U.S. Suddenly Delays Trial Of 8 Japanese

TOKYO — (AP) — The rush trial of eight Japanese accused of attacking American soldiers yesterday at a Communist rally was recessed shortly before midnight.

It will resume at 8 a. m. tomorrow (8 p. m. CST, Wednesday). The court abruptly changed its plan to "go right through the night if necessary."

The prosecution asked time to study motion pictures of the attack in the Imperial Plaza, when five U. S. soldiers were beaten, kicked and stoned.

Yells of 200 university students and workers demanding immediate release of the accused echoed throughout the courtroom late tonight. The court is on the fifth floor of the downtown Japanese police building.

About 100 Japanese police and some U. S. military police guarded the entrances. The students surged toward the entrances, then fled when police tried to nab them.

They returned repeatedly, shouting "how miserable the Japanese," "open the trial to the public," "release them immediately."

The eight Japanese pleaded innocent. They sat stiffly on a long bench through the evening. The only time they showed interest was when the prosecution introduced news pictures of the plaza skirmish.

More violence is expected. The Japanese government announced it would apologize formally to occupation headquarters if necessary.

General MacArthur's intelligence officer said he ordered the court to anyone at once because "we do not intend to permit any delay in the trial of people who defy or take action against Americans in uniform."

The officer, Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, said the rally was a "sort of test" by Japan's Communist Party. He expressed the belief there was "close coordination" (See U. S., Page 2)

South Korean Rule Members Trailing In Vital Elections

SEOUL, Korea — (AP) — Independents snowed under government members and party regulars as returns reached the two-thirds mark in South Korea's first self-conducted election.

With returns reported for 140 of the 210 National Assembly seats, the independents had taken 84.

The Korean Nationalists won 18 seats and the National Society 31. Both are supporters of President Syngman Rhee, who holds office for another two years.

The anti-Rhee Democratic Nationalists captured 12 seats. The election indicated primarily that South Koreans want new faces in their one-house legislature. It is not known how the independents will line up. Some are party stalwarts who failed to win nominations.

Voters disregarded warnings by Rhee that outlawed Communist party members might run under independent labels. In this sense, at least the election was a sound defeat for the administration.

Truman Nominates Air Undersecretary

WASHINGTON — (AP) — John A. McCone, Los Angeles business executive, was nominated by President Truman today as undersecretary of the Air Force.

A close friend of Secretary of the Air Force, McCone served as a member of the president's Air Policy Commission. Finletter was chairman of that group. He assisted in the drafting, particularly of the military phases, of the commission's "Survival in the Air Age" report issued Jan. 1, 1948.

Guill Planning Return Soon

Congressman Ben H. Guill began working against time today attempting to complete the three West Point appointments he is to make as representative from the 18th U. S. Congressional District of Texas, before leaving for Washington.

Pampa's national level lawmaker said he hopes to leave for the capital sometime late tonight or tomorrow depending on when he can wind up his military academy appointments. He will travel by air leaving Amarillo Air Terminal via Braniff to Dallas and flying direct to Washington from there.

Guill took advantage of the Memorial Day recess of Congress to kill two birds with one stone — visit his family and confer with Canadian River Dam committee members here on Sen. Watkins' (R-Utah) objections to the bill. The meeting was held Monday at the Schneider Hotel where the congressman agreed to a compromise with the Utah senator if the compromise does not mean the passage of new laws affecting the Sanford sited project.

While here, Guill also bumped into a colleague, Rep. Fred L. Crawford (R-Mich.) who is a native Texan. Guill said he will make the trip to Washington alone since he has no place yet to move his family. He is staying at the Congressional Hotel across the street from the House Office Bldg.

Panel Recommends Store Hour Change

Summer store hours recommended by the Merchant's Activity Committee of the Chamber of Commerce are 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on week days and 9 to 7 p. m. on Saturday.

According to E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the chamber, the hours have been recommended for merchants to follow beginning tomorrow through Sept. 4.

Wedgeworth explained that they were recommended only for those stores who ordinarily observe regular uniform store hours. It was pointed out by Frank Smith, chairman of the Merchant Activities Committee, that the hours are not recommended for stores with irregular hours, such as drug stores, service stations and others.

School Contracts To Be Let Soon

Contracts for construction of three additional units to Pampa elementary schools, may be let on July 16, Knox Kinard, superintendent of Pampa schools, announced today.

The expansion program will be applied to Sam Houston, Horace Mann and Woodrow Wilson elementary schools, the official said. All three will get auditoriums, and an average of four to six more classrooms. A new cafeteria will be built for Sam Houston school pupils, Kinard revealed.

Great Britain Balks At Resources Plan

Sen. Chavez Warns New Mexico About Canadian Compact

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — (AP) — Senator Dennis Chavez (D-NM) today warned New Mexico to be "on its toes" in negotiations with Texas and Oklahoma on the proposed Canadian River compact.

"Water is New Mexico's basic resource," Chavez declared. "We cannot be too careful in protecting that resource. Up to now, the Rio Grande, the Pecos, the Gila and the San Juan have only been common carriers for other states."

"Because I am water conscious since returning to New Mexico I have been consulting with technical experts of the federal government who tell me that we had better be on the alert and on our toes."

"The Canadian is the only river flowing into Texas where we can get some benefits if we are not as dumb as we were in entering the compacts on the Rio Grande, Pecos and San Juan."

The lawmaker said Ute Creek on the Canadian can make possible irrigation of an additional 35,000 acres in Quay County in Eastern New Mexico. He said irrigation of this land will mean more to Eastern New Mexico than all of the dry farming.

But, he added, "we will never irrigate that land if the water is allotted to Amarillo, Lubbock and counties in West Texas. I for one do not intend to agree to any compact with Texas or Oklahoma until we are assured that New Mexico will get sufficient water to irrigate the 35,000 acres in Quay County."

Nation Counts 547 Fatalities

(By The Associated Press) The nation today counted a staggering death toll — far above 500 — from violent accidents over the four-day Memorial Day weekend.

Millions turned to the highways for the season's first outing and traffic fatalities set a new record for the holiday.

A country-wide survey showed 547 violent deaths. There were 330 persons killed in traffic accidents; 92 persons drowned and 125 others lost their lives in a variety of violent accidents. These included airplane crashes, fires, falls, explosions and other mishaps.

The four-day total compared to last year's three-day Memorial Day unofficial figure of 413 violent deaths. Last year's total included 253 traffic fatalities; 87 drownings and 73 killed in miscellaneous accidents.

The council said the traffic toll was a record for Memorial Day but the previous high was not disclosed. The toll for the three-day Memorial Day holiday in 1948 was 404 and 504 for a similar period in 1947.

The council had predicted traffic deaths would total 290 over the four-day period — from 6 p. m. local time Friday to midnight Tuesday.

New Hampshire was the only state not reporting at least one violent death. California led with 40, Texas and Illinois had 39.

Speaker Indicates War Dead Neglected on Memorial Day

The Rev. Edgar W. Henshaw, pastor of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, spoke briefly at the Memorial Day services yesterday at Fairview Cemetery. The ceremonies paid tribute to American War dead. About 500 persons attended.

Rev. Henshaw said that those who pay tribute to the war dead should not neglect the living. He said that we must make this principle work for we can see no other way to accomplish the job of defense and at the same time get ahead with the constructive task of building a successfully add to the glory of their deeds. He continued, "to quote Lincoln, 'it is for us to live to be dedicated anew this day that those who died shall not have died in vain.'"

"I want to say to you today with all my soul that anyone who lives beneath that flag and subscribes to any of the ideas that gave all that we might have, all."

He revealed that Memorial Day was founded in the United States some 84 years ago. "Since that time, untold thousands have bled and died that you and I might walk erect and free upon the earth," he said.

The minister stated that originally this day was meant to be one of reverence, a day when we would put all else aside to pay tribute to those who gave their lives for their country. "Unfortunately," he remarked, "in place of this being a holy day — a day of remembrance — it has become a day dedicated to everything but respectful remembrance of those who died."

The invocation was given by Walter Reek, chaplain. Jones Setz, commander of the VFW, was master of ceremonies, with Sgt. Davis Brown as officer of the day.

The program was concluded with the blowing of Taps.

J. PARNELL THOMAS Appeals to President

Convicted Former Congressman Asks Presidential Pardon

WASHINGTON — (AP) — J. Parnell Thomas, former congressman convicted of padding his office payroll, has appealed to President Truman to free him from prison and cancel an unpaid $10,000 fine.

Under White House routine, the petition was sent to the Justice Department where a spokesman said yesterday that there has been no recommendation made on it. William H. Collins, who represented Thomas at his trial last December, told a reporter the petition was sent to the president "quite some time ago."

Thomas, a New Jersey Republican, was convicted of defrauding the government by putting on his payroll persons who did no work and arranging for them to kick back their salaries to him.

Sentenced to six to 18 months in prison and fined $10,000, he will become eligible for parole on June 6. If paroled, however, he still would be liable for the fine.

Collins says he understands Thomas is not able to pay the fine. In that connection, the government has been checking in an attempt to work out a settlement.

Thomas has been tending chickens in the federal prison to which he was committed.

Parker, Schaffer Seek County Posts

Two additional filings of candidacy were listed with the Democratic County Committee during the holiday weekend one for election and the other for reelection.

First to file for a place on the July 22 Democratic primary ballot was County Judge Bruce Parker who filed for reelection. He was unopposed so far.

Second to come in was E. C. Schaffer, who filed for the Precinct 2 county commission post. Schaffer served on the County Commissioners Court from Precinct 3 during 1932 and 1934.

He sought the post of Precinct 2 commissioner in 1948 but was defeated. He also ran for Ward 4 city commissioner in 1930 and was defeated by incumbent Fred H. Paronto.

His entry this year into the county commissioner race for Precinct 2 put that list of candidates up to four, half of the number in the last election. Others in the race are County Commissioner Bill Graham, seeking his second term; L. N. Atchison and Roy Sullivan.

New York Jury Cites Erickson

NEW YORK — (AP) — A New York County grand jury today returned a 60-count indictment against Frank Erickson, gambler, who recently testified before a Senate investigation that he netted $100,000 a year from gambling enterprises. He was charged with conspiracy and bookmaking.

The action was announced by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan. One count alleged conspiracy and the other 59 counts charge bookmaking.

The information charging bookmaking covers a 20 year period from 1930 to 1950, Hogan said.

More Rioting By Communist Youths Feared

HELMSTEDT, Germany — (AP) — Swarms of West German police reinforcements hurried to zonal border crossing points today, fearful of new rioting in the homeward trek of 20,000 Communist youths from the East Berlin Whitsum demonstrations.

Hostility toward the returning Communists was heightened by last night's rioting at Helmstedt, where civilians attacked a some 2,000 of the Communist youth, ripped off their blue shirts and burned the shirts in bonfires.

Heavy police reinforcements were sent into Luebeck, on the British zonal frontier, where 10,000 more Communist youths were expected late today. These will swell the ranks of 7,000 sitdown demonstrators at Luebeck who have squatted on the border since last night, refusing a state government order to undergo medical examinations. German police were stoned by some of the 7,000.

At Helmstedt, the main zonal border crossing point in the British zone, 600 Communists this morning cracked through the border crossing point after threatening police who tried to inspect their luggage. But they submitted to luggage inspection at the railway station, where most took trains to West German homes.

West German soldiers along the way hooped and jeered the Communists.

Townpeople in Helmstedt grabbed one youth and ripped off his Communist medals, but club-swinging police rescued him. Many in the crowd of West Germans cried, "Why don't you stay in the east zone?"

Luebeck police said between 2,000 and 3,000 policemen now patrol the 60-mile Schleswig-Holstein border line, charged with enforcing the order for medical examinations for all Communists returning from the huge but peaceful Whitsum demonstrations in Berlin.

Many of the police were mounted. Others patrolled with dogs. (See RIOTING, Page 9)

Contractor Ready To Install Cable For Traffic Lights

The big bill in construction of the city's new signal light system came to an end this week when 6,400 feet of seven-conductor cable was finally received by the Brooks Electric Co., contractors for the job.

The wire was ordered immediately after the contract was let and has been in the "shipping" stage for 60 days.

The company informed City Engineer Evans that all other equipment has been on hand for several weeks and the job should be completed by June 15.

All of the old equipment now in use is to be torn down and cleared away by the same date, Evans estimated this morning.

When the new four-poster system is installed it will cover 11 midtown intersections. The old lights will be distributed to four outlying sections. However, these will not be spliced in with the progressive controller system that will handle the new system. Fire engines and ambulances will have to go through the outlying signals on their sirens while the new system will have controllers in the fire station and police station that can throw every light to red in both directions until the fire engines or ambulances have passed.

Workers Return To Atomic Plant

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. — (AP) — AFL construction workers returned to their jobs on $250,000 worth of atomic projects today, apparently ending a week-long wildcat strike.

Police Chief W. T. Vettel reported the workers turned out in large numbers for the day shift following withdrawal of picket lines by Local 818 of the AFL Laborers and Hodcarriers Union.

"It looked like a normal force was going through the gates this morning," Vettel declared. "I think it is safe to say a majority of the workers are returning."

3 Retired Teachers Killed in Accident

GLENDALE, Calif. — Three retired schoolteachers, returning from a bird hike in the mountains, lost their lives last night when their car plunged from the highway into a canyon 600 feet below. Two other elderly women were injured.

Dead are Marian Biermeister, her sister, Grace Finner, and Alma Mason, all of Los Angeles and in their sixties. Critically injured was Ruby Curry, 68, Los Angeles. Less seriously hurt was June Pelham, 76, Los Angeles.

Sgt. Jack Miller of the California Highway Patrol said the car went off the road on a straight stretch, and theorized that the driver, Miss Biermeister, may have been blinded by the setting sun.

The women were members of the Southwest Bird Club returning from a bird study outing. Traffic on the mountain highway was blocked for several hours as officers, rangers and civilians brought the victims out of the canyon with ropes.

Beauty and the Bride

The smart bride shuns artificial make-up effects. Vaseline brushed on lashes (top left) gives eyes a glamorous silky fringe without risking smudges. To play up the natural glow of her skin, she uses a transparent lotion as powder foundation (bottom left). At last minute, she fluffs extra powder on nose and chin to keep down shine.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Probably on no other occasion is it more important to a girl to look her loveliest than on her wedding day.

If wedding bells will be ringing for you soon, a few tips from make-up experts experienced in helping brides look their prettiest may prove helpful. The day of the wedding is no time to be experimenting with new or unusual make-up effects. Keep your make-up simple, urge the experts. Same advice goes for the hair-do.

The bride's blush is no myth — happy excitement usually does heighten natural coloring. So go easy on rouge and deep-toned foundations. The experts suggest using a transparent foundation for powder which keeps down shine without covering up a flattering natural glow.

Light, clear reds for lipstick — either in coral or pink tones — are a better choice with delicate white veils and gowns than deep fuchsia or burgundy tones. A smart precaution is to brush on a clear fixative over lipstick so that color won't rub off on linen or the cheeks of well-wishing guests who want to kiss the bride.

Unless you have actually tested your mascara and know it is absolutely waterproof, better not take a chance on streaks and smudges should you shed a happy tear. You can give lashes a silky and luxuriant look by brushing on vaseline with a small-mascara brush. Give brows the same glossy treatment.

You'll want to have your hair done one or two days before the big occasion so that it won't look too set. As a rule, it's prettier not to have lots of little curls and ringlets clustering around your face, particularly if your head-dress is elaborate. To keep fly-away wisps in line, moisten a cotton pad with hair lacquer and smooth it lightly around the hair line.

At the last minute, after you are dressed and your veil is anchored in place, take two seconds to fluff an extra bit of powder on nose and chin.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — On May 15, 1930, a young woman walked into the office of Steve Simpson, San Francisco airline traffic manager, with an idea which was to create a new career for women and, therefore, jobs for thousands of girls.

She was Ellen Church, a registered nurse, who loved flying. She told Simpson she thought that passenger planes needed another person, in addition to the co-pilot, to take care of passengers and answer their questions. Simpson agreed but explained that they had not yet decided on the type of person.

"What about girls?" Miss Church asked. "Girls who are registered nurses?"

"That's it," Simpson said. "That's just the idea."

So Ellen Church was hired by United Airlines as the world's first airline stewardess. Air transportation was very different 20 years ago; it was not streamlined. The planes were chiefly single-engine, although some were lumbering, slow tri-motors. Most of the passengers flew on emergency trips only, to save time. The planes went through, not over or around, weather.

Ellen Church, although a stewardess she selected to pioneer with her, heated large pots of coffee, helped mechanics start balky engines, and slept on the floors of numerous small weather stations whenever the planes were grounded by reports of storms ahead.

In addition, they were instantly and heartily disliked by the pilots and co-pilots, who felt that a plane was no place for a woman. Miss Church had her first brush with a pilot on her second flight from Cheyenne to Salt Lake City. One of her passengers suddenly became ill. Miss Church asked the pilot to land at Rock Springs, and to radio ahead for a doctor. The pilot refused to delay the mail over what he felt was a simple case of indigestion. Miss Church assured him that it was acute appendicitis and that unless he landed she couldn't be responsible.

The pilot landed the plane at Rock Springs, where a doctor and ambulance were waiting. An emergency operation saved the passenger's life and the pilot changed his mind about the "sky girls."

From the original eight sky girls the idea has spread until there are 7000 stewardesses serving on air carriers all over the world. United alone has 675 stewardesses who handle five times as many passengers on each plane as did the first girls.

"I'll bet the girls flying the airlines today don't have as much fun as we did," Ellen Church says. "We'd get stuck at whistle stops in the Great Salt Lake area of Utah all the time. I'd be embarrassed when I had to take passengers over to the nearest railroad station for their meals. The railroad clerks always found it hilariously funny."

Ellen Church entered the Army Nurse Corps in 1942, served on evacuation squadrons in Africa and England, and later was on the Normandy beachhead shuttle to England. She wears the air medal under her air nurse's wings. At the end of the war she left flying and is now director of nurses at Sherman Hospital, Elgin, Ill.

First Husband of Duchess Succumbs

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — (AP) — A retired Navy commander whose first of four wives was Wallis Warfield, the present Duchess of Windsor, died here yesterday.

He was Earl Winfield Spencer, Jr., 61, World War I commander of the San Diego Naval Air Station and one of the Navy's pioneer aviators. He retired in 1930.

Six years after his graduation from the U.S. Naval Academy, he married Wallis Warfield of Baltimore. During their four-year marriage, they attended a ball in honor of the then Prince of Wales in San Diego — the first chance meeting of a couple whose romance later was to shake the British empire.

The Spencers were divorced in 1927. Mrs. Spencer charging desertion. Divorce also ended his marriages to Mrs. Miriam J. Spencer and Mrs. Norma Reese Johnson of Hollywood. He is survived by his fourth wife, Mrs. Lillian Phillips Spencer.

Services for Cmdr. Spencer will be held Friday in the Naval Air Station chapel. Military graveside rites will be in Ft. Rosecrans National Cemetery. He was a native of Kinsey, Kans.

Milk Inspector Attends Session

City Milk Inspector A. N. Thorne is back on the job after attending a week's schooling for milk sanitation personnel conducted by the State Health Department in Austin.

Commenting on the training in the milk inspecting field, Thorne termed it a "very profitable week."

Phases of the work included requirements on milk analysis, dairy inspection pasteurization, and other phases connected with the milk sanitation program.

Class work was conducted by Charles Barden and E. B. Palmer, under the sponsorship of the Texas Public Health Training unit of the State Health Department.

Let's Talk Things Over With Gabby Garrison

Well, we can't win forever. Last night's loss to the Lamesa Lobos, I'll admit, was a blow, but a few losses now and then are inevitable. But one thing that has been particularly notable about this year's Oiler team is their great amount of power at the plate that is not concentrated in any one group or place in the lineup. With seven men hitting over the 200 mark, and two over 400, the Oilers have shown, in their recent winning streak, that every man is dangerous. The power has been equally distributed in such a manner that it has been hard for the opposing hitters to make up their minds which way to toss to the Seitzmen. Some of the blows have come when least expected, like Mack Hyde's first circuit blow of the year last night. Just when Don Fetzer seemingly was over the rough spots, up came Deck Woldt, another usually consistent hitter, but not a long ball slugger. Deck crossed the right hander though by sending one over the boards, his fourth of the season.

I just can't see how our Oilers are going to remain buried in that second division. But one thing is certain, that no matter who is in the lower division, as things go now, they are still in fairly easy striking distance. Even the cellar dwelling Abilene Blue Sox are only six and one-half games out of the lead. That may seem like quite a few games, but just take a look at the other circuits. Ranging from the majors down through the minors, the bottom outfits are trailing by as many as 19 1/2 games, and none are closer than an even dozen out, that is, all except the Abilene outfit in our loop. For years, the W-T-NM league has been known as a pitchers nightmare, where hits are a dime a dozen and runs just as cheap. But even at that, the competition is keener than anywhere else, and the brand of ball played here is evidenced by the repeated W-T-NM victories over the East Texas winner in the annual Little Dixie series. The East Texas victor hasn't been able to capture a series in pre-war competition. That league has a 16 game margin between the two extremes.

Joltin' Joe Fortin dropped to a batting average of .412 in last night's contest, and was thrown into a tie for team laurels with George Payte. Payte hasn't played in either Lobo game, and in his last appearance against Lubbock he failed to hit in his lone appearance. But, on May 24, George raised his average 45 percentage points to a lofty .424, with three hits in four tries, against the Hubbers. Now, his .412 has earned him a tie for the lead with the Joltin'. This is the first time since May 19 that Fortin has even shared the honor. Up to that point, he and Virgil Richardson had swapped the title back and forth five times. "Big Rich" is currently hitting at a respectable .357 clip.

R. C. Oley's name was missed in this week's issue of the Sporting News—in the rundown of Southern Association batting averages. The diminutive hustler, who held down the keystone sack for the Oilers in 1946-47, had previously been listed as a .286 hitter. He was shifted to third base for Little Rock last year, and had been classed as a regular, taking part in almost every game. But at the beginning of the year, he was listed among the holdouts, missing spring training and even the first few games. But once in a "Traveler uniform," he had been publicized as "there he is now. It sure would be nice to have him back in this neck of the woods, but if the Travs had trouble meeting his financial demands, I can't imagine a Class "C" team paying the sum.

Incidentally, Alex de la Garza, fancy fielding shortstop of the Albuquerque Dukes in 1946-47, who was a teammate of Oley's in Little Rock last year, has been seeing action with Toledo in the Class AAA American Association. At last known point, Alex was hitting .226, and was seeing most service as a pinch slugger for weak hitting pitchers while dividing time with another shortstop, Al Bero, who was also hitting around the .290 mark.

Another former West Texas star, Danny Ozark, has been finding competition pretty rough. Danny, Abilene first baseman in 1946 (the same year another first baseman—Gordon Gadsberry—did all right with the Albuquerque Dukes) was playing a lot of ball for St. Paul, also of the American Association. Branch Rickey optioned Lou Limmer to the Saints, and as of May 23, the first sacker had ousted Ozark with 1573 hits. Limmer's fellow who broke his neck sliding into third base in a game in 1948 while playing in the Western Association. His experience and stint with the Western outfit is accountable for his nod over Ozark.

In looking behind the scenes, the news yesterday of the option of Ransom Jackson by the Cubs to a lower classification will be of interest to local fans following the advance of Bill Serena. Lubbock has another star of the future in the Borger club from Midland of the Longhorn League where he was out on option, Carnett said.

Five Records Are Smashed as Pitchers Pounded in Majors

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Memorial Day, 1950, will long be remembered by 83 punch drunk pitchers who were pounded for 40 home runs and shelled for 181 runs yesterday as the hitters went on the biggest single day batting rampage in baseball history.

An aggregate paid attendance of 284,326 who sat in on the doubleheader massacres at the eight big league ball parks saw the following records smashed:

1. Most home runs in both leagues on the same day—40.
2. Most runs scored in both leagues on the same day—191.
3. Most hits made in both leagues on the same day—333.
4. Most pitchers used in both leagues on the same day—83.
5. Most home runs hit in the National League in one day—24.

When the smoke cleared away, it was found that the New York Yankees had whipped the Boston Red Sox twice, 11-7 and 5-3, to increase their American League lead to three games over the Detroit Tigers. Detroit divided a pair with Cleveland, winning the second game, 5-2, after the Indians had won the first, 4-0.

Brooklyn replaced Philadelphia at the top in the National League, thrashing the Phils twice, 7-6 in ten innings and Brooklyn's Jack Santa. How Larry Jansen of the Giants got involved in yesterday's shenanigans is hard to figure. He was the only hurler to pitch a walkless game.

In all, only eight of the 32 starters were still around at the finish. Cleveland's Bob Lemon hurled the only shutout, a seven-inning effort. Art Houtteman, his losing opponent, also went the distance. Hal Newhouser joined Houtteman as the two Detroit route-goers by holding the Indians to five hits for his third straight triumph in the nightcap. Others to go all the way were Ken Raffensberger, Reds; Johnny Sain, Braves; Ellis Kinder, Red Sox; Bob Kuzava, White Sox; Bob Hooper, Athletics and Jansen.

Thirty five players slammed the 40 homers which topped the previous high of 32 set in 15 games on June 13, 1937. Two dozen were hit in the National, bettering the previous high of 20 hit on June 19, 1933. Duke Snider slammed three successive round trippers for the Dodgers. All came in the second game. The outfielder missed by four feet hitting four homers in a row. He got a single on a line drive just below the top of the right field screen.

The White Sox and Browns set a new American League record when they used 12 pitchers in the second game of their doubleheader. The Browns used five and the Sox seven.

Dick Weik of Washington walked eight batters in less than three innings. Brooklyn's Rex Barney walked six in two. The Browns' Ned Garver and Cliff Fannin also walked six as did Boston's Walter Masterson and

WHERE ARE THEY NOW? Pilot of Seabiscuit Still Booting 'em In

By BEN SMITH
AP Newfeatures

OLDSMAR, Fla. — Johnny (Red) Pollard, who piloted the mighty Seabiscuit to some of his greatest victories more than a decade ago, is still opening the eyes of racing fans with his daredevil riding.

Spectators at Sunshine Park here watched with amazement at the skill of the little fellow in booting his mounts through needle eye openings, during the recent meeting.

You'd think that after a score of years in the saddle and countless broken bones, Pollard would take the easy outside track once in a while.

But the records of Johnny's seven wins here are full of such official remarks as "slipping through on the inside" and "finding an opening and driving through."

The Butte, Mont., jockey had his best year in 1937, when he and Seabiscuit made an almost unbeatable combination. They won 11 of the country's major handicap tests and Seabiscuit's $168,580 earnings made him top money winner of the year.

Then Pollard broke a shoulder in a spill. By the time he recovered Seabiscuit had gone lame.

Many turf followers thought both horse and rider were washed up, but they made a triumphant comeback in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap in 1940. That win vaulted Seabiscuit into first place among the world's thoroughbred money winners.

It was their last big race together, for soon afterwards a fall sidelined Red for three years with a broken back.

Clawitter to Remain With Gassers as Full-Time Catcher

BORGER — (AP) — Ted Clawitter, 33, veteran Amarillo receiver and long time vet in the Texas League and Southern Association, will catch for Borger on a full-time basis, business manager Eddie Carnett of the Borger Gassers announced before game time last night.

He had been helping the Gassers while on a five day loan.

Release of Cuban born catcher Jose Abreu of the Gassers was announced concurrently.

Melvin "Windy" Eldridge, hard hitting rookie Gasser spring try-out camp product, is being brought back to the Borger club from Midland of the Longhorn League where he was out on option, Carnett said.

Cats May Hit Light But Still Leading Pack in Texas Loop

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Much has been made of Fort Worth's light hitting but hot fact remains that if the opposition can't get as many as the Cats there's little chance of overtaking them in the Texas League race.

Take last night: Fort Worth won its thirty-fifth game of the campaign 2-1, hitting with seven hits. But Tulsa, the victim, got only three.

Bobby Bragan, who manages the Cats and also does a lot of the catching, was the man of the moment again. He hit two doubles to drive in all the cat runs.

One-run defeats are all the vogue in the league this year. There probably are more than ever before. Last night's was Fort Worth's fifth one-tally decision over Tulsa in seven games.

Houston also is a one-run sufferer. The last-place Buffs have lost three games by one score in three nights. Last night they took a 3-2 trimming from Beaumont as Ernie Nevel kept eight Houston hits well-scattered.

It wasn't a one-run affair at Oklahoma City, however, as the Indians bounced Dallas 10-6 with 23 hits bouncing off the bats of both teams — Oklahoma City getting 13 of them. The Indians got six runs in the eighth to nail down the decision.

Bad Golf Is Played With Shoulder And Body; Good Game With Hands

By GENE SARAZEN
Winner of Them All

Bad golf is played with the shoulders and the body. Good golf is played with the hands. The golfer who aspires to a sound game must never forget that the hands are the generals.

If a player masters the correct grip, he will discover that it makes a correct stance second nature.

The two together, the correct stance and the correct grip, lead naturally and easily to a one-piece swing.

I stress the word naturally because that is the key to golf without tears.

Everybody has his own way of swinging a club when it comes to tiny mannerisms, just as he has his own way of walking and eating.

He will discover the swing best suited to him, should resist all the blandishments of professionals and lower scorers in their own likeness.

He will discover the grip and stance, hold for all golfers.

If these are right it follows that the player will naturally swing correctly.

NEXT: The hands, supplemented by the stance, take care of all the other coordinated phases of the swing.

NATURALLY—Henry Ransom illustrates. The correct grip makes a correct stance second nature.

Kleiner's Kotnet

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

From year to year there are many changes in the popularity of breeds of dogs.

This year, for example, Irish water spaniels were very popular at the Westminster Kennel Club's big show in New York. The result of the water spaniel shortage, of course.

Another breed less in demand than previously is the Chow-Chow.

Fanciers of those dogs are in a pickle.

Working dogs — such as col-

lies and German shepherds — are increasingly popular.

Observers attribute that to the high unemployment rate among humans. People aren't working, so dogs are.

Sad-eyed bloodhounds are at their popularity peak.

The rise of this breed is attributed to the discovery of plasmas.

Lovers of these big, gentle dogs are singing, unappily, "Mastiffs in de cold, cold ground."

There are fewer golden retrievers on the benches.

Economists feel that this has some relation to the gold standard.

Cocker spaniels are still high in public favor, but there are very few red cockers.

Two Killed in Lake Accident

SEATTLE — (AP) — The president of a Seattle construction company and his wife drowned in Ross Lake on the Skagit River late yesterday when their light seaplane crashed during a take-off, the state patrol reported. The victims, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Yanick, went down with the plane as it sank 80 feet below the surface of the deep lake created by the Seattle City Light's Ross power dam on the Northwest Washington river. Their two sons, Miles, 14, and Jay, 12, escaped without serious injury. Yanick was president of the Tower Construction Co., at suburban Lake City. Witnesses said Yanick had taken off from the lake and apparently saw he did not have enough altitude to clear the dam. As he attempted to circle to gain altitude the plane is believed to have hit a downdraft or had mechanical failure, plunging into the water.

Fair Enough - Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER... In the course of a year I receive about a hundred letters from persons who would like to settle in the warm southern part of Arizona.

...I met, a few days ago a woman who had come overland from New York State on a house-trailer...

...All the inquiries get around to housing and the problem of scratching a little living with reduced energies in a market crowded with sick or half-sick people and study-boys of high school and college age.

...The source of this information was the report of the State Tax Commission for 1946-48...

...The Arizona schools are said to be almost bankrupt...

...If anyone honestly thinks that the cause of healing, in any of its phases, would be advanced by what has been government domination of the nation's medical personnel and facilities...

...to be the best in the country but my authorities on taxation report that our per capita wealth is the lowest in the country...

...One friend of mine, his family being grown, got rid of his home and shackled up in a hotel...

...Near my place, a trail whips up a hill to a little group of new houses, some of them hand-made...

...The school tax is a cruel and inhuman tax...

...The owner of a large general store said: "People are afraid. Afraid of taxes. Afraid they aren't going to be able to make a living here."

...Those darn taxes on my house are about to eat me up...

...More than a dozen said they wanted officials in national and state public office who had enough influence in Washington to get federal appropriations...

Common Ground

By H. C. BOULES... Noted Educator Robert Hutchins Speaks on Universal Free Compulsory Education

I want to again state a remarkable and astounding statement made by Robert M. Hutchins, Chancellor of the University of Chicago in an article in the spring issue of the magazine "Measure."

"Universal free compulsory education has therefore failed in a much more serious sense than merely failing to produce the results expected of it. It has produced results exactly opposite to those hoped for. It has promoted the enslavement rather than the liberation of mankind."

"The most remarkable paradox of our time is that, in proportion as the instruments of communication have increased in number and power, communication has steadily declined. Mutual intelligibility is probably a rarer phenomenon now than at any time in history."

"The task of intellectual leadership in our time is to bring about a genuine communion of minds. But this is still the age of discovery. It is, therefore, still the age of the individual thinker, of the specialist, and, as a consequence, it is the age of the digest, with all its incoherence and triviality that must characterize such an age."

"If then we ask how the American university can repeat the brilliant leadership of the University of Paris, America university of that leadership is to bring about a genuine communion of minds through the restoration of the conditions of conversation, we run at once against the fact that in the speculative realm the American university is chaotic, that in the practical realm it is silent, and that the two realms are sharply divided from each other."

"A genuine communion of minds is relatively easy to reach when the men involved view themselves as members of the same spiritual family and use a common language to impart to others the sacred fundaments of truth."

"If this discussion has not failed in its function, it is to bring to the attention of a general public that an intellectual community can be formed when men can understand one another. In such a community, men, even if they disagree, should be able to relate what they are thinking to what others are thinking or have thought on the same point and on all points connected with it."

"The other third is owed to the manufacturer who has been stuck for varying sums of $100,000 or under. There is no known list of these creditors in the U.S. now."

"The small business firms probably won't let themselves get around again. And the big banks probably won't let themselves get so deeply involved. But the big manufacturing exporters will probably be right back in there, doing business at the same old stand and in the same old way, in very short time."

"Another third of the debt is owed to U.S. big business firms. Most of the well-known names are represented - International General Electric, Westinghouse, Ford, General Motors Export and so on."

news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER... WASHINGTON - Almost every trail so far uncovered by national, state and local investigators of syndicated crime points toward Frank Costello of Park Avenue, New York City.

Costello's political activities will also engage the attention of the Kefauver Committee under the terms of the Senate resolution, which authorized it to find out why national organized gangs can plunder the public and commit crimes without any hindrance by local authorities.

As a result, Tammany Hall may suffer from a raking - over such as it has not winced under since Tweed and Croker days.

It may be that New York will share the sinister limelight of inquiry along with Kansas City, where both survivors and rivals of the old Pendergast crime-and-politics-machine are now under fire.

FRIENDLY - Costello has long had friendly relations with Democratic politicians, officials, judges and hangers-on in Manhattan.

Despite Mayor O'Dwyer's supposed cleanup of the hall, the racketeer was reported to be on good terms with the new leader, Carmine G. De Sapio, and numerous district bosses. He has also been host to Hugo E. Rogers, prominent Democrat, and borough president of Manhattan.

When Senator Kefauver begins open hearings, they may be summoned to tell of their relations with the gangster. Even Mayor O'Dwyer himself may be called.

TIMING - Senator Kefauver's timing of open hearings on criminal and political operations in such centers as New York City, Kansas City, Chicago and California may have a definite and possibly anti-administration effect on next November's important state and congressional elections.

Should the testimony tend to link the underworld with party and City Hall rulers in these places, where the Democrats are generally in control, the candidates for President Truman's western speeches as "political immorality."

HEARINGS - Numerous senators likely to suffer have tried to ascertain whether the young senator expects to open the doors and the record to the public and the newspaper reporters during the summer or early fall. They would prefer that he defer actual hearings until after the elections.

Friend - Today, he has not been able to give them any satisfaction. He does not yet know whether the vast work of preliminary investigation and examination will permit him to provide headlines and "hot copy" before November. It is generally believed that he can, if he and fellow-committee members are willing to work through the humid summer months.

Bid For A Smile... A trooper was flying away without much luck on the camp rifle range. His shooting was way off, the bullets going nowhere near the target. A top sergeant stood by, endeavoring to control his anger. "There are your shots going, huh?" he bellowed. The trooper looked up and smiled. "I don't know where they're going," he said, "but they're certainly leavin' 'em with a bang."

Guilt to Make Weekly Report To Citizens of the Panhandle

(Eds. Note: The following article was received from Congressman Ben Guill, Pampa, with the following comment: "I am a Democrat.")

It occurred to me that a weekly, informal, non-political report to the people of the Panhandle from their congressman would be a useful service in keeping folks informed as to what is going on in their office in Washington.

I shall send a similar column to you each week. I hope you will find space to run these reports. I would appreciate your comments and suggestions.

BEN GUILL, M. C. 18th District, Texas

Congress took a recess on Thursday, May 25, for five days, to allow the Senate to catch up with it.

I welcomed the recess because it allowed me to fly back to the Panhandle and confer with the folks back home on the Canadian River Dam.

Another reason for my brief trip home was to interview personally the boys from the Eighth Congressional District who want to go West Point. A congressman has a certain number of appointments to the Naval and Military Academies each year.

The Army is very anxious to have the quota filled, and the boys are chosen. Charlie Gibson, of Amarillo, the district commander of the American Legion, has been very helpful in making recommendations. So has the VFW and, of course, the Cal Farley performance of great service when he recommended Earl LeRoy Smith, a graduate of Boy's Ranch and currently a student at Texas A. & M.

I have already appointed Earl to West Point and I feel certain he will perform well. He will be a credit to Boy's Ranch.

The first ten days in Washington were busy. Since the Panhandle had been unrepresented in Washington for six weeks during the election, there was a great deal of back talk in the office. Then, of course, there are the letters which must go out, besides the routine jobs of a congressman. I have retained Judge Worley's staff and they are loyal, hard-working girls who have been performing a job done by those mentioned.

I have also brought Mrs. Lillian Kelley, of Pampa, one of my former students, up as a member of my staff.

This business of being a congressman can be very complicated. The other side wanted to stick my ear in during a debate on the floor, so I was advised to use the device of asking permission of the Chair "to strike out the last word." I didn't quite know what that meant, so I looked it up in Cannon's "Precedents" in the House of Representatives, the congressman's bible. It described the process as a "pro forma amendment, not in order as amendment of amendment as it is an amendment in the third degree."

Incidentally, the House meets in the Capitol, which is a quarter of a mile from the Executive Building, and connected by an underground subway. One day last week there were about five quorum calls at a time when I was conferring in my office on several aspects of the Canadian River Dam so I spent the afternoon on the run back and forth. I was mighty glad I used to run the mile at West Texas State College. I hadn't realized that a congressman gets so much exercise in the performance of his duties.

The Senate, incidentally, has a little electric car, which I took like a scenic railway gondola, on which the senators can travel back and forth from their office building to the Chamber.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, MD. WRITTEN FOR NEA

Chronic fatigue is one of the most common complaints in modern society. Nearly everyone from time to time becomes tired and loses all zest for work or play. The cause is usually not hard to find - excessive work - for too long a period, lack of sleep, dietary indiscretions or some similar fault of living. The remedy lies in correcting the cause - or at least not doing it again.

This kind of fatigue, however, is not much of a problem. That tired feeling which is chronic and persistent and the cause of which cannot be easily identified is much more serious. This type of fatigue is particularly common among housewives, many of whom are constantly exceeding their strength.

The strain of children cannot be pinned down on any one event nor is it easy to remedy - after all what can one do about it? There are other factors besides children which enter into chronic fatigue. Inability to relax or play, difficulty in getting away from the problems of every-day life, lack of sleep, a poor diet, and just plain too much to do are the most common.

Sometimes a diseased condition is at fault. A slight anemia, for example, can and does produce lack of customary energy. Any chronic infection or almost any disturbed bodily function is also likely to produce that tired feeling. Carrying too much weight, flat feet and innumerable other body conditions tend to produce excessive fatigue or to make that tired feeling worse.

Of course, if a definite disease condition can be identified, it can usually be remedied. This is the first step in combating fatigue. Should nothing be found, then it becomes necessary to analyze and study various factors such as those mentioned. The proper balance between work, recreation and sleep has to be worked out. Change of occupation is not often recommended because it usually is not possible. Many people need to learn how to relax when they have the chance. The adoption of a balanced diet with plenty of vitamins is beneficial when the abnormal fatigue is at least partly due to faulty diet. Stimulating drugs are dangerous and should not be used unless upon a physician's advice.

Everything which can be remedied should be, including such factors as too much smoking, too much alcohol, poor diet and the like. In far too many cases there is little to be found and perhaps even less which can be done about it.

Many scientists classify this as an era of electronics, successor to the industrial turnover that came in the previous decade.

Produce More, Live Better

Americans produce more and live better than any other people. And one reason for that is the American practice of using improved machinery.

More jobs, better paying jobs for men and women in every line of enterprise.

At the same time, an essential part of this process of living better by producing more is economy in the use of manpower. This means putting men to work on jobs that are better and that waste their labor on useless and unnecessary tasks.

However, some labor groups are taking a short-sighted stand that is the opposite of that sound principle. The recent disturbances which have disrupted traffic and the size of crews needed to operate diesel locomotives is a particularly good example.

The union's demand was a "make-work" scheme, pure and simple. It would serve no useful purpose. It would waste highly skilled and highly-paid labor. It would add greatly to the cost of running the railroads, and the bill would have to be paid by everyone who rides a train or ships goods by rail. It is a good thing for the nation that the union at last withdrew its unreasonable demand.

Where'd You Rather Be?

The Wall Street Journal recently took an unusual approach to the problem of socialized medicine. It pointed out that when new "miracle" drugs - such as the sulfas, penicillin, cortisone, and so on - are first discovered their cost is extremely high. Then the detractors of American enterprise say, "Socialized medicine would do wonderful things but the private capitalistic system is keeping them out of the reach of the people. So we ought to have socialized medicine or government pill subsidies or government planning or whatever the speaker's pet project is."

However, the paper went on: "These misty-eyed socialists quickly drop the matter as soon as the chemical industry has cut the price to a level where it can be sold wholesale for $20 a 'dose' and

Washington.....by Peter Edson

WASHINGTON - (NEA) - Washington is getting awfully palsy with Peron these days. A group of Argentine journalists is visiting the U.S. The Argentine chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Victor J. Majo, is touring the country at the U.S. government expense. And then there was this matter of a $125,000,000 credit granted to a combination of Argentine banks by the U.S. Export-Import Bank with some gentle urging by the U.S. State Department.

Effect of this loan has not been good in other parts of Latin-America. It has created the impression that the way to get a loan from Uncle Sam is to go bankrupt. It may cause political upsets in Ecuador and Uruguay. And the Chileans, who have been the real solid co-operators with the United States, are openly expressing their disgust.

...The story of one American official who was asked to cable to his headquarters a copy of the Bank of Argentina's statement. His reply was that it wasn't worth the cable tolls.

...The biggest catch in the Argentine ledger is that not a cent of the money is going to leave the United States. This point has not been clearly understood.

...What the Export-Import Bank has really done is not to bail out the Argentine, but to bail out the U.S. banks and big and little business firms who have tried to do business with Peron.

...Best estimates in Washington are that the Argentine has $108,000,000 worth of commercial debts in the United States. In addition, there are about $30,000,000 worth of Argentine government debts to London & South America and Royal Bank of Canada are in for lesser amounts.

LONDON SILVER MARKET PROVES "GOLD MINE" — Under this unimpressive mass of rubble of a bombed out safe-deposit building in London lies a fortune in silver. It's a thriving market for antique silverware. The unique business, which took over the unbombed strong rooms, has become a top attraction for American visitors to London because the devaluation of the pound has made British antique silver a "good buy," and no duty is asked on items made before 1850.

New Mexico Seeks Formation of Control Organization to Regulate Rain-Making

By ROBERT A. BARNES
SOCORRO, N. M. — (AP) — Citing drought and flood perils from haphazard rain-making attempts, New Mexico has set up what is hoped will be the first link in a regional control network.
The state, through its Economic Development Commission, has agreed to finance a $7,000 water development program. More money is promised after Sept. 30 if the project by the New Mexico School of Mines is successful.
The plan is two-fold:
1 — To study cloud-seeding techniques.
2 — To seek new underground water supplies.
Robert McKinney, chairman of the commission, emphasizes the main goal is to learn more about making rain. Any rainfall in parched New Mexico during initial phases will be incidental. The action came after Dr. Irving Langmuir expressed belief that wildest attempts to bring rain are making the drought in the Southwest worse.
Dr. Langmuir is the Nobel Prize scientist who has done much of the ground work in the new field of weather control with the General Electric laboratory at Schenectady, N. Y. He condemned what he termed indiscriminate cloud-seeding.
Declaring it is much easier to prevent rain than to cause it, Dr. Langmuir said overuse of silver iodide may have caused clouds to pass over New Mexico and other southwestern states and drop their moisture in unusual amounts in the Mississippi Valley. He noted that this theory has not been proven.
His views are supported by Dr. E. J. Workman, president of the School of Mines, and S. E. Reynolds, head of the school's thunderstorm laboratory.
The three have conducted numerous experiments in Central New Mexico. They agree that more harm than good is resulting from indiscriminate use, mostly in the Southwest, of silver iodide generators.
They believe the time is near when rain-making tests should be coordinated. McKinney expressed hope that other states will establish similar projects in an effort to reduce wildcat experimentation. He envisions eventual organization of a regional setup similar to the Interstate Streams Commission.
As a first step, McKinney has invited rain-makers to a meeting at the school's laboratory June 2. Effects of uncontrolled seeding will be explained and an appeal for coordination made. He said about a dozen separate rain-making projects are under way in and around New Mexico.
Final agreement on New Mexico's pact, taken with full support of Governor Thomas J. Mabry, was reached at a conference Saturday.
Dr. Langmuir sat in on the meeting as did Dr. Edward Condon, director of the Bureau of Standards in Washington.
Silver iodide is burned on the ground and carried aloft by air currents. Dr. Langmuir said some rain-makers are using "hundreds of thousands of times too much" of the chemical.
Some are using half a dozen iodide generators for many hours at a time. He said. He and Dr. Workman find one generator used for short intervals is sufficient.
Dr. Langmuir declared only one milligram should be used per cubic mile of air. More than that, he said, creates too many ice crystals and they won't grow in the desired snow-balling pattern to produce rain.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Keep Eye on the Discards
JACOBY ON CANASTA—
By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
When you have played Canasta once or twice, you will find out that you must pay a lot of attention to the discards of the player at your left. From those discards you can find out a great deal about the nature of his hand. This will help you discard in such a way as not to give away the pack.
While you are watching the discards of the player at your left, don't forget to note what is done by your partner. Careful attention to your partner's discards may make a tremendous difference in your score.
For example, the other night I sat behind a player who needed 120 points for his initial meld. The opponents had already melded aces and several other denominations. The hand had progressed to a point where it was clearly up to this player to meld since it was very unlikely that his partner could.
He held, after the draw, three aces, two jacks, two nines, two deuces, and three odd cards. The question was how to meld 120 points.
It was important to put the deuces on a meld that would soon develop into a canasta. Otherwise the opponents would keep on melding and the hand would be disastrous.
Since the opponents had already melded aces, there was no point at all in melding deuces with the aces. The player considered putting one deuce with the jack and another deuce with the nine. This seemed dangerous, since it would mean melding nine cards. He therefore decided to put both deuces either with the jacks or with the nines. The question was, which?
He decided to put down the two jacks with the aces. The decision led to disaster. He and his partner never succeeded in melding a canasta. Meanwhile, the opponents ran wild and melded practically everything in the deck.
This was not a bad guess — it was bad judgment. If the player had paid attention to his partner's discards, he would have noted that his partner had already discarded two jacks but had never discarded a nine. At the time that he melded, his partner held no jacks but three nines.
If he had melded the deuces with his pair of nines, his partner would have made a canasta immediately. They would have managed to meld out in short order, and would have broken even instead of losing over 4000 points on the hand.
Q—Are you compelled to use the top card of the discard pile when you take the pile?
A—Yes. Whenever you pick up the top card of the discard pile you must meld it immediately. There are no exceptions to this rule.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Detroit Utility Strike Looms; Talks Slated

DETROIT — (AP) — State mediators Wednesday will seek to head off a threatened strike by approximately 4,500 Detroit Edison Co. employees.
Local 223 of the CIO Utility Workers Union Monday set 11 p. m. Sunday for the walkout, unless an agreement is reached.
State Mediator Philip Weiss immediately summoned both the company and the union to a Wednesday conference.
In dispute is a wage boost under an agreement reached last July 14. The union claims it is due a four and a half percent raise; the company offers four percent.
Martin J. O'Dell, local president, said that the company refused to arbitrate.
H. B. Tyree, Edison spokesman, denied this and said "we are perfectly willing to submit the formula to arbitration and let an impartial figure what we should get."
Under the July 14 pact, the company agreed to pay a wage increase equal to the average of pension fund contributions granted by the Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp.
The two motor firms then were carrying on pension negotiations. O'Dell charged that the company failed to live up to the formula, saying "our actuaries determined that we should get a 4 1/2 percent raise."
He declared that the increase demanded would raise pay an average of 7.7 to 8.2 cents an hour. The present pay scale averages $1.65 an hour.
The company's offer, O'Dell said, was equal to 6.9 to 7.2 cents an hour. Tyree estimated the difference between the two at approximately one cent an hour.

Two Children Dead in Blast

DETROIT, Mich. — (AP) — A boy and an eight-months-old baby died and a young mother was critically burned in a flaming explosion that leveled a home on Detroit's west side last night.
Dead are Stanley Gately, Jr., 8, and his niece, Laura Ann Anders, eight months. The baby's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Anders, was reported near death at a hospital. They were alone.
Mrs. Anders, found 50 yards from the wrecked brick home, told officers that she had gone to a basement recreation room to make coffee, and had just lighted a small gas stove when the explosion occurred.
Arson squad Detective Sgt. Hobart Harris said the blast must have been caused by a gas leak.
Leslie Lloyd, 27, who lives four blocks away, said the explosion shook houses all over the neighborhood.

Wilbur Peeble Hates Waiting For Summer Thaw to Begin

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — (AP) — Wilbur Peeble came home the other night and said briskly:
"Hello, Hon. When'll dinner be ready? I'm hungry as a grizzly bear."
His wife, Trellis Mae, looked at him sternly and replied:
"Wilbur, you forgot something. You go right back out that door and come in again."
So Peeble went outside — and then he remembered. Annoyed, he came back in and gave his wife a kiss-peck on her ear, a custom he sometimes wished he hadn't started on their honeymoon 15 years before.
"That's better," said Trellis Mae.
"I still want to know how long it'll be before dinner."
"Dinner will be ready as soon as I thaw it out — and heat it up again."
"What do you mean — thaw it out?" grumbled her husband.
"What are we having — icicles?"
"Something good — frozen steak, frozen peas and carrots, iceberg lettuce salad, and frozen strawberries for dessert."
"Frozen this, frozen that — what am I, a man or a refrigerator?" demanded Wilbur.
"Now, don't be angry dear!" Wilbur stormed over to his favorite chair, and shook open this evening newspaper.
"A man works hard all day at his office, he comes home to eat, and what does he find?" said Wilbur.
"He finds his wife sitting in the living room waiting for the dinner to thaw out in the kitchen. My father never had to twiddle his thumbs while his dinner melted. Mother had it there — hot and ready."
Trellis Mae came and stood over him ominously.
"Don't start telling me again about how your mother used to cook over a hot stove. Your father had ulcers at 40 from eating all that greasy fried food she served him."
"My father didn't have ulcers until he was 43," said Wilbur.
Trellis Mae muttered something that sounded like, "Oh, dry up, Junior," and went back to the kitchen. Wilbur could hear her beating the thawing steak with a wooden mallet.
"A man gets tired of all this pre-heated, vitamin-stuffed, pre-frozen, dehydrated stuff that passes for food," he said. "It's everything but pre-digested, and I suppose they'll get to that next. I'm tired of being treated like a chemical formula."
"You eat better than your father did," barked Trellis Mae.
"What's wrong with frozen food?"
"Nothing," said Wilbur, getting up and going into the kitchen. "I just get tired of waiting for the summer thaws to set in. Give me an icestick. I think I'll hack off a snack now to keep from starving."
"You will not, smart alec!" said his wife. "Now you get out of my kitchen, and be still."
An hour later, groaning and patting his stomach Wilbur got up from the dinner table and started back to his easy chair.
"How was the meal, dear?" asked Trellis Mae.
"Wonderful, wonderful!"
"Before you sit down will you run across the street to the grocery store for me? I forgot something."
"Sure. What do you want?"
"Some frozen orange juice for your breakfast," said Trellis Mae brightly.
"Yes, dear," sighed Wilbur. "But please, please, no powdered eggs."

The LONESOME BRIDE
 By Grace Nies Fletcher

THE STORY, when Gloria Brown heard her mother, Mrs. Benoni, to show her how to make up her mind, she decided to be the afternoon. The Benonis appeared and Gloria and her husband, Miltiades, the son of a Boston college professor, discover a dead man in the dumbwaiter. The police arrive and also discover the body and Gloria and Miltiades seem to be under suspicion from Lieutenant McGann of homicide.

"I'm getting mixed up. I thought it was he who was knifed!" Gloria murmured.

The lieutenant nodded unhappily. "He was. And you are not the only one who is mixed up, because we have been watching the Benonis and now they are gone and the emeralds are gone—and so is Jack the Cork. It could be the Benonis killed him themselves, before they skipped with the jewels."

"Using my knife and getting him neatly delivered on our dumbwaiter," Miltiades commented bitterly. "Why did they pick on us for the fall guys?"

"If they did," the lieutenant amended gently, getting up. "After all, it was your knife and ownership of the murder weapon..." He left it at that, asking, "You say you work at 194 Broadway?"

"I," the lieutenant told her, "am asking the questions around here, young lady. Since when did the Cork become a delivery boy? Give."

So she told him about the hat from Ariadne's, how the lock had slipped on the bathroom door—maybe and maybe not—and how upset Mrs. Benoni had been when her husband phoned about something on page 7 of the newspaper, which McGann read avidly when she showed it to him.

"Crazy, Stand, Gordon—Lofty Gordon! That'd be him. He was paroled yesterday and we were expecting trouble but not so soon. Jack the Cork was a member of the Benoni gang and Lofty used to be. But something happened,

"I am far from all right but I'll do something about it at once," Gloria said, making a rueful face at her disheveled self in the mirror. "I feel like the leper in the Bible, 'Unclean, unclean!' I shall burn everything I have on in the incinerator. Is there any reason why we should not go to Jones' Beach for a swim when Miltiades gets back? I should like to get out of here."

"Go ahead," the lieutenant told her. "But don't get excited if you spot someone following you. Checking on you, yes, but more for protection."

THE door closed behind them and, for the first time in her married life, she was glad to get rid of her husband because she wanted to think. It was all her fault Miltiades was in this predicament, fantastic and unbelievable as it was so it was up to her to get him out. If she stuck to the principles pocket into her along with her spinach in early childhood, not to speak to strange people even in church, she'd never have been mixed up with jewel thieves and murderers.

Not that Gloria had been brought up as a snob. Hadn't she brought a typewriter for three years after her big coming out party at Hampshire House? True, her father, Colonel Perkins, had had to have lunch with Prof. John Nemo Brown before she was allowed to take the job, which at the time had seemed extremely stuffy and which now seemed sane, and very healthy—a lot healthier than having to be trailed by a plainclothes man because maybe she knew too much and maybe the same unpleasant thing could happen to her as to Jack the Cork.

"I'd better go get some food for a lunch to take to Jones' Beach," she decided sensibly. She and Miltiades could stay till the moon rose and it would be all romantic and silvery.

"Okay, Thank you, but I'll take

Enlarged Disposal Facilities Called Excellent by Engineer

By HENRY S. GORDON
City Engineer Ray Evans reported that the newly enlarged disposal plant has completed its test period and is considered "excellent."
It was put to its working test a week ago and has been in operation since then with minor adjustments to meters and various mechanical fixtures still to be finished. The plant, he added, has been running continuously since Tuesday and will probably be accepted on June 6 by the City Commission when the final payment will be made on the $128,000 project.

location is still to be worked out by the engineer.
Sewer lines have been laid in all sections of the city, except in the newest additions and contemplated additions that have yet to be brought into the city. The footage to be laid there runs to 3,000 feet, Evans estimated.

Continued Attempt To Keep City Clean Urged by Inspector

Pampa's cleanup campaign has ended, but some pointers on ways of maintaining a clean city have been issued by R. M. Mundine, Jr., city health inspector.
All owners and residents of structures within the corporate city limits of Pampa, said Mundine, must provide sufficient barrels and other receptacles to hold all trash material that will normally accumulate from one collection date to another.

For those with liquid garbage materials, Mundine urges the use of receptacles of from 10 to 30 gallon capacities.
For dry types of trash and wrapped garbage, the cans should be of galvanized metal, designed to hold not less than 10 nor more than 70 gallons. Proper lids should always be used, the health official emphasized. He added that the container, and its contents together should weigh not more than 75 pounds.
In the interest of public health, he said that all residents should keep lids tightly fastened on containers so that flies and other insects may not have access to them.

On the other hand, shipment of electrical starters and breakers to be located at the enlarged S. Hobart Pump Station have held up completion on that job. When those items arrive and are installed the extended water system can be thrown into full operation.
But even with completion of that project, the city's water and sewer problems cannot be tagged "final."
Still to be done is the installation of fireplugs in The Flats and the Carr-Terrace Addition. There, water pressure is still low and loop lines will have to be laid to raise the pressure. Other sections, including the Talley and Wilcox Additions, also have low water pressure and have to be fitted with loop lines to build it up. Under present conditions there are too many dead end stubs in the water system, Evans said.

The city now has 15,000 feet of six and eight inch cast-iron pipe on hand for the project. It also has the fireplugs, obtained from the Dalhart Army Airfield last year.

One of the first loops to be installed will be in Carr-Terrace where the line will start at Starkweather and Louisiana circles to the Municipal Swimming Pool and the into the main line on Jordan. Two fireplugs will be set up inside that loop when the job gets underway. Three other plugs are to be installed in The Flats when an extension loop is laid in that section. Similar work is to be done in the other two sections, but is not expected to be completed before summer of 1951.

But with this water service extension the city still needs construction of a half-million gallon overhead water tank in the northern end of the city. Its exact location is still to be worked out by the engineer.

As a climax to the cleanup campaign, Mundine declared, an all-out battle against polio will begin. "Weather permitting," he said, "Pampa's fog spraying machine will cover the entire area, including garbage cans, ditches, alleys, vacant lots and the city garbage dump."

Feud Between Two Brothers In Alabama Ends in Slaying

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP)—A feud between two brothers brought death to the older yesterday even as he hurried to prevent the slaying.
"It was kill or be killed," said Neal Singleton, a 35-year-old parole convict, who was charged with murder after his brother Clifford was shot to death.
He told his story to Jaller J. L. Lackey of Talladega County.
"He'd always run over me, from a little little kid," Neal told the jailer. Clifford was 45.
Patrolman Demetrius Miller said he saw Neal shoot Clifford twice as he hurried to stop them from fighting.
Two bullets tore into the older brother's body. He whirled and cried, "he killed me." Then he dropped, dying.

Miller said Clifford only recently had been released from Kilby Prison after serving a sentence for stabbing his sister with an ice pick.
Neal was paroled in 1944 after serving two years of a 14-year sentence for burglary, state prison records showed.
Miller said witnesses told him both men were intoxicated.
The brothers began fighting early in the day. Clifford went home and returned with a shotgun, Police Chief Willis Dean reported. He fired one shot before Neal took the weapon away from him.
Dean said Neal broke his older brother's shotgun across a tree, and then he got a sawed off .22 caliber rifle.
The brothers were struggling over the weapon as Miller drove up.

National Guard Withdrawn From Struck Textile Plant

MORRISTOWN, Tenn. (AP)—A battalion of National Guardsmen has been removed from the strike-ridden American Enka Corporation's plant here.
Brig. Gen. D. L. McReynolds ordered the Guardsmen from Maryville — 58 enlisted men and eight officers — to return to their homes.
The troops were sent here Monday to put down disorders after Sheriff Robert Medlin told Gov. Gordon Browning that the situation was out of hand.
The company meanwhile announced that it had resumed shipping rayon products from the plant.
One of the guard officers said yesterday that about 250 workers showed up for work and another 75 to 100 reported seeking jobs at the plant which normally employs 700.
Guardsmen afforded the workers safe passage through strikers who set up lines around the plant, and no major disorder occurred.
Members of Local 1054, CIO Textile Workers Union struck March 28 for pay increases, a seniority schedule and premium pay for night work.
Company spokesmen said the present wage scale averages $1.32 an hour and the union seeks a 10-cent hourly hike.
Sheriff Medlin said 15 workers and two union officials were free under bond after their arrest earlier. The workers were nabbed for violating a court injunction which curtailed picketing at the plant.

The union officials—Robert Cahoon, southern legal representative of the union from Atlanta, and Silas Switzer, local union official—were arrested after they interfered with officers at the county jail.
Medlin said Cahoon was charged with interfering with an officer and Switzer with assault and battery. Both were free on bond.
The first shipment of rayon since the strike began — 30,000 pounds of tire yarn—left the plant yesterday, company officials said, just 24 hours after production resumed. They said the yarn was in process when the walkout occurred.
