

High Court To Rule On School Fund; Decision Likely To Affect Taxpayers

Texas taxpayers better get prepared for a U.S. Supreme Court decision that could rival the school busing decision for its effect on the state's public school system.

If the high court upholds lower federal court decisions in the Rodriguez vs. San Antonio Independent School District case, it likely will affect every taxpayer in the state where or not he has school children.

And it apparently will set the pattern for public school financing throughout the nation.

Arguments on the appeal will be heard after the Supreme Court reconvenes in October with the decision weeks or maybe months later.

The court contest began in 1971 when a three-judge federal court in San Antonio held the Texas system of financing public school education was unconstitutional. They said the present system of state-local financing based on local property taxes deprives children who live in school districts with low property valuations and low school tax revenues of equal protection under the 14th Amendment.

Texas would have to raise an additional $2.4 billion a year to increase its per pupil spending average to the level of its wealthier school districts. Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin said in the state's appeal filed with the U.S. Supreme Court. The entire state budget for 1973, from both state and federal funds, is only $4.1 billion.

"The one-kid, one-buck plan would destroy local autonomy," Martin also claimed.

Another alternative, which Martin also opposed, would be to equalize local school taxes by giving to the poor districts and taking from the richer ones.

Glenn Ivy, research director of the Texas Research League, said in a statement to the League of Women Voters of Texas that "full state financing would mean an end to local school property taxes, at least for operating purposes, and the state would have to raise approximately $1 billion a year from some other source by 1974 just to maintain the status quo. That would double the present Minimum Foundation Program cost."

Ms. Rose Spector, an attorney for those who brought the suit, told the League of Women Voters that the evidence in the case "clearly demonstrates, that state aid to local districts provided by the Minimum Foundation Program has little, if any, equalizing effect ... it results in wealthy districts gaining most in state aid per pupil with minimal effort."

"What is required is a financing plan where the variation in wealth between school districts does not affect the level of spending for any child," she said.

The Minimum Foundation Program was set up in 1949 to cure exactly the problem it has failed to cure—equalize school spending over the state. However, the program, which is financed an average of 80 per cent by the state and 20 per cent locally, only sets a minimum for school spending. If a school district has lots of available tax revenue it can spend much more.

Martin said that the state's average 80 per cent of cost, ends up with the state paying up to 98 per cent of school costs in poorer districts and less than 80 per cent in the richer ones.

According to Ivy's figures, Odessa in Ector County, with 24,384 pupils, has 1,019 teachers and a starting salary rate of $7,445. The Edgewood district in San Antonio, where the suit originated, has 22,134 pupils, 805 teachers and a starting salary rate of $6,000.

"To level-up would cost more than $2 million for higher salaries and 120 more teachers at Edgewood," Ivy said. "To average-out would mean setting the starting salary for both districts at $6,700 and transferring 83 teachers from Odessa to Edgewood."

Ms. Spector said that the evidence in the Rodriguez case shows that "the high revenues in districts with high value tax bases are not related to a greater desire for education by the residents of such districts. It is in the poor, not the rich, school districts where the greatest tax effort is being made."

The Texas Education Agency reports for the 1969-70 school year show the average expenditure per pupil that year was $558. Actually the expenditure per pupil ranged from less than $300 in some districts to more than $1,100 per pupil in others. Even school districts of similar size varied more than 180 per cent in spending per pupil.

In California—where school officials are asking the U.S. Supreme Court to decide against Texas—the variation in spending ranges from $407 to $2,586 per pupil in elementary schools. So far all efforts by those school officials to get the California Legislature to overhaul its school financing system have failed.

The San Antonio federal court in 1971 gave the state two years to restructure its school financing system. That time will be up in December 1973.

If the U.S. Supreme Court decides against Texas' appeal and the Legislature does not take prompt action, then it will be up to the federal court to implement its own order—to design a constitutionally acceptable school finance system for Texas.

GAO To Delay GOP Campaign Fund Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting Office has decided to delay its report on alleged Republican misuse of campaign funds after a talk with a top Nixon re-election official produced "new facts."

The announcement of the delay came after a GAO auditor met in Miami Beach, Fla., with Maurice H. Stans, Nixon's chief fund raiser.

However, a spokesman for the office Wednesday denied the report was being delayed because of the Republican National Convention.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M.D.

Hal was on the verge of a divorce! But within 30 days he had changed his home into a happy family group! So send for that 25-cent non-profit booklet and USE IT! For it is far cheaper to prevent divorce than to pay alimony!

CASE U-571: Hal T., aged 34, is a grumpy chemical engineer. "Dr. Crane," he complained, "my wife has just threatened to divorce me."

"Yet I give her a liberal check every month to run the house. And she has her own automobile, too."

"So what more could a wife desire?"

"For we live in a good suburban area and belong to the Country Club."

"Yet she seems to be developing a crush on a high school math instructor who teaches our teen-age daughter."

"How can I bring her to her senses?"

Sexual Perspective Hal lacked the proper sexual perspective.

Women want words! Especially sweet talk and compliments.

But how many of you husbands have complimented your wives today?

Think back! Did you give her a word of praise before leaving the house this morning?

Or when you arrived in the late afternoon from your job?

And how many actual words do you generally utter to your wife during the typical weekday?

"Hmph!" and maybe "Uh, huh!" may apply to many of you.

Yet women want words! Saccharine compliments rate high with the female sex, but most women are even delighted with just normal conversation.

"Dr. Crane," the usual wife will complain, "I'd be happy if my husband would just tell me a few of the happenings at his office, store or factory job."

"But he reads the newspaper or watches TV and maybe gripes about chores the kiddies have failed to do."

"Everything is negative, too, for he rarely sees anything good in what I do."

"And if the children bring home a good report card, he just grunts."

"But if they have been tardy or got a 'C' or 'D' grade, then he chews them out."

"It would be so wonderful for all of us if Daddy would just join your famous 'Compliment Club' and praise us for our occasional merits!"

Hal's Shockeroo Well, I let Hal hear some of these typical complaints from wives.

And then I quizzed him, he admitted that he couldn't recall a single verbal compliment all week that he had given either his wife or his daughter!

It wasn't that Hal didn't love them, either, but like most men, he was so preoccupied with his own thoughts and problems that he forgot to observe his human environment.

He vowed to join the "Compliment Club" and pay at least one honest bit of praise every day to his wife and also his daughter.

This was such a shockeroo change that even his awkward compliments rated far above the 100 per cent mark.

So send for the "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a long, stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. Learn the 5 Laws for Complimenting!

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Meliott, Indiana 47558, enclosing a long, stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

MacGregor Warns GOPers Not To Be Overconfident

it will be a lot closer than many others do, and he is calling for a strong, steady, dedicated effort by all hands.

They were attributes that contributed to the close relationship that developed between MacGregor and Mitchell. But MacGregor is far more open and congenial by nature than Mitchell, and has taken on a role as party spokesman that Mitchell shunned.

He has held more news conferences in the few weeks he has been in the $60,000-a-year post than Mitchell ever did as campaign director.

Where MacGregor is unable to match his predecessor is in his working relations with the White House staff. Mitchell enjoyed an intimacy with Nixon that transcended official duties and permitted him direct access to the oval office of the President.

MacGregor says he sometimes talks to Nixon two or three times a day by telephone, but he works mainly through White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman.

MacGregor says he sees Haldeman and other top Nixon aides almost daily, usually at an early morning White House staff conference. "I'm mostly a listener," says MacGregor, unconsciously underscoring complaints that are beginning to be heard in the field that campaign control is slipping more and more into the hands of the White House staff.

MacGregor spends a lot of his time traveling around the country to meet party leaders and talk to campaign workers.

It helped account for his success as chief lobbyist for Nixon's legislative program in Congress, where he earned a reputation as a friendly persuader.

ALL SMILES after taking over direction of the President's re-election drive, Clark MacGregor is taking a serious view of the campaign ahead. He has warned Republicans not to be overconfident.

MacGregor, a White House aide and former congressman from Minnesota, succeeded former Attorney General John Mitchell as campaign chief.

For MacGregor, it's a job with a future something like that of a flagpole sitter's. There is nowhere to go but down.

The pundits, pollsters and most of the public see Nixon winning handily in November over Sen. George McGovern, and if he does, the credit will hardly go to MacGregor. But if Nixon should lose ...

MacGregor's first message to the campaign workers was a warning against overconfidence. Although he is certain Nixon will win, he thinks

Facing life again without breasts

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Those women who complain because they have small breasts should count their blessings. AND their breasts.

I was always small, and even went to a doctor about it. He laughed and told me that's why they sold so many padded bras.

Well, I never thought it could happen to me, but I had to have both my breasts removed in life-saving surgery.

I couldn't have written this letter six years ago without tears dropping all over the page, but I can say truthfully that now it doesn't bother me. I can thank God for a loving, sensible, understanding husband who I thought I'd lose, but didn't.

Now I am trying to adjust to this topless, bra-less erasmus bosoms. It isn't easy, but I'm doing the best I can with the assets I have left.

OFF MY CHEST

DEAR OFF: You have a soul sister in Marvella Bayh, the beautiful wife of the handsome, young Indiana senator. She told the story of her mastectomy in the June issue of Today's Health Magazine with such courage and candor she was an inspiration to all women who shared that experience.

DEAR ABBY: Please, be the judge in this controversy: When a woman is told, "You think like a man"—is that a compliment or not? Sign this . . .

"A WOMAN WHO THINKS LIKE A MAN"

DEAR WOMAN: It's a compliment only to a woman who thinks a man's thinking is superior to that of a woman's.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to relate two separate incidents and would appreciate your opinion.

The first incident: My husband was driving down a busy city street when he noticed a box in the street which apparently had fallen out of someone's car. He stopped and picked it up. It contained 12 freshly laundered white shirts. The owner's name was on a slip inside, so my husband immediately went to a phone booth and tried to locate him. There were three people by the same name, so my husband called all three. The last one was the man who had just lost his laundry. My husband drove (out of his way) to the home of the man, and he rang the doorbell. The man came to the door, took the box, said, "Thanks, Buddy," and shut the door.

Incident Number Two: Last week my young daughter and I were getting out of our car in a shopping center when she noticed a woman's billfold on the ground. I picked it up and saw that it had money and credit cards inside. I took it immediately to the parking lot attendant and turned it in. I left my name and phone number.

I went back later and asked if the lady who lost the billfold ever got it back. He said she had. I then asked if he had given her my name and phone number. He said, "Yes." End of story.

Sometimes I wonder, Abby. Does it pay to be honest? HONEST OR STUPID

DEAR HONEST: In the above cases honesty didn't "pay" except in the currency of honor and self respect. If that isn't enough for you, then honesty does "not" pay. The choice is yours.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LIED AND REGRET IT": Tell him the truth. Not because you think he will find out anyway [he may not], but because you will feel better if you do. But it's not necessary to give him the names and numbers of all the players.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Miss Meek Named Dean Of Women

Miss Sandra J. Meek, assistant dean of women at West Texas State University, Canyon, will become dean of women Sept. 15, when the present dean, Mrs. Jean Moore Roberts, will move to Corpus Christi.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Meek of Canadian, Miss Meek has worked under Mrs. Roberts since 1969. She received her bachelor of science degree from WTSU in 1963 and her master of education degree in 1969. A native of Wheeler, she was graduated from Briscoe High School in 1959.

While an undergraduate, she was a member of Alpha Chi, national scholastic honor society; Kappa Omicron Phi, national honorary home economics fraternity; and Kappa Delta Pi, national professional honorary fraternity in education.

After teaching in the public schools at Clayton, N.M., Briscoe and Amarillo, she joined the WTSU Testing and Counseling Center in 1968. The next year she became assistant dean of student life for women.

Her new title will be associate dean of student life for women.

Dr. T. Paige Carruth, vice president for student affairs, announced Saturday that Mrs. Roberts will be moving to Corpus Christi, where her husband, Ronald Roberts, will become agricultural extension agent for youth development and education in Nueces County.

Mrs. Roberts, who also received her bachelor's and master's degrees from WTSU, was appointed dean of women May 1, 1969.

Carruth said, "Mrs. Roberts conducted the affairs of women students on campus with the highest degree of efficiency and during a troublesome period on many college campuses in this country. West Texas State experienced no such problems under her administration.

Under Mrs. Roberts' administration there have been significant changes in women's residence halls regulations, a growth in the Panhellenic program and the institution of student visits to area high schools for promotions of the university.

SAUNDRA MEEK becomes dean

"Her strongest suit was her ability to work with dormitory directors and leaders in coordinating the lives of women students."

Beauty Tips

Parting

Be sure to keep changing the position of your part in order to avoid hair from thinning and the part from expanding.

Body Coat

While doing exercises or jogging on the beach, coat your entire body with moisturizing lotion. As your body warms up the lotion will seep in and help soften your newly trimmed body.

Waterproof

Waterproof make-up will last through beach weather, exercise and sports activities and still look like it was freshly applied.

Cooling It

Many of the organic make-ups and beauty products will keep longer if you store them in the refrigerator. Especially during the summer, they will be less likely to turn rancid or separate.

South lost no time losing the first two tricks. Not that he could do anything about it. Dummy's king of diamonds was right in front of East's ace and queen.

East shifted to a spade and South let this ride around to dummy. South had lost two tricks and had to get away with just the loss of one trump if he wanted to make his contract.

He reflected that it would have been so much nicer if he had just raised his partner to three no-trump.

The normal trump play would be to cash dummy's ace and lead toward his queen. That would work if East held the king of trumps but South knew East pretty well.

East was one of those players who liked to bid. He appeared to be holding a five-card diamond suit. With an extra king he would surely have been in the bidding.

Therefore, South led a low trump from dummy and played his seven. West won

Male Competition Doesn't Worry Canada's Female Cattle-Buyer

BRANTFORD, Canada (AP) — When Ruth Bartlett first started buying cattle, she says her male competition minded.

"They used to give me a rough time, but not any more."

"They would make wisecracks about some of the calves I bought. Sometimes they would run me up in the bidding and try to leave me stuck with too high a price. That doesn't happen too much now."

Mrs. Bartlett is believed to be the only woman cattle order buyer in Canada. She started 11 years ago, buying for the farm she and her husband Ray have at Hagersville.

"I had been buying some calves for ourselves, when one of the buyers for Monarch suggested I buy for them. I've been buying ever since."

Order buying involves knowing what her customers want. One firm may like lean calves, another may want a little more finish or a heavier weight.

A cattle buyer must be able to appraise the weight of a calf when it walks into the ring. When she bids 50 cents a pound for a veal calf that weighs 240 pounds, that's $120 of someone else's money she is spending. She may buy 60 or 70 calves a day, and a cent a pound can affect a packer's profit or loss.

Mrs. Bartlett has become the biggest buyer at local auction centers, and she says that brings its own problems.

She says she has to be careful that she is not "run up" by someone who knows her buying power. She also has to allow the competition to buy some calves.

"It works both ways."

Fall Exhibits Slated At UT Art Museum

AUSTIN, Tex. (Spl.) — The works of an American traditionalist painter, who at mid-life in the 1920's made a leap in style to abstract expression, will go on exhibit Aug. 27 in The University of Texas Art Museum.

Twenty-six paintings by the late Augustus Vincent Tack (1870-1949) will remain on view through Oct. 2.

Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

The Tack show is the first of the Art Museum's 1972-73 season. For the Labor Day holidays, the Museum will be closed Sept. 2 through Sept. 5.

The Tack works, on loan from the Phillips Collection in Washington, D.C., were assembled by the late Duncan Phillips, who first discovered Tack's avant-garde pieces that were to foreshadow much of modernist painting.

Mr. Duncan's widow has cooperated extensively in arrangements for the UT exhibit. Guest curator of the show is Mrs. Eleanor Green, director of the University of Maryland Art Gallery, who wrote the exhibition catalogue.

Best known for many years in the eastern U.S. as a portraitist and as an executor of mural commissions for church and state, Tack was, according to Mrs. Green, "a painter in search of radical form with traditional content."

Two of the paintings in the UT exhibit—"Court of Romance" and "Gethsemane"—are traditional works that pre-date Tack's excursion into abstract expression. The other 24 paintings, muted in color and bearing an almost delicate fresco-like quality, reveal how the artist used abstract expression "as a means of conveying what is untranslatable."

Dr. Marian B. Davis, chief curator of the UT Art Museum, in a preface to the catalogue, writes:

"Understatement and restraint may impede the discovery for many of our visitors, for we are in an age of noise. Fluency and demonstration yet, in this age, many are able to see the beauty in the delicate and simple, and to them Tack's message will be strong and unforgettable."

Some of the Tack paintings reflect the artist's search for new methods of applying paint. Some, which seem to have a golden shimmer, were produced by running an unevenly faced cylinder, flecked with golden ochre, over a painting.

The UT Art Museum will augment the Tack exhibition with three new shows which will open Sept. 6. They include a large display on "The Art of the Comic Strip" and two photographic shows, by the late Jeanne Armstrong of Austin and by Susan Barron of the University of Illinois.

This Will Floor You!

What a shame—after using your best decorating judgment—to have to throw away the fabric that's left over after your carpet is laid.

Well, you don't have to. Instead, you can use the remnants to further enhance the rooms in your home.

If there's a fair amount left over, for instance, you can attach it to 5 sides of a wooden cube with small nails or heavy staples. It's the simple way to make a truly unique and interesting coffee table or bench that seems to grow right out of your floor.

Or, you can make a carpet wall hanging by cutting out the carpeting to meet your design ideas, and then attaching it with nails or staples to a thin sheet of plywood or plaster board cut to size. Once mounted, it can be hung on the wall as your own "original" piece of art.

What to do with small remnants? Use them to decorate the backs of picture frames, either in solid or collage form, and hang the pictures from the ceiling to keep your visitors in entranced "suspense."

When buying your next carpet, why not consider-making it wool? Wool's luxurious feel, easy vacuum cleanability, true coloring, sound absorbency, and good wearability will enhance your rooms like no other fabric. So, too, can these easy and inexpensive remnant ideas.

SATURDAY, AUG. 26

Your birthday today: The search for a more workable way of life and personal reward fills this busy year of many changes. Relationships must find new levels. Today's natives work hard, seek inspiration from the examples of earlier thinkers.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Haste and impulse go hand in hand today to mix things up—if you let them. See the week-end as a separate experience altogether.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Expenses get out of hand all too readily with just a little thoughtless behavior. Everybody has his own program for the day.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: It seems that your environment has an electrical quality, reflecting inner tension. There's little likelihood ideas will fit others'.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Look to see where your long-term self-interest lies, leave the byways unexplored for the moment. Be a bystander.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Get the facts straight from objective estimates of disinterested parties. Your own judgment is not what it should be these days.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: The doings of others may concern you so much you forget to attend your own affairs well. Cooperate with those you love.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Rely on no promise, however grand the benefactor-to-be may appear. Plans are at work, none of them worthy of your participation.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Expect delays and possible interference and be glad you do not have to commit yourself yet. Do some quiet research.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Leave career efforts aside today, or restrict them to routine. You may hear little of other people's feelings in words.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Your thinking tends to hold to past ideas and theories. Current conditions are different and require further study.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Neither take nor give unsolicited advice today, as you have not the whole story on how others' problems arose.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Moderation in daily living becomes you well now. Consider even the dullest routine as a passing phase—get on with it.

WORTHWHILE HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB
Mrs. Libby Shotwell, Red Cross executive secretary, gave a program on artificial respiration for drowning, gas, smoke and electric shock at the meeting of the Worthwhile Home Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. Nellie Brown.

Mrs. Shotwell announced the Red Cross will sponsor a "multi-media" school from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday in the City Club Room. The event is open to the public.

Mrs. Bunch Walling was welcomed as a new member.

A Guide to Buying Safe Toys

(Sixth in a Series.)
By DAVID HENDIN
NEA Science Editor

Dolls are for loving. Games are for playing. All kinds of children's toys are for learning as well as for having fun.

But some of those bright-eyed dolls, electric stoves, rattles and toy musical instruments are threats to your child's health, even though at first glance they seem harmless enough.

Complete statistical information is not available, but the U.S. Public Health Service estimates that some 700,000 children are injured every year as a result of accidents from toys. Even though there are both federal and state laws regulating toy safety standards, many dangerous toys are still being sold. For your peace of mind, check carefully before buying a toy for your child.

Every month the Food and Drug Administration's Bu-save your child's life!

reau of Product Safety issues a list of banned toys. One recent month listed 38 separate entries ranging from an easily broken baby rattle to a xylophone which had keys with knife-sharp edges. One banned doll has "sharp wires in ears," another has a "flammable plastic dress," and a third has "pins in hair and clothing."

Many toy-related injuries to children have to do with bicycles, sleds and wagons.

Children should be taught common sense rules for using these toys before they are allowed to use them on their own. Naturally these toys should not be used where there is traffic, and should be used carefully where other children play. Roller skates are also potential hazards, and you should make it clear to your child that, before crossing a street, he should take his skates off.

Many accidents are simply the results of carelessness, and could have been avoided with a few precautions. Here are a few suggestions from the Office of Child Development of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare:

- Don't leave indoor toys outdoors overnight. Rain or dew could damage the toy and increase the chance of accidents.

- There should be a special place for storage of toys.

- As soon as your child is able to walk and move about, he should be trained to put his toys away.

- Broken toys are hazardous and should be discarded.

The toy industry is changing all the time. New toys are put on the market each year and new ways of making toys are being developed. Both the federal government, the National Safety Council and the Toy Manufacturers of America have provided leadership in assuring safe toys for your

- Check instructions and teach the child the proper way to use any toy that might cause injury through misuse.

- Avoid toys that produce excessive noise. (Even a toy cap gun fired too close to a child's ear can cause damage.)

- Avoid shooting games, especially those with darts and arrows, unless they are played under adult supervision.

Most of all, however, you must remember that a toy is only as safe as its owner. Any toy can be dangerous if it is misused. There is no good substitute for a parent's judgment and supervision.

Learn the life-saving techniques in the new 96-page book, SAVE YOUR CHILD'S LIFE! Easy-to-understand, illustrated with many fine drawings, the book costs only $1.25 (includes postage and handling). Send check or money order with name, address and Zip code to Child Safety, c/o This Newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

children. But you must still be careful.

Here is a safe toy check-list.

- Choose toys appropriate for the child's age and stage of development. (Many toys have recommended ages on the packages.)

- Remember that younger brothers or sisters may have access to toys bought for older children.

- Check fabric labels for notices of flame resistance.

Even after you have bought a toy it remains your responsibility to inspect it from time to time to assure that wear and tear has not caused a hazardous situation.

Aggressive Brazilian Bees Moving Toward U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Swarms of ferocious honey bees that have been known to kill both humans and animals are moving toward the United States from Brazil at the rate of 200 miles a year.

There seems to be no natural barrier to block the bees and they could be in North America within four to six years, says a study financed by the Agriculture Department.

The most alarming and best-known characteristic of Brazilian bees is their aggressiveness," according to the report. "Hundreds of bees become airborne and pursue and sting any animals or people within 100 meters of the apiary."

"There are many reports of animals and even people being killed by stings of Brazilian bees," it continued.

The report issued Wednesday by the National Research Council and the National Academy of Sciences is the result of a trip by scientists last November and December to the bee area just north of the Amazon River in Brazil.

The study calls the bees "objectionable and dangerous" and says it is essential "to do whatever can be done" to keep the bees out of North America.

Commercial honey bees in the United States are of European descent. The Brazilian bee, though smaller, flies faster and farther, works harder at making honey, but become angrier much sooner than its northern relatives, the report states.

The Brazilian swarms began in 1956 when some queen bees from Africa were introduced in the state of Sao Paulo, with the intention of improving European strains there. Care was taken to use sieves called "double queen excluders" for keeping the vicious African queens in place.

"Unfortunately, however, a visiting beekeeper, not understanding the situation, removed the double queen excluders and 26 swarms headed by the queens from Africa escaped in 1957," the report said.

Brazilian beekeepers tried to dilute the strain of African bees by introducing thousands of more agreeable Italian queens in 1963-64. Queens are fully mature females which mate with drones and lay thousands of eggs.

But keepers killed the Italian queens "because they produced less honey than Brazilian bees," the report says.

As a result, the African bees survived and now are moving steadily northward.

The committee warned against alarming the public about Brazilian bees.

"The problem is likely to be magnified all out of proportion if the Brazilian bees get wide adverse press coverage," the report said.

LURE THEIR EARS
CHRISTCHURCH, N. Z. (AP) — An acoustic fish lure is to be manufactured for both commercial and big-game fishermen by the Christchurch firm, Elsham and Associates.

The lure, which weighs about 6 pounds, was developed by fisheries technologist Don York.

The first lure was given final trials last April in the Bay of Plenty, on the east coast of the North Island of New Zealand.

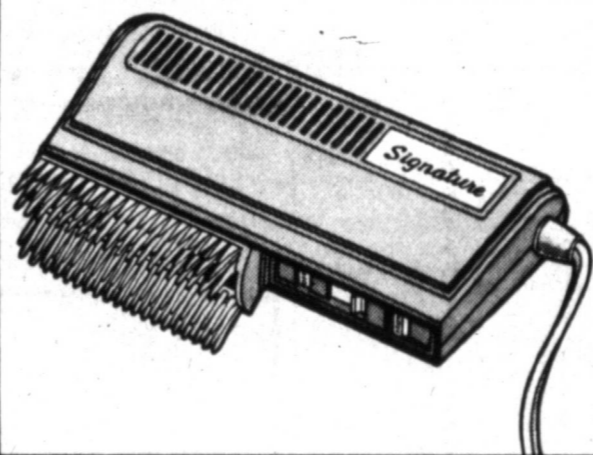

Horse-drawn carriages were introduced about 1600.
