Business Outlook For Pampa And Territory Decidedly Optimistic

IRAQ SURRENDERS AS BRITAIN LOSES CRETE

Tall Wheat Growing And Oil Flowing

More Than 350 Locations For Field Staked

Oilmen of the Panhandle are optimistic that better times are ahead for the oil and gas industry. The price of crude in the Panhandle has been increased nine to 13 cents per barrel during the past week and it is believed the upward price trend has not ended. Some of the more optimistic oilmen see $1.50 oil for the Panhandle. They also believe that an increase in the price of gas can be expected. Drilling in the field has shown a marked upswing during the past two months, even before the hike in the price of crude. To date this year there have been more than 350 new locations staked in the Panhandle field, which is 50 more than for the same period in 1940. Competitions have also been pacing locations, giving the field more oil. Drive out in any direction from Pampa at night and you can count lighted up drilling wells by the dozen.

Statements during the past week by national leaders indicate that demand of crude oil and gas in the United States will be greatly increased in the near future. Although the Panhandle field is far from large refinery centers and water ways, increased output can be expected of the national demand for more oil is announced.

"The oil industry stands ready to produce as much oil as is needed," an official stated recently in discussing oil output.

Pampa is in the heart of the Panhandle oil and gas field and will naturally be the focal point in new development and increased production.

A bumper wheat crop is in prospect for the Pampa area and the Panhandle. Only excessive rain or hail can ruin the crop.

Farmers and elevator men estimate the yield in the Pampa area as 25 to 30 bushels an acre. They believe the Pampa area can produce in excess of 1,000,000 bushels and that the county yield will be from 1,750,000 to 2,000,000 bushels. Last year not more than 250,000 bushels of wheat were produced in the county.

With the government setting a loan value of 97 cents per bushel on wheat, a fair price has been assured. Oats and barley are heading rapidly and the yield is expected to be heavier than in many years. Ground has been very wet to work during the past month and as a result row crop will be late this year.

Physicians Subject To Call By Patients During Week-Ends

The summer closing plan adopted by Pampa physicians does not mean that the physicians cannot be called on week-ends when their offices are closed. They will be available to their patients as usual.

The physicians have decided to close their offices at 5 p. m. on week days and all but two physicians will close their offices on Saturday afternoon and all day Sunday. The new closing plan just means that physicians will not be in their offices, excepting one week-end out of ever six during the summer months.

A schedule has been worked out by the physicians for the summer months. Physicians who will be in their offices week-ends follow (to be repeated after the first round): May 31—Drs. Overton and Howes. June 1—Drs. Wild and Brown. June 14—Drs. Bellamy and Jones. June 21—Drs. Turner and Purviance. June 28—Drs. Kelley and Kelley. July 5—Drs. Webb and Johnson. Dr. C. E. High will work with each group.

Texas Roundup To Be Held Thursday Night

Well folks, natives of the Lone Star state who have been holding back waiting to see what the natives of the other 47 states are going to do, will swing into action Thursday night with a grand roundup of "Texans" in the county court room Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

The main business on hand will be to elect permanent officers and a queen, and to plan the Texas float.

Last night at a meeting in W. E. James office in the court house, a committee was appointed to round up the Texans. This committee will personally draft hundreds of orders and then, to attend the meeting. All Texans who have and have not registered are urged to attend.

All candidates for queen should also attend, for it is not likely that any girl will be elected queen who is not present. Nominations will be received between now and then by Mr. James at Box 536, and by Bill Browne at radio station KPDN. Just before the meeting, Mr. Browne will turn over all his nominations to Mr. James. Candidates for the queen will ride on the resplendent Texas float which will lead the parade are especially urged to attend.

The committee to roundup the natives includes Mrs. H. H. Healy, D. H. L. Wilder, W. E. James, Jimmie Dodge, Mrs. Bob Triplehorn, R. C. Wilson, F. L. Stallings, and Miriam Wilson.

Illinois Group To Elect Queen Tuesday Night

Illinois residents living in Pampa plan to get a permanent organization, not one to be disbanded following the Top O' Texas Folks Fiesta. A large group of former residents met in the city hall Friday night and made plans for their organization and for a float to be in the Native States parade.

Another meeting has been called for Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the city auditorium when a queen to ride on the Illinois float will be elected. Candidates for queen must be present at the meeting.

Temporary officers elected Friday night were Kenneth Carman, president; R. A. Husted, general chairman of the float committee; Mrs. William Murphy, finance chairman; Mrs. W. R. Frazer, correspondent; Mrs. Jessye Stroupe, publicity chairman; Mrs. Frank Bailey, Mrs. James Todd Jr., and C. E. Baggerman, visiting committee.

B. F. Gunn, formerly of Illinois but temporarily in Pampa, is assisting in the organization.

A huge state flag and letter from Governor Dwight H. Green has been received. Governor Green in his letter called on all natives of Illinois to take a part in the program being planned.

John Phelps of the junior chamber of commerce is assisting in the organization of the state chapter.

War Spectre Stalks Grads At Colleges

Several thousand Texas college and university graduates receive diplomas this week during a commencement season fraught with grim prospects.

Shadowing every rostrum, stalking every academic gown, echoing every speaker is the crimson-hooded spectre of war abroad.

Most affected by international events is Texas A. & M.—largest military school in the nation. For the first time, College Station will see two commencement exercises in one session—one of them an army-born affair.

Sixty-five graduate called to immediate active service received army commissions and diplomas at pre-commencement exercises Friday. With them were 19 other seniors, called before graduation, who are in the commissions but will return to school later to complete graduation requirements.

At regular commencement exercises next Friday, 451 more will be commissioned and graduated. Of these, 307 already have army orders and will stow diplomas to take the sword.

Texas' largest graduating class—some 1,200—will receive diplomas at Texas university, June 2. Several seniors plan to enter the army, navy, and air corps within the next few weeks.

For the first time in many years, the University Board of Regents granted a diploma two weeks before graduation to a senior called to immediate service through the naval reserve.

Although they will graduate with the class comprising Baylor university's largest graduating class in history, 26 Baylor seniors already have passed all requirements for entry into the army's cadet flying corps.

Enlistor will graduate 349 in Waco, Monday, and 135 from its medical, dental, and nursing schools at Dallas, Monday night. President Pat M. Neff will award diplomas at both places.

Even Texas State College for Women at Denton—largest state school for women in the nation—will be affected by the war. Some of its Monday's graduates expect to enter nursing and military dietetics services. In addition, Dr. F. L. McDonald, head of the journalism department, has been called for active service in the infantry reserve.

Hoosiers Warned To Attend Meeting Tuesday Night

"Oh, those Wabash blues!" "Hoosiers who have been attending meetings of the Indiana society of the Panhandle threatened that those who haven't been coming would likely be singing the Wabash Blues, and for a good reason, if they didn't come out to the club's meeting Monday night at 8 o'clock in the county courtroom. "We'll take 'em back and duck 'em in the Wabash," said Messers Connor, McCarty and Griffith.

The Hoosiers will accept nominations for queen and plan their float in the Fiesta parade, it was announced. "We appeal to their honor and their pride, and if they don't come out we're going to peel the hide—verbally," they said.

Mary Nelson To Be Missouri Float Queen

Mrs. Mary Nelson will represent Missourians as the state queen of the Missouri float in the Top O' Texas Folks Fiesta parade.

The Missouri queen was elected at a meeting of the state club, held Friday night in the district court room.

Plans have been completed for the club to have space in the Southwestern Public Service company building, 205 N. Cuyler, as a place for Missourians to register, and visit during the Fiesta.

Beginning this week a registration desk will be open and a receptionist on duty. It is desired that all Missourians register at this location, regardless of whether they have previously registered or not.

Composing the registration committee are Mrs. Ora Wagner and George F. Hood. Members of the publicity committee include Mrs. Rowena Wasson and Mrs. A. L. Prigmore.

Badges have been distributed to the Missourians and the float committee has reported that the float is nearly completed.

Next meeting of the Missouri club will be on Friday, June 6, at 8 p. m., in the district court room.

Miss Nelson, sophomore favorite at Pampa in 1941 and best girl citizen in junior high in 1940. She was a member of the first string 1941 volleyball team. She is 16.

The Missouri float will be drawn by a pair of long-eared Missouri mules, followed by a houn' dog. Each member has promised to bring one or more Missourians to the next meeting.

Spectacular Jersey Fire Under Control

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 31 (AP)—The U. S. Coast Guard said tonight that a 9:20 p. m. (8:30 CST) spectacular fire in the Erie railroad yards on the Hudson river waterfront had been brought under control after sweeping through two grain elevators and causing heavy damage to a warehouse, railroad equipment and piers during its four hour rampage.

A high official of the Erie who declined to be quoted by name said that a $2,000,000 estimate of damage to the elevators and grain would be "conservative" and indicated the total loss would exceed $2,500,000. At least two men were injured.

The blaze, the second within a week in Jersey City railroad yards and the municipality's biggest fire since 1917, came amid nationwide precautionary measures to safeguard vital defense plants and terminals after reports were received of threatened sabotage during the long Memorial Day week-end.

The fire destroyed the eight-story filled grain elevators, about 20 freight cars, many filled with general merchandise, at least four barges and 400 head of cattle in the Jersey City stockyards south of the rail terminal.

The coast guard said the fire was brought under control when it was confined to a section of the seven-story mid-Hudson warehouse. Police and railroad officials said the warehouse was filled with $25,000,000 worth of home creosote, alcohol, crude rubber and pulpwood.

Flight Scholarship Winners Due To Be Announced Soon

Winners of the 10 free flight scholarships in the Pampa ground school just completed have not been announced but Frank Hall, local instructor, said yesterday he expected to receive the names of the winners early this week.

The final examination was held last Monday night. Mr. Hall called the office of the Civil Aeronautics administration district inspector in Amarillo yesterday but he was out of the city. A representative in the office, however, said the papers should be graded soon.

Seventy persons took the examination, of which 41 were in the section eligible to compete for the free flight scholarships.

Registrations for a new summer school are now being accepted by Jimmie Dodge at the Bus Terminal here.

Mexico Lines Up With U. S.

MEXICO CITY, May 31 (AP)—Asked if Mexico would follow the United States into a war against the Axis powers, President Avila Camacho said tonight it would take whatever measures are necessary to assure its sons a future of honor and independence.

In the most comprehensive statement he has yet made on foreign policy, the president declared in answer to the question asked by Icente Lombardo Toledano, head of the Confederation of Latin workers:

"The collaboration of Mexico and the United States is not the result of a military alliance but of a regional understanding of a defense nature. Thus, if the government of the United States should declare war on any Asiatic or European power, this fact alone would not oblige Mexico to adopt automatically a like attitude."

"But it would be a mistake to think that in the present state of things the destiny of one of the American nations could remain isolated indefinitely from the destiny of the rest of the world," he said.

"Geographically, historically, and logically we form a democratic unit which the dictatorial forces are, undoubtedly, going to try to disrupt in order to obtain a victory which would imply sooner or later the disappearance of the nationalities on which our existence as free and

Farmers Vote In Favor Of Quotas

Wheat farmers of Gray county almost unanimously voted in favor of rigid marketing quotas on this year's wheat crop. The vote in Gray county was 377 for the marketing quota and nine against.

The vote by boxes follows:

Box	For	Against
Pampa	276	7
Grandview	58	1
Laketon	43	1
Total	377	9

Approval by two-thirds of the farmers voting will be required for passage of the law.

Legislation enacted recently authorizes a wheat loan rate of 85 per cent of parity—or about 97 cents a bushel—compared with last year's rate of 56 per cent of parity, or 72 cents a bushel.

FDR Becoming Issue In Senate Campaign

BY DAVE CHEAVENS Associated Press Staff

Substantial evidence that the senatorial campaign was approaching the bare-knuckle stage cropped up in week-end speeches by several top-flight candidates among the field of 29 aspiring to the seat left vacant by the death of Morris Sheppard.

With four weeks remaining before the June 28 special election, there was still plenty of time for name-calling. Thus far the campaign has joggled along on an extraordinarily high value, virtually devoid of personalities.

Very few doubted that Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's intensive week of radio "pre-campaigning," prior to his first open-air rally at Waco Monday night, was in a large part responsible for these first mutterings.

Lyndon Johnson, speaking at Corsicana Friday night, referred directly to the governor.

"How many of you ever heard the governor say he'd fight for Roosevelt, before he asked to go to Washington?" He said at the Navarro county rally.

"Was the Texas governor the only democratic governor in all the United States who, not one time, but several times, refused to speak a word for Franklin D. Roosevelt when he was under attack last September?"

Gerald Mann drew in the governor and at least two of his opponents when he said at Greenville:

"The office of congressman is a defense post. Those congressmen who are closest to and most trusted by the president should be at his side now . . ."

"The office of governor it at this time in a large degree a defense office. A week ago last Monday night the governor, publicly, enumerated the many things he had performed in aiding the national defense program."

Then, after saying everyone who has a place important to the defense program should not leave it, he expressed the opinion that the office of attorney general is not a defense office "but simply the state's law office," and added:

"I was the first candidate in this state to support the defense program."

22 Dead And 30 Missing After Dublin Bombing

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, May 31.—German airmen who went heli-banded to Iraq to bolster the Axis-inspired war against Britain were reported fleeing the country tonight as Iraqi resistance collapsed.

British imperial advance forces entered the disorderly capital. Negotiation of armistice terms for the whole country is under way with the Iraqi commander, General Mowrad Mahmud, and the mayor of Baghdad, Arshad El Umari, British authorities said.

"As between ourselves and the rebels, the whole thing is over," they added.

The mayor, who with a committee of four sought to restore order in Baghdad and put down the wandering band of looters, announced that the people desired Regent Emir Abdull Ilah to return and restore a constitutional government for the peace and independence of Iraq.

The emir was last reported in Iraq, closely following the British march on Baghdad, and may already have returned to his capital.

The pro-German Premier Rashid Ali Al Ghalib, who seized power for the emir April 4 and started fighting the British on May 2, had made good his flight to Iran (P. 2).

BERLIN, May 31.—The Nazi Luftwaffe, bent upon a speedy cleanup of Crete, tonight harassed scattered British forces which the high command said were fleeing the island.

The high command said that the imperial forces had escaped to Gavdos island 25 miles south of Crete, and that these, along with others attempting to get away from southern Crete ports, were under a relentless aerial attack.

Germany's main land forces on Crete were declared to be pushing steadily along the northern coastal plain from the west in pursuit of the British and the Greeks. A juncture was expected shortly with Italian troops moving from the eastern end of the island.

All that remains of the Crete campaign, Bennett has said, is the flight of the British and the Greeks to the southern shore, every mile of the rocky route under the bombing and machine-gunning of the air force.

The Fiesta band will be directed by Ken Bennett, band director at Baker school. Bennett is anxious to have at least 75 members in the band.

Legislature In Doldrums

AUSTIN, May 31 (AP)—The Texas legislature is in the doldrums, a remarkable condition for this stage of a general session.

The session started fast in January with a flood of recommendations from Governor W. Lee O'Daniel and bills to carry out those recommendations and many other ideas not originating with the governor.

For four months the legislative life of business ebbed and flowed, mostly the latter, and the time seemed too short to do all proposed for doing. At peaks the pace was grueling.

Yet, with the normal period for adjourning at hand, activity has slowed perceptibly. To say the legislature is marking time might be extreme. But it isn't rushing.

Most of the important legislation has been enacted although some remains.

The extremely important elementary education, departmental, vocational education, and rural all appropriation bills still must be acted upon. Except for the elementary bill, they are being worked over by conference committees.

Bills to renew and perhaps remake the proration laws and to dispose of a surplus in the county road bond indebtedness fund likewise await final action.

The money measures may be reported back to the houses very soon and if so can be passed quickly. The proration and road bond bills also can be speeded to the governor in short time.

sovereign peoples are based. "Only those countries which know how to assume in time, and courageously, the corresponding political responsibilities will save themselves from the totalitarian wreckage.

"If necessary, the government of Mexico will take whatever measures are necessary to assure its sons a future of honor and independence. It will do so with the backing of the nation."

In answer to other questions, the president declared Mexico has no secret pacts with the United States and does not intend to cede any territory to any foreign power for airfields, naval bases, or for any other purpose.

Mexico has agreed, however, for American war planes to fly over or to land in Mexican territory.

Darlan Denounces Great Britain

(By The Associated Press)

VICHY, Unoccupied France, May 31.—Vice Premier Admiral Jean Darlan denounced Britain today, evidently with the approval of Chief of State Marshal Petain, for what he called piratical attacks on French shipping.

Coinciding with Darlan's statement, made before French editors in Nazi-occupied Paris, it was reported that the French North African Port of Sfax had been attacked by British planes for a third time and the 3,312-ton Italian freighter Florida II set afire.

"I remain decided, more than ever," Darlan said, "to force respect for France's right to free use of her ports and her routes of commerce."

Ranging himself squarely on the German side in his expose of French-British relations, the No. 2 man in the Vichy regime asserted that "even in the improbable case of British victory, or in a triumphant Anglo-Saxon world, France would be only a dominion of second order." But, he declared "it means little if England treats us as a continental Ireland or even as a colony, because I intend to act in such a way that France retakes her place as a power in Europe and the world. That means she must participate in construction of the new order."

race for the United States senate. I am the first candidate in this race tonight and I shall still be the first candidate when the votes are counted June 23.

Martin Dies told a Waco audience he was for Roosevelt's aid to Britain and defense programs, adding: "But I don't agree with him 100 per cent on everything."

"The man you elect to the senate will go to the second highest place in the nation," he went on. "You wouldn't want a man in the senate who would 'yes' the president all the time. x x x"

"Many of you have sons in uniform. What would you think if the captain who led them was a man of no military experience, who depended on a hillbilly band to get his position?"

Both Mann and Johnson were guests of honor at Athens' Old Fiddlers' contest, but stayed away from politics in their speeches. Mann gave a detailed history of the stringed instrument that was so much in evidence at the east Texas fiddle festival.

Names of the 29 candidates, including two Republicans, one Independent and one Communist, were certified to county clerks for printing on the official ballot. It was one of the largest fields ever to enter the lists for one job in Texas' political lists.

ing control measures for a major crop produced principally outside the south. Quotas have already been voted for action and tobacco.

AAA confidence in the outcome was pinned largely upon the fact that a government price-supporting loan program for wheat could be continued only if quotas were approved. Legislation enacted recently authorizes a wheat loan rate of 85 per cent of parity—or about 97 cents a bushel—compared with last year's rate of 56 per cent or 72 cents a bushel.

(Parity is a term used to describe prices which would give farm products as much purchasing power as they had in a base period, 1909-14.) Largely because of prospects for such a loan, wheat has been selling close to a dollar a bushel at Chicago. Officials declared defeat of the quotas and the consequent discontinuing of the loan program would result in a sharp drop in prices, possibly between 35 and 40 cents a bushel.

U. S. Promises To Move Quick In China

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP)—The United States promised today to "move rapidly" when peace is restored in China to give up century-old extraterritorial and other special rights there.

Secretary of State Hull at the same time served indirect notice on Japan that the United States still claims for itself the right of "equality of treatment and non-discrimination" in its trade with China.

Hull added pointedly, in a letter to Dr. Quo Tai-Chi, new Chinese foreign minister: "The government of the United States is dedicated to the support of the principles in which the people of this country believe. Without reservation, we are confident that the cause to which we are committed along with China and other countries—the cause of national security, of fair dealing among nations and of peace with justice—will prevail."

He wrote Dr. Quo, who is en route through the United States from London to take up his new post in China, that his government "expects when conditions of peace again prevail to move rapidly by process of orderly negotiation and agreement with the Chinese government" to relinquish the last of certain rights which this country, like other powers, has long possessed in China under agreements for "extraterritorial jurisdiction and related practices."

Winant To Carry Message To London

BY RICHARD L. TURNER

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP)—Informed Washington opinion is that Ambassador John G. Winant's hurried visit to this country is not so much the purpose of bringing information to President Roosevelt as of carrying highly important and secret information back to London.

The timing of his visit would suggest that such was the case. It followed immediately upon Mr. Roosevelt's Tuesday night speech, an address which stated American policy toward England and the war in positive terms and spoke vigorously but mysteriously of new measures to be attempted upon the Atlantic.

At a press conference the next day, the chief executive made it more than clear that he considers his plans for the assuring the safe delivery of American supplies to England a military secret of the most important character. When asked what he proposed to do, he told a reporter that that was what Adolph Hitler would like to know.

Ambassador Winant heard the president's speech by short wave radio early Wednesday morning in London, he revealed upon his arrival in New York yesterday. Plans for his trip to the United States had already been made and he did not wait even to ascertain London's reaction to the address.

Senator Houston Arrives In Capital

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP)—Andrew Jackson Houston, arrived in the capital today to carve his own niche in history as the oldest person ever to enter the United States senate.

Appointed as interim senator from Texas, Senator Houston at 86 years is taking a seat occupied by his illustrious father, Sam Houston, in 1846, or five years short of a century ago.

Tired by the 1,500-mile train trip from La Porte, Tex., he asked newspapermen to delay interviews until Monday when he will take his oath of office in the senate chamber.

The new senator will have the distinction of being youngest senator in service and eldest in age, taking the latter honor from Senator Carter Glass (D-Va.) who is 82.

U. S. Official To Find Out Why Nazis Are Holding Drivers

(By The Associated Press)

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, at the French Frontier, May 31.—A United States embassy official said today he would go Monday to Biarritz, in occupied France, to find out why 21 American ambulance drivers were detained while 119 other American survivors from the Egyptian liner Zamzam were permitted to enter Spain en route to Lisbon.

The ambulance men were confined to a hotel in Biarritz. A representative of the Berlin foreign office ordered them held, saying their cases would be decided in Berlin.

The Americans who crossed over, including two ambulance drivers who were released by mistake because their passports were marked "student," reported that Germans referred repeatedly to "bad treatment" they said was given German sailors arrested in American ports.

Reaching Spain among the survivors of the ship, torpedoed by a German raider in the south Atlantic, were six pregnant American women. W. H. Edwards and his wife, Edna, missionaries of Detroit, Mich., who were en route to their post in the Belgian Congo, also were aboard the British liner Athenia when it was sunk the first week of the war.

They said the sinking of the Zamzam was "more pleasant," since she was hit at dawn instead of at night. The men, forced to leave their baggage in Biarritz, said the ship was unable to notify the Germans of her identity because the wireless was damaged by the first shell.

Accompanying Houston here were his daughters, Misses Margarite and Adriane, and his physician, Dr. DeJano R. Aves.

The new senator, a Democrat, announced full support for aid to Britain.

HITLER

eastern conflict once again is a war in search of a battlefield.

With the strange battle of Crete all over except for the German-Italian shouting, the mop-up and Britain's formal acknowledgement of another great defeat, high strategists of both sides, it can be taken for granted, are looking around for the likeliest zone of offense and defense.

And Iraq? By all indications last (Sat.) night, appeared to be "it."

The British imperial command knew that it was an impelling factor in the "speed" (one month) with which British middle eastern forces cleaned up the Iraq war within a war before the Axis could, or wished, to give all-out aid to the anti-British dictator-premier, Rashid Ali Al Gailani.

The British campaign in Iraq was capped yesterday by a plea for peace from a Baghdad committee which took the reins of Iraq government upon the flight of Rashid Ali into the neighboring Iraq.

The British indicated that an armistice had been or would be promptly granted, even as a Palestine motorized force drove into the riot-ridden capital.

Axis aid for Rashid Ali and his military cohorts had been too little and, unless the Axis can now turn the tables, too late.

The offensive with which Germany blasted Crete by air and then saved the British imperial defenders with an unprecedented air-borne invasion virtually had sidetracked the help for which the pro-Axis Rashid Ali had appealed.

Two weeks ago the signs forecast a great German aerial invasion into Iraq by way of neighboring French-mandated Syria. But the trickle of German warplanes and technicians remained just a trickle.

The latest report—from Cairo—was that these same warplanes were flying out of Iraq.

For the last 12 days the Germans, and more recently the Italians, have been preoccupied with the conquest of Crete. In Iraq, British troops, already there by treaty with Rashid Ali's predecessor in power, mopped up the Iraq forces.

The biggest crumb of comfort—if any—falling to the British from the battle of Crete is that the die-hard defense of that strategic Greek island, being costing the Germans heavily in man and planes, may have saved British positions in Iraq.

That land of forbidding desert and scrub country, as rich in Biblical lore as in coveted oil, is a path to the Suez canal.

The problem of defending it now is principally one of swift pacification of native forces and solidification of defense lines before the Luftwaffe, once it has had a breathing spell, can, as the military men say, stage another "surprise" or before Germany can establish a land army in Iraq.

The future of the Suez canal, lifeline link of the Alexandria naval base of Britain's remaining navy power in the eastern Mediterranean, may depend on how fast and how well Britain can consolidate her Iraq and adjoining middle east positions.

The Axis foothold on Crete—the Nazis have called it an unsinkable aircraft carrier—is a stern challenge to the British fleet and the whole framework of British power in the middle east. It is two hours by air from Suez—the same from Alexandria.

Crete is a potential stepping stone to Italian north Africa, being 200 miles from Libya. If the Luftwaffe can control the air Britain may be compelled to rely on submarines and planes alone to keep heavy reinforcements from Axis forces in Libya and Egypt where, on the other flank, they threaten Alexandria and Suez. Britain lost heavily in surface ships in the defense of Crete.

All three of Britain's now pivotal Mediterranean bases, Malta, Cyprus and Alexandria, are within easy Luftwaffe range. Gibraltar, itself the target of an incipient threat from Spain or Spanish Morocco, does not figure immediately in the eastern Mediterranean situation. It would figure, however, once attacked, for it guards the western entrance to that land-locked sea.

As though feeling each other out for the aerial struggle to come, large German and British formations tangled yesterday over the eastern Mediterranean. Two Heinkels plunged into the sea in this battle and, the RAF reported, "many" others were so badly damaged they probably didn't make home base.

British observers who like to call the resistance at Crete a diversion of Germany's Drang Nach Osten (march to the east), said in summary that it permitted:

1. Liquidation of the Iraq warfare.
2. Final windup of the Ethiopian campaign.
3. Tightened preparations to meet the Axis threat from Egypt's western desert and Libya.
4. Rest, reorganization and re-equipment of British imperial forces evacuated from Greece.

Turkey, still a paper ally of the British, or French-mandated Syria, or both, seemed to be in the middle of the Axis squeeze on Suez. When Germany gets ready to move, there undoubtedly will be pressure on Syria and perhaps Turkey for land right-of-way.

Full German use of Syria as a gateway to the middle east likely would smash completely the already tenuous relations between Britain and Vichy France.

From the French side the strain was heightened by reports of three bombing attacks by the British on the Tunisian harbor of Sfax, in French North Africa. The British ostensibly were attacking Italian ships but French ships also have been hit.

France's No. 2 man, Admiral Darlan, an old seadog who will never forget the pasting the British gave the French navy last July at Oran after the French surrender, followed up these reports by calling Britain a pirate.

Vice Premier Darlan, ranging himself on the German side, asserted that "even in the improbable case of British victory" or in a triumphant Anglo-Saxon world, France would be only a dominion of second order.

I intend to act in such a way that France retains her place as a power in Europe and the continent. That means she must participate in construction of the new order."

He said the British blockade was driving France to famine while the British, in "a war of piracy" had taken 143 French ships to replace her own tonnage losses. "These things, Darlan laid before an assembly of editors from the occupied zone before he returned to Vichy from Paris and the latest of his collaboration visits.

The total of known dead in a raid on Dublin, early Saturday reached 22, while 30 were reported missing and possibly as many as 200 more suffered injuries. Prime Minister Eamon De Valera visited the damaged zones and authorities took away bomb fragments for examination without commenting on the possible identity of the bombing planes.

The Japanese press launched a new and vigorous attack on United States foreign policy, charging that the United States was influencing the Netherlands government in connection with the Netherlands East Indies trade.

County Poison Mixing Station To Re-Open

Prevalence of cut worms has necessitated the re-opening of the poison mixing station County Agent Ralph R. Thomas revealed Saturday. The station, located in southwest Pampa, will be opened Monday morning.

Farmers will have to mix their own batches of poison brain, under supervision of Charlie Mullen.

Farmers are asked to get their poison early and stop the spread of the cut worms.

Flashes Of Life

MANCHESTER, Tenn., May 31 (AP)—Habit had Private Edward Hoffman of St. Louis on K. P. duty today.

Wearing forbidden civilian clothing, he wandered down Manchester's main street and passed remarkably well as an apparent tourist until he saluted an officer.

ANNISTON, Ala., May 31 (AP)—An Atlanta man wrote Circuit Judge Lamar Field asking the court to prevent his wife from obtaining a divorce. He said she could not read or write "or even tell the time on a clock, so, judge, your honor, she has no grounds for divorce."

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 31 (AP)—When Jimmy Couch, 12, suffered a broken arm, he permitted friends to photograph the cast, charging a nickel for initials and a dime for a full name. He thus raised $2.25 for the American Committee for Defense of British homes.

Asheville, N. C., May 31 (AP)—An arrow landed on J. Colvin White's front porch. Attached was this message embellished with skull and bones: "Leave $18 under your garbage can—or else—at 7 p. m. Do not call police."

Then came another arrow with a similar message. Then another, and another, until it got monotonous. And nobody came to the garbage can.

Jap Paper Carries Attack On U. S.

(By The Associated Press)

TOKYO, Sunday, June 1—The Times Advertiser, under Japanese foreign office control, carried a double-barreled attack on United States policies today under the headings "Influence on the Dutch" and "Unnatural Restriction."

Referring to Japanese negotiations with the Netherlands East Indies, the editorial said, "It is obvious that the Dutch government in London and the Island administration are not acting alone. They are subject to the persuasive influence of the United States and Britain.

The Times Advertiser referred to extension of export control regulations to the Philippines and said: "Japan is not at war with the United States, and a prohibition of supplies in the circumstances is highly provocative."

The Japanese navy minister in a war summary Saturday said Chinese forces had received 100 warplanes from the United States in February, citing this as the reason for increased Japanese air raids on the Burma Road.

If the boundary between states is the middle of a stream, it does not change when the channel is shifted by the works of man.

Most Cotton Growers Sign U. S. Program

Most of Gray county cotton growers have signed their intention to participate forms in the federal supplementary cotton program, the county farm agent's office said Saturday. The office estimated that 98 per cent of the farmers qualified had indicated their intention to join the movement.

June 14 is the last day on which Texas cotton farmers planning to participate in the federal supplementary cotton program can sign their forms.

B. F. Vance, state AAA administrative officer in charge, points out that producers failing to sign will not be eligible to earn cotton stamps or to earn food production and storage payments under the AAA program, he said.

The supplementary cotton program, a joint effort of three agencies of the United States department of agriculture—the Texas A and M. College extension service, the Surplus Marketing administration, and the Agricultural Adjustment administration—is designed to encourage voluntary reduction in the acreage planted to cotton in 1941 by payment of cotton stamps to farms on which such reduction is made. The stamps can be exchanged for finished cotton goods.

Under the supplementary program, farmers on those farms qualifying for cotton stamps, can each earn an additional $3 payment for meeting specified food production and storage practices.

Man Slightly Burned In Curtain Blaze

Fires in Pampa run in cycles of three. But it took a call Friday night and another Saturday morning to round out the May cycle.

The cycle started in February, and each succeeding month saw the number of fires divisible by three, ending in May with nine.

On Friday night the department was called to the 300 block on West Foster avenue. Firemen discovered steam from a cleaning plant the cause of the alarm.

On Saturday morning the firemen were called to the W. C. deCordova home at 1013 N. Charles street, where a curtain had caught fire. Mr. deCordova's father, W. C. deCordova, Sr., received minor burns his hands trying to extinguish the blaze. Little damage was reported.

100 Boys Sign Up For Camp Ki-o-Wah

The second week of Camp Ki-O-Wah, official camp of the Adobe Walls Boy Scout council, will open today with nearly 100 boys registered.

The 1941 camping period began last Sunday with 63 boys registered. A third week of camp has been assured and enough boys may register for two or three more weeks. "Summer camp will last as long as there are enough boys registered to warrant the carrying out of the program," Executive Fred Roberts announced yesterday. "Boys should register immediately at the office in the city hall."

J. H. Duncan of LeFors is camp director.

Asbestos Suits London Firefighters

New Surplus Food List Announced

First announcement of surplus foods available for June, since the food stamp plan was started in Gray county a half-month ago, was made Saturday by Robert M. Moss, stamp plan representative from Amarillo.

By "surplus foods" is meant foods available at local stores in exchange for blue surplus food stamps.

Fresh cabbage and snap beans have been added to the list of foods which will be available nationally during June, while butter and fresh carrots, obtainable during May in all areas, are not included on the June list.

With these revisions, the complete list of blue stamp foods for June in all stamp plan areas, is as follows: fresh grapefruit, oranges, apples, cabbage, snap beans, Irish potatoes, raisins, pork lard, all pork (except that cooked or packed in metal or glass containers), corn meal, shell eggs, dried prunes, hominy (corn) grits, dry edible beans, wheat flour, and whole wheat (graham) flour.

Nearly Half Of Cases On District Court Docket Are Divorce Cases

There are 200 cases listed on the court settings, of which nearly half are divorce suits.

Grand jurors will report tomorrow morning, and the first panel of 40 petit jurors on June 9.

There were 23 locations promised for the display of exhibits for the Top O' Texas Folks Fiesta, June 12, 13, and 14. Dr. Frank Kelley, exhibits committee chairman, said Saturday.

Pleas To Eliminate Highway Bottlenecks Heard By Commission

AUSTIN, May 31 (AP)—Pleas for elimination of traffic bottlenecks to augment defense activity took the spotlight today at a hearing before the Texas Highway commission.

The officials were urged to complete the Evangeline highway in southeast Texas in order to facilitate army maneuvers in that area and to eliminate congestion caused by shipbuilding and other defense work in Orange, Beaumont and Port Arthur.

Construction of an eight-mile stretch of Highway 36 in Hamilton county was outlined as necessary to expedite military movements to Camp Bowie.

County Judge J. B. Pool of Hamilton said the uncompleted gap now "bottlenecks all traffic from Hillsboro and east which attempts to move to Brownwood."

It was estimated the highway from Beaumont to Vidor, opening the Evangeline route to Texas motorists all the way to New Orleans, would cost approximately $2,500,000 and would reduce the distance between Beaumont and New Orleans by 41 miles.

The near bank of the Ohio river bounds Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. Hence no part of the river lies in the three states.

Oil Industry Plans Full Cooperation With Harold Ickes

TULSA, Okla., May 31 (AP)—Statements from leaders indicated tonight that Secretary Ickes, the new petroleum coordinator for national defense, would have full co-operation from the $10,000,000,000 oil industry in the effort to adjust petroleum supplies to the nation's needs.

It was generally agreed that a transportation bottleneck caused by a recent transfer of oil tankers to Britain brought about the Ickes appointment. Oil men contend that the industry can supply any conceivable demand for its products, even in wartime.

"This is an emergency action," said Russell B. Brown, general counsel for the Independent Petroleum Association of America, "and is taken with the apparent intent of insuring that no friction or lack of coordination will be permitted to stop the flow of this important commodity to its most needed point of consumption."

"For this emergency, co-operation would seem essential and every agency in the oil producing states and the industry will no doubt respond to this situation now confronting us. The President will find the petroleum industry ready."

Oil leaders here privately expressed disappointment but withheld formal comment pending a study of what effect the appointment will have on the operation of the industry.

At Fort Worth, however, Charles F. Roeser, former president of the I. P. A., declared himself heartily in favor of the selection of Ickes for the job.

Thrill In Preparedness

It is well known that when people start singing "another little drink won't do us any harm," they have already drunk too much.

In this rush for natural armament and help to Britain, when so many billion dollars are necessarily handled like loose change, there is a tendency to think that another little billion is all right.

Yet the effort should be made, in a generous but keen spirit. And most Americans will probably agree that greater savings than any yet proposed could be made in the fields where federal benevolence was distributed so generously during the hard years.

Justice And Mercy

The problem presented by the peculiar sect known as Jehovah's Witnesses, whose children are taught to refuse to salute the national flag in school, has met with various attempts at solution, none final.

It is encouraging to see that one attempt at solution has been blocked in the courts. It was a bad solution. A court at Nashua, New Hampshire, sentenced three school children to a reformatory for school "delinquency" growing out of this offense.

It is highly unlikely that sending children to a reformatory for complying with religious scruples taught them by their parents would ever solve anything. The state supreme court apparently felt that way, for it reversed the sentence. Within the limits of mercy thus assured by the court, the local school authorities may now seek their own solutions, which are almost certain to be, if not completely satisfactory, at least better than the reformatory.

Behind The News

WASHINGTON, May 29—Romance comes to Washington about as often as to any other city of its size—but rare are the stories like this one, involving a newspaper man and a movie star.

It is half Japanese doesn't mean that he isn't an American. The fact that he works for Domei—the Japanese news agency—doesn't mean that he isn't American. Clarke was born in Moline, Ill. His mother was Caucasian-American. His father was Japanese and probably would have been American, too, if it hadn't been for the immigration laws.

About eight or nine years ago, Clarke was ordered back to Japan and for six years he pounded out Occidental news for Oriental newspapers. Although he had been born, reared, schooled and had received all his cub reporting training in the United States, he liked his job.

After a while he met a girl. In nearly all of Japan she was known as Chieko Susuga—the "Young Lady of the Bamboo Everlasting." She was a stage and screen star. She was a sort of Bette Davis to Japanese films. Clarke and Chieko fell in love. The barriers of birth and different educations broke down. It wasn't very long before Moline, Ill., and the Hollywood of Japan were joined by a matrimonial pledge.

Then Clarke was ordered back to the United States. For eight or nine months, Chieko Susuga pounded her little fists on the doors of the American embassy and tried to get a visa to come to the United States. Why? they asked. Well, oh, well, because she wanted to study, explained the shy little Oriental lady, who didn't understand Occidental ways. She didn't get to first base. Probably with tears spreading the ink spots, she wrote Clarke: "They won't let me come to America."

It was that that Kawakami went into action. He moved heaven and Hull, and the secretary of state put it over in short order. Little Chieko got her visa. She got passage to the United States. The date for the wedding was set.

But the rocky road to romance was just beginning. While Chieko was on the high sea, Clarke Kawakami got a questionnaire. He read it over and over. And all that he could make out of it was that if he was physically fit, he would have to report within a few months for induction into the United States army. Clarke Kawakami was and still is physically fit. By summer, he probably will be marching with a gun over his shoulder—earning all of $21 a month.

What can I do? he asked the other day. "I can't go on working for or drawing salary from the Japanese news agency while I'm serving in the United States army. I'll have to resign."

"But I am not rich. My father is not rich. Even in Japan I could not support my wife on $21 a month. She is willing to marry a newspaper man. And that is something very considerable, because in Japan she makes more than the prime minister. But how could she live on the salary of a draftee—$21 a month?"

So the romance of Clarke Kawakami, the Domei

Common Ground

This column contends there can be no satisfactory progress until we measure the shares of each man by the common yardstick of the God-given equal right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

WHOSE IDEA OF EQUAL FREEDOM IS TO BE AUTHORITY?

A Portales, New Mexico, reader asks this question, "Whose idea of equal freedom, then, is to be final authority?"

Equal is impersonal and eternal. It is a principle or law that always existed. It is not the idea of any person, or group of persons. It is not a man-made law any more than the law of gravity is a man-made law, or changes with the ages or the wishes, or efforts of men.

But all people, not just part of our people, or the majority, or those permitted to join and stay in a labor union, or some corporations, must always have the right to help keep values or freedom equal, if we are to have justice and a free economy, and true democracy. That is, every person must have the right to reduce the wage, or the profit on any service he thinks is too high; that he thinks is unequal to the rewards for other services. The purpose of a true democratic government is to prevent any man or group of men from interfering with others from having this right.

If a man cannot understand "equal," then he has no ability to compare or to reason. The Portales reader also asks, "Must not equal freedom simply mean equal opportunity?"

That depends upon what is meant by opportunity. If, by opportunity, is meant equal probability of accomplishment, then it does not mean equal opportunity. But if it means equal rights to try to create, then it means equal opportunity.

Every man's probabilities of accomplishing things from day to day are not the same. They are not equal. They are either greater or less. But each person should every day have an equal right to try to accomplish an objective.

Inferring Capital Has Special Privileges The reader infers that the employer now has rights that the worker does not have by asking the following question: "Does equal freedom give to one group of men, the stockholders in a corporation let us say, the right to pool their resources and to bargain collectively for greater returns on their cash investment while it denies the same right to another group of men who invest only their labor in the same enterprise?"

Equal freedom gives neither the capitalists nor the laborers the right to interfere in any way with other people's right to use their capital or their labor to create wealth. Employers now have no such right as organized labor demands.

The Sherman Anti-Trust law denies capital the right to combine for restraint of trade but the Clayton Amendment to the Sherman Anti-Trust law permits labor to do this. This is not equal freedom or rights to try. It is discriminatory. Laws like these lead to unemployment and finally to dictatorship.

The same reader contends that justice is never exact and mathematical.

Where he errs, it seems to me, is that he seems to think that because man's conceptions of justice change, that for this reason justice or equality of rights also change. But justice is mathematical. It never changes. Would the reader contend that equal is not the same today as it was a thousand years ago?

And if the contributor thinks that man can make, at will, justice and truth and right and wrong, then of course, there can be no starting point to measure right or wrong or justice or equality of right.

When we are measuring distance, we must have some unit; or norm of distance by which to measure. When we are measuring justice, we must have some impersonal, eternal unit of justice by which to measure.

Draws Conclusions Like an Atheist His conclusions are like an atheist—that there are no eternal truths, no everlasting principles, no eternal order in the universe.

Bathing—the practical tub and shower kind—also has become more popular for screen scenes than it has been since Cecil De Mille first glorified plumbing. Betty Grable takes a shower in "A Yank in the R.A.P." and Carole Landis does likewise in "Dance Hall."

Dorothy Lamour, who's doing her arsing, though she's not doing it, to dunk in a soapy tub for "Aloma of the South Seas." Actually, the sarong (which she also wears) is less concealing than the suds. And maybe you've noticed that in "The Great American Broadcast," Alice Faye makes an appearance in a bath towel.

Loretta Young, who hasn't gone leggy in years, emerges in a ballet costume for "Tonight Belongs to You." Nobody will notice Martha Raye's mump when she wears a hula costume in "Navy Blues." In the same picture Ann Sheridan practices inshore and a sort of nautical bolero. Even Sonja Henie, whose figure is familiar enough in practical skating costumes, goes a bit daring in "Sun Valley Serenade."

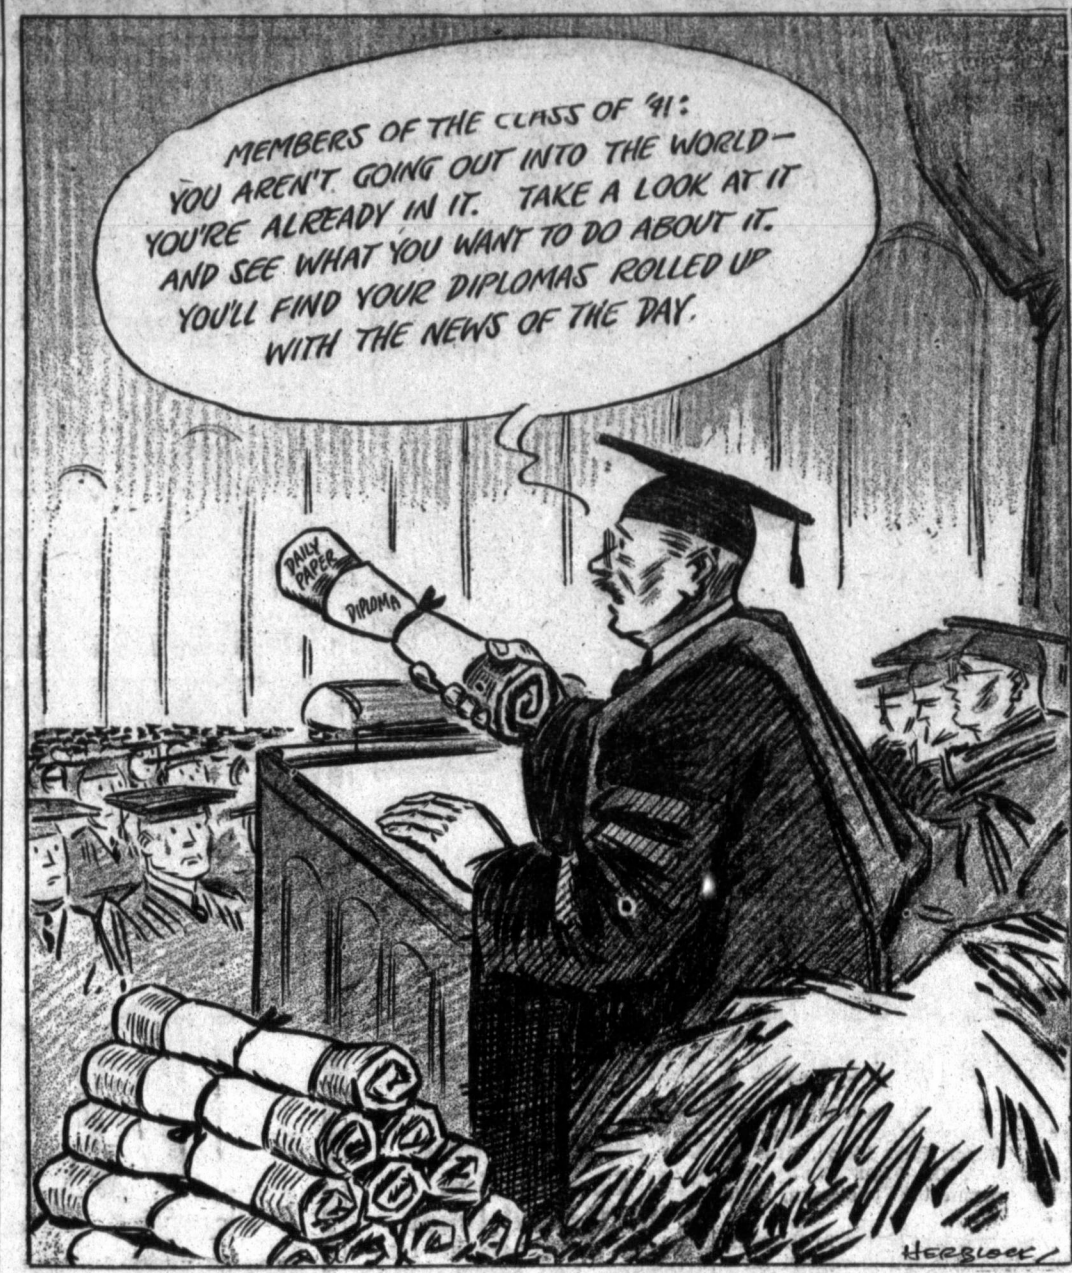

We have made laws that were not equal between the employer and the employee. We have made laws that give the employe rights without responsibilities. Neither the employer nor the employe should have rights without responsibilities.

We can prove anything to be right or just, if we say there is no eternal truth, no eternal justice, no eternal order in the universe. Then man could establish his own norm, of measure, of justice and make anything appear just. There can be no intelligent discussion with a man who says there is no eternal truth, no eternal justice, that equal changes with time. Then we have words without meaning. Then there can be only confusion and eventually anarchy, with this idea that justice is changeable.

newspaper man who happened to be born American; and Chieko Susuga, the Bette Davis of Tokyo, hangs in the air.

I am sorry that I cannot put a "lived-happily-ever-after" on this romance. But that's the way it is. By the time you read this Chieko will have been told of her fiance's dilemma. But you can't expect a little lady who can't speak English and doesn't know Occidental ways to solve a problem that has completely stumped a young man from Moline, Ill. At this writing, it looks like another instance where romance will have to wait on world affairs and the Young Lady of the Bamboo Everlasting will have to bide her time while an otherwise willing rookie does his year of military service for Uncle Sam.

COMMENCEMENT TALK

Around Hollywood

By LUCIE NEVILLE NEA Service Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD, May 31—Not since they were beginners in Hollywood, where the uniform of apprenticeship is a bathing suit, have featured actresses displayed so many legs as now. Time was when leg showings increased in proportion to dramatic prominence, and even Legs Dietrich withdrew into long, languorous gowns.

The movie-makers figured that something had to be done in the way of revelation, what with the censors' sternness regarding necklines and outlines. The glamor merchants also figured that the Hays Office couldn't very well ban bathing suits in which the very best people expose themselves.

So now we've got legs, even in the formal evening shorts introduced by Paulette Goddard. Madeleine Carroll, suitably clad, is about to be towed around under water by Stirling Hayden. Olivia de Havilland, who was the cinematic soul of modesty until she turned flirt in "One Sunday Afternoon," now goes swimming for "Hold Back the Dawn," in an undergarment so flimsy that it had to be supplemented by a flesh-colored suit.

BATHING The practical tub and shower kind—also has become more popular for screen scenes than it has been since Cecil De Mille first glorified plumbing. Betty Grable takes a shower in "A Yank in the R.A.P." and Carole Landis does likewise in "Dance Hall."

When a former model named June Francis came to Hollywood recently, she was introduced to Victor Orsatti, an agent who might have been helpful to her career. However, they didn't reach a business agreement; just chatted a while. Soon afterward Miss Francis became the client of another agent, got a contract at Paramount and changed her name to Katharine Booth.

Introduced a second time to Orsatti as Miss Booth, she mumbled her real name to remind him they'd met before. He didn't understand; thought the girls were roommates, or something. Next day, Orsatti, a bachelor who really gets around, telephoned Katharine Booth for a date. "Incidentally, I've got a friend," he added, "and I wish you'd bring June Francis for him." She promised.

So it was a three-sided date that evening with the men feeling pretty silly and Miss Booth having the time of her life.

People You Know

By Archer Fulfillingm

People who have been knowing Carrie Jean Speed every since she was a little girl have not been recognizing her lately. It was that way yesterday when I went into the cleaning shop where she works. I told her that I had a pair of trousers there, and I was at once troubled by the thought that there was something about her that looked familiar. Then I said bluntly but with apologetic determination, "What's your name?" And she said, "Carrie Jean Speed." Then I knew it was Carrie Jean, and I felt silly because for five years I saw Carrie Jean at the swimming pool every day each summer, and besides I used to live on her street and in her house. But Carrie Jean said that I didn't need to feel so badly because a lot of people have not been recognizing her lately. All my life I have heard of people who changed at certain periods so much you couldn't recognize them but this was the first time I ever saw it happen. Maybe it's the way she fixes her hair, or maybe it's because she has lost some weight, or maybe it was the first time I ever noticed she is beautiful—anyway, I nominate her right now for the queen of some float in the Fiesta parade.

Speaking of the parade, you're going to see one of the prettiest horses you ever saw riding behind the Missouri float. The horse will be a large palomino, and astride it will be Nobby Welton, the owner. Mr. Welton who lives three miles east of Pampa on the Canadian highway, has always lent his wagon to the Jaycees for the Fiesta floats, and this year the Missouri float will be built on his wagon. Mr. Walton is a native of Missouri, and his wife is a native of Winchester, Ky.

Be sure to read the story entitled "Boneyard" by Madame Stella in The Looking Glass column to the right of this space. It is about an old family horse, and because when I read it I remembered when our Old Matfield, and almost the same thing happened. Stella's story today is a masterpiece of Americana, and is written sympathetically, economically. I wouldn't take anything for this story.

Mobile Society Girls Organize Dance 'Companies'

MOBILE, Ala., May 31 (AP)—Young selective service soldiers and national guardsmen from Camp Shelby, Miss., and Fort McClellan, Ala., are being entertained here at Saturday night dances by 400 Mobile society girls, organized as "dancers for democracy."

The girls are divided in three battalions with "commanding officers" (chaperones), who announce all functions in communiques and accompany the girls to and from dances.

Hometown swains are forced to take a back seat during week-ends. The experiment has attracted attention of army authorities and the United Service organizations.

THE LOOKING GLASS

THE BONEYARD

By Stella Hall

Big Bill Thompson was the best horse doctor in the Little Pasture. He knew by some instinct what to do for colic, bloating, fistula and heaves. People came from miles around to get him to doctor their horses. They brought wild colts to him to break and horses to be shod. He had a way with horses.

But there were times when Big Bill couldn't do no more. Age quietly overtaken him. And now it was old Prince's turn to go. Prince was practically a member of the family. The children had learned to ride on his back from the biggest to the baby. He was a friendly human sort of horse. He liked to hang around the barn when all the other horses had gone to the pasture. He knew the kids would pet him and feed him oats.

Now Prince was old. He had trouble getting up when he got down. He couldn't eat. It was time to die. Big Bill had a place over in the pasture he called the boneyard. If a horse or a cow was going to die he got him over near the boneyard and later he shoved the body in a big ravine there and caved in some of the wall to protect the cadaver from the buzzards and the coyotes. It wasn't a pleasant sight to see a dead animal out on the pasture with the maggots swarming in and out of the bloated flesh. Big Bill didn't like sights like that. Even after he had interred the animal the coyotes sometimes dug them up and dragged them around and the buzzards settled for their melancholy feast. There were bones all around the ravine, white, brittle, broken bones. Big Bill thought to put out Prince in the very deepest part of the cave and cover him well, because Prince was like a part of the family.

One night just after milking time Big Bill put a halter around Prince's neck and they went slowly down through the pasture. Big Bill took him down in the ravine. He brought him a big bucket of water. It would be shady there and cool.

The next day Prince was not in the boneyard. Big Bill knew he'd never get up again. Least, couple of times they had to raise him with a crowbar. He thought by night maybe the old horse would be dead. He'd go over there and get Si Perkins to help him shovel in. He never asked any help from his boys, in births or deaths; they were just thirteen and fourteen and it wasn't right for children to see too much.

But that night when Big Bill called the cows up from the pasture he saw the gaunt, white old horse cowering painfully up the path. The kids all went to meet him and guided him into the barn. They scattered some fresh straw and Prince sank down. He put his nose out in a friendly way. He was a part of the family and he had come home to die among his relations.

TEX'S TOPICS

By Tex DeWesse

FRANK Monroe, the junior high school principal, ready to start off on eight weeks of vacation and study, concurs in the opinion that Uncle Sam will be in the shooting war before his return. That was a Memorial Day thought by Mr. Monroe. A lot of others feel the same way. A very good friend of ours expressed the opinion Friday noon that four years from now Charles A. Lindbergh will be a greater national hero than he was when he soloed at Atlantic. That's because of Lindbergh's present views which, to many, are decidedly unpopular at the moment. Cutting ours, with whom we disagree on this one, believes Lindbergh is much more far-sighted today than the average "hysterical" war-minded American.

Several Pampa Kiwanians are a little worried because the time was cut short and they didn't get to express their views on last Friday's program topic, "What I Would Do If I Were President of the United States." What that we personally want to get into that argument, but we suggest that the program chairman continue that discussion in round-table style at next Friday's meeting to take care of some of the boys who still have something on their chest that they'd like to get off.

INCIDENTALLY, City Recorder Dan McGrew says that if he were president he would resign and turn the job over to somebody who knew how to run it. That's not such a dumb suggestion as it might sound at first listening. Rev. Robert Boshen, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, made one of the finest Memorial Day addresses at Friday's Kiwanis luncheon that we've ever heard. He said a great deal, and he consumed only six minutes in saying it. There should be more public addresses like that. Too many public speakers have nothing to say and take two hours to say it.

"How about the denials of Sen. Pepper and Dorothy Thompson that the United States is bombing everybody?" asks a reader of this space. It has been truly said: "Hell hath no fury like a noncombustant." Those with fixed mechanical hearts usually have mechanical brains. It is wise to view with suspicion the man who is constantly oozing sweetness and light. We like a person who is human enough to get burned up once in a while. One with the nerve to criticize if he thinks the criticism just.

JUST because you have a nice, soft job doesn't mean that you should lie down on it. "French Drinking Increases"—headline. We'll admit they have a lot of trouble to drink. Indiana man sued for divorce because his wife turned the tables on him. Also some chairs and the garden hose. The season for beauty contests is here again. As far as we're concerned, nature still wins. The pessimist puts two and two together and gets four—the optimistic gets six.

A person who butts in usually is the goat of an argument. Right now is when we all enjoy the seven real wonders of the world—Sun, Moon, Stars, Wind, Thunder, Fog, and Sleet. We're everybody aiming high except the fellows who set prices. A married man's wife finds his things for him—a bachelor knows his are on the floor.

NEW stamp in Rome bears portraits of Hitler and Mussolini. We hope they're licked and stuck where they belong. A small boy probably thinks the Red menace is the little red school house. Even London newspaper: "We'd population grows hysterical during raids by the Royal Air Force. Evidently it takes people of a superior race, such as the English, to remain calm at such times."

So They Say

Idealism is never lost except when faith and morals are permitted to wither and decay. —JAMES A. FARLEY, former postmaster-general.

There is no escaping our destiny. Either we shall lead, and lead by paths that we have found worthwhile, or we shall fall and sink into oblivion because we were not equal to our destiny. —Commander ROBERT C. LEE, Moore-McCormick lines.

We are a well-fed people compared with dietary levels in most parts of the globe. But we are not well fed in relation to the productive potentialities of our land and labor. —M. L. WILSON, to the national nutrition conference for defense.

In six days, the United States could eat up all our beef surplus. —Senors ANA ROSA MARTINAS GUERRERO, Argentine feminist leader.

Workers Needed At Texas Shipyards

Pampans skilled in the building of wooden and steel boats and ships have an opportunity to obtain employment through the local state employment office. Lonnie Hood, manager of the office, 206 N. Russell, said many boats are being built in Texas for national defense, and that employment offices are unable to locate workers. Information regarding available jobs, location, and pay may be obtained from the Texas Employment service office in Pampa.

News Clearing House

"It is for each to utter that which he sincerely believes to be true, and add his unit of influence to all other units of influence, and let the result work itself out." —Speech of contributors are urged to confine their articles to 400 words.

Fellow Citizens: A new dealer a few months since ended a Clearing House letter with the following paragraph: "There was plenty of idle money all through the depression to have employed millions of the unemployed if the owners of that money had chosen to do so." I do not propose to controvert that statement.

I propose to conduct a brief inquiry as to why the owners of these idle billions did not invest them in business enterprises thus giving employment to millions. There are three reasons why these billions remain idle: First: Stupid and wicked government. Second: labor monopolists and racketeers operating under special privilege of wicked government. Third: The popular outcry and slander against employers and producers.

Business is in the "dog house." The sustaining pillars of the "American way" are "Economic Royalists," "Princes of Privilege," "Copper heads," "Quislings," "Tools of Hitler" and anything else that will fan the hate and envy of the empty headed mob.

I have listed three reasons which seem to me to be the main causes of the refusal of credit-bills deposits to become active. I touch very briefly on each in turn. Stupid and wicked government obtained power under the promise of reducing the expenses of government twenty-five per cent. Instead of keeping this promise it more than doubled them and used the money to make parasites out of millions of untill then, potentially useful and productive citizens.

One of the enterprises with which I am connected earned in 1940 six per cent on its capital investment. Taxes took two-thirds of this, leaving two per cent for the owners.

Would any one not a hopeless idiot be tempted to invest in a hazardous productive enterprise where the odds are in favor of his losing part or all of his capital in hope of earning two per cent just for the noble purpose of giving employment to people who by their stupidity make it as difficult as possible for themselves to obtain employment?

To pass to the second cause enumerated at the beginning viz: Labor monopolists and racketeers operating by special privilege granted by wicked government. The employer of labor cannot employ his helpers on the basis of fitness but solely on his having the "Mark of the Beast." Be the workman ever so efficient and capable he must obtain this "Mark" from an irresponsible organization at a cost of from five to fifteen hundred dollars with monthly payments thereafter. He may have his permit to earn a living taken away for any or no cause whatever; the "Beast" is the sole judge and from his judgment there is no more appeal than from Hitler's.

The employer is forced to sign a collective bargain agreement today which the union breaks at will tomorrow or whenever it chooses. Through administrative malfeasance the employer has had his rights abridged—almost extinguished. As Dr. Rylander, local regional director for the NREB in Los Angeles said for which he was promptly discharged: "When we cite an employer before us he has not a Chinaman's chance."

Paraphrasing, I might observe this is the first case I have noticed of a man being discharged for no other reason than telling the truth.

In addition to being plundered and hampered by government "Labor" the employer is under fire from the politicians the "Up-lifters," some of the school teachers and preachers and the general public who are led by them.

The "New Deal" philosophy seems to be discourage and destroy production—we have too much of everything, less work and more play, less goods and more wealth, drink yourself sober and spend yourselves rich, the productive minded person is a dangerous animal who should be kept on leash, our chief need is more parasites and officials. "Spend and Spend and Spend and Tax and Tax and Tax."

Of necessity in the brief space at my disposal I can not explore and develop to any great extent the reasons here assigned as chief among those which for a decade have kept productive capital investment at an all time low. C. E. UTT.

OILERS AND CLOVIS TO PLAY DOUBLELEADER HERE TODAY

Grover Seitz Will Take Up Duties Today

Manager Grover Seitz and his Clovis Pioneers will be in Pampa for two games today. The afternoon game will be called at 3 o'clock with the night game at 8:30 o'clock.

A single game was on the schedule for today but last night's battle was called off because of wet, cold weather. Last night's game was to have been the last for the Pioneers with Howard Taylor at the helm. Seitz will replace him as manager today.

Harley LaFever, elongated right-hander from Ada, Okla., and John McPartland, big lefthander, will do mound duty for the Oilers today. Curt, lefthander who beat the Oilers in Clovis last Tuesday, and Rollins, veteran right-hander, are scheduled for mound duty for the Pioneers.

With the naming of Seitz as manager at Clovis, there are now five former Pampa Road Runners players managing clubs in the West Texas-New Mexico league.

The former Pampa independent stars now managing teams are Dutch Prather at Pampa, Grover Seitz at Clovis, Sam Hale at Wichita Falls, Gordon Nell at Borger and Sam Scaling at Lamesa.

Record-breaking crowds are expected to witness the two games today when the fire-eating Seitz takes command of the Pioneers against his old team. Seitz has already announced to the world that he'll be out to win and that there's going to be a lot of life among the Pioneers.

The Oilers may present a new third baseman today and Catfish Smith may be ready to work one game behind the plate.

Local clothing stores reported a run on bathing suits during the last week when hundreds were sold, however, the supply is still plentiful.

The swimming pool staff will have their eyes on the first boy and girl, man and woman to splash into the pool which has been cleaned and re-painted, and appropriate honors will be paid the first swimmers.

Large Crowd Expected At Swimming Pool Opening

Rain or shine, cold or hot, a big crowd is expected today at the opening of the city swimming pool.

If it's cold, swimmers won't notice it, swimming pool attendants said, because the water will be heated to take off the chill of the first plunge. If it's hot, the water will be treated to conform with the weather. No one will be admitted to the pool before 1:30 today.

The pool was declared ready for the opening last night by Manager Oscar Hinger and his staff including Warren King, Annabell Lord, Bobby Edson, and Tom Johnston. Persons, both old and young, who want to learn how to swim can sign up today for classes which will be arranged this week. Expert swimming instruction will be given by Mr. King and Miss Lord who won honors in swimming at West Texas State college.

Admission prices will be the same as last year, except that persons over 12 years of age will pay a 10 cent defense tax.

Mr. Hinger will begin his second summer as manager of the pool, for the city of Pampa which operated the pool last year after leasing it out for several years.

Local clothing stores reported a run on bathing suits during the last week when hundreds were sold, however, the supply is still plentiful.

Oilers Beat Clovis 10-2 Opening Game

The Pampa Oilers slugged two Clovis pitchers for 13 hits and took the first game of the current series 10 to 2 here Friday night. The game was enlivened by a brief scuffle between Frank Scott, Pampa left-fielder, and Manager Howard Taylor of the Pioneers, in the third inning.

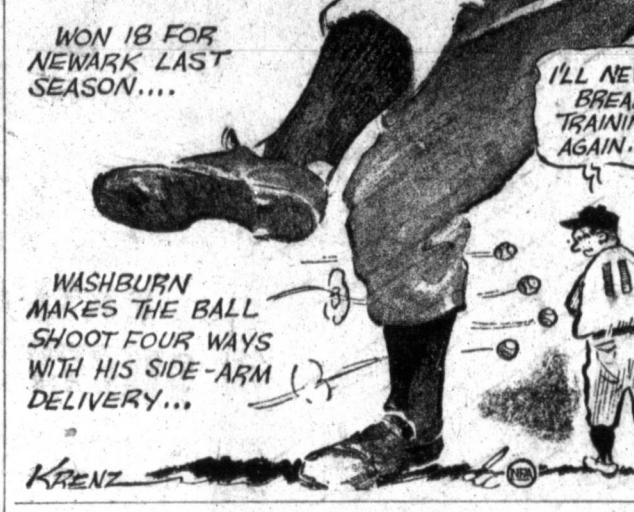

The action occurred after Harrison, Clovis shortstop, claimed that Scott had slid into second with arms raised in an effort to block a double play. The umpire didn't call interference and while Scott and Harrison were standing arguing Taylor roared from the bench and jumped on the unsuspecting Scott's back. Scott, although staggered, didn't fall and he threw Taylor loose and the two tangled with Scott landing before the pair could be separated by players from both teams.

Neither player was chased from the park but after the game a deputy sheriff took Taylor to the courthouse where he was detained for some time. Umpires intervened for the player, telling officers that they could handle such situations at the field. Taylor was later released with no charges being filed.

Manager Prather, Scott and Frierson put on their hitting clothes to blast home the 10 Oiler runs. Prather slugged the ball for two doubles and a single, Scott for a home run, with two on board. Prather also had a gala night at first base when he took his first on the first and second bounce, picked balls out of the mud, and snagged wild throws in all positions. It may have been the mud, but the other infielders threw nearly every ball away and had it not been for Prather's great play, at least six errors, instead of none, would have been charged against the Oilers. Harrison had a big night with four putouts and six assists, one putout being a great one-handed catch. He made two outstanding stops and snap throws to cut off runners at second. Sam Malvia also had a big night at second with four putouts and four assists.

Frank Klum won his second game of the week, limiting the Pioneers to seven hits, well scattered excepting in the sixth when he gave up three singles. Hewitt started for Clovis but was relieved in the sixth by Blaney, who was hit even hardly. The Oilers' attack was led by Prather, who hit for two homers, a double and a single. Scott, if you will, was the hero of the night, hitting for two homers, a double and a single. Prather also had a gala night at first base when he took his first on the first and second bounce, picked balls out of the mud, and snagged wild throws in all positions. It may have been the mud, but the other infielders threw nearly every ball away and had it not been for Prather's great play, at least six errors, instead of none, would have been charged against the Oilers. Ex-Convicts May Serve In Armed Forces

Induction of many registrants who had been barred from military training because of statutory law violations is now possible because of a revision of selective service regulations resulting from modification of army requirements.

This is the information contained in a letter received by the Gray County Selective Service board from state headquarters, Austin.

The revision of the regulations, General J. Watt Page, state selective service director, said today, removes the sweeping disqualifications of all men who had been convicted on an offense which the law of the jurisdiction in which it occurred defined as a felony. Instead, he said, debarment as felons is limited to perpetrators of certain "heinous" crimes and habitual criminals.

The new ban is specifically against the following law violators:

Those who have been convicted of certain heinous crimes; who have been convicted on two or more occasions of offenses which come under the generally accepted definition of a felony; who are chronic offenders with pronounced criminal tendencies who have been convicted on at least three occasions of offenses punishable by jail sentences; who are being retained in the custody of any court or criminal jurisdiction, or other civil authority.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, May 31. (AP)—You could have put today's stock market in your pocket and carried it home.

While there was a semblance of dealing, Wall Street was notable bare of customers as the majority extended yesterday's holiday over the weekend.

So far as prices were concerned, the market stepped out of the week and month with a moderately lower close, although scattered aircraft and specialties managed to close with fractional gains.

Transfers for the two hours of 107,100 shares were the smallest since last Aug. 24, and compared with 160,250 a week ago. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 1/4 of a point at 23 1/2 and on the week was down 2. For the month the composite was up 4.

What was one of the narrowest markets in the matter of the number of stocks traded in two decades or more. Of about 1,200 listed issues, only 345 changed hands, actually a low mark, since Aug. 24, when 303 were dealt. In today's total, 127 were off, 83 up and 125 unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN
 CHICAGO, May 31. (AP)—A batch of buying orders executed just before the closing bell to cover previous short sales and adjust account for the week-end reversed the wheat market's downward trend today and prices finished at net gains of 3/4 cent compared with Thursday.

Brokers credited mills with some orders while dealers anticipated approval of the marketing quota system by two-thirds vote in producers' referendum today were believed to have been buyers.

Approval of the quota was expected to result in restricted marketing of the bumper crop now about ready for harvest.

July wheat fell 1/4 cent at the opening to 92 1/2, lowest since May 3, but then rallied to as high as 94 1/2. Deferred contracts led the recovery and closing prices were at or near the best levels, July 94 1/2, September 94 3/4.

Corn closed 3/4 higher than Thursday, July 73 1/2, September 74 1/2; oats 1/4 off to 14 1/2; soybeans 3/4 lower to 16 1/2; rye 3/4 higher and hard 3-7 higher.

Taps Called Each Day For Six Vets Of War Of 1861

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP)—once 3,000,000 strong, the armies that fought the bloody battles from Bull Run to Appomattox have dwindled to fewer than 2,500 veterans.

Veterans administration records showed today that men who served with Grand Army of the Republic, are dying at a rate of about three a day, and the same is generally true of the southern soldiers.

The veterans bureau reported 1,673 union soldiers, and 44,428 dependents on its pension rolls on April 30. The files at Richmond, Va., once capital of the confederacy, show that 828 soldiers of the south and 18,868 widows were receiving pensions from southern states on April 1.

The federal government operates 11 homes for union veterans. The south has a single home at Atlanta, but only six men who wore the gray are there. A home at Richmond was closed two months ago when the last veteran died.

The Happiness Flower
Did you ever find the happiness flower?
It isn't hard to find:
It opens wide at the morning hour,
In the meadows of the cheerful mind.
But it sometimes grows in the sandy dust
That fills the desert of care;
And down in the fields of perfect trust,
You can always find it there.
It's sweet as honey, the happiness flower,
Winter and summer the same—
On the difficult hills of troublous tower
It shines like a rosy flame.

In looking over the list of Red Cross workers and their accomplishments for the past two weeks, we noticed that Mrs. R. M. Bellamy has made two pairs of socks and two sweaters; Mrs. De Lea Vicars, four pairs of socks and three sweaters; Mrs. Jess Wynne, two pairs of socks, four shawls, and three sweaters; Mrs. L. L. Davis, 19 gowns; and Mrs. Fred Fender of Phillips camp at Hopkins, five shawls.
Last week, Mrs. Charlie Thill took home with her all Red Cross sweaters needing alterations. For two days she checked the garments and made necklines larger on some of the children's sweaters.
Pampans will have an opportunity to see just what has been done by the volunteers when open house is held Tuesday afternoon in the post office basement.

An attractive youngster is Barbara Amery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Amery. . . . Last week we saw Barbara dressed in a navy blue tulle checked gingham dress and matching hat trimmed with red ric-rac braid. . . . Barbara, who is eight years of age and in the fourth grade at school, is a twin brother whose name is Billy.
Tennis enthusiasts have been taking advantage of every sunny day between rainy spells. . . . One pair who really takes the game seriously is Louise Dunn and Louise Smith. Mrs. Dunn is determined to play every day possible this summer. . . . Another tennis twosome is Lois Cambern and Doris Hills.

Two industrious women's groups are the Clara Hill and Friendship classes of the First Methodist church who have recently weather-stripped and caulked the windows and redecorated the church office and pastor's study.
A happy-looking trio is Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Harrah, Sr., and their son Raymond, Jr. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Harrah have just returned from Booneville, Mo., where they attended graduation exercises at Kemper Military Academy. . . . Raymond, Jr., who was graduated from Kemper High school last week, is planning to attend junior college there next year.
While looking for a book of poems at the city library recently, we exchanged ideas with Mrs. James Todd, Jr., librarian, concerning our favorite poetry. . . . One poem which Mrs. Todd particularly likes is "The Builder," which is as follows:

An old man going a lone high way,
Came at evening, cold and gray,
To a chasm, vast and deep and wide,
The old man crossed at the twilight dim,
The sullen stream had no fear for him,
But he turned when safe on the other side,
And built a bridge to span the tide.
"Old man," said a fellow pilgrim near,
"You are wasting your strength with building here;
Your journey will end with the ending day
You never again will pass this way;
You've crossed the chasm deep and wide;
Why build you this bridge at the even tide?"
The builder raised his old gray head,
"Good friend, on the path I've come," he said,
"where followeth after me to-day
A youth whose feet must pass this way;
This chasm that has been as naught to me
To that fair-haired youth may a pitfall be;
He, too, must cross in the twilight dim,
Good friend, I'm building this bridge for him."

The girl who graduates this summer and starts job hunting is going to get plenty of breaks. Ruth Millet points out. . . . One that few other graduating classes have had is the fact that more jobs are open now than there have been in years, because thousands of young men who would ordinarily be seeking

STORY OF WOMAN HATING THE WORLD

Joan Crawford is superb in the splendid dramatic vehicle, "A Woman's Face," Metro's 105-minute picture showing Friday and Saturday at the LaNora.

The general adult public should like this picture immensely. It is mature screen entertainment at its best, in the opinion of "The Film Daily."

The story, laid in modern Sweden, unfolds from a dramatic opening when Miss Crawford is brought to trial for murder, the name of the victim kept a secret. Various witnesses relate their evidence, each witness responsible for a correlating scene. The flashback style of narrative is neatly handled, and suspense mounts to a driving climax.

Melvyn Douglas is fine in his role of a plastic surgeon, sympathetic to Miss Crawford's hatred of the world and its people because of her disfigurement.

Conrad Veidt is the epitome of a ruthless, cold-blooded egomaniac who will let nothing stand in his way, even murder.

In one medium bomber 30,000 parts, are worked into 650 minor sub-assemblies, and these into 32 major sub-assemblies before they are put into the plane.

'NIGHT TRAIN', 'MILLION DOLLAR BABY' HIT COMEDY NOTE IN PICTURE PROGRAMS

Most of Week's Films Characterized by 'Heavy' Drama Angle; Taylor Glorifies 'Billy'; Brenda Marshall, George Brent Star in "Singapore Woman"

By BROWNWOOD EMERSON

Glamor Boy Bob Taylor goes western, Joan Crawford returns to the screen in one of those "heavy" dramas, wisecracks are heard as often in "Million Dollar Baby" as a lawyer's "I object" in a Blackstonian duel, and there's a comedy relief in a pic with a Mars background.

So runs the gauntlet of surprises for this week's film fare, with "Night Train" at the Crown, today, tomorrow, and Tuesday, featuring Margaret Lockwood and Rex Harrison; "Million Dollar Baby," Rex week's opener, Priscilla Lane, Ronald Reagan, Jeffrey Lynn, and May Robson, as this writer's choice for the two best.

"Billy the Kid" is top-notch, but we've had an orgy of super-westerns, ever since "Dodge City."

"Singapore Woman," Brenda Marshall and George Brent, is one of those Oriental melodramas and "A Woman's Face," the Crawford vehicle, both lean to the solemn and ponderous drama with broad A. Which brings us down to Warners' "Million Dollar Baby," 104 minutes, breezy yarn about a salesgirl who suddenly finds herself the possessor of a million of those bits of metal that make so many mortals bow the knee in reverent admiration.

In "Night Train," there's comedy to relieve the barbarities customarily injected into war pics, and the result is a pleasing blend of humor, plus adventure, and the motive that keeps these shiny bits of carbon in jewelers windows.

COMEDY WITH WAR BACKGROUND

A delightful comedy-drama played against early-war background is 20th Century-Fox's 90-minute picture, "Night Train," starring Margaret Lockwood and Rex Harrison, above. The picture opens a three-day run today at the Crown. Audiences will be thoroughly entertained by this British import from the GB studios. The producers have connected a breezy story which kids German efficiency and at the same time spoofs British nonchalance. New York World-Telegram rates pic one of year's "Ten Best."

Opening in a recently invaded Czech steel mill, the picture relates the flight of a steel expert and the capture of his attractive daughter who is thrown into a concentration camp.

TAYLOR IN FIRST WESTERN

Brian Donlevy and Robert Taylor join forces to rid the West of cattle thieves in "Billy, the Kid," Technicolor MGM outdoor action thriller, showing today through Wednesday at the LaNora. Taylor makes his debut as a western star in this film. It's the story of the reckless, romantic bandit. Billy starts as employe of a cattle rustling gang, then sides with ranchers, gives his life for that of the man loved by the girl (Mary Howard) he loves.

GOLDEN GIRL

Eleanor Stewart, above, is the gold mine heiress and romantic interest of the new Hopalong Cassidy film, Paramount's "Pirates on Horseback," on the Rex screen Friday and Saturday. William (Cassidy) Boyd, and his partners, Russell Hayden and Andy Clyde, head into a new flock of thrilling adventures when they get on the trail of a lost Eldorado, bequeathed by a murdered prospector to Andy.

ORIENTAL MELODRAMA

"Singapore Woman," Warner's 64-minute picture on the LaNora screen Thursday, is an oriental melodrama about a girl (Brenda Marshall, above), whose well-to-do father dies, whose admirer kills himself over her, and whose husband is lost at sea. Called a jinx she takes to gin until David Bruce, young plantation owner, in an effort to repay a favor done by her father, takes her to his plantation to bring her to her senses.

50 Soldiers Killed In Highway Crashes

Special To The NEWS
AUSTIN, June 1—In a stepped-up effort to prepare this nation to defend itself, and to maintain the rights of life, liberty and freedom, many of the persons learning the art of defense are being killed and causing death in Texas on our streets and highways. Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., state police director asserted. Exactly 50 persons were killed in accidents which involved military personnel during the first four months of this year. If this toll were taken in each of the other 47 states, 2,400 persons would be dead as a result of defense activities since January first, according to state police statisticians.

SERIAL STORY

THREE TO MAKE READY

BY W. H. PEARS

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY, Dr. Van Horn's arrival prevents a battle, and both League and football groups were won by his appeal for loyalty to Cardman. He could even have explained that he had Chris arrested to keep him from leaving school. Paula could have seen Tony is...

UNDER THE ARCH

CHAPTER XVII

IT was a weary and disheveled Chris who faced Paula and Tony in the jail office, but he showed no resentment as he greeted them.

"Thanks, Tony," he said quietly. Tony said, "Okay, Chris." And then the three of them were strolling across a campus brilliantly patterned with June sunshine. Overhead a procession of cottony clouds laced across the deep blue sky and the fragrance of mock orange filled the air.

Paula thought, "Here we are all together again, yet everything seems so different." And then she knew why. The difference was Tony. Now she was sharply aware of everything about him: the breeze in his dark hair, of the careless way he wore his clothing, of the clean-cut leanness of his quiet face. . . . Oh, so many things!

The difference was also Chris. When his shoulder brushed hers he no longer started her heart pounding. She could even think of his being in love with Kilo and feel no hurt.

This, too, she could understand. No violent or sudden change had taken place within her. She had simply learned to listen to her own heart. Chris had attracted her like a drop of quicksilver, bright and elusive, but it was Tony that she always turned when she wanted depth of feeling. . . . "Paulie. . . that job in New York? Have I wrecked my chance?"

"Of course not, Chris." He let his long arms drop on the shoulders of his two friends. "New York, look out!" he grinned, the old reckless gleam in his fire-blue eyes. "Here comes old Christopher." He hugged them. "Good eggs," he mumbled. "Maybe we'll all meet there."

"Soon, Chris," Paula pledged, her eyes shining. "I'm leaving on the afternoon train." "One for the money, two for the show," Tony said quietly. "Three to make ready. . . ." Paula choked. "Four to go," Chris finished.

AND in that instant all three knew that it was all over. They might see each other again at Commencement or in New York, but that would be a beginning. This was their real farewell, here in the long shadows of the old college buildings. Here they must turn their backs on four precious years of their lives and head bravely into a troubled world.

They gripped hands all around, and three pairs of eyes were moist. Then Chris was striding away from them.

Tony said, puzzled, "I thought he'd want to be alone with you, Paulie."

"That's all over, Tony. Remember, Chris said 'Four to go?'" "You mean. . . ." "Kilo," Paula explained. Her fingers ached to touch Tony's hand, but he was standing so stiff and taut that she was a little afraid of him.

Tony said, "Well, I guess I'd better go and pack. I'm leaving right after Commencement. Gosh, I'll bet I look like heck in a black gown!"

Paula took a step after him. She wanted to call him back, to ask his forgiveness, but her throat was dry and wordless. . . .

A FEW minutes before Commencement exercises began, Paula took her seat in the women's section and watched a few tardy students dash across the campus, their black gowns flapping ludicrously behind them. She looked for Tony among the men, but he was lost in a sea of black caps.

Dr. Van Horn arose and introduced the speaker, the earnest young reform governor of a neighboring state.

Presently the speech ended. One by one the students moved forward to receive their diplomas, all a bit pale and showing how impressed they were by the solemnity of the occasion.

Then it was Paula's turn. Her knees were shaking when she reached the platform. Dr. Van Horn held her hand a moment longer than he had the others. "My particular thanks to a fine student, Miss Jeffers."

PAULA pushed her way through the crowd, a choking lump still in her throat. She stood apart from the others, looking eagerly for Tony. Then, as the minutes passed and he didn't come, she gave up hope.

Here, with hundreds of people nearby, she felt strangely alone. It was the end of everything old, the beginning of everything new. It was the biggest moment in her life. But she had no one to share it with.

Slowly she turned and walked toward Cardman Arch. Stiffing a sob, she passed under it for the last time. She moved blindly up the crooked path to the Bishop's Backbone.

Through a haze of tears she saw a solitary figure.

"Why, Paulie, you're crying," Tony said, quick concern in his brown eyes. "What's the matter?"

"Nothing," she lied. "It's just that I—I. . . ." He studied her gravely. "It's Chris, isn't it? You still love him."

"No, Tony, no!" Valiantly Paula swept the tears from her eyes. "It's leaving Cardman and. . . ." Tony was not convinced. "Chris is an idiot to treat you like this," he muttered.

"But it's not Chris," Paula choked. "It—it's someone else." "He must be a fool!" "He is, but a big blind fool!" "And yet you love him?" "I adore him, Tony. Until this moment I never knew how much."

Tony took her hand, held it tightly in his. "Paulie," he said awkwardly, "what can I do to help?"

"You can forgive me for mistrusting you." "Of course. Anything else, dear?"

That last word, she knew, had slipped out, but it cut clear and sharp through Paula's misery, sent a wild singing into her heart.

"Yes, Tony, just one more thing. Can you possibly remember what you said to me that night at the hospital?"

"Why, I was a little out of my head, but. . . ." His fingers tightened fiercely around her hand. "I—I said I loved you."

"But, being out of your head, you didn't mean it?" "Stop it, Paulie!" Tony snapped, then his voice softened. "I knew exactly what I was saying." "Tony," Paula whispered, "you're the someone else."

"Paulie. . . oh, Paulie, you can't mean that!" Paula said shakily. "Well, Tony, aren't you going to do anything about it?" "Oh, gosh, Paulie, you bet I am!"
