LONGHORN IN TRAINING--The Longhorn cattle, which will be trailed from San Antonio to Lubbock to celebrate the formal opening of the Ranching Heritage Center, are being trained at the YO Ranch now to accustom them to the noises and frustrations of traffic. The June 27-July 2 trail drive will herald the opening of the authentic exhibit of America's ranching heritage at The Museum of Texas Tech University. The opening will be July 2-5.

Longhorn Drive

LUBBOCK--Longhorn cattle--which helped shape the destiny of western America and change the eating habits of the nation--will have their day in the nation's Bicentennial.

There is to be a 500-mile Longhorn drive June 27-July 2 from San Antonio to Lubbock, to celebrate the opening of the Ranching Heritage Center at The Museum of Texas Tech University.

Charles Schreiner III will be trail boss for the symbolic drive of 70 descendants of the incredible Longhorns, described by some as "wild as a tornado, stronger than a blue norther and as smart as an Apache."

Ramrods for the Texas Tech University Trail Drive are Ace Reid, cowboy cartoonist, and Javes DeLesdernier, inspector for the Texas & Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

Participating in the celebration will be the cities of San Antonio, where trail drives were originating as early as 1779, Kerrville, San Anselmo, Stamford and Midland. The cattle will be trailed along thoroughfares in those cities to introduce many to the legendary breed that made men of greenhorns for more than a century.

In each city, the drive is expected to be a part of America's 200th birthday celebration.

When the drive arrives at the Ranching Heritage Center July 2, there will be dedicatory ceremonies led by Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson who, with the late President Johnson, owned a working Hereford ranch.

The Mexican ambassador to the United States, Jose Juan de Olloqui--representing a country which developed American cowboy techniques-- will welcome the Longhorns' arrival as will representatives of four other of the nations which contributed to America's ranching heritage.

Dale Robertson, who has depicted the American westerner in film and television, will be master of ceremonies for the dedication ceremonies and the Ranching Heritage Center's formal opening July 2-5.

The 12-acre center is a collection of a score of authentically restored ranching structures depicting the history of America's ranching industry. Special tours have drawn more than 100,000 visitors to the unfinished site since the first building arrived in 1970.

The opening is an official national Bicentennial event.

"The trail drive," Schreiner said, "should cause Americans to look over their shoulders. If people don't think about their heritage and let their roots run deep, they can't progress."

"Americans should be proud of their ancestors, proud of the people who built this country," he said.

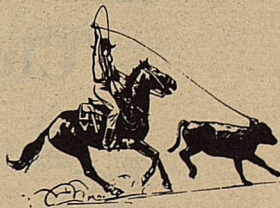

The trail drive, known to most Americans only through books, television and film, is symbolic of America's western history. The Spanish and Mexicans passed along ranching techniques to the Texans, and it was from the coastal plains of Texas that the great range cattle industry spread in an explosive boom throughout the American West after the Civil War.

The 1976 trail drive will be symbolic, with fewer cattle than the authentic drives and with some trucking over the route; but the system will duplicate the drives that changed America from a pork eating to a beef eating nation.

The Bicentennial cowboys will receive special recognition, will participate in all events along the trail and will have food for their mounts.

Any who want to participate in the last of the Longhorn trail drives can obtain more information by writing Charles Schreiner, YO Ranch, Mountain Home, Texas 78058.

Present Beef Prices Are Confusing But Explainable

If you've been confused recently at the retail meat counter by what's been happening to beef prices, then you've got lots of company. "Good grade" beef prices have often equalled or exceeded those for "Choice" beef. But there is a logical explanation by marketing economists.

"For the beef industry to perform well, a part of it must bid against the consumer," says Dr. Don Farris, Professor in Agricultural Economics with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Farris is an authority on livestock and meat marketing.

"That's just what happened when light beef prices at retail went up and, in some cases, were as high or higher than Choice grade beef," Farris says. "With the good rains over much of the cattle country in May, producers with good pasture were not under pressure to sell their calves or continue to cull their cows."

Short term variations are often hard to understand unless you have time and opportunity to see what is happening to the large industry that markets processes, and distributes more than 40 million head of cattle per year.

The beef industry has had three turbulent years due to high feed costs, the recession and USDA grade changes for beef, but stability is not a feature of the beef industry; it is forever changing in response to some economic pressure.

From the time calves are a few months old there is a continual selection and bidding process. Producers must adjust to the available grass and other feed supply, and those that have extra grass are bidding for calves that might go to the feedlot or to slaughter.

Wholesalers and retailers, on the other hand, must adjust prices and cutting methods to fit the demand for more summertime cookout cuts; in winter, roasts are more in demand.

"The cattle industry, faced with higher grain costs a couple of years ago, was very nervous about whether consumers would accept forage-fed beef," Farris says.

"It took very little time to find that at a more favorable price, many consumers would purchase it, just as they did 25 years ago.

"Now that acceptance of light beef and forage-fed beef appears to be good, a part of the cattle industry is bidding against the consumer for the light-weight cattle. The result is to delay marketings and make light beef a little more scarce in the retail store, but more total beef will finally be marketed as a result of this delay."

Currently retailers have little incentive to feature light beef because USDA Good carcasses are as high or higher than Choice steer carcasses in San Antonio wholesale distributive trade. Last year light beef was 16 cents per pound below Choice steer carcasses.

Utility cows, which provide ground beef, were about 10 cents per pound below the Choice steer carcass price May 16-22, 1976, but last year at that time they were 31 cents below. Due to these temporary market conditions in May, there was little difference in Midwest carlot wholesale market prices for all grades of beef carcasses from Choice steers to Utility cows.

Choice steer carcasses were about the same price per pound as old bull carcasses that are used for processing. Yield grades made more difference in price than did quality grades.

Sales of light beef have declined sharply in some areas because there was no longer a price incentive to the consumer. Some consumers are willing to pay the same or slightly higher price, but others will switch to the same, while still others will demand heavy beef even when it is priced considerably higher.

"Alert retailers are constantly evaluating wholesale supplies and prices and adjusting their purchases and retail prices to provide customers with the cuts of beef that will sell. If the grain crop is as big this year as it is forecast, it may be sometime before light beef is in plentiful supply again," Farris concluded.

Thank You

Thank you, friends and neighbors, for the lovely ice cream party you gave us Monday night. We deeply appreciate the words and deeds of support, kindness, and love that you expressed to us. Your mere presence would have been enough to say you love us, but the gifts you gave us completely overwhelmed us. This community will always be a part of us. We thank God for allowing us to live here and for the good life we have enjoyed here. May God always bless this community. Thanks, a million times. Come to see us.

We'll love you and see ya later, Sid, Carolyn, Richard, Scott, and Lin Long

P.S. Thank you, Netta Jarrett, for the advice and hard work you gave to help prepare the concession stand for the bicentennial celebration.

New OSHA Safety Standards for Farm Equipment

AUSTIN--Farmers should be aware that new job safety standards have been issued for farm equipment by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), Agriculture Commissioner John C. White advises.

White urged farmers to become familiar with the OSHA guidelines, especially if they employ workers, pointing out that agriculture is among the nation's most hazardous industries.

"Statistics for the period between 1969 and 1972 show that, on the average, farm workers lost 18.7 days of work from injuries resulting from being caught in machinery, at an average medical cost of $228," White said.

New requirements regarding machinery are that the power take-off drive be guarded on all farm equipment, regardless of date of manufacture, and that nip-point guarding (areas where gears mesh or belts run onto pulleys, for example) be provided on all power transmission and functioning components of new farm equipment manufactured.

SAFETY CONTINUED

New regulations also stipulate that farm workers be taught how to safely operate and maintain equipment they work with.

In addition, safeguards to prevent accidental application of electrical power to farm equipment being serviced should be provided.

The new safety rules also provide that the functioning and power transmission parts of cotton gins be guarded by June 30, 1977.

Best and Worst in Texas

Austin-In a current issue of Texas Monthly, senior editors Griffin Smith, Jr., and Paul Burka reported on their three-month study of Texas congressmen.

The article ranks 22 of the congressmen on a scale of best, worst and fair to middlin'. Those in the best category include George H. Mahon (D-Lubbock) Bob Eckhardt (D-Houston)- Jim Wright (D-Fort Worth), Barbara Jordan (D-Houston), J.J. (Jake) Pickle (D-Austin), and Alan Steelman (R-Dallas).

Among those congressmen listed as worst are Richard C. White (D-El Paso), Eligio (Kika) de la Garza (D-Mission), James M. Collins (R-Dallas), Ray Roberts (D-mcKinney) and Dale Milford (D-Grand Prairie).

In the fair to middlin' group are Charles Wilson (D-Lufkin), Olin E. (Tiger) Teague (D-College Station)- Robert C. Krueger (D-New Braunfels), W.R. (Bill) Archer (R-Houston), Jack Brooks (D-Beaumont) Jack Hightower (D-Vernon) Henry B. Gonzales (D-San Antonio), John Young (D-Cornhus Christi) Omar Burleson (D-Anson), W.R. (Bob) Poage (D-Waco) and Abraham (Chick) Kazen, Jr. (D-Laredo).

Texas Monthly, now in its fourth year of publication, is one of the fastest-growing major magazines in the country with total paid circulation of more than 185,000. Winner of the coveted National Magazine Award in 1974, the monthly magazine was recently chosen as a finalist in two of the six categories for the National Magazine Awards.

O'Donnell Rodeo

Plans are being made for the annual O'Donnell Rodeo and Parade which will be held July 8-10.

The rodeo will be kicked off with a parade through O'Donnell. Prizes will be awarded for first, second and third places. Organizations interested in preparing a float for the event should contact Ruth Pugh at 428-3847 or Connie Mensch at 428-3288.

Everyone is being invited to participate in the rodeo, which will be produced by Charlie Thompson of Lubbock.

Tejas 1876

JUNE 18-24
AUSTIN--Both houses of the Legislature this week passed a bill to appropriate $40,000 to complete the Agricultural and Mechanical College at Bryan. Debate in the House was extensive. One of the most influential arguments for passage was the necessity of refunding $150,000 to the federal government if the entire sum of $40,000 was not appropriated.

AUSTIN--The condition between Castroville and Eagle Pass is critical, according to Captain McNelly, who arrived here Monday with prisoners he arrested in Atascosa County. More than a hundred outlaws from different sections have invaded it and hold the reins of power. The law is trampled upon and civil officers are powerless. The County Judge of Maverick does not dare to sleep in his own house. King Fisher's band take property from citizens in daylight, and they dare not resist or attempt to recover it.

GALVESTON--Among the good signs of these Centennial times are these---that no barber shop charges more than 15 cents for a shave, and beer has gone down to five cents per glass.
HILL COUNTY--There was a strong prejudice and a very general desire that the death penalty be dealt to a man named Ferrel who was found guilty of murder in the second degree and sentenced to the penitentiary for 25 years. Had he killed Scroggins, whom he no doubt intended to kill, nobody would have cared greatly, but his killing a woman caused the most intense indignation.
SAN ANTONIO--Calico is extremely cheap in San Antonio, 25 yards to the dollar, and merchants use it in place of brown paper for wrapping purposes.

Tornadoes

Two phrases that should be part of every Texans' vocabulary are "tornado watch" and "tornado warning".

The National Weather Service is constantly monitoring the skies and will issue a "watch" anytime a squall line which has the potential of spawning tornadoes begins to develop. "Watches" are usually posted for broad areas spanning hundreds of miles. It is not uncommon for a city or town to be included in a watch dozens of times without ever experiencing a tornado.

For this reason there is a danger of becoming complacent. Although no one expects that people will "drop everything" when a watch is posted, they should become conscious of the weather and monitor broadcasts for developments.

In spite of great technological strides, the human eye is still the best instrument for locating a tornado. Since radar isn't effective in spotting most tornadoes, many communities have organized networks of trained volunteer spotters.

To be effective, a spotter must be trained because there are many weather conditions which resemble tornadoes but aren't. These tornado look-alikes will confuse one untrained eye. More often than not, the classic funnel tornado will be clearly visible in West and Central Texas. In the Eastern states and East Texas the funnel will often be obscured by rain so that it is heard rather than seen clearly.

As potentially dangerous squall lines pass through an area, that community's trained tornado spotters are deployed to scan the skies for trouble.

If a twister is spotted, a "Tornado Warning" is signaled. Warnings are issued for much smaller areas and may mean that residents may have only a few minutes to take shelter. If a warning is issued, persons in that area should immediately watch for danger and be ready to take cover at a second's notice.

Interviews with people who have lived through tornadoes indicate that the most prevalent sound associated with tornadoes is that of freight trains passing close by or jet planes roaring overhead.

Anyone who thinks they have spotted a tornado should immediately notify law enforcement officials. Spotters do a good job in protecting their community but they cannot be everywhere at once.

While the community goes about its business during a tornado watch, the spotters become the first line of defense against tornadoes striking without warning. The work can be dangerous. A volunteer spotter was killed by the tornado which wrecked Lubbock in 1970.

TETANUS

Persons who have not had tetanus immunization within the last 10 years should make plans to get this done now. Contact your private physician, county health department or Texas Department of Health Resources office and make arrangements to get your tetanus immunization as soon as possible.

In 1975, 50% of all tetanus cases occurred in the population over 60 years of age and of the cases occurring in the older age group, 75% had a fatal outcome. This was loss of life that could have been prevented by receiving immunizations that are available through the private physician or through the state or county public health clinics.

Dr. John Board, Jr. M.D., Medical Director of Public Health Region 2, noted today that there were 16 cases of tetanus reported in Texas during 1975. These cases included both sexes and occurred in two main age groupings, the preschoolers under age six and in the 40 years and older adult group.

The problem did not show up in the school age through age 39 group, probably due to a high percentage of persons being immunized as a result of requirements for school attendance or perhaps for military service. The only cases occurring in this younger age group were in children who had not yet started to school and had not yet had the immunizations required by law for school attendance.
