94 U.S. Airmen Lost Since March

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command reported today that 94 American airmen have been lost in North Vietnam since the start of the Communist offensive last March 30 that was met by sharp escalation of the U.S. air war against the North.

The toll increased to 94 with the delayed announcement that three fliers and two F4 Phantoms were lost last Saturday and Sunday. One man, Marine 1st Lt. Darrel Borders, 33, of Herrin, Ill., was rescued.

A total of 84 American jets have been downed in North Vietnam since March 30, the U.S. Command said.

Hanoi Radio has announced the names of more than 20 of the fliers who it said were captured. Borders' F4 was shot down by a North Vietnamese MIG Saturday near the Laotian border 92 miles southwest of Hanoi. He was picked up despite a hail of fire that damaged two rescue helicopters.

The other Phantom, a Navy plane, was downed Sunday by a surface-to-air missile 24 miles northwest of Thanh Hoa.

The U.S. Command also announced that three American advisers were among those wounded Tuesday when North Vietnamese gunners fired a total of 1,200 artillery and mortar shells into government positions in and around Quang Tri.

More than 100 miles to the south of Quang Tri, fighting appeared to have tapered off in the battle for the Que Son Valley, but there was no indication that the North Vietnamese who control most of it were pulling out.

Korea Talks Progressing

SEOUL (AP) — North and South Korean Red Cross officials expressed hope for early reunification of the divided peninsula during the opening ceremony of negotiations today in Pyongyang to end the separation of millions of families.

The meeting in Taedong Hall was broadcast to South Korea by a radio team that accompanied the delegates from Seoul.

The first session consisted of exchanges of greetings, confirmation of the agenda and pledges to negotiate in a spirit of reconciliation. The South Koreans were to attend cultural performances and sightsee before returning to Seoul Saturday. But the schedule calls for no working sessions until the North Koreans come to Seoul in two weeks, on Sept. 13.

In their speeches, both sides stressed their common background and aspirations rather than the ideological gap between the Communist North and the South, an ally of the United States.

The streets of Pyongyang were clean and uncongested even during the morning rush hours and the general public appeared quite indifferent to the talks. South Korean newsmen reported from the North Korean capital.

U.S. Envoy To France Resigning

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Arthur K. Watson, who several months ago was assigned to establish diplomatic contacts with the Communist Chinese in Paris and became involved in a controversy with columnist Jack Anderson, has resigned as U.S. ambassador to France, the Western White House says.

Watson, 53, said in his Aug. 16 letter of resignation to President Nixon that the Paris climate has aggravated his asthma condition, a spokesman said Tuesday.

President Nixon, Tanaka To Hold Talks Tomorrow

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon will welcome Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka to Hawaii tonight for summit talks he hopes will strengthen prospects for peace in the Pacific.

Nixon scheduled a full morning of work at the Western White House here before taking off from the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station for Honolulu's Hickam Field.

While on the island of Oahu, Nixon will spend most of his time with Tanaka. But he will hold a Vietnam conference Thursday with Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to Saigon, and will set aside some time for trying to win friends and influence voters.

A campaign-style welcome was readied for him at Hickam, and he planned to mingle with Hawaii's business and civic leaders at a reception given by Clare Boothe Luce, who served as ambassador to Italy during the Eisenhower administration.

Mrs. Nixon will also do some goodwill hopping, flying to Hilo on the island of Hawaii Thursday to visit volunteer service projects and be entertained at a luau.

Vietnam and politics dominated a 39-minute news conference Nixon held Tuesday outside his San Clemente home. Some of the highlights:

—Bombing of North Vietnam and the mining of its harbors will continue until there is substantial progress toward a settlement of the war. Neither activity will be halted "as an election eve tactic."

—Of the controversial bug-ging of Democratic National Committee headquarters, he said: "We want the air cleared. We want it cleared as soon as possible." Anyone in government or in his campaign who declined to cooperate with investigators will be fired.

—The President, in seeking a second term, is bidding for "a clear mandate for what I have called change that works." He said he wants to forge a "new majority" embracing Democrats as well as Republicans.

—Nixon will spend most of the next six weeks in Washington, making only occasional one-day campaign trips. But he will step up the tempo in the final three weeks of the campaign, stumping hard and covering the whole country.

Nixon said he and Tanaka will discuss "initiatives towards the People's Republic of China and towards the Soviet Union." But he placed greater emphasis on

McGovern Suggests U.S. Give Thieu Asylum After Viet War

COVERING THINGS UP — Due to government regulations, the City of Pampa has had to change its operations concerning the disposition of the trash and junk that accumulate at the dump grounds east of the city. At left, Jim Doan of Pampa and Quin Oakley of Amarillo inspect the recently acquired garbage compactor. At right one of the city trash trucks unloads its cargo in one of the landfill trenches at the grounds. After enough garbage (the city collects an average amount of 60 tons a day) has been placed in the trench, the compactor will roll over the trash, spread it evenly and pack it down in the trench.

Nominee Softens His Tone

NEW YORK (AP) — South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu should be offered political asylum in the United States if he feels endangered by a postwar settlement, Democratic Presidential candidate George McGovern said today.

"General Thieu has been our man in Saigon," McGovern said. "We put him there. He may not represent the ideals of democracy, but he's our man."

"If he and some of his friends feel endangered by a postwar settlement, I think we ought to welcome him here," the South Dakota senator said following an appearance on the NBC "Today" show.

Two weeks ago, in an interview with newsmen in Milwaukee, McGovern had said he expected Thieu and his colleagues would flee Saigon into exile should a Communist-dominated government take over South Vietnam.

"I would expect Gen. Thieu and his cohorts to leave very quickly," he said in that interview. "My guess is that they would leave if I won the election and that there would be an exodus of the top generals and political figures out of the country and that emerging behind that would be (a) coalition that would be willing to deal with Hanoi."

McGovern's remarks today came as he prepared for appearances for later in the day where he planned to charge that the Nixon administration is virtually abandoning Jews in Russia and Israel while overlooking their needs in the United States.

Taking the offensive on an issue that has been something of a plague to McGovern for several months, the South Dakota senator said Nixon "has been silent in the face of the continued persecution of Soviet Jews."

As for Israel, McGovern said, "the administration's objective ... is not to insure the security of Israel but to expel the Russians from the Middle East."

"Once that objective is achieved," McGovern said in a speech to the New York Board of Rabbis, "Mr. Nixon will again pressure Israel to withdraw without the basic guarantees of safety that only direct negotiation can insure."

McGovern repeated his intention of standing by Israel if he becomes president, he attempted to dispel, as he has in past appearances before Jewish groups, a belief among some Jews that his plans to cut the U.S. defense budget by over $30 billion per year would jeopardize Israel's security.

But for the first time in any recent McGovern speech to a Jewish group, the senator dwelled heavily on domestic issues, including crime in the streets, poverty and old age security.

"It does no good to have a decent job if you do not feel safe in your own hallway or your own elevator," McGovern said. "In New York City this year there will be 2,000 murders. And these will be just part of the steady increase in crime in America since my opponent promised to return the nation to law and order."

McGovern also called attention to the 250,000 Jews in New York City who he said live below the poverty line.

"They have not benefited from antipoverty programs as much as others in New York, either because they are ineligible or because they are discouraged from applying," he said.

In another speech for a noon rally for Soviet Jews, McGovern said their plight "cannot be buried under our efforts to expand world trade and cultural contacts. It cannot be an afterthought to our efforts for world peace."

At stake in 1972 are the party allegiances of 5.9 million American Jews of all ages — nearly 2.5 million of them living in the New York area.

Martin Strips Away More Of Smith's Spending Power

AUSTIN (AP) — Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin stripped away more of the governor's control over state spending today.

In a 24-page legal opinion, Martin also held the legislature overstepped its authority when it tried to pass general laws by means of appropriations bills riders or special provisions.

Martin ruled that 41 riders in the appropriations bill for the fiscal year ending Thursday are invalid—most of them requiring the governor's prior approval before various appropriations can be spent.

He found only four riders on a list of 45 submitted by State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert are constitutional. Most of the riders also appear in the new appropriations bill that takes effect Friday.

Last week, Martin ruled that a rider in both the old and the new appropriations bill giving the governor power to transfer funds among state agencies was unconstitutional.

A spokesman said Gov. Preston Smith's staff is studying the new opinion. He said Smith's previous comments would apply and doubted the governor would have anything more to say at this time.

Evidently aware of what Martin was about to say, Smith told newsmen Tuesday that "if the governor is restricted as these opinions seem to restrict him, you are going to destroy whatever executive leadership he might provide."

Martin said the Texas Constitution gives the governor only one chance to abridge appropriations passed by the Legislature—when the spending bill is presented to him for signature or veto. A governor can veto individual expenditures, as well as the entire bill.

Aside from the economic problems. Noting that Japan enjoys a tidy surplus in trade with the United States, he said, "I believe that out of this meeting will come some progress in trying to reduce that unfavorable balance."

Masayoshi Ohira, the man chiefly responsible for Japan's foreign policy, calls the United States "a heaven-sent friend," but says Japan can no longer one-sidedly depend on it politically, militarily and economically.

The 62-year-old foreign minister will be at Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka's side in the two-day summit talks with President Nixon in Hawaii.

Tanaka regards himself as primarily an expert on domestic problems, and he leans heavily on Ohira.

Ohira holds the Foreign Ministry portfolio for the second time in 10 years and is further buttressed in the U.S.-Japan talks by a term as minister of international trade and industry.

He is the main architect of Tanaka's lightning moves to recognize China and will accompany him to Peking for talks with Premier Chou En-lai, expected late in September.

constitutional substantive veto power of the governor granted in Article IV, Section 14, Texas Constitution, there is no other authority provided for him to have a continuing veto power over expenditure of appropriated funds. Any attempt by the legislature to delegate to the governor the power to exercise a continuing veto over such expenditures and at his own discretion would constitute an attempt to increase the governor's veto power," Martin's opinion said.

Martin and Smith have been on opposite sides on numerous issues and belong to different factions in Texas Democratic politics. But Martin said last week he was not acting out of "malice or vindictiveness."

The Democratic nominee for governor, Dolph Briscoe, said Saturday he was concerned over the governor's lack of power to regulate spending by state agencies.

Screwworm Eradication Pact Hailed As Historic Agreement

DALLAS (AP) — A new line, further south, will be held against penetration of that costly parasite, the screwworm fly, as result of a joint U.S.-Mexico agreement signed in Mexico City this week.

The new front will be concentrated on the 135-mile isthmus of Tehuantepec rather than the 2,000-mile U.S.-Mexico border.

But the same weapons will be used in concentrated form—millions and millions of sterilized male flies which ensure that their females' eggs cannot be hatched.

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz, accompanied by Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., and U.S. Rep. Bob Price, R-Tex., a member of the House Agriculture and Livestock and Feed Grain committees, passed through Dallas Tuesday on his return after signing what he called "an historic agreement."

The fight against fertility among the screwworm flies will be directed jointly by American and Mexican scientists operating a five-year program costing $40 million.

The United States will contribute 80 per cent of the cost and Mexico the other 20 per cent, each paying according to its economic interest in the problem.

The present plant which uses cobalt radiation to sterilize up to 200 million screwworm flies a week at Mission, Tex., will be reinforced by a second plant nearer the line of battle at Salina Cruz. That plant will operate from aboard two Liberty ships which are now being prepared for the job, Agriculture Department officials said.

Butz said the screwworm cost the Texas cattle industry $50 million this year. Currently, the Southwest is undergoing the worst outbreak since eradication activities began in 1962 and intensive efforts are being made to prevent screwworms from spreading to southeastern states.

Although screwworms have been largely wiped out in the five Southwestern states, reinfestation from Mexico still occurs. It is hoped that the new and concentrated barrier of sterile flies will protect the livestock of both countries. The flies lay their eggs in open wounds of animals and in the navels of newly-born calves.

The worms cause the cattle to lose weight and shrink, decline in productivity, causing them sometimes to maim themselves or die within 10 days if not treated.

Researchers Prove Cases Linking DES To Cancer

BOSTON (AP) — Researchers whose studies first linked a synthetic female hormone to cancer in the children of pregnant women who took the drug say they have uncovered some 80 cases of such tumors since beginning their investigations.

In 1971, Drs. Arthur Herbst, Howard Ulfelder and David Poskanzer, working at Boston's Vincent Memorial Hospital, caused a medical stir when they reported finding eight cases of vaginal cancer during 1966-1969 which were apparently linked to the hormone diethylstilbestrol (DES).

They said they discovered that in each case, the mothers of the cancer patients had received DES during pregnancy. They reported there was a "highly significant association" between the mothers taking the drug and vaginal cancer in their young daughters.

Herbst says that since the study appeared, his team has received and confirmed reports on some 80 cases of vaginal tumors in women under 25 from throughout the country and overseas.

He said that even though the use of stilbestrol, a derivative of DES, was widespread in pregnant women in the late 40s and early 50s, the fact that only 80 related cancer cases have been reported would indicate that the risk of cancer in the daughters is "so far not very large."

"We still don't know the risk of any young girl developing a tumor whose mother took the drug, but we feel it is small," he said.

The Herbst team study has two significant medical implications. It is one of the first times that a drug taken by a parent has been linked with disease in offspring occurring so many years later. And unlike the cervix, cancer in the vagina is rare, particularly in the young.

"Although the chance of development of these tumors appears to be very small," the 1971 report noted, "the results of this study suggest that it is unwise to administer stilbestrol to women early in pregnancy."

Pampa United Fund Also Supports USO Program

Somebody mentions the USO, and immediately we conjure up a picture of Bob Hope and a succession of Miss Universes bringing a bit of Christmas cheer to servicemen around the world.

Some of us know that around 500 Gray County men give volunteer service to the USO.

And that's usually where we stop. For most of us who have never served in the Armed Forces, the United Service Organization is a familiar name, but we know little of its actual work.

This year, the Pampa United Fund will send $200 in campaign contributions to the USO, so it's important for us to know exactly what this 30-year-old organization is doing for our men and women in uniform today.

During World War II, the USO meant clubs where GIs could escape the pressures of combat for a few hours. It meant entertainment and low-cost canteens, Christmas presents, long-distance calls home, and sometimes just a friendly face and an ear ready to listen to a homesick, war-sick soldier.

But the face of war has changed, and the needs of servicemen have changed. Our troops today are being withdrawn from active combat. Many are sitting out the long wait for reassignment outside Southeast Asia. Many are coming home. For the waiting servicemen, the new enemy is loneliness and especially, boredom, which has in many cases led to drug abuse. For the returning, the new enemy can be simply the many difficulties they will encounter in their transition to civilian life.

In 1971, the Board of Governors of the USO decided to meet the challenge of these new problems. From their annual report come two significant statements:

"Another resolution passed by the Board of Governors in 1971 stressed the need for USO to cooperate with military authorities in the alleviation of drug abuse problems...."

"Subsequent to meetings with military drug abuse authorities....it was mutually determined that USO's involvement would be beneficial on the level of education and referral services, to help advance USO's efforts, USO staff members were given access to information and training provided by the military."

The first statement continues, "More important than this program, perhaps, is that just by being there, by providing a relaxing environment, by providing worthwhile activities to occupy their leisure time, by being there as sympathetic civilians, and by providing a choice, USO plays a major role as a deterrent to drug abuse." In speaking of a resolution to assist military personnel for six months after discharge, the annual report states:

"High priority is being given to USO programs in which USO cooperates with government and civic agencies in assisting about-to-be discharged servicemen and recent veterans in securing jobs, educational opportunities, and in some instances, housing...."

The need for the USO continues, despite the changing face of war. As one SP-5 Earl Stanley, USA, MEDPVTMED, Okinawa, put it, "It is really wonderful to know that someone, somewhere, everywhere, cares and will devote so much of their lives to make a serviceman more comfortable while away from home. My thanks to this USO and the many like it throughout the world."

And from a returned serviceman, Robert Matthews, L.L.N.Y., "The USO was great while I was in the Air Force, but I didn't know they'd help me now."

The USO receives no government funds. It depends entirely on our gifts to campaigns such as the Pampa United Fund. Encourage every member of your family to give his share this year.

'Dixie Mafia' Enforcer Shot And Killed In Gangland Style

DALLAS (AP)—Stanley Lee Cook, believed by officers to be the enforcer of the loose confederation nicknamed the Dixie Mafia, was shot down in gangland fashion before dawn Wednesday.

The 30-year-old Cook was killed as he and two companions strolled out of a night club. Known to the Dallas underworld and to local and federal agents as "The Creeper," Cook died minutes later in a hospital.

Detectives said Cook was struck by a pistol bullet as he and a young woman and a middle-aged companion were walking to a car parked outside Interplanetary, Inc., a cosmetics firm, and Dare To Be Great, a self-confidence course.

Federal complaints are pending before the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Federal Trade Commission. Turner himself faces charges of conspiracy to cheat and defraud in Michigan and Florida.

Wreck Hurts Two Slightly

Two persons were taken to Highland General Hospital for examination and treatment following a two-car accident about 7:45 last night.

According to the police report, Weldon Morris Brogdon, 2338 Mary Ellen, was travelling south on Ballard St. when his vehicle was struck by a car driven by Shelah Jenkinson, 1917 N. Zimmer St., going east on Browning.

Cook came to the attention of Dallas officers more than five years ago when detectives began hearing his name during investigations of underworld shootings and killings.

Cook was shot and seriously wounded in a gunfight in Dallas two years ago. A few months before today's shooting, Cook was arrested by federal agents for investigation of violations of the Omnibus Crime Act. Agents said they seized a number of weapons at his apartment.

The civil suits against Cook, Osorio and others contend that the defendants went to the Century Development offices June 17 and asked C. A. Hamby, board chairman, to sell 2.5 million shares of stock of the firm to Osorio for $5,000. The suits claim one of the men threatened Hamby and his family after he refused to sell.

Hamby claimed the market value of the stock was eight cents per share and said the 2.5 million shares would give control of the company to any owner. The company has 4 million shares outstanding.

Youth Sought Following Fight

Lubbock Garbage Strike Stretches Into 3rd Day

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—A strike by city sanitation workers went into a third day with no prospects for a settlement today.

The striking employees voted unanimously Tuesday to stay off the job as city officials were taking applications to replace them. More than 150 refused to report for work Monday because of a dispute over a wage increase.

Token garbage service was offered as employees in other city departments, including off-duty policemen, manned sanitation vehicles.

After meeting in executive session, city councilmen issued a five-point statement concerning what they called "an illegal work stoppage."

Mayor Morris Turner said the council's position was that employees would be reinstated on a "first come, first served" basis. It is the city's policy to terminate an employee if he is off the job for three days without notifying supervisors of a sufficient reason to be absent.

Councilmen gave consideration to hiring a private garbage service company to assist in commercial pickups. Residents were urged to place garbage cans at their front curbs.

Turner said the stoppage was "a thinly disguised" union effort to "intimidate the city of Lubbock into granting an unreasonable 15 per cent wage increase."

A spokesman for the union, Isidro Gutierrez, read a statement which said that "the unreasonable 3.4 per cent pay raise" proposed in next year's budget "is nothing more than a continuation of the present poverty pay scale."

UNCROWDED BADLANDS WASHINGTON (AP)—Perhaps the Badlands National Monument has a bad name.

For some reason, it is one of the rare national parks or monuments that actually is undercrowded. In 1971, about a million and a half visitors toured the desolate no-man's land, but it could easily have handled twice that number.

Florida Millionaire Nabbed On Securities Law Charges

SANFORD, Fla. (AP)—Glenn W. Turner, 37-year-old millionaire and founder of a giant corporate empire, was arrested early today as he stepped from his private jet at Sanford Airport, Seminole County deputies said.

The Orlando businessman, head of Glenn W. Turner Enterprises, was charged with violating the Uniform Sales and Securities Law, said Seminole County Deputy Russ Corley.

Turner was taken to the county jail here. He immediately posted $20,000 bond and was released, Corley reported.

Last Tuesday, law officers from Pinellas and Orange counties sealed off the main Turner headquarters in Orlando and seized records belonging to Dare To Be Great, Inc., a subsidiary of Turner's 70-firm conglomerate.

Turner protested the confiscation, but a Pinellas County circuit judge subsequently ruled that the documents had been taken lawfully.

Turner had challenged the right of a state attorney's office to seize records in an investigation in which no indictments or arrest warrants had been issued.

Hog Cholera Plagues Area In Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—A task force of veterinarians and animal inspectors plan to destroy 3,000 hogs in Warren County today to help curb an outbreak of hog cholera.

The outbreak of the highly contagious disease, which occurs only in swine, has so far affected three states.

An estimated 29,000 hogs in Kentucky have been infected with or exposed to the disease. More than 1,800 hogs have been exterminated already, state Agriculture Commissioner Wendell Butler said Tuesday.

The outbreak in Kentucky began more than a week ago.

Tower Answers Sanders' Charge

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., answered charges by Democratic senatorial nominee Barefoot Sanders that chronic absenteeism by Tower has made him an ineffective senator.

"It's quality, not quantity that counts," Tower said at a Tuesday dinner here in his honor. "In the Senate, it's how you vote that matters more than how many times you vote."

He continued, "Tiger Teague (Rep. Olin Teague, Bryan) once said that any man with a 100 per cent attendance record isn't doing his job. Besides, Sanders had one of the worst attendance records going when he was in the legislature."

Tower and Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz flew here from Dallas where they announced a joint U.S.-Mexico screwworm eradication program.

A short time later, a local market reported 20 pounds of potatoes taken along with other assorted items. Again the green pickup was involved.

Officers are investigating.

Council Denies Requests For '73 Auto Price Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission Tuesday denied requests by Ford and General Motors for price increases on their 1973 models.

Commissioner Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. said the request of the two giant automakers was being denied because the commission has determined that the increases could push the profit margins of the two firms beyond permissible limits.

The decision meant that consumers could expect to avoid a price hike on GM and Ford cars at least until November. Grayson said that the two companies may resubmit requests after profit figures are in for the second quarter of their fiscal year.

Ford, in a request revised this week, had asked for a $59 or 1.79 per cent increase. The request covered safety equipment and emission controls.

General Motors had asked for a $54 or 1.53 per cent boost for the same purpose.

Chrysler Corp. and American Motors also have requests pending before the commission. Grayson said these requests would continue to be suspended until the commission can hold hearings on auto prices next month.

He acknowledged, however, that implicit in the decision on Ford and General Motors was a judgment that Chrysler and American Motors were not apt to exceed their allowable profit margin.

The present fiscal year quarter ends Sept. 31, making Oct. 1 the earliest possible date on which the automakers could renew their requests for increases.

In response to a question, Grayson acknowledged that it would be Nov. 1 before a price hike could go into effect should the commission reconsider its decision in light of new profit information.

On other topics, Grayson said the commission planned no major steps in the area of food prices nor for gasoline.

But he noted the rising price of wheat and said a meeting was scheduled today with the American Bakers Association on their request for price increases.

Grayson said the commission will not apply a three per cent lid on services as had been under discussion. He said, however, that fees for professional

Youth Sentenced For Putting Ads On Bus For Girl

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 20-year-old college student who spent his $1,600 life savings on bus advertisements for his "Albuquerque girl" has been sentenced to four days in jail and a year's probation for battery and resisting arrest.

David Harvey Schwartz of Bloomfield, Mich., gained attention earlier this summer when he used his savings to buy 50 bus advertisements reading: "I love Albuquerque girl. Real Skinny who works and lives in L.A. picked me up on Highway 1 in Santa Monica July 10. Contact me ... Urgent." Schwartz later reported locating the girl.

The pair was arrested Aug. 12 in the Hollywood area after police saw them hitchhiking on the street.

Schwartz told the court he was returning to his hometown — without his "Albuquerque girl."

services were still under consideration and an announcement would be made soon.

Grayson was peppered with questions about the political overtones of his announcement.

He was reminded that Democratic presidential candidate Sen. George McGovern was scheduled to speak in New York today.

Grayson said that did not play a part in the decision or the announcement. "We are making this decision independent of any political dates."

Grayson said the four days of public hearings on auto prices beginning Sept. 12 are still needed.

Auto Safety System About To Get Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversial auto safety air cushion system is about to get its first government testing under actual highway driving conditions.

Secretary of Transportation John Volpe Monday accepted for delivery to the General Services Administration 125 Mercury model four-door sedans equipped with factory installed air cushion systems.

These will get 18 months of testing in Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Miami, Fla., San Antonio, Tex., and Buffalo, N.Y. The cities were chosen as representative of widely differing driving conditions and because of their nearness to accident investigation teams sponsored by the National Highway Traffic Safety.

The passive restraint may be required on all autos built after Aug. 15, 1975, if the tests prove out.

Computer Used To Observe Cotton Production Method

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Scientists at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station are growing a field of cotton in a computer to save time and money.

"Actually it's just theoretical cotton," explained Dr. Ray V. Billingsley, an economist with the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology. "But by simulating tests and problems in a computer we will find solutions a lot quicker."

The researchers are using the computer's speed and ability to program all the variables of growing a cotton plant in less than a minute of computer-time—quite a difference from the 200 days, an experimental growth plot may take.

"It all means that in the future, researchers will be able to simulate cotton plants and then predict the affects of such factors as weather, parasites, cultivation, insecticides and harvest time," Billingsley said.

Billingsley said the computer would allow the economist to observe a greater number of cotton production methods and calculate their costs in a much shorter time.

He said one of the most important uses of the computer crops may be in determining what kind of pesticides, if any, to use to protect the cotton plants, or what natural enemies of cotton pests can be used to eliminate the tests effectively.

"Since environmentalists are becoming concerned about the amount of pesticides used, we could figure out a way to use more natural predators and fewer pesticides," Billingsley said.

He said the computer could predict the effect of the parasitic insects on the pests and allow an economic evaluation for best control at the least cost.

Billingsley said the researchers have developed a simulated cotton plant which responds to changes in the weather and other environmental influences. That program is called SIM-COT II for simulated cotton and the parasite program is called, appropriately, BUG.

GI Strength In Viet To Be Reduced To 27,000 By Dec. 1

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon announced Tuesday he is cutting U.S. troop strength in Vietnam by 12,000 over the next three months, reducing the force to 27,000 by Dec. 1.

Relaying this word, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said he did not know whether

VEE Creeping Toward Arizona, Other States

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis has made it to southern Sonora, Mexico, and is creeping toward Arizona and other southwestern states, a University of Arizona veterinarian said Tuesday.

Dr. Kenneth Weide urged all horse owners to obtain vaccinations for their animals to protect them against the disease, which can be fatal in horses.

Last year, the disease killed an estimated 10,000 horses in Mexico, Weide said, and another 1,500 in the United States.

any further withdrawals would be authorized after Dec. 1.

The Nixon spokesman pointed out that the troop level has been reduced by 522,500, or 95 per cent, since Nixon took office.

There has long been speculation that withdrawals would be halted after the number of uniformed Americans reached a "residual force" level of about 25,000.

Ziegler said that residual force "would not be an appropriate term to use here." But he declined to promise further future withdrawals, saying such decisions would be "based on conditions as they exist at that time."

Ziegler said Nixon would have another announcement on troop levels, but added that it would not come before the Nov. 7 election.

As in the past, he said the United States "will not leave Vietnam without a full release of and accounting for prisoners of war and missing in action."

Nixon said there will be no pre-election halt to bombing and mining in North Vietnam and stated such activities will continue until there is substantial progress in negotiations.

Holding a news conference on the lawn of the Western White House here, Nixon also referred to investigations of the bugging incident at Democratic National Committee headquarters in Washington, saying: "We want the air cleared. We want it cleared as soon as possible."

The President contended election fund laws have been technically violated by both parties and declared the Republican campaign would make every effort to account properly for contributions.

Texas Schools Report Need For Teachers Of Math, Science Or Special Education

EDITOR'S NOTE: A declining birthrate and an enrollment explosion in colleges and universities have brought on a nationwide surplus of teachers. This is the first of a two-part series exploring the problem in Texas.

By JIM BARLOW
Associated Press Writer
Despite the widely publicized glut of teachers, those in Texas can still find jobs, if they teach math, science or special education or are willing to forsake the bright lights. That's the conclusion of an Associated Press survey of the teaching profession.

Educators across the state all report a need for teachers of math, science, special education—especially speech therapists and in some cases language teachers. The big oversupply is in liberal arts and the social sciences, they say.

"A history teacher today doesn't have a chance," said Supt. Ivan W. Fitzwater of the North East Independent School District in San Antonio. "We could hire 200 tomorrow for example."

A personnel officer at the Wilmer Hutchins district in the Dallas-Fort Worth area says, "We need chemistry, and math teachers but we always have, it's nothing new. We need a speech therapist. I've been looking for a speech therapist everywhere. I've called three or four universities and I can't get one. But we've got English teachers and history teachers running out of our ears."

Teachers, like the rest of Texans, are flocking to urban areas and jobs are scarce there. This year, the Houston Independent School District, the sixth largest in the nation, had 9,000 applicants and hired 186 teachers.

In the Dallas Independent School District 3,000 applied and 400 were placed. In the San Antonio Independent School District there were 1,500 applications and 375 hired, and in Austin 400 of 4,000 got jobs.

But James T. Ogg, superintendent of the Brownsville Consolidated Independent School District, the largest in the Rio Grande Valley, says his district has had problems getting teachers.

"If they meet the qualifications they'd have an excellent chance in Brownsville. We still have about 20 vacancies out of a total of 857 teachers. We realize there are teacher surpluses in metropolitan centers, but our salary schedule is not attractive enough to get them to come to the Valley."

The Texas State Teachers Association runs an employment bureau in Austin and just before school started in the state they had 2,250 persons registered for jobs.

There were no vacancies listed from Austin, Houston, Dallas, and San Antonio said Beck Beaver, who helps run the registration bureau.

"But there are a number of rural areas, like along the Border and in the Upper Valley, where they really need teachers. Some of those schools that started today didn't have all the teachers they wanted."

"I think where the flood is," said Miss Beaver, "is that young, unmarried graduates want to go to the big city. It is the little rural places that still need teachers."

"If your people were only willing to go where the jobs are, we would have only a small surplus," agrees A. C. Murphy, director of teacher placement at the University of Texas. "It's a matter of distribution to a great extent. Also it's a matter of mobility. They have a husband or wife or boy friend somewhere and want to be there too."

Most of the big city districts also reported less demand for elementary teachers, brought on by the sagging birth rate.

Until last year, said Supt. Fitzwater of San Antonio's

North East District, some 1,200 new pupils were expected every year. But the net gain last year was only 480.

"So you can see right there, that's about 700 pupils less, or probably 35 to 40 teachers less than needed because of the declining birthrate."

"In our particular neighborhood we have a largely middle class school district and this is where the declining birthrate has been most marked in its effect. These kind of people use the pill and really use it."

The biggest classes now at North East are in the fourth and fifth grades and below that "there's a tremendous dropoff"

Dr. Harold H. Hitt, superintendent of the San Antonio Independent District agrees. He said the number of pupils entering the first grade state and nationwide has been dropping. "Our first grade has been shrinking each year for several years."

Another result of widespread contraceptive advice has been that many women teachers are postponing births or limiting the size of their families, making fewer jobs available to others, the survey shows.

Fitzwater says it is "absolutely" true that women teachers are waiting longer and having fewer children. "They seem almost disappointed that they're pregnant."

Many teachers have just about given up looking for a school job and turned to other fields, says Jack S. Motley of the Texas Employment Commission in Houston.

He said TEC records state show hundreds of teachers have abandoned their training. Usually they get white collar jobs, he said, but he knows of one former high school teacher who is now a dock worker at a warehouse.

"From the standpoint of money, he's earning more at $5 an hour for 55 to 60 hours a week than he did in the small school district where he taught," Motley said.

"The danger is that if he stays he'll lose the benefit of his education, but possibly, like other teachers, he is willing to pay the price."

The most successful in finding new kinds of work are those who are willing to face change, Motley said.

DOVE SEASON

Over 20,000 Hunters To Converge On NM

New Mexico continues to have a bright outlook for the opening of dove season Friday. An estimated 20,000 hunters will be in the field opening weekend.

Cold weather moving down from the Rocky Mountains, however, is a dark cloud on the hunting horizon. Rains and cool weather means the doves now in the northern part of the state may depart for climes farther south.

In the northwest, around Farmington, more than half of the birds reported in the area two weeks ago have left. A similar report was received from the Gallup-Grants area.

The rest of the state, however, continues to have excellent dove populations, far better than last year at this time.

In Las Vegas, Game and Fish officer Ruben Gonzales said dove populations "look a lot better than last year." Gonzales was not optimistic on the opening, however, as he expects colder weather to drive the birds further south. "It happens every year," Gonzales said.

If the cold weather is delayed, however, Gonzales said he felt the best dove hunting in the Las Vegas area would be in the foothills along U.S. 84, in the Pecos River Valley, and the area near Anton Chico.

Roy Owen, Game and Fish officer in Alamogordo, said there "are doves all over the country." Owen noted that good rains in the area have made water abundant, and as a result the feed drop is good and doves are well fed and scattered. The dove population is higher than last year.

There were no vacancies listed from Austin, Houston, Dallas, and San Antonio said Beck Beaver, who helps run the registration bureau.

"But there are a number of rural areas, like along the Border and in the Upper Valley, where they really need teachers. Some of those schools that started today didn't have all the teachers they wanted."

"I think where the flood is," said Miss Beaver, "is that young, unmarried graduates want to go to the big city. It is the little rural places that still need teachers."

McGovern Reforms At-A-Glance

NEW YORK (AP) — Here are the major points put forward Tuesday by Sen. George S. McGovern in his speech on economic policy:

1. A $30-billion cut in military spending over the next three years.
2. Tax reforms to bring the government $22 billion in additional annual revenue by 1975, including elimination of preferential treatment for capital gains, elimination of depletion allowances for oil, gas and other natural resources, and closing what he called corporate tax "loopholes."
3. A $15-billion allocation to local school systems to make it possible to reduce property taxes.
4. A National Income Insurance program to replace the current welfare system with three key features:

- A.—$6 billion for public service jobs for heads of households who cannot find other work.
 - B.—$3 billion in expanded social security payments to keep the elderly and disabled off welfare.
 - C.—$5 billion for welfare recipients who cannot work. A family of four would get $4,000 a year in cash and food stamps.
5. The proposal for income supplements—put at $1,000 per American in McGovern's earlier position paper—requires further study by economists.
6. "No American whose income comes from wages and salaries would pay one penny more in federal taxes than he does now."

UT Completes 2 Films Featuring Ex-Convicts

HOUSTON (AP) — Two films completed here for national distribution to prisoners and educators features former convicts telling how they went "straight."

The films were made by Dr. Blair Justice, a social psychologist at the University of Texas School of Public Health in the Texas Medical Center.

They feature 16 reformed criminals who meet regularly at New Directions Halfway House.

Many have been to prison more than once and they want to help newly released offenders at the house learn how to "stay clean."

Justice said the films aim at promoting understanding of a former convict's problems and at stimulating prisoners in planning a successful return to the free world.

One of the stars of both films is New Directions founder and unpaid director J. D. "Sonny" Wells, a black former convict who now is a community relations specialist in Houston's Model Cities Department.

Wells, 49, former news editor for the Forward Times, a Houston black weekly newspaper, recalls in one of the films that he spent about 30 years behind bars before his release in 1966.

Wells, determined to break the pattern of arrests, dug ditches for months in 1966 until the Forward Times hired him as writer.

"Something must happen to a man, in his head, to break the criminal pattern," Wells says in the films. He says 75 per cent of all persons who commit violent crimes have been to prison before.

Wells said the New Directions approach is the manner of the 359 former convicts helped there in the past two years, only nine have returned to prison, he said.

The films were financed with funds and a grant from the Moody Foundation. Cost of the films was $23,000.

About 1,500 copies of a brochure describing the films and rental or purchase procedures will go to heads of departments of corrections in 50 states, police training academies, state parole offices and some 200 college and universities with departments of criminology.

Texas News In Brief

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Six eagles have been electrocuted by a power line running into a Texas oil field, and the Parks and Wildlife Department is anxious to hear any other such reports as part of a national effort to prevent the deaths.

The department said the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife has counted 300 eagles which have died on electric lines in the past three years.

Bald eagles, golden eagles and red-tailed hawks are attracted to the lines, the department said, because the lines provide elevated sites for hunting and easy take-off. Most electrocutions occur on older distribution lines where the ground wire and a hot line are close together and easy for the big birds to contact simultaneously.

HOUSTON (AP) — A new computer system at Rice University has begun operations and got into politics right away.

The new system is called Rice Institute for Computer Services and Applications.

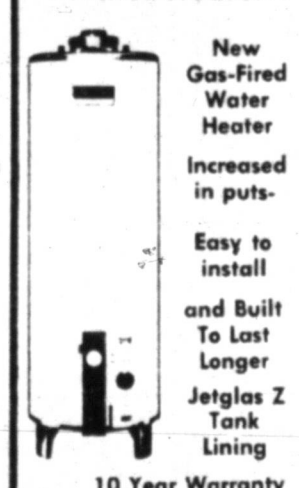

Dr. M. S. Lynn, director, said the system enables faculty and students to do by computer research which previously was impossible or extremely cumbersome.

One project is tabulation of presidential election results in Harris County. Rice has agreed to manage the tabulations of the unofficial vote for Election Central, a nonprofit consortium of local news media.

Under a $99,000 contract from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the system will be used to interpret data gathered by planes and satellites.

It is estimated that 3.75 million Americans are afflicted with coronary heart disease and 1.6 million suffer from stroke.

Medical Technicians Have the Edge on Jobs

(One of a Series.)
By ERNIE HOOD
Letters from readers point up a cross-section of occupational career interests. Here are a few examples:
Range Managers—3,600 now employed, with annual openings for about 60 between now and 1980. Sorry to report there will be declining opportunities in the federal government because scientific and technical duties will be performed increasingly by natural scientists. The decline may be offset to some degree by increasing employment opportunities in the private sector.

School Counselors—50,000 employed at this time, with annual openings for about 5,200. Very rapid employment increase is probable, reflecting continued growth of counseling services and some increases in secondary school enrollment.
Hospital Administrators—17,000 at this time, with annual openings for 1,000. Very good opportunities for those having master's degrees in hospital administration. Applicants without graduate training will find it increasingly difficult to enter this field.
Medical Assistants—175,000 at this writing, with annual openings for 20,000. Excellent opportunities, especially for graduates of two-year junior college programs. The shortage of physicians, the increasing complexity of medical practice, and the growing volume of paperwork will add to the demand.

Electrocardiographic Technicians—9,500 now employed, with annual openings for about 1,600. Excellent opportunities due to increased reliance by physicians upon electrocardiograms in diagnosing heart disease and upon electrocardiographs in monitoring patients under intensive care.
Electroencephalographic Technicians—To Jess H., Philadelphia: It took some doing but we found the information. Here's another health service occupation with 3,000 presently employed, with annual openings for 950. Excellent opportunities since EEGs are used more to diagnose brain diseases and to monitor brain activity.

U.S. Labor Department Bulletins are sources of depth information on career fields. They can be obtained by writing the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. For Range Managers, ask for Bulletin 33 concerning Conservation occupations, 15 cents; for School Counselors, Bulletin 34, concerning Counseling and Placement Occupations, 15 cents; for Hospital Administrators, Bulletin 21, 10 cents; for Medical Assistants, EEG and EKG Technicians, Bulletin 16, 15 cents.

Worry Clinic

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.
Rev. Bee may have been killed by his goose-stepping son! Alas, I'd estimate that 90 per cent of our supposed scientists never took a course in logic at college. So they pontificate and coerce laymen, due to an abnormal reverence for an M.D. or Ph.D. degree.
CASE U-575: Rev. Bee was listed a decade ago among America's 25 foremost pulpit orators.
Over a weekend, I occupied his pulpit on Sunday morning and on Monday I conducted an afternoon Marriage Clinic for 2,000 of his women parishioners.
Then I took 1,000 of his male church members for an evening clinic.
"But, Dr. Crane," a mutual medical friend recently shocked me, "did you know that Rev. Bee died of cancer of the liver?"
When I shook my head, the medic continued.
"Rev. Bee was given up as a hopeless case, with at most not more than six weeks to live."
"He had been operated on several times."
"And been X-rayed intensively, as well as treated by cobalt."
"But as Rev. Bee lay dying, I suggested to his son (also an M.D.) that he ask Prof. Andrew

C. Ivy, world famous Chicago physiologist, to try some of Dr. Ivy's Carcalon hormone on his dad."
"The son almost retched at my even suggesting such a thing."
"He threw up his hands as if in holy horror and told me his local medical colleagues vetoed Carcalon as rank quackery!"
"So he exclaimed, 'if your father lay dying of hopeless terminal cancer, would you give him Carcalon injection?'"
"To which I immediately replied, 'H---, I'd use anything on a dying member of my family if it offered even a 1,000 to 1 chance!'"
"But this young medic belongs to the goose-stepper group who don't think for themselves, but meekly kowtow to any dictates of the AMA or the Food and Drug Administration."
"So he let his father die within the next 3 weeks!"
FALLACIES IN LOGIC
Most of our physicians and laboratory scientists never took a course in logic while at college!
And I'll wager that 90 per cent of them can't even name 5 of the 10 commonest fallacies in logic, as described in the booklet below.
For 5 years I was Research Scientist with the National Research Council and the Carnegie Institution of Washington, D.C.
That's when I became shocked at the lack of logical training in many leaders of what are popularly revered as topnotch scientific bodies and university faculties.
Thus, this young medic (who might have saved his father's life from cancer) illustrates Fallacy No. 3, which is entitled "Kowtowing to Kings."
Alas, millions of other college graduates here in America refuse to think for themselves but meekly kowtow to reputed leaders.
That's dangerous!
For all of you readers of this column have at least an I.Q. of 100 or better.
So you can use logic! And with merely a 30-minute exposure to the facts, you can render sound decisions regarding cancer, the Einstein theory or any other technical topic.
For the basic rules of logic apply to everything!

Govt. Jobs Beckon Millions

By CARLTON SMITH

Look well at your fellow wage earners on the way to work tomorrow morning. You (as taxpayer) are paying the salaries of one in every five.
That will be the case if you're viewing a typical cross section of America's employed, for the Tax Foundation in its new study, "Unions and Government Employment," notes that one employed person in five is now working for government—federal, state or local.
The payroll for all these people was $110 billion in 1970, as compared to $45 billion in 1960. Behind the huge rise is not only a lot more people who are now government employees, but the fact that they are getting better wages than employees in private industry.
At the federal level alone the average annual earnings of a civilian worker in 1970 were just about $3,000 higher than those of a private industry worker," the study by the nonprofit research organization reveals. Average earnings were $7,462 for all private employees and $10,597 for all federal civilian employees.

Does this suggest that there may be a built-in solution to the problem of mounting government payrolls? This may sound like desperation thinking, but we're ready to grasp at straws.
Since the pay is better, we can logically expect employees of private industry to gravitate toward government jobs. After a time, everyone will be working for the government.
We will then all be members of one great brotherhood (or personhood, if the Women's Libbers insist)—a government employes and all taxpayers. As taxpayers we will, of course, be resentful of government payroll increases that raise our taxes—and the next time Congress proposes to increase our pay we march on the capital, threatening Congress with the wrath of the voter if it raises our pay. End of problem.

Though it sounds perfectly logical we have a feeling that there may be a flaw in our reasoning. If anyone has any better solutions, we will gladly receive, consider and possibly publish them.
If you are, despite the trends, a confirmed rugged individualist who would rather work for yourself than for the government, or even a private employer, Pat Wilbanks may have the formula you've been looking for.
Eight years ago she began a parttime typing and secretarial service in her home. Today she and her husband own and operate a large, successful letter shop and she now offers the benefit of her experience in a book, "How to Start a Typing Service in Your Own Home" (by Patricia M. Wilbanks: Arco Publishing Co., large paperback, $4), which should just now be reaching the bookstores.

It looks to be a thoroughly practical how-to book, starting with the kind of skills you need, and moving to the nuts and bolts of equipment and supplies—and most importantly—how to find customers and get their business.
And, just to prove that she can do it—or possibly because it was cheaper that way—she typed the entire text of the volume at home. Looks neat as can be.

trick to the queen or jack of clubs.

South didn't hum very long because he knew where the king of diamonds was. West had opened the bidding with a heart with just seven high card points in that suit. Without the king of diamonds West could not hold more than 10 high card points and would not have made a vulnerable opening bid. As extra confirmation, East had passed the one heart opening. He might well have responded with the king of diamonds and three hearts to the queen.

Since he knew where the monarch was located, South proceeded to make his contract. He simply led his low diamond toward dummy.

West did the best he could. He rose with his king and led a trump.

South won in his hand; cashed the diamond ace; played two more rounds of trumps to stop in dummy, and discarded his two small clubs on the queen and jack of diamonds.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

THURSDAY, AUG. 31

Your birthday today: Stability is achieved more readily by eagerly coping with obstacles and limitations, taking nothing for granted. Today's natives enjoy tall tales, travel, will relish this year's experience.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: It seems that others are slow—their agreement with your plans depends on letting them work things out at their own pace.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Letting well enough alone again, is a fine art likewise helping collect the scatter of yesterday's errors without adding more.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: The closer the relation, the more likely your plans invite disagreement. Seek no favors, ask no special obligations today.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Select activities needing no detailed cooperation or consultation, go it alone. Give people a break from your sensitivity.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Living beyond your means is fashionable, almost unavoidable. Leave friends out of finances so that you still have both later.

On-the-Move Shampoo
Dry shampoo is a great time saver for quickie trips or overnight stays. And you won't have to lug around dryers, curlers or hair spray since dry shampoo cleans without causing the hair to lose its style.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]:

Take a long hard look at your life, what you are doing and planning to do, your friends and where your relationships are leading.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Going ahead with already thriving projects can be rewarding, particularly if you find problems. New ventures run into trouble.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: There's just enough resistance now to make progress interesting challenging. Sweeping changes are beyond today's scope.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Going directly to the point may be more accurate, but likely to precipitate refusals or denials. Bide your time.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: The balance between your needs and what you must do to cope with the needs of people near you may be difficult to find.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Any flaw in your planning shows with no time left for corrective moves. You attract criticism regardless of issues.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Now is a prime time for conflict—those with mates have it near at hand, those alone have not far to go to find it.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South ruffed the third round of hearts and hummed softly to himself. If you had listened carefully, you would have noted the words were: "Where, o where is the king of diamonds? Where, o where can it be?"

Look at the hand. You can see his problem. If East holds the king, he can enter dummy with a high trump; lead the queen of diamonds and let it ride. Then he can play ace, king and a third club. The defense will win its third trick, but South will be able to ruff the fourth club in dummy and make his game.

Suppose West has the king of diamonds. The finesse will lose and eventually South will have to lose his fourth

Dear Abby Smoking is dangerous to nonsmoker's health

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a hired companion to an 88-year-old invalid woman. She is very wealthy and lives in a luxurious mobile home with every convenience you could imagine. I occupy the back bedroom of her mobile home. I am well paid, but here's my problem:

This lady smokes constantly and has frequently fallen asleep with a lit cigaret between her fingers.

I work from 6 a. m. until 10 p. m. caring for her, and I need my rest, but I'm afraid to go to sleep because she gets up during the night, lights a cigaret and falls asleep.

This lady is friendly with the manager of the trailer court, who knows about her smoking, but does nothing about it. Her doctor also knows because I have told him. He also has done nothing.

Abby, I am so afraid that one night she will set fire to this mobile home. What can be done? WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: You must persuade the lady that for her own safety she must either turn in her matches at bedtime or hire a companion for the night shift. And for heaven's sake, implore her doctor and the manager of the court to take some action!

DEAR ABBY: If a girl is single and free to date, has a child, and a fellow wants to take her out, should the fellow pay for the babysitter? Or should the gal pay for it herself? In this case, the girl has limited funds, and the man is aware that she has a child.

Should she just drop a hint, or come right out and say, "I'm sorry, I can't go out this evening because I can't afford a sitter," and then wait for him to offer or what?

I feel that if a man can afford to date a girl, he should consider the sitter a part of the expense of dating, right? SHORT OF MONEY

DEAR SHORT: Paying the sitter should be the mother's responsibility. If the gentleman offers to pay for the sitter, fine, but anything resembling a "hint" would be in poor taste.

DEAR ABBY: I am in my early 20s and have been married for five years. Neither my husband nor I wants children. We do not like children, and we do not need them. Ever since we have been married, all I have heard from the community is "When are you going to have children?" I am so sick and tired of hearing this asinine and rude question that I could scream. I am beginning to feel as tho I should have been a salmon—a simple creature that lives only to spawn and then die. That is the way most people seem to regard young married women.

Well, I have news for them! I am perfectly happy with my life as it is. I have no desire or "urge" to have children. I have a good job that makes me feel needed and useful. I feel as tho I am doing my part for mankind in earning my own support and doing a much needed job. And if those nosy people think that I'm missing the "joy" of supporting children, just let them look at my tax bills. I'm busy enough supporting children of those people who don't have enough sense to use birth control. I don't need any more bills.

I'm no dope—I have a good mind, and I contribute as much to the working force as any man, and I think that if that is enough for my satisfaction, it should satisfy the old biddies in the community.

So, please, Dear Abby, tell these rude and insensitive people to stop trying to make a girl feel useless unless she has a dozen kids trailing behind her. I am as useful and feminine as any mother (more than most) and I intend to stay that way. The doldrums of childraising are not for me. Give me a challenging and rewarding business career any day!
SIGNED: SMART—NOT SENTIMENTAL

DEAR SMART: You've already told 'em. But good!

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 68700, L. A., CALIF. 90068 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

1972 CANADIAN WILDCATS have title hopes if they can stay healthy. Front—Johnny Davis, David Wilson, Ronnie Williams, Mac Purcell, Bob Dickinson and Ronnie Schmidt. Canadian Wildcats Have Title Hopes This Year

By CLAY LIVELY
CANADIAN—Injuries, or rather the lack of them, will be the key to any success enjoyed by the Canadian Wildcats during the 1972 football campaign.

"We have 18 good boys on our varsity and we should compete for the district title if we don't get any crippling injuries," said second-year head coach Jack Hawthorne.

Last year the Wildcats were undefeated until they met the White Deer Bucks. They lost that game to the tune of 49-6 as the Bucks advanced to the state Class A quarterfinals. The year before Canadian was unbeaten until the White Deer game and edged in that one 20-12.

Those two losses were the only ones suffered in the past two years so the Cats have an 18-2 record for two seasons and not one district championship in that time. This year, barring injuries, they just might remedy that.

The Wildcats lost 17 seniors off last year's team but they return five offensive and five defensive starters. They, along with some boys off an unbeaten junior varsity team, should provide heated competition for the other teams in District 1-A.

Russell Ashley 4-10, 165 was a first team all-district pick last year at guard and a second team choice at linebacker. He heads a line that also includes returnees David Tubb (5-11, 170) at left guard, Pat Walker (5-9, 180) at right tackle and Donnie Morrow (6-2, 175) at tight end. Tubb earned second team all-district honors last season.

The rest of the offensive line consists of Sam Schaffer (155), a letterman at quarterback last season who has been moved to split end this year; Ricky Wheeler (170) at left tackle and Gary Tubb at center.

Mac Purcell (160) is the other returning offensive starter. He is joined by Kem Carr in the halfback slots. The fullback is Glen Watson (175) and Ronnie Williams is at quarterback.

Purcell, a first team linebacker last season, joins Ashley, left guard Walker, left end Morrow and left tackle Watson as the returning defensive starters.

Williams is at right linebacker. Wheeler is at right tackle and Bob Dickinson (165) is the right end on defense. Carr and Tye Adcock are the defensive halfbacks and Schaffer is at safety.

"We're light and we don't have exceptional team speed," Hawthorne said. "But we are quick and that is our big plus."

Purcell is our fastest player but Ashley and David Tubb can run with the rest of our backs," he added.

The Wildcats open their season September 8 at home against Phillips.

"It'll be the first time in 13 years that Canadian has played Phillips," Hawthorne stated. "And I've been told that we've never beaten them. We should have a real good idea after that game what kind of team we are."

Stinnett (Editor's note: Stinnett is the pre-season choice to take the District 1-A crown) is going to be tough this year, as always. In fact, the whole district will be rough," Hawthorne said.

Besides Stinnett and White Deer the Cats meet Sunray, Sanford-Fritch and Gruber in district play.

In non-district action Canadian plays, besides Phillips, Spearman, Wheeler, Groom and Shamrock.

"I think the boys we have on this team have the ability to take the district championships," Hawthorne stated. "If we can avoid the serious injuries."

Sptiz Wins Third Gold Also Sets Third Record

MUNICH (AP) — "I'm afraid of everybody," said a smiling Mark Spitz.

The handsome Californian has nothing to fear tonight. It's not until Thursday night that he goes after the fourth of what he hopes will be an incredible seven gold medals.

But starting next week, the United States may have plenty to fear—mainly the thought of an Olympic swimming team without Mark Spitz.

The 22-year-old Indiana University dental student racked up his third world record in garnering his third gold of these 20th Summer Games Tuesday, slashing his way to victory in the men's 200-meter freestyle freestyle.

Then he told a television interviewer that, whether or not he achieves his seven-gold goal, these Games will probably be his last international competition.

"I have no plans for swimming any more at all, really," Spitz said. "I won't have the time. I'll swim until Monday."

The bronzed, mustachioed Spitz sliced through the water in the 200 freestyle in 1:52.78, unleashing a torpedo-like final lap to shatter his own world mark of 1:53.50 as well as the Olympic standard of 1:55.29 formerly owned by fourth-place finisher Mark Wenden of Australia.

Winning the silver was UCLA student Steve Genter of Lakewood, Calif. Werner Lampe of West Germany was third.

Spitz, of course, won't be the only American to do well. The United States already owns 15 medals—five gold, six silver and four bronze. That's six more than runner-up East Germany and eight ahead of the Soviet Union.

One of those golds went Tuesday to a California high school student—the Golden State relay team seems to be living up to its nickname here—in what has to be one of the biggest upsets of the Games thus far.

Sandra Neilson, a giggly, dimpled lass from El Monte, Calif., wrecked Australian wizard Shane Gould's bid for four personal golds by winning the women's 100-meter freestyle in an Olympic-record 58.59—less than a tenth of a second off Miss Gould's world mark.

"I'm just so excited now I feel great," the 16-year-old Miss Neilson bubbled. "I just wanted to get out there and win it. When I got out there I knew I could do it."

But how, she was asked, did she feel about beating the favored Aussie, who had to settle for third behind Shirley Babashoff of Fountain Valley, Calif.

"She's a girl—just like us," Miss Neilson said of Miss Gould.

Australia's Beverly Whitfield beat out Dana Schoenfeld of Anaheim, Calif., for the gold in the women's 200-meter breaststroke, winning in an Olympic-record 2:41.72, and sensational East German Roland Matthes broke the Games' record by winning the men's 100-meter backstroke in 56.58, followed by Mike Stamm of San Diego and Jerry Murphy of Hinsdale, Ill.

For Miss Schoenfeld, it was a delightful climax to a remarkable comeback. Failing to even qualify for the 1968 Olympics, she gave up training for three years, then decided to take another shot at a spot on the team.

The American basketball team, now unbeaten in 58 Olympic games, raised its record to 3-0 with a 67-48 victory over Cuba, a decision that avenged the Yanks' loss to that Caribbean country in last year's Pan-American Games.

Tonight the U.S. squad goes against Brazil, also unbeaten in three Group A games.

Defense did it for the Yanks in other competition Tuesday. America's water polo team blitzed Canada 8-1 for their third straight triumph.

In featherweight weightlifting, Bulgaria's Norair Nurikyan won the gold with an Olympic-record total lift of 887.35 pounds.

Coach Harland Svare of the San Diego Chargers is finished playing the role of "Mr. Nice Guy."

Svare announced Tuesday that Duane Thomas, the talented but mysterious running back the Chargers acquired from Dallas, was being suspended and was subject to a fine of a $150 per day for not reporting to the National Football League team Monday.

"Duane Thomas was told to report to training camp by 6 o'clock Monday," said Svare. "He failed to report. He is suspended without compensation. He will be fined $150 each day he is absent."

San Diego gave up sophomore running back Mike Montgomery and second-year wide receiver Billy Parks to get Thomas. Both players had outstanding rookie seasons for the Chargers but Svare, who has said Thomas is the best running back in the NFL since Cleveland's Jimmy Brown, gave up permanent rights to them. Now, after a full month of training camp, Thomas has not practiced.

"I said at the time of the trade for Duane that it was a gamble, a roll of the dice," said the Chargers' coach. "Whatever the outcome, I'm not going to look back. We have a good football team to get ready for the season."

31. The Half Volley

What is the half volley?
The half volley is made when the ball has been hit alongside or directly in front of your feet. You hit it just after it hits the ground.

Bend your knees so you're not just dropping the head of the racket and try to keep the racket approximately parallel to the ground. Get your head down so you are really watching the ball and take a very short backswing and stroke the ball up from the ground with little follow-through.

You never want to swing from above the ball when making a half volley. If you do, you'll be hitting down on the ball. Just get the racket low and parallel to the ground, giving you the maximum amount of racket face for contact and come through the ball on a slightly upward plane.

Where should I try to hit a half volley?

When returning a half volley, your only thought should be to stay out of trouble. If your opponents are on the baseline, try to float the ball deep. If your opponents are at net, try to hit it low and softly in the hope that they will have to hit up to you.

Rules Of The Game

The headline hunting comments by California's other Presidential candidate, John Schmitz to the effect that Mr. Nixon "purged" him from the Republican Party, has brought other headline hunting comments from Congressional candidate Andrew Hinshaw.

Those aligned with candidates already have chosen sides. So Schmitz's claim and Hinshaw's rebuttal won't switch any votes, but maybe the exchange will add a few more members to the non-participating rolls.

Of the two remarks, the one by Schmitz is more believable. And why should that be such a surprise? After all, the congressman and the Republican Party parted company long before Nixon came to the White House. Schmitz never has given evidence of being a "team" player, and it always has been difficult to understand why he would want the party label since he consistently opposed the socialism promoted by Republicans and Democrats alike.

He was probably in error to suggest that Nixon personally ordered his defeat in the last primary election. He's been around long enough to know that in powerful political organizations there are lieutenants assigned the job of helping elect those candidates who support the administration and to defeat those who do not.

Mr. Hinshaw had promised to be a rubber stamp for the President, so the word goes out, and no political observer would be so naive to believe otherwise. But candidates for political office apparently have to keep trying to make their headlines.

It will be interesting to watch the careers of Schmitz and Hinshaw although Hinshaw's is more easy to predict. Barring an incredible upset of the President by George McGovern, Hinshaw should coat-tail it to Congress with ease. There he can be expected to perform no heroics. He should fit comfortably into the niche of the other anonymous congressmen skillfully programmed to say "aye" on cue.

Schmitz is another matter. He is at the helm of a national political party now and his hard line stands against increasing government will have to be softened if he is to attract the kind of contributions necessary to finance a viable campaign. The people who finance political campaigns want something in return. The broader the area of coverage, the more general the appeal must become.

It will be interesting to watch the areas in which Schmitz will compromise his principles to lure additional support. If there is a hint of more support provided he gives an inch here or there, it is safe to predict there will be a softening.

We observed this in Barry Goldwater's national campaign in 1964. We observed it in Mr. Nixon's Presidential actions, and we are now observing it in McGovern. "Backtracking Mac" already has changed directions so many times his campaign trail resembles an Ozark road map.

But such is politics, and if the Congressman from Austin wants to play with the big boys, he'll have to buy the same program.

Rainy Day Jobs

The following information is for those Americans—all 17 of them—who are socking money away in the bank like crazy and feeling guilty about it.

Despite what you may have heard, the money you put in a savings account does as much for the economy as money spent directly for consumer goods and services, says the United States Savings and Loan League. It works just as hard in creating jobs and new business enterprises, while having the additional advantages of building your own future purchasing power as it contributes to your financial stability and independence.

Deposits in savings and loan associations, for instance, go to finance a wide range of loans for housing purposes. Money saved at mutual savings banks is used to finance housing and real estate developments and to buy corporate bonds.

Money saved at commercial banks goes for a wide range of purposes, including the financing of businesses, commercial enterprises and to buy municipal bonds, whose proceeds pay for job-creating government projects.

Money placed in credit unions is earmarked for consumer loans to purchase all kinds of goods and services.

Now you can smile all the way to the bank.

President Defending Economy

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
MIAMI BEACH (NEA) — President Nixon clearly feels vulnerable on the economy and related issues in this campaign. Acceptance speeches are supposed to be lofty, but he used his as his first big opportunity to attack Sen. George McGovern on the domestic front.

You could argue that the President's comments in this field had at least something of an upbeat tone, since he spoke positively about providing more jobs at higher wages, cutting inflation, promoting industrial growth rates, easing the hated property tax.

Yet all this was basically defensive. Nixon knows that his White House years have been marred by voter discontent over high prices, spiraling taxes, too few jobs to meet the national need.

Moreover, he moved quickly away from these embarrassing to the assault on McGovern.

Probably the tactic was irresistible. The President and his aides think the 1972 Democratic nominee was sent to them by little angels. They think McGovern is even more vulnerable than the President on the economic side.

The unspoken lines in Nixon's speech to the Republican convention were these:

"You voters may not be all that satisfied with what we have done with the economy and taxes. You may want change here, above all. But McGovern isn't your man. He isn't credible in this field."

The words the President did utter were bent in that direction.

Their (McGovern's) proposal to pay $1,000 to every person in America insulted the intelligence of the American voters.

The American people are not going to be taken in by a scheme where government gives money with one hand and takes it away with the other.

Today Americans pay one-third of their income in taxes. If their programs were enacted, Americans would have to pay over one-half of their income in taxes. This means that American wage earners would be working more for the government than they would for themselves.

This, of course, is pure scare stuff, designed to alarm Americans where many already are feeling hurt the most—in their tax bills.

Furthermore, it is pretty filmy conjecture. McGovern has scrapped some of his earlier proposals. Nobody knows what the new ones will suggest, or how much they will cost.

Nevertheless, the President has a crucial advantage, and he is moving to exploit it. McGovern's proposals for a $1,000 income grant per person per year, and for tax reform, have struck countless voters as hastily and badly conceived things. His credibility in this field was in serious jeopardy, even before Nixon said a word.

McGovern thinks he is fighting the idea planted by adversaries and critics that his proposals are radical. That is true, but only in part. He is also battling the notion that they are thoughtless, and his often amazingly casual confession of their flaws seems to confirm it.

So it isn't just the roughed-out specific content of his plans that bothers some voters. As soundings among them indicate, the core of McGovern's difficulty in the economic realm is doubt over his capacity for solid judgement.

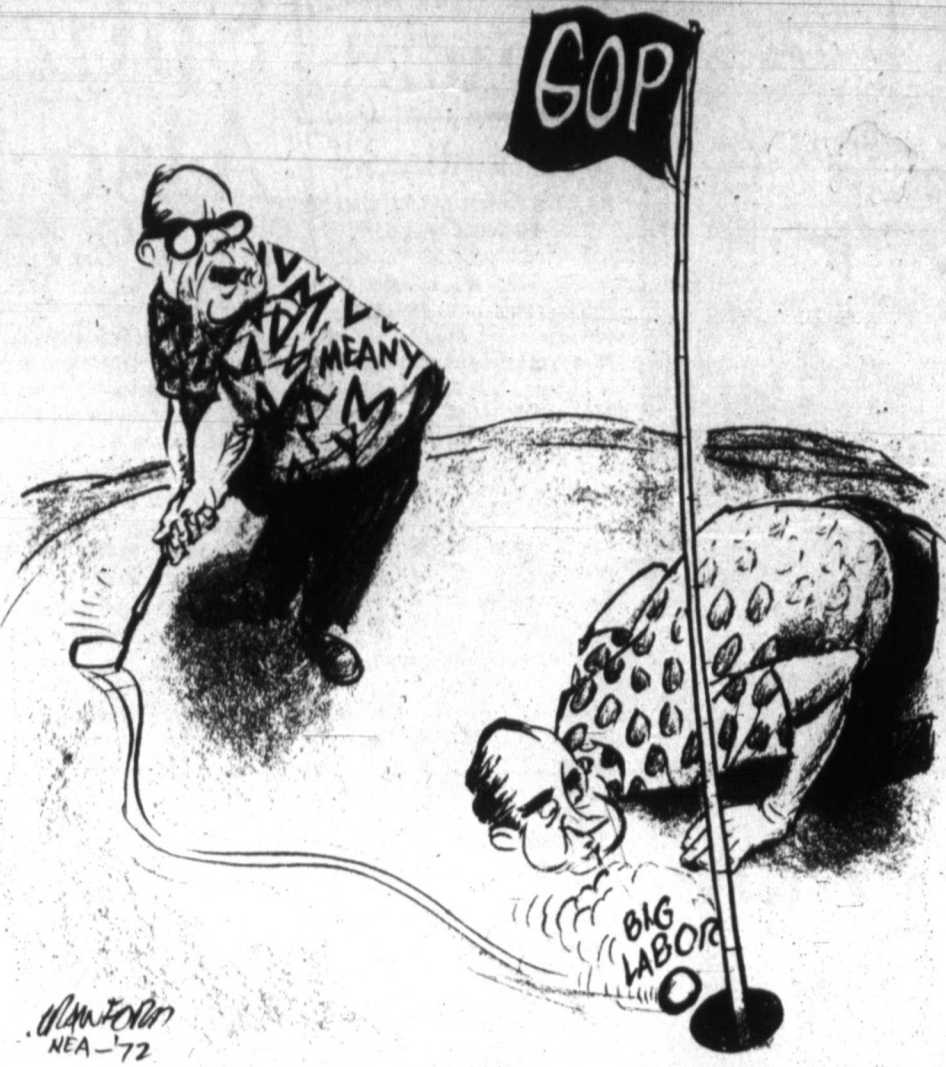

Nixon vs. McGovern may be a case of double vulnerability on the economic front. But Nixon plainly is betting that voters won't see much point in trading their doubts about him for a whole new set centering on George McGovern.

Every Little Bit Helps

H.L. Hunt Writes

THE CLARK REPORT

Ramsey Clark, former attorney general in the Lyndon B. Johnson administration, has been in the enemy capital of Hanoi and he wails about the damage of United States bombing.

Mr. Clark contends that dikes have been blasted and schools, homes and hospitals destroyed. In substance, the former attorney general is saying that his country is wrong in bringing the war home to the communists of North Vietnam.

He does not mention the all-out assaults launched by the North Vietnamese into the sovereign Territory of South Vietnam nor the destruction of its villages and the slaughter of the South Vietnamese people.

He ignores our commitment to the people and government of South Vietnam, a pledge that was made by the administration he served as attorney general.

Radio Hanoi has made the most of Clark's statements, using them in skillful world-wide propaganda. His statements have damaged our cause in the capitals of other nations and they have widened the split among our own people who want to see the Vietnamese war pressed to an honorable conclusion.

The utterances of actress Jane Fonda have had a similar effect but they don't sound as authoritative as those of former member of a President's cabinet.

It is to be hoped that the Hanoi broadcasts of Clark will not deter us from pursuing the goal of making South Vietnam a free and independent nation. Abandoning that goal would give communist invaders everywhere a green light.

J. A. Schindler, M. D., suggests THESE eight preventive "pills":

1. Stop listening for a knock in your motor. People who look for trouble frequently find it.

2. Learn to like your work. If you hate your job, find a job you can like.

3. Have at least one hobby and work hard at it. Hobbies are invaluable for relieving tensions.

4. Learn to enjoy people and to forgive and forget affronts.

5. Learn to accept with equanimity what cannot be changed.

6. Learn to accept adversity. If you live long enough, you are certain to meet with it.

7. Learn to be cheerful even when you don't feel cheerful. The sunshine you spread will warm you as well as those around you.

8. Learn to face life with confidence and decision.

Unions At Their Best When Quest Is Noble

By PAUL HARVEY

When government appeared incapable of or unwilling to clip the wings of the skyjacks, our commercial airline pilots—through their union—decided to do it themselves.

In a merging world, organized labor has international impact; new opportunities, new responsibilities. Unions are at their best when their quest is more noble than mercenary.

John L. Lewis, whatever his subsequent excesses, sought and got for his mine workers improved job safety. When neither government nor industry was disposed to enact and enforce safety regulations for underground workers, the UMW could and did.

Half-a-century ago the sanitary conditions of most bakeries were deplorable. Many provided no running-water plumbing.

When neither government nor industry moved to improve those conditions, the Bakery and Confectionery Workers Union demanded a cleanup—and fought for and won it.

To the benefit of us all. More recently, the dreadful specter of inflation was eroding our hard-earned dollars, diminishing their value 5 per cent per year. Government, limited by legal and political considerations, could not put out the fire.

So three huge unions in the construction industry and the building trades announced, "No more wage increases without increased production."

To the eventual benefit of us all. You can remember when our inhibited government was tolerating the shipment of supplies by our allies to our enemies in Korea—until patriotic uninhibited American longshoremen refused to handle the cargoes of the shops of those nations.

When government tiptoed timidly around ruthless skyjacks and the airline industry appeared incapable of intercepting them, the airline pilots' union asserted itself.

The ALPA announced that its pilots would no longer fly to any nation which shelters these pirates—Algeria, Cuba, wherever. And the airline pilots asked other AFL-CIO unions to join their boycott.

Now there is another emerging challenge which may bring out the best in our labor unions.

GOP Conservatives Display Steely Resolution at Miami

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

MIAMI BEACH —The steely resolution always displayed by the dominant conservative wing in Republican intraparty warfare was dramatized again in the wee hours Tuesday morning of the convention when an eleventh-hour offer for mediation from the White House was preemptively brushed aside.

At that point, the convention's rules committee was nearing a vote in the two-week battle over 1976 delegate apportionment. Suddenly, word was secretly relayed that the committee would slow down. Presidential campaign manager Clark MacGregor would be available to work out a compromise.

Former Rep. William Cramer of Florida, the rules committee chairman, blithely ignored the offer and pressed on to pass the conservative delegate formula.

Here was the classical "hard" political pattern displayed by conservatives in this and past Republican conventions: self-assured, tough, determined to win maximum political advantage. In contrast, the party liberals, as in years past, were classical "softs": irresolute, disorganized, confused about goals.

Actually, although some Southerners boasted after their Tuesday afternoon floor victory that their 1976 convention forces were thereby increased by at least 200 delegates, the outcome was not that clearcut. What's more, conservatives were forced to yield to the 1970s by accepting new rules aimed at increasing youth and minority group delegates.

Thus, the conservative victory of Miami Beach was more symbolic than substantive.

"This was a whiff of 1964," muttered liberal Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois as he stalked from the rules committee after one Monday night recess. He was right in the sense that the liberals, in 1972 as in 1964, had been outmaneuvered, outfought and outnumbered.

The hardness of the conservative, was shown most clearly in the remarkable climactic developments in the rules fight. While Percy and his friends were getting bloodied in the rules committee at the Eden Roc Hotel, his allies at Convention Hall 30 blocks away were turning in desperation to President Nixon's political operation for help.

Nixon operatives earlier had been clandestine confederates of the conservatives but were ordered into neutrality. Now liberal Rep. John Dellenback of Oregon approached campaign manager MacGregor, seated in a front row convention box. Would he use his good offices to effect a compromise to prevent humiliation of the liberals?

Minutes later, MacGregor was in a caucus room where negotiations were underway between conservative Sen. John Tower of Texas and a liberal group headed by Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania. Hearing Tower and state chairman Clifford Jones of Pennsylvania agree on a compromise formula, MacGregor thought peace was near. He offered his help and suggested the rules committee deliberations be slowed.

At Convention Hall, liberal Gov. William Milliken of Michigan telephoned Rep. John Anderson of Illinois at the Eden Roc to tell him MacGregor wanted a chance to mediate. Anderson quickly sent up a note to Chairman Cramer, presiding in a sweltering, cramped hotel room. The moon-faced Cramer blandly ignored Anderson's note and gavelled through the conservative delegate allocation.

Cramer was not the only conservative who wanted no further compromise. Mississippi state chairman Clarke Reed, the disciplined dynamo leading the rules fight, flatly rejected the Tower-Jones formula. He wanted the South's disproportionate delegate strength kept intact.

On Tuesday morning, the liberals once again sought negotiations. No, said Tower, his people were tired of talking. That left the liberals forced to choose between capitulation or a losing floor fight.

Nobody felt this more keenly than Percy, aggressively committed to a more liberal delegate apportionment.

In the manner familiar among Republican liberals, Percy vacillated. Facing open hostility from the Bourbon-dominated Illinois delegation, Percy recommended going along with the conservative majority but added that he might well vote the other way. Bourbon state Rep. Pete Miller of Chicago exploded over Percy's ambivalence, correctly reflecting the mood of the Illinois delegation.

At Convention Hall that Tuesday afternoon, the liberals lacked strategy, floor managers or even compelling arguments. Their foes, under Reed's generalship, had prepared well.

"We've been getting the hell kicked out of us since 1960," a veteran New York Republican liberal told us after the vote. "I'm used to it."

Neither he nor anybody else would predict that things would be different in 1976.

A—John, by 23.

Q—What are Saratoga chips?

A—Potato chips, called Saratoga chips because they were first served in 1853 at a restaurant in Saratoga Springs, N.Y.

SOBER CEREMONY
BELFAST (AP) — "Getting married, without drink" is the motto of Rev. Dr. John H. Davy, former Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland. He persuaded the Church Assembly in Belfast to reprint 5,000 leaflets deleting reference to alcohol at wedding receptions.

THE VIEW FROM THE COCKPIT of the projected Space Shuttle is realistically depicted in a special simulator, above. Scene outside is what would appear upon returning from space for a landing at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. In other mockup tests, technicians at North American Rockwell in Downey, Calif., study the aft fuselage of the Shuttle, designed to fly up to 500 missions over a 10-year period.

BATTIN' AROUND 'Parks, Man And His Environment'

By C.R. BATTEN
The time for decision has come for Yellowstone National Park. It is celebrating its 100th birthday, and will be the scene of a world conference on national parks in September. Theme of the centennial year is "Parks, Man and His Environment."

One major decision apparently has already been made. The Park Service has proposed that 89 per cent of the lands in Yellowstone be included in the Wilderness System. So it is safe to assume that the 95 per cent or so of the people who remain tied to mechanical forms of transportation will continue to be confined to the five per cent of the park that is readily accessible to them.

The Park Service has also proposed a master plan that would reduce the number of overnight visitors and eventually phase out the

Smith Wants Sen. McGovern To Take Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith said Tuesday he "kind of" expects Sen. George McGovern to capture Texas' 26 electoral votes in the November election.

At an informal news conference, Smith also said "the odds are still pretty much in favor of our calling" a special legislative session on insurance "reform."

The governor said the presidential race in Texas "is going to be a lot closer than most people think."

President Nixon is still the front-runner in Texas, he said, but "by November I kind of look for the Democrats to win." He reminded reporters that in 1968 Hubert Humphrey trailed Nixon in Texas opinion polls almost until election day.

Smith said his staff has been studying insurance matters to make sure a special session would be justifiable.

"We feel as a result of our work and the surveys we are making about the cost of insurance in other states, it certainly would be justified," Smith said.

He said he has talked with about 30 "legislative leaders" — but not Speaker Rayford Price — and "we think we would have the support of the legislative leadership" in calling a special session.

Robert Fulton, inventor of the steamboat, designed clockwork-fired floating mines used by the British against the French in 1804.

automobile, relying on buses to transport visitors from "staging centers" outside the park.

But James W. Coleman, assistant superintendent, recently told an Idaho Falls (Ida.) audience that there is no definite plan now to convert the park to a bus system to handle visitors. Four-lane divided freeways are being built around such important centers as West Thumb and Old Faithful.

The apparent result is a group of isolated urban centers at Old Faithful, Lake, Canyon, Mammoth Hot Springs, and elsewhere, with all the congestion problems of home-connected by improved high speed highways.

It seems to this observer that if the Park Service is going to phase out the automobile, the first order of business should be to quit building more highways. The better the highways, the more difficult it will be to get rid of the cars.

If we are going to eliminate the auto in Yellowstone, why not accept that as a basic goal and work toward a completely new and integrated system that will eliminate the highways as well? Some of the most experienced people-movers in the world are those at Disneyland in California and Disney World in Florida. Perhaps they should be given the opportunity to design and develop such a system.

Those who have visited the park know that there are five major entrances. The major scenic and natural wonders are accessible by a loop road which connects with each of the entrance roads. The new transportation system I propose could follow essentially the same routes as the present loop road, and possibly even be built on its right-of-way.

It could be developed in phases, beginning at Grant Village on the West Thumb of Yellowstone Lake, for example. One branch could extend westward to Old Faithful, another northeastward to Lake

Acupuncture Plays Role In Operation

SHANGHAI (AP) — Theories about acupuncture go back 2,000 years, and recently the needle treatment has enjoyed unprecedented popularity — but the Chinese still can't explain how it works.

While doctors speak of "pain relief" rather than claiming cures, there seems no doubt that results have been attained in such fields as the restoration of impaired hearing or speech.

Acupuncture anesthesia was developed in China only recently. Experiments began in 1958 during a mass movement to study and popularize acupuncture, traditional Chinese medicine and the combination of Chinese and Western medicine.

Since then, about half a million operations have been performed with this type of anesthesia. The number of needles used has been reduced from several dozen to one or two in many operations today.

The experiments are continuing since, in some operations, patients still feel pain or are uncomfortable when organs are removed.

Most experiments are conducted by civilian and military acupuncturists and physicians on themselves, although volunteers are not lacking.

A visitor to Hua Shan Hospital here found two patients in neighboring rooms undergoing surgery for the removal of brain tumors.

In the first room a man of 35 had two needles — one in each cheek — as anesthesia. He was awake and talking with the surgeon who was cutting into his scalp.

In the adjoining room Wang Shang-kuan, a 50-year-old worker at a commune store, had four needles — three in his feet and a fourth in his face. Surgeons were removing an egg-shaped tumor, three inches long, from the top of his exposed brain.

This correspondent and Wang talked in the Shanghai dialect while the operation was in progress.

"Are you all right?"
"I'm fine."
"Does it hurt?"
"No, it's all right."

Three days later, the correspondent found Wang in good shape and smiling. "There's no pain," he said, pointing to his head. "I'm feeling fine."

Dr. Cheng An-chi, 36, the surgeon, said Wang would be leaving the hospital in about two weeks and probably would be able to resume work in about a month.

The operation lasted two hours. The anesthetic needles were activated by electric current.

Both patients' tumors were benign, Dr. Cheng reported.

Dr. Chao Wei-peng, another surgeon, said the hospital had used acupuncture anesthesia in more than 1,300 operations in several years with 90 per cent success.

"Acupuncture anesthesia is still new," he observed. "We are still exploring. The principles of why acupuncture can be used as anesthesia have not been fully explained and are not fully understood. In certain operations — mostly abdominal — 100 per cent anesthesia is not achieved. The patient still feels some pain."

Like most traditional Chinese medicine, acupuncture is based on the negative yin and positive yang principle and a life force or energy called chi.

The channels can be reached through more than 360 basic points on the skin of the body and many more auxiliary points. Near each point there are fine nerve ends. The needles penetrate these points in treatment. The point of insertion need not be near the afflicted point. To treat a stomach ailment, for example, needles may be inserted at points in the hands.

What Baby Sitter Should Know

(Last in a Series.)
By DAVID HENDIN

If there's anything that can give parents the jitters, it is leaving their child with a baby sitter. The first time is especially unnerving.

Is the sitter really competent? Will she know what to do if baby cries? Can she change a diaper properly? Does she know how to give the baby a drink of water? Will she treat our child with the careful affection that we do? These are a few of the many questions that will run through the minds of any new parents.

Normally, everything goes well. But things do not always go so smoothly, and it is important to get a baby sitter who is competent. It is equally important that you are confident of your sitter's responsibility and good sense. If you don't have confidence in your baby sitter, you might as well stay home, for when you do go out you'll have a terrible time worrying, fretting and checking by telephone.

The first obvious step in obtaining the best possible baby sitter is to check with friends and neighbors to see whom they use. Perhaps their sitters have a free night or reliable friends to recommend. Many communities have a baby sitter referral agencies. When you are satisfied that you have hired a reliable and mature sitter to stay with your child, here are some things you can do to make yourself more relaxed when leaving your child with the sitter.

1. Never rush away from home. Give your sitter specific instructions about your child. What are his habits? What might he try to "get away with?"

2. Take the time to introduce your child to the sitter. If the child is to be asleep when the sitter arrives, be sure to tell him that you are going out and that a sitter will be there.

3. Tell the sitter about any family pets (dogs, cats, etc.) and chain them or lock them up if possible.

4. Leave an instruction sheet with your sitter. The sheet should tell your name, fire department phone, police phone, ambulance phone, doctor phone, names and ages of your children, any special "rules of the house" and the phone number of a reliable neighbor.

Your instructions should also give the address and telephone number where you can be reached, the length of time you will be gone, and instructions on feeding your child and putting him to sleep, or any special chore you ask your sitter to do.

5. Be sure to tell your baby sitter how to work the television and phonograph and where snack foods are.

This may sound like a small item, but it will go a long way toward getting your reliable baby sitter to come back next time you go out.

Here is a checklist of suggestions for your baby sitter from the National Safety Council:

- Be sure parents leave you with notes on where they will be reached and when they will be back, and with emergency phone numbers including a reliable neighbor's.

- Ask for a schedule of what you are supposed to do.

- Find out the location of the first aid kit, children's clothing and food.

- Find out how to lock windows and doors and who, if anyone, should be admitted when parents are away.

- Don't stay on the phone for any length of time. A parent could become frantic trying to reach you.

- Do not invite guests to visit you unless you have received permission from the parents you are working for.

- Find out how to unlock the bedroom and bathroom doors from the outside just in case a child locks himself in.

- Be alert and be careful. Remember, the parents are trusting you to take care of their home and their family.
