of resuming the draft, but they are split on whether women should be subject to conscription, an Associated Press-NBC News poll says.

On both issues, those most directly affected by the changes being discussed are the most opposed to such

Young people between age 18 and 24 - who would be the first to go - are the most significant group to oppose a new draft. And women oppose being drafted. while men favor conscripting women

Talk about reviving the draft has been triggered by the turbulent crises in Iran, Afghanistan and in other world hot spots. President Carter announced in his State of the Union message earlier this month that he wants to register young people in case a draft is Among other findings, the AP-NBC News poll taken Tuesday and Wednesday found overwhelming backing for such a registration proposal. Seventy-eight percent favored registration and 17 percent opposed it. One percent said they would favor registration if women were not included and four percent were not sure.

On the question of actually resuming the draft - and not just registration - 62 percent favored a new conscription program. Twenty-nine percent opposed one and 9 percent of the 1,600 adults interviewed nationwide by telephone were not sure.

Almost a year ago, in February 1979, public opinion was much more closely divided on the subject of the draft. In the AP-NBC News poll that month, 49 percent favored resumption of the draft and 43 percent were opposed. Eight percent were not sure. Support for resuming the draft is broad, running through almost every group of Americans. The only significant exception is young people, those 18 to 24 vears of age

Those young people opposed the draft by a 40-55 margin. By contrast, those 25 and over backed the draft by a 66-25 edge. In each case, the remainder were

No Americans have been drafted since Dec. 31, 1972.

On Jan. 27. 1976, then-President Gerald Ford mothballed the Selective Service System and stopped requiring all young men to register with their draft boards. Carter indirectly raised the question of drafting women when he used the term "young people" in his State of the Union message in referring to those who will be asked to register. An even 50 percent of the public favors drafting women. Forty-four percent agreed overall with drafting women, while 6 percent volunteered that they favored drafting women only for non-combat roles. Forty-five percent opposed drafting women and 5 percent were not sure While women overall favor resumpng the draft by a 56-33 edge, they oppose being drafted. Thirty-nine percent of the women favor drafting women, but fifty percent opposed it. Men, on the other hand, narrowly favored having women join them in the armed services. They favor drafting women by a 49-41 edge.

Unemployment tops 6.2%

layoffs pushed the nation's unemployment rate to an 18-month high of 6.2 percent in January, a signal that a long-expected recession may have arrived, the government reported today.

Adult men bore the brunt of the higher unemployment, as their jobless rate jumped from 4.2 percent to 4.7 percent, the highest since November

President Carter predicted this week that the economy would enter a mild recession during the first half of 1980, sending unemployment rising to 7.5 percent by the fall.

Today's monthly report, issued by the Labor Department, bolstered that forecast, although government economists cautioned that it was mremature to say with certainty that a recession had begun.

The January figures marked the first time that unemployment has hit 6 percent since July 1978, when the rate was 6.2 percent

Unemployment stood at 5.9 percent of the work force in December, and had fluctuated between 5.7 percent and 5.9 percent during the prior 16 months.

The large rise in unemployment among men who housing industries, which traditionally are the first to feel the effects of a recession.

The number of unemployed persons increased by 340,000 in January to 6.4 million. The Labor Department said 260,000 of the jobless had been laid off, as opposed to those who might have returned to the status of job-seekers.

The total employment in January was 97.8 million persons, down from the record 97.9 million in December. The number of men with jobs declined by 200,000, while employment among adult women rose by

As a result, while the jobless rate for men rose sharply, the rate for women advanced only modestly from 5.7 percent in December to 5.8 percent last month.

The Labor Department also provided the following breakdowns of unemployment rate changes since December for different population groups: -Teen-agers: 16.3 percent in January, up from 16 percent in December. -Minority teen-agers: 34.6 percent, up from 34.3

-Whites: 5.4 percent, up from 5.1 percent

—Non-whites: 11.8 percent, up from 11.3 percent. -Full-time workers: 5.7 percent, up from 5.4

-Part-time workers: 8.7 percent, up from 8.5

percent. -White collar workers: 3.4 percent, up from 3.3 percent

-Blue collar workers: 8 percent, up from 7.2

-Service workers: 6.9 percent, up from 6.6 percent. During the past year, the jobless total in the country has risen by 610.000 Employment during the same period rose by only 1.7 million, the smallest annual increase in four years, the government reported.

"The report is an indication of a sluggish growth economy," said a department economist, who declined to be named. "I'm not willing to say yet that we've finally entered a recession, based on a one-month

The Labor Department also noted that a separate survey of employment conducted by a different federal agency found that employment during January rose by 300,000 jobs, a finding that contrasts with th Labor Deparment report.

Grandview-Hopkins votes for 7-man appraisal board

By DEBORAH BRIDGES Of The Pampa News

Grandview - Hopkins Independent School District rejected the compromise nine - member county tax appraisal board in a special called meeting Thursday night, school officials said

"The school board thinks the original seven - man board is the way to go, School Superintendant T. R. Adkins said

He said the board resolved to support the seven member resolution first filed in mid - October and the Whittenburg law firm. representing Grandview Hopkins will continue in the suit with Pampa and Pampa

Adkins said Grandview -Hopkins had dropped the original declaratory judgement suit against County Clerk Wanda Carter when she declared the seven member resolutions using the three - quarter rule in Senate Bill 621, "not timely

"Now Pampa (by intervention in the original suit) has brought this suit against everyone else." he said, "and I think our lawyers will be concerned with this.

Jerrel Julian, school superintendent for Lefors ISD said the ISD and the city of Lefors held a combined meeting Thursday night and voted to withdraw the seven member solution and proceed with the five

Tanker owners sue as collision result

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - When the ill-fated Coast Guard cutter Blackthorn started home after four months in drydock, a Russian ocean liner was right behind.

The Blackthorn's crew soon heard several impatient whistle blasts and moved aside to let the liner pass. Less than a half hour later, the Coast Guard crewmen were scrambling for their lives after colliding with an American oil tanker

Seaman Apprentice M.C. Gatz, the Blackthorn's lookout Monday night. made the ironic revelation Thursday as he opened testimony at a formal investigation of the accident, in which only 27 of the cutter's 50 crewmen are known to have survived Gatz will continue on the stand today. Lt. D.B. Crawford, Ensign J.R. Ryan and the cutter's skipper, Lt. Cmdr. G.J. Sepel, were to be called after Gatz.

Rear Adm. Norman Venzke is heading the board, comprised of fgur other Coast Guard officials and a National Transportation Safety Board member. The board rejected motions Thursday by attorneys for the tanker Capricorn and for Tampa pilot Harry E. Knight challenging the use of a Coast Guard panel to investigate an accident involving one of the service's own vessels.

Kieron Quinn, attorney for tanker owner Kingsport Shipping of New York, said that although Venzke insists the board is meeting only for "fact-finding and not assignment of liability," the board's recommendations "will ultimately alter the outcome of the civil Owners and operators of the Capricorn filed a federal lawsuit late Thursday alleging that the Blackthorn was responsible for the accident. The $1.5 million damage suit claims the buoy tender was on the wrong side of the channel when the ships collided.

The suit also alleges that the cutter ignored whistle signals and failed to respond on the radio to calls from the tanker.

Gatz, a baby-faced 23-year-old from St. Louis, spent a nervous three hours recounting the night of the collision. He said visibility was clear and that he had seen several other ships near the channel prior to the collision.

"The Russian ocean liner passed us," he said, noting that the crew heard several blasts first. "We moved to starboard, out of the channel to allow the other ship to pass safely by... You couldn't miss it, it was lit up like a Christmas tree. You could see the lights outside and in the porthole," Gatz said.

Ship hijackers reach Miami

MIAMI (AP) - Sixty-seven men, women and children arrived at a Coast Guard station in Miami today after commandeering a leaky slow-moving barge at gunpoint from a port in Cuba

The refugees were greeted by reporters and cameramen. Most smiled but said little before being led to a waiting bus operated by the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

The Cubans, hoping to win political asylum in the United States, commandeered the 100-foot barge early Thursday in the Cuban port of Cardenas, bound its five crewmen and headed for the Florida Keys, authorities said. Six of the refugees were said to have been armed.

The U.S. Coast Guard said its officers boarded the vessel Thursday and took the Fifth of December in tow to Miami

The refugees, including 10 children, cheered the crew of the 40-foot Guard patrol boat that met them off Lower Matecumbe Key when they learned they would be taken to Miami.

No injuries were reported in the takeover of the barge, or when the Coast Guard took the vessel in tow.

The Coast Guard patrol boat intercepted the barge after receiving a message from the sailboat Thunder, in a race from St. Petersburg to Fort Lauderdale, saying it was being seized at gunpoint by a strange Cuban vessel

The Cubans held the Thunder at gunpoint briefly, but "it turned out the Cubans were only looking for directions to said Ed Krejci. skipper of the patrol boat.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others tosee its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment

School discipline begins at home

'Whispering" used to be the bane of the school teacher. Now the teacher must worry for fear that when she turns her back to the class she will be hit by a missile

Pupil attacks on teachers increased 80 percent in the last three years. according to a government report. Last year, 5 percent of all the teachers in the nation were physically attacked by pupils. The little

The Ohio Education Association agrees that "discipline is the most explosive classroom problem" in the nation. The teachers' association is working with the General Assembly to draw up legislation to deal

Seventy-eight percent of teachers polled by the OEA in 1977 said it is more difficult today to maintain discipline than it used to be. Reasons: lack of respect for adults, less cooperation from parents in administering discipline measures, lack of discipline at home, failure of the principal to stand behind the teacher, poor home environment and changing times.

It is a permissive age. The old rule, spare the rod and spoil the child, evidently has been filed away. Once, the child who was whipped at school received a second and sounder thrashing when he got home: Now, parents tend to side with the child, sometimes threatening or actually bringing suit against a teacher who has resorted to corporal

One result is that school teaching is no longer looked up to as a highly honored and desirable profession, and the nation is verging upon a scarcity of teachers. By 1983-84, school administrators warn that the lack of teachers will become evident.

What can the state law makers do about it? Certainly, the discipline problem will not be solved by passing a law, but helpful actions are possible. What such actions should be legislators can best learn by conferring with experienced school teachers and principals.

Behavior in class may be bad because the class is too large. Enough facilities and teachers can be provided to make smaller classes possible. More than one teacher per class may be desirable in some Alternative education programs can be set up for disrupters. Regional schools for students expelled from regular classrooms may have to be provided. They will be costly, but less so that prisons.

A statewide "information bank" has been proposed. It would gather information on crime in the schools - assaults on school employees, thievery, vandalism, the use of drugs and liquor.

Somehow, authority must be restored to the teacher in the classroom. Teacher and pupil are not of equal rank; the teacher is to be looked up to and respected. Parents, better than anyone else, can instill

The ultimate solution to the problem of school discipline lies not with legislators nor with school personnel. It lies with parents and families. As the home is orderly, so the school will be. Youngsters who are trained to obey their parents will obey their teachers.

Give their scores

An Arizona state senator proposes stating the intellectual capabilities of candidates right on the ballot

Democrat Tony Gabaldon of Flagstaff wants candidates to file results of a reading and intelligence test with their nominating petitions. Scores would be placed on the ballot next to the candidate's name.

Gabaldon hasn't elaborated on the content of the test, but we would advise at the very least, a basic civics examination.

That suggestion comes from a comment Elizabeth Dole of Salisbury made while joining her husband Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kansas, on a presidential campaign stop in Denver. Mrs. Dole quipped that Carter by now should know what he's doing in office as he has had nearly a full term of on-the-job training

With a civics score on the ballot, at least voters would know whether they were electing a professional politician or an ambitious apprentice.

Job dissatisfaction feeds economic ills

A short 20 years ago, the typical American worker produced as much as four Japanese workers or two French or German workers.

But today the American's output is matched by 1.5 workers in Japan and 1.25 Germans or Frenchmen

The decline in American productivity is blamed, in part, for the inflation spiral that robs the American working person of the purchasing power he rightfully expects.

And psychologists have been exploring the relationship between the deterioration in productivity and the increasing incidence of job disenchantment. William Batten, chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, recently pointed out the paradox of mounting worker dissatisfaction in a period of unprecedented worker security. Non-economic concerns - such as job challenges, self-fulfillment and the need to fee appreciated - are likely to matter most to employees who feel relatively secure economically." Batten told an audience at the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton

As a solution, he called for greater participation by American business in the "Quality of Work Life" movement - "a new social technology" designed to bring out a worker's potential. At the heart of the concept is encouragement to employees to participate in the decisions that affect day-to-day work patterns. The approach stops short of Europe's "industrial democracy," which is politically motivated and frequently provides for union membership on corporate boards. Neither does it copy the Japanese system, which relies on ancient social and cultural traditions to spur management-employee discussions on what is customarily a lifetime relationship. Rather, the fledgling American movement recognizes that the person who does a job is the person who knows that job best. It encourages the worker to contribute his expertise to redesigning and reorganizing work methods to bring about greater efficiency and, as a consequence, greater productivity.

The approach has been tried and tested by General Motors and Lockheed, among others, and has won the approval of unions as well as management

There is no quick fix to America's economic problems, of course. But the effort to create new dignity and opportunity for the worker coaxes new respect for management. Healthy cooperation between the two is essential to achieve the most rewarding measure of economic growth as a nation and to produce a feeling of accomplishment and satisfaction in the American psyche.

From times immemorial, statesmen and generals have tried to guess what goes on in the minds of their enemies. It is a difficult task. Intelligence reports, however good, tend to conflict; they are hard to coordinate, harder still to assess. To evaluate them, a strategist needs to understand not merely the strengths and weakness of his own side; he needs to know his opponent's resources and frame of

On the face of it, the invasion of Afghanistan is fraught with serious dangers for the Soviet Union. Public opinion in the U.S.A. has hardened; former doves begin to act like hawks. The U.S. has imposed a grain boycott on the Soviet Union: Moscow stands to lose credits and valuable imports of strategic equipment. The U.S. might pull out of the Olympics. The Soviet Union has incurred bitter criticism in the U.N. Our NATO allies are becoming more defense-minded. Bangladesh and Pakistan have called for an emergency meeting of the 42-member Organization of the Islamic Conference of which Afghanistan is a member. Only South Yemen and some radical Palestinian groups have voiced support for the Soviet invasion. Surely, the more cautious elements in the Kremlin must prevail over the militarists.

Marxist-Leninist ideology, after all, assumes that capitalism will disintegrate from within through its "internal contradictions." Why endanger this pleasing prospect through yet another adventurist" stroke that can only serve to weld together the opposition? Afghanistan is a rugged country peopled by rugged men and could become a Soviet Vietnam. Surely, this is no time for the Red Army to shoulder additional responsibilities

Unfortunately, the world looks very different through the spectacles worn by the men in the Kremlin. According to accepted Soviet doctrines, never challenged even by the so-called "doves" in Moscow, the Soviet Union is committed to an international class struggle. The class struggle is inevitable; it can be resolved only by the total destruction of the capitalist system. Even peaceful coexistence and detente are merely means of intensifying the international class struggle: they imply a temporary peace between different states, not between contrasting systems of society. Trade, diplomacy, cultural exchanges, armed subversion, and war are all but instruments to destroy the enemy, global capitalism led by the U.S.A. Soviet military doctrine parallels these political assumptions. Soviet planners regard a policy of defense as a recipe for disaster. They put their faith -- not in a sudden BLITZKRIEG -- but in a sustained attack that aims at surprise and at striking at the enemy where he is weak rather than where he is strong. And, above all, the Soviets believe that they can win any war they fight, conventional or nuclear.

Whatever campus Marxists may think. Soviet policy makers do not anticipate the rapid disintegration of the world capitalist system through internal contradictions. In a soberly-written article published in a recent issue in the WORLD MARXIST REVIEW (October 1979), Academician Nikolai Inozemtsev addresses himself to the problem. Dr. Inozemtsev is no ordinary scholar. He is Director of the Institute for World Economics and International Relations at the USSR Academy of Sciences; he is a leading member of the Soviet academic establishment. According to Inozemtsev, world capitalism, far from collapsing, will make further economic advances. The gross national product of the developed capitalist countries may increase by the year 2.000 by roughly 100 to 130 percent over the 1978 level; industrial disintegration must therefore be speeded by political and military means

The weakest link in the Western chain of defense is to be found, not in North Western Europe, but in the Middle East. The area is politically fragmented and internally unstable. It is, moreover, an inestimable prize. In its secret dealings with Nazi Germany in 1940, Moscow insisted that the area south of Batum and Baku in the general direction of the Persian Gulf" was theirs. They have not wavered in this strategic design.

Soviet access to Iran would strengthen Soviet naval might in the Indian Ocean. menace Turkey, Iraq and Saudi Arabia, as well as outflank Pakistan. The strategic position in the Middle East would be revolutionized -- in the Soviet Union's favor and oil control would belong to Russians

An occupation of Iran would thus have far-reaching advantages for the Soviet Union from the economic standpoint as well. Soviet domestic oil resources are diminishing; the U.S.S.R. is likely therefore to develop alternate sources of power. To the Western world. the Middle East is vital. Whatever substitutes we may develop for oil in future, we now rely to a considerable extent on Middle Eastern oil for our prosperity. Without this oil, the U.S. economy would be seriously restricted. Deprived of Middle Eastern oil, the economies of Western Europe and Japan would collapse. In order to control Western Europe and Japan. the world's most highly industrialized regions outside the U.S.A., the Red Army would not actually have to hoist the Soviet flag over Bonn, Paris, London, and Tokyo: a stranglehold over the vital oil supplies would serve the Soviet Union just as well, by enabling them to force America's allies out of NATO, gain political concessions and effectively

Iran next

"Finlandize" Western Europe and Japan. Control over the Middle East would also serve Soviet domestic ends. The "armed dictatorship of the proletariat" has long since turned into the armed dictatorship over the proletariat, exercised by a new ruling class of salaried party functionaries and ideologues. In economic terms, this dictatorship has not been successful: discontent is rife. Soviet rule can be cemented at home, however, by successes abroad that will convince Russians and foreigners alike that the regime, for all its failings, is irresistible, and that it is useless to swim against the "tide of history.

Moreover, the Great Russians, the Soviet Union's leading ethnic group, are becoming a minority within the nation's border. Given the high birth rate of the country's Asian population, this process will speed up: in future a steadily increasing proportion of Red Army soldiers will be Muslims. The strength of national sentiment is increasing among the minority groups. Soviet control over the independent Muslim states would not solve the Soviet Union's internal problems, but might at least lessen the threat of outside subversion from militant Islam.

From the military standpoint, an occupation of Iran should be no more difficult than the occupation of Afghanistan, provided it is carried out with speed, surprise, and overwhelming force. Not for the Soviets the American strategy of sophisticated pressures, and slowly accelerating advance applied in Vietnam. Given the geographical proximity of the Soviet Union, given its military superiority over NATO in the conventional field, given their new ability to move troops, arms and supplies in large numbers by air, given their new bases in Afghanistan, the Soviet High Command should be able to expect a Would not Islamic guerrillas resist the infidel to the death? Would not the U.S

intervene? Iran is a fragmented country. Its administration is shattered; its armed forces have become ineffective; factions fight against factions: mobs dominate the capital: the ethnic minorities are in a state of uproar. The Tudeh Party, a loyal pro-Moscow communist party, is small, but well disciplined and would make an admirable Fifth Column. Iran would no more likely become a Soviet Vietnam than Afghanistan. As every Soviet strategist knows, the Vietnam war was not won by guerrillas, but by the employment of conventional forces: it was a massive deployment of North Vietnam armored divisions that finally crushed the Saigon regime. The Soviets are not strangers to the art of using militant Muslims for their own end. The initial revolutions in Afghanistan and South Yemen were started by militant Mushims at the time when the communist party called for a "historic compromise" between revolutionary Islam and Marxist-Leninism. This compromise then ended, in the best Leninist fashion, with the liquidation of the communists' erstwhile allies: Khomeini can probably expect a similar fate.

The Americans, for their part, are ill placed to intervene. They lack, for the time being, adequate bases in the Indian Ocean and the Middle East. Even if they now embark on a rapid rearmament program to make good their failure to keep pace with the Soviet armed forces over the last decade. it will take them at least four years to catch up. The American intelligence agencies have been hamstrung; the Special Service units have been disbanded; no American presidential candidate would dare, for the moment, to reintroduce the draft. Even President Carter's limited grain boycott has met with much opposition. Politically, the Iranian regime has isolated itself; it is hard to imagine that Americans should suddenly be willing to die for Khomeini. Concerned scholars and peace-loving citizens, cautious officials in the State Department and militant students would be quick to point out that strife-torn Iran might actually benefit from Soviet "stabilization." From a Soviet Marshal's standpoint, now is the time to strike, before the Americans rearm and before the opposition solidifies.

History is not predictable. Folly, hesitation and incompetence are common on the other side of the hill, as well as on ours. But given America's present state of weakness, given the state of Western public opinion, we should not permit ourselves to be lulled into a false sense of security. The 1980's threaten to be dangerous years. And we should not be surprised if a future headline should proclaim, in heavy black print: "Soviet troops invade Iran.

MARKETBASKET COMPARISON

Eggs prices lower

By EILEEN ALT POWELL Associated Press Writer

A drop in the price of eggs and fewer increases for beef and pork helped hold the overall increase in grocery prices in January to 0.7 percent, a sharp improvement from the 2.6 percent price surge in December, according to an Associated Press marketbasket survey.

Frozen orange juice concentrate also was down in price at many of the supermarkets in the survey. This could mark the start of further citrus-product price reductions nationwide, said Paul Westcott, an economist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

'After two years of killing freezes, there's quite a large citrus crop, especially the oranges, being harvested now." he said. "That should show up in concentrate prices.

The January increase in the average value of AP's marketbasket of 14 grocery items was the smallest in four months. Still, the overall price of the marketbasket of goods was more than 7 percent higher than in January 1979, reflecting the inflation of the intervening months.

The survey has been taken in supermarkets in 13 cities every month since March 1. 1973. Prices initially were checked for 15 commonly purchased food and non-food items, but one chocolate chip cookies - was dropped from the list at the end of November 1977 because the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

The January analysis showed that the marketbasket bill rose an average of 2.5 percent in supermarkets in eight cities and fell an average of 2.75 percent in four others. In a

While egg prices declined an average of 11.2 percent in the survey cities in January and orange concentrate prices began edging down. the costs of detergent, frankfurters and sugar showed increases in more than half of the cities surveyed. Consumers have been paying higher sugar prices as a result of the sharp rise in prices on world markets in November and December. Frankfurter prices, meanwhile, could reflect both reductions in cattle marketings and the higher cost of labor and energy used in me at processing. Westcott suggested.

At the same time frankfurter prices rose in seven of the supermarkets surveyed, the price of chopped chuck rose in four and center-cut pork chops in three. In December, chuck prices had risen in eight stores, and pork chop prices in

A SHAKER-STYLE family room is the ultimate in simplicity. Nearly devoid of colors, the only two patterns in the room are the gingham curtains and the practical, brick-design floor covering. The large chest, wood-burning stove and ladder-back rocker are all authentic Shaker reproductions. Wooden baskets, along with brass and ceramic accent pieces, make the total environment serene and soothing.

Shaker furniture, for those who long for a simpler life

Nostalgia for a bygone simpler way of life — real or imagined — has led to a resurgence of interest in Shaker furniture and home furnishings.

Members of a strict religious sect which attracted a modest following in the late 18th and early 19th centuries in the United States. the Shakers — or United Believers in Christ's Second Appearance — withdrew into communities of their own where they lived spartan lives of hard work, devotion and austerity.

Shakers shunned ostentation and ornamentation. Their watchwords were order, purity and cleanliness. And their religious convictions were reflected in the interiors of the communal homes.

Since Shaker decor was characterized mainly by lack of decor, that's the effect designers strove to achieve in re-creating the Shaker style in a modern-day family room. Almost devoid of colors and patterns, the family room succeeds in being positively soothing and restful, just the place to relax from the toils of the day.

The designers splashed the walls with white and covered the floor with a low-maintenance, white brick-patterned floor that furthers the family room's rustic ambience.

The room's most distinctive features are the massive chest, wood-burning stove and ladder-back rocking chair, all authentic Shaker reproductions.

To keep their possessions in perfect order, Shaker houses often featured entire walls of built-in cabinets and drawers. The chest in this family room serves the same purpose, plus other distinctively un-Shaker-like ones such as affording a convenient perch for a portable TV.

Since Shakers considered fireplaces to be dirty and inefficient, they manufacture their own wood-burning stoves which they used for cooking and heating — an idea that's rapidly coming back in style in our own energy-squeezed era.

Each community also manufactured its own furniture from prototypes supplied by the mother colony at Mt. Lebanon, N.Y. For that reason, Shaker furniture, though made in various locales, all has the same straight lines and purity of form — every bit as clean-lined as contemporary furniture. Their furniture — the ladder-back chair, for example — was also noted for sound construction, lack of embellishment and functionalism.

The only pattern in the room, except for the "brick" floor, is the brown-and-white gingham of the curtains. Rounding out the Shaker look are the brass kettle, brass lanterns high up on the wall, iron candleholders and a family of hand-painted ceramic cats.

Most people transplanted into an authentic Shaker home would find it hard to relate to the severity of the surroundings. But beautifully designed Shaker pieces in a proper mix with other furnishings can achieve a simple style that's pleasing to nearly everyone — even modernists.

to date until I'm 16.

I respect my parents' wishes but with this wish, I'd like to bend it a little. My parents trust me and consider me mature. I'm a sophomore and he is a junior and it seems silly for us to wait six more months before we can date. Please don't say, "If he cares enough, he will wait." — Adina, Mt. Vernon, Adina: I'm sure your parents consider a date a "gettogether" outside of the house. So why not see if you can invite the boy over to your house for a little study time with a snack or two tossed in?

The important thing is that your parents must feel "comfortable" when you are with your boyfriend.

Dr. Wallace: It started as a joke but it ended in a problem. My friend and I told this guy that she liked him. She whistled and winked at him and told him that he had nice legs, and the guy took it seriously. Now he is mad at us because he found out the truth.

We did not mean to hurt him but I guess we did. Somehow saying you're sorry is not enough. Please tell us what to do. — Gina, Florence, Ala.

Gina: Sometimes the written word is more effective than the spoken. Find a nice appropriate card and both sign it and say something like, 'We want to be your friend and we are honestly sorry that we hurt

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I know how GOING BALD feels. I was 38 when my hair started coming out by the handfuls. I went to my doctor and he asked, How is your sex life?" I told him I hadn't had any lately. (I had been married 20 years and had four kids.)

He said, "Either tell your husband to get busy, or find yourself a boyfriend." Well, I didn't know where to look for a boyfriend, so I prodded my husband, and said, Doctor's orders!"

It worked like magic. Now my hair is so thick I have to have it thinned out regularly, but now my husband has a bad back

ST. CHARLES, LA.

DEAR ABBY: Tell GOING BALD not to panic. I started to go bald, too. I was 27, and the more I worried about it the worse it got.

My internist sent me to a dermatologist. The dermotologist sent me to an endocrinologist who sent me to a psychiatrist!

I was told that my hair loss was caused by stress! And, of course, the more I worried about losing my hair, the more stressful I became, so it was a vicious circle.

My psychiatrist got to the root of the trouble (no pun intended) and once I faced my problems, my hair came back. (I had been denying them.)

GOING BALD could save a lot of time and money if she went straight to a psychiatrist. I was literally "tearing the hair out of my head" until I found peace of mind.

HEALTHY AND HAIRY IN PHILA—

DEAR ABBY: If GOING BALD doesn't have any signs of rash, or sores on her head, she should make a mixture of castor oil and sheep dung, and plaster it on her head every night. (Tell her to wear a shower cap so she won't mess up her pillow.)

I started losing my hair after the birth of my child. My grandmother gave me this remedy and it worked. I used it

My husband didn't mind the smell at all. He said it reminded him of the days when he was a kid growing up on a farm, and it really turned him on.

on.
LIL IN GREAT FALLS, MONT.

DEAR ABBY: No wonder there are so many women going bald today. They torture their hair with curlers, curling irons, blowers, and hours of sitting under a hot hair dryer. Nature never intended for hair to be abused in so many ways. I'm surprised we don't have more bald women.

What ever happened to days when women washed their hair with a pure castille soap, rinsed it with vinegar and towel dried it in the sun?

AUNT ELLA IN AUSTIN

DEAR ABBY: Loss of hair can be a symptom of a nutritional deficiency. My sister had that problem. She ran from doctor to doctor, and not until she went to a nutritionist did she discover the cause. The nutritionist told her she was eating all the wrong things.

When she got herself on a balanced diet, her hair started to grow in. She got careless about her diet once, and went back to her old eating habits—lots of sugar and very little fresh vegetables and fruits. Sure enough, her hair started falling out again. Then she paid attention to nature's warning and went back to a balanced diet. Now she has a beautiful head of thick hair again.

TRUE STORY, ENID, OKLA.

DEAR ABBY: I am a beauty operator, and when a customer's hair starts falling out, I send her to a dermatologist with a sample of everything I use on her hair and scalp. (Hair dyes, bleaches, conditioners, shampoos, waveset, etc.) Some dermatologists will send them to an allergist. After using the same products for years, some people will develop an allergy to them.

DR. LAMB

DEAR DR. LAMB — Two years ago when I had only been married a matter of weeks, I became pregnant. For financial and personal reasons my husband and I decided to terminate the pregnancy.

At that time I discovered I had a rare blood type Rh neative group O. I was given an injection of Rh immune globulin.

I would appreciate it greatly if you could explain why I received the above mentioned injection. Will I have to have these shots ea. . ime I have a child? When I do become pregnant again will I have to tell my doctor that I have undergone an abortion and have received an Rh immune injection?

DEAR READER - Your doctor will do his best job for you if he knows all of your medical history. You were given the Rh immune globulin to keep you from developing an Rh problem with your subsequent pregnancies. An Rh positive person has a sub-stance in his blood cells that Rh negative people do not have. When an Rh negative woman is pregnant, if her baby happens to be Rh positive she will gradually develop an allergic reaction to the Rh positive blood in the baby. The interaction that results can damage the baby.

Now, if you give birth to an Rh negative child then there will not be any need for you to take Rh immune globulin. But after every pregnancy, if the child is Rh positive, you should receive such protective measures.

I am glad that you received the protection you needed after your abortion. It will give you a better opportunity to have a normal healthy family for the future. To give you more information on the Rh factor and blood types I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-4, Blood Type Rh Factor and Transfusions. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long stamped self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper P.O. DEAR DR. LAMB — I wonder if anything can be done for my husband. For the last year he has yet to finish his evening meal. Each night he starts to hiccough at the table and leaves it for the bathroom where he vomits what he has eaten. He returns but he is no longer able to finish his meal. He's lost a few pounds already.

He is 73 years of age and every afternoon he goes for a walk and before he returns he usually drinks two bottles of beer. I have supper ready when he gets back and the problem begins all over again. What do you suppose can be done?

20 until noon 22 (Taurus).

Some of the newer tomato varieties have been developed to be resistant to all three of these diseases. Planting marigolds near tomato plants will discourage nematodes.

There are other varieties that produce just as well as the VFN varieties. We plant in the VFN varieties, the Beefmaster, Floramerica, and Burpee's Big Boy. In the varieties that are not designated VFN, we plant Sugar Lump, Porter, Spring Giant, and Glamour. These have proven to be good varieties for us. If a tomato plant is marked "Indeterminate" this means that it continues to grow and produce fruit right up until frost. Beefmaster, Big Boy and Glamour are in this group.

If a tomato plant is marked "Determinate" this means that it reaches a certain height and then stops growing. They generally produce the bulk of their fruit at one time. Spring Giant, Floramerica and Small Fry are in this group. In ordering your roses for spring planting, be sure to include some miniatures. There is a miniature rose to suit every purpose. They are good in rock gardens, hanging baskets, window boxes, strawberry jars, for edging flower beds. They make lovely house plants, grown in a sunny window. They also can be had in climbers and tree roses. The miniature is easy to grow. They are very hardy, almost disease free, and seldom bothered by insects. Because they are small and require little space, they can be tucked in a small spot where they will give almost continuous color all summer. They require very little winter care; a light mulch is sufficient.

Some seed that may be planted the last of this month (25-26) in the green house or on a sunny windowsill should be ready for planting outside the last of April or the first of May. These are impatien, lobelia, alussum, salvia, verbena, ageratum, arctotis, china aster, bells of Ireland, cosmos, dusty miller, marigold, petunia, shapdragon, calendula and celosia.

The vegetables that may be planted at the same time include tomatoes, broccoli. Brussels sprouts, cabbage, kohlrabi, onions, egg plant, zucchini, and artichoke. Lettuce can be planted at the same time outside in cold frame; seed will germinate in cool soil.

Plant an indoor garden

When you begin to fear that winter never will end, cheer yourself up with an indoor spring garden.

Pots of spring flowering bulbs, transplanted from their clay pots into one large, decorative container, create a miniature garden.

Now, in midwinter, tulips, daffodils, hyacinths, crocuses and irises that have been "forced" to grow indoors are ready to bloom. Select plants that are tightly budded and you will have the joy of watching flowers open gradually. Here are the materials needed to create and plant an indoor spring garden: an attractive container with a drainage hole, large enough to accommodate several height (tulips, hyacinths and crocuses respectively are tall, medium-sized and small); a few foliage house plants (if desired); stones for the bottom of the container; potting soil and sheet moss.

After cleaning the container thoroughly with warm water and soap, line the bottom with stones. This will prevent soil from flowing out of the drainage hole.

Fill the container halfway with soil. Remove plants from their pots and place them in the container.

Plan the garden design with special attention to spacing and height. Leave enough room between plants to keep the roots from becoming tangled.

plants; at least three types of bulbs each of a different surrounding them. If you use a hanging house plant such as philodendron or English ivy, position it so that it hangs over the edge of the container.

The advantage to combining bulbs with house plants is that they will fill in when bulbs fade.

Jones denies rape charge

DALLAS (AP) -Professional boxer and former Dallas Cowboy Ed "Too Tall" Jones has denied accusations that he raped a nurse while she slept in her apartment.

"He denies there was a rape," said Jones' attorney Fred Time.

Jones was freed on $2,500 bond after he was arrested and brought before a city judge for a magistrate's warning. He was not formally charged or arraigned

Prosecutors said Jones had to post the bond because his attorney secured a court order for his release before the police investigation into the case was finished.

The accusations are in a police offense report, in which a 25-year-old nurse claimed she awoke and found the 6-foot-9 Jones assaulting her.

The report said Jones was spending the night with the nurse's roommate in her apartment after a birthday celebration.

Jones, 28, said only "no comment" to news reporters as he left the city jail with

The police offense report said Jones and a friend had been at elan's, a fashionable Dallas nightclub, with two women, and that they all went to the women's apartment afterward.

The friend left about 1 a.m., when the nurse said she shut her bedroom door and went to bed, leaving Jones with her roommate in another part of the apartment, the report said.

The report quoted her as saying she woke up about 2:30 a.m. from the weight of Jones' body on top of her.

She said Jones then got up and walked out of the room, according to the report. The woman called police, who came to the apartment

Players back in school

Pampa Harvester basketball coach Garland Nichols said today that all the players who were struck by a viral infection during the past three days are back in school. "We've got them all back now," reported Nichols: "We're ready to go back to work now.

Nichols canceled Thursday's practice after 22 players either called in sick or left school because of illness.

According to a report released today by the National Center for Disease Control. Pampa athletes aren't the only ones who have suffered from the quick-acting virus.

Influenza has spread to nearly half the states since November. but most cases are sporadic and there have been no massive outbreaks, the report stated.

Most flu is Influenza B, a relatively mild virus. Only a few cases of Influenza A have been reported. In its Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report, the CDC said it has recently received laboratory confirmation of Influenza B from Georgia, Missouri, Montana and Texas. State public health officials also report Influenza B in Oklahoma. Previously, the center had reported Influenza B in Arizona, California, Illinois, Wisconsin, Delaware, New Jersey, Colorado, Utah, Oregon, Hawaii, Alaska, Michigan, New York, Ohio and

Zanon faces slim odds

LAS-VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Italy's Lorenzo Zanon rates a very small chance of upsetting champion Larry Holmes in their World Boxing Council heayweight title bout Sunday, but he's done some things to improve the image he had of being a punching bag.

Zanon in 1977 was knocked out by Ken Norton in five rounds and by Jerry Quarry in nine rounds, and then laid off boxing an entire year. He went into a physical training program, running and doing isometric exercises to build up his physical conditioning and recuperative powers.

Under the tutelage of Ruti Del Vecchio, a conditioner born in Philadelphia who moved to Milan, Italy, Zanon worked to become more flexible, more resistant and to be able to use his brain constantly in boxing bouts.

Denver nips Nets, 127-126

By the Associated Press
Nobody's perfect at the foul line — not even Robert Smith.

Smith, who once led the country in foul shooting as a collegian and has a season average of a nifty 89 per cent in the National Basketball Association this year, had a chance to perform his speciality for the New Jersey Nets Thursday night.

But the usually unerring Smith missed the second of two free throws with no time left on the clock, and it cost the Nets a 127-126 loss to the Denver Nuggets.

"I just knew we were going into overtime," said Denver's Dan Issel, well aware of Smith's foul-shooting prowess.

But after watching the potential tying shot fall off the rim, Issel noted: "I felt badly that Robert Smith was the guy who missed it, because he was a teammate of mine for nearly two seasons."

Issel, by the way, had a powerhouse game for the Nuggets with 47 points. He took charge of the offense in the absence of two Denver stars, David Thompson and George McGinnis.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Seattle whipped Milwaukee 105-101; Atlanta turned back Golden State 111-107 in overtime; Los Angeles outscored Chicago 107-97; Boston defeated Washington 119-103; Philadelphia turned back Houston 110-105; New York beat Indiana 112-102 and Portland nipped Kansas City 94-93.

In addition to Issel's monster point total, John Roche contributed 24 points for the Nuggets. John Williamson scored 28 points for New Jersey before fouling out with 1:39 remaining in the game.

Sonics 105, Bucks 101

Gus Williams and Dennis Johnson scored 21 points each as Seattle snapped a three-game losing streak by beating Milwaukee. Johnson locked up the victory by hitting two free throws with two seconds remaining.

The Sonics watched a 15-point halftime lead dwindle to two before holding on for the victory. Hawks 111, Warriors 107

John Drew's layup with 17 seconds left in overtime gave Atlanta a tight victory over Golden State. Purvis Short took a shot for the Warriors with four seconds left, but missed, and Charlie Criss added two free throws for Atlanta for the final margin. Lakers 107, Bulls 97

Jamaal Wilkes scored 28 points and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar 27 to lead Los Angeles over Chicago. Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 14 points and handed out nine assists as the Lakers won for the ninth time in 11 games. The Bulls dropped their fourth straight.

Joe Barry Carroll scored 17 points and Keith Edmonson added 16 to lead Purdue over Iowa. The Boilermakers broke the game open in the final five minutes after taking the lead for good, 43-42. on a Mike Scearce jump shot with 11:16 to play

Baseball talks continue today

NEW YORK (AP) - Negotiations on a new collective bargaining agreement between baseball's team owners and players are to resume today and will continue, on a "stepped up" basis, until agreement is reached, according to Marvin Miller.

There is still ample time to make an agreement if the owners show willingness to do so," said Miller, the executive director of the players association, after recent discussions with Ray Grebey, the head of baseball's Player Relations Committee.

"I can't say there was no progress," said Miller, adding the complexity of the issues involved takes considerable time to discuss. "You get into something like the reserve system, which is just one section of the agreement, and you could discuss the ramifications for days and days," he said.

Not that many days remain before the Feb. 14 reporting date the New York Yankees have scheduled for the arrival of their players at the team's spring training complex in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Miller would not forecast what might happen if training camps began and no new agreement exists. 'You'd have to ask the owners," he said. Grebey was unavailable for comment Wednesday night.

Religion in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — Because the last five years have shown a shrinking respect for religious leaders, a judge says, it's no longer constitutional to prohibit clergy-lawyers from wearing clerical attire before a courtroom jury.

To do so puts a "substantial burden" on the guaranteed free exercise of religion, ruled New York State Supreme Court Justice Hugh F. McShane in an unusual decision both analyzing trends of the times and upsetting a higher court's previous ruling.

It had held, only about four years ago, that a Roman Catholic priest-lawyer could not wear his clerical collar before a jury because that might influence sentiment in his favor. But the later judicial conclusion is that this is not so.

The outcme marked a victory, at least temporarily, by the Rev. Vincent La Rocca of Brooklyn, in his long fight for the right to wear clerical garb when defending poor clients as a lawyer for the Brooklyn Legal Aid Society.

"What the decision does is to underwrite the continuing validity and vitality of the first amendment." he says. That amendment is two-sided, prohibiting any law for an establishment of religion and also prohibiting any law to limit free exercise of religion.

Although some recent tendencies have been to ban signs of

Although some recent tendencies have been to ban signs of religion from the public sphere, under extensions of the no-establishment clause, McShane discerned a pendulum swing against religion and acted on behalf of the free-exercise clause.

The ruling still faces further challenge, however, as the office of Kings County (Brooklyn) District Attorney Eugene Gold is appealing it again.

McShane found that respect for the clergy has so declined in the

"While most unfortunate and depressing," he said, "the public's esteem of religious leaders of all faiths has been encroached by a growing cynicism which denigrates the absolutes of trust and respect formerly accorded the clergy."

On that premise, he brushed aside as outdated a 1976 decision by the state's highest judicial body, the New York Court of Appeals, holding that La Rocca could not wear clericals in trying a case before a jury as it might give him extra "respect and trust" or otherwise prejudice jurors.

In the more than four years since then, "the world has turned over many, many times," McShane ruled in taking a new tack.

Noting that La Rocca's religious commitments require him to wear clerical attire, the judge said that the earlier court ruling barring him from it while doing his work denies him equal protection of and violates his free exercise of religion.

After having lost several previous rounds restricting that right,

La Rocca says the affirming of it was like a breath of fresh air.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although the Southern Baptist Convention has backed the 1962 and 1963 U. S. Supreme Court decisions banning officially sponsored prayer and Bible reading from public schools, the convention president is part of a new movement to reinstate such practices.

12 GOOD REASONS WHY YOU'LL FIND THE DAILY NEWSPAPER AN IMPORTANT PART OF YOUR CHILDS EDUCATION...

1. It's an adult medium. No big seventh-grader with a reading problem likes to be seen carrying around "Six Ducks in a Pond." But he's proud to be seen reading the newspaper.

2. It deals in reality, in what is happening here and now. Motivation is built in for reading and discussions.

3. It bridges the gap between the classroom and the "real" world outside.

4. It contains history as it happens, reported as completely and objectively as is humanly possible.

5. It contains something for every student: comics for the slow reader, editorials for the bright youngster; real math problems for the child who hates textbooks; science as it happens.

6. It contains practical vocabulary, the words students will use over and over again throughout their lives.

7. It can be marked, cut, pasted, colored-important to young children who learn by doing and seeing.

8. It contains in its news stories the best models for clear, consise, simple writing.

9. It is the perfect model for teaching students to write for a purpose and for a particular audience.

10. It is the only up-to-date social studies text there is.

11. It is the only text the majority of children will continue to read throughout their lives.

12. It is an influential and integral part of our free society. Its freedom is guaranteed under the Constitution which some have said is "less the right of the newspaper to print than it is the right of the citizen to read."

Commodity prices drop 2 percent at farm level

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices of commodities at the farm dropped 2 percent in January, and part of the decline can be traced to market. disruptions following President Carter's partial embargo on grain sales to the Soviet Union.

Further, the Agriculture Department said Thursday, the preliminary figures show January farm prices averaged only slightly higher than they did a year ago.

In another bit of grim news for farmers, officials said January's parity ratio - an indicator that, in part, relates prices to production costs - dropped to its lowest level in 28 months

The department's Crop Reporting Board said lower prices for corn, eggs, wheat, soybeans, turkeys and cattle contributed most to the decline from the December average.

However, higher prices were reported for broilers, rice and calves, which helped soften the declines for the other commodities. But the January decline left the overall farm price index only 0.9 percent above its average in January 1979, officials said. Meanwhile, prices farmers pay to meet expenses rose 3 percent in January, averaging 14 percent higher than a year ago. Although the report did not spell it out, the price decline for grain - computed as of mid-month - came in the aftermath of Carter's announcement Jan. 4 of a partial embargo on the delivery of U.S. grain to the Soviet Union. Subsequently, the administration announced the government will buy much of the embargoed wheat and corn, and take other actions to bolster the markets and protect farmers from financial losses due to the suspension. Also, for two days following Carter's action. trading in grain and some other commodities was suspended on the major markets until the administration put its programs in place. Some grain prices - notably wheat - have recovered somewhat since the mid-month figures shown in Thursday's price report.

For example, USDA reported that as of Jan. 28 wheat prices at the farm averaged $3.88 a bushel, compared to the mid-month price of $3.62. Wheat in December averaged $3.80 a bushel.

But corn prices most recently averaged $2.22 a bushel at the farm, still below the $2.25 shown as the mid-January farm average. The December average was $2.38 a bushel

In December, farm commodity prices held steady, according to the new report's revisions. A month ago it showed farm prices in December

According to the prelminary January figures, prices of meat animals dropped 0.7 percent. That put the price index for meat animals 1 percent below its year-earlier level.

Farm prices of poultry and eggs, as a group, dropped 5 percent in January and also were down 5 percent from a year earlier, the report said. Prices dropped for turkeys and eggs, but broiler prices edged higher.

Farm prices in January averaged 234 percent of a 1967 base price average used for comparison. The index was 238 percent, as revised, in December.

The January parity ratio for farm commodities was 64 percent, compared to 67 percent in December. In January 1979, it was 73 percent. According to department records, the January reading of 64 percent was the lowest since 63 percent in September 1977.

At 100 percent, the indicator would mean. theoretically, that farmers have the same buying power they had in 1910-14.

Wards woes and worries attributed to negative

Compiled from staff and wire reports

No one had noticed the unmentionable four - letter word found in a recent Montgomery Wards sales catalog, sales people in Pampa said early today.

The word has ancient roots, says Eric Partridge's Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English. The revered Oxford English Dictionary credits a 15th century satirist with introducing it to Anglo-Saxon

But Montgomery Ward officials are embarrased and apologetic over the four-letter obscenity that showed up on a bedroom wall pictured on page 122 of the nearly eight million copies of its latest sales catalog.

They believe the offending word - the most common Anglo-Saxon term for sexual intercourse - was sneaked into the catalog just before printing.

"There is a word in the background, but it's very, very hard to see," spokesman Ken Darre said Wednesday. "It slipped by the proofreaders and evervone else because unless you're specifically looking for it, it's too vague to make out."

The full-color, full-page advertisement for bedspreads on page 122 says, "Create a dramatic bedroom setting."

The word appears near the reddish-brown, floral bedspread and brass headboard, apparently dodged into the negative by an employee of one of the photographic studios that prints the catalog.

"I believe the employee in question has resigned, but not a thing can be done," Darre said. "We will apologize to anyone that calls, of course, but otherwise, we're handcuffed Anyway, I doubt whether it will have any long-range effects."

The sales catalogs, one of 12 issued annually by the retailer, were sent out about two weeks ago. Darre said the problem was first brought to Montgomery Ward's attention by a customer who called and asked about it.

"There haven't been many others," he said.

No reaction to the advertisement has been observed by sales people at the Pampa Montgomery Wards, the catalog sales department representative, Mrs. Jackie Dunn said, although she expects there will be later today. The "mistake" was mentioned on Paul Harvey's morning commentary today.

"It's really funny," she said, as many times as we girls have looked through that catalog and we never saw it." She said another employee had to point the word out to her.

Several years ago, Sears, Roebuck and Co. was similarly embarrassed by a men's underwear advertisement in one of its catalogs. A shadow in the photograph made the model appear to be aroused.

Accident kills sailor

CORPUS CHRISTI(AP) — A shipboard accident that has been known to "cut people in half" killed a tanker crewman and critically injured another during heavy weather in the Gulf of Mexico. a Coast Guard officer said.

The accident happened Thursday about 35 miles southeast of Corpus Christi. according to Coast Guard Lt. j.g. Steven Eddy, when a roped snapped between two vessels that were tied together during a "lightering" operation.

"That's when a large vessel, that can't go into port, offloads (its cargo) into a smaller vessel which can," Eddy said.

"Apparently a large rope, a nylon hawser, snapped because there were 6-foot seas out there." said Eddy. "When one of those snaps it's like a huge rubber band and they've been known to cut people in half."

Eddy said officials on the tanker, the "Coastal Houston," notified the Coast Guard of the accident about 2:30 a.m. Thursday.

When the rescue helicopter arrived, said Eddy, crewman Panayotin Karras, 37, a Greek, was dead. The injured crewman, Ernesto Porfiria Flores, 27, of Honduras, had a weak pulse and was bleeding from the ears and nose. Eddy said.

He was airlifted to Corpus Christi and hospitalized in critical condition, said Eddy.

Stone admits firing

'warning shot'

PLAINVIEW(AP) — A self-professed witch testified he fired a warning shot into the air to frighten away teen-agers on Halloween 1977 after being harassed by carloads of jeering youths cruising by his rural home.

Loy Dean Stone, 50, is charged with murder in the Halloween 1977 shotgun killing of Roxanne Casas, 15, who was mortally wounded as she and four friends were sitting in a pickup stopped in the Stones' driveway near Dimmitt.

Defense attorneys rested their case Thursday after four character witnesses completed testimony. The judge then recessed the trial until today to allow lawyers to prepare their final arguments.

Stone testified Thursday he fired a single shot into the air while a pickup filled with teen-agers was sitting in his driveway.

Prosecution witnesses previously had said two shots were fired, one striking the bed of the pickup, the other hitting the side of the cab.

the side of the cab.

Shotgun pellets killed Miss Casas and injured another passenger in the truck

The Stones had complained of harassment by carloads of teen-agers cruising by their rural home, and on Thursday, Stone testified he and his wife were out in their yard among some trees on the night of the girl's death.

Stone said he saw the silhouette of the truck as it pulled into his driveway, but said it was so dark he and his wife "couldn't see each other without speaking."

Stone testified he yelled "yelled 'Get out of there!' and fired into the air" with his shotgun. He said he could not see the cab of the pickup because his vision was blocked by a pumphouse.

After he fired the warning shot. Stone said, the truck backed out of the driveway and headed toward Dimmitt. He said he was surprised when law officers came to his house later that night.

"I wondered what in the world everyone was doing," said Stone, who spoke calmly during his 2½ hours on the witness stand. "I asked them what they were looking for and they didn't say."

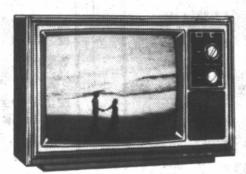

Stone said he was frightened because a vehicle had driven by his house earlier that month and fired several shots in his direction. No one was hurt, he

At one point during cross-examination. Castro County District Attorney Jimmy Davis asked Stone if he ever used the term "witch" to describe himself.

"I don't go around carrying a banner." Stone replied. "Religion is a very personal thing with me. If I was asked — depending on the manner in which it was asked — I may say I'm a witch."

Stone is a high priest in the Church of Wicca, which practices witchcraft altough it does not profess a belief in Satan or hell.
