GLORIFYING YOURSELF

BY ALICIA HART
Every woman who has a care for her appearance should have a good skin care for every beauty routine she does.

It's a waste of energy, not to mention money, to do elaborate rituals which never were intended for your particular type of face or complexion or figure.

If experience shows you are one of those fortunates who never will have to worry about sagging chin-line or ripples below the jawbone, why waste time patting underneath your chin? It would be much wiser to concentrate on the skin around your eyes, probably. For the slim, delicate woman with pointed chin and that firm neck which time seems unable to touch, she's likely to be confronted with faint lines from nose to corners of mouth as well as with dusk at the eyes and a delicately above the bridge of the nose.

If you don't trust your judgment as to the routines you need, better consult a facial expert.

And, know why you select the particular rouge and nail polish you "like." Also the face powder and foundation cream. Remember that what's wonderful for blonde Mrs. So-and-So, whom you do admire and wish to be like, is pretty sure to be a bane to brunette you.

STUDY FASHION NEWS WITH A CRITICAL EYE
Study the fashion and beauty news with the spirit of the colonnade—the free, inquiring, critical spirit of a reasoning creature—and do study! The "latest" thing from Hollywood may be the ultimate glorification of the actress before the camera, but only a booby-trap for you.

It's not a bad idea to derive your hairdress from a famous beauty who has a face of shape and color similar to your own. A group of fashionable New York women dress their hair with spectacular success.

THEY know the face that your hairdresser is going to see and he knows that the costume which you wear is suitable for the occasion when you wear it—else you find yourself copying an elaborate costume, in which your hairdresser played her big scenes in evening dress, for office wear.

It's not just mimicry. Try to apply the basic principle of the pattern to the face which it covers. Always remember that necks are so important that necks should be emphasized for as important as the costume which you wear.

—Bill Shakespeare himself did it again and again—but be sure the scheme is for you and that you make your own instead of trying to make yourself into the scheme.

Hitler Tries To Halt Nazi Retreat

(By The Associated Press)

Russia's Red armies were reported smashing today at German-held Moshansk, the last of the great threats to Moscow, after Adolf Hitler rushed to the front in an attempt to halt the retreat of his battered invasion forces.

Moshansk is 57 miles west of Moscow.

Stockholm dispatches said the Russian's new headquarters were established near Smolensk, 150 miles behind the fighting zone.

New Soviet triumphs were reported by the Red army command, which announced the recapture of Staritsa, an important rail and Volga river city 125 miles northwest of Moscow, and Kaluga, 110 miles southwest of the capital.

The fall of Staritsa, marking a 45-mile sweep southwest from Kaluga, placed the Russians only 30 miles north of the Volga river port of Rzev, a key rail town.

Red army vanguards were reported only a few miles from Moshansk, while Soviet artillery shelled German defenders of the city.

On the North African front, British Middle East headquarters reported the capture of more than 1,000 Axis prisoners in attacks on siege-bound Bardia, near the Libyan-Egyptian frontier, where German and Italian troops have been attempting to create an "Axis To-bruk."

"Operations in the Bardia area are developing satisfactorily," the British communiqué said, indicating that sharp inroads have been made against that Axis stronghold of resistance 300 miles behind the main battle scene in western Libya.

A British military spokesman said that the bulk of Gen. Erwin Rommel's retreating armies are still fighting in the Agedabia zone, 90 miles south of Bengasi, but that because of bad weather conditions, there had been little change in the situation.

Heavy rains were reported hampering mechanized operations on both sides.

A German communiqué asserted British troops had been thrown back near Agedabia and had suffered heavy losses under Nazi bombing assaults.

Premier Mussolini's high command, reporting violent fighting around Agedabia, said Axis planes attacking the British had "pushed them in a northwest direction."

Possibly aimed at heading off heavy German air attacks against the long British supply and communications lines in Libya, the Royal Air Force has been attacking German air bases on Greece and Greek islands near Turkey as well as a newly-disclosed submarine base.

These attacks have carried as far north as the Athens area, where the port of Piræus has become a German target as it was a German target in the days before Greece's fall.

British in London followed up the disclosure of a new raid on the Norwegian Lofoten islands, made to obstruct German shipping, with a war-long summary of German air losses. Their tabulation showed about 14,000 German planes destroyed during the war, including 8,935 in the Middle East and western Europe, and 5,000 in Russia. British plane losses were put at 3,961.

Hitler has the world guessing again. As his armies retreat in Russia, Berlin-inspired rumors ooze from neutral capitals to keep Europe on edge as to next Nazi move. Map spots possibilities.

ter Winston Churchill said he expected great decisions soon. Churchill, who returned to the capital yesterday after his Canadian trip, resumed war strategy conversations with President Roosevelt.

2. In the Dutch East Indies, Gen. Heijer Poorten, the Indies commander, told his troops that the United States and Great Britain were preparing something "very unpleasant for the Japanese."

"I am sorry I cannot tell you about the plans which are being worked out... but we and our allies are working hard—very hard," Gen. Poorten said.

3. In Australia, Prime Minister John Curtin was said to have confirmed reports that the allies were considering the appointment of Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, hero of the first British drive into Libya, as commander-in-chief of Allied land forces in the Pacific war.

4. In Singapore, Gen. Sir Henry E. Fowell, new commander-in-chief of British Far East forces, reported that "considerable help is on the way" to Malaya, even as Japanese invasion forces struck closer to Singapore in fresh landings on the West Malaya coast.

Japanese vanguards were reported hurling themselves against British defense lines only 190 miles north of Singapore on the selective service system. So far, the most likely solution seems to be to grant the director of the system power to take into consideration the circumstances in the various districts when assessing a quota, Kilday added. This proposal could become effective only by passage of legislation amending the draft law.

eastern Malaya coast, in the Kuantan region, and 275 miles north on the west coast in lower Perak province.

New Japanese landings were reported in lower Perak, and a British communiqué said: "Fighting continues."

Japanese bombers again pounded Singapore's 400,000,000 fortifications twice during the night.

Japanese bombers also raided the east coast of Sumatra, across the narrow Malacca Straits from Singapore, and reportedly sank a 2,000-ton ship and damaged a 3,000-ton vessel in an attack on Allied transports in the Straits.

The Dutch East Indies which command said "one or two warships belonging to the American fighting forces which are cooperating with the Netherlands navy" had been attacked by Japanese planes in north India waters without suffering "serious damage."

This was the first intimation that American warships were helping in the defense of the Indies, closely linked with defense of Singapore.

In the north, fully-equipped Chinese troops were reported to have arrived in Burma to aid in guarding that key British colony, the starting-point of the Burma road to China.

Casualties in the first Japanese mass air raid on Rangoon, the Burmese capital, on Christmas Day were listed at 1,000 killed and wounded, with 40 Japanese planes reported shot down.

A wide-scale Japanese offensive also raged in China, centering against Chungking, capital of the province. Axis reports said the Japanese had occupied the city but Changching failed to support this and said a terrific battle of annihilation was being fought in that area.

Army headquarters in Honolulu reported that warships believed to be submarines shelled the Hawaiian Islands of Hilo, Nawiliwili, Maui the night of December 30 but caused no casualties and only slight damage. Prompt counter action was said to have been taken.

fighting while the young men in industrial centers stay at home making high salaries.

Kilday discussed the situation at an informal luncheon of the Texas Congressional delegation in the speakers' dining room in the capitol. They all agreed something should be done to correct the situation, but acknowledged the solution of the problem was no simple matter.

Under the selective service act, draft quotas are based on the number of men registered and found eligible in a given locality for service in the armed forces. (Ineligibles as used in this sense includes those who have been deferred for various reasons, including employment in industries essential to the defense program.)

Thus a draft board of a locality in a Detroit, Mich., district might defer 2,000 of 5,000 youths because they were working in a tank manufacturing plant. Quotas are based in that district on the remaining 3,000. In a San Antonio district only 1,000 of 5,000 men might be deferred. Quotas would be based there on the 4,000 eligibles.

"The more the deferments, the smaller the quotas," explained Kilday. "The result is that we in the agricultural states are supplying the manpower for the army. The East is getting the big industries. The boys there are getting deferred, to stay at home and make big salaries."

"The first thought that arises, he added, is to amend the act so that quotas would be based on a straight population basis.

"But the objection arising there is that guns and tanks are just as essential in modern warfare, and that the boys skilled in their manufacture are best serving the country in the production lines."

Kilday said he had discussed the problem at length with other members of the House Military Affairs committee, and with officials of the

Baker Elected Head Of Control Board

AUSTIN, Jan. 2 (AP)—Weaver Baker of Junction, new member, today was unanimously elected chairman of the board of control, which acts as the state's purchasing agency and administrator of the eleemosynary system.

Former Chairman Harry Knox, Jr., of Brownwood said he nominated Baker for the post and member Tom DeBerry of Bogata seconded the nomination.

An appointee of former Governor W. Lee O'Daniel, Knox asserted he made the nomination in view of his prospective campaign for a seat in congress.

Knox will take over the duties of Frank Davis of Itasca, also named by O'Daniel and Baker's predecessor. Davis was chief of the eleemosynary division.

DeBerry, appointed by former Governor James V. Alfred, will continue his duties as chief of the purchasing division.

Possible changes in the board's staff were not discussed, Knox said.

Baker, sworn in yesterday for a six-year term, was appointed by Governor Coke Stevenson, his former law partner. The new member is a rancher and lawyer.

LeFORS, Jan. 2 (NS)—The LeFors Pirate basketball team will open the 1942 season tonight against the strong Phillips Blackhawks, playing in the LeFors gymnasium.

It will be the first meeting of the two teams this season. Last week LeFors defeated Canadian 35 to 14 while Phillips defeated strong Fort Worth 30 to 28 in two overtime periods.

Phillips, regional football champions, is supposed to have one of the strongest basketball teams in the district also.

Starters for LeFors will be Oldham and Cole, forwards, Clemmuns, center, Bowman and Hamrick, guards.

The Pirates have been unable to practice for several days because of the illness of Coach Francis Smith who was released from Pampa hospital Wednesday night following a severe attack of influenza.

More Time Spent On Agricultural Engineering Than Any Other Phase

Editor's Note: This is a copy of the annual narrative report of County Farm Agent Ralph R. Thomas, on the progress of agriculture in Gray county during 1941. Copies of the report have been supplied to the Gray county commissioners, Texas Extension Service, U. S. department of agriculture.

More time was spent with agricultural engineering than any other phase of extension work in Gray county in 1941, according to the annual report of County Agent Ralph R. Thomas, and Assistant County Agent Lawrence C. Neece, which was submitted to the state office of the extension service of A. and M. college.

One-fifth of the two agents' time was devoted to some line of agricultural engineering which included surveying of terraces and contour lines on crop and pasture land, surveying sites for dams, and instruction in the use of farm levels.

There were 31 trench silos dug and filled in the county this fall. Lawton Hofer of the Laketon community filled his two trench silos with 500 tons of frost bitten sweet sorghum, and says that he would rather have one ton of that silage than three tons of dry burlap. He says that dry burlap just won't take the place of silage for his sheep.

Assistance was also given farmers in planning granaries for storing grain for government loans, and in remodeling and building of poultry houses.

Most of the boys 4-H club work was done by the assistant in 1941. There was a total enrollment of 85 boys who carried out demonstrations in beef cattle, swine, poultry, and other farm products.

The Pampa radio station KPDN, donated the time from 11:45 a. m. to 12 noon on each Saturday to the Extension Service. Each second Saturday the program was prepared and presented by the home demonstration agent, and on other Saturdays the county agent either prepared or arranged for and presented the program.

The program of the Surplus Marketing administration was carried out in the county which included the mattress program and the supplementary cotton program. Other agencies with which the Extension Service cooperated included, Farm Security administration, forest service, Farm Credit administration, and the departments of vocational agriculture in the Pampa and McLean schools.

Today's War Analysis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Wide-World War Analyst O'cupation of the open city of Manila and the neighboring naval base of Cavite by the Japanese would appear from incomplete data to mean that our battle-line south of the capital gave way under weight of numerically superior enemy forces, compelling General MacArthur to make another withdrawal and consolidate his troops to the north where the Japs also are attacking heavily.

Possession of these two strategic places will strengthen the invaders' position by permitting them to pour reinforcements from the south through Manila and thus perhaps compel MacArthur to defend his position from the rear as well as the north.

This grim set-back emphasizes the gravity of the situation. MacArthur seems to be doing a grand job of leadership. He is a great soldier, but he can't pull reinforcements out of a hat.

Apart from the battle of the Pacific the war hasn't produced any great sensation over new years. To me the most important development has been the calling of the nation to prayer by the presidential proclamation.

That is a striking reminder that "man doth not live by bread alone" and that it takes more than guns and bombs to win a war. Recognition of the fact that no one is so strong as to be self-sufficient was given by the chief executive in his war address to the nation on Dec. 9, when he declared his conviction that the people of this country "will retain all those great spiritual things without which we cannot win through."

Teed Will Be On Canyon Program

Arthur M. Teed of Pampa, Lions deputy governor, will be on the program of a zone meeting of Lions club at Canyon at 5:30 p. m. Monday.

The zone meeting will be a prelude to a banquet at 7 o'clock that night at Cousin hall at West Texas State college, when George R. Jordan, of Dallas, president of the International Association of Lions clubs, will be the guest of honor.

President Jordan attended Canyon schools as a boy but left Canyon at the age of 11 and has never visited Canyon since that time.

Attendance of 200 is expected at the zone meeting, representing Lions clubs of Pampa, Dalhart, Dumas, Sunray, Claude, Panhandle, Hereford, Priddy, and Amarillo.

Texas Faces Task Of Supplying 37 Per Cent Of Oil To 'Keep 'em Flying'

AUSTIN, Dec. 31. (AP)—Texas vast oil industry, producing 37 percent of the nation's oil with an estimated 498,603,875 barrels of crude during 1941, currently faces a federal demand for boosted aviation gasoline yield to "keep 'em flying" in 1942.

Virtual federal control of the state's nearly 100,000 oil wells in 500-odd oil fields descended on the industry the past year by way of voluntary cooperation on the part of the railroad commission, state regulatory agency, with Washington oil coordinating officials.

The key petroleum producing state in the country, Texas yielded 11,942,067 barrels more oil this year than in 1940 and gas production increased 284,113,000,000 cubic feet to an estimated total of 1,371,202,000,000. The latter's rise was due largely to expanded recycling plant operations.

Of vital importance in mechanized war against the Axis powers, oil also is necessary to keep the wheels of growing defense industry spinning and, to oil men know what could be expected next year, Harold L. Eckes, federal petroleum coordinator, recently said.

Operators over the nation will be expected to produce a minimum of 1½ billions of barrels during the year, drill more wells to keep pace with production, continue exploration for reserves, conserve reservoir pressure, maintain surface stocks and limit equipment efficiency.

Texas' crude oil, expected to increase throughout 1942, was given a substantial boost when the commission, as far as was mechanically possible, met Eckes' demand for 1,579,500 barrels of crude daily in January.

The amount was 50,000 barrels in excess of current production and 94,000 higher than the U. S. bureau of mines' estimated market demand for December. With new wells increasing output throughout the month, the actual average production Jan. 1 will approximate 1,581,487 barrels.

Stepped-up production of aviation gasoline, the principal ingredients of which is high octane-yielding crude, may require some adjustments in refineries. Some oil men have expressed the opinion that of that type of crude, produced mainly in the state's coastal areas, "is limited."

Whatever the source, commission officials say all aviation gasoline must be made available first to the federal government.

The Lone Star state's supply of crude of all types, especially underground reserves, is known to the commission from exhaustive and continuing surveys but now falls into the classification of information of military value.

Highlights in the industry the past year include state legislative action making oil proration laws permanent and altering them to provide for allocation on a statewide rather than field-by-field basis. The legislature also killed a move to create an appointive oil and gas regulatory agency and stripping the elected railroad commission of those powers.

Commission members had this to say regarding prospects for 1942: Jerry Sadler—"We are in the war and until it is over Uncle Sam shall come first."

Olin Colburn—"The commission throughout 1941 has been informed of the oil needs of the nation by those in charge at Washington. It has been guided by that information. In the war effort, our nation's leaders have had and will continue to have our full cooperation. The commission will never substitute its judgment for that of those at the helm."

Chairman Ernest O. Thompson was unavailable for comment.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Commodity market for stock market leaders today in the face of discouraging, if hardly surprising, war news from the Philippines.

While oils were relatively weak, some losing 2 points at the worst, most orders received, along with rails, stocks, farm implements and assorted specialties. Gains of fractions to ½ or ¾ predominated the close. The list started the new year with irregular trends in most departments. Prices recovered as the proceedings got under way and were at the best in the first hour.

Dealings were slacker throughout and transfers of around 450,000 shares were among the smallest and for a full day since early October.

British Capture Bardia, Release 1,000 Prisoners

CAIRO, Jan. 2 (AP)—British and South African troops have captured Bardia and released 1,000 British prisoners who were held there by the Libyan port's Axis garrison, it was announced today.

The announcement came in a special GHQ communique, which said the British were released when Bardia's citadel was taken. Capture of the port, near the Libyan-Egyptian frontier and some 300 miles east of the main British spearhead now engaging the bulk of Axis African forces in Agadabia, came after an intensive attack lasting several days in which the South Africans were supported by British tanks and artillery and the RAF.

In addition to releasing the British prisoners, the capture of Bardia

Hollywood Had 100 Marriages, Only 50 Divorces

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 2 (AP)—Paced by three Westmore brothers and two of the Bennett sisters, the film colony had 100 marriages and only 50 divorces in 1941.

The Westmores thus caught up with the Bennett family in number of weddings, 11, but remained behind in divorces, six to eight. Romances of these two families have been furnishing Hollywood with bits of gossip for years.

Ern Westmore started the brother-makeup artists' marital trek in February by taking as his fourth wife, Betty Harron. Perc married Mrs. Juliette Novis in June, and Buddy made Rosemary Lane his bride on Dec. 28. Ern had been divorced three times; Perc twice and Buddy once. Two other brothers, Wally and the late Montague, were married once each.

Constance and Joan were the only Bennetts to aid their romances last year, but each got both a divorce and a new husband. Constance divorced the Marquis Henri De La Palaise De La Coudraye and married her long-time friend Gilbert Roland. Barbara's divorce from Morton Downey freed her for a June wedding to Addison (Tex) Randall of the films. Connie has been through four weddings and three divorces; Joan three and two, Barbara two and one, and father Richard Bennett two and two.

Three actors were remarried to former wives—Stan Laurel to Virginia Ruth Laurel, Robert Armstrong to Claire Louise Armstrong, and Thomas Mitchell to Anne Brewster Hier.

Two marriages lasted just a few weeks—Judy Canova's surprise wedding to Pvt. James Ripley in Honolulu, and Mary Brian's to Jon Whitcomb.

John Barrymore, whose love life of has crowded important news off front pages, took a year-long vacation from cupid and the divorce courts. Closest he came to romance was a denial that he and Elaine Barre might effect a reconciliation. "You know, it's funny," he said, "but I have always got to know my wives a lot better after we were divorced."

WILDS OF BORNEO

One of Japan's newest targets of invasion is the great island of Borneo, familiar to sidshow fans as the home of the wild man, important to the allies as a source of rubber, sugar, oil and spices. Map shows divisions and resources of this British-Dutch domain, and its position among the islands of the East Indies.

Wet Feet Cause Of Jaundice In Army

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2 (AP)—The wet feet of a soldier, besides being uncomfortable, were described as the cause of a serious form of infectious jaundice.

In a report before the opening meeting of the Society of American Bacteriologists, Dr. A. Packchianian of Galveston, Texas, declared he had isolated the disease germ which causes it from 40 human beings, 25 dogs and a host of rats.

The germ is a water-borne, spiral-shaped bacteria which passes readily through the skin or mucous membranes of the mouth, nose and throat. Rats and dogs act as carriers from man to man.

Persons most susceptible to the disease are soldiers exposed to long periods of continuous wetting, particularly in rat-infested trenches, and miners working in wet mines.

Dr. Packchianian said symptoms of disease are similar to those of yellow fever, with the skin, other body tissues and eyeballs turning yellow.

War Highlights Over Texas

BROWNWOOD—Major Van W. Pyland of Waco was placed on special duty Thursday as commanding officer of the 36th division special troops, including military police, headquarters, ordnance and signal companies.

DALLAS—Senator W. Lee O'Daniel, visiting his family, recommended that Texas cities attempt to obtain federal orders likely to be obtained from Washington because of congestion. Many non-defense federal agencies are being moved from the state's capital.

CORPUS CHRISTI—More than 2,500 citizens have enrolled for various phases of civilian defense activities.

JACKSONVILLE—The Lions club voted to sponsor a blood bank to furnish blood for military and charitable purposes. Various club members have their blood typed at a local hospital.

CLARKSVILLE—January 8 has been set for Clarksville's first blackout against air-raids.

Roberts County Overseas Two Roll Calls

MELAMI, Jan. 2—Mrs. S. W. Corbin, Red Cross chairman of Roberts county reports that the county again has oversubscribed her quota for Red Cross funds. In the Roll Call completed November 30 the county went over the top, with more than the $225 quota.

Then, when $300 was specified for a special Red Cross fund for this county the same set-up for reaching the quota that had made the Roll Call drive volunteered to make the drive for war fund. One week was set to make the drive. The workers were gratified at the excellent response. The business houses in Miami were almost all 100 per cent. Several large gifts were reported.

Sewing room and knitting plans are getting well under way. Workers who wish to sew, to knit, even to work on knits are asked to get in touch with the chairmen of those divisions. The sewing room is in the courthouse.

Crude Oil Demand Virtually The Same

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—The bureau of mines today forecast the January market demand for domestic crude oil at 128,290,000 barrels or 4,138,400 barrels daily.

This was virtually the same as the estimate for December but 52,100 barrels higher than the actual daily demand for January, 1941.

Secretary of Interior Ickes, the petroleum coordinator, last week established a system of production rationing for the oil industry and the assigned January output quotas to the various oil producing states on anticipated requirements for the month of $4,138,400 daily.

The mines bureau estimated crude oil for export and that to be used as fuel and losses would amount to 5,700,000 barrels in January.

In a summary of the "general situation," the bureau said: "It is not yet possible to evaluate accurately the various changes in total demand that will result from the war situation, particularly with respect to the relation between increasing defense requirements and curtailment of normal business operations."

"The projection of the current high rates of crude demand seems a justifiable precaution even if it results in a somewhat abnormal seasonal accumulation of stocks of certain refined products. With a substantial increase in demand indicated for the coming year, it is unlikely that stocks will prove excessive in terms of days' supply."

"An adequate current production of refined oils and the accumulation of stocks near consuming centers seems essential to insure that any disruption of transportation or refining may not hamper defense operations."

Not Enough B-1 Causes Loss Of Vitamin B-2

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Too little of one vitamin can cause loss of another vitamin which has been taken in sufficient quantity.

This was reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science today by Dr. Barnett Sure, University of Arkansas, based on experiments with vitamins B-one and B-two with rats. The animals lost much of their B-two when not given enough B-one.

Lack of B-2 in humans causes insipid cataracts of eyes and sore mouths.

Rockport Becomes Angler's Paradise

ROCKPORT, Jan. 2 (AP)—Another record winter run of sea trout into the bow-shaped small-craft harbor here was reported today with many pole-and-line anglers struggling away from the water front with strings of 70 to 100 fish.

Tons of trout ranging up to five pounds were taken during a similar spree about Thanksgiving time, and anglers reported the present run would equal the first.

Cold air from the north sends trout from shallow bay waters into the warmer, deeper harbor. They were reported taking live bait best.

Deadly Threat To Liberty

The approach that Americans take toward the problems of debt and taxation within the next few years, will determine the future of representative government and free enterprise in this country for many generations, perhaps for the life of the nation.

It is hard to conceive how the people can become so confused as to believe that labor unions that interfere with the law of supply and demand, rather than attempt to make it work, can be considered as American and democratic.

WHY LABOR UNIONS ARE UNAMERICAN AND UNDEMOCRATIC

The reason organized labor is undemocratic and un-American is that real democracy and real Americanism recognize the inherent rights of all mankind. True democracy and Americanism are opposed to any special privileges for any group.

Effects of Our Laws on Values

The stock market closed Dec. 24th at a lower point for industrials than it has been for over three and one-half years. It is a natural result not of war, but of the belief of the people that laws can be passed which take the rewards from the man who takes risks, and other laws which prevent him from associating with people who will make contracts and in whom he has confidence.

TURNING POINT?

Around Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 2—Newsreel: While RKO executives look on in dejection, $425,000 worth of finished film is put into a vault—certainly for the duration of the war, and probably forever. Completely cut, scored and titled, the picture is "Call Out the Marines," a comedy with Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe in the revival of their Flagg and Quirt roles.

Behind The News In Washington

By PETER EDSON. WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—Some of the by-players of the president's conference to determine labor policy for the war offers marvelous commentary on the way big men act in petty affairs.

John L. Lewis took the president's appointment of William H. Davis to be moderator of the conference as a personal insult. Lewis had been feuding with Davis over the captive coal mine case. The two C.I.O. representatives on the National Defense Mediation Board, Phil Murray and Tom Kennedy, had resigned from the board in a huff, refusing even presidential coaxing to come back and play. Consequently, when Lewis walked into the magnificent board room of the Federal Reserve building and found Davis seated at the head of the table, Lewis proceeded to the chair at the foot of the log mahogany and challenged Davis on several issues. It was Lewis who forced the decision to issue no statements to the press unless they were approved by the full committee, thereby spiking the Davis position as spokesman.

After the initial session of the conference was over, the delegates went to the White House for a courtesy call and pep talk. As they climbed into government limousines, Lewis opened the front door of a car closest to him and sat down beside the chauffeur. Looking around to see who was in the car, he discovered a lot of people—Bill Green and Matt Woll and Dan Tobin of the A. F. of L. "And do you know what the so-and-sos did?" Lewis asked one of his confidantes. "They rolled up the glass window between us."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

SYNOPTIC GOSPELS SPLENDIDLY PORTRAY THE REAL GLORY IN THE LIFE OF CHRIST. Text: Matthew 1:1, 17; Mark 1:1, 14, 15; Luke 1:1-4, Acts 1:1-5. This lesson begins a series of six months' studies in the life of Christ, as recorded in the Synoptic Gospels. The Synoptic Gospels are the first three, namely, Matthew, Mark, and Luke, and they are so called because they give a synopsis of events and incidents in the life of Jesus, as distinguished from the fourth Gospel, the Gospel of John, which is not so much a running retelling of events as an interpretation of the life and teachings. The Gospel of John, so far as we know, was written much later than the Synoptic Gospels, and was for those who already know these earlier Gospels and who were familiar with the story of the earthly life of Jesus as recorded there.

It is fitting that the new year should begin with the study of the life of Jesus, for our years date from His birth. One might well pause and reflect upon the fact that we do not know the exact date of that birth. In fact we do not even know the exact year, and some would place the birth of Jesus as four years before the reckoning of our era. If everything worked out exactly in agreement with the hard accuracy that some assume whenever we come to discuss religion and the Bible, it is obvious that Christmas would be New Year's for us, as we reasonably reckon our years from the birth of Jesus. His birthday would be the beginning of each year.

It is not instructive that we have no such hard accuracy as to exact things, and that the real truth, the real beauty, and the real glory of all that pertains to Christ and the New Testament have come down to us in a framework of historical obscurity. It ought to warn against "black-out" too much importance have tended to do, to the loss or inadequate appreciation of the truth, the beauty, and the glory that have persisted and that are available for us all.

How little we know concerning the life of Jesus in terms of what might be called "modern biography"! And yet, how vividly and splendidly the New Testament gives us all that is essential! Could the picture of Jesus stand out more clearly if, instead of these simple Gospels, we had an enormous biography, such as is written about almost every famous man of today? Could all that Jesus came to do and to give the world have been made to stand out so boldly and so challengingly if the story of His life had been loaded down with all manner of unimportant details? The marvelous thing is that these Gospels have been written with such restraint and with such care, where so much could easily have been filled by the authors to exploit their own literary skill or to fill up pages with all the legendary stories that must surely have been current concerning the Master.

These are old and familiar passages which we shall be studying; yet it is remarkable how every new reading and every further study seems to bring out newer aspects of truth and its application to life and

HIS CHRISTMAS CAROL

BY ADELAIDE HAZELTINE

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: The terms of Andrew Dearborn's will specifying that his secretary Carol, and five other employees, shall divide the store as they see fit, whether or not his playboy son Andy is running the business according to his father's policy of "service to the people," put Carol, who has been his father's girl-friend, in a difficult spot. Her heart aches when Andy, currently involved with sleek blonde Janine, turns management over to suspicious Mr. Herrick, whose only idea is to make money. Herrick blames employe Hill Hesse for the toyland elevator accident that injures newboy Nicky, although Nicky discovers that Hill had requested the elevator's condition and was not to blame. Herrick also takes credit for cash adjustments made to customers by Carol without his knowledge, in an effort to save the store's reputation. At the annual store party Andy kisses Carol, indicating he is through with her. The next day Carol finds the will's envelope in the vault, but she will be gone. Herrick then fires her for writing a resignation check for an employe he has dismissed, although she was only following the Dearborn policy. Returning to the office for the day, she has discovered that Herrick has discovered the elevator accident.

WHO HAS THE WILL? CHAPTER XV

"It's not true, I tell you!" Mr. Herrick glared at Andy. "Bill didn't report that elevator." "I'm going to see the judge of that," Andy snapped. Carol's heart leaped. Andy was awake at last. Thank goodness for Nicky and his innocent repetition of his conversation at the hospital Christmas morning! "You're forgetting that the store is making money," Mr. Herrick said levelly. "Money?" Andy's laugh was a mockery. "If saving the cost of repairs is your idea of making money, I don't want any of it. I want some humanity in my store. 'And something else.' Andy's voice was relentless. "Those refunds to Mrs. Milligan and Mrs. Grover. You must have thought you were pretty smart to take credit for them. Well, Carol got mad last night—mad enough to give me a hint about those checks. I'd never have thought to look them up if she hadn't." Andy had taken her hint about the checks!

"So what?" There was menace in Mr. Herrick's words. "So you're through. All through, Herrick. From now on, I run this store myself. The way my father would want it run."

An ominous silence followed this declaration. Carol longed to be able to see defeat on Mr. Herrick's face. But his next words were like TNT. "No, I'm not through, Andy Dearborn." He paused, continued,

"In fact you're getting ready to give me a ten-year contract to manage this store as I see fit." Andy was aghast. "A ten-year contract?" "Yes. I didn't intend to push it just yet but you've called my hand. You see there's the small matter of a will. The will your father left."

The will? What does Mr. Herrick know about the will? Carol thought frantically. "I happen to know what that will contains," Mr. Herrick was saying. "I happen to know that it disinherits you, leaves everything to charity!"

Carol stifled a gasp. If Mr. Herrick had read the will he was distorting the facts. "It—what?" That was genuine surprise in Andy's voice. "It suggests that you aren't capable of running the store, Andy. It orders the stock sold and the floors closed for good." "How do you know that?" Andy demanded. "I know the will has been found."

"Found? You mean my father's will has been found and not recorded? Do you realize that is a criminal offense?" "Found! Carol's thoughts echoed. Then it wasn't Andy at all who had taken the will from the ledger; it must have been Mr. Herrick or someone Mr. Herrick knew. Andy's determination to run the store in a manner worthy of a Dearborn was real. He was waiting for Mr. Herrick to reply. "I don't admit anyone is withholding it. I only say that a contract for me would be, shall we say, a satisfactory reward for my failure to let the will turn up?" "That's blackmail!" Andy accused him. "Blackmail's an ugly word." "No uglier than the conditions you suggest!" "I wouldn't call them that." "You've lied about other things. How do I know you aren't lying about the will?" "I thought you'd wonder. Well, the party who found the will took the precaution to leave its envelope behind, right where the will was found in the inventory record for 1940."

"Yes, the inventory record?" "Yes. Your father was a stickler for exactness, Andy. He put the will where you would be certain to find it. Only someone else happened to look there first. Fortunately."

"I won't do you any good, Herrick," he said after a pause.

"I can prosecute you for this." "Oh, don't take that attitude, Andy." His tone was conciliatory. "If the will should be found, you don't think I'd be fool enough to let myself become involved. Your prosecution wouldn't touch me! On the other hand you don't like the store. You never have. You can turn it over to me and forget it. Take the income and enjoy yourself. That's not asking much of you. That's doing you a favor."

"What's your proposition?" Was Andy's voice less angry? "You give me a ten-year contract," Mr. Herrick hurried to tell him. "Of course, I'd want a slight salary increase." He emphasized the slight. "Then the will simply wouldn't appear. Nobody would be to blame. It'd be just one of those things. A case where a man was understood to have made a will but evidently didn't."

Carol waited breathlessly. Would Andy give in now? Would he let Mr. Herrick have his way after the stand he had taken such a short time ago? The stand his father would approve and which would guarantee his inheritance? "That's fair, isn't it?" Mr. Herrick urged. "You'll have to give me a little time," Carol heard Andy say. Her heart sank. He was weakening. "I'll let you know by Saturday."

Saturday! Delay meant he was seriously considering it. When he should have knocked Mr. Herrick down for insulting him with a bribe! "Well, I'll draw up a contract," Mr. Herrick said confidently. Sick with the knowledge that Andy had failed again, Carol fled from the store. For a brief moment Andy had shown a strong self. She had glared in him. At last she had thought he was going to make his father proud of him. Only to be scared out of it by the fear he might lose the income which meant an easy life!

She could go to him and tell him the true contents of the will. That might give him courage to defy Mr. Herrick. But she wouldn't. You can't make a man strong by removing temptation. If he were saved, he would have to save himself.

Now, more than ever, she was burning with the desire to find the will herself, show up the whole miserable scheme and revel in the part she would have to take in disinheriting Andy. It was a resolution that brought her little comfort on New Year's Day.

24-Year-Long Sit-Down Strike Ends In Death

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 2 (AP)—Mrs. Josephine Davis' 24-year-long sit-down strike in the courthouse is ended. She died December 17, still protesting the 1917 foreclosure order that cost her her home. And county officials and court house frequenters suddenly realized the familiar, congenial little 72-year-old woman who chatted with anyone willing to talk was virtually a stranger to them. Not even the undertaker could supply a list of relatives. She started her vigil in the court house lobby in 1917, protesting "the unlawful seizure of my property." Daily, year after year, she appeared at the court house at 8 a. m., and remained until 5 p. m. Usually she sat between the sheriff and county attorney's offices. Sometimes she wandered about the halls or stopped in an office for a visit. To the last she was confident that "today I'll get my property back." Officials, noting her prolonged absence yesterday, investigated. They learned of her death.

WTSC To Teach Military Science

CANYON, Jan. 2—West Texas State college will go on a war basis when students return from their holiday vacation Jan. 5. Military drill for men will be started on a voluntary plan with Lieut. A. R. Donnell, head of the R.O.T.C. in Amarillo High school, in charge of two night sessions a week. This will be an intensive course in military science and tactics. In addition to drill, instruction will be given in map reading, musketry, military sanitation, and other elements of basic training. Special courses carrying credit of one semester hour will be offered in first aid, safety, cooking, welding, auto mechanics, sheet-metal work, and blue-print and map reading. This will be preferential training designed to make draftees more efficient and to make civilians equal to emergencies of various kinds. Men likely to be drafted will be especially interested, but the courses will be offered both to students and non-college individuals. Elective credits may be earned if desired. New students may enroll for special work during the one month remaining in the first semester. The courses will be offered on the sophomore level and made available to everyone. Some of them will be repeated in the second semester and others will be added. President J. A. Hill will attend a national defense conference of college presidents and deans in Baltimore, Md., Jan. 2-4, when the Association of American Colleges, the U. S. Bureau of Education, the American Council on Education, and the National Defense Council will convene. He will bring back a report on how colleges may best assist in the war effort. Executive of Texas colleges will meet soon to coordinate their war aid programs. Twenty-two per cent of out-going tonnage of plants producing defense materials is moved by trucks.

SERIAL STORY

HIS CHRISTMAS CAROL

BY ADELAIDE HAZELTINE

COPYRIGHT, 1941. NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: The terms of Andrew Dearborn's will specifying that his secretary Carol and five other employees, shall join as co-trustees of his business, according to his father's policy of "service to the people" put Carol, who has loved Andy since childhood, in a difficult spot. Her heart aches when Andy, currently involved with sleek Linda Julian, turns management over to unscrupulous Mr. Herrick, whose only idea is to make money. Herrick, business employe Bill Reese for his help, and a lawyer friend that makes newboy Nicky. Herrick also takes credit for cash expenditures made to encourage Carol without his knowledge, in an effort to save the store's reputation. At the annual store party Andy kisses Carol, indicates he is through with Linda. Next day Carol finds the will's envelope in the vault, but the will is gone. Herrick then fires her for writing a settlement check for an employee who has absconded with cash, although she was only following the Dearborn policy. Returning to the store for a while she has forgotten she overheard Andy telling Herrick she knew the truth about the elevator accident, and the adjustments Carol has made. Herrick then sends her to the whereabouts of the will, tries to blackmail Andy into letting him run the store, and finally settles the terms. Andy asks for time; Carol tries to persuade him to agree to the proposition.

closing bell rang she was crouched behind a little used case on the sixth floor. She had taken pains to choose one where there were no windows to be closed and no lights to be turned off. After endless minutes she heard the last salesperson go down the stairs and dared to straighten up. The night watchman was her only worry now. He made his rounds on the hour. She knew his schedule. It would be fairly simple to avoid him if she kept tabs on her wrist watch. Her plan was well in mind. When Mr. Herrick found the will in the vault he would have carried it to his office on the second floor. There he would have read it, realized its possibilities and hidden it somewhere neutral and safe. Not in his own office. That would probably be the last place she would look.

Think heavens! He hadn't seen her. She was safe again! She waited until he was gone to the next floor before she risked moving, deciding not to be careless another time. The files contained no clew. Where now? Mr. Herrick's office was about the only chance left. It was improbable that he would hide the will there but it wasn't impossible. She'd leave no place unsearched.

SEARCH AT NIGHT

CHAPTER XVI
THE fact that Mr. Herrick had told Andy the will was still in existence gave Carol new hope. Maybe she could find it. Provided Andy didn't let Mr. Herrick destroy it first! She would have until Saturday morning. She was reasonably sure of that. But where would she look? Where, in a store like Dearborn's, would a man hide a will? In the end she decided she would have to search the store at night. It was her only chance. And her time was limited. Once Andy gave an affirmative answer and signed the contract, the will would be burned. Both Mr. Herrick and Andy would see to that. She must find it before it was destroyed. She must find it tonight! No one would think it odd that she should come to the store to make a late purchase nor would they bother to notice that she didn't go out with the last shoppers. She could hide on an upper floor, make her search and then let herself out a side door. It was that easy. When the Carol had remembered to bring a flashlight and used it now. She would search all the general office files first. Then the small safes where various records were kept. She would pry into the desk of Mr. Herrick's associates on the theory he might have planted it on one of them so he would be blameless if the will were discovered. Carol went about her task methodically. She was in the general offices, thumbing through the files when she heard the watchman's steps. She had been too engrossed in her work to remember the time. Panicky, she slipped behind the tall metal case and flattened herself against it, then heard the man enter the room, saw the beam of his flashlight as he surveyed the empty desks. She held her breath. If she were caught, she'd be in real trouble. Even the finding of the will could not explain this! The footsteps approached her hiding place, hesitated. She was too frightened to think. She could only feel her inching down her spine, freezing her. Then, miraculously, the feet turned back!

NINE-THIRTY. Half hour before the watchman started his next round. Cautiously, she made her way to the second floor to Mr. Herrick's office. She would start with his desk. The drawers were filled with reports, expense records and the usual miscellany of any office man. Extra pencils, a box of cigars, some paper clips, a note pad. She fingered them all, watching for the folded white paper that would be the will. Then she checked his personal files. Having read stories where valuable papers were concealed in the back of pictures on the wall, she began to remove those, looking for evidence of tampering. She had the largest one in her hands when she heard the noise. It was only a rustle, a stir of air. But it was foreign to the silence of the quiet store. Carol stiffened, not daring to move to hang the picture back in its place, finally managed to lean over and push the button on her flashlight to extinguish its beam. Waiting she could hear the seconds ticking on her wrist watch, feel the rasp of breath as it tore up and down her throat. Her lungs seemed to swell and burst. The movement came again, nearer this time. It was no longer a swish. It was the sound of leather treading on wood. It was stealthy feet. A hand slid along the wall, feeling for the switch. Then blinding light flooded the office. She was caught! (To Be Continued)

Germans May Scrap Famed Eiffel Tower

BERLIN, Jan. 2 (Official broadcast recorded by AP)—Paris' 984-foot Eiffel tower, known to millions since it was built 82 years ago, may be scrapped by a national metal collection committee working under Marshal Petain, a Vichy dispatch said today. The committee is charged with destroying "certain edifices presenting no artistic or historic interest." Novelist Henry Bordeaux, French academy member, was quoted as saying the tower was "an insult to aesthetic taste." German troops sighted the Eiffel tower when they were 40 or 50 miles away in their march on Paris in June, 1940. One of the Nazis' first acts when they entered Paris was to seize the French tricolor on the tower and to substitute the swastika. One of Hitler's first acts, too, when he strode into Paris was to visit Napoleon's tomb nearby, then ascend the great tower to gaze over his new prize, the conquered city. The tower would yield quantities of munition since 7,000 tons of steel are in the 1,000,000 structure which the French engineer, Alexandre Gustave Eiffel, built in 1889.

New Selectees To Receive Booklets

Selectees from Gray county in 1942 will be better informed when sent to induction stations on what confront them than was the case of selectees sent from this county in the past. State selective service headquarters has notified the local office that copies of the booklet "The Army and You" will be issued to each selectee by local board officials. No copies of the booklet have yet been received here. The publication has 14 pages, measures 6 x 9 inches, making it of convenient pocket size. Purpose of the booklet is to acquaint the rookie with what is ahead of him so that he will be less apt to be confused by his new status. Titles of two of the chapters are: "In the American Spirit," "What the Army Expects of You and What

GOOD LIGHTING DOES THIS TO DARNING

Why is darning so much harder than reading? Because the color of the darning cotton and the material is usually about the same... the materials are often dark and absorb much of the light... and threads and needles are small. Better lighting reduces the handicap of poor color contrast between the darning cotton and the goods. More light compensates for the dark material and also serves to "magnify" the size of the needle and thread.
