Mann Declares Loyalty To FDR And National Defense Program

NAZIS CLAIM BRITISH WHIPPED IN EGYPT

Claims Race Between Him And O'Daniel

Demagogues Cannot Stay In Senate, He Asserts

Declaring that it is "no time to fliddle while London burns," Attorney General Gerald L. Mann brought his message for United States senator to Pampa, McLean, and the Top O' Texas today.

The ex-football great of Southern Methodist university spoke to an unusually large political rally crowd, for Pampa, on the courthouse lawn. All available benches were filled and scores stood or sat under the shade of nearby trees.

"I was the first to announce in this race, I am the first now in the race and when the votes are counted I will be first," the native of a Sulphur Springs cotton farm told the audience.

Standing bare-headed in the sun and wind, the senatorial candidate declared that the race now lay between him and the governor of Texas, W. Lee O'Daniel. "If you are prepared to vote for somebody else other than myself or the governor, I would be pleased if you would select me."

With the tissue around his eyes being the mark of scars suffered in football battles, the senatorial candidate strapped a microphone to his chest and gestured freely with one hand and then the other. "Texas," he said, "has never sent a demagogue, a mountebank, a quack to the U. S. senate." Those that have been sent by other states have not stayed, he said.

The candidate said that he favored state control of oil. "I believe that the states can control the oil industry. I don't believe that it will ever be necessary to control it after the emergency has passed."

The attorney general cited his record at Austin. "We did not conduct our office to get votes, but we operated it as a law office."

Asserting his loyalty and allegiance to President Roosevelt, Mr. Mann declared that he had always been an admirer, and a supporter of the president. "I shall support his defense program when I get to the United States senate," he said. "I have advocated the social and economic measures favored by the president, and I shall continue to support the President."

In discussing agriculture, Mr. Mann explained that it is used to be that one bale of cotton would buy a wagon but that now it would require three bales of cotton. He pointed out that the price of agricultural products has gone down and that the price of finished products has gone up and up.

"Labor has combined for higher wages and capital has combined for higher prices on their products, and the farmer is left at the mercy of both. Things cannot go on as they are. There must be a change or agriculture as we know it and have known it will be destroyed."

The candidate said that he would introduce a bill to prevent stoppage of work on defense contracts. "I would introduce a bill compelling arbitration before a board composed of representatives of labor, and industry and the people, but while this arbitration is in progress the work shall go on without any stoppage of work."

Mann declared that he was for "unifying the people, not classifying them."

The attorney general stepped quickly across the grass after he got out of a car that drew up at the curb. He adjusted the microphone and introduced himself. The crowd listened closely and intently and cheered after the speech. More than half of the people in the crowd shook hands with him and pledged him their support. Mr. Mann has been accorded a large plurality here in straw votes conducted by The News.

With ten more days of intensive campaigning scheduled before the special senatorial election June 28th, Mann made the 39th speech in his state-wide, hard-driving campaign here. Attorney General Mann

Russia Alert; Finns Report Preparedness

MOSCOW, June 18 (AP)—No effort is being spared to keep the entire Soviet community in a state of constant, mobilized preparedness although there are no signs of a general or partial mobilization.

This intensive drive is being conducted with the greatest possible precision, embracing workers, farmers and women.

The population of Moscow is going about its daily tasks, working and shopping in well-stocked stores and attending popular football games.

Nothing in the behavior of the Russians indicates imminence of a Soviet-German conflict while the official attitude suggests that the U. S. S. R. continues firmly and completely its independent foreign policy.

BERN, Switzerland, June 18 (AP)—The second interrupted telephone conversation within 24 hours prevented more than a hint of developments—including apparent Russian exodus from the Soviet's leased base at Hanko—from being communicated outside Finland today.

"The streets of Helsinki are crowded with men and women in uniform—soldiers fully armed as well as lotas. . . . A dispatch began this evening.

It was broke off there. The remainder of the story will have to await the Finnish censor's approval before it can be telephoned.

20 Students Needed For CAA Course

Twenty more students are needed to assure a well Aeromastics Administration ground school for Pampa this summer. Thirty have signed to take the course but the number must reach 50 by tomorrow night or the classes will have to be abandoned.

Ten students signed applications at a meeting last night. Youths who have passed their 19th birthday but have not reached their 26 birthday are eligible to compete for free flight scholarships. Only cost is $6.50 for physical examination and $2.50 for text books.

Application blanks can be obtained from Jimmy Dodge at the bus terminal. Dr. Malcolm Brown is medical examiner.

Kerby Pays $200 In Gasoline Case

A fine of $200 was paid in 31st district court yesterday by N. R. Kerby, who entered a plea of guilty to a charge of unlawfully and knowingly transporting motor fuel and gasoline upon which a tax is required.

The jury, of which L. J. Starkey was foreman, was sworn in at 2:35 p. m. and the case went to the jury about 5 o'clock. They brought in a verdict at 8:20 p. m.

A second count in the grand jury indictment against Kerby was dropped, and his plea of guilty was in relation to the first count only.

Jurors on the case were Roy Sewell, L. K. Stout, J. C. Cox, Roy McCracken, Ray Stepp, Bird Guill, Lloyd L. Garrison, M. C. Nash, Bert Iebell, A. R. Bell, George Bailey, and Foreman Starkey.

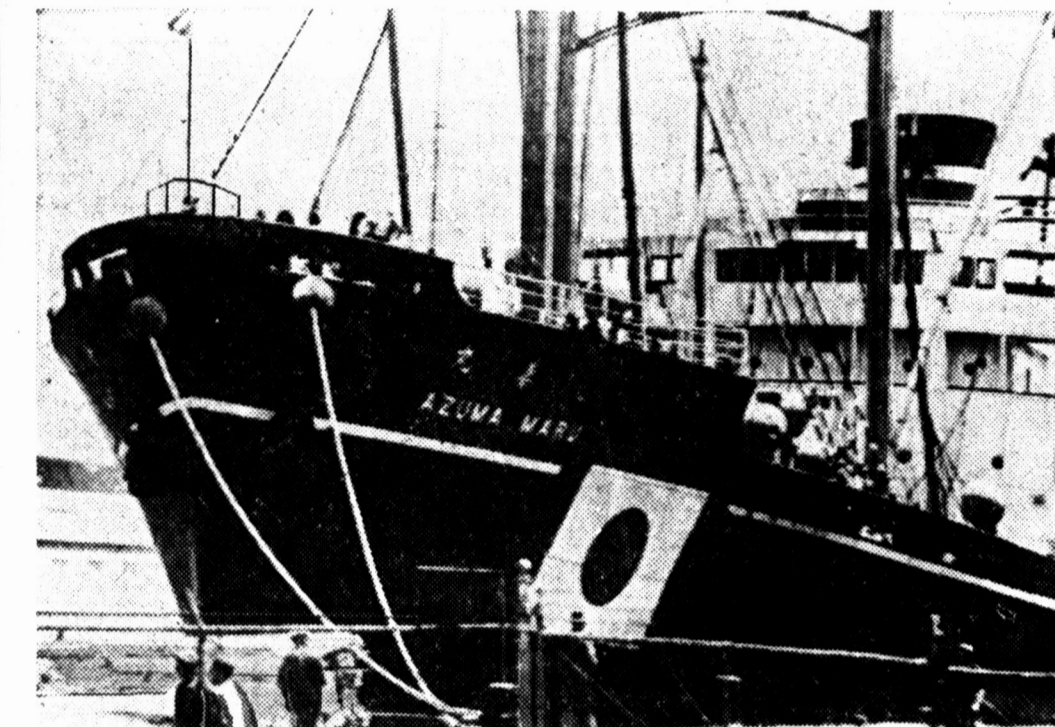

They're Used To Playing Dog-Leg Shot

REHOBOTH, Del., June 18 (AP)—Sambo, a black Cocker Spaniel, believes in keeping his master supplied with pocket change.

He constantly retrieves golf balls lost in woods adjacent to the Rehoboth Country club, bringing them home to Frank L. Chaney, who reconditions and sells them back to club members.

No one has been able to explain Sambo's attraction for golf balls. He's retrieved more than 500 this year.

U. S. REFUSES TO ALLOW JAPS TO LOAD OIL CARGO

The booms and winches of the Japanese freighter Azuma Maru remain inactive, above, as customs agents acting under orders of defense petroleum co-ordinator Harold Ickes stood by to enforce order forbidding loading of 5,000 barrels of oil at Standard Vacuum Oil co., piers at Paulsboro, N. J., near Philadelphia.

Pair Arrested For Taking Milk Bottles

Two young men, one 22 and the other 19, were arrested yesterday afternoon by city police officers in connection with the theft of milk bottles which have been disappearing with monotonous regularity from Pampa homes. Today in city court, Recorder W. C. deCordova fined one of the youths $50, and the other $25.

One of the youths admitted that he had served 10 months on a two-year sentence for larceny, and the other said that he had been acquitted on a similar charge. Both told the recorder that they stole the milk bottles and sold them to get money to take their girls on parties.

The $50 fine has been paid, but the $25 fine will have to be worked out, the recorder said.

Woman Asks $5,000 In Skating Rink Suit

Judgment for $5,000 for alleged damages suffered in a fall on a roller skating rink at LeFors on May 23 of this year is asked in a suit filed in 31st district court styled Mrs. and Mrs. M. D. Morton vs. S. M. Lawson, Jr.

Plaintiffs allege that two employees of the defendant darted upon the floor at right angles to Mrs. Morton and that the uneven condition of a portion of the rink and an attempt to avoid a collision with the employees resulted in the fall.

Alleged injuries claimed to have arisen from the fall include fractured pelvis bone and hip, severe pain of mind and body, and shocked nervous system. A doctor's bill for $200 and $30 for x-ray pictures are listed by defendant as among expenses incurred.

John F. Studer is attorney for the plaintiffs.

Late News

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—A strong German protest on the expulsion of Nazi consuls from the United States was delivered to the state department today, and Summer Welles, undersecretary of state, indicated it would be flatly rejected.

NEW YORK, June 18 (AP)—Champion Joe Louis will have a 25½ pound advantage in weight over Billy Conn tonight in the 18th defense of his heavyweight crown. Louis weighed in at 199½ pounds for their match at the Polo grounds while Conn, former light heavyweight champion, balanced the weights at 174.

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Capital police pushed their inquiry into the brutal rape-slaying of pretty Jessie Elizabeth Strieff today and said they had a report from nearby Maryland officers that a 20-year-old college girl said she had been attacked by a negro who forced his way into her taxi-cab.

Homicide Chief George Darnall said information on the new case was meager and that the girl, in a dazed and semi-hysterical condition when found by a filling station watchman, would be questioned later.

Mediator Assigned To Piper Plane Plant

Ickes Orders Transfer Of Two Tankers

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—In his first positive action to put more oil into the east, threatened by a petroleum famine, Secretary Ickes announced today a re-arrangement of a ship tanker service to increase the Atlantic coast supply by 21,000,000 gallons annually.

After conferences with officials of the Sun Oil company and the Standard Oil company of California, Ickes, who is defense petroleum co-ordinator, announced he had made recommendations whereby three huge tankers now engaged on routes between California and east coast ports would be switched to runs from Gulf ports to the east coast.

The coordinator emphasized, however, that this increase in the prospective shortage in that populous area, where he has said restrictions on civilian use of automobiles appeared "inevitable."

"Many additional steps must be taken," Ickes said, "if a serious east coast shortage is to be averted."

On the intercoastal route, the coordinator said, the tankers involved carried approximately 168,000,000 gallons of gasoline a year, whereas in the Gulf to east coast trade their annual carrying capacity, due to the shorter haul, would be raised to approximately 378,000,000 gallons annually.

Representatives of the petroleum industry have estimated the equivalent of 49 tankers were needed to raise the anticipated eastern oil deficiency. The anticipated shortage was caused by transfer of one-fifth of America's coastwise tanker fleet to British service.

It was estimated the shift of the three tankers from the west coast to the Gulf-east run would relieve the expected shortage by at least 6 per cent.

British Complete Evacuation From Island of Cyprus

LONDON, June 18 (AP)—Voluntary civilian evacuation of Cyprus, British crown colony in the eastern Mediterranean, has been completed, a Reuters, British news agency, dispatch from Nicosia said today.

Officials Of State Clubs And Jaycees To Meet Monday Night

The Jaycees yesterday started the ball to rolling to hold another Top O' Texas Folks Fiesta next year, and President Jimmy Dodge named a committee to meet next Monday night with officials of all native state societies. The meeting will be held in the county courtroom in the courthouse.

Invited will be the officials, committee members, and organizers of the various state societies that participated in the Folks Fiesta.

"Everybody seems agreed that the Jaycees should build the Fiesta around all the folks in this territory, and that includes the state clubs," said Mr. Dodge. "And the Jaycees feel that the idea should be continued. So we are starting in right now on next year's Fiesta. We want every official of every state club, every member of every state club committee to attend the Monday night meeting."

Mr. Dodge announced a committee of Jaycees who will meet with the group. It is hoped that an all-state basket picnic can be planned for the clubs for the near future.

It was suggested at the Jaycees meeting yesterday noon that Fiesta committees for next year be appointed in the near future so they could operate throughout the year.

It was announced that the Fiesta would show a profit, but Secretary-Treasurer B. E. Altman urged all persons having bills against the Fiesta to file them with him immediately.

Ex-Burlesque Queen Has Trouble In Serious Role

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., June 18 (AP)—Strip-tease Ann Corio who for years calmly dared the risks of chivalry theaters as a burlesque queen had a broken foot to show today for her efforts in her first serious role.

She fell Monday while playing Tuesday on the opening night of a summer production of "White Cargo" here.

A further reduction was ordered today in the number of troops on duty at the Los Angeles plant of the North American Aviation corporation, with production back to 10 warplanes a day after a strike which lost its punch with arrival of several thousand soldiers.

About 2,500 soldiers remained on guard in the wake of the bitter wage dispute.

Wages were the issue in a strike still in progress at another plant of the Piper Aircraft corporation, makers of light planes used in government civilian pilot training.

A government mediator was assigned to the dispute, while pickets patrolled the entrances to the plant, turning away production workers, although permitting entry of office employees and engineers.

In Washington, heads of the AFL and CIO found common ground: both issued statements in opposition to the pending Vinson bill which would bar workers from striking attacks on the union. AFL President William Green said passage of the legislation would "aggravate industrial unrest."

Meanwhile a jurisdictional strike of CIO United Automobile workers at the Douglas & Lomson company, Detroit, threatened to force the closing of several large truck factories because of a shortage of parts.

Between 200 and 300 civilian workmen struck yesterday on construction jobs at two Hawaiian air fields, but they decided to return to work today pending negotiations for pay adjustments.

AFL longshoremen were ordered to walk out yesterday at Morgan Line piers at Baltimore, Houston, and Galveston in protest to federal acquisition of the line's 10 ships. They contended this was reducing employment opportunities for union members.

Harvey W. Brown, president of the AFL International Machinists union, predicted a strike at 11 San Francisco bay shipyards would end tonight.

The shipyard strike has interfered with work on $500,000,000 worth of defense orders. Both AFL and CIO machinists walked out more than five weeks ago, asking $1.15 an hour.

British Admit Vichy Troops Take Towns

RAF Bombs Docks And Shoots Down 13 Nazi Planes

VICHY, Unoccupied France, June 18 (AP)—French dispatches from Syria reported tonight that French counter-attacks not only had held up the British advance for three days but continued to gain ground, seriously menacing the invaders' communications.

All along the southern Syrian front, said military dispatches, assaults by French infantry supported by aircraft were making hazardous the rearward lines of the British columns which had been driving for Damascus and Beirut.

The heaviest French assault was said to have been launched against the coastal road south of Sidon, where the French asserted the Australians who had captured that ancient port had ceased to advance since the British fleet stopped shelling the French positions three days ago.

(By The Associated Press)

Germany and Italy reported "complete and overwhelming victory" late yesterday in a British counter-offensive after a violent 3-day battle in the desert around Salum, Egypt.

"The enemy, overwhelmed, is retreating," the German high command said.

An Italian war bulletin declared the British had thrown "ponderous masses of tanks supported by the best part of the Middle Eastern air force" into the conflict—only to be crushed by the "overwhelming impetuosity of Axis counter-attacks."

Italian press dispatches said approximately 1,000 British tanks in two armored divisions were engaged in the battle. About 200 tanks, it was said, were put out of action.

The Fascist asserted Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell's counter-offensive had been "broken," with British troops retreating under heavy fire by Axis land and air forces.

The British Middle East command acknowledged that the British advance forces withdrew yesterday to forward positions on the Libyan front to avoid an encircling movement by German reinforcements because "we had accomplished our objects" of forcing the Germans to disclose their strength.

In Berlin, Hitler's high command said the British attempt to drive back into Libya had been "frustrated" with extremely heavy British losses, and that imperial troops were retreating under Axis counter-attacks in the Salum area.

The Nazi war bulletin pictured the British offensive as an attempt to rescue the beleaguered British garrison at Tobruk, 80 miles inside Libya, where British troops have been encircled for nearly 10 weeks.

The Germans claimed destruction of more than 100 British tanks since the imperial army of the Nile began its offensive Sunday.

On the Middle East war front, the British reported Allied columns were attacking the town of Meza, three miles west of Damascus, the capital of Syria, and that Allied patrols had reached a point only 12 miles from Beirut, the Lebanese capital.

Elsewhere, the British acknowledged that counter-attacking Vichy troops had recaptured the Syrian town of Merjajoun, six miles from the Palestine frontier, and Kuneitra, south of Damascus.

In the war in the air, the London air ministry reported big squadrons of RAF bombers, smashing at night in a row, set many fires and inflicted widespread destruction in the industrial cities of Cologne and Dusseldorf.

Reinforced by a stream of American-built planes, the RAF also challenged German air might by sending at least 150 planes flying in "sandwich formation"—with layers of fighters flying above and below the bombers—against the Nazi-held French coast.

RAF overnight attacks centered on the docks at Rotterdam, Ostend, Boulogne and Cherbourg, the British announced, and in a series of flaming dogfights high over the English channel 13 German planes were reported shot down. Ten RAF planes were listed as missing.

In Berlin, the Germans claimed

College Editor Says Radicals Put '41 Graduates In False Light Through Demonstrations By Groups

"The attitude of the college student... has been put in a false light through demonstrations staged by a few radical organizations falsely claiming to represent student opinion."

Graduated into a world they never expected, the Class of '41 faces an uncertain future. What do they think of that future, and what do they propose to do about it? The article below is the third of six on this subject, exclusive to NEA Service and The Pampa News, by graduating college editors.

At any rate, the future should be anything but boring. For those who had laid out and anticipated a life neatly planned and well ordered, the next few years can be very demoralizing. But for those who do not mind uncertainty and continued change, the future should be filled with opportunity.

FOR WOMEN ONLY!

If aching nerves, restless nights and other distress caused by functional monthly disturbances keep you from having fun at such times—take Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound—famous for over 60 years in relieving weak, nervous feelings of women's "critical days." WORTH TRYING!

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. If there is a swinging door between a dining room and kitchen, should a guest be seated so he faces the door?
2. Is it all right to put a small flower in a finger bowl?
3. Should iced coffee be served in a cup or a glass?
4. May paper napkins be used for a meal served in a garden?
5. Is it a good idea to have all cold foods at a meal?

What would you do if—

You are planning a guest dinner and wonder whether or not to serve corn on the cob:

- (a) Wait until you are planning a family meal, or a meal that is to be served out-of-doors to include corn-on-the-cob on the menu?
- (b) Since it is good and in season, include corn-on-the-cob on your dinner party menu?

Answers

1. No. The hostess should sit there herself, so that a guest won't have to look into the kitchen everytime the door is opened.
2. Yes.
3. In a glass.
4. Yes.
5. No. Have at least one hot dish.

Best "What Would You Do?" solution: (a) as corn-on-the-cob is difficult to eat gracefully, and so is not a wise choice for a party menu.

Woman Shares His Hardships—But Man Seems Still To Rule

By RUTH MILLETT

There must be a lot of loyalty in women. Otherwise they wouldn't have taken on the job of a man, much drudgery for so little credit.

Look at the English women. They're giving every bit as much to their country right now as the men are giving. They are not only sharing all hardships—but they are sharing danger.

There doesn't seem to be any job too hard, too dangerous, or too demanding of endurance for them to tackle. Yet they still aren't accepted by the men of England as real partners in this fight.

It may be a slim, clear-eyed, unafraid young woman who drags a man out of the wreckage of a building, helps load him into an ambulance, and then risks her life getting him to a hospital.

But once she's done her job, she isn't an ambulance driver—an important cog in her country's defense—she is a woman, who, it is assumed, doesn't need or doesn't enjoy a cigarette as much as an ambulance driver who happens to be a man.

Yes, women are finding it hard to buy cigarettes in London these days. Cigarettes, now scarce, are more difficult for women than for men to buy. Some tobacco stores, says London correspondent Rosette Hargrove, have even put up signs, "No cigarettes sold to women."

DESERVE EQUAL TREATMENT

There might be some excuse for such favoritism if the men were doing all the dirty work and the women were being protected. But instead, the women are being held so equally responsible with men, that they, too, are being drafted into war industries.

That being so, no man ought to be able to tell them they can't wear lipstick while serving in their country's defense—or that they ought to let the men have all the available cigarettes.

The only time men have a right to be superior to women and to decide what is becoming and what is unbecoming in their conduct is when women sit back helplessly and let their men protect, support, and shield them from all hardships.

Consumption of petroleum products in the United States in 1940 averaged about 425 gallons for every man, woman and child in the country, a 10 per cent increase over 1939.

According to recent estimates, 55 per cent of passenger car mileage is for business trips and only 45 per cent for recreational and social purposes.

Baptist Training Union Will Picnic At Lake McClellan

The largest single social event in the history of the Baptist Training Union of the First Baptist church will be held Thursday when more than 200 members of the training department go to Lake McClellan for a picnic.

H. Paul Briggs, director of the Training Union, said that it is hoped that the outing will mark the first of many such gatherings to be held annually.

Members of the Training Union, along with their families, are to leave the First Baptist church at 5:30 p. m. It is expected that there will be ample room in cars to take those who do not have transportation. All cars are to leave together forming a motorcade.

Each family or group will prepare a picnic lunch, and all will spread the lunches together upon arrival at the lake. Drinks will be furnished by the church. In order that those who cannot leave the picnic with the motorcade may not miss the picnic supper the basket lunches will be spread at 7 o'clock.

Arrangements have been completed for varied forms of recreation to precede and follow the supper.

Inter-Church Singers Will Have Executive Meeting Thursday

An executive committee meeting of inter-church singers will be held Thursday evening at 9 o'clock in the First Christian church.

Each church is to send two representatives to this session.

Arthur Nelson led the group in singing at the McCullough Memorial Methodist church last Sunday. Mr. Nelson has been named regular director of the singers.

The average length of life of an automobile is 7.87 years.

Production Rooms Of Red Cross To Be Open Thursday

Shipments of material are arriving daily at the new production rooms of the Red Cross in the basement of the post office.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Doyle Osborne, children's dresses in the smaller sizes are now being cut out of very attractive cotton materials.

Because the production rooms are so cool in hot weather, Mrs. Osborne will have them open every Tuesday and Thursday afternoons between 2 and 5 o'clock. She hopes that women will volunteer to help her so that the garments may be ready for groups who are anxious to sew.

The production department has purchased scissors for the use of those who do not wish to use their own.

Calory-Wise Mothers Can Serve Nation

By RUTH MILLETT

If American women become as food conscious in the next 20 years they have become clothes and beauty conscious in the last 20. American youth 20 years from now will look a lot better from a health standpoint than the young men who are being examined by the army, look today.

American mothers aren't physically fit in such a shocking number of the country's young and supposedly able-bodied men.

When the young men who are of draft age now were babies and growing children, not as much was known about adequate diets and ways of enriching the diet with capuled vitamins as is known today.

Also, the average housewife didn't have the means she has today of finding out what the experts know and putting their findings to use in her own meal planning.

IMPORTANCE OF DIET TO HEALTH

Today, the housewife learns about food requirements from the woman's page of her newspaper, from the women's magazines, from government publications, and from homemaking radio programs.

So she knows more than ever before about the importance of a proper diet to health.

And now the government has had a group of nutrition experts draw up a nutrition yardstick that is so simple a moron could see that her family is properly fed.

Of course, it takes money to feed a family properly. But the woman who can afford enough food to fill up her family every day can usually afford the variety of foods it needs for a proper diet.

She may have to spend her time on a vegetable garden instead of a flower garden, and she may have to spend more time in the kitchen cooking cheaper cuts of meat that take considerable cooking time, but if she wants to she can give her children the foundation for health.

If she doesn't, she is falling down in her duty to her family, to her community, and to her country. For a nation's health is almost entirely in the keeping of its women.

Seventy-one per cent of the world's passenger cars and 54 per cent of the trucks are registered in the United States.

30 Pros Pronounce Golf Course Ready

AMARILLO, June 18 (AP)—Thirty Texas golf pros inspected the Amarillo Country club course here and pronounced it ready for the Texas PGA Tourney, which begins tomorrow.

A four-under-par 66 was fired by Henry Ranson, Glen Garden club professional from Fort Worth, in a practice round yesterday.

The pro-amateur round will be played tomorrow, and the Texas Open starts Friday, with the pros qualifying for five places in the National PGA Tourney next month at Denver.

The PGA and Open rounds will end Saturday with a second 36 holes.

Parks Bike With Police, But It's Gone Anyway

SEDALIA, Mo., June 18 (AP)—For safety's sake, Clyde Hayes parked his bicycle at the police station.

When he went to get it it was gone. Police Chief Harrison Anderson said about 50 youngsters leave their bicycles at headquarters daily and someone may have taken the wrong one by mistake. Clyde hopes so.

Sharper Control Over Immigration To Be Instituted

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Sharper control over immigration into the United States is to be instituted before July 1, authoritative sources declared today, a few hours after the government had barred the departure of "pending further instructions" of any of the 330,000 German nationals now living in this country.

To effect this new strict control over movements of aliens, boards of review will be established to pass on all applications for immigrant visas, after each application has been thoroughly investigated.

Applications for the annual quota of 153,774 immigrant visas at present are passed on by field offices of the immigration bureau after—so Attorney General Jackson told congress—a "rather haphazard" investigation of the prospective citizens' qualifications and history.

The state, justice, war, and navy departments will have on representative on each of the five boards of review to be set up, it was learned, with the possibility that the federal bureau of investigation or a special immigration investigative agency will also be represented.

The army and navy representation on the boards, it was learned, is particularly designed to prevent fifth columnists or subversive agents of other governments from entering the United States in the guise of immigrants.

The order issued yesterday to the customs and immigration services to prevent any German nationals from leaving the United States was characterized as one more move in a general plan to tighten control over the 5,000,000 aliens now here, as well as over the entrance of thousands more, many of whom describe themselves as refugees from German-occupied territories.

The immediate objective of the order, it was stated officially, was to make sure that no German national attempts to evade the White House proclamation "freezing" European funds in the United States.

Heat Too Much For One-Legged Prisoner Atop Water Tower

ATLANTA, June 18 (AP)—A one-legged man who had climbed an 80-foot water tower at the Federal penitentiary, stripped down to his shorts, yanked off his wooden leg and pounded the metal tank finally came down when his antics drew scant attention from prison officials.

"He'll be down after while," said Warden Joseph W. Sanford shortly after the man climbed a ladder to the tank top in yesterday's broiling sun. He'll soon get tired of it.

The prisoner, identified by prison officials as Robert Cales, 30, serving 18 months from Atlanta for forging a $10 money order, descended just in time to miss his evening meal.

It has been announced that a recently developed high-speed 64-passenger transport plane can bring any capital in the Western Hemisphere within 16 1/2 hours flying time of the United States.

Fort Worth To Be Convention City For Women's Clubs

AUSTIN, June 18 (AP)—Fort Worth, instead of Austin, will be host of the annual convention of the general federation of women's clubs, a national organization, during the week of April 12, 1942.

The selection was made by the state federation's executive committee which decided yesterday that Austin could not accommodate 5,000 expected delegates.

The action was subject to the approval of the national federation's executive committee.

Sooners To Compete In Canadian Rodeo

Special To The NEWS

CANADIAN, June 18—Rodeo stars from several southwestern states will compete in the 19th annual Anvil Park rodeo to be staged here on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, July 4, 5, and 6.

The rodeo will attract top contestants not only because of the handsome purses being offered, but also because winners in the various events will gain points in the Southwest Rodeo association. It is this organization which will award $3,000 in prizes to the grand champion and individual champions at its annual convention at Dalhart in December.

Invitations to the local affair have been extended to all the outstanding rodeo cowboys, as well as to local amateurs. Many of these have already signified their intentions of coming, and other entries are expected to arrive before the deadline.

Such noted rodeo stars as Clyde and Jiggs Burke, Comanche, Okla., and Slim Whaley, Evers, Tex., will enter the single steer roping event, which is always popular with both rodeo fans and contestants. Bruce Ross of Sayre, Okla., one of the famous Ross brothers, will return to protect his title as champion steer wrestler.

Since most of the outstanding ropers and bulldoggers come from the Southwest, the Canadian rodeos always attract the cream of the crop of rodeo entertainers, and this year will be no exception, according to committee members.

Three hundred dollars will be paid in single steer roping, with entry fees of $25 for each roping added; in the other events, $250 will be paid with entry fees added, which in the aggregate will make approximately $2,200 for which the contestants may "spar."

Arena purses are split on the basis of 40 per cent to the winner, 30 per cent to second place, 20 per cent to third place, and ten per cent to fourth place, unless otherwise specified.

Wendell L. Willkie, who "though he did not win the election has won the hearts of the American people," also received the honorary doctor of laws degree at the university's 240th commencement.

To Robert E. Sherwood, the playwright and advocate of aid to Britain, went the honorary degree of doctor of letters, while President Kenneth C. M. Sills of Bowdoin college was made a doctor of laws.

New Tractor Bought By City Commission

Purchase of a 22-horsepower Farm-All tractor from the Riskey Truck & Implement company was approved by the city commission at its regular meeting yesterday.

The vehicle's price is $1,053.50, and equipment includes a 6-foot mower attachment, 10 x 38 rear tires, starter, lights, power take-off, swinging and draw bar, wheel weights, muffler, tires, water and anti-freeze.

Use of the machine will be at the caliche pit, on streets, and in mowing.

Yesterday's session of the Commission was a short one, lasting only 30 minutes, due to Commissioner H. C. Wilson's call to serve as a pallbearer at the funeral of Charles Drennen. All of the members of the commission, except Mayor Fred Thompson, attending the Kiwanis International convention at Atlanta, Ga., were present at the meeting.

McLean Residents To Ballyhoo Their Jubilee-Rodeo Here

Residents of McLean will come to Pampa Friday afternoon to tell "all" about their big annual Jubilee and Rodeo June 25 and 26, and to invite Pampa to move to McLean for the big show. The visitors will arrive here between 4 and 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon and they'll be welcomed by members of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

Accompanying the trippers will be the McLean band and the McLean girls' trio, which has made a hit at club meetings and conventions in this section.

An old timers celebration and kiddie carnival will be held in connection with the rodeo this year. A highlight event at the two night rodeo performances will be a square dance on horseback. The 12 men and women have been traing their horses for the past year.

Rodeo performances will be at the high school football field at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m., each day. Added attraction at the afternoon event on June 26 will be a cowgirl barrel race.

Parents Announce Engagement Of Molly O'Daniel

AUSTIN, June 18 (AP)—Molly O'Daniel, vivacious 19-year-old daughter of governor and Mrs. W. Lee O'Daniel, today looked forward to her marriage, at an unannounced date, to Jack D. Wrather, Jr., of Tyler.

Mrs. O'Daniel announced the engagement yesterday at the mansion, adding "we are all very happy about it." She said her daughter's romance with the 23-year-old University of Texas graduate started at the university where Molly is a junior.

Molly revealed in Tyler last night she met Wrather, active president of the Overton Refining company, in Latin class at the university in February two years ago.

"I have been in love with him ever since," she said. "Jack never would have noticed me except that I was late every day."

The tall, handsome girl said she would not return to her studies because "Jack doesn't want an educated wife."

Wrather put in: "She's already too smart for me."

The young man became head of the $2,000,000 refinery about a year after he was graduated from Texas in 1939.

His father has been ill the past year.

Japs Demand 'Rights' In Dutch East Indies

(By The Associated Press)

TOKYO, June 18—Japan announced today she had demanded the right to share with "third powers"—the United States and Britain were included—in the economic fruits of the Netherlands East Indies.

Acknowledgment that 20 months of negotiations with the Dutch to that end had been broken off at Batavia in an unsatisfactory stalemate, she said she would "hold fast to her just and fair contentions."

An official statement announced that Kenkichi Yoshizawa, chief negotiator in the Japanese effort to obtain a larger share of the riches of the Indies, had been ordered home.

Materials and goods, general trade relations, Japanese immigration and the pursuit of their occupations and investments in shipping, aviation and communications were among subjects listed.

"As regards the forementioned matters, especially aviation connections," the statement said, "they were already being carried on between third powers and the Indies; and, in investments in enterprises such as the oil industry, Anglo-American capital had been showing remarkable activities."

"Third powers thus are very liberally permitted to engage in all these enterprises."

ROMAN "VICTORY" ARCH

TEX'S TOPICS By Tex DeWeese
LOVE! Poets have been vainly trying to define it—"the wine of existence"—"the sweetest joy, the wildest woe"—"an egotism of two"—"a smoke raised with the fume of sighs"—"a reality born in the fairy region of romance"—"the life of the soul"—"the emblem of eternity"—"a dream"—and so on, and so on down through all the literature of the ages. . . . Remained for 1941 to discover that love is a stomach ache, or, more precisely, that a stomach ache may be caused by love. Dr. Leon J. Saul of the Institute for Psychoanalysis in Chicago imparted this melancholy information to the National Conference of Social Work. . . . Thus man's fate: no sooner have you steered your way through the anxious period when stomach aches were constantly following (too much enthusiasm for ice cream and cake than he enters into a period lasting until death when love will subject him to the same complaint. . . . From death, taxes—and stomach ache—no escape.

The War Today
(This daily feature, conducted by Dewitt Mackenzie, is being written in his absence on vacation by Fred Venderschmidt.)
Everything is upside down in this war; it must be a never-ending nightmare to the veteran of 1914-18 who thought he had it all figured out in advance. Horses ride in airplanes where by the book they should be charging across the terrain (Holland, May, 1940); tanks in thundering fleets wheel and collide in the awful summer heat of the Egyptian desert, where Arab steeds and warriors in bright robes should have the field of battle to themselves (Salum, June, 1941).
Now in the never-never land of Syria, ex-ally kills ex-ally, because both a sense are combating their original enemy, one in continuing battle, the other in the morass of defeat.
The new battle of Salum sees massed tanks in action on a basis of equality which should have prevailed, but did not, at Cambral and at Arras just a year ago.
Carried thousands of miles from home to the blazing sands, these iron monsters of Germany and Britain sweep like men o' war in battle line across the vast desert, unhindered and unharassed for many the mile before they find the point of attack. Then the battle explodes. The ensuing torment of the fighters within these massive broilers, afire in the African sun and reeling under the shock of shellfire, challenges the imagination.
In Syria the French fight the melancholy battle of desperation and their resistance is stubborn and hard against an assailant who is not an enemy and has not much heart for his work. Why this fight against the British invading columns is so fierce can be explained by a new report of the collaboration terms between France and her German conqueror.
According to this story the Germans laid down the rule that it was up to the French to use their own men to defend their own territory; but, that once such territory was successfully invaded by the British, the Germans would take their own good time move in for keeps, and the French never would get the territory back.
Thus the soldiers of Vichy are spurred to arms, not only by the physical fact that a British invader is on their soil, but by what for them, is far worse—the specter of irretrievable loss of their empire to the Germans who stamp, already, across half their homeland. Thus, they make use of what weapons they can, even the airplanes of the conqueror.

Three-Year Hitch
The army is now seeking voluntary re-enlistment for the regular three-year "hitch" by selective service trainees who have gone through the regular one-year training.
It will be an excellent thing for the army if many of the selectees do so re-enlist. One of the advantages of the German army over any of its opponents is that so many of its men have served continuous enlistments for as long as six to ten years.
No matter what happens, the army looks as though it will be a large-scale operation for a good many years. It will offer opportunities for advancement, and an attractive career for many who find they like the life, and who may decide to stick with the service indefinitely. Those who do will be a solid core of advanced efficiency for the army of the future.

The Sympathetic Warriors
It was a bitter Al Smith who slipped out a side door of the Congress hotel in Chicago July 3, 1932. He was an hour before train time, but he was eager to avoid the crowd gathered at the front entrance to greet Governor Roosevelt, triumphant winner of the presidential nomination Smith had sought and lost.
It was a bitter Al Smith who through the succeeding nine years snarled criticisms of the New Deal and aided and comforted its enemies.
Was it the memory of the days when he, too, bore the crushing weight of leadership and public responsibility that led Al Smith to the White House the other day? It was just a friendly call, he said. "I wanted to shake hands with the President and wish him well."
It was decent and gracious thus to dissolve old bitterness in sympathetic good-will toward one who is hearing a staggering burden.

A QUESTION FOR HONEST COLLECTIVE BARGAINERS
Truth and principles never contradict themselves. The purpose of questions is to determine whether men are thinking in harmony with eternal, universal, God-given laws. If they are obliged to contradict themselves in order to answer, then they are advocating actions that are not based on principles. Then their actions are only personal opinions.
If collective bargainists are honest, let them answer, without contradictions, these questions.
The way to test any principle is to reduce it to small numbers so that it is easily comprehensible. Then, if the principle is established on a small scale, if the principle is sound, it will operate, no matter how large the scale may be. Let us do this and see whether collective bargaining raises wage levels and is beneficial to the working man as a whole, as inexperienced and demagogical people contend.
Suppose we reduce the population of the United States to three people so that money is not needed to help exchange and the operations are so limited that they are easily understandable. With only three men in the United States, they could do no more than barely exist, if that. Let us say that they lived on fish and protected themselves from the elements with wood; that in the beginning it was believed it took the same skill and energy to get ten pounds of fish as it did to make a flint ax or to furnish a quarter of a cord of lumber. Then it would make little difference which man supplied fish, the ax, or lumber. They might exchange jobs—one of the men doing one job part of the time and another doing another job part of the time.
Different Abilities
But now let us suppose that one man has an idea or became more skilled at one job than the others and that he says to the other two workers that he will not only give ten pounds of fish for the flint ax or the quarter of a cord of lumber, but he will give the 10 pounds of fish plus 10 pounds of leaves that will make a more comfortable place to sleep, or something else they want; that he would rather do this than produce either the ax or the lumber, would it be to the advantage of all the workers to permit him to specialize on producing the fish?
Of course, there can be but one answer.
Now, if it is to the advantage for three men to do this, would it not be to the advantage for 30 men to do it? Would it not be to the advantage for 300,000 or 130,000,000 men to work on the same principle?
And if it is admitted as any rational person would be obliged to admit that it is to the advantage of all the workers, to permit the man to do the work who will give other workers more for their work, then by all the methods of logic and reason it is to the interest of all workers, no matter if the population of the United States is 130,000,000, to permit each and every worker to do the work that gives other workers the most for their labor.
To continue to contend that collective bargaining is a social gain and is beneficial to the workers as a whole, over a long period of time, and not refute the above example, is simply to pay no attention to contradictions or to any rational reasoning. It is to talk and advocate without principle, as a simple-minded, inexperienced child would talk and propose.
Reward for Answer
If any representative of organized labor, or Mrs. Roosevelt or Bishop Francis McConnelly, will answer the above questions without contradictions, I will give $100 to the United Service Organizations for the benefit of our soldier boys. I will leave the determining of whether the questions have been answered without contradiction to head of department of mathematics or logic of any non-politically controlled college in the United States.
CONFUSED MRS. ROOSEVELT
The statements made by Mrs. Roosevelt, as published in the Clearing House in this paper recently, show how confused she is about what labor unions mean.
Mrs. Roosevelt was attempting to answer the question, "By what impersonal, eternal rule are employees to be selected if they are not to be selected on the basis of the person who would do the most for the reward?"
Her reply was: "I would select them on a basis of agreement between us. First, that they were capable of doing the work which I wished done."
Mrs. Roosevelt does not seem to know that when labor unions take possession, they are the ones who select the help and not the employer. She would have nothing to say about what agreements were made between her and the individual employees, if she signed a closed shop contract, which she seems so strongly to advocate. Neither would she be the judge as to whether they were capable of doing the work she wanted done. The labor leaders would select the help she should employ and they would be the judge of their efficiency, and whether they were earning the money or doing the work the way she wanted it done so that the unit cost was low enough that she could market the product of the worker.
It simply shows how confused Mrs. Roosevelt is on things she talks a lot about.
If organized labor takes possession, as she advocates, she would take what they gave her and like it, or the union people would to everything in their power to destroy her production and those people who believed in the law of equal freedom.
It is amazing how little people can know about things and still praise a thing and claim to be posted.
clear that it would be a mistake to impose a ministry of purchases on American business at this time. But he admits it might be necessary when industry becomes more crowded. That is taken to mean when defense spending has reached three or four billion dollars a month instead of the present one billion.
Here's a message from the Texas Safety association of special importance to parents: Every year the Fourth of July means death or injury to hundreds of youngsters through the use of fireworks. Don't let your children play with them. The brief thrill of fireworks is not worth the risk of mangled fingers and lighted eyes. Instead, take your children to supervised public displays. They'll be just as thrilled. . . . and a lot safer!

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, June 18—A remarkable picture on an exceptional set in this unique village. Just now the production is called "Ladies in Retirement," after the stage play, but Columbia will be an extraordinary studio if it doesn't change the title at the last minute.
Anyway, it's about three spinster sisters who are crazy as hoot-hows. They move in on a rich old doll who lives in an elegant but spooky house among some eerie moors (courtesy Lionel Banks, art director). Along comes a batty nephew of the mad sisters and upsets their demented lives, discovering that one of his dear aunts has murdered their hostess and stuffed the body into an oven.
This may not sound like comedy, but much of it is being played for comedy, especially between the two elder spinsters, Elsa Lanchester and Edith Barrett are sure to be typed by this adventure as a new pair of piliated sisters.
ANOTHER LAUGHTON STARS
Miss Barrett, stage-actress wife of Vincent Price, hasn't been troubled by movie typing because this is her first picture. Miss Lanchester, wife of Charles Laughton, hasn't done many films but has been variously typed by the last three. She was under contract to Metro when she and Laughton made their second trip from England, but the studio officials has seen "Henry VIII," in which Miss Lanchester played Anne of Cleves, and could think of her only as an uppity little German blond.
So she was loaned to Universal for "The Bride of Frankenstein," and she played, two roles—Fragile, and the emphyre, and the wild-eyed female monster. "It seemed like a good idea at the time," she commented. "But I found out later that nobody in Hollywood associated me with both parts. The offers I got were all for sweet, delicate characters like the first one."
By 1936 she played Peter Pan on the stage and delighted Sir James Barrie with the job, but Hollywood didn't see that. What it did see, later, was Miss Lanchester as the spinster daughter of a missionary in "The Beachcomber." So when the Laughtons came here to live, she was offered dour spinster roles.
"If I hadn't been Mrs. Charles Laughton, I wouldn't have been able to say 'No' so often, and the whole pattern of my career would have been changed. Now that we're living here and I really want to work in pictures, I won't be so particular," she said.
SHE SAVES SHELLS
She likes the role as one of the crazy sisters, though. The actress herself has a sort of pixie quality, and the character she plays is an introvert creature of nature who keeps bringing in shells and seaweed and dead birds. Lives in a squalid room and devotes herself to tidying up the whole outdoors.
Ida Lupino is the sister who commits the murder, Louis Hayward the fiendish nephew. Isobel Elsom, the victim, came from the Broadway cast of the play, and this is her first picture since silent days. Another player in it whom you haven't seen in a long time is Clyde Cook, famed comedian up to 1930, when he went to England.
SHIP COMMODITIES
There are about 38,500 different commodities in stock in the stores of a first class battleship. They range from anchors weighing eight tons each down to tiny screws.

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim
I know a Pampa sour-puss who is so bored and disgusted all the time that any enthusiasm he encounters just burns him up, and makes him even more miserable, and nothing gives him more satisfaction than to burn up and insult people. Being a Big Shot he can do this fairly easily. Incidentally he is a minute-by-minute hater of That Man in the White House, but he was a sour-puss before he acquired a passion to destroy FDR. . . . This column's enthusiasm for the Fiesta was a source of irritation to this man, but despite his sneers I'm going to keep on writing about the Fiesta for the reason that it is not over yet for some of us. Take last night, for instance, when Jim Nalley and I wrapped packages containing state flags until 10:30, and this morning I have a couple of blisters due to pulling string. . . . It was quite remarkable that we lost none of the state flags used in the parade. Every one was unburned although we didn't know the names of half the persons who carried them. . . . The flags were sent back to the governors who sent them. . . . Now when we get all the float paper stored up we will be finished except for taking home John Kiser's wagon. . . . And that paper brings up another matter. If any of the state clubs want the decorations used on the floats and at the ends of the float all they have to do is to ask for it because the paper belongs to them.

OLD DOG CHRISTMAS
By Stella Holte
The Jones girls were making mince-pies in the kitchen and the boys were setting up a Christmas tree in the parlor when a covered wagon went rattling by on the frozen road. A long, lean, greyhound running behind the wagon came across the yard and stood at the back door. Every thing that happens on Christmas eve is fun and to see that hungry hound asking for a handout at the kitchen door made Els and Sal roar. They both tried to feed him at once.
He amused them the way he gulped food and then looked at them with his innocent soft eyes asking for more. They thought he would dash out to overtake the wagon as soon as he had eaten. But he never looked at the wagon again. The long, lean hound had found him a home on Christmas eve and he aimed to stay.
Nobody came back after him and after a couple of hours the Jones family knew they had a dog and they called him Christmas.
They didn't like that hound. She said that kind of a dog was only good for catching rabbits. It was only for chasing things and wouldn't be happy around the house. She said it made her sick to see the way he gulped food and then always looked so thin.
That greyhound had good blood in him. He was a beautiful thin grey racer and his coat glistened. He was not a dog to hug but one that was always by your side when you went out.
One day when the kids were all at school, ma did an awful thing. She traded Christmas for a Collie pup. A man came along with the pup and convinced her it was a more suitable dog for children than a greyhound. The man was a hustler and he lived 20 miles east. Christmas. He put the hound in a car and drove away. Ma didn't even ask him his name. The collie pup was there when the kids came home.
They were so heartbroken they couldn't even speak. To trade a dog that had come to you on Christmas eve, just picked you out of all the world to live with. Even Ma got sorry when she realized how deeply attached the kids were to Christmas. So she only remember the man said he lived 20 miles east. Nobody paid the least attention to the collie. You might learn to live without a dog, but you couldn't love any other dog than your own. Every hour of the day the kids missed Christmas and Sal said she always added it to her prayers that Christmas would come back to them.
And he did come back, weeks later. He had a gash in his throat he'd got from a barbed wire fence somewhere. He looked weary and footsore, but he was home and the kids cried they joy.
The man suspected the hound might have returned and came to see. Mrs. Jones said they couldn't let him go again. She told him he could have the collie pup, but the man didn't take it. He looked at the dog and said it was going to die. The collie did die, and Sal felt very sorry about it. "Nobody ever cared a jot for the poor thing. We didn't play with him. We didn't even give him a name."

Behind The News

By PETER EDSON
The Pampa News Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON, June 18—A drastic plan for merging United States civilian economy with the general government procurement program and the purchases of supplies for the defense effort is gradually unfolding in Washington.
While it may be denied that the plan involves the creation of an "Economic Ministry"—a super-control body that would practically dictate what articles of general commerce could be produced and sold—the idea is so sweeping that if the defense effort were to last a considerable period of time it might easily grow into such a powerful organization that it would influence every phase of the country's economic life.
First steps toward such a set-up are to be seen in the announcement of Donald M. Nelson, director of purchases in the Office of Production Management, that in a matter of weeks there may be instituted an effort to simplify the number of lines of merchandise for civilian use. While these particular industries might not be the first to be affected, Nelson mentions as examples, hardware items, which require skilled labor to manufacture; blankets, which might be reduced from over a score of grades and colors to say seven or eight; and radio sets, which might be reduced from 20 models to 10.
With simplifications of specifications such as these, the extra productive capacity of all mills could be turned to defense items or other items for which there might be a critical civilian-use shortage.
NO CRACKING DOWN—AT FIRST
Two things should be made clear in connection with this breath-taking plan for the reform of the economic pattern:
1. "Simplification" does not mean "standardization." That is, all manufacturers of blankets or radios would not be compelled to make the same seven or ten lines, colors and grades. Widest possible latitude would be given to make any seven or ten grades the manufacturer chose.
2. The entire plan would be instituted, at least in the beginning, on a purely voluntary basis within any given industry, without compulsion or penalty of any kind, for there is no definite statutory provision to cover any such industrial revolution as this plan involves.
The plan has been under consideration in Washington for some months. It has been presented to the president and is supposed to have his approval. Only reason it has not been promulgated, according to Nelson, is that press of immediate matters has prevented it.
Announcement of the basic ideas of the plan came rather unexpectedly as a press conference held by Nelson. He had not intended to reveal the plan in such detail at this time, but under questioning by reporters about the speed of letting contracts and carrying out the defense program production, Nelson brought out this idea as one of the means by which production could be speeded—by freezing productive capacity through simplification of styles and designs and variations of the more or less common items of civilian use.
Inspiration for the "Economy Ministry" plan is two-fold. The broad idea is patterned after the British Ministry of Supply which has functioned for England throughout the war. In discussing the idea, Nelson refers to Churchill's speech before commons, Nov. 17, 1938, in which he presented his most forceful arguments for creation of a ministry of supply that would have over-all control of military and civilian economy. Nelson mentioned, in fact, that he recently re-read this speech which appears as a chapter of the current best-seller, "Blood, Sweat and Tears," a collection of Churchill speeches.
Second reason for advancement of a plan like this for the United States is simply the experience which Nelson and his associates have had in handling the purchases job for OPM. Here again, Nelson makes

SERIAL STORY

CALIBAN FROM CALEB

By NORMAN KAHL

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY, Angus returns a few days later, discovers Adoreen has gone to New York. She has seen an ad for cheap girls, and is off to get the job. Hauling 2500 pounds of butter, Angus returns to New York, knowing he will be dead. But he has to find Adoreen. Next morning, he is speeding down the highway, when a patrolman stops him. Angus explains, but the officer says he'll give the girl a break. . . . Angus is going with him.

make New York some time during the next morning. When Angus whirrs around the next curve, he jams on the brake and comes to a dead stop in the middle of the road. There is no other traffic in sight, which is just as well. Angus hops out of the truck and buries around to the back. He flings open the doors and jumps back. A cascade of rich, sunny butter, of no further use on the farm produce market, splashes and bubbles on the hot highway. In a rapidly widening stream, it runs toward both ditches and spreads an even coating of bilious oil over the surface of the road. In a few minutes the road looks like the State Highway Department's engineers, even in their mightiest, never have imagined it. It is barricaded with butter two feet deep and the ditches on each side are beginning to look like an oily version of the Johnstown flood. Angus can already hear the roar of a motorcycle getting louder and louder as it pulls away, and he is only a few hundred yards down the road when he looks into his rear-view mirror and sees the trooper bending around the curve at a speed that makes Angus wince. What happens then happens so fast that afterward Angus never can remember anything clearly. He is glad he can't see the trooper's face. All he can see is a motorcycle spinning around like a top with a lot of butter shooting night like a geyser. Then, suddenly, the spinning stops, and the cop isn't on the motorcycle any longer but is shooting down the well-greased pavement on his stomach. Angus can't bear to watch any more. He concentrates on the road ahead until just before he reaches the crest of a hill. He takes one final look. The trooper is sitting in the ditch, his head buried in his hands. It looks as if he is sobbing.

ing on the incompetence of New York drivers and is keeping his eyes peeled for the city hall when he hears a chorus of sirens and his heart shrinks. By the time he pulls up to the curb, he is surrounded by six policemen who pile out of three cars. The biggest one pushes back his hat. "What's the big idea, Buddy? Do you know how many lights you crashed?" "If you will let me go and find my girl, I will write you a letter when I get back to Caleb," Angus promises, "and I will explain everything." The big cop sniffs. "Huh! That, boys? He's gonna write us a letter. He's probably just dropped into town on a harmless visit to rob a bank and we're detaining him." The cop's face turns a queer shade of purple. "Get out of that truck and let's see yer driver's license." Angus gets out and presents his license. The large officer studies it a minute and says, "Caleb, eh? What're you doin' here, MacPhillips?" "I told you. I came to get my girl."

BUTTER—SPREAD THIN
CHAPTER III
IT is easy for Angus to see that this trooper does not look like the kind that will listen to reason. The officer reaches in and takes Angus' ignition key out of the switch. Then he walks around to the front of the truck and starts writing in his notebook. Angus has to make a decision in a hurry. He pulls his spare ignition key out of his pocket and inserts it in the switch. Then he reaches into the back of the truck and fumbles around until he finds what he wants. When the cop comes back to the cab, he is in no mood to negotiate. "No inter-state license," he booms. "Boy, you'll get 20 years for this. What are you hauling?" "Butter," says Angus. It is plain to see that the cop is up against something they didn't teach him in the state troopers' training school. He is trying to remember what rule covers a case like this when all of a sudden, all rules are suspended. The trooper sees Angus' hand come up from the seat and he is something golden and glistening in that vast paw—something that drips. But he doesn't duck in time. There is a menacing squish! Then an unpleasant plop! And a pound of oily slightly melted butter spreads itself out on the cop's face. It is only when the officer rubs his sleeve across his eyes that Angus has sense enough to start his engine and jerk away from the bitter scene. Angus pushes the accelerator to the floor but he is painfully aware that if the trooper ever manages to unbutton himself sufficiently to operate his motorcycle again, there will be another race, with the odds in favor of the cop.

It is not easy to keep a secret from then on. It seems Angus is slugging every cop in New York. Some of them come back a second time. Most of them just cut up. The street and gutter are cluttered up with policemen stretched out as if they are asleep on duty. Occasionally somebody gets in a poke at Angus. Angus doesn't see the night stick until it is too late to do anything. It connects with his head and makes a noise like an anvil. Everything starts spinning around as he sinks to the ground. The last thing he hears is someone saying, "Tell the marines never mind." Then he closes his eyes and lets the blackness close in.

It is after 9 the next morning when Angus pulls out of the Holland Tunnel and finds himself in the middle of Manhattan's traffic. The first thing to do obviously is to see the mayor. Maybe the mayor has heard about Adoreen. If Angus can find her right away, they can start looking for Caleb before midnight and it is possible that Mr. Wittenbaum will understand about the butter and everything. Angus is driving along a narrow street with a lot of automobiles shooting out at him from side streets and stopping dead with screeching brakes within a couple inches of his truck. He is reflect-

Two New World Records In Track Written In Meet

LOS ANGELES, June 18 (P)—Two new world records were offered for official recognition today as another chapter was written in the annual dual track and field competition between picked teams of the powerful Pacific Coast conference and the Big Ten. California's four-man team surpassed the world mark in the mile relay, Oregon's Les Steers soared to new heights in the high jump with a leap of 6 feet, 11 inches, and the Coast routed the Midwestern forces in team points, 80 to 56. High point of the meet, held before some 10,000 fans, came in the final event when the Golden Bear quartet of John Reese, Fay Fromm, Clarence Barnes and Grover Klemmer captured the mile relay in record time of 3 minutes, 9.4 seconds. Klemmer, unaware that his father had died a few hours before, held off a gallant threat by the Trojan anchor man, Hubert Kerns, and gave the event to his mates by inches.

O'Daniel And Dies Trade Verbal Blows

(By The Associated Press)

Although the Texas senatorial contest is taking place in unusual times and in many respects has departed from the conventional pattern, it retains one familiar aspect as election day nears—that of a free-for-all.

The major candidates vie with one another in endorsing national defense and old-age pensions, but during the heat of the campaign they have struck at each other impartially, like a group of blindfolded pugilists in a ring.

Experienced political observers say they're glad of it—it's a healthy sign. It is, they assert, a good indication that the democratic process can function even in a national emergency.

In an address at Sulphur Springs last night Congressman Martin Dies assailed what he described as medicine show tactics in Texas politics, and declared that the chief attorney for the CIO—which he has denounced because of what he said was its communist tendencies—was in the state in behalf of one senatorial candidate. He asked that all candidates repudiate such support.

"Can you see," said Dies before an audience in the courthouse square "the United States Senate in session and a new senator from Texas coming in with a hillbilly band?"

At Memphis Attorney General Gerald C. Mann denied what he said was a charge that he was a professional politician and cited rulings he had made as attorney general at the request of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, another senatorial aspirant.

"You know and I know," he added, "that the governor would not have accepted those rulings had he thought I was a professional politician."

Governor O'Daniel, in a talk at Port Arthur, declared "My two opponents already in congress are shedding crocodile tears over the old people, but they haven't done anything for them. Pensions make a good political platform, but my board believes every person over 65, not half of them, should get checks."

Earlier at Jasper, O'Daniel told an audience he was "not campaigning

Legislature Likely To Recess To July 15 To Override Vetoes

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 18.—The 47th legislature, clearing its desks of practically all major matters, today moved rapidly toward conclusion of the overtime general session.

Mourning sentiment indicated a quitting date was not far off and there were predictions the senate, for weeks at loggerheads with the house on the issue, would accept the lower chamber's proposal to recess June 20 to July 15 and adjourn finally July 18.

The procedure would enable the lawmakers to override possible vetoes of Governor W. Lee O'Daniel on important appropriations for government operation the next two years.

The lawmakers yesterday sent O'Daniel a $30,270,754 biennial departmental appropriation bill, $5,000,000 higher than current governmental expenditures, leaving only the rural school aid bill among high money-spending measures to be finally acted upon.

Climaxing long wrangling, the legislators also approved bills making permanent the state's oil proration law and altering the statutes to provide allowable production on a statewide instead of a pool basis.

The latter, proponents claimed, would eliminate asserted selective buying of crude.

House adoption of a senate resolution will submit to the people a proposed constitutional amendment permitting the legislature to appropriate $75,000 for a claim involving construction of a building at John Tarleton agricultural college.

The lower legislative branch also adopted a second conference committee report on a $15,598,009 elementary appropriation bill on which senate acceptance was necessary.

The senate had accepted the original conference report which the house turned down.

Another of O'Daniel's vetoes was overridden when the senate completed action on a bill making first offense of drunk driving a misdemeanor instead of a felony. Prosecuting attorneys contended convictions were difficult when a penitentiary sentence loomed for a first-time offender.

The governor had asserted the statute amendment would result in increased liquor sales and highway fatalities.

New items included in the departmental appropriation measure included $1,500,000 for purchase of acreage to establish the Big Bend park in West Texas, $443,000 for repairs for the half-century old Capitol and $923,316 to finance National Guard armories construction.

Ninety-one additional highway patrolmen were provided, O'Daniel two years ago heavily blue-pencilled items for the state police and other departments.

Regarding the oil proration legislation, long a stumbling block on final conclusion of the session, a majority of the railroad commission and Federal Oil Coordinator Harold Ickes favored making the statutes permanent.

Railroad Commissioners Olin Culbertson and Jerry Sadler sponsored the bill intended to eliminate selective purchasing and empowering the commission to continue its present proration methods which have suffered under court rulings.

First refusing to adopt a resolution naming a three-member committee for a Washington oil conference, the house later approved one naming Reps. Clayton Bray of Longview and Garold Kennedy of Palestine as Texas delegates.

The house killed a proposed constitutional amendment which would have authorized free distribution of textbooks to all children of scholastic age, including those attending parochial and other private schools.

The electorate defeated a similar proposal in 1934.

Russian Women Being Trained For Medical Work In Case Of War

MOSCOW (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Millions of Russian women are being trained for medical work in case of war in a program that is part of Premier Joseph Stalin's effort to keep Soviet Russia "in a state of constant military preparedness."

Although a majority of the women are training in so-called courses for sanitary preparedness, more than 30,000 are enrolled in special militarized units preparing to act as nurses on battlefields.

In addition, all women doctors and professional nurses are taking obligatory training every other evening after working hours. Their training is pointed toward action during air or chemical attacks.

"No woman is to be left unprepared for sanitary defense" is the slogan under which every Soviet plant, office and collective farm is called upon to train its women members for war.

Simultaneously in plants and factories throughout Russia, women are being trained in skilled trades to be ready to shoulder the jobs of men who may be sent into battle.

The press, theatre and movies are active in a campaign of "mobilizing the Soviet woman for the defense of her Socialist fatherland."

serve and to get practical experience. Many clubs during 1941 will conduct find-yourself campaigns, aptitude tests, sponsor student loan funds and find employment for graduates.

Ickes To Meet Hundreds Of Oil Executives

By EDWARD CURTIS

TULSA, Okla., June 18 (AP)—Secretary Ickes, defense petroleum coordinator, will meet with hundreds of oil executives in Washington tomorrow to discuss problems presented by the nation's civilian and military oil needs.

While the secretary has issued a general invitation to all interested oil men, it also was understood that about 700 personal messages were sent to petroleum executives.

The secretary has expressed hope that the conference will discuss both the problems of the co-ordinator's office and of the industry.

The supply situation now the eastern seaboard also is expected to be reviewed, with the possibility the industry will learn how best to co-ordinate its efforts to overcome it.

One oil executive here observed that the industry would give its complete support to any defense program outlined and had only to hear its details before acting upon it.

In the field, completions reached a new high for the year. Completions for the week total 661, compared to 594 the previous week, and 561 a year ago. The Oil and Gas Journal said.

A shallower pay has been found in the new Wimberly pool, Jones county, west central Texas. . . . Fourteen new tests are starting in east Texas.

U. S. Ready To Arm Merchant Ships

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt left no doubt today that the United States was ready, if necessary, to arm her merchantmen to meet the threat of submarine warfare.

Whether such action would be taken, informed sources said, probably would depend to a great degree on the attitude of Germany, when Berlin receives the state department's forthcoming protest over the sinking of the American merchantman Robin Moor by a submarine in the South Atlantic.

Well-informed congressional sources already were predicting that arming of the ships would be necessary, but President Roosevelt avoided comment on that possibility.

The question of arming the merchant vessels was raised at Mr. Roosevelt's press conference yesterday. The President was asked whether any thought had been given to the subject after the torpedoing of the Robin Moor.

Mr. Roosevelt replied that the United States had plans ready for arming her merchantmen—and had had them ready since 1918.

For the first time in a hundred years, France is about to manufacture its own steel.
