Blast rocks area gasoline plant

PHILLIPS - Approximately 40 people were injured and seven were hospitalized when two units of the Phillips Petroleum Refinery exploded Sunday morning.

At least two hundred residents of the Phillips community were forcefully awakened at 7:45 a.m. yesterday when a series of explosions shook their homes, blasting out windows, causing roofs to fall and caving in garage doors.

Pat Higgins, charge nurse on the main floor of Borger's North Plains Hospital, said the main explosion blew the hospital's front doors wide open and shattered the windows of three of the rooms.

Merchants of downtown Borger found at least 75 percent of their plate glass display windows in pieces on the front walk.

Tremors from the explosions, which sent a fire ball 300 feet high and clouds of oily black smoke into the air, were reported to have been felt as far away as Pampa.

Residents in Stinnett and Fritch were also awakened by the blasts as their houses and windows shook.

Firemen from Phillips and employees of the refinery battled the blaze amid the snow, sleet and subfreezing temperatures, keeping it in check until 5 p.m. Sunday.

Under the suggestion of Phillips representatives, most of the residents near the plant left their damaged homes and took shelter with friends and neighbors or at the Borger Middle School where the American Red Cross had set up emergency shelter. The injured waited in line at North Plains Hospital emergency room for treatment.

The thick black smoke billowing from the explosion site and hanging low under the gray sky, could be seen for up to 20 miles.

A roadblock was set up by Hutchinson County sheriff's deputies, the Texas Highway Patrol and Borger policemen. Phillips residents were allowed back into the town at about noon and the road block itself was lifted later in the afternoon.

Norm Berkley, a spokesperson for Phillips, said the explosions are believed to have originated behind the two hydrogen fluoride alkalinity units 22 and 23.

"They are starting to question whether the explosions may have first occurred in one of the tanks behind the units," Berkley commented. He explained the tanks held petroleum products such as gasoline, kerosene and aviation fuel.

"It will be quite some time before they know," he added. The supervisors at the refinery will be investigating the cause of the blast, Berkley said, and will possibly call in experts from Bartlesville, Okla. to inspect the damages.

Connie Robinson, business office manager at North Plains Hospital, reported the emergency room had treated 35 to 40 people by 4 p.m. and more were still coming in.

Six people were admitted to the Borger hospital with one injured man, Jerry Norman — a plant employee — being sent to High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo for eye injuries, she said.

Norman is in satisfactory condition this morning, a spokesperson for High Plains said.

The hospitalized were listed as Johnny Kelly — a 61-year old refinery employee — of 1301 Baker Street, Borger; Warren Reed, 57, Box 104, Stinnett, a plant employee and William Browning, 32, of 107 Teague, Borger, a plant employee.

Also listed at North Plains are Reba Burris, 69, 117 First Street, Phillips; Marvin Tucker Jr., 31, of 9 Earle Street, Phillips; Geraldine Dillard, 48, of 7 Standish, Phillips, all residents near the plant.

All of the North Plains patients are listed in satisfactory condition this morning, according to director of nursing Gay Smotherman.

Unit 22 is the same unit where two Phillips workers were killed after being overcome by toxic gas leaking from the plant and fell to their deaths last October.

After the fatal explosion, the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) fined Phillips Petroleum Co. $15,000 and cited the firm for four safety violations.

According to reports this morning, the plant is no longer burning and personnel have entered the charred remains in an attempt to determine the cause of the blasts.

issued by officials. Residents in the immediate area spent some five hours in shelters after officials suggested they leave the area. (See additional photos on Page three of today's News) (Staff Photo by Jim Willeford)

"You've heard about a rude awakening!"

Larry Baltzer of 302 First Street in Phillips said Sunday.

Baltzer's Sunday morning sleep was interrupted when the chandelier fell in the center of his bed and a tremendous "BOOM" shook his house.

Baltzer, along with other Phillip residents, were forced from their warm beds into the icy cold Sunday morning at 7:45 when units 22 and 23 of the Phillips Refinery near their homes erupted into a pillar of fire and black smoke.

Blasts from the plant — some believe three occurred — knocked some residences from their foundations causing windows to burst and roofs to fall in.

The Charles E. King family were asleep when the explosion ripped through the small community. Windows blew out, the roof caved in and their 10-year old son slept through it all.

Five minutes after the explosion, residents say, the fire alarm sounded and they were told it might be "wise" to leave the area.

Many — dressed in pajamas, robes, and house shoes — found shelter at the homes of friends and relatives.

The Red Cross immediately set up shelter in the Borger Middle School. After a plea for donuts and milk for the children, they were deluged with 50 doz. donuts and 30 to 40 gallons of milk. Al Hagburg of the American Red Cross, said.

About 22 Phillips people stayed in the school cafeteria, eating donuts and milk, until the roadblock was lifted and they were allowed to return to their homes and the task of boarding windows and repairing the damage.

Many of the store windows in Borger were broken by the blast and residents in Fritch and Stinnett had their homes rocked by the shock waves. People as far away as Pampa said they felt what was first thought to be a small earthquake.

Mike Keller, a resident of Phillips and employee at the plant expressed some discomfort at the thought of returning to the plant.

"Just to think, I've got to go to work on that SOB tomorrow," he said as he pointed to the twisted metal belching flames and smoke.

"I'm thinking of looking for another job."

Hostages listen to Super Bowl broadcast on 79th day

A radio broadcast of Sunday's Super Bowl football game was delivered to Islamic militants at the U.S. Embassy today on the understanding it would be played for the American hostages, now in their 79th day of captivity.

Radio reporter Alex Paen, of radio station KMPC in Los Angeles, passed the militant's taped cassettes of the game through the embassy's iron gates after receiving assurances they would be given to the hostages.

The tape of Sunday's game, in which the Pittsburgh Steelers beat the Los Angeles Rams 31-19, was fed to Paen by telephone earlier in the day from the Los Angeles station.

In an interview outside the embassy gates, Paen said he was confident the tape would be passed on to the hostages. Only a handful of curious Iranians watched from outside the main embassy compound gate, where thousands used to gather to chant anti-American slogans.

The radio reporter has been in Tehran for two months. In December, he delivered some 3 million Christmas cards sent to the Americans from the United States.

Paen was granted special permission to stay in Iran and deliver the tape although American journalists were ordered out of Iran last week. He said he plans to return home Tuesday.

In another development, Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said today Iran's "own borders are in danger" because of the presence of Russian troops in neighboring Afghanistan and pledged Iranian aid to end the Soviet intervention.

Ghotbzadeh, a candidate in Friday's presidential election, did not say what kind of aid Iran would offer, according to a statement carried by the official Pars news agency.

On Sunday, the Soviet Embassy in Tehran issued a statement denying that Soviet troops in Afghanistan were a threat to Iran and emphasized the Kremlin's "friendly approach" to Iran.

In other developments, U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said Sunday in New Delhi, India he hoped a plan devised during his visit to Iran would lead to the hostages' release. But the Iranian militants continued to insist deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, now living in Panama, must be returned before the hostages are freed.

Four Iranian officers were executed by firing squad in Tehran overnight "for killing many innocent people before the victory of the revolution," the Kuwait news agency quoted Tehran Radio as reporting.

Holy War could threaten Soviets in Afghanistan

Afghanistan's seven rebellious Moslem factions are reported trying to unite for a holy war against the Soviet occupation army.

Radio Tehran reported that an official of the Afghan Islamic Organization in the Iranian capital told it discussions were under way among the rebel groups to form a single guerrilla front.

"The Afghan revolutionaries' duty is to expel the Soviet forces from Afghanistan through jihad (holy war), not through negotiations," the official reportedly said.

The Moslem rebels in Afghanistan are divided along tribal lines. They have been fighting their own separate wars since the first communist coup in April 1978 and were reported to control half the country or more. But the necessity for unification and coordination became apparent last month when the Soviet Union sent as many as 100,000 troops into Afghanistan to crush the rebellion and support the coup that eliminated President Hafizullah Amin and replaced him with Babrak Karmal, a more pliable Russian proxy.

Pentagon sources in Washington said the fighting since the Soviet intervention has been fiercest in the northeastern part of Afghanistan, bordering the Soviet Union, Pakistan and China. The sources in Washington said the Soviets may need 5,000 reinforcements there to make up for Afghan army defections to the rebels.

More Soviet troops were landed at Kabul airport over the weekend, according to American reporters expelled by the new government.

The Kabul correspondent of Prensa Latina, the Cuban news agency, reported that an Afghan official told him "strong contingents" of Afghan troops were moving to the 50-mile-long Chinese border because "for several weeks suspicious troop movements have been detected on the Chinese side."

The Cuban correspondent said the Afghan government also fears an attack across the Pakistani border.

According to official spokesman, American, British and Chinese advisers are training a contingent of more than 70,000 soldiers (in Pakistan) for an operation against Afghanistan," the Cuban report said.

Chinese Foreign Minister Huang Hua, who is on a visit to Pakistan, and Pakistani President Mohammed Zia-ul-Haq visited a camp for Afghan refugees near the border Sunday. Huang reiterated his government's support for the Moslem rebels and said it would also aid the refugees in Pakistan, now estimated to total 440,000.

In Washington, President Carter said he is prepared to use military force to protect Pakistan and called for the U.S. Olympic team to boycott the Moscow Games this summer if the Russians don't pull their troops out of Afghanistan within a month.

Blacks protest police; riot

IDABEL, Okla. (AP) — Several hundred persons, angry because they thought the slaying of a black teen-ager was being covered up, occupied three stores, set fire to a night club and fired guns into the air and at police during sporadic incidents on Sunday in this southeastern Oklahoma community, police said.

At least four persons were reported wounded, one critically, in violence Sunday night, authorities said.

Several police officers were reported pinned down by gunfire.

"It looks like what we have down there is a large-scale riot," said Highway Patrol dispatcher Jay Wall.

Earlier, a Highway Patrol spokesman said more than a dozen patrol units were sent to the town of 6,000 when a group of blacks upset over the death of Henry Johnson, 15, began threatening police.

Johnson was found beaten to death early Sunday near the Black Hat Club in predominantly black west Idabel. Police have no suspects in the death.

"Some of the hotheads...thought there had been a coverup. They worked parts of the black community into a frenzy," said Jim Monroe, publisher of the McCurtain County Gazette in Idabel.

The patrol spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said an armed group assembled outside the Idabel Police Department shortly before 4 p.m. After a few tense moments, the crowd dispersed, but told officers they would be back after dark, he said.

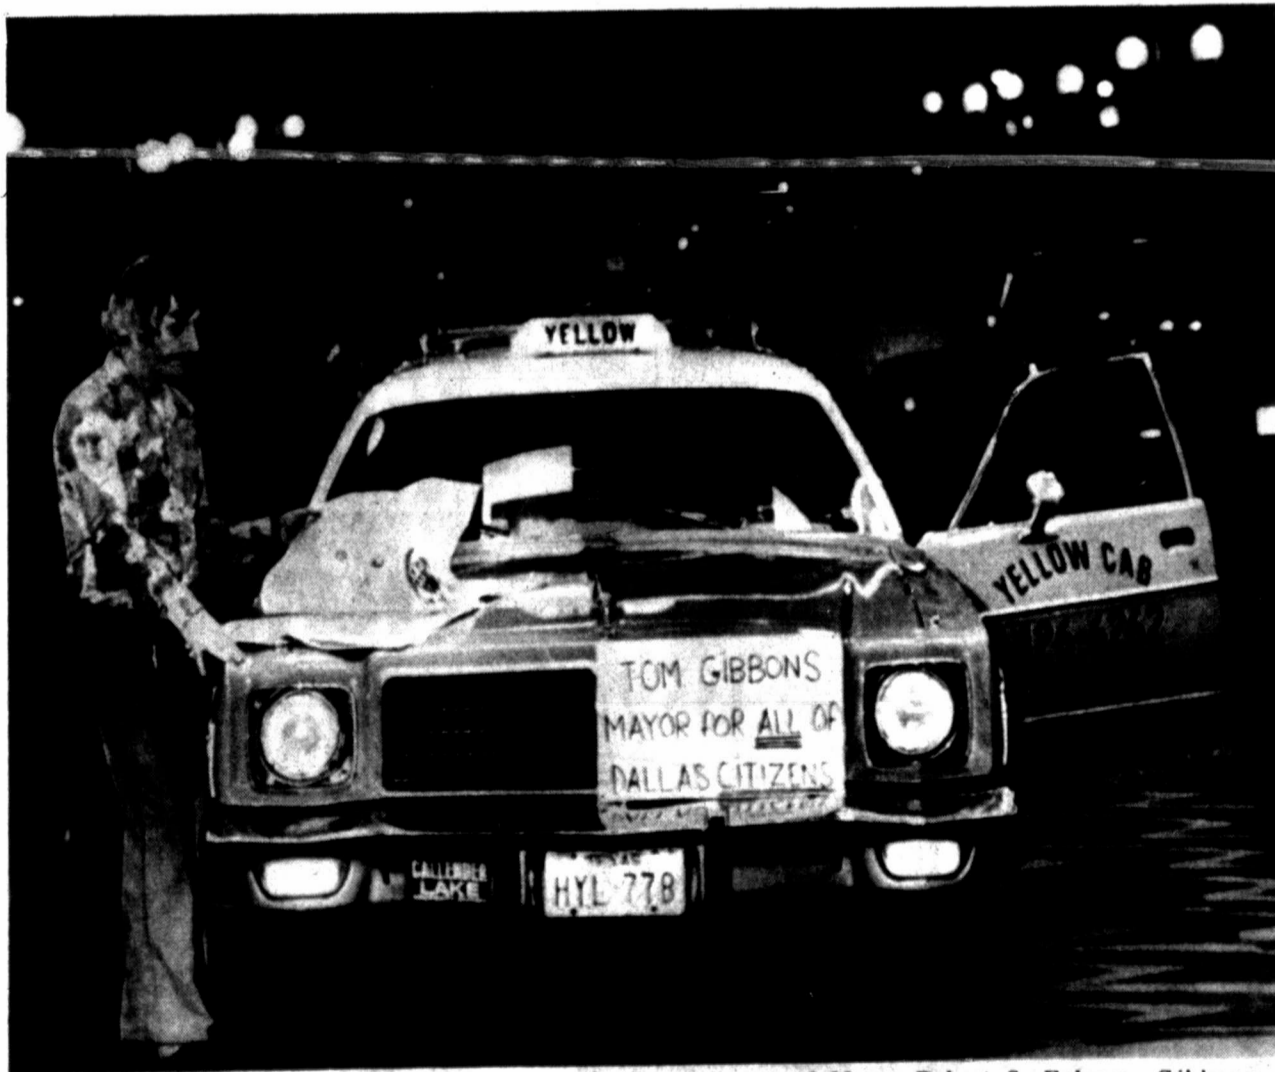

Monroe estimated that crowd at about 40, and said most of the shots were fired into the air.

About 8:25 p.m., a fire was reported at the Black Hat Club. Firefighters said the blaze had been set. They heard gunshots but none of the firefighters was injured, authorities said.

According to the patrol spokesman, the crowd of blacks broke into a liquor store and took control of two convenience stores. Several hostages were reportedly released unharmed, and within an hour, most of the group had dispersed.

There was renewed violence about 10 p.m., after police and state troopers emerged from a strategy session at the municipal complex.

Monroe said about 20 percent of Idabel's residents are black.

Bogota bleacher collapse kills over 100; scores hurt

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — At least 147 persons were killed and more than 500 injured when crowded wooden bleachers collapsed during a bull-running in Sincelejo, in northern Colombia, officials said.

The bleachers, an extension upward of the grandstand at Colombia's largest bullring, were supported by long beams sunk into the ground. Officials said recent heavy rains softened the ground, and the beams gave way under the weight of the crowd.

An estimated 40,000 fans had packed the bullring Sunday afternoon. Witnesses said about 3,000 were in the five sections that crashed down. The tragedy occurred as the fans were excitedly cheering scores of youths and men in the ring running from several bulls before the start of the bullfights.

"We were at the eastern-end grandstand when suddenly I noticed that one of the sections began to fall backwards, and then the other four fell, trapping thousands of persons," said one of the spectators.

Eduardo Ruiz

Some of the victims were impaled on the splintered beams; others were trampled by panic-stricken survivors.

The Sincelejo hospital and a local health center were unable to handle all of the casualties. Many were taken to the neighboring towns of Corozal, Cerete and Sampues. The local institutions said they had 97 bodies. The hospital in Corozal said it had at least 50.

Police cordoned off the Sincelejo hospital to keep back thousands of persons seeking information about relatives and friends. Many in the crowd were hysterical.

Public Health Minister Alfonso Jaramillo mobilized government health personnel in the region and ordered the collection of emergency stocks of medicine and blankets.

Sincelejo, 320 miles north of Bogota, is near the Caribbean coast and the capital of Sucre Department, an agricultural state. The city has a population of about 200,000.

Shroud of Turin subject of guest scientist

The Altar Society of St. Vincent dePaul Catholic Church has engaged Dr. Ray N. Rogers, physical chemist from the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory in Los Alamos, N.M., for an appearance at Pampa Middle School at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 26.

Dr. Rogers is one of forty scientists recently returned from Italy where the group examined and conducted tests on the Shroud of Turin, which many now believe was the burial cloth of Christ.

Dr. Rogers will present slides along with his informational presentation.

Bradshaw shakes off losing feeling as Steelers down Rams, 31-19, in Super Bowl XIV

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Something was very wrong. Terry Bradshaw just couldn't shake the feeling. The Pittsburgh Steelers were going to lose. It was early Sunday morning, 12 hours before kickoff. The quarterback sat up in bed, suddenly wide awake after drifting off to sleep just three hours earlier. He closed his eyes again. It did no good. The feeling was still there. He turned on the television, watched the test pattern and listened to the high-pitched whine accompanying it for the rest of the night. The hours drifted by. Still no sleep. "All I could think about was losing," Bradshaw recalled later — after he had chased away the demons with yet another Most Valuable Player performance in Pittsburgh's 31-19 Super Bowl victory over the Los Angeles Rams. "Hmph! Losing normally just doesn't accompany Bradshaw and the Steelers. Records do. Winning a Super Bowl does. Sunday, Bradshaw threw his eighth and ninth Super Bowl touchdown passes... a record. Lynn Swann and John Stallworth each caught a third Super Bowl touchdown pass... a record. Franco Harris scored his third and fourth career Super Bowl touchdowns... a record. Oh, and the Steelers' Super Bowl victory was their fourth... a record. "It was weird. It just wasn't like me, not being able to sleep before a big game," said Bradshaw, whose 309 yards passing (14 for 21) was within nine yards of the record he set a year ago. "Last year before Dallas (the Steelers beat the Cowboys 35-31) I didn't have any trouble. I never had any negative thoughts. I never think about losing. I had to say to myself, 'Stop that, now. Think positive.' Finally, it worked." Then there was the small matter of asserting himself with his teammates. "I think I had more of a leadership role this time," Bradshaw said. "I really took charge and tried to juice 'em. I never do that. But I really took control of the team. Usually I just go out and play the game. But I felt I wasn't involved, and I thought 'If I'm not involved maybe they're not involved,' so I made a point of pumping 'em, getting them going, getting them excited." When? "At the start of the second half, after I got myself juiced up. That wasn't tough at all. I mean, 13-10 got me juiced up real good." That was the Rams' lead, technically built on Cullen Bryant's 1-yard run and field goals of 31 and 45 yards by Frank Corral but, in fact, built on the cool passing of young quarterback Vince Ferragamo and some explosive running by Wendell Tyler.

Ferragamo was starting only his eighth pro game. He was supposed to crack under the pressure. He never even came close. "That didn't surprise me a bit," Steelers Coach Chuck Noll said. "Nothing about the Rams surprised me, especially their quarterback. He's a fine one. "I told Terry before the game that he would have to come up with the big play." Noll added. "Nuff said." With 2:48 gone in the third period, Bradshaw went to Swann, unloading a bomb that the lithe wide receiver caught with a leap at the 2-yard line. He tumbled into the end zone to complete the 47-yard scoring play. It put the Steelers back on top 17-13. Undaunted, Ferragamo came back with a 50-yard bomb to Billy Waddy, then handed off to running back Lawrence McCutcheon, who pitched a 27-yard option pass to Ron Smith for a touchdown and a 19-17 Ram lead that remained that way when Corral missed the extra point. The big play, Noll had said. With 2:56 gone in the fourth period and Swann sidelined with a concussion (he was cartwheelled by Pat Thomas in the third quarter), Bradshaw went to Stallworth, who had faked an inside route, then had taken off downfield. The bomb was perfect. Stallworth gathering it in at the Rams' 32 as Thomas lunged in vain, then going the rest of the way to complete the 73-yard play that put Pittsburgh ahead to stay. The Steelers wrapped it up when Harris, who had gotten their first touchdown on a 1-yard sweep in the second period, bulled in from the 1 again with 1:52 to go. It came three plays after a pass interference penalty against Thomas for bumping Jim Smith in the end zone. It was the only controversial call, and the Rams really didn't argue too loudly. "He tried to take the position away from the receiver," referee Fred Silva said of Thomas' contact. "He was not playing the ball." And Charlie Musser, the field judge who threw the flag, added: "He (Thomas) had his hands all over him." Harris' clinching touchdown came eight plays after Jack Lambert, the Steelers' middle linebacker, broke the Rams' backs by intercepting a Ferragamo pass at the Pittsburgh 14-yard line. The interception and touchdown finally allowed the Steelers to breathe easily against a team which most observers felt would be blown out of the Rose Bowl long before the extravagant halftime show — complete with a giant fireworks display — blew smoke all over the San Gabriel Mountains.

Swann-replaced in pro bowl

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Wide receiver Charlie Joiner of the San Diego Chargers and defensive end Al Baker of the Detroit Lions were named to the National Football League Pro Bowl squads Sunday night. Joiner replaces Pittsburgh's Lynn Swann, who suffered a concussion in the Steelers' 31-19 Super Bowl victory over Los Angeles. Baker takes the place of Lee Roy Selmon of Tampa Bay, who suffered an injury to his Achilles tendon in the National Conference championship game. The Pro Bowl will be played next Sunday in Honolulu.

LSU wins moral victory over top-ranked DePaul

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP sports writer

Dale Brown didn't like the odds, but he didn't mind the final score... even though he lost. In his eyes, it was a moral victory in the classic sense. "We lost our leading scorer and rebounder just as the game started," pointed out the Louisiana State coach. "Then our big man fouled out early in the second half. Our next-leading scorer played the rest of the way with four fouls and we got only five free throws to their 37." On top of all that, LSU had to play in what Brown called "one of the worst gyms in the country," DePaul's intimidating Alumni Hall. "And we still didn't lose until the final 50 seconds... I would have to say that would give us a psychological advantage if we happen to meet DePaul again," said Brown, obviously thinking of a possible shot at the Blue Demons in the NCAA tournament. All this happened Sunday in what Brown called a "gutsy, gutsy effort." — a 78-73 loss to the nation's top-ranked college basketball team.

Starting with the disadvantage of playing in DePaul's gym, Brown's Tigers lost top scorer Durand Macklin to injury no more than 22 seconds into the game. Early in the second half, both 7-foot Rick Mattick and 6-9 DeWayne Scales of LSU drew their fourth fouls, with Mattick leaving the game with his fifth with 15:57 to play. Scales stayed on to finish with 26 points, 18 of them in the second half and 16 in the final 10 minutes. DePaul held several 10-point leads in the second half, but couldn't put the 14th-ranked Tigers away until Clyde Bradshaw converted three free throws in the final seconds. Mark Aguirre scored 31 points for the winners, including 13 of 14 from the foul line. "What more do you want from a ballplayer?" asked DePaul Coach Ray Meyer of Aguirre. "When you go to the free throw line 14 times, that shows me something. It shows you're not just standing around."

either, Sunday, taking the measure of ninth-ranked North Carolina 92-86 in one of many upsets over the weekend. Second-ranked Ohio State, No. 3 Syracuse, No. 11 Purdue, No. 12 Virginia and No. 13 Iowa all lost Saturday. Ohio State was beaten by Michigan 75-74 in overtime; Syracuse lost a 68-67 heart-breaker to Old Dominion; Purdue dropped a 67-61 decision to Minnesota; Virginia suffered an 88-68 loss to No. 18 Clemson and Iowa was beaten 75-67 by Michigan State. Elsewhere, No. 4 Oregon State beat Washington 89-84; No. 5 Duke stopped No. 16 North Carolina State 67-56; No. 6 Kentucky routed Vanderbilt 106-90; No. 7 Louisville defeated Tulane 76-59; No. 8 Notre Dame turned back UCLA 80-73; No. 10 St. John's edged Georgetown 71-69; No. 14 LSU nipped No. 20 Tennessee 75-74; No. 15 Missouri trimmed Oklahoma State 69-64; No. 18 Brigham Young routed Colorado State 104-82 and No. 19 Indiana defeated Northwestern 81-72.

SURPRISING SCORE
KANSAS CITY (AP) — Call it an unexpected dividend: Ted McKnight of the Kansas City Chiefs ran 70 yards for a touchdown against the Baltimore Colts in the opening game of the season. All he was trying to do was make the one yard needed for a first down. "I was only trying for a first down," he said.

Nordiques snap losing streak with 3-2 win

By The Associated Press

The Quebec Nordiques found the cure for what was ailing them — they played on a Sunday. On this particular Sunday, the Nordiques edged the Washington Capitals 3-2 to break a four-game National Hockey League losing streak. The victory extended Quebec's uncanny record on Sundays this season to 11-0-1. They hadn't played on a Sunday since Dec. 30. "We've been playing some tough teams but we haven't been playing that badly," said Quebec defenseman Dale Hoganson of the team's recent losing skin. "The win is nice after the four losses and I hope it gets us back on the right track."

"The Capitals play hard," added Hoganson, who assisted on all three Nordiques goals. "It seemed as if someone was hitting me all night. They have played well against us." Washington is the only team to manage a point against Quebec on a Sunday with a 2-2 tie on Nov. 25. Elsewhere, Edmonton tied Buffalo 4-4 and Chicago nipped the Rangers 2-1. Real Cloutier scored twice and set up — along with Hoganson — the first NHL goal for Alain Cote. Cloutier's 27th goal of the season, at 10:36 of the third period, was the game-winner. "When Real is scoring and playing a strong game, the whole team seems to play better," said Quebec Coach Jacques Demers. "We seem to have lost a little confidence in our offense because of injuries to Marc Tardif and Serge Bernier." The key to the Nordiques' victory was their ability to kill a two-man disadvantage in the second period. Ron Low made some spectacular saves for Quebec against his former teammates. "When you don't score with an advantage like that, you can't win," noted Demers. Capitals-Coach Gary Green was disappointed in his squad, which tied Philadelphia 4-4 the night before.

Sonics win in double overtime

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics knew what to do, but they just couldn't do it. As a result, Dennis Johnson got off a three-point field goal that tied the game for Seattle at the final buzzer, and the SuperSonics went on to beat the Celtics 108-106 in double overtime Sunday in a National Basketball Association game.

"We wanted to foul," Boston Coach Bill Fitch said. "We planned on fouling, but we couldn't get to the ball in time. It was a physical error, not a mental one." "The first option was to Fred Brown," said Sonics Coach Lenny Wilkens. "but D.J. or (Gus) Williams were other options. My main worry was that the Celtics would foul before we got off the shot." However, Fitch said veteran center Dave Cowens committed a mental error. After the Sonics called a timeout with three seconds left to set up the final shot, Seattle tried to throw the ball inbounds and Cowens batted it out before it reached big Jack Sikma. That used up one second and Johnson scored after the ensuing throw-in.

"Dave overhustled," Fitch said. "The ball came in to Sikma and Dave knocked it back out instead of letting Sikma get it and then fouling him." After Johnson's heroics before a packed Garden crowd of 15,320 and a national television audience, Williams scored 12 of his game-high 29 points in the two overtime periods and the Sonics handed Boston only its third loss in 23 home starts this season. The Celtics were led by guard Chris Ford, who scored 26 points including five three-pointers.

In Sunday's only other NBA game, the Milwaukee Bucks edged the Portland Trail Blazers 89-88.

Bucks 89, Blazers 88
Brian Winters sank a 20-foot jumper from the top of the key with four seconds to play to enable Milwaukee to end a three-game losing streak.

Ron Brewer scored eight points in the last 4:52 for the Blazers, and his baseline jump shot gave Portland an 89-83 lead with 2:16 left. A three-point goal by Dave Meyers at 1:15 brought Milwaukee close and rookie Sidney Moncrief made one free throw with 36 seconds left.

Moncrief then deflected a layup attempt by the Blazers' Kermil Washington and came up with the loose ball, setting the stage for Winters' winning basket.

Panelists chosen for jury selection in witches trial

PLAINVIEW (AP) — Selection of 12 jurors from 35 potential panelists was all that remained today before opening arguments could begin in the murder trial of Loy Dean Stone.

Stone, 50, a high priest in a witches' church, is accused of the shotgun slaying of a teen-age girl at his home near the Panhandle town of Dimmitt on Halloween 1977.

Roxanne Casas, 15, was killed when two shotgun blasts ripped into the pickup in which she and four other teenagers were riding. Two other youths received minor injuries.

The shots rang out as the pickup pulled into a gravel driveway that divided the Stones' house from that of Stone's elderly mother, who since has died.

Stone and his 49-year-old wife, Louise, a high priestess in the Church of Wicca, were charged with murder. They said they did not hear any shots and pleaded innocent.

Mrs. Stone's trial was separated from her husband's and she may be tried later.

The trial was moved to Plainview, 45 miles away, after tensions in Dimmitt's Hispanic community reached the boiling point. Some, including the Brown Berets, threatened vigilante-style retribution. Castro County Sheriff Granville Martin said almost 27 months after Miss Casas' death and after two trial postponements, tension still was running high.

Despite the racial and religious controversy that has surrounded the case, attorneys for both the state and defense said neither issue would play a major role in the trial.

Instead, the trial may revolve around a law that permits use of deadly force to protect property in certain cases — including malicious mischief.

Ag report will indicate key crop allotment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Analysts in the Agriculture Department are putting the finishing touches on a report that will indicate for the first time how many acres of key crops farmers may plant this year.

The report, to be released late today by the department's Crop Reporting Board, is to include "prospective plantings" this spring of corn, soybeans, spring wheat, upland cotton and several other crops that will be harvested in 1980.

Howard W. Hjort, the department's chief economist and policy analyst, says the report is among several considered important for making final decisions on 1980 crop programs and to help assess the future supply and demand situation for the major commodities.

However, Hjort said last week that the acreage figures in the plantings report were largely compiled "by the time the suspension action was announced" by President Carter on Jan. 4, in which he embargoed from shipment to the Soviet Union 17 million metric tons of corn and wheat, plus lesser amounts of other products.

Thus, Hjort said, the feelings of farmers as reflected in the plantings survey may have changed somewhat after Carter's suspension of exports to the Soviets.

But the report will give substantial early indication of what farmers intend to do when they take to the fields this spring.

A year ago, a similar report indicated farmers would increase corn plantings by about 1 percent, soybeans by 4 percent and upland cotton by 6 percent.

As it turned out, actual plantings of corn in 1979 were down slightly from 1978, soybeans jumped 11.2 percent and cotton by 4.8 percent.

Moreover, last year's corn and soybean harvests were the largest on record, and cotton production was the most in years.

Another plantings survey report will be issued by USDA on April 17, reflecting any revised thinking on the part of farmers on how many acres they plant in those crops for this year's harvest.

Still another report, scheduled this Friday, will be valuable to farmers, the grain trade and government policymakers.

It will show how much grain was stored and in the marketing pipeline in the United States as of Jan. 1. Further, it will indicate how much grain was utilized in the last quarter of 1979, thus providing analysts a firmer grip on the U.S. supply situation and prospects for use in the months ahead.

On Jan. 30, the department will issue an annual inventory report showing how many head of cattle were on hand as of Jan. 1, figures that also will have a bearing on future grain needs and the nation's meat supply.

Coupled with other surveys, reviews and figures from private sources as well as from government agencies, the gush of information at this time of year is considered highly important in making predictions, including those dealing with exports and domestic supplies.

A senior Agriculture Department official says employment of minorities by the agency has made significant gains.

Joan S. Wallace, assistant secretary for administration, recently told an organization of black USDA employees — the Forum on Blacks in Agriculture — that as of mid-1979 the department employed 9,017 minority workers. That was a gain of almost 10.6 percent from 8,156 employed in October 1977, she said.

Ms. Wallace said that during the same period "white employment at the department increased 1.89 percent" to 72,668 from 71,322.

Also, she said, female employees increased by more than 8 percent during the same period, to 21,344 from 19,745.

The United States is opening another agricultural trade office today, this one in South Korea to help promote U.S. farm products there.

Thomas R. Hughes, head of the Foreign Agricultural Service in the Agriculture Department, said the new office, located in Seoul, will "serve as a focal point for export sales promotion" in South Korea and as "a home base for U.S. exporters and representatives of states wishing to develop or expand their exports in the area."

Hughes said Evans Browne III, a native of Fort Collins, Colo., will be in charge of the new office. Browne, a career USDA employee, most recently was assistant agricultural attache at the U.S. Embassy in Ottawa, Canada.

Cathedral attracts visitors

NEW YORK (AP) — Tour buses line Amsterdam Avenue at W. 110th Street on Manhattan's Upper West Side. Their passengers mill about a huge stone staircase taking snapshots of one another and the structure.

Few notice the sign welcoming visitors to the "Stoneyard" of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, where they would find the revitalization of an ancient and nearly extinct art — STONE MASONRY.

Five young apprentices work their blocks of limestone toward finished ashlars for storage off to the side.

Numbered and recorded in a book, the stones will be fitted into place for two 150-foot towers above the facade of the superstructure sometime in the early 1980s. The workers are chipping away toward completion of the cathedral, in progress for nearly 90 years.

The cornerstone for the cathedral at the edge of Harlem was laid on St.

John's Day, Dec. 27, 1892. Construction continued uninterrupted until 1916 and World War I.

Work resumed after the war but was halted in 1941 with the outbreak of World War II. Though the structure was nearly completed, the finishing touches could not be added due to lack of money and other community needs. Church leaders felt the pressures from the impoverished community to raise the local standard of living instead of stone towers. In 1967, the scaffolding for the towers was torn down and it looked as though the cathedral would remain two-thirds finished forever.

But in 1971, the Very Rev. James Morton arrived on the scene as the new dean of St. John's. He set to work reviving interest in completion of the monument, challenging the opposition to spending $20 million on the church instead of putting money into the community.

Morton saw the cathedral as a center for the area, symbolically representing the very soul of the neighborhood. He also pointed to the number of local jobs that would be created by a renewal of construction.

On July 21, 1979, the stoneyard officially opened, marking the beginning of a new and, he hopes, final phase in the construction of the Gothic masterpiece.

Supreme Court plans tribute to Douglas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court's champion of free speech and the right to privacy for nearly four decades, William O. Douglas, will be buried Wednesday at Arlington National Cemetery.

Today, the first order of business for the nation's highest court was to be a tribute to Douglas from Chief Justice Warren E. Burger. It is traditional that the chief justice pay tribute the first time the court meets after a justice's death.

Burger was an ideological rival of Douglas, but at a civil liberties conference in the retired justice's honor in 1978 he called Douglas "a man ... who has made Americans think."

Douglas was forced to retire from the bench in 1975 after a paralyzing stroke. He entered Walter Reed Army Medical Center on Christmas Eve suffering from progressive lung and kidney failure and died Saturday morning at the age of 81.

Funeral services were scheduled at 11 a.m. EST Wednesday at the National Presbyterian Church here. Douglas will be buried near the grave of Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

In his court career, Douglas consistently championed the rights of the First Amendment to the Constitution and an individual's right to speak his mind. He wrote 532 dissents, 181 during his last four years when more conservative justices were appointed to the court.

His last public appearance was Dec. 6, when he was awarded an honorary doctorate by Columbia University that called him "a champion of individual liberties, protector of the environment, ... our nation's most ardent and effective crusader for human freedom."

Douglas, an aloof, mercurial individualist on and off the bench, said in his 70s: "My faith is that the only soul a man must save is his own."

After his death, Douglas was praised by his critics as well as admirers. Here are a few of those remarks:

—"Individual freedoms in this country had no mightier champion," said Carter, who ordered flags at federal institutions flown at half-staff in Douglas's honor. The president added, "On the Supreme Court or in the mountains, William O. Douglas breathed the bracing air of freedom."

—"The nation has lost an outstanding jurist who had a tremendous impact on our society and our government," said former President Gerald Ford, who as House Republican leader in 1970 launched an unsuccessful effort to have Douglas impeached.

Tito's condition reported 'good'

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Josip Broz Tito spent a quiet night and was in good condition today following the life-saving amputation of his left leg, his doctors reported.

Yugoslavia's 87-year-old leader was operated on Sunday for the second time in eight days to prevent fatal gangrene poisoning due to blockage in the arteries of the leg.

"The general condition of President Tito is good," his doctors said in a medical bulletin issued today. They said his pulse, blood pressure and temperature were within normal limits.

Belgrade remained calm despite speculation all week that the Russians might try to coerce Yugoslavia back into the Kremlin's orbit if Tito, the pioneer of the independent communism, died. Anti-aircraft guns were set up at the Belgrade and Zagreb airports, but this appeared to be part of a nationwide, low-priority "vigilance" program ordered after the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

In Bonn, the West German Defense Ministry denied German newspaper reports that the Soviets were reinforcing their troops in Central Europe because of Tito's condition.

"A strengthening of Warsaw Pact troops in Central Europe or unusual troop movements cannot currently be observed — also not against Yugoslavia," a spokesman said.

"We are with Tito as always," the newspaper Borba said today.

"Tito is with us and in us."

It published a telegram from one of his World War II Partisans, a machine-gunner at a famous 1941 battle, who said: "Your deeds will live forever but you must recover."

"We are Tito's. Tito is ours," a chorus of Bosnian children sang before the announcement of the operation on the government television service.

The operation was performed at a hospital in the northern city of Ljubljana where Tito had been undergoing treatment since Jan. 2 for arterial blockage in his left leg.

"It wasn't a total loss."

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Credit wide receiver John Stallworth of the Pittsburgh Steelers with the most outstanding play and the most outlandish understatement of Super Bowl XIV.

"We did what we had to in the second half, so it wasn't a total loss," Stallworth said after he and Terry Bradshaw combined on a 73-yard, fourth-quarter bomb that boosted Pittsburgh to a 31-19 victory over the Los Angeles Rams.

A "total loss" Hardy. Instead, it was a fourth Super Bowl title for the Steelers, twice as many as anybody else.

"Another title for the 'City of Champions,'" bubbled Pittsburgh's other wide receiver, Lynn Swann, who caught a 43-yard touchdown pass in the third quarter shortly before a jolting hit sent him to the sidelines for the rest of the game.

"Just think, the next time we walk into that office at Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh, we'll be looking at a case with four trophies," said Swann.

Winning image aside, the Steelers trailed 13-10 at halftime and there were as many worried looks in the Rose Bowl as there were terrible towels.

"I was concerned at halftime. I was very concerned," said Steeler linebacker Jack Lambert. "We just didn't have any intensity on defense."

Swann's 47-yard touchdown gave Pittsburgh a brief lead at 17-13. After the Rams moved back on top Stallworth and Bradshaw put Pittsburgh ahead to stay at 24-19 with their long touchdown toss over the middle.

"I feel like I can go deep on anybody in the NFL. I have confidence in my abilities," said Stallworth.

But in victory, the Steelers offered a salute to the Rams.

"I am really proud for the Ram ballclub, too. They played their butts off," said center Mike Webster. "I had a lot of respect for the Rams before the game. I have more now."
