Baby May Well Have Aversion to Costume Jewelry

DENTON — (AP) — If eight-month-old Russell H. Smith grows up with an aversion to women's costume jewelry he'll have a reason why.

The baby, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Smith of Denton, swallowed an open costume pin of his mother's yesterday afternoon Late last night, however, he was doing nicely at the Denton Hospital following surgery.

Mrs. Smith said she heard the infant choke earlier in the day while lying on a bed. But when she went to him apparently nothing was wrong. Four hours later she gasped as she remembered she had seen her pin on the baby's chest. She looked, and the pin was gone.

X-ray pictures showed the open pin in the infant's stomach. An operation was performed and the pin removed.

By midnight the baby — and the parents — felt a lot better.

ISLAND OF ESCAPE

By Hugh Lawrence Nelson

THE STORY: Four lonely women, Bea Cosgrove and Arcee Firth, spinsters, Mrs. Mabel Jones and Mrs. Lilly Warren, widows, are greeted as sparse late by wealthy, eccentric, middle-aged Henry Gough Harding, who says, after a three-month period he will choose one as his bride and found a new way of life. He divides the household duties assigning Miss Cosgrove to the kitchen, Bea, alone, hides her automatic pistol in the sugar stores. But as she does this she notices the swinging door moving quietly back and forth.

Mrs. Warren turned suddenly, laughed at Bea, "Looking over your competition?"

IN the upper story the flat roof had collected the heat of the day and used it to release odors of fresh paint and new wood. Miss Cosgrove forced open the small window, looked out into blackness. "A long way down."

"Three hundred feet," Lilly Warren agreed. "Or at least that's what our genial host told me. You think he's nuts?"

"Hadn't thought of it," Bea said. Lilly Warren swung her bare feet onto the floor, stood up and opened her overnight case. "Don't give me that. You must've thought something. All this share the work and uniforms. And what they said on that stinking boat. Or don't you speak Spanish?"

"No. What did they say?"

"Oh—I couldn't get much sense out of it. Just an idea there's something wrong here. But the captain and the mate, his cousin or something, went into more details about you." Lilly looked at Bea critically. "The captain thought you're hot stuff."

"What did he say just as we docked. When the men laughed?"

Lilly told her the proverb. "He who travels the wrong way travels the road two times."

"Where'd you learn Spanish?"

"In L.A. I liked the crack the guy on the dock made. Four birds in the hand are better than a hundred flying." So we're four birds in you know whose hand?

Bea pulled open empty drawers in the chest and dresser. She found a narrow door opening into a tiny bare closet. Plenty of room for the changes of underwear, a spare slip, a thin silk robe and a nightdress that her bag held.

"Say, you know there's a little railroad, a funicular he calls it, down to the storeroom?" Lilly asked.

"I saw the tracks. You want the chest or the dresser for your things?"

"The chest," Lilly decided. "I guess we'll have to share the dresser top though. It's got the only mirror."

"You still have to marry him first."

"Oh that. Look. We might as well be friends, honey. After me you've got the best figure. Maybe since you're Miss Cosgrove, you've got something to offer I haven't. Some men are funny. Oh well, we'll see." She picked up a bottle of both soaps, went in and started running the water. "There's one thing about our uniforms."

"What?"

"If anybody's interested he can tell just where each of us is any time. Those color'll stick out like a sore thumb on this little dirt pile."

"If anybody's interested."

"Are you kidding?" Lilly went into the bathroom, turned off the water and splashed into the tub.

BEA COSGROVE undressed quickly, piled her clothes neatly, slipped on the thin robe and pulled it tight around her waist.

"How'd you happen to come here?" Lilly called.

Bea Cosgrove stopped brushing her hair. She stared at her reflection without seeing it. She said, "I taught school for 20 years. I couldn't stand it any more. Like you, I was lonely. So I joined the club and here I am."

Mrs. Warren splashed. "I never had much education myself. What I know I found out the hard way. I guess I'm dumb, but I'd never picked you for a schoolteacher."

"Why not?"

"I dunno. The way you carry yourself maybe. Or maybe because you seem hard—in a soft sort of way. Anyhow you know the score. I always thought schoolteachers were pretty dumb about the facts of life."

"About average. And that's bad enough."

"See. That's what I meant about you. Say, what sort of dope is Mrs. Jones? You roomed with her on the way. What's she say and do?"

"She stayed on her bunk. Stared at the ceiling."

Mrs. Warren stood in the doorway to dry herself. "That must have been cozy. And is Johnny skinny! At that you got a better break than I did. That Agnes Firth's a twitcher. Can sheidget!

She sure must have something on her mind."

"Don't we all?" Bea asked lightly.

Lilly stopped dusting herself with powder, said seriously. "You're right there I guess. None of us'd be here if we weren't trying to get away from something, or trying to get something. Well, the bath's all yours."

Miss Cosgrove went to the door looked inside. "You left a mess," she said.

"Division of labor. You remember? You're supposed to do the housework."

"All right. But remember we change off on these jobs. There'll come a time."

"Maybe you got something there. Well, no harm trying." Lilly did a quick but thoroughly efficient job on the bath. "You know, I think maybe we'll get along. I don't have much use for anyone who lets people impose."

BEA COSGROVE awoke from troubled sleep and a dream she refused to remember. She sat up. In the quiet, above the sound of Lilly's breathing, she heard the muffled pad of footsteps. A man's footsteps, slow, careful, rising closer. They came level, paused, went on upward.

Her body was rigid, bathed in perspiration. In the dark, orientation was difficult. And Henry Harding had stalked through tortured dreams before. Suddenly she knew. The bedroom wall formed a side of the tower. There was a stairway inside. Harding, the man of flesh and blood, had listened and walked past.

She lay back, fought to relax, and finally slept again.

The clothes she had placed so neatly were disarranged. Lilly Warren stood beside them, holding up Bea's girdle for closer inspection.

"Hey," Mrs. Warren called, "you going to sleep all day?"

Bea sat up, yawned. "Good morning."

"Is it? I didn't know how you'd feel after the way you were yipping and carrying on in the night. About what you'd done to some guy named Jim."

MRS. WARREN stripped off her slacks and briefs at the same time, pulled her sweater over her head. She pattered nonchalantly to the dresser, look bottles of cosmetics, powder and make-up necessities from her case. They filled half the dresser top with several flasks of henna rinse left over.

Lilly had slim ankles, the hard-muscled calves of a dancer and the fine of her hips and breasts was full, not fat.

Mrs. Warren turned suddenly, laughed at Bea, "Looking over your competition?"

"How'd you happen to sign up with the Lonely Club and end up here?"

"Henry, honey," Lilly said. "I hate money girls. But I don't mind telling. A couple years ago a boy friend of mine gave me—well we quarreled you might say, I was sunk, really low. Maybe you don't know how it is. I was lonely all right. So I signed up for a laugh. I didn't pay much attention until this business came up. I'd read all about Henry Gough Harding and his dough you can bet. So, here I am."

"And now you find out all his fortune is tied up in the island," Bea reminded.

"Sure. Listen, honey, I'll tell you something. A lawyer tied up the money. All right. There are other lawyers. And I know a good

Miss McNaughton Is Honoree of Grad Luncheon

Miss Virginia McNaughton, graduating senior, was honored with a luncheon at the Schneider Hotel Wednesday by her aunt, Mrs. Harlan Beene of Shreveport, La.

Red and white peonies, white and pink snapdragons, and red roses formed the centerpiece. Individual corsages of pastel daisies and small decorative cards marked the places.

The honoree was presented a red rose corsage by her mother, Mrs. Clyde McNaughton.

Guests included: Lela Ward, Arvilla Patterson, Junice Ann Fahle, Naneen Campbell, Donna Nestiel, Barbara Conrod, Gloria Ward, Johny Sue Hart, Sharon Chapman, Vina Dittberner, Mary Lou Hanks, Betty McCracken, Dolores Lee, Catherine McNamara, the mother of the honoree, and the honoree.

A new way to serve potatoes is to peel them and cut them into paper-thin slices, then overlap the slices in rows in a baking dish that has been lightly buttered.

Brush the potatoes with melted butter, sprinkle lightly with salt and paprika and bake in a hot oven until the slices are a golden brown on top.

Worn Screen Tips
Tips from the Insect Wire Screening Bureau advise householders who are repairing or replacing worn screens to use only copper tacks to fasten bronze screens to wood frames, and only steel or aluminum tacks to fasten aluminum screening. Chemical reactions of one metal on another will cause damaging corrosion if iron or steel tacks are used with bronze; or copper tacks with aluminum.

Hoover Offered Honorary Degree
WASHINGTON — (AP) — J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was invited to visit Waco, Tex., next fall for a five-state boys club conference and to receive an honorary degree from Baylor University.

Rep. Poage (D-Tex.), who extended the invitation personally, said Hoover will give a definite answer when he learns what other engagements he has to fill about that time.

The Southwest Conference of Boys Clubs, including representatives from Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arkansas, Colorado and Texas, will meet in Waco Nov. 4.

Dr. W. R. White, president of Baylor, authorized Poage to tell Hoover a special convocation ceremony will be held to confer the degree if the FBI chief comes to Waco.

Fair Enough - Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

(Copyright, 1949)

For months, Drew Pearson and Walter Winchell hounded Jim Forrestal with dirty aspersions...

delivered in the form of innuendoes, until last exhausted and his nerves unstrung...

occurred on a Sunday and, Sunday being the day of worship and rest which is regularly defiled by their abuse of better put words...

curious on a Sunday and, Sunday being the day of worship and rest which is regularly defiled by their abuse of better put words...

What was this rude setback? By Soviet admission, 34 percent of the German voters in the Russian zone turned down a Communist-arranged delegates to proposed nationwide Peoples Congress.

The ballot also stood as an expression for or against "German Unity, a speedy peace treaty and withdrawal of all occupation troops."

The Russians plainly had counted on a favorable vote of perhaps 85 to 96 percent. Following the pattern of totalitarian nations, the balloting was a choice between candidates but merely a chance to say "yes" or "no" to a single, hand-picked list.

Confident of heavy German support gained through this "democratic" procedure, the Soviet Union expected to appear at Paris as the champion of German unity, strong central government and removal of occupation armies.

The resounding defeat of these hopes was a bitter pill. Said one German Communist: "This is the greatest bankruptcy in the history of the world."

It was clear from the start of voting that matters were not going well for the Russians. First scattered returns showed that out of 7000 votes cast, a comfortable majority had voted "no."

One can only regret that courage of this high order was not put to better use in the earlier German, which submitted to Hitler's yoke.

One can only hope that this stout-hearted demonstration is indeed, as General Gaid believes, a sign that Germans slowly are finding their way back toward the democratic fold.

Common Ground

By R. C. BOILER

"There's Freedom for the Brave" I was especially impressed with Rose Wilder Lane's book review in the National Economic Council's book review of the book "There's Freedom for the Brave," by Paul McGuire.

I was especially impressed because I think it pretty well describes what I am trying to say in this column under the heading of "Common Ground," it especially emphasizes that there must be some common purpose and a clinging life; and that men must have some common purpose with a direction of life; and that one cannot reason without having some principle or some common ground from which to deduce and conclude.

quote from Mrs. Lane's review of "There's Freedom for the Brave": "This book asserts the existence of Natural Moral Law which defines the proper employment of our faculties and energies, and relates these to the general good in a comprehensive order. Our fathers believed that a regard for the Natural Moral Law was necessary to the work of the craftsman and to the policies of a state."

"I think I am trying to say in this column under the heading of "Common Ground," it especially emphasizes that there must be some common purpose and a clinging life; and that men must have some common purpose with a direction of life; and that one cannot reason without having some principle or some common ground from which to deduce and conclude.

"These ancients believed that men can live and work together (unless under duress) only if they have a sufficient community of beliefs and purposes. They must in general accept a rule of law and the values on which it rests. They must have some common sense of the meaning of life, of men and their societies. They must sufficiently agree on the ends and means of their common enterprises."

"Two men cannot take a walk together unless they agree on the direction and the pace. You can regiment them and link them together in a chain gang. But when men act together as free men they must have a sufficient measure of rational agreement and common purpose."

"The economic complex will not organize a world community. Its threads must be woven into larger patterns of culture and politics. And the whole must achieve moral assent and order before it will sustain a world government and its corollary, a system of world law."

"The sense of community goes through families, villages, cities, countries, cultures, organizing and integrating as it goes. But the world at large still lacks what Hamilton called 'the deliberate sense of community.' We are not yet a single people with a meaning of life and its values."

"The State 'expresses the antagonisms which divide mankind.' The monstrous State destroys the natural sense of human community founded on Natural Moral Law.

"Economic liberties are now succeeding in the polity. Political liberties are reduced in the growth of the totalitarian State. The State itself becomes a mere tool of power and not the warden of liberty and order. It becomes gangster stuff on the large scale."

"Each man makes his own life. The moral community is the great world itself. The moral community expresses the prevailing views of those who compose it...A change in moral mood and temper has now begun in the political arena."

"Freedom is not a thing of shreds and patches. Freedom belongs to order and order must be comprehensive. If the State may check the free interchange of goods, it may check the free interchange of ideas. Once set on its course of aberrant and monstrous growth, it will strain toward the total consequence. And all who lend themselves to its monstrous expansion (tariff - mongers and quota-hobblers and all the kindred) are contributing to the growth of Totalitarianism at home and Nationalist aggression abroad."

"We must do a right-about." Then Mrs. Lane points out that this country was founded with the idea of liberty. She writes: "I greet with unbounded applause these plain words about World Economic Problem Number One. My country, where Freedom from the mountains beyond unfurled her standard to the world, my country whose symbol and pride and reason for being is Liberty, my home of the free and land of the brave who maintain fleets of armed ships and a vast police force to keep freedom of trade and freedom of human movement on this earth, these United States of America are a historical self-contradiction and a shame and disgrace to human reason."

It certainly does seem strange as Mrs. Lane points out that we are building a big navy and a big army to stop freedom of trade and freedom of human movement on this earth.

But we can expect people sooner or later to believe the federal government has a right to interfere with freedom of trade and freedom of movement when in such community people believe that the majority has a right to interfere with men's free exchange of the products of their labor. When the majority believes they have a right to take any fraction of the fruits of his labor to use to educate the people the way the majority wishes. That is far from freedom—that is a contradiction of the ideologies on which this government was formed. In fact, everything is happening just as we could expect. Fears of unemployment and wars and high taxes and dishonest money are the inevitable result when the children are grabbed in their formative period and taught by example that there is no Higher Law or no Common Ground, but that might makes right and that the end justifies the means.

aged, they thought that Mr. Snyder was slightly optimistic. They think he should have referred to their great-grandchildren as eventual liquidators of the present indebtedness.

In a recent address at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York, the nation's chief financial officer blossomed out as a literary pioneer. In testifying to the "tenacity and integrity" of a corporation head who pulled his company through the depression with the aid of the RFC, Mr. Snyder combined those two words, and described those qualities as "tenegrity."

So, if the customers want to know what will enable them to pay off the debt, it is their spirit of "tenegrity."

DREAD - Senator J. Howard McGrath had to embrace Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr. after his rout of Tammany Hall in the special Congressional election in New York City, and welcome the young man into the party. That is the way of politics and the manner of politicians.

Nevertheless, White House friends and organization politicos dread the coming of the late president's son to the House. Although Junior has behaved modestly, they fear that his presence will add to the administration's troubles on Capitol Hill.

There are now three fairly well-defined factions in House and Senate - Truman Democrats, "Disciplinists" and "liberals," associated with the Rooseveltian Americans for Democratic Action.

The last group has had no real spokesmen at this session, although Senator Humphrey of Minnesota has tried to handle the assignment.

NEWCOMER - But in the newcomer, the so-called "liberals," who are not entirely satisfied with President Truman's performance (as against his verbal pledges), will have an appealing personality with a glorious name. They will undoubtedly try to make him their mouthpiece, their gadfly and their man on horseback. They will use him to prod and needle the White House and the relatively conservative, Democratic leadership on Capitol Hill - that is, if he will let them.

As members of both parties know from experience, the Rooseveltian group always has been political trouble-makers!

The first American "mint" was the glass factory founded at Jamestown, Virginia, about 1621 to make the handmade glass beads that were used to trade with the Indians. This "mint" was destroyed in the Indian massacre of 1622.

Some difference in the proportion of gases composing the air are observed at various places on the earth's surface.

Stalls. Although she is a beginning student, like the others, her work shows a meticulous attention to shades of color and composition that would rank her in a highly advanced category.

A still life of hers, in which the paint was applied with a palette knife instead of with a brush, is definitely of professional caliber.

Those students whose works were on display were: Bill Fraser, Bill Atkinson, LaHoma June Prescott, Nelda Swain, Betty Prescott, Nickie Lewter, Brenda Parker, Eddie Etheridge, Dickie Mauldin, Sylvia Grider, David and Bobby Luallier, Gaylon Lord, Joan Cantrell, Phyllis Burr, Carolyn Carver, Marsh Kay Monahana, Carol Hughes, Carol Rhea Miller, Carol Carnes, Janell Ewing, and Mrs. Stella.

Mrs. W. T. Fraser and Mrs. Crawford Atkinson served refreshments and Mrs. R. G. Hughes had charge of decorating the club rooms, but all the mothers of all the students gave valuable assistance in preparing the exhibit. Mrs. Lackey said.

Mrs. Lackey conducts afternoon classes at her studio, 608 E. Francis. Yesterday's exhibit from 2 to 6 p. m. was the third annual display of her students' works.

the city make up their minds to quit.

For two days they had held the bridges across Soochow Creek. And they held the big modern buildings that commanded the bridge approaches.

Their orders were to hold the bridges, to protect the Shanghai garrison's withdrawal to Woosung. Communist troops came and got them this morning. And the thousands of suddenly freed civilians - Chinese and foreign - burst out into what had been no-man's land for 80 dangerous hours.

In Broadway Mansions, arrangements were made by Henry Topper, an Austrian with International Refugee Organization, with the aid of his wife, Margaret, for Nationalist troop surrender. By telephone calls through Chinese interpreters they finally talked the handful of Nationalist machine gunners in the building into giving up.

"We had to convince them their officers had quit," Topper said.

Negotiations in the Embankment Building were even more complicated. They were handled by John Powell, American editor of the China Weekly Review, some other foreigners and some Chinese civilians.

FUNNY BUSINESS

"He never plays without him when caddies are not available!"

MARIJUANA

dered marijuana ready to roll into cigarettes, to an undisclosed white man in front of the Alamo Hotel on S. Cuyler. As the white man left—hurriedly—Rogers and Kyle chased him down the alley where they finally caught him. He had the marijuana in his possession.

Jordan and Probst followed McNeal into the hotel and picked him up for the sale of marijuana. McNeal signed a statement to officers implicating Samuels in the hemp business. McNeal also told officers the weed was being sent into Pampa where it was distributed to porters, and some shine boys.

At 3 a.m. on May 25 Samuels was arrested and brought to the County Jail where he told officers he owned the marijuana and had been distributing it for some time to "peddlers" who in turn sold it to their "smokers."

Another resident of the Flats, Joe McNeal, was held for 24 hours when the storage place of the marijuana was found to be in his garage. He was turned loose after officers learned he had little or nothing to do with the deal and proximity of his garage to Samuel's house.

That same day a narcotic agent was sent to Pampa by the Treasury Department from Fort Worth who took McNeal and Samuels into custody and transferred them to Amarillo where they were being released on bond this morning.

Federal charges against them are for the possession and sale of marijuana.

In summing up the case, Jordan said evidence so far shows, that "bigger spokes in the wheel" are yet to be broken, in what is believed to be a ring operating from New Mexico, through Texas and Oklahoma and stretching into Louisiana.

"We estimate they are selling at least $20,000 of the stuff every month in the Panhandle of Texas alone," Jordan said.

"At this time the big operator—or the hub of the wheel—is still unknown," the deputy continued, "but we do not consider the case closed."

Sheriff Kyle added:

"We have a couple of the bigger spokes now, but what we feared finally work its way into the schools and run, our kids half crazy."

Kyle and Jordan declared that a constant watch is being kept on the marijuana business here and won't be relaxed until every peddler in the county is "on the inside looking out."

One of the help held by the Sheriff's Office here was bought in Gray County, most of it with marked bills. The more complete details of the case are still being withheld by officers pending other expectant arrests in the near future.

Kyle concluded:

"We would have been unable to break through the wall this far if it had not been for the cooperation of the Rangers and a lot of our citizens that I can't name."

RITA-ALY

and Aly put on were of white gold. Aly reported to have given Rita a 32-carat diamond engagement ring but she was not wearing it.

The couple first met at a party on the French Riviera last summer. From then on it was an idyl covering half the world.

They visited Spain — Rita is of Spanish and Irish descent—the United States, Mexico and Cuba.

Rita caused a furor when she refused to make a picture ready for shooting in Hollywood and instead packed up and sailed with Aly to spend Christmas in Ireland.

From Ireland they went to London — then on to Switzerland for the winter sports.

Here Rita's daughter, Rebecca Welles, who had accompanied the pair on their travels, met the two boys who become her stepbrothers in today's ceremonies.

They were Aly's sons by his marriage to Joan Yardell, a British actress.

Rebecca's father is Orson Welles, American actor-producer. Before Welles Rita had been married to Texas oil-man Edward Judson.

A London newspaper denounced Rita as an "insult to decent women" and the motion picture chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs of America demanded a boycott of the redheaded star's pictures.

The glamorous couple — whose romance has attracted more attention than any since King Edward VIII quit the throne of Britain for Wallis Simpson — seemingly ignored the hullabaloo.

Afterward, at the Chateau, Rita said a Moslem religious ceremony will be performed later in Paris.

Asked about their honeymoon plans, Rita giggled and said they didn't want to talk about that.

The prince interposed:

"You can be sure that we'll hit London. I'm going to see the Derby."

The English Derby is June 4. The Aga Khan's horses have won four derbies.

EISLER

Germany, in the Soviet Zone of Leipzig. Presumably that is where he is going.

After almost two hours of argument in Bow Street Court — the only British court which can deal with extradition cases — Magistrate Sir Laurence Dunne rejected the American demand. He said the United States failed to prove that the fugitive Communist had been convicted of an extraditable offense.

The United States had contended that Eisler's conviction of falsification of passport information was tantamount to perjury, which is an extraditable offense in Britain. Eisler's counsel declared he was a political refugee, and not extraditable. The court held that Eisler's offense was not the same as perjury, and that he could not be extradited for the offense he had committed.

In his final, Sir Laurence said the whole case hinged on this: "Is what he was convicted of in America an extraditable crime in both America and here?"

"In my opinion," the magistrate said, "it is abundantly clear that in no circumstances whatsoever can that offense of which Mr. Eisler was convicted in America be brought under the technical head of perjury in this country."

The judge ordered Eisler freed.

Carruth to Head Show

Top o' Texas Hereford Breeders Association's annual barbecue picnic was held at Pampa, Sept. 1, it was decided at a joint meeting of the Hereford Breeders Association and Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee.

The site of the picnic has not yet been decided. Jake Hess, McLean, one of the directors of the association, will furnish the meat for the barbecue.

The annual show and sale will be held Feb. 13 and 14 at Recreation Park, it was disclosed at the meeting. Walter Birren, College Station, will again serve as auctioneer.

A committee, composed of Ray Kuhn, Ralph Thomas and Clyde Carruth, was appointed to arrange for the installation of a new set of portable scales at the barn.

Dues in the association will be raised from $5 to $10 beginning in 1950. Also, it was voted that for the next show and sale only cattle going through the sale will be allowed in the barns.

Reciprocal Trade Act had been first on the list, with ratification of the North Atlantic Charter second and the labor bill third.

Other measures on the Truman program include such items as a proposed $4,000,000,000 tax boost; compulsory health insurance, civil rights, social security expansion and farm legislation.

In his news conference, Mr. Truman said specifically he still wants the tax increase as a means of keeping the government's income even with its spending. But (D-Ark) to do the same thing he also said the Treasury is considering a plan by Rep. Mills by speeding up corporation tax payments.

There has been little inclination in Congress to raise taxes. And — despite the President's firm stand — administration leaders say privately there isn't much chance of passing many of the other Truman proposals this year.

WARREN'S WARMUP

QUESTION: What pitcher struck out the most batters in the total World Series in which he pitched?

JUNIOR BASEBALL: Many of the local junior boys have asked me to try and start a Junior Baseball League for them.

They could go out and try to make the new Pampa Sports baseball team, but the fear of being made ineligible for Interscholastic League competition has kept them from that. Therefore, they need their own league in which to play.

The American Legion, in cooperation with the Ford Motor Company, each summer conducts the American Legion Junior Baseball program. This year marks the twenty-second season for the program and it will offer more than 1,000,000 boys the opportunity for a healthful sport and the companionship they develop through competition in the game.

ANSWER: Charley "Red" Ruffing, pitching for the New York Yankees, fanned 61 men in 7 World Series. The series were in 1932-36-37-38-39-41-42.

ABILENE (AP)—Two lusty home runs and a double by catcher Mike Fedunick helped pave the way for a 9-3 Abilene victory over Berger in the series finale here last night.

NEW YORK (AP)—Two football brothers—Michael L. Kaplan, ex-Penn State end, and Bernard Kaplan, a lineman for Western Maryland and the New York Giants—both believe television will be a big help to pro football this fall.

NEWARK, N. J.—(AP)—Two New Jersey bowlers have rolled the two highest three-game series in the nation this season. They are Lou Campi of Dumont and Stan Niemiec of Rutherford.

Wedding in Mysterious Jungle at Midnight Suggested for Aly, Rita

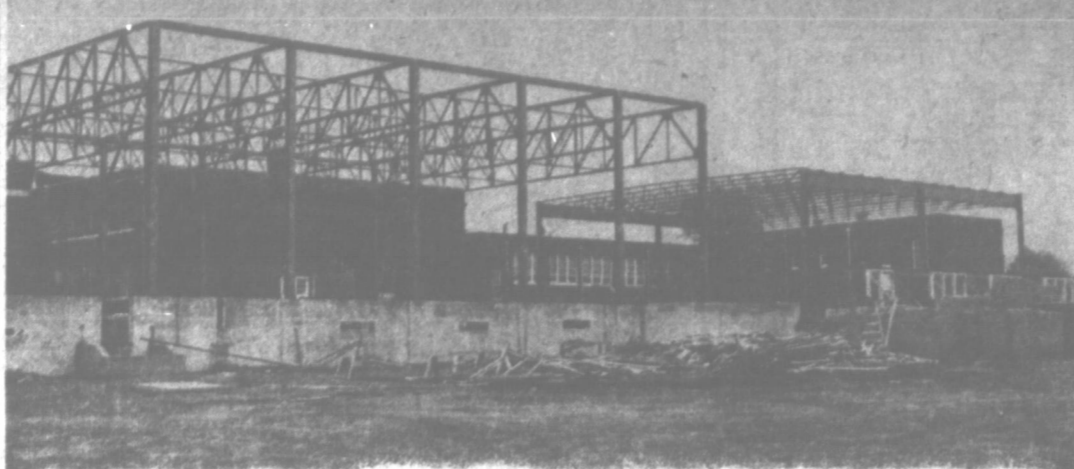

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — (AP) — There sounds the music of a thousand gongs.
It comes from an ancient temple standing in the middle of a clearing in a mysterious jungle. The time is midnight.
About the temple surges a vast crowd of 3,000,000 peasants.
There is the whim of a sudden leap and the thud of paw on flesh.
"E-e-e-e-e-e-w-w!" screams the victim as the tiger drags its prey back into the jungle. The crowd is now reduced to 3,000,000 but no one leaves. All eyes watch two six-lane roads that lead to the temple entrance. The roads are covered with Persian carpets 18 inches thick.
Down one road comes a procession of 999 elephants in a silk trappings. On the lead elephant, which wears a 369-carat ruby in its forehead, rides a handsome young man, clad in a cloth of purple gold.
It is Prince Aly Khan, descendant of the prophet. It is his wedding day and with both hands he casts out pearls and diamonds to the multitude.
Down the second road comes 999 dazzling white Rolls Royces. On a raised mink-covered throne in the first car sits a beautiful damsel in a robe of damask. Atop her red hair sparkles a simple emerald, as large as a pre-war loaf of bread. It is Rita Hayworth, the bride, attended by 998 cars full of borrowed peacocks and press agents.
The two processions meet. A shower of white wings comes suddenly out of the darkness. It is ten thousand trained doves. With tender beaks they seize Miss Hayworth's robes. In a soft tumult of wings they wait her to Prince Aly's side and his jeweled throne atop the elephant.

The giant elephant kneels. He puts out his trunk. Gently he lifts an old priest to his head. Sweeping his long white beard aside with a majestic air, the wrinkled priest intones:
"Dost thou, Prince Aly, take Rita to be thy wedded wife?"
It is thus that this potentate-to-be and his movie queen should be married. Only in this manner could they satisfy the worshipful subjects of each.
But what has happened to the mysterious East and Hollywood, both hit by hard times? The actions of these two glamor belts arranged to be married in a French city hall by a Communist mayor wearing a new blue suit. How bad can times get?

CHANGES—Perryton High School students will see some changes when they go back to their classrooms this fall. Officials have stated the structure will be ready for use when the 1949-50 term opens in September.

Red Cross Work Paralleled With Your Housework

"Red Cross work is very much like housework — if you don't do it today, you've got to do it tomorrow," Mrs. Mildred Hill, executive secretary of the local chapter of American Red Cross, told members of the Lions Club yesterday.

Also at that time an explanation will be given on how the Red Cross spends its money. Lions Club President H. P. Dosier read the Nominating Committee's report for club officers. He said the election will be held at the June 9 luncheon.

Dosier presented Vernon McVay, May Cub Lion, Scout of Troop 16, with an automatic pencil.

Introduced by Dr. Douglas Nelson, Mrs. Hill related an account of what Red Cross workers do. She spoke of the Social Welfare Agencies Organization which recently has been organized in Pampa. Representatives of the Department of Public Welfare, the County Welfare Court, the Salvation Army, the Red Cross, the Ministerial Alliance, the school principals, the county doctors and the law enforcement departments meet once a month to discuss ways Pampa can help solve problems of the respective agencies.

Frequently transient families come to Pampa and make the rounds of welfare agencies, trying to get assistance from each. The Social Welfare Agencies Organization discusses problems of various families so the agencies will be aware of the problems involved.

"We have between 25 and 30 transients weekly at the Red Cross office," Mrs. Hill said. "Where children are involved we try to be especially considerate."

She said the greatest responsibility of the Red Cross lies with the veteran, his dependents and men in the service.

"R. L. Matthews, Red Cross field director of the Veterans'

Rita Hayworth Is a Child of Show Business

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — What kind of girl is Prince Aly Khan marrying today?

She is a child of show business. Since she can remember, she has been aimed at stardom.

She is not an intellectual, but she has made strides in educating herself. During her marriage to Orson Welles, a friend once observed her reading a volume on geopolitics. She carefully circled the words she didn't understand and wrote the dictionary meanings in the margin.

She is a liberal. This also is the Welles' influence. During the marriage she lent her name to several liberal organizations.

She is not news-conscious, but she knows the value of publicity to her career.

She is a chain smoker, although she smokes little of a cigarette. She drinks only to her co-workers. She is loyal to her co-workers. Whenever they got in trouble with the studio, she tried to take the rap.

She has a sense of humor. Like many show business people, it takes the form of practical jokes. She is always beautiful. Publicity man George Lait once argued with Welles over drinks that she would be lovely even when waking up. They stalked up to her hotel room, roused her from a sound sleep and took a flash photo. Welles lost the argument.

For an earlier view of Rita Hayworth, I called on Laura Hollinshead Meyer, principal of her junior high school.

"I remember Rita as a roly-poly little girl with two long, black pig-tails hanging down her back," said the retired educator.

Miss Meyer admitted she never would have imagined that little Marguerita Cansino would some day marry a prince.

Administration, will discuss veteran claims and appeals at the annual Red Cross meeting at 7:30 p.m., June 6, in the City Commission Room, City Hall," she said.

Labor Head Promises Defeat of Sen. Taft

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — (AP) — AFL President William Green promises to muster "every ounce of strength" of labor to defeat "that outstanding reactionary, Sen. Taft" in 1950.

In his address Wednesday at the International Handbag, Luggage, Belt and Novelty Workers convention, Green also singled out for defeat Southern Democrats who "unite against labor."

New Program to Visit 'the 48'

Another new program bows in over KPDN tonight at 7:15, according to Ken Palmer, manager. The new show, "Flight With Music," stars Marion Hutton, famed singing star, with Nat Brunloff's orchestra, and an outstanding guest star on each program.

one of the 48 states. Each week, Marion Hutton and guest stars sing songs written about the states visited on the musical flight. Tonight's program will feature songs written about Georgia. Next week, Texas will receive a musical visit from the cast of "Flight with Music."

When you gotta stop — you wanta stop!

"It can stop on a dime," the salesman promised you, "—and leave nine cents change!"

And your Buick did—when it was new and brake linings unworn and everything factory-tight and fresh.

But brake linings wear—lights grow dim with time—tires can lose their bite and traction.

And with a whole summer's driving ahead, what better time than this to bring your Buick back to new-car peak in all those details that mean so much to safety?

Our men, trained in Buick ways, will give you brakes that stop you as Buicks should, with new brake linings that are right in size and brake drums turned to perfect round.

They can replace sealed-beam headlights to give you new-bulb brilliance—and while they're at it, check battery, voltage, wiring and headlamp-aim to boot.

They'll check tires, switch them as needed, look into wheel alignment for easy steering.

In a word, they'll renew your Buick with the same care and interest they would lavish on their own—and do it at no greater cost than for just ordinary service.

So drop in. Get set for some summer fun that's up to lively Buick standard.

Check your car— Check accidents!

Three great service and safety organizations across the country are alerting car-owners everywhere this month on safety-checking their cars.

They list ten vital question marks for you to think about—How are your Brakes? Lights? Tires? Steering? Wheel alignment? Defective glass? Rear-view mirror? Muffler? Windshield wipers? Horn?

Be sure your family rides in safety—ask your Buick service man to look over these check-points this month—and join the great drive for driving safety!
