Germans 20 Miles Inside Northern Caucasus

Pampa Sale Of Victory Bonds Doubles

"Elbow" Of Volga River Threatened

Voronezh Still Halts Nazis On Drive To Oil

By CLYDE A. FARNSWORTH Associated Press War Editor A German foothold some 20 miles inside the northern Caucasus and another on the northernmost rim were officially conceded today by the Russians while the sanguinary struggle for Voronezh on the north flank of the enemy's menacing bulge along the Don river attained a new degree of ferocity.

In the battle of Egypt, the western world's other active war theater, Axis troops had forced re-occupation of their position before El Alamein, "partially" reestablishing themselves on a coastal height, the hill of Jesus, as the British reported it.

The African conflict, however, still played second fiddle to that in Russia.

Since launching their latest all-out effort in Russia on June 23, the Germans have won effective control of an additional 25,000 square miles of Russian territory—some 4,000 more than the area of West Virginia—although not all Russian forces therein have been mopped up.

Pressing behind two spearheads eastward from this bulge, the Germans threaten to crash on through to the Stalingrad elbow of the Volga river, less than 200 miles away, and easing the way for direct penetrations of the oil-bearing region farther south.

The north Caucasus is one of Russia's principal agricultural regions.

Repeated Axis reports are correct, the German advance through Boguchar has carried well beyond the southeast. These advances last located the point of this spearhead at Migulinsk, 160 miles northwest of Stalingrad, industrial capital of the lower Volga.

The Russians have acknowledged fighting southeast of Boguchar and in reporting loss of Millerovo, admitted that fighting there had carried to the southeast. Millerovo, a link between Russia's northern and southern Caucasian armies, is 175 miles west of Stalingrad.

The British said today that a German light infantry regiment flown to North Africa from the Greek island of Crete had been incorporated in the forces of Marshal Rommel before El Alamein, thus confirming previous reports to this effect.

There was the suggestion here that the Allied watch over the sea ways and bombardment of African ports had forced the Germans to ferry their reinforcements by air.

Rommel's forced success at the year.

A huge convoy, 630,000 bushels for the nation, has filled up all of the storage space throughout the grain belt. Farmers are storing wheat in their living quarters, automobiles, hotels, and schools, and even their muck of it is just piled up on the ground exposed to the weather.

Combined with the storage emergency, the grain industry received a threat of a strike by workers in seven Kansas City flour mills unless wages were increased.

Howard L. Frier, business agent for the four and cereal workers union, said the union had rejected an offer of five cents an hour increase.

Neither the present scale nor the union's requested increase was disclosed. The union delayed action until tomorrow.

Volunteers Cut County Draft Call

Names of men to be called for military service from Gray county on Saturday, July 25, and on Tuesday, July 28, were released today by the Gray County Selective Service board.

Although there are 19 names on the list, the total is cut down because following official practice, the names of volunteers who have already enlisted, are included.

On the first call, the men will report at 301 Court House at 9:30 a. m. Friday, July 24, and leave on the 11 a. m. bus the same day for the induction station at Lubbock.

Names on this list are Melvin Glenn Buzbee, Clarence Ernest Lewis, David Dudley West, James Robert Brown, Kenneth Francis Bennett, Paul Alex Schneider, volunteer officer candidates; William Harvey Moore, Las Vegas, Nev.; John Allen Butler, transfer from Independence, Kas.; Wilfred Edwin McElhannon, transfer from Paris, Ark.

Enlistments recorded are: John Henry Jenkins, coast guard, July 3; John Raymond Powell, navy, Vernon Rolland Stuckey, army, June 25; Homer Kelley Kitchens, navy, June 26; Thomas William Kitchens, navy, June 26; Bennett Fielding Love, army, June 25; Charles Clement Frayne, army, June 27; Robert Scriven Carter, navy, July 11.

Negroes will be called on the following draft quota. They will report at 9:30 a. m. Monday, July 27, at 301 Court House, and will leave at 11 o'clock that morning by bus for the induction station at Lubbock.

Answering this call will be Ernest Adams, Pampa, and Coss Strona Bowie, Coolidge, Ariz.

Democrats Of Oklahoma Name Kerr Governor

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 16 (AP)—Robert S. Kerr, Democratic national committee man, apparently clinched his party nomination for governor by a margin of 10,000 to 12,000 votes in Tuesday's primary election, incomplete unofficial returns showed.

Kerr held a lead of 11,875 over Gomer Smith in unofficial reports from all except 135 of the state's 3,674 precincts, tabulations of the Oklahoma-Times and Associated Press election service showed.

The vote was: Kerr, 143,109; Smith, 131,234; Frank P. Douglass, 93,717.

Kerr maintained a steady lead of near the same figure throughout the four Colorado river dams from the final tabulation would give him the safe margin. However, the vote was

Austin Pilots Start Volunteer Patrol Job

AUSTIN, July 16 (AP)—First flights of the volunteer air patrol over the lower section of the Colorado river were made this week as one of several steps to safeguard the four Colorado river dams from possible sabotage, Max Starcke, manager of the Lower Colorado River authority, announced.

Instituted by a group of Austin fliers owning private planes, the patrol will check over a 100-mile area from Lake Austin to 15 miles above Buchanan dam for damage to transmission lines, strange planes, camps and brush fires. Any unusual conditions will be reported.

The patrol supplements the other safeguarding measures for the four dams.

95th Formally Made Part Of U. S. Army

(By The Associated Press) CAMP SWIFT, July 16 (AP)—Thousands of Central Texans thronged this immense new military reservation to witness an impressive ceremony which formally made the 95th infantry division part of the U. S. Army.

They heard Major Gen. Harry L. Twaddle, the 95th commanding officer, promise that he and his officers and men will work hard to make the division a real fighting unit, "ready to fight in any theater of operations to which we may be sent."

They viewed the many pieces of equipment with which the division will train and fight.

And they saw some 600 trainees, rawest of the war recruits, unloosed from the vehicles in which they arrived at a nearby station and be transported into their barracks in the military cantonment.

High military and civil officials present for the activation ceremony yesterday included Brig. Gen. Alfred H. Gruenther, chief of staff of the third army; Gov. Coke R. Stevenson; Brig. Gen. A. D. Bruce, tank destroyer commander at Camp Hood; Brig. Gen. Robert L. Spragens, assistant commander of the 95th division; Brig. Gen. Ward H. Harris, the division's artillery commander; and Brig. Gen. J. Watt Page, adjutant general of Texas.

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—The war labor board expected to announce today a wage increase of 44 cents a day in "little steel," the most significant wage decision it has been called on to make so far.

The CIO United Steelworkers, headed by Philip Murray, had made a five-month fight for an increase of $1 a day over the present basic common labor wage of $5.80 for 157,900 workers of Bethlehem, Republic and Inland Steel, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube company Employer and public members approved the 44 cents, out-voting the four labor members who stood fast for a larger sum, authoritative sources who refused quotation by name said last night.

In Pittsburgh Murray met with a committee of 125 union representatives from the four mills to decide whether to accept the board's ruling. He said there was a precedent in refusing to abide by a WLB decision—the case of a midwestern rail operator who subsequently worked out an understanding direct with employees.

The labor board decision was said to give the union a maintenance of membership clause, the company checkoff of union dues, and the minimum daily wage guarantee.

The decision was generally considered far-reaching, since the higher rates might be applied throughout steel generally, affecting about 600,000 workers. About 400,000 automobile plant workers, also seeking $1 a day increase, have their cases before the board. The basic formula used by the board in "little steel" was awaited as an indicator of what can be expected in other decisions in durable goods industries.

Former Pampa Teacher Saved From Drowning

E. N. Dennard, superintendent of schools at Marshall and formerly a teacher in the Pampa schools, was saved from drowning yesterday at Cross lake, La., when the boat in which he and Dr. S. A. Telley, also of Marshall, and an unidentified army captain were fishing, overturned in a squall which struck the lake.

The small boat occupied by the three men overturned and only heroic work of Coach R. B. Schaag, assistant football coach at Fair Park High school, and J. E. Noble, paint contractor, saved the lives of the party and two others who had gone to their rescue.

Dennard and the army captain were clinging to their overturned boat but the doctor had attempted to swim to shore.

SHREVEPORT, La., July 16 (AP)—A heroic rescue saved five persons from drowning when a small motor Cross lake late yesterday afternoon, overturning small fishing craft.

One of the five rescued, Dr. S. A. Tenney of Marshall, Texas, was about to sink when he was pulled from the water by R. B. Schaag, assistant football coach at Fair Park High school, and J. E. Noble, paint contractor.

Dr. Tenney and two companions, E. N. Dennard, superintendent of schools of Marshall, and an unidentified army captain, were rescued after they had clung to the side of their small capsized boat for nearly an hour.

Two other persons, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gardner, operators of a boat landing, who went to the rescue of Dr. Tenney and his companions, were rescued nearly exhausted after their small boat had capsized in the stiff wind.

Allred Calls Off Truce With O'Daniel

(By The Associated Press) James V. Allred today announced that he has withdrawn his offer to declare a truce in the senatorial campaign to permit Senator W. Lee O'Daniel to return to Washington to vote on the price control bill.

"Since the senator has said he is not interested in my offer to cease political speeches until he could vote on the war inflation measure, I feel it only fair to withdraw the suggestion," said Allred in a statement.

"It has been 48 hours since I wired him and his only reply is through the newspapers. . . . I am going ahead with my campaign."

Every Clerk In Pampa Urged To Sell War Bonds

"Every clerk in Pampa has a patriotic duty for the remainder of July to enter the big War Bond and Stamp sales contest," Hollis Keys, chairman of the Retailers for Victory committee said this morning.

Ninety-five dollars in war bonds and stamps will be awarded as prizes, a fifty dollar bond, a twenty-five dollar bond, and two prizes of ten dollars in stamps each.

Clerks are particularly urged to boost the American Heroes Day plans by urging all citizens of the Top O' Texas to buy at least one bond immediately and dedicating it to some boy in the armed service so that his name may be placed on the roll of honor tomorrow night when Pampa honors the present day American Heroes.

Clip out the blank found in yesterday's Pampa News, fill in your name and mail or bring it to the Pampa Chamber of Commerce office in the City Hall immediately.

All store managers are being urged by the Retailers for Victory committee to assist that all clerks, not just one in a store, compete in the contest.

Among the clerks who have already announced intentions of competing in the contest are the following:

Mrs. James Culpepper, Woolworth's; Jerome Walsh, Harris Food; Carl Sexton, Byrd Grocery; Claude Coble, Pure Food Store; H. C. Johnson, J. C. Penny Co.; Paul Hill, C. R. Anthony Co.; Bob Miller, Murfee's, Inc.; Miss Mildred Overall, Pampa Hardware & Supply Co.; Mrs. Ed Jones, Levine's; Mrs. E. F. Adams, Murfee's, Inc.; Mrs. George Woodhouse, Crystal Palace; Mrs. Mattie B. Hazard, J. C. Penny Co.

Pampa Clerks In Race To Win War Bonds For Sales

Double the number of Victory bonds sold in the first report, was announced today, as Pampa clerks speeded up their Retailers for Victory campaign, and 25 bonds were sold, each dedicated to a man in the armed forces. This makes 29 bonds in all that have been sold in conjunction with the observance of American Heroes day, which will be held tomorrow.

Rommel's Tanks At Tel El Eisa Station

By HARRY CROCKETT WITH THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY AT EL ALAMEIN, July 15 (Delayed AP)—Paced by the usual wave of dive-bombers, Marshal Rommel's tanks which led a force of at least 500 infantrymen, smashed against Australian defenders of the Tel El Eisa railroad station last night and succeeded in occupying it.

Today the battle still was going on after a night of the most spectacular artillery fire yet seen in the current phase of the desert war.

All through yesterday afternoon the exchange of shell fire was continuous as the German forces gradually disengaged from the South Africans to the south and moved north against the Australians holding the railroad.

As the evening wore on, with the setting sun shining in their eyes, the Australians stopped push after push, smashing at the Nazi infantry with rifles and bayonets, and taking a heavy toll of the armored forces. Artillery from the South African positions to the south also exacted a toll.

The German tanks finally reached the station, which is of itself an unimportant spot, but were unable to push any farther.

By 9 p. m. the Australian, South African and British artillery and anti-tank guns had stopped the tank attack completely, destroying at least seven of the machines.

The entire German forward movement was only a matter of yards.

The maneuver by which the Germans attacked resulted in two Ausis companies being cut off. But these bayonet-swinging veterans sliced their way through to the north.

A few Germans were captured and these were found not to be of front line quality. Some anti-aircraft guns and light artillerymen were being used as infantrymen, and the British considered this a good sign.

Throughout the night the sky was lit by the flash of shells.

U. S. Bombers Blast Axis Base In Libya

CAIRO, July 16 (AP)—Heavy bombers of the United States Army Air Force made a daylight attack on the Axis base of Bengasi, Libya, yesterday, starting a large dock fire.

The bombing was one phase of the continuing battle of the western desert in which RAF and Allied planes attacked the Axis armies "in force" at the front.

On the ground the German-Italian forces of Marshal Erwin Rommel were reported to be giving ground on the central front west of El Alamein, but British headquarters acknowledged that the Germans had achieved some gains in the coastal zone and "partially succeeded" in re-establishing themselves at El Eisa.

By VICTORY BONDS—Nazi Spy Documents Read To Commission WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—The military commission trying eight Nazi saboteurs devoted this morning's session to hearing read documents already in evidence.

It was a 21-year-old coast guardman who set the FBI on a successful hunt for the Nazi saboteurs after their landing on the American coast from submarines.

Spotting the fog-veiled arrival of one group on Long Island, John C. Cullen, seaman second class, outwitted them with pretended acceptance of a bribe and then spread the alarm which brought discovery of the Nazis and their hidden supplies.

The coast guard's official narrative of Cullen's night encounter was told by the office of war information yesterday as the Nazis, on trial for their lives, were confronted with "a very long statement" made by one of them to their captors.

A Chinese communique also said a Chinese force "penetrated into the Japanese barracks at Singang," an invasion base in Southern Honan province, and killed or wounded many Japanese soldiers and slaughtered 100 horses.

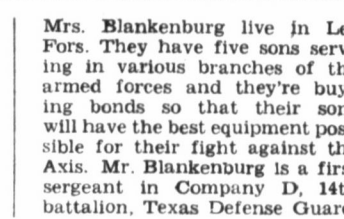

Chinese dispatches also said more than 2,000 Japanese were killed or wounded in fighting east of Hsiaooy in Central Shansi province.

Buck Newsom Not For Sale, Clark Griffith Declares
 WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—Owner Clark C. Griffith of the Washington Senators threw cold water today on reports he intended trading big Buck Newsom to the Brooklyn Dodgers—or any other club.

"There's nothing to it," snapped Griffith, the "Old Fox" of the baseball trade marts. "That's old stuff. It goes back to March."
 Brooklyn wanted to buy Newsom, a Dodger by temperament, from Detroit during the spring training season, but Washington and St. Louis refused to waive the big righthander out of the American league. Newsom wound up with the Senators and his record so far this season has been far short of spectacular.

Until Griffith spoke up he was reported in baseball circles as being anxious to dispose of Newsom, whose $18,000 a year salary has been a headache to the Washington owner all season.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, July 16 (AP)—To inflate or not to inflate? That was the question which dominated the stock market today and kept most dealers in a narrowly irregular area.
 Quotations dipped moderately in the forenoon.
 The ticker halted at frequent intervals and transfers for the full proceedings approximated 275,000 shares.
 The market's inflationary temperature, which has received the principal credit for the June-July upswing, cooled somewhat when it was reported the administration was considering a move for wage-price legislation.
 Stocks retained their equilibrium in the face of word "Little Steel" workers had been granted a 4-cent daily pay boost. Occasional price marks were pinned on U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic and Youngstown sheet.
 Resistant was displayed by Chrysler, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Westinghouse, Eastman Kodak, Standard Oil (N. J.), Western Union, Oliver Farm, and Consolidated Edison. Goodrich touched a new year's top.
 In the rear division the greater part of the time were Anacosta, DuPont, General Electric, Sears Roebuck, International Nickel, U. S. Gypsum, Douglas Aircraft, and Texas Co.
 Bonds were a shade uneven.

CHICAGO GRAIN
 CHICAGO, July 16 (AP)—Persistent selling pressure throughout the session forced wheat and other grains lower today.
 Wheat sold off a full cent in the first few minutes, staged a mild rally around midday and then backed down to below the previous lows. Stop loss orders were caught on the late act-back, accelerating the downturn. Other grains moved in sympathy with the bread cereal.
 Wheat closed 1/2 cent lower, July 1.18 1/2, September 1.19 1/2. Corn was off 3/4 cent, July 87 1/2, September 90 1/2. Oats lost 3/4 cent, July 27 1/2, and soybeans were unchanged to 1/4 lower.

Petroleum Picture Steadily Improving, Culberson Says

By BRACK CURRY

AUSTIN, July 16 (AP)—Railroad Commissioner Olin Culberson today pointed to "brighter days" for Texas oil prospects and predicted the oil transportation bottleneck would be broken "in the immediate future."

"The commissioner asserted that fuel oils, gasolines and necessary war products would have an increased outlet to the eastern coast as a result of the assurance given by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox that the convoy system would soon be extended to the Gulf of Mexico."

Culberson said that in his opinion the entire petroleum picture was improving with each week. Oil producers of Texas, he declared in an interview, may look forward to better days with the completion of the pipe line program, the intercoastal canal, transportation by railroad and the addition of convoys.

"Under the assured convoy system, Parton's accomplishment bears every promise of breaking the transportation bottleneck in the immediate future."

Culberson termed the Longview-to-Illinois pipe line authorized by the war production board one of the biggest wartime steps yet taken to break the transportation bottleneck throttling the state's oil industry.

"Nothing can replace pipe lines in meeting the East's minimum petroleum need of 1,300,000 barrels daily," he stated. "To my mind, pipe lines are the most important from the viewpoint of defense and of future utilization."

With war production board priorities, the 24-inch steel pipeline will be completed by Dec. 1 under government ownership.

"In comparing the value of pipe lines and tankers, it must be remembered that the pipeline is a 24-hour proposition," the commissioner explained.

"The Longview-to-Illinois pipe line when completed will kick out 200,000 to 300,000 barrels every day while 13 to 14 days are required for a tanker with 100,000 barrel capacity to make the round trip from the Gulf coast to the East."

"I am hopeful of an extension of the line across the Alleghenies to give us direct access to the East," he added. "This would take us out of the mercy of high tanker rates, where we have always been."

The projected oil artery will decrease the cost of transportation from producing fields in Texas to the big Northern refineries, Culberson said, saying that "there is a big difference in the cost of transportation from Houston to the East and from Illinois refineries to the East."

Kansas and Oklahoma, Culberson explained, are taking oil from storage to meet demands of Eastern consumers, and "with rapidly decreasing production in these two states, this new pipeline will insure an increase in the flow of East Texas oil to take the place of oil from Kansas and Oklahoma."

RIO GRANDE

Responsible for the natural rubber program is A. C. Brett, whose title is deputy co-ordinator of the WPB rubber section.

"The rubber content of the cryptostegia plant is high," commented Brett. "We certainly are hopeful that it may turn out to be an important source of rubber, and I think the chances are very good that it will be exploited successfully."

He declared that the only drawback to the plant now was the difficulty in tapping and getting its latex-bearing milk to processing plants. It was in the hopes that present methods might be improved, not only for processing cryptostegia but other rubber plants, that the Philadelphia meeting was called.

Brett said that the scientists all had been experimenting for years with the cryptostegia plant, which is a vine-like shrub. The purpose of the meeting, he added, was to let them know that the government was strongly behind this research and would lend all possible aid for stimulating the studies.

Speaking of foreign supplies, Brett observed that negotiations were going on now between the state department and the Mexican government, with the Board of Economic Warfare participating in discussions, relative to cooperation between the United States and Mexico in developing rubber production below the Rio Grande.

He said that some agreement should be reached within the next week or 10 days that would permit a rubber production program to get under way in Mexico in cooperation with officials of this government.

Development of cryptostegia would be one of these sources, he added. It grows wild in both desert soils and in well watered areas. Those backing its development declared that hundreds of thousands of acres on both sides of the Rio Grande valley are ideally suited for its production.

One of its principal advantages over guayule is that it is simply tapped for its rubber cement, while in the case of guayule the entire plant is cut up and crushed to a pulp. Because the cryptostegia plant is so small, it is not very practical to tap it with a small milk bucket as is done with heavy trees, said Brett. Consequently, the best known method is to clip off a top of the plant periodically, and process the shorn tops to obtain the milk.

One of the possible sources in Mexico, Brett added, was harvesting of some rubber tree plantations that had been set out about 30 years ago, then abandoned because the Far East production made their operation unprofitable.

Asked at his press conference whether the war department still believed these men would be needed for the army, Stimson replied that "we have never had a great war in which we did not find it necessary to call up both these classes."

He reminded reporters that some young married men already were being drafted under the selective service law, and said also he believed it would be necessary eventually to lower the draft age to 18.

HEROES DAY

Mothers club committee, the idea is for men, women, and children to bring their picnic breakfasts to the park, eat the morning meal there, listen to a nation-wide radio program, and buy Victory bonds and stamps at three booths that will be set up in the park, according to Mrs. Belle Wells, committee member.

Next event on the program of the day, following the breakfast tomorrow morning, will be the rally to be held at 8 o'clock that night.

A flat bed truck and a public address system will be put in front of the LaNora theater, in the 100 block on N. Cuyler, which will be roped off between Foster and Kingsmill.

Hicks To Direct Program
Dr. H. H. Hicks has been named as master of ceremonies.

Booths will be put up at each end of the block. Victory bonds will be sold at one, Victory stamps at the other. O. K. Gaylor, assistant Pampa postmaster is in charge of salesmen who will be volunteers from the local post office.

Hitler and his pals will be seen at the rally, according to Hoyt West, in charge of stunts for the demonstration.

Dr. W. Calvin Jones is another who will take part in the program. Principal speech at the rally will be given by Walter E. Rogers, county Victory band and stamp sales chairman.

W. C. deCordova, chairman of the old time dance that is to follow the rally, said it had been planned to start the dance at 9:30 o'clock at the Junior High school gymnasium.

Exact status of the admission question was cleared by the dance committee chairman who said it would work like this:

It will require purchase of a 25 cent Victory stamp to get inside the Junior High gymnasium. Even if you simply go in to watch the dance, the cost is still a 25 cent stamp.

The purchaser will keep the stamp; it won't be taken from him.

In order to dance, the purchaser must then buy dance tickets. Two dance tickets will be given for the purchase of each 10 cent stamp.

For each dance, it will cost the customer another stamp.

Music for the occasion is being donated. Mr. deCordova said, also donated are the services of the janitor who will clean up the gymnasium after the dance is over.

Tickets can be obtained at the ticket office at the entrance to the gymnasium, where two extra service men will be on duty.

The dance will last an indefinite time.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief
Many ailments relieve nagging backaches quickly, even though they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, indigestion and dizziness. Frequent or easy passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Don's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Don's Pills.

Petroleum Picture Steadily Improving, Culberson Says

AUSTIN, July 16 (AP)—Railroad Commissioner Olin Culberson today pointed to "brighter days" for Texas oil prospects and predicted the oil transportation bottleneck would be broken "in the immediate future."

"The commissioner asserted that fuel oils, gasolines and necessary war products would have an increased outlet to the eastern coast as a result of the assurance given by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox that the convoy system would soon be extended to the Gulf of Mexico."

Culberson said that in his opinion the entire petroleum picture was improving with each week. Oil producers of Texas, he declared in an interview, may look forward to better days with the completion of the pipe line program, the intercoastal canal, transportation by railroad and the addition of convoys.

"Under the assured convoy system, Parton's accomplishment bears every promise of breaking the transportation bottleneck in the immediate future."

Culberson termed the Longview-to-Illinois pipe line authorized by the war production board one of the biggest wartime steps yet taken to break the transportation bottleneck throttling the state's oil industry.

"Nothing can replace pipe lines in meeting the East's minimum petroleum need of 1,300,000 barrels daily," he stated. "To my mind, pipe lines are the most important from the viewpoint of defense and of future utilization."

With war production board priorities, the 24-inch steel pipeline will be completed by Dec. 1 under government ownership.

"In comparing the value of pipe lines and tankers, it must be remembered that the pipeline is a 24-hour proposition," the commissioner explained.

"The Longview-to-Illinois pipe line when completed will kick out 200,000 to 300,000 barrels every day while 13 to 14 days are required for a tanker with 100,000 barrel capacity to make the round trip from the Gulf coast to the East."

"I am hopeful of an extension of the line across the Alleghenies to give us direct access to the East," he added. "This would take us out of the mercy of high tanker rates, where we have always been."

The projected oil artery will decrease the cost of transportation from producing fields in Texas to the big Northern refineries, Culberson said, saying that "there is a big difference in the cost of transportation from Houston to the East and from Illinois refineries to the East."

Kansas and Oklahoma, Culberson explained, are taking oil from storage to meet demands of Eastern consumers, and "with rapidly decreasing production in these two states, this new pipeline will insure an increase in the flow of East Texas oil to take the place of oil from Kansas and Oklahoma."

 SAN FRANCISCO, July 16 (AP)—The government confiscated my father's breakfast," remarked the marine corps major.
 "I had just dozed from the tropics bringing Dad a package of mangoes. He loves 'em," he explained to friends. "But the plant quarantine said Dad will have to eat something else because the mangoes were infected with Mediterranean fruit fly."
 "The friends made noises indicating sympathy."

89 Fighting Ships Lost By Jap Navy Since Pearl Harbor

(By The Associated Press)
 The Japanese navy has lost 89 fighting ships since Pearl Harbor, an Associated Press compilation of official announcements from the U. S. army, navy and General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia disclosed today.
 Similar announcements disclose 48 U. S. naval craft of all categories, including auxiliaries, lost on all sea fronts since the submarine-sinking of the Reuben James in the North Atlantic, Oct. 30, 1941. Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) of the naval affairs committee several months ago estimated the Japanese navy had 260 fighting craft.

O'Daniel Displays Unfitness To Be Senator, James Allred Says

By WILLIAM E. KEYS
 WACO, July 16 (AP)—James V. Allred moved his U. S. Senate campaign blasts against W. Lee O'Daniel to the Palestine-Groveton-Nacogdoches sector today.

In this crossroads of the statewide political trails last night he asked a McLennan county audience to ponder O'Daniel's qualifications to meet the problems of a war-conscious nation and state in view of what he said was O'Daniel's failure to:

Approve a bill by the Texas legislature levying death as the maximum sentence for sabotage; Support the president by voting to disband the army of selectees a few days before Pearl Harbor; Realize the tragedy of Bataan, the sacrifice of Americans on the deserts of the East, and the fact that the fate of the nation and the destiny of the republic might in the next six years rest in the hands of one senator.

nomination June 13, Allred declared O'Daniel then displayed his unfitness for office by declaring he brought good news to the people.

"This good news," Allred said, "was a declaration that there ain't going to be no runoff, the war will end sooner than we think, and there will be no gasoline rationing in Texas."

"How can he say this when we haven't won back one inch of the land taken by Japan, when our Russian allies are being turned back, when subs are in the Gulf of Mexico and landing spies upon our shores and when two weeks ago Texas boys 18 and 19 years of age had to register for a possible rendezvous with death?" Allred asked.

"Out of the same ether that brought tragic news came the call for a fiddle and a tune and the melodious voice of Texas Rose," Allred asserted.

He was cheered frequently by an audience that filled a goodly portion of the court house square.

Before his Waco appearance Allred spoke at Cameron to a country gathering of Czech descendants to whom he declared O'Daniel's failure to support the president's recommendation to keep intact the army of selectees was the sort of thinking that resulted in the trampling of Czechoslovakia by Hitler's forces.

His Cameron speech was punctuated by one admirer who exclaimed: "Pour it on them sailor."

To his Waco audience he referred to what he said was O'Daniel's failure to sign the anti-sabotage bill passed by the legislature and declared:

"As governor I probably had more of the ordeal of passing on life and death than any other governor. It is not an easy matter. But these are trying times and we ought to let saboteurs know that they are going to face death when they attempt to destroy our war industries."

O'Daniel, in filing the bill in the secretary of state's office, signed his signature, said in a message, Allred asserted:

"I have not approved this bill for the reason that the same carries a penalty ranging from two years in the penitentiary to death. I am opposed to the death penalty and cannot conscientiously approve any bill which carries a penalty of death for its violations."

Allred declared there was no foundation to statements that he had arranged to be reappointed to the federal bench if he is not elected to the senate.

Allred predicted his successor to the judgeship would be appointed before July 25, adding:

"I'm hoping on being beat in this election. I'm going to the United States Senate."

O'Daniel, he said, was running about the state, accompanied by "a Siamese twin candidate for governor in a motor caravan using 32 tires, without the spares, on the pretext of conserving gasoline and rubber."

Allred drew a laugh from his audience when in referring to some of O'Daniel's platform statements he (Allred) stroked an imaginary guitar.

"The war can't be won by strumming banjos and bull fiddles," he said.

"It will be won by all of us working together under the leadership of serious men who will back Roosevelt."

"Do you want a senator who thinks like Roosevelt, or who thinks like Wheeler and Nye?"

Ed Dudley To Play On American Course

DETROIT, July 16 (AP)—Big Ed Dudley, 40-year-old veteran from Colorado Springs who played on the three American Ryder Cup golf teams but never on American soil, gets his big chance this week-end as substitute for Slammin' Sammy Snead in the Red Cross relief matches.

Dudley, originally named to Walter Hagen's challenge squad, was shifted to the Cuppers, yesterday when Snead was unable to arrange leave from the Norfolk, Va., base where he is in training with the navy. Sgt. Jim Turnesa of Fort Dix, N. J., runner-up to Snead for the recent National P. G. A. championship, will replace Dudley on the challenge squad.

There were no other changes, although Hagen announced he had received permission from Craig Wood, Cup captain, to split a 36-hole assignment with Al Watrous of Detroit in foursome matches Saturday. Singles competition is scheduled Sunday.

Vichy Protests U. S. Dealing With De Gaulle

VICHY, July 16 (AP)—The Vichy government officially protested today to Washington against assignment of military representatives to Gen. Charles de Gaulle, declaring this "constitutes an attack on the sovereignty of France."

"An authorized source declared it was 'inadmissible' that the American government, 'which is maintaining normal relations with the French government, also maintain relations with a rebel force.'"

(The United States department of state announced July 9 that Admiral Harold R. Stark and Brig. Gen. Charles L. Bolte had been assigned to consult in London with the national committee of the fighting French headed by General de Gaulle "on all matters relating to the conduct of the war.")

(The announcement and an accompanying memorandum stressed that the purpose was to strengthen military aid to the fighting French, and did not refer to the controversy over diplomatic recognition, which the United States has not given the de Gaulle organization.)

(The protest was announced pending publication of the French stand concerning French warships interned at Alexandria. The latter was understood to reject all proposals to move the ships elsewhere than to French territory, on the grounds that to do so would not conform with French-German armistice terms.)

(The state department announced in Washington two days ago that Vichy had already rejected two proposals by President Roosevelt for removal of the nine demilitarized French naval vessels from the Egyptian war zone.)

(President Roosevelt proposed that the ships be moved through the Suez canal under American custody to some American or neutral port for internment until after the war, when they would be returned to France. When this plan was rejected, he suggested that the ships be sent under U. S. protective custody to Martinique, French West Indian island, for demobilization.)

(Vichy was warned that rejection would justify the British in ordering the ships moved or in destroying them if removal orders were not heeded.)

(As indicated by the following, the French public apparently was informed concerning the American proposals only today and still did not know that they had been rejected by Vichy.)

The papers this morning for the first time published parts of a statement by Acting U. S. Secretary of State Sumner Welles, who had been negotiating the French squadron, but cautiously refrained from all comment while awaiting publication by Chief of Government Laval of details of the negotiations.)

The Welles statement was given in two paragraphs, consisting only of direct quotations, with nothing added except the words, "Mr. Sumner Welles declared today." (Welles' statement was made at a press conference on Tuesday.)

Sale Of Common Stock In Steel Company Ended

DALLAS, July 16 (AP)—Sale of common stock and debentures was completed yesterday for the 600,000 in working capital for the Lone Star Steel company as local interests sought to establish in Texas the first unit of the vast steel industry. Fred F. Florence, chairman of the company's finance company, announced that the sale of the Lone Star Steel company, president, and W. W. Lynch, secretary, left for Washington to request the Defense Plant corporation to proceed with construction of a $14,850,000 plant near Dalmierfield. The plant is to be leased to Lone Star Steel for operation, with an option to buy at the end of the lease period.

Lamar Highway Bridge Opened

(By The Associated Press) AUSTIN, July 16.—Military and civilian traffic in the Central Texas area was spanning the Colorado river today over the Lamar state highway bridge, a new link in the nation's network of strategic military highways. Terminating dedicatory ceremonies yesterday, a stirring military parade composed of 75 units of mechanized equipment, guns and motor vehicles from Camp Swift thundered across the bridge after descendants of President Mirabeau B. Lamar, second chief executive of the Republic of Texas, for whom the bridge was named, snipped a barrier.

Gov. Coke R. Stevenson termed the span "a splendid manifestation of the people working together for the common good through their recognized and established public agencies."

Robert Lee Bobbitt, state highway commissioner, in an address said that "the bridge will serve as an added highway transportation facility for both military and civilian purposes in connection with U. S. highway 81, a major route on the national network of strategic military highways and on the intercontinental highway route extending from Alaska through Canada, the United States, Mexico, Central and South America."

Here's A Letter To Your Soldier

Pampa, Texas
July 16, 1942

Dear _____

You wouldn't think such a business term as "bonds" could arouse much excitement, but that's exactly what's happening in Pampa now, as the city prepares to go all-out in the county-wide campaign to raise the July quota.

If you think the folks back home have just been doing some flag-waving and that's all, you're wrong, for they're really putting on the steam to have as many Victory bonds and stamps sold here tomorrow as possible.

The July quota for Gray county is $164,300 and we still have $100,000 to go, but with all Pampa a bond market tomorrow, there ought to be some sizeable sum raised to buy you ammunition, guns, planes, tanks, food, and the thousand other items your job requires.

Starting off the day tomorrow is the big Community Victory breakfast at Central park. Then there will be a big rally downtown that night, followed with an old-time dance. Clerks in all the stores this week are competing to see who can sell the most bonds.

By now, however, you probably have heard enough of business and politics, so I'll turn to the vital statistics department.

Wedding bells have rung out for Inez Cooper of Pampa, Jack Richardson of Houston; Alice Marie McDonnell and Stanley Gordon; Mary Helen Desera and Pvt. Eugene Miller; Elizabeth Lemmons of Tyler and Andrew Walker of Pampa, now of Grand Prairie; Vina Lou Pinson of Duncan, Okla., and Howard Moore of White Deer; Miss Geraldine Morse of Corsicana and Everette Sparks of Hopkins.

Recent enlistments have included Jack Harold Osborne, Miami, class V-5, aviation cadet, navy; Alva G. King and Robert C. Sowder, both of Pampa, navy; Clinton S. Deelen and John K. Lee, both of McLean, marines; James C. Pierce, Pampa, coast guard.

Two veterans of World War I were in the bunch of 35 draftees sent from here recently. They were Ray Albert Thompson and Joseph Patrick O'Marra. Also in the group was Joseph Lindley, 43, father of a son reported missing on Corregidor.

Now, here is a surprise—there's no more baseball in Pampa. The West Texas-New Mexico league has been disbanded for the duration, insufficient crowds, the rationing, and the possibility of gasoline rationing, are the reasons.

Joe Isaacs, who played left field for the Oilers, is now with the Dallas Rebels and has been going like a house afire in batting at a lively clip.

Andy Mohrlock, pitcher has gone to the Cards and is now with Decatur, Ill. in the Three-I league. Schmidt, pitcher and Buckel, third baseman, are with Idaho Falls in the Pioneer league.

Pampa had a big bond election recently, to decide the question of voting on a $15,000 bond issue to drill three water wells at the bomber school east of here. Although the vote was comparatively light, the measure carried 427 to 12.

John Reinhart of Oklahoma City and E. G. Johnson of Norman, contractors for the buildings at the school, have arrived in town and established an office in the old City Food store building at Foster and Russell.

Birth announcements include: Mr. and Mrs. Dale Wears of Roswell, N. M., formerly of Pampa, daughter, Virginia Ann; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Scarberry, son, David Carroll; Mr. and Mrs. William H. (Bill) Kelley of Wickett, son, William H. Kelley II; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cullen, son, Cecil Ray; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Triplehorn of Houston, formerly of Pampa, daughter, Carol; Mr. and Mrs. John McPartland, of Dallas, daughter, Mary Theresa; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Andis, daughter, Bobbie Lee; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph West, daughter, Edith Rosella.

Most of the crew were asleep below decks when the torpedoes struck, enveloping the bridge and the forward part in a sheet of flame.

The master and many ship officers lost their lives. The missing and believed dead included: Carl F. Eickhoff, Highlands, Tex.; Fred W. Carlile, Goose Creek, Tex.; Harold J. Kieyle, Baytown, Tex.; William J. Roberts, Houston, Tex.; Thomas L. Hooper, Galveston, Tex.; Jack Reed, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Hospitalized for injuries were: John B. Stirling, Goose Creek, Tex.; Earl J. Heavner, Houston, Tex.

Request For New Wage Stabilization Being Prepared

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—Threatened with a partial collapse of the price control system, the administration was reported today to be preparing a request for new legislation built around some form of wage stabilization.

President Roosevelt has discussed the situation with congressional leaders several times in recent weeks. Informed congressmen who declined quotation by name said the president was about ready to make known the remedial steps he and price control officials believe should be taken.

As a result, members of congress who had been looking forward to a recess of several weeks starting in about ten days were being told quietly that they might have to revise their plans.

Rising farm prices, which have not yet reached the statutory ceiling in the basic price control act, already have caused Leon Henderson, price administrator, to make the ceiling on canned and dried fruits.

Henderson told a house committee yesterday that the price control program was in danger of breaking down and that wage control was the next thing over the horizon.

Decision On Mexican Labor Due This Week

AUSTIN, July 16. (AP)—Returning from conferences in Mexico City with Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, State Commissioner of Agriculture J. E. McDonald declared that a definite decision should be reached this week on the question of importing Mexican labor to help with the harvest of crops in the United States.

McDonald conferred with Wickard and Rep. Richard M. Kleberg of Texas on the urgent need for labor to make the Texas harvest. Wickard and Kleberg are representing the United States in a Pan-American conference on agriculture.

The Mexican government is eager to cooperate with us on the labor question," McDonald said, "but they want reasonable assurance from our federal government that the labor that comes across the border will receive a fair wage and livable quarters."

Ortiz Funeral Turns Into Demonstration

BUENOS AIRES, July 16 (AP)—The funeral of former President Roberto M. Ortiz, whose death removed one of the hopes of Democratic forces in Argentina, was turned into a fervent pro-Democratic demonstration today by a shouting crowd which defied a rainstorm to pay him final tribute.

Ortiz died yesterday, three weeks after he had resigned presidency because of ill health, leaving office without having realized his ambition of assuming Argentina's allegiance to Democratic ideals.

The crowd today, growing steadily as the funeral cortege moved along the streets, cheered for democracy, shouted, "We loved him," and "They killed him."

hill of Jesus-Tel el Eisa—on Tuesday night may have reflected this new strength. Hardy Australian troops, however, continued to hold elevated positions in that coastal sector but were under steady pressure.

Evidently to relieve them, other imperial forces pushed forward yesterday in the central sector of the bottleneck front between the coast and the Qattara depression some 30 miles inland.

"Prisoners were taken," said the British communique, "but their numbers are not known."

Even as the Rommel forces had won their hill of Jesus positions, land and aerial bombardment continued and a number of Axis tanks were knocked out, Cairo headquarters announced.

Allied airmen were smashing day and night at Rommel's airfields, front-line positions, and supply bases far to the rear. Targets last night included Bengasi and Tobruk.

"Enemy bombing increased a little," the communique conceded, but our intercepting fighters shot down seven enemy aircraft and damaged others."

The Germans declared that part of the dominating heights facing El Alamein, 70 miles west of Alexandria, had fallen to the Axis and that an Australian battalion staff had been captured. The Italians told of British attacks on the central sector and of immediate counter-attacks.

"We have taken more than 1,200 prisoners and have destroyed a good number of armored vehicles," Rome said.

The Italians also claimed that a British cruiser had been damaged in the Mediterranean by German and Italian airmen.

alight with star shells and flares, as bombing and shelling continued, with British fire much the heavier. Brilliant red bursts from big guns flaming hot chunks of high explosive shells, the red streaks of anti-aircraft tracers and the flares of bomb explosions created a thrilling but frightening pattern in the desert sky.

In the early hours this morning one of the heaviest dive-bomber attacks of the campaign started against the north-westerly point held by the Australians, about ten miles beyond El Alamein.

One veteran of the siege of Tobruk declared, "Tobruk was beautiful compared to this morning; I never saw so many bombs at one time."

The Germans used 35 to 40 dive bombers in that single attack.

I visited the most westerly point of the El Alamein positions and found perspiring British soldiers, stripped to the waist, firing American-made 155-millimeter guns.

The northern end of the El Alamein position is salt marsh near the sea, rimmed by high sand dunes and spotted with brush and holes. It is a dismal place, but tough for an enemy to take.

Despite the high waves, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner put out in a small motorboat and they put out, first rescuing Mr. and Mrs. Gardner. Then they went to the rescue of the others. Deward and the army captain were holding to their capsized craft, Tenney, however, decided to swim for shore, but in the high waves he became exhausted. He could hardly lift his hand when rescuers arrived.

Nation's Largest Tax Bill Debated

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—The largest tax bill in the nation's history—a $6,143,900,000 wartime measure carrying heavy new income and corporation levies—was before the house today for general debate.

As the representatives gathered, an attempt was being made to get support for returning the bill to the ways and means committee for revision of proposed new corporation rates.

Rep. Knutson (R-Minn.), one of the two members who voted against the legislation in committee, announced he would move to recommend the bill with instructions to raise the excess profits rate from 87 1/2 per cent to the normal and surtax rates from a combined 45 to 40 per cent.

The procedure arranged by the rules committee called for three days of general debate on the bill and then a vote or two Monday without consideration of any changes in the committee's work.

Thus, there would be an automatic "yes" or "no" vote on approving the committee's decision to impose individual taxes beginning at 19 per cent and the first dollar of taxable income and at 45 per cent on the first taxable profits of corporations.

The bill calls for a 6 per cent normal tax and a surtax beginning at 13 per cent for individual incomes—rates about double those in the lower brackets; and a 24 per cent normal tax, a 21 per cent surtax, and 87 1/2 per cent excess profits tax for corporations.

It provides for corporation taxes to be increased $2,478,400,000 from the present level of $7,647,100,000 to $10,125,500,000. The boost in individual taxes would be $2,906,300,000 from $5,044,800,000 to $7,951,100,000. In addition new and increased excise taxes on such things as liquor, beer, wines, tobacco, train fares, freight and express shipments, and pari-mutuel bets would produce still another $788,200,000.

close enough that all camps will await the complete official returns of the state election board.

In the governor's race, Kerr held a plurality in 36 counties in the incomplete unofficial returns to 34 for Smith and seven for Douglas.

Kerr received congratulations from over the state and Democratic nominees for the legislature were treating him as if he were the party nominee. Kerr said, however, that he was awaiting official returns before making any statement.

In the United States senate race, Senator Josh Lee received more votes than his opponents in 3,172 of the 3,874 precincts reported unofficially. The vote was Lee, 155,433; Orel Busby, 79,423; and W. H. Murray, former governor, 29,766.

On the Republican side, 1,345 precincts reported gave W. J. O'Brien, former state senator, 9,399; Ernest Albright, Oklahoma City, 5,208; and W. N. Dannenberg, Tulsa, 4,694.

In the race for U. S. senator, 1,333 precincts reported the following vote: W. B. Pine, Okmulgee, 15,458; S. M. Stauffer, Oklahoma City, 3,168.

In the Republican race for lieutenant-governor, 945 precincts gave Harry E. Ingram, Tulsa, 8,070 to 4,411 for Pliny S. Frye, Wewoka.

Trial Begins For Slayer Of Three Melbourne Women

MELBOURNE, July 16. (AP)—A United States military court today tried Edward J. Leonski for the slaying of three Melbourne women, accepted in evidence today a purported confession of guilt which army officers said the former New York grocery clerk had signed in their presence.

The prosecution rested today. The defense then presented two motions for dismissal, but both were denied, and defense testimony is to start tomorrow.

The court also heard a soldier, who said he and Leonski were "good camp friends" testify the defendant had told him he committed two of the killings.

The witness said that on the night of May 9—the night during which Mrs. Pauline Buchan Thompson was slain near an American camp—he saw Leonski standing before his tent weeping and apparently drunk.

"I asked him what was the matter," the soldier testified, "and he said: 'I killed! I killed!'"

Leonski later told him he had committed the first two killings and described himself as "like Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," the witness said. He quoted Leonski as saying he had taken two packs of cigarettes and some money from the second victim. The first victim was Mrs. Ivy McLeod, 41, killed May 3.

One of Leonski's superior officers testified the defendant had described to him in detail the third killing—that of Miss Gladys Hosking, 40, on May 18.

Leonski, the officer said, told him he had met Miss Hosking on the street in the rain and asked to walk under her umbrella.

Dodgers Thump Cubs As Feud Breaks Out Again

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bad blood has been flowing between the Brooklyn Dodgers and Chicago Cubs for two or more years in one of the most vicious feuds in baseball annals and the situation is getting stormier.

Yesterday the boys were so busy throwing bean balls at each other they almost forgot the ball game, but the Dodgers, operating in their element, captured a 10-5 verdict from the confused Cubs, who made five errors and used five pitchers to give 13 hits. One version of the trouble between the clubs is that it started when Hugh Casey of the Dodgers threw at Pitcher Claude Passeau of the Cubs a couple of years ago. It has been kept fanned white-hot ever since with knock-down pitches, high slides, name-calling and even harsh business office relations.

Through it all Passeau has managed to keep the upper hand on the pitching mound, winning seven and losing only twice to Brooklyn till yesterday. But the fellow who has won more games than any other pitcher this year, 13, got his bumps this time.

He was pelted for seven hits in 2 1/2 innings, giving four runs, and couldn't get the ball near the plate when Hiram Bithorn replaced him. Brooklyn turned its baiting on the rookie and had him in such a frenzy that when he, too, had to be removed in the fifth inning he threw the ball at the Brooklyn benchwarmers.

Brooklyn was given one run when the Cubs made three errors in the fourth. The first two men up in the fifth walked, but Mickey Owen was thrown out at the plate trying to score from second on a wild pitch and Peevee Reese was trapped between third and home on a bunt by Kirby Higbe, who was working for the fourth time in a week and attained his tenth victory. In spite of this the Dodgers again loaded the bases and Paul Erickson, who relieved Bithorn, made a wild pitch on his first delivery. In the sixth he dusted Billy Herman to the ground and Herman, a former Cub, got up to hit a home run on the next pitch. Lou Novikoff and Jimmie Foxx hit homers for the Cubs.

This encounter dwarfed other developments of the day in the major leagues, although Chel Laabs of the St. Louis Browns, currently on a batting spree, attracted attention at Philadelphia by driving in five runs as the Browns beat the Athletics, 7-4, in a night game. He hit a homer, his 13th of the year, with the bases loaded in the second inning and then in the third frame

Knights And Diamond Shop Win League Softball Games

The Knights of Pythias and the Diamond Shop won lopsided victories in the Pampa Softball league last night, the Knights downing Ideal Food 21 to 7 and the Diamond Shop beating Cabot, new entry, 16 to 8.

Tonight, at 6:30 o'clock, the Woodmen of the World will meet Phillips at the Phillips camp 10 miles south of Pampa, while McCarty's will battle the Mack and Paul Barbers at Mag-nolia park.

The Knights hit the ball hard and often in defeating the grocerymen. Williams, Payne, Christopher and Altman hit homers for the winners. Stansell, Christopher and Payne all took turns on the mound for the Knights with Altman and Gee dividing the catching job. The three chunkers gave up eight hits. Fleming and Grantham hurled for Ideal, giving up 17 hits, with Luttrell in the pitch. The Knights scored in every inning but the third, ending up by sending five runs across in the sixth and five more in the seventh.

Mangell took up pitching instead of being behind the plate for the Diamond Shop last night with Stephens behind the plate. Mullins and Isbell was the Cabot battery.

Weathered and Stephenson hit homers for the jewelers.

Sports Roundup

By SID FEDER
(Pinch-Hitting For Hugh Fullerton)
BOSTON, July 16 (Wide World)—Those red-faced guys around your village today are the "experts" who said Whirlaway wasn't a great horse because he had only "one run" in him in any race and that wasn't good enough to knock off the speed colts. . . Well, the charts won't show it, but Mr. Bigtail ran the second quarter of yesterday's Massachusetts in 23 4/5 seconds. . . And if you think that's a soft touch, try it yourself. . . Incidentally, Warren Wright, who only owns Whirly, didn't make the trip to Suffolk to see his colt break the Biscuit's record because he wasn't sure whether Whirly'd win. . . Incidentally, Warren, he would have won this one if they'd put an outboard motor and five gallons of gas in the others. . .

Dis-A And Dat-A
When the boys start to tell you how Seabiscuit would have been a bigger money winner if he hadn't missed those two Santa Anita hundred-grands by a couple of noses, just remind 'em that the Biscuit had three cracks at the big pot. . . And Whirly never even had one. . . Uncle Art Ross, boss-man of Boston's Hockey Bruins, is hollering for hockey to operate on non-profit principal. . . Club owners shouldn't make a nickel, players should perform for coffee and cakes and rink owners should slice rents until it hurts. . . And then, says Uncle Art, there'll be some excuse for hockey next winter. . . Art happens to have two sons in the Royal Canadian Air Force, incidentally—and feels mean because they won't let him in too. . .

Jingle, Jangle, Jingle
The Biscuit's record is now with Whirly. He didn't, we will admit, run early. But when Mr. Bigtail really got surly, Y' shoulda had a deuce on him, girly.

In Good With The Boss
The day King Peter of Yugoslavia turned out in Yankee stadium last week, Walt Judnich, the Browns' outfielder, who is a Yugoslav, shook hands with the ruler and then ended Hank Borowy's bid for a no-hitter with a single in the fourth. . . Nothing like doing it when the head man's around. . .

OPA Announces Car Trade-Out System

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—The office of price administration said today that, under amended automobile rationing regulations, dealers would be able to obtain new cars from the government's reserve pool by substituting cars better suited to government uses.

Under the plan, a dealer who has a customer ready to buy a car that the dealer can not deliver because it is frozen in the government pool may apply to OPA for a release.

In turn, he must offer to substitute a new automobile which is smaller, cheaper, or more economical to operate than the automobile for which he seeks a release.

Don't Demand A Soldier's 'Thanks'

The middle-aged neighbor, who hasn't any children of her own said snuggly to Jim's mother, "I'd send Jim a carton of cigarettes and some cookies now and then if he would ever write me. But he hasn't written since he left for camp." Jim's mother said, "Well, I guess he's pretty busy." But boy, was she mad inside. Jim was in the army working harder than he had ever worked in his life, learning to be a soldier so that he could risk his life to save the home of that complacent woman down the street. And, because he didn't have the time, wasn't thoughtful enough, or just didn't have anything to say to a middle-aged woman he knew only as a neighbor and friend of his mother's, she wasn't going to bother to send him a carton of cigarettes or a box of cookies. BEING AT CAMP IS NO HOLIDAY Jim would get cigarettes and cookies regularly, his mother would see to that. But, even if he didn't, that wouldn't be important. What was important was the attitude of the woman down the street toward a soldier. That made Jim's mother mad enough to fight. It wasn't the first time she had heard civilians take that attitude toward the sons of relatives or friends, acting as though the boys in service were off on a holiday with nothing more important to do or think about than writing polite letters to people who weren't close to them and squandering their leaves getting in touch with everybody who might be "hurt" if they failed to do so. There is no place for such thankless littleness in our attitude toward the men who are bearing the real burden of this war. Those who are sitting comfortably at home making comparatively small sacrifices for their country ought to be ashamed ever to say or even think, "I'm not going to write Jim again until he writes me."

Miss Virgie Brooks Becomes Bride Of Dale Hart Of Pampa

Miss Virgie Mae Brooks of Phillips and Dale H. Hart of Pampa, formerly of Phillips, were united in marriage Sunday evening at 7 o'clock in the Methodist parsonage at Phillips, with the Rev. S. Y. Allgood officiating. For the occasion the bride was attired in a beige sports suit with matching accessories. Attendants were the bridegroom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hart of Phillips. Mrs. Hart wore navy blue with black accessories. Mrs. Hart was graduated from Rosedale, Okla., High school in 1937, after which she came to Phillips to make her home. The bridegroom attended Berger High school. The newlyweds are at home in the Hillson hotel in Pampa, where the bridegroom is a machinist with Baash-Ross Tool company.

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. If a knife is not needed with a luncheon menu is it correct to omit the knife when setting the table?
2. When no knife is to be used, should the fork be placed on the left or right?
3. In setting a table where is the water glass placed?
4. If you are used to having a maid but are now getting along without a servant, is it wise to try and entertain as formally as you did when you had a maid?
5. If you have no maid, need you apologize for the fact when you entertain guests who have servants in their home?

What would you do if—
You can either serve a skimpy meal made up of expensive dishes or serve a bountiful meal of less expensive food?
(a) Serve the simple meal and have plenty of what you serve?
(b) Serve small portions of the more expensive foods?

Answers
1. Yes.
2. On the right.
3. At the tip of the knife.
4. No. You should simplify your entertaining as much as possible.
5. No.

Mrs. Blalock Will Represent Hopkins HD At Conference

Electing Mrs. Cleve Blalock as delegate to the Texas Home Demonstration conference to be held in August at Dallas, members of Hopkins Home Demonstration club met in the home of Mrs. L. J. Pratt with Mrs. C. F. Jones as co-hostess. Choosing your kind requires a little knowledge of the many different varieties available. For ease in carrying the stuff about and in applying it, for instance, you might prefer the liquid stocking, which works very much like a lip-stick. If you're a stay-home and can take a little time getting accustomed to putting it on, you might prefer the liquid stocking, which seems to me to look more like the arranged at the meeting with about 12 different flowers. Punch and wafers were served to Mrs. O. T. Ward, C. F. Jones, Vera Savage, George Reeve, W. B. Barton, R. W. Orr, L. J. Pratt, Cleve Blalock, and Huelyn Laycock. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. C. F. Jones.

real stocking, when it is on, than does any other cosmetic. COSMETIC HOSE ARE BATH AND SURF-PROOF Each type is made by several houses, and in several shades, so you certainly can satisfy your personal likes on that score, too. Look at the stuff—it is usually just about the same color in the bottle and on the shank. Now, to put it on: it is really important to follow directions which appear on the bottle or stick. With the stick, you stroke lightly, and when the whole leg is covered, rub and blend with the palm of your hand, or, even better, with absorbent cotton or paper. Otherwise, it will take longer than you like, to dry. I'd suggest, too, don't put it on too thickly—a light stroke is quite enough. Your palms are important in applying most of the liquid types. It's not the way that would occur to you but it is the way that works! Pour a bit into each palm, stroke on generously and quickly till the whole leg is covered, then pat, pat all over. This is what prevents streaking. You might find it a little awkward at first, but with a couple of times' experience you will get it on quite nicely, and pretty quickly, too. One nice thing to know: most of these cosmetics are in fact water-proof. It not only does not come off when you meet a shower or the surf—does not come off when you bathe or shower in the tub unless you wash it off with soap or rub it off with your towel. There is still a third kind—a clear liquid which simulates the color of a natural tan instead of the color and texture of a stocking. If you like the idea of looking stocking-less but beautifully tanned as you are not, then this is what you need. BUY VICTORY BONDS Firemen, finding the water supply too low, utilized vinegar stored in huge vats to put out a fire in a vinegar factory in Santa Rosa, Calif.

You Can't Print

There are very disturbing undertones in the verbal chastisement which OFF Director Archibald MacLeish has given the publisher and editor of a radio trade publication.

The story has received most attention in trade circles, but its implications are much broader than any competitive squabble between newspapers and the radio.

The Office of Facts and Figures made a study of reader-hearer reaction, to determine the best media through which to get government messages to the public. The result was mimeographed and distributed discreetly in government circles. A radio publication obtained possession of a copy, and printed such portion as made radio look good and the newspapers look bad.

Mr. MacLeish says that the selection gave a distorted picture of the OFF's conclusions. If that is not true, if the magazine's story is not distorted, then we feel sorry for a wartime government forced to rely upon so inaccurate a research organization as the OFF would appear to be.

Accepting Mr. MacLeish's disclaimer, and assuming that the complete study did produce the truth, we wonder why Mr. MacLeish does not now release the real facts?

Instead, he has chosen to excoriate the magazine for using government material not officially made public.

That alone should be of public concern in this squabble.

What the magazine printed was unpleasant to newspapers. Mr. MacLeish says it was erroneous in its conclusions. But by no widest stretch of the most fertile imagination did the publication betray any war secret—anything which could be of aid or comfort to Hitler, Hirohito, or even to poor old Benito Mussolini—remember him? The fat boy of Rome?

Mr. MacLeish says the mimeographed copies were plainly marked "Confidential." We know of one, at least, that was not. But what if they were? Has the time come when, in order not to give aid and comfort to the Axis powers, a federal censorship can forbid publication of the results of a survey to the newspapers or from the radio?

That would be tragic. That would play into the hands of those who fear that, to save democracy, we may be asked to give up more of democracy than we need to waive.

Every editor is under obligation, today, to consider carefully the strategic implications of what he prints. Every editor is under ethical obligations, always, to see that what he prints is accurate in spirit as well as in letter.

We deplore the radio publication's distortion, if it did distort. We believe that its right to print such a story, if its correspondent had the initiative to acquire the facts, should be unquestionable.

THE NATION'S PRESS

Happy Chandler, the junior senator from Kentucky, has a new swimming pool in his country estate near Versailles, in that state. If one can accept the word of Chandler's opponent in the Democratic primary, John Young Brown, these are its specifications:

It contains four tons of steel, as well as brass and rubber, all used in violation of priority regulations.

It was built, at a cost of several thousand dollars, after the War Production board had forbidden residential improvements costing more than $500.

It was paid for by a couple of war contractors, one of whom, Ben. H. Collings, holds a $1,745,150 government order. Chandler is a member of the senate military affairs committee, which passes on all war department appropriations.

To all this Chandler's first reply was that the pool "was built in the name of friendship and accepted in the same spirit." Now he says that he may give it to the kiddies after he dies.

Mr. Brown has written complaints to President Roosevelt, Donald Nelson, the FBI, and the Truman committee. Mr. Brown ought to meet J. Paul Kern, who hollered copper when a New York City paving gang pulled up a street and moved it to the country estate of Boss Ed Flynn, the Democratic national chairman. Flynn replied that Kern was crazy. Flynn's pal, Frannie Fiorello La Guardia, fired Kern from his city job, and a grand jury, coached by Flynn's personal district attorney in the pickpocket maxim that they can't do anything to you if you give the sucker back his poke, reported that a crime had been committed but no one could be sent to jail.

Some ways, this is a nice war. If you know the right people, paving blocks have a way of popping up in your front yard. You get home from a hard day's work representing the people and there's a brand new swimming pool in the middle of your lawn. No worrying about priorities. Just a little token from a friendly war contractor.

To paraphrase Father Divine, friendship, it's wonderful.

WE KNEW LAST DECEMBER

Never in their long and turbulent annals were the American people more completely united than they were on the day after Pearl Harbor. And never did any generation of Americans have a clearer idea of what they were fighting for and why they were having to fight.

Possibly they are as thoroughly united today in so far as a deadly determination to punish the Japanese are concerned, although that may be seriously doubted. But the note of harmony that filled the air in December is disturbingly lacking. Then Japan was the sole object of all our attacks and all our denunciations. Now we are fighting among ourselves right bitterly. And we are sharply divided over issues that have a very vital connection with the supreme issue of winning the war.

This change is due largely, if not entirely to our national leaders' misconception of what the

I wish to comment and quote further from Sheehan's article in the Harper's magazine. He argues, to the objection of the material needed for 15,000 trucks, that these 15,000 trucks would do more than the same expenditure in any other kind of transportation. He estimates that 15,000 sky trucks would cost two or three billion dollars, that these sky trucks would be of great service after the war while battleships would be good for nothing but junk. He closes his article by saying:

"The following broad principles are offered to aid in formulating an immediate plan for creating a powerful sky-truck auxiliary for our air force:

"1. Set a definite production goal. "Assuming that our total planned aircraft production during the coming fiscal year will be 90,000 units, provide that one-sixth (which has been roughly the German proportion during the past six years) or 15,000 of them shall be allocated to sky-truck purposes.

"2. Establish a top priority rating. "Incredible as it may sound in a day of increasing air emphasis, until February 16, 1942, military aircraft had a materials-priority rating inferior to that for tanks, trucks, and most naval requirements. Inasmuch as they are just as vital to offense and defense as fighting planes, sky trucks should at least enjoy the present A-1 rating of combat aircraft.

"3. Standardize and freeze a few suitable designs. "In combat plane construction it is necessary to distribute orders among a large variety of types. Probably 40 or 50 different models are being worked on for the Army and Navy today. Moreover, it is necessary to modify each of these types continually. Every time a new idea is conceived, or copies from the enemy, production must be stopped, the tooling changed, and work begun anew. Such delays are unavoidable in the existing construction program, for it is foolish to risk one's fighting pilots in any but the very best of equipment.

"With sky-truck production, however, little delay need be encountered from these sources. Three thoroughly tried transports, a short-range landplane such as the Douglas Cargo Transport, a long-range seaplane like the Consolidated PB2Y-2, and a long-range land-plane such as the Curtiss-Wright Condor III, may be selected and their designs frozen for the duration. Few of the numerous gadgets that clutter the modern cockpit are necessary, no armor plate, bombsights, guns—just the most essential navigational instruments. The problem is one of production alone.

"4. Put manufacturers in the charge of a production team. "By this I mean a production head who has real power, subject to Presidential approval, to command factories, tools, labor, or anything else to get quick and extensive results. Perhaps the country may see the need before long of a czar for all its aircraft production. In this event sky-truck production could be handled as a part of the larger program.

Fall of Crete "The fall of Crete was due to more than persistence and good luck. A tremendous amount of preparation and planning went into it. The British had been entrenching themselves on that island for months. They had over 40,000 troops, controlled the air, the sea, and the land. They were protected from the sea approach by strong units of the British Navy. Strategists of the old school insisted that occupation of so tightly defended a position was impossible. But behind the skillfully coordinated attack of high-level and dive bombers, machine-gun strafing fighter planes, and Junkers sky trucks filled with paratroopers and their supplies, lay years of intense practice and study. Major Thompson in his Modern Battle quotes a British officer who witnessed the invasion as saying that one after another of the first JU-52's to attempt a landing were 'smashed to pieces.' But the Nazis kept coming until the 13th attempt succeeded and then they went on landing one plane regularly every three minutes, losing one then getting another down, then losing another."

"The fact that General-of-Aviation Loehr could call upon the thousands of Junkers sky trucks for this 'Task Force Crete' was the result of sagacious planning which as long ago as 1935 saw the importance of large numbers of the type of one-plane. That they could be used so effectively in the face of strong opposition testifies to a tremendous amount of practice and experimentation. We have a long way to go to match this Nazi achievement. Yet we must do better, for the Germans will not remain idle.

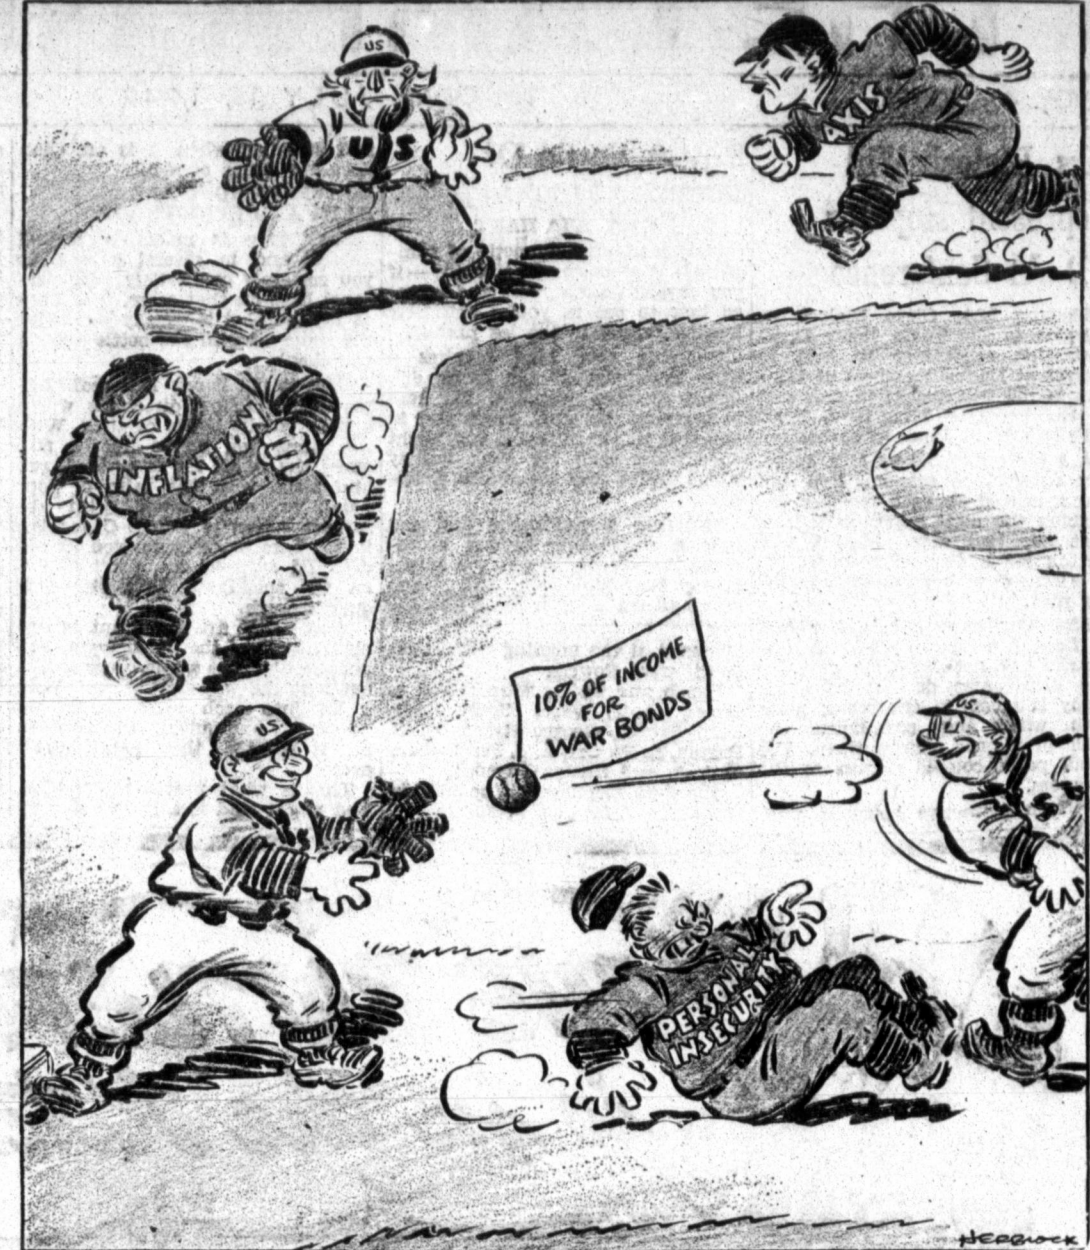

"It is not likely that the vice-president cager will accept the suggestion of a regiment of Oklahoma guardsmen to be willing to die for the outlander's right to obtain a quart of milk a day. Probably he would be chased out of camp if he voiced any such appeal. For the descendants of men who died remembering the Alamo are not going to die very cheerfully in order to insure an ample supply of milk to coolies. As a battle cry, 'A quart for every coolie' is not going to win any Thermopylae or Gettysburgs.

Last December every American knew what his country was fighting for. The average American knows today. It is only the dreamers of the inner circle who think that we are fighting for things that the people generally have no interest in at all. And it is the dreamers and their timeless dreams which have disturbed the wrathful harmony which swept the country last December. They have dreamed so much of a global new deal that they have almost forgotten the real objective of this war."

We are fighting because we were attacked by assassins and because our country will be destroyed if we fail to win. We are fighting for our own country and our own flag. We are fighting to preserve the freedom we inherited from our fathers. Only the dreamer of confused mentality will hold that we are fighting to improve the economic status of Hotentots and to open up a milk route to Hindus.

Success does not come to you on a silver platter, but through perseverance and toil.—Liberty, a Magazine of Religious Freedom.

THE OL' TRIPLE PLAY

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON "HOLLYWOOD, July 16—Big moments in little space are found around Movietown these days. There are war scenes in foxholes, submarines and tanks, love scenes in taxicabs, a slugging match between sandbags in a tiny compression chamber. There are, for that matter, entries in showboats."

Some of the sets are no place for a claustrophobe, and for oppressive realism I've seen nothing to beat the section of vehicular tunnel built by Paramount for "No Time for Love." Not even the occasional presence of Miss Claudette Colbert can detract from its drizzly fidelity.

RUGGED REALIST For technical adviser they had an engineer from a tunnel now being built in Manhattan. During construction of the set and in the general action within it, he found Director Mitchell Leisen anxious to have every detail just right. Leisen believes that when a scene is inaccurate, audiences are aware that something, somewhere or somehow, is wrong—even though they aren't familiar with the locale. They sense it, the director figures, through the uncertainty and uneasiness of the actors themselves, who are influenced by shabby make-believe.

This is said to say that steel has been used for the tunnel lining and the 31-foot shield which is supposed to push forward into the muck. The scores of curved sections are wood, but are precisely formed, and so are the hundreds of big bolts, bolts and nuts of the machinery really works. The bulkhead containing the compression chamber in which workmen must spend a few minutes on their way in and out is a replica of real ones. Although the workers have no dangerous tasks in the movie, they're mostly stunt men because Leisen found Hollywood extras were to flabby to look like tough sandhogs.

CASUAL CLAUDETTE If you've been wondering how Miss Colbert figures in such a picture, it's because she has the role of a famed woman photographer who's always poking around where she isn't wanted. It seems that the tunnel project is stymied by some unusually fluid muck, and that Fred McMurray devises a freezing device to solidify it. He's not the sort who asks ladies to come down to his hangings, so she contrives to get herself smugled in. Once there, she falls, garters-over-girdle, into four feet of muddy water.

From the dither that gripped Paramount on the day the glamorist was slated to flop in the ozone, you'd have thought Miss Colbert was going to leap off the City Hall tower, or into a volcano. She wasn't a bit apprehensive, though; went into the scene casually remarking that the mud should be good for her all-over complexion.

The mud, incidentally, was formed from several tons of fire clay, chosen for its photogenic value and gooey consistency. It was warm, too. Hidden at the bottom were heating pipes connected to a steam pump.

Today's War Analysis

By DeWITT MACKENZIE "Wide World War Analyst

Bad as the Russian military position is—and the danger of a Nazi breakthrough on the southern front is grave—we have here a paradoxical case in which the great gains Hitler is making, coupled with their cost in blood and materiel, are likely to contribute heavily to his undoing, provided the Allies can create a diversion by establishing that second front.

The Nazi leader's success depends upon blitzkrieg, that is, upon his ability to smash the Red army in the crucial approaches to the Caucasus in a short time. This is so for two reasons:

First, the Nazi lines of communication already are badly extended, and the further the invaders drive the more confused will become their already seriously complicated transport problem.

Second, the supreme effort Hitler is making for a quick killing is costing so many of his best troops, and wrecking so much equipment, that he cannot indefinitely stand the strain. He will have to slow down and in the not distant future he will be fit game for a smashing Russian counter-offensive.

In short, so long as the Bolsheviks can continue their present fierce resistance, and effect withdrawals to fresh positions without breaking their line, the territory which they abandon may prove to be the trap which will catch Hitler. He has achieved much already, but he has a long, hard road to travel. Stalingrad is close to 200 bloody miles further east; Astrakhan is about double that distance.

The Nazi chief now is far in advance of the supply lines which he established during the winter, and he is up among the Russian wide-gauge railways over which the narrower gauge German trains could not run, even if the roads still were serviceable. But the fuhrer's troubles do not end further than that.

Louis Lochner, Associated Press and Wide World chief of bureau in Berlin, who now is home after five months internment in Germany, has disclosed that Hitler allowed the railway transportation of the country to go to pot because they were banking on the great military highways he was building. Well, the highways would have been grand if the fuhrer had won the war over-night as he expected, but he didn't.

Now Hitler's home transport is in a bad way and is rapidly growing worse. Thus he hasn't even proper facilities to start his supplies out of Germany for the front, to say nothing of handling them in Russia. And to say nothing of moving the endless trains of wounded back from the battle zone.

We are told that Marshal Timoshenko hasn't yet been forced to call on great reserves which are being held for a counter-blow. If the Russians are able to throw a great weight of fresh troops against Hitler when he is deep in Soviet territory, tired and hampered by disrupted communications, they may be able to inflict a disaster on him. It is reported that this is the strategic line the Muscovites have been pursuing.

Million Texans Get Entire Living From Petroleum Industry

DALLAS, July 16—Nearly one million Texans get their entire living from the Texas petroleum industry.

This is shown by a study of Texas petroleum employment and payroll figures completed by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association, research and service organization of Texas operators.

Employees of the Texas petroleum industry numbered 240,223 last year, the association found. Multiplying this by four, the average to a family, gives a Texas petroleum army of 960,892 men, women, and children directly supported by oil and gas operations. This is almost one-sixth of the state's population.

The wage-earners of this group in 1941 earned $29,538,455, or nearly one-third of a billion dollars, the survey shows. Most of this was in terms spent with Texas merchants, business and professional men, landlords, etc., for food, clothing, shelter, professional services and many other things.

The Texas petroleum industry's payroll was only one of its expenditures which amounted to around $750,000,000 a year by latest reports. Other expenditures included lease and royalty payments to Texas farmers and ranchers, expansion of facilities including new wartime plants, and state, local and federal taxes.

Last year Texas petroleum workers paid $39,732,884 in direct state and local taxes. With this added to the $88,706,747 paid by the industry itself, the Texas petroleum industry and its employees paid a total of $128,439,631 for state and local government purposes. This represents 55 per cent of the $234,657,889 collected for such purposes, exclusive of sales, poll and inheritance levies.

Behind The News In Washington

By PETER EDSON "There's an amazing knock-down, show-down fight being waged behind the scenes in congress these days. Its outcome will determine for the time-being who has the most influence in shaping the wartime farm policies of this country—the U. S. Department of Agriculture or the American Farm Bureau Federation, most potent of the big farmer organizations.

The issue over which the battle is being fought is whether the U. S. government, through its Commodity Credit corporation, shall be permitted to sell some of its grain at less than parity prices. The idea behind wanting to sell the grain at less than parity prices is backed by Secretary Wickard and the Department of Agriculture, and is that this surplus grain should be used to feed poultry and livestock, thus increasing the production of meats, dairy and poultry products needed in wartime not only for U. S. troops, but for the armies and civilian populations of the United Nations as well. If this surplus grain has to be sold at parity, or above, it means that meat, dairy and poultry prices, most of which are already well above parity, will go even higher. The Department of Agriculture, anxious to hold down the cost of these foods, seriously concerned over how the big crops of grains to be harvested this year are to be stored on top of the surplus already bursting the seams of every elevator and corn crib in the land, thinks some of this surplus grain should be sold below parity.

THEY'D TELL EM The American Farm bureau insists that none of this surplus grain shall be sold at less than parity, or no war, price ceilings or no price ceilings. The bureau, in other words, takes the stand that it is bigger than the government and will dictate to the congress what shall be done on this issue.

Just what is this American Farm Bureau Federation and how does it get that way? Organized speaking in Washington, the powerful lobby in Washington. Conservative labor may represent more members—10 million against the Farm Bureau's 500,000—and labor may have more sympathizers in the executive branches of the government. But the Farm Bureau likes to think it calls the signals for the legislative end-of-the-government and that it is in a position to dictate policy to the Department of Agriculture.

This isn't so surprising. Secretary Wickard, Clifford Townsend, director of agricultural defense relations, and other big shots in the department were members of the federation even before they came to Washington. The department and the federation have fought and slept side by side for establishment of the parity principle. In about 15 mid-western farm states, the federation actively contributes to the support of the county agent system and has semi-official standing under the laws of these states, going back to the days when the county agents were first being established. And as far as congress is concerned, this is an election year, and the weight and influence these local federations pack at the county level, where they run effective cooperative buying and marketing enterprises, is tremendous.

SIGNIFICANT SIGN To find the Department of Agriculture now backing the Farm Bureau Federation is therefore significant. As far as the Farm Bureau is concerned, it has to keep on fighting for parity, or pass out of the picture. The Washington lobbyists and the leaders of the federation simply couldn't hold their jobs if they tried to sell the membership on a "Look-what-we-did-for-you-last-year" basis.

But the question arises to whether the Farm Bureau Federation, President Ed O'Neal of Alabama and Vice President Earl G. Smith of Illinois, who is also president of the Illinois Agricultural association and the real boss of the federation, may not be fonder of themselves on this surplus feed issue.

Assurance is supposed to have been given that a presidential veto would be forthcoming if congress should pass a bill preventing sale

TEX'S TOPICS

By Tex DeWeese

RECENTLY a Pampa officer in Uncle Sam's army abroad wrote a letter home along about the time of his birthday in the middle of June. In it he stated that he was celebrating "this" birthday in —

—but that he would be back home "in the states" to celebrate his next birthday (which would be, of course, in the middle of June, 1943). And, then he added the comment, in substance, that "if you knew what I know, you wouldn't question that statement."

Perhaps readers would like to connect that with what DeWitt MacKenzie, The Pampa News war analyst, had to say in his column yesterday when writing of Mr. Harold Ickes' speech on the occasion of France's Bastille Day.

We quote now from Mr. MacKenzie's column: "It is notable that, despite Laval's (Premier Pierre Laval of Occupied France) attitude toward the Allies, Mr. Ickes again assured the French people that 'the United Nations will restore freedom to France.' At another place he declared that France's Calvary will come to an end and sooner than the assassins think."

"INCIDENTALLY," continued Mr. MacKenzie, "that expression 'sooner than the assassins think' has brought me a telegram from a newspaper which is wondering whether this is a piece of the same cloth given the other day by Representative May, chairman of the house military affairs committee. Mr. May predicted that the war would end 'probably in 1942 and unquestionably in 1943.' He said the information on which he based this prediction was 'a military secret.' Now, I don't know what Mr. Ickes had in mind and wouldn't want to speculate. However, most observers have the feeling that if we can keep Hitler in hand during the crucial fighting this summer, then the war may indeed end 'sooner than the assassins think.'"

And, so—here's hoping that the Pampa officer abroad, Mr. Ickes, and Representative May all are talking about the same thing.

We always have been of the minority (and we DO mean minority) school which believes this is a "circus" war in which the spectators must be expected.

"The circus element will be a great factor and one day the Allies will unwork one from the hat that will make the world stand up and take notice of breath-taking developments on an almost incredible scale.

IF Charlie Guy, The Plainsman of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal can print it in his column, guess we can reproduce this story here: A colored cook who works for a lady we know showed up late for work the other morning, explaining her tardiness by saying her youngest boy was sick. "Your youngest boy?" ejaculated the lady of the house.

"When you came to work here, Mary, you told me you were an old maid. . . . Now, for the punchline. . . . "I is an old maid," said the cook earnestly, "but I ain't one of them tussy kind!"

prices for feed of the production of grain alcohol. Either way—whether congress or the president takes the responsibility for permitting below-parity sales—the Farm Bureau chiefs stand to be disgraced before their membership. But don't sell 'em short. Ed O'Neal, who is the backslapping flaker with the cotton ball, and Earl Smith, who represents the corn and wheat men and is the brains of the team, both pack more weight in Washington than John L. Lewis ever did at his best.

WASHINGTON GOLLYS There's a shortage of skin men and skeleton assemblers—no, not in the undertaking business—for aircraft assembly. SERIAL STORY MURDER IN FERRY COMMAND BY A. W. O'BRIEN

COPYRIGHT, 1942. NEA SERVICE, INC.

ESCAPE—THE HARD WAY

CHAPTER VIII LIKE a person waking under a strange roof and attempting to figure where he is, Dawson fought through a haze of pain to clear his mind.

His wrists and ankles were numb, for which he was grateful. They were badly swollen, but he'd be able to work on them without too much suffering.

The gray light of pre-dawn trickled through a skylight into his stercorarium prison. Peering at the forms about him he concluded a number of them were packing cases. That meant rough, jagged edges.

Picking out a large one propped in a corner, he began the ordeal of wriggling toward it. Eventually he made it, panting for breath.

Slowly he maneuvered for position, lifting his bound legs and propping them against the high rough edge. Muttering a silent prayer that the packing case wouldn't move with the weight of his legs, he drew them up and down so that the rope binding his ankles scraped on the edge.

It was a long, tedious job—hours it seemed—while the gray light changed to bright sunlight. Frequently he felt his head swimming, but Dawson continued scraping. It had to be done easily lest the sound awaken his captors.

A door had shut almost directly below him and . . . yes, somebody was mounting the stairs. Until he got the use of his legs he couldn't stand up to free his hands the same way.

It was a long, tedious job—hours it seemed—while the gray light changed to bright sunlight. Frequently he felt his head swimming, but Dawson continued scraping.

That's just what Dawson was waiting for. His arm swung in a short arc and the butt of the revolver caught John squarely in the mouth.

"Now get up, skunk, and watch yourself!" he growled. John slowly moved out of the bed and stood up.

"Walk ahead of me—through the door and down stairs. One false move and I'll drill you."

Obediently, John half staggered to the door. Dawson swung it wide and his prisoner walked into the hallway, hating at the top of the steps.

Dawson didn't falter—he fired without warning and the house-keeper clutched her shoulder, tottering sideways and rolling down the steps.

Dawson bounced past John to the next door—the door leading into the girl's room. He pushed it open and went in—revolver first. One quick glance told him it was unoccupied—the bed had not been slept in. John was still standing rock-like in terror at the head of the stairs.

"Okay, chum," Dawson grinned. "Let's go downstairs."

Dawson barely opened his eyes as he spoke.

"Look at my ankles—something has happened!"

It was a desperate gamble, but Dawson put everything on the fact that he was in a dark corner and the man would have to bend over to see . . . It was working—he was bending over curiously . . . now was the moment!

With every last bit of strength drawn from the reserve of a well-conditioned physique, Dawson steadied himself with his left foot and kicked upwards with his right. It landed with a sickening crunch and the man crumbled.

Gradually, Dawson scrambled to his feet—he had never realized before how difficult it was to rise from the floor with one's hands tied.

Backing into the door so that he grasped the doorknob with his tied hands, he closed it softly. Then he moved quickly across the stercorarium and turned his back to the packing case edge, using the scraping method on the wrist rope.

It took even longer than the other, but the tough strands finally parted. For fully five minutes he rubbed the angry, swollen wrists before turning to the man on the floor. From a packing case he stripped a length of wire and deftly bound him.

Picking up the revolver, he opened the door gingerly and stepped into the hall. Still no sounds except from the kitchen.

Identifying the hall through which he had been carried as that of the second floor, he walked on tiptoe, pausing at the door beside the main staircase leading to the ground floor. It had been a man's room.

JOHN was in bed—sleeping peacefully. Dawson was beside him in a flash, switching the revolver around so that he grasped it by the barrel.

He shook the sleeping man tenderly. "Wake up, cutie, and see who's here!" he said in a loud whisper.

The regular breathing ceased and John's eyes fluttered open. For a second he stared up unseeing, then sat bolt upright, his mouth opening in the prelude to a yell.

That's just what Dawson was waiting for. His arm swung in a short arc and the butt of the revolver caught John squarely in the mouth.

"Now get up, skunk, and watch yourself!" he growled. John slowly moved out of the bed and stood up.

"Walk ahead of me—through the door and down stairs. One false move and I'll drill you."

Obediently, John half staggered to the door. Dawson swung it wide and his prisoner walked into the hallway, hating at the top of the steps.

Dawson didn't falter—he fired without warning and the house-keeper clutched her shoulder, tottering sideways and rolling down the steps.

Governor Praises Texas' War Effort

AUSTIN, July 16 (AP)—Gov. Coke R. Stevenson today termed Texas' contribution to the war effort "one of the most inspiring events in American history" and declared the war efforts put forth by the people of Texas "unquestionably put this state far in the lead in cooperation to win this war for preservation of civilization."

"The war effort of Texas is so extensive and all-out that few probably realize the magnitude of the job undertaken in this state," the governor stated. "I can truthfully say that the Washington government is fully appreciative of the great part Texas is taking."

Summarizing what Texas is doing to win the war, Stevenson said: "Texas leads in having more men in the armed services than any other state, according to population."

"Texas leads in supplying for war needs sulphur, live oak, cotton, wool, mohair, and agricultural products."

"Texas is taking the lead in the production of synthetic rubber."

Guests Entertain Canadian Rotary

CANADIAN, July 16—Canadian Rotarians were favored at their weekly luncheon Tuesday by musical numbers by guests.

Miss Charlotte Alice Tubb, music teacher in New Mexico schools, home for summer vacation, rendered piano music.

Herbert (Hub) Hext sang "Swingberry Roan," playing his own accompaniment. Hext is one of a number of Hemphill county men to go into U. S. service this month.

Miss Tubb is replacing, for the summer, Mrs. J. M. Carter who has been Rotary pianist for several years. Mr. Carter having resigned as superintendent of Canadian schools.

Flight Instructors Arrive At Lubbock's Army Glider School

LUBBOCK, July 16—Arrival of flight instructors this week brought a stir of activity to the newly-named Army Air Forces Glider school of Lubbock, situated on the old municipal airport north of town.

Col. James W. Andrew, commanding officer, welcomed these youthful glider "specialists" and assigned them immediately to Col. Norman B. Olsen, director of flying. All but one of the instructors, Lieut. R. O. Mosher, come from the famous glider school, Twentynine Palms Calif. Lieutenant Mosher is a graduate of the Elmira, N. Y., school, which has turned out most of the well-known glider pilots of the day.

Awaiting now the arrival of gliders and students the new school here will soon be busy turning out pilots every two weeks. Colonel Andrew designated the new name for the school this week. The glider school is only temporary and will be discontinued when the twin-engine South Plains Army Flying school opens this fall. It is under construction now, just south and east of this site. In fact, runways now a part of the old airport will tie on to the new SPAPS runways, Colonel Andrew said.

Additions to the staff are officers being assigned daily at the glider school. These men are being transferred from the Lubbock Army Flying school, west of town; from Victoria, Randolph, Kelly, and Brooks fields.

Instructors as well as enlisted men are living in a tent city. The mess is in a frame building, however.

States Need 60,000 For Cotton Harvest

DALLAS, July 16 (AP)—A mobile labor force of between 50,000 and 60,000 workers will be needed to harvest this season's cotton and other crops in the Southwest, W. L. Mitchell, associate director of the federal employment service, said today at a conference of federal employment service officials.

Dawson stepped backwards to the door and peered through the glass. It was the postman. Shifting his revolver to the other hand, he opened the door.

"Special delivery letter for Mr. John Dexel."

"I'll sign for it," Dawson replied. Closing the door again, he looked at the letter, his curiosity instantly aroused. The postmark was North Sydney, Nova Scotia. Dawson didn't hesitate. He tore the letter open.

Texas' 36th Infantry Unit In Maneuvers

SOMEWHERE IN NORTH CAROLINA, July 16 (AP)—Texas 36th Infantry division today awaits the jumpoff signal which will launch the second phase of the battle of the Carolinas.

The division last night moved into new positions after a one-day breathing spell to rest and clean anti-tank guns.

As part of the Blue force, the 36th looks forward to a tough battle against Red defending forces.

In the first battle of the maneuvers, according to Cpl. Euell O. Woods of Electra, "The tanks were coming and we were ready for them. We're still ready."

Corporal Woods, with his 37 mm. anti-tank gun and crew, concealed in a thicket, put three medium-sized tanks out of action.

The gun is "Frances," named by the corporal and his four-man squad.

She is a powerful lady, weighing close to 1,000 pounds, and she demands the careful attention of her crew.

Priv. Jack Miller and Henry Garrett, both of Amarillo, during the first problem led in the capture of four jeeps, one anti-tank gun, one truck and 22 enemy soldiers.

Army Cook Leslie Garcia is hobbling as the result of a fight against a gasoline stove in his company's mess. Chow was cooking and the hungry engineers were waiting when the stove caught fire.

An alarm was sounded. Before help arrived Corporal Garcia extinguished the flames. His pants caught fire and he suffered first degree burns, but the corporal, who is from Victoria, is on the job today.

Under cover of darkness 48,000 pounds of loot were nightly from the quartermaster to the 36th, under the direction of a service platoon headed by 2nd Lieut. Penn Jones of Austin, this work is done at night to prevent detection by enemy aircraft.

County Farm Agent Arranges Display In Courthouse Lobby

Taking a leaf from merchants, the county farm agent's office is telling its story in displays.

A glassed cabinet contrasting mixed and tenmar wheat grains and the yields from each has been placed in the first floor south corridor of the court house adjacent to the office of Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, Gray county demonstration agent.

Background of the wheat display is the idea originated by G. T. Hackney, county farm agent, following a visit here a month ago by two wheat experts, one from Texas A. & M. college, the other representing the Texas Wheat Improvement association of Amarillo.

These two men, with Agent Hackney and his assistant, Wayne Maddox, made a trip over the county and noted the different varieties of wheat grown.

Background of the display case is the county farm agent's desire to emphasize work in his department, inasmuch as no county, regional, nor state fairs will be held this year, according to Assistant Maddox. He said this was due to a federal order.

Seed and stalk of both tenmar and mixed varieties are shown side by side, in the display case.

Under each, in corresponding order, is this label:

"Random sample taken from field in Gray county, 1942."

For tenmar the yield is given as 31 bushels, test weight 59 pounds; the other, 22 bushels, test weight 59 pounds.

Two placards have been posted along the wall, back of the cabinet, one headed "Quality Wheat Pays."

Later displays in the case will be in accordance with the specific farm activity needed to be stressed at the time, Assistant Maddox said.

Gasoline Storage In U. S. Still Declines

NEW YORK, July 16 (AP)—Stores of gasoline in the United States continued to decline last week ended July 11, the American Petroleum Institute reported today.

Fuel oil supplies, however, rose slightly.

Stocks of finished and unfinished gasoline at the end of the week totaled 85,689,000 barrels, a decline of 1,286,000 from the 87,014,000 reported the previous week.

Residual fuel oil supplies increased by 988,000 barrels to 77,891,000 and gas oil and distillates (light fuels) increased 898,000 barrels to 34,418,000.

Daily average crude oil production for the week was 3,657,400 barrels, an increase of 360,250 from the previous week.

Refineries operated at 76.5 per cent of capacity, indicating a crude run averaging 3,582,000 barrels daily compared with 75.8 and 3,551,000 in the previous week.

Gasoline production for the week was estimated at 10,675,000 barrels compared with 10,959,000 last week.

O'Daniel Makes Fun Of People In Washington

(By The Associated Press)

Washington is a "bad place to live, but a good place to visit. There are plenty of nice sights to see. They have lots of green grass, big monuments and funny-looking people," Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel said in a speech at Paris Wednesday.

O'Daniel today campaigns in McKinney, Terrell and Dallas; Dan Moody in Sterling City, Big Spring, Sweetwater and Abilene and James V. Allred in Palestine, Groveton and Nacogdoches.

Allred, at Waco last night, attacked O'Daniel's statement that he could not understand why Allred quit his position to run for the senate.

Allred said it was evident that anyone who thinks in terms of dollars and cents, closes his eyes to the misery of the world and the sacrifices of Britain, could "never understand why someone would want to serve his country in a more active post."

Moody, campaigning in Central West Texas, reviewed at Coleman his conception of what should be done by a United States senator to aid and secure a lasting peace.

Canning Show Held At Canadian School

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

CANADIAN, July 16—Miss Vivian Winston, Hemphill county home demonstration agent, will give a canning and drying food demonstration in the home economics department rooms at Canadian High school building tomorrow morning following the demonstration today.

Work will begin promptly at 9:30 a. m. each day. Thursday morning will be devoted to canning fruit and vegetables. Friday morning will be a demonstration of preparation of food for drying.

Miss Winston stated that drying fruit and vegetables, so popular in our grandmothers' time, has been little used since the last war, but is being urged upon the American housewife this year in order that no bit of food be wasted.

Mrs. C. W. Allen will discuss outside storage for vegetables. Use of food lockers will be explained but there will be no demonstration of this.

This two-day demonstration is being sponsored by the Home Economics club, organized in January, and is a continuation of the program of which the club demonstration at the WCTU building in February was the beginning. Members of the Women's club prepared the foods used at that meeting. Talks were made by Mrs. John Stovall, supervisor of WPA lunchrooms in Lipscomb, Hemphill, and Roberts counties; Miss George Engle, president of the Women's club; Mrs. Herbert Hill, home economics teacher in Canadian High school; Mrs. C. W. Allen, home supervisor

Governor Urges Top O' Texas Men And Women To Buy Victory Bonds

By COKE STEVENSON Governor Of Texas

In these stressful times it should be an inspiration to all of us to witness the all-out effort that the men and women of our state are contributing to our nation. We have given to the armed forces, more soldiers, sailors and marines in proportion to our population than any other section of the country.

A few days ago it was my privilege to share in the welcome that our Texas towns and cities gave to a group of war heroes of England and America. The kind of gallantry that those men had displayed in the greatest battle for freedom the world has ever known has been common to the people of Texas since it was born.

You fine Texans who live here in the Top O' Texas are to be congratulated on the spirit you are displaying. I gather strength every time I have the opportunity to go to that part of our great state, and I only wish that I could make the visits more frequent. Your young men already are giving a fine account of themselves in the air, and on sea and land. Buy all the bonds and stamps you can.

We are now in the midst of total war. This is a deadly serious business. In total war the energies of all the people are devoted to the activities of war. The great industrial capacity of America has turned its attention exclusively to the war. In times of peace the production of industry is devoted to the comfort and convenience as well as the necessities of mankind. In times of war, people have usually considered themselves fortunate if they obtain the necessities of existence. The spirit of sacrifice will enable us to forget a large measure of both comfort and convenience. But we have made certain social gains which we cannot forget. We are really fighting this war to preserve our standard of civilization, and these social gains are part and parcel of that standard.

It is my belief that the minds of Texas people are keenly concerned with winning this war. No other people on earth have as much to gain as we have by the successful conclusion of the present conflict. The welfare of nearly every home in this state is intimately connected with the consequences of this war. Most of them have a son or brother or other relative in the armed forces. All of us are deeply concerned about the safety and the well-being of our relatives and neighbors. Our hearts are filled with the tenderest emotions when we think of them, and our thoughts are almost constantly with them.

Russian Weather Worse Than Subs, 16-Year-Old Says

PHILADELPHIA, July 16 (AP)—Donald Cullen, 16-year-old veteran of a convoy to Russia, says the air and submarine attacks were bad enough, but the Russian weather—as noted earlier in German reports—was worse.

Donald quit school four months ago, went to New York and landed a job as messboy on a merchant ship.

"The very first day in the convoy we were attacked by submarines," he said. "They didn't get us, but I'm sure we got one of them."

Then came German air raids and Russia's famous April weather.

"I wanted to take some light underwear," said Donald, shivering, "but my mother made me take the heavies. Boy, I could have used three more pairs. It sure does get cold up that way."

"We had one alert after another. Once a torpedo plane came over and let go. Just as it did, it was blown to bits by our anti-aircraft. But the torpedo struck a ship near us. In 45 seconds that ship was gone. Just an orange flare, and then nothing."

"We had British gunners, and let me tell you they're great marksmen. They were firing at the Russian air pilots—well, they don't know what it means to give up."

"If they can't shoot down a Nazi plane, they'll ram it. I've seen 60 or 70 planes come over (at Murmansk) and those Russians would go up and meet 'em head-on."

The boy now is trying for a berth on a ship bound for India. He finds life at sea so interesting.

will be of assistance. We can buy war bonds and stamps, and contribute still more liberally to the U. S. C. Navy Relief, China Relief, the Red Cross, and any other agency which lends a ministering hand to support our armed forces.

The people in Texas are true to the examples set by our heroic ancestry. They are doing their part in all of these enterprises which I have enumerated, and I am supremely confident they will continue to support every phase of the war program in a manner worthy of that ancestry.

Moore Favors Equal Rights For Oilmen

"Moore for more oil and a higher price for crude" was the slogan brought to Pampa yesterday as T. Leo Moore, the mayor of Electra, brought his campaign here for the unexpired term of railroad commissioner.

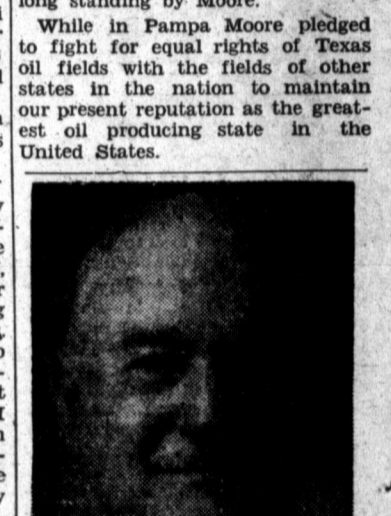

Moore spent much time in the city where he met with the civic leaders and mapped plans for a final drive for votes in this area.

Moore has 22 years of experience in the oil business, working in every branch of the field and in all the important fields of the state. He has served his home city as mayor and city commissioner.

Moore has pledged to fight for the removal of the present proration system in Texas, and took this stand as early as last spring when he challenged the policies of Jerry Sadler on discriminations against North Texas and Panhandle fields.

Pipe lines from Texas, one from North Texas and another from East Texas, to the oil starved Eastern Seaboard is another fight of long standing by Moore.

While in Pampa, Moore pledged to fight for equal rights of Texas oil fields with the fields of other states in the nation to maintain our present reputation as the greatest oil producing state in the United States.
