On final day of tour

Pope receives challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pope John Paul II who quickened the heart of a nation and shed his own grace on it, has left among its people a trail of proclaimed ideals and stiff admonitions. He also got a parting challenge to ponder.

It came from women on the final day Sunday of his joy-spangled journey through America, crowned with an outdoor celebration of worship by 175,000 in front of the U.S. Capitol. The women's plea injected a lingering drama, along with the afterglow.

To the sturdy, companionable pope — who championed human rights both in the past under Nazism and Communism in Poland and to the multitudes and mighty on his U.S. tour — the women asked first-hand for their full rights in the church.

Sister Theresa Kane, the leading official of the country's 128,378 nuns, appealed in a formal, public gathering of many of them for the "possibility of women being included in all ministries of the church," which includes the priesthood.

As she spoke, the seated pope spread his hands as if to say, "What can we do?" But he didn't respond directly a few minutes later when he addressed about 4,000 nuns packing the huge, ornate National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception.

Some of the nuns — a handful at first, gradually increasing to about 50 — stood in silent petition during his talk, wearing blue arm bands, the color of Mary, mother of Jesus. Some said Mary was free to answer God's call to bear his son, but Catholic women today aren't free to answer a divine call to full ministry.

The pope earlier had made his own stand clear, saying Mary was "not herself inserted into the hierarchical" makeup of the church. He had told priests earlier in Philadelphia that Jesus' summoning of men as apostles undergirded the church's "traditional decision... not to call women."

But Sister Kane of Washington, president of the Leadership Conference of Women Religious, which includes heads of all nuns' communities in the country, appealed to him to "listen with compassion" and respond to the women's plea to be "fully participating members."

She wore a tasteful brown suit and about a third of the nuns present also wore regular women's dress, a style the pope in his address advised against, saying they should wear distinctive religious garb.

It was a polite but straightforward confrontation on an issue that would simmer in the times ahead. So also would the pope's injunctions against contraception, divorce, unmarried sex, against any release of priests from celibacy vows, and his strong denunciation of abortion in his farewell Mass on the Washington Mall.

"All human life — from the moment of conception and through all subsequent stages — is sacred, because human life is created in the image and likeness of God," he declared. If that sacred life is violated at its origin, he said, "an indirect blow is struck also at the whole moral order."

The pope also cautioned theologians on the last day of his week-long, six-city trip to stick to official church positions, a sensitive point to Catholic professors cherishing academic freedom to inquire into all possibilities of truth.

Open differences occasionally have surfaced between some theologians and bishops in recent years. Also, surveys show a large majority of Catholics reject the church ban on contraception, and a substantial proportion differ with the prohibition of divorce and favor optional celibacy for the priesthood and a chance to be released from it.

But the pope laid down a firm line against such views, encouraging an unprecedented meeting with all U.S. bishops in Chicago to uphold such disciplines. It's not possible to "avoid all criticism" or "please everyone," he said, telling them to stand their ground.

POPE JOHN PAUL II ended his triumphant tour of America Sunday by greeting a crowd gathered at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington Sunday (above). At right, he waves as he stands in an open car leaving the airport in Rome on his return from his pilgrimage to Ireland and the United States.

Bulletin

CINCINNATI (AP) — A twin-engine air taxi lost power in an engine and crashed on takeoff at Greater Cincinnati Airport today, and a federal official said seven people were killed.

Fred Farrar, an official with the Federal Aviation Administration in Washington, said the pilot and six other people died.

What's Inside

Jetliner crash claims 14 victims

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A Swiss jetliner with 154 persons aboard burst into flames and burned on landing at Athens airport, killing 14 passengers and injuring 12 others, fire officials reported today.

The plane was carrying a medical shipment of radioactive material but it was safely removed, officials said.

Airport officials said it was carrying a medical shipment of several containers of radioisotopes. They said the radioactive material was safely removed from the remains of the aircraft at daylight and none of the containers had burst open.

The cause of the accident was not immediately determined, but one passenger said there was an "almighty crunch," followed immediately by fire, after the Swissair DC-8 touched down late Sunday night.

Greek officials said among the passengers were 100 doctors, mostly French and Germans, bound for a medical convention in Peking. Swissair officials said the 14 dead were French, Germans and one Englishman. There were no reports of any Americans injured.

The airline said many of the doctors aboard were affiliated with the World Health Organization, but the WHO in Geneva reported it had only two staff members on the plane, said they escaped with minor injuries and that it had no knowledge of any other WHO-affiliated doctors aboard.

Witnesses reported flames were shooting out of the undercarriage of the Swissair DC-8 as it skidded to a halt amid light rainfall and high winds late Sunday night.

Transport Minister Alexander Papadogonas said a Greek pilot who landed a few minutes before reported "braking action was medium to poor because of wet runway conditions." But Papadogonas and other officials said they had no idea what caused the fire.

One passenger said the fire spread rapidly and heavy smoke filled the plane. Firemen reported they found the bodies of eight passengers, burned beyond recognition, still strapped to their seats. Two passengers were reported in serious condition and were not expected to survive. A number of others were treated for burns and smoke inhalation at various hospitals. All 12 crew members escaped unhurt, airport officials said.

Swissair said 20 other passengers were unaccounted for. But it was believed most or all of these had left the airport unhurt.

Neighboring counties want Red Deer Creek project

By MELANIE MILLER
Of The Pampa News

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the final section in a two-part series on the Red Deer Creek Watershed project.)

Gray County landowners seem to be the only obstacle toward progress of the 50-mile long Red Deer Creek watershed project, much to the chagrin of officials in Roberts and Hemphill counties.

Motivated by severe flooding of Miami and Canadian in the past, Roberts and Hemphill landowners signed easements for the watershed project soon after it was officially approved by Congress in 1976.

Twenty dams are planned along the watershed and two are of particular importance to Miami and Roberts County. Sites 12 and 13 are located on either side of the town and these dams will provide flood protection for Miami, says Lee McDonald of the Soil and Conservation Service.

"Miami gets floodwaters from both sides of the creek and every time it rains, there's the possibility they'll be flooded out with a lot of sediment and erosion resulting," McDonald said. "Site 13 would probably be the first dam built because they need the protection so bad."

Canadian faces the same situation, but there's a large levee on the creek that McDonald says is hard to maintain.

"They could be flooded by all of Red Deer Creek so they'd be happy with any one site along the creek being built," he said.

Several hundreds of thousands of dollars is also invested in a bridge, called Mendota Crossing — in Hemphill County. It was built under the assumption that the watershed would be built, McDonald added.

Hemphill County Judge Bob Gober says if the funds are cut off — like some say will happen unless easements in Gray County are secured soon — he doubts the funds would ever be started again.

"We've been told that the two or three landowners in Gray were going to sign their easements," Gober said. "I just hope we can get something definite started before the end of Congress' fiscal year."

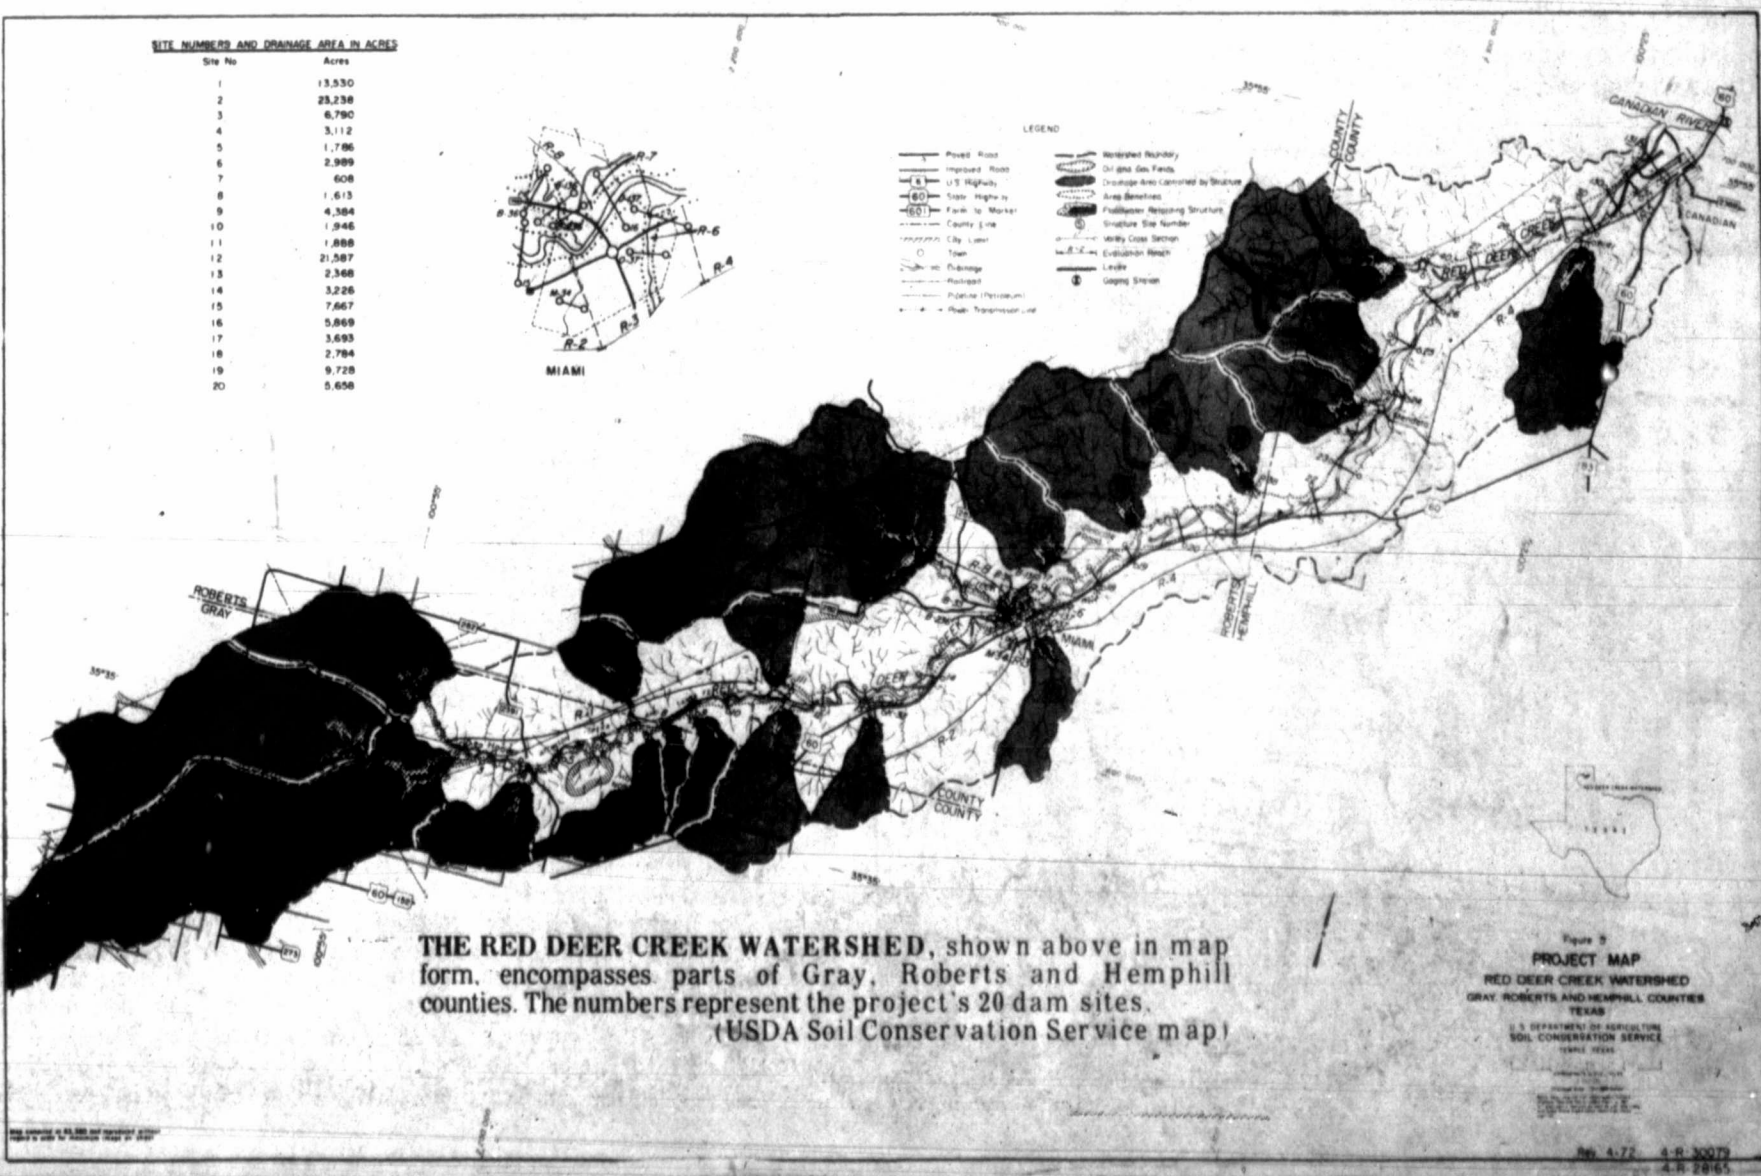

If the funds are cut off, he said, the two counties would probably build dams in their respective counties with county money. As the situation is now, the only thing counties would have to pay for is the land rights on each actual dam.

McDonald said that SCS would begin construction on the watershed if and when Gray County clears easements on two of the first three sites here.

"However, construction would begin only with the understanding that the other easements would be forthcoming," he said.

Once those easements are secured, it could be up to three years before construction would ever begin, McDonald explained. Extensive detailing of the site and core drilling must be done before a site design could be drawn.

"Only after that could construction begin and you're looking at two or three years, that is, if the funds are still available," he said.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Rabies in Pampa

One skunk with rabies does not make an epidemic. However, when that skunk is killed by a dog in the 1400 block of Hamilton, we feel our city fathers or the police, or perhaps even the citizens, should be somewhat alarmed. Stop and think for a moment how many houses with pets and children this skunk had to pass on its way to the 1400 block. How many other dogs running loose came into contact with this skunk?

What we have in Pampa is not an animal problem, but a people problem. Because of apathy, indifference or just plain stupidity, about two-thirds of the pet owners have not taken their pets in for their yearly rabies and distemper shots. Then to compound the problem, quite a few of them let their animals run loose — to overturn garbage, to get run over in the streets, or to meet a skunk that may have rabies.

If you don't give a damn about your pets, why not just take them to the animal shelter?

We already know you don't care about your pets, but what about children: your children and your neighbor's? Are you willing to take the risk of killing one or more of them because you were too lazy or too cheap to spend a few bucks to have your pets immunized?

Think about it.

Our local vets for the second time this year are going to sponsor a rabies clinic. This is your chance to get your animals shots and to save a couple of bucks. The only way it could be any easier is if they came to your house — can't you at least make an effort to make Pampa a safer place to live?

Politics and celebrity endorsements

In recent years the advertising industry has turned to celebrity endorsement as a method of promoting products. The Federal Trade Commission, having a number of lawyers with nothing better to do, is now making it FTC business to check up on what the well-known endorsers are telling us.

We think it is an utter waste of time, and taxpayers' money, for the FTC to put a priority on "protecting" us from being fooled by products endorsing movie stars. Who cares if Pat Boone's daughters did not actually use the pimple cream he and they endorsed? The public knows those Hollywood types on television are paid to hype the products they are talking about.

Advertising, with or without celebrity endorsements, is only as good as the product. No one needs to be told, by the federal government, that the deodorant he or she has purchased is not working, no matter what a favorite actor is claiming in a television ad. Anyone who goes back a second time to buy an inferior product like that, simply because of a celebrity endorsement, is all wet anyway.

Albert Kramer, director of the FTC's consumer protection bureau, said a recent FTC lawsuit established the principle that endorsers must verify the claims they make about the product before the commercial goes on the air, or risk FTC action. Why not let the public decide if the claims being made are accurate? Eventually a well known personality will lose credibility if he endorses enough bad products.

When it comes to false advertising it seems to us the FTC has not even examined the area where false claims abound, political advertising. Over the years we have heard candidates claim they were going to end poverty, cut taxes, clean up smog, and on and on. When compared to political advertising, commercial advertising seems a paragon of virtue.

We are not seriously suggesting the FTC actually get involved in regulating political advertisements. Citizens of a free society should be able to determine for themselves whom to believe, and whom not to believe, when it comes to something as important as selecting a political leader.

And if they are able to choose something that important free from FTC regulation, they should also be able to choose their own breakfast cereal, deodorant bar, and pimple cream — free from FTC regulation.

Bearing Teddy

By Butler D. Shafer

No better evidence of biased, contrived, and managed news can be offered than the treatment given, by the news media, to Teddy Kennedy's firmly resolved "perhaps maybe" decision about the 1980 presidential campaign. I doubt that any of his metabolic functions will go unreported in future weeks as news reporters miss no trick in propelling this Cape Cod gasbag into the headlines of each day's news. We are already assured of a future of "on this day in 1979," the Kennedy family gave Teddy Kennedy permission to run for president" remembrances.

The "liberal" community is, of course, in orgasmic bliss over the prospect of another Kennedy administration. And why not?

The Kennedys have always represented ruling-class elitism, the spirit of noblesse oblige, the caste system which places the "liberals" at the top of the social pecking order. The Kennedys believe what every "liberal" believes, namely, that it is their destiny, their "right" to rule and direct society; to sit entrenched at "Camelot" and query "what do the simple folk do?"

Never Too Old

by ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON—Two stories side by side in the newspaper last week caught my attention. One reported that a Presidential Commission had recommended levying an income tax on senior citizens who are collecting Social Security.

The other related that the Senate Finance Committee voted overwhelmingly to exempt newly developed oil from the proposed "windfall profits tax" on which President Carter was depending to finance his energy program.

Now before someone says this is unfair I believe we should examine all the facts.

Let's take the proposed Social Security income tax first. Senior Citizens have been getting a free ride from Social Security for much too long. Every time an older person gets a check from the government he or she goes out on a wild buying spree without any thought to giving Uncle Sam his fair share. Many citizens receive as much as $400 a month in benefits, and if that isn't a "windfall" I don't know what is.

The Presidential Commission does not want to tax the Social Security beneficiary's entire income—only that part contributed by the employer when the money was being withheld. This is "new" money and certainly should be tapped by the IRS.

The take for the government would be $2 billion, and while that may seem like a drop in the bucket for most senior citizens, every dollar adds up. We can't allow those living out their September years to escape income taxes after they've stopped working, or else the entire income tax system in this country would collapse.

The most important argument for collecting taxes from the elderly is that it would lower the tax burden on helpless corporations and conglomerates who are struggling to make ends meet.

It is expected that the powerful lobby of the Senior Citizens Coalition will attempt to deep-six the tax recommendation. But Congress cannot give in to the pressure. The American people are sick and tired of special interest groups who are using Social Security as a tax shelter.

Now for the oil companies. If anyone needs relief from taxes it is the people who supply our energy needs.

We all know that oil is finite, and when someone is smart enough to find oil he should be rewarded with a decent profit. To call the few cents a gallon the oil folks can scratch out of the earth a "windfall profit" is an affront to an industry that has given us some of the finest entertainment ever shown on American public television.

The Senate Finance Committee out of compassion has decided not to levy a windfall profits tax on the oil producers. The committee knows how difficult it is for them to feed their families and clothe their children. In spite of what President Carter has recommended, the Senate committee is not going to take bread out of the mouths of people, who need it the most just to subsidize the fuel bills of elderly people, who need it the least.

The strongest argument for cutting back on the windfall profits tax is that the oil companies must have added incentives to find new oil. The greatest argument for taxing those on Social Security is that, if we don't, everyone will want to be old.

Thanks to both the Social Security Administration and the Senate Finance Committee the inequities in our tax system are being straightened out. The oil companies for once will receive some much needed tax relief while senior citizens will finally have to get off the gravy train and pay their dues.

It's about time.

WARNING: THIS MAY BE HAZARDOUS TO YOUR LIFE-STYLE

Sam was a building contractor. He had been his life.

George was his long-time friend and had been his foreman from the beginning of the business. Both were approaching retirement.

One day, Sam approached George and said, "George, I plan to retire soon. I want you to build me a retirement home. I want the best of materials in every respect. I want the strongest foundations possible, the best panelling, plumbing, roofing, flooring, in short, I want a house that is built to last and is maintenance-free. You draw up the specifications and the price. Then add 20 percent to the cost, as your bonus, which will be over and above your hourly wage. Then tell me how much it will cost. I'll give you the money and you can go ahead and build it. But don't bother me with it until it is completely finished. Then you can just hand me the key and that will be all there is to it."

Well, George set out to do what his life-time friend and employer had requested. At first he was perfectly honest. But then he got to thinking. He was nearing retirement, also. He could use a little nest-egg. After all, he'd been working for Sam all these years. He certainly had something coming. So, he began to cut corners. He used cheaper material where it would not be noticed. He used thinner panelling, a cheaper grade of roofing, a cheaper mixture of cement, cheaper flooring (after all, it would be covered with a carpet, anyway). He knew that wherever he could get by with cheaper material, it would be more money added to his 20 percent bonus. The house, of course, would begin to fall apart after a while. But he would be retired by then and it wouldn't matter.

George finished the house and it looked good, but it really wasn't well-made. When he had it finished, he called his friend, Sam, and told him that all was complete and ready for him to move in. Sam came right over and George gave him the key.

Sam looked at the key for a moment, then gave it back to his foreman, saying, "George, you have been a trusted friend and associate all these years. You have helped to build this business. You, too, will retire soon. I wanted to express my appreciation for your loyalty and friendship."

Sam then gave the key back to George and said, "The house is yours, as a token of my appreciation. You have built the house you are going to live in."

We, you and I, are all doing the same. We are building a house with our lives and life-styles that we are going to live in. Both now and throughout eternity. If it's full of love, trust and generosity — well and good. If it's filled with greed, hate, envy, immorality and dishonesty — well, who wants to live in that forever and ever?

Remember, it's never too late to change, thanks to Jesus the Christ.

A good place to start is at church. Hope to see you there.

Election insanity

The 1980 presidential election may be months away, but the first returns already are being counted and analyzed — in the middle of the summer before the summer before the election.

It's actually happening in Florida, where candidates seeking the presidential nomination of both major political parties have been forced into participating in a senseless popularity contest.

In mid-November of this year, the Republicans and Democrats will hold separate state conventions, where delegates will participate in straw votes to indicate their presidential preference.

County caucuses to select delegates to the GOP convention began on Aug. 15 — and Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-Ill., promptly issued a mid-August press release proclaiming victory in two predominantly rural counties, Monroe and Putnam.

In Pinellas County, which includes the city of St. Petersburg, the murky results of the August caucus indicated that Republican contenders Ronald W. Reagan and John B. Connally were the apparent popularity leaders.

Even when the results are clarified at the state conventions this autumn they will have no binding influence, because Florida's delegates to the presidential nominating conventions won't be elected until a statewide primary is held next March 11.

The only excuse for the preference polls lies in their appeal to the news media and professional politicians as a first-in-the-nation indicator of political sentiment.

Bentsen writes Carter on protecting CIA agents

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Lloyd Bentsen has written to President Carter to emphasize a point made in the president's televised speech on Soviet troops in Cuba.

Bentsen, D-Texas, made a case for his bill designed to protect CIA agents from exposure.

"I fully agree with your pledge to the nation ... to increase our efforts to guard against damage to our crucial intelligence sources and methods of collection without impairing civil and constitutional rights," Bentsen wrote.

"I believe that my legislation would be a strong step in the right direction. I applaud your interest and urge your support," the letter concluded.

Bentsen's bill would make former CIA employees subject to 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine if they revealed the identities of other intelligence officers without authorization.

Tower pulls for farm fuel

Sen. John Tower wrote to the secretary of energy to point out Texas farmer's need for diesel fuel to get them through the fall harvest.

"Currently in Texas, diesel fuel for agricultural uses is not only expensive but also somewhat difficult to obtain in sufficient quantities," the Texas Republican wrote to Secretary Charles W. Duncan Jr.

"I urge you to take whatever measures may be necessary - short of the reimposition of middle distillate price and allocation controls - to assure adequate supplies of diesel fuel for essential agricultural uses this fall," Tower wrote.

Connally fund-raising picks up steam

The Washington Star reported that fund-raising for the John Connally presidential campaign is picking up steam. The candidates' quarterly financial reports are due at the Federal

Election Commission on Wednesday

The Star said in an advance survey that Connally's report will show money rolling in to the campaign at a rate of $20,000 per day during the past three months.

That rate would double the pace set by the April-to-June quarter.

Total contributions for the former Texas governor's campaign for the Republican presidential nomination exceed $4 million for the first nine months of the year, the Star said the report will show.

The figure would put Connally's campaign far ahead of other competitors for the GOP nomination in fund-raising efforts this year.

Wilson wants 'fair' union elections

Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Texas, has introduced a bill that would stop undocumented workers from voting in labor union elections.

"In some cases, aliens are being used as anti-union voters. That's just not fair," the Lufkin congressman said.

Wilson said he had heard complaints about that practice in some wood products plants in his East Texas district.

Permanent residents who are not naturalized citizens also would be prevented from voting in union elections under Wilson's bill.

"I'm not trying to restrict membership in the unions. It only seems right, though, that qualifications for voting in union elections be the same qualifications for voting in national presidential elections," he said.

Texas woman shares birthday with Carter

An El Paso woman ringing in her birthday at a Washington restaurant found she was sharing the event with President Carter's 55th birthday celebration.

Yolanda Ruiz, however, preferred not to make her age public.

"I will never forget this birthday as long as I live," she told the Washington Post.

Local group to make mission trip to Spain

Rev. Roy Martinez, pastor of Iglesia Bautista, 512 Kingsmill, along with Mrs. Martinez and Mr. and Mrs. Luis Armendarez, will participate in a Crusade for Christ in Spain. Dick Taylor of the First Baptist Church is also going with the group.

Their place of service will be in the city of Lorca. They will depart from Pampa Oct. 31 and return on the 14th of November.

The group from Pampa will join other groups from churches across the nation who have accepted the invitation made by the Baptist Churches in Spain to participate in a nationwide evangelism program. The program is sponsored by the Baptist churches of that country in cooperation with the World Evangelism Foundation.

Rev. Martinez said the WEF is a lay oriented organization designed to involve the total church in world witness and that a New Testament church is the primary agency established for world evangelism.

He said the approach is a church-to-church involvement, so that whatever is done to strengthen the local church will present a major contribution to the cause of Jesus Christ.

WEF acts as a liaison and coordinating agency to Baptist churches in the U.S. with Baptist congregations around the world. The goal of the evangelistic program is to get the total membership both at home and abroad involved in witnessing on a one-to-one basis.

Rev. Martinez has participated in crusades in Mexico several times. He has also been active in crusades in Spain, Guatemala, El Salvador, Peru, Columbia and Nicaragua.

Iglesia Bautista is a mission of First Baptist Church.

Judge to decide on pretrial motions again

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) - A state district judge said he would rule again on pretrial motions in the capital murder trial of Joe Dugas Jr. to satisfy a defense attorney's complaints the decisions are valid only if made in Nueces County.

The trial of Dugas, accused of killing five members of his former wife's family, was scheduled to begin here today after being transferred from Beaumont, where pretrial hearings were held.

The family was reported missing on July 1, 1978, from a farm home near Winnie, Texas, about 25 miles southwest of Beaumont. Their bodies were found eight days later in a common grave near the neighboring community of Hamshire.

Defense attorney Bruce Smith had maintained throughout the pretrial sessions that rulings must be made in Nueces County. Judge Larry Gist said he will rule again on the motions after the trial got under way.

Dugas faces the death penalty if convicted on charges he killed 2-year-old Jason Phillips.

The child, along with his grandparents, Bishop and Ester Phillips of Winnie, and his parents, Elmer and Martha Phillips of Woodward, Okla., was shot to death.

A massive search was launched after surviving family members reported the family missing from the elder couple's blood-spattered home. Dugas, once married to Mary Phillips, the daughter of Bishop and Ester Phillips, was arrested July 7, 1978 and charged with kidnapping.

Two days later, authorities recovered the bodies. Linda May Burnett - convicted at Beaumont earlier this year in the slaying of the child and sentenced to death by lethal injection - was arrested on July 10 and charged with capital murder.

"The way it worked out if they hadn't filed the motion for the change of venue, it would have had to be filed after the Burnett trial," said District Attorney James McGrath, who has said it would have been impossible to try both defendants in Jefferson County.

McGrath and lead defense attorney C. Haden "Sonny" Cribbs said they believe the evidence and testimony in the trial will pretty well follow the Burnett trial.

McGrath predicted the trial will move quickly once it gets to the testimony phase. He estimated it will take 10 days to complete testimony.

Estimates on how long it will take to seat a jury varied from two to four weeks.

Smaller divisions keep DPS going

Besides its three major programs, the DPS is also composed of several smaller divisions.

One of these is the Driver and Vehicle Records division. This department maintains about nine and one-half million driver record files. It coordinates services related to driver improvement, safety responsibility, motor vehicle inspection records, and commercial driver training schools.

Inspection and long-range planning activities related to departmental operations are conducted by the Inspection and Planning Division of the DPS. Vehicle safety items which must have state certification before they are sold or used in Texas are approved by this department.

The DPS's central computer system is maintained by the Data Processing Division.

The Communications Service provides the communication services for the DPS and local law enforcement agencies throughout Texas.

Traffic on a statewide teletype system is handled by an electronic message switcher at DPS Headquarters. This also provides direct, automatic contact between law enforcement agencies in Texas, the DPS Texas Crime Information Center, and the FBI's National Crime Information Center in Washington.

Direct access is also maintained into the DPS driver records computer, as well as the Texas Highway Department's vehicle registration files. Thirty full-time DPS radio stations maintain police radio communications throughout the state.

An aircraft fleet is located at the Austin Headquarters and at regional headquarters locations. These helicopters and airplanes are designed for a variety of uses.

The five fixed-wing aircraft and seven helicopters of the Aircraft Section are used for missions such as manhunts, emergency transportation of personnel, aerial reconnaissance for traffic and crime control, and search and rescue.

About 4,300 officers and civilians are employed by the Texas Department of Public Safety.

To best utilize its manpower, the DPS endeavors to put the maximum number of troopers in direct enforcement work while allowing civilians to work in the technical and supportive positions.

The Texas Legislature funds the DPS with appropriations from revenue collected as driver licenses and motor vehicle inspection fees, and the State Highway Fund. It does not share in fines resulting from its law enforcement work.

Sgt. Jim Powell of the Highway Patrol is the head of all highway patrol personnel in Gray, Roberts, Liscomb, Hemphill, Wheeler, and Collingsworth counties. Troopers stationed in Gray County are: Wayne Williams, Steve Easterly, and Jim Blodgett. A new Highway Patrol trooper, Gordon Miller, is scheduled to arrive in Pampa about Oct. 22.

The Driver's License trooper is John Mize. He takes applications for original licenses, gives written and driving tests, and attends hearings and discusses suspensions with the justices of peace for Pampa, Wheeler and Shamrock.

Don Samuels is the License and Weight trooper for the six counties mentioned above. His duties are much the same as the highway patrolman, except he concentrates on the license and weight of commercial vehicles.

The only civilian personnel in Pampa is Betty Mackey, the driver's license clerk. She keeps the Driver's License office open five days a week giving written tests, making renewals and duplicate licenses.

Jerry Burgtorf, safety education officer, is responsible for instructing the public in safety techniques. He gives programs to school children of all ages, conducts driver safety seminars and workshops, and is responsible for providing public information to the news media.

No matter how difficult the future may prove to be for the Texas Department of Public Safety, it will continue to fulfill its mission of providing service and protection to Texas citizens.

police report

Three bicycles were reported stolen sometime Friday night by June Thomas of 522 N. West. Two bicycles, not belonging to her, were left in their place. The two bicycles were taken to the police department.

John Richards, 17, of 1916 Holly Lane was arrested by police Friday night for being under age 18 and riding a motorcycle without a helmet, no driver's license and running a red light. After Richards had been placed in city jail, the arresting officer was writing booking reports when he heard a noise. He reportedly found Richards had torn the sink from the wall of his cell and was throwing it around the cell. Richards was also charged with destruction of city property after the incident.

An employee of the 7-11 store on 1066 N. Hobart, Larnell Tansey, reported an unknown male about 22 years old picked up two six packs of beer and ran from the store. The value of the stolen property was $3.40.

Reserve Board against any tax cut

WASHINGTON (AP) - Fresh anti-inflation initiatives by the Federal Reserve Board are being accompanied by a stern warning against any tax cut to stimulate an economy showing signs of slowing down.

"This is not the time for a tax reduction," board chairman Paul Volcker declared after the board raised its bank lending rate to a record 12 percent.

Volcker said recent events "fully underscore the wisdom" of the Carter administration's continued opposition to a cut in taxes.

Many economists believe a tax cut of at least $20 billion would stimulate investment, revive sagging spending and compensate for income lost to inflation.

However, the board is more alarmed by soaring wholesale prices, hyperactive speculation in gold and the dollar, and excessive borrowing.

In addition to raising the bank lending rate a full percentage point late Saturday, the board altered the way it controls the availability of credit in a further effort to gain more direct control over the money supply.

The moves, quickly and enthusiastically endorsed by President Carter, should further slow economic expansion by making it more difficult for banks to lend and thus more expensive for people to borrow.

The first impact normally would be on business borrowing, but Volcker said the moves will not shut off credit entirely.

"What we want to get at is the froth," he said.

The board's weekend actions were a direct reaction to events of the past two weeks: wild speculation in gold and a sharp drop in the value of the dollar to a level nearly as low as last fall, when the last major dollar rescue plan was launched.

That slide was reversed today in active early trading in Tokyo where the dollar fluctuated briefly before settling around the 225.55-yen range, compared to Friday's closing of 224.85 yen, traders said.

A bank board official observed privately that rising gold prices and a plunging dollar in recent days fortified people's expectations that inflation will continue, a psychology fed further by last week's news that wholesale prices skyrocketed 1.4 percent in September.

Area news in brief

Community concerts

Five concerts are planned for the 1979-80 Community Concert season, including one bonus pianist.

The first concert is Oct. 23 with Bob Crosby and the Bobcats, known as a "big band," of the swing sound. On Nov. 29, C.C. Rider, a guitarist who has traveled around the world during the last ten years, will bring his folk music to town.

The Richard Thomas Theatre Ballet will appear Feb. 28, 1980 as part of their tour. They will be followed by Serenade, an evening of operetta, on March 1, 1980. The final concert will be Cecile Licad, a young Philippine pianist, on April 3, 1980.

N. Dudley Steele, president of the Pampa Community Concert Association, Inc., said schedule conflicts resulted in the ballet and operetta concerts being held only one day apart. The New York management added another concert, Cecile Licad, as a bonus because of the conflict.

McLean burglary

Approximately $425 in cash and traveler's checks was stolen from the Billingsley Service Station in McLean Friday night. No arrests have been made in the case so far, said Jimmy Shelton, McLean deputy sheriff.

A bag of money with about $175 to 180 in cash and $250 in traveler's checks was stolen from the station sometime Friday night. Five people were taken into custody that night, but were released Saturday morning, Shelton said.

District meeting Thursday

A new Zone 1 director will be elected Oct. 11 at the Gray County Soil and Water Conservation District Board meeting at the Grandview-Hopkins School. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

To qualify for soil and water conservation district director, a candidate must own land in the zone he represents, be 21 years old and actively engaged in farming and ranching. He must live in a county, all or any part of which is in the district.

Texas

By The Associated Press

It's autumn? Are you sure? It didn't seem that way in Texas Sunday, as residents in at least Texas cities sweltered in temperatures that hit the high 90s or above.

All of them had the hottest Oct. 7 on record, with Wichita Falls's 102 reading topping the chart.

The National Weather Service said it will be sunny and hot again today in the Lone Star State, with maximum temperatures ranging from the 80s along the coast to between 100 and 105 along the Rio Grande.

The eight cities which perspired through the record-busting temperatures were (Sunday's reading and the previous high): Abilene, 99 Sunday, 98 in 1931; Amarillo, 94, 92 in 1918; Del Rio, 98, 97 in 1956; El Paso, 96, 92 in 1928; Fort Worth, 98, 97 in 1917; Lubbock, 98, 94 in 1918; Midland, 99, 98 in 1931; Wichita Falls, 102, 99 in 1931.

Clear skies and mild temperatures were the rule across Texas before dawn today. An exception was some low cloudiness and patchy fog across south central and southeastern sections.

NATIONAL

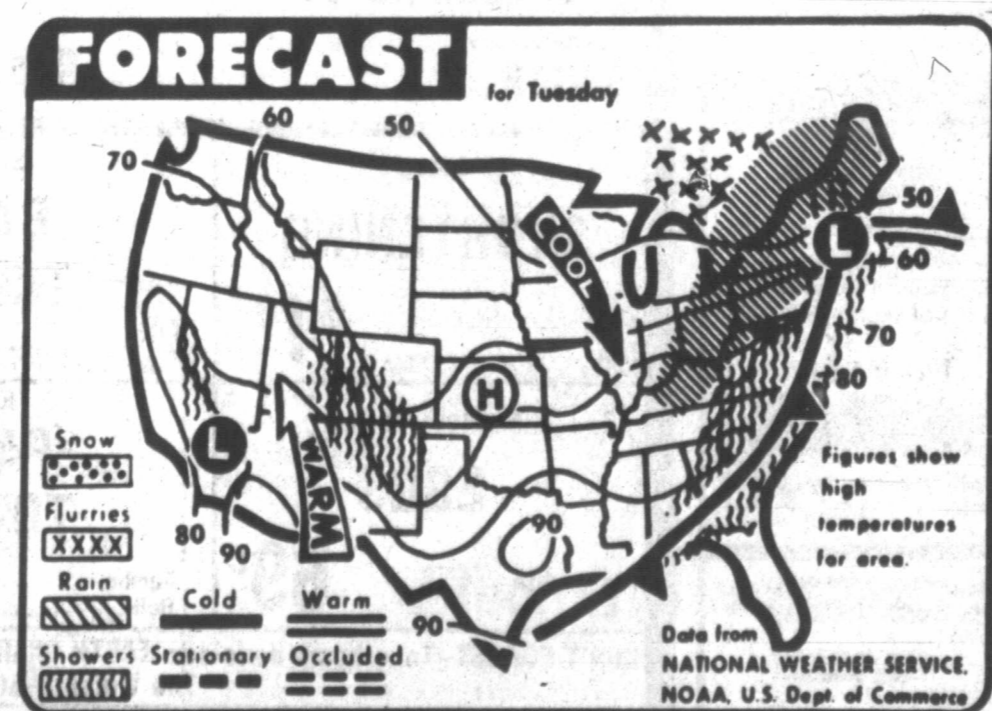

Rain and snow flurries were on tap for much of the already-chilly north and mountain states today with cloudy conditions reaching into the Midwest.

Scattered showers were falling in the northern Rocky Mountains and through portions of the upper Mississippi Valley and upper Great Lakes. Rain mixed with snow was expected in northwestern Nevada, Montana, Wyoming and the Dakotas. Elsewhere, forecasters were calling for sunny skies.

A low pressure system closed over the coast of Maine producing 35 mph winds at Falmouth and spreading rain over much of the northeast. The region's first snowfall reached the mountains of western New York. Frost warnings were issued for the mountains of Maryland and Virginia.

Temperatures were in the 30s in upper Michigan and the northeastern corner of lower Michigan early today. Freeze warnings were posted.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 28 in Sault Ste Marie to 80 in Thermal, Calif., and Wichita Falls, Texas.

RAIN AND SHOWERS are predicted Tuesday for the eastern half of the nation, while showers are expected in the Southwest, California and Nevada.

Barbeques for crisp fall weather

By TOM HOGE
AP Wine And Food Writer

Barbeques, long billed as an all-American summer pastime, are not an American creation, nor are they limited to the hot months. The early Virginia settlers did learn to cook over campfire coals from the local Indians. But it should be recalled that tribesmen from the Aegean Sea around the Eastern Mediterranean to the Tunisian Peninsula have been roasting chunks of lamb over hot coals since the days of Exodus. Summer may be the peak season for barbecuing in America, since that is the prime vacation time. But it's becoming more and more popular during the crisp days of October and even early November, when a slab of grilled meat on a bun hits the spot, especially when washed down with a bracing highball or hot coffee. Barbecuing in this country used to be confined mainly to hamburgers, hot dogs and an occasional steak, but the keepers of the grill are branching out with an accent on the lamb that the Middle East nomads subsisted on so many years ago. Seasonings derived from many cultures can be used to flavor lamb before it is placed on the grill. They include pepper, garlic, dried or fresh herbs, lemon juice, olive oil, dried fruits and yogurt. They may be used in various blendings as marinades or sauces. According to representatives of the American Sheep Industry: the lamb we eat today is a far cry from that on which our forefather dined.

Because of better breeding, they say, it is leaner and the flavor is also more delicate, a change I've noted over the years. There are probably a dozen cuts of lamb that can be barbecued. Offhand, I can recall meatballs in which ground lamb is mixed with raw egg, garlic salt and bread crumbs, cooked over a grill, then topped with a sauce of chopped onions, green pepper and butter. Then there is the "butterfly roast" boned, hammered flat and grilled. Our favorite for the grill, however, is barbecued lamb chops. Here's a recipe.

1/2 cup vegetable oil
2 tablespoons honey
2 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons dry white wine
2 tablespoons minced onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground pepper
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
8 lamb loin or rib chops

In small bowl, mix all ingredients except lamb chops. Brush chops with sauce and let stand 1 hour. Grill chops 6 to 7 inches from hot coals 12 to 15 minutes per side to desired doneness, brushing frequently with sauce. Good with chilled rose wine. Serves 4.

THE PEOPLE'S PHARMACY

By Joe Graedon
There's a new man in Washington with a mighty big job to do. Jere Goyan, Ph.D., Dean of the University of California (San Francisco) School of Pharmacy, was recently appointed to head the Food and Drug Administration. His assignment: to direct this giant bureaucracy in its tasks of ensuring that our food is pure and our medications are safe and effective. Many people think of the FDA as a bunch of bureaucrats who spend a lot of time shuffling papers and generally slowing progress. But without the FDA our health could be seriously jeopardized. Not only do these officials keep the drug companies honest, they catch and correct inadvertent errors, seize contaminated foods and monitor medical equipment. Although it doesn't read like a detective novel, the weekly FDA Enforcement Report is filled with plenty of hard-hitting action. It contains information on prosecutions, seizures, injunctions and recalls. You'd be amazed at what sometimes turns up.

Not too long ago we were stunned to read that a batch of Trojan Enz Rolled Latex Condoms was seized because of adulteration and misbranding. The report charged that the "Product label statement, one of the best aids in the prevention of pregnancy and venereal disease," is false and misleading because the product contains holes. A much larger problem occurred for the regulators when it was discovered that methapyrilene, a common ingredient in non-prescription sleeping pills, daytime sedatives and allergy medicine was a potential cancer causing chemical. Since June 15, when the FDA notified manufacturers and suppliers that these products would have to be withdrawn from the market, millions of pills representing over 800 different brands have been pulled of pharmacy shelves. The Enforcement Report lists such alluring names as "40 Winks Capsules", "Compoz", "Naturest Tabs", "Tranquil Caps", "Aller-Eze", "Bet-R-Rest Tablets", "Relax-U-Caps", and "Relaxatran". Needless to say, the removal of so many potentially dangerous drugs from the market has hardly been a relaxing job for the regulators. The range of product recalls is truly mind boggling. In recent weeks the FDA has requested that a batch of pacemakers be removed because certain models exhibited an "abnormally high premature failure rate". They also found that a supposedly sterile eye wash was in fact contaminated. Raisins that were insect infested and stored under unsanitary conditions were seized before they could reach consumers. Many times just knowing that the FDA is standing guard prompts companies to issue their own recalls. North American Biologicals, Inc. recalled over 35,000 pregnancy tests because they were giving "false negative results and/or poor sensitivity results." Lederle Laboratories recently initiated a speedy recall of a glaucoma medicine called Neptazane (methazolamide) because a pharmacist noticed one bottle with this label actually contained a potentially dangerous anti-cancer drug called Methotrexate. Although the Food and Drug Administration is always vigilant, it is far from perfect. Sometimes its decisions appear arbitrary and even under the best of circumstances it rarely satisfies either the drug company executives or consumer advocates. We wish Dr. Goyan the best of luck as the new commissioner of FDA. His job will be hardly glamorous, but doing it well is essential to help make our supermarkets and drugstores safer places to shop. Joe Graedon is a pharmacologist, a consultant to the Federal Trade Commission and author of "The People's Pharmacy".

DEAR ABBY

Is life worth 3 minutes of reading?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR READERS: It's Fire Prevention Week again, and I have had so many requests to repeat my column on fire prevention that it has become a tradition. So here it is, with updated figures: Last year, 10,500 Americans perished and nearly 34,000 civilians, plus 100,000 firemen, were seriously injured in more than 3.5 million fires. In Canada, 811 deaths were caused by 74,043 fires. A large percentage of the dead were children, elderly persons and invalids who had been left alone "for just a few minutes." The chief causes of fires, in order of the toll taken, were: 1. Smoking 2. Electrical wiring 3. Heating and cooking equipment 4. Children playing with matches 5. Open flames and sparks 6. Flammable liquids 7. Suspected arson 8. Chimneys and flues 9. Lighting 10. Spontaneous ignition

The total fire loss last year was in excess of $6 billion in the United States and better than $570 million in Canada. Now for some tips that could save your life: Be sure your cigarette is out. Matches, too. Never leave matches and lighters within reach of children. Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may get damaged. Replace a cord if it is frayed. Never leave small children or invalids alone in the house. Not even for a few minutes. Have your wiring and electrical installations done by a professional.

Store oily rugs and paints in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers. Never use flammable liquids for dry-cleaning indoors. Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire. Designate a specific meeting place outside so you will all know who's outside of the house. Remember: Fire extinguishers put out 97 percent of all fires on which they were used, and most large fires start as small fires. So, invest in a compact, easy-to-use fire extinguisher. Keep it handy in your kitchen, or be prudent and buy one for your cottage, car, boat and the back bedroom. Some excellent smoke and fire-detection systems are available to homeowners. Shop around; buy the one that suits your needs. NOW, in case of fire: If you suspect fire, alert the rest of the household. But first feel the top of the door. If it's hot, don't open it. Escape through the window. If you can't open the window, break it with a chair. Cover the rough edges with a blanket, sit on the window ledge with one leg hanging outside and one inside, and wait for help. The phone number of your fire department should be taped on every telephone. If it isn't, don't fumble around trying to find it. Get out and call from a neighbor's house. If you live in an apartment building, use the stairway. Don't take a chance on the elevator. If it fails, you're trapped. Once out, stay out. No treasure is worth risking your life. It took less than three minutes to read this column. Was it worth it? I hope so.

DR. LAMB Blood pressure machines

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — What is your opinion on the blood pressure machines that are in the stores and public places today? My husband has had his taken several times that way from different machines and got three different readings. They were as follows: 146/99, 212/208 and 140/202. He's a long distance truck driver and 42 years of age. He's 5 foot 8 and weighs 155 pounds and doesn't take any medication. Each one of these three readings was after he had stopped and rested for at least an hour. He had a physical by our family doctor and another one by a company doctor and both said the readings were normal but they wouldn't tell him what they actually were. He does not drink but he does smoke two packs of cigarettes a day. On his last physical the doctors said he couldn't be healthier for his age. We are wondering if we should get alarmed about the readings from these machines and if we should consult our doctor, especially on the high readings. DEAR READER — The best way to regard those do-it-yourself blood pressure machines is that they are screening devices. They'll usually identify borderline, moderately elevated or higher readings. If you have such a reading, you should see your doctor and let him check it in the usual manner. Blood pressure readings aren't nearly as accurate or as consistent as most people think. They are influenced by your emotions at the time. They can be influenced by reflex action. In some people just as soon as the blood pressure cuff is placed around their arm, their blood pressure reading will go up. That's why experienced doctors insist on having a number of readings before they decide the real blood pressure is too high. If a person has intermittent normal readings, it's not considered high blood pressure as a disease. These people are called vascular hyperreactors and we know their blood pressure goes up and down in response to stresses and that the blood pressure responds reflexly. Most heart specialists don't feel that individuals who have fluctuating blood pressure with frequent normal readings should be taking medicine to lower their blood pressure. Why? If your blood pressure on its own will drop to 120 over 70 and you add to it the blood pressure lowering effect of some medicines, you might have readings that are far too low and can contribute to serious medical problems. To help you have a better understanding of the many factors that control blood pressure, I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. As this issue explains, the reflex rise in blood pressure can be as sudden as the reflex action dilating or constricting of the pupil of your eye. You might be interested to know that a high percentage of individuals who report to a hospital emergency room with high blood pressure turn out on later examinations to have perfectly normal readings.

The Ceremony of the Jewels was held Thursday evening for new pledges of Epsilon Sigma Alpha. By candlelight, each pledge was presented with a corsage and a jewel pin, signifying the first step to sisterhood in the ESA. Seven new members were honored. Karen, 18, from Santa Rosa, Calif., wants to know if she should live with her boyfriend before she gets married. Steve Bloom, 19, from Huntsville, Ala., and Colleen Rice, 18, who lives in Springfield, Ohio, will handle the teen point of view. — Welcome. Dr. Wallace: My boyfriend, Phil, and I are very much in love, and eventually plan to marry. In the meantime, Phil wants us to live together for a year to test our love and to see if we are compatible. It seems like the right thing for us to do, but my parents are terribly upset. They really like Phil, but want us to marry before we set up housekeeping. Your advice, please. I'm 18 and Phil is 19. — Karen, Santa Rosa, Calif. Karen: Setting up housekeeping with a member of the opposite sex without a marriage certificate is more socially accepted today than it was a decade ago. Remember, in your parents' time, this was NOT the thing to do. My advice would be to maintain separate living quarters until you get married. — Dr. Wallace For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent, stamped, large self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

Dorsett leads Dallas past Vikings, 36-20

By SCOTT PAPILLON
AP Sports Writer

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Tony Dorsett lived up to his initials Sunday afternoon against the Vikings, scoring three times to end a five-game touchdown drought.

"It felt great to get back into the end zone again," said Dorsett, or T.D. if you prefer, in Dallas' 36-20 whipping of Minnesota.

Dorsett rushed for 145 yards and scored on runs of 5, 3 and 30 yards to pace a Cowboy attack which left the impression that Tom Landry's club is revving up for its annual mid-season onslaught on the rest of the National Football League.

"I like the way we're playing right now," said Landry, whose teams predictably begin slow, pick up steam midway through the schedule and then look nearly invincible by playoff time.

"Tony really ran well. He's getting to the point where he was at the end of last season. And our defense really picked us up. Even though we gave up 20 points, they gave us a lift when we needed it."

The Doomsday Defense held the Vikings to 61 yards rushing and came up with two big plays which prevented Minnesota from thinking upset.

The first came from Benny Barnes, who picked up a Sammy White fumble and returned it 33 yards for a score which gave Dallas a 23-7 lead late in the second quarter.

Minnesota pulled to within three points on a 37-yard field goal by Rick Danneier, his second of the game, and a 28-yard pass from Tommy Kramer to White. But doom struck again in the same form — a fumble by Robert Miller which was recovered by the Cowboys on the Vikings 30.

On the next play, Dorsett skirted left end and outraced the Minnesota secondary for his third touchdown of the day. That made it 30-20 and it took all the steam out of the Vikings, who had refused to fold at halftime.

MINNESOTA VIKINGS safety Keith Nord (49) gives chase to punter Danny White of the Dallas Cowboys as he scampers for a 25-yard second quarter gain after a fake punt. Three plays later Cowboys Tony Dorsett scored a touchdown as Dallas went on to win 36-20.

Cards turn lucky in, 24-17, win over Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Although the Houston Oilers happened to be on the Astrodome playing surface with St. Louis Sunday, no one was beating the luckless Cardinals but the Cardinals.

And the St. Louis players knew it.

"The Oilers never physically outplayed us," running back Wayne Morris said proudly after scoring a pair of fourth-quarter touchdowns that rallied the Cards to a 24-17 victory. "That was going through our minds during the game."

The Cardinals easily could have cracked under the strain of being penalized 12 times for 123 yards, three interceptions by quarterback Jim Hart and a fumble at Houston's 21 by rookie Otis Anderson.

Instead, the Cards came up with a winning hand.

Trailing 17-10, punter Steve Little completed a 16-yard fourth-down pass to Theotis Brown to set up Morris' first touchdown run, a gazzle-like one-yard dive over the top of his offensive line with 8:32 left in the game.

When Carl Allen intercepted a Dan Pastorini pass, Morris added the winning points on a six-yard run with 2:35 left to play.

"They showed a great deal of courage to come back like that after what we've been through," St. Louis Coach Bud Wilkinson said. "Even when we were behind our team played as well as it could. We were still the aggressors. We didn't take a defensive stance."

What the Cardinals had been through coming into the game was a 1-5 record that included one-and two-point losses to Pittsburgh and Dallas. The offense had been kept from consistency by drive-killing penalties.

The mistakes were still there Sunday, but the Cardinals rewrote the ending.

The flat Oilers, who dropped to a 4-2 record and out of a share of the American Football Conference Central Division lead, took advantage of St. Louis' mistakes for a 14-7 halftime lead on a four-yard run by Earl Campbell and Pastorini's 11-yard touchdown pass to Ken Burrough.

Brown capped an 88-yard drive with a two-yard touchdown run for St. Louis' second-quarter touchdown.

Houston's first touchdown drive started when Anderson ran 21 yards to the Oiler 16 and fumbled to Carter Hartwig. Houston's drive then was kept alive on a roughing the passer penalty against tackle Charlie Davis that nullified a pass interception by St. Louis' Ken Stone.

Houston scored again 22 seconds later in the second quarter on Pastorini's 11-yard lob to Burrough on the first play after an interception by Houston defensive back Willie Alexander.

Little kicked a 24-yard field goal for the Cards and Houston Toni

Fritsch booted his 12th consecutive three-pointer, a 51-yard kick in the fourth quarter before Morris' game-winning touchdown show.

"One game out of 16 is not going to kill your season," Houston Coach Bum Phillips said. "We would have preferred to win this one but they thoroughly whipped us. It may have looked like we couldn't tackle but their backs had something to do with that."

The Cardinals held Houston to 57 total rushing yards with the Oilers 451 to 219 in total yards and allowed Houston to have the ball only 9:38 of the second half.

Anderson finished the game with 109 yards on 16 carries.

"This was just a typical game for us but it was a big game for me because I am chasing Earl for the rushing title," Anderson said. "I am trying to catch Earl and Walter Payton and I felt I needed a 100-yard game to stay in pace."

Hart finished the game with 23 completions on 38 attempts for 253 yards.

"This win makes us feel like it wasn't just small talk when we said that we were better than our record," Hart said. "Our loss to LA last week got the team a little riled up. The offensive line was really excited."

Giants topple Buccaneers

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — While Ray Perkins was savoring his long-awaited first victory as a head coach, his counterpart, John McKay, was experiencing a familiar sinking feeling — for the first time this year.

Going into Sunday's game the Tampa Bay Buccaneers were the last of the undefeated teams, with the league's best defense, while the New York Giants were winless with the league's worst offense.

Because the NFL has no pretensions about its predictability and because both teams were due for a switch, the final score was New York 17, Tampa Bay 14.

"We really didn't expect to go undefeated," said McKay, who watched the Bucs lose their first 26 games before turning things around at the end of the 1977 season. "Now that we've lost, we won't get so much attention and there will be less pressure."

That holds for Perkins, too. The Giants have been teasing their rookie coach, making late runs at winning games only to fall short. But not this time. He was a relieved man after the game.

"It's our first win — and it's about time," Perkins said. "I'm just happy for our football team."

Rookie quarterback Phil Simms made his first start, completing six of 12 for 37 yards, but it was seldom-used second-year halfback Billy Taylor who stole the show. Taylor rushed for 148 yards on 33 carries — the first time in nine games a back has topped 100 yards against Tampa's best rushing defense in the conference. Taylor scored both Giants touchdowns as New York racked up 202 yards rushing.

Defense falls short

CLEVELAND (AP) — The crowd kept hollering "De-fense! De-fense!" but there wasn't much of it in the Pittsburgh Steelers' 51-35 National Football League victory over the Cleveland Browns Sunday.

That fact was reflected in a brief conversation following the game between Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw and Cleveland wide receiver Dave Logan.

"I told Bradshaw, 'You have a dominating-type offense,'" Logan explained. "Terry said, 'So do you.'"

The two offensive units combined for 980 total yards, with the Steelers gaining a team record 361 yards on the ground and Cleveland quarterback Brian Sipe throwing for a career-high 351 yards and a club record-tying five touchdowns.

"We're happy to have a rebirth of our offense," said Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll. "The defense is banged up, and that's why we gave up so many yards. But our offense more than offset that."

Texas-Oklahoma toss up

Ray Alborn should know best about the comparative strengths of Oklahoma and Texas since his young Rice Owls have played both of them but even he's not sure of a winner in Saturday's joust of the unbeaten in the Cotton Bowl.

"It will be one fine game," said the Rice coach. "Oklahoma has more overall speed but Texas has a great, great defense."

Rice lost 63-21 to Oklahoma two weeks ago and fell 26-9 to Texas Saturday night. However, Rice scored a late touchdown on Texas on a 68-yard Randy Hertel to Earl Cooper pass. It's the only touchdown allowed this year by the Longhorns.

Coach Fred Akers wasn't too pleased with the "Horns." "We were disoriented at times," said Akers. "Too many errors. Probably some of the players were looking towards OU." Texas drew 13 penalties for 114 yards.

John Goodson kicked four field goals for the Longhorns. He also had four field goals the week before against Missouri to earn the walk-on a scholarship.

In other games involving Southwest Conference teams, Arkansas escaped Texas Christian 13-10 and defending champion Houston eased past Baylor by the same score.

Texas Tech overcame a 20-9 deficit to stun Texas A&M 21-20 in Lubbock.

Season ends for Angels on downer

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The 1979 season — best in the 19-year history of the California Angels — ended on a downer.

But the Angels know it was a great season and, of course, there's always next year.

"I'd like to congratulate the Baltimore Orioles," said California Manager Jim Fregosi after the American League playoffs came to an end at Anaheim Stadium Saturday. "It was an outstanding series and I'm proud of our effort."

"We kept coming back and battling all year. Baltimore won and they deserved to, but we'll be back. This (playoff experience) will make us better."

Fregosi was already looking forward to 1980. He said he plans to meet next week with Angel front office officials and scouts to discuss the team's needs.

After three heart-stopping games, the Angels were blown out Saturday, losing 8-0 as the Orioles won the playoffs 3-1 along with the pennant and a berth in the World Series against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Next year should be better if for no other reason than the Angels don't figure to be plagued with the injury problems that beset them this year.

The Orioles had an obvious advantage in bench strength in the playoffs that likely would have been negated had injured Angels Joe Rudi and Willie Mays Aikens been available.

Pitching may or may not be a problem. Nolan Ryan played out his option and just about every other important member of the pitching staff was injured at one time or another. If the Angels can sign Ryan and get more service from the other hurlers, the staff's earned run average would figure to be a good bit lower than this year's 4.34.

Back to 1979, a season in which the Angels ended their 19-year status as an also-ran.

"There's been more spirit on this club than any I have ever been associated with," said Ryan, a member of the Miracle Mets of 1969. "These guys never knew when to quit. We didn't have any real cheerleader types. The clubhouse wasn't loud. We had a lot of guys here who wanted to win."

And, he could have added, a lot of fans. More than 2.5 million attended Angels' games at Anaheim Stadium in 1979 and their behavior after Saturday's game indicated that they weren't too upset with what happened.

As a matter of fact, a majority of the 43,199 persons who packed the stadium remained, cheering and applauding until about 10 players — Don Baylor, Dan Ford and Rod Carew were the first three out — returned for a final, emotional curtain call.

Villeneuve captures Watkins Glen formula

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — Giles Villeneuve of Canada and his Ferrari racing crew took a chance Sunday and it paid off with a victory in the Watkins Glen Grand Prix.

After a morning practice session, Villeneuve and his crew decided to switch engines.

The new engine performed consistently during the 59-lap, 199.243-mile race over the twisting 11-turn Watkins Glen road racing course, and Villeneuve won it after a stiff challenge from Australia's Alan Jones during the rainy first half of the race.

"It was a practice engine that only had a few laps on it," Villeneuve said. "It was a good engine, but you never have quite as much confidence in the spare engine because so much special care goes into preparation of the race engine."

"I slowed down very much in the last 25 laps because the oil pressure was very low and I did not want to damage the engine," he said.

Villeneuve crossed the finish line at an average speed of 106.46 miles an hour and almost 49 seconds in front of second-place finisher Rene Arnoux of France.

The other top runners up were Didier Peroni of France, who came in third; Elio de Angelis of Italy, fourth; Hans Stuck of West Germany, fifth; John Watson of Ireland, sixth, and Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil, seventh.

Villeneuve's Ferrari teammate, Jody Scheckter of South Africa, who clinched the 1979 world driving championship with a victory in the Italian Grand Prix in September, blew a tire on the 48th lap and finished 10th.

Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., the 1978 world champion and always a favorite here, had trouble with the gear box on his Lotus and retired on the 16th lap, which put him in 20th place among the 24 starters.

Villeneuve, who had won in South Africa and at Long Beach, Calif., earlier this year in the Grand Prix series for Formula One cars, started in the third position.

By the time the field of 24 cars roared out of the first turn, Villeneuve was in front of pole-sitter Jones, who had been hoping for his fifth Grand Prix victory of the year in the 15th and final race of the season.

Virtually all the cars were running on rain tires at the start of the race because of a wet asphalt surface following a rain that began only a half hour before the race.

But as the race progressed and the rain tapered off, the road surface began to dry and cars started picking up speed on dry roads.

Jones overtook and passed Villeneuve on the 32nd lap and, two laps later, Villeneuve went into the pits to put on the dry surface slicks.

Just two laps later, on the 36th turn around the course, Jones also pitted to have slicks mounted. He then sped back onto the circuit but lost his right rear wheel halfway around the course. That put him out of the race and gave Villeneuve clear sailing to the checkered flag.

Only seven cars were running at the finish. Thirteen crashed or spun off the course, many of them in the early and rainy stages of the race. There were no injuries.

United States in semifinals of Davis Cup against Italy

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — America's Vitas Gerulaitis came back from one set down to beat Australia's John Alexander in the semifinal of the Davis Cup today and send the United States into the finals against Italy.

Gerulaitis, the No. 4 ranked player who survived three match points to win his first singles match Friday against Mark Edmondson, gave the U.S. an unbeatable 3-1 lead with his defeat of Australia's No. 1 singles player 5-7, 6-4, 8-6, 6-2.

"We both started off a little shaky," said Gerulaitis, referring to the strong cross-court breeze that unsettled both players' service games.

"After losing the first set, I figured that if I could just get J.A.'s (John Alexander's) service back, I'd be ok. I was in there and I knew I wasn't going to be tired."

"You can't give up in tennis, J.A. might get hit by a bird and drop dead. Davis Cup tennis is different than other tennis. You are not playing for yourself, you are playing for your country."

America's non-playing captain, Tony Trabert, said the U.S. would field the same team of Gerulaitis, John McEnroe, Bob Lutz and Stan Smith for the Davis Cup final against Italy in December.

"He said Australia had proved to be tougher opposition than predicted."

"A lot of media said it was going to be easy for us, but I expected it to be difficult and it was," he said.

Gerulaitis began his match against Alexander in confident form, breaking Alexander's service to love in the first game. But Alexander broke back in the sixth game, then won nine successive points and served a love game to lead 5-4.

With the score at 6-5, Gerulaitis could not handle Alexander's return of service and dropped his own service to love to give the Australian the set 7-5.

During the break, Trabert advised Gerulaitis to put more spin on his service.

Gerulaitis complied and from then on Alexander had increasing difficulty in returning the American's serve.

Alexander began the second set badly, dropping his first service game as he had done in the previous set. Gerulaitis stopped him for the remainder of the set, which he took easily 6-4.

In the third set, Alexander took Gerulaitis' service in the second game but the American broke back immediately, then had to struggle to hold his own service in the eighth game.

Alexander, cheered on by the hometown gallery of 6,000, consistently lobbed the ball deep to the baseline. But Gerulaitis was too fast around the court and was able to turn most of the lobs into winners.

Gerulaitis, 25, from Kings Point, N.Y., took the third set 8-6.

After the 10-minute break, the American, who appeared sharper than the Australian, went to a quick 2-1 lead in the fourth set before breaking Alexander's serve a second time for a 4-1 lead.

The Australian never got back into the match and Gerulaitis took the set 6-2 to win the match and clinch the semifinal for the U.S.

McEnroe easily won the final match, defeating Australian Mark Edmondson 6-3, 6-4 in a best-of-three set.

Civil Liberties Union still getting over defense of Nazis in Chicago

By MALCOLM N. CARTER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union says it no longer is reeling from its legal support of a neo-Nazi group in Skokie, Ill., but Executive Director Ira Glasser of the ACLU concedes that an anticipated $500,000 of red ink could ruin his organization.

Describing the plunge in ACLU membership in the wake of the Skokie case as "a knockout punch," Glasser said in an interview that the ACLU has made up those losses and would announce in January a "very, very ambitious" five-year campaign to raise an extra $11 million.

"I have no doubt that that program will work," he said in offices that the ACLU soon will vacate for smaller ones. "The question is how much and how soon and what we're going to do in the meantime."

Glasser, who moved from the New York affiliate to the top job last October, said the ACLU had taken for granted a 10 percent to 15 percent membership gain every year from the 1960s until the mid-1970s.

Memberships — which cost $20 a person or $30 a couple — are by far the major source of the ACLU's income.

Glasser attributed their decline from a peak of perhaps 230,000 in 1973 to a low of 170,000 by 1978, when the Skokie furor raged, to more than the ACLU's defense of the right of the Nazis to march in suburban Chicago.

Glasser said, because a period of social activism was on the wane. Also, there was more competition for the same potential members from the rise in single-interest groups. And finally, people found it harder in an inflationary period to join.

In the course of its 59-year history, the ACLU has often taken stands that offended one segment of the population or another. In its fight against what it sees as infringements of constitutional guarantees, the ACLU has sued over the separation of church and state, for example.

It even defended Nazis in the first year of its existence, but its defense of the Skokie group's right of assembly and free speech cost the ACLU a large proportion of the 60,000 members lost, Glasser said.

The case started in 1977 and ended last spring, when the small band of Nazis finally was allowed to march in Chicago. The march itself, ironically, caused less uproar when it occurred than the ACLU's defense of it precipitated among the many Jewish members of the ACLU.

"It's not really possible to say with any precision how much membership was lost because of Skokie," Glasser said. "But it hurt us so badly that our survival was threatened."

He said the organization cut back its personnel by 25 to 30 percent, leaving some state affiliates with only a director, who had to answer telephones and mail in addition to doing legal work.

"We've squeezed everything, and we really haven't restored much," Glasser continued. "Any further cutbacks will really threaten the viability of the organization."

The ACLU, including its state affiliates, has a $10 million annual budget but plans to spend $250,000 more than it has this year and next. Glasser chalks up another $250,000 to inflation, which is "eating us alive."

And while membership has climbed back up to about 200,000, the director said it seems to have peaked without compensating for the losses that provoked the decline prior to Skokie.

It was a letter from the ACLU lawyer who represented the Nazis that stemmed the losses. In it, David Goldberg declared his abhorrence for the beliefs of the Nazis, outlined the free speech arguments and said that the ACLU's survival was at stake.

The letter brought in $550,000, almost triple that of any previous ACLU direct-mail appeals. The response was "just incredible," Glasser said.

Subsequent versions of it continue to be part of the four million letters that the ACLU mails annually to recruit members.

He said the special fund-raising campaign will concentrate on areas hitherto ignored — bequests and donations from wealthy individuals and corporations.

Glasser said he believed this would cure the organization's financial ills after about five years, but observed, "What I'm worried about is the next two."

Protesters repelled at Seabrook charge

SEABROOK, N.H. (AP) — Despite two days of assaults on the fences at the Seabrook nuclear power plant, protesters who battled police dogs, high-pressure water hoses and tear gas still found themselves on the outside looking in.

In the strongest show of force in five years of anti-Seabrook demonstrations, state troopers and National Guardsmen repulsed the attempts Saturday and Sunday by as many as 1,500 demonstrators with tear gas, water hoses, riot sticks and police dogs.

However, only 20 persons were arrested, compared to 1,414 during a protest in 1977.

Several hundred demonstrators returned to campsites in the woods near the unfinished plant late Sunday to decide whether to take more action today.

The protesters succeeded in dismantling small sections of the fence surrounding the plant's 140-acre construction site, but none entered the construction zone.

Medics for the Coalition for Direct Action at Seabrook, sponsor of the action, were busy treating dozens of demonstrators who had been sprayed in the eyes with Mace.

On Sunday, hundreds of activists massed at the plant's main gate, blocking busy U.S. 1, the major road through the small oceanfront community of Seabrook. Officials tried unsuccessfully to drive them away with two water hoses, but the demonstrators left voluntarily later in the afternoon to plan for further action.

Protesters said it was a disappointing weekend for them because they had failed to attract the thousands they had expected to charge the fences.

But the action was a success for authorities, whose preparation and tactics kept the charging demonstrators from their goal.

Demonstrators tried repeatedly to cut holes in fences or pull them down with ropes and chains, but each time they were met with riot-equipped police. It was a marked escalation from the level of violence at other anti-Seabrook demonstrations, which have been generally peaceful.

Applicants must be 20 to 35 years of age, of good moral character, and in excellent physical condition. Their vision must be no worse than 20-40, correctable to 20-20. At least 60 hours of college is required and the applicant must be a citizen of the United States.

Pay while in recruit school is $921 per month. Upon completion of training, the officers will receive $1,051 per month. The Department furnishes uniforms, firearms, insurance, and transportation, plus retirement benefits. All employees are provided with paid vacations, state holidays, and sick leave.

Any of the four uniformed services may be entered by the trooper. These include License and Weight, Drivers License, Motor Vehicle Inspection, or Highway Patrol. Experienced troopers may apply for positions in the Narcotics, Intelligence, Motor Vehicle Theft, and Texas Ranger services where vacancies occur.

If any additional information is needed, contact your area DPS trooper, or the DPS office in Lubbock, Amarillo, Wichita Falls, or Mineral Wells.
