Father Of Bataan Marine Dies Of Heart Attack

Recently L. M. Myers prophetically remarked that he probably never would again see his son, Alfred Myers, marine, reported missing after the fall of Corregidor. The prophecy came true in an unexpected manner this morning about 7 o'clock when Mr. Myers suffered a fatal heart attack at the drilling well where he was working three miles north of LeFors on the Magnolia lease. He had been with the company for seven years.

Mr. Myers, who was 42 years old, was lying on the ground when discovered by fellow workers. A short time before he had left the rig and was attending to duties near the boiler house. He was removed to a local hospital, but was dead on arrival. Fellow workers believe his death was instant.

Mr. Myers was in good health and in jovial spirits yesterday. He went to work on the "graveyard" shift at midnight. A recent physical examination revealed no heart ailment. Mr. Myers had lived in Pampa seven years. Their home is at 1105 East Francis. Besides the son, Alfred, who was stationed at Cavite base at the beginning of the war, Mr. Myers is survived by his wife, and two other children, Betty and Bobby, both high school students, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Myers, Seminole, Okla., and a sister, Mrs. Dick Andrews, Tucumseh, Okla.

It was believed by Mr. Myers that his son, Alfred, was stationed on Bataan after the fall of Cavite and then at Corregidor after the fall of Bataan. About three weeks ago the family was informed by the war department that their son had been reported missing and that did not mean he was a casualty, but that he probably was a prisoner of the Japs.

Funeral services will be conducted at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the chapel of the Duenkel-Carnichael Funeral home with the Rev. B. A. Norris, pastor of First Christian church, officiating. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery here. Pallbearers will be C. E. Boswell, Sam Brunner, Fred Curtis, H. L. Rinehart, Harry Dean and F. M. Drake.

I HEARD . . .

That Melvin Anisman, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Anisman, came home from school yesterday and told his parents that he whipped the second toughest kid in school. When asked who was the toughest, Melvin remarked, nonchalantly, "me."

Opposition To Rationing Of Gas Growing

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—A rising tide of congressional opposition to nationwide gasoline rationing brought suggestions from influential house members today that congress might well consider curtailing some of Price Administrator Leon Henderson's power. Speaker Sam Rayburn and Chairman Lea (D-Calif.) of the House Interstate committee which has been investigating the gasoline and petroleum situation went on record as being no reason to extend the eastern rationing program to the entire nation.

At the same time, Chairman Steagall (D-Ala.) of the House Banking committee that wrote the price control law under which Henderson received much of his authority, commented that perhaps congress had "made a mistake." "No such power as that man has should be given to one man," Steagall told reporters today. "I don't see any other way to do it," the rubber chief told reporters, adding that he did not believe "any voluntary tire conservation program would be effective enough and quick enough to save the rubber."

Senator Ellender (D-La.) told reporters the retreat plan, which he intends to introduce Monday, was his own idea. "I don't see how cars rolling which otherwise would be forced off the roads when their present tires wear out. Meanwhile nine senators headed by Senator Connally (D-Tex.) voted at an informal meeting to re-

Radio Operator Thrives During 29 Days At Sea Alone

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—They thought there was something a bit fishy about Harley Archie Olson's story when he was rescued—bronzed, sleek and healthy—after 29 days alone at sea on a raft. The Chinese command acknowledged that Japanese columns bypassing Kinwa had driven 25 miles westward to the railway town of Langyu, where bloody street fighting was reported raging.

At Lanchi, 10 miles north of Kinwa, the Japanese were said to have lost 1,000 killed and wounded in a day-long battle in which the invaders launched 10 futile attacks. Chekiang is important as a potential base for Allied aerial attacks on Japan.

Twister Wrecks 4 Planes At Carlsbad

CARLSBAD, N. M., May 29 (AP)—A freak twister wrecked four planes at a private flying field last night, doing damage estimated at several thousand dollars. No one was injured, however.

The gusts left untouched four other planes flanking on either side the narrow path of destruction, barely 30 feet wide. Jose Arona, airport guard, was a fascinated witness as the wrecked planes were torn from their moorings and blown into the air.

Marinettes To Help Solicit USO Funds

The Marinettes have volunteered their services to help in the $4,800 USO drive which will begin in Pampa Monday and they have been placed in charge of the house to house canvass which will be necessary to raise the quota. Chairman Jack Hanna announced today. Tonight, the Marinettes will meet with the USO committee to plan the residential campaign. They will enlist mothers and fathers of men in the service to conduct the drive.

Every Pampian will have an opportunity to give to the USO. Persons who want to make their donations before the drive starts are asked to leave them at the office of County Judge Sherman White which will be headquarters for Mrs. Clifford Braly, secretary-treasurer. Or the contributions may be left this week-end at The News with Mr. Hanna. Next week all donations will be handed through Mrs. Braly. The Marinettes will use 19 mem-

Ground Offensive Part Of Strategy

WEST POINT, N. Y., May 29 (AP)—An invasion of the European continent was promised today by General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, who told the West Point graduating class that American troops "are landing in England, and they will be required to bring this struggle to a triumphant conclusion," he told the graduating cadets.

"Your utmost endeavor, backed by high and unselfish purpose, will be required to bring this struggle to a triumphant conclusion," he told the graduating cadets. "No compromise is possible, and the victory of the democracies can only be complete with the utter defeat of the war machines of Germany and Japan."

Gaining significance in view of the current discussions of high ranking American army officers with British officials in London, Marshall's assertion that American forces "will land in France," was the first definite statement by any American official that a ground offensive against the continent was part of American-British strategy.

Marshall recalled that prior to December 7, members of congress, seeking his justification for expansion plans for the army, wanted to know "where American soldiers might be called upon to fight and just what the urgent necessity for the army that we were endeavoring to organize and train."

"In reply I usually commented on the fact that we had previously fought in France, Italy, and Germany; in Africa, and the Far East; in America and in Northern Russia," Marshall said. "I don't see how cars rolling which otherwise would be forced off the roads when their present tires wear out. ## Dutch Fliers Train At American Schools

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—The war department announced today that several hundred Netherlands soldiers who came to this country from Australia for aviation training were being schooled at four army air force fields.

Using American planes, the soldiers receive their flying instructions from Netherlands officers and their technical training largely under American instructors using United States army equipment.

The schools being used by the Dutch students are Sherman field, Fort Lavenworth, Kas., for primary training; the air force base at Jackson, Miss., for basic and advanced training; the air force base at Midland, Tex., for bombardier training; and Scott field, Belleville, Ill., for radio instruction.

The Jackson base is headquarters for the program and members of the soldiers' families who accompanied them live near the field at Jackson.

Go To Church Sunday, Legion Asks Public

Both the Legion and the V. F. W. are seeking to have a record attendance at churches in the city Sunday morning. In the past, it has been the custom for the veterans to attend one church in a group, but due to the desire of some to attend the church of one denomination and others to attend another, the Legion and the V. F. W. are asking for a record attendance at churches in the city Sunday morning. ## U. S. Slowly Winning Battle Against Subs

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—Despite heavy losses inflicted on American coastal shipping by Nazi submarines, naval experts said today that the United States was slowly winning the main campaign in the battle of the Atlantic. They emphasized, however, that only steadily increasing production of both war and merchant ships could clinch the Atlantic victory.

Early Wheat Harvest Thin Due To Bugs

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—The keen-edged cutter bars of huge combine begin biting into World War II's first bread crop next week in a Northwest Texas area where the ravages of green bugs have automatically solved labor problems and helped the serious storage outlook.

Further west and northwest, on the great North and South Plains of Texas better crops are anticipated for the harvest that starts several weeks hence. The crop outlook in those regions would be further improved by rain.

Women and school children may have to be pressed into service in the Plains region, and chances are good that lack of storage space will make necessary the practice of piling wheat on the ground pending shipment.

No labor shortage was anticipated in the early harvest areas where the ponderous combines do the work of many men. Combines are threshing and harvesting machines that cut, head and clean the grain leaving the straw in bundles as they creep over the ground.

Wichita county will harvest less than five per cent of its planted acreage, said County Agent G. R. McNeil, and the 50-mile sector will produce about 20 per cent of the normal crop because of bug damage, estimated S. R. Riddle, grain buyer for General Mills, Inc. Farmers in that area were expected to construct bins because of the government's allowance of seven cents per bushel for storage purposes. Several elevators report all-

Coffee Given As Surprise Courtesy To Mrs. Teeters

Mrs. A. D. McNamara entertained with a surprise neighborhood coffee Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock in her home honoring Mrs. J. G. Teeters, who will leave soon to join her husband in Lawton, Okla.

Attractive arrangements of garden flowers decorated the home of the hostess.

Wearing house dresses, the guests took their handwork and spent the morning in sewing and informal conversation. A handkerchief shower was given for the honoree. Assisting Mrs. McNamara in serving homemade hot rolls and coffee was her mother, Mrs. A. B. Zahn.

Neighbors attending were Meses Paul Taber, Bruce Walter, Luke McClellan, Don Schwartz, W. C. Mitchell, Paul Kasishke, John Skelly, J. P. Wehrung, J. G. Teeters, A. B. Zahn, and the hostess.

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. When a man and woman are riding together on a street car or bus, who should be the first to alight?
2. Should a hostess step aside and let her women guests go through doors first?
3. In a restaurant, does the man or woman lead the way to a table?
4. Is it all right for a man, in the presence of women, to loosen his necktie if the day is very warm?
5. If a friend, of the same sex, offers to take you to a public swimming pool in his or her car should you buy both tickets to the pool? What would you do if—
6. You are a woman instructing your maid about serving when there are women guests.

(a) Have her serve you first?
(b) Have her serve the woman guest of honor first?

Answers

1. The man, so that he can assist the woman.
2. Yes.
3. The woman.
4. No. It looks sloppy and careless.
5. You should at least attempt to best "What Would You Do?" solution—(b).

PROTECTING GLASS

Cooking glass, such as heatproof oven and top-of-stove ware, is sturdy, pleasant to use and labor-saving. In that many foods may be served at table directly from the utensil in which they are cooked. One caution, though. Don't subject cooking glass to sudden changes in temperature, such as from icebox to stove, stove to icebox, cold water into hot dish, stove to cold working surface, or cold sink.

SAVE ON SOAP

"Save" is the housewife's watchword these days and soap comes in for its share of economy. If you live in a locality where the water is hard, use a water softener and dissolve it thoroughly before soap is added to the solution. Be systematic, too, about using soap in your electric washer. Discover exactly how much you need to build a good, adequate suds and from then on, don't guess, but measure your soap in the washer. Unwrap soap cakes and store them away in some warm, dry, ventilated place. Dried-out soap goes further. And don't throw away little difficult-to-handle nubbins. Put them in a jar and cover with hot water; they'll make a good soft-soap jelly.

RAYON TIPS

When you buy some of the new rayon hosiery, be sure to ask for explicit washing directions. Generally speaking, here are some important ways to get longest and best service from them: Handle them gently, use a mild soap suds, rinse thoroughly and carefully and lay on an absorbent towel to dry, never in sunshine or near artificial heat. Check with the sales person when you purchase to see if the hosiery is shrinkable, so that you will buy the correct size. Never wear rings or jewelry that may snag the threads while washing.

Needed: Red Light To Stop Bores, Gossip And Bickering

By RUTH MILLETT

They have a device in the supreme court now that could be used to advantage in every living room.

Because time is suddenly precious the court has installed two electric lamps where they can be seen by government counsel and other lawyers pleading cases.

When the white light shows it means a lawyer's time expires in ten minutes.

When the red and white both show, time has expired.

When only the red shows it is time for recess.

If we had just that kind of arrangement in our living rooms, conversation could certainly be improved. The bore who gets the floor and holds it would get the white light every time he started. So would the man who thinks his listeners don't know what it is all about and talks them to sleep.

The white light would flash when a woman gets started on her family, and what a remarkable tribe it is. And it would flash for the man who knows how the war ought to be run and runs it every time he can get the ear of anybody without nerve enough to squelch him.

WOULD INSURE REAL PEACE

The red and white light would flash suddenly when a woman starts some malicious gossip, when a husband and wife begin to bicker, or when any one starts making offensive generalities.

And the red light—time for recess—would come so handy when an argument reaches the place where everybody thinks the other fellow is hopeless.

The red light would prevent many broken friendships, numerous fist fights—and it might even prevent a few such tragedies as that recent one in California where an argument between two retired majors resulted in death.

CREATING LIVABLENESS

If your furniture budget won't stretch to cover all the pieces you would like to have and the room you are doing has an unfinished appearance, you will be surprised at what a very inexpensive pottery jar, a group of figurines, carefully chosen in tune with the mood you are trying to create, will do. Growing potted plants, strategically placed, is another way to alleviate a sparsely furnished effect.

SILVER LIVING TO SUGAR SHORTAGE

Don't let the sugar shortage worry you. There are many substitutes and new flavor treats in store for you. Try using honey, molasses, and maple syrup in various ways. Children, for example, are always begging for chocolate-honey bar, so why not "honey cocoa"?

Children also might be intrigued with the novelty of honey instead of sugar on their cereal.

If you must kill the natural flavor of grapefruit, by adding sugar, use a teaspoonful of maple syrup instead. The flavor will be a pleasant surprise.

Serve fruits instead of sweet cakes, cookies, and pies as desserts. You'll be getting not only natural sugar but protective minerals and vitamins not present in sugar.

Honey has been described as a land of milk and honey—with no mention of sugar.

ALWAYS BRUSH WELL and hang suits on hangers as soon as removed.

Proper Care Of Suit Beats Wool Shortage

By NEA Service

Possible rationing of men's clothes, as a result of the wool shortage, makes proper care imperative. A suit, topcoat, or overcoat will last twice as long if given considerate treatment. The same applies to women's woollen garments.

A good woollen suit will take a beating, but . . .

Avoid too-frequent pressings. Hand pressing is better for the garment than machine pressing. Before pressing, always brush fabric thoroughly; always use a damp cloth under the iron. Let suits hang 24 to 48 hours after pressing, giving crosses a chance to "set."

If you have several suits, wear them alternately for better "mileage." They regularly need a minimum "rest" of one or two days.

Always hang suits on hangers as soon as removed. Suits are made of wool not only because of their insulation qualities against heat and cold, but because it springs back into shape if allowed to hang. Wooden hangers are better than metal. Buttoning coat helps it keep proper "set."

AVOID OVERLOADING POCKETS

Hang trousers from the bottom. Their weight helps to pull them back into shape. It is worthwhile to brush dust and dirt from the cuffs before hanging.

Replace buttons promptly. When one comes off, a strain is put on another, pulling the suit out of shape.

Avoid loading pockets with "junk." Too much weight or bulk pulls a suit or coat out of shape, strains the seams.

Be careful of sparks from cigarettes, cigars, and pipes. A damaged fabric can be renewed.

Have soiled fabrics cleaned for longer life.

Thorough airings will help prevent moth damage.

Central Baptist WMS Will Have Lunch, Program

Planning a monthly covered dish luncheon followed by a Royal Service program and business session, members of Woman's Missionary Society of Central Baptist church met in circles Wednesday afternoon. An executive board meeting of all general officers and circle chairmen at 12:30 o'clock will precede the 1 o'clock luncheon next Wednesday.

At the meeting of Lottie Moore circle in the home of Mrs. W. R. Richardson, Mrs. E. Miller taught the Bible lesson. Seven members were present.

A meeting of Lydia circle was conducted in the home of Mrs. Clyde Ives, who presided over the business session following a song by the group and prayer by Mrs. J. L. Barnard. An open discussion of the Bible lesson by the entire group followed. Refreshments were served to eight members and one visitor.

Lillie Hundley circle members met in the home of Mrs. O. H. Gilstrap for a program opened with a song by the group and prayer. Mrs. C. E. McMin taught the Bible lesson. Thirteen women were present.

When Anna Salles circle met in the home of Mrs. A. H. McPeak, the business was conducted by the hostess. Mrs. G. W. Lawrence taught the Bible guide and Mrs. George Berlin completed the book, "The That Giveth." Six members were present.

A meeting of Mary Martha circle was held in the home of Mrs. Henry Overall where Mrs. Dayton White presided over the business session preceding a special song, "We've a Story to Tell to the Nations," by Mariola Duval, Joan Bennett, and Betty Kerr. Mrs. Tom Duval discussed a chapter of the book, "The Word Overcoming the World." Fifteen members, including three visitors, were present.

SAVE BY REDECORATING

Perhaps the budget won't allow for that new bedroom furniture you were planning to buy now that you want to put every available dollar in war savings bonds. But you can give the pieces you have a new dress—something gay and attractive. Choose a scheme for the room—and if you do not see the paint color cards just the shade you want, have your dealer mix you a really lovely and unusual shade. But be sure he mixes exactly. Rub the surface of the furniture down smooth and free of any dirt or old finish. Buy a good paint and apply it evenly. Be sure each coat is absolutely dry before applying the next one. Then to add further life and interest, investigate decal patterns. They are inexpensive, easy to apply. Another interesting idea is to buy pastel colored plastic handles in the five and dime store for bureaus, chests, and such and decorate each with tiny motifs cut from floral decals. Don't overdo the decorating, however. A few designs are lovely—too many are like too much frosting on a cake.

British Bombers Fire Four Ships

LONDON, May 29 (AP)—British bombers were reported officially to have fired four ships in an Axis convoy off the Dutch coast in widespread night operations, and relays of RAF planes swept high and low across the Strait of Dover to northern France today.
The air ministry said several other ships probably were damaged. "It is a fair assumption," the ministry reported, "that those ships had started out a few hours previously heavily laden with supplies which would have eventually found their way to the new naval base at Trondheim, to those units of the German fleet based on the Norwegian coast... and to the Germany army on the Petsamo front."
Some of the squarons in the daylight sweep cut along just above the water; others were at such an altitude that only vapor trails could be seen by ground observers.
The air ministry announced that German air fields and railway targets in northern France were attacked by bombers last night and that Hudsons of the coastal command executed the convoy attack.
"One of our craft is missing," the ministry said. "An aircraft of the coastal command is missing from patrol yesterday."
Two German fighters were reported destroyed in the sweep over France, at the loss of one British fighter.

Rev. Sumrall Will Speak On 'Puzzling Problems' Sunday

"Puzzling Problems" will be the sermon subject of the Rev. T. D. Sumrall at the 11 o'clock hour Sunday at the Central Baptist church.
"In a world that is unsettled, where changes are rapidly taking place, where troubles and sorrows are many, and where men are perplexed with fear, we do well to turn to the word of God for counsel. This will be a message of cheer and comfort for everyone who hears it," the pastor announced.
Appropriate music by O. H. Gilstrap and the choir will prove encouraging and helpful.
"Herod and the Headless John" will be the sermon subject at 8 o'clock Sunday evening.
"King Herod's dealing with John the Baptist proved that a guilty conscience would not be put down. Though John was beheaded and buried, Herod could not forget murder. Truth will live long after its proclaimers are gone. The world is filled with evil propaganda, covered sin, and shame, and thus we turn to the word of God for wisdom," the minister pointed out.
Baptism will follow this service. Fifty-eight have united with the church during the past few weeks, including the recent revival.
Victory Bonds are being purchased by the church from month to month as the funds for a new building are given by the membership.

Methodists Make Nine Appointments

DALLAS, May 29, AP—Nine important appointments of Methodist officials and clergymen involving Dallas, Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Waco and Greenville were made public today.
Bishop Ivan Lee disclosed the following appointments from St. Louis:
The Rev. Francis A. Budd, pastor of the Munger First Methodist church of Dallas, named district superintendent of Dallas, replacing Dr. Harry Devore, named to the presidency of Central college, Nayette, Mo.
The new pastor of the Munger First Methodist church will be Dr. Stanley W. Hayne, who is now district superintendent of the Wichita Falls district.
Dr. Hayne will be replaced in the district superintendency by Dr. E. A. Hunter, now pastor of the Laurel Heights church of Wichita Falls, and to fill Dr. Hunter's pulpit will be the Rev. Paul S. Stephenson, pastor of the Wesley church of Greenville.
Succeeding to the Wesley church pastorate will be the Rev. John N. Rentrif, now superintendent of the Waco district, who in turn will be succeeded by Dr. John W. Bergin, retiring president of Southwestern university.
Dr. J. N. R. Score, whose selection as president of Southwestern had already been announced, will be succeeded in the pastorate of the First Methodist church of Fort Worth by the Rev. Warren Johnson, pastor of the First Church of Little Rock.

Athletic Field At Texas Air School Named For Gehrig

POSTER FIELD, Victoria, May 29 (AP)—Tribute was paid today to the memory of Lou Gehrig, famed iron horse of baseball, with the naming of the athletic field at Poster field for the great Yankee first baseman.
Gehrig died June 2, 1941.
Without ceremony and with only brief comment by the commanding officer "Lou Gehrig Field" came into being at this new fighter patrol training school.
As far as can be learned the field here is the first in any army, navy or marine base to be named in honor of the baseball star.

Another in the series of occasional music worship services will be presented Sunday night at the First Presbyterian church.
The service will begin at 7:45 o'clock with a 15-minute playing of the T. D. Hobart Memorial chimes. Mrs. H. A. Yoder, organist of the church, and Miss Evelyn Thoma, violinist, will present the service.
An hour spent in quiet listening to the tones of organ and violin is a good antidote for disturbed souls in these times, and all persons are invited to attend. The Rev. Robert Boshen, minister, stated.

Sermon Subject To Be 'Necromancy'

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 31.
The Golden Text is: "The idols have spoken vanity, and the diviners have seen a lie, and have told false dreams; they comfort in vain" (Zechariah 10:2).
Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Submit yourselves therefore to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you... Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and He shall lift you up" (James 4:7, 10).
The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christians must take up arms against error at home and abroad. They must grapple with sin in themselves and in others, and continue this warfare until they have finished their course. If they keep the faith, they will have the crown of rejoicing" (page 29).

Revival Crowds At First Baptist Meeting Increase

Old-time revival fires are breaking out and interest and attendance are reaching new highs with each service of the evangelistic meeting at the First Baptist church in which the Rev. Dr. Arthur Fox, widely known pastor-evangelist of Morristown, Tenn., is leading. C. Gordon Bayless, pastor, reported.
"The meeting is making itself felt throughout our membership and promises to be one of the most far-reaching in the history of the church," Dr. Bayless stated. The local pastor promised the meeting would become more intensive with each passing day and said "there will be no letting up in our efforts until we have the revival we need."
Services will be held each morning at 5 o'clock and each evening at 8:15 o'clock including Saturdays. A special service for school children and their parents will be held Saturday morning and the evangelist urged all parents to make a special effort to come with their children to the service which was described as "all-important."
Sunday promises to be a full day with Evangelist Fox speaking to the entire Sunday school at 10 a. m., using as his subject, "The Way of Salvation." At the regular worship hour at 10:50 a. m., Dr. Fox will speak on "Why Do the Saints Suffer?" "Dealing with Destiny" is to be the speaker's subject at 8:15 p. m. Sunday.
Pastor Bayless urged every member of his church to "get into this meeting and prove to ourselves and this town that the First Baptist church means business for God. With the world at its worst God needs the church at its best, so let us join hands with God in a mighty effort to stem the tide of evil in these trying days."

An Independent Democratic newspaper, publishing the news fairly and impartially at all times and supporting in its editorial columns the policies which it believes to be right, and opposing those which it believes to be wrong, regardless of party politics.

Experts Agree. American newspaper correspondents, released from internment in Germany and Italy, seem to agree unanimously that the economies and morales of the Axis nations are low now and sinking lower.

This coincides with the most creditable information we have been getting out of enemy countries for some time. The reporters are unanimous likewise in warning that they have seen nothing that would justify belief that either Germany or Italy is close to the cracking point.

They say that while the tide is turning, Hitler's armies will have to be licked on the battlefields before the war is won.

The trained observers who have just left Germany and Italy agree with information reaching official Washington, that Hitler is forced to shoot the works this year. If he does not win in 1942 he never can.

This is very cheering. We believe that we can prevent Der Fuehrer from achieving victory this year. So the war is won. A wave of optimism sweeps the country. Increasingly we hear and read very tentative suggestions that we might—probably we won't but who knows?—we might end the war this year.

Any such idea, however hedged, would seem to be a dangerous misinterpretation of all the expert opinion we have been getting. This warning is supported by a high (and anonymous) Washington official, who does not want Hitler aided by an over-optimism that might first lead to slackening of our effort and later, when defeats come along, to a reaction resembling defeatism.

The conclusion upon which experts agree is not that we can end the war this year. They say only that, if we go all out, we can prevent Hitler from winning this year, and thereby can put ourselves in position to beat him in 1943, 1944 or 1945.

Even that is cause for great elation. This is the first time that the best-informed experts have been in position to be so positive even that we could win at some future time. We have been told that we could, as a matter of morale. We have forced ourselves to believe the reassurances, because to act upon other assumption would be suicidal. But now, for the first time, our brains confirm what we wishfully thought—that might be reinforcing right on our side at long last.

Those who know best do not say that we inevitably shall stop Hitler this year and beat him later. They say that we CAN do those things if we give every last ounce of energy we possess.

In that way, say those who should know best, we can stop Hitler this year and destroy him some day.

Nurses Needed. The Red Cross is faced with the task of finding about a thousand nurses a month, for the rest of this year, for the army and navy.

The rapid expansion of our armed forces, and their movement into the fighting zones, make it certain that a tremendous expansion of the nursing service will be required. If this is to be orderly, with the minimum of upset to civilian institutions, it must be planned now. The Red Cross must learn upon whom our soldiers and sailors can count.

Regents Take Time Out To Go Home But Not Near Solution

By RAY NEUMANN. GALVESTON, May 29. (AP)—University of Texas regents investigating the strife-torn medical branch wended their way home today for a brief respite from labors which will see their return here Tuesday to dig deeper into the prolonged dissension.

Admittedly far from a solution to the controversy between Medical School Dean John W. Spies and some members of the faculty, the regents yesterday reiterated a determination to hear all witnesses wishing to testify, then deliberate the problem and, finally make public plans to solve it.

The recess, concluding a full week of mornings to near-midnight sessions, during which 20 witnesses were heard, was decided upon to permit board members and officials to attend pending personal business.

The regents declared they were determined to allow nothing to stand in the way of building the state university and its departments into the finest in the nation. Answering questions, the board said the administrative policies of University President Homer P. Rainey were not issues in the current controversy and that it had not reached a stage in the investigation where one or more plans are being straightened out to the medical school were under consideration.

Asked whether Spies was still being considered for the directorship of a newly-inaugurated $1,000,000 cancer research project, Rainey, requested by the regents to make recommendations for the post, replied he was not at liberty to disclose the names of those whose qualifications were being examined.

WILL ALL BUSINESS SUFFER FATE OF RAILROADS?

With the government having the right to regulate the prices at which manufacturers and retailers must sell their products, and the right to put on any discriminatory tax they desire and sent the wages which the employer must pay, there seems to be little chance for private business to protect itself from the same fate the rails have suffered from government regulation.

The only thing that will save the rest of private business suffering the fate of the railroads, is that the number of people who will become bankrupt might be so large that public opinion would resent this destruction of private business.

When a large amount of the property of the stockholders of the railroads was confiscated by this vice of established government rates and government wages, the number affected was so small that there was little vote resistance to this confiscation of property.

Had the profits not been taken out of railroads during the last 25 or 30 years, it is doubtful whether we would need to be rationing anything like sugar and gas that we produce in this country.

So, if the people realize that price fixing will break a great number of private employers and destroy a great number of private jobs, it might be that there would be so much public indignation that the administration will be compelled eventually to ease up on its policy of doing things that can only result, sooner or later, in bankrupting all private employers and, thus, destroying all private jobs.

The danger is that the voters, having their attention on the war, will not realize what is taking place. The administration, of course, will use the war as an alibi for the need of price regulation and more and more acts that made it impossible for private business to do what it has done in the past better than any other system in all the world.

But price regulation is bound to follow when the government permits some groups to establish artificial wages and other groups to misuse banking credit. There are no alternatives to arbitrary wages, arbitrary taxes and misuse of bank credit but inflation or complete regimentation of prices and every act of all the citizens.

It is hard to see very much difference between the regimentation now in the United States and the regimentation in Russia and Germany. We will have to pay a terrific price in suffering, poverty and misery in order to realize the inevitable results of the socialist, dictatorial policies so greatly augmented by this Administration. The price we will have to pay will not be too great, however, if we only learn in time to switch back to more nearly the kind of a government that we had prior to 1913 when we passed the discriminatory labor and tax laws.

A BISHOP'S COMMENT ON THEISM

Inasmuch as this column has so pronouncedly expressed its belief in Deism rather than Theism, a remark made by G. Bromley Oxnam, Bishop of the Methodist church, in his book, "The Ethical Ideals of Jesus in a Changing World", is timely. He has discussing his experiences in Russia. He had noticed a sign in Russia saying religion is the opiate of the people. When he was discussing the Russian philosophy with the Russians, he says,

"I fell to me to recount our reactions in the realm of religion. I sought diplomatically to suggest that the proclamation of dogmatic atheism was as unscientific as the unthinking acceptance of theism."

And the Bishop is certainly right. This unthinking acceptance of theism that makes God reveal himself only to certain people and, thus, makes all other people subject to their interpretation, has led to untold confusion, exploitation, misery and suffering. I am glad the Bishop recognizes the necessity of scientific thinking in relation to theism and deism.

Today's War Analysis

This daily feature, conducted by DeWitt MacKenzie, Wide World War Analyst, is being written in his absence for a fortnight by Fred Vanderschmidt.

The main part of the battle of Kharkov is over without any clear-cut decision. That was to be expected. It will take time to assess the effect of the tactical, preventive assault which the Russian Marshal Timoshenko launched on May 12 against the German armies of the Ukraine, which were poised to strike toward the Caucasus but were caught off balance before they could start.

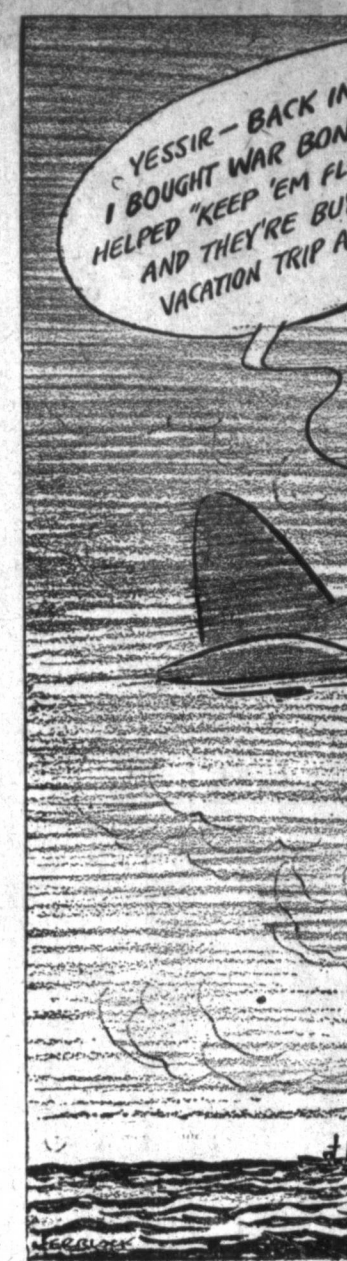

Also it is too early to calculate the military meaning of the counter-attacks which the Germans have been conducting since May 19 to the south of the original battle area.

The Russian communiques, worded with the laconic brevity which tells friend or enemy very little, do make it clear that on the main front before Kharkov the Red army has dug into the positions it won in a fortified zone of great strength and depth. Fighting of comparative violence continues in the sector Izum-Barrenkova, 80 miles below Kharkov, where the Germans have attempted to envelop Timoshenko's left flank.

The Germans say that they already have done this and that they have caught upwards of 165,000 prisoners and grandiose quantities of war material in a trap, but there is nothing at all to support such claims; indeed, the semi-official Russian battle-front dispatches, while generally not conclusive, indicate an unyielding, continuing Red army defense along the Donets river line.

Undoubtedly German claims of this sort remind one of a stack of

TRAVEL PLAN

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON. HOLLYWOOD, May 29.—On the set of "For Me and My Gal," Judy Garland put down the telephone and turned back to her dressing room with a shrug. "It was my husband," she said. "He had a train wreck out at our place, and got sort of banged up."

The pint-sized star went on to explain that Bandleader Dave Rose is cur-r-ray about anything that runs by steam. "He was my husband," she said. "It was my husband." The train is the train in a midjet, but a sure-enough coal burner, and its clanking and puffing scare Judy silly. To speed it up, he had put on a super-charger, or something, and before you could sing two verses of "Casey Jones" he shot off a curve through some shrubbery into a ravine.

"Sometimes," sighed the actress, "wooder, why I didn't marry a book-lover."

What Miss Garland is interested in these days is her forthcoming test for the role of Poppy in Pearl Buck's "Dragon Seed." It would be her first substantial dramatic role, and mostly she wants it for the change it would allow in her appearance. "I've always looked just the same," she said. "As Poppy, I wouldn't look like Mickey Rooney's girl friend."

HEAVY BOMBER

Saw a sure enough movie heavy today—280-pound Sydney Greenstreet. Contrary to the screen tradition that fat men are jolly and funny, this double-bellied, triple-chinned behemoth is an evil and unscrupulous creature in Warner's "Across the Pacific." As Doctor Lorenz, he plots to bomb the Gatun Locks of the Panama Canal and is thwarted only by Humphrey Bogart.

Of course, fat men always will have a natural place in movies. Over at EKO, for a sequence in "The Big Street," they're staging an eating contest in a restaurant. One of the contestants is a skinny woman and her opponent is a huge fellow whose real name is Art Hamburger. He loses the match because he over-trained.

SONG SWITCHING

There's a fantastic song sequence in "Road to Morocco" in which the three principals trade voices. Dorothy Lamour sings like Bing Crosby, Bob Hope's voice comes from Crosby's mouth, and Hope is shown warbling like Miss Lamour. The sound tracks on the film are switched . . .

Paramount has turned Ginger Rogers into a 12-year-old brat for "The Major and the Minor"; Warners turned Joan Fontaine to her early teens in "The Constant Nymph"; and Universal shows Diana Barrymore as a 13-year-old in "Love and Kisses, Caroline." But Republic tops 'em all in "Lazybones," with Judy Canova playing 10-year-old triplets.

phonograph recordings of the same opus; somewhat different, perhaps, in key and beat, but essentially identical.

Somewhere in between there usually is a phrase about "desperate but useless attempts" by the Russians to "break out of the German encirclement," which is known to the Teutonic military mind, for some curious reason, as a "kettle." Well—even the stupidest Nazi knew by now what a whopper that was.

Since January, however, the German people have been fed on promises of what would happen when the cruel, un-German snows of the steppes began to melt away. The snows are gone and the fumes has to deliver—at least an "annihilation" by communique.

People You Know

By Archer Fullington. When Pvt. Odus Brown got out of the service he can write his experiences as a paratrooper, for that is what he is now—or soon will be. You can talk about flying a dive-bomber, or driving a tank, or serving in a submarine, or even working as a seaman on a ship, but the paratrooper's life is the most dangerous of all. Maybe you do not remember Odus. Well, he used to be a fountain man at the White Way Drive Inn, and in a letter to John Vantine of the "White Way," Odus writes, "Well, folks, I received your letter a while back so will write and tell you a little more about the paratrooper. I have gone through two stages of my training should be on my fourth week but I got my back sprained and had to lay off for a week. I am working on the towers this week. We have two towers, each are 250 feet high. One of them is used for practicing landings and other things. You put on a parachute harness and it is attached to a cable which pulls you up to the top of the tower, and you are let down by the engine that is regulated to about the same speed as if you were falling in a parachute. It is just to practice landings right, and get you used to the height. We have another apparatus used for practicing landings where you lay down on your stomach in a harness, and you are pulled up that way. When you get up to the top you are still in the harness. From that position you pull a rip cord and you fall 20 feet. While you are falling you are supposed to count and change the ripcord from one hand to the other. You can do things while falling free. The other tower is for jumping. You are pulled up by a cable with your parachute over your head. It is just to get you used to the height of the towers, and to see if you can do things while falling free. The other tower is for jumping. You are pulled up by a cable with your parachute over your head. It is just to get you used to the height of the towers, and to see if you can do things while falling free. The other tower is for jumping. You are pulled up by a cable with your parachute over your head. It is just to get you used to the height of the towers, and to see if you can do things while falling free."

If we ever doubted the true humanity of Jesus, that He was, as the New Testament says, subject to human temptations and trials, all doubt upon the matter ought to be removed by this scene in the garden of Gethsemane. Here was a human soul facing human tragedy, with one whom He had trusted about to betray Him, and with others whom He loved and trusted proving themselves weak and inadequate in the hour of His deepest trial. His soul, we are told, was exceedingly sorrowful, and as He prayed the inner conflict was so intense that He sweat drops of blood. Yes, that intensity of prayer He found strength to say, "Not my will, but Thine be done," and He arose from prayer, though discouraged by the failure of His friends, able to say, "Arise, let us go forth." He was prepared for betrayal and for the Cross.

Jesus came from the agony of the garden, triumphant through prayer, with a serene and peace the presence of His accusers that led Pilate to marvel.

Could Jesus have meant what He has meant to mankind without that experience? It is doubtful. It is an experience that is deep in human life, and men and women in their times of trial and suffering have not only found strength and peace through the Man of Sorrows and His spiritual presence, but they have found help through following His example in prayer.

The burdens that it seemed impossible to bear have been borne, and borne with faith and courage, because of that divine strength that comes to uphold the human will.

A lesson like this has particular meaning and application in a time of war and tragedy, when new Gethsemanses of suffering are present in many homes and in the lives of many individuals.

Sugar For USO

Behind The News In Washington

By PETER EDSON. This piece will tell you about the Gremlins and the Piffnellas, the Widgets, and the Flippertygibbets.

You never heard of them? Then read carefully.

First there were the Gremlins, British pilots of the R. A. F. saw them. Gremlins are only a few inches tall. They have horns growing out of a triangular face. And a little spiked tail. They can't fly, but they wear tiny black vacuum cup boots that enable them to walk on the ceiling and walls, or even stand on the wings of a dive bomber as it goes screeching toward its target at 400 or 500 miles an hour.

Every British pilot has his personal Gremlins. Airmen will sit at tea or at beer and talk about their Gremlins by the hour. Where Gremlins came from originally, nobody knows, nor who saw them first. But right after the war broke out, young lads of the R. A. F. began to see Gremlins dancing on their plane wings as they flew off to Germany with their loads of bombs, or they would find Gremlins in their pockets, or upsetting their beer at mess.

Gradually the stories about the Gremlins began to grow until, today, they constitute an amazing and fabulous folklore of flying. British pilots going out to Libya, the Near East, India or Australia have found that their Gremlins went along, so Gremlins are now practically all over the world.

The Gremlins are not Nazis. Oh! definitely not! And they are not bad, either. Just mischievous. For instance, Gremlins like to jam the triggers on machine guns. When a pilot has to bail out, the Gremlins like to keep the parachute from opening. Gremlins like to fray strands in control cables, and jump up and down on the landing gear to weaken them to the breaking point. Gremlins also like to break sections of the transparent cowling, so that pilots and bombers catch cold.

BUY VICTORY BONDS. Gremlins like to crawl inside cylinder heads and foul the spark plugs. Or get inside the recess of a retractable landing gear, and just when the pilot gets ready to land, the Gremlins will jam their feet against the wheel to keep it from being lowered, so that the pilot will have to open his throttle, circle the field and come back to make a crash landing. When Gremlins are rampant, they tell you to get on them and explain very patiently that they mustn't do things like that again. Gremlins can be trained. There are even good Gremlins.

From incidents like these, you begin to see why the Gremlins came into being. They are a psychological letdown for young pilots, to relieve them from the greatest, most concentrated nervous strain known to man. Gremlins are something to help a young birdman explain away his troubles and laugh about them. They are a change of subject from this gruesome business of war. Gremlins are fun. But if you want to get pedantic or didactic or psychiatric about them, you can say that the Gremlins are one of the greatest psychological allies the United Nations can possibly have.

The story goes on from there. A flier comes in from a job with a few bullet holes in his wings. He has had tough going on this mission and been struffed pretty. He does not want to report to his flight mechanic that he was hit, that he maneuvered his plane badly, that he didn't see the enemy that got him. That would be bad for his own morale. The human element must be considered. Young pilots must be kept relaxed and self-assured.

So, when the airman comes back with a hole or two in his wings, he is apt to talk to his mechanic something like this: "Sergeant, I'm afraid one of my Gremlins is up to a new trick. While I was out over Sidi Barrani after that convoy, I saw the Gremlins walk out on the wing there. A moment later I noticed he had a brace and bit and was boring a hole through the wing. Rightfully sorry! I spoke to him on the way back, and he's promised not to do it again, Creeris!"

AS TO THE LADIES!

Gremlins are all males. As the legends grew and the observation of the life and habits of the Gremlins became more scientific, it was discovered there were females of the species. But the females are Piffnellas. A Piffnellia is rare indeed, being a good bit like a Queen Bee. The male all seek her out, but she is very elusive, proud and haughty as a queen should be. Baby Gremlins are known as Widgets and a baby Piffnellia is a Flippertygibbet. The story goes on from there.

My authority on Gremlins tells me that there are now Gremlins in the United States. This is strictly in confidence, but on a boat recently arrived in America from England, a Piffnellia showed away in the captain's cabin. There were a number of Gremlins on board, too, and when they found out about the Piffnellia—it was the principal topic of conversation all the way across. Anyway, this Piffnellia is now in Canada at an R. A. F. training school, and it's probable that more will be heard from her later.

There are also reports that a Gremlins stowed away on Jimmy Doolittle's plane that bombed Tokyo, riding a bomb to earth and jumping off just before the explosion. The fliers who know about this say that the Gremlins had every intention of seeking out an oriental Piffnellia, to win her over to our side, and for other purposes. Think of all the damage that could be done to Jap aviation if the oriental Gremlins could be set to playing tricks on the Jap pilots. Reports on the success of this expedition are eagerly awaited, but probably can't be brought out till the next raid.

Let you know about it just as soon as I hear.

Propeller Blade

Kills Ohio Man. HOUSTON, May 29. (AP)—Private Willard L. Poole, about 24, of Marietta, Ohio, was killed almost instantly at Ellington field this morning when he was struck by the propeller of an airplane.

Poole was stationed at MacDill field at Tampa, Fla., and was at Ellington field with a group from MacDill field in transit. It was reported he was cranking the propeller of the ship in which he was to fly when he stepped back into the propeller of another ship on the runway which was standing still with motor running.

COACH BEST ENLISTS AS ARMY PHYSICAL EDUCATION INSTRUCTOR

Mentor To Be Stationed At Wichita Falls

Mac Best, assistant football coach at Pampa High school, enlisted in the United States Army physical education division yesterday and will report for active duty Monday. He is the second member of the school district's coaching staff to enlist, Dick Livingston of the Junior High Teachers having enlisted in the navy physical education division two months ago. He is now at Norfolk, Va.

Coach Best came to Pampa in April of 1941 to assist in spring training. He came here from Hereford where he coached for one year following his graduation from Texas Christian university, where he played football for four years. His home is in Sand Springs, Okla.

Coach Best's two Harvester backfields were the talk of the district last season. He had one quartet composed of seniors and one composed of sophomores and juniors. His senior backfield graduates today but the sophomore-junior four will be back next season.

The Harvester backfield coach was a master of fundamentals and his backfields showed that he knew how to instruct his boys.

Coach Best will report to Lubbock Monday and will go from there to Ft. Hill, Okla., for induction. He will then be sent to Sheppard field, Wichita Falls. Mrs. Best and son, Thomas Franklin, two months old, will go to town today to visit her parents before joining her husband in Wichita Falls.

"To say that I hate to lose Coach Best is putting it mildly," Coach Buck Prejan said today. "Coach Best was without a doubt one of the best backfield coaches in the state and his place will be hard to fill. I wish him the best of luck."

The school board will take its time in naming a successor to Coach Best. President V. L. Boyles said today upon being notified that Coach Best had enlisted.

"Coach Best was one of the best and he'll be hard to replace," President Boyles said. "He was very popular with the boys."

Flyer Doolittle's Feat Spurs Middle-Aged War Veterans

MARINE BASE, New River, N. C., May 29—The class of 1918 is holding reunions all over the country. They're trooping back to the colors of Uncle Sam.

Some of them already have emblazoned their names in the roll of honor. Brig. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle's intrepid and daring raid of Japan was a feat worthy of an '18 alum.

Jimmy Doolittle is 45 years old. Some of the oldest boys who have been sitting in the house-sippers and indulging in every amateur strategist's prerogative have decided that if that old codger can bomb Tokyo, they had better take off the rose-colored glasses. So they're joining up for a second hitch.

HANLEY IN MORALE, PHYSICAL TRAINING. Two Irish brothers did just that when General Doolittle's epic flight. They are both majors in the United States Marine Corps.

One is Maj. L. B. (Pat) Hanley, morale officer and public relations officer at this base. The other is Maj. Richard E. (Dick) Hanley, who is stationed at the Naval Aviation Training center in Chicago. Like his brother, Dick specializes in morale and physical training.

Go back to 1923, and you will find the Hanley clan teaming up as far all coaches of the Haskell Indians. Dick handled the backs. Pat handled the line.

In 1927, this combination moved to Northwestern as gridiron bosses. In seven years, they coached two conference champions. Then Pat went to Boston university and Dick, after a year at Evanston without him, entered the insurance field.

BROTHERS SERVED IN WORLD WAR I. Pat coached eight years in Beaumont. His teams won three-quarters of their games, a commendable record in any league.

The Hanleys originally hail from Spokane, Wash. Dick is the elder, but in the marine corps, where both are reservists, Pat is the senior. They served with the leathernecks in World War I.

A FORMER PAMPA HARVESTER football star has been instructed to report to Ft. Knox, Ky., for a special course in the communications department of the armored force school. He is R. G. Candler, above, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Candler, 509 North Cuyler street.

The mammoth 350-building school, one of its kind in the United States, trains the thousands of skilled technicians who maintain and repair the 3,000 vehicles, 20,000 weapons, and over 700 radio sets which make up the equipment of an armored division. The school operates 12 hours daily on a two-shift basis, six days a week, and is commanded by Brig. Gen. Stephen G. Henry.

Candler was an outstanding tackle on the Pampa Harvesters of 1935 and 1940. He attended Texas university for nearly two years.

Headed by Lt. Gen. Leslie Lawrence, the communication department trains the officers and enlisted men necessary to operate and repair the 700-odd radio sets used by a 12,000-man armored division. The operator's course runs 14 weeks and includes actual field experience operating radios in scout cars, trucks, and tanks.

Organization Of Softball League To Be Completed

Organization of a softball league here will be completed at a meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the corporation courtroom in the basement of the city hall. Sponsors and managers of teams are urged to be present at the meeting because it is hoped that play can begin Monday evening.

Seven teams signed to enter the league at a meeting Wednesday night. At that time it was decided to hold the first game on May 31, tonight, giving oil companies in this section a chance to organize.

Plans call for twilight games to be played at Recreation park east of the city.

League officers will be elected and rules adopted at tonight's meeting.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR. New World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, May 29—Outside of professional rassing, the best toughening-up exercise that has come to our attention lately is "studs" playing according to no-contact rules, the player who grabs the ball on the jump lugs it down the floor like a halfback and the opposition can use any means it wants to stop him. . . .

Organization Of Softball League To Be Completed

The Pampa Harvester football team today lost its backfield coach. Mac Best, who yesterday enlisted in the United States Army physical education division. He will leave Pampa Monday to report to Lubbock for final examination. He will be stationed at Sheppard Field, Wichita Falls. Coach Best came to the Harvesters as backfield coach last spring. Last fall his two backfields played an important part in the Harvesters being declared co-champions of District 1. Last year was the first time a Pampa team had defeated the Amarillo Golden Sandies since 1931.

Coach Best is a graduate of Texas Christian University. Fort Worth, and before coming to Pampa he was coach for one year at Hereford. Coach Buck Prejan today said it would be a hard job replacing the popular backfield coach.

The Boston Red Sox come close to being the worst road team in the major leagues and this maddening pennant contenders in the past, now has placed even their first division berth in jeopardy.

The Cronin clouters were stopped 5-1 by the Washington Senators at the capital last night and now have lost 12 of their last 17 encounters, all but three away from home.

This slump, which contrasts with Boston's feat in winning 14 of its first 21 games while playing mostly at home, has dropped the club within a game of the fifth-place St. Louis Browns.

Another result of this coast was the loss of the American league batting leadership by Bobby Doerr, who had been hitting 400 till this week. Last night he dropped to .379, three points behind Joe Gordon of the New York Yankees.

Gordon extended his current hitting streak to 13 games yesterday and won a 3-2 decision for the world champion over the Philadelphia Athletics by rapping a single with the bases loaded and the score tied in the ninth.

Virgil (Fire) Trucks, strikeout king of International League last year, pitched his first complete game for the Detroit Tigers and held the Cleveland Indians to four hits for a 6-2 victory. Trucks fanned six but allowed a homer by Roy Weatherly.

The St. Louis Browns ruffed for four runs in the eighth inning to beat the Chicago White Sox 6-4 and gain their sixth victory in seven games.

The Brooklyn Dodgers set down the Boston Braves again 6-4, with Kirby Hughes pitching seven-hit ball and choking off a Boston rally that netted three runs in the ninth, two on a homer by Max West.

The St. Louis Cardinals took advantage of this outcome to strengthen their hold on second place in the National league with a 3-2 evening triumph over the faltering Pittsburgh Pirates, who now have lost 11 of their last 13 games.

Big Bill Lee, making a fine comeback this season, achieved his seventh victory by holding the Cincinnati Reds to six hits while the Chicago Cubs forged to a 2-1 triumph in 12 innings. Lee himself knuckled in the winning run with a long fly.

CARIBBEAN CRISIS

THE PLOT THICKENS

CHAPTER XVI

"You are William Talcott?"

"Yes."

"You are the manager at Abas Island?"

"Yes."

"I was. I have been relieved and am on my way back to New York."

"But you were in charge when the launch left the Island?"

"Yes."

"How long was Sebastian in your employ?"

"Five years. He came to us from San Juan to operate the distillation apparatus. I made him foreman three years ago."

"Did he have any enemies that you know about?"

"No."

"Can you tell us where he got that stab wound in his arm?"

"Yes. The night before last a smuggler named Jackson attempted to land on Abas and was attempted to stop him."

"Jackson?" The chief of police became apologetic. "Is he mixed up in this?"

"I don't know."

The chief appraised the group with a sour eye. "Which of you is Miss Paterson?"

She stepped forward. Smartly attired, she was, in a suit of gabardine, a flaring blue bonnet confining her ash blond hair. Cool and self-possessed, with not the slightest tremor betraying her emotion.

"You were one of the guests on Abas Island and a passenger on the launch. You arrived at two o'clock this morning. After clearing customs, where did you go?"

"Miss Swenson and I went to the home of my friends near Estate Cantante."

"Were you a witness to the attempted landing of the self-styled 'Captain Jackson' on Abas island?"

"Yes."

"Would you say that the results were successful?"

"No. After one of the crew struck Mr. MacDowell, Mr. Halsey grabbed a pistol and forced them to return to the schooner."

The chief scowled. "Mr. Halsey, I understand you and Professor Constantine spent the remainder of the night at the Grand. Did you go there directly after clearing customs?"

"Yes."

"Did you at any time during the night or this morning see any of Jackson's crew in Charlotte Amalie?"

"Yes."

"I can't say that I did. Things happened rather fast down there, you know. I doubt if I would recognize anyone outside of Jackson himself."

"Would you say that Jackson had sufficient desire to get even by killing this man?"

"It would be possible, yes."

The chief quelled an uprising in his liver. "We have every reason to believe that Jackson was here last night. He left his calling card, a dozen natives smuggled in from Tortola. It is just possible also that he despatched a man to take care of the unfinished business of Abas Island. As I understand it, you are all passengers on the Blue Petrel. I see nothing to prevent your departure."

So it was over. Jackson's name had done it. Guilty or not, his reputation was enough. If they ever catch him, Talcott thought grimly, they'll hang him to the Postoffice flagpole before they start their investigation."

But it couldn't have been Jackson or any of his men who had murdered Sebastian. If it was revenge they wanted, they would have taken it on him or Halsey. And after unloading his freight, Jackson wasn't one to stick around. No. Of one thing only was Bill Talcott positive: the murder was directly connected with his frameup and the intrigue on Abas Island.

June Paterson came to him as they were leaving. Her hand rested on his arm, and softly she said, "I'm sorry, Bill. You were very fond of him, weren't you?"

"Yes, but he was a hard, cold, and fathomless, were on Halsey. For he, despite his worldliness, was acting most strangely. Pulling away to walk by himself. Jumping at shadows. Scared, that was it. Did he know more than he wanted to, or was he beginning to have misgivings about his auditor friend Struthers? Whatever it was, the man was frightened to death."

TALCOTT checked out at Hotel 1829, refused one of the proprietor's famed planter's punches, and with MacDowell rode to West India wharf. MacDowell had changed; wasn't cocksure any more. He kept his thoughts silent behind a puzzled face, and once on board the Blue Petrel, disappeared in the throng of basket-laden passengers.

Talcott sought a lonely spot forward, his mind filled with fat, faithful Sebastian. The man had feared violence and death, had offended no one. Yet a covert knife-thrust had finished him while in sleep under the stars he loved. Why had he been killed?

He recalled the words of the quiet, gray-eyed man, Sinister, suggesting a web reaching out across the blockaded European Continent to envelop Abas in its coils. Intrigue for the control of a tiny, smelly speck in Anegada Passage. Not for nitrates alone. Something bigger. Some enterprise that could be carried on under the guise of a legitimate American business. Right under the guns of the destroyers at Saint Thomas. Right under the nose of Old Man Winter.

Why had Sebastian been killed? Were the plotters prepared to remove everyone of authority so that their work could be carried on unhindered? It didn't make sense. Surely Struthers must know that as soon as Bill Talcott reached New York all hell would break loose. The frameup would dissolve in thin air. But was it so simple as that? Had Struthers purposely played up the obvious so that his true machinations would go undetected until too late?

Halsey had the auditor's report. Perhaps in that report Talcott would find what he was fighting. Those carefully worded pages must contain more than a charge of shortage and payroll padding. For now sudden, violent death was in the cards; murder had become a part of the hand.

Talcott's eyes turned from the long concrete wharf. In five days he would be in New York. What awaited him there he could not fathom. He'd been sure of himself when Struthers, he thought, was playing a lone dangerous game. Now—

"Have you seen Halsey?"

"Eh?" He turned, startled, to confront Professor Constantine. So deep in thought had he been he hadn't heard the odd little man's approach. "Oh, Halsey? Can't say that I have."

The Professor clutched tighter to a voluminous book and transferred a bottle of pills to his left hand. "I thought he was right behind me. He complained of a headache so I secured this aspirin—Likable chap, isn't he? Pure Nordic. Very reliable—I do hope he doesn't miss the boat."

Navy Teaching Sailor To Get Tough With Japs

By ROMNEY WHEELER
 ATHENS, Ga., May 29. (AP)—The Marquis of Queensbury rules are out, when U. S. navy fliers swap blows with Tojo and the Jerries—and naval instructors think the time to learn is now.

Here at the navy's aviation pre-flight school, one of four in the nation, scores of former college athletic coaches will teach an estimated 7,500 men a year to be tough—and live. War, they'll learn, is the toughest game in the world—and you play the game to win.

"All our lives," says Athletic Director Lieut. Commander B. L. Boynton, "we've been teaching our boys to fight by the Marquis of Queensbury rules. If they knocked down a man, they'd go to a neutral corner and wait until the referee counted him out, or until he got up and the referee dusted off his gloves. On the football field, we taught 'em to hit the opponent with all they had, and then help the other man to his feet.

"But the Japs and the Nazis don't play that way," he continued. "The word sportsmanship isn't in their vocabulary. They have different ideals but they merge into the same thing—murder. You can't practice sportsmanship with a thug.

"Our boys are going to be gentlemen. But when the other fellow starts something, they're going to be the ones to finish it."

Guided by a staff of boxing and wrestling instructors, the pre-flight students will get a double-dose of study in self-preservation. They'll start with wrestling, progress to hand-to-hand fighting, and round out with jui-jitsu until they are masters at every crippling hold and leverage grip.

ME: Hello... that you, Helen? Listen, I forgot to tell you to send the car over for greasing and an oil change.

SHE: Oh, all right Bob, but what about the tires and the battery and all the other things it might need?

ME: Right... everything should be attended to. Gosh!... can't you take some responsibility for the car?

SHE: All right, smarty... I have taken the responsibility. I joined the Once-a-Week Club today.

ME: Great Caesar's ghost! Another club! Did we just agree last night to cut out unnecessary expenses?

SHE: That's exactly what we are doing. This is a club without any dues, fees or anything.

ME: I'm listening... proceed with caution!

SHE: Well, you know that nice Conoco station over on Myrtle Street? I went in there this morning and Mr. Blevins, the Mileage Merchant, told me he would go over our car every Thursday morning; check the tires, the battery, water... in fact, everything... and if he saw anything needed, he would write it down for me.

ME: Atta girl! This war will make a business woman out of you yet!

SHE: Oh, yeah? Well, I may be a business woman, my dear, but I'm going to get a permanent this afternoon just to prove I'm still a female... and the price will be charged up to the extra life of our car and the savings we're going to have because of that Conoco Once-a-Week Club.

Proceeding the Memorial day ceremony, which will begin at 2 o'clock, members of the American Legion auxiliary and of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary are to decorate graves of veterans in Fairview cemetery with wreaths and flowers.

At 2 o'clock the parade will be formed at the high school, on Harvester street, under the direction of Dan E. Williams, member of the executive committee of the local Legion post.

Units of the parade will include the colors, members of the Legion, V. F. W. auxiliaries of these two organizations, the Pampa Volunteer band, Company D of the 14th battalion of the Texas Defense Guard, and other organizations that wish to take part, and the public.

Automobiles are to be left at the school, and the units will march east a few hundred yards to the cemetery, where the ceremony will be held.

Opening the assembly will be the sounding of assembly by a bugler from the band; singing of "America," led by Lester Aldrich; invocation by Paul D. Hill, Memorial day chairman and chaplain of the American Legion post; music by the band; group singing; song by male quartet.

Then will follow the band's playing of "Sleep, Soldier Boy," official song in the V. F. W. Memorial day ritual; prayer by the Rev. R. G. West, pastor of the Church of the Brethren; Memorial day address by the Rev. E. B. Bowen, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Fred L. Pender, commander of the V. F. W. post, and L. R. Franks, American Legion commander and a past commander of the V. F. W., will lead the V. F.  wheat that can be handled has already been booked, despite the short crop.

In Wilbarger county, another wheat-producing region, the average yield is expected to be four to five bushels as compared with the average 9.7 because of earlier greenbug infestation.

S. H. Southall, manager of the Vernon office of the United States employment service said "plenty of labor is available to take care of all the harvest here."

Southall said farm facilities and warehouses would be adequate for storage of this year's short crop.

Wheat on the South Plains was about all headed, but rain was needed to fill out the heads, it was reported from Lubbock. The yield indicated was from 10 to 12 bushels per acre. A shortage of lumber hampered building of farm storage.

In the Panhandle-Plains area, farmers were vigorously poisoning grasshoppers, hoping for rain, looking for storage space, and working out plans for using women and children if necessary for an anticipated heavy yield of grain.

A single formation of American-built Kittyhawks was credited with destroying more than 65 Axis supply trucks, while American Boston (Douglas) bombers showered explosives among a concentration of 700 trucks.

British headquarters indicated that the outcome of the new desert battle was still in doubt.

Four and occasionally five children climb on Cricket at the same time to ride to school—and sometimes they give a lift to two younger sisters who wait at the road to ride to the house.

WE MUST ATTACK EXCESSIVE WEAR OF ALL TIRES!

Uncle Sam Has Requested Us To Conserve Tires... To Do This We Must "Streamline" Service Calls.

We will try to complete "turn ons" the day the request is received. "Turn offs" and adjustments may require longer. Only emergencies can be taken care of as soon as received.

We, who are allowed rubber for essential service to you, are all the more eager to conserve what we can toward the war effort. We feel sure that you will be glad to cooperate in the following:

1. Please do not ask for any service calls for a definite hour. (This is so that we can group as many calls on each trip).
2. Please do not ask for any service work to be done after 5 p. m. or on Saturdays or Sundays.

Be assured that your call will receive the most prompt attention possible... and, of course, your company looks forward to the time when they can resume service as it has been able to give it to you in the past.

Keep 'em Flying!
