Gov. Perry: 'President Reagan changed America and World;

Austin - Gov. Rick Perry today released the following statement on the death of former President Ronald Reagan.

"Today I join millions of Americans in mourning the passing of a great man and our 40th President - Ronald Reagan.

"President Reagan changed America and the world forever by reviving our economy, renewing our national confidence, and tearing down barriers to freedom throughout the globe.

"The Cold War was won, and Soviet communism was defeated, because President Reagan refused to negotiate our freedom or our future.

"His humor reassured us, his optimism inspired us, and his strong principles propelled us into a future that is stronger, freer and more secure.

"Former Democrats like me were inspired to change parties because of Ronald Reagan's leadership, vision and values.

"And because of Ronald Reagan's leadership, America's best days are still ahead as we seek to build the nation President Reagan envisioned: 'a shining city on a hill' that welcomes people around the globe with freedom's embrace.

"Anita and I join millions of Americans on this day of sorrow in offering our prayers for Mrs. Reagan and the entire Reagan family. And we thank God for the great life lived by one of this nation's greatest presidents Ronald Reagan."

U.S. Flags Flown Over Capitol May be Purchased From Stenholm Congressional Offices

Washington, D.C. - Flag Day is Monday, June 14th, and U.S. Congressman Charlie Stenholm, (TX-17) reminds constituents they have the opportunity to purchase U.S. flags that have been flown over the U.S. Capitol now and throughout the year.

"Folks can purchase an American-made flag through my Congressional offices at anytime," Stenholm said. "The flags are well-constructed and reasonably-priced. I encourage anyone looking for a new flag or a nice gift to consider purchasing a flag that's flown over our beautiful Capitol Building."

The flags are available in cotton or nylon, and they may be ordered in several sizes. The prices range from $16.80 to $29.76, and these prices include the shipping and handling of the flag direct from Stenholm's Washington office to the address of your choice.

Borden County's Rachel Wilson falls short of spelling bee elimination round

Borden County's Rachel Wilson spelled the final word given to her in Wednesday's Second round of the 77th annual National Spelling Bee, held in Washington, D.C. last week, but it wasn't quite enough to place her into the afternoon's elimination round.

Rachel correctly spelled "sgraffito," which refers to the decorative art of scratching away a surface layer to expose a different colored material underneath. This added three points to her score from Tuesday's 25-word written test.

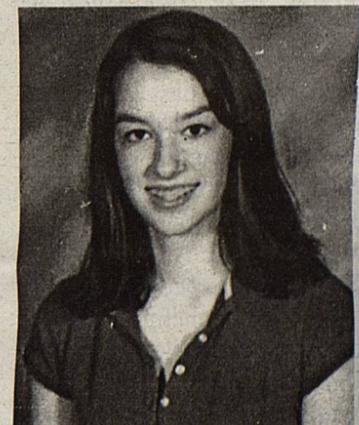

Her combined score of 15 was two points shy of the cutoff score to advance in the competition, according to Rachel's mother, Carol.

"She was very close to the top," Mrs. Wilson said. "She was probably at the top of the group that didn't make it."

Rachel was disappointed that she didn't make it further, but she was glad to get her word right on Wednesday morning.

by a certificate of authenticity to show it was flown over the U.S. Capitol. Each flag also arrives with information describing the proper care of American flags.

After Tuesday's written test, both Rachel and her mother knew it would be tough to get through to the final rounds.

"I'm proud of her," said her mom, Carol. "I think she did a great job."

The family assumed the role of spectator for the rest of the event and enjoyed the rest of the week's festivities which culminated in a banquet and farewell party on Friday night.

Rachel is an eighth grader and the daughter of Tim and Carol Wilson of Borden County.

Picnic areas in Borden County to undergo rehabilitation

ABILENE, Texas – Rehabilitation of the Abilene District's 30 picnic areas began in May and is expected to be completed by the end of summer.

Gene Tabb, Inc. of Anson, contractor for the Texas Department of Transportation, began work on this $177,600 rehabilitation project in Jones County where they are refurbishing four picnic areas. Once work is completed there, they will progress through the 13-county district one county at a time.

In Borden County, two picnic areas are scheduled for rehabilitation. Both picnic areas are located on US 180. One is a few miles east of Gail while the other one is a few miles west of the town.

Scott Mitchell, district design project coordinator, said that work on these picnic areas range from as little as painting of litter barrels, cleaning and repainting existing picnic arbors and tables, repairing of concrete sidewalks, replacing metal arbor tops to removing and replacing complete picnic areas, including concrete slabs, tables and arbors.

Officials in the Abilene District determined in 2000 that improvements were needed for all of the 44 picnic areas in the district to make them more desirable to the traveling public. And, in some cases, the inspectors recommended closing 14 of those picnic areas for reasons ranging from a high vandalism record at the facility to low usage by the public. Those recommended for closure were eventually taken out of service. The money saved from the maintenance of those 14 facilities is now being spent to rehabilitate the remaining 30 picnic areas.

Statement on Death of President Ronald Reagan

By Charlie Stenholm

Cindy and I are saddened to learn of the death of President Ronald Reagan, and we are praying for Mrs. Reagan and her family. I have served with five Presidents, and I have many fond memories of the 12 years I was honored to serve with Presidents Reagan and Bush. I recall how President Reagan and House Speaker Tip O'Neill, the Massachusetts liberal, were good friends who got along very well during their years of service together. They knew they had to leave their philosophical differences behind and work together for the good of the American people, and we all are better for it.

EMS News

Critical Air is a new air medical service that is now available in Borden County. Representative Lacie Horton a flight Paramedic for Critical Air, met with Borden County EMT class last Tuesday. She gave a class on procedures for landing helicopters in Borden County. The class also included intensive landing zone safety. Borden County EMS has global positioning devices on each of their ambulances. This will give EMS personnel the ability to locate any position in the county day or night. The paramedics can then relay these exact locations to the aircrew.

For many years Borden County EMS has used Aero Care Air medical service. It will be very beneficial to have two helicopter services available to us.

The Borden County EMS will still be able to send

Rise and Shine for Biscuit Sausage Quiche

(NAPS)—Perhaps nothing rouses sleepyheads faster than the aroma of a hot breakfast. This delicious Biscuit Sausage Quiche starts with ingredients you probably already have on hand, like sausage, eggs and refrigerated biscuits, and is easy to prepare.

This quiche makes an impressive dish for a casual Saturday brunch and larger Sunday morning get-together.

- ¼ cup chopped onion
- ¼ cup chopped green bell pepper
- 10 eggs, beaten

Michael A. Guido Metter, Georgia

Yesterday I stepped into a phone booth only to find the words, "Not In Use."

Many church members could wear that sign. They want to get the best out of life without putting their best into it. But if you'd taste its sweets, you must work like a bee.

One pound of honey represents the concentrated sweetness of 62,000 clover blossoms. To collect it, the bee makes two million-seven-hundred-thousand trips and travels about five million miles.

O that we'd be as busy as bees in working for Christ, His church and our community!

Are you "as busy as a bee," or are you "not in use"? Which?

The Brazos River Authority advises lake and river simmers of a potential health risk

Warm breezes and the Texas sun remind us that summer has arrived. The Brazos River Authority would like to alert all those who plan to swim in Texas lakes or rivers to avoid areas of stagnant water. Each summer, a small number to Texans are exposed to a microorganism that can cause a fatal infection called primary amebic meningoencephalitis or PAM. This organism responsible for the PAM infection thrives in warm, stagnant water in virtually all untreated (non-chlorinated) surface water and in soil.

According to officials with Texas Department of health (TDH), the combination of lower water levels, high water temperature and stagnant or slow moving water produces higher concentrations of the ameba in the water.

For the past three years, PAM infections in Texas have involved children who had been swimming in lakes. The PAM infection occurs when water containing the organism is forced into the nasal passages - - usually from diving or jumping into water or water skiing. The ameba then makes it's way into the brain and spinal cord. PAM is not spread person to person.

Symptoms of the infection include severe headaches, high fever, stiff neck, nausea, vomiting, seizures and hallucinations as the condition worsens. Though the diseases is rare - affecting only about one to three people a year in Texas - for those infected, death usually occurs within a week.

Swimming pools that are properly cleaned, maintained and treated with chlorine generally are safe, as is salt water. The TDH recommends that people never swim in stagnant or polluted water and take "NO SWIMMING" signs seriously. Also, people should hold their noses or use a nose plug when jumping into lakes, rivers, ponds or other bodies of fresh water and avoid swallowing water when swimming.

For information contact the Brazos River Authority at 254-761-3103 or the TDH Public Information Office at 512-458-7400

Texas Tech Hosts Sustainable Crop/Livestock Systems Field Day

By Justin Scott

Agricultural producers and the general public are invited to participate in a field day on Friday, June 18th at the Texas Tech University Farm east of New Deal, Texas. The event will begin at 5:00 pm with a brief program followed by tours of integrated crop and livestock systems established in 1999, comparing a conventional drip irrigation cotton system and an alternate integrated crop/livestock system. Pastures feature WW B-Dahl Old World bluestem. New this year is the recently established Phase II of the project. This phase adds three new systems to the research including: (1) a dry-land integrated cotton/forage/livestock system featuring buffalograss and bluegramma and a brown mid-ribbed sorghum X sudangrass hybrid; (2) an irrigated three-paddock grazing system using WW B-Dahl for the base pasture and Tifton 85 bermudagrass in two supplemental pastures; and (3) a single-paddock drip-irrigated system using WW B-Dahl for grazing or hay. Following the tours, a chuck wagon meal will be served to participants. For meal planning purposes, participants are encouraged to notify project coordinators at (806)742-2838.

The field day will be management-friendly, where researchers, participating producers, infrastructure vendors, and input suppliers will be available for addressing questions. Information on productivity, profitability, and the impact on natural resources will be shared. By concentrating cotton production on the most fertile soil with the best irrigation possibilities and planting for ages on the more marginal land, producers may be able to achieve equivalent cotton yields on less acreage. Research to date reveals that the inclusion of grazing cattle on wheat, rye, and WW B-Dahl while alternating between fields of cotton, increases profits while using less water and nitrogen fertilizer. With cattle prices on the rebound and a social environment learning toward greater amounts of meat consumption due to the popularity of low carbohydrate diets, integrated systems may create new economic opportunities for producers.

This research is funded in part by a series of USDA-Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education grants, the Ogallala Aquifer Initiative, other grants and private contributions, and is a cooperative effort by Texas Tech University, Texas A&M University, Texas Cooperative Extension, USDA-Agricultural Research Service, USDA-Natural Resource Conservation Service, the High Plains Underground Water conservation District #1, and selected producers.

It's a Wrap: Good Things Wrapped In Small Packages

(NAPS)—What food can please a child and a “carb”-conscious parent? It's the latest lunch craze, it's a snap to create, and gives a great impression for casual lunches or light appetizers. It's a wrap.

Although many restaurants are serving wraps today as a new menu item, this sandwich alternative first arrived on the scene in northern California in the 1990s. The trend caught on when cooks took the traditional burrito and experimented by adding ingredients like vegetables and tofu.

The Pampered Chef's home cooking professionals are offering great wrap recipes this season. According to these Kitchen Consultants, wraps are easy to make at home and they are great for turning leftover vegetables and cooked meats into a heartier dinner wrap. Flour tortillas are excellent for making wraps because they come in several flavors and sizes. By using tortillas that are six to 12 inches in diameter you can choose the size wrap that fits your appetite.

A signature sandwich spread and whole wheat tortillas make these cool ham wraps as unique as they are delicious.

To prevent the tortillas from cracking and splitting open when rolling the wraps, place them in a plastic resealable food storage bag, microwave on HIGH for 20 to 30 seconds or until warm and pliable. Fold the wrap “burrito style” by placing fillings in the center of the tortilla. Bring in both sides of the tortilla and roll from the bottom up. Or, lay the ingredients on the tortilla, leaving one end uncovered. Starting at the bottom, roll tightly to the top.

To help contain the fillings in the wrap, spread your choice of mayonnaise, mustard or hummus up to a quarter inch from the edge of the wrap before adding on the ingredients. If you add lettuce, place the shredded pieces directly on the spread to help keep the ingredients together.

Classic Deli Wraps

- 1 container (8 ounces) light cream cheese spread
- 2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
- 1 tablespoon honey
- 6 (8-inch) whole wheat flour tortillas
- 1½ cups thinly sliced iceberg lettuce
- 8 ounces thinly sliced deli ham
- ¾ cup (3 ounces) shredded Swiss cheese
- 1 large tomato, seeded and diced

- 1 medium green bell pepper, diced
- 6 slices bacon, crisply cooked, drained and crumbled

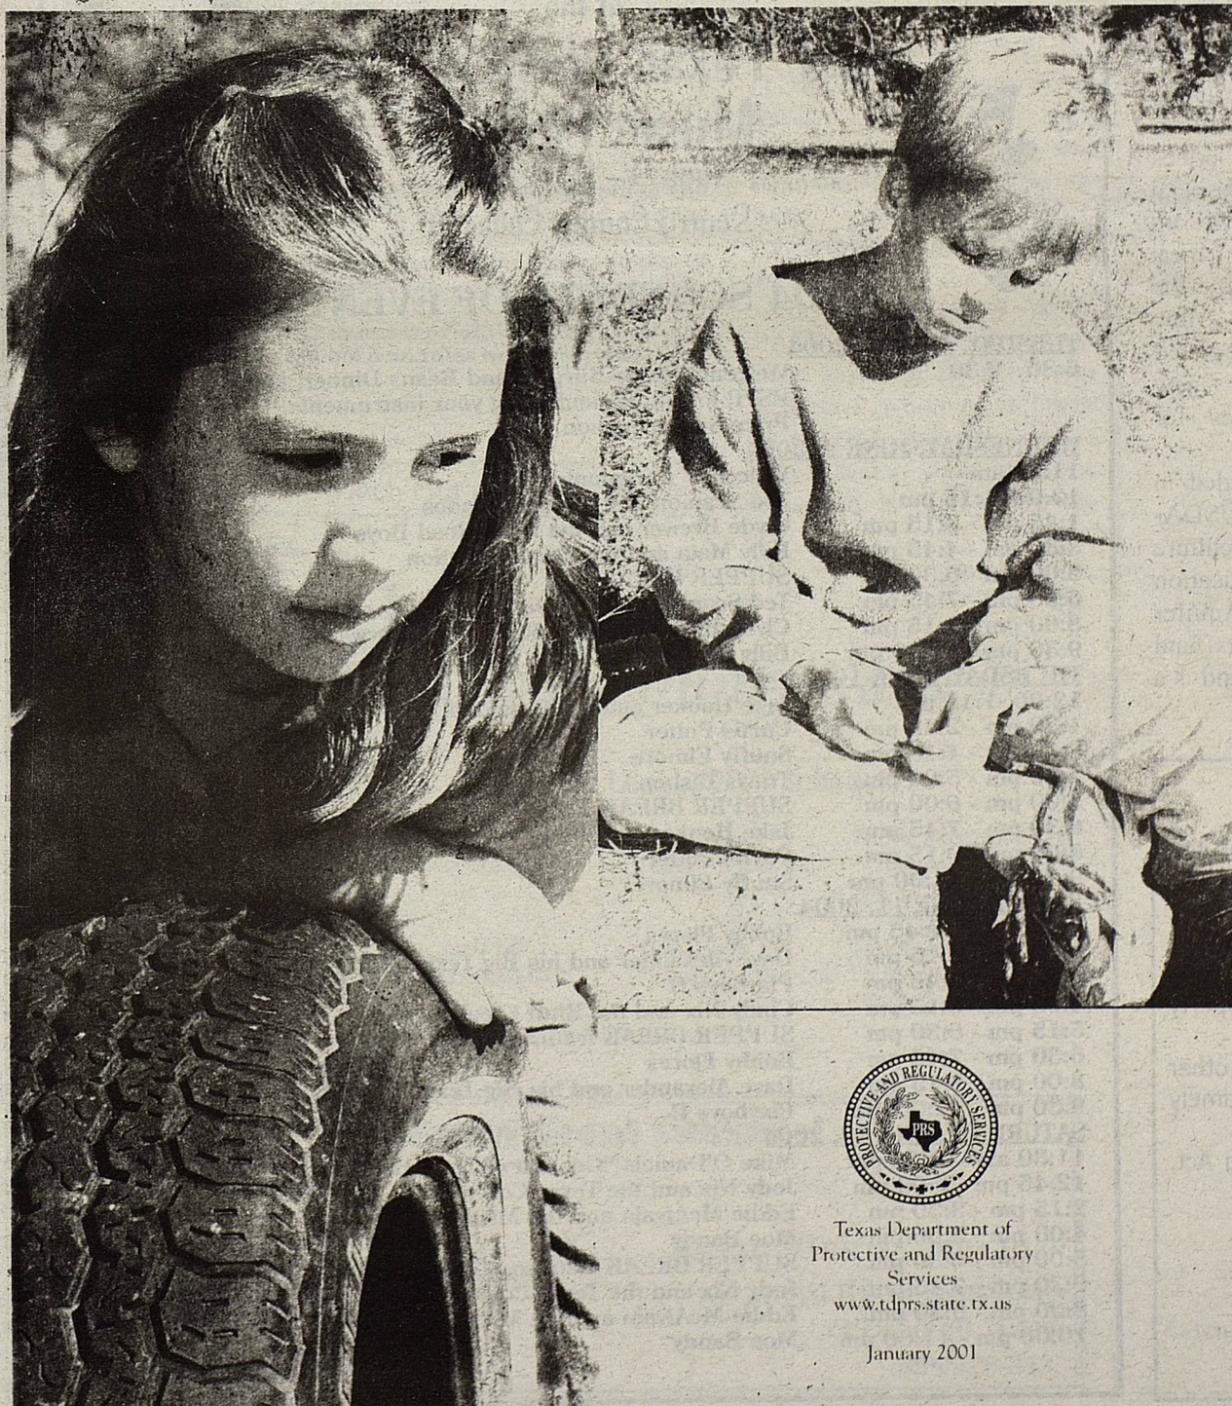

1. Combine cream cheese, mustard and honey in small bowl; mix well.

2. Using Medium Scoop, top each tortilla with a level scoop of cream cheese mixture; spread to within ¼ inch of edge. Cover with ¼ cup lettuce, pressing lightly. Place two ham slices over lettuce. Sprinkle 2 tablespoons cheese over ham. Top evenly with tomato, bell pepper and bacon.

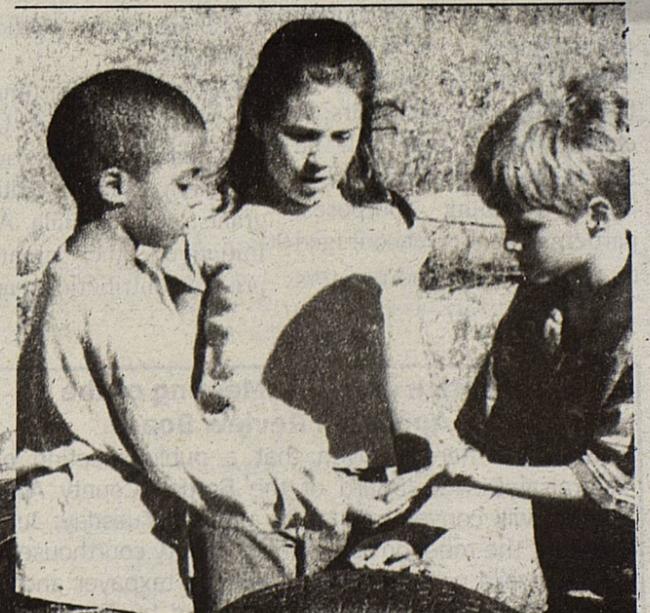

3. Roll up each tortilla tightly. To serve, cut each wrap diagonally in half with serrated knife.
