Reunion features defense commander

Lt. Gen. James V. Hartinger, Commander in Chief of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD), the Aerospace Defense Command (ADC) and Commander of the Aerospace Defense Center, and former commander of the famous Flying Tigers, will address the eighth annual reunion of the Pampa Army Air Field Association, according to association president, Lewis Epps of Pampa.

The reunion will be conducted August 8, 9 and 10 with headquarters at the Coronado Inn. Lt. Gen. Hartinger will speak during the annual banquet, which begins at 7 p.m. Aug. 9 in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

Lt. Gen. Hartinger, a World War II draftee, assumed command of his current assignment Jan. 1, 1980.

Drafted into the Army Infantry in July 1943, Lt. Gen. Hartinger is a native of Middleport, Ohio, where he graduated from high school in 1943. He attained the rank of sergeant while serving with the Army during World War II and entered the United States Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., following the war. Upon graduation in 1949, he received a commission as second lieutenant in the United States Air Force, along with his bachelor of science degree.

He attended pilot training at Randolph Air Force Base, Texas and Williams Air Force Base, Ariz., graduating in August 1950.

He was then assigned as a jet fighter pilot with the 36th Fighter-Bomber Wing at Furstenfeldbruck, Germany, until December 1952.

His next assignment was with the 474th Fighter-Bomber Wing at Kunsan Air Force Base, Korea. There he flew his first combat missions in the F-84 Thunderjet.

In July 1953, he returned to Williams as a gunnery instructor with the 3526th Pilot Training Squadron. In August 1954, he was transferred to Stewart Air Force Base, N.Y., where he was a fighter pilot and air operations officer in the 331st Fighter-Interceptor Squadron.

During this tour, the general attended Air University's Squadron Officer School at Maxwell Air Base, Ala.

In July 1958, Lt. Gen. Hartinger began a four-year tour of duty in the Air Defense Interceptor Branch of the Directorate of Requirements, Headquarters, United States Air Force. He enrolled at the George Washington University in June 1962 and received a Master's degree in business administration in June 1963. He subsequently was assigned to Hickman Air Force Base, Hawaii, in the Directorate of Plans, Headquarters, Pacific Air Force.

Lt. Gen. Hartinger graduated from the Industrial College of the Armed Forces at Fort McNair, Washington, D.C., in June 1966 and thereafter received F-4C Phantom replacement training with the 43rd Tactical Fighter Squadron at MacDill Air Force Base, Fla. From December 1966 through December 1967, he was director of the command center, Headquarters, Seventh Air Force, at Tan Son Nhut Air Base, Republic of Vietnam, during which time he completed more than 100 aerial combat missions and was awarded military decorations including the Distinguished Service Medal, the Legion of Merit with one oak leaf cluster, the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with eight oak leaf clusters, the Air Force Commendation Medal and the Combat Readiness Medal.

In 1968, Lt. Gen. Hartinger was the F-111 aircraft test director at the Tactical Fighter Weapons Center, Nellis Air Force Base, Nev. After this assignment, he assumed command of the famed Flying Tigers organization, the 23rd Tactical Fighter Wing, at McConnell Air Force Base, Kan.

He became Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans at the North American Air Defense Command, Ent Air Force Base, Colo., in June 1970. He moved to Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., in May 1973 as the Air War College Commandant and Vice Commander, Air University.

The general was commander of the Tactical Air Command's Ninth

Air Force with headquarters at Shaw Air Force Base, S.C., from July 1975 until June 1978. He was then commander of Tactical Air Command's Twelfth Air Force, with headquarters at Bergstrom Air Force Base, until assuming his present command this year.

The Pampa Army Air Field Association was formed eight years ago by some 300 members with a goal to preserve the camaraderie which developed during World War II when more than 6,200 aviation cadets graduated from training at the facility and more than 3,500 aircraft mechanics were trained. The association members either served in the military at the facility or were employed as civilian personnel during the base's short three years and three months of operation. The official opening of the facility was in March 1942.

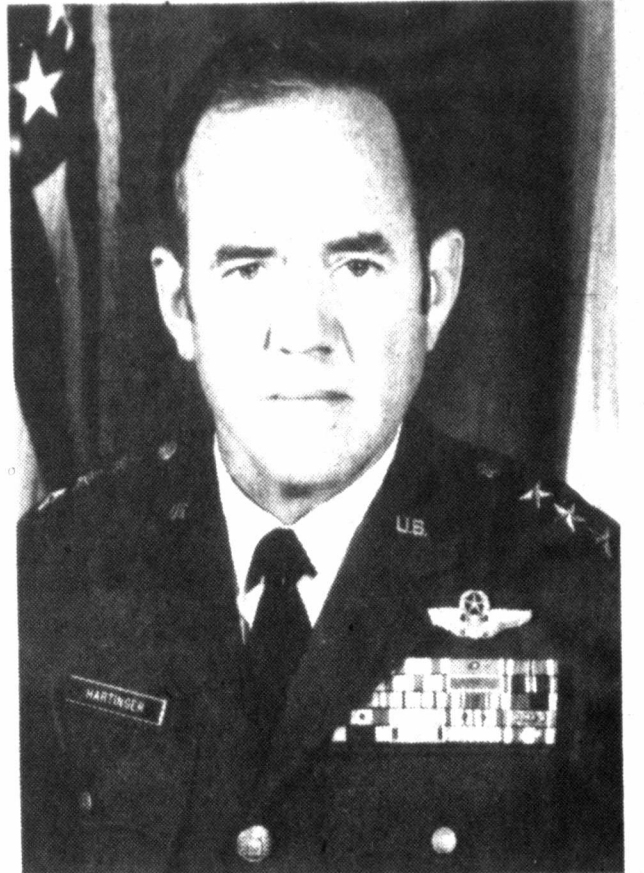

Open house for the 1980 reunion will be conducted in Quivera Room of Coronado Inn, beginning at 7 p.m. Friday, Aug. 8, hosted by officers and board members. A Dutch Treat steak dinner will follow the open house at Tom's Country Inn. Registration will get underway at 9 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 9.

Highlight of the two-day reunion will be the after-dinner address by General Hartinger Saturday evening.

Epps will preside during the business session of the annual business luncheon Saturday in the Starlight Room, and Russell Abbott, Pampa, James W. Bell, Cordell, Okla.; Victor Raymond, Pampa; Vivian Mann; the Rev. Maurice Garner, Panhandle; and Ralph Blodgett, Spearman; will also take part in the business luncheon activities.

The banquet will be highlighted by the presentation of colors by the Color Guard, Texas National Guard, Company B, 2nd Battalion, 142 Infantry. Introductions will be made by Col. (AF-Ret.) Harold Ottaway, Dodge City, Kan., and Joseph Mashburn will introduce the speaker.

A dance will follow the banquet in the Starlight Room.

LT. GEN. JAMES V. HARTINGER

Man arrested in murder-related shooting

Police officials arrested a Pampa man Saturday in connection with a shooting incident which police believe is related to the April stabbing death of Roy Dario Rosalez, 20, of 216 E. Tuke. One man was injured in the shooting and admitted to Highland General Hospital with a gunshot wound to the abdomen.

In custody late Saturday night was Jimmy Rosalez, age and address unknown, brother of the slain Roy Rosalez. Jimmy Rosalez was charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. Bond had not been set late Saturday.

Injured in the shooting was Marcus Gonzales, age and address unknown.

Gonzales was listed in stable condition late Saturday in Highland General Hospital, a hospital spokesman said.

Pampa Police were notified of the shooting by hospital officials at approximately 7 p.m. when Gonzales was transported to the hospital by a friend, police said.

Police said that Gonzales had been shot with a 22-caliber pistol, while standing in front of the residence at 429 N. Starkweather, the site of the earlier Rosalez stabbing.

According to witnesses, seven or eight shots were fired from the passing car, police said.

The arrest occurred at 7:30 p.m. Saturday after police stopped an older model blue Chevrolet Impala, which matched the description of the assailants', given to police by a witness. Upon stopping the vehicle, officers said they spotted some spent shells in the back seat of the auto and later found a knife.

Police late Saturday were questioning a second suspect in connection with the Saturday shooting. In a statement to police, the suspect said that the probable motive for the shooting was a "pay back" for the earlier Rosalez murder.

Felipe Miranda, 27, of 833 Wall was convicted of the stabbing murder of Roy Dario Rosalez and sentenced to 20 years in the state penitentiary. An appeal has been filed in the case by lawyers for Miranda.

City records fourth arson in one month

Investigation is continuing into an early morning house fire at 209 S. Nelson believed to be caused by an arsonist by police and fire officials.

"Both the fire department and the police department are fairly convinced the fire was set," said K. N. Kirby, shift captain of the Pampa Fire Department.

Firefighters responded to the scene at shortly after 3 a.m. Saturday, finding the house completely enveloped in flames.

Police investigators were called to the scene at 3:23 a.m., when firefighters saw the blaze had apparently been started deliberately, fire officials said.

Two five-gallon containers, like those used to store gasoline, were discovered near the frame house, Kirby said.

Fumes from the incendiary had gathered in the house, the captain said, and "blew out" the walls, windows and rear doors of the dwelling when the fire began.

Walls of the house had been blown as much as four inches from the frame of the dwelling.

"Whoever did it must have barely made it out of here," Kirby said, adding the force of the explosion blew the screen door off the back south door of the house.

The house is owned by Chuck Taylor of Seguin, who was trying to sell the home at the time of the fire. Officer Stan Belt of the Pampa Police Department said.

"The house is a total loss as far as living in it now," Kirby said. The house was fully furnished.

Saturday morning's house fire is the fourth in a series of suspected arsons being investigated by the Pampa Police Department in the past month.

The first arson was reported at 533 Doyle on July 12. Steven Austin McConnell was later arrested and charged in connection with the fire.

Two other suspected arsons — one of which was fatal to an elderly Pampa woman — are believed by police officials to be related.

A fire involving a rent house at 212 N. Gillespie on the morning of July 18 was reported by its tenant, Randy Taylor, to have been started by an arsonist.

Later that week, the house's owner, Jewell Hawthorne, 74, died in a fire at her own home at 220 N. Gillespie the morning of July 22. Officials believe arson was also involved in this fire.

Investigation into these two fires is still continuing, police say.

Death toll rises after Bologna explosion

BOLOGNA, Italy (AP) — A thunderous explosion tore through the crowded waiting rooms and restaurant of Bologna's main railway station Saturday, killing at least 55 people and injuring 180 others, police reported.

The blast leveled a large section of the building, and rescue workers feared other victims were still trapped under tons of brick and twisted steel.

A Bologna police spokesman said the blast, which occurred at a peak holiday period, "could have been a bomb," but authorities were unable to pin down the cause immediately.

If it were a bombing, it would be the bloodiest terror attack in post-war Italy. Authorities ruled out one initial theory — that the station boiler had exploded.

Two anonymous callers to newspapers claimed responsibility for the blast in the names of right-wing and left-wing terrorist groups, but police were skeptical.

A man speaking in the name of the neo-fascist "Armed Revolutionary Nuclei" said the explosion was connected with a Bologna judge's decision announced two hours earlier to put eight persons on trial for the Aug. 4, 1974, bombing of a passenger train inside a tunnel between Bologna and Florence. Twelve persons were killed and 35 injured in that bombing, one of Italy's bloodiest terrorist strikes.

Some witnesses to Saturday's blast said they had smelled gas, others explosive powder.

Hours after the late-morning explosion, soldiers and police were still digging grimly through the rubble, forming a chain and passing bricks down the line from hand to hand in 86-degree heat. A crane was brought in to lift the collapsed wooden beams of the restaurant.

Many of the injured were reported in critical condition with second- and third-degree burns. Some victims were believed to be non-Italians, but their nationalities were not available.

Groups of young Swiss and German tourists were believed to have been at the station at the time of the blast. Early August is a peak travel period for Europeans and Italians headed to the beaches.

The station clock stopped at 10:25 a.m. when the blast ripped through the first- and second-class waiting rooms of the busy station in this medieval city of 500,000 people, some 200 miles north of Rome on the main line to Milan.

It leveled the waiting room section and collapsed the platform roofing onto three cars of a train bound from the east coast city of Ancona to Basel, Switzerland, as it was moving out of the station.

Iranian protesters held in federal prison

OTISVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Shackled in irons and chains, 171 Iranians arrived Saturday at a federal prison to await word on whether they will be deported. Meanwhile, sympathizers continued a hunger strike in Washington, D.C., and Tehran radio reported talks were under way for the detainees' "unconditional release."

The Iranian men, supporters of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, were among 193 people apprehended last Sunday outside the White House during a celebration of the death of the deposed shah. They have refused to identify themselves, and many will not eat.

Twenty women taken into custody in Washington are being held in New York City, and two men are hospitalized.

One by one, immigration and prison officials here escorted the 171 men from five chartered green and white buses that brought them from a Newburgh, N.Y., airfield.

"They're not giving the staff any problems," said J.

Michael Quinlan, warden of the Federal Correctional Institution. "They all look very tired."

In Washington, State Department spokesman George Havens said the Algerian Embassy has been in contact with U.S. officials on behalf of the detainees. He refused to elaborate, and the Algerian Embassy, which protects Iranian interests in Washington, declined comment.

But Iran's official Tehran radio, in a broadcast reported at the State Department, said talks were in progress for the "unconditional release of our student brothers and sisters as soon as possible."

The U.S. broke diplomatic relations with Iran after militants stormed the U.S. Embassy in Tehran last November, taking Americans hostages. Fifty-two Americans were in their 273rd day of captivity Saturday.

In front of the White House on Saturday, about 40 Iranians continued a sitdown protest against the detention of their countrymen. A rope put up by police separated demonstrators from passers-by. Protesters said they had gone without food for six days, but appeared in good condition.

The 171 Iranians, wearing leg irons, waist chains and handcuffs, had to be carried from the transport planes to buses. They quietly entered the prison under their own power at dawn, and the security devices were removed after they were put in individual cells.

One man who was unconscious on arrival was taken to Horton Memorial Hospital in Middletown, N.Y. A hospital spokesman said the man was in fair condition, suffering from dehydration and convulsions — both perhaps linked to not eating.

Another man remained hospitalized in Washington, but no information was available on his condition.

Quinlan said the men would be detained for one to three weeks. He said deportation hearings will be held in the two cellblocks housing the Iranians, but added he did not know when they might begin.

"But any of them can be released at any time if they're legally in the United States and would just give us their real names," he said.

White House unveils second Libyan cable

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House made public Saturday another State Department cable from the U.S. Embassy in Libya on a visit by Billy Carter to the North African nation.

The two-sentence, unclassified message merely reports that the president's brother arrived in Libya for a Sept. 1, 1979 parade. He also had visited Libya a year earlier.

Also released were copies of two confidential letters from William L. Eagleton Jr., the charge d'affaires at the U.S. Embassy in Tripoli, to the State Department reporting on Billy Carter's "low profile" behavior.

The 1979 visit was the younger Carter's second trip to Libya. Seven cables about his first trip, in 1978, were made public on Thursday.

On Friday night, the White House disclosed that the president had sent one of the cables about the 1978 trip to his brother.

The timing of that disclosure guaranteed minimum immediate exposure, since it came shortly before 9 p.m., well after network news shows and past the early deadlines for many Saturday morning newspapers.

On the cable mailed to Billy, the president had penned the note: "You did a good job under the 'dry' circumstances. Jimmy."

One of the letters made public on Saturday stated that the president's brother, known for his beer-drinking before undergoing treatment for alcoholism, was "strictly on the wagon and in good physical form" while in Libya, which bans alcohol.

The cable made public on Saturday, from Eagleton to then-Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance on Aug. 31, 1979, stated:

"Billy Carter and party flew direct from Rome to Benghazi where they have reportedly visited university etc. Do not know whether they will be coming to Tripoli after Sept. 1 parade in Benghazi."

In one letter, written Aug. 29, the charge d'affaires told W. Alan Roy, the State Department desk officer for Libya, that the Libyans wanted to delay Billy Carter's arrival because hotel space was short. Eagleton said he hoped this effort to delay the visit did not signal that the Libyan leader, Col. Moammar Khadafy, "has something particularly bitter for the U.S. that he did not want to deliver before the president's brother."

A subsequent letter on Sept. 12 said that Billy Carter "has been so low profiled that I have not felt it necessary to report anything by telegram."

"We had Billy, Sybil, and Buddy over for a private swim-lunch on September 7," the letter states. Sybil is Billy Carter's wife, and Buddy is their son.

White House press secretary Jody Powell, who distributed the documents, said that "essentially all of the communications" between the U.S. embassy in Tripoli and the State Department concerning Billy Carter's two visits to Libya had now been made public, "to the best of our knowledge."

He said that the White House sought and won permission from the State Department to release the classified letters.

The press secretary said he did not know whether Billy Carter had been shown the 1979 messages, but that nothing in White House files suggested that he had seen them.

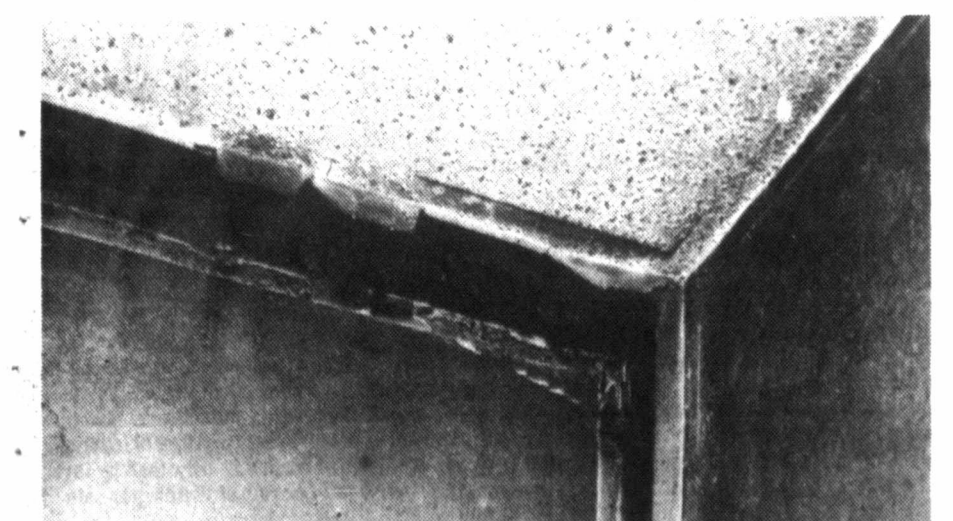

He also said that one other document — a note from Zbigniew Brzezinski, Carter's national security adviser, to Vance — had been discovered.

The note made clear, Powell said, that Billy Carter's 1979 trip "as was the case with the first one, was entirely private and non-official and should be handled in that manner."

TELL-TALE TRAIL OF ARSON. The above scene from the kitchen at 209 S. Nelson shows the line formed by the flames caused by an incendiary. Fire Department Captain K. N. Kirby said. The linoleum floor is charred and bubbled where some flammable substance was poured on it before the fire Saturday morning which destroyed the unoccupied dwelling. Below, this detail of a bedroom wall shows where it was blown about four inches from the frame of the house in the explosion which fire officials say occurred in connection with the fire.

Iranian crisis enters critical stage

By CHARLES HANLEY
Associated Press Writer

The Iran hostage impasse, nine months old this week, is again entering a critical stage.

The shah is dead. The Iranian revolution is under pressure to prove itself. The United States is approaching a presidential election.

This week or next, when the Moslem fasting month of Ramadan ends, the Iranian Parliament and President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr may finally agree on a choice for prime minister. Carter administration officials say they are looking forward to the installation of this new government, since it may revive the kind of serious backstage negotiating that has not gone on for months.

What kind of solution can be worked out?

The elements of one have been in play for months — a United Nations investigation, an effort by the Iranians to seize deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's wealth, a "trial" for the 52 hostages.

Last week, the young radicals holding the Americans dismissed the ex-shah's death as unimportant. Released hostage Richard Queen told an interviewer his captors never seemed to believe they could actually obtain Pahlavi's extradition to Iran — their central demand.

But some Iranian officials acknowledge that the exiled monarch's death does indeed change the equation. It will help cool the fiery rhetoric in Iran and ease Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's fears about Pahlavi-inspired plots against his revolutionary regime.

The right-wing Islamic revolutionaries, in fact, show signs that they are becoming even more worried about possible subversion from the Iranian left and from the Soviet Union.

Government pronouncements warn of Soviet "espionage." A ban on "non-Islamic" groups has been proposed in Parliament — a clear attack on the Marxist Fedayeen organization and the liberal-left National Front. The Moslem clergy is debating keeping the universities closed this fall to complete a purge of leftist faculty.

In a letter read before the Iranian Parliament last week, 187 U.S. congressmen capitalized on these fears, telling the Iranians they should patch up relations with the U.S. as quickly as possible because of threats of "aggression by hegemonist and expansionist forces."

Eighteen months after the revolution, the Iranian leadership is under great pressure to put together a permanent government, one that can do something about massive unemployment, inflation, shortages of consumer goods and stubborn rebellions in the provinces.

The formation of a new government entails some hazards for the U.S.

For one thing, Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, long the main contact in efforts to resolve the crisis, will no longer be foreign minister. For another, Bani-Sadr, another relatively conciliatory voice, may be pushed into the background.

But the Parliament's confirmation of a prime minister and Cabinet will present the Carter administration with negotiating partners who at least can bargain in with some confidence, since Khomeini has given them and Parliament a clear mandate to piece together a solution to the hostage puzzle.

Spanish fears mount after explosives stolen

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Despite intensive searches, Spanish police have been unable to track down Basque separatists who stole 7½ tons of explosives and now threaten to use them unless their demands are met.

The Basque organization ETA claimed responsibility for the theft three days after it took place July 25 in the northern city of Santander, saying the material, known as Goma-2, was "necessary for the survival of any armed organization."

It added: "The use of this material and the rest of the military potential at our disposal will depend on the attitude the Spanish government adopts ... to our proposals for a cease-fire."

The proposals — amnesty for all ETA prisoners and withdrawal of national police from Spain's Basque provinces — have been refused many times before by the government.

Along with the rest of the country, police now seem destined to wait until the separatists decide to strike.

"It's a time bomb, or hundreds of time bombs," said a Red Cross official whose organization prepared evacuation plans for the northern Basque city of Bilbao shortly after the robbery.

Although the robbery by ETA commandos was in northern Spain, it has had nationwide impact.

In Madrid, police backed up traffic for miles, searching cars and trucks entering or leaving the city, apparently acting on the chance that the capital was to be ETA's prime target.

Premier Adolfo Suarez conferred with top defense officials, then offered a reward of nearly $300,000 for information leading to the recovery of the Goma-2, which is a combination of nitroglycerin and ammonium nitrate.

With ETA's record for guerrilla-style attacks and 50 political assassinations so far this year, its threat has been taken seriously all over Spain.

Newspaper headlines warned of possible catastrophe, noting that the Santander explosives loot was 230 times the amount ETA used in 1973 to kill Premier Luis Carrero Blanco by blowing his car six stories into the air.

The separatist organization, whose initials stand, in the Basque language, for Basque Homeland and Liberty, has been battling Madrid governments for 15 years. Its members seem more militant than ever since the central government gave Basques home rule early this year.

Nation's governors favor tax cut

DENVER (AP) — An overwhelming majority of the governors responding to an Associated Press survey on the eve of their annual convention say they favor a tax cut to spur the economy despite persistent inflation.

Of the 28 governors answering the survey, 20 said they favor tax relief, while only six opposed it. Two completely sidestepped the volatile political issue. Their national conference opens here Sunday.

Gov. James Thompson of Illinois, a Republican, said the kind of major tax cut proposed in the new GOP platform is "one of the best answers" to improving the nation's economy.

"It would be helpful overall and to the economy of the state," said Republican Gov. Robert Ray of Iowa. "The problem (in the past) has been the inflationary aspect, but traditionally they (tax cuts) have helped the economy move forward, and that's what's needed now."

But Gov. Brendan Byrne of New Jersey, a Democrat, sharply disagreed, saying a tax cut "at this especially critical and sensitive time in the American economy would be counterproductive."

Among those favoring a tax cut, 15 were Republicans standing by their party platform's call for a major reduction in taxes in 1981. They were joined by five Democrats, although many from both parties attached reservations to their endorsements.

All six who opposed the tax-cut approach to economic recovery were Democrats.

The Republican platform calls for a major revision of federal tax rates, and GOP presidential nominee Ronald Reagan is proposing a $36 billion tax cut for next year. Reagan wants cuts totaling $90 billion over three years, starting with a 10 percent reduction in 1981.

Spurred by Congressional Democrats and political pressures created by the Republican plan, the Carter administration is working on a tax cut which is expected to be in the $25 billion to $35 billion range.

Gov. Jay Hammond of Alaska, a Republican, was among those surveyed who had reservations, saying a cut could stimulate the economy, but unless it is linked with a reduction in government spending it could prove harmful by "fanning the fires of inflation."

Gov. Bob Graham of Florida would say only that he favors a balanced budget, and Gov. Dixie Lee Ray of Washington said "I've got problems of my own."

Truman twice considered nuclear war threat

HOUSTON (AP) — President Harry S. Truman twice considered using the threat of nuclear war against China and the Soviet Union, the Houston Chronicle said Sunday in a copyright story.

Francis L. Loewenheim, Rice University historian, said Truman considered the threats as a means of ending the Korean war and made them in his own handwriting in an intermittent journal he kept while in the White House from April 1945 to January 1953.

Loewenheim wrote that the memoranda included scathing denunciations of the Communist regimes but Truman apparently intended his writings for his eyes only.

"Truman's hot temper was well known in his lifetime, and likewise cannot be discounted as a factor in his writing as he did ... for his own eyes," Loewenheim wrote.

"His outpouring, in that sense, it might be argued, was a kind of catharsis. His feelings somewhat relieved, the president would try again, together with imperturbably patient men like Secretary (Dean) Acheson, to bring about some kind of honorable, lasting peace in Korea."

Loewenheim said the memoranda were retained in Truman's highly personal records in his own wing of the Truman Library at Independence, Mo., until some years after his death in 1972.

The Chronicle story, published Sunday, quoted from documents dated Jan. 27 and May 18, 1952.

The Jan. 27 memo read, in part:

"It seems to me that the proper approach now would be an ultimatum with a ten day expiration limit, informing Moscow that we intend to blockade the China coast from the Korean border to Indo-China, and that we intend to destroy every military base in Manchuria, including submarine bases, by means now in our control — and if there is further interference we shall eliminate any ports or cities necessary to accomplish our peaceful purposes."

The document said Russia had broken every agreement made at Tehran, Yalta and Potsdam, had raped Poland, Romania, "Czecho-Slovakia," Hungary, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, was holding prisoners of war contrary to cease-fire terms and had kidnapped children in every country occupied.

The document continued:

"This program is evidently a continuing one. It must stop and stop now. We of the free world have suffered long enough."

"Get the Chinamen out of Korea. Give Poland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Rumania and Hungary their freedom."

"Stop supplying war materials to the thugs who are attacking the world and settle down to an honorable policy of keeping agreements which have already been made."

"This means all out war. It means that Moscow, St. Petersburg, Mukden, Vladivostok, Peking, Shanghai, Port Arthur, Dairen, Odessa, Stalingrad and every manufacturing plant in China and the Soviet Union will be eliminated."

"This is the final chance for the Soviet Government to decide whether it desires to survive or not."

The May 18, 1952, document began with "The conferences on the Korean Armistice are propaganda sounding boards for the Commies."

It repeated the earlier charges about holding World War II prisoners of war and then continued:

"How many South Korean and Allied prisoners have you shot without cause. You claim you hold only 12,000 prisoners. Where are the other thousands of civilians and soldiers you carried off from South Korea."

"If you signed an agreement it wouldn't be worth the paper it is written on."

"You've broken every agreement you made at Tehran Yalta and Potsdam. You have no morals no honor. Your whole program at this conference has been based on lies and propaganda."

"Now do you want to end the hostilities in Korea or do you want China and Siberia destroyed. You may have one or the other which ever you want. These lies of yours at this conference have gone far enough. You either accept our fair and just proposal or you will be completely destroyed."

"Read Confucius to them. Read Buddha's code to them. Read the Declaration of Independence to them."

Read the French declaration Liberty & Fraternity. Read the Bill of Rights to them. Read the 5th, 6th & 7th Chapters of St. Mathew to them. Read St. Johns prophecy on Anti-Christ and have your own interpreter do it.

"You've enough real truth here to last you a month. Be sure the world press is briefed on every meeting where you follow these instructions."

Unlike the Jan. 27 document, the May 18 document was signed "The C. in C."

Correspondent expelled by Bolivian regime

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Harold Olmos, The Associated Press correspondent in La Paz, was expelled Saturday by Bolivia's new military regime, which gave unspecified "political reasons" for its action.

Olmos, 35, a Bolivian citizen and veteran AP reporter, apparently had been sought by paramilitary agents since a July 17 coup toppled President Lidia Gueiler.

Armed men, who wore civilian clothes and drove unlicensed jeeps, reportedly visited The Associated Press bureau in the Bolivian capital and asked for him.

Olmos surrendered his passport to Information Minister Fernando Palacios Thursday and applied for an exit visa.

The minister assured Olmos the government had nothing against him, but the passport was returned on Friday with a warning that he must leave the country within 24 hours.

One page of the passport carried a large red stamp with the words: "Expelled for political reasons."

A number of Bolivian journalists are among more than 1,000 persons believed arrested by Gen. Luis Garcia Meza's government.

Juan Leon, an AP stringer arrested in the presidential palace during the coup, remained under detention.

Kennedy delegates say Carter not playing fair

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Edward Kennedy's Texas delegates, denying charges that they don't want to play by party rules, Saturday charged the Carter camp with not playing fair.

The rules in question will be among the first things decided at the Democratic national convention in New York next week. The Carter camp, having collected an overwhelming number of delegates in the primaries, wants those delegates bound to whom they are pledged.

Kennedy's last chance for the nomination is an open convention.

Most of Kennedy's 37 Texas delegates were on hand in a small, crowded hotel meeting room for Saturday's strategy session.

Billie Carr of Houston, a member of the Democratic National Committee, said the party previously has decided conventions should be open, with delegates free to vote their conscience.

"We elect people because we trust them and want them there to represent us," she said.

"If Carter was sure of himself he'd release the delegates. If he was smart he'd release the delegates," she said.

She predicted a "massacre" if Carter is nominated by delegates not given a chance to change their minds.

"I used to say it would be suicide, now I decided it would be an out-and-out massacre," she said. "Some of our candidates for Senate, Congress and local races are going to go over that cliff with him."

The convention call includes binding the delegates to their candidates. However, the delegates will decide the actual convention rules. Ms. Carr said the Kennedy forces want to delay the rules vote to allow them to politick with the delegates.

She said the Kennedy camp is willing to barter with some of its 18 minority reports.

"We would give up some of those if they move the rules vote to Tuesday (instead of Monday). Of course, it won't be the ones they want us to give up," she said.

Lane Denton of Waco reported on the meeting of the party's national rules committee. He charged the Carter camp with not playing fair.

"If you maintain that rule, what is the purpose of the convention?" he asked, suggesting "just some computer telephone so you can save a couple of hundred dollars" instead of going to New York.

Denton also said said delegates should be allowed to switch if they find out their candidate is a "triple ax-murderer."

Marie Guillory of Houston, also a member of the rules committee, said the rule would allow candidates to remove from the floor any of their delegates who switch their allegiance.

Ms. Guillory also complained requiring a delegate to vote as pledged dilutes the power of women at the convention — which will be 50 percent female.

"All of a sudden they let us in and we can't do anything but push a button," she said.

She said in an open convention "maybe (women) can get a vice president or a president out of it."

You are hereby notified of the opportunity for written public comment concerning the Construction Permit Application No. C-8448 by United Gas Pipe Line Company to construct a Natural Gas Compressor Station in Pampa, Roberts County, Texas. The proposed location is 19 miles northwest of Pampa, west of State Route 70. The facility proposes to emit the following air contaminants: particulates, non-methane hydrocarbons, sulfur dioxide, nitrogen oxides and carbon monoxide. Before a permit can be issued for this facility, all emission sources must demonstrate compliance with all Rules and Regulations of the Texas Air Control Board and all applicable Federal Regulations. This includes the application of "best available control technology" to each emission source and compliance with all ambient air quality standards.

A copy of all materials submitted by the applicant is available for public inspection at the Texas Air Control Board Region 2 office at 5302 South Avenue Q, Briercroft South No. 1, Lubbock, Texas 79412, and at the Texas Air Control Board, 6330 Highway 290 East, Austin, Texas 78723. All interested persons shall have until September 4, 1980 to inspect these materials, submit written comments to the Executive Director, and/or request notification of the proposed agency action. All comments received in writing by the above date shall be considered by the Board in making its decision on the application. All comments will be available for public inspection at the Texas Air Control Board office in Austin.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

OPINION PAGE

Hyde-de-do!

Every year since 1976 Congress has placed a restriction, known as the Hyde Amendment, on federal Medicare funds. That restriction severely limits the use of federal funds to pay for abortions.

After four years of haggling in the courts, the U.S. Supreme Court decided that Congress does indeed have the right to limit the expenditure of federal funds. The five-to-four decision was not an inconsiderable victory for freedom.

The decision affirmed that there is nothing in the U.S. Constitution or federal law that prohibits Congress from cutting off federal funding of abortions. The justices emphasized they were not ruling out abortion as an option, but only deciding if Congress has the right to prevent tax dollars from paying for the controversial practice. The justices ruled that elected representatives and not the judiciary should make that decision. How refreshing.

Tax support for abortion is no trivial matter. Before the Hyde Amendment the federal government was paying 300,000 abortions per year. In California, whose program could be affected by the decision, 34 million tax dollars went to pay for 98,700 abortions in the fiscal year that just ended.

But the major issue in Congress was not the expense. Congress decided that it is not right to force some people who believe the practice totally immoral to pay for an abortion. The majority of both houses of Congress made this decision only to be confronted with so-called civil liberties organizations who claim Congress has no right to decide where tax money will go.

They claimed the Hyde Amendment - named after Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., who first authored the provision in 1976 - is a violation of the equal protection clause of the Constitution. The argument, as the court decided, is absurd.

Because something is legal does not mean the federal government must therefore provide tax dollars so that poor people can participate. If "pro-choice" groups are so convinced that abortion should be available to the poor, they should raise the money and help the poor pay for those abortions.

At $150 - the going rate for this relatively simple operation - feminist organizations could easily raise the money if they put in only half the time they dedicate to purely political endeavors. These groups might even be able to convince doctors to volunteer, bringing the price down even more.

But what they can't do is force others, through taxation, to pay for something widely held to be immoral.

Already cries of anguish have been heard throughout the land. The decision was not about abortion, no matter what pro-abortionists say; it simply confirmed the right of Congress to spend tax dollars, or withhold tax dollars.

Any other decision would have given the courts the right to mandate spending. That would have butchered the principle on which the American Revolution was based.

Taxation is itself little more than legalized theft. Taxation without representation, as our forefathers so correctly stated, is tyranny. The court decision was a blow against tyranny.

The water rises

He was down. Way down. Things just haven't been fitting together. "And you know," he said, "if I had had a gun day before yesterday, I'd have blown my brains out."

He wasn't kidding. A voice track would have shown deep emotion, strain, stress, depression, dejection. It would have been a red signal for someone to take this young man by the hand and try to give him a lift.

He was urged to talk.

Well, things in general, he said. The wife's health. The kids. The hot weather. The hot weather. They had this little air conditioner, but it wouldn't cool off even one room. And when you are hot, you can't sleep.

"And then I went to the store and bought a few things," he said. "Just a few things," he repeated, his voice rising. "I didn't even have two bags full and I had $18 in my pocket. All we had. And you know, I had to put half that stuff back! It was humiliating."

He is still a young man, and he has youth on his side. There are some other things, however, that are not on his side. There are some other things, however, that are not on his side. Poor eyesight. Very poor eyesight. He can handle few jobs and he is on one of them. Meantime, inflation has just about knocked him for a loop.

This man's story is true, and it is typical of so many other people. Their earnings are being eroded so fast that they feel the smothering waters of inflation rising steadily around them. They go from day to day right on the border of hysteria.

Meantime, up in Washington, the Office of Management and Budget has come up with an intriguing figure: it cost $130,000,000,000 (130 BILLION dollars) a year for federal regulation.

You can't imagine that, of course. Nobody can. Man's mind is too finite. It simply cannot be done.

You can only comprehend those things you can relate to. Like the fact that every year Duke University spends $500 PER STUDENT just to respond to federal regulation and red tape.

You might wonder why you can't get an ice cream cone anymore for a nickel or even a dime. A quarter?

We are being regulated right out of our pants. And the little fellow who had to put back half of his groceries is looking directly into a dead-end tunnel.

It was a publicist's dream

By Robert J. Wagman
DETROIT (NEA) - Is there a publicist anywhere worth his or her salt who does not lie awake nights dreaming of having 8,000 journalists as a captive audience? Those dreams came true for many of them at the recent Republican Convention.

An army of journalists was stuck in an unfamiliar city to cover a relatively uneventful convention. Into this news void stepped an army of publicists seeking the rewards of newspaper copy and television airtime.

Since it was a political convention, virtually every group espousing some social cause sent its flak. Pro-ERA and anti-ERA, Gay Vote '80 and The American Family Movement, Irish National Caucus and Croatian Independence League, all were anxious to tell their story to any interested journalist.

There were representatives of serious candidates like Independent John Anderson and Barry Commoner of the Citizens Party. There were also representatives of some not-so-serious candidates.

Campaign materials were handed out by a professed supporter of Mark Twain for vice president. He was actually an actor named William McLinn who makes his living portraying Twain in one-man shows. And a full-blown "Betty Boop for President" effort featured bumper stickers, campaign buttons and a small marching band that was always turning up at downtown hotel lobbies.

The most industrious publicists during convention week were those promoting clients who have little or nothing to do with politics.

Of course, it was only natural that Detroit's automobile companies were on hand to bemoan their financial plight and push their new models. Both Ford and Chrysler made prototypes of their 1981 cars available for inspection and test drives. General Motors was only too happy to send a bus by a reporter's hotel to take him or her on a tour of an assembly plant or a test facility. GM even went Ford and Chrysler one better by throwing in a free lunch.

Carl Boyer and Associates, a major public-relations firm, opened a big media reception center in Cobo Hall adjoining Joe Louis Arena. There a reporter could obtain free pizza, beer, soft drinks - and more information than he or she could even want about any number of local Boyer clients.

Among them were the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority and its new buses (delegates were carried around in them), the University of Detroit and the new Urban Rail Transportation System planned for the city. The firm would also arrange for a member of the local Junior League to take any interested journalist on a guided tour "to see where Detroit's people live and work."

The ranks of the convention's busiest publicists included those working for the news media itself. Every day the networks put out dozens of press releases crowing about the scoops they had scored. Minutes after a reporter for ABC, CBS or NBC got a good quote, releases were delivered to all newspapers and wire service in the hope that they would use the quote and, of course, credit the network.

But the publicity campaign that generated the most talk around the convention was run by 20th Century-Fox for the forthcoming comedy film, "Middle Age Crazy." Correctly assuming that many in the news media are middle-aged and were by mid-week going a little crazy, the studio orchestrated a publicity campaign using attractive young women, a gag newspaper and the theme "The Republican Convention Is Middle-Age Crazy."

Perhaps THE story of the convention was the so-called Great CBS Tub Problem.

It seems that CBS reserved one of the two "presidential suites at the Pontchartrain, the luxury hotel nearest the convention site, for its chairman, William Paley. To the network's shock, the $350-a-night suite turned out to have no bathtub, only a shower stall. And Paley apparently likes to soak in the tub.

The other presidential suite in the hotel was occupied by Dick Tuck, a well-known political prankster. Tuck was quick to respond when CBS asked if he would switch suites. He would not move, he said, but Paley was welcome to use his tub. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Little old ladies carry on for U.S.

by ART BUCHWALD

PARIS - What happened to all the little old ladies in tennis shoes? I am happy to report that they are alive and well and most of them are on package tours in Europe.

Because traveling abroad has become so expensive, you do not see many Americans on the Continent any more.

Occasionally, a bearded kid with an American flag on the seat of his pants may walk by your cafe table, but it isn't like the old days when there wasn't a corner of Europe that didn't have a "U.S. Go Home" sign.

If it weren't for the little old ladies in tennis shoes, no one would be aware that the United States still exists, and it makes any red-blooded American's chest swell with pride when he sees a battalion of them marching down the Champs Elysees. Piccadilly or the Via Veneto, to the tune of "Colonel Bogie's March."

Make no mistake about it, the little old ladies in tennis shoes still strike terror in the hearts of every tour director in Europe.

Most of the ladies are veterans of previous overseas tours, experienced in hand-to-hand combat at flea markets, versed in the skills of fierce haggling in souvenir shops, trained to assault churches and museums, and prepared for sneak attacks on any American Express branch in the country. The cemeteries of Great Britain, France, Italy, the Benelux and Scandinavian countries are dotted with graves of tour guides who expired trying to keep up the pace set by these indomitable souls. At airports all over Europe you see fresh young guides barely out of college, wearing their tour uniforms, waiting nervously for their group to jump off the plane and encircle the city. Screaming "We take no prisoners," the little old ladies, carrying their duty-free shopping bags from the previous airport, climb aboard their buses determined not to miss one single thing included in the price of the tour.

No mountain is too high for them to climb, no fjord is too wide for them to cross. Heaven help the guide who forgets to stop for tea in Zermatt (included in the package) or leaves out a church in Montmartre. Let a waiter skip a salad course in Salzburg or a cheese plate in Brussels, and he'll get a karate chop he'll remember for the rest of his life.

In the last 30 years, Europeans have seen their countries invaded by American, Japanese and now Arab tourists. But none of them has ever shown the strength, the moral fiber or the staying power of the little old ladies in tennis shoes. Why do they do it? When most Europeans have lost interest in tourists, when waiters and concierges and shopkeepers have become more surly, when most things are cheaper in the States, why do the ladies keep traveling abroad?

The answer came from a little old lady sitting next to me at Fouquet's. "Someone has to carry on," she said simply.

"The young people can't do it because they don't have the money; the middle-aged people can't do it because they don't have the stamina. If it weren't for us little old ladies in tennis shoes, no one would remember what an American looks like. We've all taken a vow that as long as we can climb the steps of the Piazza di Spagna in Rome, or wade on the beaches of Monte Carlo, we will see that the sun never sets on an American tourist. Besides, I promised my grandson a sword from Toledo."

I almost broke into tears. Twenty years ago, the American traveler ruled Europe from Gibraltar to Helsinki. Our traveler's checks were coveted from Dublin to Istanbul. There wasn't an arcade in Venice or a bazaar in Athens that didn't have a sign, "English Spoken Here." Those were the golden days for Americans, and we may never see them again.

So, let's hear it for the little old ladies in tennis shoes. God bless them for showing the Flag in the Old World. As long as they have the money and the time and the grandchildren, the spirit of American tourism will never die.

Profile of courage

By Anthony Harrigan

BOULDER, Colo. - The other day, a good friend of mine was allowed to speak to his mother - on the telephone - for the first time in 41 years.

My friend is Edward Rozek, professor of political science at the University of Colorado, much-decorated tank officer in World War II and courageous defender of academic freedom.

Edward Rozek was born in Poland. When he was in his teens, the Soviets moved into Eastern Poland and seized his father. His father was never heard of again, one of the countless victims of Soviet communism. Later, Edward escaped to the West, after incarceration in a Nazi concentration camp. He has had a distinguished career as a political scientist since his graduation from Harvard in the same class with Henry Kissinger.

The telephone call followed an announcement in The New York Times and Washington Post that he had been named as one of Gov. Ronald Reagan's advisors on defense and foreign policy. Within days, the Polish authorities told Dr. Rozek's 83 year old mother that she could have a telephone - a request that had always been denied in the past. Dr. Rozek is unable to return to Poland for a visit because he is on the communist government's blacklist, as he is an outspoken and active foe of communism.

This incident not only shows the heartlessness of the communist regime, which deliberately separates mother and son, but its zealotry in following the activities of anti-communists in the United States. Alert to Dr. Rozek's new importance, they acted swiftly to gain advantage.

Dr. Rozek is only one of many Americans, born abroad, who have added so much to the life of the United States. A book should be written about the European-born scholars who have inspired a generation of students with their understanding of history and their dedication to Western ideals that Soviet totalitarianism attempts to destroy.

Dr. Rozek long has been one of the most respected and admired professors at the University of Colorado. Earlier this year, he was nominated by the Student Alumni Association for a Teacher Recognition Award for his enthusiastic and effective teaching.

More recently, Dr. Rozek's many friends in Colorado urged him to seek nomination and election as a member of the University of Colorado Board of Regents. Colorado is one of the few states where the voters choose the people who direct their higher education system. While one can't predict what the voters will do, Dr. Rozek is well-known in the state for his dedication to freedom and high educational standards.

Dr. Rozek's life and career have spanned two continents and several eras. The country is fortunate that in early adulthood he made a total commitment to his new homeland. Courage and dedication are the hallmarks of his career.

BILLY CARTER
PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Billy Carter gets in trouble "because he says exactly what he thinks," according to his wife, Sybil.
 Mrs. Carter also said in an interview Friday on NBC's Today Show that she was appalled that a Justice Department investigator called her husband a liar.
 Justice Department investigator Joel Lisker said this week that the president's brother lied when he said on Jan. 16 that he had not received money from the Libyan government. Billy Carter acknowledged on July 14, when he registered as a foreign agent under Justice Department pressure, that he had received $20,000 as a loan from the Libyan government.

Carter's ties with the Libyans, and his dealings with the White House in the matter, are the subject of investigations by congressional committees and the Justice Department.
HUEY P. NEWTON
OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Black Panther leader Huey P. Newton has been put on probation for 12 months and has been fined $350 on a drunk driving conviction.

Newton, who pleaded no contest to the charge last month, was not in the courtroom Thursday when Oakland Municipal Court Judge Clifford Bachand announced his sentence.
 Newton's attorney, Jeff Tauber, paid the fine.
 Oakland police arrested Newton May 6 and said they saw the car he was driving weave from lane to lane on a city street.

Newton's conviction on an unrelated felony weapons charge was upheld this week by the California Court of Appeal. Two recent trials, in which Newton was charged with the 1974 murder of a prostitute, ended in hung juries.

JOHN PHILLIPS
NEW YORK (AP) — Former folk-rock star John Phillips will plead innocent to charges that he illegally distributed drugs in cooperation with two Manhattan pharmacists, his lawyer says.
 Phillips, a composer and lead singer of the Mama and the Papas, a group popular in the 1960s, was arrested Thursday night at his Long Island vacation home in Southampton.

At Phillips' arraignment Friday, his attorney, John Patten, told U.S. Magistrate Ruth V. Washington that his client planned to enter a plea of innocent to the charges.

Phillips, 44, was released after he pledged to put up $5,000 cash by Monday to secure a $50,000 bail bond.

One of Phillips' daughters, actress Mackenzie Phillips, 20, recently spent six months in a drug-rehabilitation program.

MOTHER THERESA
PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Mother Theresa, the nun who won the Nobel Peace Prize last year, has been awarded Haiti's Legion of Honor in recognition of her work with the poor.

The award was presented Friday by President-for-Life Jean Claude Duvalier in a ceremony at the National Palace in Port-Au-Prince, the nation's capital. Haiti is one of the poorest countries in the world.

Mother Theresa, 70, came to Haiti to visit an orphanage that is run by her order, the Mission of Mercy.

TRUCKERS GRANT WISH
BEAVER DAM, Wis. (AP) — Thirteen-year-old Curtis

Brashear, a victim of a cancerous brain tumor and partially paralyzed since suffering a stroke in May, finally got his wish — to ride in the cab of an 18-wheel semi-trailer truck.

Helped into the passenger seat of Stan Hallman's 18-wheeler, Curtis sounded the air horn and flashed a "V" for victory sign to passing trucks. "What's your handle?" Hallman asked at one point in the 60-mile drive from Curtis' rural Beaver Dam home to a truck stop in the Milwaukee suburb of Oak Creek.

"Tinkertoy," replied Curtis, who laughed as he listened to trucks' jokes on the citizens band radio network.

Two other trucks completed a convoy of three for the trip, which was arranged after Curtis' grandmother, Rebecca Shaker, wrote to the publisher of a truckers' newspaper, telling of Curtis' dream.

Judy Brashear said her son, who has been undergoing radiation treatments for more than a year, had been "excited about this all week."

SKYDIVING FIRST
TAFT, Calif. (AP) — Jim Tyler, a 32-year-old Internal Revenue Service investigator, likes to live dangerously.

Tyler is claiming a skydiving first after jumping from an airplane without a parachute, maneuvering his body through the air and linking with another man for a safe landing under a single canopy.

"What I've done today has never been done before," said an exhilarated Tyler after the successful jump late Friday afternoon. He said he had planned the feat for two years.

Tyler, a resident of La Puente, and Bill Parson, 35, of Costa Mesa, jumped from two planes flying 1,500 feet apart and 14,000 feet up. With them were two photographers and a "safety man" carrying a reserve chute.

Actors' strike halts Texas filming

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The actors strike that has stopped the cameras on the film and television industry is holding up millions of dollars in productions in Texas, according to the executive director of the Texas Film Commission.

Pat Wolfe said several movie and TV projects in the state came to a halt when the actors struck. A $17 million movie project in El Paso, starring Jack Nicholson, "had to abruptly pull the plug," she said. Filming has also stopped in Maxwell, near Austin, where Sissy Spacek was working on "Raggedy Man."

"It could mean about $52.7 million could be affected in this state if it is not resolved. About a third of that would have stayed in the state," she said.

Ms. Wolfe was interviewed on State Capitol Dateline, scheduled for aired Sunday on Wendell Hayes' radio stations.

Ms. Wolfe also said work on the television series "Dallas," with a budget of $750,000 an episode, stopped when the picket lines went up.

The Texas Film Commission, a division of the governor's office, has been successful in luring film companies out of Hollywood. Last year, on a budget of $149,000, the commission brought in $58 million for the state.

"We are making money for the state. We are one of the very few divisions of any government that can say that," Ms. Wolfe said. She predicted even more movie money for the state as film makers discover what's available in Texas.
 "We've got a lot of film related services," she said. "We've also got a variety of terrain, unlike most states."
 Three Texas-produced movies — "Honeysuckle Rose," "Roadie" and "Urban Cowboy" — are currently doing well at the box office, according to Ms. Wolfe.
 She also reported that Texas locations will be selected for future commercials filmed for Lone Star beer. A current ad campaign for the Texas brew was filmed in California.

Bitter union dispute may be nearing settlement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seventeen years ago, the giant J.P. Stevens & Co. and a union of textile workers squared off in what has become one of the longest, most bitter and most celebrated labor disputes in American history.

Today, the company and union — like two fatigued boxers — are cautiously closing in on a settlement to their battle for the allegiance of 34,000 production workers at 80 Stevens mills, most of them in the Southeast.

For the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union, the campaign has become a crusade showing labor's determination to organize the largely non-union industry in the South. For the company, it has become a symbol of employer stands against unionization.

But the legal and organizing expenses for the union and bad publicity for the company have driven both sides to seek a peaceful compromise.

Industry and labor sources confirm that the nation's No. 2 textile maker and the union have reached a verbal agreement in principle that attorneys are trying to transfer onto paper.

That process probably will take more than a month. And sources close to the talks caution that the tentative agreement is so fragile that it may yet shatter under the strain of years of hostility and suspicion.

The sources, who asked to remain unidentified, said that under the terms of the agreement:

—The company would sign its first union contract, covering 2,500 workers at seven plants in Roanoke Rapids, N.C., where the union has been bargaining for six years.

—The contract would serve as a model for plants in High Point, N.C.; Allendale, S.C., and Montgomery, Ala., where the union won the right within the past year to represent another 550 workers. The contract also would set the pattern at any other company plant where the union wins worker representation rights.

—The company would continue resisting union organization of its plants, but only through legal channels.

—In return, the union would call off its four-year-old boycott of Stevens products, abandon a partially successful campaign to isolate Stevens from the rest of the corporate community and terminate an extensive publicity drive against Stevens. The union has been calling the company the most flagrant labor law violator in American history, a charge based on 22 rulings against Stevens by the National Labor Relations Board.

—The union also would be expected to discontinue filing "nuisance" unfair labor practice complaints that the company views as harassment.

"There is no settlement, no agreement, nothing in writing, nothing imminent," Stevens spokesman James Franklin said in a telephone interview from company headquarters in New York.

Jacob Sheinkman, secretary-treasurer of the union, said in June that word of an imminent settlement was premature. "I thought we were close several times before only to see it fall apart."

The negotiations began two years ago at the highest levels.

Both sides agree that an agreement will have to carry face-saving provisions for both sides so neither can claim total victory.

Ultimately, the outcome rests with the 2,500 workers at Roanoke Rapids, who have been waiting for a contract since 1974, the union stresses.

"If we don't put together a satisfactory contract that the Roanoke Rapids workers ratify," said one union official, "we don't have a settlement."

Kennedy heating oil failed to reach needy last winter

BOSTON (AP) — Millions of gallons of low-cost heating oil obtained by Joseph P. Kennedy III failed to reach poor people in Massachusetts last winter, and now a federal agency is trying to get back about $1.5 million it provided for the project.

But state and federal officials and Kennedy himself say they are confident the snags in the first-in-the-nation program can be worked out and that the oil eventually will reach the needy.

Last year Kennedy, son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, formed the non-profit Citizens Energy Corp., which purchased crude oil from Venezuela, had it refined and sold the heating oil to the state for 47 cents a gallon. That was about half the price fuel oil dealers were charging.

Kennedy said he could charge the lower price because his company took no profit on the heating oil. He also sold other products, such as gasoline, at market prices and used the money to reduce the heating oil prices.

In February the state paid

Kennedy's corporation $3.9 million for nearly 8½ million gallons of heating oil.

But about 4 million gallons never got past state storage tanks.

That created a problem: the federal government, which allowed the state to use energy aid money to buy the oil, set a June 30 deadline for completion of deliveries. When the state missed the deadline, the U.S. Community Services Administration asked the state to return $1 million to $2 million. The amount is not precise because of disagreements over how much oil remains in storage depots.

The money hasn't been returned. The Massachusetts Law Reform Institute recently won a preliminary order from a federal judge in Boston allowing the state to hold on to the money, at least for now.

State Energy Office spokesman Larry Carpmann and Kennedy said the oil will be just as useful this winter.

"It's in storage now. We are attempting to keep it in storage until we devise a plan that will be agreeable with the federal government," Carpmann said.

State energy officials and Kennedy said the fact the heating oil did not reach the state until February contributed to the distribution problem.

They said getting the oil in the middle of the heating season made it difficult to identify the people who qualify for it and made it impossible to complete deliveries before the cold weather ended.

PHS graduate helps newspaper win award

LUBBOCK — Writing and design contributions by a 1976 Pampa High School graduate helped the daily campus newspaper at Texas Tech University win All-American honors.

Brenda Malone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Malone, 414 Sloan, was managing editor of the University Daily during the spring and fall semesters of 1979 and was news editor during the spring semester of 1980. The paper recently was awarded All-American ratings by the Associated Collegiate Press.

"Often judges don't readily accept attempts to be innovative," Miss Malone said after learning of the rating. "I'm glad the judges saw our attempts and encouraged them."

Named outstanding journalism graduate of the year by Sigma Delta Chi, The Society for Professional Journalists, Miss Malone was graduated magna cum laude by Texas Tech in May of 1980, with a degree in journalism-public relations.

Currently, Miss Malone is working on a master's degree in business administration (MBA) during Tech's second summer session. She is also employed part-time by University News and Publications at Texas Tech.

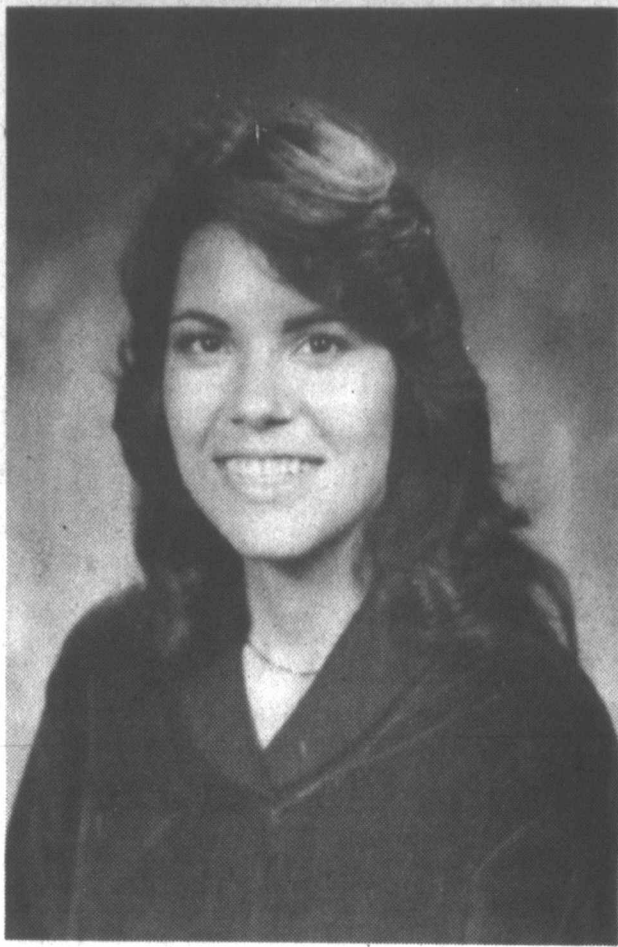

"I feel the MBA will give me a specialty field in which I can write knowingly," she said.

Interest in the field of public relations came during an internship with Southwestern Bell in Lubbock last summer. "I realized that I really enjoyed public relations more than my other journalistic jobs," she said.

As a senior at Pampa High School, Miss Malone was co-editor of the Little Harvester, a member of Quill and Scroll and was named "Who's Who in Journalism."

During her years at Tech, she was a member and held offices in the Public Relations Student Society of America, Sigma Delta Chi, Kappa Tau Alpha and Mortar Board.

She transferred to Texas Tech in 1978 from Midwestern State University in Wichita Falls.

Hospital forms own nursing pool

DALLAS (AP) — Parkland Hospital will start its own nursing pool, rather than hiring nurses through agencies, to cope with current staff shortages, hospital officials said.

Six nursing supervisors have resigned from the county-supported hospital within the past week, to protest the hospital's dropping of agency nurses as a budget-cutting measure.

The resigning nurses claimed cutting the number of agency nurses hired during a staff shortage could hinder proper patient care. About 40 staff nurses met with hospital administrators Thursday night to discuss the nurse shortage, after which officials announced the nursing pool plan.

Sarah Moody, assistant to the director of nursing, said some pool nurses could begin work by the middle of next week.

Genesis House gets grant

AUSTIN — A contract in the amount of $70,000 has been awarded to Genesis House Inc., 321 Starkweather, by the Texas Department of Community Affairs (TDCA).

The contract, according to Governor Bill Clement's office, is to provide drug abuse treatment services for the period of July 1, 1980, to June 30, 1981.

Sidney M. Wieser, executive director of TDCA, said the funding for this contract is made possible through the cooperation of the Texas Department of Community Affairs, which will administer the grant, and the National Institute on Drug Abuse, a branch of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Student earnings can affect Social Security benefits

Students receiving social security benefits need to be aware that money they earn during the summer could affect their social security checks, stated Howard L. Weatherly, manager of the Pampa social security office.

Weatherly said students may receive all benefits due them for the year if their earnings do not exceed $3,720 in 1980. If earnings go over the amount, $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 of earnings above the limit.

Earnings for the whole year must be counted in figuring the benefits due for that year. Earnings for the entire year in which a student reaches age 18 count in figuring the amount of benefits due, regardless of whether checks continue or stop at that age.

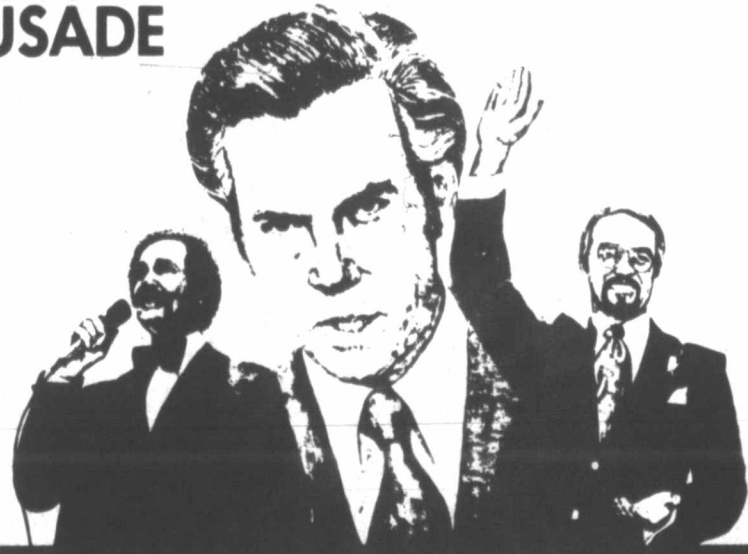

This is also true during the last year the student is a full-time student, or age 22. For example, if a student graduates in May from college at age 21, any earnings received from June through December could have an effect on any social security checks received during January through May.

If a student plans to earn more than $3,720 in 1980, they may contact the Pampa Social Security Office, located at 125 Gillespie, or call 669-3381, to report their 1980 earnings.

Hearty and nutritious.
1 1/2 cups whole wheat flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup butter
1-3rd cup honey
1 large egg
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup finely grated pared
carrot, lightly packed

Stir together the flour, baking powder, baking soda and cinnamon. In a medium-size metal mixing bowl or saucepan melt the butter; cool; add the honey, egg and lemon juice; beat until blended. Add flour mixture and the carrots; stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Fill buttered muffin-pan cups (each 1-3rd cup capacity) about 3/4 full. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 20 to 25 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 12.

A corking idea

NEW YORK (AP) — The wine's bouquet may be just as good but "the cork" will be artificial.

According to the editor of Food & Drug Packaging, a trade magazine, by the end of next year many imported table wines will come with artificial corks made of expanded polystyrene. Such cork is already gaining popularity in France, said Ben Miyares.

"The artificial cork feels like real cork and will function like natural cork, so that most people will be unable to tell the difference.

Many fabrics suitable for draperies and upholstery are also satisfactory for slipcovers. The fabric should be woven tightly enough to shed dust and hold its shape. Also be sure it is not too stretchy or heavy. The best fabric for slip-covers should be washable, color-fast and non-shrinkable. Make sure it is pre-shrunk before being cut. Before choosing the fabric, consider the place it will have in the room. Match the color, pattern and weave to the entire room using slip-cover fabric to blend or add color and interest to the room.

Add color and interest to your room with custom made draperies from us at SARA'S DRAPERIES, 1512 Alcock, 665-8284. We also custom make bed spreads, decorator table cloths and throw pillows. Our own workshop is on the premises. Hours: Mon. thru Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m., Sat. 9 a.m.-Noon.

Helpful Hint
Give shingles the appearance of being stained by using a low gloss or flat paint.

Runners advised to take it easy

NEW YORK (AP) — With more than 25 million Americans running for health and competition in 1980, Bob Glover says "moderation in running now is becoming more important than the motivation to get people to run." The physical fitness consultant and advisor to the annual 6.2 mile L'eggs Mini Marathon suggests the following guidelines.

BEGINNERS: Start slowly and with enthusiasm. That's the way to keep from becoming a frustrated dropout. Start by walking, then gradually add running breaks, until you can run 30 minutes comfortably. After two to four months you should be ready to increase your distance. Take at least two days off from running per week.

NOVICE RACERS: With a base of 10 to 15 miles per week, you can start thinking about your first race. But pick a safe distance — 10,000 meters (6.2 miles) or less. Gradually build up your total weekly mileage to run two or three times your planned race distance.

MARK PARKER AND TERRISOBER

Terri Sober, Parker to wed in September

Mr. and Mrs. L.A. Sober, 1113 Darby, announce the engagement of their daughter, Terri Lynn, to Mark Alan Parker. Parker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Parker of Midkiff. The couple will be wed Sept. 27 in the Barrett Baptist Church in Pampa. The bride-elect is a 1979 graduate of Pampa High School. She is employed by the Hobby Shop of Pampa, Inc. The prospective bridegroom, a 1975 graduate of Rankin High School in Rankin, is employed by Champion Chemicals in Odessa.

PEEKING at PAMPA

Oops! Got to check better on things I report. My sincere apologies to anyone whose news I've scrambled. Especially to Jean Duncan. Said she was dining out with her mother when it was her sister, so a scout tells me. Jean lost her mother some time ago, but the sister looks so much like her mother that the resemblance is notable.

And please remember that I was gone for a period of years — and sometimes things look the way they were when I left, not exactly as they are now. But I've got scouts keeping me on the track henceforth, I promise. And it is items in this column offend any of you, forgive, huh? Just want to be friendly, passing on news from one friend to another, always striving to be sincerely neighborly. Am mighty grateful that you are reading this column — thanks!

Reports say that on a weekend in June, the Pampa High School class of 1950 held their first reunion — and they say a super time was had by the 77 classmates plus several former teachers who attended the festivities. They came from Georgia, California, Colorado, Kansas, Indiana and Texas.

Heard their Big Day consisted of a Saturday morning coffee in the annex of the First Baptist Church, a noon picnic in Central Park and an evening dinner of barbecue. After that, they continued to visit until midnight, many of them enjoying the Pampa Club together.

For the banquet that night, Beverly Hauss of Santa Clara,

California, made name tags and attached a picture of each member that appeared in the high school annual of 1950, thus letting everybody recognize everybody else. Very thoughtful!

Heard that Pampa class members who made the preparations included Beulah Cox, Dorothy Barrett, Peggy Reeve, Betty Brown, Elise Sailor, Sonora Lewis, Doris Robbins, Ann Cambell — and perhaps others whose names I didn't get. All present recommended class reunions to every class everywhere!

News keeps coming in about the Tri-State Senior Golf Tournament a week ago. Hear nobody has more fun than the over-55 boys and their wives. And Pampa gives them the best time of anywhere, they say.

Praised our Chamber of Commerce highly. Seems Floyd Sackett and wife, Janice, (she served up the goodies single-handedly at the reception Sunday night — plenty of dips and chips for the whole crowd) and the smiling, personable Gold Coats welcomed the visitors heartily.

Many of these golfers were former entertainers and put on a fine show. I hear, Wonnola Battle from Austin and "Andy" Anderson from Wichita Falls played piano-organ duets that would do credit to any stage. "Hoppy" Hopkins from San Antonio hopped up at every opportunity to say a few words that lengthened into witty speeches. Many others joined the impromptu show.

Warren Hasse was inimitable as master of ceremonies on Wednesday night. I understand. Seems his gift of speaking, his humor, his smile, his ability to delight an audience made him a great success, and the crowd loved him. We're lucky to have a man of Warren's warmth and charm among us, I'd say.

The women's activities were co-hosted by Renie Price and Dorothy Neslage. Dorothy introduced Kathryn Steele, one of Pampa's most enjoyable speakers, always sure to give a program of humor, at the annual luncheon. Kathryn presented excerpts from two of Erma Bombeck's books and brought down the house. Also, the numbers given out by the Pampa merchants were a splendid idea and a huge success. Seems the ladies ran all over town, seeking and finding lovely gifts.

Greatest honor of the tournament is always the Colonel Bogey Award, given annually to the outstanding man in the association. This year's recipient was Fred Neslage, who has worked untriflingly for the senior golfers for years. Surprised Fred, they say — so much so that he was almost speechless.

Anybody in Pampa able to distinguish between Eva (Mrs. Tom) Kitchens and Ava (Mrs. Hart) Warren? Somebody said you have to see them with their husbands to tell them apart. Real look-alikes, these personable twins.

Many summer visitors here, keep popping up all the time. Pauline and George Quible entertained their three young grandsons for a time. Heard she said the two older ones were into sports and the little one was into everything.

Good to see so many sick ones recovered at last. Saw Dick Wight a couple of weeks ago. Had a close call but made it fine. A twosome who seems to have weathered their illnesses well are Goldie and Aubrey Sprawls, now spry and smiling as ever.

Anybody want to vote on who's got the cutest freckles in town? Think I'll vote for Peggy Kindle. Freckles match her happy, snappy disposition. And for pure enjoyment of life, think I'll nominate attractive Marian Stroud. Hear she and husband, Jack, had one of the most beautiful and bountiful Christmas parties in town last year. Guests said their house was decorated magnificently. Anybody wanting to equal it this year had better start planning! Take care... Pam.

Chop carver has roster of impressive clients

By WILLIE MA

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — In Taiwan a man cannot get married, divorced, buy a house, borrow money — in fact, do just about anything — without his "chop," or personal seal.

Chop carving — the engraving of intricate Chinese characters on fine stone, ivory or jade — is an art in itself.

Take Wang-wang Sun. In his 53 years as a master chop carver, Wang estimates he has engraved 170,000 animated Chinese characters and cut more than 30,000 chops for government officials and dignitaries.

The balding, sharp-eyed Wang, 77, however, says he carves "only for the best." Past clients, he boasts, include President Chiang Kai-shek and Vice President Shieh Tung-ming, among others.

Prices can be high, as much as 100,000 Taiwan dollars (almost $2,300 U.S.) for a single seal. But Wang, in an interview, said it's not really the money that counts.

Wang, proud of being a fussy worker, says he has done some chops for free, but once turned down an offer of $13,000 to do a chop because he didn't like the sound of the man's name.

"I have three conditions for doing a chop," he said. "I must like the person I'm doing it for. The name must be a good one, and the quality of the stone must be high."

Everyone, from the president down to the humblest noodle vendor, owns at least one seal. Many own more than one, and each has a specific purpose.

Size, shape and material cover a wide range. Popular designs are chops designed as chickens, tree roots or bamboo, but always flattened on the bottom so that the owner can apply the device to vermilion ink that leaves an imprint of the person's name.

Since chops have the same legal validity as signatures, they are closely guarded and highly prized possessions. The custom originated in China thousands of years ago and is now practiced in many Asian countries.

TRANSPORTATION SERVICE FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

A community transportation service for Pampa senior citizens unable to provide their own means of transportation will begin Aug. 5. Local churches will provide the vans, gasoline and transportation. The free service will be offered on Tuesdays. The van service will pick up passengers and deliver them throughout Pampa, as needed.

The Gray County Committee on Aging planned and organized the service to benefit senior citizens unable to get out of their homes. Cindy Kelly will coordinate route schedules and volunteers. To sign up for the free transportation service, call 669-2211.

CANNING PEACHES

It is peach season again. Do you have a surplus or can you purchase them at a reasonable price? You can have them any time of the year by canning them. Here is how:

Wash and peel them just as you would prepare them to be eaten fresh, or plunge them in boiling water for two minutes or until the skins slip. They can be halved or sliced, but be sure to remove the pits. Pack the peaches into clean jars, leaving 1/2 inch at top of the jars. Cover with boiling syrup made with 2 cups sugar to 4 cups water. If you like a sweeter syrup, add more sugar. Wipe off the sealing surface of the jar and close according to the type of lid being used.

Place the jars in a boiling water bath canner which is a large container with a rack in the bottom to hold the jars about one inch from the bottom. It should be tall enough to have space to cover the jars with about one or two inches of water and about the same amount of space above the water.

The water should be hot, but not boiling when you place the filled jars in the canner. Place lid on canner and bring water to a rolling boil, but reduce the heat just to boiling. This prevents the juice from being drawn out of the jars.

Boil pint jars 25 minutes and quart jars 35 minutes. Remove the jars from the water bath and let them cool away from a draft. The peaches can be canned without sugar if you prefer.

If you want to know more about canning, contact the county extension office for a free copy of B-194, "Home Canning Fruits and Vegetables."

MICROWAVING FOR LOW-SODIUM DIETS

Since the microwave steam-cooks foods, it is a natural for preparing many special diet items. Also, the microwave is ideal for preparing small quantities and for reheating individual frozen portions.

One frequent request is for low-sodium recipes. More and more people are finding it necessary to restrict sodium intake. Statistics show that over 15 percent of the American adult population suffers from hypertension or high blood pressure. Research indicates a close link between hypertension and excessive sodium in the diet.

Sodium is essential in maintaining normal good health. However, under certain conditions, the body is unable to excrete the excess sodium consumed, and then it becomes necessary to restrict the sodium intake.

Most of the sodium in our diet comes from table salt. One tablespoon of salt accounts for 6900 milligrams of sodium. By eliminating the salt added to foods, it is possible to greatly reduce the sodium level of the diet. Sodium is also present in most foods in various amounts. Foods high in natural sodium content should be avoided by those on highly restricted sodium diets.

Since most of us are accustomed to the flavor salt adds to many foods, we may not immediately adjust to the change in flavor when it is omitted. It will be easier to make the change if you gradually reduce the salt. We realize this gradual method is not an option if you are suddenly forced to restrict your sodium intake in a major way.

Use these recipes for ways you can combine your microwave and the need for reduced sodium. Milligram and point counts are given with each recipe for those that need to calculate daily sodium intake. Remember that only a doctor should prescribe your diet for your particular needs.

FRUITED TAPIOCA

1/2 can (6 oz. size) frozen grape juice concentrate

2 1/2 cups water
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup quick-cooking tapioca
1 cup fresh or frozen blueberries
1 cup fresh or frozen sliced peaches
(Tapioca thickens fruit juice and fresh fruits for a refreshing dessert that is low in sodium content.)

Combine grape juice concentrate and water in 1-quart glass mixing bowl. Stir in sugar and tapioca. MICROWAVE (high) uncovered for 8 to 9 minutes (10 to 12) or until mixture just starts to boil, stirring once or twice. Cool. Fold in fruit. Serve at room temperature or chilled, spooned into sauce dishes. 8 servings.

TIP: If grape juice is already reconstituted, use 1 1/2 cups juice and 1 1/4 cups water.

Each serving contains about 2 milligrams sodium or 0 sodium points.

MINTED-ORANGE CHICKEN

2 whole chicken breasts, split
1/2 cup orange juice
1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon white wine, if desired
1 tablespoon snipped fresh mint leaves
1/2 orange, quartered and sliced
Paprika

(Orange juice and mint add color and a tangy flavor to chicken. You may not even notice the absence of salt.)

Arrange chicken breasts skin-side-up in 8-inch round glass baking dish with thicker sections toward outer edge of dish; set aside. Combine orange juice and cornstarch in 2 cup glass measure. Mix until smooth. MICROWAVE (high) uncovered, 1 1/2 to 2 minutes (2 to 3) or until mixture boils and thickens, stirring once. Stir in wine, mint and orange. Spoon onto chicken breasts, spreading evenly to cover chicken. Sprinkle with paprika. Cover with waxed paper. MICROWAVE (high) 14 to 16 minutes (28 to 30) or until chicken is tender, rotating dish once. Let stand 5 to 10 minutes before serving. About 4 servings.

TIPS: Chicken breasts can be skinned and boned if desired. If other chicken parts can be substituted for breasts, use about 2 pounds altogether. If substituting dried mint leaves, use 1/4 to 1 teaspoon.

Pageant to feature Marie McLaughlin

MARIE McLAUGHLIN and her friend Timothy will host the 1980 Miss Top O' Texas pageant scheduled for Aug. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the M.K. Brown auditorium. Miss McLaughlin, a former Miss Pennsylvania, was a finalist in the 1977 Miss America pageant.

What sort of young lady flies around the United States constantly in the company of a dummy with the name Timothy stenciled across his chest? In this case, a very smart one named Marie McLaughlin, former Miss Pennsylvania, a finalist in the 1977 Miss America Pageant and the late Edgar Bergen's counterpart as the nation's number one female ventriloquist-singer. Marie will be mistress of ceremonies of the Miss Top O' Texas pageant slated for Aug. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the M.K. Brown auditorium.

Miss McLaughlin is a self-taught ventriloquist whose career began with the purchase of a $1.98 book, "Ventriloquism in a Nutshell." As Miss Pennsylvania, Marie set an unprecedented appearance record, performing 400 shows in 365 days.

As an entertainer and opening act for night clubs, Marie has been billed with Pat Boone, the Hudson Brothers, Jerry Vale, Kenny Rogers and Marilyn McCoo and Billy Davis Jr. In 1978, Marie and Timothy appeared in Las Vegas, where they entertained at Summa Corporation's Christmas party in the Sands Hotel Grand Ballroom.

The team has been seen and heard in 38 states and has appeared on hundreds of radio and television talk shows including those hosted by Gene Rayburn, Peter Marshall and Monty Hall. The two have appeared throughout the country for the Miss America state pageants, and were among the stars who entertained and assisted at the International Special Olympics. They are the national spokespersons for Leaf Confectionery of Chicago.

As the Los Angeles Times sums it up, "Marie McLaughlin is no dummy...but she sure knows what to do with one."

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My beloved wife of 42 years recently died after a long and painful terminal illness. I feel that she was kept alive much too long after it became obvious that there was no hope for her recovery. If you had ever watched a beautiful 130-pound woman reduced to a 79-pound skeleton, you would understand my feelings. She begged for months to die, and we who loved her suffered with her. Her hospital bill alone was over $28,000. Thank God we could afford it, but what do poor people do?

How I wish my dear wife had signed the Living Will you mentioned in your column. When I told my doctor I wanted to obtain a Living Will instructing all those who loved me that they were not to keep me alive should I fall victim to a terminal illness and there was no reasonable hope for my recovery, he said, "You don't need one because California is one of the 10 states that have the Natural Death Act."

Is this true?

DEAR PLANNING: No. You need a document specifically prepared for the state in which you live because the law in each state differs slightly.

The 10 states that have the Natural Death Act are: Arkansas, California, Idaho, Kansas, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oregon, Texas and Washington.

The Society for the Right to Die, 250 West 57th St., New York, N.Y. 10019, has prepared forms and guidelines specifically designed for each of the above states. It will send you the proper form on request. There is no charge for the document, but the society is a non-profit organization, so please send a few dollars to cover the cost of the document and mailing.

If you live in one of the other 40 states (many of which now have bills pending), you will be sent a Living Will declaration to sign as evidence of your wishes. Meanwhile your name will be recorded and the society will send you a proper form if and when the law is enacted in your state.

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen a problem like mine in your column, and it's a tough one. For the last two years my fiancée and I have lived together, so it is assumed by everyone who knows us that we will be married. (We probably will, although no date has been set.)

The problem is his kid sister. More than once she has said, "When are you two getting married? I can't wait to be a bridesmaid."

Abby, how do I let her know that I am not planning to ask her to be in my wedding party? I hate to come right out and tell her because I don't want to hurt her feelings.

Thanks for a snappy comeback.

J. IN TORONTO

DEAR J.: More than a "snappy" comeback, you need a gentle and diplomatic way of letting the "kid sister" down. It's unfair to let her assume that she'll be in the wedding party if she's not going to be. The next time she mentions it, tell her the truth. The longer you put it off, the more disappointed she'll be.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and very much in love for the first time in my life. Michael is 21, and a more honest and decent guy I've never met. He doesn't drink or smoke and he's working to put himself through college.

So what's the problem? My father doesn't like Michael. And why doesn't he like him? Because Michael doesn't look you straight in the eye when he talks to you.

Abby, Michael is shy and it's hard for him to look people in the eye, but that doesn't mean he doesn't have good character.

Don't you think my father is wrong for holding this against Michael?

LOVES MICHAEL

DEAR LOVES: Yes! The world is full of charming crooks who can look you in the eye and lie through their teeth if there's something to be gained by it.

Arts performances available

"The new touring arts program will help make quality arts performances accessible and available throughout the state," recently announced Allan Longacre, executive director of the Texas Commission on the Arts (TCA).

The program is the first of its kind offered in Texas and will provide financial assistance to sponsors of dance, theatre, music, and visual arts performances. Twenty-six touring companies are available for a total of 266 performances.

"The touring program was made possible through the governor's approval of a legislative appropriation increase. It is the best way we have of assisting communities in sharing the wealth of artistic talent in Texas," Longacre said.

TCA will conduct statewide workshops during the month of August to provide technical assistance and information in planning community-wide programs. Sharing of arts facilities is encouraged in communities where quality arts performances would not otherwise be possible.

The workshops will be Aug. 4 in Amarillo in the Amarillo Art Center, Aug. 5 in the Dallas Theater Center in Dallas, Aug. 6 in San Antonio in the Eastside Multi-Service Center, in Corpus Christi Aug. 7 in the Art Museum of South Texas and in Houston Aug. 8 in the Cultural Arts Council of Houston. All workshops will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. They are free and open to the public.

Sponsor groups can contact the touring company directly through the representatives listed in the TCA touring program brochure to negotiate dates, terms, activities and technical requirements. The touring company will then present the sponsor with a TCA sponsorship application. The applications must be submitted to the commission from now until Oct. 1, 1980.

The Texas Commission on the Arts serves Texas — its arts organizations and its people — by providing coordination, information and financial aid for art programs.

Groups interested in sponsoring a touring performance may contact arts councils in their local area or the Texas Commission on the Arts, Box 13406, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711 (call toll free 1-800-252-9415) for more details and a brochure listing touring groups available.

Woman named too late

HINGHAM, Mass. (AP) — Hingham selectmen erred when they appointed a woman to the Council on Aging — the woman had died two years before.

"I guess there was a mistake somewhere," said Selectman Eugene Bickford. "You read about something like this in the newspaper and you think it could never happen here. This time it did."

Bickford said appointments were made from lists submitted by various boards.

La Jolla homes valuable

By DAN TEDRICK

Associated Press Writer
LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) —

The neat little frame house on Genter Street with its single bedroom and single bath went for $130,000 the other day. But they won't get Thad Epps to sell his place a block away on Draper.

Epps, 75, raised nine children on Draper street and he remembers arriving there from Newport, Ark., in 1937.

"In Arkansas, I was working for 10 cents an hour, 10 hours a day," says Epps. "I took a good look at myself. My family was increasing so fast I had to do something."

A landscaper in La Jolla hired him at 60 cents an hour to work on rich people's yards. In the middle of La Jolla's mansions, Draper Street, near the city dump, "was going begging," Epps recalls.

"A colored woman who did laundry pestered me for three months to buy her property, a lot with five old raggedy buildings on it," he says.

Epps paid her $3,000 for the lot. In 1943, he put down $1,000 and agreed to pay $75 a month for five old houses on land nearby. In 1965, he sold that for $106,000. Then he sold a single lot for $60,000.

In his years of odd jobs, Epps provided nice homes for his nine children within four blocks of a lovely beach and San Diego's finest school district. Today he enjoys 32 grandchildren, five great-grandchildren and owns a modest-looking home which few Americans could afford.

The average La Jolla house comparable to those selling elsewhere in the United States for $40,000 sold for $219,200 early this year. Price tags of $300,000 are common, and some sell for up to $5 million.

An estimated 150 blacks live in La Jolla, an internationally known luxury community of almost 30,000. Except for a smattering of scientists and other professional people, the older blacks like Epps live — as they did in the 1930s — in the six-block area around Draper Street.

Francis Fouts, an 86-year-old former butler and gardener, was recently offered $200,000 for the house for which he paid $25,000 less than 20 years ago.

The son of slaves, he says, "It's the only way to get ahead, invest — invest every nickel you can get in property... although there's not ever going to be the opportunities again that I had after they broke down the discrimination in housing."

"We don't have any place to go now so we'll live it out here," says Fouts. But over the years, "many blacks gave their land away," says the Rev. Charles Brooks, president of the La Jolla Ministerial Association. "They didn't hold on long enough."

George Randolph, vice president of La Jolla Federal Savings & Loan Association, says occasionally the black homeowners with low-paying jobs or only Social Security to live on face a financial crisis.

"These are among the best people we've got, despite their income, and we try to see to it that they keep their homes with advances on their first mortgage," Randolph says.

"If they need $10,000, we might raise their interest rates from 6 percent to 7 or 8 percent."

As much as 21 percent interest has been charged San Diegans elsewhere on second mortgages.

The only racial violence police can recall in La Jolla was $15,000 damage to wires in the first low-income townhouse project last August as eight families prepared to move in. No arrest was made, but Brooks blames "just one man who could never explain why he did it."

Beauty tips

By Diane Robbins, editor
Beauty Digest magazine

In the mood
Melissa Sue Anderson told Beauty Digest magazine her special tricks for feeling super before a big night out: "I just go a bit heavier on the perfume at ears, neck and wrists. I also wash my hair, let it dry naturally, then comb it. Knowing that my hair is clean and bouncy, and that I'm giving off a discreet hint of my pet perfume, gets me in a good mood for that special evening."

Cool feet
If you complain of hot feet in the summer, part of the problem may be wearing very high heels which throw all your weight onto the front of your feet. Try wearing lower heeled shoes with open toes and sides. Before slipping them on, dust the insides of shoes and your feet with powder or cornstarch. Make sure stockings aren't too tight. At the end of the day, cool feet by splashing them with alcohol or massaging them with foot lotion.

Table settings
To make dining more fun, dress up your table with a bouquet of fresh flowers. Use pretty placemats and napkins, preferably in a cool color like blue which won't stimulate your appetite. Serve yourself ice water from an elegant pitcher and drink from a fancy goblet or wine glass. Put on some soft music. You'll feel pampered and happy about your diet.

MENDING MATURE MARRIAGE

By Louise Pierce

Yesterday I had a real fright. As I headed east on one of our busy streets, I saw a pickup heading straight toward me from the west. I pulled over as far as I could and stopped dead still. I figured this would be another stupid accident that my friends, and perhaps my beloved husband, would think was my fault — and might even say so.

Then I saw why the oncoming car was on my side with nobody minding the steering wheel. A couple of young fellows were fighting right there on the seat. I could not believe the blows that flew between them. Neither seemed to see that I was the sitting duck and that an explosion might mean their lives as well as mine.

A few seconds before impact, the driver of the pickup paused long enough to grab the wheel and barely miss me. Without a word, a nod or a wave, he drove on. I was too shaken to watch as they disappeared, so I don't know whether the fight was resumed.

It made me remember the many times I've seen and heard older couples risk their lives, and the lives of passengers, by fussing at each other over driving. In a recent column I said that nobody should object to soft-voiced, back-seat driving, and I believe this is true.

But I'm talking now about the cases of loud-mouthed fury that mates sometimes hurl at each other when one is driving and the other thinks he could do better and says so.

I knew a middle-aged wife who did not drive but never failed to criticize her husband's driving. A trip across town with them was unbelievable and unenjoyable. If he drove fast, she preferred slow. If he had the cooling on, she wanted heat.

It was, "Watch out!...Look where you're going!...See that stop sign ahead? Well, be sure to stop for it!...No, no, don't turn here, turn there!"

As far as I know, he never had an accident. But if he had, I would have testified that it was not his fault.

Incompatibility was the word for that marital duo. The husband must have been a patient and understanding man. Or perhaps he reformed her or left her.

In any case, fist fights or upsetting screams in cars can be dangerous. We need to avoid both.

What about tongue lashings in public? In my opinion, they are equally perilous to a longtime marriage. They can lose you your friends. I knew a couple who loved to play bridge but never missed bawling each other out once or twice during a game. Eventually their bridge club disbanded and then reorganized without including them. The group couldn't take that mate-hecking any longer.

Public criticism of a spouse can drive mates apart. We can all endure a few well-placed comments about our shortcomings in the privacy of our own homes, with only the two of us present. But we do not relish such talk when we are with other people.

It's not hard to overlook a mate's grumbling a little if you move his favorite chair when you clean or if he dallies downtown while your well-planned dinner goes stale. You can even endure his saying you are a slouch (if you are) or a poor housekeeper (if he finds dust kittens under the bed) or absent-minded (which I am) if you forget list of do-its — when you're alone.

But let a husband gather a crowd around him and say, "My wife's the poorest cook in town!" You want to wither away. Or let a wife wail to friends, "I had the chance to marry money — but I picked this poor slob!" The husband may leave her. And most people wouldn't blame him.

DEAR LOUISE: My husband wants to go shopping for groceries since he retired. At first I thought it would be fun. But it isn't. He hollers about the prices and tells the clerks and the managers they're highway robbers. If I pick out something, he takes it out of the cart and gets something cheaper. We've got enough to live on and don't have to make scenes about prices. Would you tell him he couldn't go shopping with me to the supermarket? EMBARRASSED.

DEAR EM: No, I'd tell him to go grocery shopping alone, and I'd tell him why. If he wanted to go solo, I'd cook whatever he brought home. But the chances are he's just getting acquainted with today's prices and will calm down when he faces reality, which he can't fight, not even with nasty insinuations. He may invite you to go back with him in a few days or weeks. If he does, exact a promise of silence on his part. Good luck.

Help your air conditioner keep you cool

Right now, the most important appliance in your home may be your air conditioner. Here are some tips which will help your air conditioner work more efficiently and keep you cool longer.

Don't fiddle with the thermostat. Set the temperature to a comfortable level and forget it. Excessive "on and offing" can damage the components of the unit. Energy will be wasted as the air conditioner tries to keep up with your changing demand.

If your clothes dryer vent is close to the air conditioner or heat pump, consider other ways of venting the dryer. Hot vapor from the dryer places an extra load on the air conditioner. Lint from the vent can cause damage.

Run appliances such as a clothes dryer and do as much cooking as possible in early morning hours. This is better than at night because in the evening on a hot day, the air conditioner is still working to bring down the temperature from the daytime heat.

Keep curtains closed on sunny windows during the day. Homes in humid areas should be kept "closed" with the air conditioning turned on — even if the weather is cool but humid say the experts. Because dryer air seems cooler than humid air, your air conditioner can be "on" less when the humidity is low.

Trim shabby and limbs back. Landscaping that hides an air conditioner or heat pump reduces efficiency by curtailing air movement. Shrubs could cause damage if leaves or twigs are sucked into the unit.

Have the unit cleaned and checked by a qualified service representative. Coils should be cleaned. Some homeowners can undertake this themselves but first they should have the dealer's service representative do it and observe — especially learn how to properly shut off electricity to the unit.

Filters need to be cleaned, if permanent type. Disposable ones should be thrown away. Check these once a month. It is a good idea to buy a throw-away filter to use while the permanent filter is being cleaned (with a garden hose on the driveway) and is drying.

IN AGRICULTURE

As dry weather continues, now is a good time to control mesquite and some other problem woody plants with basal pour-on or spray of diesel Kerosene or a 4.5-T: Diesel: oil mixture on individual trunks.

Use 1-1/4 ounces or 2-1/2 tablespoons of four pound a.e. er gallon on 2,4,5-T formulation per gallon of diesel on mesquite, huisache, lotebush, catclaw, agarito, lbowbush, granjeno, blackbrush, bois d' arc, ackberry, locust, prickly ash, elm, sweetgum, white oak, blackjack, hickory, post oak and red oak.

A knapsack or other type hand sprayer may be used. The hand sprayer should be equipped with a No. 8004 nozzle. The herbicide mixture should be applied at 40 PSI or less. If a power sprayer hand nozzle is used a 10 PSI or less. Spray the herbicide mixture on the bottom 10-12 inches of trunk. Apply the herbicide all the way around the trunk until the solution runs down to the groundline.

Best results are obtained on mesquite and other sprouting species when the soil is dry and pulled away from the trunk. This allows the herbicide mixture to more readily come in contact with buds located beneath the soil surface.

Individual plant treatment of pricklypear with the 2,4,5-T: diesel mixture can be used now. All pads should be wetted on both sides with the mixture.

Individual plant treatment with Tordon 10-K pellets would not be advisable at this time because of hot dry conditions. Picloram (the active ingredient in Tordon 10-K) does exhibit some breakdown by sunlight. Use of Tordon 10-K should be postponed until late August or September when rainfall might be expected or until late winter or early spring.

CONTROL SIDER MITES IN GARDENS:

Spider mites, or red spiders, are probably the most difficult pests to control in vegetable gardens.

With hot, dry weather, gardeners should be on the lookout for this pest by checking the underside of plant leaves.

Although spider mites will attack almost any plant among their preferred hosts are beans, tomatoes, peas, eggplants and corn.

Actually, spider mites are not insects, but are eight-legged relatives of ticks and spiders. Their small size, about 1-60 of an inch, makes them difficult to see without a magnifying lens. They range in color from red, green and yellow to white and brown. Spider mites deposit their eggs on the underside of leaves. These hatch in about five days. There may be 10 to 15 or more generations per year.

Mites can cause considerable plant damage by sticking their needle-like mouthparts into leaf tissue and sucking out the juice while injecting a toxic substance into the leaf. Heavy infestations will cause leaves to appear blotched or spotted, turn pale or yellowish in color, curl up, turn brown and eventually drop off. A thin webbing may cover leaves and stems.

Begin a control program as soon as spider mites are detected and before plant damage is obvious. A light infestation of spider mites can be reduced and kept at low levels by spraying plants with a strong stream of cool water every few days.

WATER YARDS, GARDENS WISELY:

Keeping the yard and garden in good shape during the hot summer weather while at the same time keeping the water bill in check can be a challenge for any homeowner. Using proper watering techniques helps though.

While watering depends on many factors, such as weather, soil condition, plant type and rate of growth, and the method of application, the key is to get water to plant roots and keep it there.

To begin, don't try to follow a set schedule for watering, such as every two days or three times a week. Instead, learn to recognize soil and plant conditions which indicate dryness and the need for water.

Also, when you do water, water thoroughly. Water until the ground is wet several inches deep. This promotes deep rooting and increases drought tolerance. Sprinkling the garden every evening is usually not adequate since most people don't have the patience to stand in one spot long enough to water for good penetration.

Generally, the best time to water is in the morning. Watering in the afternoon under direct sunlight can cause leaf burn when the sun hits drops of water on new leaves. Later evening watering invites disease problems since most diseases develop rapidly in cool, moist conditions.

Keep water off plants which do not need watering at the time. Also, be careful with plants that are easily troubled by leaf diseases which spread on wet surfaces, such as crampyrtle and roses.

If runoff is a problem, use a mulch or work manure or other organic matter such as peat moss into the soil. A mulch can also help hold moisture in the soil by reducing evaporation, and it makes weed pulling easier.

Water immediately after applying inorganic fertilizer to soak into the soil. Although fertilizer is good for plants, it can pull moisture from plant tissue and cause burn spots if left on leaves.

Raw commodities prices take jump during July

By DON KENDALL

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reacting to worries about drought and reduced supplies of big items such as pork and poultry, farm prices of raw commodities jumped 5.2 percent in July for the biggest single-month gain in six years.

The Agriculture Department, which reported the preliminary figures for last month, said Thursday the July boost also put the government's index of farm prices overall on a par with year-earlier levels for the first time since January.

For five consecutive months, beginning in February, the monthly farm price index sagged below year-earlier averages as prices of many commodities slumped.

Although hot weather and drought have had a bearing on higher prices for some commodities this summer, officials say much of the upswing is due to seasonal factors and, particularly in the case of hogs and poultry, cutbacks by producers in response to previously depressed market prices.

Department economists have been saying for some time that price increases were on tap and that those, particularly for meat animals and poultry, would help trigger sharply higher retail food costs in the third quarter of this year.

The department's Crop Reporting Board said that in July higher prices for hogs, soybeans, corn, broilers, potatoes and cattle were mostly responsible for the increase from June.

Although prices for most of the major farm commodities rose in July, some declines were reported, including prices of cotton and some fruit.

According to USDA records, the 5.2 percent price boost was the sharpest since the index gained 7 percent from June to July in 1974.

The report also included revised figures for June showing that the price index also rose 2.7 percent. A month ago the preliminary report showed an increase of only 1.3 percent.

Meanwhile, prices farmers pay to meet expenses rose 0.7 percent from June and averaged 11 percent higher than a year ago.

According to the preliminary July figures — which are based mostly on mid-month averages — prices of meat animals as a group rose 6.0 percent from June, including increases for cattle and hogs. But the livestock index still was down 2.9 percent from a year earlier.

Oilseed crops, primarily soybeans, collectively showed a 15 percent price increase from June, the report said. However, prices overall were down 5.3 percent from last year.

The index for poultry and eggs was up 17 percent during the month and averaged 8.9 percent above a year ago.

Conservation groups will host field day

Leon New, area irrigation engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will be among demonstrators presenting information during and Irrigation Field Day scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 19, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Participants will meet at the Grandview-Hopkins School, southwest of Pampa. Group transportation will be provided from that point.

The highlight of the program will be a field trip to the G.M. Walls Jr. farm to view the complete evaluation of a center pivot irrigation system from the power source to the crop.

New will conduct a demonstration on irrigation engine and pump efficiency.

The Soil Conservation Service Irrigation Water Management Team will evaluate the pivot sprinkler efficiency and output. The IWM Team consists of Fred Pringle, soil scientist, Randy Underwood, agronomist and Jerry Walker, engineer.

The Field Laboratory Trailer, recently purchased by the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District No. 3, South of the Canadian, for the purpose of research and irrigation evaluation will be on display during the field day.

Other items to be appraised are sprinkler types, crop consumption, soil intake rates, and irrigation economics.

The noon meal will be catered by Dyer's Barbeque courtesy of Wheeler-Evans Elevators.

The field day is being sponsored by the Gray County Soil and Water Conservation District and the Panhandle Ground Water District, in cooperation with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service and the Soil Conservation Service.

Cattlemen endorse windfall tax amendment proposals

Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association in testimony before the U.S. Senate Finance Committee in Austin, recently endorsed amendments to the Windfall Profits Tax that would relieve landowners and other royalty owners of much of the financial burden from that tax.

The Senate in a later meeting, approved the legislation co-sponsored by Senator Lloyd Bentsen (D-Texas) that will provide some relief to small royalty owners hit hard by the so-called "windfall profit" tax.

James Powell, co-chairman of TSCRA's Legislative and Tax Committee, presented testimony for the 14,000 member organization.

A rancher and royalty owner from Fort McKavett, Powell said the manner in which the tax is structured is discriminatory and places an unreasonable burden on landowners and other small royalty owners.

Under present law the approximately two million small royalty owners are treated the same—taxed the same rate—as the large multinational oil companies. The law imposes a 30 percent tax on all new oil production.

Many of these small royalty owners are working ranchers and farmers who depend on modest royalty checks to supplement their depressed farm and ranch income," Powell said. "Retired persons on fixed incomes are also being undermined financially," he said.

TSCRA went on record as strongly supporting Senate Bill 2533, which exempts 1,000 barrels per day of oil production from the tax for both royalty owners and independent oil producers.

FARM FORUM by Gary Sutherland

There will be a new member among the ranks of wheat varieties going on the market this fall. That new member carries an old name... Tut. It is a rare variety in that it was developed by an individual, Leo Schroeder, rather than by a commercial company or an experiment station. The Kansas farmer has been developing the variety on his farm near Timken. He says the variety is 100 percent resistant to soil-borne mosaic, a plant virus that can reduce yields as much as 50 percent. Along with the mosaic resistance, Tut is also reported to be drought tolerant. Mixing and milling results are considered about the same as most commonly used varieties. With additional testing planned for the future, Tut could well become a common sight across the plains.

Twitty leads in Philly Golf Classic

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "At least I know for a few weeks how Tom Watson feels every week," said Howard Twitty. Twitty was discussing his feelings after boosting his lead to two strokes in the $250,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic Friday with a two-round tournament record 130, 12 strokes under par.

"Twitty is on one of the hottest streaks of the PGA tour this year, shooting in the 60s on 13 of his last 14 rounds and posting 57 under par in his last 158 holes.

Despite his torrid shooting, Twitty leads the Philadelphia tournament over the 6,687-yard Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course by just two strokes over Mark Hayes.

Twitty shot a tournament one-round record 64 the first day and added a 5-under-66 in the second round to lead a field of 74 qualifiers, including one amateur.

The amateur is Jay Sigel, former Walker Cup star and last year's British Amateur champion from Newtown Square, Pa.

Twitty, of course, was referring to Watson's five triumphs this year and the fact Watson is the tour's leading money winner with $387,725.

Twitty, who is 22nd on the money list with $109,981, said he wasn't impressed with his two-round record.

"I'm only interested in Sunday records," said the former Arizona State star. "That's what counts."

He didn't have to explain that he was talking about the size of the check received after the final round of each week's tour event.

Hayes has a two-round total of 132 on a pair of 66s. He thinks he's very much in the chase for the $45,000 winner's check at Whitemarsh, a tight par-71 course that requires finesse more than strength.

"I'm hitting the ball solid again," said Hayes. "I didn't take advantage of a few short putts today (Friday). I was on the wrong side of the hole. I've got to get below the hole more."

Hayes said he wasn't frustrated shooting a 66 and not gaining a stroke on the leader.

"I passed a lot of guys. I feel good about shooting 66," Hayes said.

He admitted he had been struggling and spent the previous 10 days before coming to Philadelphia practicing with his local pro.

"He gave me a few things to key on and they're working out."

Twitty and Hayes weren't exactly in a commanding position.

Erxleben puts past behind him

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — He was too hurt and confused to handle it when the New Orleans Saints gave him the dual-purpose kicking job last season. Now that he has to struggle for the spot, Russell Erxleben is serene and confident.

Erxleben was the 12th player taken in the 1979 draft and was counted on for both punting and place-kicking chores. But he developed a sore back, then a pulled hamstring and finally a blood disease — a combination of ailments that sidelined him for all but the first game of the year.

As his physical well-being deteriorated he became more confused. His marriage to his high school sweetheart also fell apart.

"All of that's behind me," Erxleben said at the National Football League team's training camp. "I'm very much pleased with the way I'm punting and kicking. It doesn't surprise me that I'm getting them higher than ever. I went through hell training during the off season."

He worked out before and after classes at the University of Texas, running as much as five miles a day and enrolling at a physical fitness center for specialized work on leg strength. It was there he met the girl he plans to marry after the season.

The work did away with the knot left by an old hamstring pull and corrected a chronic back problem, Erxleben said. He's still taking medicine for the blood disorder.

"I don't know if it would come back if I got off medication," he said. "In January, I ran out of medicine and went about a week without it, and I started swelling up again. It might be fully cured, but I don't want to take the chance."

His new girl friend and rediscovery of his religion helped him find mental peace, Erxleben said, adding he knows he still has to beat out a pair of pretty good specialists to win a job.

Rick Partridge punted for the Saints last season and had a 40.9-yard average while Garo Yepremian, the most accurate field goal kicker in NFL history, handled the kicking chores.

Erxleben said he tries to ignore what his rivals are doing so he can concentrate on his own job.

Waldemar Cierpinski of East Germany came from behind to win the marathon in 2 hours 11.3 minutes, Evelyn Jahl of East Germany won the women's discus with an Olympic record of 229-6 and world record holder Tatyana Kazankina of the Soviet Union dominated the women's 1,500 meters in 3:56.6, all retaining their Montreal Olympic titles.

National League baseball roundup

By the Associated Press

San Diego's Steve Mura struggled and won against Jim Bibby, the pitcher with the National League's best record. Philadelphia's Bob Walk struggled and won against the Cincinnati Reds. And Bob Forsch of St. Louis pitched well and lost because of two mistakes.

Mura, who said, "I think I threw one curve ball for a strike all night long," got a sixth-inning run from Gene Richards and ninth-inning relief help from Bob Shirley and Rolie Fingers to beat Bibby and the Pirates 1-0 in Pittsburgh Friday night.

Walk, who threw 90 pitches in the first four innings and 167 for the game, ended up on the happy end of a 3-1 decision against the Reds.

Then there was Forsch, who was two outs away from a 1-0 triumph over the Dodgers when Jay Johnstone hit his first National League home run since 1977 in the ninth inning to tie the game and Joe Ferguson won it with a 10th-inning blast to give Los Angeles a 2-1 victory.

"He just made a mistake," Ferguson said after his game-winning drive. "I had two strikes on me. I'd have to be an idiot to think home run in that situation. He just made a bad pitch."

That's all Walk seemed to be doing in the first four innings against Cincinnati. He walked four over the first four innings and had Reds runners in scoring position in each of the first three, but stranded 10 runners over the first six innings and gave up only one run.

"He seems to make the 3-1, 3-2 pitches when he has to," said Phillies Manager Dallas Green. "It's a quality you can't teach. He has it within him, and I'm darn glad."

Walk, 8-1, was glad Mike Schmidt drove in Lonnie Smith with a tie-breaking sacrifice fly in the sixth. Philadelphia got insurance in the eighth when Smith doubled and scored on a single by Bake McBride.

The Padres got their run on only one hit in winning their sixth straight and snapping the eight-game winning streak of Bibby, 13-2. Over eight innings, Bibby surrendered just three hits; but one of them was to Richards leading off the sixth.

Richards moved to second on a sacrifice by Ozzie Smith, then stole third. He scored when the throw by catcher Ed Ott eluded Pittsburgh third baseman Bill Madlock.

Mura and the two relievers made that run stand up, handing Bibby his second loss of the season and his first since May 18, when the Pirates dropped another shutout — a 2-0 decision in Los Angeles.

In the other NL games Friday night, the New York Mets rallied past the Houston Astros 5-4, the Montreal Expos beat the Atlanta Braves 4-1 and the Chicago Cubs defeated the San Francisco Giants 5-3.

Mets 5, Astros 4

New York recovered from Houston's four-run first inning, got a run in the sixth, tied it on Steve Henderson's three-run pinch homer in the seventh, then won it in the eighth on the fourth hit of the game by Frank Taveras.

Taveras delivered catcher Alex Trevino from third with an infield hit to cap the Mets' comeback.

The Astros unloaded on John Pacella in the first on a home run by Tery Puhl, an RBI infield single by Alan Ashby, a wild pitch that let another run score, and an RBI single by Craig Reynolds.

But Mike Jorgensen's single scored a sixth-inning run for

New York and Henderson unloaded in the seventh. The game came to a close when single by Trevino, Doug Flynn and Taveras salvaged the triumph.

Expos 4, Braves 1

Warren Cromartie's two-run homer highlighted a three-run first and combined with the three-hit, 10-strikeout pitching of Scott Sanderson to carry Montreal over Atlanta.

Cubs 5, Giants 3

Jerry Martin snapped an 0-for-15 slump with a two-run homer in the second inning starting the Cubs to their victory in San Francisco.

Rick Reuschel and Bruce Sutter continued their domination of the Giants to help the Chicago effort. Reuschel extended his string of scoreless innings against San Francisco to 16 before giving up three runs in the seventh.

Last chance for Wheeler's Brown

Rich Brown is another one of football's "little guys," who always seems to surpass his measurements in ability.

Brown, at 5-9 and 155 pounds, made the starting lineup as a senior at Wheeler last season and adeptly quarterbacked the Mustangs to a perfect record and the Class B state title.

Brown, a member of the Class B All-State Team, was also chosen to play in the Greenbelt Bowl game Aug. 9 when the East meets the West.

"I've been training quite a bit this summer," Brown said. "I'm running and practicing my throwing."

Like most of the Greenbelt players, Brown has never been offered a college football scholarship. In Brown's case, his diminutiveness, not his ability, has been the thorn in the flesh.

When Brown takes the field for the 8 p.m. kickoff at Fair Park Stadium, he will be smallest player on either side.

"I just can't seem to gain any weight," Brown said. "I went to OSU (Oklahoma State University) to see about getting a scholarship and they said I was too small. This may be my last game. I'd like to get a scholarship, but it's probably going to depend on how good I do."

Lineman Vic Bradford, Brown's teammate at Wheeler, will also be playing in the Greenbelt Bowl, but on the opposing team. Brown was selected to play for the West while Bradford will be a member of the East squad.

Also playing for the East will be Dwayne Avery of Pampa.

Stevenson wins again

MOSCOW (AP) — Heavyweight Teofilo Stevenson of Cuba won the Olympic gold medal Saturday, becoming the first man ever to win it in three Olympics in the same weight class.

He scored a 4-1 decision over Pyotr Zaev of the Soviet Union. The decision was whistled down by the pro-Soviet crowd.

Stevenson, doing little with his vaunted right hand, threw mostly jabs but did score with a good right uppercut against his squat, muscular opponent in the second round.

Zaev pushed forward and landed several good right hands to the head, especially in the last round.

The Nicaraguan judge voted for the Soviet while Mexico, Nigeria, Algeria and Austria voted for Stevenson.

RUIDOSO DOWNS OF THE WEST HORSE RACE

MIGHTY DECK THREE (top photo) plunges across the finish line an easy winner in last month's finale of the $587,500 Rainbow Futurity at Ruidoso Downs. The two-year-old gelding is owned by Dan and Jolene Urschel of Canadian. The Kansas Futurity winner, Clever Bug, ended up second one and three-fourths lengths behind the Rainbow favorite. Mighty Deck Three broke cleanly from the gate, with plenty of elbow room on both sides, and was never threatened as he quickly took the lead. Jerry Burgess was the jockey. In bottom photo, Mrs. Urschel accepts the victory trophy from General Manager Finlay MacGillivray following the race. Pictured at far right is her husband, Dan. Also on hand for the presentation ceremony were jockey Jerry Burgess and trainer Leo Wood. The Urschels purchased Mighty Deck Three in mid-May after watching him perform in the Kansas bush-track circuit.

Four enter Hall of Fame

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Four players, including the first inductees from the Dallas Cowboys and the Oakland Raiders, were to be enshrined into Pro Football's Hall of Fame this afternoon.

Ceremonies on the steps of the Hall of Fame were to honor defensive back Herb Adderley, defensive tackle Bob Lilly, defensive end David "Deacon" Jones and center Jim Otto.

The inductees will increase the Hall's membership to 106.

Following the ceremonies was the traditional National Football League preseason opener, which this year pitted the Green Bay Packers against the San Diego Chargers.

It marks the first appearance of San Diego in 17 Hall of Fame exhibitions, the last 10 of which have matched the American Football Conference against the National Football Conference. The NFC leads 6-3.

Bart Starr was the quarterback and Adderley was a defensive back the last time the Packers appeared in the Hall of Fame game 11 years ago.

Starr now coaches the Packers, but in 1969 he was at the zenith of his playing career, and in the Hall of Fame Game, he completing 15 of 18 passes for 184 yards and one touchdown. His performance helped Green Bay beat the Atlanta Falcons 38-24.

Counting Green Bay's late Coach Vince Lombardi, Adderley becomes the sixth member from the Packer teams of the 1960s to make the shrine. The left cornerback helped Green Bay to five NFL titles and the first two Super Bowl crowns.

Grid tickets to go on sale

Season tickets for the 1980 Pampa Harvester football season go on sale Monday, Loyd Waters, high school athletic director, announced today.

Letters and order forms are in the mail now to all purchasers of season tickets last year, Waters said, and all ticket holders will have until Aug. 15 to claim the same seats this year.

Seats not claimed before the deadline will go on sale to the public. Tickets are $10 apiece for the five-game home schedule.

Pampa's home opener is Sept. 12 against

Dumas. Tickets may be purchased by returning the order form by Aug. 15 or by coming to the Athletic Ticket Office temporarily located in the Clarendon College-Pampa Center at 900 North Frost.

Waters said his headquarters will also be located at the Pampa Center until construction and building modification is completed in his fieldhouse office. Work is scheduled to begin in mid-August.

Astros' Richard improving

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros pitcher J.R. Richard remained hospitalized in improved condition today, another chapter in a series of crises faced by the Astros pitching staff during its history.

Richard underwent emergency surgery Wednesday night to remove a blood clot from the right side of his neck after he collapsed at a workout in the Astrodome.

The National League's 1980 starting All-Star pitcher had experienced weakness in his left arm and leg following the surgery but an Astros official said Friday that condition was improving.

Team spokesman Rick Rivers said the Astros were telling all who called about Richard's condition that he was in improved condition. Rivers said the assessment was made after talking with Astros team physician Dr. Harold Brelsford.

Richard was placed on the team's 21-day disabled list on July 16 after repeatedly complaining of a tired arm and other ailments. He underwent a battery of tests last week, including an arteriogram, which traces the flow of blood through the arteries.

Brelsford said the arteriogram indicated impaired circulation but there was no indication of a clot at that time. "There are a lot of factors in this case that are strange medically," Brelsford said. "Before this is over, this is going to be a fascinating case."

The Astros pitching staff already had experienced its share of tragedies before Richard's hospitalization in the midst of an outstanding season.

Don Wilson, who pitched two no-hitters for the Astros against Cincinnati in 1968 and 1969 and narrowly missed a third, was found dead in his car in the garage of his southwest Houston home in 1975.

The body of Wilson's five-year-old son Alexander was found in a bedroom above the garage. Police said the deaths were accidental and the medical examiner ruled Wilson and his son died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Jim Umbricht acquired by the team when it was called the Colt .45s in the 1961 expansion draft, underwent surgery for a malignant groin tumor in early 1963.

Gordy, Lindsey, Holtman

tie for women's crown

Three teams were deadlocked in the Pampa Women's Fastpitch Softball League when the final standings were released last week.

Gordy Trucking, Lindsey Furniture and Holtman Tank Trucks finished tied at 9-3.

Granny's Korner followed with a 7-5 record. Con Chem Co was 5-7, Dunlap, 2-10, and Pampa News, 1-11.

Tuesday, Thursday and Friday there will be a double-elimination playoff among the league teams at Lions Club Park.

"I want to thank the fans and sponsors for supporting the team," said league official Jeanne Edmondson. "We hope to have another league next year."

At 8 p.m., Aug. 11 there will be a fastpitch all-star game at Lions Park.

Players from all the league teams will be divided into two squads (A and B) for the all-star tilt.

Team A members include Mia Dacus, Carmella Caldwell, Dean Shipley, Rosie Santacruz, Kathy Terrill, Ann Jeffrey, Debbie Kyle, Sherri Free, Neshia Pope, Karen Anderson, Kelley Richardson, Nann Rhine, Neva Davis and Gina Walker.

Team B members include Sharon Moultrie, Carol Vincent, Peggy Terrill, Linda Brown, Terri Terrill, Jean Terry, Penny Summers, Jody McClendon, Molly Mitchell, Sharon Alexander, Debbie Eggleston, Diane Snell, Doris King and Donna Fitzer.

Junior tournament, scramble held at Pampa CC

Paul McIntire and David Fatheree, both of Pampa, finished second and third respectively in the West Texas Junior Golf Tour Tournament Friday at Pampa Country Club.

McIntire shot 78 and Fatheree had 88 in the 14-15 division. Andy Anderson, Borger, won the 14-15 title with a 72.

Mike Bain, Perryton, shot 96 to win the 12-13 division and Robert Mawell, Perryton, fired an even-par 71 to take the 16 and up championship. Stuart Miller, Shamrock, was second with a 73 and Jay Ledford, Amarillo, was third at 77.

In a scramble tournament also held Friday at Pampa CC, there was a five-way tie for first place.

Winning four-man teams were Jerry Larsen, Donna Larsen, Orvalle Heskell and Gary Dalton; Gary Gustin, Carl Lawyer, Nita Hill and Danny Strawn; B.K. Dorman, Margaret Lawyer, Larry McWilliams and Al Dunnam; Mike Brent, Darlene Dunnam, Joe Godfrey and Dave Redus; Ron Hurst, LaVonna Dalton, Corky Parks and Dwight Chase.

"The pairings couldn't have been any better," said club pro Hart Warren.

There were 36 players entered in the tournament.

Scheduled next at Pampa CC is the Ladies Championship on Saturday, followed by the Ladies Panhandle Tournament Aug. 12 and the Top O' Texas Tournament Aug. 29.

The Lefty-Righty Tournament Sept. 13 closes out the summer schedule.

Coe whips Ovetv in 1500 meter Olympic matchup

By ENRICO JACOMINI
AP Sports Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Sebastian Coe beat fellow Briton Steve Ovetv in their first 1500-meter matchup, and after weeks of buildup and thousands of printed words about their supposed enmity, the two arch-rivals laughed together and shook hands.

Coe won the gold medal in the Olympic 1500 Friday, squaring their Moscow rivalry at 1-to-1. Ovetv had won their 1000-meter clash earlier in the week after Coe ran a dismal race.

"You've seen an athlete literally come back from the grave," said Peter Coe, the gold medalist's father and coach.

On the final day of the Olympic track and field competition, unheralded Gerd Wessig of East Germany broke the men's high jump world record, providing a dramatic finale.

That left the boxing finals today as the major event remaining in an Olympics that probably will be remembered most for its no-shows. The United States and 35 other countries did not send their athletes because of the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

Heavyweight Teofilo Stevenson of Cuba was bidding for an unprecedented third gold medal, fighting Pyotr Zaev of the Soviet Union.

Coe emerged from the final bend with a strong kick and won the race in 3 minutes, 38.4 seconds with no real challenge from Ovetv, who was beaten out of second place by Gunther Straub of East Germany.

Straub set the pace early in the race and held on for the silver medal in 3:38.8 with Ovetv a disappointing third in 3:39.0.

Coe said that only after watching a videotape did he realize that Ovetv was so far back at the finish.

Ovetv, as is his style, failed to show up at a press conference for medal winners.

British Olympians chose to flout the American-led boycott, but the British Olympic Association agreed not to allow the British flag to be flown in ceremonies here.

British fans were here in force for Coe and Ovetv, though, and they waved Union Jacks and belted out the words and tune of "God Save the Queen" as the Olympic hymn was played at the medals presentation.

Wessig won the high jump by clearing 7 feet, 8 1/2 inches, bettering the old mark by one-quarter inch, and the East German quartet won the women's 400 meters relay in 41.60 seconds, despite two poor passes, for the two world marks.

Miruts Yifter of Ethiopia became the only track competitor to win two individual golds by dominating the final of the 5,000 meters in 13:21.0 minutes.

American League baseball roundup

By HERSHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

If Kansas City speedster Willie Wilson can't catch up to a fly ball, nobody can, right?

Wrong! An unidentified Chicago fan sitting in the left field stands at Comiskey Park made a sparkling grab of a ball hit over Wilson's head Friday night and it may have cost the White Sox a game.

Trailing 4-2 in the eighth inning, Chicago's Ron Pruitt singled. Two outs later, pinch-hitter Kevin Bell walked and Greg Pryor lined a pitch from Larry Gura toward the seats.

It would not have been a home run but Wilson couldn't reach it. However, a fan in the first row did. Leaning over the wall and wielding a glove, he stabbed the drive, prompting second base umpire Steve Palermo to rule it a ground-rule double. Pruitt scored but Bell, who was running with the crack of the bat and likely would have scored, was stopped at third. The White Sox never did get the tying run home and lost 4-3.

"It's one of those things. I've got to say there was some luck involved," said Kansas City Manager Jim Frey.

The victory kept the runaway Royals 12 games ahead of Oakland — the A's nipped the Cleveland Indians 2-1, and 12 1/2 in front of Texas: the Rangers downed the Boston Red Sox 7-5 — in the American League West.

Elsewhere, the New York Yankees trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 9-4, the Baltimore Orioles edged the Minnesota Twins 3-2, the Detroit Tigers swept a doubleheader from the Seattle Mariners 1-0 and 5-2 and the Toronto Blue Jays shaded the California Angels 9-8.

Gura, 15-4, won his fifth consecutive decision. He had considerable help from U.L. Washington, who collected four hits and drove in two runs, and third baseman George Brett, who singled a run home in the first inning to establish a club record of at least one RBI in nine consecutive games.

Brett also starred in the field. He stole hits from Chet Lemon and Lamar Johnson with brilliant backhand stops and turned a one-hop smash by Bruce Kimm in the fifth into a rally-killing double play.

After Pryor's near-homer, Dan Quisenberry relieved Gura. He hit Jim Morrison to load the bases and Johnson followed with a line drive that somehow found its way into Quisenberry's glove, ending the threat. Quisenberry went on to post his 21st save, tops in the AL.

A's 2, Indians 1
Brian Kingman and three relievers combined on a four-hitter as Oakland ran its winning streak to five games and ended Cleveland's eight-game winning string. Kingman allowed three hits in six innings, including Ron Hassey's home run, while Jim Essian scored the A's first run on a fourth-inning grounder and drove in the deciding run with a ground ball in the fifth.

Rangers 7, Red Sox 5
Buddy Bell continued his career-long assault on Boston pitching. He had his first five-hit day in the majors, rapping out five singles in as many at-bats, driving in two runs and scoring twice. Bell singled home a run in the first inning, scored after singling in both the third and seventh and singled home another run in the eighth.

This season, Bell is touting Red Sox pitching at a .489 clip, with 23 hits in 47 at-bats. A .277 lifetime hitter, his career average against the Red Sox is .337 with 17 homers and 69 RBIs.

"He's worn us out all seven years I've been here," said Boston Manager Don Zimmer. "He killed us when he was at Cleveland, and he's still doing it."

Yankees 9, Brewers 4
Rick Cerone and Bobby Brown drove in two runs apiece in a seven-run New York first inning, enabling Ron Guidry to coast to his 12th victory although he allowed two homers to Gorman Thomas and one to Don Money.

Singles by Willie Randolph, Bob Watson and Reggie Jackson scored the Yankees' first run against Bill Travers. After a single by Eric Soderholm loaded the bases, Cerone doubled home two more. Reliever John Flinn intentionally walked Ruppert Jones to load the bases and fanned Bucky Dent for the second out. But Brown doubled two runs across and Jones and Brown both scored on an infield hit by Randolph.

Orioles 3, Twins 2
John Lowenstein's two-out pinch single in the eighth inning drove in the tying and winning runs while Mike Flanagan notched his eighth consecutive victory over Minnesota with a five-hitter. Lowenstein delivered on a 2-0 pitch after Minnesota relief ace Doug Corbett issued two walks to load the bases. Corbett replaced starter Roger Erickson after Ken Singleton walked to open the eighth and Eddie Murray singled. Dan Graham lined into a double play on the first pitch before Gary Roenicke and pinch-hitter Terry Crowley walked.

Blue Jays 9, Angels 8
Bob Davis' double in the bottom of the ninth inning scored Lloyd Moseby, who drew a two-out walk off Mark Clear. Toronto fought back from a 6-0 deficit and tied the game in the eighth when Damaso Garcia tripled and scored on Roy Howell's sacrifice fly.

'Progress' spoiling mysterious 'Marfa Lights'

MARFA, Texas (AP) — Progress is threatening to spoil one of the oldest and most talked-about mysteries in the territory west of the Pecos River.

Ever since a pioneer cattleman, Robert R. Ellison, reported seeing weird luminous spheres at night on the southern horizon during an 1883 cattle drive, the "Marfa Lights" have been mystifying local residents, delighting tourists and baffling scientists.

But Julia Plumbley, 74, Ellison's daughter, says the sightseers who still gather almost nightly 8 miles east of this ranching town are probably not seeing what her father saw nearly 100 years ago.

"It's because there are so many other lights nowadays," she said. "In those early days when my father drove cattle down through Antelope Springs to the flatlands, there weren't any other lights around here."

Non-believers say the lights they see are simply guard lights on ranches or headlights of cars on U.S. 67 that leads south to Presidio, and Mrs. Plumbley agrees.

"The actual light is very dim and way, way off," she said. "I just think now so many people see these other lights and very few people ever see what we think is the Marfa mystery light."

What Ellison saw in 1883 obviously could not have been car headlights or the mercury vapor lights used by present-day ranchers, and Mrs. Plumbley said there are even documents on a wagon train that went through here in the 1600s that recorded seeing the lights.

Her description of the eerie lights matched that of most other

Marfa residents. "It's usually only one light. But sometimes it will divide and you'll see two. I have seen three, but that's very unusual," she said. "It's a little, dim light. I have seen it move."

In recent years the town's Junior Historians have documented early sightings by pioneers, but several scientific expeditions have tried, and failed, to explain the Marfa Lights.

"I once flew at night trying to find the lights," said Fritz Kahl, who came here from Iowa in 1943 to help train World War II pilots at the old Marfa Army Air Base and decided to stay after the base was closed in 1945. Today, the old base east of town is a cattle ranch where the lights are usually seen, and Kahl is the manager of the Marfa Airport.

"I could see them from the plane. It's a low glow from the air, yellow and red — the color varies. They move around," he said.

"They're nothing to be scared of. It's a local phenomenon. It could be a low grade form of Saint Elmo's fire — static electricity. Geologists say it's mineralization of phosphorescent material."

Kahl said whenever you approach one of the lights, they disappear. He said it is "like trying to catch a rainbow."

In 1966, a group of students took sightings from two points along the highway and calculated the location of a mysterious light using the principle of triangulation. They said it was 36 miles north of Runway 32 of the old air base in the foothills of the Chinati Mountains.

When they went to that location they found nothing that could be a source of light.

Nine years later Don Witt, then a physics teacher at Alpine's Sul

Ross State University, launched a more sophisticated, although no more successful, attempt to solve the puzzle of the elusive lights.

Witt used airplanes, four-wheel drive vehicles, survey instruments, two-way radios and several search teams in his 1975 expedition. Afterward he said he thought the mystery light was a mercury vapor light on Kenneth Mellard's ranch, a theory previously dismissed because of the pioneer sightings.

That was five years ago. There have been no major scientific investigations since then, and the lights are still unexplained. Ellison's cowboys thought they were seeing Apache campfires when they drove their cattle through Paisano Pass into the Mitchel Flats nearly a century ago. They were mystified when at daybreak they found no trace of the Indians or their fires, the Junior Historians report.

On a recent summer evening, nine out-of-towners in four separate groups stopped at the white masonry gates of the old air base between Marfa and Alpine to gaze southward in hopes of seeing the fabled lights.

After the sun set, four- or five tiny points of light, twinkling like stars, appeared just below the faint line of mountains in the southern horizon. As it got darker the horizon itself disappeared from view.

"We think they're supposed to be over by the foot of that mountain," said Shari Laidley, one of four schoolteachers from Midland who arrived together.

NM warden accused of striking inmates

SANTA FE (AP) — Gov. Bruce King and two other state government officials have indicated Deputy State Penitentiary Warden Robert E. Montoya may be headed for reassignment in light of allegations he struck two inmates shortly after the Feb. 23 riot at the prison.

The governor, speaking at a press conference Friday, said "in all probability, if the charges are proved to be true," Montoya will be reassigned to another state government job.

However, King later during the same press conference was quoted as saying Montoya should be fired if the allegations against him are proven true. Efforts to get King to clarify his position were unsuccessful.

Montoya, who has been on vacation, returned to Santa Fe Friday and promptly met with acting Corrections Secretary Belarmino Giron and acting Prison Warden Felix Rodriguez.

After the meeting, Giron and Rodriguez issued a statement saying they had offered to find Montoya another state job at a comparable salary.

The allegations were contained in a report released Wednesday by Attorney General Jeff Bingaman. Specifically, Montoya is alleged to have struck two inmates two days after the riot and stomped on the shoeless feet of one of the prisoners. Formal charges have not been filed against Montoya either by the attorney general or district attorney's office.

In a related development, Santa Fe Deputy District Attorney Dick Baker said he had asked the FBI to join in the investigation of allegations against Montoya because of the possibility federal civil rights statutes had been violated.

Baker said the allegations, if substantiated, "clearly come within the scope and intent of civil rights statutes." Baker declined to elaborate on the allegations.

Baker said the local FBI office would conduct an initial investigation and the findings would be forwarded to the civil rights division of the U.S. Justice Department. Baker said that office would then determine if a full-scale federal investigation was warranted.

Giron said Montoya would remain on leave from his job pending the investigation of the allegations and possible reassignment to another state job.
