

Polish ambassador defects to the U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying he won't be part of a government waging war against its people, Poland's U.S. ambassador has defected to the United States and is being protected at an undisclosed location.

"The cruel night of darkness and silence has spread over my country," Ambassador Romuald Spasowski, 61, said in a dramatic and emotional appearance before reporters at the State Department Sunday.

"I cannot be silent," he said. "I cannot have any association with the authorities responsible for this brutality and inhumanity."

Spasowski said his action was an "expression of solidarity" with Lech Walesa, the leader of the Solidarity free trade movement in Poland.

He vowed the Polish people "will never give up" and declared arrests won't succeed in suppressing the drive for freedom. "Nobody can put in prison 36 million people and make them slaves in the very center of Europe."

The Polish government, meanwhile, said in a Warsaw Radio broadcast that Spasowski "has been suffering for some time from periodic states of depression, and in this connection has been recalled and asked to return to Poland."

The late evening news broadcast, monitored in Vienna, Austria, did not report any of Spasowski's statement in Washington. While saying that the ambassador "has turned to the American government for political asylum," Warsaw Radio added that "not all circumstances" of the defection had been explained, but were being investigated.

President Reagan granted political asylum to Spasowski, his wife, Wanda, and their daughter and son-in-law.

Spasowski described himself as Poland's most senior diplomat; he served as ambassador to the United States twice, from 1955 to 1961 and from April 1978 until his defection.

After Spasowski read his statement to reporters and a nationwide television audience, security agents took him to an undisclosed location where he will be protected against possible reprisals.

State Department officials could not cite a previous instance in which an ambassador to the United States has defected, although Afghanistan's ambassador to the United Nations defected in 1979 after Soviet troops moved into that country.

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., who first disclosed Spasowski's defection on CBS' "Face the Nation" on Sunday, said there were reports other Polish diplomats also might seek asylum.

Polish rulers threaten church; priests reported beaten, arrested

By The Associated Press

Poland's Communist rulers are threatening a crackdown on the Roman Catholic Church if it spearheads opposition to military rule, according to Communist Party sources quoted in uncensored dispatches Sunday from Poland.

Church sources said Sunday that priests were attacked in the cities of Wroclaw and Gdansk, where the church has been heavily involved with the now-banned independent labor federation Solidarity. There were no details of the incidents.

Solidarity leader Lech Walesa, who has refused to cooperate with authorities since he was detained, has reportedly been moved from a villa south of Warsaw, apparently because his whereabouts had become too well-known. Solidarity sources said they believed he had been moved to general staff headquarters in the capital.

Poles filled churches Sunday — the only place they're allowed to freely assemble under martial law — and heard a plea for calm issued by Archbishop Jozef Glemp, Roman Catholic primate for Poland.

Glemp said peace is necessary to safeguard the church's future as well as the country's.

The mood at many churches was somber on the Sunday before Christmas as resistance to martial law was reported in various spots around the country.

In Warsaw's Church of the Holy Cross, the scene of massed police assaults on demonstrators Thursday, the priest exhorted the faithful to pray for "our murdered brothers" — a possible reference to seven miners the government says were shot by police at a coal mine near Katowice last week. However, a Swedish radio report quoting "very reliable sources" set the

In another Warsaw church, there was a slight but telling difference in the service. In a well-known Polish church anthem, the priest and parishioners used to intone the words "O Lord, please bless our free fatherland." But on Sunday, the words were changed to those traditionally sung at times of foreign domination. "O Lord, please return us our free fatherland."

Two papal envoys arrived in Warsaw on Sunday in an attempt to find a peaceful solution to the tense situation.

Meanwhile, Romuald Spasowski, 61, Poland's ambassador to the United States, was granted political asylum in Washington on Sunday and told reporters, "The road to peace is the only road. The Catholic church in Poland represents a great moral force, the soul of the Polish nation." He called for talks between the church, Solidarity and "the authorities" to end the crisis.

Spasowski's defection was reported on Radio Warsaw. Polish officials said he had been suffering depression and had been called home. They did not report his remarks accusing the government of "brutality and inhumanity." Spasowski said his action was an "expression of solidarity" with Solidarity leader Walesa.

In the latest reports from Poland, church sources said that they have been able to verify the names of 1,100 people who were being held, but they estimated that the total number being detained may be as high as 40,000.

Solidarity sources said that the government has claimed as many as 2,600 were under arrest. They said they assumed that represented the number that face long-term jail sentences. Some people arrested in the first days of martial law have already been released.

Many of the detainees are being held in large camps in the Mazurian Lake district in northeast Poland near the Soviet border. Other detention centers include an enclosed arena built for Nazi rallies in the 1930s in the former German city of Wroclaw, the dispatches said.

Many intellectuals and Solidarity activists from the Warsaw area were first imprisoned in Bialoleka, but most have since been moved because of the deplorable conditions. Temperatures inside the cells were said to have dropped below freezing.

Pockets of resistance to martial law were reported in several key regions. Most concern focused on the coal mines in southern Poland where up to a dozen mines were thought to be closed by strikers.

However, an official Polish radio broadcast monitored in London today claimed that after talks with workers in Katowice province, police ended protests at three mines and a repair shop.

In the same area, the official Soviet news agency Tass claimed Sunday that Solidarity "instigators" had blown up an exit from the Ziemovit mine, leaving some 1,300 miners underground.

The sketchy Tass report said the "instigators" threatened to seal the second escape route from the mine if authorities approached. The Tass account was unclear on the status of the miners and whether they were working or on strike.

Other reports said the miners had been on strike since the imposition of martial law and had barricaded themselves inside the mine in a standoff with authorities.

Furious over U.S. reaction, Begin scraps strategic pact with U.S.

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin, furious over the U.S. reaction to Israel's annexation of the Golan Heights, scrapped the new strategic pact with the United States and said the Jewish state can live without it.

"You have no right to punish Israel," Begin told U.S. Ambassador Samuel Lewis on Sunday. "What kind of talk is this, punishing Israel? Are we your vassal state? Are we a banana republic? Are we 14-year-old boys who get their fingers slapped when they don't behave?"

Lewis was summoned to Begin's residence two days after President Reagan suspended talks on

No new leads in Penney's purse robbery

No new leads have been uncovered by the Pampa Police Department since Norma Jean Rhodes, 1707 Christine, was robbed at gunpoint Saturday night in the parking lot behind the J. C. Penney's store at the Pampa Mall.

Mrs. Rhodes, and a ten-year-old child with her, were not injured in the holdup when they were approached by a young male who pointed a gun at her and demanded her purse. The purse contained personal identification and items and about $10 in cash.

The robbery suspect is described as a white male, approximately 15 years of age, having brown hair. He was wearing blue jeans with a red plaid shirt when he fled from the scene of the crime.

Anyone having any information about this robbery is urged to contact the Pampa Police Department.

Ambassador's defection excites descendants in White Deer

Tension is mounting for local Americans of Polish descent as they watch the violent events in their homeland.

Mrs. Charles Warminski of White Deer reported today that no word has reached her from Poland.

"It was hard to hear from anyone there before martial law was ordered, now it is impossible," she said.

"We were very excited, however, to hear of the defection of the Polish Ambassador to the United States. I think it will shock the Soviets, and it will make them think," she said.

"But we almost know for sure that we won't hear from anyone now," she said. "Most of the families in White Deer are third generation Poles and have lost contact with their remaining relatives in Poland. So many of our people were lost during the war that there are few left to correspond with," she said.

Two Polish families have recently arrived in Pampa through the efforts of Father Francis Hynes of St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church.

"Neither of the families have come here directly from Poland. They must wait in Austria or somewhere else for a while first. They go to Austria on vacation and just fail to return to Poland," said Father Duenker of St. Vincent de Paul Church.

"Some members of the two families have jobs here already, and they are trying hard to learn the English language and customs," Fr. Duenker said.

An appeal to collect funds for the elderly and young in Poland has been issued by the American Red Cross.

The Red Cross will purchase the clothing, and blankets need Europe to save the high cost of transporting such items.

Mrs. Joyce Roberts, director of Pampa Red Cross, said today that has been received since the funds was released a few days ago.

The Gray County Chapter has in the project and is cur accepting donations at the Red office, 108 N. Russell, or through Box 1036, Pampa.

City to award bids Tuesday

The Pampa City Commission will meet at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday to consider the awarding of bids for sanitation trucks with side loaders and a new sewer machine.

City Commissioners O. M. Prigmore, Coyle C. Ford, Melvin Hammon and Clyde Carruth also will consider, on first reading, an ordinance closing an unopened portion of Texas Street.

described as that parcel of land 60 feet by 140 feet contiguous to and laying immediately south of Lot 12, North Addition to the City of Pampa.

The commissioners will also consider setting the date of Jan. 12 to receive sealed bids for the sale of all of Lot 12.

understanding with America, and will continue another 3,700 years to live without it," Begin said. "In our view, this is the cancellation of the memorandum."

It was Begin's most emotional bitter attack on the United States in the latest feud in steadily worsening relations between the two nations.

Block No. Six, North Addition, together with that parcel of land 60 feet by 140 feet contiguous to and laying immediately south of Lot 12.

Bids were opened and read at the City Commission meeting last Tuesday for purchase of a sewer machine — a combination vacuum manhole cleaner and high pressure jet rodder sewer line cleaning unit with cab and chassis — for the sewer collection department, per specifications.

Bids to be considered for the purchase of the sewer machine were received from the following companies: Environmental Products of Chattanooga, Tennessee, $111,500; Peabody Myers Corporation, of Streator, Illinois, $112,558; and Environmental Sales and Service, Hurst, Texas, $106,669.

Environmental Sales and Service also offered a lease — purchase agreement of $3,400 per month for 12 months at a 10.4 percent annual rate and a $1 option to purchase at the end of the lease. A representative company, Craig Thomas, said interest rate could be guaranteed until Jan. 2.

Bids received Dec. 8 for the purchase of sanitation trucks with side loaders and for refuse containers were also considered. The two bids were received from the following companies: Manufacturing of Plainview, and Packmore Manufacturing Company, of San Antonio, Texas.

Older couple needs help at Christmas

A couple in their mid-seventies are living off a small Social Security check each month.

Five die in shootings, traffic

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Smith County law officers spent the weekend investigating five deaths. Two people, including a girl, were hospitalized Sunday in the aftermath of the two shootings and two traffic accidents.

Law enforcement officers called the rash of violence "one of the bloodiest weekends we've had in months," as they investigated a fatal shooting in Whitehouse, a murder-suicide in Tyler, a hit and run auto-pedestrian accident in Tyler and a traffic fatality in Smith County.

The climax to the weekend came about Sunday afternoon when police were notified that three people had been shot.

A peace justice, Mrs. Leon Hicks, said Thomas Ruben Silva, 23, killed himself with a 12-gauge shotgun after killing his 5-year-old son, Jason, and critically wounding his estranged wife, Jane, 24. Mrs. Hicks ruled the shooting a murder-suicide.

Silva began to fire near the Christmas tree in his mother-in-law's house and stopped shooting in a bedroom, police said.

Mrs. Silva was listed in critical condition late Sunday, after undergoing surgery for pellet wounds to the chest and shoulders.

Smith County sheriff's deputies also were called to investigate the fatal weekend shooting of Alvin "Jack" Staples, 57.

Staples was shot Saturday night in a residence in the suburb of Whitehouse, south of Tyler, investigators said.

The victim, shot five times in the chest with a .22-caliber pistol, was found lying in the living room of a home he was visiting, authorities said.

Justice of the Peace Mary Gutherie said she withheld a ruling on the cause of death after a 13-year-old girl told investigators she shot Staples as he attempted to molest while the girl's mother and Staples' brother were in another part of the house.

The teenager was taken to the Smith County Detention Center, where she was placed in the custody of juvenile authorities.

Two Smith County residents were killed in traffic accidents Saturday as he attempted to turn off the water main for home, police said. Tracy died 3 1/2 hours later at a hospital.

Investigators say the victim told friends he was going to turn off his water in order to keep his pipes from freezing. The tracks led directly over the meter in Tracy's yard, police said.

Darkness delays chemical cleanup

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — Authorities had to wait for daylight today to begin the delicate task of unloading thousands of gallons of a highly flammable and toxic chemical from a tank truck that overturned Sunday morning.

Two miles of U.S. 59 between here and the Northeast Texas city of Atlanta remained closed following the collision about 6:15 a.m. Sunday of the tanker and a pickup near Lake Wright Patman.

However, there was no danger that the allyl alcohol — or propenol — would run into the lake, authorities said, because the accident took place below the dam.

Two occupants of the pickup were hospitalized with serious injuries, said Henry Slaton, Texas Department of Public Safety safety education officer.

The tanker's driver was treated for minor injuries. Slaton said Stuart Callison, a highway department worker today to build a dike to contain the chemical, was treated after breathing toxic fumes while working a backhoe to contain the spill, he said.

"They needed someone to dig the ditch and I knew how," said Callison, who added, "My eyes burn pretty bad."

About 25 people have been kept out of the area, which includes a bait shop but few homes. Most of those denied access to the lake were fishermen and duck hunters.

"This would have been a pretty good day for duck hunting," Slaton said.

As darkness fell, a safety engineer from Houston arrived to supervise the clean-up and removal of the chemical still contained in the tanker.

But the task was left until morning because it was feared lights might ignite the flammable fumes of the chemical, used in combination with other chemicals as a plasticizer, herbicide or fungicide, authorities said.

One worry was that oxygen would enter the tank as the remainder of the 6,000 gallon cargo was pumped out, increasing the risk of explosion, officials at the scene said. To minimize the chance of sparks, the truck was to be supported on air cushions, workers said.

DPS troopers said the tanker skidded on an ice patch on a bridge eight miles south of Texarkana and collided with a pickup about 6:15 a.m. The tanker overturned, leaking part of its 6,000-gallon load.

The tanker, owned by Leamon Chemicals of Pennsylvania, picked up its load from Union Carbide in Texas City, near Houston on the coast, authorities said.

Texan was aboard missing fighter

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — The search for an Air Force F4 Phantom Jet believed to have crashed off the North Carolina coast with two fliers aboard has been suspended by the Coast Guard but may be continued today by the North Carolina Civil Air Patrol.

"More than likely, the aircraft was lost at sea," said Capt. Pat Osborn, the public affairs officer at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base near Goldsboro, N.C., the home base of the plane and its crew.

The fighter disappeared from radar screens about 8 p.m. Friday off the coast from Wilmington, N.C., while on a routine training mission from Seymour Johnson AFB.

"They just completely lost contact. We have absolutely no information whatsoever as to what may have happened. There was no radio contact and no one saw anything visually," Osborn said.

He said the Air Force plans no additional search activities, but authorities in eastern North Carolina have been advised routinely of the downed aircraft.

Previous search efforts have been coordinated by the Air Force's Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Service with the Coast Guard, the Marines, the Navy and the Air Force.

The pilot was identified as 1st Lt. Michael A. Mattson, 24, of Joppa, Md., and the weapons systems officer as 1st Lt. Thomas W. Tiller, 26, of Houston. Seymour Johnson officials said the men were on a routine night training mission.

Lt. Richard Goodchild of the Fifth Coast Guard District Operation said a Coast Guard plane, an Air Force plane and helicopter and the Coast Guard Cutter Point Martin found no traces of the missing men Sunday.

The search was concentrated in an area from Wrightsville Beach to Cape Lookout, about 90 miles along the coast. The jet was somewhere in that area when it lost radio contact.

The search was conducted with the aid of a Coast Guard C130 from Elizabeth City, N.C., and the 82-foot cutter Point Martin based in Wrightsville, N.C. The Air Force sent in an HH3E Sikorsky helicopter from Myrtle Beach, S.C., and a C130 from Homestead Air Force Base in Florida.

Officials said there were two fighters on the mission, and there was no indication anything was wrong when the plane disappeared.

Man rents house for Detroit family

HOUSTON (AP) — A Detroit family was to move into a new home today — their rent paid for three months by a used car salesman who vowed to help other people after being rescued at sea two years ago.

Victor Franco has leased a house for Gregory and Barbara Hilts and has paid to have their three children — and their pets — flown from Michigan to Houston in time for a Christmas reunion. He estimated his assistance was worth $2,000.

Franco, 52, who owns a used car dealership, learned of the Hilts' plight when they were interviewed on a network television show.

The Hilts said they came to Houston about two months ago after they were laid off from their auto industry jobs in Detroit. They left their three children with relatives in Detroit, but then were unable to afford to bring them to Houston.

Franco said that when he saw them on television, "it was a spontaneous thing — I said, 'That's somebody I'd like to help.'"

Franco, who commutes weekly between his business here and his other home near Albuquerque, N.M., said he set up a personal fund to help people in need after he nearly died in a boating accident two years ago. He was sailing alone off Key Largo, Fla. when his boat capsized, leaving him in the water some distance from shore without a life jacket.

"While I was drowning, I was promising just about everything," he said.

Franco said he promised himself that if he survived, he would help other people and not expect anything of them in return.

Minutes later a stranger, Richard Weinberg, happened along and rescued him.

Bullet lodges in badge

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas police officer narrowly escaped death when a bullet that struck him just above the heart lodged in his badge, officials said.

Officer J.J. Degan, who also was wearing a bullet-proof vest under his uniform shirt, was wounded in the leg and received a bruise on his chest when a man opened fire on him while Degan and his partner attempted to arrest a robbery suspect, police said.

Police investigators said the .38 caliber bullet, fired at Degan's chest from about 10 feet away, lodged in the upper right corner of the police badge he was wearing on his shirt just above his heart.

A second shot shattered a bone below Degan's right knee, police said.

The 25-year-old officer, who has been with the Dallas Police Department for two years, was listed in good condition Sunday night at Baylor Medical Center.

Two young boys killed by shotgun blast

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Police say two young boys were shot to death as they stood in a doorway watching a woman and her boyfriend struggle with a shotgun during a quarrel.

A 33-year-old laborer was arrested and held on $20,000 bond in connection with the Saturday night shootings.

Police said the boys,

Brandon Irving, 2, and Lemans Green, 5, were hit by a single blast of a 12-gauge shotgun as they stood in a bedroom doorway watching Lemans' mother and her boyfriend struggle with a gun.

Police said the man came to the apartment he shared with Dorothy Green, threatening to kill her. Witnesses said the argument concerned money.

Witnesses said Mrs. Green and the man ran out of the apartment, each carrying a dying child. They placed the children on the sidewalk and waited for ambulances to arrive.

One of the woman's neighbors said he heard the man, who carried the 5-year-old from the house, yell, "he's dead, he's dead."

Woman dies in Christmas tree fire

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — An elderly woman died in a house fire that officials say was started by an electrical short in the lights decorating her Christmas tree.

Mattie Hutson, 68, died of smoke inhalation and burns she received in the Sunday morning fire in her small garage apartment, officials said.

Fire Marshal John Robinson said the electric lights on the Christmas tree shorted and caught the tree on fire.

The woman's body was later found near the front door, Robinson said. She was pronounced dead at the scene.

Mrs. Green had been baby-sitting her sister's child, Brandon, the night of the shooting, officials said.

Police said the youngsters,

Federal Reserve policy is causing economic problems

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — What keeps interest rates high, worsens the federal budget deficit, adds to unemployment, forces industrial machinery into idleness, thwarts investment and in general impedes economic recovery?

The answer, according to one long-time student of such matters, is... Federal Reserve policy. Yes, Fed policy.

But wait. Isn't the Fed, monitor of the nation's money supply, doing its best to get the economy back on track? Isn't it trying to squeeze out inflation and direct savings into productive uses? Isn't it only trying to rein-in an economy that had gone on a wild spending spree?

Have it your way, which is part of the accepted rationale for Fed actions, but don't expect John Wright to join you. Wright, who's Wright Investors' Service runs a billion dollar portfolio and advises many individuals and institutions, thinks the Fed's ideas are as damaging economically as agent orange is ecologically. He has his reasons.

To begin with current affairs, rather than citing past actions of the Fed, Wright observes that the nearly $400 billion of deficits expected from fiscal 1981 through fiscal 1984 are "so enormous that the sum simply cannot be supported by a viable U.S. economy."

Why do such deficits persist despite attempts to lessen them? Because, declares Wright, "the Federal Reserve Board pursues an unnecessarily restrictive monetary policy."

Supply-side programs, he continues, have no chance of success unless there is a prompt and sizeable drop in interest rates. "which are still substantially higher than the levels which in 1974-1975 caused the worst recession since the depression of the 1930s."

The premise that high interest rates and recessions are necessary to stop inflation, says Wright, is false.

Recessions, he agrees, do bring down inflation, but only at the price of lasting economic damage, and great human misery. Moreover, they reduce tax revenues, run up welfare costs, and add to the overall cost of unemployment benefits. They waste billions of hours of human and industrial resources, thus subtracting from potential revenues.

IRS awaits Supreme Court decision on private school ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service is awaiting word from the Supreme Court on whether it overstepped the Constitution by banning tax exemptions for private schools that discriminate against black students on religious grounds.

The IRS has cited racial discrimination as the basis for revoking more than 100 exemptions and denying tax-exempt status to an unspecified number of other private schools over the past 11 years.

But of those seeking tax-exempt status — at least five other cases are pending in U.S. Tax Court — the only two which specifically have cited religious beliefs as the basis for their racial policies are Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C. and the Goldsboro Christian Schools in Goldsboro, N.C., the IRS says.

By agreeing in October to review those two cases, the justices signaled that their ruling, which is expected by July, is likely to be limited to schools professing that their racial segregation policies are founded on religious beliefs.

"The unquestioned First Amendment right to free religious belief and exercise does not carry with it a guarantee of any person's or corporation's entitlement to tax-exempt status," government lawyers argue.

On the other side, Salt Lake City lawyer Oscar W. McConkie Jr. argues: "I don't think that the Internal Revenue Service can say that as a matter of national policy that the government is opposed to racism and therefore we're going to take you out of your tax-exempt status because we believe your religious views are racist." McConkie's views are contained in a friend-of-the-court brief filed on behalf of the 2.8-million-member Mormon Church.

And Goldsboro Christian Schools contends in its appeal:

"If the...decision is not overturned, the IRS will have successfully denied tax-exempt status to the school because it promotes and practices an unorthodox, unpopular, minority belief which the IRS — and not Congress — has decided violates federal public policy."

No action on defective Exxon electrical item

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal agency has known for nearly 18 months about a possible safety problem with electrical circuit breakers made for home use by an Exxon Corp. subsidiary, but still has not decided on any action.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission, which has authority to order recalls, is investigating a possible problem with circuit breakers made by Federal Pacific Electric Company, agency spokesman Lou Brott said.

The safety issue became known after Federal Pacific was acquired by Reliance Electric Company, which subsequently was bought out by Exxon.

Brott, in an interview Friday, said there are "literally millions" of the circuit breakers, but that only a small portion of them are under suspicion.

Neither the commission nor a Reliance spokesman would say what the safety problem is. Brott said the CPSC investigation is expected to go on for some months.

Documents filed with the agency are being kept confidential at the request of Reliance CPSC attorney Eric Stone said an amendment recently passed by Congress dealing with keeping company-supplied documents secret "makes it harder for us to be cooperative with reporters."

One document that is available, however, is a suit filed by Reliance in U.S. District Court in Cleveland in which the company alleges it was the victim of a cover-up scheme when it bought Federal Pacific.

UV Industries, which sold Federal Pacific to Reliance, was profitable "only as a result of materially deceptive and improper practices employed in manufacturing, testing and certification by Underwriters Laboratories, Inc.," the suit alleges.

Underwriters Laboratories tests electrical products and if they are found to be safe allows manufacturers to use "UL" safety emblems.

Reliance charged UV Industries with fraud by overstating its worth before the sale. Without proper Underwriters Laboratories certification of its product, UV wasn't worth the $345 million purchase price, Reliance said.

That suit, still pending, was filed June 26, 1980. Reliance also notified the federal agency of a possible safety problem with circuit breakers that had already been made.

Santa and the ICE KING

by Lucrece Beale

SYNOPSIS: Oonik and Santa have finally found the Ice King, busily grinding out harsh winter storms from his fearful ice castle. When Santa explained that he and Oonik had come as friends, the Ice King stopped his work and suddenly burst into tears.

CHAPTER TWELVE THE ICE KING'S STORY

Oonik marveled to see the Ice King cry. Even the King's tears were made of ice. They rained from his cheeks and clattered to the floor like hailstones on a roof.

"What is it? What is the matter?" cried Santa in alarm. "Nothing," replied the Ice King kicking away the tears. "It's just that you're the first to ever come here and call himself friend."

"Then he told Santa how all his life he had lived alone in his frozen castle where not even a servant would live. How no one ever came to call. How he had no friends and everyone in the whole world hated him because he was Winter itself and brought everyone cold and misery.

"But you are wrong!" protested Santa. "Winter has its proper place. Children love snow and animals love to hibernate and even grumpy love to sit before their fires on stormy nights."

The King's face brightened. "Do they really like me?" he asked.

"Of course they do," replied Santa. "But now," went on Santa sternly, "it is August. For four months the world has waited for spring and summer but still you send your ice and snow and frigid winds. That is wrong. Why do you do it?"

"It's because I am so lonely!" burst out the Ice King. "All winter I can keep busy making storms but in summertime there's nothing to do but sit and mope. So this year I decided I would just keep on making winter forever and that way I'll always be busy and happy too."

Santa shook his head sadly. "And so the whole world will freeze and starve."

The Ice King hung his head and walked away. "I thought since they hated me anyway I might as well be really hateful," he mumbled.

Santa took out his pipe and lit it. For a long while he smoked in silence and then he said, "You must get a wife."

"What?" cried the Ice King turning to stare. "A wife. You must get a wife to love you and care for you and keep you from being lonely or feeling hateful again."

"A wife?" whispered the Ice King and his eyes softened and he began to smile. Then his face clouded over and he burst out bitterly, "Who would ever marry me?"

"There are lonely maidens in the world just as there are lonely men," said Santa. "The trick is to get them together. I have in mind for you a beautiful creature whom I happen to know is in a marrying mood."

"Who?" said the Ice King eagerly.

"The Sun Daughter," said Santa. "She dwells in the East where the sun rises each day." He paused and scratched his head. "Ah," he sighed. "If only I had my reindeer back we could travel there in a single day!"

Oonik, quiet and awe-struck all this time, now tugged at Santa's sleeve.

"I can get the reindeer," he said.

Dear Abby

Charity should be by choice

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: If I get another one of those "Christmas cards" stating that instead of a Christmas gift, a gift in my name has been sent to such-and-such a charity, I will blow my top!

What is so generous about taking a gift from one person in order to give to another? I give to charities myself and do not need anyone contributing to the charity of his choice in my name. People who inform their friends that they are giving to charity instead of sending Christmas gifts are either too cheap or too lazy to do both.

DISGUSTED WITH SELFISHNESS

DEAR DISGUSTED: Now let's hear it from another reader who also resents the "gift-in-your-name" type of giving:

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing to complain about the presumptuousness of people who make a donation to their favorite charity and call it a Christmas present to me!

In the first place, maybe I'm not all that excited about saving the whales or the poor of Pakistan or Bangladesh — I'd prefer helping the poor American Indians, or the NAACP, or my local rape crisis center.

If my friends really want to give me a gift, let them send me a check to forward to my favorite charity!

FED UP IN FULLERTON

DEAR ABBY: My boss gave a "6:30 to 8:30" Christmas cocktail party for about 60 people at his home. He had invited 14 of those guests to stay for dinner. (I had been invited to both.)

When it was time for dinner, the host wanted to get rid of the cocktail crowd, so he flashed the lights off and on several times as a signal that the cocktail party was over! I thought that was in poor taste. Isn't there a more subtle way to break up a party?

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: There is no subtle way to break up a party. The gracious host patiently allows a party to die a natural death.

DEAR ABBY: As a physician, deputy coroner and licensed medical examiner, I applaud your suggestion that the members of the parole board should get the same penalty as the paroled murderer should he commit murder again.

Abby, I examined the body of a 5-year-old girl who had been raped repeatedly by an adult male, then stabbed to death. I've seen the battered body of an elderly woman who had been robbed, raped and beaten while she was praying in church. Recently, a young police officer was shot to death by a convicted murderer who was free on parole. The officer left a wife, pregnant with their first child. I think the widow should sue the members of the parole board for the support of herself and her child. In my opinion, they were as responsible for her husband's death as the man who pulled the trigger.

I have suggested to lawyers and judges that if the members of the parole board were held responsible for the actions of those whom they parole, they wouldn't be so quick to return murderers to society. Some agree, but others insist that no one would be willing to serve on a parole board under such circumstances. This is not true. I would be willing!

I urge you, Dear Abby, to use your influence to establish the legislation to make this possible. I would be happy to assist you. Please withhold my name.

CONCERNED IN GEORGIA

Johnny is SMARTER than you think

Hyperactive -- or just fidgety?

It's a rare mother who never has said, "That kid of mine! Always on the go. Always into something. I just don't know what I'm going to do."

The average, healthy child is an active, sometimes disruptive, bundle of energy. Perhaps that is the primary reason so many children today are being classified as "hyperactive" by the public schools, given drugs to calm them down, and often sent to special education classes as "learning disabled."

Hyperactivity (sometimes called "hyperkinesis" — it's the same thing, they both mean over-active) is such an acceptable term that it is being misused and abused, as is the phrase "learning disability." It is being applied almost indiscriminately to children who, for many reasons, fidget and move around so much in class that they are difficult to teach.

Virtually every public school and every classroom teacher seems to have a list of the symptoms of hyperactivity. There are many such lists, and the number of symptoms ranges from about 20 to 55 or more. Some of the so-called "Symptoms" are utterly ridiculous, but if a child shows 4, 5 or 6 of them, BINGO! He's hyperactive, and something simply must be done with him or her. The most common treatment for hyperactivity is for the schools to request a drug prescription for the child, without first trying to get at the real source of the problem.

Some of the more common symptoms of hyperactivity are short attention span... easily distracted... movement from place to place... difficulty in concentrating on one thing... inability to sit still... going from one activity to another without finishing any thing... sensitivity to texture, light and sound... when forced to sit still, some part of the body remains in motion, e.g., feet, hands, or head... prone to breakage, spillage and disorder.

Dr. Hilde L. Mosse of New York Medical College says the symptoms lists are "unscientific," and are compiled "for easy feeding into a computer to facilitate statistical evaluation." In her new two-volume work, "The Complete Handbook of Children's Reading Disorders," Dr. Mosse writes:

"What child is not at times defiant, 'heedless of danger,'

'impatient' or 'disobedient,' all categorized as symptoms on these lists? Behavior is also listed that has nothing whatever to do with hyperactivity. For example: 'lies often,' 'takes money,' 'wets bed,' and so forth. A hyperactive child may also may wet his bed, lie or steal, but not because he is hyperactive. This behavior is not characteristic of hyperactivity."

Some children are hyperactive because, Dr. Mosse says, their motor drives are "completely disinhibited, uncontrolled and chaotic." These children — and they are truly fewer in number — have a serious problem requiring careful medical attention. Only the parents of such children can know the despair and frustration of trying to cope with children who simply can't be coped with.

But there are children who get fidgety in class and who are disruptive for many reasons other than the state of their motor drives.

It may be an allergy to a common food in the child's diet. It may be lack of sleep. It may be sheer boredom, particularly if the child is gifted and far ahead of his classmates. The child may not know how to read, and feels left out of things. The child may have physical problems: poor hearing or poor eyesight.

These problems can and should be dealt with by the parents in consultation with competent medical personnel. The parents cannot abdicate responsibilities to the and still expect their to have a satisfactory education experience.

Above all, parents allow their children, given drugs simply or — so of the classroom or even a team of "experts." Drugs helpful, but they also great damage to the now and in the future: doctor seems unsure the request for prescription relayed school, there's a solution: Find a doctor.

Dr. Lamb Battling obesity

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I wish you would help me with my problem in maintaining my weight. I weigh about 159 and I'm 5 feet 10. About two months ago I weighed about 153. Slowly but surely I am gaining weight. I would like to stay at about 150 to 155. I really don't eat anything that would be fattening, but I don't seem to be able to lose any weight.

DEAR READER — It sounds like you are on your way to developing creeping obesity, the gradual increase that eventually leaves one considerably overweight.

You have not told me much about yourself but you need to know that many people have decreased amounts of muscle as they get older. That is not because muscles change size with age so much as it is that people quit doing the things that maintain muscle size and strength. They exercise less vigorously. When that happens a person uses fewer calories even at rest and creeping obesity begins.

One of the best ways to avoid creeping obesity is to increase your activity level. I like a well-rounded program that includes some strength exercises to maintain your muscle size. Also, I recommend that you use daily walking, jogging or running to use a small amount of calories every day.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS Danger Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others. Here are nine critical symptoms involving back pain: (1) Numbness in the arms or hands (2) Loss of strength in the arms or hands (3) Stiffness in the neck (4) Pain between the shoulder blades (5) Stiffness of pain in lower back (6) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals indicate that your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these danger signals... call for in-depth consultation in Layman's terms.

Chargers can clinch title against Raiders

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Chargers, beneficiaries of a holiday Christmas gift from the Chicago Bears, can clinch their first straight AFC Western Division title tonight against the Oakland Raiders, a team with Monday night magic.

The Chargers, only in control of their own destiny after a near-fatal season slump, the Chargers know the score.

"We've got our chance," said Coach Don Coryell. "Now we've got to do something with it."

If hopes were slim for San Diego until Chicago's 35-24 on Sunday, Denver, 35-24 on Sunday. That put the Chargers on the line tonight in a nationally televised NFL Football League game.

Coryell says the Chargers, 9-6, are taking nothing for granted against the Raiders, the now-dethroned Super Bowl champions.

"I know what fine competitors they are," he said. "I know they'll come after us, we know that."

The Raiders, 7-8 and doomed to their first non-winning season since 1964, have history — and Monday night mastery on their side.

The Raiders are 18-1-1 on Monday nights. Since their only 21-20 setback at Buffalo on Sept. 16, 1974, the Raiders have won 14 in a row on Monday night.

San Diego, seeking its fourth victory in five games, is a joint favorite in the NFL's regular-season finale.

Quarterback Dan Fouts, threatened with suspension throughout the week, needs 420 yards to become the NFL's first quarterback to pass for more than 5,000 yards in a season.

Fouts' passing effort would give him 25 for his career, the all-time NFL mark held by Johnny Unitas.

The National Football League Players' Association announced last Tuesday that Fouts was suspended for failure to pay $222 in delinquent union dues. A San Diego fan cleared up the mess by shelling out the money. Chargers' owner Gene Stenerson assailed the move by the players' union, calling it "rookied blackmail."

San Diego wins, the Chargers would open the playoffs in Oakland at Miami against the AFC East champion Dolphins. Oakland victory puts Denver in the playoffs and ruins San Diego's season.

The rematch of last January's AFC championship game, Oakland when comeback quarterback Jim Plunkett led San Diego's secondary apart. The Raiders raced to a 14-0 lead and held on for a 34-27 triumph and went on to become the first wild-card team in history to win the Super Bowl.

Chargers haven't forgotten that bitter loss.

Plunkett, who lost his starting job when the Raiders went to Oakland, is the probable starter tonight because of Marcus Allen's injured thumb. Wilson is one of several injured players who might not play.

The Chargers and Raiders contributed to the 1981 Raider season with a 55-21 rout last month at Oakland. Fouts set a record with six touchdown passes that day. Five went to wide receiver Kellen Winslow, who tied an NFL mark with the Lake Highlands kicker clinches title and record

By JAY JORDEN
 Associated Press Writer

Making the record books wasn't as important for Richardson Lake Highlands kicker Todd Tschantz as clinching the state Class 5A schoolboy football championship against Houston Yates Saturday.

But he accomplished both, booting four field goals for a state record of 17 in one season and contributing to the Wildcats' 19-6 win at the Houston Astrodome.

"We needed to shut down their passing attack and that's what we did," Tschantz said. But he termed the season record an added bonus.

Playing consistent offense, the Wildcats used eight Yates turnovers to its advantage. Lake Highlands cruised to a flawless 15-0 season, aided by defensive back Aaron Grant's 66-yard touchdown on an interception return.

Yates "had been laying the ball on the ground in the films we had seen," said Lake Highlands coach Joe Bob Johnson. "But I didn't relax until those three zeros went up" on the scoreboard clock.

Lake Highlands led 9-0 in the third quarter with Tschantz' field goals of 34, 39 and 22 yards. The third kick became a state record for the most field goals in a single season.

But Tschantz added a 36-yard field goal with 3:09 remaining in the third period after Grant pushed the Wildcats ahead 16-0. Grant recovered two fumbles and intercepted another pass.

Yates quarterback Thomas Ledet was intercepted four times and the Lions lost four fumbles. Ledet rallied his team briefly in the fourth quarter by connecting with Randolph Wilburn on a 74-yard touchdown bomb.

"What happened? We played a championship team," said Yates coach Luther Booker. "They had a good defense and they showed it. ... We really stopped ourselves. We won the game in every category except scoring."

In other schoolboy action Saturday, Cameron Yoe and Victor Powell nabbed two second-quarter scoring passes to boost the Yeomen to a 26-3 victory over Gilmer for their first Class 3A championship.

Gilmer fumbled six times at Baylor Stadium in Waco, giving the Yeomen plenty of playing time. The Buckeyes' feeble defensive line failed to hold the Cameron rushing attack at bay.

The Buckeyes led off the scoring early in the second quarter when quarterback Chuck Waggoner kicked a 22-yard field goal after a scoreless first period.

But Cameron quarterback Paul Hoelscher quickly countered as he found Powell wide open in the end zone for a 29-yard scoring pass. Mariano de la Rosa's kick made it 7-3 with 10:14 left in the period.

Fullback Nelson Huffman recovered Waggoner's fumble in the end zone for a touchdown on Gilmer's next possession. De la Rosa's kick was good to make the score 14-3.

The Yeomen increased their lead when Waggoner's snap to David Cockrill for a punt sailed over his head into the end zone. That gave Cameron a safety and a 16-3 lead with minutes left in the half.

Hoelscher continued his passing attack with a 37-yard scoring toss to Powell after briefly handing off to wingback Oscar Riggins, who pitched it back to Hoelscher for the toss.

AERIAL SHOW. Pittsburgh Steelers linebacker Gregg Bingham (54) closes in during the first quarter of the Steelers-Oilers game, which ended in a 21-20 Oilers victory, in the Astrodome Sunday. (AP Laserphoto)

Oilers' win meant nothing to playoffs

HOUSTON (AP) — After closing out dismal seasons in the Astrodome, the Houston Oilers and the Pittsburgh Steelers have gone their separate ways to plot next season.

Perhaps Houston Coach Eddie Biles will even improve his poetry.

"The Blue will be back in '82," Biles said Sunday, following the Oilers' late surge to a 21-20 victory in a game that for the first time in several years meant nothing to the National Football League playoffs.

For that reason, Biles and Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll had little to look back on with pleasure. So they chose to look ahead.

"This was a good way to start our preseason. I'm just sorry we didn't win it," Noll said.

"I thought we played well but (Gifford) Nielsen played well, too, and that was the difference. But I haven't given any real thought to next season. Our problem right now is getting home."

Nielsen, who will battle veteran Ken Stabler for the starting job next season, threw three touchdown passes to Dave Casper, the last with only 1:51 left in the game.

The comeback allowed the Oilers to finish with a 6-10 record and kept the Steelers, 8-8, from becoming the fourth team since 1945 to post winning seasons for 10 consecutive years.

Houston took a 14-6 halftime lead on Casper's first two touchdown catches, a 15-yarder in the first quarter and a 23-yard catch in the second period.

Mark Malone, Pittsburgh's backup quarterback paced the Steelers to two field goals of 40 and 37 yards by rookie David Trout in the first half.

The Steelers struck twice in the third quarter with touchdown runs of 17 yards by Sidney Thornton and 2 yards by Malone. Then, with time running out, Nielsen put together a 71-yard running drive in only four plays.

Rookie wide receiver Mike Holston, who caught five passes for 128 yards, helped set up the winning touchdown with a 44-yard catch.

"Giff saw that I could beat the guy," Holston said. "I had plenty of room over the middle... and the rest of history."

The game also was disappointing for running backs Earl Campbell of Houston and Franco Harris of Pittsburgh.

Harris gained 36 yards on 17 carries and finished the season with 987 yards. With 13 more yards, Harris would have become the first runner in NFL history to rush 1,000 yards in eight consecutive seasons.

Jets envision meeting Giants in Super Bowl

By JOHN NELSON

AP Sports Writer

New York Jets quarterback Richard Todd was envisioning the perfect matchup, at least from his point of view, in Super Bowl XVI at the Silverdome in Pontiac, Mich.

"It would be nice to meet the Giants," Todd said, "but I don't know if this town could take it."

The Jets went a long way toward clearing up the National Football League's playoff picture Sunday by beating the Green Bay Packers 28-3. They earned themselves an AFC wild card berth and handed the Giants an NFC wild card.

The Giants, who defeated Dallas 13-10 in overtime Saturday, finished the season 9-7, one game ahead of Green Bay, the only other team in contention for the NFC's final wild card berth.

Tampa Bay also earned itself a spot in the playoffs, winning 20-17 at Detroit to claim its second NFC Central Division title in three years with a 9-7 record. Detroit, like Green Bay, finished at 8-8.

In fact, the only playoff spot left open after Sunday's games was the one which goes to the AFC Western Division winner. Denver could have clinched that, but the Broncos lost at Chicago, 35-24, dropping their record to 10-6.

San Diego, 9-6, plays host to Oakland tonight and could win the division by beating the Raiders. Although Denver and San Diego would both wind up 10-6, the Chargers would prevail with a better division record.

"I think the Giants should really applaud us," Todd said after throwing two long touchdown passes in the Jets' victory. "I was listening to them yesterday. I heard some of their comments about how it was up to us to do our job. I was getting a little annoyed."

"They didn't give us anything. We gave them something."

The Jets will be participating in their first playoff since 1969, and it will be the Giants' first since 1963. Oddly enough, this is the first time both teams have finished better than .500 in the same season.

Miami won the AFC Eastern Division with an 11-4-1 record, while both AFC wild card teams — the Jets, 10-5-1, and Buffalo, 10-6 — also came from the East. Cincinnati won the Central Division with a 12-4 mark, claiming the home-field advantage throughout the AFC playoffs with the best conference record.

In the NFC, the division winners were Dallas, 12-4, in the East; Tampa Bay, 9-7, in the Central; and San Francisco 13-3, in the West. The wild cards were the Giants, 9-7, and Philadelphia, 10-6, both from the East. The 49ers earned the NFC's home field advantage.

The rest of Sunday's scores: Cincinnati 30, Atlanta 28; San Francisco 21, New Orleans 17; Philadelphia 38, St. Louis 0; Houston 21, Pittsburgh 20; Washington 30, Los Angeles 7; Seattle 42, Cleveland 21; Kansas City 10, Minnesota 6, and Baltimore 23. New England 21. In Saturday's other game, Miami defeated Buffalo 16-6.

By virtue of their better records, Philadelphia hosts the Giants and the Jets host Buffalo in the wild-card playoffs next Sunday. The Jets start at noon EST. The Eagles at 3:30 p.m.

The first round of the conference playoffs were scheduled for the weekend of Jan. 2-3. Tampa Bay travels to Dallas and San Francisco hosts the wild-card winner in the NFC. Either Denver or

San Diego travels to Miami, and Cincinnati entertains the wild-card winner in the AFC. Specific times and dates for the matchups were not expected to be announced by the NFL until after Monday night's Oakland-San Diego game.

The conference championships were scheduled for Sunday, Jan. 10, and the Super Bowl was set for Sunday, Jan. 24.

Bucs 20, Lions 17
Nose guard Dave Logan capitalized on one of two interceptions against Detroit's Eric Hipple, running 21 yards for a touchdown late in the fourth quarter to give Tampa Bay a 20-10 lead.

Tampa Bay quarterback Doug Williams set a club record with a pass play for a touchdown to Kevin House that covered 84 yards. The play began on the Bucs 16. Williams hit House at the Detroit 46 and House ran the rest of the way to give the Bucs a 10-7 second-quarter lead.

Bears 35, Broncos 24
Broncos quarterback Craig Morton threw two interceptions for Chicago touchdowns, one to Gary Fenwick, who returned 69 yards, and another to Al Harris, who ran 44 yards.

Chicago's Walter Payton scored two touchdowns, one on a 19-yard run and another on a 7-yard pass from Vince Evans as the Bears wound up their season 6-10.

The game also marked the end of a 15-year career for defensive tackle Alan Page of the Bears. Page, who gained fame with Minnesota, participated in four sacks as the Bears dropped Morton and backup Steve DeBerg for 56 yards in losses.

Bengals 30, Falcons 28
Ken Anderson threw a pair of touchdown passes, one a 74-yarder to Cris Collinsworth, and Cincinnati held on to claim the best record in the AFC. Cincinnati led 24-7 midway through the second quarter and led 30-21 at halftime.

Atlanta's Lynn Cain scored on a 3-yard run to make it 30-28 with 1:19 to play.

Atlanta, 7-9, recovered on-side kick and moved into field goal range but Mick Luckhurst's 33 attempt, after a poor was wide to the left.

49ers 21, Saints 17
Johnny Davis, primarily in short yard situations, slammed from the 3-yard line into the fourth quarter to San Francisco the best in the NFL. Quarterback Montana played in only first 19 minutes, but completed nine passes for yards and two touchdowns against New Orleans, 4-17.

The Saints' George Ruan ran for 107 yards to become the NFL rushing leader 1,674 for the year, 28 more than Tony Dorsett of Dallas.

Eagles 38, Cards 0
Ron Jaworski, blame part for Philadelphia's four-game losing streak, answered his critics' three scoring passes, and Eagles earned the right to face the Giants at home in the NFL's wild card playoff.

Wilbert Montgomery gained 108 yards and scored a touchdown. The Cardinals finished season 7-9.

Redskins 30, Rams 7
Quarterback J. Theismann set a Redskins season record for completions with 2 surpassing the 288 of Son Jurgensen in 1967, and hit two touchdowns against Los Angeles.

The Rams, 6-10, failed the first time since 1972 to make the playoffs. Washington finished at 8-8.

Alexeyeva joins husband, worries about family's fate

By FRED BAYLES
Associated Press Writer
NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Liza Alexeyeva, celebrating a reunion with her husband and worrying about the fate of the couple whose younger strike made it possible, Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov and his wife, Lena Bonner.
There are hundreds of prisoners of conscience serving their terms in the prisons, and Sakharov is still in his illegal cell, and we still do not know what awaits Miss Alexeyeva said Sunday after the reunion with her husband, Alexei Myonov, the son of Mrs. Bonner by a previous marriage.
I came to the United States of America to help here," the 26-year-old woman said after flying from Moscow to Paris and Boston. She and her 25-year-old husband are staying in Newton at the home of Semyonov's sister.
The young couple last saw each other only four years ago as sweethearts when Myonov was forced out of the Soviet Union and came to the United States. Last June they were married by proxy in Montana, which is a law allowing such marriages.
The Soviet Union repeatedly denied Miss Alexeyeva an exit visa to join her husband, but she relented after Sakharov and his wife staged a 17-day hunger strike from Sakharov's place of exile, the Soviet city of Novosibirsk.
Sakharov, a leading Soviet dissident and 1975 winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, was jailed after his criticism of his country's invasion of Afghanistan two years ago. He is reported to be in poor health.
Semyonov said Sakharov and his mother are still in danger.

Who is this Santa Claus?

By HUGH A. Mulligan
AP Special Correspondent
LATITUDE 90 NORTH, OR THEREABOUTS (AP) — Who is this Santa Claus person anyway?
When you get right down to it, not much is really known about this paunchy bagman who drops down people's chimneys one night each year under the pretext of bribing their children into better behavior.
Thousands upon thousands of words have been written about this elusive charlatan, but he has never submitted to an interview.
Children everywhere attest to his legendary legerdemain on Christmas morning, but he has never been caught in the act of breaking and entering to distribute the goodies. Why have the police never issued an APB, an all point bulletin? Where was the FBI and Interpol?
Getting down to the nuts and raisins of this holiday fruit cake, what right does he have to monopolize the minds and hearts of millions for an entire day every year? Who grants him safe conduct down the chimneys of the world?

The known facts about this most wanted character are sketchy and contradictory. In a police line-up, you would look for someone short (perhaps a midget), fat (some liken his abdomen to a gelatinous substance), rosy cheeked, given to fits of prolonged and inane laughter. He has been observed smoking a long Dutch pipe known as a "church warden." Besides illegal entry and child bribery, the complaint record includes driving an unlicensed reindeer-pulled sled in a reckless manner, parking precariously on rooftops to avoid feeding meters and nipping at the household sherry.
Latest reports indicate he still wears gaudy red trousers held up by old-fashioned galls, matching jacket and mittens trimmed in white fur, a leather belt with a big brass buckle and kinky black patent leather boots.
Persons having information as to his whereabouts are urged to hang their stockings by the chimney with care, try not to panic, get a good night's sleep and await further developments.

News in brief

CHICAGO (AP) — A stove that was left on all night to provide heat apparently blew up and caused a fire that killed three young brothers and their little cousin and injured 14 people, authorities said.
One man set up a ladder, went inside "and rescued two people," said neighbor Irene Swington. Six people were hospitalized in fair condition and a seventh, Howard Clark, 14, was in serious condition. Seven were treated and released by Roseland Community Hospital.
The children killed in the Sunday morning fire were identified by a hospital spokeswoman as Renaldo Leonard, 9 months; Marlon Leonard, 2; O'Quinn Leonard, 4; and their cousin, Anthony Hines, 8.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rockefeller Foundation is concerned over possible damage to society "if we fail to reach those whose lives bar them from qualifying for existing opportunities," the foundation president says.
So on Sunday the foundation announced a new grants program to train for jobs "the most disadvantaged members of our society — single, minority women who are heads of households."
The trustees voted $1 million, in addition to $750,000 from regular budgets, for 1982 grants to community groups to help them train these women for private jobs, foundation president Richard W. Lyman said.

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Soldiers shot and killed five demonstrators and arrested five more while trying to disperse an anti-government march in Antique province in the central Philippines, the military said today.
Military reports claimed demonstrators fired first during Saturday's march, forcing soldiers and police to shoot back.
The reports said between 400 and 500 people carrying streamers marched in Malacanang village of Culasi, 260 miles south of here. The military described the march as a communist-inspired demonstration.
It was the third time this year that demonstrators had been shot down by police.

SEATTLE (AP) — The demarcation line dividing North and South Korea. A spokesman said the command had investigated the allegation of shooting last Friday and determined that U.N. guards did not fire at North Korean guard posts.
But the investigation revealed that for several minutes last Friday U.N. soldiers fired tracer rounds and signal flares into the air as a warning to a U.N. aircraft that it was near the southern boundary of the demarcation line. The spokesman said all fire was aimed away from North Korean guard posts.
OPORTO, Portugal (AP) — Eleven people died when a bus collided with a private van and skidded off a bridge into the Caima River, officials said.
Sunday's accident claimed the lives of seven men, one woman and two children. Among the dead were Portuguese workers returning home from Germany to spend the Christmas holidays.
Rescue workers tried for several hours to free the dozens of injured trapped inside the half-submerged bus.

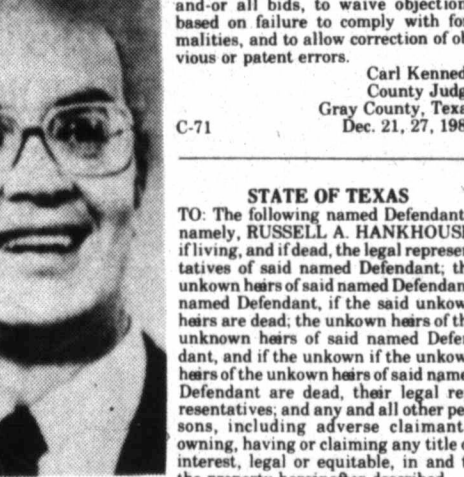

GAFFNEY, S.C. (AP) — A highway where a tractor-trailer overturned and began leaking radioactivity was reopened to traffic after authorities determined the amount of escaped radiation was minimal.
The rig ran off Interstate 85, hit a utility pole and overturned Sunday, said Highway Patrolman Jerry Pearson. The driver was uninjured.
The truck was going from Boston to Nuclear Medical Labs in Dallas with a computer system used in medical tests.
John Brassington, Cherokee County civil defense director, said the area was sealed-off and traffic rerouted for about three hours because traces of radiation were found leaking from the wreck.

SEATTLE (AP) — The United Nations command today denied a North Korean claim that U.N. soldiers fired across the demarcation line dividing North and South Korea.
A spokesman said the command had investigated the allegation of shooting last Friday and determined that U.N. guards did not fire at North Korean guard posts.
But the investigation revealed that for several minutes last Friday U.N. soldiers fired tracer rounds and signal flares into the air as a warning to a U.N. aircraft that it was near the southern boundary of the demarcation line. The spokesman said all fire was aimed away from North Korean guard posts.

Names in the news

PRINCE CHARLES
LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles, calling himself a "country bumpkin," says if he had been born a commoner he would have been a farmer.
"I can't stand cities. I am a countryman. A country bumpkin," the 33-year-old prince said in an interview in "The Director," a 27,000-circulation monthly journal of the Institute of Directors.
Speaking of the nation's unemployment, now at a 50-year high with nearly 3 million people out of work, he heir to the British throne said he understood the "bitterness and disillusion" felt by the jobless. He called on large companies to do more to help train workers without jobs and to set up workshops.
He said that management in the nation does not seem to understand the human factor enough.

JAMES WATTS
MIAMI (AP) — Former President Richard Nixon says he wishes southern Florida football fans would show more support for the Miami Dolphins.
In an interview broadcast Saturday on Miami radio station WIOD, Nixon also praised Dolphins Coach Don Shula.
Nixon, who vacationed regularly in Key Biscayne, Fla., while president, said: "I've followed the Dolphins for years. Florida is one of my second homes...Florida, California, now New York, and Washington."
However, he said, "I can't understand why Miami doesn't sell out that stadium...Here (in New York) the Giants haven't won since 1964 and they fill their stadium. Buffalo fills its stadium. I can't figure Miami out."
Accompanying Watt on the 115-mile tour, not counting sidetrips, were political leaders from Wyoming, Montana and Idaho.
Watt and his party got a break from the weather. With temperatures in the 30s and plenty of fresh snow, they crested three mountain passes and saw elk, bison,

Disaster year for Demo discipline

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — From where the Democrats sat, the session of Congress that just ended was a disaster for party discipline. Republicans set some loyalty landmarks in the voting on President Reagan's initial economic proposals, then started having trouble with dissenters of their own.

In the election-year session ahead, both sides are likely to have increasing difficulty in holding their ranks on clutch votes. When the choice is between support for the party position in the House and a vote that will please the people back home, there's no doubt where most congressmen will come down. They want to keep their jobs.

Party discipline, which is almost impossible to enforce, has been a nettling problem for the Democrats all year. Conservative Democrats provided the margin that won Reagan his initial round of budget cuts and gave him his three-year tax cut bill.

On those same tests of administration strength, Republicans were unanimous, or close to it. They weren't so solid later, as about 20 moderate and liberal Republicans, most of them from the Northeast, turned skeptics on subsequent spending cuts. Despite those cracks in the solid Republican front, Reagan got his way.

Since Democrats nominally control the House, 242 to 192, he couldn't have done it without them — or some of them, notably Old South and Sun Belt conservative Democrats.

That set Democratic liberals to talking about discipline for dissenters, but their House caucus decided against it. Instead they voted for amnesty and party leaders said they would get tougher.

From now on, House Democratic leaders are supposed to designate key issues that will be considered matters of party policy. Democrats who consistently defy the party line are supposed to be cut out of prestigious committee and leadership assignments.

The party caucuses, which in congressional language means all the Democratic or all the Republican members of the House, do have power to punish renegades. They can strip an offender of committee assignments, deprive a member of the benefits of seniority. They can even kick a member out of the caucus.

In practice, they don't get that harsh for anything short of the ultimate defection. Rep. Eugene V. Atkinson of Pennsylvania is out of the Democratic caucus, but that was his own doing. He decided to become a Republican. So did Rep. Bob Stump of Arizona, although his formal switch is not due until spring.

But cases like that are simple, for either party. If a man decides to put "R" instead of "D" after his name, there's nothing for the leadership or the caucus to decide. The more difficult disciplinary issues involve votes on the floor or actions in a campaign.

Richard Scammon, of the Elections Research Center, says any attempt by a party caucus to control its members stirs concern this week's loyalist could be in dissent and subject to discipline next week.

Egypt-Israel relations not being undermined

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Hosni Mubarak has loudly condemned Israel's annexation of the Syrian Golan Heights, but he has limited his reaction to words because he doesn't want that to jeopardize the planned Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai.

Western diplomats predict Mubarak's verbal criticism of the Jewish state won't be harsh enough to cause a major rift in Egyptian-Israeli relations.

The Israelis captured the Golan Heights from Syria in the 1967 war. They also occupied the Gaza Strip, the Sinai peninsula, the West Bank of the Jordan River and Arab East Jerusalem. The strategic Golan plateau overlooks numerous Israeli towns and farming cooperatives in the northern Galilee, frequent targets of Syrian shelling before the 1967 conflict.

Every day since Israel's Dec. 14 decision to annex the Golan, the semi-official Egyptian press has given prominent priority to articles on the subject quoting Mubarak, officials in his government and spokesmen for other political institutions.

But Western diplomatic sources say Egypt doesn't want to provoke Israel into delaying its scheduled withdrawal from the last third of the Sinai, completing return of the entire peninsula to Egypt.

Egypt has called the Golan annexation a violation of the U.S.-sponsored Camp David framework for peace in the Middle East. That framework committed the United States, Israel and Egypt to involve other Arab nations in achieving peace in the region.

But Egypt has made it clear that the Camp David framework is distinct from the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty which outlines the terms of the Sinai withdrawal. Mubarak has said the Golan issue will not affect the treaty, normalization of relations with Israel or the talks on Palestinian autonomy in Israeli-occupied lands. Autonomy talks are scheduled to resume here Jan. 10.

Some Western diplomats believe the Golan annexation may lead Egypt to toughen its stand in the long-stalled Palestinian autonomy talks.

Syria said the Begin administration's action was a virtual declaration of war, but Mubarak said Egypt would not be dragged into conflict with Israel over the Golan.

Foreign Minister Kamal Hassan Aly said in a telephone interview Sunday that Egypt views the annexation of the Golan as a violation of the U.N. resolutions on which the Camp David agreement was based.
