Jap Raids On Alaska Not To Be Last On Continent, Says Stimson

Alaskan Predicts Aleutians May Be Difficult To Hold

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—The navy, describing the situation at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, as quiet at present, reported today that the second wave of enemy planes, which flew over the base yesterday failed to drop bombs and probably was engaged only in reconnaissance.

A communique declared total damage at the base was not extensive and fires were quickly extinguished after the initial raid yesterday morning.

While the source of the attacking aircraft was not definitely determined, the communique said, they are believed to have been carrier-based.

The communique also announced the loss of the USS Cythera, a small naval patrol vessel, in the Atlantic area and said that next of kin aboard the converted yacht had been notified.

The Cythera was commanded by Lieutenant Commander Thomas W. Rudderow of Highland Lane, Bryn Mawr, Pa.

The total of men lost aboard the Cythera, which was described as overdue for more than three weeks, was not given although as a yacht the vessel had carried a crew of 28.

The communique, based on reports received up to noon, eastern war time, today, (about 150):

"North Pacific area: '1. The situation at Dutch Harbor is at present quiet. Yesterday's first raid by the Japanese appears to have been made primarily to test our defenses. High explosives and incendiary bombs were dropped but, as previously announced, our casualties were light and damage was not extensive. The few fires which were started were quickly extinguished.

'2. The second wave of enemy planes was reported to have attacked six hours after the initial attack (communique No. 85) failed to drop any bombs and appears to have been engaged solely in reconnaissance.

'3. The source of the attacking Japanese aircraft has not been definitely determined but they are thought to have been carrier based.

'4. The USS Cythera, a small naval patrol vessel taken over by the navy last December, has been overdue in this area for more than three weeks and is presumed to be lost.

'5. The next of kin of personnel in the Cythera have been notified.

'6. There is nothing to report from other areas.

Secretary Stimson predicted that yesterday's Japanese air attacks on Dutch Harbor naval base in Alaska were "not the only and last raid" to be expected on American territory.

The war department chief told his press conference, "I reminded you last week that raids were coming and I caution you now this is not the only and last raid."

Stimson declined, however, to predict where further attacks might be expected, telling a questioner he did not "care to go into that phase of the Japanese minds," and similarly fended off a question as to why the foe struck first at the Aleutian outpost.

His guarded comment came just before a scheduled communique by the navy and he referred to this as the proper source of information, commenting, "You can readily see how the navy's judgment as to secrecy must be paramount."

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—Two Japanese air raids on the island of Dutch Harbor, Alaska, were reported today.

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—A simulated air bombing, staged to inject realism into a civilian air patrol first aid practice session, resulted in the injury of two men last night when their light cabin plane crashed on the Beaver Dam airfield.

The pilot, Courtney Starkweather, suffered a bank injury, a dislocated ankle, a fractured arm and shock. His passenger, Dr. Roland Schoen, suffered a thigh fracture, lacerations and bruises.

RAF Blasts Bremen; Commandos In Raid

Heydrich, The Hangman, Dies Of Wounds

LONDON, June 4 (AP)—British bombers heavily blasted Bremen, Germany's second seaport, and British commandos fruitfully scouted the Boulogne-Le Touquet area of Adolf Hitler's French coastal defenses overnight, government agencies announced today.

The Bremen raid, the 94th of the war, was linked with an attack on the Dieppe docks and the air ministry announced that 10 bombers and two fighters were missing from the night operations.

A strong RAF force flew through moonlit skies to strike at Bremen targets—such as shipbuilding and submarine yards, docks, railways, steel works, oil refining installations, an aircraft factory—in a follow-up to the mass raids upon Cologne and Essen. Only Hamburg ranks ahead of Bremen as a German maritime center.

Nazi airdromes in Occupied France and the Low countries and the harbor installations at Dieppe, on France's channel coast, also were attacked. Bombs were laid in enemy waters, the air ministry said.

Black-faced commandos, escorted by navy warships and protected in their withdrawal by RAF fighters, stabbed across Dover strait after midnight on a reconnaissance raid officially declared to have produced "valuable information."

It was the second commando thrust against the Boulogne-Le Touquet area, scouted before on April 22. Boulogne lies 25 miles south of Dover and Le Touquet is 15 miles farther south. Between them is a coast of dunes and marshes.

The force was described as a small contingent; casualties were not declared to have been slight.

The German high command said that its forces had repulsed "an attempted British landing" on the occupied French coast and that German troops had captured "some prisoners and arms."

The Boulogne-Le Touquet area, 25 miles from England's Dover coast, is viewed by military experts as one of several areas suitable as bridgeheads for an invading Allied army.

Reliable sources said the new nocturnal aerial thrusts were of a moderate scale for the second night in succession, following the crippling 1,000-plane assault against Cologne and Essen.

Four German aircraft were destroyed during the night over Nazi bases in France and another over Britain, it was announced.

A small number of German planes tried to cross the southeast English coast by daylight, but heavy fire from ground batteries forced them back in some disorder.

German broadcasts said German night raiders were reported to have bombed the naval base of Poole on the British south coast.

(In daylight operations over the channel yesterday, the British high command said, the German lost 24 planes in air combats.

During the preceding week, the Germans said, British plane losses totaled 318 craft, of which 41 were reported shot down by Nazi naval units. German losses in the same period were put at 51 planes.)

EL PASO, June 4 (AP)—Paulette Goddard will be awarded a divorce decree late today from Charles Chaplin, Judge Xavier Rosas Ceballos of the Mexican civil court at Juarez announced.

Judge Ceballos made the announcement in his official capacity, thereby confirming current rumors of a parting of the ways between two of movieland's best known characters.

The divorce petition, presented only yesterday afternoon, disclosed the couple were married early in June, 1936, in Canton, China, and stated they separated in February of 1940.

Miss Goddard stated she and her grounds "incompatibility" and separation of more than a year.

Chaplin, in answer, denied the charges but consented to award of the decree.

Du Pont Indicted For Conspiring To Fix High Prices

PHILADELPHIA, June 4 (AP)—E. I. Du Pont de Nemours and company, five other explosive manufacturers and 10 of their officials were indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of conspiring to fix prices in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

Also named were the Hercules Powder company and the Atlas Powder company, both of Wilmington, Del.; the Austin Powder company of Cleveland; Illinois Powder Manufacturing company, St. Louis; and the King Powder company, Cincinnati.

The 10-page indictment contended that the effect of the alleged conspiracy was to "maintain the prices of commercial explosives and blasting supplies to all classes of consumers at high, arbitrary and artificial levels."

The indictment also charged that the defendants controlled 75 per cent of the total volume of commercial explosives and blasting supplies produced in the nation.

Laketon Sets Pace In USO Campaign

By THE ROVING REPORTER
You all know that Laketon is hardly a wide place in the road, but Laketon has shown up Pampa, LeFors, McLean and the rest of Gray county in the $4,800 USO drive.

Laketon's quota was indefinite, just like Pampa's is indefinite, but Ben Lockhart, chairman of the USO drive in that community, told the folks out there that the USO quota was going to be a little harder to raise this year, and the Laketon people dug down in their jeans and turned in $69 and some-odd cents to USO headquarters today.

What's McLean doing? What's LeFors doing? What's Alanreed doing?

No reports have been turned in yet except from Laketon, but Chairman Jack Hanna was proud of the Laketon report.

"That shows what Gray county people are going to do about this quota," he said. "They are not about to let the men in the service down. I have absolute confidence that every community in the county, including Pampa, will raise its quota."

Laketon is so small that it does not even show on a map, and its population is not as large as the average block in Pampa, but there are people living all around Laketon, and they all gave to the USO. The amount already raised in the Laketon community is larger than amounts raised by towns of 800 to 1,000 population.

Don't wait until somebody asks you for a USO donation; let your conscience be your guide and if you don't have a conscience ask M. C. Johnson, chairman of the city drive, or Dick Hughes, chairman of the special gifts committee, how much you should give. They'll tell you, and if you don't ask them they're going to ask you.

It's not a question of whether or not you should give, it's a question of how much you should give. The President has said that Pampa has got to raise $4,800 for the soldiers, to build up their morale, to keep them smiling, and that's all there is to it: Gray county has got to raise $4,800, and everybody is.

Board To Investigate Pipeline Possibility

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—Donald M. Nelson, war production board chairman, appointed a special committee today to consider the status of petroleum supplies on the eastern seaboard.

Wayne Johnson, Nelson's advisor on petroleum matters, was named chairman. The committee will consult with the maritime commission and the office of Petroleum Coordinator Ickes in regard to recent pipeline recommendations made by the petroleum coordinator's office. The committee was instructed to report its findings to WPB as soon as possible.

12,000 Japs May Be Lost In Sinking

(By The Associated Press)
Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced today that an Allied submarine had sunk a 6,000-ton armed transport with the probable loss of 12,000 Japanese troops in the waters of the Southwest Pacific, while four Japanese midget submarines were listed as sunk in the abortive raid on Sydney harbor last Sunday.

Previously, only three of the tiny two-man Japanese undersea raiders had been reported sent to the bottom by harbor batteries and depth charges.

In addition to the Japanese troopship, United Nations headquarters said an Allied submarine sank two heavily-laden Japanese supply ships and damaged a third.

A communique also reported that Japanese submarines operating close off the east coast of Australia attacked three Allied cargo ships and sunk one of them, but indicated the other two escaped undamaged.

Amid these thrusts at Australia's shipping, suggesting an attempted blockade of the down-under continent, the war on China's east coast raged on with mounting fury.

A Tokyo broadcast asserted that Japanese offensives were forging ahead in three Chinese provinces: Chekiang, Kwangtung and Kiangsi—and that Japanese troops had broken through the outer defenses of Chushien, key rail city in Western Chekiang province.

A Japanese army spokesman said Japan's opening of a new front in Kiangsi province "serves as a final warning" to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese armies to give

Gasoline Rationing Resists With FDR

WASHINGTON, June 4, (AP)—Decision as to whether gasoline rationing should be extended throughout the country as a tire conservation measure rested today with President Roosevelt.

He was expected to discuss the issue, which has aroused a heated controversy in congress, and elsewhere, at a cabinet meeting on Friday.

If nationwide rationing is decided upon, it probably would follow the pattern of the program laid down by the office of price administration for the Eastern seaboard yesterday to replace the temporary system that expires on July 1.

Under this plan all motorists who register on a date yet to be announced will receive a basic coupon ration equivalent to approximately three gallons a week, the present limit for "non-essential" driving.

Extension of rationing to other parts of the country would increase the basic weekly maximum to nearly four gallons, which, at 15 miles a gallon, would allow every one approximately 2,880 miles of driving a year.

Although Rep. Beller (D-N. Y.) said he learned in a conversation with Petroleum Coordinator Ickes that nationwide rationing would be instituted on July 15, Donald M. Nelson, war production chief, declared no final decision had been made.

Simulated Bombing Results In Injury Of Two 'Raiders'

BEAVER DAM, Wis., June 4. (AP)—A simulated air bombing, staged to inject realism into a civilian air patrol first aid practice session, resulted in the injury of two men last night when their light cabin plane crashed on the Beaver Dam airfield.

The pilot, Courtney Starkweather, suffered a bank injury, a dislocated ankle, a fractured arm and shock. His passenger, Dr. Roland Schoen, suffered a thigh fracture, lacerations and bruises.

The first aid team went into action immediately, extricated the victims from the wreckage, gave temporary care and soon had them enroute to a hospital.

Starkweather, who is president of the Beaver Dam Civilian Air patrol, had gone aloft to drop bags of flour in lieu of bombs.

None Of Auto Tax Stamps Received

None of the new $5 automobile tax stamps, which must be purchased before July 1, has been received at the local post office, C. H. Walker, postmaster, said today. They are expected in a few days, however, and will immediately be placed on sale. The new stamps, according to word received here, are red and show a considerable improvement over the initial sticker issued by the government. The new stamps have serial numbers, a device designed to minimize widespread stamp thefts which followed the early-year introduction. Boats are also subject to a similar tax, but these stamps must be obtained from one of the internal collector's offices in the state. Boat tax starts at $5, but is graduated according to increasing lengths of the craft. Loud grumbles, which met appearance of the January tax, was recognized by congress with some possibility of the item be stricken before the new stamp became due. The public soon got used to the idea, however, so revocation of the act is not being further considered in Washington. The tax is expected to net the government at least $180,000,000 despite the fact many car owners are discounting the duration of family buses for the duration.

I take pride in being a free citizen in a free society, but I know that the priceless blessing of liberty is not a heritage, but it won afresh or lost by each generation. I therefore pledge myself to all those Americans who have gone before me and to all those who will come after me to do my part and to pass on this Freedom. I will listen to no idle rumors. I will repeat no destructive gossip. I will support loyally and in friendship all the United Nations who are joined with us in this righteous compact to defeat the Axis powers. I know my country must win this war, and I will conduct myself as if I alone bore the responsibility for the victory of Democracy. In the words of a soldier of other days, "I will work, I will save, I will sacrifice, I will endure, I will fight cheerfully and do my utmost as if the issue of the whole struggle depended on me alone." I dedicate my self to this cause. I swear that to win it, I will make any sacrifice, however great, and perform any task, however humble. So help me, God!

Appointment Recognizes Air Power

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—The war department gave new recognition to air power today by naming Brigadier General Ildwal H. Edwards, 47-year-old command pilot, to be assistant chief of staff in charge of organization and training for the entire army.

Secretary Stimson announced the assignment as a part of staff shake-up which also brought the recall of Major General George V. Strong from a field command to head the military intelligence division, likewise as an assistant chief of staff.

Since the general's reorganization early this year about half of all staff officers have been airmen but the four assistants to General George C. Marshall have been from ground combat branches.

The war secretary announced at the same time the appointment of R. W. Ireland, Chicago, former traffic manager of United Air Lines, to be chief of a new air division of the army's transportation service under a broad program "to utilize aircraft to speed the flow of manpower and materials into all phases of the war effort."

Ireland will determine and administer priorities for cargo and passengers on commercial air lines in both domestic and overseas routes, including those of the ferrying command, among other duties.

Assisting in expanded military air transport is Captain Leigh Parker, of the air corps, who has been vice president of Delta Air Lines, Atlanta, Ga.

General Edwards, new chief of the general staff organization and training division, has been a flier since 1918, and recently commanded Randolph Field, Tex., the army's "West Point of the air."

His predecessor, Major General Harold R. Bull, will head the replacement and school command of the army ground forces at Birmingham, Ala., succeeding Major General Courtney H. Hodges, whose new assignment was not disclosed.

General Strong, new chief of military intelligence, headed the general staff's war plans division until ordered into field service two years ago, being most recently commander of the eighth army corps, Camp Bowie, Tex. He succeeds Brigadier General Raymond E. Lee, whose new assignment was not disclosed.

U. S. Still Allows Spain Oil Shipments

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—Government officials said today that the United States was still permitting periodic shipments of oil and gas to Spain.

But they declared that both oil and gasoline were low grade, that only enough to meet essential domestic requirements in Spain was granted export licenses, and that the United States receives much-needed strategic materials in return.

Two Nazi Planes Downed by One-Armed RAF Flier

LONDON, June 4. (AP)—Squadron Leader J. A. F. MacLachlan, who wouldn't let the loss of an arm interfere with his RAF career, shot down two of four German bombers destroyed over France last night and damaged two others.

He has operated his fighter with a metal arm, plus a "special gadget," since an amputation resulting from his being shot down over Malta some time ago. His present night-fighting score is seven planes downed.

Strange Illness Hits Fort Custer

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—Secretary Stimson said today a special war department board of research scientists was studying an outbreak of illness at Fort Custer, Mich., and other army camps which appeared to be caused by abnormal reaction to yellow fever inoculations.

Asked at his press conference about a report that a large number of men were in the hospital at Fort Custer, and that at least two of them appeared to have what seemed to be mild cases of yellow fever, Stimson replied that the board studying the outbreak had not completed its work, but doubted that the illness actually was yellow fever.

He said there were indications that the disease resembled jaundice rather than yellow fever.

Rumors in the vicinity of army camps have dealt with the possibility of sabotage of the yellow fever serum, but when Stimson was asked whether there was any indication that this was "the beginning of germ warfare by the enemy," he replied "I have heard no indication of it until this question."

West Texas Boy First To Be Given Avenger Insignia

DALLAS, June 4. (AP)—The navy today planned the first of 2,000 insignia reading, "I am a Pearl Harbor avenger," on the shirt of Ernest C. Carter, 25, of Ballinger.

The pastebored replica of a clock, its hands pointing to 1:25 p. m., will be given all men who qualify for navy enlistments in Dallas this week. They will be sworn into service in Dallas and 11 sub-stations in North and West Texas at 1:25 p. m. Sunday. This is the hour the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor began six months ago.

The Dallas swearing in ceremony will be conducted at the Fair park band shell by Lieutenant L. H. Ridout, Jr., officer-in-charge of the district. Other officers who will conduct similar ceremonies at the same hour were announced as follows:

At El Paso: Lt. R. D. Clisco, Longview; Lt. R. E. Binnion, Abilene; Lt. (J. G.) N. J. Atkins, Big Spring; Lt. (J. G.) J. C. Riley, Lubbock; Lt. J. A. Pierce, Waco; Lt. W. E. Nettie, Wichita Falls; Lt. J. W. McMurray, Jr., San Angelo; Ensign R. O. Jameson, Tyler; Ensign Gerald Pope, Amarillo; Lt. Comdr. R. F. Herndon, Sherman; Lt. Comdr. Gates Collier, Paris; Lt. J. F. U. S. To Buy Scrap Rubber At $25 Ton

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones announced today the government would buy scrap rubber in carload lots anywhere in the United States at a flat price of $25 a ton.

Jones said the purchases would be made at "an increased price x x x intended to provide small yield collectors throughout the country with a financial, as well as patriotic, incentive for putting forth greater effort in the collection of scrap rubber which is badly needed."

Coke Says Oil Rationing Would 'Wreck' Texas

AUSTIN, June 4. (AP)—Gov. Coke R. Stevenson today vigorously reiterated his opposition to gasoline rationing in Texas, asserting "I don't believe gasoline rationing in this state will save rubber."

Speaking before a meeting of county judges, state officials and representatives of state civic organizations meeting in the capitol to consider the effects of gasoline rationing on the state's economy, the governor declared:

"The proposed extension of gasoline rationing to Texas affects us more vitally than anything yet advocated under the war program. It would wreck many businesses. And it wouldn't save rubber."

Stevenson expressed concern about the effect of universal gasoline rationing on road bond servicing, schools, the state highway program and the general economic picture.

"While supporting the war program, we want to protect our economic structure as much as possible," he told the group representing all sections of the state.

"It's our duty to advise Washington of the effect upon us of a measure of this kind," he stated. "So far as I know, not a single person has differed with my statement of several days ago of rationing in Texas."

Maintaining that drivers already are rationing themselves, State Comptroller George H. Sheppard flatly declared:

"Gasoline rationing will positively wreck the economic structure of Texas."

The combined petroleum industry of Texas, Sheppard explained, pays annual wages and salaries of $272,000,000 to Texas workers, $128,000,000 in lease and royalty money to land owners, $160,000,000 in purchase of equipment and supplies, $95,000,000 in local, state and federal taxes, and $95,000,000 in miscellaneous expenditures, a total of $750,000,000.

"The state is in bad shape financially whether rationing comes or not," he declared, "but we'll be better able to finance the government's war program if they don't institute rationing."

Asserting educational programs must continue in war time, L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction, told the group that gasoline rationing would undermine the entire program of state and local education in Texas.

Dewitt C. Greer, chief engineer of the state highway department and a member of the road bond board, pointed to a 15 per cent reduction in Sunday traffic and a seven per cent decrease in daily traffic in Texas from May of last year to May 1, 1942, as evidence that Texans are conserving their rubber stocks.

JAPS RAID

United States naval base at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, shifted the focus of Pacific war to North America itself today and put defenses from the Aleutians to Panama on the alert against further thrusts.

Brief official reports of these first air attacks on North American soil failed to indicate immediately whether they were mere hit-and-run blows or the opening phase of organized assault on the northwestern stepping stone to Canada and the United States.

But Anthony J. Dimond, Alaskan delegate to congress, gave this warning:

"I am afraid we may have a struggle on our hands to keep that area." The first attack was by four Japanese bombers and about 15 fighters at 9 a. m. Alaska time (11 a. m. central war time) yesterday, and lasted about 15 minutes.

"A few warehouses were set on fire but no serious damage was suffered," the navy announced. "There were but few casualties." The second raid was made at about noon, Alaska time (6 p. m. central war time), six hours after the initial attack, the navy said. Details of this raid were not immediately available.

Dimond said he had heard nothing direct from Alaska on the raids, but expressed fear that there were too few defending planes to beat back a sustained series of attacks in the case the Japanese opened a big-scale offensive such as the Philippines invasion.

Civilian defense leaders at Seattle warned the public to check air-raid instructions and prepare for a possible blackout. In California the Los Angeles county defense council issued an emergency alert, calling for sharp vigilance and readiness for instant action.

Military authorities at Balboa cancelled all leaves and passes of soldiers in the Panama Canal Zone. The alert status was intensified.

Experts said the Japanese fighters in the first raid must have come from a carrier, but there was a possibility that the bombers came from a land base. Dutch Harbor is about 1,800 miles from the northernmost of the Kurile islands which stretch northward from Japan proper.

Unalaska island, on which Dutch Harbor is situated, is nearly 1,000 miles from the westernmost of the Aleutians, which in turn is some 700 miles from the nearest of the Japanese Kuriles.

Pending any official word to the contrary, Washington was inclined to regard the raids as either token reprisals for the recent American bombing of Tokyo and other Japanese cities or as thrusts to test American defenses.

But with the Southwestern Pacific battle relatively quiet and the battle of Burma ended, officials familiar with the Northern Pacific pointed out that the Japanese have chosen a moment for the Alaska attack which could mean a shift in the direction of the war.

If the Japanese intend an attempt to establish themselves in the Aleutians either for a major campaign against the American continent or as a defense against United Nations attack from the north, they have at least another month of good flying weather. Summer fogs settle down on the North Pacific islands in late July and August, and might hamper an Allied counter-offensive after the impetus of such an initial Japanese drive was spent. In striking at Dutch Harbor, the Japanese may have thought to find a weak spot, some observers pointed out.

Work on naval installations there, said to include an air and a submarine base, has been in progress only since the fall of 1940. Since 1923 the Japanese had insisted that the Aleutians not be militarized.

Yet during those years the Japanese themselves have pushed their fishing fleets into Aleutian waters despite American protests and were believed to have marked off prospective air bases and landing sites in the volcanic, rocky islands. At the same time Tokyo kept foreign eyes from the Kuriles, which were thought to shelter substantial naval and air stations.

Recent visitors to Dutch Harbor have described American forces there as expecting air raids with the coming of good weather. Rear Admiral C. S. Freeman, commander of the 13th naval district, said at Seattle after the first raid yesterday that "this attack was not a surprise and the station was prepared to meet it."

Axis Sinkings Cost Navy $200,000 Pay

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—Although there is no way of knowing definitely, the navy estimates at around $200,000 the amount of cash that went to the bottom of the Pacific on five United States warships sunk in enemy actions.

The money had been carried in the ships' safes for pay purposes. —BUY VICTORY BONDS—superior and chief of the Gestapo, flew to Prague and took personal charge of the inquiry into the shooting and the retaliatory moves.

Quoting dispatch from Stockholm, TASS, official Soviet news agency, said last Monday that the Heydrich case had come as a thunderbolt to Hitler's circle of leaders and had touched off arrests in the German capital itself.

An early convert to Nazism, Heydrich was little known to the world generally until the fall of 1941 when Hitler sent him to Prague to quell a rising tide of Czech unrest. There he succeeded in doctoring Baron Konstantin Neurath as "protector" of Bohemia and Moravia.

What followed constitutes a terrible page in the history of freedom-loving Czechs. Hundreds were summarily executed and the Germans announced that order had been restored. As a reward, Heydrich was raised to the rank of general in the security police.

But the fires of revolt still flared in the protectorate and more executions followed. In one sweeping order 90,000 Jews were uprooted and herded into a ghetto at Terezin, Bohemia.

Heydrich first showed what he could do with a gun on a mass scale in the Nazi blood purge of 1934. He was entrusted with rounding up all suspects in Berlin and did such a thorough job that many innocent Germans were reported shot.

It was this same slight, sharp-faced Heydrich who authored the fearful Jewish program of 1938 and the burning of synagogues in many German cities.

going to have to give more than he thinks he has.

Many a Pampan can give more than his neighbor, far more than his neighbor, and those Pampanians who have money in the bank, rent houses galore, royalty checks coming in, are expected to give 50 times as much as the person who makes $15 or $20 a week. So get ready to give. Just take or send your donation to the office of County Judge Sherman L. White in the courthouse which is the headquarters for Mrs. Clifford Braly, secretary-treasurer.

With 30 canvassers at work, the United Service Organizations campaign gathered speed in Pampa today, and a re-order on the number of 100 per cent posters, certifying that all employees of a place had donated to the U.S.O., was necessary.

Already, between 75 and 100 business places in Pampa have qualified for the 100 per cent rating.

M. C. Johnson listed his workers in the downtown solicitation, now in its second day, as:

Hollis Keys, Frank Smith, B. M. Behrman, Chalmers Cook, Carl Benefield, Morris Goldfine, Clyde Oswald, Frank M. Culbertson, Vernon Hall, Lorraine Hodges, Mrs. Cal Rose, R. G. Hughes, Tex DeWeese, C. Legion Changes Convention City

INDIANAPOLIS, June 4 (AP)—The American Legion national convention, stripped of its peacetime glamor and fun, will meet in Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 19-21, instead of New Orleans, original choice for the sessions.

New Orleans gave up the meeting because of its coastal position and a threatened shortage of transportation service. Kansas City was chosen by the Legion's national executive committee yesterday.

June 15 Deadline To Pay Income Tax

Persons who pay their income tax on the installment plan are being reminded in notices from their Uncle Sam that June 15 is the deadline for them to pay the second installment.

Although notices are being sent out, the collector of internal revenue emphasizes that payments must be made when due in order to keep open the installment privilege. Default of a single payment, by law, makes mandatory the collection of the entire unpaid balance.

Other federal taxes coming due on July 1 are: Annual capital stock taxes for corporations; second quarter old-age benefits under the social security program; auto use and boat taxes; narcotic taxes by doctors, hospitals and drug stores which either prescribe or dispense narcotics; and occupational taxes on beer, liquor and oleomargarine dealers; on operators of billiard and pool halls, and bowling alleys; and on owners of all coin-operated machines and amusement devices.

County Orders Cancellation Of Bond Issue

Ending a situation that would have kept the county paying principal and interest indefinitely on $298,000 worth of bonds, the county commissioners have ordered the cancellation of the issue.

The sum represents a portion of the $800,000 issue of 1940, sold in accordance with an agreement with the Texas Highway department for construction and improvement of state highways in Gray county.

Work on Highway 18 has been completed at a cost of $302,000 and these bonds have been assumed by the state.

However, America's entry into the war, with the resultant shortage of road equipment and materials led the highway department to cancel all construction programs, except those dealing with military roads.

This meant that the remainder of the bonds could not be assumed by the state until the proceeds were expended and the county was confronted with the proposition of paying one-half of the principal and interest requirements for the emergency, which no one could tell how long would last.

After conferring with the highway department and the board of county and road bond indebtedness, the Gray county commissioners decided to purchase and cancel the bonds in question. This action was taken at a meeting held Tuesday.

County Treasurer W. E. James, County Auditor, R. C. Wilson, and County Clerk Charlie Thut were attending to the cancellation today at a local bank.

Assembling of the bonds and the legal work was handled by Crummer & Co. of Dallas at 1 per cent fee. Premium costs totaled $5,527.30.

The 1940 bond issue included a portion of the bonds authorized in the 1931 election.

Katie Jenkins Sues Lew For Divorce

MIAMI, Fla., June 4 (AP)—Suit for divorce was filed today against Lew Jenkins charging the former lightweight champion with extreme cruelty.

His wife, Katie, charged the fighter beat her so badly in the summer of 1941 that she was confined to a Miami hospital for several days and that he struck her later in a New York hotel.

Mrs. Jenkins said "fearful of her life" she left Lew in March, 1942. She asked that their Palm Island home be deeded to her as alimony and said that when they bought it a $6,000 mortgage was due and she had to meet the payments.

They were married in Durant, Okla., in May, 1938.

U. S. On Eve Of War With Three Balkan Countries

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—The senate completed legislative action today on a declaration of war against Bulgaria and prepared to consider immediate similar house-approved measures against Hungary and Rumania.

Final action on the three resolutions, passed yesterday by the house without a dissenting vote, would place the United States formally at war with six Axis nations, including Germany, Italy, and Japan.

Introduced in response to a special message from President Roosevelt, the resolutions directed the chief executive to "employ the entire naval and military forces of the United States and the resources of the government" in war against the three Axis satellites. Rumania declared war on the United States last Relentless axis submarine raids off the U. S. Atlantic and Gulf coasts and in the Caribbean have sent the toll of United Nations merchant ships to 225 since the initial attack Jan. 15. Pictograph compares this figure—which does not include allied losses elsewhere—with total allied losses in a 4½-month period in 1940 when sinkings were at a peak and with Japanese non-combat vessels sunk since December.

December 11 and Bulgaria and Hungary followed suit on December 13. Senators showed far greater interest in a maneuver by administration leaders to avoid an immediate showdown on the politically-potent issue of a soldiers' pay increase.

Without debate, the senate quickly voted to include the three Axis puppets with three other nations, Germany, Japan, and Italy, against which the United States declared war last December.

The senate vote on the resolutions was 67-0 on Bulgaria, 71-0 on Hungary, and 73-0 on Rumania.

The balloting was completed in 32 minutes.

Congress had been informed by President Roosevelt that Rumania, Hungary and Bulgaria were fighting against the United Nations and were preparing to extend their activities.

U. S. Generals Confer With Generalissimo

CHUNGKING, June 4 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, American commander of Chinese forces which fought the Japanese in Burma, and Major Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of United States army air forces in India, arrived by plane today for conferences with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

At the same time, the influential newspaper Ta Kung Pao editorially urged a new four-point Allied program for the Pacific war, the first point being assumption of greater responsibility for conduct of the war by the United States.

Other points were: Amalgamation of the London and Washington Pacific councils, the new body to have headquarters in Washington; definitely assigned areas of operations under a single supreme command; and coordination of Allied help to China.

"The Allies should launch attacks against Japan by land, sea and air in collaboration with China's war effort," the paper said.

Br. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, commander of the American Volunteer Group (The Flying Tigers), came to Chungking with Stilwell, having boarded the plane last night at Kuming.

A Chinese spokesman said he had heard new reports on Japanese concentrations in Manchukuo, but he could not give their size. The reports increased speculation in Chinese circles over Japanese failure thus far to attempt invasion of Australia or India.

There was increasing belief among the Chinese that Soviet Siberia might be the next big Japanese target.

Chusien, rail line center of western Chekiang province and at present the immediate goal of the Japanese offensive in Chekiang, was being pressed today from the north, east and southeast by 40,000 Japanese troops constantly augmented by a reserve of perhaps an equal number.

Benefited by incessant relay bombing which destroyed Chinese defenses, the enemy column striking from the north reached a point only three miles from Chusien. The town was under fire from heavy field guns.

About 1,000 Japanese plainclothesmen were intercepted and destroyed south of Chusien, it was reported.

The Chekiang offensive, according to the Japanese themselves, is aimed at destruction of sites from which Allied air attacks could be launched against Japan.

But a military spokesman said today: "Even if the Japanese occupy some of our air bases there are many cities where others could be built."

1,000 Employees Strike

MUSKEGON, Mich., June 4 (AP)—About 1,000 employees of the Sealed Air Corporation today halted production of pistons and piston rings being manufactured for about two score war engine builders for the army and navy air corps.

They remained inside the plant, but declined to work, employee representatives said, until a wage cost and production check had been removed from the aluminum piston line.

up their "meaningless resistance or accept the alternative of annihilation."

The Chinese, who have repeatedly scoffed at such overtures through five bloody years of war with Japan, said 50,000 Japanese troops were being thrown into the Kiangsi offensive in a drive to seize the Kiang-Chekiang railway which leads into the heart of China.

Highlighting the gravity of China's peril, two top-ranking American officers in the Far Pacific arrived in Chungking by plane for conference with Generalissimo Chiang. They are Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, commander of Chinese forces in the lost battle of Burma, and Maj.-Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of U. S. army air forces in India.

Chinese military dispatches reported that the Chinese armies, harassed on a dozen fronts, were putting up a terrific fight and inflicting heavy casualties on the invaders.

On the Burma-China front in the Far Southwest, the Chinese said 2,000 Japanese had been killed and wounded in two weeks of fighting on the outskirts of Lunging and Tensueh, Japanese-occupied towns just west of the Upper Salween river.

On the China east coast, dispatches said the Chinese were beating back Japanese spearheads attempting to drive north along the Canton-Hankow railway in Kwangtung province.

Meanwhile, the British war office disclosed new evidence that Japan may have been planning to seize the strategic French island of Madagascar, off the coast of Southeast Africa, now partly occupied by British troops.

The war office said two Japanese naval officers had been shot by a British patrol Monday at a village north of the British-held Diego Suarez naval base.

"When called upon to surrender, they opened fire on the British patrol and were shot," the war office announced.

Morgenstau Favors Voluntary Buying Of Victory Bonds

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—Treasury Secretary Morgenthau said today that none of the compulsory savings plans that have been suggested by or to congress would sell as many War Bonds as the $12,000,000,000 a year he believes he can sell by a voluntary campaign.

He told a press conference that "any suggestion made or considered by congress doesn't begin to equal the amount we can get through the voluntary method."

He explained that his opinion was based on the belief that the enactment of any compulsory savings scheme would wipe out virtually all voluntary purchases, contrary to the belief of some people who believe that both the compulsory and voluntary methods can be used at the same time.

If You Have Time On Your Hands, Cook Hopkins Stew

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff

Next time seven hours hang heavily on your hands, cook up a pot of Hopkins County stew.

If your appetite will not permit you to wait that long without food, stave it off with a light snack of hot cakes and molasses, but be sure and give that stew seven full hours of cooking. To do it right takes seven hours, no more, no less.

Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn renewed his old friendship with Hopkins County stew a few weeks ago at a luncheon in Sulphur Springs. He first acquainted himself with it years ago when he was a country school teacher at Greenwood in eastern Hopkins county.

Hopkins County stew hasn't changed much in those years, unless it was for the better. You may have your choice of recipe, shading your seasoning from flat to hot, but basically Hopkins County stew follows a master plan—it is not only economically sound, utilizing home grown products, but it is gastronomically perfect.

When Hopkins county switched over from cotton production to dairying, it didn't matter. Cotton was about the only farm product in the county not used in making stew anyway, and no one has had the gall to try to put milk in it.

The primary implements in achieving a Hopkins County stew are plenty of time, a big cast iron cooking pot, and a long-handled spoon for stirring. The pot must be big because no one would think of making such stew in less than 25 gallon batches and the spoon should be long to reach the bottom of the kettle. Mustn't let your stew stick and stick it will if it is not kept stirring from the bottom. You'll see why.

Most Hopkins county experts advise a 6 a. m. start. Begin with a bed of hot, hardwood coals, outdoors. If the weather is too wet and windy, a gas flame might do. Your cast iron kettle is clean and dry and when it's hot enough to frizzle several strips of bacon, you're ready to start.

Into the smoking fat dump several chickens, well cut up, including all the giblets. If you're of a mind, you might add chunks of fresh pork or beef, depending on your taste in the matter. If you can't get chicken, substitute squirrel although in these days of game laws, that is governed by the season.

While this foundation material is browning, get busy and cut up your vegetables. Again the season and the availability of garden stuff determines what goes in. Onion, of course. Potatoes, tomatoes, but later. Turnips? Okay, if you like them. Corn, absolutely. Might as well leave out the meat as the corn.

There is a difference of opinion whether the corn should be canned or cut fresh from the ear. Some hold out for canned corn. They believe it tastes better, and you can always get it. That isn't true of roasting ears. Others claim the sweetness of fresh corn is the secret of the time-tried success of Hopkins County stew.

Cook book cooks, who like to see vegetables stand out individually in a stew—barely cooked done—will be horrified to read that this mess of vegetables is dumped into the pot as soon as the chicken is brown. They are accustomed to thickening stew with corn meal or flour, but not in Hopkins county. They couldn't get away with it. A Hopkins County stew is thick of its own substance, or it isn't a Hopkins county stew. Only the kernels of corn retain their identity.

That's why you've got to keep stirring. If you are all by yourself and have to peel and cut up those vegetables with your left hand, keep it turning. That's about all there is to it. If you still have strength enough to lift your eating arm, get a bowl, a big spoon and a double handful of crackers. Sit down.

You'll come away from the table with memories fonder than strings of white chicken meat in your teeth. You might think that chicken cooked so long would be tasteless and stringy, but not if you know how to select tender hens. The meat will fall off the bones, which settle plumbly to the bottom of the pot; the corn, tomatoes and potatoes blend into one beautiful design, flavors wedded and intermingled with the chicken in an indescribable mid-day dream.

For variation, try quail instead of chicken. They say they still have quail in such abundance in Hopkins county that seasoned hunters get tired of eating it. They start out, at the opening of quail season, trying their birds. Then they broil them. Pretty soon that gets old, and they take 'em.

But when you're fed up on quail every other way, go out some afternoon and shoot your limit, leave them to chill overnight, and get that stew going before daylight. Quail meat, by 1 o'clock, will take on new meaning. At least, that's what they say in Hopkins county.

Oil Compact Will Meet in Kentucky

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 4 (AP)—Governor Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma, chairman of the interstate oil compact commission, today set Lexington, Ky., as meeting place for the summer session June 18-20.

Means by which oil reserves may be recovered with minimum use of steel will be a special study of the session.

Governor Keen Johnson of Kentucky invited the commission to meet in his state, which three months ago signed its adherence to the compact. Twelve oil producing states are now members.

Italian Interred For Lying About His Bank Account

HOUSTON, June 4 (AP)—Somewhere in Texas is a middle aged Italian grocer who when he was picked up as an alien enemy forgot about $45,000 in cold cash he had cached in a half dozen Houston banks.

Assistant United States Attorney Miles Moss told about it today.

The Italian ran a little corner store and lived on the premises. The F. B. I. searched it in a recent roundup and found some contraband items, along with a picture of Benito Mussolini.

The Italian was taken to Moss' office and there filled out a questionnaire in which he listed his property as the store and a $500 bank account.

Making a routine investigation of the case, customs officers were more than a little surprised one day to run across a $10,000 bank account in the Italian's name.

The investigation continued until a total of $45,000 was found. The Italian was then asked where in the name of Mussolini he had gotten all that dough and, recovering his memory, he said he had made it in the grocery business.

His wife, who was not picked up, is carrying on the business and the $45,000 is frozen, except for a small portion on which the wife can draw for living expenses.

The story was told to the alien enemy board, which promptly decided the grocer ought to be, and he was, interred.

Eggs Hatched At Dump

HAYS, Kans., June 4 (AP)—Disposing of waste oil cans at the city dump, Marvin Fellers heard a loud chirping.

Investigating, he found nine baby turkeys and one chick. Eggs thrown away by a hatcher had been hatched by the sun's rays.

Salt-water gnats, smallest of flying insects, once choked the carburetors of a bombing plane and forced it to land.

Gasoline Rationing Would Damage State Says Coke Stevenson

KERRVILLE, June 4 (AP)—Classical gasoline rationing, by cutting state tax receipts, would cause a grave problem in the Texas educational system's operation and in caring for thousands of wards in eleemosynary institutions, Gov. Coke Stevenson said yesterday.

The governor, addressing directors of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers association, declared that gasoline rationing would do more to damage the state's economic structure than any other single measure.

Stevenson said he considered the livestock industry one of the most important in the conduct of the war, not excepting munitions manufacture, "because you men are helping to feed the soldiers at the front, and food is as vital to an army as munitions."

Stevenson, a ranchman, is a member of the association, the directors of which adopted resolutions asking the war production board to exclude short wool from the government's conservation order on the grounds it was not being used for military purposes.

Also adopted was a resolution supporting Stevenson's stand on gasoline rationing.

The directors' next executive session will be held in Mineral Wells in September.

'Jap Spy' Turns Out To Be Interviewer For Directory Firm

Just because someone appears at the door of your house and asks you the number, street, and your name, doesn't mean that the Gestapo have landed in Pampa, nor does it mean that an "ape man" has eluded the federal bureau of investigation.

Twice this week the Pampa police department has been notified that a "Japanese spy" was prying around in Pampa seeking a lot of information which was interpreted by some as being of military value.

Truth is the "spy" is an interviewer of the Hudspeith Directory company of El Paso, the concern that annually compiles the city directory of Pampa, and the "Jap" is a resident of El Paso, carrying a selective service card, showing him to be in Class 3-A.

While Arthur B. Dominguez is of Spanish ancestry, and his complexion and appearance is typically Spanish, he resembles a Jap about as much as a platinum blond.

Police Chief Ray Dudley therefore advises Pampans not to become excited when Mr. Dominguez calls.

Canadian Registers 88 At Bible School

CANADIAN, June 4—Enrollment in the daily vacation Bible school at the Methodist and Presbyterian churches now is 88.

A swimming party at the Isaac Simpson pool was given Wednesday afternoon to those attending the Bible school, a courtesy of Mrs. Simpson.

A picnic for the students was arranged for Thursday afternoon at the Shaller ranch, courtesy of Mrs. Frank Shaller.

The closing event of the school will be a program in the Methodist church Friday at 8:15 p. m., at which time each group will present results of work done the past two weeks.

Department leaders have been Mrs. J. B. Lindley, beginners, in the Presbyterian church, with Mrs. E. E. Fisher as her assistant; Mrs. George Hill and helpers, primary; Mrs. F. Balderston, juniors; and Mrs. W. H. Drake, intermediates. These three departments were held in the Methodist church.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE—"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Only The Beginning

A year ago the greatest air raids in history were being staged by Germany. Today they are being staged by Britain.

The Nazis who were so arrogant of their ability to dish it out are being given every opportunity to see if they can take it.

The cities of Cologne and Essen are in smoldering ruins, victims of the greatest of those raids to date.

Two fleets of more than 2,600 planes, biggest in the history of aerial warfare, unleashed 12,000,000 pounds of explosives on the Rhineland industrial centers.

What happened to Cologne and Essen is not a climax, not a crest. As Prime Minister Churchill promised in his grim message, raids of similar destruction will be unleashed on the Reich "city by city from now on."

British planes alone took part in the attacks, but soon American bombers and fighting squadrons will join the aerial offensive against Germany, doubling and redoubling the fury of the RAF's great week-end assault.

Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of United States air forces, was quoted in London as saying that the "maximum impact of our combined air strength" will be turned loose upon the Germans with such destructiveness that the enemy "cannot meet it, defeat it or survive."

Yanks

"Don't call me Yank. I'm rebel!" responded the southern soldier in Australia when the local man-at-arms called out in friendly fashion "Hello, Yank."

This difficulty is going to crop up often—perhaps it could be clarified a bit for the benefit of friends from other nations.

A "Yankee" is a northerner. People of New England stock, no matter how thinly diluted or how far away they dwell from the six states of the Northeastern corner, usually accept the title with a smile. But the south spells that word "damyankee" and does not accept it at all.

A "rebel" is a southerner who is conscious still of Mason and Dixon's line. In the north a whole generation has arisen which is only vaguely aware of the Civil War, and hardly knows what a rebel is. The boys like their southern buddies, and care little by what name those from any locality are called.

"Yank" seems to have become an entirely different word. It was used for all Americans alike in the first World War, and seems to be used thus today. It's short and handy and merely means a nephew of Uncle Sam. He's everybody's uncle. "Yank" seems to be everybody's name.

It's a bit foolish to kick about anything when you haven't a leg to stand on.

Common Ground

"I speak the pass-word universal. I give the sign of democracy. By God I will accept nothing which all cannot have their counterpart on the same terms."—WALT WHITMAN

BY KING BUDDER

If there is anything that has brought this country to the present condition, it is the fact that the people of this country do not want a universal, impersonal rule by which the government should be supported. Our taxing system is arbitrary, arbitrary, arbitrary and unfair. It is operated by no rule of conduct.

O, yes, I hear the customary remark that taxes should be paid in proportion to ability to pay, but no one writes the universal, impersonal rule by which to determine a man's ability to pay. It is always just the personal opinion of some group or power based on no universal, mathematical rule. It is not based on the universal proportionate rule of dollars of income, nor dollars of wealth, nor dollars of consumption. It is a hodge-podge that has no meaning and the belief of that it means to one man cannot be transmitted to another. No man who advocates the ability-to-pay theory can write a mathematical rule of taxation.

Dual Taxation Always Arbitrary. Those people who contend that there should be a combination of tax rates, that part should be on property and part should be on income and part should be on consumption, can write no rule which they would determine the amounts that each different method should contribute. Their division of the way taxes should be paid would be arbitrary.

And any system of taxation that is arbitrary is a system that will lead to confusion, to strife and to wars. There can be no unanimity of agreement in an arbitrary, man-made rule of taxation. Every tax system based on ability-to-pay or a combination of methods, is faced with a dilemma. Any program that results in a dilemma is unsound. There are no dilemmas, no contradictions in a tax system or any human course of action, that is based on universal, eternal principles.

The Only Uncontradictory, Sound, Universal Principle

There is only one universal, eternal, mathematical principle of taxation that has no contradictions and needs no exceptions. This universal system is that each man should pay yearly a fixed proportion to the amount of service the government renders to him in protecting him in what he consumes. This means, in reality, that each man should pay in proportion to the amount of this world's goods he consumes each year. All taxation should be raised on this universal, immutable, mathematical rule. This is the only true democratic system of taxation, as contrasted to all other socialistic, dictatorial, oppressive systems. This is the only system that treats all people equally. This is the system that would promote peace, tranquility, prosperity and happiness. To the degree that any nation follows this system, to that degree will it prosper, every thing else being equal. We more nearly followed this practice between 1868 and 1913 than any other country in all the world, and we made more progress during that period than any other period in the world's history.

Yes, we need a universal, immutable, single rule by which to determine what each individual should contribute to the government.

THE STATUS QUO ABSURDITY

It is rather strange that those people who have been proclaiming their liberal and progressive ideas are now the very ones who are trying to fasten on to the public the status quo.

If there is anything in the world that a real progressive does not want, it is the status quo. He wants progress. He wants those who are underpaid on a free market basis to have their pay increased and those who are overpaid because of blackmail, coercion and threats of interfering with free exchanges to have their rewards adjusted to their actual value.

If there is anything that is bringing about a status quo, it is freezing of prices. Every tyranny that exists is frozen on to the people who are the sufferers of the tyranny. Free enterprise, or the capitalistic system, or true democracy, or true Christianity, is the very antithesis of the status quo. It is a constant attempt to have all people rewarded in exact proportion to the contribution they make to the social organism.

But our New Deal administration, while it talks of being liberal and progressive, is most reactionary. It is dictatorial, arbitrary and an advocate of the status quo.

The President has even said he does not believe in piece work, which means that he does not believe all people should be paid in proportion to the contribution they render to society.

TERROR

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD, June 4.—The Misses Rosalind Russell and Janet Blair are living in a Hollywood replica of a basement apartment in Greenwich Village, and as Miss Blair exclaims hysterically in the script, it's like sleeping in the street.

Matter of fact, it's worse than that, though funnier. Not only does the sidewalk run along the bottom edge of their one barred and shaded window so that drunks can leer in at them and kids can bang sticks on the grating, but swarms of visitors pour at the set from another direction and snicker at the embarrassments and tribulations of the two gals. Director Alexander Hall even spoiled one of his own scenes by laughing about at Miss Russell's ineffectual efforts to relax on an understuffed day bed.

The picture is "My Sister Eileen" and it has been taken almost straight from the stage hit in New York. Columbia paid a quarter of a million dollars for the movie rights, which is quite a haul of lettuce even in this business.

JOY IS HERE. Undoubtedly the happiest individual of all is Miss Blair, whose real name is Martha Rafferty and who was warbling with a band only a year ago. Being a very choice dish in the matter of eye appeal, but having no dramatic training, she was regarded as just another cutie when studio officials gave her a screen test.

To the surprise of everyone, including Miss Rafferty, the test indicated she should be put under a contract not as a singer or dancer, but as an actress. After a couple of bit roles and a discouragingly cut part in "Two Yanks in Trinidad," she was farmed out to Universal for the feminine lead in a remake of "Broadway." Miss Blair, as she now was known, turned out to be quite a lot better than the dated story.

COPPED PRIZE. The title role in "My Sister Eileen" obviously was the prize of the year for any young player, and the studio tested between an estimated 20 and an announced 80 aspirants here and in New York. When Miss Blair finally got the inside track, she worked so hard and long in a succession of extra tests that when the announcement finally was made she just went home and went to bed, "feeling sort of numb."

By now, as heretofore indicated, Miss Blair has recovered her bounce and is even having to restrain her exuberance. The expert competition of Miss Russell keeps her watching her scenes and cues, but there's little danger that Miss Blair may lose much audience attention. In the pajamas she's wearing now, or the scanties she'll be wearing tomorrow, she gets most of it.

People You Know

The Francis Avenue Red explains that there are a lot of guys around town who are saying that they have been "turned down for everything" and can't get into the armed forces, when as a matter of fact they've just been turned down for a commission—not as a buck private in the army!

This is the story of the man who bragged about his wife. She was a perfect woman, without fault, the husband declared. His skeptical friend couldn't believe him. "Doesn't she have even one little fault?" he wanted to know. "Come to think of it," explained the husband, "she does have one weakness. She's inclined to swear a little when she gets drunk."

Every fall there are knowing looks among the know-it-alls when certain boys who never were teachers gets away to college. And so it was a matter of gratification when Bert Isbell and Kenneth Mullings returned to Pampa this week after finishing an entire session at Murray State college, Tishomingo, Okla. They not only passed their courses and made good grades, but they made the football team and were active in campus life. Bert was president of the freshman class, was one of the leaders of the school.

Mine, Stella writes from New York: "It seems the Oklahoma glue club reached New York in the same week that Madeleine Webb (from Stillwater, Okla.) did her act. (She was tried for murder.) I feel sorry for the poor creature. Us without pretensions to glamour can't begin to understand the problems of the glamour girl. I suppose glamour is like a talent. You're never quite happy unless you use your talent and in some frustrated unorthodox way Madeleine was using her talents."

Behind The News In Washington

By PETER EDSON

If ever there was a guy born to trouble, it is the Hon. Rexford Guy Tugwell—yes, the one who was an original brain trust, the one who was going to remake the world—or was it just America?

Anyway, Tugwell has branched out since he was exiled from the New Deal into the vice presidency of a molasses company, and is now governor of Puerto Rico, which job he got through the graces of his old pal Harold Ickes, boss of Puerto Rico by virtue of being secretary of the interior, administering U. S. territorial government. Currently, however, Governor Tugwell has been sitting it out in a Washington hotel, trying to quiet a cat fight within his official staff.

It really isn't Tugwell's fault. The trouble began in a row over civilian defense in Puerto Rico. OGD has its fan dancers, apparently, even there. At first it was just a personal matter between Mrs. Tugwell and the wife of the governor's naval aide, a typical domestic opera palace feud. But the thing grew to such a point that newspapers in San Juan, the capital, began to print dispatches from Washington that the aide really had been sent to understand Tugwell, who was reported on the way out.

THEN THE DIRT. The aide was Lieut.-Comm. Tom C. Hennings of St. Louis, Mo., who had been elected to congress three times and had resigned to take a position as district attorney. About a year ago, however, he was called into active service and assigned to the staff of Governor Tugwell as it was important that the navy be well represented in as strategic a position as this island possession unquestionably is.

The dirt in Washington is that when this story about Commander Hennings' rumored appointment to the governorship appeared, it was too much. A request was made to the navy that Commander Hennings be transferred to some nice, quiet spot, say like Pearl Harbor.

Here Mrs. Hennings went into action. She had been married to the commander only last August. The assignment to Puerto Rico was in the nature of a belated honeymoon on a lovely island paradise. Mrs. Hennings, before her marriage, had been Josephine Pagan, a radio personality in St. Louis, who knew what she wanted and how to go about getting it.

When Mrs. Hennings learned her husband was to be given the bun's rush to another station, she started writing letters, a radio personality, two newspapermen, one lobbyist and the Puerto Rican resident commissioner in Washington, the Hon. Bolivar Pagan, got letters on the subject.

JUST PLAIN POISON. Now Rex Tugwell is still about as popular with some congressmen as poison gas, and that goes double for Commissioner Pagan. Whenever anything unfavorable to Tugwell has appeared in Puerto Rican newspapers, Pagan has seen to it that the document be printed in the Congressional Record. And several congressmen have vied with each other and with Pagan in having reprinted any unfavorable comments on the subject of Tugwell. Consequently, when the Hennings case broke in the Puerto Rican newspaper El Mundo, bang, it went to the Congressional Record and the cat was thereby let out of the bag.

All this storm broke when Governor Tugwell was in Jamaica, attending an important Caribbean conference. Learning the conference cold, and also leaving his island legislature to stew in its own sweat, the governor hopped a plane for Washington.

The Hennings have been sent to the west coast. There will be no belated honeymoon in Puerto Rico.

Today's War Analysis

By DeWitt MACKENZIE

Wide World War Analysis. Key to the significance of the Japanese attack on our naval and air base at Dutch Harbor, up among the fog-shrouded and inhospitable Aleutians off the Alaska peninsula, lies in the strength employed in the second raid and the amount of damage done, if any—points on which we have no information at this writing.

The first raid with four bombers, protected by fighter planes, was a mild affair. If the subsequent assault was of like kind, the Japs obviously weren't attempting a major operation but likely were staging a nuisance raid for its propaganda value at home and abroad and its possible effect on American nerves. It may be expected that sooner or later they will make an end drive against these defenses. The position was summed up in Washington by Anthony J. Dimond, Alaska delegate to congress, like this: "Of course, it shows good sense and judgment on their part if they can bust up what we are doing in Alaska and the Aleutians. They believe their greatest danger lies in the approach to their shores which we are going to make from Alaska."

The danger of attack from this region isn't the only reason, however, why the Japs are anxious to deliver a knockout blow to Dutch Harbor. It is quite on the cards that they harbor ambitions to take over this area, because their established forces in the Aleutians as a preliminary to further attacks on Alaska and the rest of the western coast of the North American continent.

The Nipponese must have been operating yesterday from the Aleutians, because their nearest base is too far away to permit of such a raid. Still, that contained no element of surprise for the American defense. As a matter of fact, the only surprising thing which thus far has appeared is that the enemy should have struck with such light forces at first, thereby putting Dutch Harbor on the alert. One would have expected the Japs to have made their initial blow a hard one.

Yesterday's raid might have some propaganda value for the Axis, but can do with a bit of up-lift right now, in view of the Nazi position in Russia and Libya and the terrific air raids which are being staged over Germany by the British. Also, the face-saving aspect of the situation is of mighty importance to Tokyo, since this is their first answer in kind to General Doolittle's grand raid over Japan.

There is also another possible reason for the Dutch Harbor raid. The Japs may have hoped this would result in the American authorities diverting defensive forces from the west coast to Alaskan waters, thus giving Nippon a chance to stage against our west coast one of the raids of which Secretary of War Stimson warned us the other day.

However, it may be said that this is rather a naive hope since we are scarcely likely to be tricked that way.

Result: The Hennings have been sent to the west coast. There will be no belated honeymoon in Puerto Rico.

Mexico Will Keep Troops On Continent

MEXICO CITY, June 4 (AP)—President Manuel Avila Camacho promised last night that his government would leave nothing undone to hasten the triumph of the United Nations over the Axis powers but reiterated that Mexican troops would not be sent outside the western hemisphere.

In a nation-wide broadcast, the chief executive warned his people that victory depended on absolute unity and emphasized the need of stepping up production in industry and agriculture.

He declared that mobilization of civilian manpower would be necessary to win the "battle of production" and cautioned that interference with Mexico's all-out effort would not be tolerated.

Extreme measures, Avila Camacho said, may be needed in some cases to combat fifth columnists, but he promised that the extraordinary powers granted him by congress would be used only against enemies of the country and that loyal Mexicans need fear no infringement of their rights.

Golf In For Boom Thinks Graham Ross

DALLAS, June 4 (AP)—Golf under daylight savings, thinks Graham Ross, veteran Dallas professional, is in for a boom during the coming year unless either of these things happen:

1. A halt in the present program of reclaiming golf balls.
2. General gasoline rationing.

The second is more serious right now for Professional Ross, but the first would be more serious for the game generally. In fact, he says, the first would virtually kill it for the duration.

"Gasoline rationing would mean most of the golfing would be at courses that could be reached by bus or street car," Ross pointed out.

"Clubs like mine (Glen Lakes) that are located several miles out of town would just be out of luck."

But unless the plan of reclaiming balls is stopped Ross thinks the country should be able to go golfing on pretty much as before for at least a year. There should be sufficient equipment on hand, other than balls, for that period, he observed.

He already has sent in 4,000 old balls for rebuilding. This is done with a material (called Balata) from South America on which there is no government restriction. It is a fine substitute for rubber and makes balls as good as new, Ross declares.

So if neither of those things happen, the Dallas pro looks for a big boom in golf because of daylight savings.

"The folks get through work several hours before sundown," he explained. "They have plenty of time for golf. In fact, I am going to hold a twilight tournament for my club next week. No one will start before 5:45 p. m. I see no reason why this can't be done generally."

SERIAL STORY CARIBBEAN CRISIS

BY EATON K. GOLDTHWAITE

THE PLAN IS REVEALED

CHAPTER XXI
A KNIFE. Sebastian had been killed like this. A thrust from behind while asleep. Sebastian, MacDowell—the toll was mounting.

The call to the deck had been a decoy. An assassin had lurked there in wait. Already MacDowell was dead or dying. Only the lurch of the ship had saved Talcott. No wonder Struthers hadn't been worried about what would develop on Talcott's return to New York! At last the plan was completely revealed.

A trumped-up charge so ridiculous that Talcott would be completely willing to return and "face the music"; a dumb detective who would be so seakick as to be unable to defend himself; so dumb that whatever they had told him would sound like gospel truth; so dumb that he could be eliminated at the proper time.

That was the final piece in the auditor's fabric. It was to appear that Talcott, unable to face disgrace, had murdered the detective and then jumped overboard.

Unsteadily he drew a shaking hand before his eyes and turned away from the horribly still form. Sebastian, MacDowell, Talcott almost—What was the end? With Talcott still alive, what would happen next? Up to now it had been perfectly planned, perfectly timed and executed. They had stuck him with a corpse. When he went to report it to the captain the story would come out. He was, he realized, in as bad a position as if they had succeeded in tossing him overboard.

No. Not quite. He was still alive.

Who had been the assailant on the boat deck? Halsey? It couldn't possibly have been Halsey. Halsey was in the lounge, playing bridge with June Paterson and Martha Swenson and the doctor. And the attacker had been a smaller man than Halsey; strong though he might be, Talcott couldn't have disposed of Halsey so easily.

Who, then? Webber? Talcott recalled the business of the voices at the door. The more he thought of it the more positive he became that Webber had been on the outside and the steward on the inside of the door when a prearranged conversation was exchanged. It was the steward who had told him who Webber was supposed to be; that definitely lined the steward with Webber.

But, who was Webber? "Think," he said savagely. "You've got to think. You've seen him before. Him or his likeness. A photograph, maybe."

And then with stunning force it struck him. The gray-eyed man at the desk in the little room in Charlotte Amalie. The smudged copy of a photo made twenty years before. "This man is a Nazi agent; brilliant and unscrupulous. He speaks five languages as easily as if each were his mother tongue. We believe him to be in the Islands."

Webber was Baron Gerhardt von Stampf!

THE ship was not improving in stability. They seemed to be running into a blow. In the pitching stateroom with a dead man for a companion, Talcott dressed rapidly. There could be no sleep for him now. He had to act, and act quickly. A double advantage he possessed now; Webber's plan had failed and he knew who Webber was. It was a slim margin but he had to act on it before Webber became suspicious.

The Nazi agent had gone out from his cabin shortly after the arrival of his "message." The message had been a blind; an opportunity for Webber to change places with the steward. Thus there were at least two against him. How many more? He could not tell.

Should he gamble and go straight to the captain now? It was the proper course, but he wasn't so sure. The majority of masters would, after listening to his story, put him in irons and then conduct their own investigation. Being in irons wouldn't gain him anything.

Nor could he hide to New York with a dead man as cabin mate. The steward would report it and he'd be in irons anyway.

Talcott slipped from his stateroom. The corridor was deserted and he paused a moment before

Leval Has All Power

VICHY, June 4 (AP)—For the first time in the history of modern France almost all law enforcement machinery has been placed in the hands of one man.

ALDEN, Kas., June 4 (AP)—George Ross went out to his garden for some spinach.

Randolph Cadets Not All Athletes

RANDOLPH FIELD, June 4 (AP)—College football stars, cinder path artists and other muscle men of headline fame don't have any priority on Randolph cadets.

One of the days when you could find a college immortal between every other pair of earphones at the "West Point of the Air."

The air forces need thousands of young men with strong athletic bodies but that doesn't mean, necessarily, that aviation cadets must be athletes. In fact, a survey of the present record-sized class here shows 82.5 per cent of the cadets never hit a lick for alma mater on the sports fields.

Most of the cadets went to college, all at least to high school. However, they puttered around in the laboratories, thrilled to Chaucer, or learned bookkeeping while the other 37.5 per cent, now flying teammates, played football—either on varsity or freshman teams. Basketball was next most popular sport, followed by track, swimming, and baseball.

The largest class ever to register at the army's oldest and largest basic flying school included 225 aviation cadets from Texas—where there is more football played than in any other state in the union. Only 61 were ex-athletes.

Latin-American flying students now at Randolph, however, followed a different pattern. Eighty-eight per cent had participated in games followed in the American sports pages, in addition to rugby, horsemanship and shooting, motor car racing and polo.

Five Escape From Texas Prison Farm

AUSTIN, June 4 (AP)—State police said today they had notified that five convicts escaped from state prison farm number two at Lovelady at about 5 a. m. and were believed headed north in a small truck.

The police said the warden's office at the state penitentiary in Huntsville informed them that the convicts, believed to be wearing their uniforms, had "cut communications" and departed in the vehicle, the license number of which was not reported.

Highway patrolmen have been notified, police headquarters said.

A list of the escapees furnished the state police by the penitentiary said the men were:

Audrey Scalley, sentenced to life for robbery by a Dallas court, Dorwood Dean Clark, given 15 years for robbery by a Grayson county court.

Joe Carson, sentenced to 50 years for robbery and auto theft by Dallas and Concho county courts.

Walter Lemay, serving 12 years on conviction of burglary. (Location of the court which convicted him was not listed.)

Lloyd Ranels, sentenced to life for robbery in a Montgomery county court.

State police said they had no other information on the break.

Among services specifically excluded from the OPA's maximum price regulation are professional, advertising, insurance, entertainment, transportation, and barber shop.

Half Persons 25 Years Old Have Had 8 Years In School

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—Without mentioning President Roosevelt's surprise at low intelligence ratings among many army selectees, the census bureau reported today that more than half the persons 25 years old or older in the United States had completed at least eight years of school by April 1, 1940.

The bureau reported the number of persons 25 years old or over in the country was 74,775,836. Only 3.7 per cent had less than one year of formal schooling, but, on the other hand, only 4.8 per cent had finished college.

It's the matter of gasoline fires along the curbs and sewers. "The automobile drivers go into a filling station and have their tanks filled to the brim. Then they go and park on the sunny side of the street. The gasoline expands and overflows into the gutter and someone flips a cigarette into the mess.

Refinery Dismantled And Sold For Scrap

GREAT BEND, Kas., June 4. (AP)—The Plains Oil and Refining company's oil refinery, located in the heart of the state's richest oil field is being dismantled and sold for scrap—because of inability to get crude oil.

The plant, built several years ago, was off the regular pipe line routes, and in the competition to buy oil was left out by the competitors who had access to the lines.

Then came the war, and the last hope of building a pipeline in time to help save the refinery vanished.

Lieutenant General Krueger Tells His Men How To Care For Families

By WILLIAM T. RIVES Associated Press Staff

Walter Krueger rose to military eminence the hard way—from a chigger-scratching private to lieutenant-general in command of the vast third army of the United States, centered in San Antonio.

Consequently, General Krueger knows from his own experience that a soldier frequently needs a fatherly, guiding hand in personal as well as martial matters.

Especially in war-time, General Krueger believes, does a soldier need the advice of counsel, and so he has issued a booklet to the entire personnel of the third army.

It is called "Aid to Dependents." The opening paragraph explains why it was written.

"Since the vicissitudes of war cannot be predicted, it behooves every member of this command to set his house in order."

From this premise, the general proceeds to suggest means whereby the soldier and officer may make "adequate provisions" for their families' care.

"Decide where your dependents are to live in case you go away. Estimate the cost of their support and then make an allotment of pay for this purpose in such an amount as to leave you sufficient funds for your own normal living expenses.

"Execute a will. Give to your wife or other person a power of attorney to act for and in your behalf during your absence.

"Check your insurance policies and leave them with your wife or in some safe place where she may have access to them. Do all things now that will ease the burden of your dependents and relieve you of worry."

The booklet explains in detail the military regulations relating to some of the suggestions, and offers aid concerning the others.

Officers and non-commissioned officers of the first three grades are entitled to transport dependents at government expense from one United States station to another, or are entitled to transport them to any point in the nation when the travel cost is equal to or less than that covered by the order.

If they are ordered to Alaska or outside continental United States, they may send their dependents, at government expense, to a point in the United States, provided the cost does not exceed what it would cost to transport the dependents from their last duty stations to the ports of embarkation.

For example, if an officer is ordered from San Antonio, third army headquarters, to foreign service via San Francisco as the port of embarkation, and the dependents travel only from San Antonio to Denver, the money allowance will be the amount it costs to travel from San Antonio to Denver.

If, however, the dependents traveled from San Antonio to Portland, Me.—a distance farther than from San Antonio to San Francisco—the government would pay travel costs only in the amount it would cost to transport the dependents to San Francisco.

The government also pays the freight on household goods shipments, but warns the officers: "Do not enter into any shipping agreement with private concerns either for the crating or shipping of household goods. To obligate the government, all such agreements must be made by an authorized government agent, usually a quartermaster."

If the "military person" gets a hurry call and doesn't have time to arrange such shipments, General Krueger suggests he furnish his wife, "or other adult dependent," with written authority to remove the property and have it shipped, and outlines the military procedure for doing it.

Enlisted men regardless of their station, and officers who "have reason to believe they are about to serve in Alaska or outside the continental limits of the United States," may make pay allotments to support family and dependent relatives.

The booklet explains the proper form to use in making allotments and reminds the soldier that an allotment may be made for any period of more than six months.

General Krueger suggests a simple form of will for those whose estates would be easily disposed of. "All of my estate I devise and bequeath to . . . for her (or his) own use and benefit forever, and I hereby appoint her (or him) my executrix (or executor) without bond, with full power to sell, mortgage, lease, or in any other way dispose of the whole or any part of my estate."

The pamphlet also gives a sample form for setting up the power of attorney, cautioning it must be executed by an official authorized to administer oaths under state law, not federal law.

The scale of pensions, and proper methods of filing claims for them, are outlined. General Krueger's message says congress approved benefits "if disability or death results from an injury or disease received in line of duty (1) as a direct result of armed conflict, or (2) while engaged in extra hazardous service, including such service under conditions simulating war, or (3) while the United States is engaged in war."

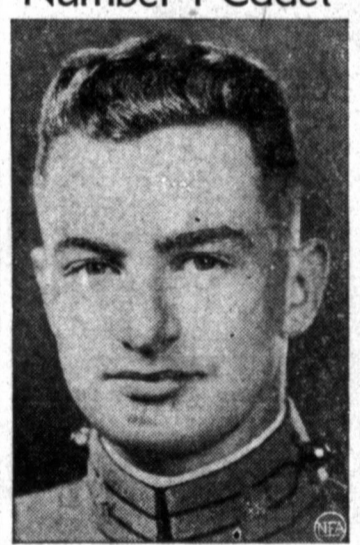

Dependents also receive a lump sum equal to six months pay if the soldier dies while on active duty, and any unpaid pay and allowances due him also will be given to the legal heir or heirs.

General Krueger suggests that if an officer who is called to foreign duty has maintained a joint bank account for himself and his wife, "the account be closed and a new account opened in the name of the wife only."

He points out "it is the general practice among banks to freeze the account upon receipt of notice of death of one of the parties to a joint account."

The commander's booklet ends with the suggestion that soldiers and officers make certain the wife be insured under automobile insurance policies containing public liability and property damage clauses and that adequate life insurance policies be carried.
