Some Facts About Social Security Account Numbers

(Editor's Note: The following is the first of a series of four articles on the importance of social security account numbers. The information contained in the series was furnished by Dewey Reed, manager of the Amarillo office of the Social Security Board, located at 324 New Postoffice building. Any additional information desired by our readers concerning the social security program may be secured by calling or addressing an inquiry to the Amarillo office.)

WHY A SOCIAL SECURITY ACCOUNT NUMBER
The importance of a social security account number to a worker or his family should not be overlooked. It is equally as important to the person who is changing jobs from time to time as it is to the man who has a permanent job.

To secure a social security number, it is necessary to fill out an application form and mail it to the field office of the social security board. These forms may be obtained from any field office or any postoffice in a city where the board has a field office.

A social security number is evidence that the social security board has opened an account for the worker. The account contains an accurate record of wages received by the worker from covered employment since December 31, 1936, and up to the time of his retirement from work.

Therefore, the social security account number becomes the key that opens the door to Federal old-age insurance for the worker when he is old. These payments may be in the form of lump-sum benefits or monthly benefits, whichever the worker may qualify for.

Civil Appeals Court Judge At Waco Dies

WACO, Nov. 16 (P)—Funeral services will be held at Corsicana Friday for Ballard W. George, 49, associate justice of the Tenth court of civil appeals.

Rev. Todd Addresses Carson Club Council

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
PANHANDLE, Nov. 16.—Rev. James Todd spoke to members of the Carson County Federation of Women's clubs Monday afternoon on "Family Relations." Rev. Todd stated there are now 250 colleges in the United States teaching courses in "Family Relations." "It is well for young couples contemplating marriage to have mutual tastes in recreation, food, dress, social life, moral standards, and religion," continued Rev. Todd. "So many young people are seeking solution to their problem and unless they find that solution in the home they will seek elsewhere for it," said Rev. Todd. "It takes study time and preparation on the part of the parents to counsel with young people."

Mrs. W. D. Hale of Pampa spoke to the group concerning the collecting of data for the Plains Historical museum at Canyon, and the group voted to sponsor the collecting of the data for this country. The library will be the central point of collecting, with the various clubs of the county cooperating in gathering old records, old letters, newspapers, and relics. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served in the cafeteria by the Cuyler Study club. Conway Community club had charge of the program.

Tommy The Cork Takes Back Seat In FDR Councils

By WILLIAM B. ARDERY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16. (AP)—Thomas G. Corcoran wanders in and out of the White House as usual these days, but he is not raising congressional blood pressures any more.

The 38-year-old attorney—"Tommy the Cork"—to the President—maintains his official position as a $10,000-a-year special counsel for the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

He still aids Mr. Roosevelt with special problems, works actively on the formulation of domestic governmental policies, and takes a lively interest in national politics. Some Washington acquaintances say he believes strongly that Mr. Roosevelt should seek a third term.

But times have changed since Corcoran was denounced in Congress as a sinister leader in "an invisible government" and was accused of marking and administration legislators for political oblivion.

For one thing, the war in Europe has shifted attention from domestic to international problems. Corcoran always has specialized in domestic matters.

Some anti-administration legislators, who used to contend they could pick Corcoran phrases from nearly every speech the President made, are saying now that they can detect none of this ideas in Mr. Roosevelt's recent declarations on international policy.

The belief also is spreading in some congressional circles that Corcoran was credited with a lot of things he never did.

When Mr. Roosevelt proposed his Supreme Court reorganization plan, Washington gossips jumped to the conclusion Corcoran was its author. Although he did work unsuccessfully for passage of the bill, it now is conceded generally he had no hand in preparing it.

Corcoran used to be a frequent visitor to the capitol, but it's been a long time since he has been seen in the legislative corridors.

Some of his friends say Corcoran has a real "passion for anonymity" and is happy in the belief he has learned the technique of doing his work without stirring up controversy in Congress.

McLean Lions Club Postpones Carnival

Special To The NEWS

McLEAN, Nov. 16.—The proposed Lions club carnival has been indefinitely postponed. It was announced Tuesday by the finance committee of the McLean Lions club.

The postponement resulted when space large enough to hold the proposed carnival was unavailable. Money raised from it would have gone in the club work in helping underprivileged children.

Charlie Thut, W. E. James, and Ralph Thomas, all of Pampa, were guests at the meeting Tuesday.

Thompson Asks API To Back Cole Bill

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (AP)—The American Petroleum Institute, now in convention at Chicago, was asked today by Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson to take a stand on the Cole bill, which would give the federal government at least partial control over oil production.

"It would be most helpful in our fight for states' rights," Thompson said in telegrams to A. P. I. officials. "If the American Petroleum Institute would by resolution show how it stands on the Cole bill, the Independent Petroleum Association of America went on record unanimously as opposed to it."

Thompson, who is chairman of the Interstate Oil company commission, issued a statement in response to reports in some quarters that the Cole bill possibly would be dropped if the federal government is given greater voice in compact commission policies.

"If what is meant by the suggestion," Thompson said, "is that we should avail ourselves of the government's statistical data, then that is just fine and we welcome all the federal government engineering information and statistical data we can get from whatever source."

"On the other hand, if the government intends to use force or compulsion, then the greatest power of the compact will be destroyed."

Inconsistency Supreme

It is rather inconsistent to complain about the high cost of living while, at the same time, encouraging legislation and practices to penalize merchandising efficiency.

Consumer, farmer, labor and press have time and again gone formally on record in opposition to laws which artificially force prices up. Yet a very sizable clique of politicians, totally disregarding the vital interests of the great masses of people, have stayed awake nights thinking up new ways of eliminating competition and progress. Well over half the states have so-called "fair trade" laws, under which, in most cases, the manufacturer is permitted to fix the minimum retail price at which trade-marked articles may be sold—thus forcing the low-cost store to maintain the price that is agreeable to the high-cost store up the street. "Loss leader" laws are in effect in many states, though practice has shown that they are next to impossible to enforce except at tremendous cost to the state, and are unfair to consumer and merchant alike.

It is obvious that there is but one way the cost of living may be held to a minimum, and that is by encouraging the freest possible play of business competition. That means competition in distribution no less than competition in production. A saving effected in farm or factory is of no worth to the consumer if the law makes obligatory undue waste in the distribution process. If the politicians have forgotten that, it is up to the public, in self-protection, to awaken their dormant memories.

The Community Loses

As everyone knows, when the subsidized government electric projects take over private utilities, tremendous sums in taxes are lost to cities, counties, states and nation—sums which must be made up by increasing the levies paid by the remaining taxpayers.

Today communities are learning that socialization of private industry means severe losses in still other ways. The private utilities are always among the principal contributors to the Community Chest, the Red Cross, and all other charitable and civic betterment drives. Utility men as a rule give freely of their time and energy to helping the drives attain their goals. Government projects, such as the TVA and the Bonneville Administration, do not contribute for these purposes. They assume no leadership in local problems. Instead of being part and parcel of the community, in every phase of community life, they are separate and aloof.

And the community loses in other ways that cannot be measured in dollars and cents alone. It is the traditional American feeling that local endeavors should be advanced by local men, in close touch with local needs and conditions. A government agency, operating under a stringent, politically-dominated policy prescribed in Washington, can hardly be adapted to local problems and ambitions.

The Nation's Press

HAM, EGGS AND WAGE EARNERS (Los Angeles Times)

Wage earners have as much interest, or more, in defeating Ham 'n' Eggs as any other class of the population. For no matter who else is damaged by the scheme, the wage earner will be hit.

He will be hit by a flood of rising prices. The warrant inflation, which is contemplated by the Ham 'n' Eggs plan, will send prices sky high and make money scarce. In inflation, wages never go up as fast as prices.

He will be hit by the gross income tax, which will raise prices still higher. Under it, a 3 per cent tax is to be charged on every transaction which will more than double the present sales tax, because its effects will be pyramided. A loaf of bread, for example, will pay five new 3 per cent taxes between the farmer and the consumer.

He will be hit by the depression in business. Every business that can do so will flee the State; many others will simply quit, and thousands upon thousands will be thrown out of work. For such jobs as remain, Californians will be in competition with hordes of newcomers lured here by the promise of a free living after 50.

He will be hit by the loss of "social security." The United States government will not take Ham 'n' Eggs "warrants" and since the State will have nothing else in its treasury, it cannot maintain its unemployment-insurance fund and other funds collected under the Social Security program.

Even if the 730-scheme should work, it would merely force the wage earner to work harder to supply the demands of the drones over 50—and to get nothing for it. The cost of pensioning Californians over 50 will be $1,248,000,000 a year, every penny of which must be paid by the remaining producers. That sum is $80,000,000 more than the total annual wages of all present California workers.

THE BAPTISTS REITERATE

Maryland Baptists restated their opposition to compulsory religious marriage ceremonies last week. The restatement was in the form of a resolution urging provision for civil marriages for those who do not want the sanction of the church. Baptists have always been firm believers in the separation of church and state as essential to complete religious liberty, and their attitude on the marriage question is entirely consistent with that principle. The law that requires marriage by the church is an invasion of the rights of those who for reasons of their own, hold themselves apart from the church and prefer to regard matrimony as a civil contract.

Religious marriages are an embarrassment to such people, and to clergymen as well, when confronted by persons whose marriage they do not approve. The clergy face the dilemma of, on one hand, their scruples, and on the other the fact that the state of Maryland has licensed them to wed and demands that the ceremony be a religious rite. The whole responsibility for the state's mistakes is shifted to the men of the cloth, for when the wrong people marry nobody ever thinks of placing the blame on the clerk of the Court of Common Pleas.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

By R. C. Hoiles

WHY SUCH LOW PROFITS? When we hear the theorists, New Dealers and Ham and Eggers proclaiming big profits in business, it is evident that they have no conception whatever as to the difficulties in securing earnings.

If there be profits, as they contend, why are people having their money invested in places where they get such meager returns? For proof of this, pick up any paper that carries the complete stock markets. It will be noted that bonds for the Bell Telephone Company in Pennsylvania, due in nine years, are selling at a yield of 1 1/4 per cent. The bonds for Liggett & Myers, due in five years, are selling on a 2 per cent basis. The debentures, which are not even bonds but plain notes, of the Socony Vacuum Oil Company, due in 25 years, are selling on less than a 3 per cent basis. This means that a man has a dollar invested for a whole year and only gets this much return or profit for the use of this dollar.

This low yield, the lowest in our history, is due to the present hazards in business—and these hazards are government laws that penalize initiative and interfere with good judgment. It is for this reason that people are willing to take, even on a nine-year investment, a return of 1 1/4 per cent; on a 25-year investment, a return of less than 3 per cent.

These bad laws of the government are due to the miseducation and economic inexperience of the voters. The problem of correcting this is in each community where Congressmen are elected. If such a large number of the people at home did not believe in magic—such as the Townsend Plan, Ham and Eggs plan, pensions, New Deal spending plan—we would not have these kinds of laws in Washington. It is a question of educating people in their own community.

That is the reason this newspaper is throwing its columns open for a free and frank discussion so that light may be thrown on economic and political problems. If there is a free and open discussion, the truth will prevail. In so many places, such as the churches, the schools, the after-dinner clubs, and political radio speeches, only one side is presented. There is not a free discussion.

To Aid of Country Many people, who have understood the thing, have neglected to do their duty by standing up and challenging demagogic people who are seeking to play on the inexperience of the honest worker. As the copy book says, "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country." In standing up and exposing these something-for-nothing schemes that are being advocated and which make it almost impossible for any man with foresight and judgment to use his talents to make it possible for each man to earn a decent living.

DEMOCRACY DECIDES HOW, BUT NOT WHAT TO DO

The democracy that will bring prosperity and the highest possible standard of living is a government by agreement of the people. And this agreement of the people, includes all but anarchists, who want no government.

Where people have become confused in the last few decades is they believe that democracy means deciding what we want the government to do and not how we want the government to do it. Every rational person agrees that we want our life, our liberty, our property and our freedom protected. We cannot have a moral right to vote on these questions. We must not decide such fundamental and natural questions by majority rule, but decide, by majority rule, HOW to do these things. It makes all the difference in the world whether democracy means HOW or WHAT to do.

Behind The News Of The Day

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—Experts on labor disputes here believe that the recent history of the textile industry offers a valuable tip to the auto industry in wrangles like the one currently causing a costly stoppage of work in the Chrysler plants.

Central point of this dispute is the speed at which certain operations are put through. The union demands a voice in setting that speed. The company replies that to grant it would be a long first step toward admitting the union to a share in the management of the organization.

TEXTILE INDUSTRY HIT SIMILAR SNAG

The textile industry hit the same snag several years ago and management alike. It did this largely by using the services of a skilled technical staff maintained by the Division of Conciliation of the U. S., which was the Division of Conciliation of the U. S. Here's how this body works:

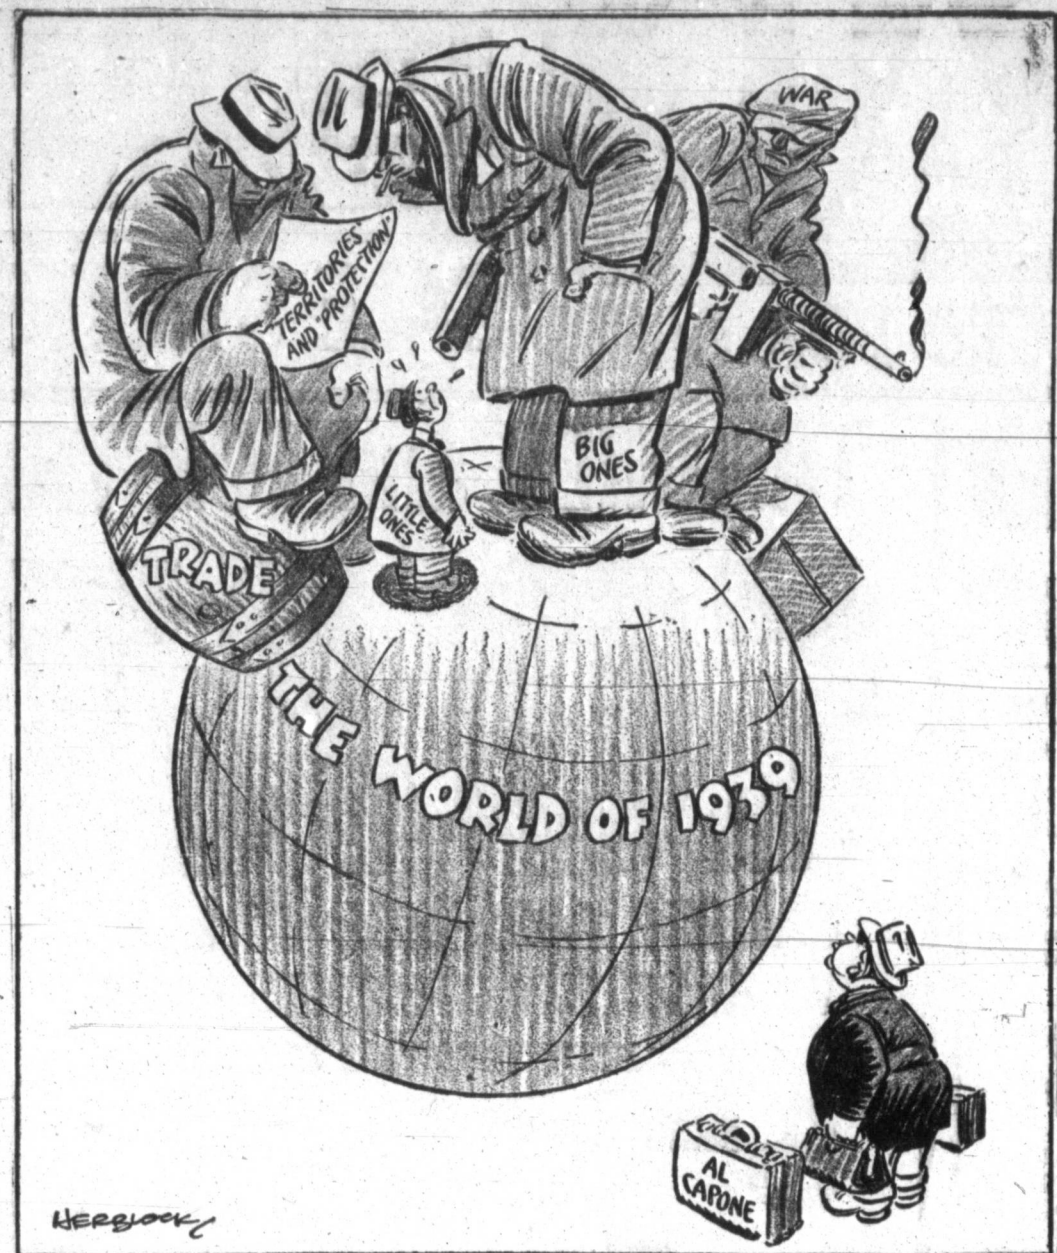

A dispute over speed of operations arises in a textile mill. Representatives of management and labor argue and reach no agreement.

The Division of Conciliation offers its service and they are accepted. A government technical expert comes to the scene.

He makes a detailed stop-watch study of the operation in question. Then he makes studies of similar operations in other textile mills—in as many as 15 or 20, sometimes. He comes back, calls in both sides, and explains his findings.

By showing how the operation-speed in the local mill compares with the average for similar plants, and by calling on his own technical knowledge to suggest ways in which adjustments can be made, he

STILL, IN SOME WAYS IT'S VERY FAMILIAR

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD—This is just a story about a pretty girl. If you aren't interested in pretty girls, per se, you may skip it and turn back to the war news.

Oh, so you're still around? Well maybe this girl whose name is verbal, too. I thought she gave an interesting sample of her wares in this department in "Elizabeth and Essex." She was the girl who broke down and cried in sympathy for Liz, because she, too, was a woman in love, and she, too, was a-missin' her man who was away fighting Liz's battles.

Mike Curtiz, who directed the picture, got that scene by telling Nanette she was a terrible actress. Mike liked Nanette in the part, but things weren't going too well on the set that day. Nanette wasn't crying correctly, and she was forgetting her lines, and she was nervous.

"Nanette," pronounced Mike with finality, "you're a terrible actress!" And Nanette broke down and cried, and Mike with a wink at the camera said all right they'd try it again, just rehearse it. And Nanette couldn't stop crying, and they "rehearsed" it, and when they finished, that was it, the scene. This Curtiz is a fly scilla sometimes.

Fabrics (pronounced it Fa-bar-raise) is an old Louisiana French name. Nanette's mother is of Irish descent. Nanette was born in New Orleans but she didn't grow up on gumbo, jambalaya and luscious oysters on the half-shell. Her mother brought her to Hollywood when she was three, and she has visited New Orleans only once since, very recently.

She is a pretty young thing, nice slim figure, long dark hair, intelligent and pretty dark eyes. She doesn't think she's a pretty young thing. She says Perc Westmore, the make-up man, has despaired of her. Says Perc kept telling her she had "bad camera angles" until she asked in desperation if he had any good angles. "No," said Perc.

Nanette was a baby dancing star on California stages, a "single" act, and later taught dancing to earn her way through school.

She had to give up dancing—tap, ballet, aerobic, all kinds—a few years ago when his strenuous demands threatened to ruin her health. She never tried pictures, except for a brief sally in "Our Gang," of which she remembers little, until her work in a little theater won a screen test. The test was terrible, she says, and she kept on working in the little theater. She won a scholarship at Max Reinhardt's drama school, and a second chance at pictures. This time the test was better, and she played in "A Child Is Born."

W. C. (Lefty) Pendleton is an old-fashioned country boy with old-fashioned but honest ideas about work and going to school. Lefty's type is rare in these days of chiseling and "suction." He lives outside the city limits on the Miami highway, and he and his sister, Tommie Joe, walk to school. At noon they walk back home and fix their own lunch. After school Lefty works out with the Guerrillas, and is one of the backfield stars on that team.

His left-handed, passing has helped win games for the Guerrillas, and helps fix breakfast. He works all day Saturday at a grocery store—if they can use him. He caddies at the golf course all day Sunday. You may ask what he does in his spare time. Well, sometime during the week he washes and irons his clothes, and sweeps and scrubs the floors of his house which is as clean as a pin. He also passes his courses. Well a week or so ago, when the Guerrillas went to Lakeview to play a game, Lefty noticed that the ccton and feed crops had not been entirely gathered, and he decided he'd take off a week after the Guerrilla season had ended to pick cotton and head maize for clothes money. So he took off last Sunday for Wheeler where he has a host of folks, and he's down there this week working in the fields.

The note he left said, "I'm going to work a week—I need the money and I can't get a job in Pampa after school. I can catch up in my school work when I get back." Lefty who is a silent boy thinks he doesn't do more than he ought to in shifting for himself, and he never mentions it—and he won't approve this write-up.

ness not too starting in these uncertain days when many contracts are being forgotten. "I may go to New York for a Reinhardt production, anyway."

One of his boys, facetious-like, was telling her they must have a strain on the organ and weakness of the music induced by disease.

By far, the most important type of heart trouble is degeneration of the muscles of the heart, which is shown first by enlargement. An enlargement of the heart results from a strain on the organ and weakness of the muscle induced by disease.

Nine conditions accounted for 72 per cent of the deaths in the United States in 1937. The series of articles which follow is a study of these causes of death. People can, if they will, help cut down the total number of deaths from these causes and also prolong their own lives.

- The nine killers are: 1. Diseases of the heart. 2. Inflammation and pneumonia. 3. Cancers and other malignant tumors. 4. Nephritis or inflammation of the kidneys. 5. Hemorrhage of the brain and softening of the brain. 6. Tuberculosis. 7. Malformations at birth or other diseases that attack babies before the age of one. 8. Motor vehicle accidents. 9. Diabetes.

Heart disease led all other causes of death, being responsible for almost one-fourth, or exactly 23.9 per cent of the total. It destroyed 346,401 lives. Once it took its toll primarily among youth. But it has changed somewhat in the nature of its attack on the human body, and is more important as a cause of death in older people.

Among people 60 years of age, heart disease caused 33.9 per cent of the deaths. Among youth between the ages of 5 and 19, it caused 6.4 per cent of deaths.

Today the diseases of the heart that destroy life are chiefly chronic diseases. The probability that a human being will eventually die from chronic heart disease is 1 1/2 times the chance that he will die either from tuberculosis or cancer.

Heart disease is the leading cause of death at almost every period of life, being outranked only by accidents and appendicitis among males at the ages of 10 to 14.

Heart diseases is not a single condition. It includes many different factors. There is inflammation of the lining of the heart, which is caused chiefly by infections. There is disease of the valves of the heart, which is frequently caused by infections, but which may result, as well from the degenerative changes that take place with age.

Certain valvular diseases, like that of the mitral valve, are chiefly of rheumatic origin. Another valve is attacked more often by gophils. Disease of the aorta, the large blood vessel which leads from the heart, is more common in middle life and affects men more often than women.

THE CITY OF FLINT

From the boxer headlines one might think that Germany is an international outlaw in detaining the U. S. S. City of Flint. But seizure of the ship was apparently entirely legal. If so, the question must arise why little or no publicity has been given to the fact that England, also acting within her rights, has seized and taken to British ports a dozen ships flying the American flag, and has already confiscated some hundreds of thousands of tons of cargo alleged to be destined for German consignees. Why does the City of Flint alone get the headlines and the seizure of other American ships under similar conditions and with apparently equal legality, cause no alarm bells to ring in Washington?

Assuming that there is still such a thing as international law, the right to stop and search neutral vessels is a right of war which all belligerents may lawfully exercise for the purpose of determining whether the vessel and its cargo or any part of it are subject to capture.

A neutral ship may be searched for contraband cargo on the high seas or it may be taken into a port of call for the purpose of examination for the purpose of determining if it is found that it has contraband cargo, the cargo may be removed and held as England has already done in several instances. In due course a prize court will then sit and hear evidence as to the legality of the seizure and the question whether the cargo is in fact contraband, giving notice to all parties concerned so that they may have their day in court. If the prize court decides after hearing the cargo is contraband, it may be confiscated by the nation capturing it without compensation to anyone.

Neutrals have a perfect right under international law to ship contraband to belligerents if they can do so. The exercise of this right on the part of neutrals is subject only to the risk of hazard of capture and forfeiture of the property involved. As on a football game, a player may advance the ball if it can; the other may stop it if it can.

The unusual circumstance in the case of the City of Flint is that the ship was first taken to a neutral port rather than to a German port to take it to a German port.

It can be done lawfully only to a neutral port, and the ship must leave the neutral port as soon as possible. It can not there be permanently laid up.

This was decided by the U. S. Supreme Court in the case of the British steamer Appam which was captured by the German cruiser Moewe during the World War, while the United States was still a neutral, and brought to Hampton Roads, Virginia. The Court held that Germany could not store the Appam in a neutral port permanently and ordered the boat to be returned to her British owners.

The Secretary of State has therefore very properly requested Russia to require the ship to leave Russian territorial waters. Russia has complied with the situation now is the same so far as Germany, her enemies and the United States are concerned as if it had never gone to a Russian port in the first instance. Germany now has a perfect right to take the ship to a German port if she can.

The parallel between the Appam and the City of Flint is very close, with the possible exception that we might contend that Russia should have ordered the City of Flint to be restored to its American crew rather than to British man prize crew. But this seems to be a point entirely between the United States and Russia and not between the United States and Germany. Anyhow, who is going to war with Russia over this when England and France have not gone to war with Russia who took half of Poland?

If the American government is sincere in its desire to remain strictly neutral in the pending struggle as it says it is, it would seem appropriate for the Department of State to inform the American people that there is nothing unusual in this case, that Germany in seizing the City of Flint did the very thing which England has done in the past few weeks on numerous occasions, without any protest from this government.

What we must guard against is a distortion of foreign news which is apt to create resentments likely to bring America into the war. Such a warning was given by the American Federation of Labor at its recent convention in Cincinnati. It said: "Already policies are being advocated which on the surface, seem to be neutral and fully justified, but which, if approved, would lead our nation to take those first steps which, when taken, would of necessity lead to others which in turn would so commit our national policy as to irrevocably and irretrievably force us into war."

10,000 Open Deer Season At Kerrville

KERRVILLE, Nov. 16 (AP)—Snappy weather opened the deer and turkey season in the hazy, purple-clad hill country today, testing the skill of possibly 10,000 hunters and women who tumbled out of cedar brake camps at dawn.

For the first time in many years, the honor of bringing in the first bucks in Kerrville and Mason, strongholds of the deer-shooting area, went to women instead of men.

The first buck, an eight-pointer, to appear in Kerrville was shot by Mrs. V. B. Hodges of Graggton about five miles northwest of the city. This 19-year-old brunette, who bagged her quarry at 100 yards, elatedly announced it was her first victim.

At Mason, the laurels went to Mrs. M. E. Carter of Brownwood, who shot a six-pointer on a ranch south of the city.

Norman Bodt was reported to have shot the first deer in the San Antonio district, a fat eight-pointer. Warden Arthur Hitzfelder of the Alamo City beat other wardens to the draw by making the first deer season arrest at about 3 a. m.

The offender paid a $30 fine for head-lighting.

A dispute over who brought in the first buck developed at Comfort where four hunters appeared almost simultaneously with bucks strapped to automobiles. Rudy Doessler, who shot an eight-pointer at 125 yards, claimed the prize of two quarts of whiskey, offered by a merchant.

Hunting licenses had been issued to out-of-state nimrods from Alabama, California, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Louisiana and Pennsylvania by Warden J. J. Bent of Kerrville.

Reports to temporary state game department headquarters here indicate hundreds of hunters took the field in Colorado, Goliad, Trinity and Angeline counties while Warden Tom Redford of Jeff Davis county estimated 250 male deer bucks would fall in the trans-Pecos region the first day.

Fred Thompson, in charge of temporary headquarters, said many of the hunters who stocked up on supplies in Kerrville, asserted they could kill no turkeys since the birds had suffered heavily from drought. The department had appealed to hunters to withhold their fire.

Auditor Hunted In Forged Bond Sale

GLEN ROSE, Nov. 16 (AP)—F. A. Braun, Dallas auditor, was sought today on charges of selling Sonoma county three $1,000 forged Fisher county road bonds.

Sheriff G. W. Biddle, who filed the charges, said he understood Braun was wanted in connection with bond deals in other counties.

Disclosure that the bonds had been forged came when coupons from them were sent to George A. Hight, chief accountant for the board of county and district road bond indebtedness at Austin, for collection.

Last Monday Braun, who had been employed by Somervell and other counties as a special auditor for several years, was discharged by the county commissioners court.

directed from the Pampa office are to be held Monday.

The new state department supersedes the old Texas Relief commission and the Texas Old Age Assistance commission, but does not abolish the functions of either, as it merges these in the new organization.

County Gains Recognition

That Pampa has been selected as one of the 37 area offices of the state department was gratifying to County Judge Sherman White and the county commissioners.

Judge White pointed out the value of the recognition given Pampa and Gray county by the establishment of the area office here, and how this would serve to make state officials more interested in this county.

Not since 1935 has Pampa had any recognition as a relief center to even compare with the establishment of the area office here. Four years ago Pampa and Amarillo together shared the administration of relief in the Panhandle, with one office of the Texas Relief commission here, the other in Amarillo.

Later the Pampa office was discontinued, shortly after the Works Progress administration headquarters were established in Amarillo.

Office Temporarily Same

For the present the offices of the county case worker and of the Texas Old Age Assistance commission will remain as they are, with the area supervisor and county case worker located on the third floor and the Texas Old Age Assistance commission on the second floor of the court house. Within a fortnight however, a realignment of court house offices will occur, and space is made for the new department.

Subject of Prof. Sweeney's talk will be "Utilization of Agricultural Products and Its Relation to the Segregation of Population."

The most interesting part of the lecture has to do with the display of the numerous commercial products which can be made from agricultural waste materials and the way this is carried out. Some slides will be shown.

Uncle Sam To Open War On Hookworm

DALLAS, Nov. 16 (AP)—Federal agencies will launch a campaign against hookworm infestation in East Texas and eastern Oklahoma. C. M. Evans, regional Farm Security administration director, said the plans called for improving sanitary conditions about the dwellings of low income farmers. He said the work would be done in co-operation with the WPA and the National Youth administration.

With $240,000 already allocated the FSA for the work, plans have been drawn which it is believed will provide $1,000,000 worth of construction for the project, Evans said.

A survey which disclosed hookworm infestation averaging well above 50 per cent of the population led to the campaign. Evans said more than $100 could be allotted any one family and that the money could be spent only for materials.

and Texans who went to the Oklahoma Chamber of Commerce banquet Tuesday night where George Mencham of Clinton state highway commissioner, was the principal speaker, were principally to point out to the commission that these two states already have their portion of the Denver-to-Oklahoma City highway ready for completion, and to ask that Oklahoma take immediate action to pave the Oklahoma end of the important interstate route.

It was pointed out by several speakers at the Tuesday night banquet of the wholesalers and manufacturers' division of the Chamber of Commerce that the road is useless as a through market highway unless all of it is paved.

Delegates' Incident

The Texas and Colorado delegates came away from the meeting confident that there will be action on the much-needed Oklahoma highway 41 road paving road program that may see completion of the road surfacing within the next year or two. Their Oklahoma neighbors on the unpaved portions of the road shared this confidence.

Two meetings were held along the route going to Oklahoma City Tuesday. A short session was held with citizens at Sayre and a business session and luncheon was held at Binger, Okla., at noon.

At the Binger business session J. I. Lowry, of Sayre, Okla., was elected president of the Oilfield Highway No. 41 Association, succeeding J. M. Collins, of Pampa, who served the association as president during the past year. Three vice presidents were elected. They are Max Buchanan, Lamar, Colo.; H. M. Wheeler, Tex.; and J. M. Arnold, Cordell, Okla.

Reeves Elected Secretary

Garnet Reeves, manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, was elected secretary of the association at its 121st annual meeting. Each town along the highway from Denver to Oklahoma City will be asked to elect a director for the association and to send his name to the secretary at Pampa as soon as this selection has been made.

The banquet in Oklahoma City was held at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday. Oklahomaans who had charge of arrangements for the Chamber of Commerce meeting, which was attended by 150 persons included R. A. Sirelary, manager of the good roads committee; E. L. Boazark, chairman of the Oklahoma Wholesale and Manufacturers Association; Val Adams, chairman of the project and policy committee; and I. G. Bentley.

Pampa's delegation on the road trip included Dan E. Williams, Charles Burton, L. H. Johnson, K. Ph. of Barger, H. M. Wylie, Fred Ashley, and Max Wylie, of Wheeler; Bub Eastham, of Sweetwater, Okla.

From Dalhart were Dan Spencer, Elmer Elliott, R. H. Wain, and Judge John Honts. Oklahoma towns represented delegations included Sayre, Cordell, Union City, Cozar, Binger, Minco, and Oklahoma City.

High Heels Clicking Beat Murder Prelude

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 16 (AP)—A quiet little man went to prison today for six to 12 years because he killed a neighbor whose wife's clicking heels destroyed the quietness he wanted while listening to a radio church service.

John Black, 42-year-old former bricklayer and World War veteran, pleaded guilty to stabbing fatally Harry Brady, Jr., 22, last February but swore that "God knows I didn't want to kill anybody." He was adjudged guilty of second degree murder.

"Justice wasn't done in this case," shouted the enraged father of Black's victim. "A life has been taken and the man who took it has been sent to jail for six years."

Black said he was disturbed by the 21-year-old Mrs. Brady's high heels thumping across the floor of an apartment which the Brady's and Blacks shared. When he protested, he said the husband intervened and a fight resulted.

Mrs. Brady, appearing in court with her 15-month-old son, still wore the slippers that beat out a prelude to murder.

Ranger Wins Dam Fight With Strawn

AUSTIN, Nov. 16 (AP)—The town of Ranger was victorious today in a court controversy with the neighboring town of Strawn concerning dams on Russell creek.

The Austin Court of Civil Appeals held that Strawn had no right to appeal from an order of the state water board a year ago granting Ranger permission to construct a dam three miles upstream from Strawn's reservoir. Strawn contended the creek could not supply both lakes.

The court said its judgment in no way affects or adjudicates whatever rights Strawn may have to enjoy Ranger from building the dam or appropriating the waters of the creek in a pendency suit brought for that purpose in the proper forum."

Bennett said there would be some watch of Capone's condition, but declined to say how long he would be given this attention. Bennett said he probably would make the public next week.

The director declined to say what his condition was. Earlier Bennett had announced the release. He said:

"Capone was transferred today from the federal correctional institution near Los Angeles to Lewisburg."

"The decision to discharge him today was based on a petition filed by attorneys requesting credit for three days he spent in federal custody between October 24, 1931 to October 25, 1931, the date on which the United States circuit court of appeals suspended execution of judgment under which he was originally sentenced on October 24, 1931."

"Capone began service of a 10-year penitentiary sentence for evasion of income taxes May 4, 1932 and completed this portion of his sentence on Jan. 19, 1939 upon which date he began service of the sentence of one year for failure to file his income tax return."

"With allowances for good behavior and credit for three days spent in jail in October, 1931, Capone's sentence expired November 16, 1939."

Bennett's announcement did not say what relatives were on hand to welcome the one-time racketeer as he left the penitentiary, a free man.

Even as Capone was released, Captain Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's office in Chicago said of the recent assassination of Turpin: "Edward J. O'Hare:

"There's no longer any doubt about it being a Capone job."

By "a Capone job," Gilbert said he meant to lay the killing at the door of what is left of the gangster organization Al Capone once ruled.

Europe War No Help To Price Of Cotton

Texas Pecan Crop Drops Below Average

AUSTIN, Nov. 16 (AP)—The Texas pecan crop was estimated today by the U. S. Department of Agriculture at 17,400,000 pounds as compared to 23,000,000 last year and a 10-year average production of 25,120,000.

The marketing service attributed the short crop to drought and insect damage. It said pecans were almost a failure in the important producing areas of south central and southeastern Texas and that while production was "off" in practically all areas, the relatively larger crops came from the western nut-yielding counties and those along the Red river.

Somewhat lower production totals were shown in the Nov. 1 report for corn, grain sorghum and peanuts but rice yields were above earlier expectations and no material changes were noted in other crops.

Butler

Court building were soon lowered to half mast.

Born in a Minnesota log cabin, Butler practiced law at St. Paul until appointed to the court in 1922 by President Harding, a Republican.

Because he had been attorney for several railroads and many corporations, several midwestern progressives fought his confirmation.

Physically he was a large man with piercing blue eyes, a round face and curling hair.

Thoroughly Irish

Away from his judicial duties, he was a genial story teller. Genealogically he was thoroughly Irish. He and his father, whose name was Patrick, both were born on St. Patrick's day.

Butler wrote the 1936 opinion holding unconstitutional a New York law fixing minimum wages for women. It was reversed a few months later.

The justice asserted that such legislation was "repugnant to the due process clause of the fourteenth amendment" in that it deprived women of the right to contract.

He also wrote a dissent to the majority opinion holding unconstitutional the unemployment insurance provisions of the social security act. He contended that "the statutory scheme is repugnant to the tenth (state rights) amendment."

Butler had not participated in recent decisions of the court. Mr. Roosevelt already has appointed Justices Hugo L. Black, Stanley Reed, Felix Frankfurter and William O. Douglas.

Negro Argues For Equal School Pay

BALTIMORE, Nov. 16 (AP)—A negro school principal's claim he received less than white teachers in comparable jobs because of "racial discrimination," left in federal court today a constitutional issue which may affect thousands of negro teachers throughout the nation.

Argued before a U. S. judge for the first time, it raises the question whether separate wage scales for white and negro teachers violates the 14th amendment to the Constitution.

Grandmother, Uncle Murderer Charged

COMANCHE, Nov. 16 (AP)—A Comanche county grand jury returned indictments today charging Henry Haynes with slaying his grandmother and his uncle. The woman, Mrs. Martha McGuire, 61, and her son, J. B. 7,556,000 American Youth Foster International Amity Facts learned about other lands and peoples are used by Junior Red Cross members in their publications and school room studies.

IN THE American Junior Red Cross the youth of this country have an organization of their own through which they can effectively participate in the life and needs of their time. That is the verdict of authorities on education who have witnessed the remarkable growth of this movement from the days of the World War. It is now the largest youth organization in the United States, with a membership of 7,556,000.

One of the most important aspects of Junior Red Cross activities, it has been pointed out, is the development among its members of a sense of social responsibility. These characteristics are by-products of participation in social service and community welfare projects which the local memberships initiate.

The parents showed a desire to know about the actual workings of the school and future meetings of the room mothers will be given over entirely to questions and answers about the school as it is the primary purpose of the room mother organization to bring the home and school into closer contact.

Championships To Be On Line In Three Texas Loops

(By The Associated Press.)
Championships of all three of Texas college football conferences will be on the line this week-end while the two independents—Texas Tech and Hardin-Simmons—play attractive inter-sectional games.

North Texas State battles East Texas State at Denton and if the Eagles win they will bag the Lone Star conference title from the defending champions. Should East Texas win, however, there is a chance for a terrific snarl. Sam Houston, in a virtual tie for second place with the Lions, plays last-place Southwest Texas State and would be the party of the third part in the scramble if they also came through.

St. Edward's can clinch at least a tie for the Texas conference crown Thursday night by beating impotent Austin college at Austin. St. Edward's is leading but only because second-place Abilene Christian college has not played as many games as the Crusaders. A. C. C. meets Howard Payne at Abilene and should A. C. C. lose it would leave St. Edward's high and dry with the title.

Texas A. and I. meets St. Mary's at Kingsville in a crucial Alamo conference game Saturday while West Texas State tangles with Sul Ross at Alpine. West Texas and A. and I. are tied for the lead and should they win their game Nov. 30 would be for the championship. However, there could be a tie should St. Mary's and Sul Ross win.

Hardin-Simmons goes to Las Cruces, N. M., to play New Mexico State Aggies of the Border conference and Texas Tech entertains Marquette at Lubbock in inter-sectional games by the state's independents.

El Paso Mines of the Border conference also has an inter-sectional tilt, engaging Louisiana Tech at El Paso.

McMurry and Stephen F. Austin are the only Texas college teams without games this week.

The week's schedule:
Thursday night—Austin college vs. St. Edward's at Austin; Friday—Sam Houston vs. Southwest Texas at Huntsville (day); Southwestern vs. Daniel Baker at Brownwood (night); Hardin-Simmons vs. New Mexico Aggies at Las Cruces, N. M. (day); Saturday—East Texas State vs. North Texas State at Denton (day); Trinity vs. Texas Wesleyan at Fort Worth (day); Howard Payne vs. Abilene Christian college at Abilene (day); St. Mary's vs. Texas A. and I. at Kingsville (night); West Texas State vs. Sul Ross at Alpine (day); Louisiana Tech vs. El Paso Mines at El Paso (day); Marquette vs. Texas Tech at Lubbock (day).

Phillips To Play White Deer Friday

Special To The News
WHITE DEER, Nov. 16—The White Deer Bucks will play their last scheduled game of the season when they meet the Phillips Blackhaws Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Bucks field.

Coach Gene McCollum of White Deer, who has a way of keeping his boys in tip-top condition, will depend largely on his strong line and running attack, led by Bill Hawkins, 133 pound quarterback.

The Bucks, joined by the mighty Panhandle Panthers last Friday and believe they will take the Blackhaws, although the Blackhaws have a good passing attack and are expected to be plenty tough.

The Bucks will be outweighed several pounds to the man, but they have come through long and hard workouts this week and are looking mighty good.

player will do. Crain makes the tackle indicate how he will tackle, whereupon he sidesteps. A tackler always tries to make the runner show. Crain outsmarts many tacklers.

Asked why Southern Methodist and Baylor "stopped" Crain, Mann replied he had not seen the Baylor Texas game but that at Dallas Crain played a fine game.

"He had a good average," Mann said. "And what would he have done had he had on his side such well-rounded teams as the Mustangs and the Aggies have?"

The Attorney General hopped to an "opinion" on A. & M. and this year's grid representative of his alma mater.

"The Aggies have a great football team," he said. "The Mustangs also are plenty good."

Mann hasn't had a football in his hands for several years, and he reads far more law than sports pages. But he keeps up with gridiron doings in the Southwest Conference generally, as a former conference star would be expected to do.

Thirty-two years old, father of a nine-year-old boy and a younger girl, Mann still weighs and looks about as he did in his playing days. His weight ranges between 150 and 155 pounds.

Despite his comparatively light poundage, Mann never was injured seriously in football.

"I think some men are prone to be injured and others are not," he recalled. "I happened to be a type that is not. I have a brother who, if he fell out of a tree, would always break an arm."

Answering a question, Mann added the sight of a 200-pound tackle charging toward him never frightened him.

"It was sort of inspiration," he said, "an inspiration to sidestep."

He will not "encourage" his boy to play football, he observed. "But I will not discourage him if he wants to," he laughed.

Touted Tyler Will Battle Mighty Waco

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Staff

Texas schoolboy football fans will know tomorrow night whether those glowing stories told about Tyler's football team were the real wool and a yard wide or, in their enthusiasm for a winner, local followers overlooked defects in the fabric.

That is the time Tyler plays mighty Waco.

The games with downtrodden Greenville and twice-beaten Longview have siled away some of the Lions' prestige, but Tyler still remains with the top teams of the state when the critics get together.

Waco, the state's leading scorer, lost an early season game to Woodrow Wilson (Dallas) but in the light of ensuing happenings this was not so bad inasmuch as Woodrow Wilson now looks capable of holding its own with the best of them.

Since that time the Tigers of Paul Tyson have surged through the opposition. The game with Tyler also will be quite a test for the high-ranking Bengals although it is not a conference tilt.

In conference play the eyes of Texas fandom turn to districts 2, 14 and 16.

In district 2 Wichita Falls makes its bid for the championship against the surprising Childress Bobcats, now leading the race by a half-game margin.

In district 14 undefeated, untied South Park plays another Beaumont team, the Beaumont High Purple, and should South Park win it would clinch no less than a tie for the championship should it lose the remaining game on the schedule.

The defending state champions, Corpus Christi's hitherto rather mild buccaners, sparked by Pat Hall, the all-state end now doing the quarterback chores, battle Robstown for the upper bracket championship of district 16.

The winner will go against Brownsville, which looks like a certainty to represent the lower bracket of the district.

Five of the state's undefeated, untied teams have games this week, two of them meeting strong tests. Brockridge tangles with Vernon and South Park with Beaumont. Sweetwater plays Lamesa. Gainesville engages Bonham and El Paso High meets Bowie (El Paso) and the other team with a perfect record, rests this week.

FRANK IVY

Frank Ivy is a colorful mixture of Swedish and Indian ancestry. With Osage and Cherokee blood constituting the latter, Senior in Oklahoma College of arts and sciences, majoring in physical education and hopes to coach after graduation. Is 23 years old, stands 6 feet 2 inches and weighs 197.

Ivy (Polson Ivy to opposition) is one of nine married men on Sooner squad. Married pretty Inez Daner from home town, who is also part Osage Indian. They live in apartment in Norman, and teamates say reason Ivy is one of best ends in land is because of home cooking.

Hails from little town of Skiatook, Okla., where he was chosen all-state scholastic fullback in 1935.

Father is farmer, living four miles west of Skiatook in Osage Hills, where he grows the tallest corn in the country.

Frank grew up doing farm work and roughnecking in oil wells during summer.

Quiet, level-headed, temperate youth with mild disposition. Favorite diversions are golf and billiards, both of which he plays moderately well. Nick-named "Pop" by teammates because of bald spot. Average student who has never flunked single hour of college work.

Tom Stidham converted him into end, and last year he played both right and left wings. In Oklahoma's Orange Bowl defeat by Tennessee he was Sooner's outstanding flanker, looking much better than All-American Waddy Young. This year he took up where Young left off.

He's a great play-smasher and rushes passers fiercely. Dangerous as punt blocker, is good pass receiver and is Oklahoma's key blocker. Ivy's job is to block opposing left tackle. If he fails Sooner's running game won't go. Ivy tossed Bill DeCorvont for seven-yard loss in Northwestern sophomore's first play in college football. Hasn't missed a minute of play because of injuries this year.

an eye-filling co-ed, to kick one of the extra points.

Dick Fullerton, Pitt center, in a hospital here with a brain concussion he had not seen the Baylor Texas game but that at Dallas Crain played a fine game.

750 Attend Rabid Sooner Gridiron Club

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 16 (AP)—Anyone still so naive as to regard football as a sport and not a disease needs only to attend one of the weekly sessions of the Downtown Quarterbacks' club of this city to learn his error.

There are minor limitations in other cities, but this one is the papa. There were 750 members at the latest meeting, probably a third of them women, and they went to their quarterbacking seriously for three solid hours.

The club, originated by Sports Editor Bus Ham of the Daily Oklahoman, was so modest at first that the charter members met in one restaurant and then another. Now it has been thrown open to the general public in one of the city's swankest ball rooms.

Only conference game in District 1 this week will see Borger in Amarillo Saturday afternoon.

Aggie And Mustang Called Conference's Best Blockers

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT
DALLAS, Nov. 16 (AP)—Two rugged gentlemen who have lifted a rather boring position in football smack into the headlines as here-by nominated as a couple of the best football players in your South-west Conference:

Blocking Backs Jim Thomason of Texas A. and M. and Will Mullenweg of Southern Methodist.

Sad, indeed, that both should come along at the same time. One of the two is going to be done an injustice when the foolishness of naming all-conference and all-America teams starts.

Not since the days that Harrison Stafford made his crunching blocks felt up in Section G, Row 49, has the league had such a pair of handlers. Saturday after Saturday these lads perform in such astounding manner they overshadow the ball carrier.

Thomason, a 198-pound Brown-wood boy who wears a cowboy hat and boots, is terrific. He is the blocker who makes a team like the unbeaten Texas Aggies unbeaten. He's downright vicious when backing up the line. And you can quote Coach Matty Bell of Southern Methodist on that point. He had his arms around Mustangs all afternoon in last Saturday's mud at College Station.

Not only that, he can kick, and kick well. Once in a great while he runs. Shortly before the SMU game last week, down in the dressing

Harvesters Play Touch Football, Then Knock Off

An hour workout of tough football yesterday afternoon ended this week's practice sessions for the Pampa Harvesters who will meet the Borger Bulldogs in the final game of the season. Date of the game has not been definitely decided. It has been set for November 30 but should Borger lose to Amarillo on Saturday the game may be advanced to November 24.

Yesterday's workout was to take out soreness which developed after the tough game with the Amarillo Sandies here Saturday.

This afternoon the Harvesters accompanied the Reapers, Guerrillas and Harvesters eligible for next season to Miami where the combined teams will meet the Warriors.

The Harvesters aren't taking the tussle with Borger lightly. Although the Bulldogs have been kicked around this season they are liable to rise up against the Harvesters. They've done it in the past and they can do it again.

Every Harvesters, with the exception of James Carlisle, will be ready for the game unless scholastic troubles hit them. Even Carlisle wants to don a uniform for the final game, but he will be denied that privilege.

The future Harvesters, composed of the high school Guerrillas, junior high Reapers and five Harvesters who will be eligible next year, were combined Monday and in order to get experience they may play a couple of post season games. As only seven Harvesters can possibly return next year, and it is possible for two of them to graduate, the future Harvesters need all the experience they can get. They'll probably play a game with L-Pors next week.

Only conference game in District 1 this week will see Borger in Amarillo Saturday afternoon.

Christman And Harmon Crowd Eakin As Nation's Leading Gridiron Back

By GAIL FOWLER
SEATTLE, Nov. 16 (AP)—Ray Eakin of Arkansas, the hardest working back in the nation, ranks number one this week as the country's foremost passer and ground-gainer, but a couple of All-American prospects are right on his heels.

The American Football Statistical bureau's records show today that in eight games, Eakin, despite playing with a losing club which has won two, lost five and tied one, netted 1,021 yards from both passes and scrimmage.

Eakin leads also in the number of pass completions, hitting the target 62 times in 149 attempts, with 14 interceptions.

The two All-American candidates, Tom Harmon of Michigan and Paul "Dizzy" Deary of Missouri, rank right behind Eakin in all-around yardage consumption. Harmon in six games gained 907 yards and ranks first in average yardage per game with 151.2. He also leads in average gain per play with 7.64.

Christman is third in net yardage gained with 899 yards, and second in pass completions, with 63 of 110 in seven games, good for 632 yards. He had nine interceptions.

Johnny Knolla of Oregon, last week's all-around leader, was idle and dropped to fourth, his total still standing at 887 yards. Others in the top ten:

(5) Jim "Sweet" LaLanna, North Carolina, tied with Knolla at 887 in eight games; (6) Granny Lansdel, U. S. C., 853 yards in six games; (7) Kenny Washington, U. C. L. A., 843 yards in six games; (8) Banks McPadden, Clemson, 836 in seven games; (9) Nile Kinnick, Iowa All-American candidate, 795 in six games, and (10) Ernie Lain, rice, 762 in seven games.

Those following Harmon in average yards gained per play are Knolla, 7.32 and Jack Crain of Texas, 6.85.

Criminals 'Sick,' Says Matt Brady By REMBERT JAMES SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16 (AP)—America's ten billion dollar annual crime business never will be lifted until society stops trying to "beat the devil" out of evil-doers and treats them as sick men and women. District Attorney Matt Brady said today.

"We have to segregate persons who may harm others, but a prison—as a place of punishment—is a horror and a holdover from the dark ages," he told an interviewer. "The people we call criminals ought to be handled like the insane—which they are, in a way—and the district attorney should be a medical man instead of a lawyer."

"The judge, too, ought to be a medical specialist. "It will be like that in the future, maybe in 25 years. They will handle criminal cases like I try to handle them, only they will do a much better job, because they'll know much more than I know."

Brady, a white-haired lawyer who has held his job for 20 years, is a prosecutor who rarely goes near a courtroom.

"He spends his days in his downtown office, trying to "straighten out" persons who would get scant mercy from prosecutors in our communities.

Assistants handle the court appearances today he thought Mr. Roosevelt should state immediately whether he intended to run again.

"The next election is going to be crucial," Van Nuy said, "and the party and public are entitled to this information so that they can weigh the several candidates and pick the best man in the event President Roosevelt declares he will not run."

"We need a man of poise and experience and not a candidate selected by trades and swaps in a hectic national convention."

Van Nuy is an avowed opponent of a third term.

South China Scene Of Japanese Drive (By The Associated Press) Japanese landing forces today started a new South China drive that promises to be more developments sooner than Europe's stalemated Western Front, where highly equipped armies of the great powers face one another in relative inactivity.

Combined army and navy forces landed near Pakhoi, on the Kwangtung coast, and headed inland against Chinese defenders.

The scene of the new Japanese drive, apparently aimed at getting a stronger grip on the South China coast, is only 75 miles east of French Indo-China and about 300 miles west of British Hongkong.

Japan will adhere strictly to the policy hitherto pursued toward third powers," the Tokyo foreign office announced.

Japan's last offensive, a southward push in Kuanan province, was repulsed by the Chinese after bitter fighting early in October.

The European war moved along principally as a conflict at sea, an economic battle and a war of nerves. France said there was "reduced activity during the night" on the Western Front and Germany reported "no special events except minor local artillery fire."

Bradfield Seeks Definition Of 'Open Saloon'

AUSTIN, Nov. 16 (AP)—The first official act of Dr. W. A. Bradfield of Dallas who became chairman of the State Liquor board today was to employ the Attorney General for an opinion on the constitutionality of the definition of the open saloon as given in the liquor control act.

In a formal address to the board, Dr. Bradfield, 73-year-old former pastor and ardent dry, said his decision was made in view of "perplexities" concerning the act.

His speech listed many provisions "not entirely logical or consistent with the declared purpose of this act."

"I seriously doubt the constitutionality of the definition of the open saloon given in the act," Dr. Bradfield continued.

He is just around the corner and the state schoolboy championship drive really gets under way after that.

"Who will win the title? There never was a greater rivalry in the state than the one between the two teams in the 20-year history of the interscholastic league. This corner looks on the North Side of Fort Worth and North Side in a fine eleven; Masonic Home—you can't tell what they're going to do any time. Tyler, in a slump but still standing out as the best in East Texas, and Brownsville, an unheralded South Texas outfit that beat McAllen, a team strong enough to take Austin in Houston in November.

Never before were there so many fine passers in Texas schoolboy football. Walton Roberts at Tyler, Red Maley at Woodrow Wilson (Dallas), Armando Torres of Masonic Home, Travis Raven of Austin, Gaby Hamel of Breckenridge—and then there's Eddie Freeze—Eddie is the boy who makes the Sweetwater Mustangs click and Hal Saylor, Abilene sports writer, says Freeze is the hottest pass pitching article he's seen in the schoolboy circuit this year. Here's a sample of his work against San Angelo, he completed 10 out of 16 and against Stephenville he got off 12 good ones in 14 tries. Sweetwater also claims to have the best guard in Texas in Audrey Gill, a fast 175-pounder who plays guard on offense and directs the Mustangs both on defense and attack. He's a star too, in the classroom.

Says Dwight Leveritt of the Galveston Tribune: "The 18-year-old Texas Interscholastic League ruling will hit the Austin High Maroons hard by one day Travis Raven and Pete Lewis, who have scored most of the Maroons' points, will be ineligible next season because both were born Aug. 31, 1922. They will be out by 24 hours." The 18-year age limit is due for a vigorous fight from the Texas High School Coaches association, says E. B. Nelson of Athens, the organization's president. By the way, what ever became of that referendum among the schools the association planned in an effort to show the interscholastic League the new rules were not wanted?

Mayo Wells, sports editor of the Fort Arthur News, nominated Harmon (Nook) Rowe for the all-state team. Rowe, a 157-pounder, is the sparkplug of the Livingston Lions. "Although the Livingston boys don't have the finesse of Corsicana's Wallace Spencer, he is almost as fast and just as elusive," writes Wells. The trouble with Livingston however, is that the Lions won't get outside the district where the state will learn about Rowe. Livingston had two games forfeited for ineligibility and last week lost to Fort Arthur. Three conference defeats offer too great a hurdle.

SCHOOLBOY SIDELINES

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF Associated Press Staff Weldon Chapman, who died at Lubbock last week, was a pioneer in Texas Interscholastic League football. The popular little coach of the Lubbock Westerners directed teams in the early twenties, when the league was in its infancy, that were powers in the state. His Big Dam Lolo's of Cisco were feared by all, going to the state semi-finals in 1924 and 1925. Chapman, however, barely missed winning a championship although he seemed headed for it last fall. Lubbock reached the finals, favored to take the title, but it lost in Corpus Christi one of the truly great teams of Texas schoolboy history.

Thanksgiving day (both of them) is just around the corner and the state schoolboy championship drive really gets under way after that.

South China Scene Of Japanese Drive (By The Associated Press) Japanese landing forces today started a new South China drive that promises to be more developments sooner than Europe's stalemated Western Front, where highly equipped armies of the great powers face one another in relative inactivity.

Combined army and navy forces landed near Pakhoi, on the Kwangtung coast, and headed inland against Chinese defenders.

The scene of the new Japanese drive, apparently aimed at getting a stronger grip on the South China coast, is only 75 miles east of French Indo-China and about 300 miles west of British Hongkong.

Japan will adhere strictly to the policy hitherto pursued toward third powers," the Tokyo foreign office announced.

Japan's last offensive, a southward push in Kuanan province, was repulsed by the Chinese after bitter fighting early in October.

The European war moved along principally as a conflict at sea, an economic battle and a war of nerves. France said there was "reduced activity during the night" on the Western Front and Germany reported "no special events except minor local artillery fire."

5 WOULD KILL BY TOM HORNER

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday Arnold Benthorne... He was waiting for his murderer...

CHAPTER II

Huddled against the gatepost, Patrolman Flynn had not missed the sliver of light that filtered through the rain as Arnold Benthorne peered out into the storm...

A whistle shrilled through the night.

Di Torino stopped, glanced at his watch.

A TAXICAB slid to a stop at the curb. The door opened and a young man's head emerged.

"Officer! Oh, officer!" the young man called.

Flynn turned. "What do you want, at this time of the night? If you're drunk, you're disorderly and I'll—"

"It's not drunk I am, officer. We're looking for a minister. We want to get married."

"What?"

"That's right, officer," the taxi driver put in. "There used to be a minister lived around here someplace. These kids—"

"These idiots!" Officer Flynn retorted. "Here, let's have a look at you."

"Here, let's have a look at you," Officer Flynn retorted. "Here, let's have a look at you."

"You've an honest face," Officer Flynn conceded grudgingly.

"And that wild look in your eyes explains why you'd be getting yourself married on a night like this."

"But where's the girl that'd be marrying the likes of you?" His flashlight swept the interior of the cab.

Huddled in the corner was the girl. She was small, dark of hair, dark of complexion.

"Smoky, they were, sir," he reported, "just like little live coals with a wisp of smoke coming from them."

"Can't you wait to be married in the morning, like decent folks?" Flynn growled at her, but his tone belied his anger.

"It's his idea, not mine!" the girl answered from her corner.

Flynn turned back to the young man. "It's a surly wife you're picking, if I may say so, lad. But then my own is no angel. Now what are your names?"

"Do you have to know that, officer?" the youth asked. "After all, we've committed no crime, just asking your help in finding a minister."

"Anyone that stops in front of Arnold Benthorne's house tonight has to give his name. Captain's orders. Come on, now tell me who you are."

"If you're going to write down our names, you'd better step into the cab, sir," the youth suggested.

"Here, climb in. I'll stand out on the curb. I'll turn on the light for you."

Flynn pulled his notebook out of a raincoat pocket, leaped, wet and dripping, into the cab. In the light the girl was even prettier.

She pulled her slicker closer about her, turned her face to the darkness. "Now your name, son."

"John Douglas," came the voice behind him.

"And yours," Flynn nodded toward the girl. Her answer was softly spoken, so softly Flynn hardly heard.

"Ann Johnson."

"And let's see your license," to the cab driver. The driver fumbled in his pocket for a moment, finally withdrew a greasy card.

"N-I-C-K-S-I-N-I-T-I-B," Flynn spat out slowly. "Well, looks all right. Now you get going, you'll find a minister on 21st and—Say! Where did that young fellow go?"

The cab's motor roared. Swiftly the girl reached across the seat, gave Flynn a shove and slammed the door. Before the patrolman could recover his balance and struggle to draw his revolver the cab had disappeared in the darkness.

Flynn's whistle shrilled through the night.

"HEY, you, where do you think you're going?" The policeman, gun in hand, darted from the shadows of the garage, hurried to the figure that had just come up the walk.

"I beg your pardon," a soft voice answered. "I am William Alston. I've come to see my daughter, Mrs. Benthorne. She called for me. I am sure she's expecting me. May I ring?"

"Captain's orders were to admit no one, sir," the policeman's tone was deferential. "Go ahead, ring the bell, and we'll see."

In a moment the door opened, saxophone each by Hazel Stamps, Martin Britten, and Billy Louise Hodges; a new clarinet by Virginia Gill; trumpets by J. D. Whatley and Lila Lill. The present number of instruments in the band is 30.

The band, under the direction of Mr. Bodine, is making fine progress. The band will have a demonstration between halves of the Lipscomb football game Thursday night. It will be the first time that a Groom band has undertaken such a maneuver.

French Liner Shelled and Sunk by U-boat

Intensified German submarine campaign took another victim when the 10,108-ton French liner Bretagne was shelled and sunk while en route from the West Indies to England. The captain, wounded by shrapnel, as were more than 30 passengers, declared the U-boat attacked without warning at night with "deliberate gunfire." Seven persons were thought lost after a check-up of survivors landed at Plymouth by British warships which answered the Bretagne's S.O.S.
