

PANHANDLE BEGINS TO THAW; MERCURY RISES

If the calm that settled on Pampa this morning after the storm continues, Pampa will have come through in pretty good shape.

The consensus this morning was that Pampa survived the sleet storm that held the Panhandle in an icy grip for the first half of this week in good shape.

Although the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company sustained severe damage south of here, there was no damage to speak of in the Pampa area, George H. Newberry, manager of the Pampa office, said. Four repair crews from Pampa, four from Borger, and four from Shamrock are being sent to Sweetwater today to help repair phone lines in that area, Newberry said.

According to the Associated Press report to San Angelo and Odessa are without long-distance service. The Western Union also said it has lost connection with those towns, and it was estimated that it would take a week to return to normal.

The phone company also reported, the AP said, that it had lost connections with Crane, Spur, Rota, Roby, Hamlin, Hermleigh, Lomahe, Westbrook, Seymour, and Gail. Company officials said 1,300 poles are down, 1,600 crossarms are broken, more than 800 circuits are out, and 4,700 wires are broken. The company has 260 repairmen fighting the storm to restore service, the AP said.

The Southwestern Public Service company here reported no damage, and the Texas Gas and Power company said it had only a few scattered calls where gas regulators or meters to individual customers had frozen.

Ralph Thomas, county agent, said he had received no notice of any cattle or live stock loss as a result of the storm.

Schools are still closed in Pampa and in most other cities in the Panhandle, but otherwise conditions are gradually returning to normal. Streets and highways have been resumed and the city Street Department worked through the night to clear city streets as much as possible for traffic.

According to the Associated Press report, a large area of Southwest Texas continued ice-bound today.

Hardest hit is a 24-county triangle bounded by Sweetwater, San Angelo and Odessa.

Many communities in these areas were practically isolated for the second day in a row.

Business of JP Courts Slow in '48

Misdemeanor offenses in Gray County last year were at a low ebb, at least so far as Justice of the Peace Courts were concerned.

The number of cases tried by both Justices, D. R. Henry and the late Charles L. Hughes, averaged a little over one per day. Each case required an average of 15 minutes to be heard.

Judge D. R. Henry's recaptulation made out today, showed he had heard 243 misdemeanor cases in the 366-day period. Of these all but 12 of the defendants paid fines and were released. Those 12 laid out their fines in the county jail.

For Judge Henry this averaged less than one misdemeanor criminal case per day.

There were no recaptulation figures available from Judge Hughes' office, but both Sheriff's Department and State Highway Patrol alternated their cases as far as practicable. This system sent almost a like number of cases to Judge Hughes' court.

The biggest difference usually showed up on Sunday mornings when the JP's would alternate on holding court.

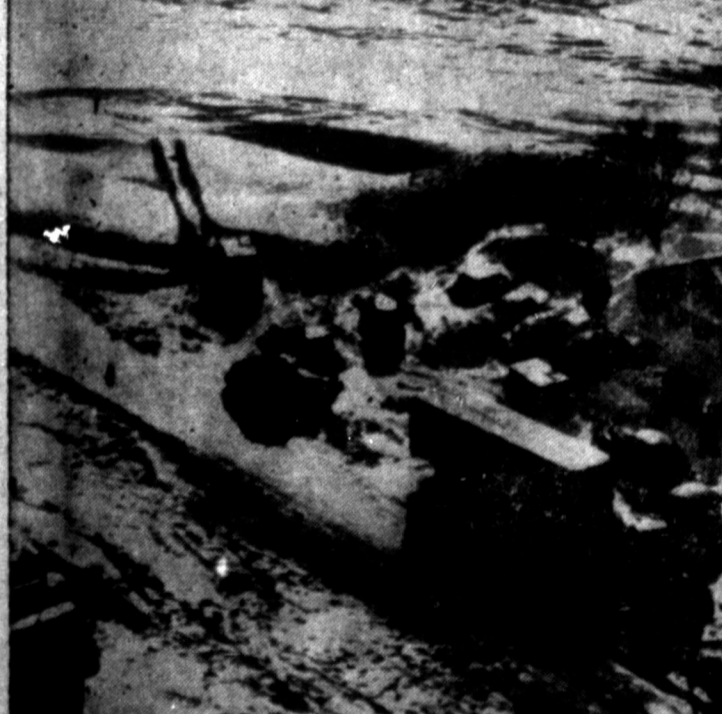

Costs of Justice Court trials averaged slightly over $12 when defendants were brought in by the Sheriff's Department, and $10 on cases submitted by the State Highway Patrol. Fines varied from $1 and costs to $50 and costs.

Judge Henry had no recap of civil suits, but said there were very few civil cases held requiring a six-man jury.

U.S. Peril Is From Within--Sensing

Imparting concern over governmental paternalism and personal indifference, Thurman Lanning, director of research for the Southern States Industrial Council, last night told an audience here that it is the people of this country who are losing their freedom, he said. He charged that it is likely that it will be by default. Sensing, who spoke before a large bad-weather crowd on the occasion of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce installation program at the high school cafeteria, said that of those groups that fail to their duty at the polls, probably the most lax are businessmen. He added they have as much at stake as anybody, or maybe more at stake.

He lauded the American concept of representative democracy, noting that where else in the world is the government designed for the people—rather than the people being obliged to serve the government.

Although no emotional, hand-wringing, the Tennessee delegate, the enmeshment of government under individual freedom and right to operate one's business free of federal and state paternalism. He plunked for the profit system.

The American economic system is based on the profit system, he explained. "Without the profit system, the American way of life will not last." And "destroy American business and you destroy America."

He saw danger in the present trend of government. American business, he said, is now "faced with controls that will ruin it."

He said the dangers that now face both business and the people in general came about through the laxity of the people and the refusal of business to take a part in politics. "Business has stayed out of politics too long."

It was at this point that he said the people did not stand so much to lose their freedom from force without, as from default or indifference, palpably of their own making.

We should look to our own efforts, he observed. He charged that too many people are looking for doles, and in accepting doles surrender their personal freedom. We have, he said, "the government-will-take-care-of-you-itis."

He saw "material and moral disintegration" in Great Britain's socialistic practices. This nationalism, he declared, is partly the fault of the American people—because we financed it to the tune of almost $3 billion.

He talked of social and economic fallacies, listed fundamental truths which he believed overlooked by the people; rapped at the high public debt, which, if paid off now, would cost each person in the land $7,000. Texas' part alone in the national debt is $12,090,000,000.

Sensing, who had an appreciative audience, advocated personal thought and action. The nation, he said, was built on the freedom of the individual. Citizenship in democratic nation is personal responsibility. Personal thinking is vital.

"It is important," he said, "that you think for yourself. You don't have to agree with me or with anyone else, but you should think for yourself."

Over 200 persons were present.

All of town guests failed to arrive, due to the bad weather. There were persons present from Amarillo, Borger and Abilene.

Fred Thompson was installed—by A. A. Meredith, of Borger—as the new president, succeeding Joe Key.

It Was All Confusion as 51st Texas Legislature Convened

How the representatives in the 51st Legislature of Texas knew what was going on the first day was their own secret. Sometimes they didn't know. Beware of Romance

By Roberta Courtland

THE STORY: When sixteen-year-old Merry Carson learns that her dashing father, Kin, has asked her to marry him, she is shocked. Her whole world turns topsy-turvy. Kin leaves home and Susan goes to pieces. Aunt Jane comes to look after things. The doctor tells Merry her mother needs a change and suggests they take her to St. Vincent's, an island resort. Kin's attorney brings papers for Susan to sign. Merry avoids her old gang. Tip Kinsley, the boy she adores, asks why she gives him the brush-off. Merry says that after seeing the awful thing that happened to her parents, she's decided never to fall in love and marry.

IX
It was very early when Susan, Aunt Jane and Merry tucked themselves into the back seat of the handsome Cadillac that had been Kin's Christmas present to Susan the year before.

Merry had been a little uneasy that Susan might refuse to use the car any more; but Susan's mouth had tightened grimly, as Aunt Jane and Merry all but lifted her out of bed and got her dressed.

"Well, at least I got one nice thing out of him before he threw himself away on that common little nobody," Susan said with a peevish viciousness that shocked Merry, kneeling before her working blue slacks on Susan's legs.

Aunt Jane, whisking a clothes brush unnecessarily over the smart navy blue wool frock that Susan was going to wear, stopped and stared at Susan angrily.

"One nice thing? You ungrateful so-and-so!" Aunt Jane flared. "The man has wrapped you in luxury and carried you around on a silver platter for 20 years! One nice thing, my foot!"

But Susan's thin face twisted into white, angry lines. SUSAN was too weak to walk unaided down the stairs. With Merry and Aunt Jane supporting her tenderly, and with Susan being every inch the tragic, heart-broken figure, they finally got her tucked into the Cadillac, her coat of the day's drive, staged a tantrum at sight of the rooms, and walling about being driven out of her home into this" as though it had been some sort of novel, collapsed and had to be put to bed, and fed tea and toast and a sleeping tablet, before Aunt Jane and Merry dared think about themselves. But once Susan was asleep, Aunt Jane came into Merry's room and said briskly, "Well, youngster, how about dinner? I'm starved. I've heard you get wonderful sea food here. And I'm all set for a nice feast."

Merry hesitated. "But do you think we ought to leave Mother alone?"

Aunt Jane looked at her quietly, her eyes warm and tender. "Merry, darling, you're probably going to be pretty angry with me, but it seems to me it's about time you and I had a little frank speech," she said firmly.

In spite of herself, Merry giggled. "Anything more frank than I've been hearing from you lately, Aunt Jane, I'm afraid to hear," she confessed.

Aunt Jane looked pleased at the small glimmer of humor in Merry's eyes but plunged on. "Susan has had a shock and she's going to revel in her martyrdom for a while, and you and I are going to have our hands full pulling her out of it," she insisted.

"If we coddle her and hang over her and give in to her, she may really blow her top, Merry."

Merry caught her breath and a sick coldness clutched her heart. Aunt Jane nodded. "A neurotic, Merry, who gives way to it and nurses it and broods over her misery and dwells on it constantly, can become mentally ill to a degree that no physician can possibly heal," she said gravely and steadily. "So you and I are going to have to make Susan snap out of it, for her own sake. That's one reason I talk back to her now; another is that she makes me so darned mad that I couldn't help it, even if I knew it was bad for her. Now come on and let's see about that sea food."

Truman's Denial of Change In Attitude Dispels Rumors

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

President Truman's denial that there is to be any softening of America's attitude towards Russia will dispel what, to say the least, were worrisome doubts both at home and abroad.

There is no room for doubts at this crucial stage of the cold war. Success of the defense against Communist aggression depends on a solidarity of effort that calls for high morale.

Two recent developments had given rise to much speculation not only in the United States but in foreign countries. One of these was President Truman's statement in Kansas City that there were Russian government leaders who were exceedingly anxious to reach an understanding with America.

It caused speculation which reached such a pitch that some administration officials in Washington indicated they thought the President would have to clarify his personal attitude towards Russia. At this juncture a magazine article appeared, saying in effect that Mr. Truman was engaged in

It's Got to Happen—Now And Then!

RUTHERFORD, N. J. — Typographical errors, the plague of editors, but the delight of newspaper readers for the "belly laughs" they afford, are no respecters of persons or professions.

In the December issue of Medical Economics, national business magazine for physicians, a rich harvest of printing blunders at the expense of doctors is collected under the heading "Typographical errors with a Medical Slant."

One of the classic examples is the one first printed by St. Louis Globe-Democrat. It reads: "The physician felt the patient's pulse and decided that there was no hope."

Typographical blunders with provocative twists abound in the Medical Economics compilation. There is, for example, the Wichita Eagle's report of a Kansas surgeon who was quitting active practice: "Dr. S—, one of our most eligible bachelors, is retiring from practice. Hale and hearty at 65, the doctor says all he wants is a little peach and quiet."

The Little Rock, Ark., Gazette was guilty of: "Dr. P— returned from Baltimore yesterday and will take up his duties at the hospital."

The renowned Drs. Mayo had plenty of cause to blush at the item in the Fairmont, N. D. Sentinel, which stated: "Mr. and Mrs. R— left Wednesday for Rochester, Minn., where Mrs. R— expects to have a garter removed by the Mayo brothers."

Married bliss was the unintentional butt of an announcement in the Columbus, Ga., Dispatch: "Recovered from a head injury and shock caused by coming in contact with a live wire, Mr. E— left Mercy Hospital last Wednesday."

Hospital officials read with raised eyebrows the following statements in their local newspapers. The Albany, N. Y. Journal said: "Many friends will be pleased to learn of the continued improvement of Mr. T— at the Memorial Hospital. One of the nurses was discharged last week, and he gains each day."

The second, which appeared in the Franklin, Pa., News-Herald, read in part: "The donation will be used to purchase new benches for the hospital, as the old ones are in a dilapidated shape."

Patients, also, have had their composure shaken by typosetters. A routine item in the Morristown, N. D. News declared: "Miss Dorothy N—, who was injured by a fall from a horse last week, is in St. Joseph's Hospital and is covered sufficiently to have her friends come to see her."

Similarly, the Norfolk, Va., Virginian-Pilot carried this revealing story: "Miss R—, an attractive young health nurse, was involved in an accident while motoring in the Cumberland's yesterday. The area in which she was injured is spectacularly scenic."

Other newspaper stories in which the "double entendre" caused chuckles were:

"Experienced meat-cutter wanted for full-time position. Apply Room 1022, University Hospital." —Ann Arbor, Mich., News.
"The operator of the log truck, charged with reckless driving, crashed into Dr. A—'s rear end, which was sticking out into the road." —Greenville, S. C., Field.
"He was taken to St. Luke's Hospital for treatment, but left there this morning with no bones broken." —Atlanta, Ga., Journal.

Bracewell Chosen For State Senate

HOUSTON — (AP) — Searcy Bracewell will represent Harris County in the State Senate in the 51st Legislature and Carlton Moore will replace him in the House of Representatives.

The two were apparently easy winners in a special election held here Saturday.

By unofficial but complete returns, Bracewell defeated his nearest rival, Rex Poston, by nearly two to one.

Moore was far ahead of his closest rival, Charles Murphy. Bracewell resigned from the House to run for the unexpected term of Mrs. Maribelle Stewart Mills, resigned.

Russia Said in Need of Cotton

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A foreign aid official said that Russia and her satellite countries are far short of having enough cotton for their needs.

Dr. Dennis Fitzgerald of the Economic Cooperation Administration gave that estimate to a House agriculture subcommittee. The group is studying prospective markets and need for American cotton.

Europe as a whole will require increasing amounts of cotton from the United States as European industries recover, Fitzgerald said.

The committee's studies are in connection with the question whether there should be restrictions on cotton production in 1950.

Rep. White (R-Calif.) urged the committee to use 1947, 1948 and 1949 cotton acreages in determining a base for cotton quotas for 1950, if restrictions are placed on production then.

Mohair Industry Seeks Protection

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. Fisher (D-Texas) took to President Truman the woes of the angora goat industry.

After a White House call, Fisher said he had told the President the industry "is in very bad shape" and has been "depressed for the last two years."

He said Mr. Truman was "very sympathetic" and promised to talk the matter over with the secretary of agriculture.

The congressman said the industry "wants mohair treated on a comparable basis with wool and other agricultural products" to protect it against depressed prices.

He did not specify the exact form he thinks the protection should take.

He said that there are about three million angora goats in the United States producing between 15 million and 20 million pounds of mohair a year. The goats are raised in Texas, Arizona, New Mexico, California and Oregon.

DEAF CHILD NEEDS NORMAL TREATMENT

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Newsfeatures

One of the great tests of parenthood comes when the doctor tells you junior has impaired hearing.

The first reaction to this knowledge is one of shock, says Mrs. Hilda F. Amidon, supervisor, speech and hearing department, Board of Education, Hartford, Connecticut.

In her article in Hearing News, she says "Parents are so emotionally disturbed they usually react in one of two ways, both dangerous; namely, child pity or self pity. They are ashamed to have a so-called deaf child in the family, so they pity themselves. When the latter occurs the child cannot help feeling insecure and this results in varying degrees of social inadequacy.

The first five years of life may influence junior's entire future, she warns. Attitudes, habits and general behavior will be socially adequate, or not, according to the pattern set in those early formative years.

Seeing junior as a normal child with a hearing loss is the parents' first step to success. Mrs. Amidon offers the following specific suggestions:

1. Surround him with the same play equipment used with any child in the family group.
2. Develop independence so that he does not need someone in sight all the time. While he is still in the carriage, play peek-a-boo where the face is hidden at short intervals. Later play hide and seek to help forestall a fear of being alone.
3. Encourage him to participate in games. Invite children of the neighborhood into the home. Play games that are not entirely dependent upon hearing.
4. Give him many experiences. Take him on walks. Teach him to be observant. Make him feel that he is part of his environment.
5. Stimulate an early interest in speech. Talk to the child naturally. Hold junior on the lap, talking close to his ear. Using a mailing tube, make a game of talking through it.
6. Train the child to watch the face from early infancy. This is the beginning of lip reading.
7. Investigate the possibility of putting a hearing aid on the child when he is between two and three years of age. Even a small amount of hearing will be of inestimable value in developing speech.

To make crisp cups for creamed foods cut unsalted bread in two-inch thick slices and remove the crusts; hollow out centers and brush the inside and outside with melted butter or margarine. Bake in a moderately hot oven for about fifteen minutes, or until golden brown.

Discussion held on Teacher Pay

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Gov. Fielding Wright is engaged in a series of discussions with educators and others on teachers pay schedules and other subjects relating to the education of Negroes.

The meetings are being held in advance of a hearing on a suit filed by Gladys Noel Bates, Negro school teacher, asking that Negro teachers be paid on an equality with white teachers.

In the suit, scheduled to be heard on Jan. 17, the Jackson School Board is defendant.

The Governor met here with 300 Mississippians in a closed session. He had no comment after the meeting had ended.

burnet Seeks 150-Mile Highway

SAN ANTONIO — (AP) — The State Highway Department is to be asked to designate a new highway from Burnet to Cleburne, completing a new and more direct route from San Antonio to Fort Worth.

Members of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce Highway Committee and a Burnet County delegation headed by County Judge James A. Steele decided here to take the action.

Total length of the proposed highway would be 150 miles, half along existing roads.

The Highway Department will be asked to hold a formal hearing next spring on designating a 30-mile link from Burnet to Copernicus Cove. The new route would connect with U. S. 81 at Burnet and provide the first state highway leading toward San Antonio from the area northeast of Burnet.

"Big new product assures the future of the synthetic rubber industry"

The World's Best Tires Are Here

Charles Stevenson and Alben P. Armistead

Condensed from Popular Science Monthly

IF LUCK is with you, next time you buy a tire for your car you'll get more than you expected for your money. This year something like three out of 100 purchasers will receive a "surprise package" tire.

The prize will be of a standard make and will bear no distinguishing label. It looks exactly like any other tire. Neither you nor the dealer can tell it from the rest—not even an expert could. So you won't even know you have the jackpot tire until some day, perhaps in 1950 or 1951, you realize it has worn longer than any other tire you ever owned.

Treads of these wonder tires are made of a brand-new kind of synthetic rubber, called "cold rubber," made in a special synthetic rubber that goes into these tires is not expensive. It sells at the same price as standard synthetic rubber—18 1/2 cents a pound. Natural rubber costs about 22 1/2 cents.

In synthetic-rubber plants that they operate for the Government, the Copolymer Corporation, jointly owned by eight tire manufacturers, began making the new rubber last February at Baton Rouge, La., and the U. S. Government.

Fair Enough -- by Westbrook Pegler

It is true that the House Committee on Un-American Activities lets its publicity get out of control at times. Such excesses offend some citizens, most of those who have been embarrassed, disgraced and/or incriminated by its noisy disclosures. All statesmen, even including some members of the committee, agree that there is a strong tendency to spruce up, to shake back noble names and scowl or smile, as the individual preference may be, when movies are about to be taken of dramatic moments in proceedings.

We Need to Agree On Points of Policy

The Truman Administration has recently been criticized for snap judgments, casual remarks and lack of co-ordination which have tended to weaken and confuse United States foreign policy. A recent incident suggested that the efficiency has not yet been remedied. During his Christmas vacation, the President told a group of fellow Missourians, "The Russian people are a great people. If the Russian people had a vote in the government of Russia, I am sure we would have no trouble in getting them to keep those (Yalta and Potsdam) agreements."

When the committee was setting the stage, as it were, for the "Hollywood" political trash a little more than a year ago, one of the members did me the honor of consulting me as an authority on public relations, or perhaps popular psychology. I advised him to bar the movie news, radio and loudspeakers absolutely.

It is ironic to find so many journalists decriing the appetite for publicity evinced by members of the Committee on Un-American Activities. Every reporter aspires to his by-line so that the reader in the bus who is whipping over the fannies or the sport page as fast as he can may know that he was the author of the living human document which starts on Page one and, after 30 lines, jumps back to Page 12 where the by-line is dropped. "Family publicity" columnist, I hate publicity, but I wouldn't enjoy it if it didn't have my name over it but sometimes I peer down my nose at the boy on the committee for knocking over chairs in the scuffle as the lights flicker on and the cameras start to run.

her credit. Think of that! Not one act of public service stands to the name of the woman who has nevertheless outscored any other person you may name except people who actually were doers. Presidents Eisenhower, Truman, Roosevelt, and Hoover.

Off Guard One of the pitiable things about organized educational institutions is that the youth who are attending these schools, whether they are public or private, are invariably off their guard as to whether or not the teachers or college professors are teaching reality and truth or day dreams and wishes.

By GRACIE ALLEN Well, I see that a famous lady novelist, who is worried about the future of the American home, now thinks that television is the answer. My husband thinks the lady novelist may have something there. Suppose, he says, that a couple are having a good, old-fashioned family brawl, wounding each other in the process. Naturally, they will break off their own bout to get a few scientific pointers, and the dove of peace will have a chance to catch its breath.

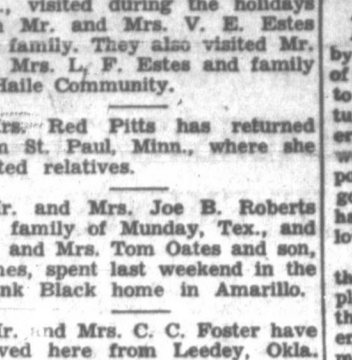

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON — The sectional struggle among members of the up-heavy Democratic majority in Congress for bread-and-butter influence over legislation affecting their most vital interests is the fiercest which Washington has witnessed in years.

In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) Don't be too surprised if Lana Turner sues Bob Topping for divorce after she has her baby early in the spring. Trouble between the two arose during their European honeymoon and things have not improved.

Soon afterward, Col. Frank Howley, American military commander in Berlin, ordered all U. S. personnel including civilians to stop fraternizing with Russians.

Every government official with policy-making powers, from Mr. Truman on down, must have read the President's remarks on the Russian people. If not, they should have been called to his attention.

That is a valid excuse. Why not? And the fact that the statesmen are human and, furthermore, are politicians and thus require publicity to get re-elected is supposed to be a "red herring."

More than that, however, Colonel Howley has contradicted his Commander-in-Chief's words by his own action. In doing so, he has emphasized the need for a general tightening of authority in matters of potential importance.

As recently as September, the book "Crusade in Europe" was still in manuscript, for I still wasn't sure it was worth bringing out. Now it's out and I'm still not dead sure. I'm not sure because I'm a soldier all my life, and when you come right down to it it's simply an old soldier's story.

General Eisenhower.

TICKLISH PROBLEMS

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Complete revision of the parity farm price formula may lead to merry melees when the new Congress gets around to writing additional legislation to amend the "Parity" law, of course, a purely theoretical fair price for basic farm crops, figured on the ratio between what the farmer buys and what he sells.

After the Hollywood show was done, my friend was a little apologetic. He said some of the brothers desired the maximum publicity in order that the alarm should be sounded to the greatest number of citizens through all the channels of propaganda.

Lack of Bale Ties Causes Anxiety

Sightless Sculptor at Work

One night, Arthur Schneider, who had been blinded by a Russian bullet during the war, picked up a piece of plastiline to whistle away the time. By morning he had fashioned a crude elephant—and had started a hobby that has since developed into a promising career. Here he works on a bronze bust of his son, Manfred, in his studio in Oberammergau, Bavaria. (Photo by NEA-Asse staff correspondent Gerhard F. Reising.)

DALLAS—(AP)—Glinners are worrying over handling the 1943 crop, a cotton specialist declared, and he said delay in manufacturing cotton bale ties is the reason. "Not a single tie has been rolled for the 1943 crop," Claude L. Welch of Memphis, Tenn., said. The production and marketing specialist of the National Cotton Council spoke here to a joint meeting of the National and Texas Cotton Glinners Association. Welch explained that intention to use the old type tie, one coated with asphalt to prevent rust in all weather conditions, or to use all new type tie, coated with a petroleum product, is delaying production of the long, narrow strips of metal used to tie cotton bales after they have been pressed.

He said this was the situation: The Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company of Birmingham, Ala., rolls 80 percent of the nation's ties. It suspended production last May at the request of the cotton council. Spinners had complained that the asphalt from the ties soaks into the cotton and renders fibers unfit for spinning. Because of the complaints, the cotton council made its request. Research has presented the industry with a new base for coating.

This new base is a petroleum product. It is smooth, not sticky like asphalt, but it hasn't been tried," Welch said. "We can't tell what it will do in the varying weather conditions across the cotton belt."

He said some users say go ahead and make the ties with the new coating; others are afraid of the new ties; the rest are undecided. "I find nobody has nerve enough to assume the sole responsibility for ordering the new ties," Welch said.

Welch said later in an interview his personal solution was for gins to use the old ties one more year. "During that time we ought to get enough tests on the new ties to make a decision," he said.

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Broderick Crawford's career is proof of the adage that it's never too late to get a break in Hollywood. Excuse for a wartime Army stretch, Crawford has been in pictures since 1938. Only recently did he get his biggest break starting role in the film from the Pulitzer prize novel, "All the King's Men." Now he goes right from the Huey Long-like role to a leading part in "Anna Lucasta" with Paulette Goddard. It's full speed ahead for Brod. The actor tells me that his mother, the fine comedienne, Helen Broderick, is enjoying her semi-retirement. But she might be induced back to the cameras with a role in Clark Gable's next film. She's waiting to see the script.

Robert Mitchum starts his new picture, "The Big Steal," this week even though he comes up for trial on marijuana charges next Monday. The set will be closed to the press, since loquacious Bob will not be allowed to talk until after the trial.

Joanne Dru still hopes her marriage to Dick Haymes can be salvaged, but meanwhile she's going ahead with her career. She's much in demand and is free of contracts, except for a film venture for John Ford. You might notice that she looks a bit different in the tent scene with John Wayne in "Red River." The sequence was a retake, shot while she was five months pregnant.

Shirley Temple, a brave and resolute girl, faced the Hollywood Women's Press Club en masse to refute its claim she is uncooperative. What do you want to bet she came out the winner?

Annexation-Minded Houston Takes No Action on Adding New Orleans

HOUSTON—(AP)—Houston's annexation-minded City Council took no action on a proposed ordinance annexing approximately 140 square miles of area to the city. The action was accompanied by a claim Houston now is the South's largest city with a population exceeding 625,000. New Orleans entered the picture when Holcombe received a telegram from Mayor DeLoessop's S. Morrison inviting local officials to visit his Louisiana metropolis. Said Morrison: "Come over and see how we do it."

Commented Holcombe: "Why visit villages?" Morrison's telegram read: "New Orleans, largest city in the nation, gateway between the Americas. Cordially congratulates Houston on its progress and growth. We are happy to see progress in all communities within our sphere of influence. 'I wish to extend a cordial invitation to you to visit New Orleans and study how we maintain our position and population growth without extending our area. After your visit, we feel sure you will become reconciled to the fact and admit the great city of Houston is still behind New Orleans in population at least in human inhabitants.'"

Estimate of Oil Reserve Doubtful

DETROIT—(AP)—Any estimate of the nation's present petroleum reserves is bound to be inaccurate because of numerous unknown factors, a petroleum expert told the Society of Automotive Engineers. R. J. Pigott, chief engineer of the Gulf Research & Development Co., Pittsburgh, made the statement and added that while such reserves obviously are being depleted, exhaustion would be a slow process. There will be an adequate time, he said, to develop liquid fuel synthesis inefficient. The gasoline produced from natural gas, coal or crop products, he said, would represent only 50 to 60 percent of the heat energy of the materials used to produce it.

Baltimore, in 1821, was the first American city to use gas for street lighting.

Mayor Offers Population Bet

HOUSTON (AP)—A "real bet" on whether Houston or New Orleans will have the bigger population in the 1960 census was offered by Mayor Oscar F. Holcomb to Mayor Dolores E. Morrison of New Orleans, who recently kidded Mayor Holcomb in a telegram belittling Houston's growth through annexation.

"If Houston doesn't have a larger population than New Orleans in public life, provided Mayor Morrison promises to retire from public life if Houston has the larger population," Mayor Holcomb said. "I stand ready to make that bet."

Besides the government debt built up tremendously when the government had to borrow money to run the war—is running around $362 billion.

Mr. Truman says — and most economists agree — a government should try to pay off its debts, and some of them, in a time of prosperity like the present one.

That's why Mr. Truman is asking for that $4 billion; to keep the country from going further in debt and to help pay off some of the present debt. But what about the social security and health insurance tax?

The government can't use that money for paying its expenses of paying off debt. That money goes into a trust, or set-aside, fund.

Right now employers and employees are each paying one percent of the payroll money — one percent by the employer on his payroll, and one percent by the employe on his pay. Mr. Truman wants this raised to 1 1/2 percent each.

For a tax for a health insurance program, top officials say that would bring in about $300 million in new taxes the first year and would add another one-half of one percent on payroll.
