U. S. Fliers And New Zealanders Give Rommel Stiffer Resistance

Germany 45 Miles East Of Matruh

By ROGER D. GREENE Associated Press War Editor

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's 175-mile drive inside Egypt was reported running into stiffened resistance today as U. S. army fliers and fresh New Zealand troops reinforced the British imperial armies amid heavy fighting 140 miles west of the great Alexandria naval base. Alexandria itself was bombed again during the night. An RAF communique said U. S. airmen were pounding the invaders by day and night, attacking Axis columns west of Matruh and bombing enemy-occupied Tobruk in Libya.

Front-line observers reflected some optimism over the new trend of the battle, but the situation remained extremely critical.

A bulletin from Italian headquarters said Axis motorized columns had passed Fuka, 45 miles east of fallen Matruh.

Cairo dispatches, however, declared that reinforcements in planes and men were being sent to rally the weary British eighth army, and indicated that the British were fighting from new positions about 50 miles east of Matruh, on a 45-mile line stretching inland from the Mediterranean sea coast to the Egyptian "Death Valley" known as the Qattara depression.

British imperial headquarters said the eighth army, fighting desperately under a new command, had thrown back "large forces of enemy tanks and vehicles" on Sunday, west of Fuka.

Again yesterday, a communique said, Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's panzers advanced "and again were engaged in the same area by our forces."

The communique said New Zealand troops battled Axis armored forces and infantry in another sector and inflicted heavy casualties in hand-to-hand bayonet fighting. In London, Prime Minister Churchill, tumultuously cheered by parliament following his return from the United States, announced that Gen. Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck, commander in chief of British Middle East forces, had taken personal command of the British eighth army.

A canny Scotsman, one of Britain's "trouble shooters" Gen. Auchinleck superseded Lieut. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie, field commander in the disastrous Libyan campaign.

While the news from the Egyptian theater remained ominous, Soviet dispatches reported that the heroic defenders of Sevastopol had staged an eleventh-hour rally when the situation appeared verging on catastrophe and had smothered a 48-hour assault by German shock troops.

A midday bulletin from Red army headquarters said the Germans lost 1,500 men in attempts to breach Sevastopol's defenses and declared Soviet counter-attacks sent "the Hitlerites retreating into their initial positions."

The Russians had previously conceded dangerous new German gains in the 25-day-old battle for the Crimean stronghold, while Nazi dispatches asserted that the fight "has entered its final stage."

On the rekindled Kursk front, 130 miles north of Kharkov, the Russians said they had again repulsed Nazi offensive thrusts.

"Our troops repulsed large enemy tank attacks with success," the Russian command said.

A British broadcast said "one of the greatest air struggles of the war is now being fought out" over the Kursk and Kharkov sectors, where Gen. Fedor von Bock's invasion armies were driving eastward in an attempt to cut off Soviet communications between Moscow and the Caucasus.

Although the outlook in the seven-day-old battle of Egypt was still grave, there were indications that American airmen and planes and New Zealand reinforcements were stiffening the weary British army.

In Cairo, an American military observer just back from the declared: "While the situation can be classified as good after several reverses as have been suffered."

Reds Destroy 200 Tanks On Kursk Front

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, June 30 (AP)—Soviet forces on the Kursk front above Kharkov have cut off German infantry forces which pierced their lines in several sectors and more than 200 Nazi tanks have been smashed in two days, the army publication Red Star reported today in the first detailed account of the massive new battle raging in that area.

The frontline account said that Marshal Timoshenko's defenders closed in quickly behind the wedges driven by the Nazis before supporting tanks could be brought up in this battle which perhaps represents the beginning of Hitler's general offensive up and down the front.

With the enormous tank losses inflicted upon the Germans, Red Star said much of the sting had been drained from the German attack and that Red defenders hurled back subsequent German attacks.

In the two other violently active battle sectors, Sevastopol's war weary defenders rallied to beat back reinforced German shock troops to positions from which they launched a 48-hour assault and on the Kharkov front heavy but indecisive fighting still raged.

Elaborating its account of the Kursk fighting, Red Star said the Germans began their big push there Sunday with artillery and air assault against Russian front positions, motorized and tank forces had been brought up.

While endless streams of big tanks rolled up the front.

WAR BULLETINS

(By The Associated Press)

The sinking of two more United States merchant vessels, with a presumed loss of 43 lives, was announced today (Tuesday) by the navy. The latest losses raised to 328 the total of United States and neutral nations' vessels unofficially tabulated by the Associated Press as lost in the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor.

LONDON, June 30 (AP)—The 26,000-ton German battleship Gneisenau, which slipped through the English channel from Brest Feb. 13, was seen in the Atlantic.

Largest Group Of Selectees Leaving

Wheat Prices Lowest Since Jap Attack

By FRANKLIN MULLIN

CHICAGO, June 30 (AP)—The lowest prices since before Pearl Harbor were paid wheat farmers today for what grain they were willing or forced to sell on the eve of new cycle in the nation's ever-normal granary.

With wheat for July delivery quoted near $1.15 on the Chicago board of trade, the price was the lowest since Dec. 1, when $1.13 was paid for December contracts. A year ago wheat was around $1.04 but in January this year it sold as high as $1.37.

Tomorrow a new crop will begin, and, if present prospects materialize, it will be the sixth consecutive season in which the United States will produce more than it can use.

This series of big crops, coupled with a world war that has cut off practically all the normal export, has given the nation a carryover surplus of old wheat estimated at about 630,000,000 bushels, exceeding any ever accumulated during bumper harvest periods before.

With harvesters working their way north, having reached Kansas, the largest wheat producing state, and preparing for full-scale operation soon in the fertile Ohio valley, farmers throughout the belt faced a problem of what to do with their new grain.

One solution was offered by the government loan program, in operation the last several years, and largely responsible for the U. S. farmer receiving a much better price than do producers in other exporting nations like Canada and Argentina.

By storing wheat collateral and receiving government loans, farmers will be able to hold their grain until prices improve.

However, last week the Legion and VFW called upon the people of Pampa to observe the Day of Faith, and today Commander L. R. Franks of the Legion and Commander Fred Fender of the VFW urged Pampans to observe the day.

Gray county's largest call of selectees will leave Pampa tomorrow afternoon. They will gather in room 301 at the courthouse at 2 o'clock and 45 minutes later will board a special bus for Lubbock induction center. There will be 35 men in the group, largest number to leave at one time to date.

Original call included 14 married men but they were deferred under a recent selective service ruling.

Gray county received credit for 51 volunteers.

Each of the men who will leave tomorrow will be given a copy of the book "Fall In" gift of the American Legion auxiliary.

Official sendoff will be given by the Rev. B. A. Norris and members of the Civic Culture club and the Delta Kappa Gamma fraternity. Each man will be presented a "going-away" gift by members of the clubs.

Residents of Pampa and Gray county are not only invited but urged to be at the courthouse to see their defenders leave for army duty.

Two negroes, Ollie Winkfield and Jess Washington, both transfers, left here this morning. Pampa's other negro selectees were deferred because both were married. Winkfield was a transfer from Fort Worth and Washington from Okemah, Okla.

160 Registered At Noon Today

Up to noon today 160 men of the 18, 19, and 20-year-old group had registered here under the selective service plan, County Clerk Charlie Thut reported.

Six clerks are registering young men in the county courtroom. Registration is also taking place at LeFors and McLean.

It is estimated that there are between 400 and 500 young men within that age bracket living in Gray county. Only the 20-year-olds are subject to call for the army.

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—Three million men of 18, 19, and 20 register for selective service today in the fifth nationwide draft registration, completing the official roster of some 43,000,000 men of 18 to 65.

The 20-year-olds are subject to call for the army. Those who reached the age of 20 by last Dec. 21 were registered on Feb. 16 and many already are in uniform.

Although the 18- and 19-year-olds are not subject to immediate call, the army has indicated it would like congressional authorization to draft them.

Today's registration is for men born on or after Jan. 1, 1922, and on or before June 30, 1924.

Principal business at the meeting will be the annual election of officers. "Every member should participate in the election," Commander Franks said today. "We are facing a serious time and we should elect the best officers possible."

Attention, Mr. and Mrs. America! And that means Mr. and Mrs. Pampa and all the folk in the 'Top O' Texas area.

Promptly at 12 o'clock noon tomorrow (Wednesday) approximately 300 Pampa retail and service establishments will suspend all sales of merchandise for 15 minutes and join with retailers over the entire nation for the next quarter hour in the exclusive sale of War Bonds and Stamps.

The move is being made by the retailers of the country as a nationwide tribute to America's war effort. At the same time it will mark the launching of a nationwide July campaign known as "Retailers For Victory."

At a meeting of retailers' representatives at the Pampa Chamber of Commerce rooms this forenoon, Pampa merchants and service men completed their final plans for the 15-minute sale of bonds and stamps.

Pampa's bond and stamp sales have been lagging some. The new July effort will seek to overcome this drop-back.

Postmaster C. H. Walker announced that all windows at the postoffice will be closed from 12 to 12:15 o'clock tomorrow—with the exception of the war bond and stamp window.

So, if you're down town at that time, don't ask your retailer to sell you anything between 12 and 12:15 unless you want to buy war bonds or stamps.

Pampa hopes to be able to report full cooperation on the part of the buying public.

If you only buy a 10-cent stamp—buy that, at least.

You can buy 10-cent stamps, 25-cent stamps, $1.75 or $37.50 bonds, or any amount you wish. But be sure to buy at least one of the denominations.

So, remember that your retail stores will not be selling anything at this particular time tomorrow but bonds and stamps.

Go into your retail store at that time and buy as many stamps or bonds as you can.

In most of the stores you will find the biggest bargain table in America. Take advantage of the Need Key To Makeup Color? Look Deep In Your Own Eyes

If you're interested in a facial filip to greet the summer—and who isn't, please?—it would be wise to investigate the new summer make-ups. They're darker harmonies, to glorify your tan and your summer clothes.

But, now more than ever, every woman should know her basic makeup colors, and equip her dressing table with them. And surprisingly few do know.

STUDY YOUR FACE FIRST

In order to know YOUR colors, first study your face. Vaguely you always have realized that your cheeks have red in them. But—what red? Some reds are almost purple, others are almost brown. Most colors are composed of several elements, the blended effect of which depends on the predominance of one or the other component.

A simple way to choose your makeup is to key it to your eyes. See what yours are—not merely that they're brown, for instance, but whether they are light brown with a strong yellow or green element in their composition. True brown eyes, which are not so common, invite brown tones in makeup. With these, you should have a winey or maroon shade of lipstick, and your eye-shadow should have brown or purplish tones, just as your eyelids probably do when they're shadowed naturally.

Hazel eyes are flattered by warmer, clearer, purer red lipstick, and by Dutch blue or aquamarine tones in eye shadow. Green eyes, especially those that go with red hair, are flattered by matching shadow, and by reds containing yellow or brown.

By RUTH MILLETT

There was a moutainous pile of old rubber in front of the filling station. Tons of old tires, mats, galoshes, balls, high boots.

It was an impressive sight. Asked if many of the folks who had brought the rubber in had wanted money for it, the filling station proprietor said: "Most of 'em did!"

That was just one station in one town—and so by itself isn't important. But if it happened all over America it is important. Not because of the cost to Uncle Sam. But because it shows there is something wrong with our attitude.

GIVING RUBBER IS A PRIVILEGE

We know our government needs old rubber needs it desperately. It ought to be a privilege, then, to rummage around our houses from attic to cellar and out to the garage to find every bit of old rubber we have and to take it down and turn it in—free.

Giving Uncle Sam our old rubber ought to give us a lift, make us feel for a little while that we are helping in a small way.

But if the majority of Americans took their rubber down and sold it to Uncle Sam—that's something else again. That doesn't show any enthusiasm, and joy at being able to be of some little help. That doesn't show any spirit.

The very idea of letting Uncle Sam pay for junk that is of no use to us—but vitally important to him. As long as we have that attitude we are just sitting around thinking of the government apart from us, and assuming that it is somehow up to the government to win his war for us.

It is all right for Uncle Sam to offer to pay for our old junk. If he didn't there are some folks who wouldn't bother to save it and turn it in. But if most of us are taking pay for the stuff we can no longer use, just because Uncle Sam needs it, then there's something radically wrong with our spirit and our attitude.

Let's hope that one filling station proprietor's experience wasn't typical.

New Type American Beauty Is Demanding Vitality—Plus

By ALICIA HART

War is changing the popular ideal of American beauty. The pre-war standard was, frankly, a pretty horrid type. Today, the most fashionable quality is—vitality. Bright, clear eyes, gleaming hair, scrubbed looking cheeks are sought by all the pace-setters in Fifth Avenue and Hollywood.

So, I would advise you to take a fresh interest in that oldest and simplest element of charm—the element of personal cleanliness.

Let nothing precede, in your scale of beauty values, that daily dousing in shower or tub, with plenty of soap. American women are lucky here—though our soap has been going to the fronts by the tons, there's plenty of it still, and plenty of different, good kinds, too.

You can still put your nickel on the counter of any toilet goods department, drug or even grocery store, and get a pleasant, mild, good-hunk of soap. Or, you can still have your superline quality bar—even new ones, which come up practically every day, and in ever more intriguing form.

Use it, then, and remember, too, that an extra shower or tubbing is an excellent physical and psychological pick-up.

Protect your face and, even more, your hands. Busier now, they deserve more care. Wash them often. Use gloves to prevent grime working into the pores, when you can, at home, in office or war factory.

REMEMBER DAILY HAIR TREATMENT

It is a natural—that is, neither alkaline nor acid—cream which feeds off grease, paint, dirt, thus eliminating the necessity for resorting to strong cleansing agents like turpentine, alcohol, gasoline and gritty soaps. When it's on, hands feel soft, clean, not sticky.

Another thing—your hair—clean! Brushing is the first essential of course; if you never have brushed your tresses and scalp regularly, nightly, you will be astonished at the amount of dirt and loose cuticle which accumulates on your brush.

Methodist Circles Spend Fifth Monday Afternoon In Visiting

Observing the fifth Monday of the month, six circles of Woman's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist church spent yesterday afternoon in visiting absentees and prospective members.

The remaining group, circle seven, met in the home of Mrs. McElreath with nine members and one visitor, Mrs. J. D. Christner, present. In the business session presided over by Mrs. E. B. Bowen, the circle voted to send a subscription to The World Outlook and The Methodist Woman, which it received at the monthly business meeting of the society, to Mrs. Ivan Block.

Mrs. Clarence Coffin reviewed the book, "The Speed and the Soul," by H. Baker, after which Mrs. Block concluded the study of "The Christian Imperative" by discussing chapter eight. The devotional by Mrs. Bowen completed the program.

Circles will meet next Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock as follows: One, Mrs. Walter Daugherty; two, Clara Hill class room; three, Mrs. Carson; four, Mrs. Chester Thompson; five, church parlor; six and seven, Mrs. W. D. Waters.

Allred Predicts Isolationists Will Try To Sabotage Peace Plan

LA GRANGE, June 30—This war must not be fought, as was the last one, in vain, James V. Allred told Texans here today as he reminded that the man picked by the voters this summer as a war senator must also have a vision for peace.

The former governor and attorney general, pushing his U. S. senatorial campaign hard as it enters the last month before the July 25 primary, predicted a post-war effort by the isolationists to sabotage President Roosevelt's peace plan just as those same isolationists wrecked President Wilson's pattern for peace.

There is even now a movement to gain control of congress this year "just as they did in the war elections of 1918," Allred warned.

"President Roosevelt has enunciated in the Atlantic Charter and has reiterated in talks with the heads of the United Nations a well-considered plan for peace," Allred said. "The same sinister program, must be carried out so that our children will not have to undergo recurring ordeals of death, destruction, and desolation."

"It is entirely probable, he pointed out, that the senator Texans choose this summer for a six-year term will be called on to help shape the peace. One vote—the vote of a Texan—may well be the determining ballot, Allred reminded.

A little band of wilful men—Isolationists and obstructionists—succeeded in scuttling the "sweetest dream of peace man has ever had," Allred said of the Wilsonian program. The remnants of that same little group will attempt to do it again, and the present junior senator has forever aligned himself with those isolationist-obstructionists by reason of W. Lee O'Daniel's vote against continuing the draft just four months before Pearl Harbor, Allred charged.

Allred speaks in Columbus tonight, and has engagements Wednesday in Yoakum, Beville, and Corpus Christi.

"Independence day, 1942, offers an opportunity to pledge ourselves anew to those principles which strengthen our faith in our leaders, our Allies, our soldiers on the battlefield, our workers here at home, and, above all, in divine guidance. "Our nation was founded in faith. Pilgrims undertook to cross an unknown ocean and settled in an unknown land, relying on their faith in God and in themselves. "The faith of our fathers is reflected in the Declaration of Independence, and in every notable action of the great men in the history of our country. "Our present-day leaders are not lacking in this quality. Our citizens and soldiers are exhibiting their faith daily in their actions."

shells screamed over, German air raiders in groups of 20 planes each blasted at Soviet fortifications with bomb and bullet.

Then under an umbrella of more planes the Nazi infantrymen charged through pulverized Russian positions, followed by tanks in waves of 50 to 75 each.

Soviet artillery, anti-tank batteries and sappers heaving hand grenades and bottles of gasoline met the advancing tanks and slowed them down while Red infantrymen closed the breaches torn by Hitler's foot troops.

By 9 a. m., on the first day of the German offensive, the battlefield was cluttered with the buried and exploded hulls of 53 German tanks, the newspaper account said.

The battle of Sevastopol had appeared near a bloody climax, for the Soviet information bureau announced last night that, at a heavy cost, the Germans made fresh gains.

A noon communique, however, reported that, having lost more than 1,500 men in attempts to breach the defenses, "the Hitlerites retreated to their initial positions."

Soviet riflemen were reported to have beaten off dozens of attacks by superior forces, wiped out two regiments of German infantry and destroyed 11 tanks.

On the Kursk front north of Khar'kov, where Nazi divisions of Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock are striking eastward, "our troops repulsed large enemy tank attacks with success yesterday" and kept up battle control through the night, the government information bureau said.

"Soviet artillery fire hit 15 tanks," its communique reported. "Red army men wiped out some 500 Hitlerites."

"In another sector the enemy lost 2,500 killed. Soviet airmen destroyed 60 German tanks and 108 trucks and brought down 25 planes in air combats."

It's not only the law but the patriotic duty of every automobile, motorcycle, and truck owner in the nation to purchase a $5 automobile stamp. The money is going to help with the war and so far motorists, especially in this area, have gotten off easy.

The "stickum" is on the front of the stamp while on the back is a place for the writing-in of the model car, engine number, make and state tag number. The purchaser does not have to mail this time.

Up to noon today 2,000 Gray county motorists had purchase tags. Five thousand more are available. Stamps can also be purchased at other post offices in the Panhandle.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE—"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Now We're Down

Germany, brilliantly led, are threatening the Suez canal. General Mannheim's Nazis have driven dangerous wedges into the defenses of Sevastopol, Russia's last stronghold on the Black sea.

Notwithstanding our brilliant success at Midway, the simultaneous Japanese attack on the Aleutians has given Nippon possession of at least two points which appear to possess real strategic value. Because of bad weather, we haven't been able to oust the Japs.

The United Nations are being pushed around, and our mercurial public pulse has sunk to a depressing low. The totally deaf are fortunate. They, at least, need not listen to arm chair strategists proclaiming that our cause has become hopeless, that we can't expect to beat the Axis, that we are losing the war.

The fault is largely that of panty-waist publicity we have been getting from Washington, particularly, and also from other United Nations capitals. But that is another story. We hope Elmer Davis has been given sufficient authority to correct that evil.

Meanwhile, let's buck up, and recall the dark days of Pearl Harbor, Batavia, Singapore, Corregidor—unless we prefer to torture ourselves by going back to the fall of Belgium, Holland, France, Yugoslavia and Greece, to Dunkirk, to the months when only a few super-optimists dared hope England could survive more than day by day.

These are trying times, militarily. But by comparison with 1940 and 1941 we're in a bed of roses with the big thorns removed.

After we gave the Axis powers years of headstart in preparation, we were committed to fighting an uphill battle.

From the start it was obvious that our job divided into two major tasks. First, we had to stop a clever, aggressive enemy, who had more troops, more planes, more tanks, more of everything than we, plus the advantage of being in position to name the game and fix the rules.

Second, we had to hold that enemy while we transformed the United States into a war factory, and raised and trained an army and manufactured the materiel and built the ships with which to take men and armament and munitions and food where they could be used.

By contrast with Hitler's almost unopposed conquests of 1940 and 1941, we have stopped the Axis. Still losing a bit here and there, now we are making the enemy pay a price he cannot afford for victories which are serious to us but not necessarily conclusive.

Meanwhile we are rolling up a military machine before which the Axis powers cannot continue to stand.

The losses we are suffering will prolong the war. We must retrieve them before we can go on to victory.

But we knew—those who were alert—that there were hard days and sorrowful nights ahead. We knew that we should have to lose more before we could begin to win.

Let's not abandon our sense of proportion. Let's not see-saw up and down with every local battle. Let's correct our mistakes, forget our grouching, strengthen our resolution, and remember that omelets can't be made until eggs have been broken.

Common Ground

"I speak the pass-word universal. I give the sign of democracy. By God I will accept nothing which all cannot have their counterpart on the same terms." — WALTER WHITMAN

In a recent issue, I recommended that everyone read Seversky's "Victory Through Air Power". The progress we are making in the war indicates that we have not been on the right track in the past. As Seversky says, "We must visualize the magnitude of the tasks ahead of us. Estimate the technical and psychological obstacles on the path of victory, and proceed to overcome them."

And here is the statement that every American should ponder over—"We must conquer ourselves to conquer the enemy."

As much as I would dislike seeing President Roosevelt appoint any new officers at the head of a new department, I believe that a new separate air force should be established; an air force that is not hampered by the beliefs in the kind of a war that has won in the past. New technical designs in airplanes have certainly changed the whole method of warfare. The best way of getting out from under the difficulty of getting the higher-ups in Army and Navy circles to admit that they have been mistaken in the past, is simply to appoint a new air department not under the control of the Army and Navy.

I want to quote further from "Victory Through Air Power", to show the possibilities of the airplane, not only to defend us but to serve us in peace time. I quote:

"In intrinsic value, if not in weight, transoceanic air commerce is destined in the nature of the case to surpass surface commerce. Even now most American bombers are delivered across the ocean on their own power, and pursuits could easily have been built to do likewise, if those in charge of national-defense programs had not let their prejudices blind them to the opportunity. Such equipment had been proposed to them, but rejected and ridiculed."

"But we, too, must speed up the work of replacement. We must relinquish the illusion of safety and accept the reality of the changed conditions. And the time to start is now. The major European nations have been too preoccupied with immediate short-range needs to devote themselves to the long-range air power of especial significance in relation to America."

The author is doing everything in his power to arouse the people as to the need of more air power. He closes one chapter by saying:

"It is to hammer away, day and night, even at the risk of making ourselves a nuisance, at the mind and conscience of our country. We must awaken it somehow to the realities of the new situation."

Another place he shows the difficulty of arousing Army officers by making the following statement:

"An officer passionately convinced of the paramount destiny of air power, and openly defending that conviction, steps on tender political toes. On the other hand, the officer with a happy talent for handshaking and back-slapping normally rises to power. But that sort of politically minded personality rarely if ever goes with military or aviation genius. Nor is his job to be envied. He is caught between the realities of air power and the pressure of aviation personnel for better equipment on one side, and the orthodoxies of the older services on the other."

Face Saving The recent successes of air planes have forced those opposed to increasing the air force to somewhat change their attitude. This is pointed out by Seversky, as follows:

"Obviously projects long pigeonholed and ignored are now being resurrected. That is part of the face-saving process which will continue as long as men intimately identified with the whole history of failure and frustration in our military aviation remain in commanding positions. It is not altogether accidental, under these circumstances, that publicity to vindicate fallacious judgments has sometimes taken precedence over courageous action to undo the mischief."

"It is about time we stopped bragging about our aeronautical superiority. If we continue to live in a fool's paradise of self-congratulation and farfetched alibis, there is nothing ahead of us but brutal disillusionment. The sooner we stop patting ourselves on the back and clean our aviation house, the closer we shall be to victory."

Remember this was written before our last reverses. Seversky seems to have seen what was bound to happen.

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON HOLLYWOOD, June 30—All over the lot: Audiences are so conditioned to the technique of movie-making that they're unaware of most of the cuts — sudden changes in angles and camera distances—that go on during screen dialog. Take the unhappy case of Miss Jeff Donnell, a comedienne on the straw hat circuit but a newcomer to pictures when she went to work in "My Sister Eileen."

Miss Donnell had a difficult sequence to do, and did it well. Trouble was, she had to do it many times, often with long waits in between while the camera and lights were moved. Rosalind Russell found her in tears.

Director Al Hall didn't like her work, explained Miss Donnell. "Or I look terrible in the camera. He keeps moving it. I do the scene several times, and he tries to encourage me by saying it's all right. But then he changes things around and we do it again and again."

REVIVED BY ROSALIND Miss Russell explained about close-ups and long shots and scenes photographed from all angles, and how brief pieces of these are patched together to add visual variety and emphasis. Miss Donnell brightened up; said that with the hundreds of movies she has seen, she never noticed how the camera jumped back and forth.

James Fitzpatrick, who makes those travel shorts for Metro, has a secretary who's getting married and who asked for suggestions on a honeymoon spot. He said that with the way the war has restricted travel, a resort in Washington or Oregon, or perhaps a trip to New York might be best.

Unimpressed, the girl asked hopefully: "Where did you spend your honeymoon, Mr. Fitzpatrick?"

"Niagara Falls," said the travel expert sheepishly. BERGEN'S BURDEN In "Here We Go Again" (not to be confused with "Hold Onto Your Hats, Boys") Edgar Bergen is an entomologist who goes leaping after butterflies, but scarcely gives a glance to Ginny Simms, who's crazy about him. They started to shoot the scene in which love dawns on the preoccupied bug chaser.

There stood Bergen with Miss Simms in his arms. He was supposed to say, "My work doesn't seem so important now. Don't you think you could learn to love an entomologist?"

He couldn't say it. It was disquieting to stand there embracing the actress and trying to concentrate on pronouncing "entomologist." After several stammering tries, the usually suave Mr. Bergen went completely to pieces. "My work doesn't seem important now," he muttered. "Don't you learn to think an entomologist?"

Director Allan Dawn called for a rest and sent a prop man for a cup of coffee. Before he returned, the embarrassed Bergen said "Aw, come on—I can do it." They tried again. He had finished his first line when he glimpsed the prop man tiptoeing across the stage with a tray. Bergen got a grip on himself and burst: "Don't you think you could learn to love a—cup of coffee?"

for both chambers and there was talk of trying to put through resolutions continuing appropriations on the existing basis if last-minute log-jams prevent action before the start of the new federal year.

M. K. Brown, long-time resident of Pampa, does not believe that the Axis will capture the Suez. He believes that the Allies will snap the German supply lines before they're extended that far. Mr. Brown has been over the ground in North Africa. . . . In fact, he's been over a lot of ground, and all you've got to do is just name the place and chances are he's been there. . . . One relative of Mr. Brown has been killed in the war—the wife of a nephew was killed in a bombing raid in England. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Brown are staying at home this summer. They are spending the summer in Pampa which is home to them, although they have spent much time in San Antonio the past several years.

Note to Dr. M. C. Overton, now a lieutenant commander in the navy: Wish you'd send us one of those pictures of you in your uniform which you sent to the nurses. We'd like to put it in the paper. The nurses have framed it and won't let it get out of their sight. . . .

The biggest pair of shoulders I ever saw are in the army today. They belong to Leon (Buffalo) Mounts who came all the way back from California to enlist from Pampa. He could have had his registration transferred to the Long Beach board where his folks now live but he preferred to leave it here and enlist from Texas. "I'd rather work with Texans than prune-pickers," "Buff" jocularly explained. He had lived in California several years. He was a driller and had drilled oil wells all over California. . . . His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Mounts who lived here until recently are now in California. Mr. Mounts works in a shipyard. Tommy, brother of Leon, also works in a shipyard and has 100 men under him. But back to those shoulders. One man described them this way. He said he got behind him and couldn't see over him, around him, or under him. There's no telling how strong Leon is but he's got all the strong man in him. "Buff" never met a stranger in his life, and those he didn't know in the courthouse he soon met. . . . "Buff" is a brother of Billy Mounts who came up from the University of Texas to see his brother leave for the army, and incidentally a crowd of 25 young Pampans were at the bus station to welcome Billy when he came back. Billy was voted the most popular boy in high school when he was a senior.

EDITOR, THE NEWS: "The following might help in eliminating the dangerous submarine menace: Submarines are receiving important information as to the date of leaving and the destination of vessels loaded with war supplies. They have secret fueling bases somewhere on coastal shores or in the islands adjacent thereto. The condition applies to all coastal towns from the northern part of Alaska to the Straits of Magellan. Along the coastal towns and coastline of North and South America there are a large number of sportsmen in practically every locality who, through pursuit of pleasure and hunting and fishing, are thoroughly familiar with practically every foot of their locality. Many may be interested in yachting, hunting, fishing, wild bird hunting, and such types of sport which would lead them to every bayou, lagoon, and swamp of the entire coast line of North and South America on the Atlantic and Pacific sides. There are also many professional guides who make a living by hunting and fishing parties in their parts where the fishing and hunting are especially good and in many cases are in many out-of-the-way swamps, bayous, bays, and sea inlets. This type of guide is also familiar with coast shore lines. I respectfully suggest that such parties be contacted by the various local defense set-ups in all countries of North and South America under the supervision of either the navy or coast guard. Articles should be printed in the newspapers and also radio broadcasts calling for volunteers of such sportsmen and fishermen and guides familiar with all the coast line which might offer good hiding places for submarines and refueling stations which would bring out 100 per cent of the men capable of doing this work, and would be glad, as a patriotic duty to their country, to give their time for a thorough search as outlined above of the entire Atlantic and Pacific coast line including the Gulf of Mexico. Information pertaining to refueling stations, radio set-ups, or any other subversive or suspicious acts, would be beneficial to all the democracies of the Americas, and this suggestion would bring to light important and vital information. I sincerely hope you will act on this matter, giving it sufficient publicity to bring about the desired results. JACK DANCIGER, FORT WORTH.

Behind The News In Washington

By PETER EDSON

There's a move on now to get back into general circulation some $4 billion worth of gold certificates—meaning folding money of various important denominations — bills which have been stored in mysterious U. S. treasury vaults ever since 1934, when the country went off the gold standard and all those beautiful yellow bank notes were called in.

Those $4 billion worth of masterpieces of the engravers' art are of the new, small series of 1928 size—not the old bedspread or tarpaulin size that adorned pocketbooks in the last war. Furthermore, this $4 billion worth of the short yellow is all brand-new spending money of the crisp, crunchy kind that crackles and snaps like a bootblack's shine rag playing a tune over new brogans. This neat government hoard of the roof of all evil represents a reserve stock that was printed up back in the days when such currency still was legal tender and spendable paper of the realm.

The move to get this money back into circulation represents no deep dark inflationary plot. The alarmist fear that the printing presses might be started to reduce some of the public debt hasn't been realized yet. The idea is simply a sign that in an emergency it's possible to cut the red tape and use common sense, like this:

As business expands and national income goes up, there is an increasing demand for more money in circulation. This $4 billion reserve supply of gold notes represents a $2 million printing job, taking into account the cost of paper, ink, nylon and time on the presses. All these materials are now scarce. To print up a new bunch of greenbacks sufficient to take care of the war demands would cost another $2 million or so. The logical conclusion would be to bring these gold certificates out of the safe and put them to work.

X MARKS THE SPOT One obstacle to this plan which has apparently been overcome concerns a literal translation of the language printed on these gold notes. On each bill it says, "Redeemable in gold," meaning that if you wanted to get tough, you could shove one of these through the bank teller's window and demand gold coins for it. Of course there aren't any gold coins in circulation and there can't be, as long as the country is off the gold standard, unless the law is changed.

At first it looked as though these cold storage gold notes couldn't be used unless they were run through the printing presses again, and that "Redeemable in Gold" phrase xxx'd out.

But finally the lawyers and the anti-red tape experts decided that since the law of 1934 said you could not circulate gold coins, it didn't make any difference what it said on the face of the gold certificates. So the idea now is to go ahead and use the old things anyhow, and tell everybody to pay no attention to what it says about being redeemable in the stuff that clinks and glitters.

BUST THOSE BANKS From gold notes to two bites and five cents is quite a jump, but just to get you back down to earth and your usual level again, the treasury department wishes you would please break up all the children's china pigs and other devices for saving small change, so as to get all this subsidiary currency back into circulation. The reason is simply that there's such a shortage of all denominations from penny to half dollar that merchants, payroll clerks and such people are having trouble making change.

The treasury bill, if they issue a formal announcement about it, will not be against saving as such. Uncle Sam still wants you to save all you can. But instead of saving it in coins, buy savings stamps with it, so as to get the copper, nickel and silver into use.

One thing that particularly worries the mint people right now is the unconscious hoarding of metal coins being done by juke boxes, automatic vending devices, pay station telephones and slot machines. If you just stop to contemplate the 20 or 30 more nickels lying idle in the craw of every juke box in the country, it isn't hard to conjure up an image of a mountain of metal in the form of small change.

This new five-cent piece, to be half silver and half copper instead of three-fourths nickel and one-fourth copper, is still having its difficulties, and no date has as yet been set to start coining. It's the electromagnetic detector in coin machines, put there to reject counterfeit slugs, that causes all the trouble. These detectors simply won't swallow a nickel of silver and copper. Manganese seems to be the best yet to introduce into the alloy to make it magnetic, but manganese is a critical material too. Mint metallurgists are still experimenting.

METALS USED BY THE MINT In the last fiscal year were 1,200 tons of silver, 4,700 tons of copper, 434 tons of nickel, 137 tons of zinc, 34 tons of tin. It made 43 million halves, 111 million quarters, 263 million dimes, 300 million nickels and 1.1 billion pennies. . . . In circulation were 2.25 billion nickels. . . . Total money in circulation is $11 billion. . . . Which is $87 plus, per person, in case you want to know what your share is.

So he bought her a little notebook; on the left-hand pages she was to list the money he gave her, with dates and amounts. On the right-hand pages she was to list the money spent, with dates and what for.

At the end of the month he looked at her book. At the left, sure enough, the amounts were meticulously entered in beautiful script, with dates. All was letter-perfect, in apple-pie order. He felt much encouraged.

But when his eyes shifted to the right-hand page, he realized that he was dealing with someone who for better or worse was his equal. On that page, in a lovely feminine hand, the little woman had written three words, Spent it all.

A little girl had been left in the nursery by herself, and her brother arrived to find the door closed. The following conversation took place: Boy—I want to tum in, Cissie. Today's War Analysis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Wide World War Analyst

The battle for Egypt still swirls inconclusively over several hundred square miles of blazing desert sands, but it's well we recognize now that the Allies are nearer disaster than at any time since Hitler crushed the Anglo-French-Belgian fighting front beneath the greatest war-machine ever constructed.

Definitely it's not a moment for despair, but it will be a matter of great rejoicing if we win. The British today report that they have slowed the enemy drive, and claim that they can establish a line and hold it. With that encouragement let's "hope for the best, but be prepared for the worst," as they say. Here's the way the picture looks at the moment:

The British have been carrying out a fighting withdrawal in the face of Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's fierce all-out offensive until their right flank has reached the neighborhood of Fuka on the coast (see your map, please, and probably has gone east of that place. It looks as though they would aim to hold at El Daba, a fortified position on the coast, with their line running southward some 40 miles to the great Qattara depression.

Should the defense fail to hold a line from El Daba it might be catastrophic loss against the key naval base of Alexandria only 100 miles farther east. Cairo and the Suez canal lie just beyond.

The British withdrawal has been partly a case of making a virtue of necessity, but largely it has been strategically calculated to compel Rommel to lengthen his already strained lines of communication and at the same time permit the defenders to shorten their battle front and reorganize.

Vast Subsidies To Control Price Ceilings Urged

By DONALD A. YOUNG WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—A plan for vast federal business subsidies to block a threatened breakthrough in price ceilings has been recommended to congressional leaders by high-ranking government officials.

Informed sources said today that Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Secretary of Agriculture Wickard had suggested informally a scheme built around government purchase of farm products and other raw materials which would be resold—at a loss—to businesses "squeezed" between frozen wholesale and retail prices.

Thus, it was said, a retailer who could not raise his prices to compensate for higher wholesale charges could continue in business without breaking through price ceilings.

One adviser to President Roosevelt said "one guess" was that such a program would cost the government between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000. Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.) floor manager for next year's office of price administration appropriation, told the house in an extraordinary night session last night, "we have heard the most colossal sums mentioned."

This development came as both the senate and house faced badly jammed calendars on the last day of the fiscal year, with legislative action incomplete on numerous appropriation bills which must be completed by midnight if affected departments are to have funds to operate with tomorrow.

Night sessions were in prospect

Stevenson Still Plans To Appoint Sadler Successor

AUSTIN, June 30 (AP)—Governor Coke R. Stevenson asserted today he had no reason to alter his plan to appoint the Democratic nominee to the unexpired railroad commission.

The governor's announcement attached added interest to the situation caused by the resignation, subsequently withdrawn, of Commissioner Jerry Sadler who is now in the army.

Sadler, who declared he was "back on the job," showed up at the commission offices yesterday and participated in a meeting. His command officer in New Orleans said Sadler had obtained 24-hour leave.

The governor took the position from the Democratic executive committee by throwing open filings of candidacy for Sadler's unexpired term had recognized a vacancy in the office.

This, he said, was caused by Sadler's army induction and was separate and apart from his resignation or lack of resignation.

Before Sadler withdrew his resignation the governor had announced it was his intention to appoint the party nominee to the unexpired term.

He reiterated this announcement at a press conference adding, however, that a court decision might in the meantime clarify the situation.

On his brief return to Austin Sadler declared he did not expect pay from the state while serving in the army.

Whether legal proceedings to clarify the position were in prospect was not known.

Names of eleven candidates for Sadler's position will appear on the primary ballots, including James E. Kilday who lost a suit seeking exclusive listing for the position.

Kilday's suit was taken to the supreme court which did not rule on whether a vacancy existed in Sadler's position.

Czech Blows Up Train With Fountain Pen

By JAMES T. CARTER
NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—Come along with a Czech-Slovak patriot as he blows up a Nazi freight train with fountain pens.

It's deep midnight when a motorcyclist speeds up to the leader of a group of Czech saboteurs in the German-occupied land, and, according to this account received here today by the American Friends of Czech-Slovakia, hands him this message:

"Tomorrow at 4:10 a. m. a freight train leaves station—for the Russian front. See that it does not arrive."

That brief, unsigned order, borne by an unidentified courier, sets the chief saboteur in motion. Racing down the street to an inn, he summons a taxi driver and they roll out to the edge of a wood. The saboteur, a young student, stands in a clearing and makes a sound like a hoot owl.

The eerie call is answered. Then, the account of this particular instance goes on, the student enters an old game warden's cottage and is welcomed by the housewife "with the look of women whose husbands have been dragged off to concentration camps."

The housewife takes the patriot to the cellar where, from a shelf behind some barrels, he selects six fountain pens of assorted sizes. He rejoins his driver and goes to another wood near the railway, hiding in the bush along the right-of-way.

"A little after 4 in the morning," the report says, "a freight train appeared—coal cars and then tank cars. The student took a pen marked 'K' from his pocket and threw it onto the small platform of the tank car. His second pen landed on a flat car of straw. The third and fourth landed on two more tank cars of oil. The thickest pen landed on the roof of a boxcar which he rightly conjectured was loaded with ammunition."

The results came out next day when the grapevine passed along word that there had been a serious railway accident at Lwow. A freight train rolling toward the Russian front had suddenly and inexplicably exploded in five places. A German troop train crashed into the wreck and some 800 soldiers were injured, many of them very seriously.

Thus does a beaten people write bad news for the oppressor, with pens of explosives far more indelible than ink.

Mexico Paradise For 'Turistas'

MEXICO CITY, June 30 (AP)—Tourists to Mexico this summer will find not only the usual hospitable welcome but warehouses full of tires (for emergency use only) and gas stations which never heard of an "A" card.

Mexico makes plenty of its own high-octane gasoline and will sell anybody all he wants of it. The prices are pre-war, too—20 centavos, about four cents, a litre, which is about a quart.

Tires are another matter. Mexico is dependent on its stored rubber and little bit of guayule, but it has enough stored for a year if the tourist traffic doesn't drain it off. But it also wants to encourage tourist traffic so the government drafted these rules:

A tourist can buy a new tire if one he has becomes irreparable while he is in Mexico. Tourists whose tires blow out beyond hope of repair apply to the nearest office of the Mexican Automobile association which issues a certificate permitting them to buy new ones. These new ones can be bought in any tire store, all of which are open. The old tire must be sold to the same dealer at government-fixed scrap rubber prices.

The United States permits the importation of the new tire without a priority certificate if it has been driven more than 1,000 miles in Mexico. The trip from Mexico City to the border is 750 miles. So that is not a problem for bonafide tourists.

Bremen 'Heavily Bombed' Last Night

LONDON, June 30 (AP)—Bremen, German's second port and submarine base, was "heavily bombed" last night by a strong air force, the third attack there in five nights, the air ministry announced today.

The use of the term "strong force" was taken to indicate that some 300 planes probably were employed in the attack, the 97th of the war on the port which was still smoking from the two latest previous raids.

Airfields in German-occupied territory also were attacked and fighters "on intruder patrol" attacked railway targets in France and shipping off the French coast.

The air ministry said nine bombers were missing from the night's operations.

The Berlin radio, which said fires were started in residential sections of Bremen by the RAF, claimed ten raiders were shot down.

On the home front a small number of German aircraft raided the East Midlands and East Anglia during the night. Bombs were dropped in scattered places but at no place was there a concentrated attack, the British reported.

Bottles Banned

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 30 (AP)—There'll be no complaints of pop bottle barrages, henceforth, when Southern association teams play at Birmingham's Rickwood field.

Concessionaire managers have been instructed to sell bottled soft drinks in paper cups—and keep the bottles.

Your Home Town Grocer Says--

"We want to talk about some Japs and Nazis right here in Pampa and the Panhandle . . . we want to point out how a lot of us are letting down the boys on the front by not buying our share of war bonds and stamps every week.

"Gray county's quota, set by the Treasury Department, for the month of June was slightly over $90,000.00 Exact figures are not available at present on just how far we fell below our quota, but the records do show that we did a "louzy" job in June. So did the state . . . so did the nation.

"The only thing we can do to save our face with the boys and women who are making the supreme sacrifices is to exceed our July War Bond and Stamp quota by a margin large enough to make up for our deficit in June.

"Wednesday (Tomorrow) NOON, from 12:00 to 12:15 has been set as nation-wide War Bond and Stamps sales period. MITCHEL'S have plenty of stamps and albums and we want to urge every one of you to start saving them tomorrow, if you do not already have this good 'ole American habit.

"Of course, we don't have to buy War Bonds and Stamps, NOW—but Uncle Sam has got to have money NOW. The Democratic way to sell these securities in the Voluntary Way. But, if we Americans are so complacent, Uncle Sam may have to assume Hitleristic methods and FORCE US TO BUY THEM! God forbid that this will be necessary. LET'S BUY BONDS AND STAMPS TOMORROW AND EVERY DAY DURING THE MONTH OF JULY!"
