Seniors are 'free at last'

BY SHEILA ECCLES
Staff Writer

Pampa High School Fieldhouse was filled to capacity Friday night to watch 266 seniors receive their high school diplomas from School Superintendent Bob Phillips, Principal Paul Payne, Vice Principal Andy Andrews and Assistant Principal Jane Steele.

The 1981 Class Valedictorian Debbie Drudl told family, friends and seniors that this was their last time together and the fact may not have hit them yet.

"But what do we do now?" Drudl asked.

"Many of us don't know what we want to do next week — let alone what to do with the rest of our lives," she said.

"This is the last time we will be together as the Pampa High School Class of 1981. Some of us may work. Some may go to college, but all of us want to be successful.

"Everyone needs a different time to make us successful. We must control our own destiny. Only we can make the decision, the intelligent decisions in our lives. To make no decision at all is to let someone else run our lives. We cannot sit back and wait for our dreams to come true.

"It is up to you," Drudl said.

Class Salutatorian Don Braswell said, "We have spent 12 years in schools, learning names, dates and places, but it is all worthless unless we can communicate. Our minds are like books, now and then new pages are added. We must be able to share our books with others.

"Anyone can talk, but only some can listen — it takes a special person to be able to listen.

Class President Rodney Brewer thanked the school board members, school teachers and staff for the past 12 years.

"It is over — we are free at last," Brewer said.

"On the last day of school, we walked down the halls and through a small door that leads to a big world.

"The school has protected us, but no more.

"Now we must choose college, careers and goals in our lives. A person decides on his goals by what he wants the most.

"We will depend on God, and our families, which are a gift from God. We will need true friends and our country.

"I challenge each and every one of you graduating to work for what you want," Brewer said.

The invocation was presented by Pam Miller, and the benediction was given by Ray Condo.

The Pampa High School Band and Choir members presented the processional music, Pomp and Circumstance and the Battle Hymn of the Republic.

The class Alma Mater was led by Brooke Bell and Labrenda Driver. After the quiet song, 266 seniors jumped up and gave a roaring class yell. "Now the fest has just begun, and we're the Class of '81."

Crucial decisions by legislators postponed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas legislators, facing a Monday midnight deadline, put off crucial decisions Saturday on state spending and congressional redistricting until Monday.

Failure to reach agreement on either subject could bring on a special session.

A Saturday night meeting of a conference committee to negotiate a compromise on congressional redistricting discussed Senate-House differences for an hour then agreed to meet again Sunday.

There were no votes taken or a compromise congressional redistricting plan offered.

The House adjourned until 2 p.m. Sunday but the Senate session dragged on past 10 p.m. as Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, staged a delaying talk against a bill to continue the state regulation of doctors.

The House voted late Saturday to reopen compromise talks on the general appropriations bill, by a 74-50 vote and demanded that the House-Senate conference committee add another $28 million to increase teachers salaries.

The increase, if finally approved, would give Texas teachers a 27.7 percent pay increase over the next two years compared to 26.6 percent in the previous agreement.

Earlier Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said the Senate debate on the $26.9 billion state spending bill, which has been expected Saturday afternoon, would not be until Monday because of printing delays.

House members also expect a debate on state spending Monday.

Failure to agree on either one could bring on a special session.

Both houses planned meetings Saturday and Sunday in an effort to find the key to these two sticklers plus a number of others, including redistricting of the Senate and House, new judges to help man an intermediate appeals court system, and work furloughs for convicts.

The regular session of the 67th Legislature ends at midnight Monday.

Any special session would be called by Gov. Bill Clements, who would dictate the time and the subject matter. The constitution limits any special session to 30-days.

Despite the crucial pending problems, the lawmakers can point to a long list of accomplishments, and a shorter list of failures.

Clements started the session with about 30 proposed measures on his request list. About half of them have been passed, including most of his 11-item anti-crime package and most of his war-on-drugs list.

The governor's top achievement was passage of legalized wiretaps for drug control, although the law will die in 1985 if not extended by that Legislature.

Still other major issues that have won approval of the 67th Legislature include:

- Raising the drinking age from 18 to 19 years.
- Making a person temporarily ineligible for jobs insurance if he quits a job or gets fired.
- New dormitories for the crowded prison system.
- Increased interest rates for consumers.
- Licensing of sites for low level nuclear wastes.
- Competency tests for teachers.
- A new curriculum of "basics" for public schools.
- Prohibition of commercial catches of redfish and speckled trout for two years.

Pinkerton found guilty of murder

CORPUS CHRISTI — Jay Kelly Pinkerton was found guilty of capital murder at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Amarillo death of Sarah Donn Lawrence who was found beaten and stabbed at her home Oct. 26, 1979.

The seven-man, five-woman jury were deliberating the punishment phase of the murder trial at press time late Saturday.

Pinkerton could be sentenced to death by lethal injection if the jury can answer yes to two questions. One question was whether Pinkerton's conduct was deliberate and done with a reasonable expectation that it would cause death. The second question to be put to the jury concerned the probability of Pinkerton posing a continuing threat to society.

A fingerprint expert testified in the Corpus Christi trial Thursday that the palm print pressed into the drying blood on Sarah Donn Lawrence's left leg tied Jay Kelly Pinkerton to the stabbing death.

Two state witnesses also testified that a second palm print lifted from a coffee table in Mrs. Pinkerton's home also tied Pinkerton to the murder scene.

Pinkerton was living not far from the Lawrence home at the time of the murder. He was arrested four hours after the stabbing death was discovered.

FBI agent Belcastro testified that he could not get a match on the palm prints left at the scene for some time after the murder. After working with the print, Belcastro discovered it had been left in blood, therefore altering the print. He worked with the print and testified that it has in excess of 12 points of comparison to known prints of Pinkerton.

Bodies of three MIA's to be returned to U.S.

HANOI, Vietnam (AP) — Vietnam has promised to continue searching for the remains of Americans missing in action after it announced the bodies of three more GIs will be returned to the United States.

"We are pretty damn happy," said the leader of the U.S. delegation that got the news.

"The Vietnamese office for seeking missing persons has informed the U.S. side that three sets of remains have been found, and the two parties will discuss a date for their return." Vu Hoang, head of the Vietnamese search team, said Friday. "The Vietnamese government, prompted by good will and humanitarian spirit, will continue the search process."

Hoang described the latest negotiations as having been held in a "very favorable" climate.

He also said the recovery of American remains has been a slow process because of the hostility some Vietnamese still feel toward the United States.

He said some of this hostility stemmed from U.S. "approval" of China's month-long invasion of Vietnam in 1979. Hoang said the attack had drawn resources away from other projects — including the search for U.S. MIAs.

Hoang promises to keep up the search were made shortly before the three-man delegation ended its visit to Hanoi and flew to Bangkok Saturday.

"We are pretty damn happy," said Lt. Col. Joseph Harvey, head of the delegation and commander of the Defense Department's Joint Casualty Resolutions Center in Hawaii.

Harvey and two officials from the U.S. Embassy in Bangkok, Lt. Col. Paul Mather and James Tully, flew on to the Thai capital to begin arranging for the remains to be flown out of Vietnam.

The servicemen's names were being withheld pending positive identification in Hawaii.

The last time Vietnam returned American war dead was in August 1978, when authorities gave a visiting congressional delegation the remains of 11 U.S. servicemen.

Since the 1973 Paris cease-fire agreement, a total of 71 sets of remains have been returned, and intermittent talks have been held between U.S. and Vietnamese officials on some 2,500 cases still classified by the Pentagon as missing in action.

Air Force ensemble to perform in Pampa

The Air Force Band of the West's Symphonic Wind Ensemble will appear in concert at 8 p.m. Thursday, June 4, at M. K. Brown Auditorium in a performance sponsored by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

The 33-piece group, composed of wind instrumentalists and percussionists, perform under the direction of Maj. Ray E. Toler, director of the Band of the West, headquartered at Lackland AFB.

The most versatile group in the Band of the West, the Symphonic Wind Ensemble performs a broad range of music, from Beethoven to Broadway and from Sousa to the Bee Gees.

Originally organized for the purpose of recruiting, educational and community relations activities, the 539th Air Force Band — the Band of the West — is the Air Force's official musical unit serving the Southwest United States. It is composed of specialty groups, including four show groups, specialty concert bands, a marching band and a Symphonic Wind Ensemble.

With 60 musicians, it is one of the Air Force's largest bands. The Band of the West was among the first bands organized by the Air Force after it became a separate service in 1947.

In November 1967, the Band of the West received the Outstanding Unit Award for meritorious service in community relations and military performances.

The band's groups include Dimensions in Blue, the 20-piece official big band stage group of the Air Training Command (ATC); the New Approach, with an emphasis on rock but with a repertoire ranging from jazz to Top 40; Omni Blue, which plays a mixture of country and rock and the Country Critters, a country show a la "Hee Haw."

The Band of the West has gained national and international recognition through its appearances in the Southwest United States and Mexico. It performs annually at the Texas State Fair in Dallas, was featured at the Quadracentennial Celebration in Aguascalientes, Mexico, and has been featured at the Fiesta de Amistad celebrations in Del Rio and Laredo, and in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico. They have also performed in pre-game shows for the Dallas, Cowboys, Houston Astros and the Houston Oilers.

THE SYMPHONIC WIND ENSEMBLE of the U.S. Air Force Band of the West will appear at 8 p.m. Thursday in M. K. Brown Auditorium in a free performance, sponsored by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce. The ensemble performs a broad range of music, from Beethoven to Broadway, from Sousa to the Bee Gees. (Photo Courtesy of the U.S. Air Force)

Pampa native stars in opera opposite Pavarotti

Frontiers of Achievement

BY ELAINE W. LEDBETTER
Guest Writer

Mary Jane Johnson has been chosen to sing the role of Adina in Donizetti's opera "L'Elisir d'Amore." As Adina, the only female role in the opera, Ms. Johnson will sing opposite Luciano Pavarotti, the world's leading tenor.

Ms. Johnson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Rose of 505 N. Gray and a 1968 graduate of Pampa High School.

Some 20 years ago, Pavarotti won a similar international competition in Italy, which launched his brilliant career. Wishing to give today's young talent a comparable opportunity, he auditioned more than 500 singers from all over the world.

From these, he invited 78 to participate in the competition held last week in Philadelphia. Of these, 29 were selected to sing in the finals Saturday night. At that time, 19 were named to casts in two operas to be presented by the Philadelphia Opera Company next spring. The second opera is "La Boheme," which will also star Pavarotti.

Both operas will be nationally telecast in May 1982.

Ms. Johnson studied in New York this past winter. One class was conducted by John Wustman, Pavarotti's coach-accompanist. He encouraged her to sing for Pavarotti, and she was auditioned by him in February.

In addition to voice, she has studied Italian, German, French and Spanish. Her diction coach during the spring was Nio Castel of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Ms. Johnson explained that it is quite difficult for a beginner to obtain a manager. She said, "The artist manager for Columbia Artists has been interested in me and has followed my career for about a year. Early in May, they offered me a contract. Bessie Crittenden is now my manager, and I am very fortunate to have signed with her. She is not only capable and aggressive, but is also easy to work with."

Even as she was talking, the telephone rang. It was her manager calling from New York to tell Ms. Johnson that the Houston Opera Company was requesting her to audition for the role of Musetta in "La Boheme" Friday.

When asked about her voice range, she said, "When I was in high school, I sang first alto, but my voice has matured, and I am now classed as a spinto — dramatic coloratura soprano. My voice is just now beginning to achieve its full range."

Her most recent performance was with the New York Opera Company in March. She sang the role of Agathe in "Der Freischutz." She won the role as a result of what is known as a "cattle-call audition." No invitations are issued, and consequently, large numbers of aspiring singers appear.

Ms. Johnson has given numerous concerts and has performed scenes from more than a dozen well-known operas.

In October she appeared with the Amarillo Symphony Orchestra in the Beethoven 9th and in February with the El Paso Pro Musica in "Brahms Requiem."

Ms. Johnson has won numerous competitions prior to her latest triumph. Among these are: Post Advanced Division of the National Association of Teachers of Singing Contest (National Convention), Houston, 1978; Regional Metropolitan Opera Auditions, 1980; National Metropolitan Opera Semi-Finalist, 1980; and Aims Summer Vocal Institute Scholarship, 1980.

She has received encouragement and praise from a variety of sources. Lee Shaenen of the Chicago Lyric Opera School said, "You are too advanced for our lyric school. You should be singing in an opera house in Europe."

Theodore Uppman of the Metropolitan Opera wrote, "She does not really have any idea how truly talented she is."

Ms. Johnson earned a B.M.E. degree from Texas Tech University in 1972 and an M.M. degree from West Texas State University in 1978. She has since studied with outstanding musicians throughout the Southwest, in addition to intensive studies in New York.

Currently, she is on a leave of absence from her position as head of the vocal music department and opera workshop at Amarillo College. She formerly taught at McMurry College in Abilene.

Radiating poise and self-confidence, she said of her career, "When I graduated from high school, I never dreamed of going into opera. Since I had made all-state choir for two consecutive years, I decided my voice was good enough to enable me to major in music education at Tech. But as my voice began to develop, my instructors encouraged me to pursue a career in opera."

She continued, "Rosemary Lawler was my very first voice teacher. Gene Kenney at Texas Tech and Hugh Sanders and Jerry Doan of West Texas were especially helpful to me."

When asked to relate any special incidents which she considered significant, the attractive young woman laughed and said, "Early in May I was scheduled to sing for Beverly Sills. On that same morning, my small daughter and a friend were leaving New York to return to Amarillo. I was worried about them getting to the air

Frazier ties for first in national problem solving

BY SANDRA HURDLE
Staff Writer

CHRIS FRAZIER

Chris Frazier, an 18-year-old senior at Pampa High School, recently traveled to Lincoln, Neb. to participate in the National Future Problem Solving Bowl. At the bowl, his futuristic scenario tied for first place, and he was presented a certificate for his creative writing.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Frazier of Pampa.

Frazier has been writing since about the sixth grade. He has written short stories and poetry but this is the first time he has written a complete scenario.

In writing his scenario, Frazier said he used the knowledge he gained from working with his team in the Texas Future Problem Solving Program.

Frazier enjoys writing as well as reading science fiction. He says that he prefers to read soft science fiction over hard. Soft science fiction deals with emotions, nature, and human thoughts, while hard science fiction deals with technical aspects and the mechanical makeup of machines. Frazier feels that science fiction is a combination of history and the future.

Frazier's favorite science fiction book was "Dune" by Frank Herbert. Frazier hopes to write a science fiction book of his own some day.

In addition to his interest in science fiction, Frazier is currently president of the Pampa Harvester Band, a member of the National Honor Society and Quill and Scroll, plays baseball, and participates in the Region XVI Education Service Center Gifted - Talented Seminars.

When asked about his future plans, Frazier said he plans to attend West Texas State University, majoring in computer sciences. He would also like to develop computer games and someday get married.

Archer still likes GOP, 11 years later

WASHINGTON (AP) — A continuing battle with a powerful West Texas Democrat played a major role in the switch by Rep. Bill Archer, R-Texas, to the Republican Party in late 1967, Archer says.

"I don't want to mention his name, but his concept of doing business and the way I felt things should be done were not exactly in harmony. He ran the Appropriations Committee, which I was a member of, like a floating crap game," said Archer, 53.

"I asked him if the press shouldn't have access to our meetings. He said, 'Oh, the press is welcome to our meetings. If they can find us.' About the same time, I saw Hubert Humphrey's influence stamped on the future of the Democratic Party, and I wanted to get my philosophy where I could be more comfortable," Archer said.

Now in his 11th year in Washington, Archer is still comfortable as a Republican and says he hopes the voters will elect enough other GOP candidates in 1982 to give the party a majority in the House of Representatives.

"It would be the difference between night and day," said Archer, who said the domination by liberal Democrats through most of his tenure in Congress "has been very frustrating."

Democratic liberals have led the way in massive federal spending that has gotten out of control, Archer said.

As a city councilman in the Hunters Creek community of Houston, he and the rest of the council once put in new roads, sewer lines, water, a police department and a fire department, and still lowered the tax rate for three consecutive years, he said.

When he was in the Texas Legislature, he added, "every million dollars was looked at very, very carefully."

But in Washington, "I learned if it wasn't in the range of several hundred million dollars, no one seemed to look at it very carefully. The closer to the people that government is, the more they can scrutinize it and it doesn't become as much of an inflationary monster that can't be easily changed."

Consequently, he's solidly behind the president's attempt to abolish numerous federal programs and allow state and local governments to administer them.

He's also for forcing Congress to balance its budget and restrict its spending to the money it has on hand.

"What's good enough for Texas is good for the United States," Archer said, emphasizing the surplus Texas has had for many years.

The former varsity tennis player at the University of Texas got into politics, he said, because as a small businessman he felt the unwanted interference of the government in people's lives.

After getting a law degree from Texas, he served in the Air Force during the Vietnam War, then returned to Houston and began operating a livestock and poultry feed business started by his father. He was elected to his community's city council in 1955 and served it for seven years.

"As I perceived government taking away more and more of my life, I finally realized if I was going to control it, I was going to have to give more of my life to government," he said.

"I got very concerned about what I saw happening in government that was not appealing to me. It was the same basic thrust that has gone on unabated until this last election on the ability of small businesses to survive."

'Gutted' bilingual bill okayed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A bill broadening Texas' bilingual education program and putting more money into it — but with a change some claim "guts" the measure — won final House approval on Saturday.

House passage returned the bill to the Senate, where Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, said he would attempt to send it to a conference committee for removal of the amendment.

The amendment says if a child has not become proficient in English after four years of bilingual teaching, a school may transfer him or her into "an alternative transitional language program, such as English as a second language."

The bill sets funding for bilingual education at $50 per pupil, adding $8.6 million to the $9.3 million the state ordinarily would have spent on the program over the next two years.

Sarpalius gasohol bill halted

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Chances of passage of a bill that would give gasohol special tax treatment in Texas dimmed Saturday as the Senate advanced but refused to take final action on the measure.

"This would help create a new industry in Texas," said Sen. Bill Sarpalius, D-Hercules, of the House-approved measure to excuse 5 cents of the state gasoline tax on gasohol for the next five years.

"You mean you want to rob the highway fund to reward a couple little old refineries in the state?" protested Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur. "Instead of letting the Arabs get to us you want to let the local people get to us."

Sarpalius admitted that Diamond-Shamrock Oil Corp. was one of five applications pending for manufacture of alcohol from agriculture products to mix with gasoline, but said the other applicants included "a couple of farmers."

Sarpalius estimated the reduction in gasoline tax revenue would be $16 million the first two years and $20 million in 1984.

"We will lose a little money but we will receive additional money in property taxes, in sales taxes and the payroll for new jobs," Sarpalius said.

Daughter of slain rape suspect wins $150,000 insurance award

DALLAS — A federal court jury has ordered a Canadian life insurance company to pay off a $150,000 policy to the daughter of a man who was shot to death by the woman he was accused of raping.

"It's been a long 2½ years," said Vickie Crumpton, 23, who has been battling Confederation Life Insurance Co. for the benefits from a group accidental death policy held by her father, Titus Crumpton.

The panel Friday also ordered the company to pay $30,000 in interest.

Crumpton was shot and killed Nov. 13, 1978, by a Grand Prairie woman who said he had assaulted her five days earlier as her youngest child watched, then threatened to harm her children if she called police.

The woman said Crumpton had returned to her home to assault her again when she shot him.

The 31-year-old mother of three was charged with murder by Grand Prairie police, but a Dallas County grand jury declined to indict her.

A medical examiner's report showed Crumpton had been shot seven times in the abdomen, head and back with a .22-caliber pistol.

Attorneys for the insurance company contended that the accidental death portion of the policy was invalid because Crumpton knew he would be placing his life in danger if he returned to the woman's home.

Attorney says

Movie may have influenced woman to kill her daughter

DENTON, Texas (AP) — The defense attorney for Patricia Ann Frazier, the Wichita Falls woman accused of cutting out her four-year-old daughter's heart with a knife, says the movie "The Exorcist" may have led his client to believe her daughter was possessed.

Bill Wood told a state district court jury that the movie, which deals with the theme of demonic possession, was seen by Ms. Frazier several days before she allegedly killed her daughter and provided her with a "powerful stimulus" to believe Khunji Wilson was a child of the devil.

"There was some question in her mind whether the child she had picked up that morning (of the killing) was hers or had been substituted for one of the devil," Wood told the jury panel.

Wood said Ms. Frazier, who told authorities her daughter was possessed by demons and that the girl's heart was "made of grass," was already a troubled woman when she saw the movie.

The jurors were listening to a fourth day of testimony

Friday in the second murder trial for Ms. Frazier, 26. The first, held in Wichita Falls last November, ended in a hung jury.

State District Judge Keith Nelson ordered the trial transferred to Denton because of the publicity surrounding the first trial.

Astrodome bill okayed by Senate

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A bill originally designed to benefit Harris County and the Astrodome cleared the Senate on Saturday.

Senators voted 21-9 to accept a conference committee report on a bill that Sen. Jack Ogg said would set the maximum hotel occupancy tax in Harris County — including Houston — and Galveston, El Paso and Laredo at 10 percent.

Houston now adds 7 percent of the hotel room bill to the tab, with 3 percent going to the state. The additional revenue would be used in Houston to repair the Astrodome and for a convention center.

Ogg, D-Houston, said cities that compete with Houston for conventions such as Atlanta, San Francisco and New York "are over" 10 percent "or at that level."

Jury acquits anti-Castro exiles in diplomat's death

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal jury Saturday acquitted two anti-Castro Cuban exiles in their retrial on murder charges brought in connection with the 1976 bomb-slaying of leftist diplomat Orlando Letelier of Chile.

However, the jury convicted one of the defendants, Guillermo Novo Sampol, 41, of two counts of perjury before a grand jury.

Novo and co-defendant Alvin Ross Diaz, 48, were convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment in 1979, but an appeals court overturned the verdict, saying the defendants' cellmates should not have been called to testify against them.

In their retrial, the two men again faced possible maximum sentences of life imprisonment on charges of murder, murder with explosives and conspiring to murder in the Letelier assassination.

The prosecution alleged that Novo and Ross had collaborated with right-wing Chileans to plot Letelier's murder. But the U.S. District Court jury of eight women and four men found the defendants innocent on five counts related to the slaying.

After a long investigation, the government indicted eight men in the Letelier car-bombing, the first murder of a foreign diplomat in Washington in the nation's history.

But Chile refused to extradite three of those charged, all top officials of the country's secret police, leading the Carter administration to impose sanctions in protest. The Reagan administration, despite its anti-terrorism policy, has reinstated military and economic ties.

During their 14-day retrial, Novo and Ross were pictured by their lawyers as scapegoats of a U.S. government that felt the need to convict someone for the crime.

Killed with Letelier was Ronni Moffitt, 25, a co-worker at the Institute for Policy Studies.

Medical practices bill raises doctors' bp

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A bill continuing state regulation of medicine — but with some flourishes repugnant to organized doctors — cleared the Texas House on Saturday.

One provision the doctors don't like would let optometrists administer drugs and medications such as drops to dilate the pupils. It was put in the insistence of Speaker Bill Clayton, who had heard from an influential optometrist in his legislative district.

The bill returns to the Senate. Senators are expected to send it to a conference committee in an attempt to work out a compromise that will satisfy the Senate, House and the Texas Medical Association.

With only two days remaining until the legislative session adjourns, chances that conferees will reach a compromise are considered poor.

If a new Medical Practices Act does not pass this year, the State Board of Medical Examiners will expire under the Sunset Act, and there will be no regulation of medicine.

Clayton brought the bill up out of calendar order, and it passed on voice vote. Sponsoring Rep. Bill Messer, D-Belton, said he hoped he could return from conference with a bill "I can recommend wholeheartedly to you."

Senators passed a bill that satisfied the medical association, but the House Committee on Governmental Organization added numerous provisions to which doctors objected.

Among them:

- Permission for optometrists to administer medications and drugs in treatment of patients' eyes, a privilege now reserved for ophthalmologists, who are medical doctors.
- A requirement that doctors let patients see their medical records unless doing so would result in physical or mental harm to a patient.
- A non-discrimination clause that means hospitals could not deny a doctor staff privileges merely because he is an osteopath instead of a medical doctor.

Clayton said he inserted the optometrist provision at the request of Dr. Bill Armistead, an optometrist and civic leader in Littlefield, which is in the speaker's House district.

Clayton said Armistead, a former member of the State Optometry Board, was "so conscientious that just the thought of violating the law bothers him."

He said many optometrists do use a drug to dilate the pupil, even though it violates the Medical Practices Act, and but doctors let them get away with it.

"I asked the doctors, 'Why not spell out that they can use that one drug?' but they wouldn't compromise a bit," Clayton said.

He said the issue is a live one between ophthalmologists and optometrists, but the two groups had agreed not to bring it to the Legislature until renewal of the Medical Practices Act was pending.

"I was not a party to that agreement, and neither was Armistead," Clayton said.

Bangladesh president killed in disputed takeover

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Troops led by a major general killed Bangladesh President Ziaur Rahman in Chittagong Saturday and said they took over the government, broke relations with India and had navy support. But officials in Dacca said they were in charge, set up a state of emergency and curfew and told the rebels to surrender.

The United News of India reported that two aides and six bodyguards were killed with the Bangladesh president, that there were heavy clashes between loyalist and rebel troops in the Chittagong area, and that Indian police were on alert on the Tripura state frontier on the east side of Bangladesh to prevent a possible influx of refugees.

Loyalist troops were reported patrolling streets in Dacca, the Bangladesh capital 140 miles northwest where Zia had run the government since November 1975. There were reports the curfew in Dacca extended to other cities as well as the capital, which was said to be paralyzed, with shops and markets closed and traffic halted.

According to news, diplomatic and official reports of Dacca Radio, the 45-year-old Zia — as Ziaur was called on second reference in this part of the world — was slain about 4:30 a.m. — 6:30 p.m. EDT Friday — in the government guest house at Chittagong.

The coup leader, Maj. Gen. Abul Manzur, said on the radio in Chittagong, a port city of 1 million, he had formed a revolutionary council to run the government, and had fired the chief of staff, Lt. Gen. H.M. Arshad, and eight other generals. He also said the 1972 friendship treaty with India was abrogated and claimed the Bangladesh navy, headquartered at Chittagong, had joined the revolt.

But Arshad called on Manzur to "surrender immediately" and said all other military units in Bangladesh remained loyal to the authorities in Dacca.

Vice President Abdus Sattar took control in Dacca, declared an "internal emergency" and put near-martial law restrictions on the impoverished South Asian nation of 90 million, Dacca Radio reported.

Sattar announced that Bangladesh would continue to honor all international treaties and commitments. Relations with India, Bangladesh's giant neighbor and ally in Bangladesh's 1971 war of independence from Pakistan, soured during Zia's five-year tenure with disputes over territory and sharing the waters of the Ganges River.

Little was known about the rebel group, including its strength, but United News of India said it was based in the Chittagong area and had been active in a recent anti-India campaign.

UNI said Manzur was 40 and was a "one-time close friend" of Zia. It said the two fought together in the war for independence.

In New Delhi, Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, a friend of Zia, expressed her "deepest sympathy at this great loss." She said she had "always condemned politics of murder."

A Foreign Office spokesman in Islamabad, Pakistan said Bangladesh had suffered an "irreparable loss."

The State Department in Washington announced its regret at Zia's assassination and expressed "the hope that the democratic institutions in Bangladesh will not be in danger."

AUSTIN — It was just a few years ago that oil was two dollars a barrel. We used oil like there was no tomorrow in those days. One day we woke up and the price of oil was more like $20 a barrel. Now we know there is a tomorrow, and we are all very concerned about having enough oil for the future.

Likewise, we don't give too much thought to water these days. But what if water becomes as scarce and expensive as oil became? It won't, if the Legislature and the people plan ahead.

Trying to plan ahead, Speaker Billy Clayton, several Legislators from all over the state and I have proposed a way to be sure we have the water we need for the future. The plan, embodied in HJR 33, will put aside money for water development.

HJR 33 will put a constitutional amendment on the ballot for next November. If the voters pass the amendment, two things will happen. First, the state will put aside half of the budget surplus each biennium to finance water projects. Second, the other half of

Syria vows to keep missiles in Lebanon

CHTAURA, Lebanon (AP) — Syria vowed Saturday that its surface-to-air missiles will stay in Lebanon to protect the Palestinians from what could be "massive aggression" by the Israelis. Israeli jet-fighters again cracked the sound barrier over the SAM sites, Syrian spotters said.

Syrian Prime Minister Abdul Raouf al Kasm, in a speech in Damascus to graduating police cadets that was broadcast by the state-run radio, said the month-long crisis over Syria's missiles in Lebanon was fabricated by Israel as a forerunner to "liquidation" of Palestinians in the south.

Syria has publicly argued the anti-aircraft missiles were deployed in "self-defense" April 29 after Israel downed two of its helicopters. Israel said the helicopters were attacking Zahle, 30 miles east of Beirut inhabited by Israel's Christian militia allies.

But Kasm charged the missiles must remain to protect the Palestinians, whose Libyan-armed guerrilla camps in the south came under deadly Israeli attacks Thursday, the day after U.S. envoy Philip C. Habib left for consultations at the White House.

The raids Thursday were "a deliberate provocation and escalation of Lebanon tensions that may be a prelude for massive aggression," Kasm said.

Without Syria and its firm stand the Palestinian cause would be subject to

Rains bring relief to parched farmlands

WASHINGTON (AP) — Heavy rains that pelted much of the West last week provided some relief for bone-dry farmland, but more rain is needed, the Joint Agricultural Weather Facility reports.

"Rain came to the northern Plains and dampened parts of the Dakotas and western Minnesota where drought had threatened crops," the facility said in its weekly crop update.

"More rain is needed in the northern Plains. ... Moisture was very short to short in Minnesota and South Dakota."

Pastures remained in generally poor conditions, forcing farmers to begin using supplemental feed for cattle in the region. Some producers, the report said, are reducing their herds.

The rain wasn't confined to drought areas, though, and wet field conditions across the corn belt and much of the West continued delaying spring planting of major U.S. crops, the government report said.

County Extension Agent
GRAIN PRICING ALTERNATIVES

Dr. Ray Sammons, extension economist management, has developed a computer program to examine how various marketing alternatives influence the net income after taxes.

Wheat producers are encouraged to call or come by the county extension office for a worksheet that farmers can complete so reliable information can be plugged into the computer program. There are seven pricing alternatives that the program makes computations for: sell at harvest; store unhedged and sell this year; store 100 percent hedged and sell this year; sell the grain at harvest; buy futures and sell next year; store the grain unhedged and sell next year; store the grain 100 percent hedged and sell next year; and sell at harvest, buy futures and sell the futures next year.

To evaluate these seven alternatives, the program calculates the net after tax income at the end of the second fiscal year to make the comparisons all on the same basis. For example, if the producer would analyze this year's wheat pricing alternatives, the program estimates the net after tax income at the end of 1982 as the comparison for which alternative will have the greatest return.

PRODUCERS INVITED TO INSECT SCOUTING WORKSHOP

Corn, sorghum and cotton producers in Gray County are receiving a special invitation this year to take part in the annual High Plains Scout Training Workshop to increase the effectiveness of their pest management programs.

The workshop will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, June 2 and 3, at the Hale County Agricultural Center in Plainview. The center is located on US 87, business route, south of the city.

The workshop, conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, was first held in 1973 to train scouts in the pest management programs conducted by the extension service. In subsequent years, it was expanded to include scouts employed by consultants and those administered by the Texas Pest Management Association.

The June 2 session opens at 8:30 a.m. with an outline of the scope of the workshop and explanation of pest management concepts. On the morning program will be Dr. H. Dale Pennington, extension soil chemist; Dr. James R. Supak, extension cotton agronomist; and Dr. Robert Berry, extension plant pathologist.

The afternoon program will include Dr. Kirby W. Huffman, extension agronomist; Dr. Carl D. Patrick, extension entomologist; and Allen E. Knutson, Castro County extension agent.

The June 3 session, beginning at 9 a.m., will focus on scouting procedures and reports. Instructors will be county extension agents Gregory B. Cronholm of Hale County and Paul W. Treptow of Crosby and Floyd counties.

During the afternoon, participants will receive practical training on insect identification and scouting procedures during a field session.

Producers interested in participating in the workshop should call the county extension office, 669-7429. JUNE TOMI Extension's Telephone Outlook and Market Information is being well received. This marketing service is available 24 hours a day. The number to call is 713-845-6437.

The June schedule is:
June 2 - 4 — World Food Situation.
June 5 - 8 — Estate Tax Tip.
June 9 - 11 — Cotton Update.
June 12 - 15 — Milk Situation.
June 16 - 18 — Cattle on Feed.

June 19 - 22 — Feed Grain Situation.
June 23 - 25 — Hog Outlook.
June 26 - 29 — Peanut Situation.

June 30 - July 2 — Livestock Statistics.

Beginning in June, topic changes on TOMI will be made only on Tuesdays and Fridays. Some deviation from this schedule may, at times, be required to coincide with major government reports.

STEER EXHIBITIONS
All youth who plan to exhibit steers in any of the major shows in Texas: state fair, Amarillo, Fort Worth, San Antonio or Houston, during the 1981-82 show season should contact their local county extension agent or vocational agriculture teacher.

All steers entered in these major shows must be validated and ear tagged before June 30. Plans must be made now to have enough tags for all steers to be validated.

If you have not informed your CEA or VAT that you plan to exhibit a steer, you should do so immediately.

STATE 4-H ROUNDUP
The Gray County 4-H Senior Rifle Team will be on the Texas A & M University Campus June 2 and 3 participating in the rifle marksmanship division of the Texas State 4-H Roundup.

Team members are Steve Thurman, Matt Hinton, Gray Clark Jr. and Shawn Hon. Coaches for the team are Johnny Murrell and Lee Cox.

They will be competing against 27 other teams from the 14 state extension districts.

COUNTY 4-H HORSE SHOW
Members of the Gray County 4-H Horse Projects will be participating in the Gray County 4-H Horse Show May 31 at 2 p.m. at the Felton Webb arena in McLean.

Anyone interested in watching the show will be welcome to come and support these youth as they prepare for the district show in June.

DJ's slip of lip costs job, $10,000

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Bob Lashbrook says a slipped disc — of sorts — cost him his job and the radio station where he worked part-time a $10,000 contest prize.

The 60-year-old full-time carpenter and weekend disc jockey at KSCS-FM in Fort Worth says his problems began Monday while he was filling in for another announcer.

The station, nearing the end of a three-month ratings war and fighting to retain its top spot in the Fort Worth market, had promised to pay $10,000 to any listener who heard a disc jockey failing to play three songs without interruption.

Lashbrook, who has worked as a disc jockey since 1942, says he played two songs Monday afternoon, then keyed his microphone to do a commercial. But he realized his mistake and gave only the station's call letters, then played the third song in the "three in a row" package.

It was too late. A sharp-eared listener heard the goof and wrote the station, demanding prize money.

"Every station has promotions and giveaways," Lashbrook said Friday after he had been fired. "but when they give something away here, they get mad about it."

They (station officials) threatened the announcers that we'd lose our jobs if we did anything to make them pay, but no one really expected them to carry out the threat."

He said station management verified the mistake by listening to tapes, then asked an attorney's advice to see if they had to pay.

While station officials would not comment on the incident, a source at the station said the attorney told them they had to pay the money.

That's when R.T. Simpson, the network program director, paid Lashbrook a visit at his carpentry shop.

"He (Simpson) had all of my personal stuff and this little envelope in his hand," Lashbrook said. "I asked him if I was through. He said I was and that was that."

Gail O'Brien, another part-time disc jockey at the station, said she quit six weeks ago after being told at a staff meeting that anyone who violated the "three in a row" policy would be fired.

"I told them I wouldn't run the contest or work under that kind of duress where you can be fired for an honest human error," she said. "There's no way a part-timer can work under that pressure."

Station general manager Warren Potash said he would not comment until "Monday or Tuesday" on Lashbrook's firing.

Meanwhile, Lashbrook says he's going to take a trip to California to see his newborn grandson. He delayed the vacation because he thought he would be needed to fill in for vacationing announcers at the station.

"I'm sure going to see my first grandchild," he said.

"And if I knew the name of the guy who won the money, I'd ask him for half."

Oil probe targets file bankruptcy

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Bankruptcy petitions have been filed by a Shawnee man and two companies that are targets of an investigation by the Oklahoma Securities Commission.

Coy Everett, his wife, Shelee Dene Everett, and the CSC Oil Co. and Freedom Energy Corp., all of Shawnee, filed the petitions in Oklahoma City federal court late Thursday.

The assets of the two firms were frozen last week by District Judge Raymond Naifeh in the wake of a lawsuit by several investors. The Securities Commission filed court action May 21 to halt the investments while the loss of up to $15 million by investors is investigated.

The bankruptcy papers showed Everett, a 26-year-old former Shawnee high school football star, owes $17.28 million, including $250,000 in federal taxes, $40,000 in state taxes and $16.76 million in investor claims.

Securities Commission officials say they are investigating complaints by several people who said they invested money in the oil firms after being guaranteed a quick return on their investment, plus a 50 percent profit.

The bankruptcy filings list 43 oil leases, worth an estimated $1.8 million, as held by Everett. The leases are listed as located in Beaver, Payne, Pottawatomie, Texas, Seminole, Cimarron and Logan counties and in Kansas.

The documents also show Everett is owed about $617,000 from several individuals and Reserve Energy Corp. and Southwest Productions of Dallas.

According to the filings, Everett owns interest in 10 firms, ranging from court clerical businesses to retail stores and oil services companies. Worth of the firms is estimated at about $21 in the filings.

The holdings include 100 percent interest in Shawnee Pipe and Supply Co.; 40 percent in Myco Construction Co. of Shawnee; 30 percent in Court Reporters, Inc., Oklahoma City; 50 percent each in Cobe Inc. and Evertay Inc., both of Shawnee; 40 percent in Cowan's Inc., Shawnee; 49 percent in Harrah Superette Inc., Harrah; 70 percent in Freedom Energy; 100 percent in CSC, and 100 percent in Pascos Energy Corp., Shawnee.

Everett also is listed as a partner in the Oklahoma Outdoorsman Store in Edmond, and Ron Everett Paint and Body Shop of Shawnee.

The papers list Everett's income as $175,000 during the past two years from the oil business, and $1.2 million from "other sources."

The documents show Everett has about $2,500 in six banks in Shawnee, Tecumseh, Cushing and Las Vegas.

Hispanics plan challenge of redistricting plan

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Lawyers for a Mexican-American civil rights group said Saturday they expect the Congressional redistricting plan to be challenged in court.

"The state, to my knowledge, has never adopted a plan that stood up in court," said George Korbel, an attorney for Texas Rural Legal Aid.

Korbel has been involved in voting rights litigation since 1970, and represented plaintiffs in the 1971 suit that challenged legislative apportionments made after the last census.

"I'm sure there's going to be litigation no matter what," he said, explaining that Republicans, blacks and hispanics objected — for different reasons — to both the House and Senate plans for Congressional districts.

Because Texas is covered by the Voting Rights Act, the redistricting plan must be approved by the U.S. Attorney General to make sure there has been no "racial gerrymandering" — drawing of district lines to dilute minority voting strength or reduce minority representation in Congress.

A conference committee is working to resolve the differences in the House and Senate plans, and Korbel said he felt the committee might accept alternatives to boost minority representation in Congress.

TRLA and the Mexican-American Legal Defense Fund presented their plan in a Capitol news conference. It would create five minority districts instead of the four in the Legislature's proposals. MALDEF spokesman Raul Noriega said.

The plan would create a new South Texas district south of San Antonio and north of District 15, now represented by U.S.

Rep. Eligio "Kika" de la Garza. The new district No. 27, would be about 53 percent Hispanic and 3 percent black, Noriega said.

Nancy says she had delayed reaction after Reagan shooting

NEW YORK (AP) — First lady Nancy Reagan says after her husband was shot, "all I could think of was, 'I have to hold on and not get in anybody's way,' 'cause there was so much confusion."

"Finally they let me in to see Ronnie and that was when he said, 'Honey, I forgot to duck.' But he had the thing on his nose and I could see the blood on his lips, and everything," Mrs. Reagan said in a White House interview with ABC's Barbara Walters to be broadcast Tuesday.

"You have a kind of delayed reaction," she said. "You hold yourself together for a long time because you have to. And then the tears come easily."

"My mother took me away from school" at Holy Cross School in Washington, she said. "Sister Fredericka, the school principal, said she would rather see me dead than on stage."

So on the podium where she gave her address, she was awarded an honorary degree.

"I'm not here through the wisdom of your board of directors or by their choice," she declared. "I got here on my own because I wished it so hard and when I wish hard, things do happen."

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Actress Helen Hayes finally got her first diploma — simply by wishing for it.

"I left school at the age of 9, in 1909, because a call came from New York that they had a part for a little girl on Broadway," she told 595 graduates at Holy Cross College commencement Friday.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When former Ohio State football Coach Woody Hayes had his gallbladder removed May 9, his doctors left something behind.

Hayes was in satisfactory condition Friday after a second operation to remove a surgical sponge. X-rays revealed the sponge after Hayes was readmitted to University Hospital with a fever and bacterial infection.

"He reacted very calmly and just said to take care of it," said Nancy Grover, a hospital spokeswoman. She said she did not know if the sponge caused the infection.

Bogus t-shirt bill gets House Study analysis

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — It's a fairly staid group that spends hours seriously analyzing the good, the bad and the ugly bills that Texas lawmakers try to urge through the Legislature.

However, as the session crushed to a close the temptation apparently became irresistible for the members of the House Study Group.

In the back of a daily floor report, just after an analysis of a water pollution emergency cleanup bill, was a report on a bill creating the Board of T-Shirt Design Examiners.

There's no such bill, but that didn't stop the analysts from analyzing it.

HB 3333 would ban the manufacture, borrowing and wearing of T-shirts bearing lewd, immoral, suggestive, obscene or subversive words, phrases, numbers, pictures or drawings," the report said.

The study group said the bill would create a 25-member Board of T-Shirt Design Examiners, appointed by the governor. The board would issue licenses to T-shirt makers and sellers. Applicants would have to undergo a 2,000 classroom hours of instruction.

Board members would publish a manual of banned shirts. New designs would be sent to the board for consideration. If rejected, the designer could appeal to U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice, who has had a hand in several major lawsuits against the state.

Under the "Supporters Say" heading, the report said:

"Lewd and immoral T-shirts are corrupting the minds of our youth. Study after study has shown that 90 percent of all crimes are committed by people who have been wearing T-shirts."

"How many times have you been embarrassed when walking down the street with the wife and kids, only to be confronted by a scullery teen-ager wearing a T-shirt with an immoral or subversive comment or picture on it? This sort of loose morals is leading our society to damnation."

Under "Opponents Say," the report said the bill would mean "every smart-aleck kid will want to be the first on the block to have a prohibited design on his T-shirt."

Under "Still Other Opponents Say," the report said "Big Brother" could extend the bill to ban other clothing.

Exxon chairman says oil surplus needed to meet future demands

HOUSTON (AP) — The chairman of Exxon Corp. says it is essential that today's apparent oversupply of petroleum be kept in perspective.

"What we must do, in our preoccupation with immediate problems, is to lose sight of the fundamental issues that are at the heart of the long-range energy dilemma," said C.C. Garvin Jr.

"Finding enough energy supplies to sustain economic growth, coping with the long lead times required to bring new projects on stream, improving the efficiency with which energy is used, and managing the consequences for the environment are the ongoing challenges we must face."

Garvin said Exxon anticipates that through the end of this century and well into the 21st Century there will be a continuing increase in the demand for energy.

"For the world as a whole, we expect two-thirds more to be used by the year 2000 than is consumed today, in the United States about 30 percent more," he said.

"In both cases, the rate of growth in energy demand will be substantially less than in pre-energy-crisis days, but will still provide significant opportunity for earnings growth."

Given the increasing gap between consumption of oil and new discoveries in recent years, he said, it is unlikely this expanding demand can be met from conventional petroleum resources.

"For the decades immediately ahead, the United States and the world will have to depend increasingly on greater use of directly-burned coal and nuclear energy," he said.

"However, these fuels cannot do the job alone. For various transportation and petrochemical purposes, we must have a continuing supply of hydrocarbons in liquid and gaseous form as well."

That is why Exxon, Garvin said at the company's recent shareholders meeting, has begun to make substantial investments in the recovery of heavy crudes and in synthetic fuels to augment conventional petroleum supplies.

Exxon's first major venture in these areas, the Syncrude Project in Canada came on-stream in 1978.

"Syn-crude is operating satisfactorily and we have learned much about recovering oil from heavy tars sands," Garvin said.

In the United States, he added, Exxon is proceeding with the commercialization of the Colony Oil Shale Project in Western Colorado.

"Production of synthetic oil from underground mined shale should begin in 1985," Garvin said.

"At full capacity, Colony will produce nearly 50,000 barrels a day and the whole project will employ about 2,000 people. We have the technology to support this project, but it is our first commercial venture into shale and thus represents a major challenge to the corporation in the 1980s."

Garvin said Colony's anticipated success should open up an important additional source of supply for the United States for many years to come.

While synthetics are important, Garvin said, they are not the only or even the principal answer to future energy needs.

"Conservation is vitally important," he said. "Exxon supports it strongly and will continue in whatever ways it can to seek the productive use of the oil and other major forms of energy that we produce. But the possibilities for improved energy efficiency are not limitless. Nor can doing without solve our basic problem. Vital as conservation is, it cannot do the job alone."

A continuing effort, he said, must also be made in renewable energy alternatives, solar, fusion "and anything else that looks promising."

"For the long run, that is where our hopes lie," he said.

"But there is no question in my mind that synthetics can, and must, make a major contribution in the period of long transition and that is what we must deal with first."

HOUSTON (AP) — Trinity Resources announced Wednesday that its earnings per share for the first quarter of 1981 were up 17 cents over the same period last year.

M.C. McKinnon, company president, said the company also had revenues of $4,865,706 for the first three months this year, which resulted in total earnings of $1,328,167.

McKinnon said the company, a Canadian petroleum exploration firm, has completed 17 new wells since the end of 1980 and has 14 wells being drilled or completed.

DALLAS (AP) — Stockholders in the May Petroleum Co. have approved a plan that will allow the company to increase its shares of common stock from 10 million to 30 million.

But a company spokesman said no plans were being made to sell the stock and that the move was made only to give the company added financial flexibility.

Gardening by moon signs

BY LOIS BOYNTON
 The Moon will be Decreasing 1. 18 - 30. The Moon will be Increasing 2. 18.
 The Fruitful Signs are: from 12 noon the 3rd through 5th until 2 p.m. (Cancer), from 5 p.m. the 12th through 14th (Scorpio), from 12 Noon the 22nd until 5:30 the 24th (Pisces).
 The Semi-Fruitful Signs are: 10 through the 12th until 5 p.m. (Libra), from 5:30 p.m. the 17th through 19th (Capricorn), 27-28 (Taurus).
 The Barren Signs are: from 12 noon the 1st until 12 noon the 3rd (Gemini), from 1 p.m. the 5th through 7th (Leo), 8-9 (Virgo), 15 through 17th until 5:30 p.m. (Sagittarius), 20 until 12 Noon (Aquarius), 25-26 (Aries), 29-30 (Gemini).
 Are you having success with gardening by the Moon Signs? If so, we would like to hear about it as would our readers. Or if you have questions, write me, Lois Boynton, Box 24, Pampa, Texas 79065.

We have had a very dry cold spring with so much wind that the main program ahead is watering! Watering! If you will water when possible during the Wet Signs (Cancer, Scorpio, Pisces), the water will go further and last longer.
 The busiest time has past. Most of the garden should be in, and some already producing. We will be planting our last sweet corn the 4th and 5th. There is plenty to do as always, but do not be in too much of a hurry. Take some time to enjoy the fruits of your handiwork. Visit your neighbor's garden, and share yours with them. Many times you miss the beauty of your own garden until someone comes to see it with you.

When the sweet corn is a foot high, side-dress with compost or cottonseed meal.

The seedheads on all perennials should be removed and the plants cut back, first to half-height, later to the crown, in order to obtain bloom in late summer. The roses should be well watered, fed and mulched.

Spring-flowering shrubs should be pruned as they finish blooming. Do not cut foliage from peonies when removing seed pods. Rambler roses should be cut back after blooming, removing the weaker new canes and old canes, cutting them all the way to the crown.

You may start dividing iris this month. Lift the entire plant, discard the winter centers of the plant, replanting the vigorous tubers with one or two fans, shortening the foliage to about 5 inches.

Delphiniums should be cut half-way back when they have finished blooming to encourage second flowering. Do the same for columbines.

After their leaves turn yellow, lift any spring-flowering bulbs that are too crowded. Divide and replant daffodils and narcissus. Store tulips in a cool place until autumn.

Watch roses for shoots sprouting below graft. Rub them off before the rose reverts to its rootstock parent.

Continue to pinch back chrysanthemums. Allow the shoots to grow six inches long when making cuttings, nipping just below a leaf node. Strip off all the leaves except the end ones. Place the cutting in the bed where it will not dry out. It should be rooted in about a month.

Remember to keep geraniums on the dry side. Marigolds, the French and Aztec varieties, are recommended as a cure for soil nematodes. But it takes more than one season of continuous planting to build up enough of the substance that drives nematodes away. So you should make repeated plantings throughout the garden including the vegetable plot. We have found they reseed themselves and continue to come back year after year even after rototilling.

You may try this to help your peach, plum and cherry trees to be protected from the borers. Remove the soil around the base of the tree to a depth of three inches. Then bind the trunk of the tree with painter's masking tape in a snug sheath that extends from three inches below the soil line to four inches above it, seven inches in all. The yellow and black moth deposits her eggs in the soil, which later become borers in the larval stage. If the hatching offspring cannot get into the tree, they starve to death. The masking tape will not bind the tree but will spit as the trunk grows.

Keep the fallen fruit picked up from the apple tree. Compost the fruit only if the compost heap is heating up properly. If not, relegate them to the trash can.

Newly planted fruit trees should be watered once a week, and let it be a thorough soaking. Do not feed them this year.

Houseplants that are getting their summer vacations outdoors should be watered regularly. They are making their most active growth at this time so they should be fed. Manure "tea" is fine. Fish fertilizers are good; use as directed on package. As you put the plants out, some can take full sun. Others like protection from the afternoon sun. They are Jacobinia, croton, Christmas cherry and many of the foliage plants. The ones that can take full sun are the cacti, the succulents, geraniums and the coleus.

Too many give up rather than try to grow flowers where there is little sun. But several flowering plants prefer the shady nooks. Daylilies and coralbells are two favorites. The hostas, plantain lilies, flowering tobacco torenia and lobelia with its delicate blue colors do well in the shade.

Fruit trees many times will set more fruit than they can ripen. Some of the excess nature will help with the June drop off. However, they may need more thinning. For the small home orchard, often hand thinning is practical.

This is why we are planting only dwarf trees, so that hand thinning is not such a problem. Peaches and apples should be thinned so that there are six to eight inches between the fruits. Plums should be spaced about three or four inches apart. If the fruit is spaced about the distance given, the tree should be able to support the fruit.

If you are planning a vacation and worried about your houseplants, practically all common houseplants can be kept thriving for several weeks by storing them in plastic bags. Use a large enough bag to accommodate each plant.

Pampa little league roundup

Dixie pounded Cabot, 12-4, Friday night to remain unbeaten in the National Little League race.

Dixie, now 8-0, was led at the plate and in the field by Alfredo Jimenez, who had two hits and two outstanding defensive plays. Brett Mitchell also delivered two hits for the winners.

Terry Stroud was the winning pitcher for the first-half champions.

Celanese exploded for eight runs in the third inning to down OCAW, 13-9, Friday night.

Mike Flynn struck out 14 batters and hit a home run for Celanese.

Sandra Farrah also had two hits for the winners.

John Thomas spotted OCAW a 2-0 lead when he belted a two-run homer in the first inning, but Celanese rallied in the third for an 8-3 advantage.

Grant Gamblin had two doubles and a single to lead Glo-Valve to an 11-2 win over Dunlap Saturday.

Wayne Hoskins was the winning pitcher.

Moose Lodge defeated Duncan, 13-9, Thursday night in a seven-inning game.

Winning pitcher was Bryan Fleming as Duncan was held to only one hit.

Chris Smith topped Moose at the plate with a two singles.

Gate Valve was crowned the American League champions the first half after rolling past Gibson's, 11-1, Saturday.

Rod Harris was the winning pitcher, and helped his own cause with a home run.

Gate Valve has now won eight games in a row. The team is managed by Gene Cryer and coached by Robert Morris and Dannie Cagle.

Astros win slugfest with Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Terry Puhl's two-out single in the 14th inning snapped a tie and gave the Houston Astros a wild 21-hit, 9-8 victory over the San Francisco Giants Saturday.

After the Giants tied the game for the second time in pinch-hitter Milt May's controversial three-run homer in the 13th, Houston's Dave Roberts was safe on shortstop Johnnie LeMaster's one-out error in the 14th. Roberts was forced at second on Rafael Landestoy's apparent single when LeMaster deceived him into thinking it was a pop-up.

However, Landestoy stole second, continued to third on catcher Mike Sadek's throwing error and scored on Puhl's single off Fred Breining, 1-1, the Giants' fifth pitcher.

Joaquin Andujar, 2-3, who yielded May's three-run homer, was the winner with relief help from Vern Ruhle, the sixth Houston pitcher.

The Astros, who tied the game 5-5 in the ninth on pinch-hitter Jim Wohlford's sacrifice fly, erased an 8-5 deficit in the bottom of the 13th.

Rennie Stennett was safe on second baseman Landestoy's one-out error and Sadek drew a two-out walk. May then hit a drive off the top of the right field fence. The ball bounced back onto the field but first base umpire Frank Pulli called it a home run despite a strong protest from the Astros.

The Giants' eight runs were all unearned, the first five after two of the three errors by shortstop Reynolds. Reynolds also snapped a 5-5 tie with a run-scoring single in the 13th inning and the Astros added two more runs on Gary Woods' triple and a single by Jose Cruz to take an 8-5 advantage.

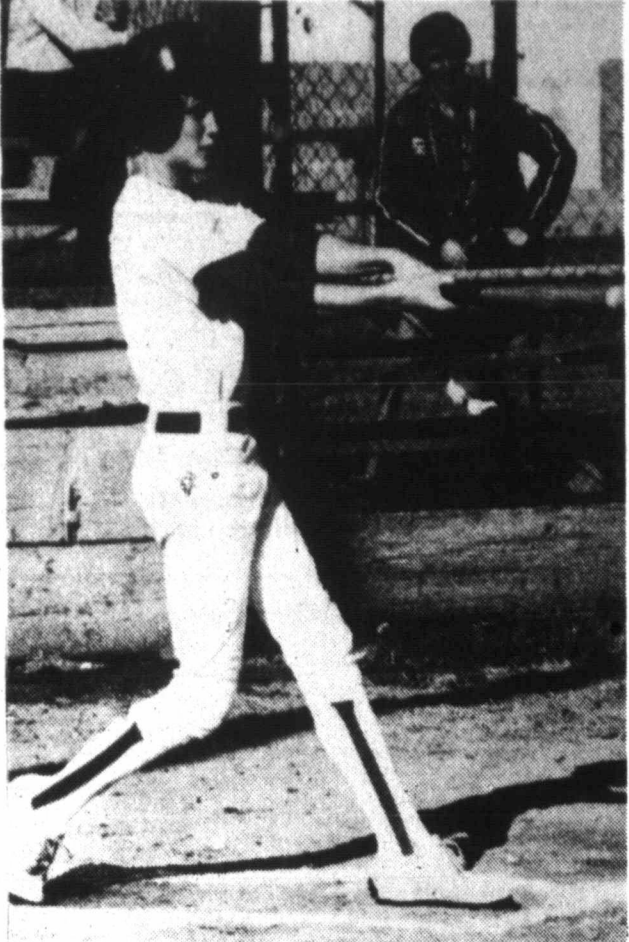

A walk to Puhl and run-scoring doubles by Cesar Cedeno and Danny Heep gave Houston a 2-0 lead in the first inning off Allen Ripley.

The Giants came back with four runs in their half, with Stennett hitting a two-run single and LeMaster a two-run double.

The Astros took a 5-4 lead with three runs in the fourth after Joe Pittman's one-out double. Pittman went to third on center fielder Bill North's throwing error and scored on Kiko Garcia's single. Garcia stole second, went to third on the first of Sadek's two throwing errors and scored on Niekro's bloop single. Niekro was forced by Puhl but a balk and Reynolds' RBI single gave the Astros the lead.

Strateline: Sports

By L.D. STRATE Pampa News Sports Editor Wheeler football fans probably thought it would be next to impossible to replace a coaching talent like Joe Allen, until they heard who the new coach was going to be.

Like Allen's team in 1979, Smith's Mustangs went 14-0 in 1977 and won the state championship. Wheeler routed White Oaks, 35-13, in the finals.

Smith, a Sul-Ross graduate and a native of Grapevine, Tex., coached at Spearman one year after leaving Wheeler. He returned to the Wheeler area in 1979, but with a different occupation... ranching.

Would like to plug coach Garland Nichols' basketball camp for youngsters, which starts June 8 at the Pampa Youth Center. Enrollment is underway right now at the center for youngsters, ages 8 through 13.

Overheard at Red Raider Club banquet: Richard Ritchie, Texas Tech quarterback coach and chief recruiter for the Panhandle area, said Hereford was the most impressive of all the teams he scouted in spring practice this year.

Flashback: May, 1940. Merle Adams hit two home runs as the Pampa Oilers blasted the Lubbock Hubbers, 12-4. Jared Jordan added a homer, single, and double to the Oilers' 16-hit attack.

Another Harvester planning to cast his shadow across the college gridiron is all-district defender Clifford Anderson.

Anderson, a 200-pounder, is going to St. Mary's of the Plains on a football grant. Anderson was a first-team District 3-5A pick at defensive end in 1980, and also saw action at running back for the Oilers.

Reynolds leads golf classic GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) — Cathy Reynolds built a three-stroke lead Saturday after six holes of the third round at the $125,000 LPGA Golden Lights Classic.

The 23-year-old Springfield, Mo., resident began the day as co-leader with Sally Little. Reynolds and Little began the day at 141: 3-under-par. After six holes, Little had dropped five strokes off the pace.

Marlene Floyd, who started the day at 143: 2 strokes behind Reynolds, was 3-under-par and two strokes behind the leader after six holes.

U.S. schoolgirl advances in French tennis open

PARIS (AP) — Kathy Rinaldi, a 14-year-old Florida schoolgirl, upstaged the superstars in the French Open tennis tournament Saturday by upsetting No. 8-seed Dianne Fromholtz 6-3, 7-5 and moving into the final 16. Meanwhile, Bjorn Borg and Jimmy Connors battered French opponents Saturday and continued their rival bids for the men's title.

Chris Evert Lloyd and Martina Navratilova, main contenders for the women's crown, won with ease. But Rinaldi, who previously had played in only six events on the circuit and accepts only expenses, was the star of the day at Roland Garros stadium.

The daughter of a Stuart, Fla., dentist, Rinaldi said she decided to play in Paris because the stars would be here and it would be good experience.

Next month she plans to play Wimbledon, though I have never seen a grass court in my life," she said.

Borg, favored to win the title for the sixth time, hit his top spinners with machine-like efficiency to demolish Paul Andre Torre 6-2, 6-1, 6-2.

Connors, the No. 2 seed, crushed Jean-Francois Caujolle 6-0, 6-2, 6-0. Last year, Caujolle almost beat Connors in straight sets here, but faltered on match point and allowed the American left-hander to win.

Kiner struck out with Liz

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

When Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh's former home run king who is baseball's official traveling salesman for the midsummer All-Star game, conducts a press conference, somebody inevitably brings up the subject of his embarrassing date with beautiful Liz Taylor.

Sure, they ask about all those balls he hit out of the park, his own personal role in the All-Star game and stuff about the alleged superiority of the National League, but there's always some guy in the audience who barks out: "That's fine, Ralph, but tell us about you and Liz in the Hollywood parking lot."

"Aw, you don't want to hear that story again," Ralph says, blushing. "Everybody's heard it. Now about that 1950 game."

"Come on, Ralph, let's hear about Liz."

"Okay," Kiner accedes. "The year was 1949, I think. I was getting some attention over my home run production (51 in 1947, 54 in 1949) and Liz was a budding star in the movies. So some mutual friend fixes me up with a date to take Liz to the movie premiere of 'Twelve O'Clock High'."

Kiner had to pause to relish thoughts of the occasion. "I drove over to pick her up at her home in the hills. She was still getting ready. I talked to her father, a nice guy, and her mother, a domineering woman. Then Liz entered the room. She was breath-taking."

"We drove to the Grumman Theater — you know the place where the footprints and handprints of the stars are in concrete. Searchlights blinded you. Thousands of people lined the sidewalks just to get a glimpse of the celebrities."

"I got to meet Cary Grant and other movie stars. After the movie, everybody came out to get their cars. I gave the doorman my name. Limousines kept coming up and leaving. Liz and I just stood there fidgeting. I gave my name again. No car. Finally, I became impatient and yelled, 'Where in the hell is my car?'"

"I'm sorry, sir," the doorman said. "What is your chauffeur's name?"

"I don't have a chauffeur. I snapped, 'I'm driving.'"

"Oh, in that case," the uniformed doorman replied haughtily. "Your car must be in the lot down the street. So we trudged a couple of blocks. We drove to one of those fancy restaurants but I couldn't enjoy the food or the company. It was humiliating."

"Right after that Liz married Nicky Hilton, the hotel tycoon."

"For Kiner, it proved home run hitters don't always hit home runs."

But he hit his share. Kiner has been tapped as horn-tooter for the annual All-Star game, to be played this year in Cleveland July 14. He travels around the country, grabs a rostrum (usually a TV or radio mike) and encourages fans to vote for their favorite players.

Critics make Calhoun more determined

HOUSTON (AP) — People keep telling Rice's Michael Calhoun he can't play quarterback, that he doesn't even look like a quarterback. Calhoun calls them the letdowns and putdowns.

Putdown — "I don't know what people think I'm supposed to look like but they keep saying I don't look like a quarterback. I just tell them to watch me perform. That's what gives me the momentum and pride of playing the position because people didn't think I could play it."

Letdown — "I felt I had a bum deal in the all-star game in my home town (1979 Oil Bowl at Wichita Falls). I thought sure I would play quarterback but they put me in the secondary. I've played in the shadow of a lot of guys that I felt equal to in talent."

Spurred by the putdowns and letdowns, Calhoun transferred to Rice from Taft, Calif. Junior College in January, had the best spring practice of his career and has emerged as a strong starting quarterback candidate for Coach Ray Alborn this fall.

"The players immediately respected him because they saw he was a good athlete," Alborn said. "He came in with a build up but he hadn't done anything on the field. Kids are concerned. If a guy comes in with a build up they want to see him perform. They are not just interested in reading press clippings."

Alborn may even encourage more putdowns and letdowns if it inspires such performance, although Calhoun feels he has enough to last a lifetime.

Calhoun decided to return to Texas after he was shunned by major west coast schools.

Because of his determination to remain at quarterback, Calhoun said he couldn't understand Texas quarterback Donnie Little shifting to receiver.

"I feel he has the same qualities and talent as Mike Mosley (Texas A&M quarterback) and Mosley played quarterback his senior year," Calhoun said. "Playing receiver won't make him (Little) any better than what he could be at quarterback."

Spurs' fan files suit against Bird

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Boston Celtics star forward Larry Bird was here Friday to give a sworn statement in a $175,000 damage suit filed by a San Antonio Spurs fan.

Johnny A. Merla of San Antonio claims Bird spat on him and knocked him to the ground with a tote bag, causing him injuries and embarrassment. He alleged the incident occurred outside HemisFair Arena after a January 1980 game in which the Spurs beat Boston.

Also named in the suit filed last July were former Celtics center Dave Cowens and the Boston team. At the time of the alleged incident, the Boston players complained they were harassed and spit upon by Spurs fans.

Bird would not comment on the suit, but his attorney, Robert Summers, called the allegations "completely unfounded."

State District Judge Rose Spector issued a subpoena earlier this week requiring Bird to appear at the office of attorney Cesar Molina today and give his deposition.

McMullen opposes strike delay

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros chairman John McMullen says the Major League Players Association has "opened a new wound, a wound that can only fester in the future."

A delay of at least a week in a players strike was hammered out in a New York federal court Thursday after the National Labor Relations Board earlier in the week had agreed with a union complaint owners have bargained in bad faith.

Several Astros reacted by saying the delay is good under the circumstances. But McMullen had a different perspective. "I'm sure the Players Association believes it has scored a great victory but I believe they'll find out otherwise in the long run. They've opened a new wound, a wound that can only fester in the future."

McMullen, speaking from his New York office, said he was not surprised by the union's approach in that it has wanted to see the owners' books a long while.

"And I've been involved in a number of labor disputes in my life, and I've found the NLRB tends to be pro-labor," he said.

"But what was decided this week is ludicrous. In the first place, the government should never have become involved. This is so alien and unfitting to the game of baseball that it reduces baseball's prestige. And if the owners can be accused of bargaining in bad faith, so can the players."

"I hear all this talk about how the players consider themselves entertainers and should be paid on the scale other entertainers are paid," he said. "But I'd like to find out who'd even go watch them if they were all by themselves, without a strong (club) organization to back them up."

McMullen said the union's seeking NLRB support "is a subterfuge, a charade cleverly orchestrated."

SACK RACES. Both students and teachers at Austin elementary enjoyed the last day of school Friday by holding an Olympiad on the school grounds. Youngsters line up behind Stacey Loter to await their turn in the sack race, while principal Bill Jones issues some last-minute instructions. "This is the first time we've ever done this," Jones said. "It's kind of difficult to accomplish anything academically on the last day of school, so we decided to go out and have two hours of fun."

Martin suspended after bumping ump

NEW YORK (AP) — Oakland A's Manager Billy Martin, who had been uncharacteristically quiet in his dealings with umpires this season, was suspended indefinitely Saturday and fined an unspecified amount for bumping an ump during a game against Toronto, the American League office announced.

"You can't make contact with an umpire," Bob Fishel, an assistant to AL President Lee MacPhail, said in disclosing the action. "I have no comment," Martin said about MacPhail's ruling and the Friday night altercation with plate umpire O'Neil.

Asked if he planned to go to New York to look at the game films and give his side of the case to the league president, Martin replied: "I don't have to review the films."

Martin was then asked when he had heard about the suspension.

"I got word this morning," he said, then hung up.

Fishel said the suspension was levied immediately after the league had received verbal statements about Martin's behavior from the four-man umpiring crew.

Fishel said that the length of the suspension would be determined after a review of the game films Monday by MacPhail.

Third base coach Clete Boyer took over as acting manager for the A's.

Martin had little to say when contacted by telephone at his Toronto hotel room Saturday, hours before the A's met the Blue Jays in the second game of their weekend series.

"I have no comment," Martin said about MacPhail's ruling and the Friday night altercation with plate umpire O'Neil.

Asked if he planned to go to New York to look at the game films and give his side of the case to the league president, Martin replied: "I don't have to review the films."

Martin was then asked when he had heard about the suspension.

"I got word this morning," he said, then hung up.

Cubs win

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Morales drove in three runs with a double and a single and Tim Lincecum connected for a two-run triple as the Chicago Cubs sent 12 men to the plate in a seven-run fourth inning and went on to trounce the New York Mets 10-3 Saturday.

Mike Krukow, 2-6, snapped a personal four-game losing streak, scattering five hits in the seven innings he worked. Dick Tidrow finished.

Greg Harris, 1-1, yielded four of the seven runs in the fourth inning before giving way to Ed Lynch. Harris also hurt himself with a pair of wild pitches during the uprising.

Reds pound Dodgers, 9-1

LOS ANGELES (AP) — George Foster drove in three runs, two of them with his 11th homer of the season, and Frank Pastore earned his first victory in more than a month as Cincinnati defeated Los Angeles 9-1 Saturday.

Ron Oester also drove in three runs with a single and two sacrifice flies as the Reds pulled to within 4½ games of the National League West-leading Dodgers. Los Angeles aided the Cincinnati cause with three errors, two passed balls and a wild pitch.

Pastore, 2-2, scattered six hits in 7 1/3 innings before being relieved by Tom Hume. Pastore struck out two and walked three in winning for the first time since April 24. Hume took over with one out and runners at first and third in the eighth and got Ron Cey to ground into a double play.

Burt Hooton, 7-1, suffered his first loss of the year. He was tagged for five runs on eight hits in five innings.

Yankees edge Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rookie right-hander Gene Nelson combined with Ron Davis and Rich Gossage on a three-hitter as the New York Yankees edged Cleveland 1-0 Saturday, sending the Indians to their third straight defeat.

Nelson, 2-1, at 20 the youngest player in the major leagues, walked four and struck out two before being relieved by Davis in the sixth inning. Gossage relieved in the eighth and got the final five outs for his 13th save, tops in the majors.

Only one Cleveland runner reached third base in the game. That came in the first inning when Miguel Dilone singled and stole second.

Scott wins Elliott mile

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Steve Scott, America's premier miler, took the lead with 30 yards to go and beat Villanova's Sydney Maree to the tape by a yard in the Jumbo Elliott Track Meet Saturday.

Scott, representing the Sub-Four Track Club of California, ran the mile in 3 minutes, 52.26 seconds, while Maree finished at 3:52.44.

New Zealand's former world record-holder, John Walker, was third at 3:55.89 and Craig Masback of the New York Pioneers fourth at 3:55.95 in the field of nine.

Scott, however, had to share meet honors with James Robinson of the Inter-City Athletic Club of Los Angeles, who won the 800 meters in 1:44.63, the fastest in the world this year.

Another highlight was Edwin Moses' 61st consecutive victory in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles. Moses, who started his streak in 1977, ran a 48.65 over James Walker of Athletic Attic, who ran a 50.46.

In the mile, Scott ran in the back of the pack until making his bid on the backstretch of the third lap.

Eamonn Coglin, a former Villanova student from Ireland, took the lead on the backstretch of the third lap with Maree in close pursuit.

South Padre booms

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (AP) — Neither inflation nor erosion nor hurricanes have kept the giant cranes and bulldozers from their appointed rounds in this resort's building boom of expensive condominiums on the Gulf of Mexico.

Local officials expect to issue permits this year for $100 million in construction projects compared to $42 million last year.

"Everytime I turn around there's something else going up I never heard of," said City Manager Kirby Lilledahl.

Investors from Mexico and Canada have joined Texans and others in buying condominium units as second homes or for lucrative rental income.

With nautical names like the Sunside, Surfside and Sea Vista, the high rises command prices of up to $190,000 for a three-bedroom unit.

When beachfront space dwindled, developers turned to the side of this barrier island fronting the Laguna Madre.

One byside development calls for two, 28-story towers and two, 19-story ones.

When the town of South Padre Island incorporated in 1973, six years after Hurricane Beulah ravaged the Rio Grande Valley, building along the five-mile town beach started its dramatic increase.

Pessimistic soothsayers said, "Just wait til the next hurricane. There won't be anything left."

Last August, Hurricane Allen threatened to pound the beach with its full force — 190 mph winds — but the giant storm floundered offshore and lost power.

Meteorologist Richard Hagan of the National Weather Service in Brownsville said the storm's center never crossed the developed part of the island.

"From the height of the tides, it was ranked as a major hurricane fitting category three on a scale of one to five (the most powerful) but just barely into category three," Hagan said.

Allen's top winds at landfall swirled at 130 mph, hitting the fishing village of Port Mansfield and the King Ranch the hardest.

Property damage in the resort area came to $40 million and millions more lost in tourism revenues.

Hurricane Allen was not a true test of the island construction, said Bob Morton of the University of Texas Bureau of Economic Geology in Austin.

The storm's rains soaked through some roofs and damaged interiors but damage to larger buildings seemed limited to some seawalls. The 10-foot tides sullied ground level interiors and wiped out many sand dunes.

"The area very definitely is still hazardous," he said. Low elevation and erosion are the reasons, he added.

The larger buildings of cinder block construction, set on 10-foot driven pilings, probably would never collapse in a hurricane, he said.

Seawalls can protect property behind them from the ocean's fury, he said, but studies show beaches in front of them will erode faster.

Morton said he resents developers taking advantage of the national flood insurance program to risk ventures on the coast.

"I'm enough of a free enterprise person that if people want to build on the beach, that's their business but I take great exception to our (taxpayers) underwriting it with the flood insurance program," he said.

Developers say that without federal government-backed flood insurance, they could not obtain financing.

Local officials say they've heard dire predictions before, and after Allen, they like to brag they've been through a hurricane.

The storm may have boosted investor confidence in the area although most of the 18 projects under construction and 10 others planned were envisioned before it blew in from the Gulf.

Start-up time before construction runs at least a year, said Richard Franke, a realtor. His family is developing a 17-story condominium tower to be completed in 1982 with an indoor-outdoor pool, tennis, handball and raquetball courts.

Franke estimated half of island investors are middle and upper class Mexican nationals looking for a safe place to sink their pesos.

Seniors bid farewell to Pampa High School

GRADUATION FEVER. It wasn't any athletic event that led these enthusiastic seniors to the Pampa playing field and the traditional goal post. It was just graduation fever overtaking departing seniors.

Text by
Sheila Eccles

Skyler Chapman

NO MORE BOOKS at least not for this senior — or in this locker at Pampa High School. Brooke Bell happily clears away four years' accumulation of memories and hard work.

Their day is over, and the graduating seniors will soon be finding and taking their place in the world.

Hopefully, they will remember what the administrators, staff, coaches, teachers and friends at Pampa High School have tried to instill in them.

Two hundred and sixty six seniors were handed their well deserved diplomas Friday night with all the pomp and ceremony Pampa could provide.

The seniors listened as representatives of their class spoke to the crowds at the Friday graduation ceremonies. Pam Miller gave the invocation. Ray Condo gave the benediction. Valedictorian Debbie Drdual, salutatorian Don Braswell and class president Rodney Brewer were to present messages for their peers — the Class of 1981.

Seniors participated throughout the month of May in the senior prom, the honors banquet, the Key Club banquet, the choir banquet, the band spring festival, the choir spring festival, the spring sports banquet and the choir concert.

No one senior was honored at every event, but there was a place for each of them - to be present, to participate and to seek to excel.

"You have the fresh dreams and vision our world needs. I challenge you to believe that your idealism is a great asset. You are not willing to accept the cynical judgment that nothing can be changed or improved. You know that change is possible, where you are can be different, because you bring fresh dreams and new visions," the Rev. Joe Turner told the class during his vesper address.

"Come, join those of us who love life and what upbuilds and enhances life. Share with us our vision, your dreams, your idealism. Your life is a vote, a ballot for either hopelessness or vision, love of life, or love of death, earth's noblest dreams or nightmares. Your live is a vote, and we need your vote for vision." Rev. Turner concluded.

SENIORS, LINE UP. Vespers is the first of two ceremonies which mark the end of the school days. Here, they're lined up and ready to make their first processional march in graduation robes.

GRADUATION NECESSITIES are checked by senior Kay Quattlebaum. The seniors have worked 12 years for this robe — it had better look good.

THE LAST FEW DAYS to cram for those for Denise Jonas, who took advantage of all-important senior exams are past now class time last week to dig into the books.

right, are Deanna Parsley, Kim Bowers, Leah Sikes and Anna Riehart. Not shown are Tammy Johnson and Dori Kidwell.

recognition at "Dance Away," a revue to be presented Tuesday night by dance students of Jeanne Willingham.

'Dance Away' revue to be Tuesday night

Dance students of Jeanne Willingham will present the Beaux Arts Dance Studio's 33rd annual revue, "Dance Away," at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 2 at M. K. Brown Auditorium.

Special recognition will be given to two graduating seniors, Melanie Chamberlain, daughter of Terry Chamberlain and Mrs. Betty Chamberlain, 2535 Charles; and Renae Hess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hess, 2228 Aspen.

The seniors will travel around the world aboard the "Dance Away Airways Flight 33," and bring back dancing souvenirs from their tour. Included in the program are visits to Disneyland, Las Vegas, New York, London, Moscow, Holland, Italy, Ireland, Switzerland, England and France.

Attendance awards will be presented to several students. Those receiving one-year perfect attendance awards are Joni Hagerman, Tammy Lane, Jan Marak, Amy Trusty and Kim McMillan.

Two-year perfect attendance awards will be presented to Pamela Dacus, Jennifer Jackson, Tammy Parsley, Carol Trusty and Wendi Winkleblack.

Students receiving three-year attendance awards are Teena Jacobs and Allyn Schaub. A four-year perfect attendance award will be presented to Deanna Parsley, and Lisa Radcliff will be recognized with a six-year award.

Ten-year certificates have been earned by Renae Hess, Cindy Kohler and Georgina Milum.

The program has been dedicated to Mrs. Wilsie Parker, who served as office manager of the dance studio for 28 years. She was also a charter executive officer for the Pampa Civic Ballet.

Ballets included in the performance are "The Seasons" by Vespri Siciliani, and "La Favorite" by Donizetti. Choreography is by Jeanne Willingham.

Special props for the production were made by Pernie Simon and Chet Reeves. Others assisting in the revue include Jack Edwards, stage manager; Sam Edwards, assistant stage manager; Dennis Dehn, technician; and Janna Clark, Michelle Hughes and Jami Kirkwood, hostesses.

Learn to compromise on each other's personal tempos

By LOUISE PIERCE
Overheard conversations have always fascinated me. Now, whenever they concern older marriage, I take in every word I can glean.
Not long ago, in a downstate airport, I heard one woman say to another:
"Me and my old man are too much unalike. See, I'm quick and he's pokey. Always has been like that. I guess. But just never bothered neither of us when we was young, maybe on account of he was gone so much in his job."
"But now he's under my feet ever minute, and it's almost more'n I can take. Makes me wonder if we can stand it into our 70s. And Lord deliver me from puttin' up with him when we're 80!"

personality clash that young couples sometime face soon after marriage — the problem of adjusting to each other's quirks and coming up with an abiding harmony. You didn't have this problem in your 20s because you weren't together that much. Now you have the time — and the annoyance.
Two ways to resolve this difficulty come to my mind. One is to give the problem time to iron itself out. Often something that seems unbearable will disappear with the passing of days or weeks. Even if it takes months or years, it usually happens.
Otis and I are like you and your husband. I rush entirely too fast, trip myself and often land in ditches I never intended to inhabit. Though Otis has never scolded me for my stupid stumbling, I know he often wished I would slow down and ponder my thoughts and speech and actions. Likewise, I used to yearn for him to speed up a speck.

When we were young and living in a small town of only a few blocks, we walked to ball games and plays and dinner parties — and I went first, saving a seat beside me when he showed up an hour or so later. Now that we have to drive and thus go together, he hurries a little and I hold back a bit. We've learned to compromise over the years. We grew toward each other. It never caused us any trauma.

Allowing time to solve a problem was brought home to me anew, not long ago.
We had a neighbor who moved in with a beautiful bird dog and a bark big enough for six of him. The family was gone all day and that handsome canine yapped from eight to five; I mean constantly.
I could not concentrate on my typing or even my thinking. I felt as if I'd lose my mind. But I told myself. Maybe he will get so hoarse that he can't bark. Maybe they will take him in the house when they leave or board him at a kennel or give him to somebody in the country.

When none of these things happened, I kept my electric typewriter turned on all day whether I was using it or not. The drone drowned the barking a little — but not much.
I had never started a neighborhood brawl and didn't want to. I decided to wait one more month before protesting.
I hadn't met the owners of the dog. But one day when I was pulling weeds in the front yard, a charming boy of 10 came out of that house and joined me in my greenery cleaning. We chatted amiably for a couple of hours, after which the grass was completely cleared of goat heads.

As he left, the boy said, "Glad I got to know you. We're moving to Oklahoma next week."
I thought happily. And taking the dog!
I was a thousand times thankful that I'd allowed time to rid me of my private pestilence. If I ever see that delightful youngster again, I can beam upon him and shake his hand. If I'd fussed, he might have hated me.

So, older-marrieds, please try to develop special compromises after you allow time for solutions of problems. Retirement is such a together thing that you are almost certain to find a few differences between you. But if each mate gives a little, the annoyances will be erased.
I believe the old saying that opposites attract each other. How boring it would be if every husband and wife were exactly alike in their thinking and talking and acting! We need the stimulus of new ideas, of separate viewpoints in our living together. Think about it.

I am happy that Otis deliberates while I rush. It pleases me when I talk and he listens. I enjoy our taking turns with TV programs and sports and parties and all the rest. We love our compromises.
Write problems to DEAR LOUISE, Box 616, Pampa, Texas 79065.

To this lady, if she reads this column, and to any of you readers who have similar annoyances, this is my message:
DEAR QUICK VERSUS POKEY: Hang tight to your old man, dear. You have made it to retirement without letting your differences separate you. Don't let this small annoyance pull you apart now. And I consider individual tempos a small thing.
You're at the stage of Household hints
To clean old pewter, use a cloth with mild detergent and olive oil for soft gloss.
To help economize in the supermarket, always shop with a planned list but be flexible if you see an unadvertised special.
Whole tapioca, bought at a health-food store and blended at home, is cheaper than the ready-made blend.
A few cinnamon hearts will add both spice and color to homemade apple sauce or butter.
Large, tough-skinned vegetables such as turnips are easier to peel if the skin is first scored in bands with a knife.
Break an egg into a small funnel and the white will flow through the spout, leaving the yolk separate.

CAROL LYNN KENNEDY

Lamb plentiful this year

By TOM HOGE
AP Wine and Food Writer

The famous Hollywood film director, Alfred Hitchcock, was so fond of lamb that he used to send his private plane to New York to fetch young and tender cuts.

Sheep outnumber any other kind of livestock on earth and in many regions like the Middle East they are the principal source of meat.

But lamb has never caught on in the United States like beef and pork. In fact, Americans are said to average only 4 pounds per person in the course of an entire year. This is about one-fifth the amount consumed in Britain — where they thrive on both young lamb and adult mutton — and it seems a pity since there are so many fine dishes.

For one thing, Americans find mutton too strong and lamb too costly, especially the choicer cuts, but what meat isn't expensive these days?

A recent announcement of the American Lamb Council says the supply of spring lamb is abundant this year. Council director Richard D. Biglin predicts that prices will be "friendly" and the supply should be plentiful well into the summer cookout season.

Lamb has a colorful history dating back to ancient Roman days when it was braised in milk and honey.

In 17th-century Britain, the sheep was already being prepared in elaborate ways. One recipe called for a leg of mutton stuffed with ox suet, bread, cream, egg yolks and a whole range of herbs.

Today, lamb is still a British favorite, but it is usually served more simply with a mint sauce.

The French also liked the flavorful meat. Porthos, one of the three musketeers of the 19th-century author, Alexandre Dumas, tells of a chef who stuffed lamb with sausages and larks.

Lamb is at its best now, and if you want to enjoy some without going into debt, try a reasonable cut, like shoulder, as in this Chinese-style recipe.

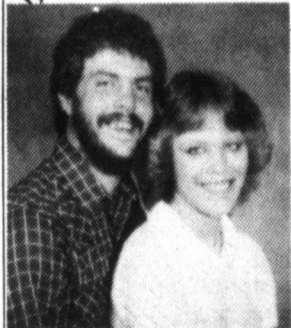

- 1 pound lamb shoulder, cut into thin strips
- 1/4 cup peanut oil
- 6 green onions, cut into thin pieces
- 1 green pepper, cut into strips
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 cup beef bouillon
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 can (4 ounces) mushrooms

with liquid
1/2 cup thinly sliced water chestnuts
1 cup canned bean sprouts

In large skillet or wok quickly brown lamb in oil. Remove meat, cook onions, green pepper and garlic in remaining oil for 2 minutes, stirring constantly. In small bowl, blend cornstarch in a little bouillon, then add remaining bouillon and blend. Return lamb to skillet, add bouillon mixture, sugar and soy sauce, stirring. When sauce is thickened, add mushrooms and liquid, water chestnuts and bean sprouts. Cook a few minutes and serve. Serves 4. Good with chilled beer.

Control night-flying moths

By JOE VANZANDT
County Extension Agent
NIGHT-FLYING MOTHS
CREATE NUISANCE

Night-flying moths, mainly cutworm moths, often become a nuisance to homeowners in the spring. The moths are attracted to light and are sometimes referred to as "candlemoths."

Night-flying moths are difficult to control. The following steps alone or in combination with others may provide some relief under favorable conditions:

- Reduce the attraction of the site.
- Intercept moths before they reach the site.
- Exclude moths from the house.
- Destroy moths which get into the house.

Reduce the attraction of moths to a house or buildings through proper light management. This often provides substantial relief. Use indirect lighting where practical so the light source is shielded from areas from which moths may come. Locate inside light fixtures so that moths outside cannot see the lamp itself.

There is little evidence that night repels insects, but a yellow light is least attractive to most insects.

During periods of heavy moth flights, keep outside lighting at a minimum. Insect light traps can intercept moths before they become a nuisance. Place such traps at least 100 feet away from a house or building.

To exclude moths from houses or buildings, properly screen windows and doors as well as air vents and ventilating ducts.

Household insecticides can control moths to some degree. Spray where moths collect and rest outside, such as door frames, window sills, carports, porches and garages. Since moths do not feed on anything where they are resting and are protected by a heavy coating of scales, sprays will not provide any immediate or spectacular results.

Apply ready-to-use household spray formulations of diazinon and baygon to resting sites and cracks and crevices where moths may enter buildings. Be sure to follow label instructions for "nuisance pest" control. Add a commercial wetting agent or a teaspoon of liquid detergent per gallon of mixed spray to increase its effectiveness.

Once moths get inside the house or building, a vacuum cleaner often gives the best control. A household pyrethrin aerosol spray will also control moths inside a room. Again, be sure to check the label on the container when using any insecticide.

TOMATOES ON POTATO PLANTS?

Gardeners sometimes find extraordinary things, such as "tomatoes" growing on potato plants. Usually the immediate reaction is that potato plants have become crossed with tomatoes.

However, that's not the case at all. Actually, the potato plants are blooming. The green fruit found on potato plants are commonly called potato seed balls that result from pollination and fertilization of potato blooms. Potato blooms vary from year to year depending primarily upon temperature. Occasionally, the blooms set and produce true fruit of the potato. These fruit each contain 100 to 300 true seed of the potato. These seed look a lot like tomato seed but generally are not fuzzy.

Plant breeders made controlled crosses between various potato varieties for producing true seed. Plants which are grown from these true seed produce small potatoes about one inch in size. This process results in new improved varieties.

Regarding blooming potatoes, potato set is not dependent upon flowering. Potato plants will set potatoes without flowers ever appearing on the top.

Peeking at Pampa

Have ever so many Pampans talking about the dinner theater last week. Said they loved the meal and the play. Amy Griggs and Don Shook presented "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers" with such verve and humor that the audience roared with laughter all the way through. Capacity crowd attended with many turned away.

Don, a young man, looked the part of the middle-aged role he played. Amy portrayed three different girls, complete with diverse wigs and dress and action. Everybody needs to see a play sometimes, get out of normal routine. When you add a sumptuous prime rib buffet, you've got a fun evening.

Dorothy and Ralph Gardner were there, enjoying the good time. How does she keep her beautiful red hair exactly right, no matter where she goes? The John Lee Bells attended and she was as pretty as always. Dale and Olivia Greenhouse were there, both looking chic and chipper. The Price Smiths came. Isn't she a friendly lady with a lovely smile? Donna and Dean Burger are also a friendly, charming couple.

Lots of people are rushing to garden centers these days, carrying away pickup loads of shrubs, trees, flowers, garden goodies. One day Ruby Dalton was selecting her plants, as was Mary Helen Boston. Ab Conway looked as if he was going to plant an acre of something or other.

Some people already have beautiful lawns. Al and Pauline Wagner's manicured yard is something to behold. There are other well-kept lawns in their neighborhood. Lovely part of town. How early in the spring do these people start working in their yards?

Heard somebody say that Faye Watson has a lovely new hairdo, curly but not fuzzy, most becoming. Lots of those curly waves hereabouts.

Carolyn Stroud said that sometimes people ask her if she stuck her finger in a light socket — but her hair's not that curly, looks fine. Did you know that she and Ed share two adorable grandsons with Barbara and Jerry Bruce, by way of the Vance Bruces? Vance's wife is the former Linda Stroud.

LeRoi and Frances Ogden, a delightfully personable couple, seem to have such a good time — and also possess the ability to make others enjoy being with them. Saw her the other day in a red suit, a lovely contrast to her hair and complexion. Seem to remember that their daughter is a fine pianist.

Heard a new idea for party-hosting couples to continue each other's company after the big to-do is over. One group held a post-party party, a dinner and dance, that they said was almost, but not quite, as much fun as the first party. There weren't any butterflies — and Odell Gideon didn't bring a maypole this time. But I heard Pauline Daugherty made up for it by reading some of her enjoyable poetry.

Get the two Hopkins ladies confused sometimes. But I think Kathleen is the wife of Ralph, and Cathy is Dan's spouse. Both ladies are attractive and a lot of fun. Wonder if they are related.

The Ken Fields, who haven't been Pampans for very many years, have certainly made friends here, as they probably did in other towns where they lived. Heard Glynn Bell of Shamrock say of Ken, "He used to live across the street from me, and he was always a fine youngster." We think he's the same grown-up.

Heard Deck Woldt say that Eloise took him dining and dancing two nights in a row — and that was a bit much. But both of them looked so perky that neither showed any sign of being worn out with partying. Hasn't she the most sparkling eyes anywhere? And such a contagious smile.

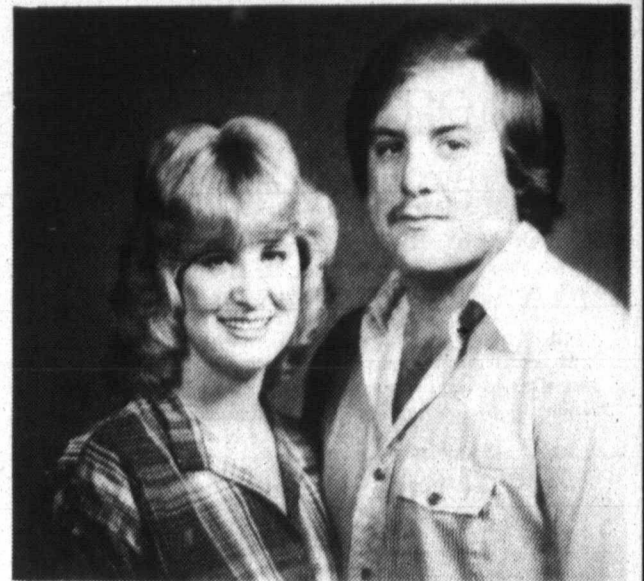

Laura and L.B. Penick are about as busy as anybody around. He plays a lot of golf but also manages to accompany her in presenting programs in which they show slides of their trips. A recent program included their pictures of Hawaii. Laura is as active in retirement as she was before, I think. One day she attended a breakfast in one place, a luncheon at another location — and then joined L.B. for one of their programs. More of us should be so happily busy.

If you didn't read "Who's Who at Pampa High" on page 24 of the Pampa News for Friday, May 22, dig it out if you saved it. I keep mine so I'll catch up if I miss anything the first time through. All the honors won by Pampa H.S. students were detailed, an impressive array of fine accomplishments by our young people. Congratulations to all of them.

Also heard about the honors won by our 4-H senior rifle team. Matt Hinton, Steve Jinks, Steve Thurman, Gary Clark Jr., Darrin Eakin and Shawn Hon won first place in district competition and will compete for state honors next month.

So many events are scheduled for June that we should all be as busy as we want to be. A golf tournament, barn dances, weddings, out of town trips, countless other goings-on. Don't plan to miss anything I'm invited to. Hope you don't either.

Tell you more next week. PAM.

DIANE MCNEELY AND ROBERT LINDSEY

McNeely, Lindsey plan August wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Edward McNeely of 210 W. Harvester announce the engagement of their daughter, Diane Renee, to Robert E. Lee Lindsey.

Lindsey is the son of Mrs. Jo Carol Lindsey of Canyon and the late Robert T. Lindsey.

The wedding is planned for Aug. 1 in Central Baptist Church of Pampa. The bride-elect is a 1979 Pampa High School graduate and is a student at West Texas State University in Canyon. She is an employee of Pantex.

The prospective bridegroom is a 1976 Canyon High School graduate and a 1980 Texas Tech University graduate. He is employed by Welox of Pampa.

Opposites don't always attract

People who have been married for years tend to be similar in certain ways. Research has established that. But do spouses grow alike over time or did they start married life that way?

In a recently published study, a University of Pennsylvania researcher has found that likes attract likes in education and mental abilities.

Dr. Maria Pennock Watkins, assistant professor of education at Penn., studied 215 newlywed couples from the San Francisco Bay area and compared the results to studies of longer married couples that had previously been done in Hawaii and Colorado.

She found that the similarities and differences between spouses existed at marriage and did not develop over time. So she administered a variety of tests.

In ability tests newlywed couples were very much alike in vocabulary, somewhat alike in reasoning abilities and to a smaller degree similar in perceptual speed and spatial abilities. The similarity in education was also strong. Religion was important. Of those in Watkins' sample, who listed a religious preference, 75 percent married within the religion. About half the sample listed no religion.

Race was also a factor, with the number of inter-racial marriages nationally still below one percent of the total.

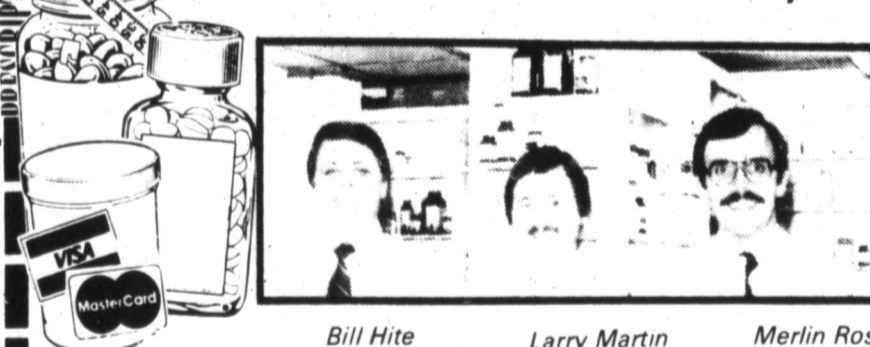

Watkins is planning a follow-up study to determine if the divorce rate is higher among those newlyweds who were initially more dissimilar.

Dear Abby

A plea for caution

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: It's been four years since my 18-year-old cousin was killed in a horrible car crash. Shortly after his death, you printed a very moving article titled, "Please, God, I'm Only 17." Every time I read that clipping, it brought a flood of tears.

My copy has become tattered. Please reprint it, Abby. It might cause some young person to be a little more careful when he gets behind the wheel of an automobile.

ELEANOR R. IN ALLENTOWN, PA.

DEAR ELEANOR: Here it is:

PLEASE, GOD, I'M ONLY 17

The day I died was an ordinary school day. How I wish I had taken the bus! But I was too cool for the bus. I remember how I wheeled the car out of Mom. "Special favor," I pleaded. "All the kids drive." When the 2:50 bell rang, I threw all my books in the locker. I was free until 8:40 tomorrow morning! I ran to the parking lot, excited at the thought of driving a car and being my own boss. Free!

It doesn't matter how the accident happened. I was goofing off — going too fast. Taking crazy chances. But I was enjoying my freedom and having fun. The last thing I remember was passing an old lady who seemed to be going awfully slow. I heard the deafening crash and felt a terrific jolt. Glass and steel flew everywhere. My whole body seemed to be turning inside out. I heard myself scream.

Suddenly I awakened; it was very quiet. A police officer was standing over me. Then I saw a doctor. My body was mangled. I was saturated with blood. Pieces of jagged glass were sticking out all over. Strange that I couldn't feel anything.

Hey, don't pull that sheet over my head. I can't be dead. I'm only 17. I've got a date tonight. I am supposed to grow up and have a wonderful life. I haven't lived yet. I can't be dead.

Later I was placed in a drawer. My folks had to identify me. Why did they have to see me like this? Why did I have to look at Mom's eyes when she faced the most terrible ordeal of her life? Dad suddenly looked like an old man. He told the man in charge, "Yes, he is my son."

The funeral was a weird experience. I saw all my relatives and friends walk toward the casket. They passed by, one by one, and looked at me with the saddest eyes I've ever seen. Some of my buddies were crying. A few of the girls touched my hand and sobbed as they walked away.

Please... somebody... wake me up! Get me out of here! I can't bear to see my mom and dad so broken up. My grandparents are so racked with grief they can hardly walk. My brother and sisters are like zombies. They move like robots. In a daze, everybody! No one can believe this. And I can't believe it, either.

Please don't bury me! I'm not dead! I have a lot of living to do! I want to laugh and run again. I want to sing and dance. Please don't put me in the ground. I promise if you give me just one more chance, God, I'll be the most careful driver in the whole world. All I want is one more chance.

Please, God, I'm only 17!

CONFIDENTIAL TO HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS: This is the time of year when most youthful drivers meet with serious, and all too often fatal automobile accidents. Could this column have a special prophetic message for you?

You're never too young or too old to learn how to make people like you. Get Abby's new booklet of practical advice. Send $1 and a stamped (35 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

MRS. DAVID SIDNEY PARNELL

Morrow, Parnell wed in Canadian

Kimberly Bernice Morrow and David Sidney Parnell were wed in an afternoon ceremony Saturday in First Christian Church of Canadian, with the Rev. Howard Guidry, pastor, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. George Morrow of Canadian. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Parnell of Canadian.

The bride wore a gown of white organza trimmed with chantilly lace. The fitted bodice featured a modified empire waistline and Queen Anne neckline and was trimmed with lace ruffles, appliques and sequins.

Attending the bride were Teri Cook, Lee Ann Julian and Mary Alice Parnell, sister of the bridegroom, all of Canadian; Sharla Short of Midland; and Kathy Finsterwald of Briscoe.

The bridegroom's attendants were Floyd Cotham of Lefors; Van Morrow, brother of the bride, and Joe Anderson, both of Canadian; John Nesbet of Corpus Christi; and Alan Uptergrove of Spearman.

Ushers were Bruce Arrington of Bridgeport; Guy and Kirk Morrow, brothers of the bride, both of Canadian; Dan Worsham of Amarillo; and Todd Brock of Spearman.

Flower girl was Amy Clark of Canadian. Ring bearer was Dennis Lee Williams of Canadian. Candle lighters were Lisa Vines of Perryton and Peggy Carter of Canadian.

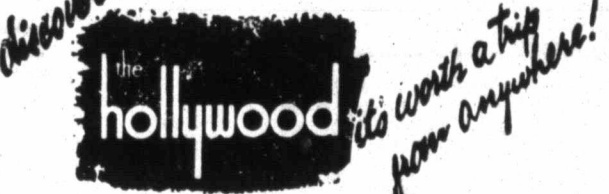

Music was provided by Sally Anderson, Jolene Urschel and Lili Ranson, all of Canadian.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall following the ceremony.

The couple will make their home in Lubbock after a honeymoon in Mexico City and Acapulco.

The bride is a 1980 graduate of Canadian High School and is a student at Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

The bridegroom is a 1978 Canadian High School graduate and a student at Texas Tech University.

Fast food double price of home-cooked

By ELAINE HOUSTON
County Extension Agent
START MICROWAVE
COOKING, STOP HEATING

Accept a challenge to stop heating and start cooking with microwaves. Explore all of the basic cooking possibilities, and use microwaves for roasting, simmering and baking.

First, experiment with recipes and techniques in the microwave oven user's manual. Learn to use the oven to perform all these techniques. Then progress to an easy-to-follow cookbook or simple recipes. Be sure to use appropriate microwave utensils.

A variety of cooking utensils go directly from the microwave to the table, saving both serving and cleanup times. These include glass, plastic and glass-ceramic accessories. Or use pressed paper products for preparing foods which contain little liquid or fats. Also, use plastic-coated paper board containers for moist foods.

As you progress, experiment and make notes about results for future reference. Don't be afraid to write in recipe books or user's manuals. These are often notes that can prevent costly mistakes of time and money.

Finally, enroll in a microwave cooking class taught by a knowledgeable, experienced microwave instructor. A special program titled "A New Day, A New Way With Microwave Cooking" will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday, June 15 at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center in Amarillo. Marilyn Sterchi of Dallas, professional consultant with microwave cooking, will conduct the free program. Recipes, food samples and door prizes are included in the session. Those who plan to attend should contact the Gray County Extension Office by June 10.

FAST FOODS: NUTRITION, COST

Learn about the cost of "fast foods" versus home-cooked meals, and about their nutrition. Home-cooked or "fast food" meals are about the same in nutrition, but not in calories or in cost. More and more women in the labor force or other busy lifestyle are sending Americans out to eat, especially "fast foods."

Specifically, how do fast foods compare, in cost and nutrition, with home-cooked meals? One USDA comparison shows that fast food chain meals are as nutritious as their homemade counterparts but cost about twice as much.

For example, in the Washington, D.C. area in July 1976, a hamburger (or cheeseburger), french fries and soft drink cost about 1.8 times as much as it would have at home, and dessert (apple pie) cost 3.5 times as much.

Seven meal-type combinations of food from the same chain and corresponding meals prepared at home were similar in nutritive value. Five of the seven restaurant meals provided one-fifth or more of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance for protein, riboflavin, thiamin and vitamin C.

None of the meals furnished much vitamin A, since vegetables in the usual "hamburger place" are almost limited to french fries. The meal with a milkshake exceeded one-fifth of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance for calcium. This indicates that more of some nutrients and less of others were provided.

In "fast food" hamburgers, thiamin values were consistently lower, though riboflavin values were higher. Protein levels in homemade hamburgers were higher, probably due to the amount (2 ounces) of ground beef used for the higher protein content of the beef.

Fat levels in the restaurant-type meals were not excessive. The percentage of food energy provided by fat was lower than 35 percent.

In all but one of the fast food chains' hamburger meals, fat provided less than 42 percent of the calories, the average in most U.S. diets. The "fast" fillet of fish sandwich used over one tablespoon of mayonnaise-type spread, and the apple pie - more crust than fruit - contained more fat than the home-prepared versions.

The non-fat dry milk base of the fast food restaurant shakes provided considerably more calcium than the shakes made at home from whole milk and ice cream. The french fries prepared at home supplied more vitamin C than the restaurant product, depending on the variety of potato, storage conditions and method of preparation.

Of course, the fast food meal provided over the recommended allowance for calories than for some nutrients - assuming an allowance of around 2,600 calories. Women and children who have lower energy allowances would need to be aware of the higher caloric percentage of these meals.

When families elect to eat at a fast food restaurant, it is wise to remember that the remainder of the day's food should provide the recommended amount of nutrients without an excess of calories.

For specific calorie amounts in fast food restaurants, ask for a special mimeograph handout comparing fast food, he handout is available at the County Extension Office.

SAVE TIME IN HOMESEWING

Saving time in homesewing means saving dollars, because personal time is valuable. Consider current sewing habits. Then streamline as many as possible. Here are some ideas:

Spend a few minutes organizing, and save hours. Know where sewing supplies are, and keep them in a convenient place to save motions.

If possible, arrange a permanent sewing area to save time getting out and putting away supplies. An ideal area would include space for the sewing machine, pressing equipment and a comfortable height cutting surface.

Buy frequently used supplies in quantity, including interfacing and elastic. When starting a new garment, buy all needed supplies at one time. Dovetail as many tasks as possible. For example, preshrink fabric in advance with routine laundry.

Buy easy-to-sew fabrics. These are generally firm, non-raveling, don't stretch excessively, are not bulky and don't require matching. Designs smaller than 1/4 inch (6 mm) do not need matching.

Select an easy-to-sew pattern, too. They're labeled as easy-to-sew, and they suggest appropriate fabrics, have only a few pattern pieces and recommend easy-to-understand, simple techniques. Examples of simple techniques are using fusibles, minimizing handwork, doing machine-made buttonholes or using centered zippers. In addition, read the guidesheet before sewing in order to save time. Finally, remember that most homesewers find after they've made a garment once, future garments by the same pattern are faster and easier to sew.

LAST DAY

Group offers scholarships

Applications are now being taken for scholarships offered by Chapter CS of the P.E.O. Sisterhood, an international women's organization whose purpose is to provide women with opportunities for higher education.

One scholarship will go to a graduating high school senior girl, with selection based on scholarship and need. The scholarship will be sent to the college of the girl's choice, in time for the fall 1981 semester.

Another scholarship is available for mature women who wish to continue their education by returning to college. Selection of this scholarship recipient is based on need.

Other aid provided by the organization includes an educational loan program, which is a revolving loan fund at low interest. Since the fund was established in 1907, $15 million has been loaned to 20,518 students internationally.

The international P.E.O. Sisterhood also owns and supports Cottey College, a liberal arts junior college for women, located in Nevada, Mo. Founded in 1884, the college is accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and by the National Association of Schools of Music for Junior Colleges.

The P.E.O. Sisterhood was organized as a college sorority at Iowa Wesleyan College, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, in 1869. It later became a community organization for women, with over 4,950 U.S. and Canadian chapters and approximately 212,000 members currently. The Pampa CS chapter was established in 1952.

ADOPTION AID MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Big business is reaching out a helping hand to employees wishing to adopt a child.

A typical new adoption policy now offered by Honeywell, for example, provides that the company will pay all direct adoption expenses up to a maximum of $1,000 per child. Typically adoption costs here range from $300 for a stepchild to $3,500 for a foreign child.

"Since the company provides medical coverage to employees who have children through childbirth, we decided it made sense to also help our employees who have children through adoption," explained Ed Lund, vice president of administration.

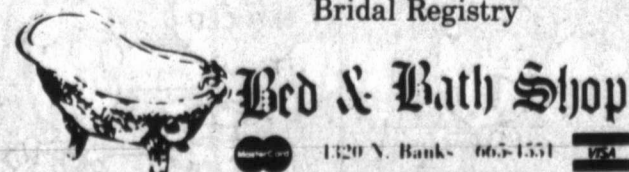

The policy applies to some 55,000 employees in the United States.

Astro-Graph by bernice bede osol

June 1, 1981

In matters where you hope to reap material rewards this coming year, you must first lay solid foundations if your base is strong, your prospects look tremendous.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It could prove very unwise today to leave important matters in the hands of persons not as familiar with the issues as you are. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be assertive today, but don't push so hard that you get in your own way. Acting without thinking could cause you to do something counterproductive.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You might find yourself in a position today where you can advance your interests, but only at the expense of others. Protect your pals as you would yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Have you ever noticed that, sometimes, the harder you work the luckier you get? This is especially true for you today. Be persistent and industrious.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In joint ventures today the ideas of associates may look good on the surface, but could leave a lot to be desired in application. Probe deeper.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In situations calling for strategic bargaining today, don't jump at the first offer. You can better your position by negotiating further.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's important at this time that you win and maintain the good will of co-workers. Be extra-factual today in order to gain their allegiance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Early in the day you must be careful not to be sidetracked from doing what's important. Your sense of priorities improves as the light begins to wane.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Taking yourself or others too seriously today could impede your progress. Let your sense of humor take over. You'll have no problems.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Count to 10 today before yielding to the temptation to tell off another. By remaining calm you'll find gentler ways to resolve issues.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Keep your presentation of ideas today down to the basics. Complex suggestions will confuse your listeners and lessen the effectiveness.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your possibilities for personal gain are favorable today, but they might not be brought about as you originally anticipated. Be imaginative and flexible.

Cable News Network gives its subscribers real-life drama

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — While millions devalued the cardboard-and-greasepaint emotion of TV's "General Hospital" late last March, subscribers to Cable News Network had front row seats for real-life courtroom drama, as actress Carol Burnett defended her reputation in a libel suit against the National Enquirer.

CNN, with nearly 6 million subscribers nationwide, reported live a developing story that would attract only passing notice on the major networks' evening newscasts, and just a bit more attention when the verdict was announced.

"We've been tested on every sort of classic television story — the election, the hostages' release, a shooting at the president, the space shuttle — we've passed them all," says Reese Schonfeld, CNN's president.

"The Burnett story was something that interested me," says Schonfeld, momentarily relaxed in his office above CNN's state-of-the-art newsroom. "We can do those things because we have the time, and we have the flexibility."

CNN, a year old June 1, has by most standards established itself journalistically, providing a mix of news and features for an audience that has grown steadily from less than 2 million at the start. And there is some indication now that the commercial networks have begun to feel the competitive pinch.

A week or so after the attempted assassination of President Reagan, ABC News complained that CNN had used videotape of the shooting to which it was not entitled.

"I think there's concern," Schonfeld reflects, "that we're a lot better than what they thought we'd be."

Early in May, CNN went to court against the three major networks and the White House to break up what it called "predatory and illegal practices" in the pooling of TV coverage in Washington.

There is an unmistakable air of confidence at CNN, and not without reason:

— Losses, an anticipated $2 million a month at the beginning and probably greater than that, are now reported to be less than $1 million monthly, with "a little black ink" forecast for late fall.

— The audience, 1.8 million subscribers at the start, is increasing at a rate of 300,000 to 350,000 a month, approaching a projected 8.8 million to 10 million by the end of 1981.

— Advertisers, less than two dozen on June 1, now number about 100, with rates ranging from $150 to $800 for a 30-second spot, depending on time and projected audience.

"We're two or three years ahead of schedule as far as overall quality," says R.E. "Ted" Turner, the flamboyant owner of the Atlanta Braves baseball team who created CNN and whose money — and enthusiasm — fuel the one-of-a-kind operation. "I couldn't be prouder."

"We anticipate seeing a little black ink in October-November," says Turner, who expected to lose about $25 million in the first year. "We'll go back in the red around the first of next year, and then in the black for good in March or April."

Borge says career not normal

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "I guess if I had had a normal life in music," Victor Borge says, "I probably would have eventually wound up as a conductor."

Borge hasn't had an average musical career, as everyone knows who has laughed after he sat down at a piano. But conducting is one of the places he has wound up, anyway.

He guest-conducts at money-raising concerts. And he still gives concerts of mirth and music from the piano bench.

At a recent benefit concert for the American Philharmonic Orchestra, at Carnegie Hall, he started with Smetana's "The Dance of the Comedians," in a professional way. He stopped the orchestra, said, "Start again at bar 81; make a little more crescendo in the third bar."

After bit more of that kind of thing, Borge asked for a volunteer "to play where he's not supposed to." Violinists in the back row called out that Sam wants to do it. The orchestra played until a rest, then Borge told the dignified-looking Sam, "Right after that, you will continue alone." Sam said, "Doing what?" and Borge replied, "Playing the violin. I guess. It is very funny. Your family will love it."

The music was repeated but Sam couldn't bring himself to play into a rest. Another violinist volunteered and charged confidently into the rest, his solo sound dwindling only when Borge pointed his baton and bellowed, "Out!" The offender bowed his head and exited, to the laughter of the rest of the orchestra.

Musicians are always his best audience, Borge says, because they get all the musical jokes. Recently, he says, symphony concerts he conducted sold out in Dallas and Vancouver. "The orchestra makes money and the audience gets first-rate music introduced to them in a warm and friendly and perhaps at times hilarious way. Some of the audience may be new to the symphony hall. So everybody is happy. What more can you want?"

Two years ago, Borge conducted his first opera, Mozart's "The Magic Flute," in Cleveland, without any kidding around at all. He says, "Music conducts itself if you have the feel for it. I don't want to make a joke, but you conduct yourself according to inspiration and feel. I've had many encouraging proofs of my ability. Therefore, I'm not afraid of it."

Production of movie 'Don't Look Back'

Eds: The writer, a reporter for television station WVUE in New Orleans, covered production of "Don't Look Back," much of which took place in Hattiesburg, Miss. The following account was written for The Associated Press

By KEN WATTS

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — After nearly a year of production problems, the gangling figure of Leroy "Satchel" Paige strides out of legend and onto millions of American television screens.

"Don't Look Back," an "ABC Theater" production Sunday night, chronicles the life and times of the Negro League star considered by many baseball historians to be the greatest pitcher who ever lived. Certainly, he was one of the most durable, with a career that spanned four decades — from the late 1920s to the mid-'60s.

Paige's beanpole body and "them size-15 feet" inspired riotous laughter from his teammates. But the laughter always stopped when Paige's blazing fastball zipped past opposing batters.

His exploits meant a decent living and some fame. But for most of his career, one thing stood between Paige and the major leagues.

Paige came along in an era when blacks were barred from baseball's upper strata simply because of their color. To survive, blacks formed their own teams, their own league — and played their own style of ball. The Negro National League flourished, and teams played ballgames throughout the United States and Latin America.

But in "Don't Look Back," Paige, as portrayed by Emmy-winning actor Louis Gossett Jr., never loses sight of his ultimate ambition — an ambition he fulfilled in 1948 with the Cleveland Indians.

Paige was 42 then. He was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1971.

Privately, executive producer Danny Arnold and ABC executives are beaming about the positive reaction from critics who have seen "Don't Look Back" — in sharp contrast to their mood last summer when the project seemed destined for the scrap heap.

The problems began during location filming in Hattiesburg, Miss., whose historic stadium provided the backdrop for most of the baseball action. The 100-degree heat wilted crew and equipment.

But the weather was a minor problem compared with the artistic battle between Arnold and the movie's first director, Oscar-winning actor George C. Scott.

Housewife does computer work for bank from her home 150 miles away

KINGSTON, Okla. (AP) — Norma Posey realizes she is riding the crest of what some see as the wave of the future, but adds quickly that "if there had to be a guinea pig, I'm glad it was me."

Mrs. Posey is a computer programmer and analyst for a major Oklahoma bank. Her office, with an earth-tone carpet on the floor, is complete with easy chair and sofa, a portrait of her married daughter, a console television set and a washer and dryer.

Next door her husband Gene operates his welding business.

Mrs. Posey is a 40-hour-per week, fulltime employee of Liberty National Bank and Trust Co. of Oklahoma City. Her office is in the den of her home just east of this southern Oklahoma town about 150 miles away near the shores of Lake Texoma.

"I can just get out of bed and walk to the den and I'm at work," said Mrs. Posey, who has been employed by the bank for the past 18 years.

That's a lot easier than it was when she lived in Moore, an Oklahoma City suburb, and battled the traffic to and from the office every day.

And then there were the night calls.

"If there was some sort of problem, I'd have to get out of bed, get dressed, drive 15 miles to the office, clear up the problem, drive home, get back in bed and try to get a little sleep," she said.

Now, if there is a problem at night, she just pulls on a robe, sits down at her computer console (it looks like a TV with a typewriter keyboard) and works the problem out.

"I try to work a normal 9-to-5 job," Mrs. Posey said. "But the other night, for instance, I got called about 11:30 p.m. I worked for over a half-hour to clear up the problem, so I'll just take 30 minutes off some day when I want to go shopping or something."

Her computer console sits in the corner of the den just inside the outer door. A telephone connects her with the IBM computer at the bank in Oklahoma City.

"There are three computers at the bank, and my terminal is hooked up to one," she complained. "I can communicate with that computer, or with the other people who work in that department."

The Poseys decided to change their lifestyle after spending at least two weekends a month, summer after summer, camping at Lake Texoma "and meeting the friendly people around here," Mrs. Posey said. They had grown to love the area so much, they decided to move here.

"We knew that we would have to find a place on the highway for Gene to have his welding business," Mrs. Posey said. "Then we came down here one day and here was this house, just like it was waiting for us."

They bought the house and her husband, who was maintenance superintendent at the Oklahoma City Zoo for 10 years, bought a building and moved it here for his shop.

At that time, Mrs. Posey intended to look for computer work in Ardmore, about 35 miles to the west, or Durant, 18 miles to the east. Then came her going-away party at the bank.

"Someone — I'm not sure who it was, one of the auditors, I think — spoke up and said, 'Why don't you take a computer with you?'"

There were some giggles at first, she said, but the idea soon caught on with the bank's officials.

Among the first visitors after the Poseys moved in were a computer serviceman from the bank, who installed her terminal, and Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. workers from the local office, who wired it to the telephone line.

"The telephone people said they had never done anything like that before, but they did it real quick and without any problems," she said.

With that, Mrs. Posey was ready to go to work. Her job is to maintain and change programs in the bank's computer.

"If a change has to be made in the program, my bosses at the bank will call me or send a written request," Mrs. Posey said. "I can write a new program or make changes in current programs right here at this terminal."

Liberty National does the data processing for about 80 Oklahoma banks, including some in this area. "The computers work 24 hours a day, seven days a week, all year long," she said.
