Go Hand In Glove

The length of a glove is decided this fall by the length of the sleeve worn with it. Flaring gauntlet cuff (upper left) of velvetene dramatizes fabric glove. Classic cotton shortie (upper center) has French knots as trim. Red capskin gloves (lower left) are lined in wool, trimmed with fur. French suede glove (lower center) has thumb and cuff in plaid pattern. Two clusters of rhinestones lend sparkle (right) to black suede dressy glove.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The length of any glove this autumn is determined by one standard: the length of the sleeve worn with it. The shorter the sleeve, the longer the glove. Or it may be sleek, no matter what the glove length.

A good glove may be made of cotton. Some well-dressed women wouldn't poke a finger into any other kind of glove. Or it may, for fall, be wool jersey, glace, pigskin, suede, velvet, kid or capskin. Though black takes prece-

As a fall glove fashion color, the pale yellows, beiges, rusts, blonds and certainly white are all very right and wearable.

The gauntlet cuff, which can flair over a sleeve, is seen on a double woven fabric glove, designed by Grandoe. The cuff is lined in contrasting velvetene and can be tipped at various angles.

The classic double woven fabric shortie, also from this designer, is handsome and handsome in a creamy biscuit color. A turndown scalloped cuff is outlined by French knots. They appear, too, in a single row on the back of the glove.

For dressy wear, at the end of the day, Alexette has designed a black suede shortie which sparkles with two clusters of rhinestones set into embroidery detail. And for cold weather wear, a plain red capskin glove by this designer has a broad cuff of black fur. It's lined with an all-wool seamless lining for ultimate protection against biting winds.

From France comes a gauntlet glove in French suede, beautifully stitched on thumb and cuff in a plaid pattern. The cuff is lined with white kid and the detailing throughout is very typically French.

WE, THE WOMEN

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

WP FOLLOW THESE RULES...

The woman who finds herself in the position where she has to make friends with a new group of women should abide by the following rules:

Until you are well-acquainted and feel that you are really accepted, do more listening than talking. But don't go around repeating to other members of the group all the things one member tells you.

Don't join in any criticism of a new acquaintance. The crowd may be tearing a woman apart, but they'll resent it if a newcomer joins in with a few flat statements of her own.

Don't try to outshine your new acquaintances. It is easier to arouse envy than admiration when you're the stranger in the group.

Don't push yourself. Stand back, friendly and willing to join in, but remember that a group of women seems to delight in freeing out any newcomer who is too anxious to be one of them. MODESTY ISN'T A BAD IDEA

Don't over-sell yourself. Let your new acquaintances find out things about you gradually. If you try too hard to impress them with all your accomplishments you'll be accused of having too high an opinion of yourself. If you let others find out what you have to offer a little at a time, they'll be much more admiring.

Always be willing to do your share of work in any kind of group activity. There is no woman more resented than the one who always acts like a guest, willing to be entertained or enjoy the honor of being on a committee, but always at the last minute falling down on the job she is supposed to do.

The woman who will follow these rules can usually fit in with any group of women.

—Dr. Alex. Whyte

'Demonstrators Day' Permits HD Members to View Finished Projects

Tuesday afternoon was "Demonstrators Day" in the Merten Home Demonstration Club. Members met in the home of Mrs. John Brandon, living room demonstrator, to see her completed living room.

Colored slide pictures were shown of the room as it was before she redecorated, then colored pictures were shown of the same room after the dividing colonnades were removed, the patterned paper replaced by a soft shade of green, the floor carpeted in dark green broadloom, a picture window added as well as many pieces of new furniture.

The color scheme of green and rose taupe with a rich touch of burgundy was judged very attractive and restful by the HD Club members. Mrs. Brandon had given the room an unusual touch by using a patterned wall paper on the end wall of the long living room. The paper showed magnolia blossoms, green leaves and dark red cardinals on a gray background.

Draw drapes and cornice boards of green and white striped fabric with a touch of burgundy and gray design completed the project.

Mrs. Yardeaman Smith, food demonstrator, was ill and unable to exhibit her large ability full of prize winning home-canned vegetables and fruits.

Club members and guests then went to the home of Mrs. C. A. Jones, landscape demonstrator, to inspect her terraced flower garden back of the home. A large dahlia garden in full bloom was backed by a long windbreak solidly covered in blue and white morning glories.

Dianthus pinks, nasturtiums and bachelor buttons planted in narrow borders divided the various beds of marigolds, iris and gladioli. Mrs. Jones also has a turf lawn, and shrubs, well placed, around the house. She said she finds that most flowers will grow in her poor caliche soil with proper care and water. That iris and gladioli adapt themselves to it very well, while the dahlias are placed on a lower terrace where the fertilizer and mulch won't be washed into the other beds by the heavy rains. Her favorite roses were placed near the kitchen door.

A dessert course was served by Mrs. Brandon, Mrs. Emmett Osborne, Mrs. Roland Dauer, Mrs. Henry Duesterhaus, and Mrs. Walter Noel. All Bell Club members were guests.

Other guests were Mrs. H. B. Knapp, Mrs. Wilson Howell, and Mrs. Mary Anne Duke, home demonstration agent. Members present were Mrs. D. A. Rife, Mrs. T. G. Groves, Mrs. A. M. Nash, Mrs. Casselman and Connie, Mrs. C. A. Jones, Mrs. Jack Prather, Mrs. H. H. Threatt and one new member, Mrs. P. J. Boyd.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. H. H. Threatt.

SPECK SPECULATES

By SPECK REYNOLDS

Coach Frank Leahy wasn't just whistling "Dixie" when he told Notre Dame followers at the start of the season that the Irish would lose a few football games this year. The optimistic alumnus just laughed it off as another crying towel stunt.

At South Bend Saturday afternoon, the Purdue Boilermakers showed the Irish fans what Leahy meant. Notre Dame was at the short end of a 28-14 score when the game ended. It snapped the longest undefeated streak in the country.

Up Norman way another victory skein was almost finished. Coach Bud Wilkinson had already warned Sooners fans that Oklahoma doesn't have it this year. Before the game was over, 10,000 spectators got the idea when the Oklahoma Coach meant a touchdown in the last 37 seconds saved OK for one more week.

Coaches Wilkinson and Leahy knew what they were talking about when they predicted several losses for their teams this year, but most of the followers took the pre-season predictions with a grain of salt. A similar situation has developed in Pampa. The Harvesters win four games and local followers have already handed Coach Tom Tipps and his Harvesters the Class AA state championship. Before the Wichita Falls game last Friday, I picked up a paper and a big streamer read "Pampa favored by three touchdowns." One sports writer said "Five touchdowns, and Pampa fans were giving points like a fire dealer." It has reached the point where some people think that all the Harvesters have to do is roll their 11 helmets out on the field and the other team is going to roll over and drop dead. For some strange reason, the opposition wants to win the game just as bad as we do.

It's a tough job for a coach to keep his boys up for each game. One mental lag and the team wakes up the next morning with a grid loss hanging around their neck. But what can one expect when everyone is running around buzzing that we're going to win the state championship. That's wishful thinking. We've only played four games and no one can reach a conclusion like that. It's a logical Texas is a mighty big state — believe me. So let's start playing our games one at a time. It's unfair to the team and the coaches to put that kind of pressure on them.

DETROIT — (AP) — Jim Cain moved from the University of Alabama campus to the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League. His pro coach was Buddy Parker. When Parker shifted to Coach Bo McMillan's Detroit Lions, one of his first acts was to institute a player trade that brought Cain to the Lions. Cain justified Parker's faith by winning a defensive end position with the Lions.

Class AA Has 17 Unbeaten Teams; 102 Games Scheduled in Class A

Undefeated Lubbock Hits Pampa Friday

(By The Associated Press)
Six of the state's unbeaten teams clash this week in the features of Class AA schoolboy football.

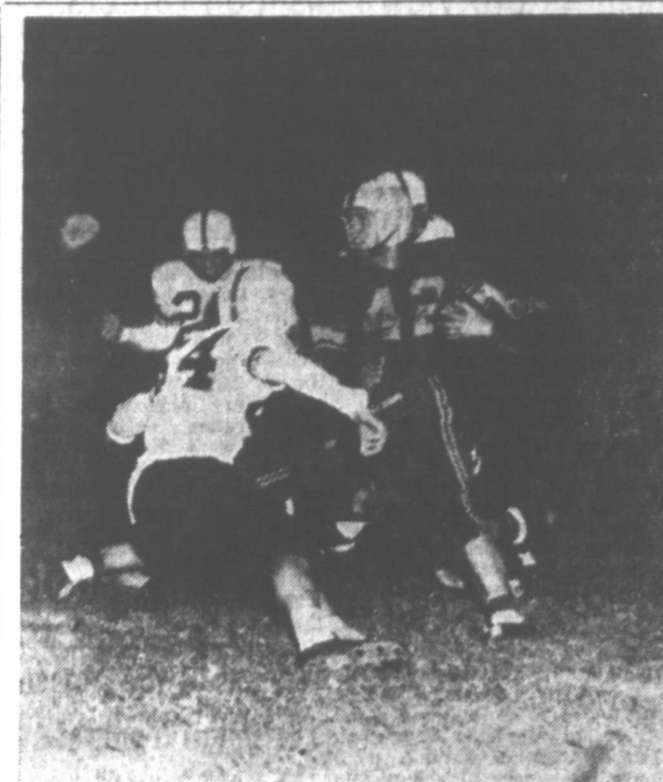

There are 17 left, four of them unbeaten but tied. Pampa, Big Spring, Lambs, Breckenridge, Texarkana, Palestine, Cleburne, Port Arthur, Fritch, Garren Park, Corsicana, McAllen and Midland have unbeaten records. Longview, Lubbock, Sweetwater and Pasadena have ties against them. Friday night Pampa plays Lubbock, Texarkana meets Longview and Midland clashes with Sweetwater.

The Texarkana - Longview battle is the big one because it is a conference struggle in District 9 and the winner will be the top favorite for the championship. Pasadena runs into trouble. It has Conroe, the giant - killer. Conroe last week ushered Texas City out of the unbeaten, untied ranks with a 15-7 victory. There are 40 games on this week's schedule. Favorites are strongly defined in each of the 16 districts as the campaign whirs toward the half-way mark. Pampa gets the nod in District 1. Wichita Falls in District 2 despite three beatings from outside foes. Lubbock in District 3. Sweetwater in District 4. Sweetwater in District 5. Breckenridge in District 6. Sherman in District 7. Highland Park (Dallas) in District 8. Texarkana in District 9. Conroe in District 10. Port Arthur in District 11. Baytown in District 12. Corsicana in District 13. Kerrville in District 14. Laredo looks as good as any in Class A district 15 and McAllen gets the nod in District 16. These teams fell from the unbeaten, untied ranks last week. Amarillo crushed Sherman 34-7 in a starting reversal of form. Donna took out San Benito 6-7 and Conroe felled Texas City.

Corsicana rolled on without having a point scored against it, blasting Greenville 60-0. Breckenridge also has given up no points. The Bucks trimmed Abilene 13-0 last week.

Sports Round-Up

Pampa Gridster Praised By S.C.

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK — (AP) — Casey Stengel, Stu Holcombe and Steve Owen (to name a few) will tell you it's a great comfort to have a fast outfield. One of the things that made the Yankees' world series victory so easy was the way Joe DiMaggio hauled down a few long Philly flies that might have meant a difference in the results. Owen was a pioneer in using the "umbrella" defense in football. The formation that puts three or four men back to break up or intercept forward passes. Detailed reports are lacking on the defense Purdue used to end Notre Dame's 39-game defeatless streak, but those three interceptions against Bob Williams indicate that Holcombe must have devised a similar setup. But who gets the last laugh? Army quit trying to stop the Irish, so Holcombe, a graduate of Earl Blaik's coaching "school" at West Point, did the job.

After the U of Washington footballers walloped Kansas State, 33-7, the gentlemen of the press naturally descended upon Quarterback Don Heinrich, who completed 15 of 22 passes for 292 yards and four touchdowns. "You really were throwing 'em today, Dan," commented one scribe admiringly. "What was your best pitch — that fast one?" Heinrich shook his head wearily and replied: "No. My fast ball wasn't taking off, but I sure had a good slider working all afternoon."

Joe Laphiek whose basketball Knickerbockers are training at Bear Mountain, nearly but his buttons the other day when he visited nearby West Point for a plebe football game and found his son, Joe, Jr., starting for the Army Kids against the Fordham Frosh. Best world series prediction (including ours of the Yankees in four) was made by Stanley Frank in "Baseball Digest." Stan figured it an even bet that the losing team in any more caddies to college. This fall game wouldn't score more than on Chick Evans scholarships.

IRISH HAVE CLEAN SLATE ON LOSS SIDE
Mt. Pleasant and Mt. Vernon tangle this week in one of the outstanding games of a 102-game schedule in the vast Class A schoolboy grid race. Win, lose or draw these two teams still have double tough Sulphur Springs to reckon with in the District 15 chase. All three are undefeated and untied. They share the distinction with 18 other teams. Ten fell from this class last week. Three-fourths of the week's schedule will count in district standings. One feature that won't be Brady's tilt with Uvalde. The only two teams that hadn't been scored upon had this record blasted last week. Haskell just did a nose out Stamford, 20-19, and Crowell was tied by Electra, 13-12. Littlefield, defending state champion, breezed past Brownfield, 53-13, and New Braunfels, still figured the class of the southern bracket, walloped Yoakum, 79-0. Monahan knocked off undefeated, untied Wink, 39-7, in District Five. Memphis, Giddings, Vidor, West Columbia, Floresville and Robstown were other undefeated, untied teams knocked spinning. Phillips, Mesquite, Hooks, Linden, Lampasas and Seagraves were unbeaten but tied clubs defeated. Undefeated and untied clubs now include Littlefield, Monahan, Kermit, Dublin, Haskell, Oney, Newcastle, Arlington, Mt. Pleasant, Mt. Vernon, Sulphur Springs, Hearne, Lavega, Georgetown, Brenham, Gonzales, Lamarque, Sinton, Mercedes, Pearsall and Uvalde. Unbeaten but tied are Shamrock, Abertamy, Henrietta, Diamond Hill, Crowley, Pearsall, Grove, Terrell, Elgin, New Braunfels, Crowley, Pleasant Grove, Terrell, Elgin, New Braunfels, French (Beaumont), Donna and Alvin. Some of the top games this week include: Jefferson - Crosblyton; Muleshoe - Littlefield; Denver City - Monahan; Cisco - Coleman; Ranger - Dublin; Seymour - Crowell; Newcastle - Henrietta; Hearne - Groesbeck; Belleville - Brenham; Conroe - 21 Pampa; Aldine - Lamarque; Wharton - Mar (Rosenburg); Sinton - Freer, and Pearsall-Del Rio.

Noire Dame Is First to Feel Defeated Axe

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK — (AP) — Modern football's longest unbeaten skein lay in shambles today and possible disaster loomed immediately ahead for the two records that come closest to matching it. Shattered at 39 games was Notre Dame's four-year uninterrupted sweep — cracked by a shocking 29-14 upset Saturday at South Bend.

That left Army and Oklahoma to carry on success streaks already past the 20 mark, but both of them face a possible scissors job next Saturday. West Point, undefeated in 22 games, will oppose formidable Michigan in New York's Yankee Stadium in the game of the day. Oklahoma's Sooners will risk their 23 consecutive victories against powerful, unbeaten Texas at Dallas' Cotton Bowl. This game is the first half of Dallas' celebrated double-header. The night game will feature undefeated Southern Methodist against once-tied Oklahoma A&M. Texas, idle last week, holds a 34-26 victory over the Purdue team that rocked Notre Dame's fighting Irish. Oklahoma, on the other hand, barely escaped with a 34-28 triumph over Texas A&M achieved in the fading minutes. Conquests for both Michigan and Texas would not create too great a surprise. They could do it.

The Wolverines from Ann Arbor, co-champions of the Big Ten, fell before Michigan State in the opening game but bounded back last Saturday to whip Dartmouth. Army, meanwhile, set down Penn State emphatically on Bob Blaik's passing, 41-7.

The coming season already has produced a rash disregard for the college sport's hierarchy. The two top-ranking teams were given a rude bumping last week-end while two other powers barely escaped with skin intact. Michigan State, given No. 2 rating behind Notre Dame after its manhandling of Michigan, fell before Maryland 34-7. Washington, No. 10, barely nosed out UCLA, 21-20. Michigan State's opponent Saturday is William and Mary, another undefeated upset victim. The Indians were walloped, 47-0, by Wake Forest in Dixie's major surprise.

NEW YORK GIANTS ONLY PRO TEAM STILL UNDEFEATED
NEW YORK — (AP) — The New York Giants, because they feature defense, are making pro football's two attacking might—the Cleveland Browns and Philadelphia Eagles—sit up and take notice. The New Yorkers won three straight victories and are the only team in the 13-team circuit without a setback. The Browns, who whipped Pittsburgh, 30-17, on Saturday, are No. 2 in the American Conference with a 3-1 record. Then comes Philadelphia, 56 to 20 victory over the Los Angeles Rams, in third place with 2-1. Three teams—the Chicago Bears, Detroit Lions and New York Yankees—are tied for the National Conference lead. All sporting 3-1 records, won yesterday.

The Bears trimmed the Chicago Cardinals, 27-6. Detroit handed San Francisco its fourth straight loss, 24-7, and the Yanks outscored Green Bay, 44-31. In Lions-Frisco game, Bobby Layne of the winners shone brightly. The driving downpour did not seem to bother the Blonde Bomber from Texas, who completed 15 of 32 passes for 205 yards and a pair of touchdowns.

SHARPSHOOTER HANSON ENTERS GOLF TOURNAMENT
FORT WORTH — (AP) — Qualifying starts today in the Women's Texas open golf tournament and National Champion Beverly Hanson heads the biggest, best field to compete for the title. Miss Hanson, the Indio, Calif., sharpshooter, won the open last year. Today's qualifying will trim the championship bracket to 32 from the field of more than 150 golfers.

BRONX BOMBERS DEPEND ON HUSTLE TO WIN WORLD SERIES GAMES TODAY
By JACK HAND
NEW YORK — (AP) — The 1950 World Champion New York Yankees may be set for a long run atop the baseball world. This is no wonder club that swept four straight from the luckless Philadelphia Whiz Kids in the world series. No "Murderefs Row" humbles the opposition. But it's a band of alert opportunists, darting through the first chink in the enemy defense.

Maybe Tommy Henrich, a Yank of the old school, said it best Saturday night at the height of the victory dinner. "We used to overpower them." Henrich said. "Now we have to substitute hustle." Hustle, that indefinable quality, was more responsible for the Yankees' season long success than any other factor. It carried them through when Henrich, hobbled by a bad knee, couldn't play; when Joe DiMaggio, slumped and was benched in mid-season; when Joe Page, the 1949 relief ace, couldn't get anybody out.

When the big guns were spiked by the brilliant Phil Pitching in the series, the "Little Guys" came through. Gene Woodling (429), Bobby Coleman (333), and Gerry Coleman (286) carried the ball. Only DiMaggio (308) of the old wrecking crew held up his end. And Joe went hitless until he broke up the second game with a 10th inning homer off Robin Roberts.

Fullback Hands Off, Instead of Quarter

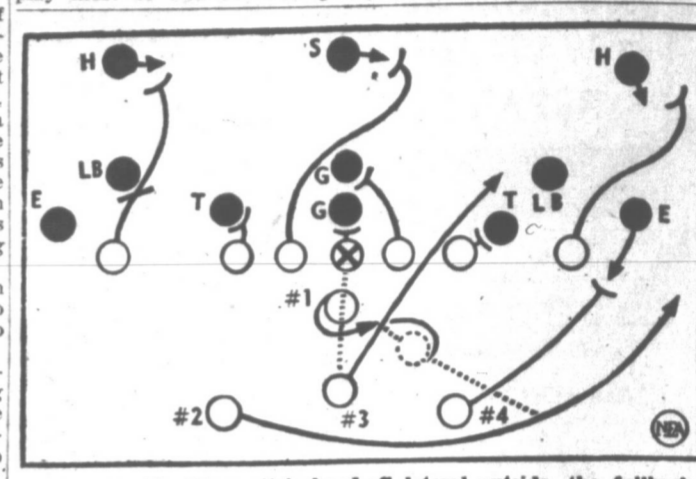

By LISLE BLACKBURN
Marquette Coach

MILWAUKEE — (NEA) — Marquette's hand-off lateral outside was designed to take advantage of the speed of Norman Rother, a junior left halfback. Quarterback Frank Voim, number 1 in the accompanying diagram, reverse spins laterally to behind the seam between guard and tackle and faces his own goal line. The movement is timed to have the ball snapped as soon as he is still. Fullback Frank Kopenaki, 3, receives the ball from center and drives up the middle, handing off to the quarterback. Right halfback Stan Wojcik, 4, blocks the end in as Rother, 2, swings wide to his right and receives a lateral from the quarterback.

While Rother is extremely fast, it's often difficult for him to get outside because of being spotted by opponents and played for by an outside man. Therefore, the play must be well covered up.

TARGET—Because opponents know Norman Rother is fast, it's hard for him to get outside.

SWITCH—In Marquette's hand-off lateral outside, the fullback hands-off to the quarterback, reversing the usual procedure.

Fair Enough-Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — As an appeal to the intelligence of the voters of California, and as his own commentary on their intelligence, Jimmy Roosevelt has issued a comic magazine similar to those which are sold to children, depicting himself as a leader, statesman and conspicuous hero of the second World War in which his captain was Colonel Evans Carlson, a notorious pro-Communist and a service politician.

The eaglet says nothing however about his connection with the interesting affairs of David Smart of Chicago, the publisher and part-owner of Esquire and Coronet magazines. When he uttered his memorable and markedly insufficient reply to Alva Johnston's documented charge that he had exploited his father's presidency to force his insurance business, Jimmy used the title "I'm glad you asked me." He said he would always be glad to answer legitimate questions.

He should, therefore, before an election day, demand that the Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington release the secret record of the Smart case. The commission will not let anyone outside its own official files see a transcript of an inquiry which culminated in a criminal case. Certain affairs of Jimmy Roosevelt were involved in the inquiry.

An attorney who formerly was connected with the S.E.C. states that on March 3, 1939, Smart testified at a private hearing of the S.E.C. in New York that he turned over $75,000 to John Sargent, Jimmy's partner in the insurance business with headquarters in Boston, to get an investment which Sargent was supposed to have made for Smart which turned out badly. This lawyer made notes from the official transcript in the offices of the S.E.C. He then was questioned whether the $75,000 ever was repaid.

Smart himself has stated that, as a softening-up procedure, he invited him to spend a night in the White House, although they were total strangers. He described the invitation as a ruse, that he should sleep that night.

Recollections of several persons who attended the hearings vary. One, a man of high standing, firmly insists that a member of the commission immediately went to the White House when this matter was mentioned and told President Roosevelt. The record being sealed in the archives of the S.E.C. in Washington, it is knowledge to be ascribed for public use by the commission, here referred to as a formal entry of such visit in the official record. The former official referred to here has been recorded.

Harry McDonald, the present chairman of the S.E.C., is a Republican but he is a layman and therefore accepts without discussion a fantastic proposition concerning raising a body of artificial administrative law to suit their purposes.

The old school finances were taken over 45 days ago and no replacements have been installed. So far, the children have enjoyed five holidays because of the school cheer.

The Red, White and Blue (Particularly The Red)

By DAVID BAXTER

secretive body of the new deal bureaucracy, with great powers to blackmail political enemies and protect members of its own political camp from embarrassment or worse, was almost the same as a grand jury.

That is an outrageous position, I said in effect to Mr. McDonald. "The grand jury is an ancient institution with powers which even the courts cannot challenge, and authority to look into all kinds of public interests. This bureau has not the slightest resemblance to a grand jury."

Mr. McDonald said he would put the question to the commission and let me know next day whether they would open the record. The next day he said they had voted against revealing the record and he said they had not recorded their individual votes. A lawyer who formerly was a member of the S.E.C. and knows the letter and implications of the act, insisted that there was absolutely nothing in the act to justify this secrecy. He said the S.E.C. bore no resemblance to the grand jury institution.

It should be noted that some lawyers outside the commission concede that secrecy is reasonable when criminal process results from the inquiry. But there was a criminal case here and Smart was fined $10,000 and given a suspended sentence of two years on a plea of nolo contendere, the charge being violation of the S.E.C. Act. There were other defendants who took similar action.

Smart's version of the $75,000 deal is that the money was transmitted to Sargent as a loan note signed by Sargent with a side understanding that it was to be for a term of three months. He said he preferred to deal with Sargent because he believed that it would be difficult to get "due process" against the president's son. He said that he had to "needle" Sargent so that he finally got his $75,000 back.

Sargent said Jimmy was going to get it from the old lady. Smart said, "Sargent said Jimmy was getting a divorce." In view of Smart's willingness to talk freely of the commission's secretive attitude, obviously is not maintained to shield him. And surely the candidate for governor of California has nothing to fear.

A Brake

WASHINGTON — A grim Christmas present for the American people this year will be the invoice showing what it costs to be in a war.

Wait until after the elections, is a sentence heard all around Washington these days. The bald fact is that the present controls and restrictions are not sufficient for the kind of a struggle the United States has engaged in. More are necessary, and they'll roll fast once the November elections are over.

That are still up to Congress, but to controls that Mr. Truman now has power to apply and to controls that depend on Federal Reserve Board action. The FRB, being somewhat less sensitive to political pollen than elective officers, may not even wait until the morning after the election. The fact that consumer credit passed the twenty-billion-dollar mark in August has the Reserve experts worried. However, it is an easy possibility that the White House will suggest that a turn of the screw on credit before the elections might be interpreted as an Administration gesture of authority, with possible repercussions on November 7.

RENTS — Once the elections are out of the way, action looking toward control of prices and rents can be expected. Yes, rents. Don't be surprised when that happens, because you read it here. A program for new rent controls is now being drafted, if it is not already completed. If the short present it to Congress shortly after it reconvenes after the lame duck congressmen go home and new ones come in in January.

PRICE CONTROLS — The price controls seem like a certain thing. Congressmen at home are hearing from housewives and wage earners, and they want the rise in prices checked. And with price controls, there will be a strong effort to improve control of prices. While labor is strongly opposed to such a step, no one knows how to make price controls stick without fixing the price of a man's work.

BLAME — Neither Congress nor the president are to blame. While we elect leaders in a democracy and those leaders are expected to be a few yards ahead of the people, they can't get too far ahead. For either Mr. Truman or congressmen to have gotten too far ahead in the matter of controls would have jeopardized their leadership.

They were on a hot spot. For the president did not ask for, and Congress did not grant, mild controls under which the country operates, there would have been danger that, by November 7, the need for controls would be so great that the voters would have reacted. This might have led to a shambles among the political fortunes of the present members, Republican as well as Democratic. And those Democrats who supported Mr. Truman, whether in the House or in the Senate, would have been slaughtered at the polls.

COMPROMISE — On the other hand, if the administration and Congress had plunged ahead on a program of controls, their positions would have been equally hazardous. Voters would react as violently against those who went too far as they would against those who didn't go far enough. This applies not only to controls of prices.

The Nation's Press

MARSHALL, JOHNSON AND TRUMAN

(Chicago Daily Tribune)

President Truman has abruptly thrown Defense Secretary Johnson out of his cabinet to save the skin of Secretary Acheson, the arch bungler who brought about the Korean war. To direct the war against Korean Reds he picked George C. Marshall, who was the principal agent in betraying China to Stalin's agents, and thereby making Korea indefensible.

This futile changing of the guard was accomplished with Mr. Truman's usual maladroitness. As recently as Aug. 5 he asserted that neither Acheson nor Johnson was going to resign "as long as I am President." Just what status that leaves Mr. Truman is uncertain, but it is too much to hope that he has at last confessed, even obliquely, his own hopeless inadequacy for his job.

The news appointment has the further peculiarity of being illegal. Mr. Truman will ask congress to repeal the provision of the defense unification act which bars as secretary of defense any one who has been in military service during the 10 years preceding his appointment. This was a sound precaution to keep the military under civilian control, and Gen. Marshall offers no special talents to justify waiving it.

As Ambassador to China, Gen. Marshall, on instructions from Mr. Acheson, then undersecretary of state, exerted every effort to compel Chiang Kai-shek to admit the Communists to his government. Failing in this, Marshall enforced an armistice between the nationalist and communist armies by withholding American military aid to Chiang. This action gave the Communists time to build up their forces with Russian aid and eventually to conquer China.

As secretary of state Gen. Marshall was no more successful in guarding American interests than he had been in China. The European aid plan given his name has been labeled a failure by subsequent acts of the Truman administration. Secretary Marshall was going to stand off the Communists by pouring billions in economic aid into Europe. Now it is alleged that we must give the contingent military protection—that the Marshall plan only fattened the western Europeans for Stalin to eat whenever he pleases.

If congress permits him to take office, Gen. Marshall will find a kindred spirit in Secretary Acheson, the architect of his folly in China. Mr. Truman's impulsive military action in Korea was a complete repudiation of Acheson's policy in Asia. Only last January the secretary of state announced that we had no interests in Korea or Formosa, a view that was endorsed by President Truman, Marshall, who was secretary of state in 1948, told a congressional committee that with Communists in control of Manchuria and North Korea, South Korea was an untenable military position.

When a President disowns a policy, he usually disowns its author. With it, the outcry against Secretary Johnson was in large measure a counter-offensive by Acheson's friends designed to save the secretary of state. Johnson bought his job with campaign contributions and was guilty of some serious mistakes in it, but the greater malefactor is Acheson.

PAMPA NEWS, MONDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1950 PAGE 7

Local Shortages Expected to Ease

Temporary local shortages of building materials are expected to disappear within the next few weeks, and the supply during the next year should be sufficient to meet all demands, according to Lynn Boyd, local building material dealer and member of the public affairs committee of the National Retail Lumber Dealers Association.

"Because of freight car shortages and the unprecedented volume of building through the country, gypsum board, cement and lumber have been in short supply during recent weeks, but most materials are being produced at record rates and the supply promises to catch up with demand in a short time," Mr. Boyd said.

"Although the new federal credit restrictions may cut down housing construction by about one-third locally and elsewhere in the next 12 months, it is generally believed that the number of new homes built will still run as high as 500,000 or more depending on the effect of credit restrictions and the defense needs for materials.

"In general, so far as the materials supply is concerned, families planning to build or modernize a home will be able to do so, provided they are in position to meet the slight increases in down payments and monthly payments.

"From all indications there also will be a large amount of farm and commercial construction, because farmers' income is expected to be high and many merchants have not yet gotten around to modernizing their stores. No credit restrictions have been placed on either farm or commercial construction.

"Unless the defense production program is stepped up beyond the present schedule, there will be a relatively large amount of steel, copper and other strategic materials for construction uses after defense needs are met and many building products require no critical materials, whatsoever."

Second Armored Commander Named

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. William E. Palmer is the new commander of the second armored division at Fort Hood, Tex. The Army announced that Palmer, who now commands the 22nd airborne division at Fort Bragg, N. C., would assume the Texas command Nov. 1. He replaces Maj. Gen. Albert C. Smith, who will become deputy commander of the Fifth Army with headquarters in Chicago.

Though rated in geography books as an arid area, New Mexico has sections in which the average precipitation amounts to 35 inches a year.

Painted coral and light blue. Its finish is smooth and lustrous. Technically, the new material is composed of non-organic, burned materials containing millions of sealed-in microscopic air cells, making it fireproof and light.

Home Credit Clamp Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is about to clamp credit-tightening brakes on the nation's greatest home building boom. The aim is to cut it to 1,300,000 units-a-year speed by more than one-third.

Three agencies, the Federal Reserve Board (FRB), the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) and Veterans Administration (VA), were reported getting ready to pull the control levers about the middle of this week.

The agencies intend to slow down home building sharply — without stopping it cold — by making considerably stiffer down payments necessary on newly built houses, particularly the high-priced "luxury" type.

Advance reports from government and industry sources point to these requirements: for veterans, 10 percent or more down; for non-veterans, 15 to 20 percent on houses in the moderate cost brackets, perhaps 50 percent on "luxury" homes.

There also were reports that "Regulation X" being drafted by the FRB to cover private mortgage terms may limit payoff time to 20 years and require higher installment payments for the first five years. But few banks now allow more than 20 years to pay off.

Builders and lenders, already concerned over materials shortages, have reacted nervously to the coming of controls. Many have recently begun curtailing construction for fear buyers will be harder to find.

Some industry groups have warned that the government, in aiming at holding new home starts to a level close to 800,000, may overshoot the mark, produce a slash to 600,000 — and "drastic" economic repercussions with it.

Officials insist a sharp reduction is necessary to check inflation and to reduce home building's heavy use of materials and labor so they can go into the defense expansion program. They plan to curb housing now, store and plant construction later.

The big stepup in housing output won't be obvious until next year, because the 1950 building season passed its peak months ago and because the law authorizing the controls forbids applying them to houses started before August 3. Earlier built houses will continue to be bought and sold without federal restrictions on the mortgage arrangements. Its unlikely the restrictions will apply to new homes on which firm loan commitments are obtained before the order comes out.

For Fire Prevention:

Blazes Can Be Stopped Now By Checking Danger Points

City Residence

Losses in life and property from residential fires can be cut in half through the observance of proper precautions in the building of new homes, according to fire safety authorities. The fundamentals of fire safety in homes, the experts assert, should include the following ten points.

1. Efficient heating plants properly installed and adequately safeguarded, with sufficient space for servicing equipment, for access to chimney cleanouts and for fuel storage.

2. Chimneys properly built to recognized standards and kept clean; and heating ducts, flues and vents properly installed, cleaned and maintained.

3. Roofs covered with fire-resistant or fireproof materials, such as asbestos-cement shingles, which cannot burn. Combustible roofs are vulnerable to sparks from chimneys and from flying brands from nearby fires. Exterior walls also should be built to resist fires which may start in nearby structures. Asbestos-cement sidings are especially effective in providing this sort of fire protection.

4. Electrical wiring that is adequate and sound, to avoid overloading circuits and to provide for probable future acquisition of appliances. Closets and storage space should be equipped with electric lights to avoid use of matches or candles.

5. Effective steps to prevent interior spreading of flames. Fire-stops should be installed in walls and partitions to prevent flames from spreading from the basement to upper floors. Basement ceilings and furnace rooms should be covered with safe materials, such as asbestos-cement board. Basements, furnace rooms, storage rooms and attached garages should be provided with doors that will hold back fire. Asbestos-cement board also is effective for this purpose.

6. A kitchen designed to avoid curtains, doors and cabinet shelving in close proximity to the cooking range.

7. Insistence upon competent inspection during construction.

8. Use of fire protection devices recommended by fire departments.

9. Use of common sense to avoid carelessness, which is the largest single cause of fires.

10. Consideration of availability of public fire protection and adequacy of water supply in selecting a site for a home.

The steady output of new houses has been providing jobs in plenty — over 2,500,000 persons held construction contract jobs in August — and an ever-expanding market for sellers of building materials, furniture and rugs, and household appliances.

And on the Farm

Almost any farm fire can quickly grow into a big fire. Farm buildings are usually grouped centrally for convenience, and they contain much material that will burn. Moreover, farms often are distant from an organized fire-fighting department, which has the skill and equipment to knock out fires quickly.

On farms where too little thought has been given to fire prevention, a blaze in one building can spread rapidly to other buildings, endangering life and property.

The nation's farm fire toll each year amounts to about 3,500 deaths and some $100,000,000 property loss. Most of this tragedy could be avoided, say fire prevention authorities.

Although fire prevention is a year-round job, fall is a good time to make a check-up, because hazards increase when heating equipment goes into use. Besides, farmers usually have more time in the fall to correct bad conditions.

A fire prevention check-up can logically start with the construction of the buildings. For example, combustible siding and roofing invite fires. More and more farmers are protecting new buildings and old ones with fire-safe materials.

such as asbestos-cement siding shingles and roofing shingles. These mineral products cannot burn. Fire inspection should extend throughout all buildings, and it should include correction of bad practices as well as bad construction.

Here are some points to check: Keep chimney clean and mortar tight in all joints. Provide opening to attic for fire inspection. Close unused flue openings with incombustible stops. Keep stove or furnace pipes clean, well-anchored and in good repair. Put ashes in metal cans.

Place stoves, stove pipes, furnaces and fireplaces at safe distances from combustible walls, ceilings, floors, curtain, boxes, rugs and papers, or use incombustible materials for protection. Remove rubbish from attic, basement, closets, garage and tractor shed.

Store matches away from heat and out of children's reach. If a liquid fuel stove is used, make sure it is of approved design, and take care in operating and refueling. Never use gasoline or kerosene to start or quicken fires. Never use gasoline or naphtha for home cleaning. Store gasoline and kerosene away from main buildings and preferably underground.

MODERN CRETE—No more costly than an ordinary frame house, this new home is being built out in the business of the country. The S&H Construction Company is building the two-bedroom house to be sold, will probably be finished by the first of next month.

New Type Outside Finish Used on Home in Pampa

By GEORGIA SMITH
Modern-Crete is the newest out in the business of building and Pampa has one of the first homes of this material under construction in this part of the country.

The house is located in the 1500 block on Hamilton in the Schneider-Herlacher addition. The S&H Construction Company is building it. The company will hold an open house there around the first of next month. Modern-Crete houses have a cost comparable to regular frame constructions at today's price levels and are more quickly built.

Approximately 2,000 homes have been built from Modern-Crete, which is a type of lightweight aggregate material for exterior walls. It meets FHA requirements. It is formed by a method of uniting lightweight aggregate with Portland cement to gain structural strength, insulating qualities, weathering qualities and workability in field use.

Each panel is 16 inches wide, eight feet long, and 2-5/8 inches thick and weighs approximately 140 pounds. According to the manufacturers, Modern-Crete, Inc., Flint, Mich., a standard panel is capable of supporting approximately a 50,000 pound load on end. Its insulation quality is equal to that of 25 inches of cement.

Three separate seals are made between the panels. A pre-shrink mastic is used at the joint on the inside where the panels are packed in a recessed pocket on the inside where the panels join, and over this, on the interior side of the joint, black mastic is applied with pressure. Modern-Crete contains no sand or gravel.

The panels are nailable and may be easily sawed. They are hollowed out on the inside surface to provide an air space. For painting the exterior surface of the panel, a rubber base paint is used so that wear and cracking is prevented.

In the house under construction here, attic heating will be used and the circulation will be controlled with ceiling ducts. Kaiser aluminum screens are being used on the windows and doors, which partially control air conditioning and sun glare.

Floors in the house are cement throughout with hardwood covering. Kitchen and bathroom tile floors are inlaid and the trim is completely modern. The garage floor will also be of concrete. Heavy base siding is used for the floors to prevent cracking anywhere. The house will be

"It's Fresherized"
The Talk of the Town
MEAD'S FINE BREAD
IN THE BRIGHT YELLOW WRAPPER AT ALL GROCERS

At first consideration, the span of distance from Abilene to Amarillo doesn't seem to be such a great stretch. That is, when it is considered in the light of mileage. But, the distance takes a different aura when translated in years. Stretch the travel time from Abilene to Amarillo into a period of more than thirty years and the picture of the growth of Mead's Bakeries assumes a mantle of real importance and inspiration.

Cretney Dons New Mantle

The activity of the past several weeks at Cretney Drug Store has had Pampans standing on the well-known ear. When, when, they ask, is this intriguing job going to be finished. Well, you can stop holding your breath. Before another fortnight has passed you'll be a party to the biggest surprise in Pampa.

Cretney has been doing quite a job of remodeling the old North Cuyler location. Under the direction of L. G. Close, local manager, and the various specialists at drug store design, this local parlor of the prescription, pill and paraffin is rapidly taking on the mantle of an ultra-modern pharmacy.

While the project has been underway, Mr. Close and his crew have continued to serve Pampans in the highly efficient and friendly way that is a must-tradition with the Cretney Company. Not a moment has been lost, everyone has been served in the best way, and the merchandising machinery Cretney has continued to grind out attractive offerings for anyone requiring the products and services of a drug store.

In order that you'll be truly appreciative of the magnitude of the task, imagine keeping track of items running into high multi-thousands under normal circumstances. Add to this picture the difficulties to be encountered while constantly moving stock to make way for workmen and still maintaining a semblance of well-rounded supply for the general public. As mentioned above, Cretney hasn't missed a beat while keeping up with the tempo of the time they must play to keep your shopping needs fulfilled. None of the excellence of product and service has been sacrificed while remodeling progressed.

Soon, you'll have a formal announcement concerning the completion of remodeling. Meanwhile, the Cretney crew continues to strive toward bringing you the finest in drug store service in the Panhandle.

It's a long way from the picture of two lads with a goat and cart trying to do odd jobs toward augmenting the income of a family recently wiped out by catastrophic agricultural conditions to the celebration that took place recently in the Mead's Fine Bread plant.

You've heard the story many times. But it never grows tiresome. The story of two boys, father and mother who wouldn't let adversity and ill luck force them to call it 'quits.' The family that parlayed a grocery store and backroom bakery into a multi-million dollar, multi-million load bakery organization that has become one of the most progressive and popular organizations in the entire Southwest.

The Mead credo of 'happy people make better bread' has paid large dividends in providing a spotless reputation for the magnificent Mead Company.

From the small beginning in Abilene with horse-drawn delivery wagons to the present coverage of three states with more than two-hundred and fifty mobile units to serve the territory, the Mead family has never let 'golden rule' treatment of employes and customer drop from sight. The 'rule' has paid tremendous dividends in good will and financial success.

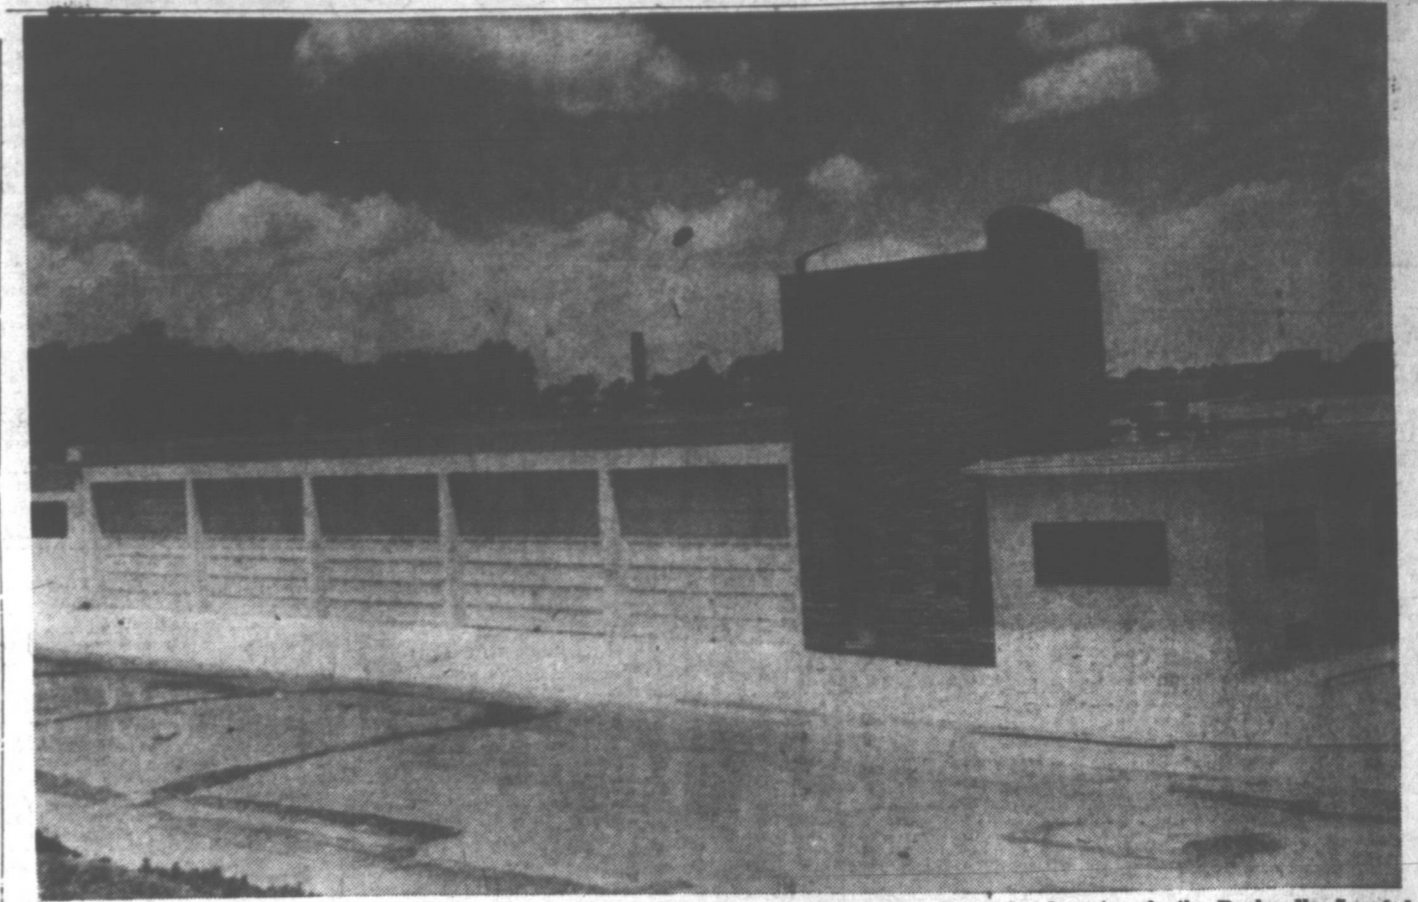

Wherever you travel, through the Panhandle, into many spots in New Mexico, back to Oklahoma City and through the length and breadth of Texas, you'll see the big white Mead's trucks delivering Mead's Fine Bread to your favorite grocers. There are few grocers who do not recognize the value of the Mead name on the shelves of their markers. Ask any of them if they would try to get along without a large supply of Meads Bread in stock. If he says he could do all right without Mead's, he hasn't heard of Oscar Cox, the local major-domo of the Mead's organization. The Pampa staff of Mead's Bakeries, all local fellows, has done a tremendous job in introducing and maintaining Mead products on your local market shelves. Handicapped by lack of adequate warehousing space on the local scene, the Pampa men have had to do yeoman duty in purchasing their daily rounds. However, their efforts have paid off handsomely.

Most of you haven't forgotten the gigantic party Mead's threw to dedicate their new Amarillo district plant. Not many companies will lose ten-thousand dollars worth of groceries into the gift hopper as a celebration of a new milestone passed in the progress of a company. Mead's did, though, in appreciation of your help in making them the distinguished company they are. Twenty-five thousand people show their appreciation of

Off With Old On With New; Service Fixes, Cleans 'Em, Too

The time is, NOW! The place is, SERVICE CLEANERS! The reason is, FALL IS HERE. To the latter statement you'll pose the question, "what has fall's arrival got to do with me." It has a lot to do with you. Hasn't it been traditional, for decades, to drag out the best in blankets, quilts, comforters, clothing, drapes and curtains for a thorough renovating and cleaning before real winter decides to handicap such activities? Sure it has.

However, you've got a break your grandmother didn't have. Instead of loading clothes lines, fences, shrubbery and the like with sunning blankets and other items of drapery and clothing that are to be stored for winter, or are brought out for winter use, you can take advantage of the services of the modern cleaning plant.

What could be simpler than to call a fine concern such as Service Cleaners and have them do a two-fold job for you. It's no more difficult than picking up your phone and making the call. Jonas, owner of Service Cleaners, will dispatch a truck to your door. He'll pick up your order of cleaning and renovating and take all the worry and work of fall cleaning away from you. The cost will be surprisingly low. Jonas does a fine specialty.

Weather Changes Hard On Car

Charley Ford has been doing a lot of cleaning up around his popular petrol peddling parlor during the past week or two. Seems Charley is intent on reorganizing himself and crew, and his station, for the sudden rush of motorists who have suddenly discovered that fall and poly-temperature weather is here to spend a little time.

Charley's right! It is time to begin considering the annual alteration of lubrication oil, crankcase oil, and grease in the old horseless carriage. Right now, it's cold enough to merit a change to lighter type lubricants. Think, too, of supplying a new protective coating to the paint job. Charley Ford's the man to do it. He'll help you avoid winter emergencies by preparing now.

New Liquid Kills Roaches, Ants!

Scientists recommend that you control roaches, ants, and waterbugs the "modern" way—with Johnston's NO-ROACH. Brushed just where you want it (not a messy spray), the colorless coating kills these pests. Effective for months—it's odorless, stainless and invisible. 3 oz. 85c; Pint 1.69; Quart 2.98. Available at Cretney Drug.
