Marines Cross Han River; Seoul Next

Red Gunfire Fails to Halt 4-Mile Drive

TOKYO — (AP) — Marines by thousands rammaged across the Han River today under a blistering Red gunfire and struck swiftly on Seoul.

On their first lunges from the riverbank they drove ahead four miles—half way to the Korean capital.

Powerful American tanks, ferried after them across the water hurdle, churned up sand-banks and over rice paddies five hours later.

The first Marine infantry assault wave hit the river at dawn in amphibious tractors loaded with Leathernacks.

The Marines' first river-crossing success was reported by Red gunfire. The second, after a daybreak and a long-range naval shelling of the Reds from Inchon, made good.

The tanks rumbled southeast, bringing powerful fire support to Leathernack units which had positions outside Seoul.

Red Koreans were fleeing before this armored vanguard of a 40,000-man allied liberation force. Americans and their Communist enemy still were racing for possession of the capital. Communist troops rushed from the old Southeast Korea front were reported streaming into Seoul along a winding secondary road from the southeast.

The Leathernacks were striking at Seoul from the northwest. A slugging match was expected of the 500-year-old capital—a city normally of 1,000,000 people seemed imminent.

First division Marines, pulled out of Southeast Korea frontlines for the surprise second front operation, were shortly at Samchok in Inchon, assaulted the Han's northeast bank eight miles northwest of Seoul as a three-quarter moon paled out in daylight.

The lead-off battalion for this had been first ashore Friday at Inchon port, 22 miles west of Seoul.

It stormed across the river in amtracks after navy guns had shelled and shattered Red strong-points from waters off Inchon.

The navy big guns—now joined at Inchon by 18-inchers of the battleship Missouri—were called on to lob shells 20-mile inland after the Red had hurled back the earlier night-covered assault.

The Navy announced in Washington that the southern Korean marines had captured the town of Korea's east coast directly opposite Seoul. Samchok is the terminus of a railway that crosses the peninsula to Seoul.

A spokesman said the landing at Inchon was made in a surprise move several days ago. This evaluation was shortly after the capture of the town.

S. Hattless Missouri bladed Samchok, which is about 100 miles north of the recaptured port of Pohang. There was no information on the size of the landing force.

Ground artillery and warplanes also pounded the Reds before the dawn attack.

AP Correspondent Don Whitehead, veteran of many European landings in the second world war, went across in an amtrack with the first wave. The enemy, tipped off by the night attempt, was waiting.

First through the door was Master Sgt. Anthony Kent of Salina, Kas. with a box of three fluffy white rabbits. Kent had brought them with a pack of cigarettes.

They were mascots of the fifth. (See SEUL NEXT, Page 2)

Accident Toll Heavy; Three Children Hurt

Tuesday proved to be a bad day for Pampa youngsters.

An accident about 7 p.m. in which two children were injured pushed the total for the day to three.

Ronald Woodard, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Woodard received a broken leg, and Michel Bridges, 5, multiple cuts and bruises when they dashed into the street and struck by an automobile in the 1100 block on Gariann.

According to a witness' report, the driver of the car, Jackie Gene Weathered, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Weathered, 1304 Christine, was driving south on Garland at about 15 miles per hour. He had stopped a few houses north of the accident and had just started moving down the street. The two youngsters ran out into the path of the car from the east side of the street. Young Bridges, son of Mrs. William Bridges, 1113 Garland, was released from Wesley Hospital this morning.

The two were hurt less than 12 hours after Roy Baker Webb, 6, ran into the dual wheels of a truck at the intersection of Kentucky and Duncan. The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Webb, Jr., 1340 Terrace, was taken to Highland General Hospital unconscious. He had ridden his bicycle into the intersection where the accident occurred.

Report from the hospital this morning said the child was responding and improved. However, the extent of his injuries has not been determined and X-rays had not been taken late this morning.

The two accidents occurred less than two blocks apart and, in both instances, officers concluded, could not have been avoided by the drivers.

Citizens who live on Duncan petitioned city commissioners in meeting Tuesday to erect stop signs on that street.

Today signs were being painted and erected at the intersections of Duncan and Louisiana and Duncan and Harvester.

RUSH JOB—Following three accidents on Duncan St. yesterday (although none was caused by speeding city workers were painting and erecting stop signs on Duncan and Louisiana (shown above) and Duncan and Harvester Streets today. The letters "STOP" are patented as a warning. A new metal signpost can be seen in the right background. (News Photo and Engraving).

House Okay of Early Start Slated 'Strings' on Aid Forecast

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A proposed ban on U.S. economic aid to nations selling war potential here.

Their prediction is bolstered by today faced a decisive vote in the House, which appeared likely to approve it over administration objections.

At the same time American authorities believe that decisions reached by the United States, Britain and France on measures to relax occupation controls in Germany will lead to strengthening Western German ties with the allied powers and help clear the way for a German role in the projected new allied army.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson is known to believe that the next round of Atlantic Council talks will produce a final agreement among the 12 member nations on treating the unimpeded peacetime force.

It is also hopeful that it will move France nearer acceptance of the principle that German troops can be used along with American, British, French and other Atlantic power military units.

The council will meet again briefly within two weeks. Meanwhile Defense Minister Emmanuel Shinwell of Britain and French Foreign Minister Jules Moch are due here to consult with their cabinet colleagues. British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, on details of the proposal and, it is assumed, especially on the use of German troops.

They are expected to talk also with Gen. George C. Marshall, President Truman's defense secretary-designate.

Out of these talks is expected to emerge a much greater understanding than any yet achieved of exactly what military commitments the major western powers will undertake in joining with force and also an agreement on initial steps to create it.

American officials say privately that speed is of the utmost importance.

Acheson, Schuman and Bevin wound up their conference on a German control process yesterday with a communique which said they intend to end the state of war with Germany; had authorized a mobile German police force of 40,000 men; would allow the Germans to send diplomatic representatives abroad; and would otherwise give them more authority both at home and abroad.

In addition, a section went on for Russian as well as German eyes, the three powers decided that an attack on Western Germany or Berlin would be an attack on them. This move was a warning to Russia not to try any Korean-type aggression in Germany.

All these developments fit into a program which Acheson, Bevin and Schuman are now deemed to be developing further in the second of the U.N. assembly just getting under way. Their specific objective will be to try to strengthen the United Nations to deal with Communist aggression wherever it can be regardless of the Russian veto.

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

NEW YORK — (AP) — An early start on the actual organization of a military force to defend Western Europe against the Russians foreseen by American officials.

Their prediction is bolstered by today faced a decisive vote in the House, which appeared likely to approve it over administration objections.

DISAGREE — W. Averill Harriman (above), special presidential assistant, yesterday said Senator Robert Taft (below) had often aided the Communist cause by his actions in Congress. However, Taft said in a statement to Ohio voters, released prior to Harriman's, that the Truman administration had aided the Communists, especially in China.

Final Negotiations on Hobart Right-of-Way Ordered by City

City Manager Dick Penn was ordered Tuesday afternoon, to make time for final negotiations with property owners whose N. Hobart as the city commission is opening public hearings on a new paving ordinance including the widening of the city's main streets.

At the same time City Engineer Ray Evans was instructed to install metal "STOP" signs and paint six foot "STOP" signs on N. Duncan at Harvester and on Louisiana. The Duncan and Louisiana signs were completed at noon today; the others are to be completed by 5 p.m.

The negotiations with N. Hobart property owners will be the last call for voluntary settlements for widening the southern anchor of Highway 70. Failing in that, special attorneys for the county will start condemnation proceedings in the nature of the city, but with the county footing the bill.

Rights-of-way along N. Hobart, have been hanging fire for over a year; some of the property owners settling immediately with the city after some bargaining, and a few still holding out on their original demands for damages.

Several delegations and private individuals appeared before the commission as the public hearings on the proposed paving and street widening ordinance was opened. None of the delegations raised any protest, but the commission they were there simply to ask questions on paving.

Penn told the visitors that passing the ordinance does not necessarily mean the streets are included would be paved, but cleared the way for paving when and if, all of the property owners had put up their paving money and assessments on non-linear streets could be made.

Public hearings on the paving ordinance are still open and will probably be closed next week when the ordinance will be heard on its first reading and, in all probability, passed.

The paving ordinance also takes into account the widening of the 100-block block of E. Kingsmill, and the 190-200, 300 and 400 block W. Kingsmill. Proposals there are to widen the street six feet on each side, paving the road with concrete instead of asphalt or brick. It is designed to move

Prowling Whistler Terrorizes Girl Planning Marriage

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) — A 15-year-old girl, bride-to-be under police protection because a sulking night prowler whistling a funeral dirge has threatened her life.

But even in the face of death threats, pretty Jacquelyn Cadow says she will wed, even if she has to have a police escort her down the aisle.

Jacquelyn and her mother, Mrs. Clifford Cadow, came here from their Paradise, La., home after many sleepless nights during which the prowler whistled his mournful funeral march beneath the girl's window.

Jacquelyn, engaged to marry State Trooper Herbert Belmont, 26, of New Orleans, on Oct. 1 told reporters this story:

Last February the mystery man began skulking around her home at night, whistling tunes and wolf calls. Police were called but the whistler always escaped. Several times when Jacquelyn's father, a night worker in an oil field, was away from home, someone broke in but always eluded police.

When Jacquelyn's engagement was announced August 1, the whistler changed to a funeral march. Then came telephone threats.

"Your daughter will never marry Herbert," the caller told Mrs. Cadow one night. "I'm going to kill her, and if I don't get her, I'll kill your little boy, Mickey." Mickey is Jacquelyn's five-year-old brother.

Monday night when Jacquelyn had fled to the home of relatives here in an effort to escape hearing the funeral march, the whistler called and said "Tell Jackie I know she's hiding. If I don't get her I'll get the boy."

A short time later the shrilly whistled funeral march was heard at the home where Jacquelyn was staying. Police guarding the front of the house rushed to the rear by the whistler had vanished.

"I'm so scared I don't know what to do," she said. "I've lost"

Joe Wells, finance chairman of the board of directors of the Girl Scouts will assist in the drive.

Rebel Withdrawal Claimed by French

SAIGON, Indochina — (AP) — French military sources said tonight general observers reported a general withdrawal of Communist-led Vietminh troops out of the Dongkhe region and toward bases across Chinese Communist frontier.

The informants said the rebels pulled out of Dongkhe, which was reported captured yesterday. French columns are driving in the direction of the frontier outpost. French military spokesmen charge the Vietminh attack on Dongkhe had been launched from Chinese bases.

A French communique said French artillery surprised a Vietminh battalion and inflicted heavy losses. The communique reported calm in other sections of the frontier, despite earlier reports that the rebels were attacking Tahkhe, 10 miles from Dongkhe, and Pakka, 125 miles to the west.

A security blanket covers French military operations.

700 From Oil Industry See Exhibits; API Holds Meet

By BUD ANDERSON
News Oil Editor

An estimated 700 men connected with the oil industry Tuesday night were guests of Beacon Supply Co. for their second annual industry-wide dinner.

Men from all phases of the industry and from several parts of the country visited the company's store on S. Cuyler to eat and look over the exhibits shown by service companies in the area.

Sponsored by E. C. and R. C. Sidwell, supported by E. E. Shelhamer, the affair, according to one well-known oilman here, looked like the beginning of an annual Pampa Oil Show.

The first fall meeting of the Panhandle chapter of the American Petroleum Institute, production division, was held immediately following the show. This meeting, beginning at 8 p.m., was held in the Palm Room of the City Hall with about 250 API members and guests attending.

J. C. McCormick, Tulsa representative of Dowell, Inc. a subsidiary of Dow Chemical Co., explained two of his company's methods in the completions of oil wells. These were the stratigraphic process and channeling of a producing formation applying pressure and specially prepared gel. The gel is injected into the producing zone and allowed to work long channels approximately one-eighth inch in diameter throughout the formation. He said tests by the company had not been able to increase the diameter of the channel by the use of additional amounts of acid. He cited examples, one near Borger, where the channeling and stratigraphic processes had been applied to oil wells with little or no production. These wells, following treatment, were vastly improved.

House Okay of Early Start Slated 'Strings' on Aid Forecast

Added by the Senate as an amendment to a $17,000,000,000 emergency defense money bill, the foreign aid restriction has stout administration opposition. But key House leaders predicted privately it would be okayed.

It would cut off economic help to those countries which sell to Russia or her satellites arms, armaments or commodities which the Defense Department certifies can be used in the making of weapons. It would not affect military aid to nations receiving U.S. military equipment.

Apparently aimed at Great Britain and other nations carrying on trade relations with Russia, the amendment was sponsored by Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican leader.

The council will meet again briefly within two weeks. Meanwhile Defense Minister Emmanuel Shinwell of Britain and French Foreign Minister Jules Moch are due here to consult with their cabinet colleagues. British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, on details of the proposal and, it is assumed, especially on the use of German troops.

They are expected to talk also with Gen. George C. Marshall, President Truman's defense secretary-designate.

Physician Backs Jaycee Campaign For Blood Bank

Dr. J. R. Donaldson spoke to the Jaycees Tuesday in support of their campaign to raise money for the establishment of a blood bank for Pampa and surrounding area.

Dr. Donaldson stated that the blood bank would be very desirable, especially in emergency cases. He cited one of two cases where a boy had died in an auto accident because of the lack of a blood transfusion.

Don Easter is directing the Jaycees campaign to raise about $200 to cover costs of establishing the blood bank.

Persons wishing to donate to or assist in the blood bank campaign may contact the Junior Chamber of Commerce through the senior chamber in city hall or may contact any member of the organization.

SOUTH PALMS, Me. — (AP) — A superior court judge today ordered Francis M. Carroll, central figure in the celebrated Carroll-Dwyer murder case, free from life imprisonment after 12 years.

Justice Albert Belliveau granted the 34-year-old Carroll's request for a writ of habeas corpus.

The state has no appeal from the order, which shattered Maine court precedent.

Carroll, a former Oxford County deputy sheriff, was imprisoned 12 years ago for the 1937 kidnapping of Dr. James G. Littlefield at South Paris.

He contended at a recent hearing in Richmond that he had been sent to prison by fraud and deception and that his constitutional rights to a fair trial had been violated.

Justice Belliveau found that the trial had been marked by suppression and manufacture of evidence.

Carroll and Paul N. Dwyer, 30, a longtime boy friend of Carroll's daughter, Barbara, were both convicted of the Littlefield slaying. The doctor's wife also was slain, but nobody ever has been tried for her death.

The doctor was bludgeoned to death and his wife strangled in their South Paris home.

Dwyer then stuffed both bodies in the trunk of their car and drove as far as Arlington, N.J. Picked up at Arlington, with the bodies in the Littlefield car, Dwyer first confessed both killings. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to life. Months later he prepared in prison a statement accusing Carroll.

Dwyer originally claimed he killed Littlefield because the doctor "made a crack about my girl." In the prison statement, he said Carroll did the killing because Dr. Littlefield had leaded of alleged incestuous relations throughout the formation. He said tests by the company had not been able to increase the diameter of the channel by the use of additional amounts of acid. He cited examples, one near Borger, where the channeling and stratigraphic processes had been applied to oil wells with little or no production. These wells, following treatment, were vastly improved.

World Involved in War But Socialism Is One Of Greatest Dangers, Knife-Fork Speaker Says

John Temple Graves, II, was triple alliance kept things quiet after Napoleon's defeat until internal revolution broke out in Korea and Fork Club at the senior high school, Tuesday night. Graves spoke of "Free Enterprise." The Magnificent American Proposition.

Graves stated that the hope of the world is in the strength of the United States of America. "It just seems inconceivable that we should have another war so soon after World War II," he said, "yet here we are right in the middle of another, and many of the things that are happening are sadly reminiscent of the occurrences we remember so well from the last great conflict."

The speaker said "we have to believe that God Almighty is on the side of those who believe they are made in His image and that we must believe that God has a hand in this war, as He does in all things."

Graves pointed out that Rome kept the world at peace until she became corrupt; that the parked cars six feet farther from the present parking area.

 Work on widening at least the 100 block W. Kingsmill is expected to be started immediately following the passing of the proposed ordinance.
 This morning workmen started tearing up the concrete sidewalk on the south side of the Combs-Worley Building preparatory to waterproofing the basement wall, and replacing the sidewalk under a new grading and possible narrower width to conform with the widened street.
 Headed by C. P. Pursley, another delegation of residents along N. Duncan strongly urged installation of metal "STOP" signs at the Harvester and Kentucky intersections on N. Duncan. The group appeared as the result of the accident yesterday at N. Duncan and Kentucky when six-year-old Roy E. Webb was hospitalized following a collision with his bicycle and a truck.
 Pursley told the commission, "we aren't here to ask for any money, but for lives."
 He and three mothers told the commission of continual speeding up and down Duncan and of "hot rod races" at night by the younger set. The group admitted that the commission might receive some complaints on the signs, but added:
 "Anybody who is more interested in zipping through at high rates of speed and endangering children's lives doesn't deserve to be considered."
 However, the commission elected to place the signs at Louisiana and Duncan instead of the Kentucky intersection as advocated by the delegation. The sign at the Harvester intersection to slow cars coming into town was accepted.
 The commission instructed the city engineer to install the signs immediately. In addition to the metal signs six-foot "STOP" signs will be painted on the streets, fifty feet from the intersections.
 At the same time the commission ordered a public hearing to be set for Oct. 10 on the zoning board's recommendation that the unplatted area of N. Duncan, across from Central Park, be changed from a residential district to a semi-commercial district. The area is to be developed by the Hughes Development Co into a residential shopping center, including a grocery, drug and other stores, but without any noise creating establishments.
 The final contract between the city and Earl Denmore for operation of the municipal airport was approved but signing by the mayor was held up pending the return from Washington of Roy A. Webb, Jr., and completion of writing a performance bond on Denmore.

 The attack started at 6:45 a. m. on Sept. 22, Tuesday. Amtracs with Marines jamming their steel hulls, crossed the 200-yard wide stream.
 In three minutes the Marines secured a 200 yard beachhead. Heavy fire slammed into the assault force.

 Ninety minutes after the first crossing, Marines held dominating positions around the bridgehead.
 Reinforcements steamed across the river. The Marines headed for Seoul.

Try Fish Baked in Pickle Sauce

DISH THAT'S DELICIOUSLY NEW, baked halibut with stuff pickle sauce.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Now here's a fish dish almost anyone will like. Use steaks about 1-2-inch thick of halibut, cod or haddock and spread the special sauce over the fish before you bake it.

Baked Halibut With Fluffy Pickle Sauce

(Makes 4-6 servings)

Two pounds halibut, cod or haddock steaks (1-2-inch thick), 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup sweet pickle relish, 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 2 drops tabasco sauce, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 egg whites.

Cut fish into serving pieces, if desired; sprinkle with 1/2 teaspoon salt. Place in greased shallow baking dish. In a bowl combine relish, mayonnaise, onion, parsley and seasonings; stir thoroughly. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold into pickle mixture. Spread sauce over top of fish. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 15 minutes. Serve immediately.

Salmon Stuffed Peppers (4 servings)

Four medium peppers, 1 small onion, chopped; 1/3 cup finely chopped celery leaves, 2 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine, 1-2 tablespoons flour, 3/4 cup tomato juice, 1-1/4 cups canned salmon (about), 1 cup cooked rice, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon lemon juice, dash Worcestershire sauce, 1/2 cup buttered bread crumbs.

Cut large peppers in half lengthwise or cut a slice from stem ends. Remove seeds. Boil in salted water until almost tender and drain. Sauté onion and celery leaves in fat until tender. Blend in flour, add tomato juice and cook until thickened. Add salmon and rice. Season to taste. Pile salmon mixture in peppers and sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Arrange stuffed peppers in a shallow baking dish, add water barely to cover the bottom of the dish and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 20 minutes, or until crumbs are brown.

To pan-fry bacon use a cold large heavy pan and heat the bacon slowly, separating the slices as the fat melts. It's not necessary to pour off the drippings during the frying; as a matter of fact the slices float in the fat, if it's left in the pan, and brown more evenly this way.

Murlene Miller Becomes Bride of William Whitfill

Miss Murlene Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Miller, Sr., of Panhandle, became the bride of William E. Whitfill of Lockney in a single-ring ceremony read at 10 a.m. Friday, Sept. 1. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Whitfill of Lockney.

The Rev. Preston Taylor, pastor of the First Christian Church, Panhandle, read the ceremony in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Howe.

Mrs. Julius Meaker, Jr., Panhandle, was matron of honor and Charles Whitfill of Silverton, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The mantel was decorated with greenery and flanked on either side by baskets of yellow gladioli. Arrangements of yellow and white roses were also used in decorations in the living room, where the nuptial vows were exchanged.

Wedding music included recordings of "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "Liebestraum."

The bride wore a dress of military blue velvet with yoke and cap sleeves of lace. Her shoes matched her dress and she wore a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

The matron of honor was dressed in pink tulle and wore a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

For the wedding trip to Corpus Christi the bride changed to a blue corduroy suit styled with a straight skirt and box jacket.

A brunch was served in the home to the wedding party and guests.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitfill of Silverton, and Jimmy Whitfill from Lockney.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitfill are now at home in Lockney.

The bride attended Panhandle High School and West Texas State College, Canyon. The bridegroom attended the Lockney schools and Texas Technological College, Lubbock, three years. He was in the Army Air Corps four years and is now engaged in farming.

A Frank Confession On Industry's Need

In a recent article entitled "Investment per Worker in American Industry," the Machinery and Allied Products Institute of Chicago has presented some highly interesting conclusions. It shows that American industry is the most heavily capitalized in the world and that this is a major factor in its productive supremacy. The American workman has at his disposal an unparalleled volume and variety of tools, representative modern enterprise with used plant and equipment must somehow raise $10,000 for every worker employed in the business. With a new layout, the enterprise will need a total investment of $14,000 per worker. In an advancing economy there must also be a continual increase in investment per worker. If this is as low as 1 percent per annum the minimum required will be $4.5 billion a year. This brings the question of investment per worker right down to the average family. Where is the money coming from? Obviously there is only one answer. From savings which people can accumulate out of the pay they receive for their labor. Whether they will invest their money in industry depends on the opportunity they see for dividends or profit. At this point government plays a critical part by encouraging or discouraging incentive through its tax policies. A man can't pay taxes if he can't make money. If a man can't make money he cannot save or invest. In the future more than in the past the tax policy of government will determine the availability of investment capital and this in turn will ultimately determine the increase or decrease in jobs, and taxable assets on which government will have to depend for its tax revenue. This is a problem involving the future welfare and opportunity of every citizen.

So They Say

G. B. S. is really modest. He regards himself as cleverer than most of us. He rather laughs at Shawans and their Shaw worship. Miss Blanche Patch, secretary to George Bernard Shaw, wit and playwright. The breakdown of all communications and centralized control through atomic bombing might well enable the brave Russian people to free themselves from a tyranny far worse than that of the czars. I do think it is the height of immorality to call young men... send them off to a war from which they may never come home... and to leave others to profit and prosper. Washington.....by Peter Edson

By DOUGLAS LARSEN (For Peter Edson who is on vacation) Friends of Gen. George C. Marshall are privately unhappy about his appointment as secretary of defense. His health, they say, just isn't up to the grueling physical and mental exertion required by that job. The job broke James Forrestal. It was even having its effect on the bull frame and personality of Louis Johnson, being secretary of defense is second only to the presidency itself as a position that demands almost super physical stamina. As the position now exists it is impossible to break down many of its duties and functions for assignment to assistants. The law demands that certain duties be performed by the chief himself. They're back-breaking for the youngest, healthiest man. The story that those persons close to the general tell is that he neglected to mention to the president how frequently he had been to the doctor and how tired he is. Further, they say, he failed to duty and a chance to make

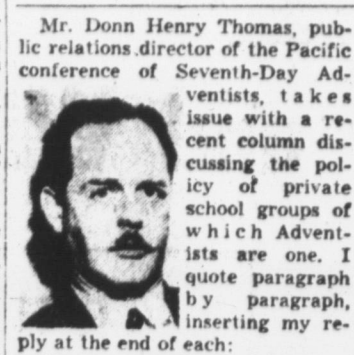

Fair Enough - Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER NEW-YORK - It has seemed to me that some of the Vermont Press, and particularly the Rutland Herald, has been more credulous than it need have been in dismissing as "sensational" the revelation by reporters from the "outside" of Red cells in the Randolph-Bethel area and in some of Vermont's institutions of learning. After all, this really is a "national" news but the word has been used so often to suggest dishonest journalism and exaggeration that in this instance it constitutes an example of Communist semantics. The Vermont Press probably has no conception of this fact, for there is no evidence that the papers actually are Communist apparatuses. These papers erred in taking a defensive position when they were not asked to do so. The thing to do in such a case is not to throw down the story but come from behind and clean it up. I have been interested particularly in the Rutland Herald's treatment of the Stefansson story who owned a house jointly with Owen Lattimore, the professor who was accused on the Senate floor by Senator Joe McCarthy. Not only did Stefansson share ownership of this house with Lattimore but he sold it to Mr. and Mrs. Orday Southard, who were Communist Party candidates for public office in Alabama in 1942. The Rutland Herald brought out this previously unknown fact that Southard was a student of Alaskan affairs, geography, topography and races, and that Stefansson had allowed him to study in his "library" in New York, which is devoted to Arctic and particularly Alaskan subjects. But the Herald apparently did not inquire into Stefansson's background except to accept the geographical stuff which deals with geographical stuff which deals with geographical stuff which deals with geographical stuff which deals with geographical stuff. There is other data on Stefansson which should be considered in relation to this incident. It is definitely to clear up the really important question whether Stefansson ever was known as William Stephenson, which is the English equivalent of his Icelandic name. I would say that he told me himself that he was so known on occasion in his youth. Stefansson is mentioned in "connection" with many Communist front organizations in material accumulated by the House committee on un-American activities. This material does not prove him to be a Communist, of course, but it is information of legitimate value here. If a person were associated with 20 or 25 organizations sympathetic with the Methodist Church, for example, wouldn't that indicate a sympathetic interest in that institution? Complaint has been made that the "relations" of the committee often are based on nothing more than old clippings, letter-heads and programs of public meetings. But this is a very reliable way of investigating associations. As to Stefansson, he is "listed" in the following organizations with the following organizations, all of which are declared by the attorney general of the United States to be subversive: named "sponsor" on a letter-head of the American Committee for the Protection of Foreign-born, named member of the board on letter-head of American Council for a Democratic Greece; named in Daily Worker as participant in conference of American Council on Soviet Relations; named sponsor on official folder of American-Russian Institute; named in New York Times as sponsor of American Relief for Greek Democracy; named in official leaflet as sponsor of Citizens Committee to Free Earl Browder; named in Free Press release as signer of Council for Pan-American Democracy; named on official program as sponsor of meeting of excited writers' committee of the League of American Writers; mentioned in Soviet Russia today as signer of call issued by national council of Soviet-American friendship; named in New York Times as signer of declaration by Reichstag Fire-Trial anniversary committee; listed on official program as sponsor of United American Spanish aid committee; named on program as sponsor of the win-the-peace conference. When, in 1941, the American Communists celebrated the 50th birthday of Norman Talmadge, one of the charter members of their party, Stefansson was a sponsor of this celebration. There are many other bits of information about Stefansson but the Rutland Herald simply quoted him as saying: "All sorts of persons, including Mormons, have tried but Communists have never done me the honor of trying to convert me." It accepts without skepticism Stefansson's assertion that he didn't suspect Southard of being a Communist when he gave Southard permission to study in his library in New York. No such library is listed in the telephone book, although the Rutland Herald says it has 60,000 titles on two floors and "has been called the world's largest Arctic library." The Herald says Stefansson said Southard was not allowed to study the "restricted" material on the ground floor. It generally gives him a very favorable build-up. It reflects an unquestioned belief that Stefansson is just a big, shaggy, good-natured, absent-minded professor. He is a markedly intelligent man, politically and otherwise. Another Vermont paper, the White River Valley Herald, says editorially that "according to Pegler, you can't draw a jury up here without getting one or two Communists on it." But that is not what I said. I said that if Alger Hiss had changed a venue from New York to Vermont, the Communists, then operating under cover, would have tried to plant one of their men on the jury and that just one Communist on the jury might ask about the great good public training and communism have accomplished in Russia but I would mention that much greater good would have been accomplished without them. "You write that it is inconsistent for Adventists to be willing to pay taxes for the support of public schools. If this reasoning was applied to all beneficiaries of tax money a lot of conscientious people would find it impossible to remain citizens of this country. Adventists, for instance do not believe in dancing and many forms of worldly entertainment. Should we request the government to be sure that our particular tax dollars were not used for USO entertainment during the past war? As Christ clearly taught, some things belong to Caesar." Answer: It is inconsistent for anybody to be willing to pay for anything immoral or for services neither desired, needed or used. Yes, if you do not believe in dancing, you should demand that your particular tax dollars not be used for dancing. No man should pay for services or goods he neither wants nor does not use. Forced payment for such is immoral and constitutes robbery. Yes, Christ did teach that some things belong to Caesar. He drew a line, too, saying to render to Caesar only those things that are Caesar's and not the things that properly belong to God. If Caesar takes your tax dollar and uses it immorally by force, you are not giving to Caesar. He is taking it over to you. The question revolves about your willingness to do so, your willingness to render to Caesar things that do not belong to him but to God. "Your comments about Adventists' attitude towards military service are a little unfair. You state that the son of a Jehovah's Witness serving on a draft board and serving on the board was a man reported to be a pillar of the Seventh-day Adventist church." You served in a medical detachment where they would not touch a gun, yet the Adventist along with other draft board members referred he J. W. youth to the courts where he was subsequently sent to prison for two years. You write, "I thought this inconsistent in that he (the Adventist draft board father) didn't believe in war or having his own sons fight in or serving in a medical detachment is child's play where you really don't get into the fighting. You will probably be interested to know that some 1200 S.D.A. medical corpsmen died in service during W. W. II. Adventists are not willing to kill because this violates the Ten Commandments but they are willing to sacrifice their lives for their nation. One S.D.A., Desmond Doss, during the last war was awarded the Cong. Medal of Hon-

REPLY TO MR. THOMAS

By DAVID BAXTER

Mr. Don Henry Thomas, public relations director of the Pacific conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, takes issue with a recent column discussing the policy of private school groups of which Adventists are one. I quote paragraph by paragraph, inserting my reply at the end of each: "You state that Adventists want their own schools and are therefore inconsistent because they are willing to contribute taxes that pay for teaching which they hold to be 'evil and immoral'."

Answer: It is not inconsistent to be forced to pay for evil but to be willing to pay for it. I am not willing to pay to have my children taught that Communism is right, just and moral, for example. "Seventh-day Adventists do not agree with certain instruction in public schools such as the teaching of evolution. Neither do they believe that religions should be taught in public schools, yet they wish their own children to receive religious instruction."

Answer: Then why concern yourselves with public schools at all or be willing to pay for them? "The quite obvious answer to this perplexity is for the Church to establish its own schools, which it has done - 3,950 of them, in fact."

Answer: If you begin to show some glimmer of sense, doesn't it follow that everyone else might do the same and we would be better off without the public monster? "It may well be that a prominent Adventist professor, as you state, gave you the impression that Adventists consider public schools to be teachers of evil. If he said this it certainly needs clarification. S.D.A.'s may disagree with what is taught in public schools but who can deny the great good that has been accomplished by a nation's public school system?"

Answer: I'll publish the professor's name and address if you want me to. He did not say "teachers of evil" but "some of the immoral things taught." You have already said that you regard evolution as wrong, therefore immoral, to you. What further clarification do you need? Your question about the "great good" of the public system seems to indicate lack of faith on your part since we've apparently do not want their children to participate in this alleged "great good." I might ask about the great good public training and communism have accomplished in Russia but I would mention that much greater good would have been accomplished without them.

Answer: It is inconsistent for anybody to be willing to pay for anything immoral or for services neither desired, needed or used. Yes, if you do not believe in dancing, you should demand that your particular tax dollars not be used for dancing. No man should pay for services or goods he neither wants nor does not use. Forced payment for such is immoral and constitutes robbery. Yes, Christ did teach that some things belong to Caesar. He drew a line, too, saying to render to Caesar only those things that are Caesar's and not the things that properly belong to God. If Caesar takes your tax dollar and uses it immorally by force, you are not giving to Caesar. He is taking it over to you. The question revolves about your willingness to do so, your willingness to render to Caesar things that do not belong to him but to God.

Answer: I don't think your man applied the Golden Rule in the Jehovah's Witness case by showing lack of respect for the Witness' conscience by initiating force to get him in prison. If your people do not believe in wars why do they not keep out of them entirely, including refusal to sit on draft boards and start force? Service in errands of mercy such as medical detachments are something else again. I had no intention of detaching from the fine men who saw service and such real heroes as Desmond Doss. My contention was that you say you do not believe in war—just another form of starting force. But you are inconsistent if you join a draft board and start (initiate) force through that channel. You are participating in the force of war. Be consistent, stick to medical detachments, etc. As for the Ten Commandments, if you have such respect for them, why then do you not heed the eighth one, "Thou shalt not steal," in the matter of willingly joining in collective force to steal from people through taxation to make them pay for services of goods they do not want to pay for, such as public schools? I trust this handles the issues Mr. Thomas mentioned. I want to make it clear again that I am, personally, not against military service. I am all for it, except that it should be voluntary in order to be American. I am not against war, either, where one is necessary, but I am somewhat critical of those who say they are, then contradict themselves in practice.

National Whirligig news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON - Political and diplomatic Washington was shocked to learn that two of President Truman's closest friends in the official family had virtually offered the position of Secretary of State to Senator Bridges of New Hampshire two weeks before Mr. Truman declared that he would never accept the Secretary of State position.

In view of the summary dismissal of Mr. Johnson, there is now no reliance on the president's solemn declaration that Mr. Acheson would hang on "as long as I am president."

It is generally believed and hoped by leading Democrats on Capitol Hill that the Secretary of State will be asked to walk a Johnsonian plank before the November elections. All of the principals involved in the tentative offer of the top diplomatic post to Mr. Bridges have been sworn to secrecy.

LOYALTY - Although Senator Bridges refuses to discuss the episode, his friends say that his loyalty to the Republican Party was a major factor in his decision. In the Senator's opinion, the GOP should cooperate in a bipartisan foreign policy on Capitol Hill, as he has tried to do.

But he believes that the party in power should assume full responsibility for the general foreign and military program in the executive field. Mr. Bridges did not discuss.

TELEPHONED - Early in August, two administration officials peculiarly close to the White House, telephoned Senator Bridges, and arranged for a conference under circumstances that would permit no "leaks."

SHOPPING - Although they did not mention Mr. Acheson's post as the one the Senator might fill, the Yankee legislators' special role in the Senate has been in the field of foreign affairs. He has no unique qualifications for even a civilian military assignment.

Cheep

The offer with fellow-Republicans, according to the accepted version. If he had, they would have advised him to refuse it.

Although supporting the administration's foreign adventures because there is now no other alternative, they feel themselves under no compulsion to "pull" Truman - Acheson chests out of the fire at the last minute before the November elections, as a prominent opposition member phrases it.

YEAR - General George C. Marshall has agreed to serve as National Defense Secretary for only one year, according to his old Army friends. Neither his health nor his temperament - he is sixty-nine - will permit him to carry the burden beyond next summer, in their opinion. He had hoped to spend his sunset years with his flowers and saddle horses in the nearby colonial hamlet of Leesburg, Va.

A one-year service, however, will fit in with the administration's military and political plans. There is no doubt that General Marshall's experience will enable him to whip our fighting machine into top shape.

LOAD - But General Marshall's acceptance fits a heavy political load upon President Truman's shoulders. He had been warned for national defense, if political pressure forced him to get rid of Mr. Johnson. Among the very few at Washington who know of this incident, there is no doubt that Mr. Truman's emissaries were shopping around for a successor to Mr. Acheson.

And, in view of their official and unofficial association with the president, it is not believed that they would have made these overtures without reason to believe that he would welcome the success of their Bridges mission. SERVICE - Senator Bridges pointed out that he was the ranking Republican member on both the Senate appropriations and armed services committees, as well as a member of the special committee to investigate the Korean struggle and whatever wars may follow.

He explained that he thought he could be of greater service in the overall effort as a member of Congress than as a member of the Cabinet. LLOYALTY - Although Senator Bridges refuses to discuss the episode, his friends say that his loyalty to the Republican Party was a major factor in his decision.

In the Senator's opinion, the GOP should cooperate in a bipartisan foreign policy on Capitol Hill, as he has tried to do.

But he believes that the party in power should assume full responsibility for the general foreign and military program in the executive field. Mr. Bridges did not discuss.

by National Chairman Boyle, Vice President Barkley, Speaker Sam Rayburn and other Capitol Hill leaders that Mr. Johnson's retention would cost the Democrats at least fifty House seats in the November elections.

It is expected that the United Nations Forces will have driven beyond the 38th parallel a year from now. When that happens, it is understood that General Marshall will retire with a report to the president that his "mission has been accomplished."

HOW MUCH IS IT WORTH?

THE TELEPHONE has become so much a part of our business and family life that sometimes we forget how much it means.

Here in Pampa, people make an average of more than 40,000 local telephone calls every day. The city turns to its telephones for hundreds of different reasons every 24 hours.

We lift the receiver to call a friend, to order from the store, to talk to the doctor. Modern business depends upon the telephone. One call may be worth more than the service costs for a whole year!

Few of us would even try to put a price-tag on telephone service.

THE TELEPHONE COMPANY asks only for enough to pay the cost of handling your calls — with enough left over to provide a reasonable return to those whose savings we use to build the telephone system.

Because rates established 22 years ago are too low to pay today's operating costs, we have asked the City Commission for a reasonable increase in our prices.

The proposed new rates are:

30 cents a day for a business telephone.

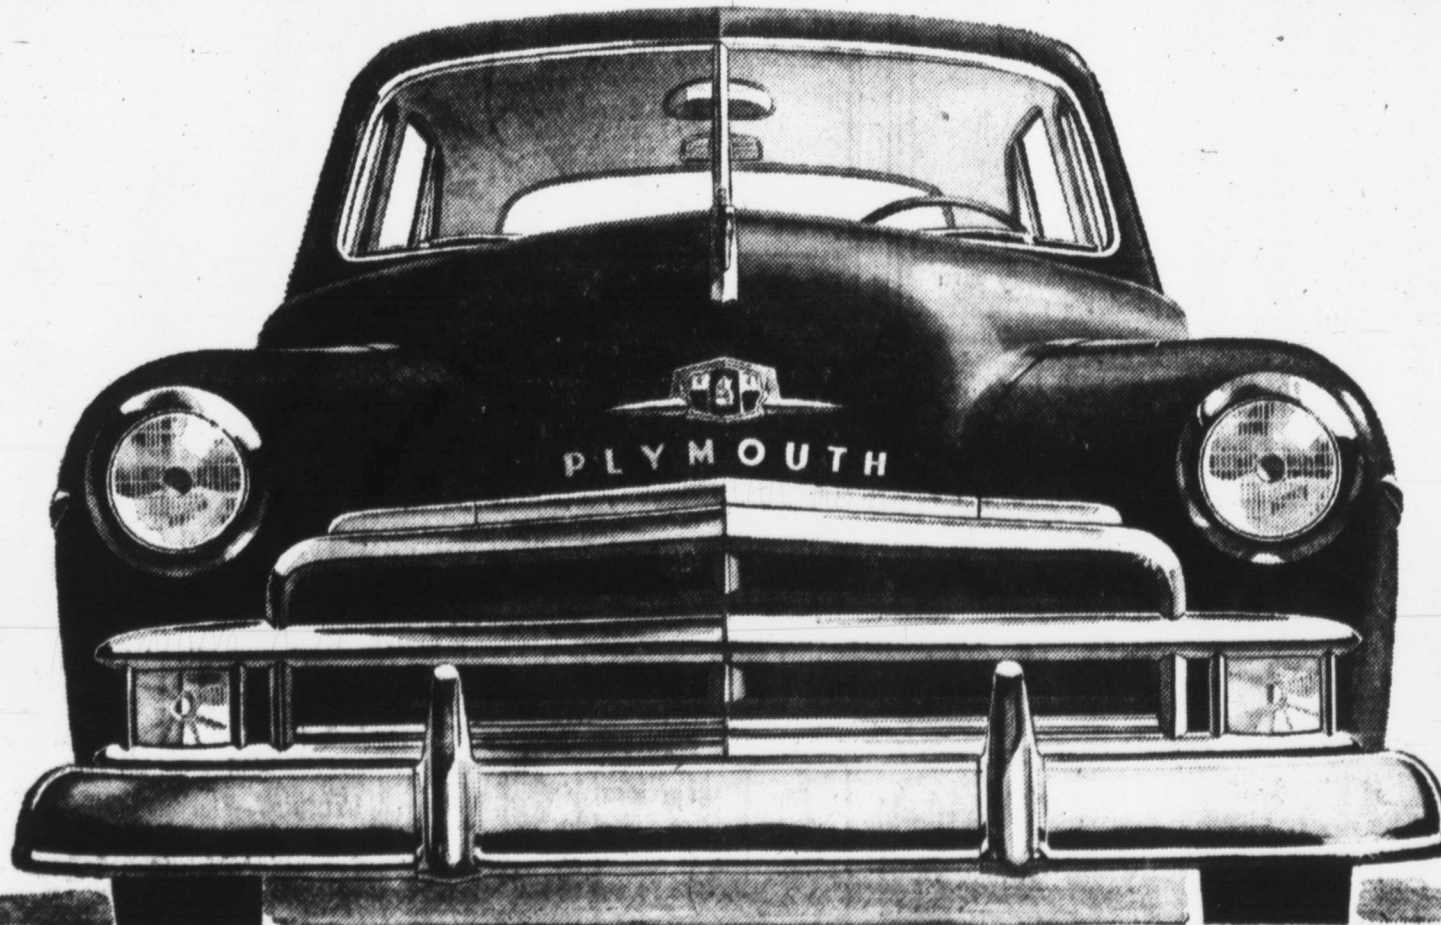

About 14 cents a day for a residence private-line and less than 12 cents a day for a two-party telephone.

An adjustment in the charges for other local services in relation to today's costs of furnishing them.

These new rates are necessary to justify installing a new dial system, costing about $2,122,600, in Pampa.

It is important to the welfare of Pampa that the telephone industry be progressive. It cannot be progressive long if it is not financially healthy.

Price Increase Made on Kaiser

DETROIT — (AP) — Price increases ranging from one-half of one percent to six percent on certain of its car models were announced yesterday by Kaiser-Frazer Corp.

The increases, effective immediately, were attributed to "substantial increase in the cost of labor, materials and components, since the introduction of the all new 1951 Kaiser line on May 9."

The increases are $10 on the special business coupe; $60 for the de luxe special business coupe; $80 for the special club coupe with $120 for certain other special and de luxe models.

Industries Wishing For Various Kinds Of Fall Weather

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK — (AP) — An early fall and a long cold winter would delight some industries. Some businessmen can even tell you on what day of the week they'd like you to get your feet wet.

But an early freeze would hamstring another set of industries. Both groups would like to know right now what the first crisp days foretell — dry or slushy, mild or bitter days ahead.

"We like to see cold rain fall late in October, followed by some fast melting snow on working days — weekend snow is no good," says Raymond H. Blanchard, president of the Hood Rubber Co., Watertown, Mass.

He's talking about the sales prospects for the waterproof rubber footwear industry.

Fuel oil and coal dealers and gas and oil producers also eye the coming winter. They, too, didn't do so well in the last two unusually warm ones.

"Weather can catch oil refiners unprepared if they are not continually watchful," says Chester F. Smith, vice president of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey).

But a late fall is eagerly hoped for by the steel industry. Shipments of iron ore on the Great Lakes are running around 10 million tons behind last year, because the carriers were held up by ice for a month last spring. The longer the ice stays out of the lake this winter the better the steel industry will like it.

The hurricane season in the Gulf of Mexico is giving some oil explorers a case of nerves. Their rigs are several miles off the Louisiana and Texas coasts drilling for oil on the continental shelf. Some oil companies have elaborate weather observing systems of their own to warn of the likelihood of storms. On the other hand, oil drill crews in Canada want hard frozen ground for moving their rigs. An early spring thaw catches them short. A long, cold winter is okay with them.
