Congress May Adjourn Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt, expressing gratification at the size of the majority by which the House showed its approval of arms embargo repeal, asserted today he was glad the neutrality bill had restored the historic position of neutrality of the United States.

In response to a press conference request for comment on the legislation as it now stands, virtually approved by Congress, Mr. Roosevelt authorized this quotation: "I'm very glad that the bill has restored the historic position of neutrality of the United States."

At the capitol, a short time later, Senate Democratic Leader Barkley said he was hopeful that Congress could complete its work on administration neutrality legislation and adjourn tonight.

Barkley said he had been advised by members of a joint Senate-House conference committee drafting legislation in its final form, that they probably would be ready to report it to the Senate for action by 1 p. m. (CST).

"I think the chances of adjourning tonight are all right," Barkley told reporters. "Our get-to-away tonight depends on the House getting unanimous consent to take up the conference report today, which they think they can do."

Mr. Roosevelt made it clear he would not delay making the neutrality program effective. The chief executive, under further questioning, disclosed that he probably would issue several proclamations under the new measure, once he has signed it. He hoped to get the proclamations out of the way he said, before leaving for his home at Hyde Park, N. Y., tomorrow or Sunday.

Mother, Baby Safe After Three Nights In Alaskan Wilds

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Nov. 3 (AP)—A young mother and her 19-day-old baby who spent three below zero weather nights in an Alaskan wilderness were safe at the town of McGrath today as rescuers sought to bring out by dog teams the other two victims of the forced airplane landing.

A special ski-equipped plane piloted by Nate Brown landed on the snow a half mile from the marooned group yesterday and flew Mrs. Christian Beckman, 26, and her baby daughter to McGrath, in west-central Alaska.

Dies Orders Panama Canal Zone Probe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—A complete investigation of union activities in the Panama Canal zone was ordered today by the Dies committee.

Rh-a Whitley, committee counsel, was instructed to make a thorough study of the subject after a witness, Frederick C. Phillips, former national maritime union official, told the committee a man named H. A. Stout, whom he identified as a Communist, was an organizer for the CIO union in the canal zone.

Phillips said Stout was appointed to his job through the influence of John L. Lewis, CIO president, on the recommendation of Joseph Curran, head of the maritime union.

Phillips told the committee that although only about seven to 10 per cent of the organization's membership was Communist, this minority held so many strategic positions it was able to maintain control.

The witness, who said he was "illegally" expelled from the union for opposing Communism, said that "American seamen do not like Communism" but that most of them were "intimidated."

These who openly opposed the Communist faction, Phillips said, often lost their jobs by being "framed" or were beaten up by "the beef squad."

Communist agents "seem mostly to have a lot of money" enough to buy drinks for people," Phillips said. Meanwhile in police court, William C. McCusker, who preceded Phillips as a Dies committee witness in its investigation of un-American activities, refused to waive extradition to Louisiana on a murder charge.

McCusker, who has said the charge was a frame-up, was arraigned on a warrant charging that he killed Phillip Carey in New Orleans, Sept. 17. Granted a 30-day continuance, McCusker was returned to jail to await a hearing on Dec. 5.

Phillips identified correspondence from Thomas McGowan, Boston, as Communist.

Plans for this year's observance are based on a rapid moving parade and the ceremony to be held at the capitol on Saturday, Nov. 11.

The program will start at 10:30 a. m., concluding the parade which is scheduled to move north on South Cuyler at 10 o'clock. Route of the parade will be similar to parades of the past, leading up to North Cuyler at the high school building, thence south to the capitol between the city hall and court house.

PRELUDE TO WINTER

It was cold last night but this scene resulted several days prior when a spray fell on all night at Fairview cemetery gave a pre-Christmas setting to the cedar trees shown above. Pampanos who saw the trees marveled at the beauty of the trees in their shining white sheaths.

Temperature Drops To 15 Degrees In Pampa

Warm sunshine thawed out Pampanos today, who shivered last night and early this morning in the low temperatures recorded thus far this season. The thermometer reading rose today to 15 degrees at 5:30 a. m., dropping to 12 degrees at midnight.

The upturn came at 8:30 o'clock today when the mercury climbed to 22 degrees, after a one-point rise from the minimum at 6:30 and again at 7:30. At noon the temperature reading was 38 degrees, the U. S. Weather bureau station, east of the city, reported.

Absence of wind made the sudden cold snap less rigorous than it would have been ordinarily.

The coldest weather of the season wiped out the last vestiges of summery temperatures in most of Texas, Friday, Amarillo reporting a grade-A freeze of 20 degrees.

That was the lowest recorded temperature in the state but other North and West Texas points shivered in weather definitely below the "brisk" and "coolly comfortable" stages of fall. While the cold should taper off in the far north region tonight, it will push on deeper into the state, bringing frost as far south as Dallas.

Amarillo's 20 degree reading is the lowest in the season's lowest Pampano came in with 22, also the season's coldest, Lubbock reported 27, another low, while Burger had 28 degrees.

Other season lows: Vernon 22, Wichita Falls 34, Brownwood 36 and Rainey, Corsicana, which 42 equaled the previous low of Oct. 20, Sherman 37 and Frost.

Last Highway 41 Job To Be Awarded Nov. 21

Final completion of the Pampa-Borger-Dumas highway, one of the major projects of the highway committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce for the past several years, is seen for the spring of early summer 1940 with the announcement in Austin yesterday of the scheduled letting of the last contract on the road Nov. 21.

The last stretch to be contracted for improvement is an 11.9 mile gap in Hutchinson county from Shinnert west to the Moore county line.

The road, commonly known as Oldfield Highway No. 41 due to the Oklahoma section of the Oklahoma City to Denver highway association that has actively pushed the entire road, is state 52 in Texas. A total of $502,118 has been spent and contracted for on the road from Pampa to Dumas since the first contract Nov. 3, 1937.

An off-field highway association group is scheduled to visit the Oklahoma Highway commission officials Nov. 14 to urge the closing of gaps on the road in Oklahoma.

Contract To Be Let Officials of the Texas Highway Department announced in Austin yesterday that a contract for grading, drainage structures, flexible base and double asphalt surface treatment on the 11.9-mile gap is scheduled for letting Nov. 21. This will complete the road from Pampa to Dumas and will give a badly paved connection to the oil and gas companies, supply houses, carbon black and other industries from Pampa headquarters into the west Hutchinson and the Moore county fields.

The road will give a direct connection to New Mexico and Colorado recreational areas that draw so heavily on vacation traffic in Pampa and surrounding territory. It will cut 40 miles off the distance between Pampa and Dumas, reducing the mileage from 198 miles to 68 miles, or a saving of 80 miles on the round trip to the Moore county field or to the mountains of New Mexico and Colorado.

It is certainly gratifying to see this last contract being let," J. M. Collins, chairman of the highway committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, said this morning. "After we finally did get the work."

U. S. Vessel Staying Close To Coastline

London Says Ships Will Not Attempt To Seize Boat

BERGEN, Norway, Nov. 3 (AP)—Several British warships were observed off the Norwegian coast today, apparently watching the progress of the captive United States freighter City of Flint, and the danger was said to exist they might attempt to seize her.

The City of Flint passed the Bergen naval district at 9:30 a. m. (2:30 a. m. CST) today accompanied by the Norwegian mine-layer Alav Trygvasson and two Norwegian destroyers.

Authoritative sources said a member of the City of Flint's American crew was sick and under treatment by a physician from the Olav Trygvasson. The seaman was not identified.

Observers here said it was possible British warships would attempt to take the City of Flint from her German captors a few hours after she leaves Haugesund, 75 miles south of here, when she cuts into the open sea across the entrance to Bukken Fjord.

LONDON, Nov. 3 (AP)—The British navy has sighted the United States freighter City of Flint, it was announced officially today.

A communique said: "The admiralty announced that the steamship City of Flint has been sighted by our light forces proceeding to the southward inside Norwegian territorial waters. It is possible for the City of Flint to remain inside Norwegian and Swedish territorial waters until she enters the Baltic."

The Admiralty gave no hint whether the British ships would attempt to seize the City of Flint.

Stewart arrested a negro yesterday afternoon in connection with the theft of fomen's hose from the Wilson Drug store on South Cuyler street early yesterday morning. The arrest was made in a local night club where officers said the negro was trying to sell hose. The officers said they recovered 33 pair.

The officers were still investigating the case today and charges against the negro had not been filed today as an early hour this afternoon. Rudgard Eidenborough, drug store clerk, and a customer chased a negro but he outdistanced them. PWA Approves 1,770 Feet Of Water Line

An order from PWA approving an additional 1,770 lineal feet of water line from the intersection of Hobart street and Highway 60 to the intersection of Hobart and Foster streets was received today by the city. It was announced by City Manager W. T. Williamson.

The city manager explained that cost of the $4,500 project, of which the government pays 45 per cent, will come out of unused funds in the WPA waterworks grant.

Immediately following completion of the project by the end of November, Mr. Williamson said, the city will begin widening and resurfacing the bumpy street between the two intersections.

The strip on Hobart from Foster to Highway 60 long has been one of the city's worst sections of heavy-traffic thoroughfares.

1,700 Persons Cheer Dogpatch Revue--500 More Can't Crowd In

By THE ROVING REPORTER O' happy day! Luv is on mah side! The biggest crowd that ever gathered under one roof in Pampa jam-packed the high school auditorium last night at the News-sponsored Dogpatch Revue until there was not even any standing room left. More than 500 persons clamoring for admittance were turned away. It was estimated that about 1,700 persons saw the show.

Well, what about the show itself? Did it come up to expectations? Did it go over in a big way? Having helped Kenneth Carman, general director, prepare the show, the Roving Reporter couldn't tell how good it was and whether it came up to expectations, but several things gave the R. R. the idea that the show was a big success. First, only a few of the hundreds of people standing up left, and none of those sitting down left, and the show lasted an hour and a half. Comments ranged from "fair," "all right," "pretty good," to "swell," "keen," "fine." Then, this morning the R. R. was deluged with telephone calls to present the show again, and a final decision will be announced on that little matter later.

Then too the huge audience listened as if they enjoyed the show; there was no racket, except when they cheered or laughed. The show had some dead-sure hits, including Mrs. Elsie Cone and John Edwin McConnell singing New River Train. Vincent Kersey and his white pig, the Cornshuckers, especially Bill Kenton and his accordion, and Ken Bennett singing South of the Border. Patrick's version of the Sadie Hawkins day wedding of L'il Abner and Daisy Mae drew the most laughs. Kersey, as L'il Abner, brought the house down when his pants came off revealing long-handled underwear.

Judges chose as the four best players in the show Kathryn Barrett as Daisy Mae, Junior Williams as L'il Abner, John Robert Lane as Mammy Yokum and Mrs. Elsie Cone as Miti Madrak. John Robert was in Mrs. Kathryn Steele's cast of hillbilly dancers, and Mrs. Cone was in the Business and Professional Women's

MENUS MODERN

If you like cranberries you'll be pleased to learn that about 625,000 barrels will be this year's crop. Despite the drought throughout eastern states, weather conditions were generally favorable as a whole. Now that we have cranberries, what shall be do with them? How about pie?

Cranberry Maple Syrup Pie

One tablespoon flour, 1 cup maple syrup, 2 cups cranberries, pie pastry.

Line an 8-inch pie plate with pastry. Sprinkle flour over bottom crust and add maple syrup. Top with whole raw cranberries. Cover with pastry, press edges together and brush top of crust with milk. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) for about 40 minutes. This pie is 100 per cent with masculine appetites.

Cranberry Chiffon Pie

Two cups raw cranberries, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, 1-4 cup cold water, dash of oil, 1 tablespoon lemon juice baked pie shell, 1-2 cup cream whipped.

Cook cranberries in water until all the skins pop open. Put through sieve and add egg yolks beaten together with half of sugar. Cook over hot water until thickened. Add salt, softened in cold water, and lemon juice. Cool. Fold in egg white whipped stiff with remaining half cup of sugar. Transfer to baked pie shell and chill until firm. Spread top with whipped cream just before serving. Definitely ladylike.

Horn O' Plenty Pie

(Serves 6)

One and one-half cups sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1-2 cup water, 3 cups raw cranberries, 1-2 cup broken walnut meats, 2 tablespoons butter, few grains salt, 1 baked 8-inch pie shell, 3 egg whites, 6 tablespoons brown sugar.

Blend sugar and cornstarch; add water and bring to boil. Wash cranberries, add nuts and cook slowly in the water until cranberries pop open. Add butter and salt. Set aside to cool; do not stir. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) for 20 minutes, or until a delicate brown. Good for parties.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By ALICIA HART

It's not too early to begin thinking about Christmas gifts for the beauty-minded women on your list. Start thinking in terms of the holidays right now and you—as well as the recipients of your gifts—will remember 1939's Christmas especially pleasantly.

For the friend who has confided that she no longer likes her dressing table, a present deluxe would be a new one. Less expensive, but sure to please would be a new skirt for her present dressing table. You can't go wrong with orquidity or net, regardless of the period in which her bedroom is furnished. That is, unless you completely disregard the room's present color scheme.

Other sure-to-be-appreciated gifts in the beauty category include jewelry and makeup cases which are even simpler to make than dressing table sets.

BUY PLAIN BOXES AND COVER THEM

One reader reports that she is covering plain inexpensive boxes with hinged lids with white leatherette and some with pale blue satin. Between leatherette or satin she uses a thin padding of cotton.

Cases for boxes of cleansing tissues are a bright thought. For travelers, the unframed varieties which pack easily are welcome. To keep on dressing table, stiff, sturdy, framed ones are fine.

With scraps of silk or satin from the rag bag, and a container of sachet, charming little sachet pill boxes or balls are quickly fashioned. When making handkerchief or larger lingerie cases, put sachet between lining and outer layer of fabric.

WATER INTO WINE

To remove wine stains, soak cloth as quickly as possible in cold water. If the stain refuses to yield, try the boiling water treatment used for fruit stains. Tightly hold the cloth across a bowl, pour boiling water, held at a height of two feet, through the stain until it disappears. Often two pourings are needed to do this, one holding the cloth as the other pours.

DOUBLE DUTY

To save steps and energy in a two-decked house, double up on cleaning equipment. Keep one set upstairs—floor mop, cleaning powders and cloths, dust pan and a broom—and another downstairs. This much equipment will last twice as long as one set, so it is not impractical.

The castor plant is used in the manufacture of lubricants, medicine, fly paper, paints, soap, linum, printing and sulphated castor oil.

Over-Size Bathroom Cabinet

Bathroom cabinets, as a rule, run to small—medicine bottle size. If you'd like to know what to do with over-size bottles and jars you sometimes think it economical to buy, consider a new inexpensive steel cabinet 30 inches high, 14 inches wide, divided into three roomy compartments. A removable container for cleansing tissue is fitted on the inside of the door. Buy it in white, light shades of peach, green, blue, or ivory.

BUYING A LAMP

There should be more reasons than one for buying that new lamp for the living room table. Besides its decorative importance, it should shed an adequate diffused light at the right height to avoid even the slightest suggestion of eye strain. It should add well balanced, not easily tipped over, and it should be strongly constructed, with good quality electric cord and connections expertly put together.

Decision On New Session Due Sunday

O'Daniel Expected To Announce His Decision In Talk

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL
AUSTIN, Nov. 3. (AP)—The big interest in Austin today was whether Governor W. Lee O'Daniel Sunday would announce a special session of the Legislature.

Ernest Boyett, House sergeant-at-arms, sees a number of representatives daily as they drift through Austin on personal or public business.

A poll of 19 capital press correspondents showed four "guessing" an extraordinary session would be announced, four taking the opposite stance and two refusing to commit themselves.

There was about as much difference of opinion on what the date for convening would be, if a session was decided upon. Some said Nov. 14, some Nov. 20 and others Jan. 2.

In favor of Nov. 20, the point was made it would be good political psychology to have the session end at Christmas time and to present the old folks a present in the form of a revenue bill to insure an increase in pensions.

Those who leaned toward January as the probable date said the interval would allow time for preparation, there would be no disturbing Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons and special elections to fill vacancies in the house would have been held.

Governor O'Daniel has called three such elections for Nov. 28, and he has been quoted as saying he would not put counties to the expense and trouble of holding elections unless he decided to have a special session.

Recently after Attorney General Gerald Mann ruled Rep. W. N. Corry of Keller could not withdraw his resignation, and therefore a vacancy existed in the electoral district composed of Tarrant and Denton counties, this item appeared in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram:

"After receiving the attorney general's ruling, Governor O'Daniel told the Star-Telegram he would call a special election only in the event that a special session of the Legislature is to be held, explaining that it otherwise would be a useless expense."

But, some observers said, Governor O'Daniel has shown he is a stickler for following the constitution, and the constitution provides specifically the governor "shall" call elections to fill vacancies in the Legislature.

Should there be a session and the legislators work most earnestly, they could not hope to equal the record of time for a special session called by Governor Pat M. Neff in 1923.

One hour long, it was the shortest session in the history of Texas. It met at 10 a. m. on March 15 and adjourned officially at 11 a. m. Only one measure was passed: A concurrent resolution calling for sine die adjournment. Members did not even provide for their own pay. They did not want to take the time.

The unusual session was called by Neff because certain general appropriation and other bills had not been passed at the regular session which ended March 14.

Neff wanted a special session to begin the day after the regular one was concluded in order to save "mileage" expense of members going to and from their homes. Most of the legislators wanted an interval between the regular and special sessions. Neff stuck to his determination to have a session immediately and the Legislature stuck to its intention of going home promptly.

The Senate journal for the session was only three and one-half pages long; the House, five pages. In the general statutes of Texas, one page is devoted to the session, and that page is only half filled.

According to estimates, in England, one in every five persons over the age of 40 suffers from rheumatism.

Pampans Invited To Hear Mineral Wells Minister

Pampans have been invited to participate in a community religious and memorial service at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night in the municipal auditorium in Amarillo, at which Rev. Bryan Keathley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Mineral Wells will be the principal speaker.

Announcement of the Amarillo program was made at the meeting of the American Legion post of Pampa last night.

The service is a part of Amarillo's annual Armistice Day celebration, held on the Sunday nearest that date, and has annually attracted many persons from the Panhandle to Amarillo.

Churches in Amarillo will dispense with their evening worship Sunday in order to allow members to participate in the community program. Rev. Keathley, the principal speaker, is a past department and past national chaplain of the American Legion and an authority on the principals of Americanism and its relation to religion.

There is a possibility that Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, will also be on the program. The national official, a past national commander of the American Legion is an authority on national defense.

The annual Armistice Day banquet and dance will be held on Saturday (Armistice) night at the Amarillo hotel.

Low Fields is general chairman of Amarillo's Armistice Day celebration.

When the volcanic island, Krakatoa, blew up in 1883, the rush of air caused by the explosion wrecked houses and trees in Java 100 miles away.

Is Schmeling Returning To This Nation?

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—The reported presence of Max Schmeling in Spain, supposedly en route to these shores, has created a baffling mystery in local fish circles.

At last, account nobody had yet offered a sensible solution, and practically everybody had tried. Only one thing was certain: The former heavyweight champion was not sent for. If Max is indeed on his way, then it's his own idea.

"I don't know a thing about it," declared Promoter Mike Jacobs. "If he gets here I might be able to use him. But I don't know. It depends on how people feel about it."

"I ain't heard from him since he was here last winter," said Joe Jacobs, who used to be the German's more-or-less manager. "Somebody told me he was raising potatoes since the war got started."

There is a widespread inclination to doubt that Max would come here looking for a fight—not after the bounding around he received last February.

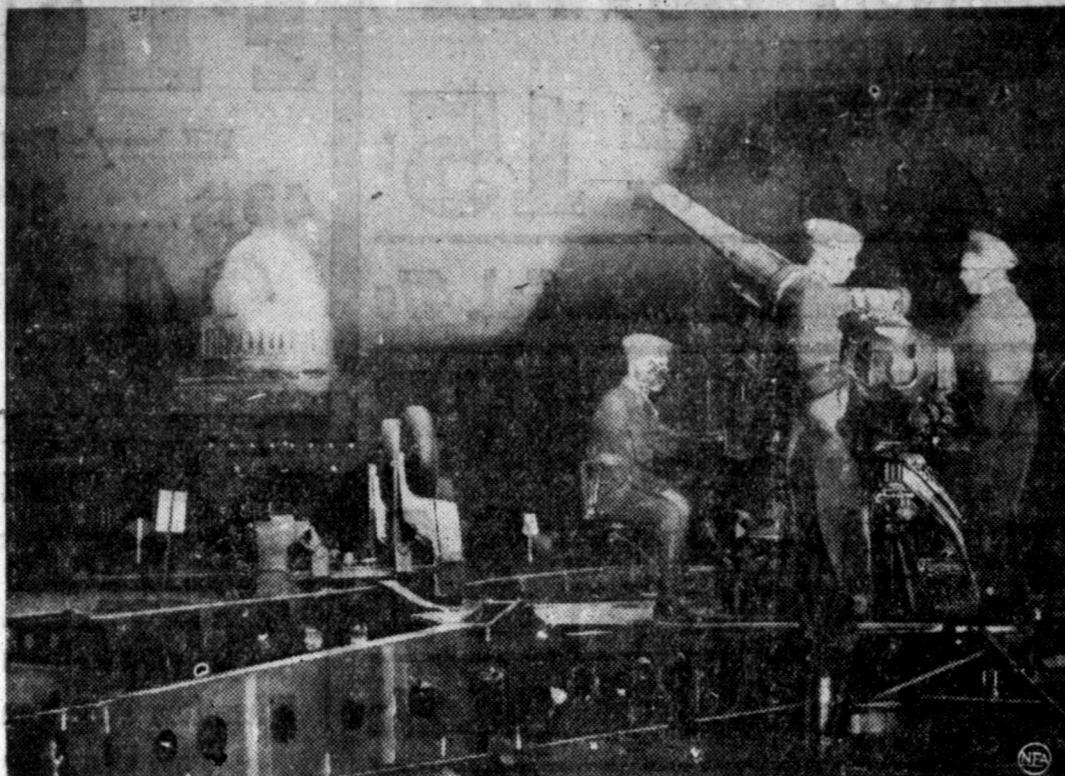

He was in this city, demanding a third battle with Champion Joe Louis, when the news reached him from Miami Beach that Tony Galento had been signed for the big outdoor shot. Max returned to Germany in a huff, accompanied by the chuckles of his erstwhile manager, the same Joe Jacobs.

Joe, who began managing Galento seriously only after Schmeling had done everything except kick the little guy down a flight of stairs to prove that he no longer valued his services, considered that he had squared accounts with Max. He whooped it up for several days, and the drinks were on him.

Knowing all that, the locals could not imagine the prospect of Max coming back now and asking for another helping. They preferred to believe, as they expressed it, that he was taking it on the lam.

"What good could he do himself fight over here now?" retorted Musky Jackson, the noted student of international affairs. "He couldn't take no dough wit' him back to Germany. Not wit' all those British battleships stoppin' him."

Baptist Students To Gather At Abilene

ABILENE, Nov. 3 (AP)—A record of college students—perhaps more than 1500—will descend on Abilene today for the annual state-wide Baptist Student Union convention, to be held on the Hardin-Simmons University campus.

Convention plans are being completed, and J. W. Marshall, Dallas, state Baptist student secretary, predicted the gathering "to be the finest ever."

Featured on the program will be Charles A. Wells, New York, cartoonist, writer, and world traveler, Wells has just returned from Russia, German-dominated Czechoslovakia and the war zones of Germany and Poland. His four illustrated lectures, to be given during the convention, will outline his interpretation of present European events and news.

Other prominent personalities on the program are Dr. Frank H. Leavell, Nashville, southwest Baptist student secretary; Dr. W. Marshall Craig, Dallas; Dr. W. W. Melton, Waco; Dr. L. R. Scarborough, Fort Worth, president of the Southern Baptist convention; Fort Worth; Dr. R. C. Campbell, executive secretary of the Baptist General convention of Texas.

Most of the 66 Texas colleges and universities with Baptist student groups will be represented at the convention which continues until noon Sunday.

Former campus leaders, now in vocational fields, will be here to form a statewide B. S. U. alumni association—first of its kind in the south.

AUSTIN, Nov. 3 (AP)—Amarillo today won the title "safest city in Texas."

The patient, a young girl, is protected by the mask through which anesthetic is administered.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—Stocks tumbled fractions to 2 points under an early profit-taking assault in today's market, then turned around and posted net gains of as much as 10 points. Atracrafts among the first to suffer, led the comeback in the late afternoon. Stocks then stepped into front place and other shaky beams of the forenoon joined the upward reversal.

Aviation attempted to edge forward as the opening apparently buoyed by House approval of the arms embargo repeal. But limitation on the theory the "good news" was out, quickly slammed these favorites for losses and it was only in the afternoon that they shifted gears and got back on the climb.

Delayed buying was said to have followed reports $150,000,000 in foreign plane orders were virtually in the hands of manufacturers, awaiting only the President's signing of the new neutrality law. A bolstering influence also was announced by the House-Senate conference committee and approved the administration's measure and that it was expected to go to the White House late this evening or tomorrow. All in all, forecasts were for a rally in this country of around $1,000,000,000 as soon as the repeal, which began to turn.

Billion Dollars Worth Of Orders Will Be Placed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—A billion dollars worth of European orders is expected by some officials to be placed with American manufacturers as soon as President Roosevelt signs the arms embargo bill.

They estimated that amount would be contracted within a few weeks, with most of the supplies going to Great Britain and France.

Enactment of the bill will permit Great Britain and France to obtain some 300 warplanes which have been completed since the embargo was imposed.

Cancelled export licenses for planes and munitions probably will be reinstated. Great Britain's impounded orders aggregate $14,680,807 and those of France $38,235,739. British and French purchases are expected to include:

Motor trucks and motorcycles, clothing, machine tools, field ranges, explosives, foodstuffs, surgical instruments, searchlights, gas masks, pom-pom equipment, water purifying units, ambulances, tents, saddles, telephones and radio compasses.

Officials were informed that even before embargo repeal was voted by the House a French purchasing mission contracted for 4,600 airplane motors from two eastern manufacturers. A British mission has been negotiating for about 1,600 "thunder" planes; a Swedish mission for upwards of 250 aircraft and a Belgian mission for 200.

Finland Threatened Soviet, Says Pravda

MOSCOW, Nov. 3 (AP)—Pravda, organ of the Communist party, declared today that Finland's foreign minister Eljas Erko had "directly threatened" the Soviet Union and that his remarks of Wednesday night "cannot be appraised other than as an appeal for war with the U. S. S. R."

Pravda said Erko's position was "precisely like that of former Polish Foreign Minister Beck. It is known that he made provocative speeches before the Polish-German war, and the result was that he provoked war with Germany."

The article dealing with negotiations for concessions which Russia has asked of her little Baltic neighbor came on the day a Finnish delegation was expected to start its final discussions at the Kremlin.

Foreign circles had interpreted Erko's speech Wednesday night as conciliatory in tone and foresaw an early settlement of the Russian requests, but the Pravda article used the strongest language yet employed publicly in the four-week negotiations.

Citing the fact that Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania already had signed mutual assistance pacts with Russia, Pravda said:

"Attempts to deny the mutual advantages of these agreements for all their signatures are made only by those common enemies interested in forming war not only in Western but in Eastern Europe as well, particularly on the Balkan coast."

Nebraska May Have Oil Boom Town

FALLS CITY, Neb., Nov. 3 (AP)—Visions of a mushrooming population and boom prosperity continued to excite some citizens of this new southeast Nebraska "oil town" today.

Most persons, however, were content to wait until more is learned of the state's first producing oil well, drilled on the E. H. Beebe farm three and a half miles west of here in what is part of the four-state forest basin.

Geologist Albert Ladner of the Pawnee Royalty company estimated the well would produce 50 to 500 barrels a day.

Ladner said the oil had risen 1,500 feet in the eight-inch shaft, and if it keeps on rising it may be a "flowing well."

Three Lose Lives In Car-Train Crash

FORT WORTH, Nov. 3 (AP)—Three persons, two of them seniors at Texas Christian University, lost their lives last night in an automobile-train crash in a residential section south of Fort Worth.

Miss Jewel Lettwith and Miss Dorothy Eldings, both of Fort Worth, and seniors at T. C. U., and Ralph Hornburg, assistant manager of a grocery store, were killed when their coupe collided with the engine tender of a southbound Southern Pacific passenger train.

FDR And Stars Of Radio And Screen To Open Roll Call Drive

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Roosevelt and Norman H. Davis Saturday evening, November 11, will launch the annual Red Cross Roll Call with stars of screen, radio and opera in a variety program to be carried coast-to-coast over three networks.

The program will originate in Washington where President Roosevelt and Red Cross Chairman Davis will speak, officially opening the membership enrollment. The remainder of the program will continue from New York and Hollywood, it was announced. The National Broadcasting Company (Red network), Columbia Broadcasting System and the Mutual Broadcasting System, are clearing the air for the broadcast. The program will run an hour, beginning at 10:30 p. m. EST, 9:30 p. m. CST, 8:30 p. m. MST, and 7:30 p. m. PST.

A partial list of the stars to appear include: Fred Allen, Ben Berber, John Charles Thomas, Chilton Faidman, Paul Whiteman and his orchestra, Harry Von Zell, Don Wilson, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, and Connie Boswell. Other big names of the screen and air are still to be announced.

Red Cross officials here announced that the program has been made possible through the courtesy of the three cooperating broadcasting systems and the donated services of one of the largest advertising agencies in the country. All stars on the program—as Red Cross members—have volunteered their services.

In recognition of the need for increasing Red Cross membership in one of the busiest years in the history of the organization, President Roosevelt is appearing on the air for the Red Cross for the first time since he has been in the White House. As President of the United States, Mr. Roosevelt also is President of the American Red Cross. His appeal for membership will be coupled with that of Chairman Norman H. Davis who was appointed to the chairmanship in 1937 after serving as United States ambassador at large for several years.

Troop 1 First Troop Of Girl Scouts In City

In connection with National Girl Scout week, which ends tomorrow, Pampa Girl Scout troop 1 has prepared the following outline of its history.

First Girl Scout troop to be organized in Pampa was troop 1, with Mrs. Clarence Coffin as the leader. The troop was organized under the sponsorship of the B. M. Baker Parent-Teacher association.

In 1936, Mrs. Ralph R. Thomas became the troop captain and the American Legion auxiliary the troop sponsor. Troop 1 grew to a membership of 38, which was too large for one leader, so in the spring of 1938 the troop was divided.

Mrs. Hoyt Allen took 18 of the smaller girls and formed troop 8, with the American Legion auxiliary as sponsor.

Troop 1 now consists of 16 junior high and high school girls, under the leadership of Mrs. John Ketter, and the sponsorship of the Business and Professional Women's club. This summer the troop took several overnight hikes. The most interesting hike was the one to Sand Spur lake near McLean. All the planning, arrangements, and working the menu for the two-day trip was done by the girls.

At the present time the troop is working on a play to be presented for the Business & Professional Women's club.

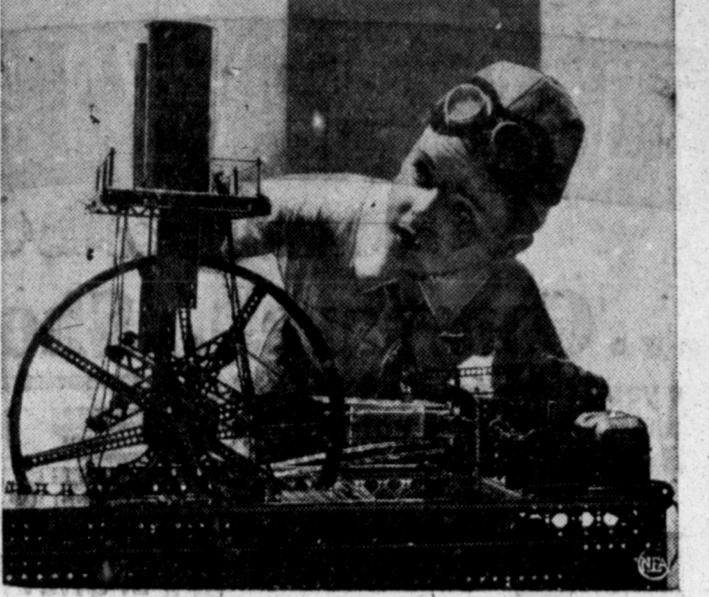

Troop meetings are held at 4 o'clock each Thursday afternoon in the basement of the First Methodist church.

Organization of troop 1: Mrs. John Ketter, captain; LoWanda Johnson, lieutenant; Frances Deering, secretary; Mollie Kennedy, treasurer; Virginia Washington, parliamentarian; Thelma Mae and Velma Mae Osborn, flag bearers.

Scouts: Leola Hogsett, Robbie Lee Russell, Frances Deering, Betty Johnson, Mollie Kennedy, Erma Lee Kennedy, Virginia Washington, Delia Mae Foster, Mary Lou Douglas, Velma Mae Osborn, Thelma Mae and Velma Mae Osborn, Elmira Allen, Blanche Day, Ruth Wilson, Ruth Matheny.

There are nine first class, four second class, and three tenderfoot scouts in the troop.

French Prepare For Threatened German Thrust

PARIS, Nov. 3 (AP)—French military sources reported strong German troop movements today north-east of Saarbrücken, accompanied by heavy artillery screen fire.

The French held a four-mile-wide salient near Orenthel, between the Blies river and the Vosge foothills and reports said they were concentrating their answering artillery fire in an attempt to smash German communications.

Patrol units fought on the wooded slopes of the Vosges, these sources said, and about nine miles east of Saarbrücken. They said the French had taken another German prisoner.

German artillery and patrols apparently were testing the whole length of the 100-mile northern flank of the western front between Luxembourg and the Rhine river by shifting their action from one sector to another.

There still was no sign of a major Nazi offensive but every time a concentrated artillery barrage started the French set themselves against that possibility.

France, Britain Exult Over Arms Embargo Repeal

(By The Associated Press.)

Great Britain and France, with piles of supplies awaiting shipment, exulted over the repeal of the United States arms embargo today that only last-minute formalities stand in the way of writing the embargo off the American statute book.

News that the House of Representatives had set the stage for lifting the embargo by rejecting proposals for keeping the embargo in the United States neutrality legislation arrived in Berlin top late for immediate newspaper comment and government sources refused to comment.

In London, the news raised top headlines such as "The Mirror's 'The United States Does It'" and "The News-Chronicle's 'United States Finally Approves Arms Ban Repeal'."

In Paris, the newspaper Excelsior saw the step as a renewal of the American World War slogan, "La Fayette, we are here," although it stressed that the inference was not to be drawn that "the United States is entering with us in battle."

"We demand no more," it explained, "than the right to buy supplies in the United States and transport them to French ships."

Le Petit Parisien looked on the day as one to be marked with a white stone—France's equivalent of a red letter day.

"Free America has vibrated for a just cause," it said. "To moral support already so precious, will come state material support which will hasten the hour of victory."

The Italian press refrained from further comment on the United States neutrality legislation which Fascist newspapers attacked as tending to prolong the war after the Senate approved the act last week.

House Passes Neutrality Bill

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—America's new neutrality program lifting the arms embargo but narrowing the traditional "freedom of the seas" policy for United States shipping, required only last-minute formalities by Congress today before becoming law.

A sweeping administration victory in the House that rejected proposals for complete and partial embargoes by more than 60 votes set the stage for quick final action and adjournment of the special session before the week ends.

The Senate and House appointed conferees to work out a composite draft of neutrality legislation at a meeting at 9:30 a. m. CST. In view of the fact that both chambers gave sizeable majorities for repeal, approval of the committee's draft was a foregone conclusion. The House, though, may withhold consent until tomorrow.

As soon as President Roosevelt signs the bill, warring nations can begin buying American munitions, guns and planes. Some administration quarters predict that foreign orders, chiefly from Great Britain and France, will total $1,000,000,000 within a few weeks.

Under the bill's "cash and carry" system, foreign governments must take title to the goods before they leave American docks, where many supplies are piled. They must be transported in foreign ships, for a major purpose of the legislation is to avoid "incidents" by keeping American vessels and passengers out of war zones.

Yesterday's House voting brought greater margins for the administration than even its lieutenants had expected. Three roll calls capped a stirring session that saw Speaker Bankhead leave his rostrum to make an unusual plea for lifting the four-year embargo. He received a tremendous ovation from Democrats and Republicans alike.

SCHOOL BANDS Flying Developing 'Healthier Men'

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Nov. 3. (AP)—Commercial aviation's "million-mile pilots" have proved, it was reported today, that flying is developing healthier men.

Tests have shown, said Dr. John T. MacDonald of Miami, flight surgeon for Pan American Airways, that air transport pilots with a million miles of flying to their credit are actually in better physical condition than when they began their careers.

They see better (in some cases their eyesight is 20 per cent above normal), their hearts and lungs are sounder, they possess greater emotional stability, and they have 15 per cent more red blood in their veins.

Dr. MacDonald, here for the eleventh annual convention of the Aero-Medical Association of the United States, doesn't attribute all the general health advance to the effects of flying. A great deal of it, he said, has resulted from a system of living developed by the pilots and practiced for long periods.

Improvements resulting from the self-disciplinary conditioning methods, moreover, may extend to the next generation. Children of veteran pilots, the flight surgeon asserted, are likely to inherit keener eyes and minds, and a better sense of balance than the offspring of average men.

Peasants Praised For Nabbing Crew Of German Plane

PARIS, Nov. 3 (AP)—Two peasants were acclaimed today for the barehanded capture of the crew of a German plane.

Havas, French news agency, said the men's quick action prevented the Germans from smashing their instruments and "destroying their papers when their craft was shot down by British planes yesterday over northern France.

It said the unarmed men, Eugene Vanours and Jean Elboust, rushed to the plane when it came down in a field near where they were working and held the fliers until French soldiers arrived.

Of the four occupants of the German plane, one was killed, another was wounded and two were unharmed.

A French communique reported the downing of a twin-engine German reconnaissance plane "by a British fighter" yesterday.

Italy Makes Peace Gestures To Greece

ROME, Nov. 3 (AP)—Italy has entered the European treaty-making contest to improve her status as a neutral and strengthen her influence in Southeastern Europe.

An exchange of Greek-Italian letters, dated Sept. 30, affirming friendship and expressing a desire to give "more concrete form" to relations between Athens and Rome was published today.

The letters pointed the way toward negotiations for "happy and fruitful collaboration in all fields"—apparently preface to a new non-aggression pact.

Foreign observers expected Italy to seek wider trade advantages from Greece as she has done in a new commercial agreement with Yugoslavia and another about to be signed with Bulgaria.

The pact with Greece which Italians hoped soon to conclude would replace the 10-year non-aggression treaty of 1928.

Which Premier Mussolini would seek to reinforce his influence in the Balkans to counter-balance the recent Turkish-French British mutual aid treaty, protecting Italy's strategic as well as commercial interests in a region considered vital.

The Italian press refrained from comment on the Greek-Italian letters but the prospect of pacts with Greece and Bulgaria emphasized recent statements by informed Fascists that Rome had no intention of surrendering her position in South-eastern Europe to any power.

Smith And Sadler Leave Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Texas Railroad Commissioners Lon A. Smith and Jerry Sadler left here today for home after conferences with President Roosevelt and Secretary Ickes regarding the oil industry.

Sadler said the President told him yesterday there should be either federal or state control of all branches of the petroleum industry—production, refining, transportation and distribution.

Both conferred previously with Ickes but Smith was not with Sadler when he talked to President Roosevelt.

They told Ickes of a shortage of crude oil and asked that the estimated demand for Texas be increased, declaring oil exports were moving so fast production was not meeting local refinery demand.

Sadler said President Roosevelt expressed the hope that all producing states themselves would exercise control over the industry.

One of the three members of the Texas commission, which administers oil production laws in that state, Sadler conferred with the chief executive on the petroleum industry generally and showed him figures to prove Texas was abiding by market demand estimates set by the bureau of mines in fixing its production quotas.

One reason advanced for extending control to branches of the industry beyond production, as provided by most existing or proposed state laws, Sadler said, was that an economical and judicious ratio could be established in the stocks of crude oil and gasoline.

5,000 Longshoremen Strike At Midnight

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—A strike of 5,000 longshoremen threatened today to paralyze all coastal shipping operating in and out of New York Harbor, thus affecting ports as far north as Maine and south to Texas.

An extra detail of 100 police was assigned to waterfront patrol to guard against violence.

The walkout, effective last midnight, was directed against nine ship companies with a total of 70 vessels in coastal service.

The strike was ordered by Joseph

The party was enroute to Sayre, Oklahoma. Miss Jones and Mr. Schindler were to be married. Other members of the party received only minor injuries.

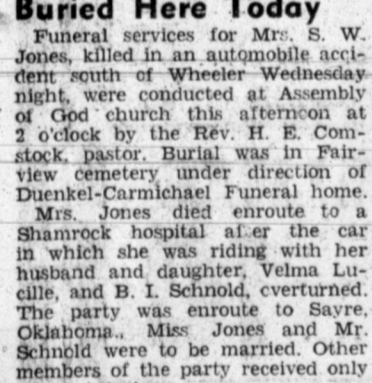

Survivors are the husband, daughter, two sons and her parents. Pallbearers will be Bill Collins, Hugh Anderson, Les Coble, Raymond Engle, Earl Griffith, Clyde Batsch.

Chairman Dies (D-Tex.) of the committee directed Whitley to turn the correspondence over to the justice department. Noting the mention of baseball bats, he commented, "that would seem to be a very effective way of violating civil liberties."

In another letter, which Phillips said was in the handwriting of McGowan and addressed to Byne, Whitley read, "we shall see that Brother Stewart meets with an accident before then."

Whitley put in the record the newspaper clipping which quoted McGowan as saying that Dies had "turned stooge for American ship owners."

Harvester Lineup Changed For Hobbs Game

Isbell, Cox, Giles Will Be Starters

There'll be a change in the Pampa Harvester starting lineup tonight when they face the Hobbs, N. M. Eagles at 8 o'clock under the lights at Harvester field. In an effort to strengthen line weakness which appeared in the game with Lubbock last Friday, Wayne Giddens has been switched from guard to tackle and Carol Montgomery has been put in a guard position.

Three other changes will be made in the lineup because of injuries to regulars but two of the three cripples will see service. Seth Cox will start at end in place of Glen Nichols, who turned a knee in practice Wednesday, and LeRoy Giles will get the call at fullback in place of Pete Dunaway who is nursing bruised ribs. Both Nichols and Dunaway are scheduled to play some.

Grover Heiskell will be kept out of the game because of a back injury, which will send Bert Isbell to call signals. Ed Terrell will replace Herbert Maynard at center, Maynard being ineligible this week. The rest of the lineup will be the same as usual.

Lineup Changed
Changes in the line are expected to give the Harvesters better blocking, especially on plays around ends. Coaches plan to shoot the works tonight in an effort to determine whether the new assignments will work under playing conditions. In practice and in scrimmage this week the team appeared smoother in carrying out assignments.

Hobbs will field a light but speedy ball club that has been running and passing opposition dizzy all season. The Eagles play an unorthodox game, according to fans who have seen them in action. In the ball-carrying department fans are tipped off to watch the boys wearing uniforms No. 75 and 76. Number 75 is Clemens, versatile fullback, while 76 adorns the back of Hemperley.

Borger-Lubbock Game To Be Broadcast By KPDN

One of the district's most important conference football games will be played Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when the Borger Bulldogs meet the Lubbock Westerners. The game will be broadcast over station KPDN, Pampa.

Lubbock at the present time holds the paper championship of the district. Lubbock defeated Pampa 6 to

0. Pampa defeated Plainview 16 to 0. Amarillo beat Plainview 15 to 0. Plainview and Borger played a 13 to 13 tie.

Lubbock will be at full strength for the game, as will be the Bulldogs of Catfish Smith. Lubbock's Coach Weldon Chapman put away the crying towel after it worked so successfully against the Harvesters who, instead of playing a team with six first string men in the hospital, met a team with only one player missing and he hadn't played since the opening game of the season.

Borger always battled Lubbock harder than any other team in the district and anything can happen in Borger.

Amarillo will watch games this week, resting for their invasion of Pampa next Saturday.

quarterback, one of football's scat artists. The Eagles will also present a "One Man Gang" in Rankin, who wears uniform No. 91. Rankin is a guard who roams all over the field making tackles and smearing interference. On offense he's a power.

Probable starting lineups will be: Pampa: Cox and Clemmons, ends; Giddens and Candler, tackles; Pade and Montgomery, guards; Terrell, center; Isbell, quarterback; Green and Matthews, halves; Giles, full.

Hobbs: O'Dell and Bishop, ends; Spencer and Light, tackles; Rankin and Seaburn, guards; Stoltz, center; Humperley, quarter; Green and York, halves; Clemens, full. Officials: Vannoy, Curry, Hicks and Barrett.

20 District Title Games On Schedule

(By The Associated Press.)
Thirty-four games tonight and tomorrow night, more than 20 of them counting in the district title races will clear the decks for the drive down the stretch in the Texas schoolboy football campaign.

Unbeaten McAllen and Brownsville clash at McAllen tonight in one of the week's outstanding tilts, the winner to be favored generally to come through with the championship of the lower bracket of district 16.

Woodrow Wilson and Adamson clash tomorrow night at Dallas in a game due to decide the district 8 crown-wearer.

Six games were played last night, two of them being conference affairs. Masonic Home remained unbeaten by losing out. Fort Worth Tech 15-12 and went into a tie for the lead with North Side in the Fort Worth district.

Austin (Houston) remained the outstanding favorite to win the district 13 title by downing Milby 14-0. Ysleta lost to Pecos 25-20. Hillsboro fell before Methodist Home of Waco, 24-0, and Harlingen defeated Pharr-San Juan-Alamo 26 to 6 in non-conference games, while Highland Park (Dallas) downed Sunset (Dallas) 14-7 in an interdistrict tilt.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—Taking the usual weekly stroll around the pigskin promenade: Army-Notre Dame: The Cadets have been sad disappointments this year, mainly because of line weakness. It's possible they will rise to the occasion but there's no possible selection but Notre Dame.

Louisville State-Tennessee: Another real test for the powerful Volunteers. L. S. U.'s Leo Bird and Ken Kavanaugh are just about the most effective passing combination extant but this vote goes to Tennessee.

Minnesota - Northwestern: Northwestern is improving steadily but the Gophers seem to have the greater scoring strength. Minnesota, Arkansas-Texas A. and M.: Possible surprise package here, for Arkansas is always dangerous at Fayetteville. Still, undefeated Texas A. and M.

Oregon State-Southern California: Two undefeated teams battle for a probable Rose Bowl berth. Southern California.

Cornell-Columbia: Not much doubt that Cornell is in for a let-down but hardly enough to permit Columbia to run off with this. Cornell.

Fordham-Rice: Rice may well be the best long shot of the day but we'll follow the form sheets and take Fordham.

Duquesne-Marquette: Unbeaten Duquesne looks too powerful for Marquette.

Detroit-Villanova: Very close. Villanova.

Illinois-Michigan: Tom Harmon and Michigan should roll along.

Georgia Tech-Duke: Generally close and frequently surprising. Still Duke.

Texas-Southern Methodist: S. M. U. But the Mustangs will find Jack Crain a problem.

Temple-Pitt: Probably very close. Pitt.

Yale-Dartmouth: A shaky vote for Dartmouth.

Penn-Navy: Looking for Penn to bounce back after the North Carolina debacle. Penn.

Princeton-Harvard: The first of the "Big Three" series. Not much to choose. The coin says Princeton.

Syracuse-Michigan State: Out of the hat, Syracuse.

Boston college-Auburn: Auburn

HOUSTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—A dozen youths faced charges of disturbing the peace today in connection with a riot by fans after a high school football game.

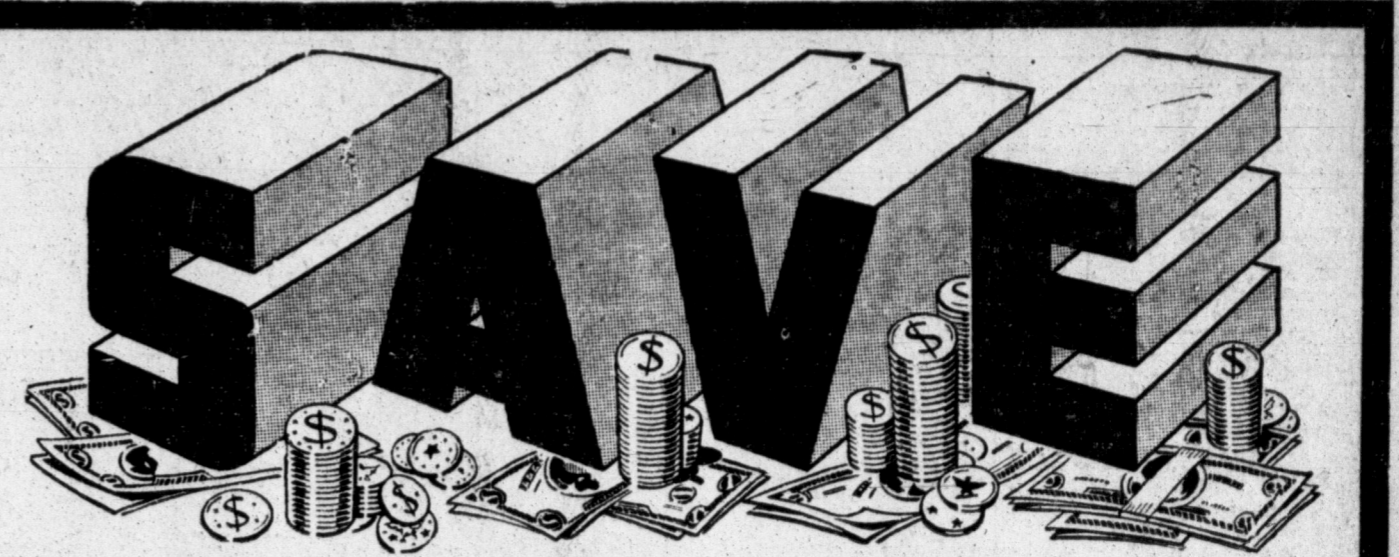

Stephen F. Austin had defeated Milby 14-0 and the teams had left the stadium last night when the hostilities started.

A member of the Milby girls' pep squad was injured when she was knocked down and trampled while youths scuffled with more than a score of policemen called to stop the fighting.

Field Judge Ivan Reid ejected Ralph Ruthstrom, the Milby captain, from the game for language Reid claimed the player used when he got into an argument with officials. Ruthstrom said Reid had interfered with Milby's defense while Austin was scoring its second touchdown. Before the game was over several pop bottles were thrown at Reid, two barely missing him.

Reid was in a building beneath the stands when hundreds of fans stormed the place. Then the trouble started.

Partisanship Abandoned In Embargo Vote

By W. B. RAGSDALE
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—The political armistice, somewhat formally decreed a couple of months ago, was not far from the breaking point by the time the House voted to repeal the arms embargo.

The armistice had received the endorsement of many powerful Republicans. The party's 1936 nominees gave it their blessing. The Senate debated the neutrality measure seriously and in a non-partisan manner. A third of the Republican senators voted for repeal. Among them were Taft of Ohio and Bridges of New Hampshire, contenders for the next presidential nomination.

The Republican national committee exercised great restraint in its publicity. The only quotations it circulated on foreign policy were by dissenting Democrats. The only complaints it voiced against the Democrat program were aimed at domestic policies. The nearest it came to touching on foreign policy was a big, black-faced line across the bottom of its weekly publicity sheet:

"Keep the United States out of war."

Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, the Republican House leader, was no less restrained in his actions on the floor. As the minority leader, he helped arrange for time to debate the neutrality measure. After that, he all but vanished. He did not take part in the debate in deference to what had been said about a political truce.

Few signs of partisanship showed up in the actual words spoken in debate. A man who spoke for repeal could depend on getting applause from the Democratic side. An opponent would get a good hand from the Republicans.

So it happened that a Republican repealer would be applauded by Democrats and a Democratic opponent would have to look to the Republicans for the word "applause" to fill the parentheses at the end of his speech in the congressional record. But the House stenographers are veterans. A handclap doesn't have to be plural for them to spell applause.

One of the clearest hints provided by the debate came from Rep. Gifford of Massachusetts, a veteran Republican member, who felt constrained to argue against the arms embargo, and to explain that it was a deviation from party lines which he rarely made.

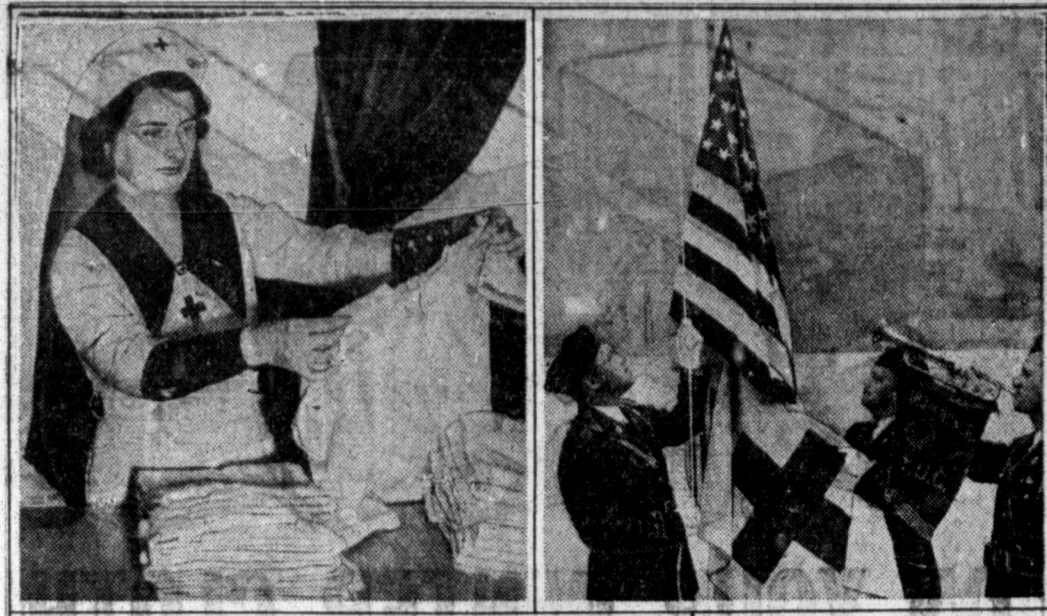

"I know the great majority on my side of the House will differ with me today," he said.

A clue to the later house votes showed up in the first roll call Tuesday, even before the debate started. The parliamentary procedure recommended by the administration was adopted by a 50-vote majority.

On that roll call, 231 Democrats and four Republicans voted to take up the bill, debate it and send it to conference with the Senate. One hundred fifty-five Republicans and 20 Democrats voted against this. One Farmer-Laborite and an American Laborite joined in voting for two Progressive votes against.

On this first vote, three of the four Republicans who thought differently from their colleagues were from New England; the fourth was from California. Eight of the Democrats who departed from their party were from the Middle West, ten from the East, and two from the Far West.

Demands For Red Cross Services Prompt Greatest Roll Call in 20 Years

Half Million Workers Ready for Membership Drive
 THE American Red Cross embarks on its greatest membership roll call in two decades November 11 when a half million volunteers working in virtually every community in the nation, will seek increased membership strength to meet growing demands for Red Cross services, Chairman Norman H. Davis has announced.

Increased membership support has been prompted by an urgent need for extending Red Cross services not only in this country, but as a result of appeals from Red Cross societies in war-stricken European nations, Mr. Davis said.

"Although the Red Cross must meet the cries from war-stricken Europe, we of America must not slacken our effort to reduce the peace-time forms of human suffering found in this country," Mr. Davis declared.

"The 5,700,000 American men and women who enrolled as members of the Red Cross last year enabled the organization to meet the needs of sufferers in 157 disasters during the year, as well as to train hundreds of thousands in First Aid, Life Saving and health education."

Rayburn Says Law To Remove Causes Of War

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (AP)—Majority Leader Rayburn told the house today that the administration's proposed neutrality law would remove those causes of involvement which "got this country into the war 22 years ago."

The administration spokesman made one of the closing arguments over the measure a short time before the house was expected to begin voting on its most controversial provision, repeal of the present embargo on arms sales to warring nations.

He and other house leaders appeared confident this and less important issues would be disposed of before the afternoon and the measure started on its way through the final phases of becoming the nation's second neutrality statute of the present war, replacing the first law already in effect.

Adjournment of the special session Saturday night was predicted.

Unlike the present law the administration bill would set up a system of cash and carry commerce with belligerents—permitting the sale of arms, munitions and other goods on that basis.

Harking back to the days before American entrance into the World War, Rayburn lauded the cash and carry and other restrictions on American shipping now proposed.

"What's the picture if we have no legislation at all?"

"We have reckless American citizens traveling on belligerent ships," he continued. "We have reckless American ship owners sending ships through danger zones with American cargoes and American sailors."

"What would be the reaction in a great conservative country like mine if an American ship was sunk and 200 or maybe 500 boys—innocent ones—are sent to the bottom?"

"I tremble to contemplate what might be the reaction in this country to the sinking of our ships and the destruction of American lives."

Our word "carious" comes from Germany. It is derived from the German words "gar" and "aus" which, translated literally, mean "to down a drink at a single gulp."

According to scientific calculations, a fly makes 30 wing strokes a second; a bee, 240; a wasp, 110; a dragonfly, 28; and a butterfly, 8.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

RIGHTEOUSNESS IN THE KINGDOM
 Text: Matthew 5:17-20, 38-45, 61-4
 By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of Advance

This lesson on righteousness in the Kingdom is indicated as a lesson for Armistice. With the world again in a major war with the threat of the conflict spreading, the lesson has an immediate significance that may not have been fully anticipated when these lessons were selected. Insofar as the war being waged in Europe is a war between autocracy and democracy, between the power of might and the power of right, it is a part of a larger war in which we must all engage, although it is not a war that can be fought with material weapons.

Paul wrote long ago to the Christians at Ephesus, "We wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places." This warfare is a warfare of love against hate, of right against wrong, of peace against war and violence. Here in our lesson, those who would engage in that war may find the words and the example of their great Commander.

Jesus made it plain that he had not come to destroy the law of the prophets, but to fulfill. His whole purpose was constructive, a purpose of salvation and redemption. We cannot insist too strongly upon this essential nature of the teaching of Jesus and His purpose in bringing the Gospel to man.

The gospel of salvation and fullness of life is distinctly at variance with war and destruction and that perversion of human mind and energy, in which the powers of men and their ingenuity and strategy in invention has been given over to the destruction of human life. We cannot here discuss the question of pacifism as against the citizen's duty of military service to his country. This question is not simple and the great majority of Christians, though they love and advocate peace, would give military service in defense of their homes and country.

But if we want a commentary upon these words of Jesus about non-resistance, turning the other cheek to the smiter, giving your cloak to the man who would take away your coat, and going two miles with the man who would compel you

Legion Names Delegates To Shamrock Meet

Delegates to the 18th district American Legion convention, to be held November 18-19 at Shamrock, were named at the regular meeting of Kerley-Crossman post 334 at 8 o'clock Thursday night at the Legion hut.

Pampa Legionnaires will be represented by E. M. Keller, L. R. Franks, D. C. Kennedy, J. E. West, C. E. Cary, Frank Thomas, Ed Tracy, William James, E. J. Kenney, Gabe Haggerty, A. D. Monteith, and Paul D. Hill.

Charlie Maisei of Pampa is district commander of the 18th district. Letters of invitation from Charles De Shazo post 68, and from Mayor Bill Walker of Shamrock, inviting Pampans to the district convention, were read at the meeting last night. Department Commander Lou J. Roberts of Berger will be the principal speaker at the convention.

A. D. Monteith of Pampa, head of the 40 and 8 for the state, has been scheduled to make an address at a 40 and 8 luncheon on the afternoon of November 18.

Girl Scouts Give Program At Lions Club Luncheon

Pampa Lions club members were given an insight into the Girl Scout movement at the club's regular weekly luncheon at noon Thursday in the basement of the First Methodist church, when members of Girl Scout troop 4, of which Mrs. W. L. Parker is captain, presented a program.

Jesus made it plain that he had not come to destroy the law of the prophets, but to fulfill. His whole purpose was constructive, a purpose of salvation and redemption. We cannot insist too strongly upon this essential nature of the teaching of Jesus and His purpose in bringing the Gospel to man.

The girls made the presentation as a part of National Girl Scout week, which ends tomorrow.

Evelyn Morton, troop 4 member, gave two readings. A vocal solo was given by Elizabeth Ann Sturgeon, accompanied at the piano by Jo Ella Shelton, member of troop 2.

Mrs. Robert Bisher made a talk on National Girl Scout week.

Mrs. Frank Culbertson, Girl Scout commissioner, helped serve the lunch. A chorus of troop 4 members sang.

Attendance at the meeting was 65. Bill Postma was in charge of the program.

What Does The War Mean To Business?

If subsequent analysis bear out present predictions that the American business curve is bending upward one more, full credit for the expansion of domestic markets is likely to go to the war abroad. There is scant reason to deny that any European conflict should produce some effect on American business. No one in this country believed indices would be unaffected when hostilities broke out in September. It is too early to forecast accurately the eventual results of Europe's conflict on business trends in the United States, but it is interesting to note the theory that the war was merely the instrument rather than the cause of expansion. This point of view is taken by The Annalist in its quarterly review and business forecast edition.

Since the United States was swept into the depression in 1929, industrial production has curved downward, despite a continued increase in population, it is pointed out. From comparative charts, it is concluded that demand for manufacturing output has been restrained during the past 10 years almost to the point where increased consumption must become inevitable.

It seems reasonable to conclude that the outbreak of war has been merely the spark needed to touch off the latent demand for goods suggested by the marked disparity since 1929 between the growth of the population and the trend of industrial production. The Annalist declares. It follows as a corollary that if a sharp decline would come after the cessation of hostilities, business would shortly find its own level again and proceed with the interrupted expansion.

Furthermore, an increasingly large group of American economists and industrialists say that if the United States enters the war, the post-war outlook would be black. Excessive profits during the period of the war would be clipped by high taxes. Even though there might be enough left to give industrialists an ample share, the somber after-effects do not appeal to business men today.

This country does not want another 1929. Excesses in the business cycle must be eliminated in favor of a steady market flow. War profligating, in its most sinister connotation, can produce no healthy results. So far, American business men want none of it. For the most part, they have expressed their desire to ride with the normal trend, foregoing the hasty profits that may later lead to ruin.

HOO VS. SHARK (Bakersfield Californian)

Obviously there is a line of sharp division between interests connected with the oil industry. The billboards are covered with signs, one side calling upon the electors to vote "Yes" on the Atkinson bill under the caption "Purge the Oil Hog," the advice being fortified by the picture of a well rounded porker drawing nourishment seemingly from a sump hole. On the opposite side of the road the motorist will see another sign of a huge shark, with the inscription, "It Is the Same Old Sharky Bill. Vote 'No.'" We do not have to imagine that this sort of advertising is paid for by those connected with the production and marketing of petroleum and its products and neither must we guess that the campaign is costing the industry a vast sum of money.

It is difficult for the laymen to determine which view is the correct one insofar as the control features of the bill affect the future of oil, but it is not so difficult to understand that the act itself points the way to making the oil industry of California the political football of whatever administration happens to be in power. If the oil interests are not in agreement with this conclusion, they might read the measure over again and see what is promised for the future in the way of investigation upon which to predicate action for further control.

That the Atkinson Bill was designed as a political control bill rather than a bill to control the petroleum industry, has been plain from the beginning. Nor is the menace lessened by the appeal of naval authorities that the oil must be conserved in the interest of national defense. It is within the facts that there is oil enough in storage now to serve the navy for the next decade. But that is insignificant compared with the estimate that in the field alone in California there is a potential production that would supply the navy with oil for from 100 to 150 years. The opinion of the swivel chair officials may have weight with the oil producers but we are wondering if it should be accepted as against the menace to the industry through the conversion of a great business into a political asset for whatever administration may be in authority.

GERMANY'S WEAKNESS (Oakland, Calif., Tribune)

Dr. Karl Brandt, distinguished German economist, now on the staff of the Food Research Institute of Stanford University, points out the success Germany has had in closing the "fat gap" which was the most serious lack in all German food requirements when Hitler came into power. Dr. Brandt's publication, which is reviewed in the current Geographical Review, contains this statement:

"The Germans have expanded their dairy industry by improvement of stock, expansion of silo capacity, increasing and improving pasturage, and by reducing the price of chemical fertilizer. They have discouraged the consumption of margarine made from imported vegetable and whale oils, and subsidized the production of oil seeds.

The problem of closing the fat gap also has been attacked in attempts to decrease fat consumption. Butter and margarine are to some extent replaced by sugar, jam and marmalade. Sugars have also been substituted for fats in baking. The soap industry, which is the principal industrial consumer of fats, to a certain extent now uses coal and lignite derivatives as substitutes for fat in soap manufacture.

Aside from the industrial aspects of the fat shortage, there is the deleterious effect on the health of the German people. Sickness has increased, the efficiency of workers has declined, and the number of industrial accidents has risen one-third.

Another German economist who recently came to the United States, Felix Beyer, writing in the current issue of Iron Age, predicts a breakdown of Germany's industrial system within four to eight months. This prophecy, he thinks, is responsible for military inaction on the Western Front. The prediction is based on Germany's shortage of iron ore, machinery, fuel oil, copper, wheat and other strategic materials.

While most economists would agree as to Germany's weak economic position, few would set the precise date for the collapse of her industry.

PRODUCTION IN THE UNITED STATES AND REST OF THE WORLD

The Cleveland Trust Company Bulletin for October reports that the Federal Reserve Index of the volume of industrial production in this country was 102 for August, using 1923-24-25 as being equal to 100.

The Department of Agriculture has constructed an index for the rest of the world, excepting Russia, that also uses the same 1923-24-25 basis as equal to 100. This index for the rest of the world shows that the industrial production for the month of August was 161, compared with 102 in the United States, as shown by the Federal Reserve Index.

There must be some very definite cause as to why the United States has not regained its production as compared with the rest of the world. It might be well for the advocates of the New Deal to explain this disparity.

I do not believe there is any explanation, other than the government has hog-tied free enterprise by taxing production, by permitting labor groups to combine to keep others from working and stopping production and by permitting banks to synthetically manufacture bank credits, causing money to lose its original purpose of being a measure of value.

It is really a wonder that we have as much production as we have under these conditions. How long will we have to go before we are satisfied that we cannot spend ourselves rich or have more production by destroying wealth and preventing people from working.

GROSS INCOME AND TRANSACTION TAX

There have been quite a number of people who have been advocating a transaction tax. The Ham and Eggs Amendment in California, if passed, will put in a gross income tax of three per cent. When the gross income tax and transaction tax are analyzed, it is found that they are practically the same thing. The Townsendites contend that a two per cent transaction tax will produce about $20,000,000 in the United States and if the tax is three per cent, instead of two, this would be a tax burden of nearly $30,000,000, or at least 40 per cent of the national income. If this same rate is figured for the State of California, it would mean 40 per cent of the income of California.

A gross income, or a transaction tax, is very unfair, even if adopted by the nation. It is unfair because it would make the business man who only performed a small part of the total production of a commodity pay a three per cent tax on a small fraction of the total work and other concerns that did other parts of this work would also pay a three per cent tax. This would pyramid so that the little man would have a tax three or four times as high as the big operator who started with raw materials and completed it, and retailed it. For this reason, it is a most unfair tax. We do not want any kind of a tax that discriminates against a little business man, nor do we want any kind of a tax that discriminates against the big business man. We want a uniform tax that treats all equally.

In addition to this discrimination, the gross income or transaction tax if only a state tax discriminates against all those producers in a state who attempt to ship merchandise outside of the state. It is easy to see that the employers in the state would be at a great disadvantage against their competitor outside of the state by an amount equal to the tax. And the little fellow whose tax was nine, or 12, or 15 per cent would be completely shut out of the out-of-state market.

So this gross income tax is probably the most vicious part of the Ham and Eggs initiative. Undoubtedly, the rest of the bill would be declared unconstitutional but this part would cause much unemployment in the State of California because it would put many state concerns out of business.

Behind The News Of The Day

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—To the hazards of life in Washington should be added race horse touts and the March of Time.

We will take them up in that order, although that may or may not be the way we feel about them.

Washington has no horse tracks of its own, but not far over the line in Maryland are such spots as Laurel and Havre de Grace where the horses run and the touts ply their trade with skillful additions to their tricks which should be reported.

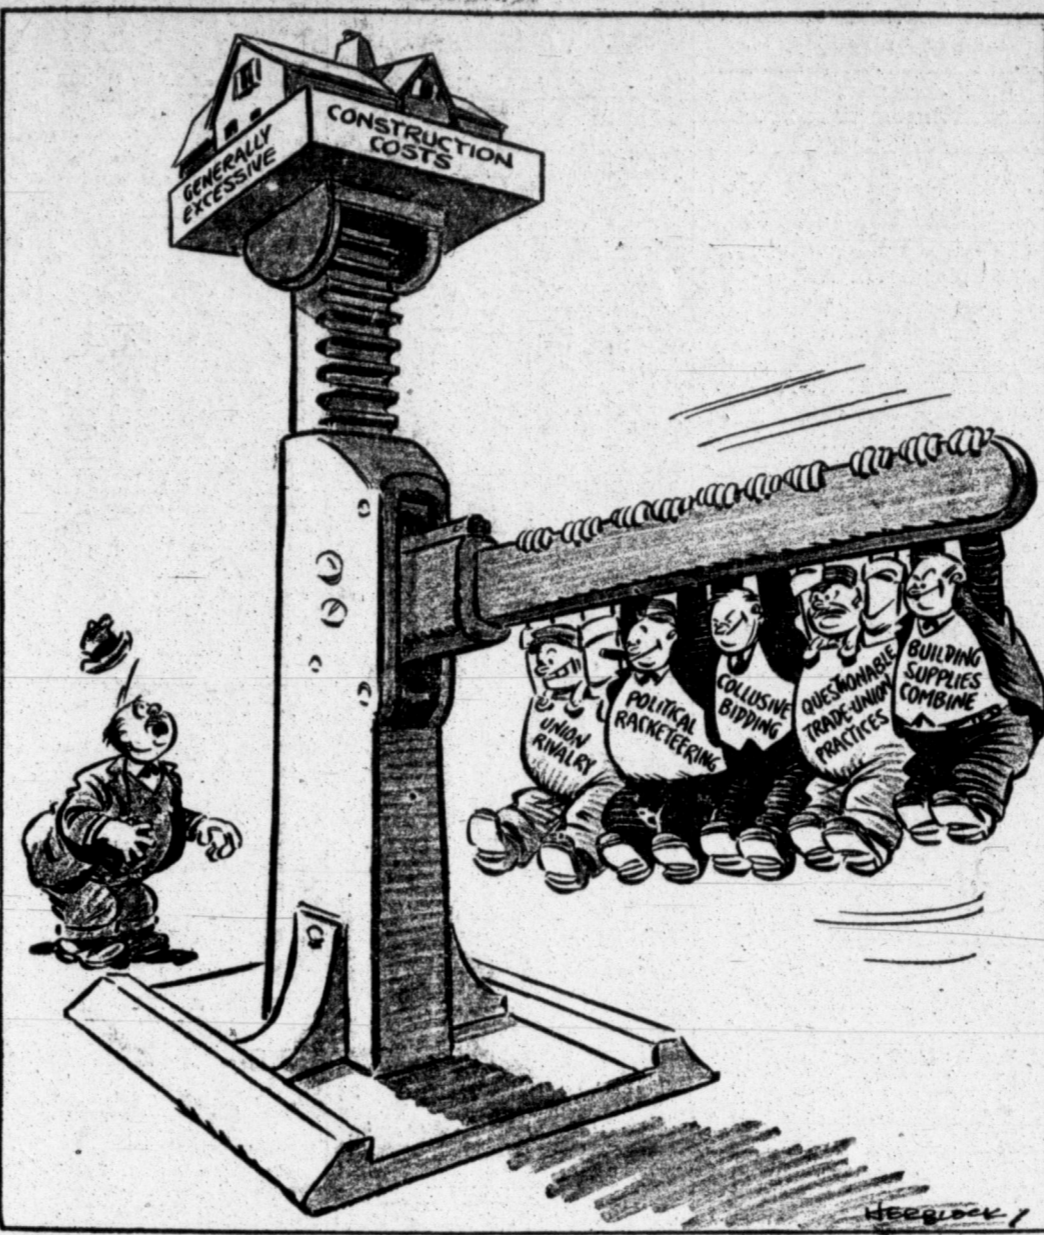

At Laurel a tout rushes up to whisper something in the ear of Postmaster General Farley but he is casually brushed aside and doesn't press his point. On to the next victim he wings his way, and the name of the victim will hold because he blushes easily.

"Put a piece of Blue Nose," says he, although Blue Nose is not the name of the horse, whose true name we will also withhold because the horse also blushes easily. Our victim is not eager to put a piece on Blue Nose because he thinks he knows the way of touts. But this one has tricks.

"The CLINCHER. "I just come from the stables, see," he says, "and I was out with a couple of jockeys last night. This one is all locked up. I am no bum, fella," he adds, and to prove his point he spreads a roll of bills with a tender on top.

Nevertheless, our hesitant victim is on the point of

THE HOUSE THAT'S BUILT JACKED

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 3—There is something more than patriotic solicitude behind the announcements by some of the studios that they will not make pictures which in any way might embarrass our government in its military stand. It seems that there is, and for some time has been, an unofficial but effective federal censorship.

Against Hollywood, policies can be enforced by inaction. That is, instead of sending the marines to make the movies behave, the government can accomplish the same objective by NOT calling out the army or navy or air corps to help in the filming of pictures. The cooperation and good will of many of the departments in Washington are enormously important to the flicker industry.

Oklahoma's Senator Thomas recently talked about a wartime censorship board for motion pictures but withdrew the proposal when he became convinced that it isn't necessary. Hollywood agrees. A polite "suggestion" from any of several Washington officials is as compelling to the major studios as a federal law.

Stories are changed, scenes are deleted and whole pictures are shelved. "Invasion," which was planned as a super spectacle of some future attack on this country by an unnamed foe, has been abandoned because it might weaken our feeling of security and nudge us a little closer to war. For similar reasons, the more specific "Hell, America!" has been yanked from the movie mill.

Deletions Ruined 'Men With Wings' But screen neutrality has been dictated from Washington from the beginning of the Japanese invasion of China, and the war in Spain, too. Pictures with a Chinese locale such as "Too Hot to Handle" were forbidden to identify the aggressors. The drone of bombers could be reproduced, but the planes couldn't be shown. Often on the same program, though, were newsreels of Japanese planes "laying their eggs."

Such instances of international delicacy have been only mildly troublesome to the studios and slightly irritating to audiences who nevertheless were newsreels of Japanese planes "laying their eggs." Such instances of international delicacy have been only mildly troublesome to the studios and slightly irritating to audiences who nevertheless were newsreels of Japanese planes "laying their eggs."

Movie Censorship Is Inconsistent Japanese, Spanish rebels, Germans, Italians—none of them was identified in the picture. But audiences would have known, so the sequences were cut out.

Probably rigid neutrality censor-turning away when out from behind an automobile sneaks a wily fellow who says in a half tone that could be heard 40 feet:

"You better get back to the stables, Beazy, you're in trouble about them bandages."

That touch of local color is enough to sack our victim and he passes $4 through the window hesitatingly. Blue Nose does not win. That makes no difference to the tout, of course, who probably has pulled this fancy trick to tip off a sucker on every horse in the race. So no matter which comes in he has a claim for a kick-in.

But horses don't, trouble us much, and not nearly so early in the morning as the March of Time.

At 7:15 a. m. our telephone cut loose the other morning and sent us galloping downstairs in our pajamas.

"This is Western Union," says a sweet voice, sweet even at 7:15 a. m. "We have a rather long telegram for you."

We have no cows to milk so we are not always up at 7:15 a. m. and when Western Union calls at that hour either a distant relative has left us some money or the office wants us down right away, there is trouble.

People You Know

Winston Savage, principal of Sam Houston school, the other day found a Pi Omega pin at Harvester park. The owner of the pin may have it by identifying it. ... And speaking of Winston, one of his cherished possessions is a kodak picture of a football team he coached at Woodrow Wilson school when he came to Pampa in 1922. On the front line is Grover Lee Heiskell who looked about an inch long. ... You've got to hand it to Mrs. Elsie Cone who brought the house down last night in her impersonation of Mizzy Mudark. The first time this one knew Mrs. Cone was in 1934 when the Jaycees made an appeal for volunteers in the Pre-Centennial pageant. Mrs. Cone volunteered and brought a number of people with her. Next year she was on the job again, and the next and the next. Always willing to help, and it doesn't make any difference how little a part or how big a part they give her. She does her best and tries to get other people to do their best. And people find her a lot of fun and love to work with her. Not only that, but in numerous public-spirited projects, Mrs. Cone has helped out. So today we take our hat off to her. ...

weak soup—banquet soup, in fact, complete with fearfully dull tectonic speeches. That wasn't the original story. As written, it followed Ray Milland to his death and it accomplished the dual purpose of showing some of the thrills and development of modern military aviation along with the story of a restless, reckless flyer-of-fortune. He fought for China and there were some remarkable shots (deleted) of one aerial combat. Then he went to Loyalist Spain and hurled his rickety crate against the swift might of Franco's guest-artists-of-slaughter, the Germans and Italians. He was forced down and captured and put up against a wall, but he wasn't watching them when they fired. He was looking into the sky, at a soaring hawk.

The title was not approved by the Hays office, but this is of little moment to Producer Ben Judell, who is an independent moviemaker. Also, so long as he doesn't need to borrow any battleships or squadrons of planes, he has nothing to fear from Washington.

The Family Doctor

Dr. Morris Fishbein

The glands of the skin do not function as actively in cold as in warm weather. Both dry heat in our homes and exposure to the cold outdoors may be detrimental to the skin. The problem of caring for the skin in winter is quite different from that in summer.

In the recent issue of Hygiene, Dr. Eugene P. Traub emphasizes the fact that the customary bath taken with soap in the winter will dry the skin. Scaling and cracking will result. This is a warning sign that protective steps should be taken. All parts of the body do not chap with equal ease. The legs, arms, hands, face and trunk are parts most likely to be affected.

The use of soap and water on the skin removes the natural lubrication. It may be necessary, therefore, to provide artificial lubrication for the skin. In the case of people past middle life, less frequent bathing is often advisable in cold weather. Two or three baths a week instead of daily baths should suffice, unless it is possible to lubricate the skin. The addition of bran, corn starch or baking soda to the water will help to soften it.

For chapped lips, it is important to avoid irritating mouth washes, soap, tobacco and chewing gum. Any oily preparation like cold cream, petroleum or lanolin will serve to lubricate the skin until the chapping is healed. If eczema occurs, the condition is certainly serious enough to demand medical attention.

Doctors nowadays get few cases of frostbite and chilblains. For frostbite, circulation may be increased by gentle rubbing with the palm of the hand. Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, has recommended this method and most authorities agree that it is not advisable to apply snow, ice, or ice water to frostbite. Neither should alcoholic stimulants be given. Warmth should be needed today, but certainly it ought to be exercised consistently. Current releases in the United States is a picture made by Producers Pictures corporation titled "Hitler—Beast of Berlin." It is a story about the "underground" anti-Nazi activity in Germany, but it also is a document of hate against the German government. The story, in which most of the sympathetic characters get shot or beaten to death, was approved by the Hays office.

The title was not approved by the Hays office, but this is of little moment to Producer Ben Judell, who is an independent moviemaker. Also, so long as he doesn't need to borrow any battleships or squadrons of planes, he has nothing to fear from Washington.

CENTRALIZATION PRODUCES DICTATORSHIPS By GUS W. DYER Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University

All radical groups—socialists, communists, syndicalists—are uncompromising exponents of the centralization of political power. The Italian government is centralized under state socialism with a dictator at its head. The United States of Germany is a centralized state with Hitler as its dictator. Russia is absolutely centralized under communism with a dictator at its head. Centralization and dictatorship are connected in the relation of cause and effect. Each is both the cause and the effect of the other. Hence the exponents of dictatorship strive first, under cover, to centralize all political power and authority, because they know that this is essential to any form of dictatorship. The only effective way any country can protect itself against the reign of the dictator is to defeat every effort to centralize the government.

The American Revolution was the result of a dictatorship set up over the colonies by one who had come by the name of the English throne. The English people were opposed to dictatorship, but they were helpless to prevent George III from assuming the dictatorship powers under the centralized government of that day. Later the government of the British Empire was decentralized. Hence the English colonies today are absolutely free from any sort of dictatorship or restriction from the English government. If they had decentralized before the Revolution there never would have been a revolution. As night follows day, revolutions follow serious attempts to centralize Anglo-Saxon governments.

The chief purpose of the founders of the American system was to construct a form of government under which centralization and dictatorship would be impossible. The unwritten Constitution of England had failed to give adequate protection against dictatorship. Hence, from the brain of the great Madison came the written Constitution. With the written Constitution, a government was formed specifically against the possibility of centralization. The sovereign power of the states were given full and unequivocal recognition, and the federal government was given only limited and specific powers. The federal government added protection against the very evils of centralizing radicals. The Constitution makes clear that all powers not specifically given to the federal government are retained by the several states. In addition to this the Constitution binds every executive, judicial and legislative official from the President down to the doorkeeper of Congress under the sanctity of the oath to preserve, protect, and defend the decentralized Constitution against all attempts to centralize this government and thereby open the way to dictatorship. Durs is the only government in the history of civilization that binds its officials under oath to protect a written Constitution against change or perversion.

In recent years two methods have been discovered by the radical exponents of centralization by which they are striving in every way possible to convert the decentralized government of the Constitution into a highly centralized government, similar to the centralized governments of Europe. These two methods are the "emergency theory" and the plan of circumventing the Constitution by the method of indirectness. Under the plan of "indirectness" the radicals reached indirectly that would be unconstitutional if done directly. Hundreds of millions are spent to put the government in a state of emergency, under the pretense that this money was used to improve navigation, etc. This method is not only antagonistic to the Constitution, but is fundamentally unethical.

The other centralizing device—the emergency theory—is that whenever an emergency of any nature arises the government thereby is exempt from constitutional limitations and may do whatever it pleases. Under the emergency theory, those in power are authorized to declare, arbitrarily, the existence of an emergency whenever an "emergency" is needed. If the fallacies of "indirectness" and "emergency powers" are accepted as permanent policies, the Constitution will pass out, and the way will be made easy for centralization and dictatorship.

STAMP NEWS

POSTMASTER General James A. Farley has announced that the new U. S. 3-cent stamp, commemorating the 50th anniversary of admission to statehood of North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and Washington will be placed on first-day sale at the state capitals on the respective anniversary dates of each state. Thus the stamp will be sold at Bismarck, N. D., and Pierre, S. D., on Nov. 2, at Helena, Mont., on Nov. 8, and at Olympia, Wash., on Nov. 11.

To conform to the variation in anniversary dates sales of the stamp at Bismarck, Pierre and Helena will be restricted to a single day. At the close of business of those days at these three postoffices, the stamp will be withdrawn from sale until Nov. 13, when it will be made available to postoffices throughout the country.

At Olympia, the anniversary falls on Saturday and since the postoffice is closed on Sunday, it will not be necessary to withdraw the stamp from sale at that office.

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations may send a limited number of covers, not to exceed 10, to the postmaster at each of the above offices, with cash or money order covering only the cost of the stamps required for affixing. Postage stamps will not be accepted in payment.

Postal authorities report that, in the past, many covers have been undelivered because the covers were improperly addressed. Each cover must be addressed and bear a pencil endorsement in upper right corner to show the number of stamps to be attached.

First-day sales of the new printing commemorating at the New York postoffice on Sept. 25 amounted to $30,340.77, representing 1,011,854 stamps. A total of 295,370 first-day covers were handled.

Sales of the stamp at the Philadelphia Agency at Washington, D. C., on Sept. 26 totaled $12,188.91. The agency sold 406,297 stamps and canceled 11,297 covers.

Dies Soon To Call

'Eminent Educators'

Finland's Leader

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Declaring that Communism has crept into "practically every university in the United States," Chairman Dies (D-Tex.) announced today that "eminent educators" would be called soon to testify before the house committee investigating un-American activities.

Finland's Leader

Die's said the committee would conclude its study of maritimes labor today and then recess for two or three weeks before starting hearings on educational institutions.

Finland's Leader

"Well known professors will make out a startling case showing how Communism has infiltrated into colleges and universities throughout the land," Dies said.

Finland's Leader

He added that communistic textbooks used in some public grade schools and colleges would be introduced into the committee record, together with evidence showing how Communist party units were formed on campuses.

Finland's Leader

Die's predicted also that the committee would go to the west coast early next year to investigate communism in labor unions and in Hollywood.

Special To The NEWS MOBEETIE, Nov. 3.—The Mobeetie Hornets will play their next conference game today with the Phillips team on the Phillips gridiron. Coach S. L. Marchbanks announced that Phillips had a strong ball club, both in size of men and experience, and notwithstanding the fact that they have lost several games this year, it may be considered that all their games have been lost to equally strong ball clubs.

The Hornets have not won many games this year, but they have given every team they have played stiff competition. This may be shown by the score of preceding games: Memphis 14, Mobeetie 0; Mobeetie 8, LeFors 7; Miami 14, Mobeetie 7; Follett, Mobeetie 7; and Higgins, 24, Mobeetie 7.

The probable starting lineup will be much the same as usual, with the exception of Sivage, who was disabled in the Follett game. The probable line-up will be: Sims, P. Johnson, E. Johnson, P. and Creeks, ends; Eubanks, Sims, R. tackles; Red, Reed, guards; and Sims, J. center. The loss of Sivage will put a deep gap in the defense line, as he is the most experienced and also one of the heaviest men in the line.

First Snow Falls In Chicago Thursday

CHICAGO, Nov. 3 (AP)—Chicagoans went to work in a wintry setting yesterday as 4 of an inch of snow fell during the early morning. A warm sun that boosted the temperature to 37 at 10 a. m. brought a quick thaw.

Temperatures were low for the season virtually all over the continent east of the Rocky mountains and more than 15 degrees below normal in the Central and Northern Great Plains region.

Salmon, pike and goldfish are the only fish that do not sleep.

Aggies And Crain Will Hold Spotlight Tomorrow

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT

DALLAS, Nov. 3 (AP)—Two rather colossal attractions are on the southwestern conference calendar tomorrow—one concerning a team, the other a bow-legged boy.

Once again at the regular Saturday afternoon detour that confuses unbeatens machines, the Texas Aggies gather in the foothills of the Arkansas Ozarks for a gamble at their seventh straight victory.

Twenty-three thousand, a sellout through, will gather at Dallas to watch Cowboy Jack Crain, Texas' sophomore cyclone, try his running magic against Southern Methodist's fine club.

Only hope of the southwest for an unbeaten and untied team, the Aggies, statistical and game leaders of the sector, edge into Fayetteville on the annual homecoming day—a barrier in itself. Favored by season records but leery of it all, the Aggies expected the tightest game so far.

"We've never had any luck beating Arkansas at Fayetteville," said Coach Homer Norton, "but we're hoping to do it tomorrow. We've got to play 60 long minutes of football. The Razorbacks have, in Kay Eakin, the best punter and passer in the league. I'd settle for a one-point margin right now."

Not a man on the Aggie first and second string teams was hurt. The key men—Jarrin John Kimbrough, Sophomore Derace Moser, Jim Thompson, Watson Price, Marion Pugh and Bill Combs—were ready. They form the Aggies' six-man backfield. The big line that has, by far, the best defensive record in the league—permitting only 268 yards by ground—was solid through the second team.

Arkansas, bothered since the season's start by injuries, was able to put its full strength on the field. It has lost every game away from home this year, but has won over Texas Christian and Central Oklahoma Teachers on their own field. Odds favored the Aggies chiefly because they led the conference in first down, yards gained pushing, total yards gained from scrimmage, and owned the best pass defense. Only 24 of the enemy's 49 passes have been completed against the Farmers.

Southern Methodist plans some sort of mystery defense for Jack Crain—maybe a sort of tempin formation. The Mustangs, starting conference play against a young team that gets better each week, held on to a light pre-game edge.

Crain Not Halted "Not since the season started has Crain been halted. He has scored in every game and does it the hard, old-fashioned way. But behind those 40, 50, 60 and 80-yard touch-down runs is some teamwork. Fine downfield blocking enables him to get away. Now Texas is tougher than ever, but a couple of backs who were kept out by injuries through the Arkansas game are ready. Fullback Pete Layden, runner, passer and kicker and Noble Doss, a marvelous runner.

S. M. U. tied Oklahoma, 7-7, and Texas was outclassed, 24-12, but the Texans have come a long way since that Oklahoma game. It has improved 50 per cent. Tackle play is better and its pass defense has improved.

In a third conference game, Texas Christian meets Baylor at Waco. The Christians won their first game of the season last week, spilling Centenary, 21-0, with reserves scattered throughout the lineup. Most of them will start against a Baylor team handicapped by loss of Milton Merka, big back. It's homecoming at Waco.

Rice takes its battered self into the Polo Grounds at New York to play Fordham. And here is the spot for the week's upset. Rice may pass Fordham smack against the left field fence, but the smart boys are giving our Owls 13 points for protection.

TWO FROGS FROM PANHANDLE

"See, this is the way it's done, Connie Sparks (left) tells Cousin Nolan Sparks, as the latter prepares to take over the fullback job for the T. C. U. Horned Frogs against the Baylor Bears. Connie, as a sophomore last year, won all-conference honors at fullback for the Frogs and was the leading conference scorer. Last week Connie was moved to left end and injuries removed Frank Kring, reserve full, from competition this week. All of which gives Nolan, a sophomore, his big chance. Both Sparks boys are from Panhandle. "Nolan has looked great in practice sessions this week, and we believe the boy will be able to go against the Bears," reports Coach Dutch Meyer.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 3 (AP)—Salt water from the 110-mile distant Gulf of Mexico flowed through New Orleans city water mains today for the second time in more than forty years and speckled trout were being caught at the foot of Canal Street for the first time in memory.

Due to prolonged drought through its entire watershed, the Mississippi has reached an almost record low and gulf tides flowed into the long-delta channel. The city's water supply is taken from the river. Authorities said the salt content is yet below government requirements. The mains were saline for a time in 1906.

The ordinarily tawny river which rushes millions of tons of yellow clay and black soil past New Orleans annually has turned a placid, Gulf blue, its surface dropping far below the levee tops that line its banks for hundreds of miles northward.

River men believed the river would drop still lower unless unexpected rains come in the watershed, stretching from the Yellowstone to Pittsburgh. Veteran river men claim they've never before seen the river at an absolute calm, with scarcely a ripple of movement.

Larger boats have been tied up, and some docks north of here have been rendered useless by low water. A number of Edinburg, Texas, expected to encounter a stiff test from Proffro Diaz, Mexico City. Diaz has been shooting a fine consistent golf throughout.

McNutt's game has been rising in caliber since Wednesday's qualifying round and there was much expert opinion that he would push Todd to the limit.

The player who eliminated defending champion Percy Clifford yesterday stood today in the path of Bobby Riegel of Houston and had every appearance of being a stumbling block.

Armando Rivero, of Mexico City, gave such a demonstration of rock-like nerves and steady playing in turning back Clifford that he was picked to enter the semi-finals. It appeared unlikely that Riegel would be able to withstand Rivero's challenge.

Some of the best clubwork of the tournament has been displayed by Jay Flibre, of San Antonio and Jack Munger of Dallas, who clash in one quarter-final match today.

Flibre has won both his matches to date so overwhelmingly that observers were anxious to see how his game would stand the pressure Munger is certain to apply. Munger shot the low score thus far of the tournament yesterday when he carded 68, four below par.

SERIAL STORY

JOAN OF ARKANSAS

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY, Rocco, one of the three strangers who are interested in Joan, trails her to the campus Varsity shop. He lingers there, waiting for Joan and Marjorie to leave. He meets Tommy Peters, who recalls seeing Rocco's picture, but Tommy can't remember the connection.

CHAPTER XXI

ROCCO hailed a cab and went downtown. At 11:30 Sam and Big Ed drew up to the intersection of two back streets and picked him up.

"Well?" Ed said.
"Ed, I'm tellin' you I know so much about that dame. I even know what she's gonna have for lunch tomorrow." Rocco grinned in the darkness.

"Yeah . . . sure," Big Ed told him. "You're simply amazin', but I'll pin the medals on you later. Give out with the dope."

Rocco spoke quickly. "Tomorrow she goes on some trip with her sociology class out to an orphanage . . . she uses this Rhodes kid's car . . . she gets back at 3 and takes the car to the stadium so's he don't have to walk back from football practice . . . when she drives down to the stadium, that's when we work."

"Yeah, and what if she decides to keep the car all afternoon and take it back at 5, or maybe later."

"Nine chances outa ten she won't. I know, I'm tellin' you."

"How'd you pick all this stuff up since 4 o'clock?"

Rocco laughed mirthlessly. "Tell me Ed . . . you know anyone as smart as your boy Rocco? I got methods."

Big Ed hit off the end of a cigar and lit it. "Sam, you get up early and give this bus a good going over, hey?"

Sam stared straight ahead. "She ain't never run better."

"Mebbe not, but you'll do what I say, hey Sam?"

"Sure, Ed . . . Sure."

It was a beautiful fall day, and Joan, walking over to pick up Keith's car, wished it were two miles instead of two blocks to the Gamma house.

She picked up the keys from the cook and drove over to one of the dorms to call for three girls in her class who were to make the trip with her.

They joined the rest of the group at the orphanage and spent the next three hours making observations and taking notes on the institution's system of operation.

They ate a late lunch at a downtown tea shop and then returned to the university district.

Joan took the other girls back to the dormitory and stopped in at the Varsity for a minute.

"Hi, Uncle Jim," she greeted.

"How about some stamps?"

He pulled out his postal box.

"Say, Joan, there was a fella in here a few minutes ago lookin' for a football ticket. He wanted to know if you usually stopped in during the afternoon. He was in last night just about the time you were, and asked me who you were when you went out."

Joan frowned. "That's funny. He wasn't a student, was he?"

"Nope. And I noticed he got into a big sedan across the street with a couple other fellows."

"Thanks, Uncle Jim . . . couldn't have been very important or he'd have called me at the house."

She returned to her room and wrote a couple of letters before taking Keith's car back to the stadium.

"I'll be back in 45 minutes or so," she told Elaine. "If I get any phone calls insist on a message, will you?"

She dropped her letters in a corner box and drove across campus. Stopping at the library to pick up a book she bumped into Dan Webber.

"Hi, there," she said. "Going down to the stadium soon? I'll take you down."

"What do you mean—you'll take me down?"

She explained she was returning Keith's car. "Can you imagine that lazy so-and-so making me walk all the way back from the stadium when he could have left it at the fraternity house?"

Dan grinned. "Sure I can. That's Keith. But maybe I shouldn't blame him at that. The way Sloum has been running us ragged this week that car comes in handy when it's time to go home."

"(To Be Continued)

They walked out into the bright sunlight. "Think I'll turn down your offer," he said. "The walk'll do me good. Anyhow, Sloum screams when he spots any of the boys' getting chauffeur service. He claims the modern athlete is going soft because of the automobile and stuff."

"And you believe him, of course."

"Absolutely," he said solemnly. "Well, if you don't want to ride with me . . . I'm very good company, you know."

He grinned again. "Okay . . . let's get going before we start squaring off."

"Who's squaring off?" she flared, but he covered his ears and pretended not to listen.

Once in the car he relaxed deep in the leather seat and sighed. "Just think—three more days and I'll be worth living again. No more practice . . . no more charley-horses . . . no more Sloum bellowing in our ears."

"What about the Rose Bowl?"

He was silent for a long moment. "We'll talk about that after Saturday's game—maybe."

"You think we'll win, don't you?"

"I think so."

She noticed his quiet confidence.

They skirted the university power plant and swung onto the long gravel road which led down to the stadium. At the same instant a heavy blue sedan moved out of the stadium parking lot and started slowly toward them.

Joan didn't notice the other car until she rounded a curve. The sedan came toward them slowly, smack in the middle of the narrow road.

"It's about time for that guy to move over," Dan muttered as they drew closer.

Forty yards away and the sedan showed no inclination of drawing over to its own side of the road.

And then Joan noticed there were three men in the other car.

A sudden thought made her swing wide in an attempt to move around them—off the road, but around them, nevertheless.

But they swung wide with her and when she jammed on the brakes the cars were only three feet apart. She was completely blocked.

"Hey!" Dan shouted. "What's going on?"

But even as the two cars screeched to a stop, Rocco was scrambling out of the sedan.

There was an automatic in his hand. Joan gasped and clutched Dan's arm.

Russia Likely To Be Neutral

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The Pseudo war between the Anglo-French allies and Germany has now hollered down to a point where one can begin to get an idea of what it will look like when it jells--if it does jell.

What with Soviet Premier Molotov's categorical reiteration of Russian "neutrality," and Mussolini's purge of pro-Nazi officials to insure a non-belligerent position for Italy, the conflict finally has been restricted--for the present, at least--to the chief contestants.

That is to say, we have the economic and military resources of Germany stacked up against the combined strength of England and France. Outside supplies may be open to all belligerents--if they have any way to pay for them.

It is a matter of statistics that the joint resources of the allies--men, materials and money, greatly exceed those of the Reich.

That leaves it to the Nazis to offset this advantage either by better military machinery and leadership or by acquisition of outside help, or both.

Since the start of the war there has been little doubt that Mussolini's whole wish has been to steer clear of German entanglements.

Observers also have believed that Russia intended to remain off the battle-field, playing the allies and Germany against each other to the ultimate advantage of Russia and Communism. However, there has been an element of doubt, and this has made it impossible to gauge the situation accurately.

Were Russia to throw all its resources, including military, into the conflict on the side of Nazidem would completely change the complexion of the war.

That seems to be written off, however, by Molotov's statement of neutrality.

Panhandle Scouts Carnival Nets $20

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
PANHANDLE Nov. 3.—Pertuna telling bingo, shooting allers, a fishing pond, a skeleton booth, and various games of skill were the main features of the Halloween carnival sponsored by the Boy Scouts of Troop 8, Tuesday night, under the direction of Scoutmaster Sam Goodner.

The P.-T. A. assisted the boys in serving cake and coffee. The troop cleared $20. Funds will be used to purchase regulation Boy Scout equipment. Troop 8 is a comparatively new troop, having been organized last May. This is their first efforts at earning money, and the boys and their Scoutmaster are well pleased with the results.

Texas Today

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff

An East Texas fisherman was amazed the other day when he discovered a snake in the belly of a big bass. He said he did not know a bass would eat snakes. The fact is, a bass will eat almost anything available if he is hungry enough or mad enough.

Not long ago this department undertook to outline an effective method of preparing Texas' favorite fish for the table. There was some response to those informal notes, including one somewhat bitter epistle that began something like this:

"Dear Wise Guy: Now that you have told people all about how to cook bass, how about letting us in on the secret of how to catch them?"

The reply to this obviously disillusioned angler was, "we have to draw a line somewhere."

Anybody who can follow the simple directions may cook a fish or a fowl with some measure of success. Catching either is another matter. The rule book is running over with directions on how to fish, but there are no public libraries in lily pads. A bass can not read, but his informal education in elemental respects has not been neglected. Proof of that is that he sometimes grows to lusty maturity in waters teeming with such prehistoric monsters as the grundle, the sharp-toothed gar, the insatiable blue cat. A bass that weighs from five to ten pounds has lived a long time and worked hard for his living. Not only has he had food to eat, but he has had to keep from getting hot.

Nevertheless, the average bass is a chump and any chump can catch him. Proof of that is, we all sometimes catch bass because they heedlessly devour or victoriously strike at any object presented.

There are probably several thousand varieties of artificial baits. Some of them look like fish, some like frogs, some like lizards, some like mice, some like nothing at all. Some are made of wood, some of metal, some of plastics, some of horse hair, or feathers or fur. Some have concealed barbs and others have several rows of gang hooks that even a fish should be able to recognize as nothing but man-made trouble. At one time or another, all these monstrosities are effective. Sometimes none will work, all of which is further evidence that both bass and man—as they say in the funny papers—were behind the door when the brains were passed out.

The bass has a primary nervous set-up, however, fully capable of reacting explosively to simple stimulation. Hook him in the mouth and you will see. He does not need a brain to tell him what to do. He is obsessed with the notion of getting rid of that hook. Following that impulse, he runs for deep water, then back tracks and heads for a brush pile of a tangle of lily stems. Falling in that, he leaps, dancing on his tail and shaking his head. Somehow he shakes it hard enough to throw a bait half way back to the man who gave it to him. For the time at least, he realizes he has been swindled. Tomorrow, though, he may hit the same gold brick.

That is what keeps fishermen fishing.

For a number of years, this highly amateur angler has been intensely interested in what bass eat. Every time I catch one—which is not often enough—I slit his stomach to see. I have found everything from crawfish claws to finishing nails. I have never yet found a gold watch or a pearl, but hope hangs high.

The bass which had a jagged mussel shell in his stomach must have been dreadfully irritable and uncomfortable, which may account for his peculiar behavior. I had run out of minnows and substituted a long cellophane cigar wrapper for bait. Fishing it deep, like a wet fly, I jerked this fraudulent food along a grassy bottom. The bass either mistook it for something to eat or snatched at it in petulance. Perhaps he regarded it as an insult to his meager intelligence. At any rate, he took it, and for months nothing was said publicly about the matter because no fisherman—every one who sticks his neck out in type—likes to be called a liar.

And who ever heard of a fisherman departing from the truth?

600 Bales Of Cotton Ginned At Mobeetie

Special To The NEWS
MOBETTIE, Nov. 3.—To date there has been ginned in Mobeetie 600 bales of cotton, which is some short of the amount ginned to this same date last year. Probably a bigger per cent of the cotton has been gathered than at this same date a year ago. According to estimates made by the ginners and conservative farmers, from 60 to 75 per cent of the crop has been gathered. In all probability there will be from 900 to 1,000 bales ginned in Mobeetie this year.

The quality of the cotton is better than might be expected for so dry a year, and is bringing slightly more per pound than last year. There have been about 1,600 bales ginned last year, and although the cotton is bringing slightly more per pound, the income will not be as great as last year.

The feed crop is about the same as was the 1938 crop. Some of the farmers have fed to sell which is bringing 25 to 50 per cent more than last year's crop and this will help to bolster the farmers' income. Feed is practically all gathered, and with favorable weather cotton should all be out in 30 days.

There are 7013 persons to the square mile in England.

Home Makers Club Elects Officers

Special To The NEWS
PANHANDLE, Nov. 3.—Mrs. M. D. Eagle was elected president of the Home Makers Home Demonstration club at a recent meeting in the home of Mrs. O. C. Weakley. Other officers elected were vice-president, Mrs. A. V. Lowrie; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Carl Metcalf; parliamentarian, Mrs. Frank Berres; and reporter, Mrs. O. C. Weakley.

Mrs. A. V. Lowrie and Mrs. Juanita Harrison were introduced as new members.

A program on "Birds of the Southwest," was rendered by Mrs. Frank Berres, Mrs. Jerry Cavanaugh, Mrs. Carl Metcalf, and Mrs. O. C. Weakley. It was learned that the mocking bird, meadow lark, robin, dove and quail are valuable to farmers, since they eat harmful insects.

Recital was answered by Mrs. Houston Bell, Dewey Kronister, R. E. Spooner, W. G. Faulks, Jerry Cavanaugh, Carl Metcalf, Frank Berres, A. V. Lowrie, Juanita Harrison, and the hostess.

During the World war, soldiers would shovel the gas out of the trenches after a heavier-than-air gas attack. An ordinary shovel, with canvas flaps on three sides was used.

A cat and 12 pigeons were released 20 miles from home in Belgium, and the cat reached home first.
