with Shreveport before leaving AA to go to the AAA Phoenix team in the Pacific Coast League.

Two tied in LPGA

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — A chance encounter with an old pro got Barbara Barrow's golf game pointed in the right direction.

"Last week I ran into a teacher who worked with me and changed my alignment. Now I'm hitting the ball straight," Barrow beamed.

The burly 24-year-old had reason to smile. She combined her straight and long drives with nimble putting Thursday for a 3-under-par 69 and a share of the first round lead in a $150,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament at the Dearborn Country Club course.

The 72-hole event runs through Sunday.

Debbie Austin used booming tee shots to fire six birdies, four on the back nine, to tie Barrow. Five golfers, including defending champion Sandra Post, were tied for second with 2-under-par 70s.

The standings were clogged even more at 71, with a 10-player standoff.

Barrow headed directly to the practice tee after the round, her lowest on the tour. She practiced hours, using the new stance she learned in Chicago last week from Dee Dee Owens, a teaching professional.

"I usually draw the ball and now I'm lining up better and hitting it straight — but I don't have it down just yet," said the former national collegiate champion, a resident of Chula Vista, Calif.

"Putting is still the strongest part of my game," said Barrow, who holed putts of 10, 30 and 35 feet on her second nine.

"It feels kind of different to be in the lead. This is the first time (in nearly two years on the tour)," she said. "I'm trying not to think about it."

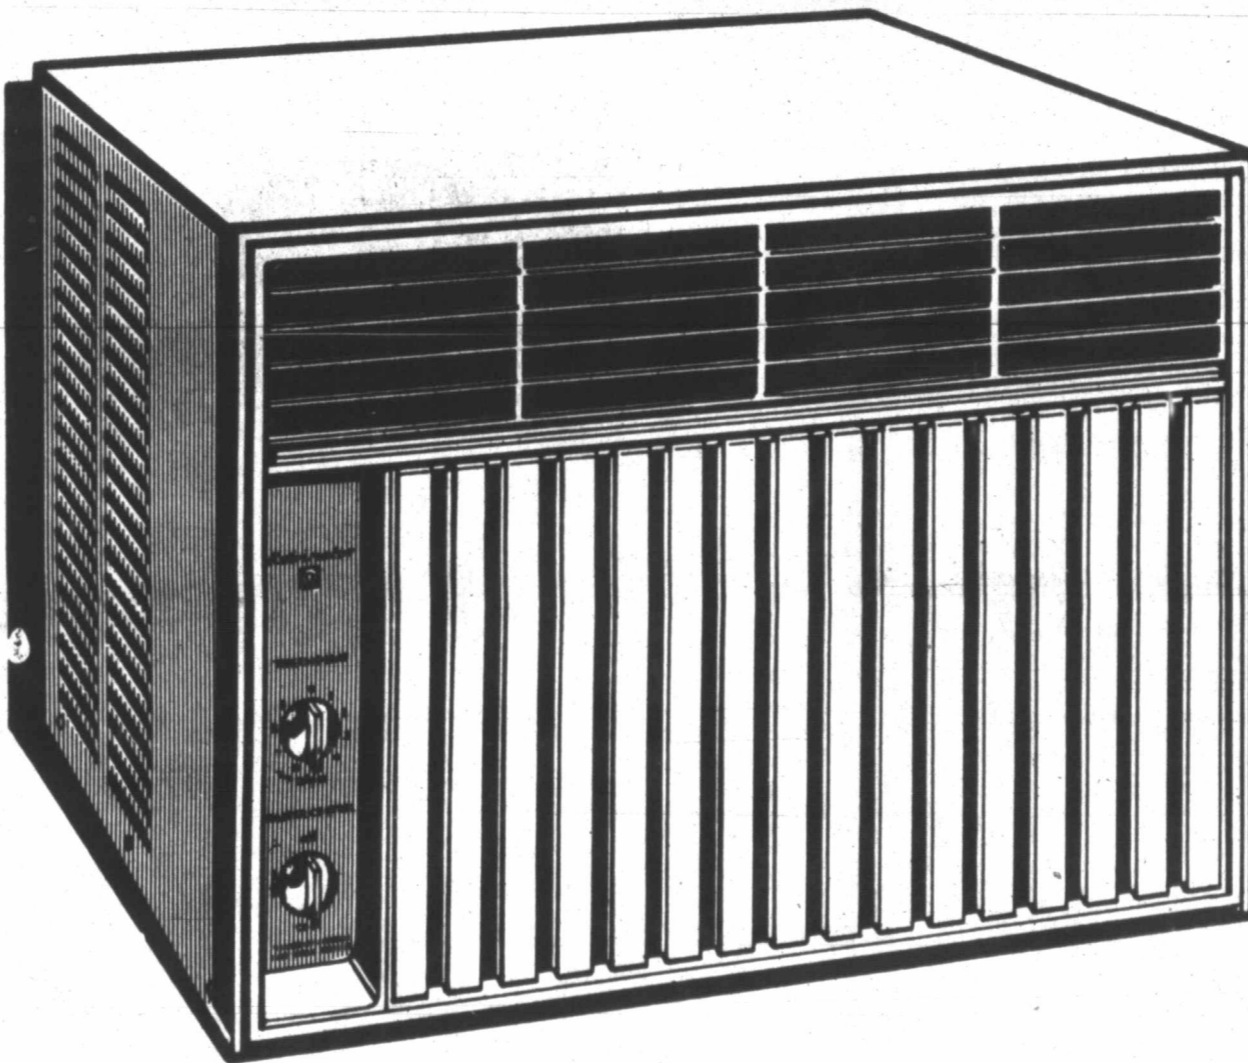

A severe overnight thunderstorm left behind soft, wet greens and that "helped a whole lot," said Austin. "The greens here are usually hard."

"This course demands excellent iron play and I'm a straight hitter," Austin said. "Now, it's just a matter of putting. I had 29 putts today, which wasn't bad, and I was swinging the club well."

Major League roundup

Rangers win wild game over California, 14-4

By The Associated Press
 It was another of those knock-down, drag-out battles between the Texas Rangers and California Angels.
 The pitchers were knocking down the batters and the batters were dragging themselves back up and hitting the ball.
 After plenty of hits by the batters and some near-misses by the pitchers, the Rangers wound up on the long end of a wild 14-4 decision Thursday night in the game between two of the American League West leaders.
 The Rangers bolted to a 12-0 lead in the first two innings, belting 10 hits off three hapless California pitchers. That apparently got the Angels angry, for in the third inning the Rangers' Pat Putnam was hit by a Steve Eddy pitch.
 The next inning, California's Dan Ford was brushed back by Ranger starter Ferguson Jenkins.

Billy Sample knocked in four runs for the Rangers while Bump Wills and Dave Roberts smashed four hits apiece. Jenkins gave up only five hits to the slumping Angels, who lost their seventh straight game.
Royals 7, A's 6
 Al Cowens' RBI single capped a two-run ninth, leading Kansas City over Oakland. Jamie Quirk led off the inning with a single off Dave Heaverlo and went to second on Willie Wilson's sacrifice bunt.
 After George Brett was walked intentionally, Amos Otis singled home the tying run and sent Brett to third before Cowens delivered the game-winning hit. Al Hrabosky was the winner in relief.
Indians 6, Orioles 3
 Ron Hassey drove in three runs and Rick Wise and Sid Monge combined on a five-hitter as Cleveland beat Baltimore and ended a 10-game losing streak. Hassey singled home a run during a two-run second inning and had a two-run double in the fourth, doubling his 1979 RBI total for 14 previous games.

 Wise allowed all five Oriole hits, including Lee May's 12th homer, before needing Monge's last-out relief help.
Yankees 5, Blue Jays 3
 Jim Spencer doubled home the tie-breaking run in the 10th inning and scored on an error by losing pitcher Mark Lemongello as New York defeated Toronto.
 Lou Piniella singled with one out in the Yankee 10th and Spencer, who had entered the game as a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning, drilled a pitch from Lemongello, 1-8, off the center field fence to break a 3-3 tie. Graig Nettles then grounded to second, but Lemongello, covering first base, let Dan Ainge's throw get past him for an error, allowing Spencer to score.

Tigers 6, Red Sox 3
 Champ Summers drove in three runs with his third homer in as many games as Detroit defeated Boston. Tiger starter Jack Billingham scattered seven hits in seven innings to pick up the victory with relief help from Aurelio Lopez. Boston starter Steve Renko took the defeat.

White Sox 2, Mariners 1
 Ross Baumgarten and Steve Trout scattered nine hits to lead Chicago over Seattle. Trout came on in the ninth with Seattle leading 2-0 and two runners aboard and nobody out. The reliever gave up a bunt single to Dan Meyer to load the bases, but then pitched out of the jam as Seattle scored its only run on a double-play ball.
 Jorge Orta's RBI single in the first inning gave the White Sox a 1-0 lead and they built it to 2-0 on Chet Lemon's run-scoring single in the top of the ninth.

Brewers 6, Twins 5
 Ben Oglivie's tie-breaking home run in the 10th inning powered Milwaukee over Minnesota. Oglivie's blast came off Mike Marshall, 9-7, with two out and overshadowed a comeback rally by the Twins, who had tied the game with two runs in the ninth. Bill Castro picked up the victory in relief.
Mets 3, Pirates 2
 New York jumped out to a 3-1 lead and held on for the 3-2 victory. The Mets won three of five in their home-and-home series with Pittsburgh.

Reliever Neil Allen, 2-5, got the victory.
Astros 6, Giants 5
 The Astros won their ninth game in 11 when they rallied for four runs in the fourth inning, sparked by Alan Ashby's leadoff homer.
 The Giants took a 4-0 lead off winning right-hander Rick Williams, 3-3, in the first, when Willie McCovey smacked a three-run homer.
 But Houston scored two runs in the third off Ed Halicki, on Craig Reynolds' RBI grounder and Enos Cabell's run-scoring double.

NO WATER IN HELL!

WARNING!

HELL IS WAITING FOR YOU!

JESUS CHRIST (the Son of God) DESCRIBES HELL TO BE:

- A LAKE OF FIRE! (Rev. 20:10-15)
- A PLACE OF TORMENT! (Luke 16:22-24)
- A PLACE WHERE LOST SOULS NEVER DIE — AND THE FIRE IS NOT QUENCHED! (Mark 9:43-48)
- A PLACE OF WEEPING — WAILING — AND GNASHING OF TEETH! (Matt. 25-30) (Matt. 8:12) (Matt. 24:51)
- A PLACE WHERE SINNERS AND UNBELIEVERS DRINK OF THE WINE OF GOD'S WRATH! (Rev. 14:10)
- A PLACE WHERE THE SMOKE OF THEIR TORMENT ASCENDETH UP FOREVER AND EVER. (Rev. 14:11)

ALL LIARS, ADULTERERS, FORNICATORS, SORCERERS, (Enchanter with drugs) MURDERERS, AND UNBELIEVERS, ARE GOING TO SPEND ETERNITY IN THE LAKE OF FIRE! (Rev. 21:8) (Rev. 22:15)

MOST PEOPLE ARE GOING TO HELL!
 (Jesus said so!) (Matt. 7:13-14)

THERE IS NO WAY TO ESCAPE OUT OF HELL! FOREVER! — AND EVER! THERE IS NO PURGATORY! (Read Luke 16:19-31)

AWAKE! AWAKE!

YOU ARE GOING TO HELL! — — UNLESS YOU SINCERELY, WHOHEARTEDLY — REPENT OF YOUR SINS! THEN — "BELIEVE ON THE LORD JESUS CHRIST" AS YOUR SAVIOUR AND LORD! — THEN — FOREVER FOLLOW HIM! — LOVE HIM! — OBEY HIM ALL THE DAYS OF YOUR LIFE!

NO SIN — OR SINNER — WILL EVER ENTER HEAVEN! — AND HELL IS THE ONLY OTHER PLACE YOU CAN GO!

REMEMBER! — CHURCH MEMBERSHIP OR GOOD WORKS OR GOOD MORALS, — OR ANYTHING ELSE, WILL NEVER SAVE YOU! JESUS SAID, "YE MUST BE BORN AGAIN." (John 3:3-8)

Rodeo parade July 14

The Top O' Texas Rodeo Parade will begin at 10:30 a.m. July 14.

The parade will form west of Coronado Center, and move across Coronado Drive to Hobart Street. It will wind south on Hobart to Ward Street, and southeast on Ward to Francis Street. From there it will move east to Cuyler Street, and south down Cuyler to Craven Street. Once the parade reaches Craven, it will go one block east and disband.

Parade chairmen this year are Joe Wheeley and Bill Skaggs.

Bright yellow and green Top O' Texas Rodeo bolo ties are now on sale for 50 cents each at various locations in Pampa. The ties can be used to purchase merchandise at reduced prices from many Pampa merchants during Rodeo Week, July 9-14.

Ties may be purchased at the rodeo office in the Chamber of Commerce, and at the following businesses: Alco Discount Store, Anderson's Western Wear, Anthony's (downtown), Belcher's Jewelry, Bob & Mary's Gifts & Things, Goodyear Service Store, Penney's, Pampa Feed & Seed Inc., Pants West, Phetteplace Shoes and Wayne's Western Wear.

The tie promotion, sponsored by the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association and the Pampa Merchants, is being conducted to help create a more western atmosphere in Pampa during Rodeo Week.
