GOP Presses Aid Cut Drive

WASHINGTON - (AP) - Republican strategists pressed on today in their drive aimed at slashing up to half a billion dollars from foreign recovery spending.

Major parts of the administration's foreign policy program were at stake as the House neared a decisive stage on President Truman's one-package $3,372,450,000 foreign aid bill. It covers the fiscal year which begins July 1.

GOP House leaders decided yesterday to press for sharp reduc-tions in 1951 aid authorizations despite Mr. Truman's weekend plea to Congres to "strike a blow for peace" by approving the full amount.

TELEPHONE COURTESY Dear Mrs. Friend:
I have two teen age youngsters who use the phone a great deal both to call their friends and to receive calls. The thing that annoys me is the way in which they act when they put in their calls. They never show the least signs of courtesy, not that their friends do either. But I do dislike to take down the receiver only to be ordered to call Carl or Lucy to the telephone. Aren't there some rules about telephone courtesy?

Mrs. M.

There are very definite courtesy rules for use when telephoning and smart parents start training their children at an early age.

When calling, whether you are young or old, you should state your name at once and this is particularly important when young person calls and an older one answers. Thus—"This is Mary Jones, may I speak to Bob?"

There is nothing so annoying as to answer the phone and not know who is talking. It is the first thing you should teach your child about telephoning. If you start when they are little having them state their name before asking for the person whom they are calling they will continue to do it when they reach the teen-telephone age. They will find that this simpl courtesy makes their calls much more welcome. Discourage the "Can you guess who this is" approach as much as possible. Impress on youthful phoners the importance of limiting their calls so that others can use the line. I know parents who have put a time limit on each of their daughter's calls and they feel that the system has been most

And this wealth that is not created cannot be divided-cannot go into the ple that the president's person was hands of workers. holy and should be preserved at all costs even from the weariness While this is bad enough, it is not as important as how labor unions by the way of collective bargaining deaden the conscience of the individual. Groups of men have no conscience. Only individuals have consciences. No one has yet pointed out a single solitary labor union that doesn't practice collective bargaining rather than individual bargaining. That is the only possible way they have of raising the yearly wage levels of those they let into their group. So the labor unions have to deaded or smother or kill the conscience of the individual. He is not permitted to use his own con science, or his own judgement as to what is a just wage. If the majority decides that he must quit work or that he must not sell his services for less than what the majority decides, he is prevented from using his conscience and selling his services on any other basis if the union is strong enough to enforce what the majority de-

The reason we are in the chaotie condition we are in today is because people are not using their individual consciences. Labor unions prevent a man from using the Golden Rule as a guide for his conscience. They deaden his conscience because they compel him to join with others to keep the man below from competing with him. It is hard to conceive anything more unjust, unethical, immoral and unChristian than a group of men doing collectively what they know would be immoral for them to do as individuals. No man who is a Christian would contend for one minute that he as an individual has a moral right to try to keep a man from below down or to try to keep him from earning more wages. And if it is wicked for an individual to do it, it is wicked for a group to do the same thing no matter if done by a labor union that practices collective bargaining; or not matter if

There is no possibility of prosperity, and peace where men's consciences are deadened and where men are penalized for using their consciences-for using the a result of men living according purpose of labor unions in practicing collective bargaining, and no one can point out a single labor union that does not practice collective bargaining, is to interfere with an individual using his conscience or penalize him for using his "still small voice".

And yet we have organizations calling themselves Christian, such as the Methodist leaders, and the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, endorsing collective bargaining that deadens men's consciences. The whole concept of Christianity is a respect for the dignity of man-is an attempt to develop his character and conscience. And when men's character and conscience are deadened and they cannot make individual promises that they are willing to live by, business cannot prosper.

The general belief in farm subsidies is a natural sequence that lications. is bound to follow the belief in collective bargaining. If one group is permitted to join together and get a non-competitive price for their labor, then any rational person would believe that other groups had the same right. And labor groups have combined and forced their wages out of parity as to what other groups can get, Other groups cannot get parity wages with organized labor because there is not enough produced to pay everyone on the same scale as collective bargaining groups demand. So the farm a competitive basis are left out in the cold. Extra men go into farming because they are excluded from commerce and industry by labor unions. This greatly reduces the selling price of their product. In order to try to rectify this crime, the government steps in and does the same thing that labor unions do in order to raise the price-limit those who dare compete. When we break laws in one line of workers, it is natural to break them down in other to go and see the great man. In her meanderings around town, Nelly lost her pocketbook and the $100. Now she had to see Pulitzer - or go hungry. She spent three solid hours in the outer office trying to convince secretaries and assistants she had to see Pulitzer. Finally she got in. She remembered her plain personal appearance—that she was not beautiful—and must look like a hick. The thought crossed her mind that Pulitzer probably thought her the prize goof to assume she could write for his paper. But then she remembered the lost purse and these thoughts were left far behind. Nelly not only talked herself into a job-but Pulitzer voluntarily gave her a cash advance. He later financed her famous trip around the world, and made Nelly Bly a world-famous figure.

What few people ever knew was that her fame rested on a lost pocketbook that forced Nelly Bly to forgo doubts and misgivings and go after what she wanted.

Spring Symphony

By GORDON MARTIN There's a super kind of music 'round the neigh-borhood in spring, when the winter earth is wakin' and the birds are on the wing. On a warmin's breeze, the weekend brings a million springtime sounds, and just everywhere you look it seems like energy abounds. Everybody joins the orchestra at Lady Spring's command, and just listen — there's the down-beat—she's a-strikn' up the band.

Steady ringin' of a hammer sets the rhythm of the song, as a man repairs a saggin' fence and makes its pickets strong. Muffled singin' of a distant saw that of the timber clean and the timber clean and the same of the same the timber clean, so the trellis will be ready when the climbin' rose is green. Down the block a coughin' motor snorts, a-gulpin' for some gas—sure enough, it won't be long until a feller cuts his grass.

Chirpin' robins in the branches—Mama Redbreast kinda mad, keeps a-jawin' at old Robin who will soon become a dad. Blankets flappin' on the clothesline yearupe cleaners, meaning historical states.

flappin' on the clothesline, vacuum cleaners moanin' high, yellin' youngsters playin' one-o'-cat—kiss wintertime goodbye! Why there's sure no better music to be heard throughout the land, than the song you hear when Lady Spring is strikin' up the band.

The Nation's Press WHOSE WELFARE FUND?

(Chicago Daily Tribune) Under the new coal contract the mine operators are to collect sales tax of 30 cents a ton from all purchasers of coal, to be paid into welfare fund. The fund will receive something like 150 million dollars a year. The money is to be used to assist miners in sickness, pay them pensions in old age, and provide benefits for their widows and orphans,
To call this a sales tax is, of course, inaccurate if it is assumed that only governments can tax. It is a tax, however, in the sense that no user of coal, no matter how poor he may be, can avoid paying it. So far as the public is concerned, this is taxation without representation, ecause the fund will be managed by a board of three which the unon will dominate.

Unlike most other large insurance funds, this one, so far as we can determine, will not be subject or to audit by the insurance com-missioners of the various states, in the interest of the beneficiaries. For all practical purposes, 150 million dollars a year is being handed to John L. Lewis to do with as he pleases, to distribute under whatever regulations he chooses to make, with as much regard for equality among claimants and the solvency of the fund as he cares to impose on himself-

The possibilities of abuse are obviously manifold, particularly when it is remembered that the head of a union gets his job by a process of not even a free election, an indication that all members of the union are not equal in the eyes of the union's administration. On the same theory that some members may not vote for union officers, others may be deprived of pensions.

The remedy seems obvious. As the funds provide a form of insurance, they should be supervised and audited like any other similar enterprise. The individual miner should have a claim, enforceable in the courts, to his share of the re-serves and the benefits. If he decides to go into some other trade before he has reached the retirement age, he should be permitted to withdraw whatever has been accumulated for him, for it is part of his wages. If he can't get his money out, he is simply a serf of the union, bound to work in mines if he wishes to be secure in old age.
The matter is of greater import-country needs. Substitute fuels are reducing the demand for coal and mechanization of the mines has lessened the quantity of labor required per ton. It is to the interest of the miners and of the nation that the surplus men in the busi-ness find jobs that need them, Miners should not be encouraged to stay where they are by the knowledge that their income in old age and sickness depends on their doing

Here the interests of the public and of the miners themselves clash with those the union bosses of the union, for the larger the un-ion membership, the better for the union bosses, even if an inflated membership roll makes certain the insolvency of any pension plan set

The Doctor Says

1 - 1 A A A A I'M

BY EDWIN J. JORDAN, MD WRITTEN FOR NEA

"Adhesions" are often blamed for all kinds of pains and other symptoms for which no other cause can be_ found. In doing this people often have a very vague idea of what adhesions are and what they can do. Adhesions - are made up of tissue just like an ordinary scar on the skin. This consists of tiny, slightly elastic fibers called fibrous tissue. The body tends to respond to any infection or injury by forming fibrous tissue, This response is not related to the particular nature of the damage but is merely one of nature's attempts to heal. A scar on the skin is not called an adhesion, but on the inside portions of the body similar "scar" tissue may form and produce adhesions. If a patient has acute appendicitis and the appendix has tured, spilling the infection into the surrounding tissue, adhesions will often form. The same is true of many other internal infections,

The adhesions thus formed may or may not produce complications later on. Adhesions have a tendency to contract; if they have formed around a loop of the intestines, therefore, they may draw tighter and tighter, thus preventing the free flow of intestinal contents. This, in turn, can produce symptoms and may require an op-eration to cut these bands of fibrous tissue and free the parting strangled gut.

What to do for adhesions pends on where the adhesions are located, what normal structures of the body they surround, and what this contraction is doing to the organs involved. For all these reasons adhesions frequently are blamed for vague symptoms which cannot be blamed on anything else.

Anyone can see that pinning the blame on adhesions is lil to be difficult. Sometimes it can be done only by operation when the region under suspicion comes under the eyes of the surgeon.

Some people tend to develop adhesions much more easily than others. This raises a difficult problem because in such people new adhesions are likely to form even after old ones have been cut or removed. However, surgical methods are so good now that the number of recurrences of adhesions is greatly decreased. They can occur, nowever, even after meticulous surgery.

Dr. Jordan will answer questions from his readers in a special column once'a week. Watch for it.

Regular, scheduled raises are important feature of union contracts which the company offers to continue.

Under existing union contracts, which the company has offered to continue, 36,000, or three out of every four telephone people, will get raises this year. Averaged over all employees, these raises will amount to 5¢ per hour or $2 a week per employee.

Unlike most industries where an employee must wait for a vacancy in a higher-paid job before he can advance, telephone people get regular, scheduled raises from the day they start until they reach the top rate for their jobs.

Also, in this up-from-the-ranks business, several thousand telephone people move up the ladder to positions of greater responsibility and higher pay every year.

Basic wage rate increases have more than kept pace with increased costs of Provisions for the security of telephone people have improved, too.

The Plan also includes liberal sickness benefits—up to a year's full pay depending on length of service-plus disability, accident, and death benefits of as much as a year's pay. The plan doesn't cost employees a dime.

Working conditions are equally attractive under the contracts the company offers to continue.

Telephone people enjoy one to three weeks' paid vacation, depending on their length of service. Also, they get seven holidays a year with pay.

Judged by any standards you may choose, telephone jobs are good jobsas they should be to attract the able people it takes to give you good service.

WAGE INCREASES

Rate increases in Texas have covered less than a third of the current cost of wage increases already granted — to say nothing of other increased operating costs.

This has been a big factor in pulling the company's rate of earnings down to the lowest level in its history.

Obviously, any further increase in wages, beyond those already provided in existing contracts, will have to come from pockets of telephone customers.
